Heave-ho!

That annual battle for gridiron glory—the Clarkston High School powder-puff football game pitting the junior girls against the senior girls—took place Saturday afternoon, and last Friday at the high school the two teams were already testing each other's strengths in the traditional tug-of-war battle. The juniors shown here came out on top in the second pull after the seniors won the first one, but on the field the next day it was all seniors from start to finish. Pictures from Saturday's game are on Page 21.

Biggest test question?

Reviewing practice draws differing opinions

By Kathy Greenfield

Rochester schools don't, Clarkston schools do and West Bloomfield schools did in the past, but they're planning to discontinue the practice.

And whether they should or not is a question that appears to receive differing opinions from the State Department of Education.

At issue is the practice of reviewing material before the Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP) test is given to fourth, seventh and 10th graders across the state shortly after school begins.

In a letter to The Clarkston News (on Page 6 of this week's paper), a Clarkston High School 10th grader's parent wrote he was appalled by review of mathematics prior to the test, and he questioned the validity of the results.

Ralph Hawes, the director of pupil personnel, testing and guidance for Rochester schools, said time is spent in that district working on attitude, and making sure the room temperature is correct and students are not hurried when they take the untimed test.

"We don't ever go over test materials with kids prior to them taking the test," he said. "The reason why it's given at the beginning of the 10th grade, and really what it's saying, is a student entering the 10th grade after nine years of schooling should have minimum skills.

"As far as I'm concerned, review would contaminate the purpose of the test," he added.

New rules for the test found in the "Building Coordinator's Manual" resulted in a change in attitude about test review at West Bloomfield schools, said Rose Crandell, director of special services.

Among recommendations on preparing for the test in the manual were the following, she said: "Don't coach students on the contents" and "Don't review MEAP material."

"These new don'ts were an issue in our district," she said. "And we won't be doing any kind of review right before testing in the future."

"I actually called the State Department of Education because a staff member had raised the issue in our district," Crandell said. "We were concerned that some of the things had fallen into the problem area and we won't be doing it again."

The practice of reviewing material to prepare for the MEAP test in Clarkston's 10th grade classrooms began in 1980, said William Potvin, director of planning and evaluation.

In 1979, 10th graders across the state took the test for the first time. Only 49.5 percent of Clarkston 10th graders posted a score of 75 percent or better on the math portion and the average in the state was a bit higher at 49.8 percent.

"The results we just couldn't believe," Potvin said. "We said, 'We know that's not legitimate. We know half of our kids don't fail math.'"

"After we dug into it, we found a substantial number of kids who were good students in math who didn't do well on the assessment."

"As we talked to the kids and asked them, 'How come?' they said, 'It's just been so long since we used that stuff.' We found out kids needed to be refreshed about things like when you divide two fractions, you have to invert the second one and multiply."

"That's when we said, 'There is a need to review in math before we give the test,'" he said.

The issue of reviewing and not teaching came up, Potvin said, but he feels it has been resolved.

The procedure used to review math is this: About

Residents blast Parview problem proposals

Over 50 folks choose another alternative; make plea for implementation

By Marilyn Trumper

Over 50 people filled Independence Township Hall Oct. 7 to speak out on the county's six alternatives to end high-speed, high-volume traffic on Parview Road, used as a through-way between Dixie Highway and Andersonville Road.

After more than two hours of discussion, the 50 agreed on one solid proposal: to ask the county to consider physically blocking Lingor Road, just after the Howe's Lanes exit, to prevent exiting bowling traffic from using Parview as a through-street, and to discourage use by commercial traffic.

While Scott Robeson of Parview Road favored a dead end at Parview's center aimed at ending through-traffic, other residents were bitterly opposed to the idea.

"To close Parview like that would seriously inconvenience me," said Mary Simmons of Curtis Lane.

"I travel that way to go to work every day. I come home via the same way. I enjoy the use of the streets. Don't tamper with the streets to enforce traffic problems."

She also expressed concern that such a move would hamper emergency vehicles and whittle down precious minutes in response time that could mean the difference between life and death.

Tim Patterson of Eddystone Court thought perhaps Lingor one-way would solve part of the problem.

Bill Mountain, whose front yard would be targeted for the cul-de-sac the county requires before splitting Parview, made an announcement to his neighbors.

"I'm like the guy who's going to have a K-Mart move in next door. I want one—but I don't want to live by one. I don't want part of my property taken for a cul-de-sac," he said.

A Wellesley Terrace man soundly agreed with the proposed Lingor seal-off.

"The compromise seems the best way. It allows traffic to get through, both emergency and subdivision—I'm willing to make that trade-off," he said.

Pat Nienstedt asked if anyone present opposed the Lingor proposal and no one objected.

After residents' persistence, Gerald M. Homberg, director of traffic-safety department for the county, agreed to offer their proposal as one of the alternatives to ease the Parview Road controversy.

According to Homberg, the Oakland County Road Commission can expect to receive a copy of his six alternatives, the residents' new proposal and an analysis of the Lingor seal-off proposal within the next 30 days.

Homberg told the residents of the two homeowners associations he would notify them when the issue would be heard by the commission, and indicated they could make a decision that night.

Residents along Parview and its lateral streets have been prodding and pleading with the county for the past four years to take some action on their traffic problem.

Asking price $500,000

Camp Oweki's for sale

By Marilyn Trumper

$500,000.

That's the asking price for Camp Oweki.

Unable to recover from a hard right hook that knocked finances out of the ring a year ago, Camp Oweki is up for sale.

Owned, operated and financed by Camp Fire Inc., Oweki's 120 acres located near Gulick Lake in Independence Township serves 250 youngsters from the Clarkston area involved in the organization.

The board of directors, in a 12-10 vote Sept. 26, decided to sell and formed a temporary committee to handle all sale inquiries.

The property is zoned recreational.

"We're not being forced to sell," said Jack Pugh, executive director of the North Oakland Camp Fire Council. "The board looked at (the camp) and decided that in its present state, it would never be able to pay for itself. We'll continue to keep it open and run our summer camp until it's sold. When that will be—well your guess is as good as mine."

There is no push to sell, he added, "We don't have to if we don't want to. If we sell it fine. If we don't, we don't."

Camp Fire, he said, can just no longer underwrite the cost of the camp.

Over the past nine years, costs to operate Oweki have steadily increased, while use of the camp has declined, he said.

Each year, it costs between $30,000 and $40,000 to run the camp, which includes maintaining the property, paying insurance fees, utilities and staff to manage operations.

Camp Fire depends on income from outside organizations utilizing the facility for more than half its revenue, he said.

Clarkston reviews for state testing

a week before the test, there is a 50-minute review in one class period. No actual test questions are asked. A little over half the 10th graders receive the review in English classes and the other half during math classes.

"Obviously in one class period, we can't teach to the test," Potvin said. "We were very, very careful to draw the line and (just review)."

In 1980, with improved conditions and the review, the 10th graders' math scores improved dramatically with 72.9 percent achieving the goal.

"What we didn't know, however, when the good results came was how much was the 50-minute time period or how much was the better test conditions," Potvin said.

But, in any event, the review is a good practice, Potvin said, and he feels the test results are valid.

"I really feel good about what we are doing," he said. "I feel it's the right way—that's what you do for a test, a quick review."

"I would be reluctant to stop doing it, because I think it's good teaching practice," he added.

David Donovan, the director of research, evaluation and assessment services for the Michigan Department of Education agrees.

Unless actual test questions are reviewed, going over subject matter is acceptable, he said.

What we are really trying to do is to help students learn skills and knowledge and if what they do furthers that, I fully support it," he said. "What they're (the Clarkston school district) doing is what we have really advocated over the past 10 years of the testing."

Council outlaws park road parking

By Marilyn Trumper

After receiving a 21-signature petition from village residents urging the elimination of parking streetside at Depot Road Park, the Clarkston Village Council voted unanimously to approve the request at Monday night's meeting.

Karen Sanderson of Holcomb Road, spearheaded the petition drive, and after the meeting explained why she made an about-face from her earlier plan to close the park.

"I think the park has valid uses. I don't sympathize with the kids' argument they have no place else to go. They've abused the privilege," she said.

"In the heat of the last meeting I did talk of closing the park, but I misspoke," she said.

Those half-dozen residents present at the meeting approved her plan, calling for the installation of a barricade along the road to keep cars out.

The council directed the attorney to draft a traffic control ordinance prohibiting parking at any time. Attorney Thomas Gruich said he'd have the order ready by the next meeting for the council's approval, and said it would take effect as soon as the "no parking" signs were erected.

It is the council's intent to erect what Trustee Jackson Byers termed "temporary-permanent" barriers, which can be removed to allow streetside parking when events like the Crafts and Cider Festival take place.

The council also approved the formation of a Depot Road Park task force, geared to study parking, noise, activities, the proposed tot-lot and make recommendations to the council.

Comprised of Karen Sanderson, Joyce and Colby Little of Holcomb Road and Nancy Prucher of Main Street, along with trustees David Raup and James Schultz, the six-member task force is slated to talk with young people in the park, get their feelings on what can be done to reach compromises and equally benefit all residents.

The task force is to report back to the council when it is ready, said Byers.

The council also discussed the feasibility of altering the park's hours, but decided to bring that issue up again only if the elimination of parking proves unsuccessful.

"I really think eliminating the parking will do it," Sanderson said. "Take away that, and they won't have a place to play their radios, or pass things back and forth between cars."

Waiver for 1981 sewer taxes

Independence Township homeowners will have an average $40 extra in their pockets this year, because the 1981 sewer tax ad valorem tax has been waived.

Although Treasurer Frederick Ritter proposed .4-mill levy and Supervisor James B. Smith favored .15-mill levy, it was Clerk Christopher Rose's plan that ultimately flew. Following a half-hour debate at the Oct. 6 meeting, board members voted 4-3 to waive the 1981 sewer tax levy.

Trustees William Vandermark, Larence Kizma, Dale Stuart and Rose voted "yes," Smith, Ritter and Trustee Daniel Travis voted "no."

Last year, the township levied 1-mill for the ad valorem tax, which generated approximately $204,000 in revenue.

A homeowner with property assessed at $40,000 (or one-half the market value) pays $40 for the 1-mill levy because 1 mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

Safety path progress

Construction of the first phase of the Independence Township safety path system began last week as work crews started cutting swaths alongside Sashabaw Road south of Maybee Road. The work is being done by Detroit Concrete Products Corporation of Novi and is being financed through a millage approved by township voters in the summer of 1980.

Lone trustee says 'no' to diesel bus purchases

By Kathy Greenfield

The purchase of six new diesel buses by Clarkston schools erupted into a confrontation between school board member Addison Hubbard and the administration at Monday night's meeting.

When the dust settled, the board voted 6-1 to follow the recommendation of Superintendent Milford Mason and purchase the buses from Wolverine Coach Corp. of Birmingham at $42,246 each for a total cost of $253,476.

Hubbard, who cast the lone dissenting vote, was a member of the committee appointed by the school board to study the busing situation and recommend a type of bus to purchase.

Sealed bids meeting specs drawn up by the district for 72-passenger, transit-type diesel buses were solicited from the two companies that manufacture them—Wolverine and Great Lakes Coach Sales Co. of Portage.

When final bids were opened, the Wolverines cost was about $11,300 less for the package of six buses.

Hubbard said he thought it was decided to purchase the more expensive buses, based on safety factors and length of manufacturing units of that type.

"I did not want to bring it to this," he told the school board, "but I feel a company did not get a fair shake. In my opinion Bluebird (made by Great Lakes) is a better coach.

"I did not learn about this (the recommendation to purchase from Wolverine) until 5 o'clock this afternoon," he added. "What was I doing on this committee?"

After some more discussion, Mason strongly defended his position.

"The purpose of this committee was not to select the company we were going to buy the buses from," he said. "I've felt all along the decision was mine to make. I was very cognizant to be fair and honest with both guys.

"And I've been that," he said, pointing his finger for emphasis, "I've been that."

Don Picmann, owner of Wolverine which got the order, said he believed both companies had time to present their cases.

After the meeting, Great Lakes sales representative Chuck McGlennen said he did not agree.

"I get over these things," he said. "but I don't feel I had my day in court these last couple of days. I feel the board acted without knowing all the facts, particularly the facts on safety."

The six buses are to be delivered in July. In addition to standard equipment, they are to have plywood flooring for insulation, deluxe light monitors which let the driver know if flashers, taillights and turn signals are working, supplemental heaters for drivers and radial tires.

The school district has not added to the regular bus fleet—other than special education units—for the past four years, Mason said.

"We did this because we felt it was a cost-saving measure and to use up our old buses, and now we feel it's time to begin replacing our units," he told the school board.

He recommended to the board that six buses be purchased every-other year for the next eight years, at which time there would be a total replacement.

The total fleet would number 30 buses—24 regular units and six spares.

There are now 41 school buses in the lot and when the six units come in, 17 will be ready for disposal.

One offer for the old buses has been made, said William Dennis, director of transportation for the district.

"The buses aren't called for very much, particularly with 175,000 miles on them," he said. "We have a bid right now of $2,800 (total) for 10 units."

Sashabaw corridor hearing planned

For the first time since 1975, and its last revamping, the Independence Township land use plan is up for review with the "Sashabaw Corridor" targeted for study.

Over the past year, several rezoning and new land use requests in the corridor area, south of I-75 to the township line, have been approved. The changes show a trend in development unforeseen in the master plan.

The planning consultant made a study of the area and is recommending changes to the corridor area, up for discussion at a public hearing Oct. 22 at 7:30 p.m. at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Changes include elimination of some single family housing and the addition of multiple and cluster housing.

The hearing pertains only to potential changes in land use, not immediate changes in zoning.

State test prepping appalling

As a parent of a 10th grade student at Clarkston High School, I was appalled to learn recently of the policy of the school to prepare 10th grade students in advance for the statewide Michigan assessment test.

The test is designed for the purpose of comparing skills of all students in the 10th grade throughout the state as well as the performance of the Clarkston district with other school districts. I doubt that the final results with Clarkston's pre-test review will fully give us parents a true picture of what our students have learned in their years of training so far.

My son further informed me that his review for the math portion of the test was conducted in his 10th grade English class and that most of the material in the review was indeed on the test.

Is it any wonder the school will boast of high assessment test scores as was so aptly brought to our attention when the millage election last spring was in question.

How proud the school officials were of these findings in past years, yet what a distortion of the truth if in fact review was conducted in advance as happened this year.

If you have a hard time accepting this piece of news about Clarkston High School, try the truth as it might appear elsewhere.

How would you react if you read this in the news: "Rochester English teachers help 10th grade students raise standardized test scores with illegal review."

Would it make you angry? Would you regard the results as pointless?

Folks, the name is not Rochester or West Bloomfield, but Clarkston. For these reasons, it is it any wonder why schools get a "BAD NAME"?

Irritated,
John Herboult

EDITOR'S NOTE: According to officials at the respective schools, Rochester students do not review for the Michigan assessment test and at West Bloomfield, although students did review material this year, plans are to discontinue the practice.

To the limit

by Kathy Greenfield

Last year was my husband's first marathon run and I didn't attend. I can't recall all the reasons why I opted to stay home now, but one was I couldn't imagine being comfortable with the inevitable search for him among thousands of runners and tens of thousands spectators.

I took an awful lot of flack from lots of people for not going. So, when the marathon run took place Sunday and Dick again participated, I was there.

Unless you actually stood and watched over 4,000 people pushing themselves to the limit, you can't imagine the feeling.

Sure, everyone with even minor interest read about the Detroit Free Press Marathon winner and there was even a story about the person who finished last.

I didn't have to read about the hours devoted to training for a marathon, about the sore muscles, the injuries that happen even before the race or the determination to finish.

When we say my husband chugging along during those last few minutes of his marathon, we knew he didn't have a good race.

He looked a little gray. My son and I took off toward the point where runners filed out. There were fences and barriers to keep spectators out until after the marathoners signed out.

I helped hoist our son over the fence and told him to go stand with his dad and then ran down to the end, crawling through a hedge to get there.

It was crazy. There were so many people watching. They must have outnumbered the runners by 10 to one.

Our daughter, too, was alongside Dick when I next spotted them. Afterwards, our son was sent to collect the T-shirt awarded to each racer and our daughter waited for another marathoner friend to finish the race.

Dick and I walked across a grassy area. He told me about his leg cramps, the unbelievable pain that forced him to stop running and limp along for several miles before he somehow worked up enough energy to run across the finish line.

He stretched out on the lawn for a rest. "You look like you're dying," I said with my usual finesse.

"I feel like I am," he replied, but when he reached in his pocket, pulled out a piece of "all natural" hard candy and offered it to me, I knew he was all right.

Hunting camp—work or fun?

by Jim Sherman

Once a year Dave Rood writes about preparing for deer hunting. The editor of the Delta Reporter in Gladstone must be getting anxious; he came up with this one last week.

Quoteth Dave:

One can enjoy deer season without hunting. Nobody says you have to take a gun to camp or freeze your tootsies while waiting for daylight in the swamp. Even the calendar is working in your favor this year in Michigan, for the season opens on a Sunday. That means it will be possible to go out to camp Friday and plunge into the social amenities with full enthusiasm, knowing that there will be no requirement at all to go out into the woods at the crack of dawn Saturday.

Half the fun of deer season is getting there. Well, almost half. Well, a lot, anyway. There's no fun in having everything all neatly organized and laid out and packaged. There has got to be a certain amount of belling and yelling, of confusion and searching, of decisions reached and then altered.

Each year, for instance, you should expect to not be able to find your old boots—the really warm old boots that are good at 20 below. It is foreordained that you will only be able to find one of the thick wool socks that you always wear with those good old boots. You know where you left the top half of the long Johns, but what happened to the vital bottom half?

It should be pointed out that proper clothing is vital even if you don't plan on leaving camp. You'd take a swimming suit to Hawaii, wouldn't you, even if you didn't plan to ride the surfboards? There was a time when red plaid was derigeur for late November. This was supplanted by bright plain red, which in turn has been replaced with blaze orange. If you don't wear, plaid or red or orange, how are people supposed to know you're participating in deer season? Just because you haven't shaved for a week and smell like the south end of the sanitary landfill doesn't make you a participant. That's a step in the right direction, however.

Your friendly banker is always stressing the importance of financial planning, and in the case of deer season, he's absolutely right. A person can't start planning...or saving...too soon.

There are always a host of unexpected expenses, such as four card flushes and bobtail straights. The camp host may have decided to increase the per dime rate. The price of fresh lobster continues to climb out of sight. Unless you have planned ahead you may find yourself sitting there with four of a kind and unable to answer a raise from some proud pilgrim with two little pair.

You can see how important it is to plan ahead. That's why we mention all this now way ahead of time. If you aren't ready when the Big Day arrives, don't blame us. Don't blame us for not doing what we should have done.

Kids call orderly rally to keep park

By Marilyn Trumper

Over 50 young people gathered in peaceful assembly just before dusk in Clarkston's Depot Road Park to protest a village resident's plan to close the facility.

"We're doing this to save the park," said organizer Jo Ann Clark of Greenview Road, Independence Township.

"We hope to keep the park open in recognition of what's happening here."

Her words met with nods and "yeahs" from the men and women gathered around the picnic table, listening to two members of the band Addic play the Beatles' Rocky Raccoon on acoustic guitars.

"This is really the only place for us to go, to hang around—otherwise we'd have to go outside Clarkston and a lot of us here don't drive, we can't," Clark said.

Young people between the ages of 16 and 23 filtered in and out of the crowd, some on foot, others arrived via bike, still others by car.

"We used to gather on the other side of Deer Lake, before it was also developed," said former Clarkston resident Jim Walker, 23. "We came down here before it was a park, when it was just a field."

We just come here to get together—it's a place to gather."

Walker defended charges his peers vandalize the park.

"The paper said we destroyed the table tops. That's not burned—it's dry rot—I'm a carpenter and I know. They also say we destroy this and that. Well, the booths at the Crafts and Cider Festival destroyed the grass, just look," he pointed to patches of dirt where the booths were erected.

"Look," said another. "There's a big pile of hay left by them over there. Maybe it is biodegradable, but it's an obnoxious sight."

The group circulated a "Save Your Park" petition and a pen moved from hand to hand.

Brightly colored signs pleading to keep the park hung on the bridge and trees.

A handful of kids played Frisbee in the clearing. "One day last August, 15 to 20 of us got together and cleared up the park. No one got credit for that," Jo Ann said.

All agreed they were a self-policing bunch. "If I see someone break a bottle—I tell them to pick it up," Walker said.

By 9 o'clock on Oct. 8, the group had dispersed. The rally was over.

A crowd of 50 gather around Dan Biron [left] and Chuck Norbury, members of the band Addic, as they sing the Beatles' "Rocky Raccoon," reminiscent of the 60s protest era. Jo Anne Clark organized the peaceful rally to save Depot Road Park when she heard a local resident was pushing to close the facility.

Grant fizzles; shelter push on

Failure to receive a key grant from the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund for $17,250 isn't stopping Timothy Doyle from plans to build a shelter and fitness trail in Independence Township's Clintonwood Park.

In December of last year the board approved a matching funds project. The township would put up $17,250 from either federal revenue sharing or its improvement revolving fund if Doyle, director of parks and recreation, could ensure the $17,250 grant.

At last word the grant fizzled; but Doyle's written proposal to continue with plans to build the shelter with the township's money was up for debate at the Oct. 6 meeting.

He asked the board to authorize development of the plans and to acquire cost estimates, proposing the township put up its committed share of $17,250.

Township Building Department Director Kenneth Delbridge could act as the contractor and subcontract work for cementing, carpentry and roofing, and save money, Doyle said.

"I don't see us putting $17,000 into a cement slab and a roof," said Trustee Dale Stuart.

"After all, it was a matching funds project," he added.

After discussion, board members voted 6 to 1 to allow plans and costs to be drawn up and tallied, stressing it did not mean the project or spending of money had been approved.

'If it Fitz. . .'

The feeling is van-tastic

by Jim Fitzgerald

A lovely, middle-aged woman with a sweet smile waved to the small crowd as she and her wheelchair were the first to be hoisted into the handsome new van. There was applause.

The scene was the parking lot behind the Hospice of Southeastern Michigan in Southfield. I was there, please forgive me, to take a bow and beam like an idiot. I was really pleased with myself.

The woman in the wheelchair was there, to put it bluntly, to die.

Bluntly is not the way things are put at the hospice. The way everything is put is lovingly. All the patients have terminal illnesses, and the staff's only objective is to make those last months and weeks and days and hours as pain-free and pleasant as possible.

The kitchen is never closed. Food is served whenever a patient wants to eat. Visitors of all ages are always welcome, including pets. Instead of the usual uniform, nurses wear shirts with rainbows on them. There are frequent parties in the Day Room; have a glass of wine. And a red rose is left on the patient's bed for 24 hours after a death, out of respect for his or her life.

I wrote about the roses two weeks ago. I also wrote that the hospice needed a van with a hydraulic wheelchair lift for transporting outpatients between the hospice and their homes and for taking inpatients to hospitals for treatments. I made a little pitch for donations at the fervent behest of Evelyn Liberman, a Detroit businesswoman who had seen the need, while visiting a dying friend, and was determined to raise the $12,000 required to buy a van.

I figured my only chance was to catch the attention of a zillionaire who could easily afford to pay the whole shot. These are tough times, and I knew readers with ordinary incomes had more pressing priorities than buying transportation for people who were soon going to die.

No zillionaire was forthcoming. But almost 1,000 poorer readers sent money for the van. The smallest donation was $2, and the largest $1,000. Contributions totaled more than $15,000 within a week, with more to come, Holy Moses.

Some of the "more" came Monday morning, along with the van. The wheelchair lift was installed by Van Epoch Inc. of Washington, Mich., at a cost of $2,500. George Bush, company president, was among those present for the little ceremony in which hospice patients christened the van. Bush, saying he got the idea from something he read here, handed a hospice official a check for $1,250.

The van itself came from Dick Duncan of Jerome-Duncan Ford in Sterling Heights. Duncan got it last February and has been eating the interest costs ever since, waiting for Evelyn Liberman's dream to come true. Dick also was there Monday, trying unsuccessfully to out-beam me. Evelyn would have made a little speech, except she couldn't stop crying.

All of you who helped buy the van will receive a thank-you note from the hospice. I only wish you could have been there Monday to see what a marvelous thing you did. It was impossible to tell whether the patients or the staff was happiest. I thank you for giving me the chance to feel so disgustingly pleased with myself.

"The van helps make up for all the rotten things you write," my wife said. One of her tasks in life is to keep me from becoming too obnoxious, and she always knows when I need humbling.

Certainly I should realize that my function in the purchase of the van was to serve as a conduit for the delivery of Evelyn Liberman's message, and I deserve no more praise than a water pipe. But sometimes my wife gets help.

At the hospice, an elderly man in a wheelchair heard I was on the premises and asked whether I would come shake his hand. I was only too pleased to oblige, beaming. The dear man said he was really proud to meet such a famous celebrity.

Later I learned that he thought I was the Fitzgerald who is running for governor.

Landowner says he'll prosecute all tree thieves

By Kathy Greenfield

Tree snatchers have forced one Independence Township landowner to take action.

"I am absolutely going to start prosecuting people—I will prosecute anybody that we catch," said Leonard Grossman, who owns 100 acres. "It's gotten to be too much of a problem. It's not just an occasional occurrence."

Grossman, who lives on a wooded lot in Orchard Lake, purchased the property in Independence two or three years ago. It is in the process of becoming a subdivision—Pine Knob Country Estates.

"They take beautiful 50- to 60-year-old trees and saw them down and use them for firewood," Grossman said. "I am personally aware of at least a dozen, and I suspect there are more."

As a general rule, the tree snatching begins this time of year and continues through December, he said. Although fewer trees could affect the value of his property, he's concerned because of other reasons, too.

"I bought the piece of property because I happen to think wooded property is beautiful to live in," he said.

Grossman's concern for the environment prompted him to donate some 17 acres of wetlands to the Independence Land Conservancy.

There are neighbors watching the 100 acres located off Pine Knob Road and two people were recently caught sawing down a large tree, Grossman said. He plans to take them to court.

"Let people know they stand a chance of getting caught, ticketed and fined," he said. "I've got some magnificent lots that are going to be ruined if people don't stop going back there and taking trees off."

The problem of tree thefts begins to surface this time of year, agreed Deputy Kenneth Hurst of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Recently, between 20 and 30 vehicles were parked while occupants were illegally cutting down timber in a stretch of land in Highland and White Lake townships where M-59 is undergoing extension to the Oakland County line, he said.

"It wouldn't be so bad if they'd look for dead trees, but stupid people cut down live trees," Hurst noted.

He also cited another problem.

"When they're taken to court, the punishment doesn't fit the crime."

If someone is caught in the act of cutting trees on private property, there are several options for the property owner.

The theft, called larceny of timber, is a misdemeanor if the value is $25 or less. If convicted, the maximum sentence is 90 days in jail and/or a $100 fine. If the value of the trees is more, the owner can seek a felony conviction, a stiffer fine and longer jail sentence.

A civil suit against the tree snatcher is also possible. Then, the property owner can seek reimbursement for damages.

Fire Station 3 addition to begin

An addition to Station 3 is about to begin, two years after the initial push for construction by Independence Township Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

At the Oct. 6 meeting, board members voted 6 to 1 accepting Usztan Construction of Rochester as the low bidder at $59,500 for the addition of a bay to house a pumper truck.

Trustee Larence Kozma was lone dissenter.

The addition is to be paid for with Community Development funds.

Chief Ronk predicts work will begin within the week, with completion targeted in 90 days.

While the addition of a bay to the station at Pine Knob and Maybee roads was the primary goal, board members had considered the feasibility of a living quarters addition as a secondary project vs. purchase of a tanker.

"The tanker's more important to the community than the sleeping project," Ronk said to board members. "Secondly it appears we'll have funds to purchase the tanker—but not both."

After the meeting, Ronk said he anticipates approaching the board on purchase of the tanker within the next month.

Officer! It wasn't my fault...

Following are actual statements found on insurance forms where car drivers attempted to summarize the details on an accident in the fewest possible words. These instances of faulty writing serve to confirm that even incompetent writing may be highly entertaining.

Coming home I drove into the wrong house and collided with a tree-I don't have.

The other car collided with mine without giving warning of its intentions.

The guy was all over the road. I had to swerve a number of times before I hit him.

I pulled away from the side of the road, glanced at my mother-in-law, and headed over the embankment.

In an attempt to kill a fly, I drove into a telephone pole.

I thought my window was down, but I found out it was up when I put my head through it.

To avoid hitting the bumper of the car in front, I struck the pedestrian.

My car was legally parked as it backed into the other vehicle.

An invisible car came out of nowhere, struck my car and vanished.

I told the police that I was not injured, but on removing my hat, found that I had a fractured skull.

I was sure the old fellow would never make it to the other side of the road when I struck him.

The telephone pole was approaching, I was attempting to swerve out of its way, when it struck my front end.

I was thrown from my car as it left the road. I was later found in a ditch by some stray cows.

I collided with a stationary truck coming the other way.

I had been shopping for plants all day and was on my way home. As I reached an intersection, a hedge sprang up, obscuring my vision and I did not see the other car.

I had been driving for 40 years when I fell asleep at the wheel and had an accident.

I was on my way to the doctor with rear end trouble when my universal joint gave way causing me to have an accident.

As I approached the intersection a sign suddenly appeared in a place where no stop sign had ever appeared before. I was unable to stop in time to avoid the accident.

How to jump your battery

Jump starting a car with a weak battery can be dangerous if proper procedures aren't followed, warns the Automobile Club of Michigan. Before attaching booster cables, make sure both cars are in "park" and not touching each other. Turn off the ignitions and all electrical accessories. Connect one end of a cable to the positive terminal of the healthy battery (step 1) and attach its other end to the positive terminal of the disabled battery (step 2). Then connect one end of the other cable to the negative terminal of the healthy battery (step 3) and attach the last clamp to the engine block or generator mounting bracket of the disabled car, as far from the battery as possible (step 4). Start the healthy car's engine and let it run for several minutes before starting the disabled car. To remove the cables, reverse the order. If the battery has water cell caps, have small screws on their sides instead of conventional terminals. Some batteries (approximately $2 per pair) designed for boosters which snap onto a ridge of the screw.

12 months later

Township board finalizes Waldon Road house condemnation

After two extended deadlines, the bulldozers and wrecking ball are moving in on a house at 4762 Waldon, a year after Independence Township board took steps toward condemnation.

At the Oct. 6 meeting, board members voted unanimously to have the house torn down.

For a year, the township has been locked in battle to tear down the house, spending more in legal fees than it would cost to demolish the house itself, according to Supervisor James B. Smith.

In December of last year, homeowner Truett Moses was given until May 1981 to complete demolition himself so he could salvage the building materials. In May he appeared before the board, pleading ill-health and a winter climate unseasonable for outdoor work. He asked for an extended deadline and was given until Oct. 1, with the stipulation he return the first of each month to report on his progress. The area was also to be fenced.

"On Oct. 1 we found hardly nothing had been done," said Kenneth Delbridge, director of the building department. "We found an unsafe electrical wire, and the fence had not been put up. It is a hazard and we're asking the board to proceed with demolition."

Moses said he'd since done appreciable salvage work at the site.

"I need another month. I got the roof off, and I'll need time to clean-up," he said.

Supervisor Smith disagreed.

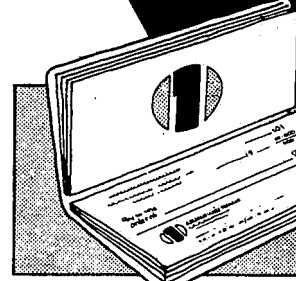

"As I see it, there's been very little progress. What's been done has been done from Oct. 1 to now. We've gone the full country mile."

Demolition will take place after the bid has been awarded, according to a spokesperson from the township building department.

Clarkston's Dan Harken, bursts down the sidelines for another JV Wolves' first down in the first half of Thursday's 22-8 victory over Lake Orion.

JVs maul Dragons

By Al Zawacky

All that stands between the Clarkston JV football team and a fourth straight undefeated league championship are the Waterford Mott Corsairs.

The JVs made sure of that last week, crushing the Dragons of Lake Orion 22-8 before an appreciative parent's night crowd at the Clarkston High School athletic field.

Clarkston High School JV football Coach Gordie Richardson was pretty appreciative of the effort, too.

In fact, the way his Wolves came out and mangled the Dragons in the second half Thursday evening left the coach scratching for superlatives.

"We just came out and played a great second half of football—there's no other way to put it," Richardson said.

"We made a few adjustments during halftime, but the thing that really did it was the fact that the kids got pumped up. They wanted it. You don't have to be a great coach to win with that kind of attitude.

"The kids," he added, "are really getting hungry for that fourth undefeated league championship in a row."

It didn't appear as though the Wolves were going anywhere in the first half, however. Lake Orion moved the ball almost at will in the first quarter and quickly built up an 8-0 lead before the Wolves came back in the second stanza on a 14-yard touchdown run by Tim Parke.

But the extra point try fell short, and the teams left the field at the half with Orion clinging to a 8-6 lead.

"I thought that was the best first half anybody has played against us since Grand Blanc," Richardson said. (That goes back over two years to the JV Wolves' defeat at the hands of Grand Blanc in September 1979.)

"I don't think we played good football physically or mentally in the first half. It was parent's night and the kids might have felt a little tight—but they really went out and accepted the challenge in the second half."

Indeed, the Wolves were a different football team right from the opening kickoff in the third quarter, slamming the door on the Dragons' offense and marching down the field and into the Lake Orion end zone 76 yards in 13 plays on their first possession.

Dave Newblatt finished off the drive with a two-yard plunge across the goal line, and on the next play quarterback Craig Kulaszewski hit Newblatt with a pass good for the two-point conversion.

That made it 14-8 Clarkston, and the Dragons were as good as dead.

"Newblatt was outstanding in the second half," said Richardson. "Just awesome. He was going around people, through people, over people—and wound up with 141 yards on 28 carries. And Kulaszewski was doing his usual semi-amazing things."

The Wolves put the icing on the cake in the fourth quarter, scoring on a one-yard keeper by Kulaszewski, and when a bad snap turned up on the PAT try, Kulaszewski ran the ball in himself for another two points and a 22-8 Wolves' lead.

Dan Harken and Mike Harbaugh led the Wolves in tackles, and Richardson also praised the defensive work of Dan Fenton, Dean Callison, Glenn Sherman and Kurt Böttorff. Russ Morgan, Phil Coyle and Chris Everett were sharp filling in at the injury-riddled defensive end spot, he added.

And now the waiting begins for Waterford Mott. The two teams will meet Oct. 22 at Mott in an afternoon game that will be the final Greater Oakland Activities League contest for both teams.

Originally, the Wolves were supposed to play Waterford Kettering at home on Oct. 15, but with Kettering failing to field a junior varsity team this year the Clarkston JVs face a one-week vacation.

Attack comes to life —Wolves roll, 18-3

By Al Zawacky

That sleeping giant off Waldon Road—the Clarkston varsity football team's offense—finally came to life Friday evening.

Combining another strong defensive effort with a season-high 296 yards total offense, the Clarkston High School Wolves dumped Lake Orion 18-3 to post their first win in three tries in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

"It was a good victory, and a long-time deserving," said Wolves Coach Walt Wyniemko. "We came out of our shell and started moving the football.

"And the defense did another great job, no question."

Lake Orion got on the scoreboard first, however, tallying on a 14-yard field goal in the first quarter by Scott Mangis.

The score remained 3-0 Lake Orion until the third quarter, when Clarkston pulled ahead to stay on a 29-yard touchdown run by Rich Schrader. Mike Stefanski hit Eric Beamer with a pass for the two-point conversion, and the Wolves led 8-3.

Before the third quarter ended, Clarkston's Will Williams split the uprights from 15 yards out for the team's first field goal of the season and an 11-3 Wolves lead.

Clarkston wrapped up the scoring in the fourth quarter on a short pass from Stefanski to Duane Cahill that turned into a 64-yard gain and another six points, Williams kicked the extra point, and the Wolves had their 18-3 victory.

By scoring 18 points in the second half, Clarkston doubled its total offensive production through the previous 10 quarters.

"We just came out and played a little more of our power football, really," Wyniemko said. "We improved our execution."

Stefanski, back in the quarterback slot after being replaced by Kevin Brown the previous week, passed for 102 yards. Dave Fulcher was the Wolves' leading rusher, chalking up 127 of his team's 194 yards on the ground.

Craig Verch, Tim Ellis and Bruce Burwitz were Clarkston's three leading tacklers.

Cagers drop 5 straight as Dragons triumph

By Al Zawacky

Coach Dave McDonald had no excuses. Just a simple and straightforward explanation.

"We played our lousiest game of the year," he moaned.

Other than a sparkling individual performance by Lanette Whitehead, there was indeed little to be encouraged about in the Wolves' 59-50 loss to Lake Orion last week.

The defeat was the fifth straight for McDonald's Clarkston High School varsity girls' basketball team, and the third setback in the Greater Oakland Activities League—a loss that all but eliminated the Wolves from GOAL title contention.

"They (Lake Orion) are a young team, and we let them score 59 points on us," McDonald said. "We're going back to the drawing board—maybe a few changes are in order."

Although Clarkston held a 25-20 lead at the half, from the third quarter on it was all Lake Orion. The Wolves were outscored 21-11 in the third stanza as the Orion Dragons pulled in front to stay.

"They just came out and took it to us," McDonald said. "We were outplayed."

Whitehead paced the Wolves' offense with her second 20-plus point game in as many weeks, chalking up 23 points and pulling down 14 rebounds. Tracee Antos had eight points for Clarkston.

Earlier in the week the Wolves succumbed to non-league power Oxford 39-32. Annette Ulasich led the attack with eight points and 12 rebounds while teammate Lori Martin contributed seven points.

"We played a pretty good game—Oxford is ranked fifth in the state and we gave them a good battle," McDonald said. "We were just four points down in the last couple of minutes, but couldn't come on and catch them."

Currently, the Wolves are 4-5 overall and 1-3 in the GOAL.

West Bloomfield routed

Cross country continues to make strides

It's becoming more and more apparent with each passing week: The Clarkston High School cross country program is a force to be reckoned with.

No better proof could be found than what happened last week against league rival West Bloomfield and in the Oakland County meet Oct. 3.

Both the Clarkston girls' and boys' teams posted solid victories over West Bloomfield, and the county meet produced some of the best performances for Clarkston in years.

The girls' team placed 10th in a field of 27 Oakland County schools, paced by another standout performance by Sheri Rowland. Rowland finished third out of 151 runners with a 5,000-meter time of 19:56.

Sophomore teammate Pam Stoecklin finished 17th with a time of 20:57. Also running strong for Clarkston were Aileen Collins at 22:05, Chris O'Rourke at 22:26, Tracki Sherman at 23:53 and Mary Ann Frericks at 23:59.

The boys' squad placed 18th out of 30 teams, the best showing in years, Coach Mike Kaul noted.

"I was pleased with our finish—we were missing two of our regular varsity runners for this meet, but still gave a solid performance," Kaul said.

Paul Burch turned in Clarkston's top individual performance, finishing 24th out of 195 runners with a 5,000-meter time of 17:11. Also running well were teammates John McInnis at 17:52 and Gil Delgado at 18:19.

Later in the week against West Bloomfield, the girls posted their most lopsided victory of the season to up their record to 5-1. The final score was 19-44, and West Bloomfield was only able to place one runner in the top eight positions.

Rowland led the way, setting another school record with a time of 19:29 on the three-mile course, besting her own record set earlier in the season by 11 seconds.

Also figuring in Clarkston's scoring were Stoecklin in third place at 20:59; O'Rourke in fourth at 21:28; Collins in fifth at 21:56 and Kim Heaton in sixth at 22:36.

The boys downed West Bloomfield 24-37, led by Burch's second-place time of 16:47. Although West Bloomfield took the first and third spots, Clarkston swept fifth through ninth to earn the win.

McInnis was fourth at 17:33; Jim Locher was fifth at 17:47; Gil Delgado was sixth at 17:51; and Scott Coppersmith was seventh at 17:52. The win enabled the Clarkston boys' squad to even its season record at 4-4.

Improving Wolverines deck Rochester Reuther, 34-6

By Al Zawacky

Wolverine Coach John Craven must be wondering if it might just be a dream.

With the freshman football season better than half over, Craven's Clarkston Junior High football team is over the .500 mark, exceeding preseason expectations and looking sharper every week.

The Wolverines' latest victim: Rochester Reuther, routed 34-6 last Wednesday as Clarkston boosted its record to 3-2.

"Over the last two weeks, we've improved by leaps and bounds," Craven said. "The attitude has changed. The kids believe in themselves, there's enthusiasm in practice and they're taking pride in the team."

Against Reuther, a game played at the Clarkston High School athletic field, the final result was never in doubt.

The Wolverines built up a 20-0 halftime bulge on a 43-yard touchdown run by Mark Bundridge, a 35-yard TD pass from Mike Galley to Mike Ender and an eight-yard dash by Bundridge good for another six points. Bundridge rushed for 119 yards in the first half alone and finished the game with 145.

Dean O'Neil made it 26-0 Clarkston on a one-yard plunge in the third quarter, but Reuther came back to on its next possession to cut to the lead to 26-6 on a long 70-yard run.

A six-yard run into the end zone by Clarkston's Brent Card in the fourth quarter capped the scoring. Shawn MacCartey ran for the two-point conversion to make the final 34-6.

Ken Stuk was a standout both ways for the Wolverines. Leading a solid Clarkston defensive effort were Card, Derrin Hunt and Mike Katchmark.

Lakers battle to 7-7 deadlock

The Waterford Lakers Junior A hockey squad was four minutes from victory in last week's season opener at Lakeland Arena, but in the end had to settle for a 7-7 tie.

Although the Lakers had led throughout the entire game and seemed to be in the driver's seat in the closing minutes, the visiting Paddock Pool Saints capitalized on some miscues during the Waterford powerplay to score two short-handed goals, knotting the score at 7-7.

Marc George paced the Laker offensive effort with the three-goal hat trick.

KEEP THE ROOF "ICE BLOCKADE" FROM DAMAGING YOUR HOME'S INTERIOR WITH

WRAP-ON® ELECTRIC
CABLE and SAVE

How the roof
"Ice Blockade" forms

First, downspouts freeze up, preventing melting snow from running off the roof. Then gutters become ice clogged; and heat from the sun as well as the roof causes melting snow to run down over the gutter, forming icicles. When there is an overhang, valley, or dormer, this ice blockade causes melting water to back up under the shingles and drip down through the roof and ceiling—causing damage to both the roof and interior ceilings and walls.

How Roof and Gutter Cable prevents this

Wrap-On Roof and Gutter Cables produce the right amount of heat to keep gutters and downspouts free-flowing. Cables are 115-volt AC and develop 8 watts per running foot. Heavy lead cores bend to the installation contour and hold the cables in position during heavy storms. Cables come with aluminum clips for roof attachment, and a 10-ft. cold lead (non-heating section) for plugging into an electrical outlet. Their neutral gray color blends with roof.

FREE REPLACEMENT GUARANTEE
Every wrap-on product is guaranteed on a Free Replacement Basis without time limit. If the product fails to operate properly, return it to your dealer or to the Wrap-On Co. for Free Replacement.

Clarkston netters place third in league

Sans the services of leading singles player Mary Smith, the Clarkston High School girls' tennis team placed third in the Greater Oakland Activities League tournament last week.

Clarkston tied with Lake Orion for the third spot behind first place West Bloomfield and second place Rochester. The GOAL's two remaining members—Waterford Kettering and Waterford Mott—failed to field a girls' tennis team this fall.

"Unless something drastic happens, Mary should be back for the regionals on Friday," said CHS Coach Becky Craig. Smith, a junior, has been recovering from a back injury.

She was recently named first team All-league, while teammates Sue Stain, Jenny Kithill and Shellie VanKeuren all received honorable mentions.

With only a few matches remaining on the season, the Clarkston netters have fashioned a 2-4 record overall—a statistic that Craig says doesn't accurately reflect the way the team has played.

"We've lost a lot of matches that could have gone either way," she says. "The girls have played some good tennis."

"We've got an excellent team with excellent attitudes and have gotten all-out efforts. Our record doesn't show how well we've played."

Cougars taste defeat, 22-12

The Sashabaw Junior High football team tasted defeat for the first time this season last Wednesday—and in the process gave Waterford Pierce its first taste of victory.

"Our team wasn't mentally prepared—there was a great lack of execution and intensity," said Sashabaw Coach Chris Krueger, reflecting on his Cougars' 22-12 loss, Pierce's first win of the season.

Burt Skelton started the Cougars off on the right foot, scoring on a four-yard run in the first quarter to give Sashabaw a 6-0 lead.

But Pierce came back before the quarter ended, scoring on a 12-yard run and adding the two-point conversion to pull ahead to stay, 8-6.

The lead opened to 22-6 in the second half on a 37-yard run from scrimmage and five-yard dive.

The cougars scored their final points with less than a minute remaining in the game as Doug Colling crossed the goal line from 25 yards out to make the final 22-12.

The loss dropped Sashabaw to 2-1-1 on the season going into this week's game against West Bloomfield. In an earlier game this season, West Bloomfield defeated Pierce 14-8.

Golfers in 'spoiler' role

Jim Chamberlain and his boys would like to rock the boat and make some waves in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

With the 1981 boys' golf season almost over, Coach Chamberlain's Clarkston High School squad is all but out of GOAL title contention. But there's something else to shoot for.

"We're in the spoiler role," Chamberlain says. "I'm hoping we're going to peak for the regionals and try and create a little suspense in the league. We've shown we have the ability, but we've only put it together once, against Royal Oak Kimball."

Last week's Kimball match was Clarkston's best performance of the season, a 22-stroke victory paced by Enzo Duva's 36, Mark Piazza's 37, a 38 for Dan Gaulin and a 39 for Dave Huttenlocher.

Also last week the team lost matches to Waterford Kettering and Rochester, bested Lake Orion and placed 17th in a field of 38 teams at the Oakland County tournament Oct. 5 at Pontiac Country Club.

Piazza had the top score in the county meet for Clarkston with a 78.

The final seconds tick off the clock, and the seniors' sideline erupts with joy over their 20-0 victory over the juniors in Saturday afternoon's annual powder-puff football game at the Clarkston High School athletic field. Lisa Laurie scored two touchdowns and teammate Renee Roberts added another to lead the CHS senior girls to the victory.

Gridiron grit

Senior powder-puff Coach Gary Nustad has some last-second directions for one of his players as he sends her into the senior huddle.

Junior powder-puff Coach Dave Ragatz goes over the next play with his troops as time runs down and the junior hopes of victory grow dim. But the juniors played valiantly in defeat.

The action gets heated and the competition intense as a senior ball carrier [left] charges across the line of scrimmage in pursuit of another first down in second-half powder-puff action Saturday afternoon.

Judge allows Pine Knob restaurant to stay open

One day after opening La Veranda Ristorante, Pine Knob Investment Co. was ordered into Circuit Court to show why operations there should not be shut down and construction of the enclosure halted.

The first victory in the suit was achieved when Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Gene Schnelz denied Borg-Warner Equities' motion to shut down the restaurant, allowing Pine Knob to continue operations until the suit is heard in full, scheduled to begin Oct. 28, according to Anthony Locricchio, attorney for Pine Knob.

Locricchio said he was pleased with the court's decision, adding the restaurant enjoyed a successful opening night.

According to Locricchio, Borg was seeking to pull the permit on the addition, and allow only the snack bar to operate.

Borg-Warner's suit, filed Sept. 2, says development of the halfway house into a full-service restaurant is unlawful and contrary to the zoning ordinances of the township. In addition, the suit charges a breach of the Pine Knob Investment's development plan and says the addition of such a restaurant will change the character of the entire complex, overburdening the service drive with additional traffic.

Borg also charges in the suit that Kenneth Delbridge, director of Independence Township Building Department, failed to require the necessary zoning changes and hearings prior to issuing the permit.

Pine Knob says the halfway house has always existed as a restaurant and that the addition is just an addition, not a new restaurant.

Foster care home for 2 seniors up for review

Ralph Eichorst thinks he has a plan that'll be beneficial to his family's income and two senior citizens—but he needs a variance from the zoning board of appeals before he rents the mother-in-law apartment adjacent to his Allen Road home.

Eichorst is scheduled to appear before the zoning board on Wednesday, Oct. 21, for a variance to allow him to rent part of his home.

"About 10 years ago when my family moved here, we made a place for my mother to live," Eichorst said. "She was about 80 and legally blind. Well, she died a few years ago and we thought this room would be an ideal situation for one or two elderly women."

"The neighbors on both sides of me are all for it," he added.

"We figure (the home) would help us—we could use the money and help two women," he said.

Such a home would require state licensing, according to Kenneth Delbridge, director of the building dept., which limits the number of people in the home to six.

He added he anticipates no problems with the proposal before the zoning board, but that its members will no doubt want to limit the number of women in the house to two.

According to a spokesperson from the Michigan State Department of Social Services Licensing Division, all homes which are to provide supervision, personal care and protection in addition to room and board for longer than two weeks for compensation must be licensed.

Township fires planner; hires anew

After four years as planning consultant for Independence Township, Tod Kilroy's been fired, replaced by a relatively new Ann Arbor firm, Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May.

At the Oct. 6 meeting, board members voted 6 to 1 approving the move, with Treasurer Frederick Ritter casting the lone "no," still favoring retention of Kilroy, at least until the fiscal year's end March 31.

The planning commission recommended Kilroy be kept, Ritter pointed out. The engineers, the director of planning and building "have said they've no problem with him," Ritter said.

"It seems the problem with Kilroy came from within this board—which has the least to do with it," he added.

The new firm, which is five years old, is scheduled to take over Nov. 1, with the interim time targeted for transition.

Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May have been heralded by the township board for its "back-up of talent," and the attitude of its people.

Ayres and Lewis charges between $35 and $47 per hour in addition to flat fees for plat review and the like, according to Clerk Christopher Rose.

"We don't expect any large increase or large decrease in planner's fees" as a result of the changeover, he said.

Descendant announces Beardslee scholarship

CHS graduates from Sashabaw Plains area eligible for EMU grant

By Marilyn Trumper

Anson and Marian (Beardslee) Raymond are modest about their latest endeavor and mum on the "ways," but are visibly proud of Marian's Beardslee heritage and want all to know of their venture.

The Raymonds are working with Eastern Michigan University to establish the Grand Ebenezer Tuttle Beardslee Scholarship for freshman students who've graduated from Clarkston High School and are Independence Township residents, particularly from the Sashabaw Plains area.

"We hope to present the first scholarship by May of 1983 and it should be about $1,000, although we're not sure yet," Anson said.

The Raymonds, who live in Dunedin, Florida, frequent the Beardslee family home on Pine Knob Road in Independence Township, where Marian grew up.

The Beardslees were initial founders of Independence Township, particularly the Sashabaw Plains area, and were the first to hold a log cabin in the summer of 1831.

Another Beardslee was responsible for building the Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church on Maybee Road in the winter of 1856, and still another donated land on Waldon Road for the church's present parsonage.

Other Beardslees were instrumental in forming the Clarkston Community Farm Bureau and were active in the organization for over 40 years.

Specifics of the scholarship and qualifications are still being negotiated between the Ansons, EMU and Milford Mason, superintendent of Clarkston Schools.

It's planned to be announced at the university's homecoming activities Oct. 10.

Anson Raymond, who retired from the Exxon

Corporation, is eligible to have his contributions to universities and colleges matched by Exxon grants on a three-to-one basis.

Marian, who attended Clarkston High School in her freshman year, went on to receive her bachelor's degree in education and master's degree in educational administration from Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti.

Resident offers alternative on property for park

After more than a year of negotiations to purchase acreage on Maybee Road for a municipal park, the Independence Township Board finds the landowners embroiled in a legal dispute over joint sale of that property and has received in the interim a counter offer from township resident Michael Clark.

Clark, at the Oct. 6 meeting, offered the township 16 acres on Pine Knob Road for $86,000. He pointed out that use of federal money to develop the proposed park mandated it be built in Census Tract 3, and that the Pine Knob Road site met that requirement.

Clark said his offer betters the township's plan to spend $126,180 on 14.02 acres.

"The land would provide a nice park, and fulfill my grandfather's wish the land remain relatively open," said Clark.

Treasurer Frederick Ritter pointed out the 16 acres on Pine Knob Road are located in a predominately wetlands area, which is prohibited from development.

Clark denied the acreage was located in a wetlands area, except for passage of the Sashabaw Creek.

Kenneth Delbridge, building department director, produced the official wetlands map which shows the bulk of the 16 acres classified as wetlands.

The three Maybee Road property owners returned to the township the township's signed offer to purchase the 14.02 acres, but because there is still a legal dispute among the three, and no clear title to the property, board members tabled the matter until the next meeting.

According to Ritter, the joint land owners defaulted in their property payments and the bank repossessed the acreage. The three have until the first week in December to redeem that land, he said.

After the meeting, Clark elaborated on his position.

"It boils down to this. In an era where we don't know where the money will be coming from to develop the park, is it smart to purchase land that will cost $10,000 more than the money we have right now to develop?" he asked.

"I've asked people in that area what they'd rather have: A park, or a piece of undeveloped land removed from the tax rolls? The ratio is 4 to 1 that the Pine Knob property be bought and developed."

Clark said beginning Oct. 13 he plans to circulate a questionnaire in Census Tract 3, asking the people what they want.

"I'll hand deliver the questionnaire, spelling out the facts—asking the people how they feel about it," he said. Clark's target is 500 to 600 homes.

Levy property condemnation moves into court

A court battle between Independence Township and the Edward C. Levy Co. of Detroit is moving closer to reality.

The first step in condemnation proceedings by the township to acquire 80 acres of Levy's proposed 400-acre gravel mining operation is scheduled Monday, Oct. 19, in Oakland County Circuit Court.

The pre-trial hearing is most likely to be held in the chambers of Judge Alice Gilbert, said Independence Township attorney Richard Campbell.

An informal conference by both parties involved in the lawsuit, the pre-trial hearing is the step before a trial date is set, Campbell said.

Attorney Walter Mason, a condemnation specialist hired by the township over one-and-one-half years ago after the Levy Co. refused to sell the property, said he cannot estimate the actual trial date.

"The pre-trial should be the last hurdle before we get a trial date," Mason said.

Seventy-two percent of the 4,458 township voters who cast ballots in a special election in October 1979 approved purchasing the 80 acres with .3 mill property tax to be levied for five years. (Three-tenths mill is 30 cents for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.)

The land which is adjacent is the township's Clintonwood Park, is also part of the gravel mine proposed by the Levy Co.

In the past, Levy representatives have offered to mine the 80 acres and then sell them to the township. The township, however, has remained firm in its wish to obtain the property as soon as possible for use as a park that includes a wildlife sanctuary.

The two-year time lapse between voters' approval of the property purchase and the matter reaching the pre-trial level is common, said Campbell.

"It's not taking any longer than any court case," he said. "The docket in Oakland County is a year or a year and a half behind."

Smith says he'll stick with OCSD

Regional police force out for now

By Marilyn Trumper

Discussions with neighboring township officials on the feasibility of establishing a regional police force is just that—a discussion, says Independence Supervisor James B. Smith.

As long as the township population remains as is and deputies' salaries remain relatively stable, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) will remain as the law enforcement agency of this township, said Smith.

"With the population we have today, I think it would be foolhardy at this juncture to step into a self-contained program and not have the sheriff's department benefits, like the crime lab, detective bureau, a jail and its highly specialized expertise," he said.

Smith said he attended a meeting of neighboring township officials to discuss the talked about regional police force, on Oct. 15, because he was invited, adding he did not initiate the topic.

"The sheriff's department has been responsive to our needs. As long as they continue to do so, they'll stay on," he said.

The Scooter Patrol working in Independence is one example of Sheriff Johannes Spreen's responsive ear, Smith said.

He indicated one plan to increase police visibility involves volunteer deputies patrolling the township, in coordination with the Scooter Patrol and regular police car patrol.

The township budgeted $226,296 in 1981-82 for police, allocating $37,716 for each of its six full-time deputies. The figure includes the deputy's salary, benefits and all expenses for vehicles, equipment and support services.

Citizens take to cars in chase to halt 6 suspected thieves

A three-car pursuit by Independence Township residents resulted in the arrest of five Ferndale residents—including two 16-year-old girls—for the break-in of a house on Amy Drive. The residents captured and held the suspects at bay until Oakland County Sheriff's Department deputies arrived. Police are seeking a sixth suspect in the case.

Two 10-year-old girls playing in their yard at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 7 saw a green station wagon pull up outside the house next-door at 6650 Amy Drive.

Two men left the car and knocked on the front door. Receiving no answer, they broke the glass and entered, according to witnesses.

While the two girls phoned the police, the men fled on foot, carrying a white bag. They were picked up by the station wagon that had been parked down the street.

A neighbor witnessed the crime and gave pursuit down Waldon Road to M-15, through the village of Clarkston and down southbound I-75 where the station wagon overheated and exited at Sashabaw Road. During the chase, two more cars driven by Clarkston-area residents joined in.

After stopping their car, the alleged thieves scattered, running into the fields near Waldon and Sashabaw roads.

"I figured if there was a breaking-in it could have been my house, and it was time to get involved," said one man who asked to remain anonymous.

According to the man, all drivers and their passengers rounded up the alleged thieves, who ranged in age from 16 to 20, and held them until police arrived.

It is not known what was taken in the break-in, according to police reports.

Tracking dogs were used in an effort to capture the sixth member of the group, but they were unsuccessful, police said.

Board OKs sale

The Independence Township Fire Department finds itself $2,500 richer following the sale of a portable water tank, reel and hose used in fighting grass fires.

Out of the seven communities invited to bid, only Oxford Township responded, Ronk told members of the board at the Oct. 6 meeting.

"The unit is not of value to us whatsoever. We've taken it out of service," he added. "We don't have the number of grass fires we used to have, and if we respond to one we take the pumper truck."

Board members unanimously approved the sale. The $2,500, Ronk said, will go into the equipment fund.

Melissa Savas wins high school's D.A.R. Award

By Kathy Greenfield

Melissa Savas smiles and her dimples show. She's just received word she was chosen for the D.A.R. Award at Clarkston High School.

The award, given to a senior girl each year, is the first one announced by the school. When her name was linked with the honor of the high school's PA system the morning of Oct. 9, Melissa received a round of applause from her classmates.

"I felt a little silly," she admits, but she also describes her reaction as "honored and excited."

"I thought about it last year," she says. "When I saw it in the yearbook, I thought it would be great, but I kind of forgot about it."

Besides a page in the 1981-82 CHS yearbook, Melissa will receive a pin and be eligible for D.A.R. scholarship awards on the state and national level.

The award, sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution, recognizes high school senior girls across the nation for good citizenship. Using the qualities of leadership, dependability, service and patriotism as guidelines, Melissa was chosen for the honor by the CHS administration, department chairpersons and the senior class sponsor.

Melissa, who is 17, resides on Bridge Lake Road in Springfield Township. Her parents are Sam and Dody Savas and she is the second oldest of four children.

In addition to being senior class president, Melissa is president of the National Honor Society, varsity cheerleader manager, student government member and a participant in the Clarkston Junior Miss Program.

Also active in her church, she serves as secretary for the youth group of St. George Greek Orthodox Church in Bloomfield Hills.

She recently began working with a physically handicapped third grader at Clarkston Elementary School for one-and-one-half hours each school day.

"It's a great experience, because I think I might want to go into therapy of some kind with children," Melissa says. "I've always loved little kids and I'd love to help them."

She would like to attend the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor and major in physical therapy.

Melissa says she thrives on involvement.

"In ninth grade, I was really involved, too, and I had a great year," she says. "Then, in 10th grade, it slowed down and I really didn't have as much fun in school. I didn't like school."

"So I just decided I'd get back involved with things and I made more friends and it was just more fun all the way around."

With all her activities, she does have a breaking point.

"I cry twice a week," she says. "It makes me nervous, it does, to try to do everything and I have to release it and I release it by crying."

The tears are merely a coping mechanism and not a sign of sadness, she adds.

"I'm really happy," she says, and she smiles and her dimples show anew.

Melissa Savas says she felt "honored and excited" when she learned last week she was the senior class girl chosen to receive the D.A.R. Award at Clarkston High School.

New policy: Sharing sign costs

There's a new policy concerning who'll pay for traffic signs in Independence Township subdivisions when residents request additional traffic signs.

In the past, when bills for signs totaled $100 or so, the township has picked up the tab, according to Clerk Christopher Rose.

When word came that the Oakland County Road Commission had proposed the installation of many more signs and bills for those additional signs totaled as much as $1,000, Independence Township government pulled in the reins.

At the Oct. 6 meeting, board members voted 6 to 1 to match residents' funding for signs, rather than pick up the complete bill.

According to Supervisor James B. Smith, the road commission is asked by residents to conduct traffic studies and then offer recommendations on what kind, if any, signs should be installed for increased safety.

"Our usual procedure has been to approve the signs, have them put in and pay for them with our own funds," Rose said. "But the cost has always been less than $100, and once we used $1,000 in revenue sharing to pay for signs."

"We've never had requests like these before," he said of the totals.

"The country should be paying for it," argued Trustee Larence Kozma. "I think we should have our attorney look into it and get some money out of the county."

"After all, they're getting the gasoline taxes, we're not," he said.

Kozma cast the lone "no" vote.

He'll sit on board

Robert O. Vandermark of Independence Township has been reappointed by Gov. William Milliken to the State Tax Commission for a term expiring Sept. 13, 1987.

The appointment is subject to Senate confirmation. Milliken also designated him to continue as chairman. Vandermark serves as a Republican member on the three-member bipartisan commission.

Vandermark, of 6657 Snowapple, was first appointed to the commission in 1977. Prior to the appointment, he was the city assessor and finance director for Madison Heights, and from November 1972 until February 1975 he was Independence Township Supervisor.

He presently serves as the tax commission representative on the State Assessor's Board.

Lunch prices rise

Clarkston school kids who buy hot lunches are going to have more change jingling in their pockets on the way to school.

The price, beginning Monday, Oct. 19, is 10 cents more a lunch or 85 cents for elementary pupils and 95 cents for secondary students.

The Clarkston Board of Education unanimously approved the increase at Monday night's meeting.

Food service director Mary Claya made the price increase recommendation to the school board. She cited declining enrollment and cutbacks in federal subsidies for the lunch program as the major causes.

Milk shall remain at 20 cents for a half-pint.

School inn opens

Looking for a new place to take in lunch?

The old favorite Northwest Inn is gearing up for its annual opening Oct. 20 at Clarkston's Northwest Oakland Vocational Educational Center, 8211 Big Lake, Springfield Township.

Tuesday through Friday, each day school's in session, from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., a sit-down lunch is offered to the public. The food is created by student chefs and served by student waiters and waitresses.

Lunch features the entre of the day, hot sandwiches, special house salads and homemade desserts. For more information, phone 625-5202.

Happy note

Though her cello piece is quite serious, Jennifer DeLisle smiles at friends in the audience while she practices "Sonata" by Romberg for the Junior Miss Program. The 18 participants in the program are spending a couple of nights a week practicing in the Clarkston High School Little Theatre in preparation for the event planned Saturday, Oct. 24, and Sunday, Oct. 25. The Clarkston Junior Miss for 1982 is to be chosen Sunday night when all other awards are to be announced. # Here's Herb

by Herb Rose

Here Muse,
Muse, Muse.

A good muse is hard to find

THE MUSE, I AM told, is a mythical character who inspires poets and other ne'er-do-wells who could be creative. I visualize a rather affable Muse who should come around frequently and whisper in my right ear. It would appear, however, that I have the world's fastest Muse.

Everytime I could use an idea he is out having a pastrami sandwich and a bottle of beer. At different times I've tried to lure him with cause like, "Here Muse, Muse, Muse. Here Muse," but I only provoke quizzical looks and comments like: "Has he lost that lousy Muse again?"

I recall walking into a room where a phone had been ringing and having Anne hand me the phone and say: "It's for you. I think it's your Muse."

When the Muse does meander in looking happy and exhaling a plume that kills flying insects, his ideas are apt to be terrible. At one point, he suggested I write a dissertation on Pliny The Elder.

Considering that Pliny The Elder died when Vesuvius buried Pompeii in 79AD, I didn't really consider it hot news. The Muse insisted that Pliny The Elder had written a 37 volume encyclopedia of natural history, a truly monumental task.

I pointed out that this was true, but Pliny-baby thought people could get pregnant from the wind which was an even more colossal error. At this point, the Muse was miffed and went out for another sandwich and a short beer.

After going two falls out of three with an overweight Muse that reeks of garlic and beer, I may have written some thoughts that have to be translated into typed copy. There is an apocryphal rumor that the typing is done by a member of the Chrysler secretarial staff.

If this story were true, the typist would have to work on her lunch hour using privately owned paper and typewriter ribbon, with the electric typewriter powered by a gasoline-driven generator. The generator would probably be a smoky, smelly, noisy contraption that would have to be started with a pull rope.

The alternate to using her own time, supplies and electricity would be pilferage, and stealing from Chrysler would be rather like importing food from Cambodia.

If a man is going to do anything better than his neighbor, so that the world will beat a path to his door, he should build a better Muse trap.

The Vette legend lives on

In 1967 Corvettes were built with performance in mind.

"They were strictly a performance vehicle," says Tom Rademacher, owner of Rademacher Chevrolet Inc. on Dixie Highway in Independence Township.

They rolled off the St. Louis, MO., assembly line with a $5,000 price tag—as much today as folks pay for options.

And fast. Corvettes were a challenge to every street machine with drivers power-shifting all the way down Dixie Highway.

The Stingray was quick, sleek and lean, a cruising machine with 350 cubic inches of power and energy breathing through dual exhaust, smoking the tires off any light.

Today she's listed as one of the top 10 worst cars for gasoline mileage—proof that GM's still making the Corvette with performance in mind, as much as the EPA will allow.

"But the Corvette's doubled in price since 1967," says Rademacher. "They're $19,500 and up, and next year they're going to go up again."

As always, folks are still clamoring to sit low in the seat behind the wheel and you just can't keep 'em in the showroom.

"Vette production is very limited. They produce approximately 45,000 a year, and for those there are 96,000 buyers," Rademacher said. "By not overproducing you keep the value up."

In 1953, the first year for Corvette production, the sticker price reads $2,800.

"Today you can't touch a 1953 Vette for under $28,000," Rademacher said. "A Corvette is one of the best investments you can make."

No more are Vettes produced on the exclusive St. Louis line.

The last fiberglass beauty rolled off the line there in early August. The new production home is Bowling Green, Ohio, he said.

The EPA fouled the Vette's plugs.

St. Louis production is no more.

The sticker price has increased. But the legend—the Corvette legend—lives on.

—Marilyn Trumper

In 1967 folks could pick up a Corvette with almost a thousand dollars in options for less than $5,500. Not today. Sticker prices of $19,500 greet would-be Vette drivers seeking that same high-speed performance used 15 years ago. One thing remains the same, that Corvette legend.

OCSA patrol scoots around Independence Township

Surprised residents stop in their tracks with mouths agape as deputies Gerald Carlin (left) and Kenneth Hurst of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department cruise the streets of Woodhall Lake Subdivision in Independence Township. The Scooter Patrol is Sheriff Johannes Spreen's latest crime deterrent, with Independence, Avon and Commerce townships targeted sites for the pilot program. Deputies, assisted by a patrol car, are to randomly cruise subdivisions in those townships. The program, according to township Supervisor James B. Smith, is Spreen's way of responding to his plea for additional patrols. "If we were to put in a crime-prevention program ourselves, we couldn't get more bang for the buck," Smith has said of the program. The Scooter Patrol won't pull from county coffers, as funds to run the patrol come from program sale profits at the Pontiac Silverdome during Detroit Lions games.

Awaiting their turns to practice talent routines, Clarkston Junior Miss contestants Ann Colwell [left] and Mary Ann Frericks hit the books. Both are CHS seniors, as are all 18 girls involved in the program which culminates in presentations of talent, and physical fitness and poise and appearance routines on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 24 and 25.

While watching the work of their fellow contestants, support for each other comes with applause and compliments. Between acts, some girls talk quietly, some study and some, like Charo Hulleza [left] and Bonnie Hines, try out new hair styles.

Helping a friend choose a song to sing in the talent portion of the show is serious business for Kathy Cunningham who plans to do a Scottish dance for her talent presentation.

18 CHS seniors prepare for show

The long hours of practice to perfect talent routines and group presentations for physical fitness and poise will culminate next week for the 18 Clarkston Junior Miss contestants.

Dress rehearsal is Thursday, Oct. 22, beginning at 7 p.m. Admission fee is $1 a person.

On Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 24 and 25, the show will be official. Individual talent routines are to be split between the two nights.

Admission for one night is $3 a person or $5 for both nights. Saturday's program begins at 7:30 p.m. and starting time on Sunday is 6 p.m.

All performances are to be at the Clarkston High School Little Theatre, 6595 Middle Lake, Independence Township. Tickets may be purchased by calling the Junior Miss chairperson, Barbara Hamaker, at 625-4041.

The Clarkston High School seniors vying for the 1982 Clarkston Junior Miss title have the chance to win scholarships in nine categories—the title holder, three runners-up, two talent awards, the "Spirit of Junior Miss" award, a craft competition that involves planning a party and a prize for the item judged best made from a Simplicity pattern.

Sandy Bullen puts the mike up to her mouth and belts out "Your Love is Lifting Me Higher" as she begins practice sessions of the tune.

When Billee Hampshire performs her English Hornpipe dance routine during the actual Junior Miss Program, she will be in mime make-up.

Remodeling Mikulskis keep smiling

Country Living

Pam and Tony Mikulski, their three boys, Rob, Derek, Todd and their dog Ginger are all grinning and bearing it.

Paint, paint brushes, brick floor tiles and a refrigerator in the front hall; no furniture except beds in the bedrooms; and a table with five chairs and the television in the family room testify to the hard work and sacrifice of moving into a new home.

By the last week of September, the kitchen was completed so the Mikulskis could begin to feel like they had a home. They're redoing every room in the three-bedroom house.

"We're shooting for Thanksgiving because we're having Thanksgiving and Christmas here this year," Tony said. They expect quite a crowd of people with the whole family attending the festivities.

The Mikulskis have lived in Clarkston for about six weeks since leaving their Redford Township home of 12 years.

"We have not met an unfriendly person here. Everyone says 'hello' or 'have a nice day.' That's not something you find in the city," Pam said.

As an example of the friendliness of people she has met in Clarkston, she cites the day she went to the Village Haberdashery in the Clarkston Mills to buy a birthday gift for Tony. While she was looking around, Todd, the youngest and most talkative, was telling Wendy, the sales clerk, their life's story.

When Pam was ready to leave, Wendy told her if she had any questions or if she could be of help to drop by anytime. The next day Pam was back with a question. She needed a contractor to help remodel the kitchen. Wendy suggested Frank Walker and the Mikulskis hired him.

Tony and Pam met almost 15 years ago at the Chrysler Export-Import plant in Detroit.

"I keypunched while he shot rubber bands at me. The blinking lights of the computer added to the romance," Pam chuckled.

They lived in Detroit after they were married until a shooting on their block unnerved them. They moved to Redford Township where Pam's mother lived.

Two years ago, they realized it was time to move, as "Uncle Sam" was giving them the sign via taxes.

"It was love at first sight when we saw Clarkston. We looked in Brandon and Holly, but the school district was a major factor," Tony said.

Two of the three lively, towheaded boys do not think school is a major consideration. Derek, 10, and in the fifth grade at Bailey Lake Elementary School likes recess the best. Todd, 7, also at Bailey Lake, summed up the nature of kids everywhere.

"I like recess best and I can't wait for it to be summer again," he said gleefully.

The oldest boy, 13, has found a niche for himself at Clarkston Junior High School. At lunch time, he sets up audio visual equipment.

"I think it is fun—I get to see all of the movies," he said.

Except for six months when each of the boys was born, Pam has always worked with computers in various firms around Detroit. She worked at keypunch and editing, then was a service rep. Later she was a computer operator and an assistant in accounting. She has not looked for work since moving.

"I semi-retired when we moved to Clarkston. When the house is done, I will be out looking again," she said.

After graduation from high school, Tony joined the Air Force and was stationed in South Dakota and New Foundland.

"It was beautiful country but not much fun," he said of Newfoundland.

When his tour in the service was completed, Tony attended various schools like South Dakota School of Mines, University of Maryland and University of Michigan in Dearborn for engineering and math.

Tony commutes to Troy for his job in data processing at Foremost Athletic Apparel. The commuting does not bother him and the ride home is the best.

"When I hit the top of the hill, it is like taking a tranquilizer," he said.

It was difficult for the Mikulskis to leave family and friends in Redford, they said, but they are looking forward to Pam's mother joining them in Clarkston. At first her mother did not want anything to do with Clarkston, but Pam took her to Deer Lake Raquet Club for lunch and shopping in town afterward. Her mother commented that there was no Methodist church.

"I took her around the corner to the Methodist Church on Waldon Road—that made up her mind. We expect her to move to Clarkston within the year," Pam smiled.

They wanted to get away from the houses that were close together and give the boys the advantages of country living. Pam and Tony are satisfied with their decision.

"Even now when I go into town I still smile," Pam said.
