Independence closes arcade again

By Marilyn Trumper

Robert Warrington enjoyed operating his game room for six hours last Friday before Independence Township shut him down with a ex-parte restraining order at 6 p.m.

The doors of the Game Room, located next to Clarkston True Value Hardware on M-15, south of the village, opened at noon Jan. 15, following action by the Independence Township Planning Commission the previous day.

At that Jan. 14 meeting, members unanimously rejected Warrington's site plan for mini-mall status of the Game Room, the hardware store and a proposed Gold Room, and moved to refer the matter to the zoning board of appeals (ZBA) to determine if variances should be granted for minimum lot size and width requirement, front yard set backs, parking requirements and outside storage. And, for the ZBA to address if Warrington's proposal falls into the ordinance definition of a mall.

After the meeting Warrington said he anticipated the planning commission's move, but would open the arcade the following day as the court's restraining order would be void, freeing him to do so.

Independence is scheduled to appear in Oakland County Circuit Court Jan. 20 seeking a temporary restraining order to keep Warrington's door closed until the issue goes to full trial or the ZBA makes a decision, according to township attorney Richard Campbell. The ex-parte order is a "temporary, temporary" restraining order.

In addition, the Independence Township Board in closed session Jan. 12, vetoed a proposed consent judgment drafted by Campbell and Warrington's attorney Daniel Kramer. The consent judgment, where both parties involved agree on the operation of the proposed business under the court's sanction, outlined among many things the Game Room's hours of operation, the ages of its patrons and parking.

The township board expressed "general dissatisfaction" with the consent judgment, Campbell said, "and it was their opinion that additional constraints were necessary."

Consent judgment action supercedes any ZBA decision.

Warrington had battled his case in court, charging the township's ordinance which limits arcades to mall locations is unconstitutional because the township has no malls.

At the same time, he's seeking mini-mall status. As of Monday, Jan. 18, he had failed to apply to the building department to appear before the ZBA for variances.

Schools to seek twice-yearly taxes

By Kathy Greenfield

Taxpayers in the Clarkston school district may be asked to dig into their pockets twice a year to pay school taxes.

Citing high interest rates on tax anticipation notes, the board of education voted unanimously last week to make the request to township boards.

In Independence Township, the largest portion of the district, the move was met with mixed feelings by township officials.

"I am thoroughly sympathetic to that problem and feel that a resolution can probably be worked out to have a summer collection," said Supervisor James B. Smith. "I do have a concern about the hardship on the citizenry at this moment. In other words, they're getting hit six months early and these are bad times for that."

Treasurer Frederick Ritter, whose office handles tax collections, said he believes the question should be put to the voters.

"I don't think the township board should make that decision," he said. "I think it should be an advisory referendum on the ballot and the people should decide if they want to pay half of their school taxes early.

"As a taxpayer, I object to it, because I'm emotionally and financially geared to paying them once a year on Dec. 1," he said.

Smith, however, pointed out the school district is allowed by law to collect the taxes twice a year, and if the township board refused to collect them, they could be gathered by other means.

"I don't think it's worth a special election to determine whether we or somebody else will do the collecting," Smith said. "If it's legal, the taxes should be collected."

The matter is to be discussed at the Tuesday, Feb. 2, township board meeting which begins at 7:30 p.m. at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

In Springfield Township, where about half the township falls in the Clarkston school district, the board requested a school representative to present their case at the next meeting, scheduled Feb. 10.

Although interest costs are defrayed by investments of the borrowed money until it is needed, and the townships could collect up to 1 percent of the taxes for costs, the summer collection would save the district about $75,000 in interest costs and would provide income from investments of about $125,000, said Superintendent Milford Mason.

Village celebrates

Sound the trumpets!

This year, 1982, is Clarkston Village's 150th anniversary and the council is seeking celebration ideas.

At the Jan. 11 meeting, council members discussed collaboration of the Village Business Association, Clarkston Community Historical Society and itself to plan and execute a Clarkston Day—a combined community effort.

The theme could permeate all annual village functions like the Spring Stroll, Crafts and Cider and traditional holiday parades, suggested Trustee Gary Symons.

Trustee Jackson Byers was named coordinating chairman. Those with ideas for festivities can contact Byers at 625-2007.

Foster home plans withdrawn

By Marilyn Trumper

Plans to build an adult foster care home on Whipple Lake Road have been pulled and put on the back burner, because the applicant, Lutheran Social Services, withdrew its plans.

According to James M. Clark, development specialist with the Macomb-Oakland Regional Center, the company hired to build the home and lease it back to the non-profit organization, decided not to do so.

Consequently the Whipple Lake Road suit was dismissed in circuit court at a hearing Jan. 13, and the state withdrew its plan to build, according to Independence Township attorney Richard Campbell.

The township was seeking an injunction to prevent groundbreaking of the Whipple Lake home, targeted for a site two doors west of Michigamme Road, charging it violates local zoning ordinances.

On the other side of the township, at a second home located at 5881 Chickadee, Oakland County Circuit Court Judge George LaPlata denied the township's request for a restraining order to prevent state licensing.

Independence was seeking a restraining order to prohibit licensing of the home, charging a multiple dwelling in a single family neighborhood violates local zoning ordinances.

Although LaPlata refused to prevent licensing, he did limit the number of aged adults who will be using the home to six, Campbell said.

The township has yet to decide if the decision will be appealed, Campbell said.

Applicant for licensing of that home, Frances Verlee, owner of Grovecrest Convalescent Center in Pontiac, would not comment on the court's decision or whether she intends to continue the licensing procedure.

In mid-December, Verlee said she was not a fighter and was considering withdrawing her proposal.

Michael Swajanan, of the state's Department of Licensing, said Verlee's application for licensing has not been withdrawn and is still pending.

Village approves Historic District Commission

By Marilyn Trumper

The final step's been taken.

At its Jan. 11 meeting, Clarkston's Village Council unanimously approved the five-member Historic District Commission, appointed to oversee construction and give the final OK to alterations, repairs or demolitions of homes or outbuildings in the Historic District.

Chairing the commission is Jeniffer Radcliff of 33 N. Main. The former Clarkston Community Historical Society president is a member of the Independence Township Task Force on M-15, geared to finding alternatives to the proposed widening of that street to five lanes south of the village. Radcliff has been appointed to a three-year term.

Ivan Rouse has been appointed to the second three-year term. Rouse is owner of the Clarkston Conservatory of Music, 49 S. Main.

Next is Thomas E. Hunter, an attorney, who lives at 39 S. Main. Hunter's been appointed to a two-year term on the commission.

Fourth commission member is Vondell Gardner, 71 N. Main. Appointed to a two-year term, Gardner is a former village council trustee who filled the remaining term of Robert Adams who resigned last year.

Fifth member is Pat Hobday, appointed to a one-year term. Hobday lives at 160 N. Holcomb.

The commission will be notified of construction plans submitted by village residents to the Independence Township Building Department in lieu of a building permit, and will review such plans, as outlined in the historic district ordinance adopted in early November.

In addition, the commission has 30 days in which to approve or disapprove a resident's plan.

"There have been so few negatives in this," said Radcliff, following discussions. "I just want to thank everyone, especially these people who said 'yes' when approached to serve. I really feel this committee has its priorities straight."

At the meeting, Trustee Gary Symons proposed council consider targeting $500 from Community Development in the coming year for the commission, in the event it needed to call in an expert architect or engineer.

Trim backs one-house legislature

Independence resident Bob Olsen sees merit in 'unicameral' plan

By Al Zawacky

In his quest for a one-house state legislature in Michigan, State Rep. Claude Trim has a ready ally in Independence Township resident Bob Olsen.

Trim, a Democrat from the 60th district, is co-sponsoring along with two fellow representatives Joint Resolution "N" which would alter Michigan's present bicameral, or two-body legislature into a one-body, or unicameral, system of government.

"I think a state government along those lines would be more responsive, streamlined and less costly," Trim says.

Under the plan, each federal congressional district in the state would elect four representatives to sit in a one-house legislature. The result would be 72 lawmakers as opposed to the 110 state representatives in the house and 38 state senators in the senate under the current bicameral system.

That would mean savings to the state in legislative salaries and expenses and increased visibility and accountability on the part of the legislators, according to Trim.

"I think it's an idea that's past due," he says. "If we're serious about economizing, we have to look at all levels of government. We have to start by cleaning our own house."

Acknowledging that the chances of lawmakers approving such a resolution aren't very bright, Trim says he would be willing to help start a state-wide petition drive to put the issue on the ballot.

Olsen is one of Trim's constituents who would be willing to "stand in line to sign."

A financial planner with Oakley, Olsen and Associates of Clarkston, Olsen said he has seen the faults of the present bicameral system first hand.

"I do some legislative lobbying, so I see that side of it," he says.

"I've never seen the logic in a two-house system. Half the people don't know who they're being represented by. By knocking down the number of legislators to 72, I think you'll have a more controllable, more accountable body of people and lessen the influence of the lobbyists."

"And my understanding is that the cost savings would be in the neighborhood of $25 million, which is certainly significant in the economy we have today."

McDonald's eyes new location

The McDonald's Corp., purveyors of the all-American Big Mac and Filet-O-Fish, has its eye on a new site in Independence Township near the intersection of Sashabaw and Maybee roads.

Realtor Tom Selhost, owner of Selhost Real Estate, says he's received a deposit and signed purchase agreement from the company, but has yet to close the deal.

The property, 2.74 acres next to the Pontiac State Bank on Sashabaw Road north of Food Town, is zoned planned shopping center and would require a variance from the zoning board of appeals before a restaurant could be built.

"I've gotten some comments on this, and they've all been favorable," Olsen says. "The timing on this seems to be good—people want less government."

Trim says that people wishing to help in the drive to establish a unicameral legislature are welcome to call him at 625-5516.

"Many times we as legislators find ourselves boxed in by the system," he said, noting that people have the power to change that system.

"This is an opportunity to see if people are serious about wanting to cut the size of government."

McDonald's Illinois public relations office would not confirm sale of the property, its representative Stephanie Skurdy saying only "...it's under consideration," and she would not speculate when construction of the proposed restaurant would begin in the event the deal is closed.

Clarkston schools join court fight on state aid

By Kathy Greenfield

Talking to state legislators didn't work, and neither did convincing local taxpayers to pay more, so the Clarkston schools board of education plans to join a fight in court against the state school aid formula.

The board voted 6-1 at last week's meeting to contribute $1 a student to a maximum of $5,000 to join a consortium of school districts in a lawsuit challenging the Michigan School Aid Distribution Act.

"We're alleging (the act) does not distribute money to give equal educational opportunities to the students in Michigan," said Superintendent Milford Mason. "In some districts in Oakland County, the amount of money available to educate a youngster is twice the amount which it takes to educate a student in Clarkston."

To illustrate his point, Mason provided information based on preliminary Fourth Friday enrollments of the 28 county school districts.

At the top of the list are Birmingham with $4,066 per pupil, Southfield with $4,061 and Bloomfield Hills with $3,619. Clarkston ranks 23rd with $1,938 per pupil. At the bottom of the list are Waterford with $1,865 and Holly with $1,776.

"I think it's critical. We're strangling," Mason said. "Our only outs are to challenge. It's been successful in California. The challenge has been successful in New York State quite recently."

"Our students should not have to suffer because some other area is property rich," he said, adding that Clarkston schools taxpayers would have to pay in excess of 70 mills rather than the present 31.2 mills to provide $4,000 per pupil for education. In Birmingham, the current millage is 29.2. (One mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.)

Voting against joining other districts to fight the state aid act was board member Addison Hubbard.

"I don't think the taxpayers' money should go to that," he said. "I'd like to see a fund-raising effort."

"The expenditure of $5,000, I think, is good faith money to attempt to support what (the taxpayers) have given us," countered board President Janet Thomas. "The intent of the lawsuit is to challenge the state to find out if, in fact, education is equal for all students in Michigan."

The consortium agreement is expected to be ready for inspection this week, and the school board is to review its contents before the money is spent, Mason said.

Springfield sets CDA hearings

Citizens can sound off on how funds should be spent

Springfield Township residents can make their voices heard on how the township should spend its federal Community Development Act (CDA) block grants this year.

The first of two public hearings on the township's CDA funds will be held Jan. 26 at the Springfield Township Hall, 650 Broadway in downtown Davisburg, beginning at 7 p.m.

On Feb. 10, the Springfield Township Board will use its regular monthly meeting, beginning at 8 p.m., as a second forum for public comment while finalizing how the money is to be spent.

"The first meeting serves a two-fold purpose," said Collin Walls, Springfield Township supervisor. "First, it explains what has happened to CDA funds in the past, and second it draws public input into how they should be spent this time."

"Basically, it's a brainstorming session—we're looking for ideas."

At the second meeting Feb. 10, the board will present a plan for use of the money, welcome public comments and vote on a final plan, Walls said.

Last year, Springfield Township obtained approximately $42,600 from the federal government in CDA funds and allocated the entire amount to the Springfield Township fire department.

Michigan ranks 1st in game—with high taxes

I'm sure we all reminisce this time of year, particularly while watching the championship play-off games of both college and pro football teams.

The memories of former great championship teams, including the Detroit Tigers, Detroit Lions and Detroit Red Wings, make you wonder if we will ever see another champion in this here state of Michigan.

I realize it is difficult to make the necessary change from loser to winner, but sit tight. A bit of documentary research, almost overlooked, has again put Michigan in the national "Spot Light" as a winner—not in baseball, football or hockey, but in 1st place, undisputed, in "HIGH TAXES."

Our local and state politicians have made Michigan the leader and champion as the highest taxed state in these here United States.

Yes, I know it is hard to believe, but with the last year's deficit of over $500 million, we are now in this prestigious class all by ourselves.

Yes; and keep in mind, our state lawmakers are so proud of this fantastic leadership, they up and approved a 10 percent raise in salary.

Let's not go "Hog Wild" on taxes, because there is too much more to tell, so let's continue on championships.

Yes Sir, you can believe it or not, but the state of Michigan is also the leader and unquestionably the champion of UNEMPLOYMENT in the U.S. of A.

I must declare that our position is not very competitive though, because we are tops in this field by far, and no play-offs are necessary.

I must confess I am a bit confused, because how come the state of Michigan can be the HAND PAINTED winner of both taxes and unemployment? I'm almost sure they are unrelated.

You know, I'm just going to relax and watch the remaining play-off games, and stop dreaming of the past championships of the Tigers, Lions and Red Wings, because it sure looks like we have a couple of Michigan champions here today that could be around for a spell.

'If it Fitz. . .' Dial-a-bug in D.C.

by Jim Fitzgerald

If you pay any attention at all to the buggly things currently happening in Washington, you know that Democratic members of Congress who often vote Republican are called "boll weevils," and Republican members who often vote Democratic are called "Gypsy moths."

But you probably don't know much about the cockroaches that bug many phones on Capitol Hill.

According to the New York Times, taxpayers annually spend around $20,000 investigating these cockroaches. But it still isn't known whether they're for or against President Reagan.

It is known that Democratic congresspersons who often support Reagan programs are called boll weevils for geographic reasons. These congresspersons are from southern states where real boll weevils attack the bolls of cotton which was traditionally picked by poor, black people. Democratic lawmakers who vote for Reagan programs are called boll weevils because, according to many observers, Reagan doesn't want poor, black people to have a boll.

Likewise geographically, Republican lawmakers who often desert Reagan to vote Democratic are called gypsy moths because they represent Northeast and Midwest states where the larvae of real gypsy moths attack tree foliage. Larvae are the wingless, feeding stage of evolving moths and, according to many other observers, Democrats feed so much welfare to poor people they never learn to try for themselves. Instead, they struggle gypsy-like from food-stamp counters to school lunchrooms in a never-ending search for free catsup casserole.

Obviously, it's easy to understand why some Democrats in Congress are called boll weevils, and some Republicans are called gypsy moths. The cockroaches in congressional offices present a more complex problem because they're real cockroaches. In Washington, it's easy to be confounded by insects who admit they're insects and don't run around in creep's clothing.

The New York Times recently reported: "The architect of the Capitol spends $20,000 a year in an effort to control the droves of cockroaches in congressional office buildings...Catherine Wilson, secretary to Rep. Tony Coelho, Democrat of California said her telephone console was so infested with cockroaches that it had to be replaced."

"I still take precautions," Wilson told the Times. "I keep this giant can of No. Roach and spray my phone regularly. It was disgusting. Every time I'd pick up the phone, a roach would run out, or eggs would fall out. When I called the telephone people to complain, they said the problem was a commonplace one."

Roach experts say the cockroaches are attracted to House and Senate office buildings by "Stand-up affairs," which have nothing to do with love on the jog, or Rita Jenrette. Hundreds of receptions, lunches and parties are held in the buildings every year, and the guests usually have to eat standing up, causing chips and dips to fall between the same cracks that congresspersons use to lose unimportant details.

Hungry cockroaches prevent congressional crumbs from piling up into large heaps that might be embarrassing to lawmakers if seen by such unimportant details as hungry citizens who fall between the cracks when their safety net breaks.

The only problem is caused by congressional recesses, during which there aren't enough stand-up affairs to satisfy the cockroaches' appetites. That's when the bugs bug the phones, crawling inside them to eat Mother Bell's glue.

Now you know why there are cockroaches in congressional telephones. What isn't known is what kind of Democrats or Republicans they are. The way to find out, probably, is to invite some boll-weevil and gypsy-moth lawmakers to the same stand-up affair in a congressional office.

If the cockroaches prefer the gypsy moths' crumbs, they're anti-Reagan Republicans who don't believe it's possible to chew on a head of ketchup. If they prefer the boll weevils' crumbs, the cockroaches are pro-Reagan Democrats who don't believe the poor people's boll is over.

Poetry patience

by Jim Sherman

Did I really hear that tv commercial right? Were they advertising 'name brand' bedspreads?

The Super Bowl is coming just in time. Sports writers and talkers have run short of adjectives, superlatives and truths. In the last weekend of pro football every single player who had set a record at his position at least once, and was a sure hall of famer on the first ballot, was an all pro. And Howard Cosell wasn't even in the broadcasting booth.

Ever since that first Indian shot an arrow into the air the weather has been unpredictable.

Jottings readers certainly know I have little patience with poetry, but I do like this one.

If we noticed little pleasures
as we notice little pains;
If we quite forgot our losses and remembered all our gains;
If we looked for people's virtues,
and their faults refused to see,
What a comfortable, happy,
Cheerful place this world would be;

I like it, but certainly can't live by it.

If space and revenue permitted I'd probably carry Dave Rood's column every week. Rood is editor of the Delta Reporter in Gladstone. His favorite characters come from Upper Inwood in the peninsula above us. Rood wrote recently about Cody Waasinen going to a Farm Bureau convention in Chicago.

Cody spent a lot of time in the lobby at the Palmer House watching people come and go. He had never seen an elevator during all his years in Upper Inwood, and he was fascinated, to say the least.

He was watching very closely, and a little old lady with white hair went up to the elevator, pushed the button, stepped in when the doors opened, and disappeared. Just a few moments later the bell rang, the doors opened, and out walked a stunning young blonde.

Geez, said Cody, "I shoulda brought the old lady."

School board nixes cost-cutting plan

By Kathy Greenfield

The formula was all worked out—replace a departing fourth-grade teacher at Clarkston Elementary School with a sixth-grade teacher, split the sixth-grade class up into the four remaining sixth grades and save $10,500.

But after some 80 parents stormed the board of education meeting last week and voiced their objections for over an hour, the administrative decision was overruled in a 4-3 vote.

Voting to replace fourth-grade teacher Patricia Breidenbaugh, who is moving to another state, and to leave teacher Bruce Rogers' sixth-grade class intact were Vincent Luzi, Mary Jane Chaustowich, Carolyn Place and Addison Hubbard. "No" votes were cast by Stephen Werner, Fernando Sanchez and Janet Thomas.

Saving money was the purpose of the proposal, said Superintendent Milford Mason, who took responsibility for the decision to eliminate a sixth grade. He noted that during the 1981-82 school year the district's expenses are expected to exceed its income by $413,000.

Initially, the "prime motivation" was to increase the size of Clarkston Elementary sixth-grade classrooms to 30 or 31 pupils rather than the present average of 24, he added.

The 120 sixth-graders faced the disruption of classrooms and reading groups, and saving money at the expense of their well-being was the bottom line, parents argued.

"Why mess around with five classes and five teachers if you don't have to?" asked Stanley Cool of Amy Drive.

"For the sake of the children's education, we ask that you overrule the decision of the administration," he said. "I also ask you to remember the slogan from the recent millage campaign—'Children Still Count in Clarkston'—and show by your action that it is still true."

His son, a sixth-grader in Rogers' class, was upset at the prospect of losing his teacher, said Paul Tungate, athletic director for the district.

He called the proposal to save money inconsistent, citing the newly formed gifted program to serve some 80 pupils at a cost of $60,000.

"To me, there's two priorities—you either have money as a priority or kids," Tungate said.

Board member Luzi made the motion to leave the sixth-grade classes intact.

"We're really kind of playing games over $10,000 when it's kind of insignificant," Luzi said. "We spent well over that in two situations simply preparing the ground for super toys (playground equipment).

"I think we've got to save money, and I commend Mr. Mason and his staff for looking in every nook and cranny to save money," Luzi added, but he suggested the board "put the problem to rest."

Calling the replacement of Breidenbaugh with a teacher qualified to teach fourth grade prudent, board member Place seconded the motion.

"I understand the feelings of children when their beloved teacher is going to leave," she said. "I also know children are very flexible."

Place expressed dismay over reports pupils had been brought into the fracas through comments made by parents and teachers. She urged teachers to make the departure of the fourth-grade teacher as easy as possible for the children's sake.

Live birthday gift

The 15 people gathered to celebrate Dave Couture's 50th birthday in a Detroit restaurant told him his present was too big to have nearby, so it was in the kitchen.

The kitchen doors opened...and out came a belly dancer.

"He was shocked," says one of the celebrators, former Clarkston resident Evelyn Millward, who now lives in Orion Township. "Dave's always teasing everyone, and we always say 50 is nifty especially with a real live belly dancer."

A gift from Dave's wife Ruth Ann, the dancer entertained all in the Royal Eagle restaurant for one-half hour before she glided off into the night.

"He's a good sport," says Evelyn about Dave's reaction to the surprise.

The party took place Jan. 9, the day Dave turned 50. The Coutures live on Middle Lake Road in Clarkston.

She's sweet XVI

Sunday, as everyone knows, is Super Bowl XVI. And, much to her delight, it's also Janet Herron's 16th birthday.

"She thinks it's excellent," says her friend Jeanine Ditch who called The Clarkston News with the story. "She's the one who said it—Super Bowl XVI kid!"

Janet, a Clarkston High School 10th-grader, lives on Maybee Road. She plans to celebrate her birthday Thursday, because, says her friend, "She has to go to school on Monday."

The event is sponsored by the Independence Township, Rochester, Waterford and Oakland County parks and recreation departments and the Boys Club of Pontiac.

They host Super Bowl singers

If you're one of the lucky Super Bowl XVI ticket holders who'll be seated in the stands of the Pontiac Silverdome Jan. 24, keep an eye out for visiting Debbie Secakuku of Second Mesa, Ariz.

She's one of the "Up With People" entertainers who'll be on the field at halftime dancing and singing for all America to see.

While the 18-year-old American Indian's in town, she's staying with the Bruce and Carolyn Langdon family of Cedar Grove Road, Independence Township. In addition, five Waterford Hill families are playing host to more "Up With People" entertainers who'll join Debbie on the 50-yard-line.

Sponsored by the General Motors Corp., the Up With People program consists of groups of young people, age 17 to 25, who must be high school graduates, and in perfect health.

The group travels across the United States performing before civic groups, in hospitals and other institutions. Debbie says she's been to nine states since July and that she's "really enjoying it."

Carolyn Langdon has only praise for her guest. "I'd tell anyone who had the opportunity to take in one of these kids to do it—if they don't they're missing the opportunity of a lifetime," she said.

"She's just been a doll and it's been such a pleasure. Debbie is a very interesting person. Learning about her way of life, her way of living out there is really something."

"She really keeps me going," Langdon said. Other families hosting members of "Up With People" are Paul and Joann Menke of Eddystone Court, who've welcomed into their home David Otero of New Mexico and Bill Travis of Arkansas.

The Patterson family, Tim and Julie of Eddystone Court, are hosts to Catarina Herlin of Sweden.

Jim and Carole Carroll of Waterford Hill Terrace have opened their home to Steve Stockly of Brandon, Fla., and Mike Bowerman of Joplin, Mo.

Bill and Joette Kunse of Baldmor Terrace welcomed Jill Lundeen of Pierre, S.D.

Slumping economy has us all down in dumps

It seems no one is exempt from the hard blows dealt by today's economy.

Husbands, wives and their children, young people and singles, all wrestle on a different level with the frustrations of unemployment, living with less income and a strict budget.

Independence Township pediatrician, Dr. James O'Neill, sees the manifestations of today's problems in the patients he treats—and he's taking steps to show how to prevent the problem and, if it's already apparent, to recognize it does exist and then how to deal with it.

He's enlisted the aid of licensed social worker Stan Garwood to co-produce a series of six free sessions, from 7 to 9 p.m. each Thursday beginning Jan. 28 at O'Neill's office, 5885 M-15, Independence Township.

"I'm doing this because the economic downturn seems to cause a lot of depression and emotional problems. People are facing an inability to cope," O'Neill said.

"I don't want to portray it as all bad. I believe the worst is over, that things are going to get better. People have to learn again to take a long view about their situation."

Stan Garwood, who works for Macomb Child Guidance Clinics, offers a review of subjects slated for discussion in the six sessions.

"Our emphasis is to look at things before they happen, rather than after, and these classes are aimed at helping people to decide things like whether or not they should even get married," Garwood said.

"In the first session, we'll talk about how to decide (whether to get married) and whether it's a good, or bad idea. In the second session, we'll talk about alternatives to marriage, like singlehood, cohabitation and open marriages.

"In the third session, we'll be talking about whether or not to parent. We're trying to get people to make a better decision regarding this," Garwood said. "In this culture, you have a decision you can make—especially if you have the facts and information you need to make that choice.

"The fourth session deals primarily with parenting and kids, understanding and handling kids. Parents today are really confused. They're finding they can't go it the old way where everybody had a role and when the parents said something the kids respected that and did it.

The fifth and sixth sessions deal with crisis in marriage, why couples break-up and the benefits of marriage and parenting, he said.

"The sixth session will end on the upbeat," Garwood smiled. "I am excited about this I think it's really a great idea. We don't see people in private practice doing this."

Streak broken as sputtering Wolfpack folds

By Al Zawacky

It had to happen sooner or later. Of course, Coach Gary Nustad would have just as soon put it off another season or two.

Going back to his first year at the helm of the Clarkston High School varsity basketball team back in 1976, Nustad had never seen his Wolfpack lose a single game to West Bloomfield.

That's 10 games in a row. Quite a streak—and the Lakers figured it was about time to put an end to it.

So that's what Brad Silverstein, Todd Rich and company went out and did Friday night, crushing the Wolfpack 56-47 at West Bloomfield. It was Clarkston's second Greater Oakland Activities loss in a row, and a rather subdued Gary Nustad had no alibis afterwards.

Yes, the Wolfpack is a very young team, a team that fielded three juniors and two sophomores against the senior-laden Lakers. But the time has come to mature if Clarkston is going to continue to entertain thoughts of winning a fifth straight league championship this season.

"I think it's about time that we started taking responsibility for what we're doing," Nustad said.

"You can't allow yourself to get into a pattern where you accept losing and don't learn anything from it. But I'll tell you right now, that's not the character of this basketball team. I'll vow right now that we're going to play as hard as we can throughout the season."

Mike McCormick led all Wolfpack scorers with 19 points against West Bloomfield, followed by Ray Kubani with 14, Chris Bruce and Rick Williams with four and Craig Kulaszewski and Scott Temple with two. Brad Silverstein and Todd Rich were high men for the Lakers with 14 points each.

The Wolfpack did manage a non-league victory earlier in the week, pounding Oxford 57-40.

Matmen maul Kettering; place 2nd at CIT

By Al Zawacky

Another dual-meet massacre and a second-place finish in the Clarkston Invitational Tournament highlighted last week's action for the Clarkston High School wrestling team.

Warren Lincoln, ranked second state-wide, won Saturday's Clarkston Invitational with a final total of 146 points, followed by Clarkston with 133½, Fenton with 128½, Plymouth Canton with 106½, Trenton with 89, Grand Blanc with 61½ and Walled Lake Central with 53. The eighth school scheduled to participate in the tourney, Fraser, canceled at the last minute due to weather conditions.

On Thursday in a league dual meet at Waterford Kettering, Clarkston's Wolves rolled to an easy 64-12 victory, improving their overall dual meet record to 8-0 and Greater Oakland Activities League mark to 2-0.

Although disappointed that his matmen fell just 12½ points shy of winning the tournament they hosted Saturday in the CHS gym, Clarkston Coach Rick Detkowski was pleased with most of what he had seen.

"We had more guys in the finals than they (Warren Lincoln) did," Detkowski noted. "We're moving up—improving every day. There were a few kids who disappointed me, but overall I was pleased."

"The tournaments we've been in have really been tough," he added. "That really helps when it comes to our dual meets."

The Wolves made a laugher out of their meet at Kettering, racking up nine pins en route to the 64-12 final. Winning their matches for Clarkston were Greg Ellis (1:23), Al Wall (:48), Mike Conway (1:49), Dean Buchanan (4:13), Jeff Lawrence (4:36), Jeff Miracle (:17), Andre Gourand (12-3), Phil Haase (1:29), Bruce Burwitz (1:25) and Tom Hecker (:34). Todd Thompson was awarded a forfeit on a void.

Miracle at 140 pounds and Hecker at 187 were the Wolves' two first-place finishers in Saturday's tournament. Ellis, Conway, Lawrence, Burwitz and Karrick placed second and Gourand placed third.

Clarkston's top individual records to date are Miracle at 25-1, Hecker at 21-2, Conway at 23-3, Burwitz at 21-5, Wall at 22-7, Gourand at 18-6, Lawrence at 18-8, Ellis at 17-6 and Karrick at 16-6.

After a month and a half of road meets and travel to distant tournaments, Detkowski is now looking forward to Jan. 21—the date of Clarkston's first home dual meet. The Rochester Falcons will come to town Thursday for a league meet slated to start at 6:15 p.m. in the CHS gym.

"We haven't lost a dual meet at home in three years," Detkowski pointed out. "It's going to be a good test for us."

Smith resigns JV cage post

By Al Zawacky

Just two months after he was hired and with only five games under his belt, Dave Smith has resigned his post as Clarkston High School's junior varsity basketball coach.

"I'm resigning my JV basketball job for personal reasons," said Smith, who made his action official just hours before his team played Oxford at home Jan. 12. He would not comment further.

Dave Smith: Gone from the JV bench.

CHS varsity basketball coach Gary Nustad assumed the JV post in addition to his varsity duties beginning with the Oxford contest, and will continue in a dual capacity until a replacement is found, according to Paul Tungate, Clarkston Community Schools athletic director.

Tungate added, however, that it was unlikely a permanent replacement could be located between now and the end of the season.

"We're going to try and find someone suitable for the situation to be an interim coach," he said.

Neither Tungate nor Nustad would comment on Smith's resignation.

A science and social studies teacher at Clarkston Junior High, Smith was hired to the JV job in November after Larry Mahrle resigned the post to take a varsity basketball position at Avondale High School. In his last game on the Clarkston bench, the JVs downed Waterford Kettering 63-48 to improve their season record to 2-3.

Smith also coaches freshman football in the fall and track in the spring at Clarkston Junior High, but Tungate said it was uncertain whether or not he would retain those posts.

"Coaching is not a tenure position," he said. "Hiring is made on a year-to-year, seasonal basis. That's standard procedure for all coaching jobs. At this stage, no decision has been made on those positions."

Music-makers to stage CHS Band-A-Thon

All night long, the sound of music is to fill the halls of Clarkston High School Friday, Jan. 29, when members of the bands conduct their third annual Band-A-Thon.

Members of the community are invited to attend the session from 4 to 11 p.m. While there will be no admission fee, a donation box will be located near the door.

Beginning at 4 p.m. Friday, Jan. 29, through noon Saturday, Jan. 30, every variety of music shall be heard as the CHS Concert Band, Jazz Ensemble and Jazz Band take to the stage in the school's Little Theatre.

Band members have begun taking pledges for their music marathon with a minimum of 20 cents an hour asked as a contribution. The students plan to perform in May in Lansing and at the Chicago Music Festival. Proceeds from the Band-A-Thon are to help defray travel costs.

Those wishing to make donations who have not been contacted by a band member may call CHS at 625-0900.

Here's Herb

by Herb Rose

THE NEXT TIME I'm reincarnated I'm going to come back as a weather forecaster. In that field you always have a completely understood, readily accepted excuse for even the most bizarre prognostic inaccuracies.

As my brother, a one-time meteorological officer for the military observed, "You can forecast 'clear and sunny' and then have something akin to Hurricane Hilda arrive.

"Ducks drown, bottomless pits overflow. Forty days and 40 nights later, an inundated public seeks out the erring prophet who shrugs his shoulders, lifts his palms helplessly and explains, 'It's the weather.'"

I understand that often the most accurate and certainly the most profound short term forecasts are made by peering out the window.

Weather forecaster's deft digit

"Looks like it might rain."

Although the weather forecaster's explanation of slight discrepancies between the weather conditions foreseen and the weather conditions experienced haven't changed since Ulmac the caveman had to cancel a dinosaur hunt because of snow, the cost of hearing these explanations has gone up significantly.

Today, a suspect long range forecast is rendered by a satellite that was hoisted aloft at a cost of $7.3 zillion. Not too long ago the same forecast, with the same low confidence factor, could be had from the Farmer's Almanac for $2.

At one time one of my sons developed an excellent method of determining current weather conditions.

He suggested that one simply go outside and raise a wet index finger. If the finger stayed wet, it was raining. If the finger turned white, it was snowing. If it fell off with a sharp, metallic clink, it was very cold.

It always gives one a sense of satisfaction to see an exercise in pure logic.

day's course on the slo

Sara Pidd navigates her way through the course.

Andy Balzarini placed in the divisional meet last winter.

Coach Ed York sets up the poles of Pine Knob with the help of Clarkston High School senior Fred Roeser (left), one of the boys' team's top performers.

BODIES WEAVE through the red and blue poles on the slopes at Pine Knob, cutting swaths through the fresh layer of snow.

Near the bottom of the course stands Ed York, coach of the Clarkston High School ski team, watching intently and offering advice to his skiers.

The weather is cold, snow is plentiful, the wind is calm—and Clarkston High School appears to be blessed with a very talented group of schussboomers this winter.

York could hardly have custom-ordered a better way to start the new year. But even after a season-opening win over traditionally strong Bloomfield Hills Andover, the coach was tempering his optimism with notes of caution.

"It's hard to make predictions," he says. "I don't think we're as strong as last year, but as compared to the other teams in our division, I'd still say we're the top one out there."

Last season saw the CHS boys' squad place first in Clarkston's 10-school league with an 8-1 record, while the girls placed third with a 7-2 mark.

That performance stood in stark contrast to the previous year, when the CHS teams posted 1-8 and 2-7 records.

"After winning the division last year, there's a different approach and attitude," York says. "The kids are more excited and aggressive—there's a tremendous amount of confidence about this season."

Returning from last year's boys' team are seniors Fred Roeser, Bob Cattin and Brant Volberding; and juniors Andy Balzarini, Dave Huttenlocher and Jeff Douglas.

Returnees on the girls' squad are seniors Angela Balzarini, Lynn Burkemo, Janet Zografos, Alyson Dunlop, Amy Bruce and Sara Pidd.

"Fred Roeser is a very good skier—were looking for him to be our team leader," says York.

"Andy Balzarini is an excellent skier and very aggressive. Volberding and Cattin have both improved a lot this year and are really trying hard to be among the top five on the team."

The addition of senior Ron Wagner and sophomores Mike Roeser, Paul Sheppard, Chris Vaughn, Terry Williams, Rick Whittaker, Scott Volberding and Craig McLeod should also boost the boys' team's fortunes this winter.

"Craig McLeod is a very good skier, and right now I consider him our number three man. I think his addition to the team will be a main reason for us doing well this year."

For the girls team, state-medalist Angela Balzarini is again expected to be one Clarkston's top skiers, says York. Her seventh-place finish at the state meet in 1981 was the highest achievement by an individual in the CHS program's four-year history.

New faces on the 1982 girls' roster include sophomores Lisa Burkemo, Kara Evans and Katrina Lussier and seniors Becky Thompson and Petra Dziallas.

"Petra is an exchange student, and she's added a lot more depth to the girls' team," York says. "She'll make us much more competitive."

"Lisa Burkemo is a very aggressive and smooth skier—she should really help us out, too."

On Jan. 12, both the girls and boys opened the new season with wins over Bloomfield Hills Andover. The boys won 17-19 with Andy Balzarini leading the way in second place, Fred Roeser in third, McLeod in fourth and Brant Volberding in eighth.

The girls' finished on top by a comfortable 14-23 margin, as Angela Balzarini placed first, Dziallas second, Dunlop fourth and Zografos seventh.

"Everybody is trying hard to be good skiers," York said. "They're all going to help to make this a good year."

QUONTO

BEAUTY IS IN THE EYES OF THE BEHOLDERS!

WE DOMINATE A 12 PLANET SYSTEM, QUONTO. EVERY RACE AND PLANET WE RULE KNOWS US AS THE MOST SUPREME AND ULTIMATE RACE IN THE UNIVERSE, THE MASTERS OF SPACE AND TIME.

LAST WEEK QUONTO WAS ABOUT TO BE ALTERED INTO A BEHOLDER. BUT FIRST THE BEHOLDER COMMANDER, MAHIAK, IS GOING TO REVEAL THE BEHOLDERS MISSION.

BUT SOON, OTHER INTELLIGENT AND MORE ADVANCED RACES ENTERED OUR GALAXY ON THEIR LONG JOURNEYS. THE INHABITANTS WE GOVERNED LOOKED UPON THE TRAILERS AS MORE ADVANCED AND REBELLED FOR THEIR FREEDOM!

SO IN AN ATTEMPT TO REGAIN OUR POWER WE BUILT THE ALTAR AND TRANSFORMED ALL INTELLIGENT LIFE INTO BEHOLDERS....."

SO THAT THE BEHOLDERS WILL ALWAYS BE THE MASTERS OF THE COSMOS. NOW... QUONTO YOUR TIME HAS COME!!

PLOOVO! WHERE ARE YOU!!!

New Food Team for Mariner's Ark

Mariner's Ark Steak and Seafood Restaurant, in Rochester, has gained a superb team of food professionals with the acquisition of Dan Jolovic as General Manager and Trifun (Ted) Mazin as head Chef.

Seeing the need for a steak and seafood restaurant in the Rochester area, owners Miki Ceric and Zoran Mihajlovic report "excellent initial response," with customers from as far away as Ann Arbor, Saginaw, Grand Blanc and Grosse Pointe.

"With such a move, it was evident that we needed some experienced, highly-qualified people to make the plan work," the owners said. "And we were very fortunate to obtain three top men — Jolovic, Mazin and Cliff Ely."

Jolovic brings an abundance of experience to his new position. After 9 years with Joe Muer, he left in 1976 to take on the conversion of Holly's Hawaiian Gardens to Vladimir's Inn. He was recently general manager of Tanti's Wine Cellar and part of the original team at Henley Street. Chef Mazin has also been creating steak and fresh seafood specialties at Henley Street.

House accounts are available. Business lunches are served daily along with a happy hour from 4-6 p.m. Singer Marko Strika who has played at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas entertains during the happy hour.
