Clarkston target for pinball arcade

By Marilyn Trumper

Downtown Clarkston Village is the targeted site of a proposed pinball arcade.

Robert Warrington of Waterford Township has plans to set up shop in the lower level of the Max Brock Inc. real estate building at 29 S. Main. He came before the village council with his proposal at the Sept. 14 meeting.

The council made no decision, waiting instead for the proper permits and inspections from the building and fire departments and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

It has been 30 years since such an establishment operated in Clarkston, and village Ordinance 91 strictly regulates that operation, according to Clerk Bruce Rogers:

The ordinance says no one under 12 can be inside the facility without a parent. No one under 16 may be inside during school hours. It mandates the arcade close by midnight on weekdays and by 1 a.m. on weekends.

"The ordinance is not designed to keep out arcades, rather to control them as efficiently as possible," Rogers said after the meeting.

"You can't legally keep legitimate businesses out," he added.

But Rogers said, the council was not limited to the regulations in the ordinance and could make additions.

Such additions cannot create an undue hardship on the applicant, and can be made when the council feels the public's health, safety and welfare will be adversely affected.

Warrington has chosen the name "Arcade Alley," and says patrons will enter by the alley side door. With approval of the necessary permits and inspections, he said the business should open within 60 to 90 days.

Twenty-five brand new computer machines are expected to line the store's carpeted floors where no smoking, eating or drinking will be allowed, he said.

"I also want it known there will be no pool tables. It could better be called a video room because it's going to be filled with computer machines," Warrington said.

"Adults in Clarkston can go to the cafe, the coffee shop, the new Foxy's of the Racquet Club. What does Clarkston have for young adults? Nothing," Warrington said.

"I'm aiming this at those between 16 and 20 years, so they'll have a place to go too."

Warrington said he owns a number of computer games scattered throughout Oakland County at party and grocery stores and laundromats.

Regional police force in works

Independence Supervisor James B. Smith is involved in discussions with neighboring townships on the feasibility of establishing a regional police force, thereby ending the practice of contracting the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCS).

Representatives of Oxford, Addison and Independence Townships met Sept. 15 at the Oxford Township Hall according to the clerk there, Clara Sanderson.

Sanderson, not present at the meeting, indicated Oakland Township officials may have been in attendance and that JoAnn VanTassel, Orion Township supervisor, was invited but did not attend as she had a previous commitment.

Both the villages of Lake Orion and Oxford have their own police departments while Addison, Orion, Oxford, Oakland and Independence contract with the OCS. Independence disbanded its township police in early 1980.

Smith, currently out of town, was unable to comment on developments.

According to Independence Township Clerk Christopher Rose, the township budgeted $226,296 in 1981-82 for police, allocating $37,716 for each salary of its six full-time deputies.

The township's contract with the OCS expires March 31, and has traditionally been renewed on an annual basis.

Rose said he knew nothing of Smith's discussions with neighboring officials and said nothing has been presented to members of the board.

"But, I'll tell you what I told the Oxford clerk," Rose said. "This has been talked about in the past, the prospect of a regional police department. I personally look at it favorably."

Board tallies part of 1981 tax rate

Still waiting on the sewer and county tax rates, Independence Township has some of its figures calculated for property owners' 1981 tax rates.

The Headlee rollback factor reduces the millage in order to increase revenue only by the amount the consumer price index increases. With this calculation, the following millages should provide the following income, says David Sherrill, township assessor.

•Fire Department—2.8534 of an authorized 3 mills, should generate $706,835.

•Safety Path—.4640 of an authorized .5 mills, should generate $109,526. Village residents do not pay the tax.

•General Fund—1.3086 of an authorized 1.41 mills, planned to generate $324,162.

•Police—.9281 of an authorized 1 mill, should generate $219,076 and does not include the village.

•Property purchase to buy 80 acres adjacent to Clintonwood Park, slated as part of a 480 acre mining operation—.2784 mill of .3 mill, should generate $68,964.

One mill equals $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

Independence unearths village's $6,475 debt

By Marilyn Trumper

Independence Township has unearthed an outstanding four-year-old bill of $6,475 owed by Clarkston for sidewalk financing. Village President Fontie ApMadoc says Clarkston doesn't have the money for the payback.

"I did not realize this was laying in the weeds," said Trustee William Vandermark when the issue was discussed at the Sept. 15 township board meeting.

In 1976, under the Whitey Tower administration, the township agreed to finance the cost of village sidewalks along the west side of M-15 to the A&P shopping center, with the village to repay the township.

The decision was based on advice from the Oakland County Community Development (CD) administrator.

Funding for the work came from federal CD block grants with the labor provided by CETA-paid employees.

Neither municipality received anything in writing from the other guaranteeing a refund, and minutes from neither the township board nor the village council meeting reflect a guarantee of payment, said township Clerk Christopher Rose.

At the Sept. 15 meeting, ApMadoc said the county community development administrator never indicated the village would be obligated to repay the township. At the time, ApMadoc was the village council trustee in charge of block grants, she said.

"(The sidewalks have) been a great thing for the village. We have no money now to repay you. If we can get down to how much money the township used, not CD or CETA money, we'll have to come to some type of agreement," she told board members.

Township Trustee Dale Stuart disagreed and thought Independence should receive full payment.

"CD money is allocated to governments based on population, excluding the village," said Stuart. "The fact is that township CD money was used to complete the village's project.

"There was a gentlemen's agreement the township be repaid. I think we ought to seek reimbursement of the money for the township."

Supervisor James B. Smith proposed the village use its future CD money for an in-kind project, and he asked board members if they would approve a 5,180-square-foot sidewalk elsewhere, which would match the length of the first sidewalk.

"I think the board feels pretty deeply an obligation exists on a good-faith basis," he said.

Board members agreed on both counts.

ApMadoc said she would contact the county to see if village block grants could be spent on township land.

STATE OF MICHIGAN MANDATES SCOLIOSIS CHECKS FOR CHILDREN

Most chiropractors are repeatedly confronted with two rather frustrating situations that are, in many instances, inexcusable, but in most cases, fortunately, not insoluble.

The first of these grows out of the common misconception, shared by all too many people who are suffering from a health problem that could be helped by a chiropractic treatment, that chiropractic is "only for old folks with bad backs."

The second is what chiropractors have come to recognize as "the last resort syndrome." In simple terms, what this means is that many patients who ultimately visit a chiropractor have literally "tried everything else first."

Finding no betterment in their situation, or improvement in the state of their health, they finally pay a visit, often in desperation, to their nearest chiropractor, or respond to the recommendation of a concerned friend who has benefited from chiropractic treatment.

While both of these attitudes are fraught with danger for the patient, the first is absolutely unforgivable when it involves a parent with a child who may be showing the initial symptoms of the onset of the health problem which is the subject of this article.

In the health care profession it is known as "scoliosis," which, in lay terms, simply means curvature of the spine. The totally unforgivable aspect of the whole situation is that a parent who either neglects or, worse yet, ignores the evidence on the onset of this problem in his child could be responsible for his child being maimed for a lifetime.

Most spinal curvature (or scoliosis) can be corrected if found in its early stages. Unfortunately, most victims of this deforming condition are not diagnosed until after the spine has taken on the characteristic "C" or "S" curve. By the time a parent, teacher, or school nurse becomes aware of the problem, the damaging physical changes have already taken place.

The problem of scoliosis was overlooked for years. But now, thanks to a greater public awareness of spinal disorders, early detection is saving many young children from the ravaging effects of spinal curvatures. The Michigan Legislature, as a matter of fact, has passed a bill that will make spinal examinations mandatory for all school age children.

Because of the critical importance of early detection of scoliosis, we will be conducting a children's scoliosis screening clinic. We strongly advise that you make an appointment for all of your children between the ages of 5 and 18 years to be examined.

The examination involved takes only fifteen minutes, and could save your child a lifetime of despair.

Main Street protection possibility

By Marilyn Trumper

Clarkston's Village Council has taken a new step to ensure a hand in monitoring the proposed widening of M-15 to five lanes south of the village.

At the Sept. 14 meeting, the council authorized its engineers to conduct a feasibility study on implementation of architect Betty-lee Francis' plan to put in curbed projections along Main Street, which would allow for the planting of trees.

The move would secure parking lanes and pedestrian right-of-ways, said Trustee Gary Symons after the meeting.

"Really the village has had this in mind as part of the overall implementation of Betty-lee's plan," Symond said. "What we plan to do is present the feasibility study and Francis' plan to BRW and say, 'This is what we have in mind. Please take this into consideration when you conduct your study.'"

BRW of Minneapolis is the firm hired by the township to study alternatives to the proposed widening of M-15.

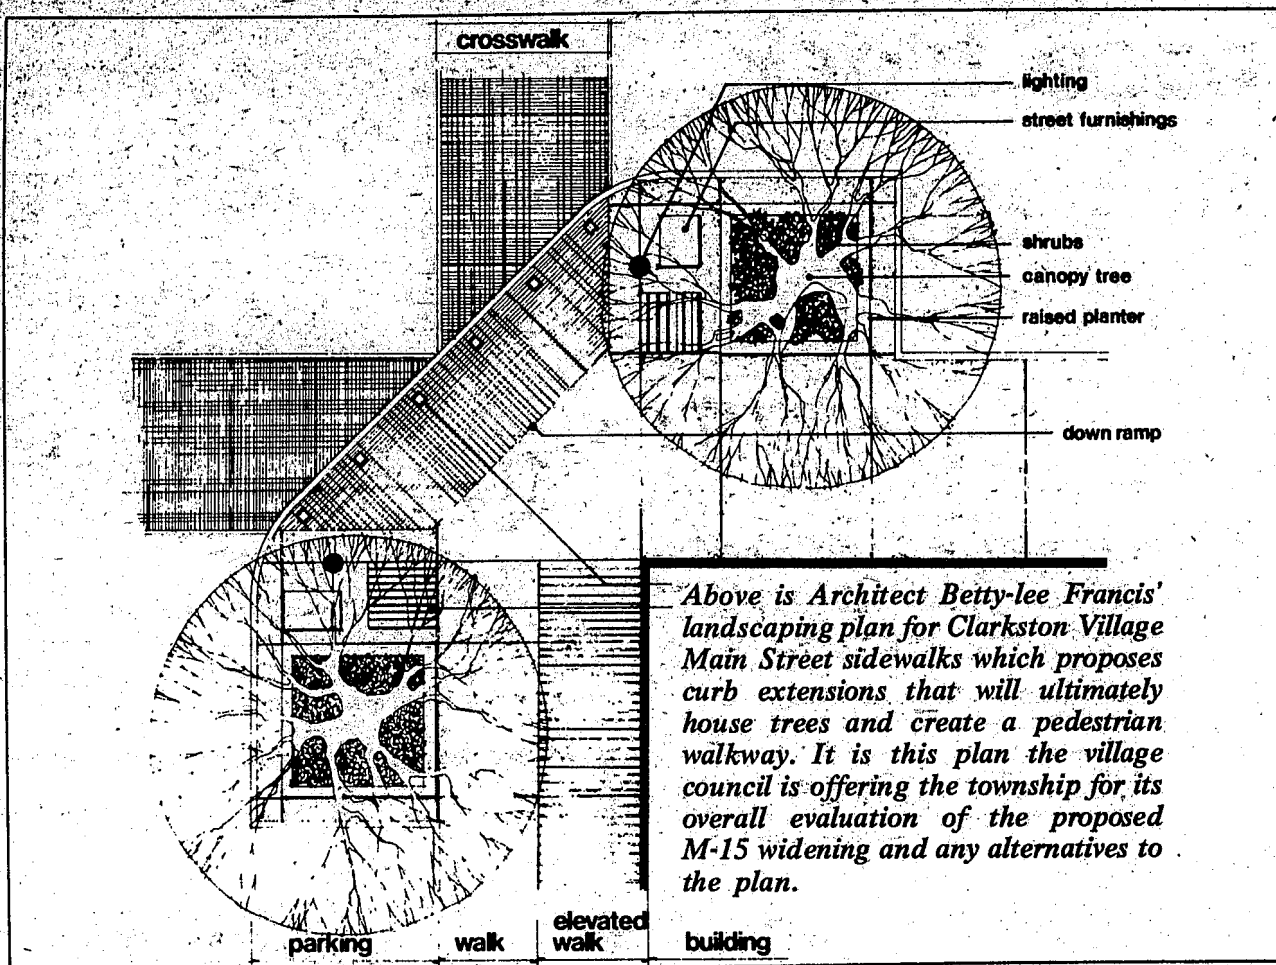

Clarkston's prime concern has rested with preservation of its historic Main Street, an integral part of Francis' plan.

The proposed curb projections, located in intersections, create an inviting atmosphere for the pedestrian and shopper, with trees acting as a buffer to off-street parking lots, Francis' study reads.

In 1979, the council hired Francis of Preservation Planning to conduct a study on Main Street business facades, ultimately outlining renovation proposals in book form.

Her final proposal offered redesigned facades that reflect the era when the buildings were constructed, and a pedestrian village geared to the needs of walking and window-shopping consumers.

In other action at the meeting, the council officially upped its share from $2,500 to $5,000 to help pay for the BRW alternative study. The village's share combines with $15,000 of township money.

The council also appointed Trustee James

Schultz to the joint township-village committee slated to work with BRW. Schultz joins Independence Township Supervisor James B. Smith and Lewis Wint, chairman of the township's M-15 Task Force.

Parents cheer as school board adds half-day K-class at Bailey

By Kathy Greenfield

Cheers and applause greeted the decision by the Clarkston schools board of education to add another half-day kindergarten session at Clarkston Elementary School and to keep the present program intact at Bailey Lake Elementary.

Over 50 people attended the special meeting Sept. 17 where the six members of the school board present unanimously approved the solution.

Under discussion was the plan presented by administrators to eliminate an afternoon kindergarten section at Bailey Lake where enrollment averaged about 19 for the four sessions and have Cindy Omans teach a kindergarten class at Bailey Lake in the morning and Clarkston Elementary in the afternoon.

"Young fives" came into the discussion and it was revealed that a developmental kindergarten class was underway at Clarkston Elementary with about 20 pupils. The class was designed to pilot some techniques for youngsters who need extra attention during their first public school experience.

The other problem discussed was if a class was eliminated at Bailey Lake, team teaching would no longer take place there in the afternoon, and young fives enrolled could not benefit from two teachers in the room.

Superintendent of schools Milford Mason defended the plan by saying the decision was based on the need to keep costs down at a time when enrollment has declined even more than the district projected.

"The decision on my part was made mostly on the standpoint that we cannot continue to offer kindergarten classes at 19 like they were at Bailey Lake," he said. "We cannot afford that any more."

But, Mason brought the meeting to a standstill when he tempered his support of the original plan.

"I submit to you that the professionals in the district, including myself, have perpetrated a well-intentioned foul-up," he said, explaining that while the district did not have an official developmental program, announcements that it did appeared in Oakland University, Rochester, publications and that during kindergarten screening it was recommended some pupils attend the class at Clarkston Elementary.

"So, I think we're guilty, because I know we have parents who believe we have a developmental program and have moved their children from one school to another because of that," he said.

Board member Carolyn Place paused, looked through her papers for notes on a motion to establish an additional kindergarten class at Clarkston Elementary that died for lack of a second at the Sept. 14 meeting and restated it.

This time, there was a second on the motion and unanimous approval to hire Clarkston Elementary kindergarten teacher Mary Ann Dedrick on a full-time basis to teach a morning and afternoon session. She taught only a morning class before.

The move is to cost the district between $9,000 and $11,000, depending on the selection of increased benefits Dedrick is entitled to because of full-time status, Mason said.

Kindergarten sections at Clarkston Elementary will average around 23 pupils and, at Bailey Lake, around 19.

After the meeting, Mason talked further about the decision to change tactics.

"In the midst of all this confusion, the only way out was to accede to the request to retain Mrs. Dedrick," he said. "On that basis, I wasn't going to make kids pay for that."

"Obviously we can't afford the continued dropping in enrollment of kindergarten classes," he added. "Suffice it to say there won't be a (developmental kindergarten) program next year, in my opinion, unless it is available across the district."

Cops call race track fire arson

Arson has been blamed for the fire that engulfed and destroyed the wooden, second-story observation and storage tower inside the racing loop at the Waterford Hills Race Track Sept. 10 according to Oakland County Sheriff's Department Fire/Arson Investigator Michael Poet.

Up to a $1,000 reward is being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for setting the blaze which caused an estimated $23,000 in damages to the building and its contents.

The investigation continues. Those with information are asked to phone the OCSD at 858-5048.

Gasoline cans were found on the building's stairs and inside the first floor, according to Waterford Hills Racing Association President Donald Burry.

"We lost our phones, our communications system, the public address system the second floor and the top of the tower," he said. "We're very, very fortunate the fire department arrived as it did. They really cut our losses."

The fire put a halt to the club's plans to resurface the track for the next racing season, he said.

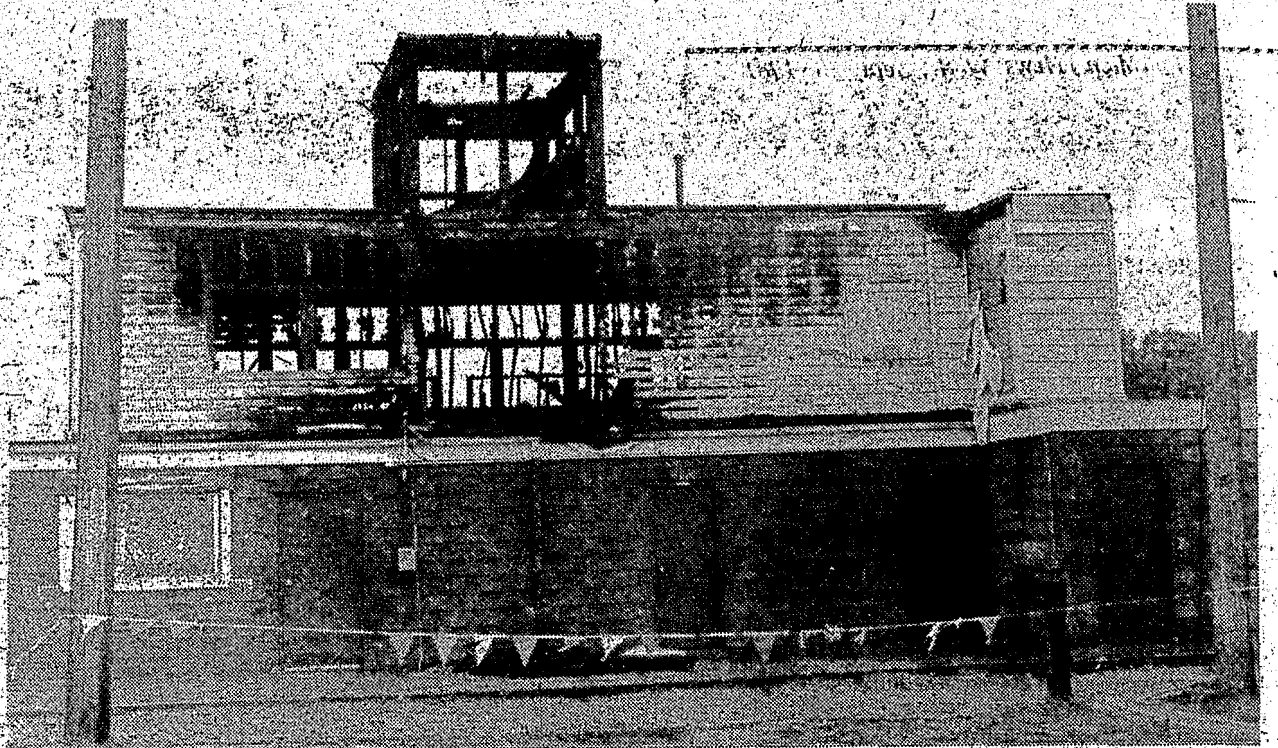

"The problem is now financing," Burry said. "We're not sure just yet how much of the cost of rebuilding the insurance will cover. Money for the resurfacing may have to go towards that."

Goodbys for mud and goo

Come spring there'll be no more mud in the front parking lot of the Independence Township Senior Citizens' Center.

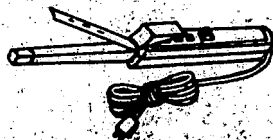

At the Sept. 15 board meeting members unanimously awarded the paving job to the low bidder, The Morrison Company of Taylor, for $11,659, to be paid for with federal Community Development funds.

"We really needed it done," said senior citizens' Coordinator Rina Chemin. "I'm hoping this will bring more seniors out here for lunch. Now they won't have to step in the mud and goo. In the spring and fall it gets pretty bad out here."

First there was an explosion, then flames leaped 20 feet into the air, says Independence Township Fire Chief Frank Ronk. Arson is suspected in the Sept. 10 fire of the Oakland County Sportsmens Club's race track tower. The matter is under investigation by the sheriff department's arson investigation squad. The final race of the season scheduled for Sept. 26 and 27 will go on as planned, promises Waterford Hills Road Racing Association President Donald Burry.

Historical society establishes fund for local history room

A room in the Independence Township Library devoted to local history is the goal of the Clarkston Community Historical Society.

"It may take us five years before we can do anything with our relatively small budget," said society President Susan Basinger. "It does mean a commitment for the future of the community by the society. We feel it would be a cultural and historical contribution to the community."

The society set aside $1,500 toward the project at its August board meeting, and plans are to add to the fund with profits from the annual Crafts and Cider Festival and from special projects like a community cookbook.

The library presently has some information and artifacts on local history, but there's a need for a larger area to house materials, she said.

"We're beginning to collect a growing number of artifacts," she said. "We can see in the next few years, it's going to be imperative—the library has limited space."

The exact specifications of the room have not been established, Basinger said, because the library could change between now and when enough money has been collected.

Plans are to use the room for workshops, meetings and other historically related activities, as well as having information available for community members.

Other historical societies maintain museums in their communities, but a local history room in the library seems to be the most appropriate solution here, Basinger said.

"We felt this was a better alternative, because it will get more use," she said. "It will not just be a stuffy archives situation, but a functioning part of the library."

The society is looking for more persons interested in joining the group. The $10 annual fee includes a copy of the "Heritage" hardcover book published by the society in honor of the United States' bicentennial celebration in 1976. Members receive a newsletter every other month and have opportunities to attend workshops sponsored by the society.

Those wishing to join may write the Clarkston Historical Society, P.O. Box 261, Clarkston, MI 48016, or call Nancy Haven at 625-3807.

Selling bittersweet is OK, but stealing is not

Bittersweet is not illegal to pick—only illegal to steal—per Michigan Law No. 182 of 1972, May 22.

The act reads: "No person shall cut, remove or transport, without having in possession a bill of sale from the owner, in form prescribed by and available from the department of agriculture, any Christmas trees, evergreen boughs or other trees, shrubs or vines or any of the following plants: Trailing arbutus, bird's foot violet, climbing bittersweet, club mosses, flowering dogwood, all Michigan holly, North American lotus, pipsissewa, and all native orchids, trilliums and gentians."

Herein lies the facts. I own the land that my climbing bittersweet grows on. I pick it. I sell it.

It grows over my front and back porch. It is well fed, watered and protected from early and late frosts.

It is domesticated. It is beautiful—not scrawny like the other.

My bittersweet is the non-shedding kind (Celastrus scandens). Flowers and fruits are in terminal clusters; leaves are finely toothed and pointed. Mine is the kind native to Michigan when the Indians were here. Climbing bittersweet has a special place in the Indian culture—as told to me by a representative of the Mohawk reservation in New York, who was going to school at St. Mary's Seminary in Orchard Lake.

The bittersweet so prevalent around Clarkston is the Asiatic Bittersweet (Celastrus orbiculatus) that flowers and fruits in auxiliary clusters; leaves are bluntly toothed, nearly round. This kind is much smaller than mine and sheds the coverings of the berries.

The Michigan Agriculture Department will not let me sell my plants, but the Oriental bittersweet is available at plant stores.

It is not true that a special male plant and another special female plant are needed to produce berries, but two of the plants, nearby, do increase the production of both plants.

You see, one plant's flowers like the pollen from the other plant, and vice versa.

My main vine is over 30 years old, but did not produce very much until I got it a friend. Now the two big vines are so happy that they grow and grow, producing bigger and bigger crops of brilliantly colored scarlet and orange clusters on long, sturdy stems to arrange in fall bouquets.

The price of Indian bittersweet is like all other prices of scarce but beautiful, lasting products. Gasoline does not sell for Depression Time prices in 1981, and neither is bittersweet available in the wild like buffalo once were.

The law of 1962 was written to protect a native beauty. I am tired of being told "it's illegal for you to pick bittersweet."

Coffee brews dangerous practice

by Kathy Greenfield

The culprit could have been the coffee pot.

The brew is ready about one-half hour before all Clarkston schools board of education meetings, so members can visit the coffee room and relax a bit before meetings.

They can talk about the weather, ask questions of each other or administrators if they wish and discuss items that they may have received telephone calls about.

It's a dangerous practice.

Last week, there was a special board of education meeting to decide on how to best deal with kindergarten enrollment—whether to share a teacher between two buildings or expand another teacher's hours from half to full time.

Many parents were concerned about the outcome of the meeting. There were phone calls to board members and tension was the watchword.

So, it surprised me when I got to the meeting only minutes before it was scheduled to begin and board members were not in their usual places behind the table in the front of the room.

There was a crowd of over 50 people and it differed considerably from the usual group at board meetings—parents far outnumbered those employed by the district and young children were scattered throughout.

I decided to see if I could find out where the board members were. Down a darkened hallway, there was light coming through an open doorway. There were voices. There was the school board.

When I walked into the room, it appeared that the kindergarten issue was under discussion. An administrator holding a file was reading from material inside.

Someone asked what time it was. A watch was consulted. Someone said it was time to begin the meeting and they dispersed. A few minutes later, the meeting was underway.

Later, I talked with two school board members about what had appeared to be a violation of the Michigan Open Meetings Act which requires meetings of public bodies to be open to the public.

Meeting, according to the law, means the convening of a public body at which a quorum is present for the purpose of deliberating toward or rendering a decision on public policy.

I was told the event I witnessed had just happened and that it wasn't planned in advance. Someone had asked a question and it was being answered. One member said she had arrived at the kaffeeklatch only minutes before I did. Another said she did not even remember the question.

The coffee routine has apparently gone on for years—it's kind of a tradition. Most of the time, if items on the agenda are talked out, it's done in small groups without a quorum participating.

I was also told there have been times when the door was shut, but someone reached over and opened it. And, once someone announced to the crowd the desire to become president of the board.

A broken clock was the reason, one said, the board members weren't in their usual places when last week's meeting was scheduled to begin.

My feeling is that if the board is in the habit of gathering for coffee before meetings and if there is something going on that is surrounded by controversy, it is bound to be discussed.

But, according to law, it cannot be. The people who elected the school officials have the right to know how decisions are reached and to listen to and read about the deliberations.

That's why I'm making a recommendation: The coffee should be brewed for sipping 10 minutes before the meeting is to begin and not sooner.

Jim's jottings

Some introspection...

by Jim Sherman

We haven't probed our minds with self-questioning in a time, so how about right now? Hey, innerman, what did you think of the fight?

What fight? Naw, I shouldn't say that. We were exposed to the hype job. We even read some stuff about it. Friends Gene and Jean Sura who summer at Sugar Loaf where Thomas Hearns practiced, said the fight's entourage were gentle, kind and considerate. We've read the same of Ray Leonard. And, after the fight we wondered who won.

However, except when we get swayed by publicity, we put the professional fighters in the category with professional wrestlers. The fighters just have better public relations people.

Sometimes I think you're off balance. Why don't you admit to liking the Detroit Tigers and wanting them to win?

You caught me off base. I think I'm scared to admit liking them. I always get in trouble betting with my heart instead of my head, and that's the way it is with the Tigers.

One could get carried away with their mid-Sept. first place standings, and forget they are a 4th or 5th place team. We really hope they win the second season, but we should be happy if they finish third.

Enough sports. What have you to say about the economy, Pres. Reagan's supply side economics, and too high interest rates?

I heard a government report the other day that July was the worst month for inventory supply since the recession last year. Saturday's news was the country may be heading for its 8th recession since WWII.

Where have they been? The recession started in Michigan in March, 1979 and hasn't slowed.

In the last year we've been expecting to see the first pin hole of light at the end of the tunnel 29 days out of 30. Come the 30th and nothing's changed.

Figures are grey if not red for the small businessman in southeast Michigan. Inflation is up, sales are down, orders are off, stock market is bad, interest rates climb, etc.

There'll be a 10-day auto sales jump, an optimistic report on shopper confidence, and passage of the president's tax cut package.

Then the president suggests tax increases, spending cuts to social security, building starts are reported off further, and utility rates are on the rise again.

Now you've got me started on the economy and no more space. Ask me again next week.

Faces behind the scene

John Hyde has 35 years of experience to call upon as he whittles away, creating wood carvings for sale at the Crafts and Cider Festival.

Artistic talent and time transform lifeless blocks of wood into life-like ducks. Greg Hyde shows how with the help of his sanding bow.

Susan Honkanen practices the time-honored skill of spinning wool into yarn. The wool has already been washed and brushed to make the hairs all go in the same direction, and the spinning process twists the hairs together to form the thread needed to make the array of hats, scarfs and garments she has on display at the Crafts and Cider Festival.

'If it Fitz...

Sitting it out ... again

by Jim Fitzgerald

Several people have asked whether I will compete again this year in the Detroit Free Press International Marathon. Yes. I will be in the starting position when the race begins the morning of Oct. 11 and, barring injury, I plan to still be sitting when the last runner crosses the finish line, no matter how long it takes. Under no circumstances will I be a man in motion.

Admittedly, my sitting will not be international. I will do it all in the United States, while the runners begin in Canada and pass through the tunnel to finish in the U.S. An international sit simply isn't practical. I suppose I could sit astraddle the border separating the two nations, in the middle of the tunnel, but that would make me a sitting target for any Baptist minister with a gun who might mistake me for a lazy mugger.

That's a cheap shot. I know the dozen or so Baptist ministers recently arrested for carrying pistols from the U.S. into Canada are good Christians and were armed only to defend themselves against unfair attempts to convert their cash into alms. But it is slightly dismaying to realize that, as a certified anti-gun nut, I may be violating the freedom of religion.

Anyway, while my sitting may be domestic, it will be decisive. Lately, while sitting and watching football on TV, I've noticed that running has become indecisive. I am referring to the new motion now being made by the man in motion.

I never did understand that particular football ploy, even in its original form. The football team lines up on offense, ready for the snap of the ball, but first the halfback lined up on the far right side of the field runs all the way across to the left side, or vice versa, while everybody else waits for him to get where he's going. What's the sense in that? If he wants to begin the play from the left side, why doesn't he line up there in the first place?

This season there is a new twist that's really silly. Before the play begins, the man in motion runs halfway across the field and then stops, turns around, goes back where he started.

What would you think if, during a baseball game, before each pitch, the first basemen stood at third base for a few seconds, and then held up play while he jogged over to first base, or went halfway and turned around at the pitcher's mound and went back to third? You'd think he'd spend the previous day getting hit in the head with a batted ball.

Football fans say the man in motion is a stealthy maneuver used to confuse the defense. That's a hoot. The man in motion doesn't sneak. He doesn't even run fast. Not only the defending players assigned to guard the man in motion, but also everyone else in the stadium can plainly see what he's doing because he's the only one doing anything. Also, an announcer often announces that there is a man in motion and reveals his identity. That is as stealthy as a pickpocket wearing boxing gloves.

I suspect the real reason for the useless and indecisive running of the man in motion is the coaching. On a recent evening I watched a high school football game between Cardinal Mooney and Brother Rice. I was there to investigate a rumor that Rice was really the Cardinal's stepbrother and to give Catholics equal time in the cheap-shot department.

I counted at least eight coaches for each team, and that was only a high school game. There must be even more coaches in the professional league, where the man in motion runs most rampant, and that's probably why. With only 11 players on a team, it can't be easy to find something for all the coaches to do, so it's not surprising that some of them would be assigned to teach young men how to run from one side of the field to the other before the play begins, and, after considerable seasoning, how to stop halfway and return to their original position without falling asleep.

Because of his indecisiveness, the man in motion may well be as useless as the marathon runner. At least, that's how it looks from where I sit.

Independence Township Fire Department has responded to 618 calls to date.

Firefighters file for mediation

After working nine months without a contract Independence Township firefighters have filed for mediation in contract negotiations.

Contract language is blamed for the stalemate.

"I don't know how much longer this is going to go on," said Gar Wilson, one of the negotiators for the eight-member International Association of Fire Fighters, Local 2629.

"We're hoping it will be soon. Mediation is not binding, it's just an agreement. If we can't agree there, the next step is arbitration, and that's binding," he said.

If the binding arbitration plateau is reached differences will be settled quickly, Wilson said. For there, an arbitrator picks one side or the other and contract talks end, he added.

Township Clerk Christopher Rose would not offer specifics on why the parties were divided, but did say very few of the 40 or so issues that were points of contention a month ago are causing problems now.

Firefighters and Independence Township union negotiators have been meeting since Jan. 29. The firefighters' three-year contract expired March 31.

Sashabaw Corridor topic of hearing

For the first time since its last revamping in 1975 the Independence Township land use plan is up for review with the "Sashabaw Corridor" targeted for study.

Within the past year the township planning commission has approved several rezoning and new land use requests in the corridor area south of I-75 to the township line. The moves revealed a new trend in development unforeseen in the master plan, which prompted a study of the area by planning consultant Tod Kilroy.

Kilroy's recommended changes are slated for discussion at a public hearing Oct. 22 at 7:30 p.m.,

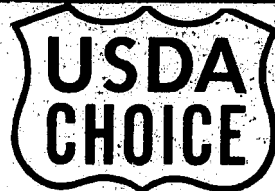

Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

The hearing pertains only to potential changes in the land use plan, Kilroy stresses. The plan is a proposal on how development should occur. It does not constitute immediate changes in zoning.

In his study made to commission members last December, Kilroy proposed the elimination of some single family housing and the addition of multiple and cluster housing.

He also proposed office zoning for the elimination of some light industrial use and the elimination of 20 acres planned for community commercial development.

County calls meeting on proposed deadend

By Marilyn Trumper

After four years of pleading and prodding from Parview Road residents to do something about the street's high speed, high volume traffic and vandalism from passing motorists, the Oakland County Road Commission has called a public meeting.

It's offering alternatives to residents' demands that the road be closed off halfway between Dixie Highway and Andersonville Road at the meeting scheduled Wednesday, Oct. 7, at 7:30 p.m. At Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Scott Robeson spearheaded the campaign to dead-end Parview at the intersection of Balmoral Terrace, near the Independence-Waterford township line.

He proposes a break-away barrier in the event emergency vehicles need use of the well-traversed through-street.

The county says if a deadend is the solution, a cul-de-sac would be required to allow vehicles to run around. The cost of such a project would be born by residents, says Gerald M. Holmberg, director of traffic-safety department for the Oakland County Road Commission.

"A deadend, the so-called break-away barrier, would be a problem to whomever lives near the barrier," Holmberg said. "I'd sure hate to be the guy who has people turning around in my driveway."

In its 15-page analysis, the county outlined six alternatives to solve the Parview Road traffic problem, with the first aimed at Robeson's proposed halfway deadend at Balmoral Terrace.

"I don't see why we have to pay for a cul-de-sac," Robeson said of the alternative.

The county's second and third alternatives would prohibit a left or right hand turn at Andersonville and Dixie Highway, and the posting of "No Thru Traffic" signs.

The county in its report said such alternatives would have "low compliance by through traffic."

Robeson laughs.

"C'mon. Now how are they going to enforce that?" he said. "We're not going to have an Oakland County Sheriff's Department deputy sitting there to ensure those laws are obeyed. They run the stop sign now."

The county's fourth and fifth alternatives, to change Parview to a one-way street either north or southbound, meet with Robeson's approval.

The sixth alternative, to do nothing, makes me really angry," Robeson said.

"After four years I've had it," he added. Turning tight-lipped he indicated the issue would be pursued until the county moved. He also said he would attend the meeting with ammunition in hand.

"I've done my homework," Robeson said.

Another Parview resident, a county employee who asked to remain anonymous, agrees with Robeson and calls excess through-traffic a major problem.

"The most vicious of it all is the malicious destruction of property to people's lawns. They (the drivers) knock down mailboxes. Practically every house on Parview has lost its mailbox or lawn. Pets have been killed. Families can't let their young children out in their front yards after 3 o'clock," he said, referring to the increased traffic of homebound commuters.

Ignoring the stop sign installed by the county at the Balmoral Terrace intersection aimed at slowing down traffic, cars continue at high speeds, or pass right through without stopping, he said.

Deputies have clocked speeders there at 65 mph, in a 25 mph zone, he added, and speed bumps are out, for snowplows can't get through in the winter.

Holmberg, at the county, has no handle on the number of residents gearing up to attend the Oct. 7 meeting.

"We encourage all of them to attend," he said. "But we want to stress we don't plan to make a decision that night."

Oakland County Parks and Rec offers autumn bus tours

Autumn's brilliant colors are just around the corner, and the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission is providing bus tours this fall to help persons enjoy the display.

Bus trips will be offered to groups from Oct. 2 through 25 with selected tours including northeast and northwest Oakland County. The cost is $75 per 44-passenger bus, which includes a driver.

On the northeast route, travelers can select from stops at Independence Oaks and Orion Oaks county parks, Keatington Village, Addison Oaks and Paint Creek Cider Mill.

The northwest tour consists of stops at Independence Oaks, Groveland Oaks, Springfield Oaks, the Davisburg Candle Factory and Diehl's Cider Mill.

The tours emphasize visits to the Oakland County parks, but itineraries can be adapted to fit the needs of each group, says Dan Stencil, Oakland County Parks recreation supervisor.

"Basically, the tours are designed to get people outside. We also want to provide a program for groups and senior citizens to see the fall colors and enjoy nature at its finest."

All color tour requests should be made in writing and include a desired itinerary. Groups should bring their own lunches.

To register, send requests to Dan Stencil, Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission, 2800 Watkins Lake Rd., Pontiac, Mich. 48054. More information can be obtained by calling 858-0915.

Obituary

E. Margaret Sutherby

Memorial service for E. Margaret Sutherby of Springfield Township is to be held Thursday, Sept. 24, at 1 p.m. at Goyette Funeral Home, Clarkston, with the Rev. Dave Davenport officiating.

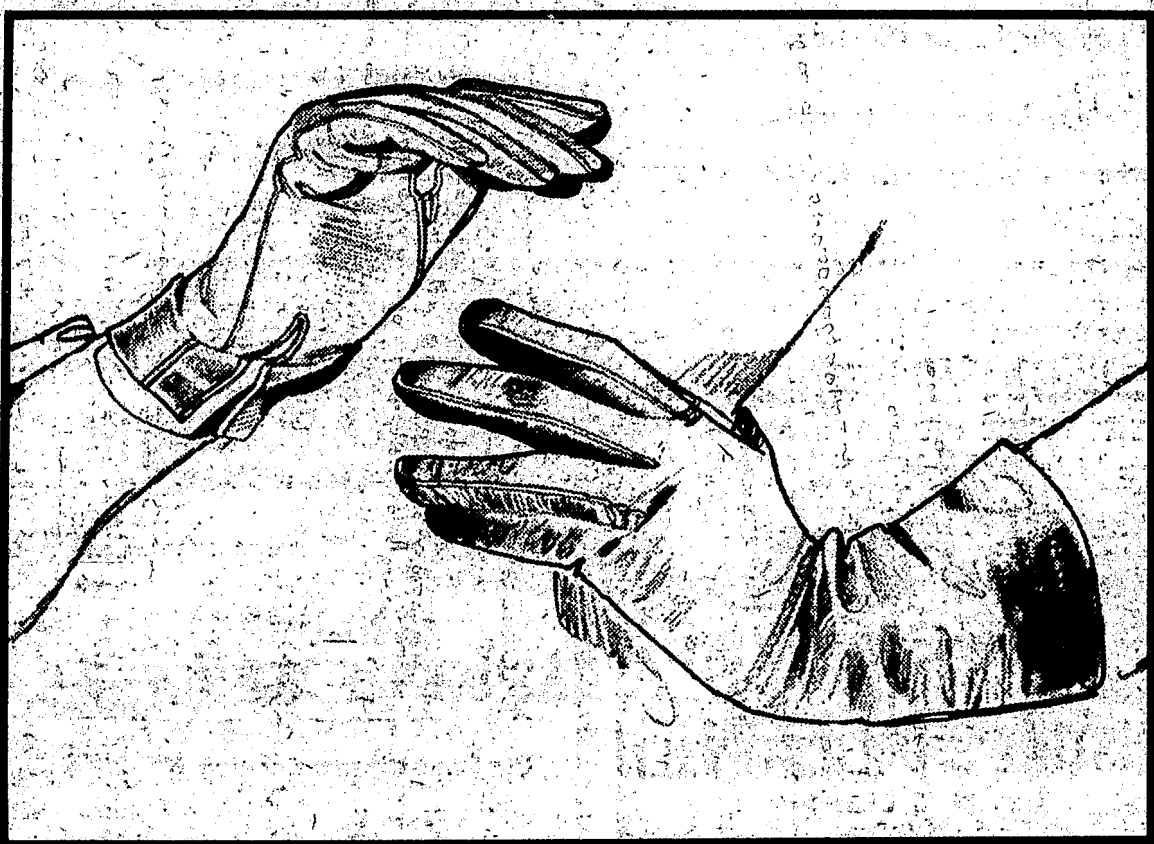

Mrs. Sutherby, 75, died Sept. 20. She was a registered nurse, retired from Pontiac General Hospital. She was a member of the Mt. Bethel Methodist Church and the Farm Bureau and Royal Neighbors.

She is survived by her husband, Melvin; children, Mrs. Robert (Margaret) Bloom of Clarkston, Louis John Holser of Clarkston, and Mrs. Lavern (Joan) Body of Millington; and six grandchildren.

Also surviving are her brothers, C.J. Swartz of Fort Myers, Fla., and Dan Swartz of Broken Arrow, Okla.

Following the service, burial is to take place at the Waterford Center Cemetery.

The family suggests memorial tributes to Mt. Bethel Methodist Church.

Wolves blow chances, lose 15-6

Opportunities slip away as 'lucky' Lahser spoils home opener

By Al Zawacky

The Wolves had their chances. Enough to turn Coach Walt Wyniemko's hair gray.

Time and time again in a frustrating first half, the Wolves advanced deep into enemy territory, and time and time again they failed to put so much as a point on the scoreboard.

In the second half, those missed opportunities came back to haunt them as the Bloomfield Hills Lahser Knights scored two TDs to roll to a 15-6 triumph, ruining Clarkston's 1981 home opener and first game under the new field lights at Clarkston High School.

"You beat a heck of a football team tonight," Lahser Coach Bob Kefgen said to his happy group of gridders when it was all over.

An assist from lady luck didn't hurt.

"We were lucky," Kefgen admitted later. "They outplayed us in the first half and had a bunch of opportunities to score. But our defense did a heck of a job."

Those missed chances. Several times in the first half, the Wolves drove all the way to the Lahser 10 but never had a thing to show for it.

Afterwards, Wyniemko seemed as puzzled as anyone at his team's failure to deliver the knock-out punch in the first two quarters that could have turned the game into a Clarkston rout.

"We had opportunities..." he began.

"But Clarkston football doesn't make excuses. We played a good football team tonight. We played our best 11, they played their best 11 and they beat us."

After being stymied by the Wolves' defense in the first half, the Knights started rolling at the start of the third quarter. Brian Munson capped a 67-yard drive by diving in from the two, and Dave Dauch sliced into the endzone on the next play for the PAT and an 8-0 Lahser lead.

The Wolves bounced back, however, cutting the margin to 8-6 on a six-yard pass from quarterback Mike Stefanski to Dave Fulcher, but the two-point attempt fell just short of the Knights' goal line.

Lahser put the game away in the fourth quarter on a pass good for 16 yards from Knights' quarterback Jeff Davis to Tim Hayes. John Ankrapp kicked the extra point, and Lahser was home free.

Next Friday will mark the beginning of the five-week Greater Oakland Activities League battle, and if there was any bright side at all to the loss against Lahser it was that the contest was a non-league game.

"We're looking to the GOAL championship," Wyniemko said. "We're intent on winning our league."

The Wolves of CHS will bring their 1-1 record in non-conference play to Rochester Friday to open the GOAL campaign. Rochester, having lost to Southfield Lathrup and Avondale, is 0-2.

The Clarkston defense halts another Lahser drive in the first half of Friday's varsity football home opener. The Knights were limited to just two first downs in the first two quarters of the game.

Punt, pass, kick contest Sept. 26

The Clarkston Jaycees are looking for aspiring gridiron heros.

On Sept. 26 at 11 a.m., the Jaycees and Coach's Corner will sponsor their second annual punt, pass and kick competition for all boys and girls ages 8-13.

The contest will be held at Clarkston Junior High, and applications will be available at the field the day of the event.

Applications are also available in advance at Coach's Corner, 12 S. Main, Clarkston; and Country Value Hardware, 5797 M-15, Independence Township.

Odds Are . . .

by Al Zawacky

Clarkston at Rochester (Sept. 25): Not too long ago, the Wolves could have labeled this game "guaranteed win night." What a difference a few weeks makes.

Still, even though Clarkston is struggling, there just isn't enough talent on the Falcon roster to win this one. There's no reason to believe the Rochester offense will be able to move the ball with any consistency against the Wolves defense, which means Clarkston won't need too much in the way of scoring to put this one away.

The Wolves will start their GOAL campaign on the right foot. Clarkston by five.

Kettering at West Bloomfield (Sept. 25): There's no lack of good reasons to pick West Bloomfield here. Point one: home-field advantage. Point two: The Lakers have the better defense, and defense wins ball games.

Nevertheless, Coach Mel Patterson is sitting on an offensive time bomb out in Waterford, and if he can get the wrinkles out of the attack, the Lakers will fold. Kettering by three.

Lake Orion at Waterford Mott (Sept. 25): Everyone said nice things about Lake Orion in the pre-season. The most improved team in the GOAL would be the Dragons, people were saying.

There hasn't been much evidence of that improvement record-wise so far in the season, but Lake Orion has turned in two credible performances against Adams and Dondero.

Mott hasn't won either, but like the Dragons the Corsairs have had their moments, not the least of which was tallying over 30 points against Township.

Flip a coin—this is anybody's ball game. Lake Orion by one.

Late heroics net 1st JV win

By Al Zawacky

The JV Wolves are back to their winning ways.

After opening the season with a ho-hum tie against Swartz Creek, the Clarkston High School junior varsity football team edged Bloomfield Hills Lahser last week 7-6.

"They (Lahser) were bigger than us," Wolves' Coach Gordie Richardson said. "But, even though we had a lot of kids going both ways, we seemed to be holding up better at the end. I think we may have been in better condition than they were."

The Wolves trailed 6-0 at the half and needed a burst of late heroics in the fourth quarter to pull out the victory. Dave Newblatt scored on a six-yard run with just 1:53 remaining in the game to knot the score at 6-6, setting the stage for Mike Harbaugh's extra point kick that proved to be the difference.

"We had a long talk with the team this week about our goals, and what it takes to be a good team," Richardson said. "Hard work is going to bring about greater success, and we had kids out there who just weren't going to let up."

"We never quit. It was a great team effort."

With the tie against Swartz Creek and win over Lahser in non-league action, the Wolves will now begin their stint in the Greater Oakland Activities League, beginning Thursday at home against Rochester.

"We're looking forward to the challenge to repeat," Richardson said.

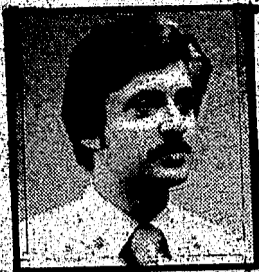

Over the past three years, the Clarkston JVs have won three straight GOAL titles, all on the strength of an undefeated league record. Unlike previous seasons however, Clarkston will play four instead of five GOAL contests this year as a result of Waterford Kettering's failure to field a JV football team this fall.

Lights work— but PA doesn't

Yes, there was supposed to be a dedication ceremony for the new field lights during halftime of Clarkston's varsity football home opener Friday evening.

But—although the new lights worked perfectly, the same could not be said of the field's public address system, which mysteriously went dead at the half.

As a result, the dedication ceremony recognizing the individuals and businesses who helped complete the lighting project has been rescheduled for halftime at Clarkston High School's homecoming Oct. 2, when the Wolves will square off against West Bloomfield.

Bowl blizzard? Perish the thought

Thoughts between sips of coffee and bites of doughnut...

It grieves me to say it, but I like Ohio State for the Big Ten title.

Krueger's Cougars are for real. But don't write off the Wolverines in the November rematch.

I really like Swartz Creek's football uniforms. Red and white with that "SC" logo on the helmet...sharp. Now all they need is some football players. I'll bet the Tigers choke.

Prediction: Look for great seasons from the Clarkston High School volleyball and wrestling teams this winter.

The Pistons should tell Kelly Tripuka to go fly a kite. Anybody native to a dump like New Jersey has a lot of nerve taking cheap shots at the Detroit area.

What was all this talk about the new field lights illuminating the parking lot as bright as the old lights used to light up the field? I don't recall Sheldon, Krause, Hughes and the rest playing by candlelight last year.

Don Murdoch will score 30 goals for the Red Wings this year. You watch. But it won't be enough to salvage the season and put the Wings in the playoffs.

Bite my tongue, but I envision a massive Michigan blizzard on Super Sunday next January.

Frankly, I relish the thought of all those Sun Belt snobs having to plod through a couple of inches of slush and salt.

Gary Nustad is going to miss Scott McKoin.

But don't denigrate the Wolfpack's title chances. In the MOAL, all things are possible.

I still can't envision the Kettering Captains finishing anyplace but first in the GOAL varsity football race. So shoot me.

Michigan State better show something before the end of the season, or Muddy Waters may be treading on thin ice.

They're already talking about a Hearn-Leonard rematch. If it ever comes off, the Hit Man will win. Of course, I said he'd win last week, too, so take that with a grain of salt.

While we're on the subject, there's a word for anybody who would pay $25 to watch television in the Silverdome—even the Hearn-Leonard fight. The word is "sap."

A real shame the Pistons aren't playing on the Detroit riverfront this winter. Basketball in the Pontiac bubble makes about as much sense as ice hockey in Tiger Stadium.

I'm not the least bit surprised by Kirk Gibson's play of late. The guy is an awesome athlete.

Canada Cup verdict: The Canadians are overpaid, underworked and out of shape. I can't imagine them ever beating the Russians for the cup again.

I don't care what anybody says. I like John McEnroe.

Someday, before I die, I'd like to skate on the ice at the Montreal Forum.

After two weeks of varsity football, the Greater Oakland Activities League is 3-9 against non-league opponents. I have no comment.

There is no earthly way the Wolves can lose to Rochester Friday night. Remember, you read it here first.

Wish I'd been able to see that Township-Mott game a few weeks back. What a football game—39-38 in overtime.

Dale Kutchey must have been beside himself. When you score 38 points and lose...

I've got to start cutting down on these doughnuts. Starting tomorrow.

Cougars crush Crary, 12-2

The Sashabaw Junior High football team is settling some old accounts this year.

Fresh from their first victory over cross-district rival Clarkston Junior High Sept. 10, the Sashabaw Cougars went on from there to correct another oversight by posting their first win over a Waterford school in six years.

It was on a muddy field outside Waterford Mott High School that the Cougars bested nemesis Waterford Crary last week, 12-2.

Still, Cougar Coach Chris Krueger maintained his we-have-a-long-way-to-go attitude afterwards.

"Our offensive line's blocking is improving, but we still are making a lot of silly mistakes that are causing penalties," he said.

"Our defensive line played a good game, but we need to work on our pass rush."

Sashabaw scored its first touchdown on a 23-yard run by Doug Colling in the second quarter. The 6-0 lead doubled to 12-0 on a four-yard run by Colling in the third quarter.

Crary got on the scoreboard with less than four minutes to go in the game on a safety to make the final tally 12-2.

Wolverines blank Orion East

The Clarkston Junior High football squad is back in the win column.

Bouncing back from a loss to Sashabaw Junior High Sept. 10, the Clarkston Wolverines blanked Lake Orion East 12-0 last week to square their season record at 1-1.

Mark Bundridge scored both Clarkston touchdowns, one on a 20-yard run in the third quarter and the other on a three-yard dive in the fourth.

A screen pass good for 30 yards from quarterback Mike Galley to Dean O'Neil set the stage for the Wolverine's first TD, while an interception of a Lake Orion aerial by Dave Ragatz led to the second Clarkston score.

Clay Thorn and Shawn McCarty led Clarkston in tackles.

"We're pleased with the win," said CJH Coach John Craven. "The whole defense looked a heck of a lot better. The offense was still spotty, but we put the points on the board."

Bundridge led the Wolverines' rushing attack with 125 yards in 13 carries. Galley was eight for 13 through the air for a total of 67 yards.

Cagers undefeated; rip West Bloomfield

By Al Zawacky

The outcome was never in doubt.

Led by a balanced scoring attack paced by Janet Zografos' 16 points, the Clarkston Wolves dominated league rival West Bloomfield from the opening tipoff to the final buzzer Thursday, cruising to a 60-48 victory.

"West Bloomfield is not that bad a team," said

Clarkston High School girls' varsity basketball coach Dave McDonald. "We just got on them on our home court—we run, we press—we're really looking good."

The win gave the Wolves a 3-0 overall record this season and 1-0 mark in the Greater Oakland Activities League. Prior to the West Bloomfield game Clarkston played and won a non-league game against Rochester Adams, 54-36.

Tracee Antos led the scoring against Adams with 16 points. teammate Annette Ulasich had 14 points, and Lanette Whitehead contributed game-high 15 rebounds.

Antos had 14 points and Ulasich had 11 along with 15 rebounds in the Wolves win over West Bloomfield.

Harriers take first in Romeo-Brandon meet

A loss by the boys' team to Waterford Kettering was the lone setback for the Clarkston High School cross country teams last week.

Two days after the Kettering meet, both the Clarkston boys' and girls' squads sprinted to a first-place finish in a triangular meet with Romeo and Brandon.

Although Clarkston bowed 25-30 to Kettering, over half the Clarkston boys posted personal best times. Paul Burch took second in the race with a time of 16:24, but Kettering's premier runner P.J. Osika took the top spot at 16:03.

John McInnis took fourth place over all with a time of 17:10 and Jim Locher was sixth at 17:37.

Kettering isn't fielding a girls' cross country team this fall, so Thursday's triangular victory was the first action of the week for the CHS girls.

The Clarkston win was paced by Sheri Rowland's first-place time of 19:40, a mark that set a new CHS record, besting the previous record of 19:42 set by Kathy Falls in 1979.

Pam Stoecklin finished third with a personal best time of 21:05; Chris O'Rourke was fifth at 21:29; Aileen Collins was sixth at 21:48; and Traci Sherman was eighth with a personal best time of 22:35.

The victory in the triangular left the Clarkston girls' squad still undefeated this season.

The boys also bested Romeo and Brandon in the triangular to rebound from their loss to Kettering.

Burch and McInnis placed third and fourth respectively with times of 17:05 and 17:07. Also scoring for Clarkston were Ty Patton, Gil Delgado and Steve Coleman, who ran a personal best time of 17:57.

Golf squad off to 2-1 start

By Al Zawacky

Coach Jim Chamberlain was perusing his stat book at Spring Lake Country Club.

With three matches by the board in the 1981 season, Chamberlain's Clarkston High School boys' golf squad held a respectable 2-1 record.

Dan Gaulin's face is the picture of concentration as he works on his putting on the practice green at Spring Lake.

But the coach wasn't quite totally pleased.

"The one score that beat us (Rochester's 167), we'd beaten in practice several times," he said. "Our goal as a team is to shoot 160 in every match—if we can do that, we're going to win more than we lose."

Clarkston's other two matches were a 182-188 win over Milford and a 176-178 triumph over Lake Orion. Senior Enzo Duva and junior Dave Huttenlocher have been Chamberlain's two most consistent players to date, scoring in all three of the team's matches.

Seniors Dan Gaulin and Mark Piazza, are also two prominent figures in Clarkston's 1981 fortunes, and junior John Klockow seems a sure prospect to also play varsity this year. Also vying for spots are seniors Scott Harbaugh, Dave Hunter, Rich Mullane and Eric Tiahart; and juniors Neal Parker and Mike Suran.

"We started out with about 35 kids," Chamberlain said. "I still haven't made the final cuts."

As far as the Greater Oakland Activities League is concerned, Chamberlain foresees some tough competition ahead.

"We've got (Waterford) Mott in the league now, and the Waterford schools are usually strong," he said. "West Bloomfield isn't supposed to be as strong as they've been in the past, but I'd imagine they'll be tough."

Target: Ending duplication of school, rec class

By Marilyn Trumper

There'll be no more photography, mime, banjo, guitar or organ lessons, investment or Christmas craft classes offered by the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department as Clerk Christopher Rose moves in to cut out classes also offered by Clarkston school's new community education program.

At the Sept. 15 meeting, board members voted unanimously to eliminate duplications and authorized the clerk to meet with the school and work out an agreement.

The move may, or may not happen until January 1982, pointed out Supervisor James B. Smith.

"The motion was worded to eliminate a duplication of classes, but the board basically gave me carte blanche to decide on what's a duplication," Rose said, following the meeting.

"I'll get rid of what I wouldn't call recreational type classes," he said, reciting those listed above, and adding that there could be more.

For the first time in its history, Clarkston schools are offering a community education program, Rose said.

"The schools are moving full steam ahead with their program. They are going to have one. If we offer a class they're offering, their program will be that much less, and vice-versa," Rose said. "But if we don't offer it at all—they will."

The schools also have the educators and the facilities to teach the classes, unlike the township which hires the school's teachers and uses school buildings, he said.

"The point is, why should we offer the same kinds of classes the school is. In the past we've always tried not to duplicate. That's been the rule.

"This board is concerned with the schools. Maybe this will get their program going," Rose said.

He also indicated parks and recreation would continue to offer classes which dealt primarily with "recreation," as he termed it, like baseball, racquetball, exercise classes, tennis clinics, slimnastics and possibly figure skating.

The township's cut in revenue following the loss of the classes would be a "net loss," Rose said. "Which means not a lot."

After the meeting, Timothy Doyle, director of Parks and Recreation, said he too sees a need for discussion with the schools.

"There's a need for us to get together with the schools, to sit down and talk, and give the people of this township the best possible services we can."

Figures on how much revenue the classes bring his department are not available, but Doyle did say he is "currently pulling them together."

Help for residents irked by solicitors

There's help on the way for Independence Township residents plagued by door-to-door solicitors.

New placards which read, "No Solicitors Invited" or "Only Solicitors Registered with Independence Township" are soon to be available at township hall.

"I've had a number of calls from people complaining about solicitors, and these cards may be a way to help regulate that," Rose said at the Sept. 15 meeting.

Board members unanimously approved the printing of 1,000 signs at a cost of $225, to be sold at 25 cents apiece.

The signs will be weatherproof and measure three-by-four inches.

According to Rose, all solicitors are required by law to register with Independence Township.

Santa's Workshop offered Nov. 21

The Clarkston Jaycees, in cooperation with the Clarkston High School Drama Club, are hosting an all-new "Santa's Workshop" coming to the CHS cafeteria Nov. 21 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Persons wishing to participate and sell their arts and craft items at the workshop can reserve a table in the cafeteria area by mailing a donation of $10 to the Clarkston Jaycees.

Donations should be addressed to Santa's Workshop, 9980 Allen Rd., Clarkston, MI 48016. Participants should state the nature of their art or craft when mailing in their donations.

A food setup will be available in the cafeteria so that exhibitors can purchase lunch or snacks without leaving their tables.

Questions regarding "Santa's Workshop" can be directed to Barb Hamaker at 625-4041 before 6 p.m. or Bruce Shull at 625-3250 after 7 p.m.

A CONSUMER SHOPPING TIP

Confused by names given different cuts of meat? Help's on the way. The National Live Stock and Meat Board has recommended new labels to identify the kind of meat, where on the animal it comes from, and the name of the retail cut which you buy. 80 percent of the nation's supermarkets should be using these new identity standards soon. In the meanwhile, you'll just have to continue asking your butcher.

Community National Bank answers your questions about the new All-Savers Certificates

Q. What are the major terms and conditions of the All-Savers Certificate?

A. These are one-year certificates on sale from October 1, 1981 through December 31, 1982. They will require a minimum deposit no larger than $500. The interest rate is fixed at 70 per cent of the average investment yield for one-year Treasury bills, which normally changes every four weeks.

Q. What will the rate be on October 1, 1981?

A. Based on the most recent T-bill auction, the All-Savers rate on October 1, 1981 will be 12.61%. A new rate will be in effect with certificates issued beginning October 5, 1981.

Q. Is this rate of interest guaranteed?

A. Yes, unlike other investments such as money market funds, your interest rate is guaranteed for the full term of the certificate.

Q. How does the tax exemption benefit work?

A. The law authorizes a maximum lifetime exclusion from gross income for Federal income tax purposes of $1,000 ($2,000 in the case of a joint return) for interest earned by individuals on tax-exempt savings certificates. These are cumulative exemptions, covering the entire 15 month period - for example: if you earn $200 in tax-free interest in 1982, you can exempt no more than $800 during 1983, for a total of $1,000.

Q. May I convert my six-month money market certificate into an All-Savers without penalty?

A. Yes. New federal regulations allow you to switch over to the All-Savers certificate without penalty and thus take advantage of the tax savings. You may also switch from other certificates as long as the remaining time until maturity is less than one year and the All-Savers rate is less than that paid on your existing certificate.

Q. How much money should I deposit to earn the full amount of tax-exempt interest?

A. At the present rate of 12.61%, a couple can earn about $2,000 in interest by depositing $15,800. For an individual, the amount of the deposit would have to be $7,900.

Q. At what income level does the All-Savers Certificate make sense?

A. You should be above the 30-percent tax bracket, that means a taxable income of roughly $30,000 for married people and $18,200 if you're single. (That's taxable income after all exemptions and deductions.)

Q. What are the penalties for early withdrawal?

A. If you withdraw any of your deposit before maturity, you will lose your tax exemption on the deposit, plus you will also lose three months interest on whatever sum you take out.

Q. Are these certificates insured?

A. Your deposit is fully insured up to $100,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. For all the answers about All-Savers Certificates, visit your local Community National Bank.

Robert A. Olsen was recently appointed to the board of directors with the Oakland County Estate Planning Council. An Independence Township resident, Olsen is co-owner of Oakley, Olsen and Knaus, licensed consultants, of Main Street, Clarkston.

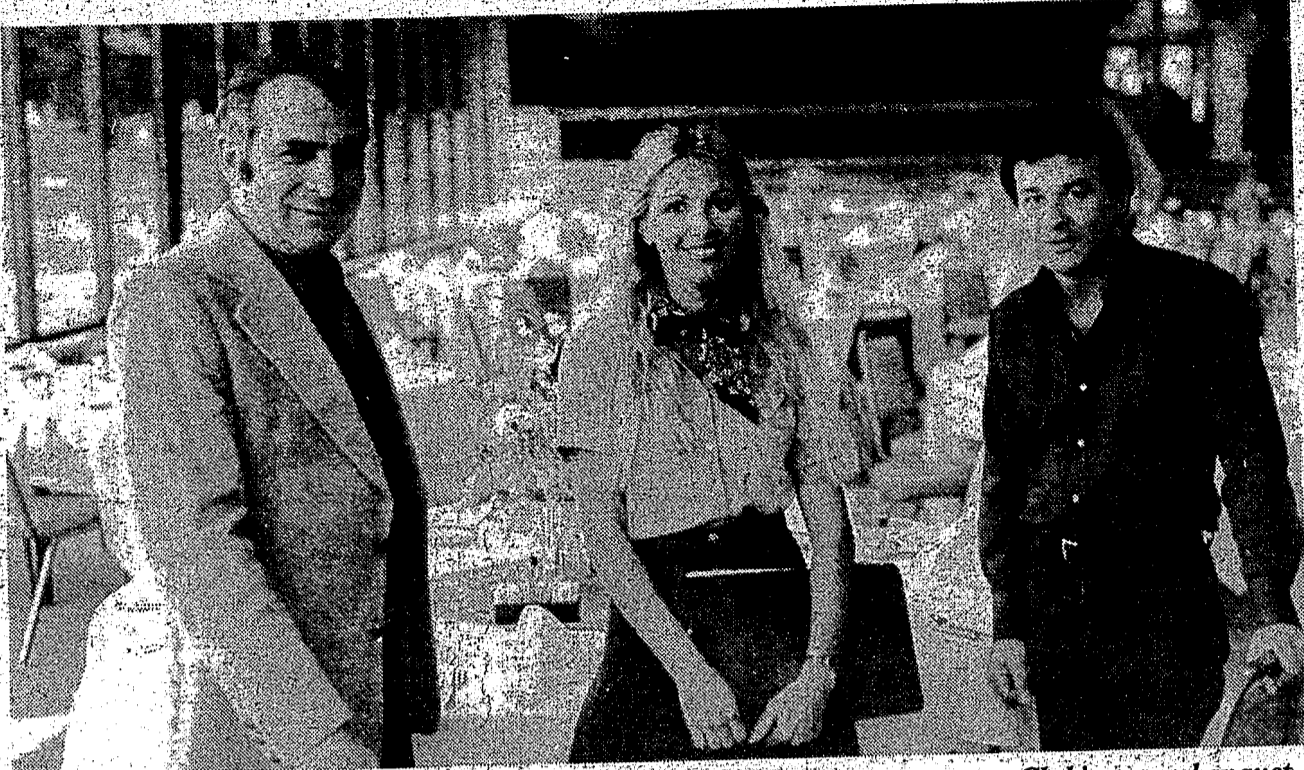

Promoted tax manager, George Bennett leaves

George H. Bennett has been transferred to Battle Creek from the Detroit office of Price Waterhouse after his recent promotion to tax manager. Former Clarkston residents, he and his wife, Lynn, and children, Jill and Kristen now reside in Battle Creek Township. Bennett wrote the "Tax Tips" column which appeared in The Clarkston News preceding income tax time in 1980 and 1981.

From left, Deer Lake owner Forrest Milzow, banquet coordinator Denise Patrick and manager Phil Negip are ready for another happening in Deer Lake Racquet Club's new banquet facilities.

Racquet Club opens banquet hall used for business, fun

The calendar on Denise Patrick's desk at Deer Lake Racquet and Country Club is well-linked these days with everything from weddings to corporate seminars.

That's a testimony to Deer Lake's reputation and customer satisfaction, says Patrick, Deer Lake's banquet coordinator.

Although the new banquet facilities were just facilities to companies wishing to use the banquet hall for a business function, she adds. The new facilities come complete with an audio-visual room where special presentations can be made.

"We have a good reputation—people know if they come here, they can count on being happy," Patrick says. "If they're unhappy about something, I want to hear it."

A few finishing touches remain to complete the new facilities at Deer Lake, but the major banquet hall is in full swing. The first event held was the Waterford Township High School 20-year class reunion back in early August.

The hall can accommodate up to 400 people. Anyone interested in scheduling a business or social function at Deer Lake can contact Denise Patrick at 652-8686.

completed and opened to the public in August, the banquet business is already brisk at 6167 White Lake Rd. in Independence Township.

"We're getting a terrific response," says Patrick.

"I can really get excited about what we have to offer. I can tell people they're very lucky to have their wedding reception here with us.

One plus involved in holding a banquet or reception or banquet at Deer Lake is the professional catering service available, says Patrick.

"We're not just a hall where you have to cater in. You don't have to worry about a thing—our food is great and everything is done professionally. Forrest (Forrest Milzow, Deer Lake owner) always goes first class and insists on the best.

"Plus, we've got that beautiful view of Deer Lake. That in itself is something special. And our prices are reasonable."

Deer Lake can also offer the use of its racquetball courts, tennis courts, swimming pools and club-

Teacher bids for, buys house his students built

The teacher who supervised the construction of the house built by Clarkston High School Building Trades Program students plans to call it home.

Richard and Toni Moscovic's offer for the house was unanimously accepted by the Clarkston schools board of education last week.

"I like the house real well," Moscovic said after the meeting. "And that's what made me make a decision on it. When no one else made a bid on it, I decided I'd make a bid on it myself."

The 1,950 square foot country style ranch house, with three bedrooms, a laundry room and two-and-one-half car garage, is located on one acre at 6405 Waldon, Independence Township.

"I knew the layout of it and I think the location will be nice for us," Moscovic said. "We have three young boys, and being as close to the schools as it is, it's just an excellent house. Design-wise, I think it's conducive to family life."

The school board agreed to accept the $88,000 bid with a 60-month land contract at 11 percent interest.

If the land contract goes full term, interest will total about $36,000, which will make it an even more positive sale for the school district, said Mel Vaara, assistant superintendent of schools.

The Moscovics' bid for the house was the only one received. When it was originally put up for sale, a minimum bid of $95,900 was sought.

"We didn't receive any bids at all. None," Vaara told the school board. "So at the advice of some people and our attorney, (future advertisements) simply stated 'no minimum'."

Noting the tough times for real estate sales, Vaara called the offer fair and equitable and the school board agreed.

Building trades build on school land

Rather than buy property for the next four houses built by Clarkston High School Building Trades Program students, the board of education has decided to use property now owned by the district.

The lots, located on Goldfinch Lane on the northern boundary of CHS property, total about one-and-one-half acres. Each lot measures about 120 feet by 150 feet.

The Goldfinch property was picked because of the location of the high school, availability of sewer and the utilization of the property," said Assistant Superintendent of Schools Mel Vaara. "It would also save the district a considerable amount of money."

A bonus is that once the homes are built and sold, the property will be added to township tax roles, rather than be exempt from taxes because it belongs to the schools, he said.

Board members enthusiastically greeted the plan at the Sept. 14 meeting.

"I think it's a terrific idea," said Carolyn Place, and the board voted unanimously to implement the plan.

Construction of the first house is underway. The 1,800 square foot tri-level is to include a two-car garage.

The building trades program has been operating four years. For the first three years, each home was larger than the one preceeding it. This year, the house size dropped by some 150 square feet, the garage is smaller and so is the basement.

"It is a smaller house than the one on Waldon (Road)," Vaara said after the meeting. "It's my idea to go for a smaller house. I have a philosophy. I don't think we can go on building bigger and bigger houses."

The reason, he explained, is many people can no longer afford large homes as utilities and mortgage interest keep increasing, and a smaller house is likely to sell better.

Board okays interest on $2.5 million

The Clarkston schools board of education has agreed to pay 11.85 percent interest on a $2.5 million loan.

After opening two bids for the loan—the other was 13.1 percent—the board moved quickly at the Sept. 14 meeting to unanimously OK borrowing the money from Pontiac State Bank in conjunction with Prescott, Ball and Turben, New York investment bankers.

"The 11.85 percent is extremely low and I recommend we approve it posthaste," said Superintendent Milford Mason, after listing loans recently taken by other school districts in the state with interest ranging from 13 to 15 percent.

After briefly reminiscing about loans she could remember at 3.5 percent interest, board President Janet Thomas called for the vote.

The $2.5 million is expected to be received as soon as paperwork is completed, in eight to 10 days, said Stanley Darling, the district's business manager, after the meeting.

A tax anticipation note, the loan used taxes to be collected as collateral rather than property.

Interest will total about $160,500 for the six-and-one-half month period, Darling said. The principal and interest are due March 31, 1982.

The loan is necessary to maintain cash flow of the district's funds, he added.

"If we didn't get it, we'd be practically broke by Oct. 5," he said.

25th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Dills of Crosby Lake Road, Springfield Township, celebrated 25 years of marriage Aug. 30.

The Dills' friends, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sims of Ortonville, threw the couple an open house party attended by over 70 of their friends and family members, including their daughter, Tammy, 14.

She wins aid

Susan Hamm has received a $700 Blumberg Scholarship to study special education at Indiana State University, Terra Haute.

Susan, who resides on Treese Court, Springfield Township, was awarded the scholarship following a nationwide search for students ranking near the top of their graduating classes who plan to become teachers of handicapped children.

Prior to graduation from Clarkston High School, she was a volunteer at a child care center and also performed with Students Actively Concerned, a service club variety show which tours nursing homes and schools for special children.

A member of the Christian Association of Teens and secretary of Bible Club, she was involved in her high school marching and symphonic bands.

Engaged

Holly Jean Radoye of Main Street, Clarkston, and Douglas Dodge of Grosse Pointe Park plan an April wedding. The bride-to-be is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stan Radoye. A graduate of Central Michigan University, she is employed by ON-TV, national subscription television. Her fiancé is the son of Mrs. Norman Dodge of Grosse Pointe and the late Norman Dodge. Also a CMU graduate, he is employed by McLean Trucking.

Teacher returns from Purdue

Thanks to a month-long summer foreign language institute at Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind., Clarkston High School Spanish students of Virginia Addis should reap benefits.

The institute was funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities, which provided Purdue with a $225,000 grant.

Goals of the project were to increase teachers' knowledge of the foreign culture they teach, to improve fluency in their languages and to update teaching techniques.

French, German and Spanish teachers from a five-state region attended the session.

Couple wed in evening ceremony

Michele M. White and Earl G. Schaffer were recently united in marriage in a candlelight ceremony at 6 p.m. at the Tidewater Inn, Easton, MD.

The Rev. William Harvey officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto White of Hummingbird Lane, Independence Township. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Schaffer of Sarasota, Fla.

Maid of honor was Jennifer White, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Marsha White Childs, Martha Revene and Pam Trice.

Serving the bridegroom as co-honor attendants were his father, Irving Schaffer, and Tom Deming. Groomsmen were Edward Helm, Rob Heller and Tim Meredith.

Following their Aug. 15 wedding, the couple honeymooned in London, England. They are making their new home in Annapolis, MD.

Methodist Church hosts annual class in 'Family Life Today'

Time out each week to ponder the Bible's teachings is offered to women beginning Oct. 1 at the Free Methodist Church of Drayton Heights.

The theme of this year's "Family Life Today" sessions is "New Beginnings" and the instructor is Harriett Boyer of Farmington.

"The Bible gives a great deal of practical advice

Director of the program at the church is Nancy St. Charles.

"Last year, we had an average of 35 to 50 women and it was really a nice sharing," she says. "There is prayer, there's fellowship and there's teaching and the teaching is in an area that is very relevant to us.

We find that we're in a rushing world and we're time-pressed. The reason we meet once a week is because we have a leveling force, a stabilizing force," she says. "It allows you to look at yourself and your goals and priorities and maybe just put them into perspective."

The sessions are free, although a "love offering" is taken. Meetings are Thursday mornings from 9:30 to 11 until the second week of December and then they resume Jan. 1 until Easter.

A nursery for children is provided for a fee of 50 cents each. Activities for the little ones include crafts, singing and games.

Those who wish to attend can join by going to the first session Oct. 1. Pre-registration is not required, but for more information, call 625-1088.

The church is located at 5482 Winell, Independence Township.

about how Christians should behave and live together. People who read it seriously find that it changes their lives," Boyer says. "The Bible guided me in how to be a mother and a wife and it worked. That's why I teach it—I want to share that with women who haven't learned that yet."

Emphasis is on family relationships and attitudes and the discussions are aimed at women who are newly married to those whose children have grown and left home, says Boyer, who is the mother of three and grandmother of five. She has taught "Family Life Today" classes seven years, but this is the first time in the Clarkston area.

Afraid You're Going Deaf?

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of one of the smallest Beltone aids of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this free model will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a fourth of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 15360 Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Illinois 60646.

A CONSUMER SHOPPING TIP

Many stores have voluntarily set up policies to let you return articles purchased at their stores. Honest mistakes over items that don't fit or suit the right purpose do entitle you to the privilege of the store's return policy—providing they have a policy and your purchase fits within it. Make sure you know what it is. Ask yourself whether you are depending on a store's liberal return policy rather than your own good judgment in making purchases.

Stage whisper:

Did Lizzie Borden really give her mother 40 whacks with an axe? And when that was nicely done, did she give her father 41? Theatergoers will have a chance to see a dramatic portrayal of events surrounding the deaths of Lizzie's parents when the Clarkston Village Players present "Lizzie Borden" at the Depot Theatre, 4861 White Lake Rd., Independence Township. Friday and Saturday performances are scheduled Oct. 2, 3, 9, 10, 16 and 17. Tickets are $3.50 and they may be purchased at Tierra Arts & Designs, 20 S. Main, Clarkston. A benefit performance for the Clarkston Junior High School Drama Club is planned Thursday, Oct. 8. On our cover is Barbara Crites, who portrays Lizzie Borden in the play.

Bills 'n' biscuits

Mail carrier Terri Schultz keeps canines in line with treats

Postwoman Terri Schultz's black Earth Shoes briskly walk through green lawns, around shrubbery, up driveways and down sidewalks.

She pops in and out around the sides of houses and garages, and speedily makes her way up porches, around parked cars and lamp posts on Clarkston's Holcomb Street.

Without a break in breathing, seemingly without a struggle, Terri lugs atop her shoulder the heavy regulation postal bag stuffed with newspapers, magazines, mail and dog biscuits.

Halfway down Holcomb, between Miller and Washington Streets, a large black and brown German Shepherd barks.

Terri approaches the beast without tremor.

Nicky, pet of the Clark Lynn family, awaits Terri's ritualistic approach.

"Here you go," she says, offering a big red dog biscuit shaped like a bone. When that's finished there's another in its place. "But two," she says, "is the limit."

Farther down the street she meets up with Casey, the Cushman family's aged Collie, trained by a former mail carrier to await the daily hand-out.

"Sit Casey!" Terri says, offering the biscuit, then a second, followed by her quick retreat from the yard.

"I learned a long time ago that I have to leave this yard before Casey finishes eating," Terri says with wide eyes. "One day I didn't, and he literally bit the keys off my belt loop."

Apparently, Casey's agreement with the former mail carrier mandated a minimum of two cookies, and more, if they could be coerced.

Terri, a Drayton Plains resident, has worked the Clarkston and surrounding Independence Township street beat for the past six months, but has worked for Uncle Sam six years.

She walks 10 miles daily, covers 75 Clarkston-area businesses, 225 deliveries by walking and another 135 stops via the truck.

Through it all in rain, sleet, snow and hail she carries the box of dog biscuits.

"I usually see two to three strays a day that are not part of the regular ones who follow me. I go through a box (of biscuits) about every six to eight days," she says.

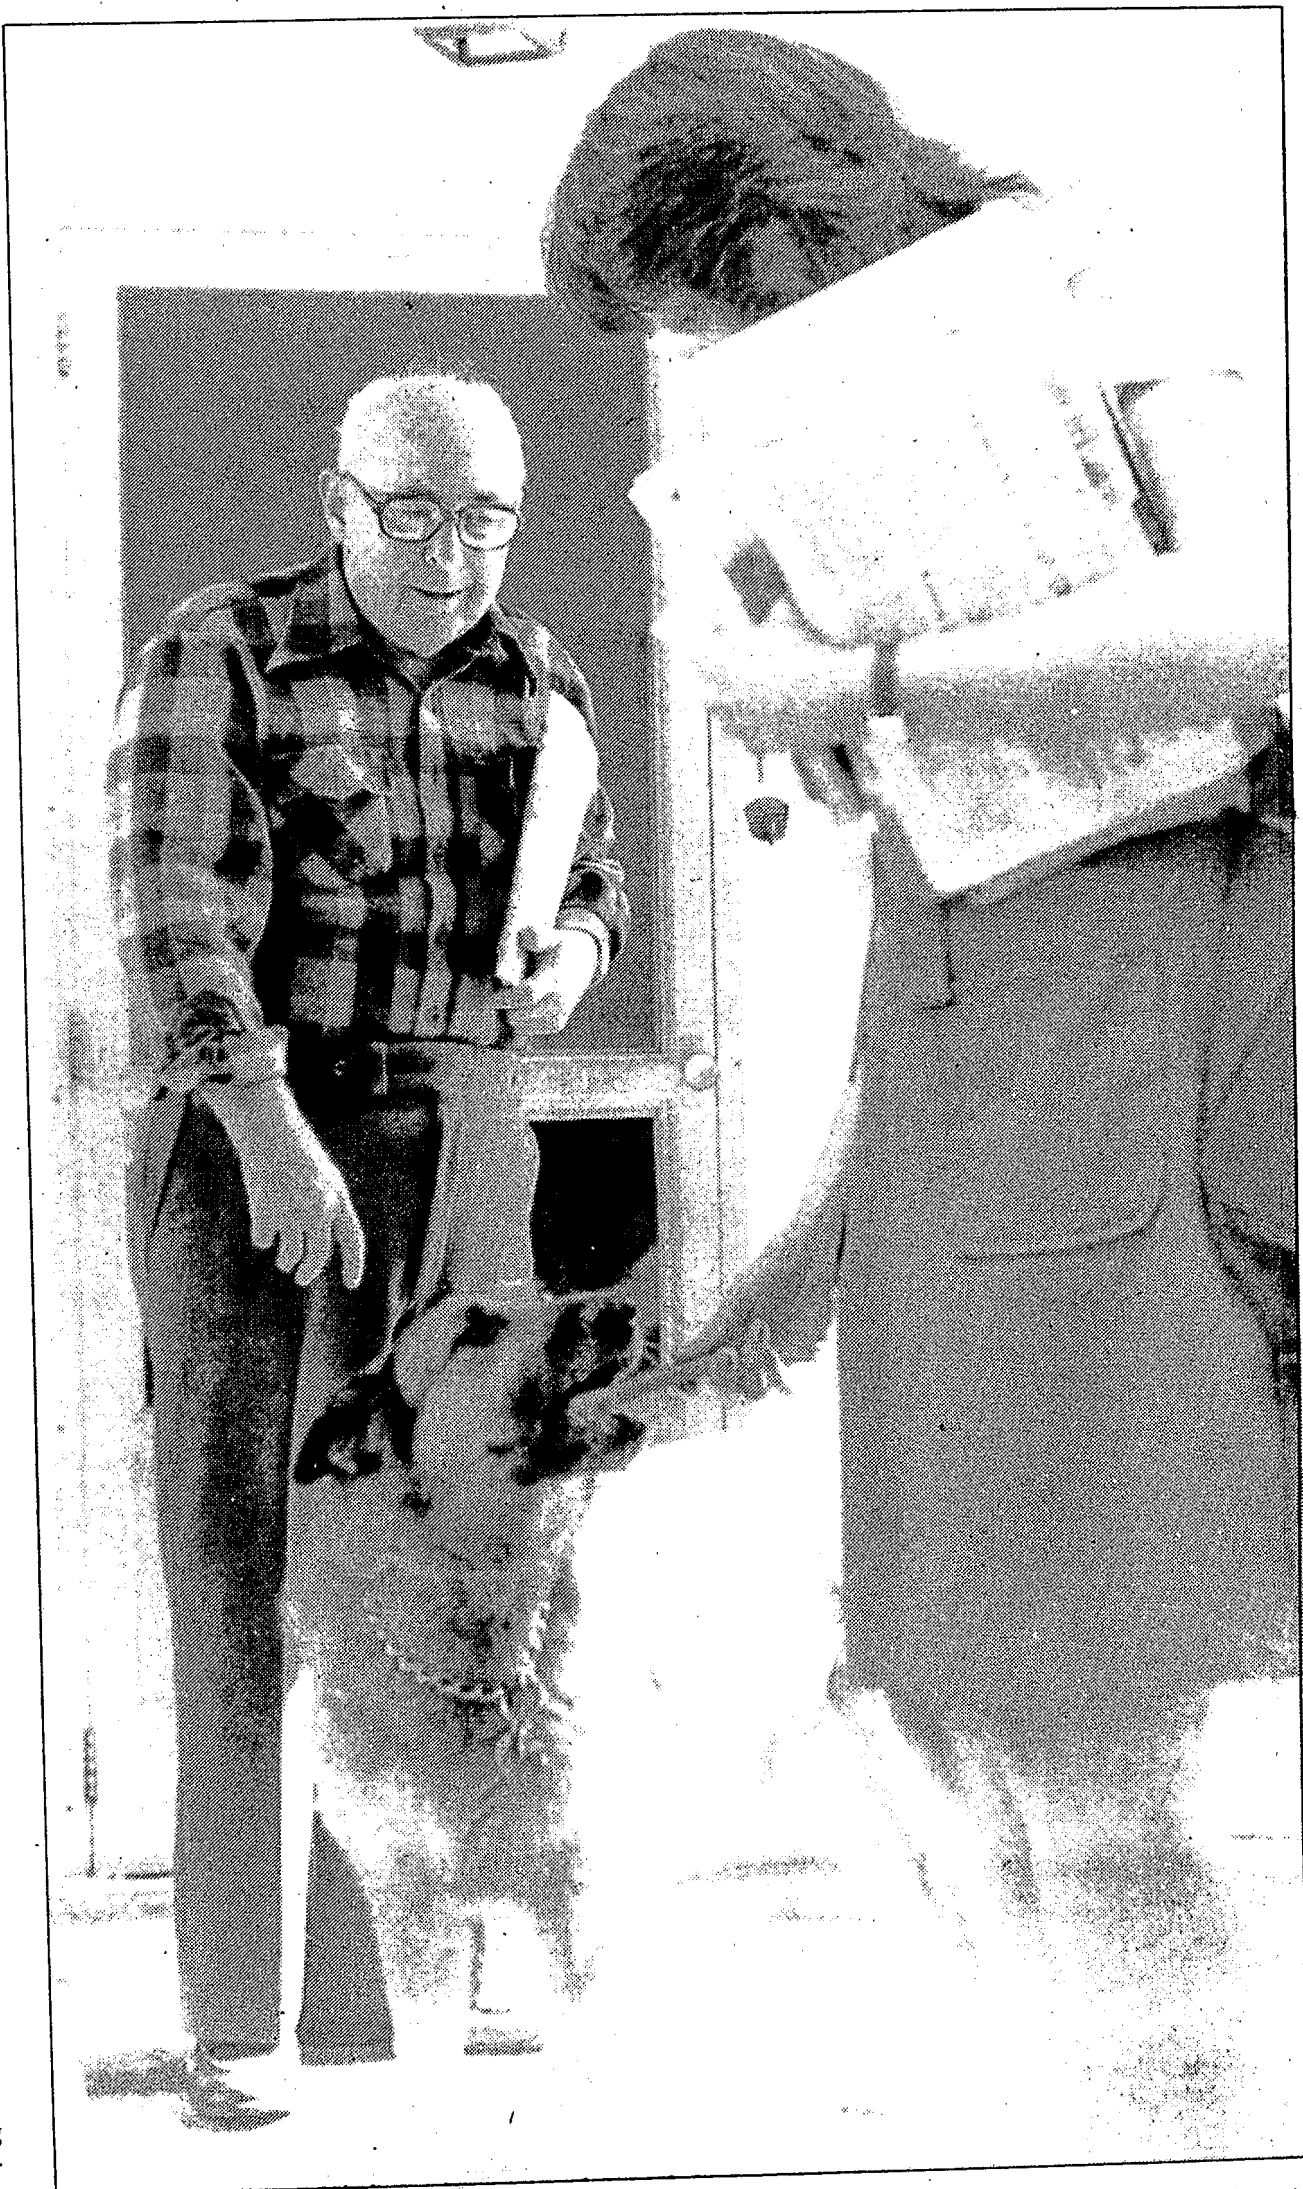

"Dogs like beef the best. They don't go for the cheese. I can tell by the way they take them," she said, speaking from experience.

In all her work days, the closest call has been when a dog tore her boots.

The biscuit technique appears to be working.

Watch for Terri toting biscuits, spoiling Holcomb Street canines and those living on surrounding roads.

The dogs are watching. Terri's sure of that.

Postwoman Terri Schultz gingerly offers Clark Lynn's dog a tasty red bone-biscuit. Nicky daily waits for the peace offering, as do other dogs in the Holcomb Street block.

Beribboned seniors boast state fair prizes

Independence Township residents Irma Shivilie and Cecil Smith are among the best of Michigan's craftspeople for they've taken a second and third place at the Michigan State Fair jelly-preserve and quilt making competitions.

"I worked at this for, I'd say, two-months," says Irma, 77, pointing out the reds, blues and greens in the multi-colored, star-patterned quilt.

"I was really surprised to win, especially at the state fair."

Cecil shares his thoughts.

"Rina (senior citizens' director) talked me into (entering the contest). I won second place," the 76-year-old said beaming.

His strawberry jelly captured the judge's taste buds, and Cecil says he knows why.

"It's the Certo. You see, there's no discoloration in this jelly. When the recipes says to boil the mix, I put in Certo (a thickener), and skim it first-then bring it to a boil again.

"You see," Cecil confides, "I have false teeth and by straining out the seeds, it tastes better, and the seeds don't interfere with my eating."

Cecil consults a cookbook when canning, or "putting up," his homegrown goods, as he calls it.

For the past 15 years following his wife's death, Cecil's maneuvered his way around the kitchen on Eastlawn Avenue, canning all his backyard fruits and vegetables.

Irma, on the other hand, is an afficiando of quilting and learned the art as a little girl from one of the best, her mother.

"This was a scrap from a dress, these from three blouses and this from another dress," she said, pointing out the different patterned patches of the winning quilt.

With relish, Irma Shivilie and Cecil Smith produce their winning ribbons from the State Fair.

"I've been at this for 60 years," she smiles. "I used to help my mother. Oh yes, it's all done by hand."

Irma made the quilt a gift to her niece. When the time came to enter the state fair, she asked for the quilt back—on loan.

"My son-in-law called to congratulate me on the win, and said, 'I guess you'll want it back now!'" Irma laughed. "I told him no, that was a gift to them. I couldn't take it back, they're like children to me."

She grasps her white third-place ribbon and beams.

Cecil holds on tight to his red ribbon with gold writing, proof of his second-place win.

There are two very happy seniors in Independence Township.

Frank and Geri share culinary tasks in harmony

6 Wed., Sept. 23, 1981
Clarkston (Mich.) News Magazine

Frank Jones is just as much at home holding an eggbeater in his kitchen as he is holding a drill in his office.

When he isn't working as a dentist in his Waterford Township office, it isn't unusual to find Frank creating masterpieces in the kitchen for himself, wife Geri and children Christopher and Andrea.

Baking is his art form—everything from breads to cookies to cakes.

"I have a lot of hobbies, and one of them is I like to cook," says Frank. "It's something I do more so in the winter, when I'm not busy outside gardening."

He became interested in the culinary arts about five years ago when he quit smoking and started looking for a time-consuming hobby.

The creativity involved in baking sparked his interest.

"I guess I was a little offended by the fact that everything is so instant and pre-made these days," Frank says. "I'm basically a homebody, and I enjoy having a woodfire heating the house and baking things in the winter months."

To help hone his skills, Frank took a cake decorating course, and the increased expertise must have paid off. A frosted chocolate cake of his creation recently won a first-place ribbon at the Michigan State Fair in Detroit.

"They judge on a lot of things—taste, texture, appearance—actually, I'm a little surprised. I thought I might win for my bread, and the cake wound up winning."

Thanks to Frank, store-bought bread is a rarity at the Joneses' house. The smell of healthy, whole-wheat break baking in the oven often fills the home.

"I still do the actual dinners," says wife Geri, "but he does the baking."

"Being at the fair was really a lot of fun. We enjoyed it so much, not for the rides—we didn't go on the rides at all—but for the agriculture, the community arts building, the horse show."

Their interest in agriculture and the rural life is what prompted Frank and Geri to move into their current home four years ago. Situated far off a dirt road in Groveland Township on 10 acres of land, the Joneses' house is surrounded by trees and greenery.

A large vegetable garden with everything from pumpkins to tomatoes covers part of the land. Neighbors raise chickens and honeybees, and an added rustic touch is that the Joneses' modern home is heated almost entirely throughout the winter with wood.

"I guess I kind of half wanted to be a farmer, so we were looking for some land," says Frank. "Most of the land we have here is open, but there are a little woods."

"One thing about living in the Business may be slower these days in the dental field, but Frank Jones says he doesn't mind. It gives him more time to be with his wife and family. Seated here in the living room of their Groveland Township home country," adds Geri, "we really have nice neighbors. We feel lucky to live by so many great people."

"In the city," Frank notes, "people live so close together that you kind of shelter yourself. Out here, you form friendships out of need—we help each other out whenever we can."

Both Frank and Geri are interested in sports and athletics, prompting them to build a racquetball court in the basement of their home.

"It's great," says Frank. "We often have friends or neighbors over to play."

Frank grew up in West Bloomfield, while Geri hails from Waterford. It was in Frank's dental office that the couple originally met.

"She was my dental assistant," he recalls with a grin. "That's how we met. She's still working as a hygienist, but only one day a week."

"I'm only working four days a week—business, with the economy being the way it is, is down. But I really don't mind. I've never been a workaholic, and I'd rather be with my family, particularly when the children are this age."

The arrival of the twins, Andrea and Christopher, back in October 1979, came as a surprise to Frank and Geri, who were only expecting one new addition to the family. Just one baby is enough to keep a mom and dad busy—twins are indeed a full-time responsibility, Franks says with a smile.

"I used to play a lot of tennis, but with the kids now it's hard to find time to do anything," Geri laughs.

Some of her hobbies include photography, macrame and canning. Both husband and wife enjoy gardening, and Frank recently built a wood cabinet for the dining room.

"I never took shop in school," Frank explains, "so I took a carpentry course out at Waterford Township High School last year so that I could learn."

In autumn, thoughts turn to WOODSTOVES

Here's to warmth, economy and muttering fuel barons. But first, some words of caution . . .

WOODSTOVES ARE IN conversations more often now as the days grow shorter and cooler. People talk about buying stoves and stocking up on cords of wood to get them through the winter.

While the woodstove can be a warm, economical friend, it can be dangerous when not properly used and maintained.

When looking at wood-burning stoves for the first time, one becomes aware there are many brands to choose from. Alan Solley, owner of Solley's Furniture and Appliance in Brandon Township, displays approximately 15 brands of stoves in his store and sells about 400 to 500 a year. "There are about 900 wood-burning stoves made and only about 50 of them are any good," Solley says.

A good stove will have a lifetime or 20-year guarantee, while some of the poor quality stoves will have only one-to-four year guarantees, he says.

Other things to look for are smooth exterior surfaces rather than rough ones, quality welds, the size of the hinges on the door and a label to indicate that the brand being chosen has been tested by a reputable laboratory like Underwriters Laboratory Inc. (UL) or Building Officials and Code Administrators International (BOCA).

Installation is the single most important factor in the safe use of woodstoves.

"The biggest problem with supplemental heaters is installation—that's a bad problem," says Independence Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

A permit from the building department will provide a new owner of a woodstove with an inspection by the heating inspector, Ronk says, and potential problems can be avoided by obtaining a permit.

Installation is not as simple as plunking the stove down in the family room and lighting a fire. The combustible materials surrounding the stove must be protected from the intense heat given off.

If a stove is already in use, an easy way to determine trouble spots is to feel the surfaces, including the floor under the stove, when a fire is going. Any area that feels warm or hot is a potential fire hazard. The hot area will dry out from the extensive heat and may eventually catch on fire.

Proper protection consists of one-quarter-inch asbestos millboard and/or 28 gauge sheet metal. Brick, stone and imitation veneer do not offer any protection and should only be used for decoration over the steel or asbestos board.

Another potential danger is creosote formation in chimneys, pipe flues and stoves. Creosote is formed when by-products of burning wood condense on chimney interiors and flue pipes.

The deposit is dangerous when allowed to become too thick. Chimneys as well as homes can be destroyed when the creosote finally catches on fire.

Under everyday conditions, burning wood gives off combustible gases as well as the water and carbon dioxide vapor. This combination forms creosote inside chimneys when the temperature is less than 250 degrees Fahrenheit. A slow-cool fire with plenty of smoke is the worst offender.

Who would use a smokey old fire? It is not that it is intentional, but the deposits build up over a period of months. A good time for this to happen is spring and fall when a fire is built to warm up on chilly mornings and evenings.

In a few hours everyone is too warm and the damper is closed down to control the heat of the fire. A slow, cool fire results and produces good conditions for creosote build-up. A hot fire allowed to go out is better for the chimney.

Newly built fires tend to be smokey, too. They smolder until they get enough heat to burst into flames. To reduce this, new wood should be added while the coals are still red hot.

Wet and underseasoned wood also produce smokey fires. While the wood dries in the fire, less heat is given off and more smoke rises to form creosote in the cool chimney.

Fire Chief Ronk says chimney and flue pipes should be checked at least in the beginning of every season. Consumer Reports of January 1981 suggests checking the chimney every month or so.

The inspection can be done with a flashlight.

From the top looking down, the sides of the chimney are scanned for deposits of creosote that are more than one-quarter-inch thick. When looking for the deposits from the bottom up, a mirror in addition to the flashlight aids in the inspection.

When deposits are found, a professional chimney sweep can be called or the chimney can be cleaned with special brushes available where woodstoves are sold or in hardware stores. The pipe flue and stove should also be checked and cleaned.

With the problems and considerations, people are still buying stoves in increasing numbers. "We used to sell heating systems in the beginning but in the last four to five years, with the cost of heating going up, the woodstoves have really become popular," Solley says, adding that the rising cost of fuel has caused people to overlook the hassles of woodstove use.

While the more serious woodstove owners heat their entire homes with wood, many people simply enjoy a warm fire on a cold afternoon. Some of these people used to build fires in their fireplaces but, with energy costs going up, the amount of heat pulled out of the home by lighting a fire is noticed.

To combat this problem, people have installed woodstoves. Woodstoves generate heat from six sides and draw very little air to keep the fire going.

After the choice is made, the installation inspected and the chimney cleaned, woodstove owners can look forward to hot cider, warm toes and muttering fuel barons. Contentment and peace of mind make the woodstove a treasure as well as a warm and economical friend.
