Barefootin' for SCAMP

Tired feet are a common affliction Sunday as 689 walkers take a hike for SCAMP. "My feet were feeling sore," explains Patty Trevino as she walks along with her shoes on a stick. Meanwhile, Patty's friends laugh at what they expect her mother's reaction will be when she sees a photo of Patty walking in the road in stocking feet. Pledges gathered in the 1981 WALK FOR SCAMP fund-raising effort total $20,036, says

Pat Loveless, co-chairperson of the event with Greg Seaman. "The kids were enthusiastic and, even though it was a very damp day, they sure weren't," she says. SCAMP is a five-week summer camp program for children who have special needs. The WALK is the largest fund raiser for the program that is paid for with money raised and donated by caring people.

Plug pulled

Realtor says 'no' to pinball arcade rental

By Marilyn Trumper

Bowen Broock, owner of Max Broock Inc., has pulled the plug on Robert Warrington's plan to open a pinball arcade in the village of Clarkston.

After investigating what he termed the "pros and cons" of the proposal, Broock said the plan was not mutually beneficial and turned down Warrington's request to rent the lower level of the realtor's building at 29 S. Main.

Broock stressed that no agreement had been struck between him and Warrington, and expressed disillusionment local business owners and residents had gone so far as to circulate petitions before inquiring whether the lease had been approved.

Parking, Broock said, was the primary reason he arrived at the decision, adding he envisioned renting to a business that would generate "low-volume vehicular traffic."

"I don't think the kids will be car pooling to the arcade," he said.

Broock said he'd been approached with a proposal to place a wine and cheese shop in the building, following renovation, and indicated this was more in line with what he had planned.

Warrington's proposal in late September to open the arcade found business owners and residents rallying to thwart the shop, the circulation of petitions and cries that truancy as well as increased Depot Road Park activity would result.

The opposition culminated when the village council outlawed streetside parking at the park, moved to more stringently outline the ordinance regulating arcades in Clarkston, and fostered a citizens' task force to review problems in the park.

DNR says Deer Lake hassles begin at home

By Marilyn Trumper

Approximately 35 people tired of excess boat traffic and high speeds on Deer Lake filled Independence Township Hall Oct. 14 to voice complaints at the Michigan Department of Natural Resources' (DNR) public hearing.

Eric Olsen of the DNR's Law Enforcement Division fielded audience remarks for two hours and offered two proposals at the meeting's end.

"Let's face it, you people's problem is you want to keep out the transient boater. If I were to give you a recommendation for your problem, I'd prohibit high-speed boating period—but that would mean you'll be idling around that lake. That lets out water-skiing.

"Your other option is to limit the number of keys the township sells.

"You want the DNR to come in here and solve this problem. We were here two years ago and have nothing else to add. Go to your elected officials, they work for you," Olsen said.

Ronald Turner, president of the Deer Lake Property Owners Association, said the organization plans an owners' awareness program to make boaters aware of the lake's rules and to confront violators, turning them into the Oakland County Sheriff's Department if necessary.

Turner proposed three things: to limit the number of boats entering the lake through the township gate, to limit the number of parking spaces at the township access, and to see that "no parking" signs are erected along White Lake Road to prohibit enterprising boaters from parking there.

"We think these are realistic and obtainable suggestions," he told Olsen and Independence Township Supervisor James B. Smith who was on hand for the hearing.

Timothy Doyle, director of the township's parks and recreation department, said the number of boat keys issued over the last eight years had not drastically increased, an indication that increased number of boats was coming from lake property owners, not outsiders, and he produced a fact sheet substantiating his opinion.

"If we were to eliminate the public access and keep everyone but the lakefront owners out, we'd still have that problem," Doyle speculated.

"It appears," interjected Smith, "that we've reached the historical split of riparian rights vs. public rights."

Olsen called for more stringent enforcement to eliminate a lot of the violators, but his statement was met with Smith's immediate comment that the OCSD has two full-time deputies patrolling an entire township and has a struggling marine division.

Another resident pointed to the lending of access keys to outsiders, and said while 180 keys may be sold each summer, more than 180 uses are given for those keys.

"Do we have to have a major accident or a death in the lake before you'll consider it a hazard?" asked Vito Guida, member of the association.

"It helps," Olsen answered.

After discussion, Supervisor Smith and Doyle, director of parks and recreation, agreed they would

PK victorious in federal court

By Marilyn Trumper

After two months and more than 45 hours of testimony in Federal District Court, Pine Knob Investment Co. is celebrating its latest legal victory and is gearing up to face Borg-Warner Equities again—this time in circuit court.

According to Anthony Locricchio, attorney for Pine Knob, on Oct. 19 federal Judge Ralph Guy ruled the resort's newest addition, La Veranda Ristorante, can operate as a full-service restaurant and does not violate the lease agreement between Pine Knob and Borg-Warner Equities, as the latter has charged.

"Elated," said Locricchio, describing how Pine Knob feels on its victory, adding the restaurant's recently built enclosure is near opening.

Locricchio also said Pine Knob anticipates victory at the circuit court level because the facts of the two cases are similar, and it's rare when a lower court rules the opposite of a higher court.

In August, Judge Guy abstained from hearing Borg's charges that the restaurant violated local zoning ordinances, and ordered that facet of the case be heard at the circuit court level, Locricchio said.

That suit scheduled to go before a judge Oct. 28 says development of the halfway house into a full-service restaurant is unlawful, and contrary to the zoning ordinance. In addition, Borg charges a breach of Pine Knob Investment Co.'s development plan and alleges development of the restaurant will change the character of the entire complex, overburdening the service drive with additional traffic.

Borg-Warner attorney Donald Lifton could not be reached for comment.

Pine Knob remains steadfast in its argument the halfway house has always existed as a restaurant and the addition is nothing more than the enclosure of a patio, which will seat the same number of people.

avail themselves to the residents' concerns.

"The problem has not been in controlling the lake but in closing it," Smith said.

Lake water activity came into focus late July when the township proposed the installation of a new boat ramp. Residents immediately opposed anything which would encourage an increase in lake activity, but made an about-face and approved the ramp, asking the DNR instead for a hearing to discuss the busy waterway.

Deer Lake currently has ordinances which include time sharing, a no-wake zone and a no-high-speed zone.

KEEP THE ROOF "ICE BLOCKADE" FROM DAMAGING YOUR HOME'S INTERIOR WITH

WRAP-ON Roof & Gutter
CABLE and SAVE

How the roof
"Ice Blockade" forms

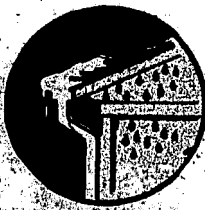

First, downspouts freeze up, preventing melting snow from running off the roof. Then gutters become ice clogged; and heat from the sun as well as the roof causes melting snow to run down over the gutter, forming icicles. When there is an overhang, valley, or dormer, this ice blockade causes melting water to back up under the shingles and drip down through the roof and ceiling—causing damage to both the roof and interior ceilings and walls.

How Roof and Gutter Cable prevents this

Wrap-On Roof and Gutter Cables produce the right amount of heat to keep gutters and downspouts freeflowing. Cables are 115-volt AC and develop 8 watts per running foot. Heavy lead cores bend to the installation contour and hold the cables in position during heavy storms. Cables come with aluminum clips for roof attachment, and a 10-ft. cold lead (non-heating section) for plugging into an electrical outlet. Their neutral gray color blends with roof.

Springfield board at odds on future of pinball

By Al Zawacky

The presence of two electronic games, usually found in pinball arcades, at a local food store has created a few ripples in Springfield Township Hall.

At the Springfield Township Board's regular monthly meeting Oct. 14, the board discussed whether or not the township should tighten existing restrictions on the game devices, with several board members taking opposing points of view.

The board's attention turned to the electronic games when Richardson's Farm Dairy placed two of the machines in its store at 9770 Dixie Highway. The machines arrived in August and are still in operation.

"We have the one at Richardson's, and I can't see where it's created any problems," said Clerk J. Calvin Walters.

Currently, township ordinances exempt from licensing and control the presence of three or less game machines, and Walters said he felt that restriction was adequate.

Licensing every game device in the area would be a formidable task with all of the amusement devices in bars and other businesses throughout the township, he pointed out.

Supervisor Collin Walls however, spoke out in favor of amending the present ordinance to include any number of machines and require that all the devices be licensed.

"By licensing every machine, we'll have some control," Walls said. "It's just one more handle on the situation."

The presence of the arcade machines in other communities has caused loitering and created a nuisance, he noted.

Although Richardson's hadn't experienced any problems, the potential for trouble merited township control, Walls said.

Trustee William Whitley agreed.

"I think the ability to control (the games) is a necessity," Whitley said.

Walters' motion to nix a proposed ordinance amendment that would restrict the use and require the licensing of the machines was voted down 3-2, with Walters and Treasurer Patricia Kramer voting "aye," while Walls, Whitley and Trustee Glen Vermilye cast negative votes.

The board then agreed unanimously to send the issue before the township planning commission.

The board will take up the matter again upon receiving the planning commission's recommendation, Walls said.

Trustee offers ways to tighten arcade laws

By Marilyn Trumper

The arcade proposed for the village of Clarkston is a key issue in the mind of Trustee Jackson Byers.

At the Oct. 12 meeting, Byers offered fellow council members a list of proposals he's drafted to strengthen the ordinance currently regulating arcades.

Byers prefaced his discussion by saying, "Maybe this will put a little more teeth into the ordinance we have. If there are changes made to the ordinance, they'll enforce future applications before the council, and would affect only Warrington's annual application renewal."

Robert Warrington is the man proposing an arcade in the lower level of the Max Brook building at 29 S. Main.

The current ordinance allows no one under 12 in an arcade without a parent, no one under 16 allowed in during school hours and the arcade must close by midnight on weekdays and 1 a.m. weekends.

With little discussion, Byers offered his proposals and the council reviewed the material, but made no decision.

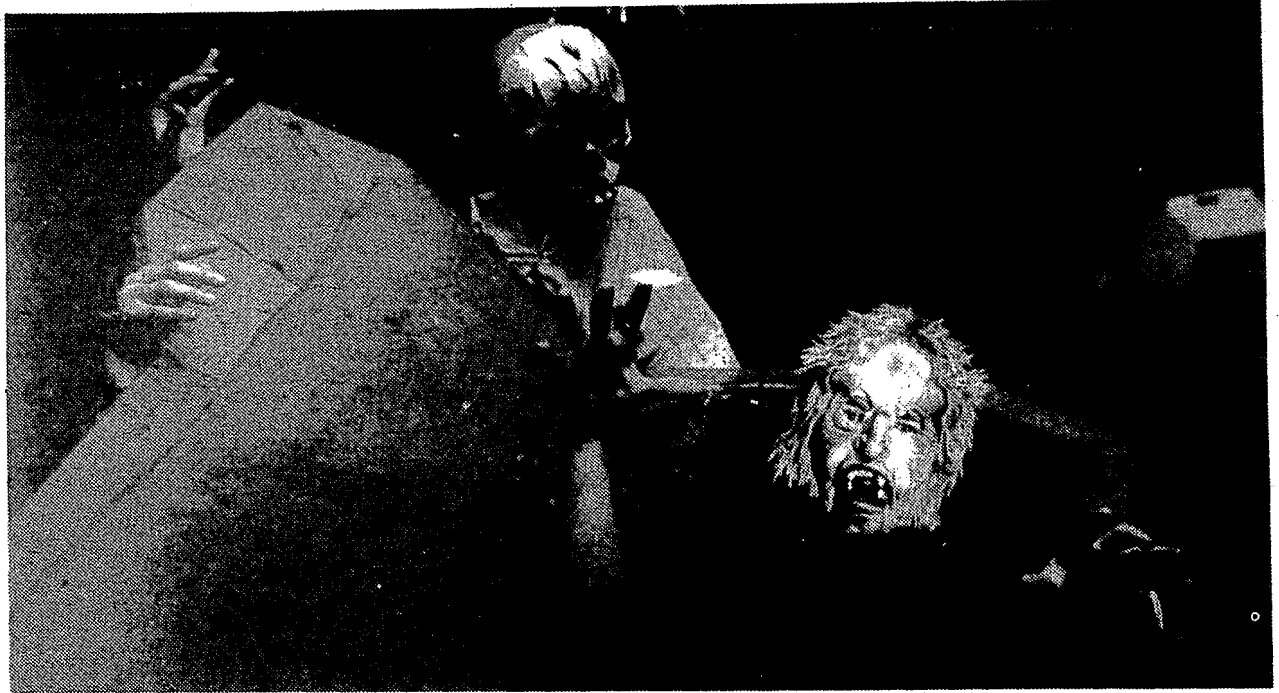

The proposed changes include:

- Increasing the annual license fee to $1,000.
- Increasing the fee for machines to $50 annually.
- Reducing the number of machines allowed from 50 to 25.
- Increasing the license fee to $500 for any excess over 25 machines.
- Prohibiting an increase in the number of machines.
- Considering the issuance of a conditional or probationary license prior to granting annual license.
- Requiring uniformed guard if council deems necessary.
- Increasing the penalty fine to $1,500.
- Raising the age limit to 17, which would allow no one under 17 to be admitted during school hours.
- Establishing a minimum lighting level inside the arcade.

"Couldn't we also establish a minimum lighting requirement outside as well as in?" questioned Trustee Ruth Basinger. "It shouldn't be so bright it interferes with other businesses and residents."

The council agreed it would ask parking enforcement officer Charles Smalley to offer his comments on the arcade issue.

The arcade is slated for discussion at the next meeting, Oct. 27, 7:30 p.m., Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot, Clarkston.

Historic hearing on Wednesday

Clarkston Village residents living in the historic district: Mark Oct. 28, on your calendar.

That's the day Clarkston's Village Council has scheduled for the public hearing on the proposed historic district ordinance, at 7:30 p.m., Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot, Clarkston.

If finally adopted by the council, the ordinance would require residents living in the historic district to first seek approval from a five-member commission before remodeling, conducting major repair or demolishing any of their homes or out-buildings.

It will not, stresses Trustee Gary Symons, prohibit or require approval for painting, ordinary maintenance or repair.

The Historic District Committee, whose sole purpose is to make the final ordinance proposal to the state on the village's behalf, will host the hearing.

The committee is comprised of Symons, village residents and historical society members Jennifer Radcliff and Susan Basinger and planning commission members, Chairman Ted Thomson and Jim McArthur.

Approximately 100 homes are located within the historic district, established last June when the area was admitted to the National Register of Historic Places.

Condemnation starts Jan. 25

Independence Township, armed with its condemnation attorney, is scheduled to face the Edward C. Levy Co. of Detroit in court Jan. 25. The township is trying to gain ownership of 80 acres slated to become part of Levy's proposed 400-acre gravel mining operation.

For the past two years, Independence Township has attempted to acquire the land adjacent to Clifwood Park near the headwaters of the Clinton River, hiring condemnation attorney Walter Mason a year and a half ago.

According to township attorney Richard Campbell, the pre-trial hearing Oct. 19 in the chambers of Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Alice Gilbert was hurried, and resulted in relatively nothing more than the trial date.

Of the 4,458 township voters who cast ballots in a special election in October of 1979, 72 percent approved a .3-mill tax over the next five years to buy the 80-acre parcel. (Three-tenths mill is 30 cents for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.)

New guiding signs

Seems folks leaving Foxys at the Mills are confused and head east on Depot Road instead of west on the one-way street.

The planning commission's coming to the rescue. Upon request from the planning commission, Clarkston's Village Council's approved the installation of signs at Foxys' parking lot exit onto Depot Road, which will be erected as soon as they're completed.

Motel fire causes $60,000 damages

Patrons of the Oakland Motel on Dixie Highway were awakened Saturday morning by Independence Township firefighters who evacuated the building before dousing a fire in the attic.

The fire, which was reported at 7:52 a.m., caused about $60,000 damage to the building and about $3,000 to contents, according to Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

Although there were no visible flames from the outside of the one-story building, an open, burning fire was found in the attic, Ronk said.

"We had to go up through the scuttle holes to get it out," he said.

It took about one-half hour to put out the fire and 26 firefighters were on the scene.

Ronk called it a two-alarm fire.

"We had to call our other stations for additional water and stretching the hoses to the pond (located behind the motel)," he said.

Cause of the fire is undetermined, although it originated in the attic, Ronk said, adding that it was not suspicious. Investigators from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department were on the scene.

All electrical wiring was damaged and the heating units in the motel were shut down, Ronk said, and the motel, located at 6584 Dixie Highway, is closed for repairs.

BRW rep in town on M-15 study

By Marilyn Trumper

BRW of Minneapolis is on top of the M-15 drain-traffic study and is already looking at alternatives to the proposed widening of Main Street to five-lanes south of the village.

The firm's representative, Richard P. Wolsfeld, Jr., was in town last week, reviewing available data with the state, and Independence Township government and township task force.

Wolsfeld has targeted a five-month completion date for the study. A preliminary list of alternatives, what he termed "the first cut," should be available within four to six weeks, he said.

The state's proposal to widen M-15 to five lanes south of the village is in Wolsfeld's words, "certainly one of the alternatives."

"The state viewed that as a safety improvement," Wolsfeld said, offering another idea; to condense the businesses' entrance and exit drives, and utilize side street entrances thereby cutting down on traffic density.

"Our first move is to get a full, good data base of who's using M-15, how many are going through to I-75, etc," he said, adding such a count would be taken by posting people at strategic corners to mark license plates.

The township hired BRW early in September, at a cost not to exceed $20,000, to conduct alternatives to the much debated M-15 widening.

Test review is good practice

I am glad to know that our Clarkston High School teachers understand education well enough that they consider it only reasonable to give students a 50-minute review of math a week before they take the Michigan Education Assessment Program test.

As an adult, I can't imagine taking a test on any skill, without some review or some recent practice. We are constantly measuring our children on competitive activities when our real concern should be: How well can this person complete this task?

I am also concerned about how many good students were discouraged about their own abilities, because they took a test in a subject that they had not been given an opportunity to review.

Perhaps we need to evaluate Michigan's testing procedures.

Mrs. Catherine Lobb

He shares test review disgust

I was happy to see a parent speak out on the policy of illegal testing at Clarkston High School. Two teachers who teach there informed me of their disgust with this illegal math review and felt the entire purpose of this test was useless at Clarkston because of this practice for the last two years.

They further explained how school officials gave the teachers a "pep" talk to encourage the maximum performance in administering this test.

One teacher heard the talk, and the other did not. Their attitude was such that mismanagement was an ever-growing aggravation in the school district and that this kind of practice was common yet other practices were not as visible nor enlightening as was brought out in The Clarkston News article.

You do recall how The Clarkston News ran the extensive interview a few weeks back on former coach and teacher Rob White. In this enlightening interview, we learned of several sour experiences he encountered in dealing with school officials. And yet he was highly successful in spite of school district opposition.

It is my editorial opinion with the information I've learned that a more extensive investigation should be made with the school officials.

Usually with such tidbits of information, only the tip of the iceberg has been uncovered.

Charles Lane

No wonder students can't read

If any subject is a hot one today, certainly the accountability of schools is one.

In response to the letter to the editor, "Bad Name for Clarkston High School," about the practice of preliminary review for the 10th grade assessment test to improve test scores, I certainly get a better picture of why students graduate who can not read or write.

In the article by The Clarkston News, the reporter states that Clarkston's Mr. Potvin says how this practice of pre-test review is acceptable and that Clarkston will continue. Sounds more like it's a problem of who runs the schools and not who is in them.

It seems to me that if confidence is to be built in the schools, citizens of our community should not be told that such policies are used to upgrade test scores. Especially when the review contained the same kinds of questions found on the test.

I'm glad not all districts do this as polled with the two-district sampling in Rochester and West Bloomfield.

A country-wide survey would most likely point to Clarkston's review as an exception. I really do not see how the schools are doing our students a (?) service.

A mad parent!

Thanks for conservancy article

Dear editor:

Thank you for publishing the recent article concerning the Independence Land Conservancy. It was clearly presented and very informative.

The help we have received in informing and educating the public about the benefits our community receives from preservation of open spaces is appreciated.

All of our contacts with your staff and my interview with Al Zawacky were handled very professionally. They are nice people to deal with.

Hit and miss

by Jim Sherman

A few hit and miss items of note this week.

As we entered the dining room of Michaywe Lodge south of Gaylord we were concerned that we didn't have a jacket on.

We were told a jacket wasn't necessary. Indeed, at the next table were 3 young (20ish) couples, and one male ate with his baseball cap on.

Another sign of the "self" generation?

We stayed at the Ed and Annette Offer cottage at Michaywe where they have trained chicadees to eat from your hand. Their first grip and bite is interesting.

If the state of Michigan doesn't want garbage left at rest stops on the interstate, why put the cans out?

I had to do the laundry recently. That's when I learned granulated soap comes in a bottle shaped like it should contain liquid Palmolive. Too, concern for static cling crossed my mind, and it looked like the clothes weren't really dirty enough to wash like those on tv commercials.

Dad told me to "Put that in your paper", so I better do it. He was recalling his days in accounting. He was told to go to Montgomery Ward in Chicago (where he lived) to help audit their books.

Naturally, bookkeeping was up a couple flights of stairs. As he climbed the stairs and rounded the corners he saw that all the outside corners at the floor were painted white.

He wondered why, out loud and was told it was to keep chewing tobacco chewers from spitting there.

I sometimes get the feeling that President Reagan is still acting in a Class B movie, and reading the script poorly.

But, we're behind him. Everyone expected it wouldn't be easy halting inflation, and that it had to be done. There are hints that his plans are working.

Even a realtor told me he was starting to get calls again.

And, it seems about the time anything goes, everything is gone.

Keeping up with times

by Kathy Greenfield

On the same day we began using a computer to set type and store stories at The Clarkston News office, my 13-year-old son began taking a computer class after school.

The class is taught at the junior high school he attends, and although it is not part of the regular curriculum, it is taught by a teacher at the school.

As I think about how different it is for kids now—about the differences in their education—things like computers stand at the top of the list of changes.

I was trying to remember the first time I heard the word "computer." It wouldn't compute in the recesses of my mind, so I consulted my trusty dictionary—the one I received as a high school graduation present.

At this point, the dictionary has served as a frequent reminder that time has gone by. There are many words in common usage today that do not appear in the book that was absolutely up-to-date then.

I offer you the differences in the definitions of computer found in the book with a 1962 copyright: "One who computes. An apparatus for carrying out mathematical operations by mechanical or electrical means, or both" and found in the dictionary with a 1977 copyright: "One that computes. Specifically: a programmable electronic device that can store, retrieve and process data."

I used to keep a list of all the words that were different or not to be found in my high school graduation dictionary just because I found it interesting that language can change at such an astounding rate.

Of course, when I tally the years between then and now, I'm not quite so astounded, but at least mildly amazed. What happened was that someone in the office got tired of me borrowing his dictionary whenever I ran into such a word and he traded with me.

So, I hadn't thought about time's effect on words for quite awhile. When "computer" came into the conversation, though, I knew my old dictionary wouldn't let me down.

It seems like I hear all too often that schools aren't like they used to be, that kids today aren't learning as much as their parents did or their parents before them.

Our kids live in a different world. They know more about more things than I even imagined at their ages.

Violence at Kettering appalling

I am a senior at Clarkston High School and am appalled at the violent tendencies of the people of Waterford Kettering High School toward those from Clarkston.

I refer to the recent football game between the two schools (Oct. 16). During the game, I witnessed one fight below the visitors' stands and I heard of others. The fact that the fights broke out on the visitors' side means that people from Kettering were coming over to our side.

After the game, a barrage of rocks was thrown at the team buses. One very large rock, which has been retained, crashed through one of the windows.

No one was injured, as the players had been instructed to wear their helmets.

I was personally involved in this harrassment, when a group of about a dozen people gathered around my van as I tried to leave the school lot. Due to the bad parking conditions at Kettering, there was a traffic jam. While caught in traffic, right in front of the school, a gang began beating and spitting on my van. One of my side lights was broken.

We were identified as being from Clarkston because my friend was wearing a varsity jacket. They also started rocking the van, causing the wheels to come off the ground.

I am also shocked by the apathy of the Waterford police. I spoke with three officers and all of them seemed to have little or no concern for my situation. They were also among the last on the scene when the fight broke out during the game.

This is only one night's example of something that happens everytime Clarkston goes to Kettering. Something must be done.

Pants and Lions are short

by Jim Fitzgerald

When the Detroit Lions football team runs a dumb play, many people blame head coach Monte Clark. As revealed in an advertisement published frequently in both Detroit newspapers, the dumb plays are not his fault. "We Call the Signals for Monte Clark," the ad headline says.

Kosins, a clothing store for big and tall men, pays for the ad which features a photograph of big and tall Clark standing in front of his blackboard. "Monte puts it all together in sensational all wool and wool-blend sport ensembles from the world's leading designers..." the ad says.

Clark's team is currently 2-4 and hurting. The first-string passer is injured and his substitute can't pass. But that's not important. If I were a sportswriter or a disc jockey, I would do a question and answer interview with Clark about the store he allows to call signals for him. The interview would go like this:

Q - Monte, after reading where you buy your clothes, I bought a suit at Kosins and it didn't fit. Could you tell me why?

A - I haven't seen the films of you wearing the suit yet, Jim. I wouldn't want to give an opinion until I see the films.

Q - You don't have to see the films. I'm wearing my new outfit right now as I stand here in front of you. Just look at me and tell me what you think.

A - I would still rather wait to see the films before making a final decision, but from what I can see in live action, I'd say your pants are a heartbreaker. They come awfully close to your shoes, and your socks hardly show at all. It is very frustrating when we try our heart out and come that close but still fall short of the shoes. But I will say that coming that close makes me feel better about the next suit you buy from us. If we can put everything together right, I still think we have a good chance of covering your shins.

Q - Years ago, when I bought a suit, I always got two pairs of pants with it. If I split the knee on one pair, I still had a good pair left to wear on Sundays. Kosins gave me only one pair of pants. Shouldn't they have given me a second pair as good as the first?

A - There are no second pairs of pants available that are as good as first pairs. If second pairs were any good, they'd be first pairs. Besides, even if you had a second pair as good as the first pair, by the time the second pair learned how to keep its fly closed, the first pair's knee would be mended.

Q - A few months ago I bought a Kosins suit that fit perfectly and I was so happy with it I never took it off, even when I went to bed. I thought Kosins was the greatest store in the world. But now that Kosins has sold me a suit that doesn't fit, I don't want to wear it at all, and I feel like walking around downtown in my underwear and telling everyone I was stripped by Kosins.

A - You are typical of the sports media in this town. You get too elated when your suit fits, and too sad when it doesn't. I don't want to make too big a thing of this, but I think what this town needs is some calm sportswriters who know enough to get undressed before going to bed.

Q - During last Sunday's game, after the Lions were forced to punt, the TV camera showed you lighting a cigaret. Does this mean you are thinking of dropping Kosins and letting a cigaret company call the signals for you?

A - I would want to see the films on that before giving a final answer, but I will say that while it's true sports ensembles don't cause cancer, the surgeon general never blamed cigarets for short pants.

Q - Your son, Bryan, is quarterback for Michigan State, where head coach Muddy Waters allows one of his assistant coaches to call his signals for him. Do you see any big advantage in allowing a clothing store, rather than one of your assistants, call your signals for you?

A - How do you like the new sports ensemble I'm wearing today?

Win 26-22

Wolves roll past Kettering

By Al Zawacky

On a chilly evening in Waterford, the Clarkston High School varsity football team managed to salvage something from this frustrating 1981 season.

A little bit of pride. Some self respect in knowing that the Clarkston Wolves were not about to belly-up and fold this year against arch-rival Waterford Kettering.

Ah, the Waterford Kettering Captains. Owners of the Greater Oakland Activities League's most potent offense.

And by far the most pitiful defense since the 1980 Milford Redskins trod the gridiron.

Both aspects of the Captains' game were in evidence Friday evening as the Wolves came out on top of a 26-22 dogfight to square their league record at 2-2 and overall mark at 3-3.

"It certainly was an exciting football game," said Clarkston Coach Walt Wyniemko. "We knew we had to control the ball—Kettering's a very explosive football team. They certainly proved it against us."

Beating Kettering always means a little something extra to the players, he added.

"Through the years this has traditionally been a very hard-hitting football game. Both teams play hard and records are thrown out the window."

Kettering's defense, however, looked every bit as bad as the Captains' 1-5 record. The Wolves moved the ball almost at will on several drives en route to 22 first downs, 296 yards rushing and 90 yards through the air.

Dave Fulcher, who led both teams with 137 yards on 23 carries, got the Wolves started with a one-yard plunge into the Kettering end zone in the first quarter.

But the PAT failed, and the Captains came back in the second quarter on a one-yard dive by quarterback Rich Miller and an extra point kick by Chris Campbell for a 7-6 Kettering lead.

Clarkston came back before the half ended to take the lead for good. It was Fulcher doing the work again, scoring from five yards out to earn the Wolves a 12-7 cushion at the half.

Clarkston scored twice in an up-and-down second half that saw the Captains threaten to regain the lead several times. Eric Beamer snared a pass from quarterback Mike Stefanski for six yards and a Wolves TD in the third quarter, and in the final quarter Fulcher ran four yards for his third touchdown of the game.

Kettering tallied on a safety and two TDs, one on a three-yard run by Miller and the other on a five-yard passing play from Miller to Bob Hein.

Wolverines triumph

By Al Zawacky

It was all very typical. All very exciting.

Last week Clarkston Junior High and Sashabaw Junior High clashed in ninth-grade girls' basketball action, and the result was a predictable up-and-down, back-and-forth battle to the wire.

And it was the Wolverines of Clarkston that emerged from the settling dust when it was over, victors in a 35-31 final score.

"I thought it was a typical Clarkston-Sashabaw game—right down to the wire with the team getting hot at the end winning it," said CJH Coach Dennis Bronson, who saw his Wolverines improve their season record to 3-5 with the win.

"Neither team is that strong, but I thought we hung in there and kept our poise at the end. And I thought our floor did give us a little advantage."

In true see-saw fashion, the Wolverines held a slim 6-4 lead at the end of the first quarter, but the Cougars came back to knot the score at 12-12 at the half and pull ahead 20-19 in the third quarter.

It wasn't until the final minute of the game that the Wolverines iced the victory.

"I thought we played pretty well, playing in their small gym," said Sashabaw Coach Nancy Foster. "We had them there, but couldn't put it away. We'll get them next time."

Laura Hurren and Bridget Kilcline led a balanced Wolverine attack with eight points each. Sashabaw's Kim Ottman had a game-high 13 points, while teammate Roseann Hirneisen had 10 points. Tammy Putsey pulled down 15 rebounds for the Cougars.

Harriers win one, lose one against Mott

A win and a loss against Waterford Mott and a respectable showing in the Oxford Invitational were two achievements of the Clarkston High School girls' and boys' cross country teams last week.

Held Oct. 10, the Oxford Invitational produced a seventh place finish for the girls in a field of 18 teams, while the boys placed 13th on a 24-team slate.

Pacing the girls' effort were Sherry Rowland in

Smith, teammates shine in regionals

Last week's regional girls' tennis action proved to be a very successful event for Clarkston High School.

The most successful ever, in fact.

Led by a first-place finish by junior Mary Smith in singles competition, the CHS girls' tennis team finished third in a field of 10 teams, placing six players in the semifinals and two in the finals.

"All the girls won their first round," said Coach Becky Craig. "We did really well—the highest we've ever scored in the regionals."

Clarkston finished with 15 points, while first place was nailed down by Brighton with 23 points. Rochester was second with 21 points.

The remaining seven schools competing were Rochester Adams, Lake Orion, Milford, Romeo, Utica Eisenhower, Howell and Milford Lakeland.

By placing first in the regionals, Smith qualified to compete in state competition for the second year in a row. This year's state competition will be held Oct. 23 in Holland.

Clarkston's Shellie VanKeuren also advanced to the regional finals and finished second. Advancing to the semifinals were Sue Spain, Jenny Kithil, Shaun O'Brien and Krista Pilditch.

seventh place with a time of 19:49; Chris O'Rourke in 22nd place at 21:01; Pam Stoecklin in 27th place at 21:08; Aileen Collins in 49th place at 22:04; and Traci Sherman in 75th place at 23:23. Approximately 115 runner competed.

"Sheri dropped back a few places from her county performance, but her time still improved," said CHS Coach Mike Kaul. "The field was tough with several Macomb County teams participating."

Both Rowland and O'Rourke were medalists, and O'Rourke's time represented a personal best for her on a 5,000-meter course.

Clarkston's best finish among the boys' team came from Paul Burch, who took a medal for a 23rd-place time of 16:45. Also figuring in Clarkston's scoring were John McInnis, 62nd at 17:30; Jim Locher, 97th at 18:02; Ty Patton, 102nd at 18:13; and Al Wall, 106th at 18:19. Over 160 runners participated.

Against Mott, the girls improved their dual meet record to 6-1 with a 22-37 victory, but the boys found themselves on the losing end of a 22-36 final and dropped to 4-5 on the season.

Rowland took first in the meet with a time of 20:49, followed by O'Rourke in third at 22:10; Stoecklin in fourth at 22:11; Aileen Collins in sixth at 23:06; and Sherman in eighth at 24:18.

Burch took first place for the boys with a time of 17:16, but Mott swept the second, third and fourth places spots to earn the victory.

McInnis was fifth at 18:12; Wall was eighth at 18:44; Scott Coppersmith was 10th at 18:46; and Gil Delgado was 12th at 19:12.

Cagers snap losing streak

By Al Zawacky

It was the best week since the early days of the season for the Clarkston High School varsity girls' basketball squad.

The Wolves finished the week on Thursday with a 40-26 wipeout of league rival Rochester after bowing to Warren Cousino 57-53 two days before.

A .500 week might not seem like much, but the two games broke a spell of several weeks in which Clarkston played poorly. And the Rochester win snapped a six-game Wolves losing streak.

Cousino is good—they're 10-1 and it was a one point game against them all the way until the end," said Clarkston Coach Dave McDonald. "We gave them a battle.

"We just played well in both games. We made a few adjustments, and the girls responded real well.

I'm real pleased with the effort we had.

"Hopefully, this will turn us around."

Michele Ulasich was Clarkston's leading scorer against Cousino, tallying 18 points and adding five assists. Annette Ulasich had nine points and a team-high 15 rebounds, while teammates Lanette Whitehead and Janet Zografos each chipped in with seven points.

Everyone saw action in the Rochester contest, a game that saw Clarkston on top 32-9 in the third quarter. Michele Ulasich had 11 points, Annette Ulasich and Tracee Antos had eight points each and Whitehead had six. Sue Ketvirtis led in the rebound department with nine.

The Wolves currently hold a 5-6 record overall and 2-3 mark in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

ACCOUNTANTS' REPORT

Board of Education
Clarkston Community Schools
Clarkston, Michigan

We have examined the combined financial statements of Clarkston Community Schools as of and for the year ended June 30, 1981 as listed in the table of contents. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and, accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

The School District has not maintained a complete record of its general fixed assets and, accordingly, a statement of general fixed assets, required by generally accepted accounting principles, is not included in the financial report.

The District capitalizes the cost of its buses in the General Fund and amortizes the cost over seven years in conformity with the revised Michigan School Accounting Manual. According to generally accepted accounting principles, however, these costs should be recorded as a General Fund expenditure in the year of acquisition.

Except for gasoline and food inventories, the cost of supplies purchased during and on hand at the end of the year is included in the expenses for the current year. Under generally accepted accounting principles, these costs would be carried as assets at the end of the current year, and would be included in the expenses for the following year.

In our opinion, except for the items in the three preceding paragraphs, the combined financial statements referred to above present fairly the financial position of Clarkston Community Schools at June 30, 1981, and the results of operations and changes in fund balances for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

The accompanying supplemental information is not necessary for a fair presentation of the financial statements, but is presented as additional analytical data. This information has been subjected to the tests and other auditing procedures applied in the examination of the financial statements mentioned above, and, in our opinion, the information is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the financial statements taken as a whole.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS June 30, 1981

1. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The accounting policies of the District conform to generally accepted accounting principles as applicable to governmental units except as follows:

- The District does not maintain a general fixed asset group of accounts.
- The cost of buses is capitalized and amortized in the General Fund to comply with the Michigan School Accounting Manual.

The modified accrual basis of accounting is used by all funds except the Internal Accounts Fund which uses the cash basis of accounting. Modifications from the accrual basis are as follows:

- Property taxes and other revenues that are both measurable and available are recorded when earned. Revenues received which are applicable to future budget periods are recorded as deferred revenues. All other revenues are recorded as such when received.
- The outstanding bonded debt is not shown as a liability of the School District in the Debt Retirement Fund. Payments of bond principal and interest are recorded.

Papers for camp

Put old newspapers to work and help kids who attend the First Church of God go to the state youth convention and youth camp.

A truck is to be parked in the church parking lot beginning Friday, Oct. 23, through Sunday evening so papers can be dropped off. To arrange pick-up of papers, call the church office at 625-1323.

The church is located at 6300 Clarkston-Orion Rd., Independence Township.

The paper drive is a project of the church's junior high youth group.

CHS takes a first

The accolades continue for the Clarkston High School Marching Band.

At the Montrose Invitational on Oct. 10, the CHS marchers were awarded first place in Class A competition and also garnered trophies for the best percussion and best color guard in Class A.

Bands from Grand Rapids East Kentwood, Southfield and Utica Eisenhower competed in the event.

The Clarkston High School Marching Band is under the field direction of drum majors Brad Collins and Elizabeth Sans and field commander Karen Thomas.

Clarkston soloists include Rich Beckman, Phil Haase, Paul Hayward, Todd Johnston and Ron Wagner. The band's next competition will be at the State Marching Band Championship in Durand Oct. 24.

Going ape

Pontiac State Bank's Clarkston branch employees celebrated Boss's Day last week by presenting their leader, Marty Wheeler, with a Gorilla Gram. Singing from a prepared note, the hairy beast sung a tribute to Wheeler, calling her the world's best boss. Wheeler is vice-president, manager of PSB. She praised the fun-loving bunch at the bank and received the gorilla's greetings graciously.

Give to UNICEF

Money for UNICEF is the goal of youth from the churches in the area as they take part in a collection drive on Saturday, Oct. 25.

A $1 donation will buy four clinical thermometers for a health center in Guatemala and $5 will stock a pond in Bangladesh with baby fish and a potential protein supply for an entire village.

Young people and their drivers are to meet at the First Church of God, 6300 Clarkston-Orion, Independence Township, at 2 p.m. for assignments.

The project is sponsored by the Clarkston Ministers' Association. For more information, call the First Church of God at 625-1323.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Sherwood

Couple share wedding vows

Alice Vandermark and Keith Sherwood were recently married at the Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church by the Rev. Clancey Thompson.

The bride is the daughter of Robert and Mary Vandermark of Snowapple Drive, Independence Township. The bridegroom's parents are Howard and Donna Sherwood of Summerhill Road, Independence Township.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a colonial-style gown of white organza for her Aug. 7 wedding. She carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and peach mums.

Susan Leach served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Sally Vandermark, Michelle Sherwood, Audrey Mandilk and Carol Yates. They wore full-length gowns of peach lace.

Jennifer Planck of Clarkston was the flower girl and Christopher Sievers, the bridegroom's nephew, was the ring bearer.

Scott Traver served as best man. Ushers were Mike Sherwood, Kirk Traver, Mark Brockett and Brad Yates.

During the ceremony, Chris Beadle and Mark Thompson sang "The Wedding Song," "The Lord's Prayer" and "We've Only Just Begun." Mavis Sturgis provided the organ music.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for the 225 guests at White Lake Oaks County Park.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood spent their honeymoon on the East Coast. They now reside on Stanley Street in Pontiac.

Fond farewell

Friends and neighbors bid a fond farewell to Kay Johnson on her last day behind the counter at the Village Bakeshop in downtown Clarkston last week. Kay, an Independence Township resident who has worked at the bakeshop since it opened in April, is leaving the counter in favor of the altar—her wedding day is slated for Oct. 21 at Calvary Lutheran Church. This was the scene at the bakeshop last week as friends and regular patrons threw a little surprise party and presented Kay with a card and a present, a dry flower arrangement.

Workshops for single parents

Single parents, take heed, for the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee is targeting a three-part workshop toward you.

Titled "Going it Alone," the first workshop is scheduled Thursday, Oct. 29, with Dr. Jack Haynes, Ph.D., from the Psychological Clinic at the Oakland County Juvenile Court. His topic: "How to Enjoy Your Children."

The next workshop is set for Thursday, Nov. 5, at 7:30 p.m., with Dr. Aline Doctoroff, Ph.D., director of the Child Advocacy Program. The topic: "Stress of the Single Parent."

Thursday, Nov. 12, at 7:30 p.m. brings the workshop to a close as Dr. Marilyn MacMillan, Ph.D., offers discussion on "Discipline With Love."

All workshops are to be held at Clarkston United Methodist Church, 6600 Waldon, Independence Township, from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

There is no charge, and free babysitting will be provided, says Garry Pullins, social worker.

Those wishing to register or seeking more information should phone 625-9007.

Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee is a citizens' group sponsored by Independence and Springfield townships, Clarkston Village, Oakland County Probate Court and Clarkston Community Schools.

Board sets deadline for township task forces

The Independence Township Board has added to the numbers of the Cable TV Task Force, approving the addition of three men to the post at the Oct. 6 meeting.

Milford Mason, superintendent of Clarkston schools, Andrew Creamer, president of Pontiac State Bank, and Richard Degner, an engineer, were unanimously approved by board member.

Trustee Dale Stuart expressed disillusionment that the three men were actively working on the task force before board approval, and said it was contrary to the guidelines approved by the board last December.

"I have no difficulty with any of those three people," he also said.

In addition, the board voted 6 to 1 to "strongly suggest the task forces (currently working) aim toward conclusion of their operation by Dec. 31 and report their findings to the board soon after."

Treasurer Frederick Ritter voted "no", saying it was important to remember the task forces are comprised of volunteers, and that it wasn't "right" to demand a completion date.

Since December of last year, Supervisor James B. Smith's put the wheels of seven task forces in motion on everything from senior citizens to public safety.

At the meeting, Smith said he had every intention of making further appointments and agreed with trustee Dale Stuart's proposal that a task force to study sewer capacity be formed.

"But, I want to see the studies from those now working, before making further appointments," Smith said.

ZBA adds two new members

The Springfield Zoning Board of Appeals has two new members, while the township's Economic Development Corporation board of directors has retained a familiar face.

Appointed as new members to the ZBA by the Springfield Township Board at its regular monthly meeting Oct. 14 were Ina Golden of Tindall Road and Steve Secatch of West Ellis Road. Both were appointed to three-year terms approved unanimously by the township board.

Reappointed to Springfield's EDC board for a three-year term was Helen Vergin of Scott Road.

Secatch and Golden are replacing outgoing members Wanda Lalone, who had served on the ZBA for two years, and Frank Dennis, a ZBA member since 1976.

The new appointments were made to maintain a turnover of different individuals on the zoning board, according to Collin Walls, Springfield Township supervisor.

"I'd like to take this time to thank Wanda and Frank," Walls said after the new appointments were made. "The zoning board of appeals happens to be one of the hardest jobs in the township at times."

as expenditures in the Debt Retirement Fund during the year in which paid. Bonded indebtedness is shown in the long-term debt group of accounts.

C. Property and equipment purchases, except buses, are recorded as expenses at the time purchased.

The various funds maintained by the District are as follows:

A. General Fund - The General Fund is used to record the general operations of the School District pertaining to education.

B. Student Services Fund - The Student Services Fund is used to record the revenues and expenses pertaining to food service and the inter-district athletic program.

C. Debt Retirement Fund - The Debt Retirement Fund is used to record transactions involving the collection of tax revenues and the subsequent disbursement thereof for interest and principal on bonded indebtedness.

D. Building and Site Fund - The Building and Site Fund is used to record bond proceeds and investment revenues, and their subsequent disbursement specifically designated for acquiring new school sites, buildings, equipment and major improvements.

E. Northwest Oakland County Vocational Center Fund - The Northwest Oakland County Vocational Center Fund is administered by Clarkston Community Schools under an agreement with the Oakland County Intermediate School District, and is used to record all transactions of the Center for the vocational education program.

F. Internal Accounts Fund - The Internal Accounts Fund is used primarily to record the transactions of student and faculty groups. The assets of the fund are segregated and held in trust.

G. Long-term Debt Group of Accounts - The Long-term Debt Group of Accounts is used to record the outstanding long-term debt of the District.

Totals for all funds on combined statements are presented for memorandum purposes only. These totals do not represent consolidated totals since interfund transactions have not been eliminated.

2. Inventory in the General Fund consists of gasoline, and is stated at cost. Student Services Fund inventory consists of food and supplies, and is stated at cost.

3. Effective July 1, 1976, the District capitalized all buses and recorded amortization retroactively on the straight-line method over an estimated useful life of seven years. Amortization for the years ended June 30, 1981 and 1980 of $63,166 and $72,939 respectively has been included as a General Fund expense.

4. The District receives an administrative fee for administering the Northwest Oakland County Vocational Center. The normal fee is three per cent of the Center's adjusted expenses.

5. The District participates in the Michigan Public Schools Employee Retirement Fund pursuant to state law. Payments were made to the fund in the amounts of $506,895 and $460,450 for the years ended June 30, 1981 and 1980 respectively. Substantially all employees were eligible for coverage for both years.

6. Included in the General Fund expenses for both years is a sewer assessment paid to Independence Township in the amounts of $15,717 and $15,520 for the years ended June 30, 1981 and 1980 respectively. The balance due on the assessment at June 30, 1981 is $101,039 payable in annual installments of $15,717 including interest.

7. Contingent liabilities:

A. Workmen's compensation claims:

The District is partially self-insured for workmen's compensation claims. Under the plan, the District's maximum loss since the inception of the program on August 1, 1979 is limited to $322,781. Losses in excess of this amount are insured up to an aggregate limit of $1,000,000. Payments actually made or accrued during the same period for claims filed total $23,871. The difference between the maximum loss and the claims paid represents a potential liability to the District.

B. Lawsuit:

On August 26, 1980, officials in the District were named as defendants in a $1,000,000 lawsuit filed by a former student in the District because of a football injury suffered two years earlier. At June 30, 1981, an assessment of the probable outcome of the lawsuit cannot be made.

C. Sick leave:

At June 30, 1981, the District's employees had accumulated sick leave aggregating 22,120 days. Upon termination of employment, these days are payable at varying amounts per day depending upon the employee classification and the reason for employment termination. No provision for payment for the accumulated days has been included in the financial statements.

Clarkston Community Schools

The year ended with an excess of expenditures over revenue of $699,035. This was caused primarily by the loss of 192 students reducing our membership aid and the state reducing categorical aid. An executive order cut of $117,000 was also added to the difference. Headlee reduced the tax levy over $140,700.

In June the district was voted three additional mills for operations. During the year the district adopted a new Kindergarten through sixth grade reading series. Kindergarten through third grade was implemented and fourth through sixth will be implemented in the 1981-82 school year.

As of June 30, 1981:

The value of all school property and equipment was ten million dollars.

The district has six elementary, two junior highs and one senior high school. In addition, there is one administration, a special services building, two small storage buildings, a grounds warehouse and a bus garage.

The district has 272 classrooms, housing 6,652 students.

The district employs 245 classroom teachers and 61 support teachers.

The salaries of the professional staff range from:

Degree	Minimum	Maximum
B.A.	$11,891.00	$24,776.00
M.A.	12,972.00	27,986.00
E.D.S./M.S.W.	13,621.00	29,618.00

The district has a ratio of pupils to all employees holding valid Michigan teaching certificates of 21:12.

He is survived by his wife, Margaret; children, Clifford of San Diego, Calif., Jeannette of Riverside, Calif., James of Troy, Robert of Lake Orion and Yvonne Jackson of Clarkston; 15 grandchildren; and sister, Mabel Sherman of Livonia.

Following the service, burial took place in Lakeview Cemetery, Independence Township.

Mary J. Suttles

Memorial service for Mary J. Suttles of Independence Township was held Oct. 15 at the Lewis E. Wint Funeral Home, Independence Township, with the Rev. Alfred H. Nead officiating.

Mrs. Suttles, 63, died Oct. 13. A retired Jacksonville State University, Alabama, mathematics professor, she was a member of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association, Waterford Branch, and was a volunteer with the Flower Guild of Meadowbrook Hall, Rochester.

She is survived by her husband, Willard; children, Patricia Llorens-Perkins of France and Willard Suttles Jr. of New York City; brother, John James Jr. of Alabama; and sisters, Mrs. Eloise Freeman of Alabama and Mrs. Dorothy Walmsley of Florida.

Salemn pit prosecution eases

Independence Township postponed a show cause hearing with the J.P. Burroughs Aggregate Division over the Salemn Gravel Pit on Oak Hill Road pending further documentation of what reclamation has been done, according to associate township attorney Robert White.

Burroughs was scheduled to appear before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Robert B. Webster Oct. 7 and show why the terms of reclamation at the 200-acre site have not been met.

"We've met with them and need to see further engineers' reports," White said. "We're still negotiating. They're anxious to extend the contract and are trying to be as cooperative as possible."

A 1977 consent judgment extended the 20-year-old pit's operation for an additional five years, with the pit expected to close in April 1982.

Last July, Burroughs indicated it had discovered additional gravel resources and would move to extend the mining permit to 1987.

Village switches insurance coverage

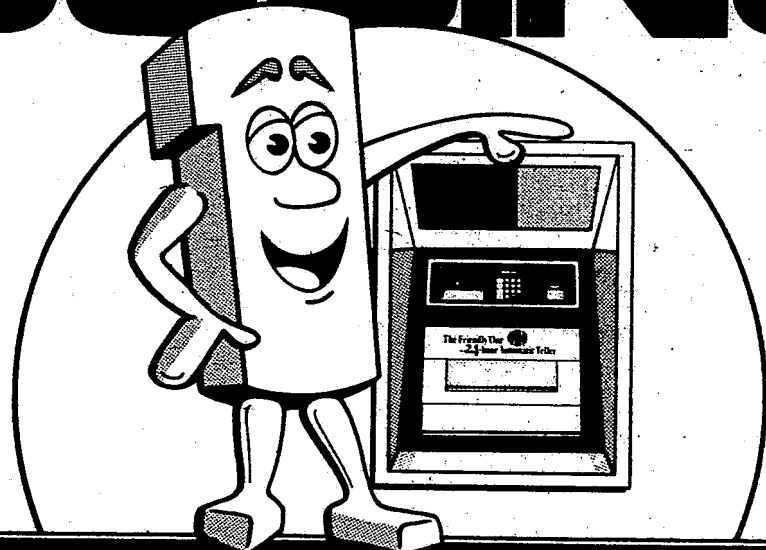

Clarkston's Village Council is out to save itself almost one-third of what it pays in workmen's compensation by going with the policy offered by the Michigan Municipal League.

The change means a $2,498 savings to Clarkston, according to Trustee Gary Symons.

Council members, at the Oct. 12 meeting, unanimously approved the switch from Huttenlochters Kerns Norvell Inc.

The council also agreed to review the rest of its policies and investigate whether savings can be made elsewhere.

Dave Simko can put No. 16 through the paces and push it to the limit, but without an engine the driver can hardly get the car off the trailer without help. The engine blew on the Mound Steel car during the Indiana race, but it's expected to be ready to roar around the oval again in a matter of hours if necessary.

Dave Simko rides fast lane

Part-time stock car racer says it's in his blood

Stock car racer Dave Simko pushes his skill and his cars to the limit at speeds of 165 mph and more.

He started racing when he was 19 years old. At the age of 26, he placed second in the point standings at Toledo Raceway and won most improved driver at Mt. Clemens.

Car No. 16 is a reddish brown, 355 hp, 1980 Camaro. It was brand new for the Sept. 20 race at Michigan International Speedway.

Simko qualified for the 10th position in a starting line-up of 30 cars with a speed of 161.951 mph in 44.458 seconds on the two-mile track.

During the race, the car averaged 165 mph under the green flag. The winner of the race averaged 168 mph and Simko finished sixth.

"I figure I could have finished second or third in that race, but a car blew a motor and the track wasn't cleaned up good so the lead car started to swerve when it hit that spot. They put out the yellow and we finished the race under the yellow," he said.

It was the first time stock cars had been allowed on the MIS track in Jackson, Mich., but the race did not finish as it should have. In stock car races the last three laps have to be run under a green flag, Simko explained.

"There were a lot of angry people in the stands. The flagman was escorted out by five policemen when the race was over. The people were shaking the fence and stamping in the stands and yelling," Simko said.

Every bend of the track holds potential danger and the car's endurance is tested with every speeding second. At the Winchester Speedway in Indiana on Oct. 3, Simko ran 300 of the 400 half-mile laps when his engine blew. Sixty drivers had come to enter the race. Only 36 had qualified and Simko was one of them.

Simko's bad luck paled when there was an accident on the track and Pat Schauer of Watertown, Wisc., died.

"Stock racing is safer than driving on the freeway. We're surrounded with roll bars, but at tracks like MIS and Winchester we can get hurt because of the increased speeds," Simko said.

Faster tracks have been tried by the car. The world's fastest track is at Talladega, Ala., where the average speed is 192 mph. A larger sedan-like Grand National car is used on the track because the aerodynamics make the car faster and more stable.

"If stock cars were used on that track they would just fly apart," Simko said.

His love affair with racing is something he really cannot explain.

"I've always wanted to race—it's just something that's in me," he said.

His dad raced 15 or 20 years ago and that may have something to do with it.

"My dad plays a big part in the racing. He loves it as much as I do—maybe more. He usually gets the easy jobs, but he's a part," Simko said.

He and his dad are not the only ones in the family who have racing fever. His brother and sister drive stock cars, too. The cars are sponsored by the racing division of Mound Steel and Supply, owned by Simko's father. Simko is vice president of the company.

Simko lives in Independence Township with this wife Sherry and their three children—Chris, 6, Kelli, 3, and Michael, 4 months, in an old farmhouse they have expanded.

Sherry met Simko at Mound Steel where she worked as a secretary. Although they dated about a year before they were married, she says she wasn't aware of the amount of time he spent racing.

In addition to working on the car, they go to races every Thursday night at Mt. Clemens and Sundays are for races in Toledo or elsewhere.

"His racing is a necessary evil. There is nothing I can do about it," but Sherry tempered her comment by saying that she would race too if she could.

"You can't think about the possibility of things happening, you just have to put that thought out of your mind," she said.

On Oct. 11, Simko and No. 16 expect to race at Hartford in western Michigan. As of Tuesday, Oct. 6, they had not yet fixed the blown engine from the week before.

"It only take a couple of hours to replace an engine. Sometimes they change an engine at the race—but there's nothing like waiting 'til the last minute," Sherry chuckled.

The costs to keep a stock car racing vary widely, but Simko estimates the cost to run between $20,000 and $60,000 a season with winnings only partially off-setting the expenses. Last year they took in $25,000, but this year only $15,000 has been won so far.

"There's a lot of luck involved, like being in the wrong place at the right time. For me it's a hobby and it's hard to race against the guys who do it full time," Simko said.

He started racing with what he calls "basic junk." As his experience grew so did the money and the capability to move up to better machines, he said.

Despite Simko's part-time stock car racer status, Sherry had a prediction about his future.

"Watch him close, he's really going to be something special," Sherry said.

Sherril Bailey's fourth grade class from Andersonville Elementary School proudly pose with their handiwork—a wide variety of cakes, breads and cookies prepared for the class baking contest held last week. Every entry won an award, and preparing all the good stuff was fun—but the real fun started after the judging when it was time for everyone to do a little nibbling.

Andersonville 4th graders bake way to party

A class of Andersonville Elementary School fourth graders were recently busy creating masterpieces to tempt the most discerning of palates:

The occasion was a special baking contest, and on Monday morning, Oct. 12, everything from breads to cakes to cookies to pizza pies arrived in teacher Sherri Bailey's classroom to be judged by three impartial arbiters.

The trio of tasters: Andersonville Principal Lynn Jervis, Cafeteria Manager Jean Beaumont and parent helper Sue Adams.

All the dishes won awards based on such qualities as taste, appearance, sweetness and originality. Parents were allowed to supervise and help read the directions, but no other help was permitted and each dish had to be prepared from scratch.

The kids who participated were Tammy Berney, Jennifer Chester, Shona Davenport, Marc Emery, Mark Garcia, Todd Bennett, Wendy Gravlin, Jeffrey Gruber, Heidi Grunwald, Jennifer Hunkele, Dennis Miller, James Morris, Amy Newmarch, Jack Roek, Monica Schram, Rusty Toth, Tracy Trethewey, Michael Vines, Laura Wendt and David Wilson. Three non-participating classmates—Jerry George, Guy Kennedy and Bernadette Roy—were given awards as "official tasters."

And after the judging was over, it was time for the best part: Sampling all of the entries.

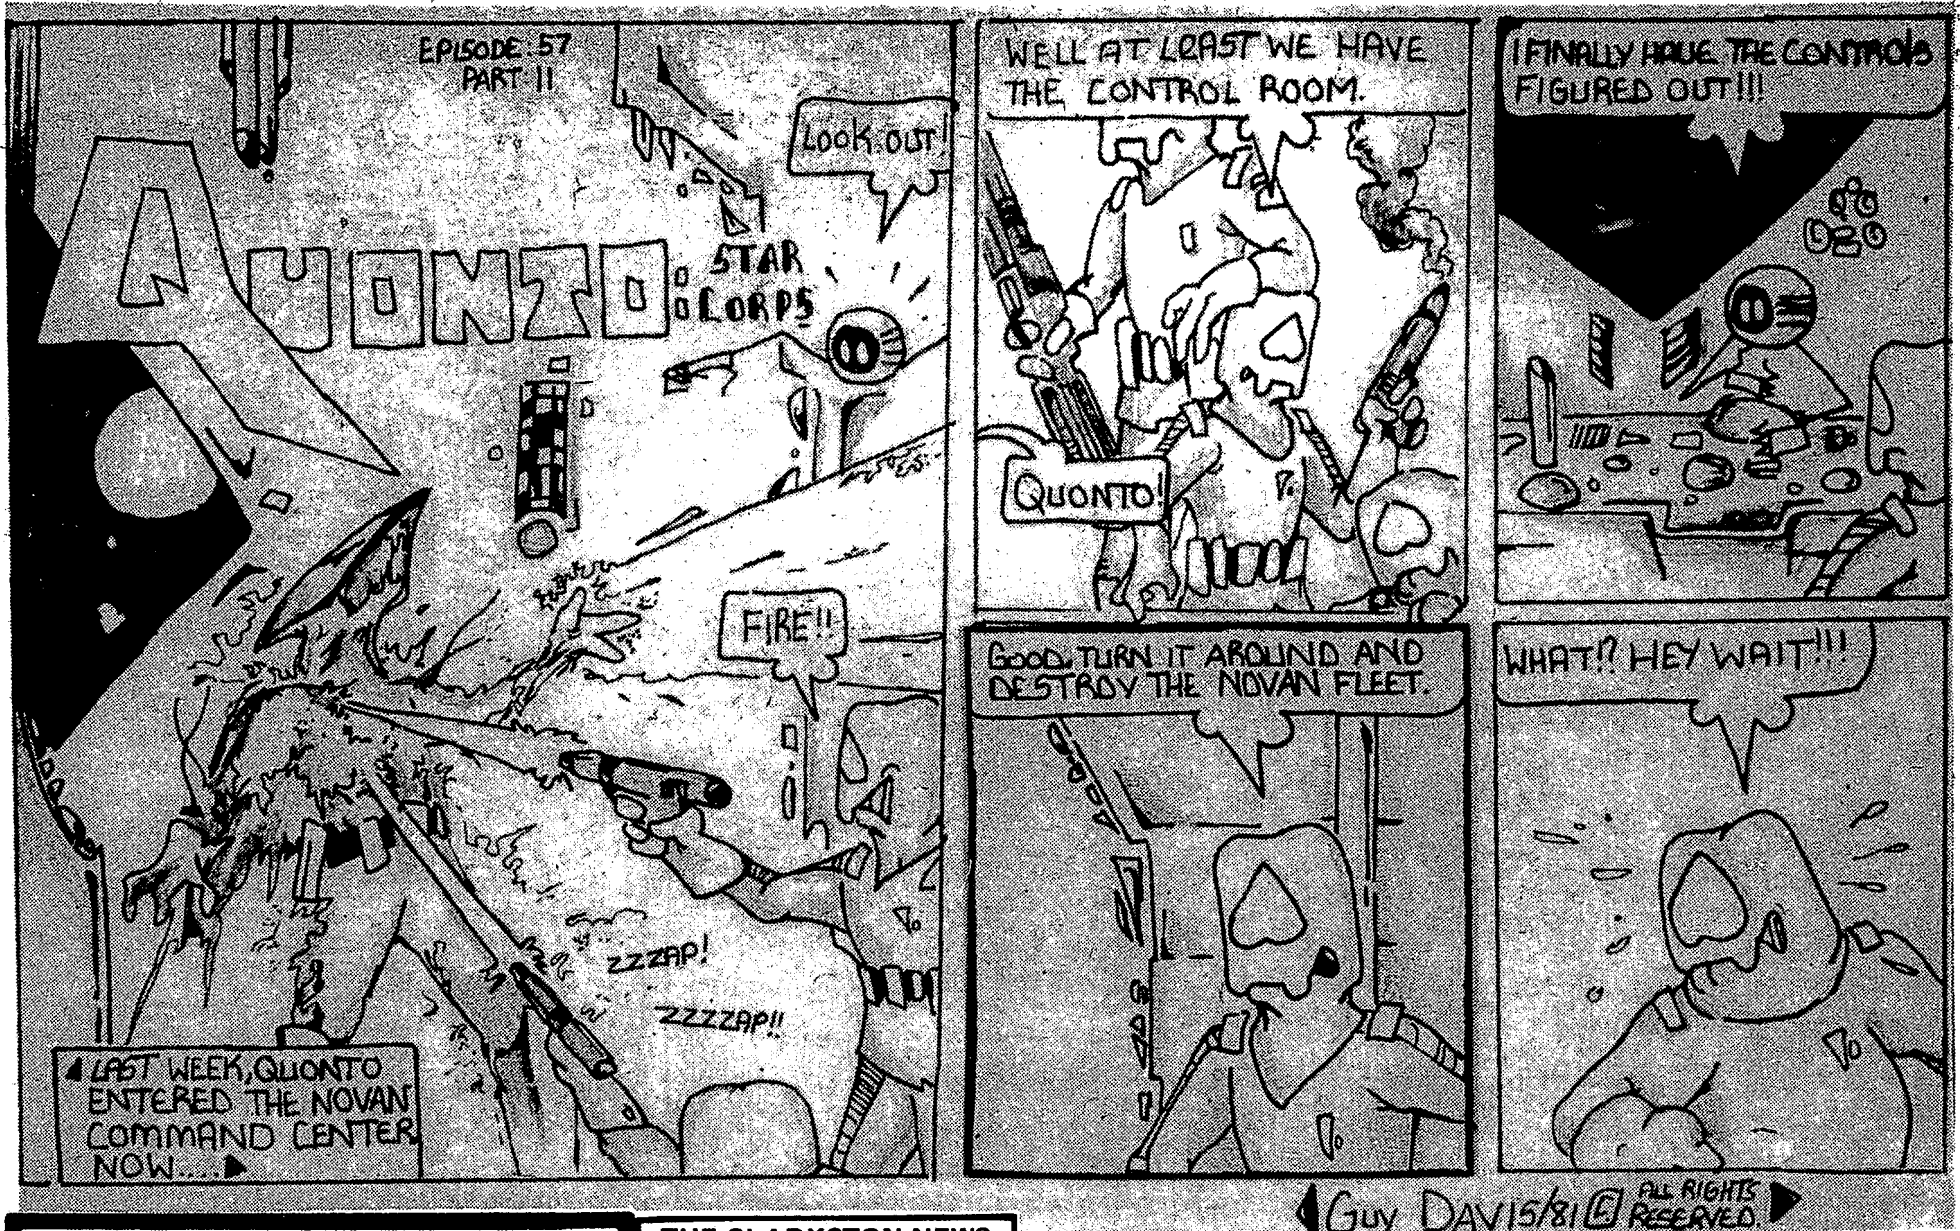

Principal Lynn Jervis and Cafeteria Manager Jean Beaumont sample a morsel of cake and arrive at a unanimous verdict: Delicious. Judging a baking contest was a task worth volunteering for, the tasters agreed.

After the judging, everybody had a chance to sample all of the oven-baked masterpieces, and with that big of a selection, the choices didn't always come easy.

Hmmmmmm—another selection is pondered while Sue Adams, one of the three judges in the baking contest, puts her spatula to use and serves up another wedge of cake.

The coach in action: Mike gives his young goalie a few pointers at a recent practice session in preparation for the upcoming season.

The Lalones: A family on ice

Dot Lalone leafs through a mass of papers and envelopes on her lap.

Registration forms. Entry forms. Schedules.

Suddenly, the phone is ringing—for the third time in the last few minutes.

"It's like this all the time," she chuckles, excusing herself and heading for the phone.

A few minutes later, it's back to the paperwork.

Call it the life of a hockey mom. Dot Lalone could tell you all about it, for the Lalones are a hockey family, spending much of their time in the chilly corridors of Waterford Township's Lakeland Arena—and loving every minute of it.

"I think my life revolves around these sheets of paper," she laughs. "But one thing is, I know where my kids are. They're playing hockey, they're not in any kind of trouble."

"Southfield's rink has got a logo up that says, 'Keep a boy out of trouble—put him on ice.' I think that true hockey is a family sport. And it's not just moms and dads that come out, it seems like everybody comes to watch the kids skate."

Credit husband Mike with his family's involvement in "the world's fastest sport."

"We used to live on the lake," he recalls, "and in the wintertime there's not much to do except slide down the hill and skate. And my family's from Canada, and that's their national sport up there."

"I've just always enjoyed the game. I played football also, but I prefer hockey."

Mike played for the short-lived Waterford Township High School hockey team back in the late 1960s. Those were my dates back in high school—hockey games," Dot laughs.

Today, Mike's four sons do the playing, while their dad sticks primarily to coaching, sponsoring teams and some occasional officiating.

The Lalone boys—12-year-old Kevin, 10-year-old Alex, 9-year-old Chris and 6-year-old Matt all spend their share of time shuttling between Lakeland Arena and the family's Springfield Township home.

"There's really nothing to do out here, and I see no point in having the kids sit in front of the TV set all day," says Dot. "It's not good for them, and it's not good for me."

"Hockey keeps them busy, and they have other things, too—the Cub Scouts, the Boy Scouts and they're altar boys in church. We always try to do things together as a family."

Those extra activities take over in the summer months, hockey's off-season. "Six months (of hockey) is long enough," Dot chuckles.

Yet even in the summer heat, the ice is there and kids are on skates for activities like the special hockey school held at Lakeland this past summer, featuring the likes of Detroit Red Wings Paul Woods, Mark Kirton and Willie Huber in the role of instructors.

"The kids just ate that up," says Dot. "Seeing a real Red Wing right there on the ice with you is a big thrill for them."

Mike's involvement in coaching and sponsoring and Dot's work as an organizer haven't gone unacknowledged by their peers. The Lalones were recently named co-recipients of the "Ray Graham Trophy," named after the founder of the Lakeland Hockey Association and awarded annually to the "person or persons who give of themselves to the ideals of amateur hockey and the ideals of this association."

"Everybody we've met in hockey has been just super," Mike says. "It's a costly sport, and I guess you've got to be a fanatic to get involved. If you're just a marginal fan, you're not going to go to all that expense."

"We have an understanding with the boys, though, that if they want to skate they've got to maintain a good level in school. You have to keep things in perspective."

Mike owns and operates a well drilling and construction business. He builds "a house or two a year," and the family will often live in a completed house until it sells.

That translates into a lot of moving over the years. The last house Mike built in Springfield Township sold so quickly that the family had to move to a new house on Andersonville Road where they're currently renting.

"We're both from Waterford, and came out here in 1975," says Dot. "We've moved around quite a bit, but it's usually just down the road."

The Lalone building business recently tied in with the family's Lakeland Arena life. Mike contracted to do the work on Lakeland's newest addition, recently finishing a pizza parlor inside the arena near the concession stand.

"Whole teams used to drive up to Little Caesar's after the game," says Dot. "They closed down, and the rink got the idea that why should people be driving when they could get together after the game right here?"

Three cheers for Lakes' varsity squad

Judy Mauro Schwartz and her girls have reason to be proud.

In August, Coach Schwartz and her Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes varsity cheerleaders traveled to Lansing to compete in the United State Cheerleaders Association National Championship, and the results made it worth the trip.

The girls placed seventh nation-wide in team competition, fourth in the Pom Pon division and had a seventh place in the individual competition from Ann Margaret Mauro.

Thousands of girls from class A through D schools all over the country combined to compete just to qualify for the national event, Coach Schwartz points out.

"Seventh place nationally is a big accomplishment for a small school," she says. "It's a big accomplishment for any school, but especially a small school like Our Lady of the Lakes."

The OLL cheerers also attended cheerleading camp in early August and placed second in team competition. Ann Margaret Mauro and Kathy Rigonan placed second and in the top 10 respectively in individual competition.

The team members are De Ann Foran, Kathy Rigonan, Mary Lucas, May Zurbriggen, Ann Margaret Mauro, Tania Attman, Kara Joyce, Alicia Paramo and Beth Pasterz, all of Waterford Township; Lisa Nuss of Pontiac Township; Audrey Hryckowian of Holly Township; and Sue Wheatley of Brandon Township. Coach Judy Mauro Schwartz resides in Independence Township.

Clarkston 9, local doctor, librarian cross Free Press Marathon finish line

Jefferson Avenue throbbed with the human spirit Sunday morning, Oct. 11, as 4,962 runners plodded, thrashed, pranced their way through 26 miles, 385 yards of the muscle-challenging, brow-sweating, foot-flapping Detroit Free Press International Marathon 1981.

Intermingled in the mesh of flesh was Springfield Township's Arnold Berman, M.D. who claimed final position 299, Independence Township librarian Jim Hibler and eight of the "Clarkston 9," geared up for this race as a team.

The gun's fire at the start released a sea of finely tuned, tightly honed bodies, moving, pushing, pulsating with rhythmic limbs and even breathing...and smiles on most every runner's face.

Miles and hours later, they came trickling up the grade under Jefferson Avenue with a tunnel vision for the Belle Isle Bridge with hair blowing back over heads, arms held at 90-degree angles, shoulders moving rhythmically back and forth and running shoes slapping the pavement.

A 300-pound man stood with his wife and child and vigorously clapped, cheered and coaxed on all that he could not do.

Some runners, fed on the crowd's applause and whoops of encouragement, smiled and continued on.

Others, painfully holding a complaining side, eyes pinched in pain, brows furrowed, lips parted in a silent moan, slowed to a walk and limped the remaining miles.

Dick Greenfield of Clarkston was one of those runners, plodding across the line in 4:04:48.

Hailed by his fellow "Clarkston 9," Greenfield, 39, says his legs "turned to stone" at the 17-mile mark.

"I started out strong, took a fast lead, set a good pace for the Clarkston group—and my legs turned to stone at the 17-mile mark. I started walking and hobbled across the finish line.

"I was disappointed," he said. "After planning to run it in well under three-and-one-half hours, well...

"But overall, I had a great time—until I couldn't run anymore."

John Shupe of Waterford Township took the best time of the "Clarkston 9," marking 3:37:10 as his time when he crossed the line.

Jill and Fred Jones, the husband and wife teacher-police officer running team, ran each other across the finish line at 3:55:29.

Pat Portenga, 43, who suffers from stress fractures, completed the 26-mile run in 4:04:49. Her husband, Dick, who had every intention of starting with the rest in Windsor's Jackson Park, suffered a bout with the flu and had to toss in his running shoes.

Portenga, who ran the Free Press marathon in 1979, mounted a bicycle and rode alongside his wife Pat for the last six miles of the race.

Bruce Olsen, 49, another favored runner of the group, crossed the finish line in 4:08:55.

Herschel (Roy) Fry, 48, of Paramus Drive, Independence Township, clocked in at 4:11:00.

"Not bad," said Fry, describing how he felt as he crossed the line. "I had sore toes and muscles—but I was in pretty good shape. I did a little better last year, 3:57:00, and I trained harder this year—really thought I had a better base. But boy, you know it's hard to hold back all that energy."

"You're healthy, in good shape, you've eaten all the right foods and you have all that energy inside."

Fry speculated he spent his strength in the first 15 miles of the race.

Pat Evans, 44, a teacher at Clarkston Junior High School, finished at 4:21:07.

Her daughter Kara and friend Linda Brown, who flew in from Denver, ran her in from the 23-mile mark.

Librarian Jim Hibler, 33, crossed the finish line in 3:00:37, placing 496, and said he felt "real good."

"I ran with a friend of mine and his wife rode along on a bicycle," Hibler said. "We came in at the same time, and used the buddy system, did some talking back forth.

It was tough at the end," he said, adding he felt the pressure the last six miles of the race.

Arnold Berman of Ellis Road, Springfield Township, came in position 299 out of almost 5,000 runners, in the top 7 percent of the pack.

"I felt pretty good," the 30-year-old Berman said of the finish. "I'm a little stiff today—but other than that, I'm OK."

Uncle Sam stepped in; goodbye to postal pick-up

Walking into downtown Clarkston to the village post office for the daily mail pick-up was routine fare for village residents up until 1956.

It was then city delivery to residents' front doors came into its own—and in exchange, took some of the personality out of being a small town postmistress.

Years ago, a walk to the post office was necessary before folks could collect their daily mail. Today, it's delivered via truck to waiting mailboxes—or to the front door.

"I used to know everybody," says Elizabeth Ronk, who stepped down from the job in 1970 after 34 years behind the counter.

"The post office was in the building where the lawyers are now on Main Street, between the bank and the beauty shop. We must have had, oh, 300 to 350 (post office) boxes," she said.

"I knew everyone up and down Main Street and Holcomb—now since I've retired, not anymore. This town has changed and the people who lived there are all gone now."

There were regular Clarkstonites who refused the door-to-door service, opting instead to continue the daily trek to the post office to pick up their mail.

Their presence kept the old feeling alive, Mrs. Ronk said.

There've been many changes over the years in the post office, but one of the major changes has been in the price of a stamp.

"When I started in 1936, stamps were 3 cents. Now," she laments, "they're 18-cents."

But still, one of the best bargains around.

"You can say a lot for 18 cents," she laughs.

All Savers Certificate

At PSB you get something extra

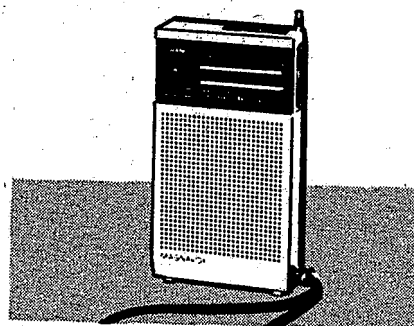

A yield of 12.14% is a good return on savings. Keeping your money away from the tax collector makes it even better. And getting a free gift from Pontiac State Bank puts icing on the cake.

You can do it by opening an All Savers account of $5,000 or more. You can have your choice of a free Magnavox portable radio or a free Unisonic ultra thin calculator that's no bigger than a credit card.

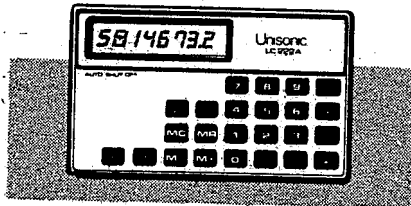

The certificate earns tax free interest — free from both federal and Michigan income taxes — up to $2,000 on a joint return or $1,000 on an individual return.

The total value can be more than the after-tax yield on money market certificates. With a joint return, for example, you'd come out ahead if your taxable income is over $25,000. On an individual return, the figure is $18,000.

Choose a free gift

Magnavox Pocket Radio. Portable AM-FM. Telescopic FM antenna. Earphone jack. Wrist strap. 2½ inch speaker. DC operation. 4 AA batteries not included.

Unisonic Calculator. As small as a credit card. 8 digit, full function calculator. Easy-to-read display. 4 key memory. Percent key with add-on discount. Complete with stitched case. Batteries included.

Choose either the radio or calculator as a free gift when you open an All Savers account for $5,000 or more.

Offer expires October 31, 1981. Regulations require only one gift per account.

With an All Savers, your money is secure. All depositors are insured up to $100,000 by the FDIC. And the interest rate is guaranteed for one full year at 12.14% if you open your account this month.

To receive the free gift, a deposit of $5,000 or more is required, but you may want to take out an All Savers certificate for the interest and tax exemption. The minimum deposit is only $500. In any case, be sure you can leave the money in the bank for the full term of one year. Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal and loss of the tax exemption.

If you pay high taxes, the All Savers certificate could give you a higher after-tax yield than any other savings plan. To open your account, just come to any PSB office.

TLC with car seats saves lives

By Marilyn Trumper

"Tender Loving Care for Tender Living Cargo."

That's the Oakland County Health Division's slogan promoting use of car seats and safety belts for infants, toddlers and kids in cars.

Automobile accidents are the number one cause of death and injury in children between 1 and 14 years of age in the United States.

It's also the major cause of epilepsy and paraplegia.

In a 25 mph crash, a young child unrestrained feels an impact similar to being thrown from a three-story window.

"Those figures alone are enough of a reason to use a child restraint," says Ellen McCoey, community health educator and program coordinator.

According to McCoey, child restraints, seat belts and car seats, have proven 95-percent effective in preventing injury or death.

The three most responsible causes of death, which could be prevented with use of restraints, include: being thrown through a windshield, around the car or into another passenger; being crushed by an unrestrained adult or being thrown from the car, she said.

McCoey cites what she calls a "big step."

In April, 1982, a new Michigan law takes effect requiring all drivers except bus and taxi drivers, to require occupants 4-years-old or younger be restrained.

She warns adults to use only car seats labeled "dynamically tested," which means they've been proven to withstand crash forces, and says parents purchasing used car seats can investigate their strengths by writing her at Oakland County Child Passenger Safety Project, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac, 48053, or by calling 858-1394.

In addition, McCoey says the department offers films, speakers, exhibits and more information on and about car restraints and their relationship to children.

Nestled snugly in the car seat is Scott Bickerstaff who just celebrated his first birthday. Mother Dana says she never takes Scott anywhere without first strapping him in tightly. Working in an insurance office, Dana says she's seen the worst of what can happen when a child's involved in an accident. Scott's oblivious to any possible mishap as he pensively sucks on a finger.

Jaycettes help keep babies safe

Infants...toddlers and suddenly they're kids.

So quickly they outgrow everything from clothes to car seats, and the latter can be an expensive investment.

To encourage the use of car seats, and save parents from that costly investment, the Holly Jaycettes offer car seats for rent at $12 a year with $6 of that refunded when the seat's returned.

"We've been offering the program for four years, and in that time we've received five phone calls saying, 'Thank you, you saved my baby's life,'" said Holly Jaycette Angie Rhodes.

"In all there are 172 chapters of the Jaycettes in this state, and I'll bet at least 100 of them offer the rental service," she added.

The Jaycettes purchase the car seats from the General Motors Corp., and rent them as a non-profit project.

They offer infant and toddler seats which will fit children from 9 months up to 50 pounds, she said.

"We call it B.U.B.S.—Buckle Up Babes for Safety," Angie said.

Those wishing to rent a car seat can call Angie at 634-1996.

NATURE AND EARTH UNITED WITH SCIENCE

Judy Vlock and her husband wanted more children, but none had appeared since their son was born nine years ago—until she started back to college. She thinks all the walking to classes had something to do with it. Jason Jeremy was born in August.

2 birthing room pros say it's great

Home-like and comfort are the kinds of words used when two Clarkston-area mothers describe their experiences with the birthing room at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac.

Both women became aware of the birthing room through prenatal classes at the hospital. At the end of the classes, the couples were shown the facilities connected with delivering a baby, including the birthing room and labor and delivery areas.

They checked with their doctors and their desire to use the birthing room was OK'd.

Michelle Locher delivered John just three weeks ago.

"I really liked not having to be moved from the labor room to the delivery room. The birthing room was pretty with a friendly atmosphere and it was sterile without looking sterile," she said.

Emergency and other equipment necessary to delivery is stored behind a curtained wall in the room, thus decreasing anxiety and enhancing relaxation.

"It's not all staring you in the face reminding you that something could go wrong," Michelle said.

Judy Vlock and her husband have a daughter, 14, and a son, 9. Jason Jeremy was born in August of this year and the birthing room was a new experience for them.

The private bathroom was appreciated not only for Judy's own convenience, but it made things easier for her guests. Her father and her husband watched television in the room with her, one in the large Hitchcock-style rocking chair and the other in the winged-back chair, while they waited for the new member of the family to arrive.

"It was private and home-like and I was very relaxed. It was a thrilling experience and the nurses were excellent," Judy said.

Birthing room: New concept blends comforts of home, safety of hospital

By Laura Bickley

The birthing room at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital in Pontiac, in operation since May, has been enthusiastically received by the patients, doctors and nurses.

"Our first couple was just bubbling—they could not thank us enough," said Flo Capili, supervisor of OB and delivery at the hospital.

"The OB nurses see the happiness and excitement of the couple and that is very rewarding," Capili said.

The birthing room was started when patient inquiries about such facilities increased. Capili wrote a proposal and submitted it to the hospital. It was approved and the $6,000 birthing bed was purchased.

Specially designed, the bed looks like an average brass bed, but it has been engineered to suit its purpose. The lower third pulls away to become a seat for the doctor. The height of the bed is electrically controlled, along with the head and knee sections.

Capili, the OB nurses and the doctors were not familiar with birthing rooms when the idea first was suggested.

The nurses went to Providence Hospital's Birthing Center and a birthing bed company introduced the concept to the doctors with film and video tape. The doctors visited other hospitals to gain experience with the procedures.

At St. Joseph's, a delivery room with a window already existed. The conversion began with the hanging of pale yellow textured drapes to conceal the delivery equipment. Remaining walls were done in yellow. Yellow roses decorated the Christian Dior sheets and comforter.

A television, a dark wood colonial night stand, a Stiffel lamp, a large rocking chair, upholstered chair, plus cream and brown Oriental-style rugs finished off the room. Instead of a labor and delivery room, or even a hospital room, it looks like a warm and comfortable bedroom.

"I'm all for it. It is a home-like setting in the hospital," said obstetrician Chung Lee, whose office is in Independence Township. "The patient feels comfortable and it is a safe alternative to having babies at home."

There is no extra charge for the room, but it is available on a first-come-first-serve basis and the discretion of the doctor.

To date, there has been only one time that two women showed up and both were in labor. One of them used the labor room and was not too upset as long as her husband could still be with her, Capili said.

According to Dr. Lee, a cesarean section or a forceps delivery would cause a doctor to move a patient to the delivery room instead of allowing the delivery to continue in the birthing room.

Lee, as well as Capili, stress the importance of the required prenatal classes and interview at the hospital.

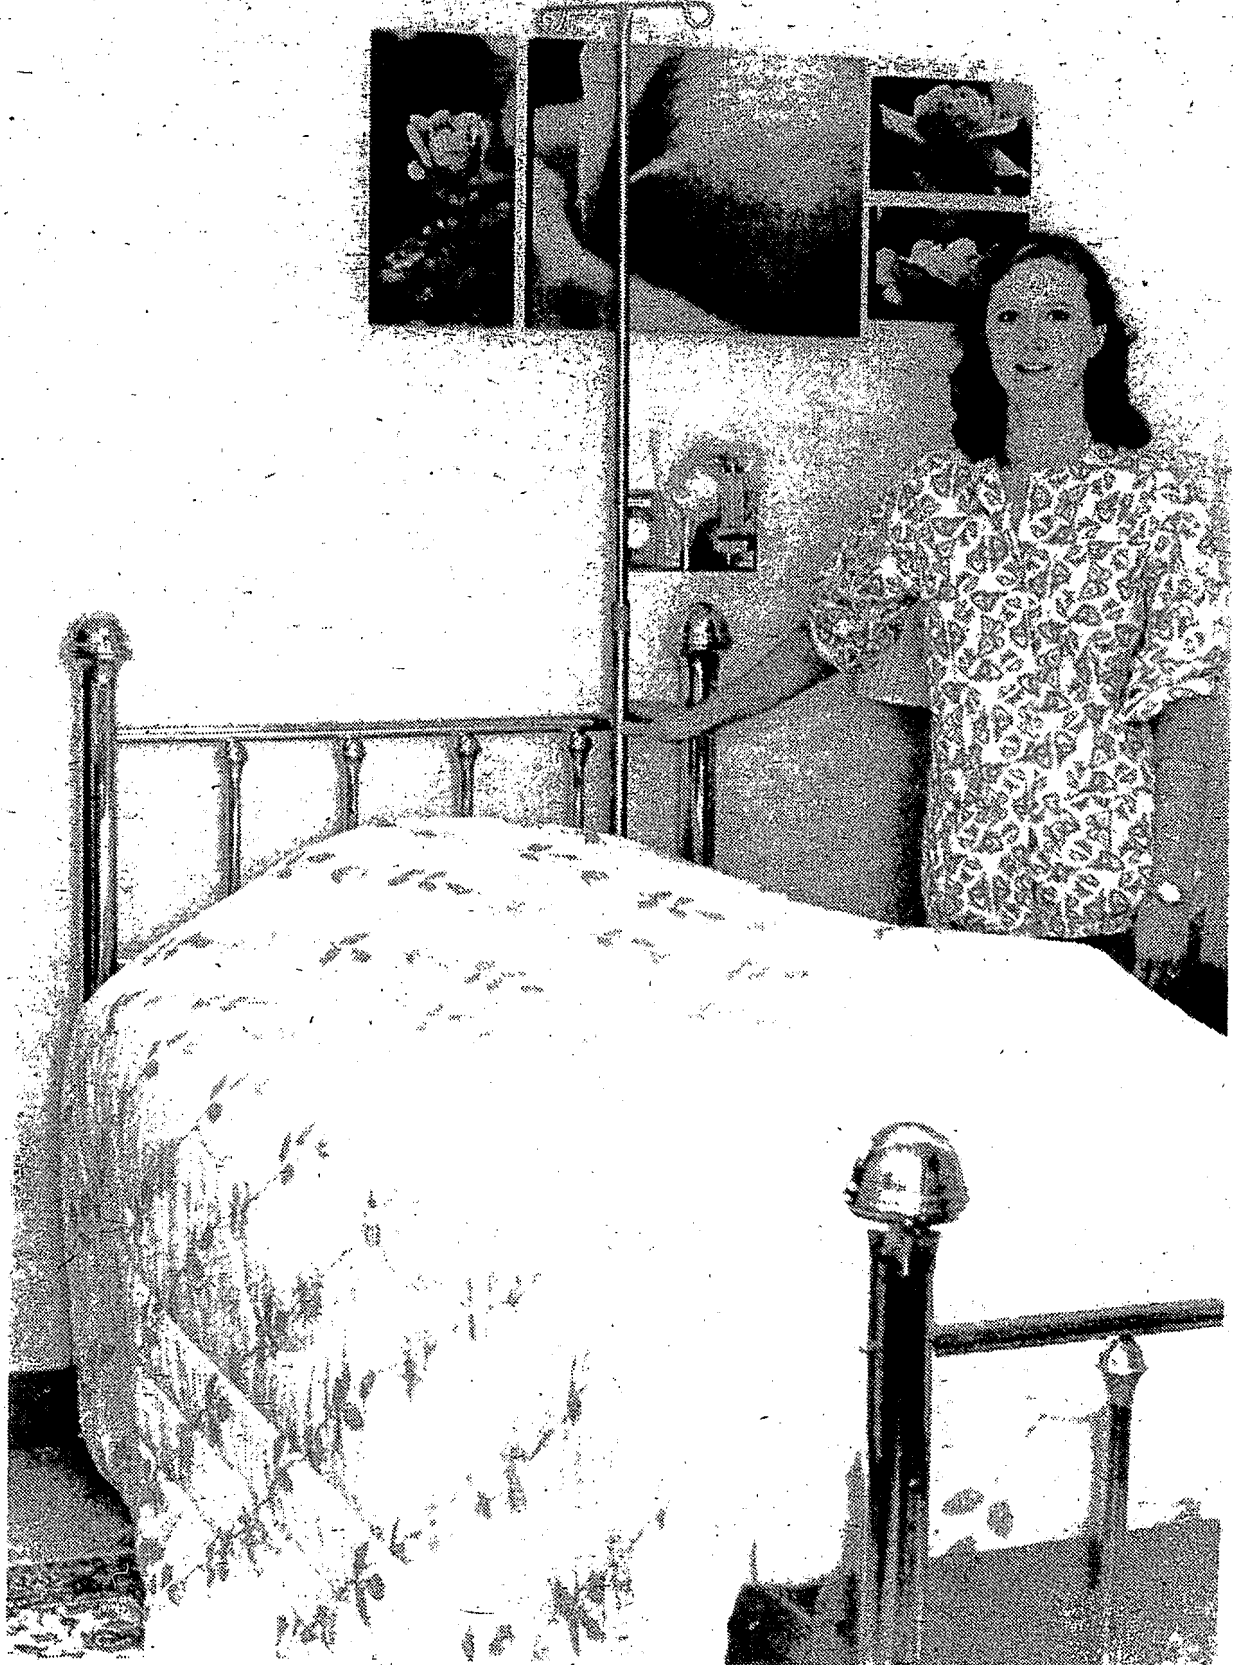

"There is not substitute for the pre-admission interview and tour. No amount of reading or listening to other people will prepare the couple for the actual birthing room and its use," Lee said.

The pre-admission interview screens patients for high risk problems, which can be anticipated and are best handled in the usual labor and delivery room, Lee said.

According to Mark Hein, public relations director for the hospital, there were approximately 2,500 babies born at St. Joseph's last year. Since May, 38 babies have been born in the birthing room with 70 more expected in January.

Hein was directly involved with the birthing room recently when his second child was born.

"It is a really excellent, warm, intimate environment where the husband and wife can share the experience," he said.

The brass bed is specially designed for the birthing room environment and adds a touch of warmth to a normally cold and sterile room. Deborah Hiatt, a Clarkston resident, has been a nurse at St. Joseph's 12 years and is part of the nursing team described as "really supper" and "excellent" by people who have used the birthing room.

He's helped early arrivals

It's something every prospective mother dreads—not getting to the hospital in time.

Independence Township firefighter Gordon Mason has been there twice when deliveries were unexpectedly performed at home.

While Mason readily admits assisting with childbirth is not his favorite activity, he still talks about it with awe.

"It's such a fantastic thing to actually do it yourself," he says. "I don't suppose I look forward to it, but when you look back on it, it's something you always remember.

"It's really a fantastic thing—I think amazing," he repeats. "Just the miracle of birth. It's a natural thing. You don't really do anything—the mother does the work, you just more or less support."

Mason, who has been on the fire department staff nine years, three as a volunteer and six as a full-time firefighter, has two children of his own.

When his wife, Nancy, gave birth to Michelle, 3, and Kevin, 1, Mason was there.

"I knew a little bit of what to expect," he says of sharing in the birth of his own children after viewing births of others during training sessions and while on official duty.

After all his experiences, Mason has a bit of advice for expectant mothers.

"Leave plenty of time to get to the hospital," he says, "so there's no speeding or anything like that in the car."

—Kathy Greenfield

Gordon Mason has delivered one baby and assisted on another delivery while on duty, putting him near the top of the most-babies-delivered list of Independence Township firefighters.

Together: Dads, babies reap benefits

Maybe it's women's lib. Maybe it's all the recent emphasis on the family and the importance of family life in America.

But whatever the reason, more and more fathers seem to be taking a more active role in the rearing of babies and pre-schoolers.

Responsibilities once thought to be the exclusive domain of the mother are increasingly being shared.

"I think most men years ago didn't have as much contact with their children until the later years," observes Wayne Vlack, father of three, including two-month-old Jason Jeremy.

Home from work and fresh from the shower, Wayne Vlack takes some time out to say hi to his 2-month-old son, Jason Jeremy. "I've always been involved with my family," he says. "The children come first; everything else is second."

like to share the responsibilities," he says of the challenges and duties involved in taking care of their first-born son.

"I guess the attitude was that when the child is born, it's up to the mother at first to take care of him.

"Myself, I've always been involved with my family. The children come first; everything else is second."

Those observations are echoed by John and Michele Locher of Springfield Township, who just became parents Sept. 22 with the arrival of John Robert.

"I like to share the responsibilities," says John. "I'll walk the floor with him at night when he gets cranky, change diapers and spend time with him."

"He's actually better about it than I am," Michele acknowledges with a grin.

"Things are changing, I guess. A lot of fathers used to be afraid to even touch a baby until he or she grew older.

"There are still fathers like that, but the fathers' role as a whole seems to be changing."
