Horns aplenty raise funds for band

Sounds of jazz waft over Deer Lake from the home of Ron and Betty Wagner Saturday as the Clarkston High School Jazz Band entertains under the direction of Clifford Chapman during a benefit concert. The group raised $300 for buying sheet music for the band during the 1981-82 school year. "The band really did it. I just offered the house and people called and offered to do things," said Betty Wagner. "Kids involved in this are willing to give up their time to help the program." There are more photos on Page 17.

Near-accident prompts action

Schools ban shaving cream battles

By Al Zawacky

It's been almost a year since students on bus number 78 staged a shaving cream fight that nearly caused the driver to have an accident.

Twelve months have probably faded a lot of people's memories from that last day of school last year—the shaving cream, smoke bombs, stink bombs, fireworks and general chaos that marred an otherwise happy and harmless celebration among Clarkston High School and Clarkston Junior High School students.

Several Clarkston Community Schools' administrators remember the situation last year quite vividly, however.

Determined to avoid a repeat when school lets out for the 1980-81 school year next week, administrators and teachers are implementing a preventive counterattack.

"A lot of people have probably forgotten the circumstances of last year," says William Dennis, Clarkston Community Schools administrative assistant of personnel services.

"Those who weren't involved can't appreciate the seriousness of it. When shaving cream is smeared on the windshield of a bus, that's a serious situation."

"Bus drivers are being instructed to evict students involved in shaving cream fights from the bus and not allow any shaving cream cans, squirt guns or other paraphernalia on board," says Dennis.

Students who break bus conduct rules will be banned from the bus and have their parents contacted for a conference, he says.

"We want the parents to know that this kind of behavior is not acceptable," Dennis says, noting that the vast majority of students obey the rules.

"It's not all the kids (causing the problem)," he says.

Although the shaving cream wars were winked at as harmless by teachers last year, things will be different this time around, says Douglas Pierson, Clarkston Junior High assistant principal.

"Last year we had parents taking their kids down to K Mart to buy shaving cream—I guess most of the parents didn't think they were doing anything wrong," Pierson says.

"We allowed it from the standpoint that it was harmless fun—but it grew into something out of control."

Parents will be contacted and shaving cream cans confiscated on or off the bus; anywhere on school grounds this year, Pierson says.

"If the kids want to come back here Friday (the first day of vacation) and shoot each other with shaving cream, that's fine," he adds.

Shaving cream combatants at the high school will meet fates similar to their junior high counterparts, says CHS Principal Dom Mauti.

"We can't allow a situation where somebody might put it on a student's car, and then the kid winds up in an accident," Mauti said.

Although Sashabaw Junior High escaped the shaving cream wars last year and enjoyed a relatively tranquil last day of school, assistant principal George White says that precautions are still being taken.

Last week Sashabaw's first-hour classes heard their teachers read a memo concerning school policies and warning of removal from school for students caught with smoke bombs, stink bombs or fireworks, White says.

"From the feedback I've gotten so far, the kids were very attentive," he says. "We want them to understand that we're just not going to tolerate this kind of behavior, and I think most of the students appreciate that."

"The kids don't like to have smoke bombs or fireworks infringing on their right to an education," Dennis adds that the schools have attempted to limit student access to devices such as smoke and stink bombs right at the source by contacting local merchants and asking them to keep such items off their shelves.

"Mr. Vaara (Mel Vaara, administrative assistant of secondary education) visited vendors in the area and found them very receptive," Dennis says. "Most of them said they weren't aware that these things were causing problems in the schools and said they would cooperate."

Board oks spending $11,131 for transportation

Car-poolers, senior citizens and the handicapped should benefit from Independence Township plan to spend $11,131 in transportation credits.

At the May 26 meeting, board members unanimously approved the supervisor's proposal to channel the money into transportation and lighting car-pool parking lots.

The money was collected from the tri-county tax on motor vehicles and was distributed by SEMTA (Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority) back to the local governments to be spent in areas of transportation, according to Christopher Rose, township clerk.

Board members have allocated dollars to the following categories:

•$750 to administrative township fees.

•$2,500 to tickets and charters for the elderly and handicapped.

•$2,000 for local church parking lot clearing.

•$250 for lighting and utilities at car-pool lots.

•$1,000 to reimburse the township's cost in reting school buses to transport seniors.

•$705 to cover the expense of short haul trips, like taking seniors from their homes to the Independence Township Senior Citizens' Center for lunch or activities.

•$2,200 for insurance, fuel and operator charges on a van, to be donated by the Clarkston Rotary Club to the township.

•$981 for additional insurance covering seniors on other buses and vans.

•$750 for supplies, tags, permits and bulletins, news releases and advertising involved for the program.

•$500 for other incidentals.

"The board put the money down in areas where it thought the money could be used," Rose said. "The dollar amounts can be changed. They are flexible. We wanted to specify items, not dollar amounts."

Independence fires engineers

By Marilyn Trumper

After 20 intermittent years as consulting engineers for Independence Township, Johnson & Anderson Inc. of Pontiac has been replaced.

In addition, the township board has laid strategy to review other professional planning firms as eyebrows are raised over the fees charged by Independence's current planning consultant, Tod Kilroy.

With little discussion and in unanimous agreement at the May 26 meeting, the township board voted to hire new engineers Hubbell, Roth and Clark of Bloomfield Hills, effective immediately.

According to Christopher Rose, township clerk, there had been a dispute among board members concerned over the fees charged by Johnson & Anderson.

A number of developers had complained over the firm's high fees, Rose said, which varied for each review and in costs-per-hour. The developer pays for reviews and not the township, he said.

In addition, there had been a high turnover of Johnson & Anderson contact persons assigned to act as liaisons to the township.

As a result, many of the liaisons were not up on areas of central concern to the township, which consequently reflected in the work, Rose said.

Johnson and Anderson will continue working on unfinished jobs, while Hubbell, Roth and Clark will take on all new applicants, Rose said.

Hubbell, Roth and Clark charge a flat fee for reviews and charge on a job-percentage basis, Rose said.

For example, if a building costs $100,000 the firms fee is $1,300, or 1.3 percent for plan review, he said.

"J & A served the township well and is a good firm," Rose said. "But there were problems that were sufficient enough—and as a result of those problems the board felt it had to look elsewhere."

Millage approval won't affect $500,000 in cuts

By Kathy Greenfield

Voters' approval June 8 of the 3-mill tax hike for Clarkston schools will assure the return of sports and extracurricular activities, but cuts to the 1981-82 budget will remain at about $500,000.

The specifics on what is likely to be returned were discussed by the Clarkston Board of Education at a special meeting last week.

Superintendent Milford Mason was not at the meeting, but his recommendation that only $500,000 worth of programs and services be reinstated was "received with approval" in a unanimous vote of the board.

The six board members (Vincent Luzi was absent) made it clear that the decision was not final and that changes could be made in the future.

The 3 mills would generate about $967,500 in increased revenue for the district. Of that amount, about $467,500 should be used to build up fund equity, Mason recommended.

Clarkston Education Association President Allen Bartlett challenged Mason's philosophy.

"I can count 12 courses and 23 staff reductions that you're proposing for next year even if the millage passes," he said. "I think that is counter-productive from what I heard a couple of months ago, which was to maintain the programs."

"We have not veered from that," countered board President Janet Thomas. "It seems very pat, what you're saying, but you forget that all along we've been working with a deficit and a fund equity for a cushion."

"I will study it further," said Bartlett, "but I would hope that the board's intent would be to restore the program at least to its current level and making up a deficit would not be the primary purpose of the board."

"I don't think we ever made the statement we would come back to the current level," said board member Mary Jane Chaustowich. "I was always under the understanding that we would make some cuts."

After the meeting, Mason said a study of the budget shows the district would be out of funds in 1982-83 if some money isn't saved.

"Three mills isn't going to make us well at all," he said. "It's my intent and my hope that we can see our way through this tough time with the increase."

"It's a little ridiculous to have people vote extra millage and turn around the next year and have to make severe cuts," he added. "People would say, 'What happened?' With the remaining equity in '82-83, hopefully we would not have to suffer severe cuts on the hopes that the state gets back to a reasonable operation."

At the meeting, discussion on what would be reinstated if the millage passes was extensive.

"We are going to attempt to offer (all sports)," said Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara. "For example, seventh and eighth grade track might be difficult to schedule (if other schools do not offer the sport), but we'll do the best we can."

Also returning with the 3-mill approval would be extracurricular activities of the music, band, and drama departments plus the yearbook, national honor society, student government and the ninth grade camping program.

In high school academics, four instructors would keep their jobs, retaining most courses in art, business, four levels of Spanish, and the vocational trades building program.

Three high school teachers would still lose their jobs—one each in home economics, industrial arts and business.

Classes not reinstated would include quantity physical education, cadet band, current events and seventh grade chorus.

On the elementary school level, one vocal music teacher and two classroom teachers would be rehired, while 14 classroom teachers would still be out of jobs. The major impact would be larger classes for kindergarten through third graders—up from the low 20s to 27, 28 or 29.

In special education, one social worker and six special education aides would not return even if the millage passes.

In the areas of transportation and maintenance, one custodial position would be reinstated from the four positions eliminated and funds for transporting athletes and for other extracurricular activities would return.

Money for field trips would not be reinstated, but Administrative Assistant William Dennis recom-

'I can count 12 courses and 23 staff reductions that you're proposing for next year even if the millage passes.'

foods, needlework, foreign foods, food science, child development, job placement, senior review typing, vocational woodworking, power mechanics II, some sections of welding and architectural drafting I.

On the junior high school level, three to four instructors would return, depending on the fourth Friday count of pupils.

Courses reinstated would include home economics for grades seven, eight and nine; industrial arts for grades eight and nine; art; drama; media/journalism; reading support; and all sections of mended students pay transportation costs themselves—the range would be 60 cents to $2.

There's no reason a kid can't pay for these kinds of trips," said board member Robert Walters. "I hope we encourage them."

Mason's recommendation also included restoring $10 for each student, or $64,500, for textbooks, teaching supplies and library books; restoring Paul Tungate as athletic director on a half-time basis; and setting aside an additional $25,000 to cover costs over estimates for employees' hospitalization expenses.

Actual tax costs differ widely

At the polls June 8, voters in the Clarkston Community School district will be asked to approve a 3-mill property tax increase.

For most property owners, that would mean an increase in property taxes of $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation. A homeowner with property worth $50,000 would pay on the $25,000 assessed valuation (or one-half market value) a total of $75.

For some taxpayers, the tax increase may not be that high.

Senior citizens (age 65 or spouse's age 65 on or before Dec. 31) received a tax break on the home in which they live and the tax increase could mean they will pay no additional taxes.

Other taxpayers who pay more than 3.5 percent of their family income in property taxes would also receive a break.

Under the Michigan Homestead Act, senior citizens with an income of zero to $3,000 pay no property taxes, those with incomes of $3,000 to $4,000 pay 1 percent, with $4,000 to $5,000 pay 2 percent, with $5,000 to $6,000 pay 3 percent and with incomes over $6,000 pay 3.5 percent.

"It's different with seniors, because it relies on their income," said Independence Township Treasurer Frederick Ritter. "If a family's income is $10,000 and the taxes on their home are $1,000, they aren't required to pay anything greater than 3.5 percent (or $350) of their gross income on property taxes. If their taxes go up $75 and their taxes are already greater than $350, then they're not going to have to pay it."

The refund comes through the state income tax payment, which means that if the taxpayer files income tax returns right after the first of the year, the rebate can be received before property taxes are due Feb. 14, Ritter said.

"They can get the rebate first, and then come in and pay the property taxes," he said.

Several taxpayers also qualify for rebates under the regular formula of the Homestead Act.

Not refundable is 3.5 percent of household income, and after that, 60 percent of the differential is refunded.

For instance, if household income is $20,000, then 3.5 percent is $700. If the property tax bill is $1,000, then 3.5 percent is $300 and 60 percent of that is $180, or the amount that would be returned.

If the tax increased by 3 mills, 60 percent of the tax increase would be refunded to qualifying taxpayers.

Those who wish specific information on just how much a 3-mill increase would cost them can call the Michigan Department of Treasury Office in Pontiac at 335-6102.

They will need to know their property tax bill and their household income, said a treasury department spokesperson.

The Homestead Act also applies to persons who are blind, disabled veterans and paraplegics and quadriplegics, but the rules vary according to the disability.

The 3-mill tax would increase income to the school district by about $967,500 for the 1981-82 school year.

In Independence Township, school taxes are presently 30.118 mills. Of that amount, 8.8970 mills are general operational; 19.5910 mills are voted operational and 1.63 mills are voted building and sites debt retirement.

2-mill hike for special ed

For the first time in over 15 years, the Oakland Schools Board of Education is proposing a millage hike for special education, and has on the June 8 ballot a tax increase proposal from 1 mill to 3 mills.

If approved, the additional 2 mills will generate $22 million for special education programs and services for all Oakland County residents, newborn to age 25, who are mentally or physically handicapped, says Robert Brumback, director of special services for Clarkston Schools.

"I'm in favor of the proposal," Brumback said. "The money we desperately need will be returned to our schools and take the burden off the general fund."

According to Brumback, the program currently uses an additional $500,000 annually from the Clarkston Schools general fund to send 60 area residents for special education training.

If the additional 2 mills is approved, he said, it will potentially bring into the school district an excess of $400,000, which will in turn take a burden off the general fund.

The last millage increase for special education occurred in 1965, when voters approved .5-mill increase, for a total of 1 mill.

Englehardts now call home their own

Weasels voluntarily depart from basement walls

By Marilyn Trumper

"Ohhh! The smell was just something else," gasps Carol Engelhardt, reflecting on the moment she, her husband Richard and Bruce Cushing peeled back the basement wall insulation in search of a family of weasels.

All the trio discovered was an empty—but very recently vacated nest—filled with animal fur and teeth.

For two months the Engelhardts were plagued by a scurrying, chirping and squeaking family of weasels in their basement wall on Greenview Road in Independence Township.

Suddenly, two weeks ago, the weasels moved out, just days before Bruce Cushing, a graduate zoology student at Michigan State University in East Lansing—came to the rescue.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Drayton Plains Nature Center had thrown up hands in a quandary as to how to help the Engelhardts safely remove the rodents without injury or harm.

"Bruce was just so helpful," Carol said. "He's writing his thesis for his PH.D. on weasels, and he planned to capture them, take them back to Lansing for study, and then release them. He was really disappointed to find they were gone."

The Engelhardts last heard the squeaking and chirping on Sunday, May 17, Carol said.

Bruce came to the Engelhardts the following Memorial weekend and the trio began peeling back the insulation in hopes of discovering the nest and capturing the weasel family.

"Bruce discovered one area where she had lived without the babies. Then we could tell the nest where she lived with the babies," Carol said. "It was filled with the fur of her prey, bird feathers and the teeth of mice and chipmunks."

"Bruce said because there were no bones, she was a long-tailed weasel, because they eat the bones," she said.

The trio did discover tunnel after tunnel in the insulated walls where the weasel traveled throughout the basement.

Initially it was thought the family of rodents had moved to the floorboard crawl space between the basement and first floor, because the Engelhardts heard scurrying emanating from that area.

"But after poking holes there, we found out there was a red squirrel and her babies living there," Carol said. "We also discovered we had a family of chipmunks living under our porch."

According to Carol, the weasels were old enough to leave the nest and are now probably out hunting in the field behind the house.

"I cried after it was all over and now I'm relieved," Carol said. "I don't know if she'll come back and it will take some time before I feel comfortable going back in the basement. I'm still nervous. "It's not that I'm afraid—but I'm anticipating anything now."

Carol said she learned a very important point which may have saved the Engelhardts from weeks of worry.

"Bruce told us weasels mate in the fall and the male leaves. That means there was only one adult weasel all this time. If we'd known that, we could have captured the mother and lifted the babies out ourselves."

"Now they're happy in the fields. Let someone else have them for house guests," she laughed.

Cemetery fees receive boost

Effective immediately, residents and non-residents alike will pay more for burial in Lakeview Cemetery on White Lake Road.

For the first time in five years, Independence Township has raised its fees for plots, internments and headstone foundation settings in the cemetery in an effort to reach costs in line with today's market.

At the May 26 meeting, acting as the Board of Health, the Independence Township board voted unanimously to raise fees as outlined in Supervisor James B. Smith's proposal.

"I talked to the local funeral directors and they asked we go easy (on the hikes) if we could," Smith said.

The following increases have been implemented:

- Plots for residents and non-residents are now $250 and $300 respectively, up from $175 and $200.

- Internments, which include tents and trim are now $250 for residents and non-residents, up from $100 and $190 respectively. An additional $100 will be charged for Saturday or holiday work, up from the previous charge of $50.

- Setting headstone foundations will now be a minimum of $75 for a two-by-one-foot foundation.

Review of fees grew from a meeting on May 5 when the board was approached by Highland Ground Maintenance of West Bloomfield, which proposed upkeep of the cemetery for $25,000 a year in a three-year contract with a 10-percent increase each year.

The contract included grass cutting, trimming, record keeping, most all public contact and left the openings and closing of sites to the township, Smith said.

"They (the company) predicted their charges on using our lowering equipment, tent and raising our fees," Smith said. "The idea originally sounded worthwhile, but the further I review it, the more reservations I have."

At the meeting, board members agreed to continue township control over the cemetery.

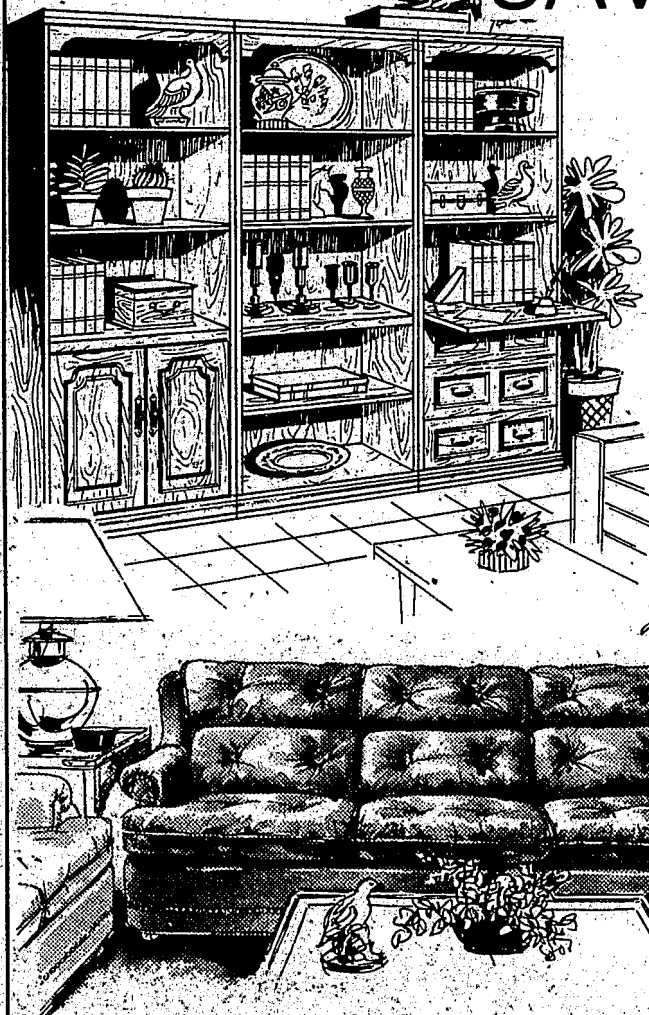

"I'd like to see us keep a closer relationship and understanding with our own residents," Smith said.

Letters to editor

Sponsor irks Mini-Miss coach

To the Editor:

I feel compelled to write this letter to vent my frustration. I have 14 little girls who are patiently waiting for ball shirts and I can't let them down.

After several telephone calls and empty promises of money for their shirts, I have decided that I've been let down by my sponsor.

If you would have been honest with me and said you're sorry, but just couldn't do it, I would have been able to accept that.

Instead, you told me "yes" on several occasions and I took your word as a promise of good faith.

Now, with our season starting June 15, there is no time to find a new sponsor and get the printing done. My team will have shirts with numbers only and, if need be, I'll pay for them.

To all the sponsors who are supporting the parks and recreation teams this year, I commend you. It means an awful lot to the kids.

As for myself, I feel very bad now. However, I won't let this get me down.

Mini-Miss Coach

Well-rounded education counts

To the Editor:

What's a "Square Education?"

It's what's left if you don't get a "well-rounded education."

If we, the people of Clarkston School District, won't fulfill our obligation to THIS generation of children, that's what they'll be left with -- a square education.

Sports, music, art, and other similar non-academic activities have been part of the American child's well-rounded education for as long as we can remember. Most of us had the privilege of enjoying these activities when we were in school; and our life, both then and now, is richer and fuller as a result of them.

These extracurricular activities have been a part of our culture and our heritage. How can we even consider depriving today's children of the valuable benefits they provide?

Programs of this type provide an essential alternative to other escapes from youthful boredom, such as drug experimentation; and help channel the energies of youth in a direction in which the pride and "esprit des corps" that develops precludes adventures into far less desirable sources of recreation. Today's delinquent is tomorrow's hardened criminal!

Whether they choose to be a businessman, a professional sports player, an auto mechanic or a computer technician; our children deserve the opportunity to benefit from a well-rounded education.

They need every opportunity we can give them to grow up as responsible adults, in tune with the real, competitive world; a world where the pride and self-confidence gained from experiences like participating in a high school football game could well mean the difference between success and failure in their own adult lives.

There are some very important values in life that just cannot be learned in a math, science, or English class.

It's not a question of whether we can afford a 3-mill tax to maintain extracurricular activities in our schools; the question is, how can we not afford to give our children the same complete and well-rounded education our parents gave us?

It will cost us all a lot more than a 3-mill tax, if, through our negligence, we allow our children to end up as square pegs that don't fit into the round holes of life.

Please, for their sake and yours, vote for the millage our schools need to do a COMPLETE, well-rounded, job of educating our children.

Clean-up kudos

The Clarkston Village recently was planning a much needed clean-up of the downtown business area.

Our plans were cancelled when we learned that a group of students from Clarkston Senior High were planning a clean-up.

And what a wonderful job they did, not only in the business area, but in the Depot Road Village Park, the Millstream, the roadsides and other needed areas!

What a joy it was to see these young people demonstrating their civic pride by working so industriously on this community service project!

Our thanks go to all workers, and the Clarkston High School Student Council and its faculty sponsor, Charles Screws, for this fine effort.

KIDS COUNT IN CLARKSTON AND CLARKSTON KIDS CARE FOR THEIR COMMUNITY!

'Yes' with gusto

by Kathy Greenfield

As the editor of a local newspaper, my experiences with Clarkston schools have been, most likely, different from anyone else's.

I cover school board meetings as a reporter, visit schools when there are special things happening as a photographer and have been asked to do such things as judge talent shows, because I am editor.

I have been impressed with the talent and potential of many pupils. I have watched innumerable performances of kids from kindergarten age through high school, many of them the kinds of things where only parents and relatives attend—and me.

I have listened to residents and business owners despondent over vandalism, seen kids get out of control with shaving cream and listened to parents upset over the handling of situations in the schools.

That's right. Things aren't perfect in paradise. But, they are, for the most part, positive and vital to life the way we know it in Clarkston.

People may not stop to think just how important the schools are to our community spirit. They bring people together, from all walks of life, for school fairs, quality dramatic and musical performances, athletic events and parades.

So, what happens to this kind of community when the state financial picture clouds and income fades to the point where there just isn't enough?

I've attended school board meetings where the tension is so thick, you could cut it with a knife. I've watched school board members grapple with what to eliminate and how to do it with tears in their eyes.

And although I haven't agreed with every move made and I know that only a fool would say there isn't any waste at all in our "no frills" school system, I have been favorably impressed with the caring and with the really fine overall approach to a most difficult problem.

We have a school board election, in which two of the seven seats on the school board will be chosen during the June 8 election when the 3-mill request for Clarkston schools also appears on the ballot. I am impressed with the nine candidates. They do have some differences in their answers to the four questions we've asked, easing the burden of deciding who to vote for.

That decision, I feel is one each voter has to make individually. The same goes for the millage request.

I consider just how a person votes to be a private matter. But with the millage question, I am willing to tell you how I will vote June 8.

Behind the closed curtain, I will pull that "yes" lever with gusto. And I'll be smiling, despite the fact that it could mean my tax bill will go up. I know the schools need the money and that our kids deserve the right of a well-rounded education.

I hope the vast majority of voters in the Clarkston Community School District do the same.

Jim's jottings

Up a lazy river

by Jim Sherman

As we motored on the Crooked River out of Oden last week, one of the eight men on the pontoon boat remarked, "Isn't it amazing. We could leave from this spot and go around the world."

Such is the waterway system in Michigan.

But this is no "kiss again your Michigan" column. It's a story of eight newspaper publishers floating downstream and pedaling hard back upstream, which is a natural activity for publishers.

They're always going against the current.

Harry Whiteley, publisher of the papers in Rogers City and Onaway, was host. You may have heard his name. He's one of the seven Commissioners on the Department of Natural Resources.

We stayed in one of his half dozen lodges, camp, or cottages, which wasn't far from his gravel pit, communications tower, and oil fields.

With the weatherman promising 80 degree temperatures in northern Michigan, Harry arranged rental of a pontoon boat at Oden, not far from Alanson, Conway, and Brutus.

The tour was from Crooked Lake, through Crooked River, to Burt Lake and on to Indian River for lunch.

It's a trip we recommend. It was especially delightful last week. The mother ducks and swans were busy begging, along with their young ones, and the boat traffic was minimal.

You have to take this waterways trip to experience the lift and let down of the crooked river lock. Designed by the Detroit District Board of Engineers, the elevation is all of 12 inches.

The only mooring is a hand-held rope.

The inland waterway is 36 miles long, connecting Lake Michigan with Lake Huron and making an island of the northwest corner of the lower peninsula.

It's been a waterway since 1874 when the first channel was excavated. The lock will take boats drawing 6 feet of water, 16 feet wide and 100 feet long. They can stand 15 feet high.

The locks at the Cheboygan end are more conventional, but we've only seen them, never used them.

The pontoon boat rents for $60 a day, and you sign a release that makes you totally responsible. 60 bucks split 8 ways isn't bad, and since only Harry was responsible, seven of us just reared in the sun.

School's millage failure means major setback

To the Editor:

Ever since I moved into the Clarkston Community School District 10 years ago, I have watched the continuous improvement of the school system.

Over the last several years, interest groups have worked to make improvements at all levels of education.

As you know, a millage increase has been proposed by the school board. As you also know, the fate of many educational programs rests with the result of the millage election on June 8.

As a recent high school graduate, I know how valuable a good education can be as one sets out to attain goals one has set for his or her life.

Now that I have spent my first year after high school in college, I fully realize the importance of a well-rounded education.

If the June 8 millage proposal is to fail, it will not result in the elimination of the "frills" of education, because Clarkston schools have no "frills" to begin with; however, it will reduce greatly such needed programs as art, foreign language and physical education.

There is no reason why students in a highly respected community such as Clarkston should be deprived of a well-rounded education.

Clarkston has now earned a reputation for providing good education at low cost to taxpayers in comparison to surrounding school districts.

Even with the passage of this millage proposal, the Clarkston school district will still have one of the lower tax rates in Oakland County.

It must be understood that this millage increase will not add any unnecessary programs to the school district, it will only allow it to maintain its present level of academic performance.

Clarkston has upgraded the caliber of its schools greatly over the last several years, and I believe it would be a major setback to the community if this millage was to fail.

If you believe in the importance of a good education for young people, please vote in favor of the millage increase on June 8.

'Thanks, people of Schenectady'

Dear Editor,

Thank you, to the people of Schenectady, N.Y., that through the years of my public school life, you gave, that I might be educated.

You never knew me as a tall, skinny, shy kid that spent hours in the library at Pleasant Valley Elementary School back in the early 40s. You never saw me laugh as I enjoyed learning to march or square dance in the gym you so generously provided for kids like me—uncoordinated kids that gained so much in self-confidence when they were taught skills that other kids just seemed to naturally have.

I'll always carry happy memories because of my education in the Schenectady Public Schools. I can still remember reading on graduation day the motto above the stage at Mont Pleasant High School that said, "Enter to Learn, Go Forth to Serve." I like to think I've done that—thanks to you and my parents, of course.

Today I serve on my local school board and am a teacher—education is my life. But my way of life is being threatened today, threatened by people in my community, my state, my nation, who are good people, but who are totally fed up with increased taxes at every turn and feel powerless to halt the escalation except at the local level.

We know we have to find other methods for funding our schools besides property tax. We just had a proposal on the ballot that would have reduced property tax by almost 50 percent, but would have increased the sales tax from 4 to 5½ percent. Many thought it was only a tax shift and the proposal lost by an almost 4 to 1 margin.

We're hoping pressure can be brought to bear on our Governor and the Legislature to make education in our state the number one priority. Hoping also for a new plan of financing public education that will be more equitable and adequate.

But until this happens, our educational system is threatened. Threatened because of the need of a 3-mill increase just to try to maintain most of our present programs.

Unlike myself back in the 40s, my children never had the benefit of physical education in the elementary school. My two older kids never knew the fun of hours in the school library in their elementary schools.

All my children play instruments and music is an important, beautiful part of our lives. Would it be so, if you people of Schenectady had not provided kids like me an opportunity to take, not only band instruments but violin lessons starting in the fourth grade?

How well I remember jolly Mr. Malloy, our music man, and how proud when I made the Schenectady Student Symphony Orchestra in seventh grade.

Some people say those things are frills—not basic to one's education. I say, to think and feel, even as a child, that books and music are sources of pleasure is basic. Basic, not only to education, but basic to life itself.

I want the children in this community to some day thank us that we cared enough to give that extra measure for them.

Thank you people of Schenectady for giving me the gift of my education. I now willingly give on to others.

I pray that the people in my town will do the same.

Give lasting gift to Class of '81

Dear Editor:

Mark Monday, June 8, a red letter day on your calendar.

There have been slogans, ads, bumper stickers, PTA coffees, teas and gatherings too numerous to mention. But Monday is your day to let our children, teachers and administrators know that you really care and support them.

Let us give a lasting gift to the Class of '81 and that is the assurance that their school will always maintain the highest academic standards and that they can always be proud to say, "I'm from Clarkston Schools."

James A. O'Neill, M.D.

P.S. We have an opportunity to place a new person on the board. I believe Stephen Werner, M.D. is an excellent choice.

'If it Fitz. . .'

Out of slats, out of pier

by Jim Fitzgerald

Put your money in the right place. That's my advice to taxpayers who want to avoid a Draconian fate, a fate named after a man named Draco who was drain commissioner of Athens, Greece, during the final years of the Seventh Century BC.

It is silly to put your money in the wrong place, I will give you an example:

In Los Angeles, along the Hollywood strip, there are many street musicians to entertain tourists. My rich brother-in-law, Jack, was particularly impressed by a guitar player. To demonstrate his appreciation, Jack dropped money into the cup sitting on the sidewalk in front of the guitarist.

When Jack heard the splash, he knew he put his money in the wrong place. He put it in the guitarist's full cup of coffee.

Next to the coffee cup, there was an open guitar case. That's where appreciative passersby were supposed to put money. Naturally, Jack felt silly and immediately left Los Angeles.

It is easy for tourists to leave towns, but sometime they must go home, unless, like baseball players, they play all their games on the road, in which case they have no right to gripe about the gasoline tax. In Michigan, where most residents can't afford to be tourists, there is scant escape from the Draconian consequences of not putting your money in the right place.

An important thing to remember is that it's possible to run out of money while spending, just as it's possible to run out of boards while walking on a dock. I know a man who walked too far on a dock and fell into the ocean. He later observed, wisely, that "when you're out of slats, you're out of pier."

In case you haven't guessed, I should tell you today's column is my carefully-researched explanation of Michigan's perplexing tax situation. How do you like it so far?

The perplexing thing is that all Michigan residents want tax cuts but they keep voting down proposals to cut taxes. The "no" votes come from people who think the proposed cuts are either too small or too large. The people who fear large cuts say a meat-axe swipe would render government broke and unable to finance the most basic public functions, such as police protection and day-care centers for state legislators with working mothers.

One of the supporters of tax nicks is Lt. Gov. James Brickley. Faced with the defeat of yet another pocket-knife cut, Brickley recently warned of the impending meat-axe. "We're going to have to... fight off some very extreme, Draconian measures that will be coming," he said.

It isn't usual for a pocketknifer to use the word "Draconian" to describe a meat axer. That's because the meat-axer leader is Robert Tisch, drain commissioner of Shiawassee County and a direct descendant of Draco of Seventh Century Athens. Draco was infamous for the extreme severity of his administration, and through the years his name became a household adjective used to describe any government official who would cut off his own mother's food stamps.

Many people wonder what qualifies a county drain commissioner to lead meat-axe approach to statewide tax-cutting. In Tisch's case, it's his physique. Every article written about Tisch describes him as gangling or lanky or raw-boned. Obviously, he is Lincoln-esque as well as Draconian, and any government official who can split rails can meat-axe taxes.

Also, Tisch's occupation could be uniquely helpful in stemming the flow. He wants to cut property taxes in half, with no hike in state sales or income taxes. His opponents claim such a Draconian measure would send the state down the drain. But Tisch is in a position to plug the drain, as long as he doesn't become flushed with success.

I hope this explanation has helped you to understand the Michigan tax situation more clearly. My closing advice is to never put money in a cup of coffee and never forget that if the drain pipe were reversed, Draco would today be the Tischonian drain commissioner of Shiawassee County.

Clarkston school board candidates

Nine vie for two seats on seven-member board of education

On Monday, June 8, voters in the Clarkston Community School District will be able to vote from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

On the ballot will be two millage requests--3 mills for Clarkston schools and 2 mills for special education throughout Oakland County (see stories on these two issues elsewhere in today's Clarkston News.)

There are nine candidates for the two seats on the Clarkston Board of Education. Voters will select two persons for four-year terms.

In order to better inform voters about the school board candidates, we asked each of them to answer four questions in 50 words or less.

The questions we asked are:

1. Some say the Clarkston school district is top-heavy with administrators. What's your opinion?

2. Do you support the 3-mill tax proposal for Clarkston schools also appearing on the June 8 ballot. Why or why not?

3. If the millage request fails, extracurricular activities and sports will no longer be funded. How do you feel about keeping such activities alive through the efforts of booster clubs, parents' groups and pay-as-you-go programs?

4. Why do you feel you should be elected?

The candidates' answers and biographical information about them follow.

Robert Clark

Robert R. Clark, 54, of 9765 Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, is the owner of Bob Clark and Sons and Clark's Fuel Service.

He is a 1944 graduate of Clarkston High School. He has served on the Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Commission for over 20 years.

A Clarkston resident for 50 years, he and his wife

Barbara have six children.

TOP-HEAVY ADMINISTRATION?

"Administrative cuts should be made if the money is not available to retain adequate teaching staff."

3-MILL SUPPORT?

"Everything, including education costs, are more now. This millage request is a reasonable request."

OUTSIDE HELP FOR ACTIVITIES?

"By all means, use every available method to retain non-academic activities. Those who are the most interested in an activity will be the most highly motivated to obtain funding for the activity."

REASONS FOR CANDIDACY

"Having been in business through 35-plus good and bad years, I have had to learn to adjust to the times and economic conditions. This includes being realistic about what money is available and its best use."

Hadyn Cook

Hadyn Cook, 46, of 6241 Simler Drive, Independence Township, is a manufacturing engineer at Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors Corp.

Born and educated in England, he and his family became United States citizens in 1974.

His community involvement includes work with the Clarkston Chiefs and Suburban Midget Football Conference. He is active with the Waterford Township Recreation Department soccer program and is a member of the Clarkston Rotary Club.

He and his wife Mary have lived in Clarkston 13 years. They have three children.

TOP-HEAVY ADMINISTRATION?

"Clarkston schools, by comparison, are not administrator top-heavy. I deplore the administrator head hunting observed at recent board meetings. The cuts made are, for the present, sufficient. The accumulating effect of administrator cuts on the bottom of the teaching ladder is not sufficiently understood."

3-MILL SUPPORT?

"I support the millage. The young people of this country are too precious to waste. They, like generations before them, deserve the best education we can provide. It is an investment in our future."

OUTSIDE HELP FOR ACTIVITIES?

"There is no practical way to sustain athletic and extracurricular activities except through the regular school budget. Volunteer groups cannot maintain the efforts required. Fee paying is not equal opportunity."

REASONS FOR CANDIDACY

"If elected, I think I can make a valuable contribution to Clarkston Community Schools, drawing upon my own educational and workplace experience, which I believe is unique among the candidates. Foreign languages and vocational education programs, hard hit if the millage fails, would be higher priority subjects with me."

Ann Glenn

Ann Glenn, 43, of 10175 Reese, Independence Township, is active as a volunteer in several organizations.

She is a member of the Michigan White House Conference on Families, a director of seminars for the Latter Day Saints church and on the board of directors of women's programs at the church.

Educated at Duke University and the University of Utah in the field of medicine, she served on the Chittenden Board of Education in Vermont from 1971 to 1976, was on the governor's commission on women and children in Vermont for two years, was local president and state board member of the League of Women Voters in Vermont and was also a board member of the Burlington YMCA.

She and her husband Richard have three children.

TOP-HEAVY ADMINISTRATION?

"The Clarkston schools administration does not feel that they are top-heavy. Their defense is that they are not top-heavy compared to other districts in Oakland County. I feel we must go beyond Oakland County for comparisons and solutions. A committee from the board needs to address this."

3-MILL SUPPORT?

"Yes, I support the 3-mill request. I also support nurturing the philosophy that administrators and teachers are public servants and that each child and parent in the community is important."

OUTSIDE HELP FOR ACTIVITIES?

"If the millage fails, I support any kind of effort to reinstate them. Community, administrators and teachers need to pull together to solve problems. Some programs slated for cutting are self-supporting, i.e. drama at the high school. Physical education, music, art, sports and band are part of a basic education."

REASONS FOR CANDIDACY

"I have served on a school board during a recession and have witnessed problem-solving and program development involving concessions by administrators, teachers and parent involvement. I am dedicated to public education and believe children are our greatest asset and responsibility."

Thomas Goldner

Thomas Goldner, 43, of 6486 Eastlawn, Independence Township, is employed by General Motors Corp. Truck and Coach Division in the traffic department.

A graduate of Mott Community College, he is a Navy veteran and a member of the Clarkson United Methodist Church.

He and his wife Alma have two children—both Clarkson High School students.

A native of Flint, he has lived in Clarkson over 12 years.

TOP-HEAVY ADMINISTRATION?

"The Clarkson School District is top-heavy with administration. When the cuts took place, they should have started with the Central Office Administration. This action would have been more equal and shown the public that the district was trying to cut back. It would have helped the millage."

3-MILL SUPPORT?

"I support the 3-mill tax proposal, because we have no other choice. The schools should be maintained at their present standards until the state comes up with a more equal and fair funding."

OUTSIDE HELP FOR ACTIVITIES?

"If the millage request fails, extracurricular activities and sports should have the option of being funded by booster clubs, parents' groups and students' pay-as-you-go programs."

REASONS FOR CANDIDACY

"I feel I should be elected to the school board, because:

1. I'm a taxpayer.
2. I'm a parent of two children in the Clarkson school system.
3. I want accountability of board and administration.
4. It is time for a change."

Gerald Harbaugh

Gerald Harbaugh, 45, of 4430 Rohr, Independence Township, is a carpet salesman at the J.L. Hudson Co.

He attended Wayne State University, Detroit, for two years. He has coached little league teams at the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department for two years and has been active in Cub Scouts.

He and his wife Patricia have lived in Clarkson eight years. They have two children who attend Clarkson schools.

TOP-HEAVY ADMINISTRATION?

"Yes. This is one area where there could be a cut-back and it would not affect the school district."

3-MILL SUPPORT?

"No. A 1-mill increase would have been enough. Like four years ago when the theme was 'We care for the children of Clarkson,' what happened?—the millage passed and the school district got a raise."

OUTSIDE HELP FOR ACTIVITIES?

"It is being done in other districts, so why not? The students will still be getting a good education which is why they are going to school in the first place (I hope)."

REASONS FOR CANDIDACY

"I feel we need some new ideas on the board. It's not working that well with the ones we have now and it is time for a change."

Carolyn Place

Incumbent Carolyn Place, 46, of 5615 Chickadee Lane, Independence Township, is a special education teacher at Davisburg Elementary School. She has served on the Clarkson Board of Education eight years.

She has a bachelor's degree from the State University of New York, Potsdam, and a master's degree from Wayne State University, Detroit.

She serves on the board of directors of the Michigan Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children, is chairperson on Clinton Valley Center's Citizen Advisory Committee and is president of the North Oakland Civitans.

Clarkston residents 13 years, she and her husband Don have three children.

TOP-HEAVY ADMINISTRATION?

"Clarkston ranks 23rd out of the 28 districts in the ratio of administrators to students and the current level will be reduced two-and-one-half positions even with the passage of the millage. This information can be verified through the Intermediate School District—Oakland Schools."

3-MILL SUPPORT?

"I certainly support the 3-mill tax proposal. If the millage fails, we will cut basic programs and increase class size. This will deprive our children of educational opportunities. We will lose the reputation of having a strong, basic school system and see property values and our community's esteem go down."

OUTSIDE HELP FOR ACTIVITIES?

"Several districts have found some activities can be funded but rarely over a full school year. Enough money-raising projects and volunteers cannot be mustered to raise thousands of dollars year after year. Pay-as-you-go fosters elitist groups of students, further eroding the basic American principle of a FREE and EQUAL public education."

REASONS FOR CANDIDACY

"I care about the education of children and adults. This is not only a concern or avocation of mine, this is my life—my chosen occupation. The experience and education I bring to the board as a teacher are unique and I feel have made me a worthwhile contributing member."

Carole Rausch

Carole Rausch, 37, of 6595 E. Washington, Independence Township, is a statistician and licensed realtor Associate at Selhost Real Estate.

She attended Oakland Community College and Mercy College of Detroit and holds an associate's degree. She is presently studying for a real estate securities broker license.

The former president of the Clarkson Cooperative Nursery and board member of the Independence Township Firefighters' Auxiliary, she is also a former member of St. Daniel's Women's Guild and the Clarkson Women's Club.

She and her husband William have lived in Clarkston 13 years. They have two children who attend Clarkson schools.

TOP-HEAVY ADMINISTRATION?

"The Clarkson school system is slightly top-heavy in administration. I regret, however, the loss of administrators dealing specifically with students, i.e., vocational education. I would prefer elimination of central administration personnel."

3-MILL SUPPORT

"I support the 3-mill proposal. Clarkson has an excellent achievement rating in comparison to the per-student expenditure. Losing students to private schools due to loss of services will not decrease costs or enhance property values. A check of Brandon and Waterford school districts and property values will verify these facts."

OUTSIDE HELP FOR ACTIVITIES?

"I am firmly committed to continuation of extracurricular activities and sports. I will actively support any method necessary to their continuation including booster clubs, parents' groups and pay-as-you-go programs."

REASONS FOR CANDIDACY

"My background is strong in the areas of statistical analysis and management. In the past, voters have felt that the board business is decided with little regard for public sentiment. I would like to change that. Discussion regarding important issues should be open for comment before votes are taken."

Douglas Roeser

Douglas L. Roeser, 39, of 52 E. Church, Clarkson, is a dentist. He received his bachelor's and D.D.S. degrees from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

He is an Army veteran. The president of the Independence Land Conservancy, he is also treasurer of the U of M Alumni Club of Oakland County. A former Clarkson Planning Commission member, he is active in local Boy Scouts.

Residents of Clarkson 11 years, he and his wife Judy have three children, all of whom attend Clarkson Elementary School.

TOP-HEAVY ADMINISTRATION?

"Administration is a vital component in the division of functions and responsibilities of an effective school system. At the school building level, the administrative staff is at bare minimum. A complete review of the central office administrative staff and function is necessary to ensure the public of its efficiency."

3-MILL SUPPORT

"I support the 3-mill tax proposal on the June 8 ballot. The loss of state funds has caused serious cut-backs in our proposed 1981-82 budget. Without approval of the millage, drastic cuts in staff and programs will greatly harm the chances of a high-quality educational experience for our children."

OUTSIDE HELP FOR ACTIVITIES?

"I feel the availability of extracurricular activities is crucial to a vital educational program. If the millage should unfortunately fail, other methods of funding these activities should be explored to ensure their continuation through the schools. If fair and equitable solutions can be found, I would support their implementation."

REASONS FOR CANDIDACY

"I am vitally interested in our schools which are a reflection of our fine community. I believe my educational background, my desire to serve our community and my involvement in other community affairs qualify me to represent our citizens as a member of the school board."

Clarkston Board of Education candidates

Stephen E. Werner

Stephen E. Werner, 37, of 7901 Holcomb, Independence Township, is a physician with practice limited to surgery of the hand.

He received his bachelor's degree from the University of Notre Dame and his M.D. degree from Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, Pa. He is a Navy veteran.

He is currently serving on the St. Daniel's New Church Building Committee and on the Operating Room Policy Committee at Pontiac General Hospital.

Eight-year Clarkston residents, he and his wife Karen have four sons, all of whom attend Clarkston schools.

TOP-HEAVY ADMINISTRATION?

"Administrative personnel have multiplied in the past few years, but so have demands on the administration. Nevertheless, studying administrative expense in relation to total operating expense in Oakland County, a 5 percent reduction in Clarkston would put us at about the average. A 10 percent reduction, or more, could be tolerated."

3-MILL SUPPORT?

"Yes, I would support the millage, because our district needs the additional revenue. Clarkston has one of the lowest per student revenues in the county. Because of the difficult economic situation facing nearly everyone, however, I believe the school board should have accepted Superintendent Mason's recommendation of 2.3 mills."

OUTSIDE HELP FOR ACTIVITIES?

"Every effort should be made to keep athletics and extracurricular programs. Pay-as-you-go programs are ok if some provision can be made for deserving students who just can't pay otherwise. Parent volunteers could relieve the district of some of the current expenses."

REASONS FOR CANDIDACY

"Without a lengthy and effective education, I could not practice my profession. Serving on the school board is one way of showing my gratitude for the educational opportunities that I had. My four children are enrolled in Clarkston schools, and as a parent, I am concerned about their educational opportunities."

For now

Board backs out of demolition

For the past 14 months Independence Township has been locked in battle to demolish a condemned house at 4762 Waldon and has come close to accepting a low bid of $2,500 for demolition.

At the May 26 meeting, board members opted instead to extend the homeowner's deadline to Oct. 1 to complete demolition himself.

"We've spent more in legal fees on this than it would cost us to tear it down ourselves," said Supervisor James B. Smith at the meeting.

Trustee Dale Stuart was lone dissenter as board members voted 6 to 1 to extend the demolition deadline to Oct. 1, with the stipulation homeowner Truett Moses return the first of each month to report on his progress.

"I need more time to do the work myself," Moses said, prior to the board's vote. "There is a lot of wood that can be salvaged and a bulldozer or wrecking ball will come in--and nothing can be salvaged. The extra cost to me (for demolition) is something I can't afford."

Six months ago, Independence gave Moses until May 1 to complete demolition himself. Moses, who said he was in ill-health, said the winter season was not the climate for outdoor work, and that if the board would grant him an extension he felt certain the work would be completed.

The house is unoccupied and board members voices concern over possible hazards if the building is torn down "piecemeal."

The concern prompted the stipulation that Moses return for review the first of each month.

If no "appreciable" progress has been made, the board ruled, the township will proceed with demolition and add the cost onto the tax rolls.

Crash kills man

A 22-year-old Springfield Township man died during the Memorial Day weekend when the car he was riding in was involved in a head-on collision at M-15 and Granger Road in Brandon Township.

William David Pearsall of Bridge Lake Road, was pronounced dead on arrival at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital on May 23.

The driver of the car, William Grace, 22, of Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, was also taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital and is listed in stable condition, according to a hospital spokesperson.

According to Deputy Kenneth Hurst of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, police theorize Grace was attempting a left-hand turn on Granger Road off M-15 when the car crossed the center line and struck a vehicle driven by Leroy James, 52, of Brandon Township. His son Clayton, 27, also of Brandon Township, was a passenger in the car.

The Jameses were taken to Pontiac General Hospital in Pontiac and released later that week, according to a hospital spokesperson.

School millage on the ballot

By William Neff
Administrative Assistant
Clarkston Community Schools

In the last of a five-part series of informational articles on the upcoming 3-mill tax request for Clarkston schools on the June 8 ballot, some frequently asked questions are answered.

1. How long will this 3-mill increase last us before more money is needed?

Immediate plans call for utilizing money from the increase to buffer serious cuts over the next two years. At the end of two years, the state government will have had to formulate a new method of financing education.

No one can say when the economy of the state will improve. This has a great impact upon the level of state funding to public schools.

Why are my Clarkston school taxes so high compared to other districts?

They are among the lowest in Oakland County! Compared with the 27 other Oakland County school districts, Clarkston ranks:

- 27th lowest in debt millage.
- 24th lowest in voted operational millage.
- 24th lowest in cost per pupil.
- 27th lowest in total state aid and local taxes per pupil.
- 23rd lowest in per pupil valuation.

3. Will the 3-mill increase restore all the services and programs that have been cut?

The 3 mills will not restore programs and services to the present level. It will restore some custodians, some classroom teachers, some auxiliary services, interscholastic athletics, marching band, cheerleading, yearbook, drama, student government, school camp, evening musical programs, intramural activities, driver education (dependent upon automobiles), summer band and transportation for athletics.

4. Why do my school taxes keep going up every year, but the school district says it can't make ends meet?

Higher assessments and higher taxes do not mean more total dollars in state and local revenue!

The school district receives all of the increase local tax dollars, but the state aid share decreases proportionately.

Passage of the 3 mills would stop the decline in state funding and would increase the state contribution.

5. Why didn't the district start cutting back sooner? Why didn't we know we were going to be short of funds sooner?

The district began making budget cuts three years ago in anticipation of declining revenue. The district cut over $471,425 over the past three years in staff, transportation costs, workmans' compensation, maintenance, textbooks and teaching supplies.

Several events occurred over which the school district had no control and could not foresee. The Headlee Amendment rollback cost the district $895,637. The governor's cuts (three) cost the district $827,039. The rate of inflation has been high. Clarkston voters rejected millage that would have put the district over the 30-mill mark, bringing more equal state funding.

6. Isn't most of the money going to pay teachers and administrators more, rather than toward academic progress?

No! Clarkston administrative costs per pupil are 23rd lowest of the 28 Oakland County districts. Salary for beginning teachers with a bachelor's degree ranks 28th and with a master's degree ranks 26th.

Clarkston teacher salaries (B.A.) rank 14th and (M.A.) 22nd after 10 years of service. Since some of the 27 other districts have COLA, which is not included in the tallies, Clarkston would rank even lower.

Clarkston school district's budget broken down is as follows: Instruction—62.2 percent, Teachers—51.3 percent, Administration—6.1 percent, Transportation—6.2 percent, Maintenance and operations—10 percent, Business functions—15.5 percent.

7. I don't have any kids in school. Why should I pay school taxes?

For these three very good reasons:
1. "Education: A debt due from present to future generations."—George Peabody. Each generation of young in America has historically been educated at the expense of the other generation, realizing that they in turn shall support the generation to come.

2. Try to sell your house and realize a good market value if the Clarkston school district goes broke—or if it develops a reputation as an unproductive system.

3. People in the area have pride in the community. There can be no community pride without pride in a financially and educationally sound school district.

8. I'm retired. If the millage is approved, my taxes will increase, won't they?

Any increase in school millage may well not affect persons on fixed incomes due to their qualifying under the Michigan Homestead Tax Rebate Program. Persons with high property assessments not on a fixed income may also qualify.

9. If the state constitution requires Michigan to provide for public education, why can't we force the state to do that by refusing to approve more tax increases?

A committee is working to bring pressure on the state to place K-12 education as its highest priority, fund K-12 education properly, and change the method for funding public education. This will take several years.

School districts and this generation of students cannot wait for this to happen. Too much damage to programs, level of education and student achievement would occur while waiting for action on a state level. Local millage must be provided for schools to carry them through the awaited state changes.

10. What does the state general fund support if it is not funding K-12 education properly?

K-12 education which received 31 percent of the state budget in 1969-70 now receives 14 percent in 1981, or a decrease of 17 percent.

In the same 12 years, human services increased from 27 percent to 47 percent, or an increase of 20 percent. Money formerly used on education has been channeled to fund other state programs.

For God's sake, and the children, vote 'yes'

To the Clarkston News and Our Community,

There's a disturbing attitude of mistrust mixed with selfishness that seems to be getting out of hand in our community.

Feelings of "I don't trust the legislature -- or any politician, for that matter," and "I'm fed up with high taxes, and I'll fight them any way I can," are now being aimed at the public schools.

As the nearest and most vulnerable target, since we can vote on school taxes, even renewals, we are striking out blindly in frustration. The M-X missile system goes on, since we have no direct vote, while our most precious responsibility, our children, are short-changed.

I'm unhappy with taxes. I pray for wise legislators, and sometimes I'd like a few teachers and administrators to be more capable, but I will not use children as political hostages because of my unhappiness. The truth is that in Clarkston school taxes are relatively low compared to other communities, our local legislators are trying hard, and the great majority of school personnel are dedicated and capable.

The push for free public education in this country, regardless of one's means or status, was born in the Christian Church. We have a strong responsibility to continue and strengthen this system.

Private education has its place for some, but Christians who utilize private education for their own children have a responsibility to preserve the public schools for the others, especially those of smaller means and opportunity.

Your Clarkston Board of Education is seeking increased school millage support on June 8 to keep most of the fine programs we now have, replacing the support that has been taken away by state executive cuts, the Headlee Amendment, our depressed economy, and inflation.

It shouldn't be this way -- I agree. But it is. And so our alternative is to support our children and protest in some other way, or cut their throats in frustration.

We have a clear choice, it seems to me. It costs about $28 a day to keep a person in prison in Michigan, or about $10 or so a day to give a youngster a public education.

I've served as a school board member for eight years and am stepping down to give opportunity for fresh leadership. Please believe me, from my inside vantage point, that we have a fine school system.

We have meager facilities, by your choice, but a fine staff that you have thus far supported.

For God's sake, and the children, vote "Yes" to continue that support. Nearly any youngster so motivated can get a "private quality" education in Clarkston. If you vote "No," that soon may no longer be true.

Please, the students can't vote for themselves. You can.

Pastor Robert D. Walters
Retiring Trustee
Clarkston Board of Education

Good schools attract residents

To the Editor:

As any realtor will testify, quality of local schools is a prime concern of nearly every home buyer. Good schools attract good residents and contribute directly to the desirability, the culture and the economy of any community.

Over the years, Clarkston schools have gained a reputation for sound, tight-fisted operation, with fewer amenities and frills than most. Comparing them with schools in comparable communities, many have called them spartan.

Recent cutbacks in state tax income, therefore, have cut past the fat and into the muscle more rapidly and deeply here than in many other school districts.

In today's austere economy no one readily accepts higher taxes, even when cushioned by homestead credits which lessen or eliminate their impact on most senior, low income or unemployed residents.

But when it comes to choosing between continued support of a conservatively-run school system and seeing its deteriorating to the point of eroding both property values and the quality of life which has brought good citizens to this community, there can only be one responsible answer:

Vote "Yes" on the three added mills Monday, June 8.

'No' votes epitomize adults' double standards

To the Editor:

Hard work, dedication, spirit, inspiration, citizenship—these are good things. We tell young people to be involved with healthy pursuits. We ask young folks to dedicate extensive time and energy to building character and strong bodies.

Parents and the community look down on inactivity and laziness.

Talk is cheap.

On June 8, we will have an opportunity to show our young people that we really believe in the values we talk a lot about.

Whether or not you have youngsters in school, the voting adult community of Clarkston has the responsibility to be moral leaders of the children of the community, and that leadership is expressed by matching our actions, and our pocketbooks, with the words we express so freely.

Good citizens and leaders begin in OUR SCHOOLS. Students practice their citizenship and learn to be dedicated by participating in events provided along with basic education.

The opportunity to dedicate hours and days to practice a sport, to practice music, to perfect a performance, to be part of a team, to be part of a band, are provided in Clarkston within our school program at a dollar value that cannot be matched anywhere else.

Shall we hire a band to give us the thrill our Clarkston High shares with us at each community parade?

Should we put up money to support a professional basketball team in Clarkston to bring spirit to our community like the Clarkston High School basketball team?

We can't beat the dollar value that we pay in taxes to our school system for what our schools provide to the whole community of Clarkston.

What is the cost of a "yes" vote? On the average, for less than the price of a daily newspaper, we can keep our schools running at about their present level of student activity.

"Yes," the schools are cost-cutting. "Yes," the schools are being extremely energy efficient. "Yes," the schools are slowly cutting staff by not replacing openings.

"Yes," the schools are cutting supplies. "Yes," the schools are making the bus routes more cost-efficient. "Yes," the salaries are on the low side—on a countywide average.

"Yes," the money spent per student in Clarkston is the lowest in the county.

In spite of tremendous inflation, the schools have stretched a three-year millage voted in '77 to four years. Now, in the fourth year, the school is asking for a very reasonable raise. "Yes," the schools need your support!!

Can the adult voting community of Clarkston ask for a hard-working, dedicated standard from our young people—and then not support that dedication clearly present in many outstanding Clarkston students?

The adult community of Clarkston has a chance to SHOW our children that hard work and dedication is respected and rewarded.

The adult community of Clarkston has the opportunity to express a single standard—not a double standard. We care, we appreciate and we back moral behavior, as expressed in student dedication and participation in school work, athletics and the arts.

Opportunities will continue to be available in our schools, because we support them with our words and our money.

Kay E. Chenoweth

Misinformation, misinterpretation, rumors afloat

To the Editor:

While talking with various people around our community about school millage, I discover misinformation, misinterpretation and rumor.

Usually these distortions suggest money mismanagement in various forms within our school district.

To cite just a few examples, news reports stating township officials received pay raises were misinterpreted. This was extended to school board members who did not vote themselves raises; in fact, they receive minimal compensation for attendance at board meetings only. School administrators have offered to forego their raises.

PTO funds, not tax dollars as some have heard, have purchased supplementary media supplies. The local school district is not unnecessarily providing paper, pencils, etc., for children—state law requires them to do so.

Administration is not top-heavy as have been suggested. Clarkston compares favorably with other county districts.

Some feel the pending cuts are disproportionate in that all extracurricular activities would be dropped; most of these would be reinstated if the millage passes, while significant cuts in administration will not.

Anyone who has familiarized himself with our school budget in recent years knows there is not waste. Without publicity, expenses have been trimmed over the last few years.

For example, the growth in cost per pupil across the county this past year has varied from the lowest at ($100) to the highest at $628 (Lamphere).

As a member of the Citizen's Advisory Committee, I had an opportunity to look closely at our schools financial allocations.

There has been little money to provide a classroom space for every need, textbooks in numbers sufficient for each child and lab materials basic to science experiments, to name a few. Clarkston schools have worked with tight budgets each year.

Anyone who has examined statistics rating the 28 school districts in Oakland County knows that in almost every area that compares each district in terms on financial costs per child, we rank consistently among the lowest few.

Our district has always had, and still maintains, a reputation for low-cost, basic education. While our district doesn't offer our children "extras" such as a community like Birmingham might, we do compare favorably on basic skills tests (89-93) for approximately one-half the cost per child. Three mills would simply maintain what we have.

Some of us might wish that more opportunities be provided beyond a basic education. That is a separate issue! The 3 mills requested is crucial to maintain a very basic American public school education.

Whether our incomes are directly connected with the auto industry or not, many of us do live with lower incomes than we enjoyed just a few years ago.

We are upset and angry; we want to curb government waste in any way we can. We've been presented with tax cut proposals which are inadequate to solve our financial difficulties.

Unfortunately, the only route that now seems open to many of us is to vote "no" on our local school millages. Such retaliation is misdirected—it touches children.

It does not touch the waste that angers us—the waste we perceive in large bureaucracies, the funds allocated for unnecessary programs, "convention vacations," top-heavy administration, inadequate distribution of taxes collected from us. These are not problems within the Clarkston school district.

OUR RIGHT TO VOTE CARRIES THE OBLIGATION TO MAKE INFORMED DECISIONS. WE MUST SEEK FACTS, CONFIRM THE TRUTH OF WHAT WE HEAR. WE MUST DETERMINE THE CONSEQUENCES OF OUR VOTE.

Learn what the actual cost is to us. The Homesteaders' provision reduces, for most residents, sometimes to 0, the actual dollars paid on a millage.

Consider the significant effect local school reputations have on property values. Weigh how education has enriched our lives and how vital it is for each child's fulfillment.

Mary Jane Scharfenkamp

Recent grad says vote 'yes'

To the Voters:

Please save our schools. Vote "yes" on June 8.

Having just completed a year at Georgetown University, I've realized what a good school system Clarkston has. Therefore, I wish to impress upon voters the necessity of passing the millage.

The money from the vote will enable the system to maintain its present high standard of education. It will help keep teachers that the school can't afford to lose—that the STUDENTS can't afford to lose.

These teachers are good—they care about the students and are ready to help them.

If the millage doesn't go through, dozens of programs, classes, improvements and opportunities will be canceled. There will be virtually no extracurricular activities.

These activities are what make Clarkston schools special. They give students a chance to show their expertise in areas other than academics. This is very important to college admissions officers and their staffs.

Clarkston has a lot to offer its residents. Please don't take away one of its best offerings—a good school system with good teachers, who give students a good education. Don't deny students the same benefits and opportunities we have had.

Don't jeopardize the future of Clarkston students. Vote "yes" on June 8.

Martha Kennedy

Protect your investment, future

To the editor:

Even if you don't have children in the Clarkston schools—even if you have paid taxes for 50 years and you want a break—even if you're planning to move—VOTE "YES" ON THE MILLAGE!

Why?? Because if our schools go down the tube, so do your property values!!

CONSIDER: Would you buy a house in a community, despite its beauty and recreational opportunities, if your kids couldn't get a first-rate education there?

Would you move to a community that had a growing delinquency problem, because the young people have no outlets, such as sports, drama and band?

PARENTS—think of how much more (than the 3-mill tax increase) it will cost you, per year, to replace in your children's lives the things they will lose: music, drama, sports, special curriculums (language, vocational training), driver's education and a host of priceless benefits!!

SINGLES, SENIORS, COUPLES WITHOUT CHILDREN—think of how much you've already invested in this community!! Think of how much more it will cost you (than the 3-mill increase) when your property values decrease and vandalism increases—idle kids!

Protect your investment!! Protect your future!! THE KIDS IN CLARKSTON STILL COUNT for all of us!!

Ruth Brueck

P.S. If you think the school administration just wastes your tax money, investigate. Talk to them or the students or the teachers. This school district is now, and always has been, a "no frills" operation. Three mills will maintain that—not change it!

All that jazz

Reflections of trees and sky and the jazz band members themselves are found in the shiny instruments.

A portion of the brass section offers a line-up of shiny horns.

Around the corner of the porch, members of the band get ready to play.

Enthusiasm abounds during the concert as the jazz band members enjoy the musical presentation as much as the audience.

Word of the benefit jazz concert was passed through flyers and word of mouth and several families arrived at the Wagner's home to sit on lawn chairs and blankets and listen to jazz emanating from the porch for over three hours. Ron and Betty Wagner moved from Livonia to Independence Township about one year ago. Their son Ron, a Clarkston

High School junior, plays in the jazz band. "Those kids played until 6:30," said Betty Wagner. "They were having such a good time, I didn't think they'd stop. Many of them won't see the money—a lot of them will be graduating and going off to college. They were every bit as enthusiastic as those who may benefit from it."

The last out of the game against Waterford Mott is greeted with leaps of joy on the Clarkston bench, as the Wolves pull out a 5-1 victory to advance to the district final at Rochester's Hallbach Field Saturday. Clarkston will get its first taste of regional competition June 6 in Waterford.

Girls stun Township, win district

By Al Zawacky

The Clarkston Wolves are peaking just at the right time.

Just ask the Waterford Township Skippers, who were victimized by the Wolves 14-10 Saturday afternoon, a triumph that garnered the Clarkston High School varsity softball squad its first ever district championship.

Earlier in the season, Township had blanked the Wolves 6-0. That was back in the days when Clarkston was stumbling to a 2-4 start, including an 0-3 mark in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

But those stats aren't very relevant anymore. The team currently wearing the Clarkston blue and gold is similar to the Wolves of April in name only.

"Back at the start of the season, we weren't hitting," notes Clarkston Coach Carla Teare. "Now, we are."

Case in point was the game against Township, which saw the Wolves belt 19 hits en route to their 14 runs—the highest total surrendered by the Skippers all season.

Each member of the Clarkston lineup picked up at least one hit Saturday against Township pitching—pitching that had earned the Skippers a 20-5 record going into Saturday's district showdown.

Nobody had given Clarkston much of a chance against perennially powerful Township going into the game. Except the Wolves themselves.

"We weren't expected to beat them, but I knew we could—and so did the girls," Teare says. "This is high point of anything that has ever happened in sports for me. We've just got a super bunch of girls."

Senior Lisa Forsyth pitched the Wolves to victory in the district opener against Mott, striking out one, walking none and allowing just five hits.

And when she wasn't pitching, Forsyth was taming Mott with the bat as well, going three-for-three including a triple and scoring two of Clarkston's five runs.

In the finals, Township grabbed a quick 3-0 lead in the first inning, but the Wolves abruptly turned the tables beginning with three runs in the third.

Carrying a 7-3 lead into the top of the sixth, Clarkston exploded for seven more runs to take an imposing 14-3 lead. Those seven insurance runs proved crucial the rest of the way, as Wolves pitching began walking batters and Township capitalized to make it close.

With the bases loaded and the tying run at the plate in the bottom of the seventh, Clarkston's Lanette Whitehead tossed a strike out to retire the side and wrap up the Wolves' district title.

"I think we got a little nervous in the last two innings," Teare notes. "Here we were, up 14-3 on a team we weren't supposed to beat, and we knew this wasn't just another game."

The Clarkston attack was led by Mary Barks, who was successful in four of five trips to the plate and drove in one run while scoring two. Barks also stole four bases.

Whitehead and Annette Ulasich each went three-for-five, while Forsyth and Jane Acton went two-for-four. Whitehead, Annette Ulasich and Michelle Ulasich each picked up two RBIs.

Having won their first district softball championship in CHS history, the Wolves will now move on to their first taste of regional playoff competition Saturday, June 6.

Clarkston will bring a 17-8 season record to Herrington Field in Waterford Saturday. The Wolves first game will be against the winner of the Brighton district winner beginning at 10 a.m.

Stefanski hurls four-hitter

Long-awaited pitching puts Wolves in 2nd

By Al Zawacky

Finally.

At long last, the Wolves got some of that missing ingredient: Good pitching.

It was Mike Stefanski that did the delivering, going the full seven innings, striking out four and allowing just four hits en route to a sparkling 3-0 shutout victory over Milford.

All season long the Clarkston High School varsity baseball team has endured pitching problems. But even though Stefanski's strong performance came on the last game of the season, the win over Milford did accomplish something.

It was a triumph that clinched second place in the Greater Oakland Activities League for the Clarkston Wolves, a fact that left Coach Roy Warner pleased—but not quite fully satisfied.

"We had aspirations of doing better, and possibly could have if we had had more substantial pitching," Warner mused. "We scored some runs this year, but just couldn't find a stopper when we needed one."

"It's not that I didn't enjoy the season. Probably the best thing about the whole year is that we battled back all the way. We never quit."

Clarkston jumped off to a quick 2-0 lead in the first inning against Milford when senior Rich Lamphere blasted a two-run homer. Greg Lane added another run for the Wolves in the fifth with an RBI single.

Pete Carpentier picked up two of Clarkston's six hits.

The season-ending victory lifted the Wolves' final GOAL mark to 6-4 and overall record to 9-10.

The team's final individual stats show Clarkston finishing the 1981 campaign with three .300 hitters: Phil Breininger at .333, Lamphere at .323 and Carpentier, who hit .333 in part-time duty.

Breininger led the Wolves in doubles with five, while Lane had a team-leading four homers and 22 RBIs to go with a .242 average.

Stefanski posted the pitching staff's best ERA, an even 3.00. John McIntyre had the most wins with three, and Kurt Esselink fanned a team-high 22 enemy batters.

Point After

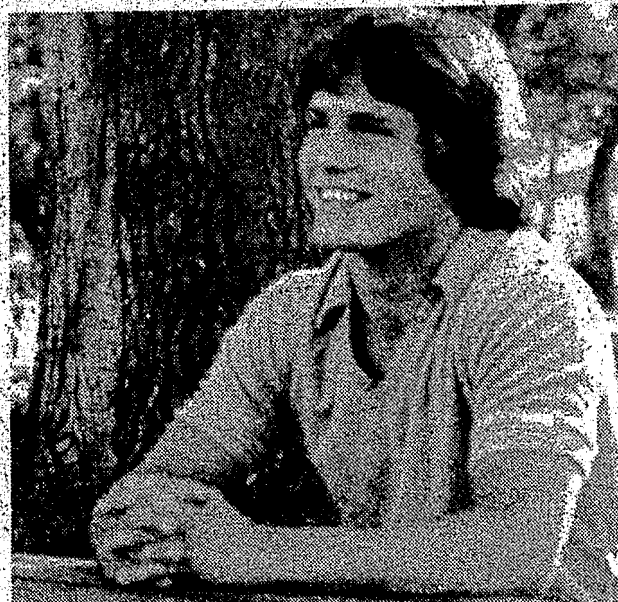

By Al Zawacky

Prep athletics: More than just fun and games

IT IS AN often-repeated dogma of high school athletics.

Athletics build character. Any coach, athlete or parent will tell you that. It's the type of contention that doesn't easily lend itself to proof or disproof, however—you either believe it or you don't.

But there are some examples to support it. Mike Ogans is one.

Mike Ogans: He's hoping the juniors and sophomores at Clarkston High School will have the same opportunities he did.

A senior at Clarkston High School, Mike is looking forward to graduating in a few days, saving his money over the summer from his job as a packer at Food Town and going off to Muskegon College to study electronics in the fall.

"It's a small college, but it's a college," he says, happy at the prospect.

The future hasn't always been so rosey for Mike Ogans.

At the age of eight, his father died. As little as a year ago, he was worrying about whether or not his grades would be good enough to get into college.

After his dad passed away, Mike's mother and brothers urged him to get involved in wrestling. Today, 10 years later, he says that decision and his involvement in sports has made a big difference in his life.

"Sports teaches you discipline," says Mike, who starred with the CHS wrestling team last winter and also played varsity football. "It shows you that when you've got something to do, you've got to go and do it."

He recalls a favorite axiom from CHS football coach Walt Wyniemko.

"Coach Wyniemko always told us that if we believed we could do something, we would do it. He always said it's not how big you are, but how big your heart is."

Those words carried special weight like Ogans, who stands just 5-foot-9 but always gave 100 percent of himself.

IT'S BEEN SAID that athletics is sometimes over-stressed to the point that education is forced to take a back seat to Friday night's football game or Thursday evening's wrestling meet.

Let those who say that sit down and have a cup of coffee with Clarkston wrestling coach Rick Detkowski. Let them talk with Mike Ogans.

"We emphasize to the kids how important it is to keep your grades up," Detkowski says. "We've all heard the old saying, 'sound mind, sound body,' and it's up to the coach to push that. I tell the guys that their studies come first, and I think the kids realize that."

"We're not building superstars—we're building people for the community. The training, the mental pressure—it's tough. It helps kids cope with life later on. If I can help them perform later on in life, then I feel I'm doing my job."

"RICK WAS ALWAYS concerned about our grades," Mike agrees.

He grins sheepishly.

"Last year I screwed around so much that my grades were real bad, and Rick would always ride all of us about keeping them up."

The way they were

Twenty-five years ago, wedding bells rang for George and Cynthia Schwartz as they exchanged vows at St. Gertrude's Church in St. Clair Shores. The Schwartzes celebrate their silver anniversary June 2. Independence Township residents on Sally Road for 12 years, they have five children. Ron, Mark, Cindy and Sue live at home and Airman Robin Schwartz is stationed in Florida. The Schwartzes have one granddaughter, Rose Brown.

College notes

Among the 2,000 Ferris State College, Big Rapids, students named to the academic honors list for the recently completed winter quarter are two local students.

From Independence Township, Deborah Chuba of Flemings Lake Road received the honor.

Also named to the list was Denise Smith of Davisburg Road, Springfield Township.

Thomas Bullard has been selected for the annual Vincent C. Kelley Outstanding Geologist Award at the University of New Mexico, Albuquerque.

The award is one of the highest honors a graduate student in the geology department can receive.

Thomas is the son of Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Bullard of Parke Lake Drive, Independence Township.

Five Clarkston High School students have been named Regents-Alumni Scholars by the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

The students have been accepted as freshmen at the university. They were among 1,457 Michigan high school graduates selected for their superior academic achievement and their potential contribution to the scholarly community of The University of Michigan.

Those named are Louise Baylis of Hubbard Road, Joseph Duris of Hillside Drive, Hollie Luter of Ellis Road, David Roose of Eastlawn Avenue and Richard Selvala of Rattalee Lake Road.

Selvala was also selected for a $500 merit award which will be granted if he enrolls in U of M this fall.

Heather Glenn was among recent graduates of Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah.

Heather, who received a bachelor's degree, is the daughter of Richard and Ann Glenn of Reese Road, Independence Township.

Roland Lovelace has been named to the dean's list for the spring semester at General Motors Institute, Flint.

A senior, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lovelace of Reese Road, Independence Township.

Great Balloon Send-Off to boost lung charity

Thousands of colorful, helium-filled balloons are to fill the skies over Clarkston on Saturday, June 13, during "The Great Balloon Send-Off" from the Clarkston Village Depot Park.

The event, which includes a party for participants, is to benefit the American Lung Association of Southeast Michigan.

Clowns, free refreshments, hot dogs, and live music, and persons young and old sending off balloons are to fill the park from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Each balloon costs $1 and will carry a postcard with the sender's name and place of departure. The sender of the balloon traveling the greatest distance whose card is returned by Aug. 1 will win a 10-speed bicycle, donated by Robert Cring of R-K Design Service Inc., Auburn Heights. The finder of the balloon will receive $25.

Sponsor of "The Great Balloon Send-Off" is The Durbin Co. Realtors on Main Street, Clarkston.

Those who cannot attend the event may purchase coupons in advance and have balloons bearing their names released by volunteer clowns.

Those planning to release their own balloons are also encouraged to buy coupons in advance. They are for sale at the Durbin office, 31 S. Main, Clarkston, inside the Clarkston Emporium. Coupons may be purchased Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Tickets are $1 for one balloon, or $5 for a book of coupons for six balloons.

Balloon coupons may also be purchased by mail by sending a check or money order for $1 for each balloon to "The Great Balloon Send-Off", c/o the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan, 28 W. Adams, Detroit, MI 48226. Indicate the number of balloons wanted and the sender's name, address and phone number.

Checks should be made payable to the lung association. Deadline for mail orders is June 11. Call 961-1697 for more information.

Proceeds from the event are to support the lung association's community service programs, including a free summer camp for children with asthma, smoking withdrawal clinics, self-support groups for chronic lung disease victims and free breathing equipment loans.

The village park is adjacent to the Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot, Clarkston.

USE WHO TO CALL

Coping with kids

by Jim Windell

Mom and dad don't always know best

"I'm 30 years old," said Mrs. Alexander, "I should be able to handle anything that comes along. 'I'm not a kid anymore, so I don't understand why I'm not dealing with things better. I think of my dad and I know he could have handled everything I'm faced with. Why can't I?'"

Implicit in this comment from a woman who tends to be a perfectionist and is viewed by others as successful in the notion that adults know how to handle everything that comes along in daily living.

This comes about when parents try to impress on their children that "Mother knows best."

A lower self-esteem results if a child feels mother or father knows everything and he knows nothing. The child also comes to believe that at some future time he will attain that glorious position where things come easier and he will "know what to do," too.

Many parents want to pass on the impression that they do not fail and are strong because they feel that without this attitude children will not have respect or faith in them.

Not only does this foster dependency, it gives the young person an unrealistic view of life and adulthood.

It is far better to let your child know that you do not know all the answers, that sometimes you are undecided and that, in fact, your feet are made of clay like everyone else's.

Rather than losing respect, the child will most likely have greater feelings of respect and besides will grow up with a practical understanding that no one, not even a 30-year-old adult, handles everything in life well.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the following two (2) propositions will be submitted at said election:

CLARKSTON COMMUNITY SCHOOL DISTRICT OPERATING MILLAGE PROPOSITION

Shall the constitutional limitation on the total amount of taxes which may be imposed in any one year upon property in the Clarkston Community School District, Oakland County, Michigan, be increased for the period of ten (10) years from 1981 to 1990, both inclusive, by 3 mills on each dollar ($3.00 per $1,000 of assessed valuation as finally equalized, to defray a part of the operating expenses of the school district?

Yes () No ()

Oakland Schools, an intermediate school district, by Resolution adopted on March 24, 1981, has determined that there shall be submitted to the school electors of the constituent school district, at the annual school election to be held June 8, 1981, the question of increasing the millage limit on the annual property tax levied for special education in the district by two (2) mills, in addition to the one-half (1/2) mill heretofore approved by said electors in 1954, and the one-half (1/2) mill heretofore approved in 1965 under the provisions of Section 316b of Act 269 of 1955, as amended by Act 191 of 1963, by Act 246 of 1964 and as otherwise amended.

Each of the constituent school districts is hereby directed to follow the following procedures, together with all other procedures as may be required by law, and to submit the following question to the school electors at the annual school election on June 8, 1981:

OAKLAND SCHOOLS INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL DISTRICT SPECIAL EDUCATION MILLAGE INCREASE QUESTION

Shall the one (1) mill limitation on the annual property tax previously approved by the electors of Oakland Schools, an intermediate school district, State of Michigan, for the education of handicapped persons be increased by two (2) mills?

Yes () No ()

The following statement has been received from the county treasurer as to previously voted increases in the total tax limitation affecting taxable property in the school district to wit:

COUNTY TREASURER'S STATEMENT AS REQUIRED BY ACT NO. 62 OF THE PUBLIC ACTS OF 1933 AS AMENDED

I, C. Hugh Dohany, County Treasurer of the County of Oakland, State of Michigan, do hereby certify that according to the records in my office, as of April 3, 1981, the total of all voted increases in the tax rate limitation above the 15 mills established by Section 6 of Article IX of the Michigan Constitution of 1963 affecting taxable property in the Clarkston Community School District in said county, is as follows:

Adventures '81

Summer reading

Summer magic, mime, movies and more await first through sixth graders who join the Independence Township Library Summer Reading Club.

The eight weekly meetings which begin Wednesday, June 17, and continue through Wednesday, Aug. 5, offer entertainment and incentive to read books.

Registration is now underway through June 20 for the free club. The club meets at the library at 6495 Clarkston-Orion, Independence Township from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

Called "Adventures '81," each meeting is special with the following scheduled events—June 17, balloon launch; June 24, silent clown show; July 1, paper airplane throwing contest; July 8, Baffling Bill the Magician; July 15, outdoor games day; July 22, animal talk show; July 29, costume party; and Aug. 5, special films.

For each book a child reads during the program, he or she receives a ticket good for a chance at the grand prize. All children who read at least eight books are awarded a certificate of achievement.

Children can register for "adventures '81" at the library during regular hours. Call 625-2212 for more information.

New spot for awards dinner

A big sigh of relief goes up all around.

Once planned, then cancelled, then on again, the Second Annual Community Awards Dinner is set for July 9, at the Deer Lake Racquet Club, 6167 White Lake, Independence Township, according to Christopher Rose, chairman of the Michigan Week Committee.

Festivities are set to begin at 6:30 p.m., with dinner at 7:30 and the awards ceremony following. Tickets are not yet available for the event.

The Clarkston Jaycees, Michigan Week Committee and North Oakland Civitans are moving full-speed ahead with plans for the dinner and are still requesting nominees for the 1981 Citizenship Awards.

All local residents are encouraged to nominate anyone they feel deserves recognition as an outstanding government official, Clarkston educator, young citizen, "Super person," contributor to the creative arts or for distinguished service as an individual, group or project.

Nomination forms are available at the Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston, or at the Independence Township Library, 6495 Clarkston-Orion, Independence Township.

CHS house open Sunday

Prospective home buyers and the general public will be able to see the handiwork of 25 Clarkston High School students up close Sunday.

June 7 from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. will be the special open house at the home constructed by the CHS Building Trades Program during the past school year at 6405 Waldon Rd. in Independence Township.

Twenty-five Clarkston High School juniors and seniors worked since September of last year to build the house, under the supervision of construction company owner Dick Moscovie.

The three-bedroom, two-and-a-half bath ranch style home will be sold to the highest bidder after the Clarkston Board of Education sets a minimum price.

The 1,950 square foot home includes a one-acre lot, carpeting and vinyl floor covering throughout, professional landscaping in front and a wood deck in back.

Eat your way through summer events menu

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of features on state tourism that the Automobile Club of Michigan is offering to Michigan newspapers. The features also are designed to promote fuel conservation through close-to-home travel.)

Michigan's summertime festival schedule reads somewhat like a menu of taste-tempting delicacies from across the state and around the world.

First there is the fruit salad combination of Traverse City's National Cherry Festival July 5-11, South Haven's National Blueberry Festival July 11-19 and Howell's Melon Festival Aug. 20-23. The tantalizing treats awaiting visitors to these events include pancakes and pies of blueberries or cherries and big round juicy melons.

Add a main course like the pick of the catch from Ludington's Salmon Derby Aug. 22-Sept. 6 or the one served to some 1,600 townspeople and another 12,000 visitors at the Manchester Chicken Broil July 16. This outdoor picnic is held annually at the high school athletic field, with the town fathers doing the cooking while the town mothers relax.

For a truly hearty meal, visit the International Kielbasa Festival in Hamtramck's Memorial Park July 4. The succulent sausage will be served noon to 10 p.m., and it is free—compliments of the city's meat packers.

Another hearty dish—golabki (stuffed cabbage)—is the specialty at the Polish Festival in Flint, which is held twice annually—July 12 and Aug. 23.

For dessert, try some aebleskiver (fried pancake dough rolled in a ball and coated with confectioners' sugar) at the Danish Festival in Greenville Aug. 14-16.

Wash it all down with some "fruit of the vine" after taking part in the traditional grape-stomping at the Paw Paw Wine Festival Sept. 11-13. The local wineries invite visitors to shed shoes and socks and start stomping—the old-time way of crushing grapes for wine. Purple feet and wine-tasting are traditions of this event.

For table decorations, choose the sweet-smelling posies found at the Jackson Rose Festival June 6-14, the Mackinac Island

Lilac Festival June 13-14 and the Coloma Gladiolus-Peach Festival July 31-Aug. 2.

To burn off all those calories, festival-goers can try some foot-stomping at the Summer Polka-Fest in Frankenmuth Aug. 14-23. Twenty-three polka bands will play non-stop German, Polish, Czech, Slovenian and traditional American polka music starting at 5 p.m. weekdays and noon Saturdays and Sundays. The high-stepping is done under tents on two wooden floors, 80 by 60 feet.

The 5-mile trek from St. Ignace to Mackinaw city across the Mackinaw Bridge on Labor Day Sept. 7 also will help get you back in shape in time to Celebrate fall's arrival with more hearty food at the Oktoberfest in Detroit Sept. 18-20.

The Detroit event is part of the summer-long series of weekly ethnic festivals at the Hart Plaza on the city's riverfront. From May through September, the plaza takes on a festive air with colorful costumed dancers performing to music of the mariachi band (Mexican), bandura (Ukrainian), bouzouki (Greek) and bagpipes (Scottish).

A pool!

County parks put zip into summer

Put the activities together offered at eight Oakland County Parks, and you have an almost limitless choice of recreational pursuits.

The list includes camping, boating, swimming, bicycle moto-cross races, tennis, softball, fishing, golf, hiking and picnicking.

There's even a mobile recreation program that brings puppet shows, roller skating, sports and games or a unit for dramatic or musical performances to community recreation programs, church groups, companies or individuals for a rental fee.

In addition to the activities listed here, there are classes on topics ranging from wildlife appreciation to tennis lessons.

For more information, phone the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission office at 858-0906.

The Oakland County park locations are: Addison Oaks, 1480 W. Romeo Rd., Oxford; Glen Oaks, 30500 Thirteen Mile Rd., Farmington Hills; Groveland Oaks, 5990 Grange Hall Rd., Holly; Independence Oaks, 9501 Sashabaw Rd., Clarkston; Red Oaks, 29600 John R, Madison Heights; Springfield Oaks, 12450 Andersonville Rd., Davisburg; Waterford Oaks, 2800 Watkins Lake Rd., Pontiac.

Three of the parks require annual motor vehicle permits or day-use fees—Addison, Groveland and Independence Oaks. The annual passes cost $10 for Oakland County residents, with the second vehicle fee $5 and the non-resident fee is $15. Day-use fees are $2 per vehicle for residents and $3 for non-residents. The annual permits will allow access to all three parks.

Some specific activities, their costs and locations are:

SWIMMING

Waterford Oaks is the location of Michigan's only Wave-Action Pool. Calm periods alternate with three-foot waves. There is a bathhouse, concession stand and picnic area. Fees are $2.50 for adults, $1.50 for children under 18 and preschool children are admitted free. After 6 p.m., fees are $1.25 and 75 cents.

There are no fees other than the park entrance fees for beaches located at Addison, Independence and Groveland.

The Tudor-style mansion at Addison Oaks near Oxford provides an elegant and historic setting for weddings, conferences and banquets. Other county parks have pavillions and shelters that may be rented for informal gatherings.

PICNICKING

Areas are set aside for picnickers at Addison, Independence and Groveland. There are softball fields and hiking trails at Independence.

BICYCLE MOTO-CROSS

Each Saturday morning and Wednesday evening, bicycle moto-cross races take place at Waterford Oaks. The Wednesday races begin June 10 and run through Aug. 26. Saturday races are underway now and they continue through Aug. 29.

Spectators may watch the events for free. There is a $5 rider fee for the Saturday ABA-sanctioned races.

The Wednesday races cost a $2 rider fee and include categories for beginners and novices plus an open race.

FISHING

Anglers are welcome at Crooked Lake at Independence Oaks, Steward Lake at Groveland Oaks and the spring-fed ponds at Addison Oaks.

TENNIS

Eight tennis courts and four platform tennis courts, along with shuffleboard courts and horseshoe pits, are open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. at Waterford Oaks Tennis and Court Games Complex.

Fee for tennis court time is $2 an hour per court. Reservations may be made, although they are not required. Call 858-5433.

GOLF

Four parks offer golf courses.

There are an executive nine-hole golf course and a driving range at Red Oaks. During winter months, the driving range is covered by an inflatable dome, making it a year-round facility. On weekdays, cost for the nine-hole course is $3.50 for county residents. Special rates before 4 p.m. on weekdays apply for those 17 and under and for senior citizens—$1.75 for nine-holes. On weekends, fees are slightly higher. Fees are also higher for non-residents.

Golfers may go for nine or 18 holes at Spr-

Bicycle moto-cross can be a spectator or racers' sport. The BMX track at Waterford Oaks is alive with flying cyclists on Saturday mornings and on Wednesday evenings beginning June 10.

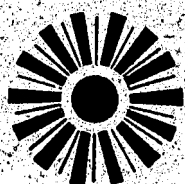

RACING • TOURING • FITNESS • RECREATION

There are big differences in bicycles. A difference in handling, a difference in the way they feel. That's why four members of the U.S. Olympic team and five members of the U.S. National team chose the Austro-Daimler by Puch.

We specialize in getting the right bike for you. At Kinetic Systems we take time to fit you properly and explain the bicycles to you. Stop by and see us, we want to help you enjoy better bicycling.

ingfield Oaks, Glen Oaks and White Lake Oaks. During weekdays, fees for county residents are $4.25 for nine holes and $6.75 for 18 holes.

Prior to 4 p.m. on weekdays, special rates for those 17 and under are $2 for nine holes and $3.50 for 18 holes.

For senior citizens on weekdays before 4 p.m., rates are $2 for nine holes and $3.25 for 18 holes. Weekend rates and rates for non-residents are slightly higher.

CAMPING

Addison Oaks and Groveland Oaks boast a total of 600 modern and primitive camping sites.

There are bath facilities, a concession area and boat rentals at Groveland Oaks. At the older sites, water is not available. The fee is $5 per day per family for residents and $6 for non-residents. The newer sites include availability of water. The fee is $7 per family per day for residents and $8 per family per day for non-residents. Electricity is available at both areas for $1 extra.

At Addison Oaks, the rustic campsites are situated around two springfed ponds. Water and electricity are not available. Fees are $4.50 per family per day for residents and $5.50 per family per day for non-residents.

Independence Oaks offers camping sites for organized youth groups only.

BOATING

Lakes for canoeing and non-power boating are located at Addison, Independence and Groveland. Pedal boats and rowboats can be rented at all parks and canoes are available at Groveland and Independence.

On weekdays, fees are $2 an hour for rowboats or $8 a day. On Saturday, Sunday and holidays, the rowboat fee is $3 an hour. Independence is the only park which offers a day-long rate on weekends, when $10 is the rowboat fee.

Pedal boaters are charged $2 for each one-half hour on weekdays, with a weekend and holiday rate of $3 for one-half hour.

Canoes are $2 an hour on weekdays and $3 an hour on weekends and holidays.

A deposit is required for boat rentals at all locations and lifejackets are provided for all boaters.

Lakes for boating and fishing at Oakland County Parks include Crooked Lake at Independence Oaks (pictured), Stewart Lake at Groveland Oaks and at springfed ponds at Addison Oaks.

Your June utility bill may be the most important one you'll receive all year.

When you open the envelope containing your June utility bill you will find a very important booklet (or you might receive it as a separate mailing.)

It describes the new Michigan Residential Conservation Services program featuring a Home Energy Analysis.

The new service is offered by eight major Michigan utilities and meets the requirements of the Michigan Public Service Commission and the 1978 National Energy Act. It's available to all homeowners and renters who pay energy utility bills.

Even if you and your family are already conserving energy, the Home Energy Analysis can show you how to save more.

For a $10 fee, you will get a complete inspection of your home by an energy specialist from your utility. You will learn how effective your present insulation, weatherstripping, caulking and other energy cost saving measures are, and you will be provided with information on specific things you can do to reduce energy waste.

You also will receive a written computer analysis giving you estimates on how much recommended improvements will cost and how long they will take to pay for themselves. Information on contractors who can do the work, details on financing, tax credits and Home Weatherization Grants for low income persons also will be provided. After the work is completed, you may have it inspected by your utility.

Some of the recommendations may cost very little or nothing at all. Some you may be able to do yourself. Others will require the services of a contractor. In any case, the Home Energy Analysis puts you under no obligation to carry out any of the recommendations. However, you probably will want to do at least some of these, because now you will know a great deal more about how to make your home energy efficient.

Whether or not you decide to have a Home Energy Analysis, please read the booklet that comes with your June bill or by a separate mailing. It lists many things you can start doing right now to save energy and money. The booklet also tells you about assistance you can get from your utility to help you make your home more energy efficient—with or without the Home Energy Analysis. Lists of contractors and lenders, as well as do-it-yourself information also are available from your utility.

You can sign up for your Home Energy Analysis by returning the postcard in the booklet or by getting in touch with your utility. The sooner you sign up, the sooner you can start reducing energy waste in your home.

The Michigan Residential Conservation Services program is conducted through the utilities listed below. You can select any one of which you are a customer to perform your Home Energy Analysis.

Racers' reunion

Perched as low as possible to minimize wind resistance, 12-year-old Donnie Spangler duplicates the form that has won him several soap box derby trophies. Donnie's grandfather John Witherup has been a soap box enthusiast since the 1930s and is still fascinated by the engineering aspects of the sport. Clarkston News MAGAZINE writer Al Zawacky recently visited Witherup and his grandson and learned of an upcoming reunion for past soap box racers which Witherup plans to attend.

Financial woes haunt accident victim

Each day's a lesson in survival for 37-year-old Dennis Theakston of Jerome Street, Independence Township.

Disabled in a 1975 excavation cave-in, he's fought to live one step at a time, care for his ailing father and 10-year-old son on $106 a week.

His story could become anyone's saga beginning today—with a car accident, a fall from a ladder, or at work when a milling machine claims a hand.

"Since 1975 I've been fighting Social Security to get a regular disability income," Theakston said. "In 1975, after the accident, I got a lawyer, sued the company I was working for and in 1978 got a $33,000 settlement (for back wages and medical expenses).

"I pay my lawyer $5,000, paid back my mother and grandparents who I lived off for those three years, put $10,000 into the house and the money was gone."

His monthly allowance from Social Security, supplemented by ADC, is $414.50, approximately $106 a week.

According to Theakston, Social Security deducts a fixed amount from his monthly check to return to workmen's compensation.

Social Security argues he should not have paid his debtors and repaired his home, and therefore cannot be on Social Security and compensation at the same time, he said.

His attorney, Rogers S. Canzano, terms the situation "very unusual," says it does occur, and continues fighting for a more equitable solution.

ADC and Social Security outline where Theakston's monthly dollars will go, placing a ceiling on how much can be spent for utilities, house payment, taxes and food.

Theakston is allotted $100 each month for his house payment. His house payment is $150. He is allotted $49 a month for taxes. His taxes are $59. Each month he is allotted $100 in food stamps.

"You can't feed three people on $100 a month. We survive on bread, cheese and bologna," he said. "Food stamps don't pay for toilet paper, shampoo and soap. Those are luxuries.

"I'm afraid of losing my house. Taxes are due on the 30th and I had to go out and borrow $700 from friends. My credit is so bad I need a co-signer to pay cash.

"I'm treated like a man who doesn't want to work. I tried to go back to work after the accident. My leg filled up with water and swelled out to here," he said, holding his hands in a three-inch circumference around his leg.

Injuries to his right knee have forced him to use a cane, he said, adding he finds physical comfort only when seated on the floor with his right leg thrust outward, the cane wedged under this knee for support.

Theakston vividly remembers the accident that claimed his leg muscles.

"We were putting in a sewer pipe from the sewer main to the houses. I was down 13 feet and the boss was operating the backhoe. The walls caved in.

"I was up to my chest with 1,500 pounds of weight on my legs. I passed out. I couldn't breathe. All I remember was the boss asking me where were my arms. He didn't want to tear one of them off when he tried to dig me out," Theakston said.

"All the muscles in the back of my (right) leg have torn inner-fibers," he said, interlocking his fingers and then pulling them apart in explanation.

To repair the damage, another operation would be needed, taking muscle from his thigh to rebuild his calf, Theakston said.

"I would have to pay for the operation myself," he said. "Medicare covers my son, and trips to the doctor for myself."

Theakston describes the pain as "Constant. It's like a toothache all the time."

When he walks, he uses his hip and back to compensate for the lack of strength in his leg, he said, and in turn, his overused hip and back ache.

Had fate chosen to sidestep Dennis Theakston that afternoon in 1975, he might be a master plumber today.

"At the time I was a journeyman with less than a year to go before taking the test," he said.

"I figured by now I'd be a master plumber, maybe have my own business. I'm treated like a man who doesn't want to work," he repeated. "If I could get out and go to work, I wouldn't care about this anymore. I could be making $10 an hour as a plumber.

"Everybody thinks that it's a luxury to be on a disability income and not have to work. I can't work. Bills aren't a luxury. Bad credit's not a luxury. I'm at rock bottom."

—Marilyn Trumper

'You can't feed three people on $100 a month. We survive on bread, cheese and bologna.'

For five years, Dennis Theakston's fought a losing battle with the "system" in an effort to receive a regular income. Following an on-the-job injury, he's forced to use a cane, and finds each day a struggle in survival.

Surprise prize just couldn't be any nicer

Because she's unable to read, 4-year-old Jessica Doty failed to understand what all the commotion was about.

All she knew was that she was asked to walk up to the front and pull a bunch of pieces of paper from the box.

After her mom Sharry explained Jessica had pulled her own raffle ticket and was the winner of the doll with more than a half-dozen handmade clothes—Jessica understood. It was then she jumped up and down, according to one witness.

Jessica accompanied her mom and aunt to the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection's Annual Women's Club Card party May 18. Someone suggested the lone tot choose the winning raffle ticket. "They thought it would be cute," said Mrs. W.S. Yates, of Kingfisher Lane, Independence Township.

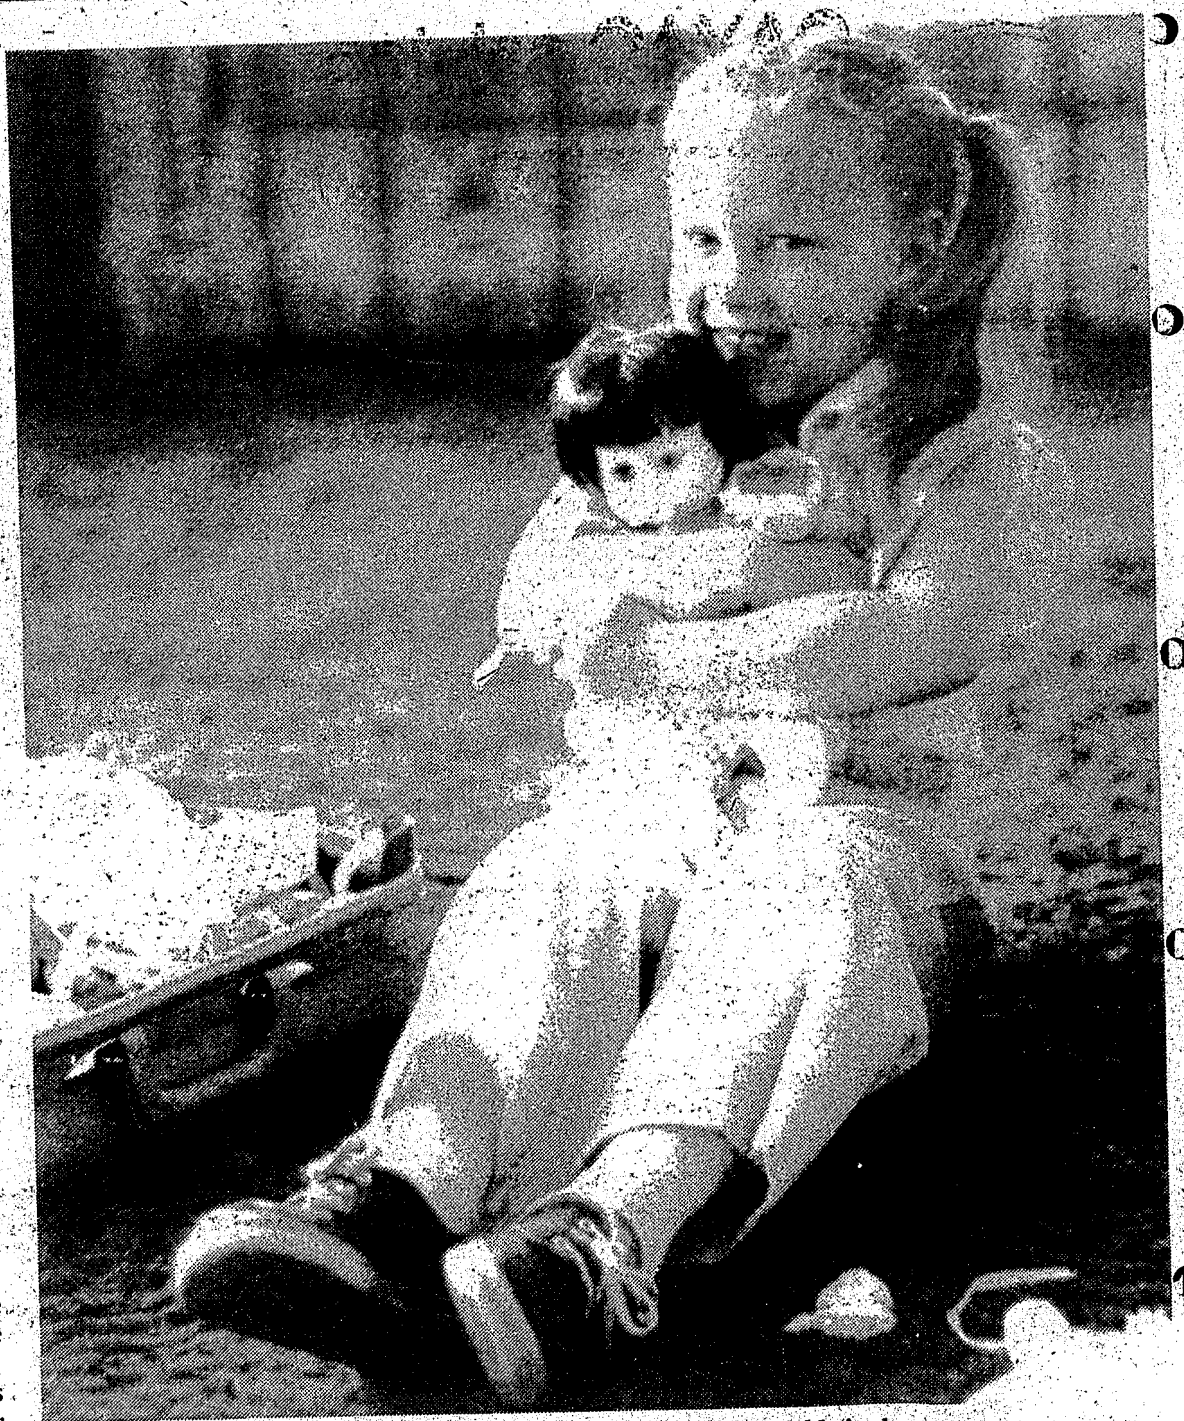

creator of all the handmade outfits.

"I was so pleased to be able to see who won—and more pleased to see it was a child," Yates said.

With the doll came a hand-embroidered night gown, a yellow checked gingham layered dress with matching bonnet, a quilted sleeping bag and matching bonnet, a white eyelet dress with lace and matching slip, a sunsuit, pants and matching top and a blue velvet coat and bonnet.

Jessica has appropriately named her prized possession "Jessica," and spends much time changing outfits, taking on and off booties and bonnets on the living room floor of her home on Cramlane in Independence Township.

Says her dad Doug: "It was midnight before we could get her to sleep that night."

The night Jessica won her doll, she was so excited, she couldn't sleep.

Young Donnie has won more than his share of trophies in his soap box racing career. In addition to trophies, medals and certificates, top finishers often also receive a more practical award, too—a United States savings bond.

Soap Box Derby racers

Reunion of riders in 50-year-old sport is planned June 6

There are high school reunions and college reunions, and then there are those less conventional.

John Witherup's reunion plans fall in the third category.

He's helping send out the call for ex-soap box derby racers for a reunion bash at the Oakland County Courthouse Auditorium June 6.

"It'll be interesting to see what happened to some of these people over the years," says Witherup, who dates his soap box racing days back to the depression years of the 1930s.

A lot of water has gone under the proverbial bridge since the first Detroit area Soap Box Derby was held almost 50 years ago. The original soap box enthusiasts grew older and lost interest, were called off to war, took jobs or retired out of state.

But Witherup is hopeful of a good turnout at the reunion.

"I really have no idea how many people we're going to get," he says. "I'd like to see 1,000—I'd be happy with 100."

"I see some of them back now at the derby with their grandchildren."

Witherup and his grandson Donnie Spangler make up one of those grandfather-grandson teams. A 1980 Detroit Junior Champion and third-place winner at the national All-American Soap Box Derby in Ohio last summer, 12-year-old Donnie has earned an impressive array of trophies and awards.

"It's fun," says Donnie, who got a helping hand from his grandfather in building his gravity-powered racer.

"I helped put it together, sand it and put in the screws."

Times have changed since the original racers made use of soap boxes, scrap wood or whatever was handy to create their own personal racer.

"The original idea was that the kids would build the car themselves," Witherup says. "It gave the youngster who was not necessarily athletically inclined but was good at crafts something to excel in."

Today, racers must meet exacting specifications. Sixty dollars will buy an official racer kit, which includes all of the mechanical devices needed to build an official racer.

But since the wheels and outer body aren't included in the kit, that touch of craftsmanship and engineering is still there.

"I guess I just got bugged by the challenge of this," Witherup says. "Why does one car go faster? Why did this car beat you?"

"You find a lot of these engineering secrets are passed on in the family."

"It's not quite as big as it used to be," he adds. "Back in the depression, it was really a big event, kind of a poor-man's Gold Cup race. Today, it's more of a suburban and small-town activity, and it has to compete with little-league baseball and soccer."

Girls also compete in the races now, another change from the derby's early days.

"I think the first girls started racing in the 1970s," Witherup recalls. "Some of them have won national titles."

Anyone connected with soap box racing is welcome to attend the reunion, scheduled between 2 and 5 p.m. The courthouse auditorium is located at 1200 N. Telegraph in Pontiac.

The reunion is free and participants are urged to bring scrapbooks, derby memorabilia, pictures, slides, home movies and their old racers. Projectors will be available.

Rural living's worth long drive home

If Hollywood ever decided to make a movie about the life of Bill Budry, a likely title might be, "The Long Ride Home."

Or, "The Long Ride to Work."

Every working day, Bill puts about 90 miles on the family car for the round trip from driveway to work and back to driveway.

Ninety miles in the hot sun and rain in the summer, and over snow and ice-coated roads in the winter. About a one-hour drive one way between the Budry family's home in Springfield Township and Bill's job as an engineer and designer in Berkley.

"It's quite a drive," agrees Bill, who feels the recent exponential increases in gasoline prices a little more than most people.

"But it's worth it. Of course, some of the guys at work don't think so—they think I'm a little crazy," he chuckles.

Bill, his wife Debbie and their three children, 6-year-old Jessica, 3-year-old Derek and 1½-year-old Sarah, make their home off one of Springfield's winding gravel roads.

Located near a park and safely secluded from the traffic of Dixie Highway, the Budry home provides a lifestyle very different to the one the family had when they lived in Berkley.

"We just wanted to get away," Bill says. "It's nice—the kids can go out to the lake, and we don't have to worry about traffic.

"There's peace and quiet out here."

So much peace and quiet that the tranquility took a little getting used to.

"At first, we'd sit up at night wondering where all the noise was," Bill laughs.

Although the Budrys have lived in Springfield just three years, Debbie is very much active in community affairs.

Credit that to a kindergarten round-up she attended last year when Jessica started school. It was there that she met Cindy Carr of the Davisburg Jaycettes.

"Cindy asked me if I wanted to get to know more people in the community," Debbie says.

The answer was yes, and in October she paid her membership fee, took the Jaycette pledge and became a member of Davisburg's 15-member chapter.

Although her job as a full-time homemaker and mother to three children keeps her busy, Debbie gives as much of her time as she can to the Jaycette's work in the community.

"It's nice, because you're only expected to do whatever you can," she says. "You can get involved in a lot of things or only a few—you're not obligated to do anything."

Once a month the Jaycettes meet to decide what their future projects are going to be. In the past Debbie has worked on a "teacher appreciation" project and a traffic safety program for local youngsters.

In the teacher appreciation project, teachers at Andersonville and Davisburg elementary schools received greetings and gifts from Jaycettes in recognition of their work with the children.

"We got some good responses from the teachers, which is nice," Debbie says. "It's good to know when you're working on a project that it's being appreciated."

Both Debbie and Bill enjoy gardening, but lately with Bill working more hours and Debbie involved in the Jaycettes, there hasn't been enough time to start the gardening project this spring.

Bill also enjoys hunting and fishing.

"I like to go up north to Atlanta (near Alpena)," Bill says. "It's nice country up there."

That reflects a shift in the family's geographical perceptions. Three years ago when the Budrys were looking for a home, the Davisburg-Springfield Township area was considered part of that loosely-defined rural portion of Michigan known as "up north".

"Now I've got to go all the way to Atlanta before I'm up north," Bill laughs.

—Al Zawacky

After living in Berkley, it took Bill and Debbie Budry a little while to get used to the peace and quiet of their new surroundings in Springfield

3 cheers for 8 cheerers

Clarkston High School's varsity cheerleaders have been named for the 1981-2 school year. Three of the girls will be seniors in the fall, four will be juniors and one, Annette Cipparone, will be a sophomore — the first sophomore ever to make the varsity cheering squad at CHS. From left are Amy Jo Frady, Kendra Kurz, Marybeth Birkmeier, Tricia Stowe, Jodi Smith, Kim Beardsley, Cindy Larkin and Annette Cipparone. Team coach is Gale Jorgenson and team manager is Melissa Savas.
