Woes of winter

After the "Blizzard of '82," residents digging their way out were commonplace. But Jo Anne Strader of Waterford Township and Jeff Willis of Waldon Road, Independence Township, had more than the usual amount of snow removal to do. The couple had parked their cars in the Clarkston United Methodist Church parking lot, because they couldn't get into the driveway of Jeff's parents' home. The next day, snow removal equipment packed snow under the cars, and they faced the chilly task of freeing three of them—his, hers and his parents'.

Cinema to show R films

By Kathy Greenfield

The Clarkston Cinema, that bastion of family entertainment, has succumbed to the times. The movie screen that projected only G- and PG-rated films for three years is to be touched by R-rated films beginning Friday.

Dan and Kathy Daniel, who own the Cinema located at 6808 Dixie Highway, announced the policy change in a letter to the editor last week. Theirs is the sole movie theater in Independence Township.

The reason, they said, was 80 percent of all films made today are R-rated. They wanted their regular patrons to be aware of the change and to caution parents they will not refuse entry to customers under age 18. In addition, the letter said, an effort would be made to show only R-rated movies that "conform to the morals of our community."

In an interview, Daniel elaborated on the policy change.

While attendance at the movie theater has been down, the decision was made because of a shortage of family movies, he said.

"It was either show R's or close my doors now," Daniel said. "There was really nothing to show, that or show movies we've already had and nobody would come out to see those."

The film industry caters to the average moviegoer nationwide, age 17 to 35, who supports movies with R ratings, he said, and family movies, which rarely make money, are simply not being made.

But, while the policy is changing, it's not a total switch. He intends to select only R-rated movies with a developed story line and without sole emphasis on violence, sex or raw language, he said.

"There are some R-rated movies that I don't think young people in our community should see," he said. "I'm not going to show movies that basically I don't think should be shown. I'm going on what my morals are."

He will rely on word-of-mouth and descriptions in industry publications to make his choices, he said.

"R is not going to be my main fare," he added. "I'm still going to show other movies."

His main concern is that Cinema regulars will not be surprised by the change.

"I feel kind of obligated to my regular customers who come every week and don't have to worry about what I'm showing," he said. "I want to let them know it's going to be up to them to know what's showing."

Daniel doesn't expect local moviegoers, on the whole, to be upset.

"I don't think there's going to be any major reaction at all," he said. "I think people are more hardened now than they used to be. Society's changing—what would go now maybe wouldn't go 10 or 15 years ago."

Admission to the theater is to remain at $1.50 as long as possible, Daniel said. The first R-rated movie, scheduled Feb. 5, is "Ghost Story."

Tax reprieve

Because Feb. 14 falls on a Sunday and the following Monday's a holiday, Independence Township property owners enjoy a legal two-day extension to pay their taxes.

This year's deadline is Feb. 16.

There's good word too for those awaiting their Homestead property tax credit returns from the state, with the intention of using those funds to pay taxes.

Following action by the Independence Township Board at its Jan. 19 meeting, widows, handicapped, the blind or disabled will have the 4 percent interest penalty waived on unpaid taxes from Feb. 16 until March 1 while they await the refund from the state.

Those who qualify must prove to the treasurer's office they have applied for the refund.

Pluses for scores in reading, math

By Kathy Greenfield

Clarkston school pupils' scores in the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) test have their pluses in reading and minuses in mathematics.

"One thing I am extremely pleased about is our high reading scores, both our seventh- and 10th-graders being above 90 (percent) in reading," said Director of Planning and Evaluation William Potvin. "Those are very, very nice scores to have. We know reading is going to be important no matter what they do."

But while reading scores have held steady or increased, there has been a drop of nearly 8 percentage points in the number of seventh-graders achieving acceptable math tallies.

"I am concerned about the seventh-grade math scores," he said. "Right now we're just proceeding on the fact that that change should not have occurred."

The district has been unable to compare seventh-graders' math scores with statewide results, because they are not yet available through the Michigan Department of Education, Potvin said.

"As soon as we get the state results, we'll have a much better idea," he said, because if seventh-graders' math scores dropped statewide, at least a portion of the change could be attributed to the test itself.

The MEAP test was given shortly after the school year began to fourth-, seventh- and 10th-graders. Designed to assess basic skills in math and reading, it is required each year in all public schools by the Michigan Department of Education.

The state has determined the acceptable score on the test is at least 75 percent, and a change of 4 or more percent of pupils achieving that score is considered significant, Potvin said.

Of the 444 fourth-graders who took the test this year, 81.5 percent achieved an acceptable score in mathematics and 85.4 percent in reading. Compared with last year's results, math scores increased by .3 percent and reading scores dropped 1.9 percent.

"There were no surprises on the fourth-grade test," Potvin said. "We did just about as well as we did last year and we're happy, of course, with the results."

The percentage of the 549 seventh-graders with acceptable scores in math and reading dropped over last year's results. In math, 69.6 percent were included in the acceptable range and in reading, 90.7 percent. Last year's totals were 7.9 percent higher in math and 2.3 percent higher in reading.

"In seventh grade, we did drop in math eight points and that is significant," Potvin said. "As you look where we have problems, it's fractions which is always where we have problems and where every class has problems."

Last week, Potvin met with elementary school principals to discuss the results and to look at the scores the seventh-graders had when they took the MEAP test as fourth-graders.

"Elementary principals are starting to lay-out plans and trying to pinpoint what is occurring," he said. "As we begin to look at the same kids, we saw kind of a decline in math. That kind of scared us until we looked at the state and the same thing occurs in the state—the math just gets more difficult."

Of the 510 10th-graders who took the test this year, the percentage with acceptable scores in reading increased significantly over last year, while math dropped slightly. In reading, 90.2 percent achieved 75 percent or better and in math, 69.4 percent. Last year's figures were 6.3 percent lower in reading and 3.5 percent higher in math.

"Nothing tragic in there," Potvin said. "I'm not upset about the 10th-graders' results."

"I'm extremely glad the 10th-grade math scores didn't drop to the bottom," he added, referring to 1979, the first year 10th-graders took the MEAP test, when only 49.5 percent achieved acceptable scores.

Individual pupil's scores are to be received by parents shortly. The pamphlet includes information about the test and shows individual results in each skill area tested. For more information, parents should call the school their child attends.

Potvin plans a detailed presentation of the MEAP results at the board of education meeting Monday, Feb. 8, which begins at 8 p.m. at the administration building, 6389 Clarkston-Orion Rd., Independence Township.

Teens wanted

A park for the entire community is the goal of the Village Park Committee, and Dave Raup is still looking for young people willing to share their opinions.

The Clarkston Village Council trustee, who also chairs the park committee, would like to have at least two young village residents serve on the committee, and he encourages young people to voice their viewpoints at the park meeting Thursday, Feb. 4, at 7:30 p.m. at Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot, Clarkston.

"We don't want just older people making the decisions," Raup said. "We want some young people, too."

BRW continues with review of M-15

By Marilyn Trumper

BRW of Minneapolis has not been idle in its study of the M-15 corridor south of Clarkston Village, the target of a possible five-lane widening to ease traffic and drainage problems.

Last week, representatives of the firm were in town to meet with the Independence Township supervisor and members of the task force geared to review and offer alternatives to the hotly-debated five-lane widening, steadfastly opposed by Clarkson Village residents who fear elimination of Main Street parking.

Task force Chairman Lew Wint, of the Lewis E. Wint Funeral Home, says he's keeping all considerations to the forefront.

"A part of any recommendation we come up with will be concerned with how will this affect the village," Wint said. "We are remaining open-minded. The problems are being recognized. But we agree something has to be done and the committee knows that anything we come up with has to be a solution the state highway department can live with."

At the Jan. 25 Clarkston Village Council meeting, members officially recognized Jeniffer

Radcliff, already seated on the M-15 task force, to be the official village representative in the talks.

"The village needs good representation at those meetings," ApMadoc said, following the meeting. "We need someone who is really in tune (with BRW and the talks). We don't want to loose our parking on the street—and we're really going to have to pay attention to what goes on."

According to Wint, BRW still plans to complete its report near the end of April, and continues to study all the data and statistics concerning the almost one-mile long stretch of road.

Clarkston dismisses $3,000 cut in CD funding

Apparently Clarkston Village won't feel the pinch from a $3,000 cut in Community Development Block Grant funds.

"We got along fine without it—but we've been able to do some nice things with it," said village President Fontie ApMadoc during a public hearing Jan. 25.

Not one resident appeared at the council meeting to propose ideas for spending the anticipated $10,000 in 1982-83 Community Development funds. The Village Council held the first of two Community Development Block Grant hearings Jan. 25 and scheduled the second for Feb. 8. In addition, two Federal Revenue Sharing public hearings are set for Feb. 8 and 22.

The village anticipates a loss of $3,000 in block grants, receiving between $10,000 and $12,000, a drop from last year's $15,000 total.

Those funds have traditionally gone to historic preservation and to other areas like the safety path running from Depot Road to Deer Lake Beach, the parking lot outside Village Hall, repair of sidewalks and tree plantings in residential districts.

Council members offered two possible targets, which included the construction of a gazebo in the village park that would double as a band shell and the purchase of park playground equipment.

In addition to the cuts in block grant funds, Clarkston officials see a $2,119 cut coming in Federal Revenue Sharing for the 1982-83 year.

That figure is down from last year's total of $4,300. Clarkston Village is slated to receive only $3,806 this year.

Traditionally, those funds have been used for police protection.

Firefighters' overtime arrives

Independence Township firefighters are finding more jingle in their pockets this week as three years' worth of overdue overtime comes through.

Checks were handed out this week, according to Gordon Mason, president of the Independence Township Fire Fighters Association Local 2621.

The payment, which covers 10 men, two of whom no longer work for the department, involves approximately $10,000 which was included in the 1981-82 budget.

A 1978 state statute requires local governments to pay firefighters for all time worked over 216 hours in a 28-day period.

Since the legislature's passage of the law in 1978, the issue's been a point of debate in communities statewide.

Faced in late December with the January deadline to pay or be in violation of the law, the Independence Township Board agreed to pay the firefighters within 90 days.

Village weighs reallocation of parking permit

Clarkston's Village Council is having second thoughts about the way all-day parking permits for the Main and Washington street lot were divided-up.

In the words of Trustee Gary Symons, village employes could well be dealing in a "black market" atmosphere if permits are recalled as proposed and redistributed according to each shop's square-footage.

At the Jan. 25 council meeting, village President Fontie ApMadoc hailed a formula using 900 square feet per one parking space ratio.

The change would mean a loss of permits for some businesses and an increase for others, she said.

"I think that's very close though to what we have now," ApMadoc said. "Oh, I've had a little bellyaching, but not really a lot. I'm looking for some kind of rationale on which to base this formula (of dividing up permits)."

The council discussed the issue but made no decision, opting instead to draft final figures and bring the matter to a head at the next meeting, scheduled Feb. 9 at 7:30 p.m. at Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot, Clarkston.

The 15 restricted parking spaces along the back row of the downtown parking lot were formerly for all-day parking until mid-December when the all-day law went into effect. The remainder of lot's spaces are limited to two-hour parking.

the day after the fire. The work is to be completed in time for the open house.

Wints say 'thanks' to everyone

Community support following the near-tragic fire at the Lewis E. Wint Funeral Home has been overwhelming, says Lew Wint, and he and his wife Diane are saying thank you with an open house.

The event is planned Sunday, Feb. 7, from 2 to 8 p.m. at the funeral home located at 5929 M-15, Independence Township.

"We just are so overwhelmed with the love and the concern, prayers and even people that we didn't know who dropped off a pie or a loaf of bread...that's the real story," Wint said.

"People are helping us through a very emotional time. It's been very special. I can't say enough about it. If anything, it reassured us and re-emphasized that we're right in our feelings—we're lucky to live here."

There were no structural changes in the funeral home, but almost every room in the building has new wall and floor coverings, and new furnishings.

At 2:30 a.m. on Dec. 26, a passing motorist noticed the fire in the building and awoke the Wints, their son and Lew's step-father. Faulty fireplace construction caused the blaze that resulted in about $100,000 damages.

Just a month earlier, another fire caused extensive damage to their home on Overlook Drive in Clarkston, and the Wints had been living above the funeral home while awaiting repairs.

This week, the work on their house is to be finished and the funeral home is to re-open Feb. 8, with time to spare for the business's 23rd anniversary in March.

"Everything is fine, and we're ready to serve as we have in the past," Wint said.

Number of fires on rise in 1981

Destructive fire.

In 1981 Independence Township saw a marked increase in the number of fires and lost more commercial properties to flames than ever before—and Fire Chief Frank Ronk doesn't know why.

"I have no answer for either of those, although I've tried like heck to pin it down and it would be nice to be able to pin it down, to be able to say it was faulty wiring or whatever.

"I can find no particular reason," Ronk said. "It could be anything from increased growth in the area to faulty supplemental heaters. All I can say is we'll have to pursue it and try to find an answer."

Overall, firefighters battled blazes that cost township business and homeowners $979,445 in the 1981 year, down from 1980's figure of $135,901.

Although fires are on the rise, people are insuring properties more, which cuts down on losses, Ronk said.

The best weapon against fire is prevention and the public must educate itself in this area, Ronk said. Civic groups can request speakers from the fire department to address that issue and others. In addition, the department provides annual safety inspections that businesses should take advantage of, he said.

Below follows a breakdown of the total number of fires responded to by the Independence Township Fire Department, including what kinds of fires. The totals include Emergency Medical Service responses, Ronk said.

Discrepancies occur because the fire department did not include its miscellaneous calls, Ronk added.

Plans for home not abandoned

The Jan. 20 story on the foster care home on Whipple Lake Road was an accurate story with one exception—the lead paragraph.

The story states that Lutheran Social Services of Michigan (LSSM) withdrew its plans to manage the home and for that reason the plans to build on that site have been withdrawn.

That is not true. LSSM never withdrew from its intention to operate the group home. The investor decided not to build and the Department of Mental Health lost control of the site and so gave up that particular location. Those two actions took care of any plans we had for management.

Thank you for the opportunity to correct the error.

'If it Fitz. . .'

He's baiting the rebating

by Jim Fitzgerald

Some things I don't understand. For instance, there is a TV commercial in which a rather loud man holds a fistful of cash. He says he wants to give me some of that money, anywhere from $300 to $1,000. All I have to do is buy a car made by the Chrysler Corp.

This guy in the commercial doesn't say much about Chrysler engineering or mileage or comfort or price. He isn't really selling cars, he is selling money. He is saying I should buy a car to get $300 to $1,000, not to get decent transportation. He points out that "not Ford, not GM, but only Chrysler is offering money.

Obviously, Chrysler thinks I need cash. Chrysler thinks I can be lured into a Chrysler dealership by the green money its huckster waves in my face. Chrysler thinks I need $300 to $1,000 so badly I will spend $6,000 to $10,000 to get it.

The marketing theory behind auto rebates goes like this: Times are tough so I can't afford a new car. I can't even afford to take my wife out to eat and lean on a piano bar. My present car would provide the down payment on a new one, but it is running OK, so why trade and prolong, perhaps increase, my monthly car payments? Because I want to take my wife out to eat and lean on a piano bar, that's why.

Chrysler is offering me the $300 cash needed for a night on the town with enough left over for a movie the next day. So I'm supposed to spend anywhere from $6,000 to $10,000 for a new car, not because I need a new car, but because my wife is sick of sitting around the house every night.

That's the cash rebate theory. What I don't understand is why auto companies sell cash and why anyone buys it.

Instead of paying me $300 to buy a $7,000 car, why didn't Chrysler simple price it at $6,700 in the first place? Because Chrysler was hoping to make that added $300 profit, that's why. But when I couldn't afford to pay $7,000 for a car, Chrysler switched to selling cash, hoping I'd pay $7,000 on the installment plan for $300 in instant cash.

Of course, if I had paid $7,000 for the car in November, I'd have been extremely peeved to learn a month later that if I'd waited I could have purchased the car plus $300 cash for the same price.

Likewise, I think Chrysler should realize that, because it frequently offers rebates, most customers won't buy until they can get cash along with the car. Also, Chrysler should realize that customers who bite on rebates are the same customers who don't buy cars when the rebates are rescinded.

However, based on his salary, Lee Iacocca has to be at least 20 times smarter than I am. He obviously thinks the way to sell Chrysler cars is to put a guy on TV to wave cash in my face and tell me that Ford and GM aren't waving that same cash. The Chrysler president must know what he's doing.

I just don't understand it, but I'm sure someone will explain it to me.

Something else I don't understand is one of the things the United States did to punish Israel for annexing the Golan Heights. The U.S. canceled a deal to buy military equipment from Israel. I don't know about you, but I had no idea we were buying armaments from Israel or any other country.

In the first place, I thought the U.S. was the arsenal of the world. We are supposed to sell military weapons, not buy them. It is bad enough that we depend on foreign nations for much of our oil supply and must live with the terrible fear of waking up some morning to find our freeways unclogged. Must we also worry about a foreign nation someday cutting off our weapons supply, forcing us to kill with rocks and bare fists, which is messy?

In the second place, U.S. citizens are continually told that it's unpatriotic to buy foreign products, especially Japanese cars. So isn't it unpatriotic for our government to buy foreign military equipment, putting local gunsmiths out of work?

I don't understand it. Maybe Israel offered us a $300 rebate to buy a $7,000 gun.

Sitting in style

by Jim Sherman

The story you are about to read was told as the truth, only the names have been omitted (except one). There's a message in it somewhere, but don't worry about it.

Seems three women in their mid-seventies concluded they should "Do some things, go some places before it's too late". They decided New York City should be their first venture.

For years they'd read about street crime in the big city and troubles in hotels. They avoided the first (after arriving) by keeping a close eye out for possible purse snatchers. They constantly turned their heads to check for thieves.

They chose a very good hotel, feeling it would have better security than one less expensive. They were also very careful to wait for the right opportunity to get onto the elevator.

They let some go that had passengers, then boarded one that was vacant.

Just before the door closed, a black man, with a doberman pinscher dog came through the door.

The women were petrified. The door closed. The man, commanded, "Sit!"

All three women sat down on the floor of the elevator.

The man and his dog got off the elevator on the second floor.

The women went on to their room, where they fretted and worried. However, time passed and they decided to go to the hotel dining room for something to eat.

They ordered glasses of wine, and studied their menus. They had noticed before they sat down, that the same man who got onto the elevator with them was sitting at the bar adjoining the dining room.

He was chatting and laughing with his companions.

Soon, the waiter appeared at the ladies table with three more glasses of wine. They wondered aloud who bought the wine.

The waiter nodded toward the bar and said, "That man over there."

"Well, who is he," the ladies asked. The waiter said, "Reggie Jackson."

Join the PTA at Lansing rally for school funding

People concerned about how Michigan divides state funds for education can hop on a school bus and join a PTA rally in Lansing on Wednesday, Feb. 10.

The rally is to begin at 10 a.m. on the steps of the state Capitol building, last at least one hour and include two speakers, say Independence Township residents Karen Ohrnberger and Lorna Kithil, who are looking for local residents who want to participate.

The idea is to let legislators know the concerns of residents of the state in a peaceful manner.

Ohrnberger and Kithil are active in Citizens United to Restore Education (CURE), the year-old organization devoted to changing the way education is funded by the state. Membership now numbers 11 school districts, mostly in northern Oakland County.

When the state PTA invited all schools across the state to participate in the rally, CURE was also contacted.

Ohrnberger welcomes the chance for the organizations to pull together make their concerns known to legislators.

"The schools have a paid lobbyist in Lansing," she said. "The problem is he is representing Oakland County, but he is representing in-formula districts and out-of-formula districts whose goals are at times exactly the opposite."

While the rally is going on, PTA representatives are to meet with Gov. William Milliken in his office and present the petitions.

About 30,000 signatures are expected to be gathered on the petitions which demand that no more state aid to public education be cut, that money be restored to public education and that equal funding be provided for all pupils.

No banners or signs are to be carried by those attending the rally, but participants have been asked to wear large armbands or large nametags that say where they're from, Ohrnberger said.

To ride the school bus, a donation of $5 a person will be requested.

Reservations must be made by Feb. 8. Call Ohrnberger at 394-0114 or Kithil at 625-8189.

"I don't think we're going to lose a league match all season," says a confident Coach Nancy Foster, who saw her Wolves win the GOAL crown last year. "I'll stick my neck out and say that with this bunch." Renee Mercier's overall team play and leadership have been a big factor in the Wolves' success so far, says Foster, and the team has also benefitted from outstanding play from Kim Lorenz, Beth Chartier and Lin Klingler.

Wrestling team makes quick work of Mott

By Al Zawacky

It'll probably be remembered as the shortest wrestling match ever held at Clarkston High School. Those on hand to watch the action Thursday evening barely had time to unbutton their coats before it was over.

The undefeated Clarkston Wolves were hosting league rival Waterford Mott, a team that, to understate things a bit, doesn't have much in the way of depth.

In all, eight CHS wrestlers paraded to the center of the mat and had their arms-raised in uncontested triumph as Mott forfeited eight of the 13 matches on voids. The small Mott squad could only field five wrestlers—and all five of them lost.

That all added up to a final tally of Clarkston 76,

Waterford Mott 0.

"I don't know what to say," shrugged a happy Clarkston Coach Rick Detkowski afterwards. "That's our second shutout of the year. We're 10-0 on the season, 4-0 in the league."

There isn't really any need to say more. Numbers like that speak for themselves.

Clarkston's five winners in the matches that were held were Todd Thompson at 119 pounds (12-1); Jeff Miracle 138 pounds (:43); Andre Gourand 145 pounds (1:34); Bruce Burwitz 167 pounds (:58) and Mark Karrick at heavy weight (:43).

Forfeits for the Wolves were awarded to Greg Ellis; Al Wall, Mike Conway, Jeff Lawrence, Andy Vinstra, Keith Edwards, John Laporte and Tom Hecker.

With the Mott triumph behind them, the Wolves, ranked sixth state wide in Class A, now face their last and biggest test of the season: A tri-angular at home against Lake Orion and Hazel Park slated for Thursday evening.

A win against Lake Orion would put the GOAL title in Clarkston's back pocket, and a win against highly-touted Hazel Park would accomplish a Clarkston first—an undefeated season.

Miracle currently holds the best individual record on the team at 29-1. Hecker is 27-2, Conway is 27-3, Burwitz is 28-5, Wall is 26-7, Ellis is 22-6, Lawrence is 23-9, Karrick is 20-7, Gourand is 26-7 and Thompson is 16-8.

Title hopes all but over as Falcons prevail

By Al Zawacky

The Wolfpack dynasty is history.

Well, not quite. The Clarkston High School varsity basketball team still has a infinitesimal chance to continue it's four-year reign as top dog in the Greater Oakland Activities League. But after Friday's 47-44 loss to Rochester, those chances could hardly be more remote.

Huddled in a corner of a somber Wolfpack dressing room after the game, Coach Gary Nustad faced the fact that his team's first and foremost goal, winning a fifth straight GOAL championship, is all but by the boards.

"I think we have to realize that we're going to have to set our sites on other goals," Nustad said. "There are a lot of them still left."

"If we can't finish in first place, we certainly don't want to be in the second division. We want to have the best record we possibly can, and after that there are the districts to look forward to."

The Wolfpack scored first at Rochester, opening up a 10-6 lead at the end of the first quarter and taking a 21-20 margin into the dressing room at the half. The Wolves nursed that lead through the third stanza, but began to wilt in the fourth as Rochester came from behind to lead 45-39 with just over a minute remaining.

Rochester's Dave Sakmar sewed up the Falcon victory with two pressure charity tosses with three seconds left on the clock.

"Four things cost us the ball game," Nustad observed. "Number one, we were outbounded for the first time this season (21-16). Number two, they out-scraped us and played more aggressively. Thirdly, we missed a bushel of free throws (Clarkston was eight-for-13 at the line, with several of the miscues coming in crucial situations), and fourth, we committed 20 turnovers."

Ray Kubani paced the Wolfpack offense with 17 points, followed by teammate Mike McCormick's 15 points.

Junior forward Rick Williams was out with a strep throat and did not dress for the game. John Trouba, a 6-5 junior who has been coming on of late, led the Falcon attack with 18 points.

"He's playing well for us," agreed Rochester Coach John Bailey. "The kids are learning how to get the ball to him, and he's doing a nice job inside."

Conspicuously absent from the Falcon lineup was Pontiac Northern transfer student Ira Whitlock, who was the focal point of an eligibility mix-up earlier in the season that ended up costing Rochester a 49-47 victory over the Wolfpack in game played in December.

Whitlock was declared temporarily ineligible and Clarkston was awarded a forfeit weeks after the game had been played. Although now technically eligible to remain at Rochester High School and compete in athletics, Whitlock played his last game in a Rochester uniform against Clawson Jan. 26, according to Bailey.

When the eligibility flap broke in December, Whitlock was told he would have to change his residency status to suit the Rochester schools or he would be asked to leave the system at the end of the semester. Whitlock's residency didn't change, and as a result he is leaving Rochester, Bailey said.

"He could have played his last game with us tonight, but we know we have to play without him the rest of the way," said Bailey. "He had some problems and couldn't make practice this week, so we decided to go without him."

"In our minds we beat Clarkston the first time. We know it. Clarkston knows it, too. The forfeit was just a technicality—we weren't trying to slip something over, the kid just didn't have his (transfer) papers signed."

"The game is played on the court, and that's where we won it."

Spikers stumble at Orion

By Al Zawacky

So far in the young 1982 volleyball season, the Clarkston Wolves have run into at least one very formidable enemy: The Clarkston Wolves.

Case in point was last Wednesday evening at Lake Orion, scene of the first Greater Oakland Activities League contest for the Clarkston High School varsity volleyball team.

The Wolves jumped out to a 7-0 lead in game one, only to begin committing costly errors that caused their lead to evaporate. Orion wound up winning the first game 15-12 and the next game 15-11 to sweep the match in two straight.

"Lake Orion has improved," sighed Clarkston Coach Linda Denstaedt. "They had some very nice passing and put the ball up consistently."

"But I don't think the loss was as much a matter of what they did to us as what we did to ourselves. We're falling into a cycle of getting ahead and then losing, and it's hard to break it."

Despite the loss Clarkston got consistent serving from Sandy Mason and Lanette Whitehead and flashes of good hitting from Mason and Kathy Weber.

Help for seniors with tax blues

Senior citizens with the income tax blues may be eligible for some tax relief through a homestead property tax credit claim, and Clarkston teachers are ready and willing to offer free advice on how to fill out the form. "Our main purpose for doing this is so senior citizens are aware they can get a property tax credit through the Homestead Act," said Suvonne Hogan, a member of the public relations committee for the Clarkston Education Association (CEA).

"There are probably senior citizens out there who are not taking advantage of this," she said. To make an appointment, call Suvonne at 625-5361, ext. 9 and arrangements will be made for a mutually convenient meeting with a teacher at Clarkston High School. Confidentiality will be observed, and the service is available between now and April 1, she said.

Paddleball match

Crescent Lake Racquet Club hosts the Michigan State Paddleball Doubles Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 12, 13 and 14. Teams, made up of two men or two women, may now sign up for the event. Applications are available at the club located at 1585 Crescent Lake, Waterford Township. Cost is $34 a team and the deadline is Feb. 5. For more information, call 674-0368.

Mr. and Mrs. John Meyers

Candlelight vows

Reciting wedding vows they wrote, Rhonda Louise Byers and David John Meyers were recently married in a candlelight ceremony at the Clarkston United Methodist Church. The Rev. James Balfour officiated. Given away by her father, the bride wore a taffeta gown covered by voile edged in lace and seed pearls for her Aug. 28 wedding. Her chapel-length veil contained two layers coming from a mantissa also covered in lace and seed pearls. She wore a cameo that was her great-great-grandmother's, and carried a bouquet of gardenias, pink sweetheart roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and ivy. Ranette Davis, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Rozalind Byers-Lang, Rebecca Kegler, Rachel Byers, all sisters of the bride; and Janet Ostler, the bride's college roommate. They wore soft blue dresses of satin with caplets of matching floral print which were attached to the self-standing collars. They carried white baskets of blue carnations, white fuji mums, pink miniature carnations and baby's breath. Joseph Erhardt served as best man with Bob Miller, Mark Gawel, Charles Byers, Brian Davis, Jeff Kegler and Thom Lang serving as groomsmen and ushers. The couple was toasted by 175 guests at a reception in the church's fellowship hall. In February, they plan to move to Kaiserslautern, Germany, where their work will continue with the United States Army Corps of Engineers. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Byers of Middle Lake Road, Clarkston. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Meyers of Rattalee Lake Road, Independence Township.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Gage

Evening ceremony

Renee Joy Berry and Mark Montgomery Gage were recently wed in an evening ceremony at Sunny Vale Chapel, Waterford Township. The Rev. Larry Clouse and Dr. V. L. Martin performed the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Berry of Pontiac. She is a 1975 graduate of Waterford Township High School. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Gage of Amy Drive, Independence Township. A 1977 Clarkston High School graduate, he is an engineering student at Arkansas State University. For her Aug. 7 wedding, the bride wore a white, floor-length gown with a scalloped neckline. She carried a cascade of flowers. Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Linda Johnson. Bridesmaids were Jill Berry, Susan Berry and Wendy Willick. Gayle Johnson served as junior bridesmaid. Flower girl was Rebecca Johnson and Craig Johnson served as ring bearer. Best man was the bridegroom's brother, Craig Gage. Groomsmen were Randy Norwood, Randy Berry and Dave Graesslin. Doug Gage served as junior attendant. The reception was held in the church parlor. The newlyweds are residing in Jonesboro, Ark.

Son makes surprise call from overseas

Word from in-laws is that Jim and Wandy Lowe of Delhi Road, Independence Township, didn't mind being awakened by the ringing of the phone at 5 one recent morning.

They picked up the receiver to hear the voice of their son Rod calling from Subic Bay in the Philippines.

Rod, in the Navy since his 1980 graduation from Clarkston High School, is serving aboard the nuclear submarine the U.S.S. Flasher.

Departing from San Diego in August, the sub surfaced in Thailand after 78 days at sea where he's said to have enjoyed a five-day leave in visit Bangkok.

The U.S.S. Flasher is now on its way to Hong Kong, Japan, Hawaii, a return to the Philippines and finally back to San Diego from where Rod is scheduled to return home on leave.

Music for cash

Clarkston High School's musicians were filling the air with melodic strains last weekend in their annual Band-A-Thon, raising money for a trip to the Festival of Music in Chicago in May. From 4 p.m. Friday to noon on Saturday—20 long hours—91 CHS students made music and raised money. Approximately $3,100 were collected in pledges by members of the CHS Concert Band, Wind Ensemble and Jazz Band, according to Cliff Chapman, CHS music director.

Solved The mystery of the found puck

I WAS STRAIGHTENING out the sofa cushions the other day and I found a hockey puck. I do not now, nor have I any time in the past, played hockey.

I am not aware of Anne being a hockey player and I rather doubt that she has been unknown to me sneaking out in the middle of the night for a clandestine hockey match.

My sons may or may not play hockey. It has been so long since they lived at home that I not only have trouble remembering their first names, I sometimes stumble over their last name.

I was being forced to the rather perplexing conclusion that some guest had lost a hockey puck.

A hockey puck is an object of limited versatility. Looking at the one I now own, I can think of little to do with it except carve it into a faucet washer.

Why would anyone carry a puck to a non-hockey situation, like say a cocktail party, an informal dinner or Sunday brunch?

As a conversational ploy or an opening gambit, "What do you think of this hockey puck?" will never make it.

I don't recall the last time someone called and said, "I'm awfully sorry to bother you, Herb, but we seem to have lost our hockey puck and it might be at your place. Would you mind terribly looking around for it?"

I suppose if I received such a call, the only response would be, "Could you describe your particular hockey puck? Do you remember the color of the general shape or any distinguishing characteristics?"

I decided to consult with the distaff side and sought Anne who was busy amusing herself in the kitchen. I tried to explain that I had just found a hockey puck, but she pretended, very convincingly, to be disinterested.

I put the hockey puck on the table, and sat contemplating it like a meditating Buddha. It seemed wrong to waste a gift that appeared like manna.

Perhaps I should buy one of those weapons that hockey players carry when going into combat and learn to play the game.

Actually, I never thought of hockey as a game. It seemed more of a means of satiating a primordial blood lust.

As I sat lost in reverie, suddenly the bubble burst. At one time I had a dog named Max who was an incorrigible thief.

At different times he brought home two or three tennis balls, rubber balls without number, a croquet ball, a knitted skating cap and a golf glove. Max was all the sports enthusiast his owner was not.

I had to assume Max found a hockey puck some kids were looking for alongside the pond and thinking, "I know it's here somewhere," and never suspecting it would be safely buried in my sofa.

To keep Social Security benefits

High school senior joins ranks of full-time college freshmen

Reaganomics pulled the rug out from under 17-year-old Stacy Nichol's plans for college.

By day, the senior juggles a full load of studies at Clarkston High School and by night, she's beginning to feel the weight and pressure of a full-time college work load at Oakland County Community College's Auburn Hills and Highland Lakes campuses.

The impromptu double-duty and sudden introduction into college is Stacy's only answer to keeping her social security benefits after age 18, slated to be cut for all students with a parent who is dead, retired or disabled unless they are attending college full-time before May 1.

The Nichols learned of the situation last fall when the federal government made known its plan.

"At first, I didn't think that I would have to (begin college in January)," Stacy said, admitting the full impact of government's ruling hadn't had time to sink in.

"You plan for years that this money will be there. All of a sudden it's almost time for you to go to college and you don't have it," she said. "If I would have known this was going to happen, and could have planned, I would have put more of it away for school."

Stacy's father died before she was born and she's been collecting social security benefits for the past 17 years.

Government strategy is to provide full social security benefits the first year at current levels, provide 75 percent the second year, 50 percent the third year and 25 percent the fourth year. By 1986, the benefits will stop.

"The plan was not real well-publicized," Stacy said. "We did not have any information sent to the house, and I think they should have told everyone by mail who was getting the checks. You only found it in the papers if you were really looking."

The rigorous academic schedule finds Stacy away from home and in school all day and most of the night. Free time is spent studying.

She's been forced to sacrifice two paying theater jobs because of time constraints, and the budding theater major just landed the lead role in the high school's spring musical, "Paint your Wagon," which will demand more of her time.

Is she bitter and resentful of Reagan's budget-tightening policies?

"At first I was upset," Stacy said. "Then I realized this is the way it's going to be."

Her parents, Judy and Therm, owners of Nichols Heating and Cooling in Independence Township, agree, and they work at feeding that self-sufficient ideology.

"I also think Reagan is justified in what he is doing," Judy said, from the Nichol's home on Paramus Drive, Independence Township.

"Personally, I feel we're in a situation here where there is a father in the house—others in this same situation may not have that. I have a friend, a widow with three boys. There's no father in the house. I feel very badly for her and others like her that will lose their benefits. Her boys are all young, and can't possibly attend college," she said.

Therm offers a similar opinion.

"I like people to be as self-sufficient as possible, and really, we felt kind of funny about Stacy getting that check every month. I'm in the house, I make a fairly good living for us," he said.

Stacy's undecided where she'll attend school next fall, but Oakland University in Rochester and the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor are in the running, she said.

"I guess what we'd really like to do is let others who may be in this same situation know what's going on," Judy said.

CHS grad recruit

Sgt. 1st Class Bob Jones sits behind his desk in the simple, almost spartan U.S. Army Recruiting Station on Dixie Highway in Waterford.

Back in 1963 when he was an 18-year-old fresh out of Clarkston High School, Jones couldn't have begun to visualize himself behind that desk 19 years later.

"I graduated the third of June, and four days later I enlisted," Jones recalls. "I guess the main reason I went in was I had no idea of what I wanted to do, and while I was trying to decide I figured I'd go in the service for a couple of years."

"I didn't want to just go and work in the shop, and I liked the idea of being able to do a little traveling. But I really didn't have any intention of staying this long."

Each time his enlistment period came to an end, however, Jones opted to re-enlist. The Army has treated him well, the experience has been a worthy one. Today he's in a good position to explain the benefits the Army has to offer to high school grads and grads-to-be.

It was a long and winding road that led Jones to the recruiting station on Dixie Highway—a road covering thousands of miles over several years.

He's been stationed in France, South Korea, West Germany, and saw combat action in Vietnam before volunteering for recruitment duty in 1973.

That personal experience is good to draw upon when talking to potential recruits, and Jones notes with satisfaction that recruitment goals are being met.

s for Army now

Front & Center

A Clarkston High School graduate, Sgt. 1st Class Bob Jones currently makes his home in the Waterford area, not far from his U.S. Army Recruiting Station on Dixie Highway.

"Recruiting in general in this area is extremely good," he says. "We're getting good, quality people with high test scores."

"It would be ridiculous to say the economy hasn't been a factor—how much it's impossible to know. But as a high school graduate without any skills in Oakland County right now, the job outlook for you isn't really bright."

"The days of the unskilled worker are drawing to a close," he notes. "You've got to learn a skill, and the Army can offer the training. Most of the skills you learn can be applied to jobs later on."

High school students seem to be reacting differently on a personal level to recruiters, too, Jones adds.

"It seems to me they're a little more relaxed about the military—they're willing to listen to what you have to say. And of course, a lot of them come looking for you now."

"I think the average American is proud of his country and the military is his military. My approach is, hey, this is your Army and this is what we do."

In addition to learning skills while in the service, enlistees can also earn money for college. A high school graduate who achieves a minimum score on a written aptitude test can qualify for a two-year enlistment program that can earn him up to $15,200 toward a college education.

Opportunities to learn skills exist in fields as diverse as electronics, communications, drafting, food preparation, aviation, music, photography and data processing.

The guarantee of training useful in civilian life is one of the big pluses an Army recruiter can offer, but there can be no illusions about the Army's major responsibility.

"The mission of the Army is to maintain a constant state of readiness to defend the country," Jones says. "So we train and train and train to maintain that readiness."

"Going into the military isn't easy. It's a challenge and it's meant to be one, or it really wouldn't be worth it."

"But it's not all work—it can also be fun. Where else can an 18-year-old fresh out of high school go and spend two years in Europe, meet people and learn a skill?"

Social Security change prompts college inquiries

Although few Clarkston High School students are feeling the urgency to enroll in college before May 1 to keep their Social Security benefits through 1985, Oakland Community College (OCC) reports being swamped with inquiries.

"I really can't give any numbers, it's really too soon to tell," said Registrar Charles Kurzer. "But my office has been overwhelmed with calls."

To combat the loss of social security for those 18 years old not enrolled in college by May 1, three of the college's campuses are scheduled to offer a special semester to begin tentatively in mid-April.

Under the Reagan budget cuts passed by Congress last summer, students with a parent who is dead, retired or disabled will lose their monthly benefit checks at age 18, unless they're attending college full time before May 1.

OCC's new mid-April semester start will minimize the amount of pressure put on some seniors attending both high school and college on a full-time basis. With the April starting time, the pressure will be on for about six weeks instead of 16, Kurzer said.

Auburn Hills, Highland Lakes and the Southeast Campus System in Southfield are targeted for the special semester, Kurzer said, adding the college's Orchard Ridge Campus began a special semester in February for high school seniors who graduated in January.

Those classes were filled by contacting local high schools on a contract basis, he said, and are all filled.

Kurzer criticized the government's failure to notify colleges and universities on the critical change in policy.

"We learned about it by accident. And it was only recently that local papers picked up on what was happening," Kurzer said.

Students interested in taking advantage of OCC's

April semester should keep close contact with high school counselors, who will be among the first to receive word of the school's dates, times and sessions.

If word has not been received by March 15, call the admission office of any OCC campus, he said.

Clarkston High School counselor Marilyn Hanson says she's been advising three seniors who face the pressure of double duty.

She too says the government did not move to inform those facing the mandatory cutback in social security payments, but adds the school did all it could to inform parents and students.

"We made daily announcements, sent out word in the newsletter and personally contacted parents and students who were eligible," Hanson said.

"I just know that somewhere there's going to be someone who doesn't know, and they're going to miss out."

There are two types of coal: soft (bituminous) and hard (anthracite). Anthracite is the cleanest and longest burning but in this area it is scarce and costly. There are high grades of bituminous coal available which are much less costly. Coal burning requires different techniques from wood burning, but by mastering these techniques you will only refuel once or twice a day. There is no creosote worry with coal. Take the time to examine coal burning carefully—have the proper stove installed safely—use the proper coal and you will be rewarded with an economical long burning heat source.
