Democrat supports 'Reaganomics'

By Kathy Greenfield

Tom Ritter, a Democrat, has joined forces with prominent Republicans in an effort to support President Ronald Reagan's economic policies.

The owner of Ritter's Farm Market on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, Ritter is a member of the Michigan Citizens Committee to Support the President, formed by Richard Headlee of Farmington Hills.

Headlee, a Republican who serves on the board of trustees of Oakland University, is best known for his amendment to the state constitution approved by voters which limits the increased revenue taxes may generate by the rise in the cost of living index.

Ritter says he has always been a Democrat, but he believes the issue is not one of political party affiliation.

"I believe in what President Reagan is trying to do—stimulate the American economy and business in this country by balancing the budget of the United States government and reducing taxes," says Ritter.

"I think he's the first president that's made a serious attempt to do what he's trying. Other presidents made an attempt, but it turned out to be frugal lip service.

"I like the idea that he's running the government now like it's a business. That's what it has always been," Ritter adds. "He has come in and has said this business of government is on the loss side of the ledger and we have to change that. He has said basically the expenses cannot exceed the income."

One of about 50 people on Headlee's committee, the idea is to spread the word in layman's terms about Reaganomics, says Ritter. A large part of the effort is to talk positively about the economic policies.

But there's more—the committee is to be "the nucleus of a groundswell of support for the program," and "writing and talking to legislators to encourage their support" is another portion of the plan.

Each of the committee members is to ask others to join in the effort, and one of Ritter's chosen tasks is to find other Democrats willing to participate.

"(Headlee) and I are friends," says Ritter. "He is aware of my Democratic background. He felt that the issues at hand should involve the Democrats and Republicans—all people.

Tom Ritter: "There are as many Republicans in this country that are responsible for the economic mess we're in as there are Democrats."

"He asked me to be part of the committee. I agreed. I countered by saying there should be more than one or two Democrats on the committee. He was readily agreeable to that. He asked me if I would accept the responsibility of involving other Democrats and I agreed to do that.

"My feelings are that a lot of good Democrats in this country were responsible for electing Mr. Reagan to the presidency. A lot of those people today support his recovery program," says Ritter, who admits he voted for Reagan "because he was an alternative to Jimmy Carter."

Now the President has become more than an alternative, Ritter says, and he has chosen to "give my time and my energy to support his economic programs."

As the owner of a business, Ritter says he's noticed people spending money in a guarded fashion since last spring.

"A case in point is our customer count is up 14 percent over a year ago, our sales are only equal to a year ago—we have more people spending less money," he says. "We're happy to be doing that well. In general, there are types of businesses that are struggling. I've talked to other people who haven't done well."

But, he says people have to realize it's a time of change.

"There are elements of this recession that will get worse before it gets better," he says. "The sad part about what's attempting to be done is we're not in a familiar situation in this country—we're in a time of sacrifice."

"The president of this country, and certainly the congress, is not going to allow a doomsday. There's certainly not going to be a deprivation of the needy, there's just going to be a time of sacrifice."

"People have to wake up and realize that it is going to take a reduction in our standard of living to change things—most often they just need to realize that requires nothing more than a change of attitude."

Ideally, every person in the state should be on the committee to support the economic policies, says Ritter, despite the rough times many are facing.

"It can work, because the issue is not recession," he says. "It is not high interest rates. It is not a general slowdown in business."

"The issue is, and always has been, balancing the budget of the biggest business in this country today. We want Washington to start operating in the black."

More than a mouthful

Oblivious to all but the white, smooth sweet whipped cream decorating the underside of her nose, Carrie Reynolds partakes of another spoonful with the slow drama that connotes the connoisseur. Carrie was one among three tables of students in Pat Smith and Norma Stallion's first and second grade classes at South Sashabaw Elementary School. Pooling their resources, the two groups dressed as pilgrims and Indians and indulged in an old-fashioned Thanksgiving feast. For more photos of the event, see Page 7.

Sheriff's log

Wednesday, thieves stole a battery valued at $50 from a truck on Pine Knob Lane, Independence Township, according to police reports.

Thursday, vandals caused $1,600 in damages when they poked holes in a green at Clarkston Golf Course, 9241 Clarkston-Orion, Independence Township, according to police reports.

Thursday, thieves broke into a garage on Waldon Road, Independence Township, and stole a motorcycle valued at $800, according to police reports.

Thursday, a vandal caused $25 in damages when he drove over a mailbox on Curtis Lane, Independence Township, according to police reports.

Thursday, a thief kicked in the door of an empty house on Wellesley Terrace, Independence Township. An inventory of stolen items was not available, according to police reports.

Thursday, a thief broke into the Spiritualist Church of the Good Samaritan, 5401 Oak Park, Independence Township, and stole a cassette recorder, a microphone and damaged a light fixture, according to police reports.

Thursday, a thief broke into a house on Maybee Road, Independence Township, and stole a TV valued at $700 and a microwave worth $500, according to police reports.

Sunday, thieves broke into an unoccupied house on Ellis Road, Independence Township, and began preparing to move everything from inside.

According to police reports, the light fixtures had been disassembled, the stove had been moved and a large piece of wall-to-wall carpeting had been cut.

Sunday, vandals caused $120 in damages when they slashed the tire of a car parked on Monterey Road, Independence Township, according to police reports.

Friday, a thief stole a patient's $200 leather coat from inside an M-15 doctor's office in Independence Township, according to police reports.

Saturday, thieves broke into a house on Northview Road, Independence Township, and stole a gold pendant of unknown value, according to police reports.

Sunday, a couple on Wealthy Street, Independence Township, phoned deputies when they discovered a "peeping Tom" peering into their front room window, according to police reports.

The man had fled by the time police arrived.

The above information was collected from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Foster care battle continues

Steadfast in its opposition to adult foster care homes in single-family neighborhoods, Independence Township filed two new suits against the latest proposed foster care homes targeted for sites on Whipple Lake and Chickadee roads.

The move increases the total to three similar lawsuits the township is involved in as it seeks to enforce its zoning ordinance and exercise its right to self-determination.

According to associate township attorney Robert White, the suits, filed Nov. 19 in Oakland County Circuit Court, are scheduled to appear on the dockets of two different judges.

A Dec. 2 show-cause hearing has been scheduled for the proposed small group home on Chickadee, slated to house six aged adults. The township is asking Circuit Court Judge Hilda Gage to prohibit the home from establishing until a final decision has been made in the case, White said.

In the case of the planned Whipple Lake Road home, a show-cause hearing is scheduled before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge George La Plata on Dec. 9. The township is asking the court to prevent activity there until a final decision is made in the case, White said.

Hearings called on arcade, mobile home laws

In an effort to save time and eliminate the need for an additional meeting, Clarkston's Village Council has scheduled two public hearings Monday, Dec. 14, which involve proposed amendments to ordinances regulating arcades and mobile homes.

The first, regulating arcades, would prohibit the establishment of an arcade within 500 feet of a residence or a licensed establishment serving alcoholic beverages by the glass.

The controversial amendment came to a head two weeks ago when the council unanimously adopted additions to the list of regulatory arcade amendments following a proposal to open a video room off Depot Road.

The second proposed amendment, regulating mobile homes, involves mandating conformance of such sites with neighboring lots. The issue arose last spring when the Michigan State Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional those ordinances which banned mobile homes from moving into residential zones, but allowed standards to be written to ensure mobile homes outside trailer parks do not create safety hazards or depress property values.

The hearings are scheduled to be part of the regular meeting to begin at 7:30 p.m. in Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot, Clarkston.

Discussion: Davisburg facelift

A public hearing seeking residents' reactions to the establishment of a commercial redevelopment district for the Davisburg area is slated for the next meeting of the Springfield Township Board.

Establishing such a district in Davisburg's commercial area would allow individual building owners to apply for tax abatements for improving their buildings—thus encouraging the rebuilding and refurbishing of Davisburg's commercial area, according to Stephen Dice, who requested the formation of the district in a letter to the board.

The boundaries of the proposed area are Andersonville and Eaton roads on the west, the railroad tracks running across Davisburg Road on the east and Warfield Road on the south.

A public hearing on the matter is required before the township board can take action, according to Colin Walls, Springfield Township supervisor.

The public hearing is to take place at the board's next regular monthly meeting Dec. 9 at 8 p.m. at the township hall, 650 Broadway in downtown Davisburg.

Sign reward

The $700 worth of signs pilfered from Clarkston streets in November are still missing.

And, the village of Clarkston is still seeking information on the person or persons responsible for the theft.

Village Council members speculated at their last meeting that a response from witnesses might be possible now that school is in session.

The Oakland County Chamber of Commerce, through its Silent Observer Program, continues to offer up to $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible.

Citizens with information may remain anonymous if they wish by calling the Oakland County Sheriff's Department at 858-4950, identifying themselves as Silent Observers, and giving a number they can readily recall to claim the reward at a future date.

Open house

Munch on Christmas cookies, sip punch, or perhaps a glass of wine while shopping during the traditional Christmas Open House of Clarkston businesses.

On Sunday, Dec. 6, the village retail merchants begin their holiday hours by offering the festive atmosphere to their patrons. Hours are 1 to 5 p.m.

Beginning Monday, Dec. 7, the downtown stores are to be open 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. weekdays, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays except Dec. 19 when they stay open until 9 p.m., and from 1 to 5 p.m. Sundays.

Santa's here!

Heralded by the wailing siren of an Oakland County Sheriff's Department scout car and riding in an antique fire truck, Santa Claus arrived with much fanfare in Independence Township Friday afternoon, officially marking the start of the Christmas season. Township Supervisor James B. Smith was on hand at Winship photography studio to greet the visitor from the North Pole and, following a handshake, Smith presented the jolly old elf with the key to Independence Township.

Nothing's sacred anymore

High school lockers favorite target of thieves

By Al Zawacky

"We try to tell kids not to keep anything of value in their lockers..."

—Dom Mauti

There's a bit of irony in those words.

It's the advice Clarkston High School Principal Dom Mauti gives students bringing valuables to school—which can include anything from money to expensive jackets to pocket calculators to candy bars.

After all, what are lockers for? Aren't they supposed to be a safe, secure place where students can store their belongings?

The irony does not go unnoticed by Mauti, but as he notes, times have changed.

"Kids seem to just take things now—they couldn't care less," he says. "They don't seem to have that feeling that somebody might have worked hard for something and it belongs to them."

"A lot of kids seem to feel that way now. If they see something they want, they just take it."

And an inexpensive combination lock hanging on a thin metal door isn't much of a barrier to a determined pilferer.

Not all students steal, of course. But the minority that do have a way of causing problems far in excess of their numbers. And nothing of any tangible value is sacred.

A few weeks ago, somebody broke into a locker in the boys' locker room and stole $45 worth of candy—candy that was being sold by a National Honor Society student to raise money for charity.

Charity, apparently, is too lofty a concept to be comprehended by the mind of a thief.

"I am just so blistering mad," said the victim's mother. "And now my son has got to come up with the money himself. That candy was supposed to be sold for a good cause—that's what makes me so angry."

"My son's had his gym shoes stolen twice, my other son's had a calculator stolen, and now this. I hope whoever took that candy chokes on it."

Only one more in a series of everyday occurrences at Clarkston High School.

"It's the biggest type of problem we have," says Mauti. "Just this morning (Monday after the Thanksgiving holiday), I've had four kids report to me that their lockers were broken into."

"We try and keep strangers out of the building, so you can't blame it on people on the outside. The problem is right here in our building."

"I don't know if it's any worse here than at some of the other schools around, but we definitely do have a problem."

That Clarkston High School, located in a generally affluent community where poverty and real want are all but non-existent, should have a theft problem is a bit of an irony in itself.

But local thieves don't steal out of hunger or need. They steal for the heck of it, for kicks, or to obtain luxury items.

Stealing is also a practical way to raise money to buy drugs, Mauti notes.

"That's the way some of these guys support their habit—they go out and steal," he says.

Perhaps most frustrating is the fact that apprehensions are extremely rare. Peer pressure makes students reluctant to turn in crooked classmates, and the eyes of the teachers and administrators can't be everywhere.

"We've caught a couple of kids, but it doesn't happen very often," Mauti says. "Other kids will spot somebody, but for them to tell us—that's another matter."

Apprehension usually means reimbursement for the victim and a suspension from school for the pilferer, Mauti says. "If the thing stolen is big enough, like a radio, tape deck or musical instrument, we'll involve the police."

"We try and get the coaches and managers to monitor the gym area, and try and keep an eye on things everywhere in the school. But it's hard—you've got to catch a kid red-handed."

Perhaps in place of lockers, high schools ought to be equipped with steel and cement-enclosed safes.

At least until some measure of respect for private property comes back into fashion.

Green thumb volunteers

The picture of industry, students enrolled in Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center's morning greenhouse management course put accent plantings in place around Clarkston's new village signs located on M-15. The students performed the task Nov. 17 under the direction of their instructor Donna McCall (second from left). "It's an opportunity for the kids to get the experiences and for the community to see the kids—to see what they can do and what they are willing to do for their community," says McCall. "It's to everyone's advantage." The village purchased the shrubbery and the NWOVEC students donated their time and expertise to plant them.

Luncheons halt when just 2 appear

The Friday luncheons for merchants and shoppers at the Clarkston Masonic Temple have come to a screeching halt.

"Last week they only had two people. It's just not worth it," said Violet Biondi, past matron of the Joseph C. Bird Chapter No. 294 Order of the Eastern Star, the group that prepared the meals. "It didn't work out unfortunately."

The lunch of soup, sandwich and beverage was offered by the organization after a request to provide an inexpensive, light meal on a weekly basis, she said.

The group took a try-and-see-how-it-works approach, and discovered not enough people were interested, she said.

News report made too early

To the Editor:

I have been scooped by a newspaper. When the reporter phoned me, on the Friday before our last meeting, I told her that my decision would be made public after that meeting.

Had she remained for a few minutes after the meeting, she would have been told that I was going to run. So consequently I was very surprised to read in The Clarkston News on Friday morning that "ApMadoc Shuns Bid for Re-election."

This has taught me a very valuable lesson—NEVER tell a reporter anything unless it is very definite.

I admit I have been swaying back and forth. But the headline in this paper last week have made my decision. No, I will not run after the article. I think my indecision would have swayed the people to a negative vote.

I have enjoyed working for the village and will be very happy if I can help in any way.

Fontie ApMadoc

P.S. I believe the word shuns is a little harsh. I was not trying to keep clear of; to get out of the way of; to avoid; or to eschew the village council. I was simply going or not going to run in the next election.

Now I understand the power of the press and how a reporter can create an impossible situation.

Yuletide at last

by Kathy Greenfield

Some years, Christmas rolls in and blends with the winter season. It's the same date every year, there are no surprises.

But this year it was different. I started wanting Christmas to hurry up and get here back in the beginning of November. I think it was a symptom of the high cost of everything—by the time we bought food and paid utility bills, leftover cash was a scarce commodity.

I knew that when Christmas arrived, I couldn't omit the gifts that make-up a portion of the holiday. Then, fa la la, I could spend some money on frivolous things and not feel guilty.

I got some help. First, a week before Thanksgiving the Clarkston Rotary Club staged its annual downtown Clarkston light post decorating spree. Then, the weekend before Thanksgiving, the downtown merchants hung pine roping and lights on their businesses.

I loved it. No complaints came rolling in about early decorations, either.

The day after Thanksgiving, I was delighted when I heard grumbling about searching for parking spaces in downtown Clarkston. The shoppers had converged.

I plan on doing every bit of Christmas shopping I can at local businesses. It's been a rough year. But the shops that survived are there for good reason—most all of them are filled with items selected with a great deal of caring and good taste.

Happy shopping!

Letter policy

We welcome our readers' opinions. Letters to the Editor must be at The Clarkston News office by noon Friday to be considered for the following week's paper. We reserve the right to edit all letters for the sake of brevity and clarity and to limit the number of letters from any one individual on any one issue. Jim's jottings

'Tis season to be jolly

by Jim Sherman

Thanksgiving's over, and 'tis the season to be jolly.

Just in time, too, I might add.

And, that includes me. Wow, everybody is up tight. People who want news of what they are doing put in the paper are claiming, "You never print anything about us."

People we do write about shout "You got it all wrong" when the omission is the name of a third cousin twice removed who has been dead for three years.

Advertisers are accusing us of all sorts of bad doings and threatening to not only never pay for the ad, but, "Never do business with you, ever!"

If we had a cat it would scratch us, and if we had a dog it'd give us fleas.

We went to a school board meeting recently when the agenda read like oatmeal. It was so soft it should have not been allowed to be printed.

Right after the 5 minute coffee break, designed to assure meetings last after midnight, the room was in an uproar.

The Board president got so mad he turned the meeting over to next-in-line and left the room. The business manager turned red, a trustee turned white, a district employee was chartreuse, and the air was blue.

I would have stood up and saluted the passing of the colors except for the chartreuse guy, and the fact that I couldn't hold a salute as long as it took the colors to pass.

The point is, everybody's mad at something or someone. We either have to get used to this depression and start loving one another, or we have to get the economy moving so we can sincerely smile and forgive.

Of course, there is the other answer referred to in our opening sentence.

Nothing is going to happen between now and the end of the year to put people back to work, to lighten our load, or to sell a car.

But, we do have the season going for us.

The lighted houses and towns, the holiday happenings, the singing, the colors, the bustling, the loving that always comes with the season will not fail this year either.

And, just to insure a jolly season, let's cancel all public meetings until 1982.

Whipped cream tops kids' Thanksgiving feast

By Marilyn Trumper

Their little fingers deftly skirted the orange pumpkin pie filling, opting instead for the mounds of white whipped cream.

Cups of red Jell-O topped with white marshmallows came in a close second to the traditional pie, and the soup crammed with vegetables was a definite refill request.

Golden corn muffins came in dead last.

This was the special Thanksgiving feast planned, purchased, prepared and eaten by first and second graders at South Sashabaw Elementary School. Or, as was the case with the corn muffins, not eaten.

The classes of Pat Smith and Norma Stallion dressed as pilgrims and Indians, and sat along tables complete with personalized placemats.

The mini-historians did not talk of the harvest, the coming winter or peace treaties, rather they spoke of visiting grandma and the next day off from school.

"For the month of November we've studied the pilgrims and Indians," said teacher Pat Smith. "The kids made out the menu, comparison shopped for the food, prepared the food and now they're eating it."

Little Leah Boston, as if on cue, readjusted her Indian headress, smiled, and wiped a glob of whipped cream from under her nose.

The party was over. It was time for recess and a return to the 20th Century.

Slurrrrrppp! And that's it. Gerry Kenyon cleans out the last drop of his vegetable soup in a way the Indians, sans spoons, most probably did.

Without blinking an eye he smiles, and sets the bowl neatly down.

Cheaf or Chief? It's all the same to Derek Lash who decoratged his chieftan outfit with the words "STOP." Asked why Derek responded, "So no one can crash into me."

'If it Fitz. . .'

Soul food for thought

by Jim Fitzgerald

Texas millionaire T. Cullen Davis says he will pay $100,000 for proof he descended from an ape. It is not known how much an ape will pay for proof it is no relation to Davis.

Davis has lately become a born-again Christian. Before that, he was an accused murderer who, in the grand American tradition, established his innocence by utilizing the best system of justice money can buy. Final verdicts were that he didn't murder anybody, including his 12-year-old stepdaughter, and he didn't put out a contract on anybody, including the judge who handled his divorce. This bountiful amount of innocence, confirmed in the court, apparently helped qualify Davis for a second birth.

It is interesting that Davis is offering $100,000 for information the opposite of which was worth $200,000 to another rich man. Davis seeks proof that the evolution is valid. Around 25 years ago, an Arizona bachelor named James Kidd willed his $200,000 estate to anyone who could prove there is an eternal soul. It has never been collected.

Christians, born once or twice, usually believe people have souls that leave their bodies when they die and go to heaven or somewhere else forever. Evolutionists deny the existence of souls. These diverse opinions are reflected in the current debate over whether evolution, creationism or both should be taught in public schools.

Davis scoffs at evolution and is positive he won't have to pay the $100,000. He claims the Bible proves the creationism doctrine that God creates a new soul out of nothing for every human born, and apes have zilch to do with it. But if the Bible is proof, why hasn't it been used to claim James Kidd's $200,000 in soul money?

Because the written word is often suspect, even when it's written in the Bible, that's why. When there's $200,000 on the line, eyewitness evidence is required, and no one has ever seen a soul. As a result, the most common way of describing an empty space is to say there wasn't a soul to be seen in it.

Certainly, history indicates there is a soul. Otherwise, brevity couldn't be the soul of wit. A lovely person couldn't be the soul of kindness. Soulful eyes couldn't lead to soul kisses, and there would be no spiritual nourishment in food for the soul.

Obviously, there must be a soul. But when it's too dark to see a soul, it doesn't do any good to turn on the lights. You have to confess you can't prove there is a soul to save your soul. Confession is good for the soul.

You can bet your soul that Kidd's $200,000 will never be awarded. No one on earth will ever prove, uncontestedly, that there is an eternal soul. But that doesn't mean you can't believe in it. You just have to keep the faith, bless your soul. Many people will tell you that's what God had in mind in the first place, when he began creating souls.

As for evolution, the story is the same as for the soul. Written history offers overwhelming scientific evidence supporting the theory of evolution. There is no denying the physical similarity between Tarzan and the apes, for instance. But the real missing link is eyewitness evidence. No one on Earth has seen Bo Derek evolve from a gorilla, not even in Playboy magazine.

So the great debate will continue ad infinitum. There will always be those who insist children be taught that God created man from scratch, installing an eternal soul, in one day. There will always be those who want kids to learn they evolved from some ocean creature through centuries of genetic adaptations. And there will be those who believe that, when you get to the very soul of the matter, a creating God and evolution are eminently compatible.

In the meantime, T. Cullen Davis is a cinch to win his $100,000 bet that no one on Earth can prove he descended from an ape. That should disappoint the evolutionists more than the apes.

Experience thin, certainties few in '81-82

By Al Zawacky

Label the 1981-82 Wolfpack "Team Mystery."

Who will Coach Gary Nustad's five starters be when the Clarkston High School varsity basketball team takes the floor Friday night in Davison?

"We'll all find out Friday," says Nustad.

Will the Big Blue Machine finally run out of gas this season, or is a fifth straight league championship within the Wolfpack's grasp?

"We have the potential," Nustad says, committing himself no further.

Team Captain Duane Cahill drives toward the hoop during last Saturday's scrimmages.

Seniors Mark Karrick (top) and Tom Hecker battle it out.

What are this year's team strengths and weaknesses?

"I thought rebounding was going to be one of our strengths," Nustad replies, "but I was disappointed in what I saw during our scrimmages. We've got to get more defensive rebounding out of this basketball team."

There just doesn't seem to be anything cut and dried as far as the 1981-82 Wolfpack is concerned.

But after last Saturday's scrimmages against Utica Eisenhower, Garden City East and Rochester Adams, a few things did start to take shape.

"If the first game of the season were tonight, our starters would probably be Mike McCormick, Mike Dearborn, Rick Williams, Ray Kubani and Scott Temple," says the coach, assessing his team's performance in the scrimmages.

"But that's subject to change. I can see Chris Bruce at guard. I can see Shawn Mosele seeing action at guard. I think Duane Cahill is going to see a lot of action for us at center and forward."

"Tom Williams may see a lot of action at center, Klaus Ohrnberger may see action for us at forward. We may have as many as 10 kids right there sharing about the same time on the floor."

Of this season's 14 roster members, one is a sophomore, nine are juniors and only four are seniors. Kubani, Cahill and Ohrnberger are the only holdovers from last year, but none of those three are returning starters.

Bottom line: Not much in the way of experience, and with nine of the team's first 11 games on the road, the maturation process is going to have to be a fast one.

"I think we'll be in the thick of the league race and we certainly have a shot at winning that fifth straight league championship," says Nustad. "The key is how quickly we mature as a team."

"I say that because some of the teams in the league—notably West Bloomfield, Kettering and Rochester—have returning starters."

The Wolfpack will be relying on Kubani and McCormick to provide the bulk of the scoring punch. A 6-foot-5 junior, Kubani saw limited action for the varsity at center and forward last season, while McCormick, another junior at 6-3 starred at guard with the JVs.

Vying for action at the other guard spot are JV alumni Dearborn and Mosele and sophomore Chris Bruce, who played for Sashabaw Junior High last winter.

Bruce started practice with the JVs last month, but was brought up to the varsity a short time later. The move marked the second time in two seasons that the Wolfpack has had a sophomore on the roster, and Nustad insists that Bruce will have plenty of opportunities to play.

The Wolfpack's other guard prospects include senior newcomer Greg Hodgson and Jorge Thiers, a foreign exchange student from Chile.

"The situation will dictate how much playing time he (Thiers) receives," says Nustad. "We'll try to give him as much experience as we can."

At forward, Clarkston can also call upon juniors Craig Nicolai and Kevin Brown as the team begins its quest for a fifth straight league crown Friday evening at Davison in a non-league season-opener.

Nustad views the Wolfpack's proud past—four Greater Oakland Activities League titles and a combined 72-19 record over the last four years—with mixed emotions.

"The past is the past, but I think the tradition has its place and is important," he says.

"We've very much aware that the tradition is something we have to build upon, not rest on. We've got to use it as a motivating factor, not a drawback—it shouldn't put any pressure on the kids."

The coach predicts another see-saw battle in the GOAL this season, with as many as four clubs in a title showdown that may extend to the last game of the season.

And the only thing he'll promise is that the Wolfpack isn't going to be outworked.

"I feel very good about this group of kids. I like them as individuals, and I think they have the potential to be a very good basketball team."

That's about it for the certainties.

As for the question marks, they'll start being answered Friday evening at Davison.

CHS boasts seasoned talent

By Al Zawacky

Rick Detkowski is crossing his fingers and knocking on wood.

If his Clarkston High School wrestling team can avoid injuries, illnesses and bad breaks, there could be a lot of excitement on the mats this winter.

The talent is there—six returning seniors, who collectively have posted over 250 wins over the past two seasons.

Some talented underclassmen as well.

But there isn't a great deal of depth on the Wolves' 1981-82 squad, notes Detkowski as he enters his third year as Clarkston High School's wrestling coach.

"That's our main concern," he says. "As long as we don't have any key injuries, we feel we'll be able to compete with anybody right up to the state tournament."

"We've got high hopes for this team, but you know how it goes—you've got to be careful. Nobody's going to give you anything. You've got to earn it."

Mike Conway, Todd Thompson, Jeff Miracle, Bruce Burwitz, Tom Hecker and Mark Karrick are Detkowski's six returning seniors, and all three came to CHS the same year their coach did in 1979.

"Since they've been on varsity, we've only lost two matches," Detkowski says proudly, citing the Wolves 11-1-1 record two years ago and 10-2-2 mark last season.

"Anytime you can get six guys the caliber of these six, you've got to be optimistic. Plus, these are the guys who have been with me all along—the guys I worked with as sophomores in my first year."

And, the coach adds, they've all matured and improved tremendously since their 10th-grade days. That's bad news for Clarkston opponents.

Last year, Conway was fourth in the state at 105 pounds. He qualified for state in 1979-80 as well, and has racked up a 66-11-1 record over the last two seasons.

Thompson, a 119-pounder, suffered setbacks due to injuries as a sophomore and junior, and is hurt again this year. But he's always had the potential, says Detkowski, and should have a strong season if he can recover and stay healthy this winter.

Miracle, at 138 pounds, has accumulated a high school career mark of 71-11, but has yet to make it past the regionals and qualify for state competition. This could be his year.

"Jeff's had more pins and more take-downs than anybody on the team," Detkowski notes. "He's got a good chance this year to go all the way."

Burwitz, a 167-pounder, suffered a pulled hamstring that hurt his effectiveness last season—yet he still managed to win three tournaments and improve his two-year record to 34-21.

Hecker and Karrick, meanwhile, are coming off Clarkston's most impressive turn-arounds last year. In 1979-80, Hecker finished 9-14 at 185 pounds and Karrick was 10-13 at 198. But in '80-81, Hecker improved to 29-14, while Karrick leaped to 21-11.

"He (Hecker) has probably improved more than anybody I've ever coached," says Detkowski.

"Karrick keeps the team together. He's somebody you can talk to and has a good head on his shoulders. I'm hoping he can improve as much this year as he did (last year)."

Nine Wolves named to All-league squad

Nine members of the Clarkston High School varsity football team were selected to the Greater Oakland Activities League All-League squad for outstanding play in the 1981 season.

Named first team All-League were interior lineman Guy Hubble and back Dave Fulcher on offense, and lineman Kurt Norman, linebacker Bruce Burwitz and back Steve Nichols on defense. All played as seniors for the Wolves this fall.

Receiving honorable mentions were seniors Mark

Petterson, Tim Brennan, Duane Cahill and Ed Zabrelski.

Norman and West Bloomfield's Mike Lambros were also named "honorary co-captains" on defense as the the top two defensive players in the GOAL.

Wrestling preview

Al Wall and Jim Walker are the Wolves' returning juniors on varsity. Competing at 98 pounds as a sophomore, Wall posted a 19-11 record—a "fantastic job," says the coach.

"Jimmy Walker had a rough time catching on to some things last year, but he really started to improve at the end of the season," Detkowski says.

The team's remaining non-sophomores are newcomer Craig Verch, a senior; newcoming juniors George Diehl and Jeff White, and junior Brian Vecsei, who wrestled JV last year.

The sophomore crop includes Greg Ellis, Jeff Lawrence, Brian Dennison, Andre Gourand, Tony Rafferty, Scott Alsup, Doug Hughes, Andy Vinstra, Dean Buchanan, Randy Varr and Keith Edwards.

"Well probably be able to field nine guys on a JV team, which is an improvement," says Detkowski.

As far as the quality of competition awaiting the Wolves in the Greater Oakland Activities League, a lot remains up in the air. Two league members—Waterford Mott and Waterford Kettering—still aren't assured of fielding teams thanks to the Waterford school district's funding problems.

But even a four-team league—if it comes to that—consisting of Clarkston, Lake Orion, West Bloomfield and Rochester, won't be easy.

"Rochester is going to be tough," Detkowski says. "And West Bloomfield placed ninth in the state. Lake Orion (last year's GOAL champs) has lost a lot of people, but they're still going to be tough. They've got a tradition there."

"We've just got to stay with it and keep our noses to the grindstone if we want to be successful."

Odds Are . . .

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., Dec. 2, 1981 11

by Al Zawacky

My credibility as a forecaster is at its lowest ebb in years.

First, I picked Kettering to win the GOAL varsity football championship. Then I dumped on West Bloomfield and picked them third. And finally, I picked Sashabaw Junior High over Clarkston in that infamous 50-12 game last month.

Big Al has got to rally in this 1981-82 basketball season and re-establish himself as Clarkston's infallible soothsayer of sport. Impeccable bodements follow . . .

Clarkston High School at Davison (Dec. 4): Opening against Davison isn't a very pleasant prospect. True, the Cards have lost top gunner Rob Crane, and several other seniors as well. But they won't be missed much—not with Davison's strong '80-81 JVs filling the void.

At home, give the Wolfpack a chance. But not in unfriendly Davison. Cardinals by Seven.

Clarkston at Milford Lakeland (Dec. 8): What could be worse than having to open in Davison? Simple. Having to follow that four days later with a game at Lakeland.

Last year's Wolfpack-Lakeland varsity contest was a cliffhanger—but the Clarkston JVs got themselves drilled. Expect a game very similar to the opener at Davison.

Unfortunately. Lakeland by Six.

Davisburg fest boasts bygone days

Craftspersons recreate downtown facades

A magical transformation is in store for the Springfield Oaks Activities Center.

On Saturday, the activities center will be transformed into the downtown Davisburg of bygone days with the opening of the Davisburg Christmas Crafts Fest.

Sponsored by the Davisburg Scotties, a home study group out of the Michigan State University extension service, the craft fest has been in the works for the past 10 months, says Helen Vergin, craft fest chairperson and Davisburg area resident.

"It started out as a small craft show—then it developed into a historical stroll, a Davisburg stroll—our intent now is to get the whole Springfield Township and Davisburg area involved," she says.

In addition to a rainbow of craft items for sale in time for Christmas, the fest will feature music, movies, food and beverages and a visit from Santa Claus. Everyone is welcome and admission and parking are free.

Each artisan, service group and club will be selling its wares from specially built booths, designed and placed to resemble the downtown Davisburg of the 1850s.

Each booth will recreate the original facades of historical landmarks in the community, some still standing, some victims of the passage of time. The old grist mill, the train depot, the old post office, the blacksmith and harness shops—all will live again at Springfield Oaks.

Refreshments and meals will be available from start to finish, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Live musical programs will be featured hourly, and there will be drawings for door prizes.

The Springfield Oaks Activities Center is located at 12451 Andersonville Rd., at Hall Road in Springfield Township.

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP LIBRARY
6495 Clarkston-Orion Rd.
625-2212.

Winter hours: Monday through Thursday 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., closed Friday and Sunday.

The films "I'm Feeling Happy" and "Children in Winter" are featured during Pre-School Story Time on Tuesday, Dec. 8, at 4:30 p.m. and Wednesday, Dec. 9, at 11 a.m.

The After School Movie Hour on Wednesday, Dec. 9, at 4:30 p.m. includes three films. "Song of Christmas" is the story of the Nativity with carols from many lands; "Golden Fish" is a folk tale; and "Mike Mulligan and His Steam Shovel" uses illustrations from the well-loved book about the old steam shovel that dug a cellar and then found he couldn't get out.

The library recently received a number of storyteller cassettes from the Clarkston Community Women's Club. The gift included favorite tales of Charlie Brown, Disney and Sesame Street as well as a number of children's and classical records.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig LeClaire

Couple exchange wedding vows

Craig Thomas LeClaire and Patricia Kay Robertson were recently united in marriage during an afternoon ceremony at Clarkston United Methodist Church.

The Rev. James Balfour performed the traditional ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robertson of Hummingbird Lane, Independence Township. She is a 1976 Clarkston High School graduate.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Jack LeClaire of Lake Angelus. A 1979 graduate of Washburn University, Kansas, he is the president of Illinois Flame Hardening of Rockford, Ill.

For her Sept. 26 wedding, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace trimmed with seed pearls and nylon organza. The A-line skirt was accented with a pleated ruffle and train. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis, white lilies and roses.

Maid of honor was Pam Gardner of Chicago, Ill. Bridesmaids were Mary Whitmer of Boston, Mass., and Debbie LeClaire of Union Lake.

The bride's attendants wore gowns of mauve crepe de Chene with long sleeves and ruffled V-necks.

Flower girl was Emily Binard of Hummingbird Lane, Independence Township. She wore a dress of dotted swiss and wore a small wreath of baby's breath in her hair.

Best man was Greg Goodman of Lake Angelus. Other groomsmen were Bo Embrey of Pontiac, Herman Daldin of Ferndale, Pat Hart of East Detroit and Charlie and Greg Robertson of Clarkston.

The reception for the newlyweds was held at Deer Lake Racquet Club, Independence Township.

The new Mr. and Mrs. LeClaire honeymooned in northern Michigan and northern Wisconsin. They now reside in Rockford, Ill.

Local talent on stage

"You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" features several Clarkston-area residents including (from left) Sydne Kalet as Lucy, Bob Schultz as Charlie Brown and Steve Cunningham as Linus. The play is the latest production of the Lakeland Players.

Dates for the family show are Dec. 4, 5, 11 and 12 at the Eagle Theatre, 13 S. Saginaw, Pontiac. Tickets are $4.50 at the door and $4 in advance for adults, and $3 for students and senior citizens. For ticket information, call 332-9785.

New arrivals

Word has been received by Lena Belle Barber of Clarkston that she's a grandmother for the first time.

Her daughter and husband Gary and Charlene Steinhauer of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., welcomed their son into the world Nov. 20.

Christopher Lee weighed in at 7 pounds, 4 ounces and measured 20 inches.

Other grandparents are Raycine Barber of Independence Township and Bea Toth of Clearwater, Fla.

Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barber of West Branch.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Race, former Clarkston residents now living in Daytona Beach, Fla., came back to Michigan for the big event when their first grandchild was born.

Benjamin John arrived Nov. 21 at Flint

Osteopathic Hospital. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Burket. Mrs. Burket is the former Lynn Race.

The new mother and her son arrived home from the hospital Thanksgiving morning in time to celebrate Thanksgiving dinner with the rest of the family.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Burket of Sun City West, Ariz.

Ken and Tracy Johnson of Bend, Ore., welcomed their first-born child into the world Nov. 21.

Robert Killmaster Johnson weighed 8 pounds, 9 ounces and was 21 inches long at birth.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson of Middle Lake Road, Clarkston, and Dr. and Mrs. William Thomas of Apple Valley, Calif.

Great-grandparents are Mrs. Alice Cole of St. Clair Shores and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnson of Rochester.

At college

Jane Elizabeth Meeker has been elected secretary of the University Business Association at Bob Jones University, Greenville, S.C.

A 1977 Clarkston High School graduate, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Meeker of Almond Lane, Independence Township.

Her major at BJU is business management.

Lisa Vrooman, a senior at General Motors Institute of Flint, has been initiated into the Society for Collegiate Journalists.

The honorary journalism fraternity has a nationwide network of chapters that recognize significant contributions to all forms of student publications.

Lisa, a cooperative student with Cadillac Motor Division, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Vrooman of Bridge Lake Road, Springfield Township.

Diane Ridley has been selected for membership in the Fort Wayne Bible College Choral.

The select group of 25 mixed voices presents concerts in churches, at community functions, on campus and on tour over the course of the school year.

Diane is a freshman studying for her bachelor's degree in missions at the college located in Fort Wayne, Ind. A 1981 Clarkston High School graduate, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Ridley of Marvin Road, Independence Township.

Two Clarkston High School graduates recently appeared on the Albion College Theatre stage in "Dark of the Moon," a folk drama and fantasy play.

Paul Brown played the role of Marvin Hughes. A 1980 CHS graduate, he is a sophomore at Albion, majoring in anthropology/sociology. Brown is the son of Leona Jones of Heath Avenue, Independence Township.

1981 CHS graduate Cheryl Maxam appeared as Miss Leafy. An Albion freshman, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noel Maxam of Hillsboro Road, Springfield Township.

Among the 124 students named to the summer quarter dean's list at Kalamazoo College is Shelley Glenn.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Glenn of Reese Road, Independence Township.

Mary Barks was recently cast as the Second Villager and Hui in "Chop-Chen and the Emperor's Mural," a children's play production at Siena Heights College, Adrian.

A 1981 Clarkston High School graduate, Mary is the daughter of Ken and Jeanette Barks of Warbler Road, Independence Township.

25th anniversary

Bill and Midge Keller recently celebrated their silver wedding anniversary with a party hosted by their children. On hand to congratulate their parents were Mary, Bill, Laura, Ron, Cindy, Eileen, Amy, and Noreen and her husband Quin Galbraith. The Kellers were wed on Aug. 25, 1956 at St. Michael's Catholic Church, Pontiac. They have lived in their home on Perry Lake Road in Independence Township 15 years. They have one granddaughter—6-year-old Adrian.

Whirling Daisies clean quickly

Many a housewife has wished she could just snap her fingers and the house would sparkle. The Daisy Girls are not quite so instantaneous, but they are only a telephone call away.

Since July, groups of four Daisy Girls have been coming into Clarkston area homes armed with upright and tank-style vacuums, their own cleaning supplies and a positive attitude toward their work.

Doing business

"When we first talk to a girl, we ask her if she likes to clean and if she has any experience cleaning. If she says 'no' to either question, it is not likely that we will interview her further," said Sally Tortoni, co-owner and founder of the Grand Blanc based Day's Ease Inc.

In an hour and a half, while the lady of the house is at work or out shopping, the foursome descends upon everything including the can opener.

"The girls are trained to know when a window needs washing and how to properly apply furniture polish. They know how to begin and end a room so that everything from dust webs in the ceiling corners to the baseboards have been cleaned," Sally said.

Sally and Jeanette Stewart started with themselves and their own vacuums in 1976. They now have 16 teams; three franchised operations in Utica, Kalamazoo and Toledo, Ohio; more than 100 vacuums; and a garage brimming with cleaning supplies.

"We never expected things to take off as they did," Sally said.

"We posted fliers in a condominium complex here in Grand Blanc and within a half an hour we got our first call," Jeanette said.

"Many people have ideas but most don't do anything about them. I grabbed my idea and did something about it. My idea worked because cleaning fast and strong is a strength of mine," Sally said.

Cleaning is a drag for many people, but Sally Tortoni (left) and Jeanette Stewart have turned household chores into a successful business.

"Jeanette and I balance each other's strengths and weaknesses. We took our strengths and went from there."

The whirling Daisies clean Monday through Friday at $50 for an hour-and-a-half session. The regular customer who uses the service on a weekly, bi-weekly or monthly basis receives a discount.

It is not quite a snap of the fingers, but then coming home to a sparkling clean house requires more effort than a daydream.

Five win gold necklaces from Marcel's

The drawing is over and five lucky women now own 14 karat gold necklaces compliments of Marcel's of Waterfall Plaza.

The gift-spree was part of Marcel's grand opening last week.

"My opening went really well. I was really pleased with it," said Marcie McManus, who owns the shop which specializes in fashions for women who wear plus-sizes.

Winners are Gail Mitchel of Clarkston, Ruth Exterkamp of Waterford, Rose Collier of Clarkston, Sue Valentine of Clarkston and Debbie Hauer of Dayton, Ohio.

Tammy Wynette to appear at Oxford's Super Bowl Week bash

Tammy Wynette plans to give a "Hearty Hi-Yo Silver" during Super Bowl Week in Oxford.

CKLW's Bill Kennedy is also to be on hand as master of ceremonies when Lionel Hampton is slated to perform during the week-long festivities designed to celebrate the Super Bowl and to honor former Oxford resident, the late Brace Beemer, radio's Lone Ranger from 1933 to 1948.

Wynette, named top female country vocalist three years, is signed for an appearance at Oxford Junior High School on Lakeville Road for one show Friday, Jan. 22. Tickets are $8, $10 and $12.

Hampton is to appear during a dinner-dance at Golling Pontiac on M-24 in Oxford. A 1982 Pontiac will go to a ticket holder, as well as two tickets to the Super Bowl. Tickets are $125 a couple.

Other special events, to be announced later, are also planned during the week, and when it's over, the fund-raising drive is to net a statue of the Lone Ranger for Oxford.

Beemer moved to Oxford in 1942 and died there March 1, 1965. Oxford was his home, and he boasted of it many times.

His famous horse "Silver" was kept at his West Drahner Road farm, and a street on his newly developed property is named Beemer Court.

Often since his death, the idea has been mentioned of promoting Oxford as the home of the radio Lone Ranger and now it's underway.

A committee, headed by Oxford Village Manager Brian Arrowsmith, decided to take advantage of Super Bowl hoopla, and kick off the statue quest.

For more information, call the Oxford Village office at 628-2543.

"Roughing it" seems to be an appropriate theme for Clarkston Junior High's ninth-grade field trip to Camp Tamarack. The students were up at camp Nov. 16-20, learning frontier skills such as making musket balls, candles and soap and the art of pioneer food preparation. "It gets the kids out of the classroom and into the environment for some outdoor education," says CJH Principal Duane Lewis. "We look at it from a socialization aspect—it gives them a chance to pull together as a class do things as a group." Shown on the cover of this week's Clarkston News MAGAZINE is one of the activities students were able to participate in, target shooting with a musket, using the musket balls they had made. Above, Steve Mayer stares intently and takes aim before squeezing the trigger, and below Liz Darby gets a few pointers before trying her shooting hand.

Cindy Stanton

Her blue eyes flash or laugh, depending on your side of the law

Front & Center

Cindy Stanton stands relaxed behind the brown counter in the lobby of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

She munches a piece of cake commemorating a colleague's birthday, laughs frequently and has a smile for all who pass.

Her navy blue uniform's spotless. The small light blue tie hangs without a wrinkle. The silver badge shines and the gold floss of her patchwork emblems act as beacons to guide even the most confused visitor to the jail.

A fair-haired young man sits patiently on one of the lobby benches.

"He's waiting to view a line-up," Cindy says.

Some who frequently fill the jail's entrance are students on hand for tours, others are there to license guns or pick-up traffic reports and still others are there to post bail for family or friends.

A detective walks past. "Please Cindy, when my witness comes will you send him back?"

"Sure," she nods. "Yes, I guess I am the first encounter people have when they walk into the jail. Sometimes it's tough. People walk in here and they're upset, they come down on me heavy. I just try to calm them down and help them out as much as I can."

Cindy's part of the Oakland County Safety Division, units that patrol the county's parks—a job she terms "PR" (public relations), although she and her colleagues carry guns and make arrests.

Stationed at the county complex for the past year, she says when time arrives for reassignment she'll request to stay behind the front desk, simply because "I like it."

And, because she has the seniority to make the demand.

A graduate of Clarkston High School living on Amy Drive in Independence Township, Cindy began working for the department at age 17, as part of the school's co-op program.

Now 23, she's logged six years in the force working everything from fingerprinting county employees to dispatch.

"Then I attended the police academy and here I am," she laughs.

"The boys in brown" is what she terms the full-fledged deputies, many of whom are friends, but says a deputy's position was never something she's envisioned for herself, because it entails "strong-arming and I wouldn't be very good at that."

Cindy Stanton.

Her blue eyes can flash or laugh, depending which side of the law you're on.

Deputy Donald McLellan offers an attentive ear as Deputy Cindy Stanton talks over the morning's events. Cindy, an Independence Township resident, is on the force of the Oakland County Safety Division. She sits behind the desk inside the lobby of the sheriff's department, screening visitors to the Oakland County Jail.

Clare Collins and Lisa Hofer raise their elbows high into the air and enact a segment of the song about grandma's feather bed.

The electricity flowed from the gyrating bodies of Sashabaw Junior High's Encores—smiles, laughs and rhythm were the words.

In practice for the next day's performance at South Macomb Community College in Warren, Nov. 14, the choral group had its choreography down to a science. It didn't matter they were in blue jeans and T-shirts. The full flavor of showmanship was captured in their song and dance and reverberated off the school's choir room walls, out the door and down the hall.

Accompanied by creative musicians, Steve Murphy on piano, Mike Peterson on bass and drummer Craig Westwater, all on perfect cue, the Encores glowed.

"We were not (at the community college) in competition," said instructor Jan Knapp. "Last year we were the only junior high to show up, and this year there was one other. The other schools were high school and college, and (the judges) didn't think it fair to judge the two of us.

"So, we went for the experience and the comments," she said. "My kids were terrific. They learned so much, listened, were enthusiastic. They really were fine representatives of Sashabaw and Clarkston."

At 8 a.m., the junior high students were first to perform.

"When they finished the judges looked at everyone else and said, 'See that enthusiasm and energy? That's what we want to see the rest of the day,'" Knapp said.

The select mixed group of 25 eighth- and ninth-grade singers who performed the 10-minute show before six judges were: Ruth Acton, Curt Eckert, Scott Klingler, Kim Lafferty, Charlie Moore, Kim Ruelle, Stacy Savage, Julie Zumwalt, Jerry Alley, Dawn Bonderczuk, George Briggs, Kimm Buchmann, Barry Collins, Clare Collins, Dawn Cowie, Phil Eddy, Steve Gerber, Lisa Hofer, Tina Leake, Paula Shurtz, Beth Springer and Mike Weber.

Holiday Bazaar

Adults, kids can shop, buy Christmas gifts at Clarkston United Methodist Church Women's annual sale

Every Tuesday since September, members of the Clarkston United Methodist Church Women have gathered around work-tables at the Clarkston United Methodist Church to create delightful Christmas crafts for the Holiday Bazaar. The annual event is planned Saturday, Dec. 5, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the church located at 6600 Waldon, Independence Township. Above, Trina Terry gets some friendly assistance with thread cutting from her son Joshua as she sews faces on peasant pin cushions. Below, Eva Masters [left] and Mary Soulby work with other members of the bazaar brigade making ornaments. In addition to the Christmas gifts and decorations, the bazaar features a luncheon for shoppers and a donut shop, cheeses, spices and homemade baked goods and candy, toys made with love, needlework, antiques, religious books and handmade nightgowns. Children can shop, too, in a room where no adults are allowed. Also for kids, there is face painting by the Methodist Youth Fellowship members and a melodrama for their entertainment while Mom and Dad shop.
