Court grants go-ahead for ski ramp

By Marilyn Trumper

Word from the high court is "go" for Pine Knob Investment Company's proposed 185 foot ski ramp, and the controversial 20-story ski-run-roof hotel, dominated by a $30 million lawsuit, remains on the drawing board.

While Independence Township has suffered solid defeats, Pine Knob Investment Co. had two consecutive victories in the Michigan Court of Appeals and the Michigan Supreme Court.

In June Independence Township struck out for the third time when it sought to block Pine Knob from questioning zoning board of appeal members regarding their review and denial of variances that would have allowed the proposed hotel.

Last month the Michigan Supreme Court refused to hear the case on appeal, which means both lower court decisions stand.

Pine Knob attorney Anthony Locricchio says there'll be no immediate move to depose ZBA members.

"We're doing other things," he said. "We've been in talks with the township aimed at settling our differences and it's in that positive spirit we have not exercised our right to do so."

On another front, the Michigan Court of Appeals has concurred with the circuit court and in June ruled that Pine Knob may apply for a building permit to erect its proposed 185 foot ski ramp, sans hotel, without going before the planning commission for site plan approval.

Independence Township can appeal that decision to the Michigan Supreme Court and was expected to discuss strategy in closed session at the July 6 meeting.

Township Supervisor James B. Smith was on vacation and unavailable to comment.

Pine Knob Investment Co. co-owner Joseph Locricchio has not returned calls to clarify which tack he's taking: Development of the hotel or ski ramp.

Since springing his original ski-run-roof 20-story hotel concept in 1979, Locricchio has met with strong local opposition.

In an advisory ballot in November 1979, township residents overwhelmingly voted not to allow the hotel.

A few months after official township denial, Pine Knob filed a $30 million lawsuit in circuit court alleging they'd been denied use of the property for development as a ski resort.

One year ago Locricchio again approached the township, this time with plans for an alternate hotel—a five-story, 175-room French provincial with free standing ski ramp.

According to township officials, the alternative has gotten no further than the artist's renderings.

1982-83 school budget reflects drop in state aid

By Al Zawacky

Declining state revenues and a slight dip in expenditures are in evidence in the 1982-83 Clarkston Community Schools K-12 general fund budget.

Adopted by the Clarkston Board of Education at a special meeting June 28, the budget projects total district revenues at $13,630,503 for 1982-83, while expenditures have been projected at $13,789,556.

According to Superintendent Milford Mason, the $159,000 difference between the two figures would be made up by the district's equity position.

The revenue figure includes a drop in state aid from $3,722,871 in 1981-82 to a projected $2,855,559 in 1982-83.

Reductions in expenditures are primarily the result of personnel reductions, Mason said.

Through layoffs, Clarkston Community Schools has trimmed 27.5 teaching positions.

Continued declines in state aid are continuing to put a crimp on district revenues, he added.

"If the trend continues and we have to continue reducing spending, the only place we can do it is in personnel," Mason added.

"I feel we're pretty well set in 1982-83, but beyond that is uncertain. Every district that touches us—Oxford, Holly, Brandon, Lake Orion and Waterford—is operating on a reduced school day."

Further revenue declines brought about by Michigan's poor economic climate could pressure Clarkston schools to take the same tack, Mason said.

The school-by-school budget for K-12 education expenditures in the district runs as follows:

- Andersonville Elementary—$593,568.
- Bailey Lake Elementary—$761,738.

- Clarkston Elementary—$670,366
- Pine Knob Elementary—$672,164
- North Sashabaw Elementary—$757,497
- Clarkston Junior High—$1,081,086
- Sashabaw Junior High—$1,220,805
- Clarkston Senior High—$2,096,725

Mason said he based his budget recommendations on projections that turn-around in the state's economy would not occur anytime soon.

"The assumption I'm operating on now is that an economic recovery is still elusive and doesn't seem to be on the horizon," he said.

"Even if a recovery occurred next month, it probably wouldn't have much benefit for the schools for at least a year. There would be that much of a lag time between a recovery and state funds being replenished."

School board grants Mason three-year contract

By Al Zawacky

Superintendent Milford Mason will retain his post with Clarkston Community Schools for the next three years.

The Clarkston Board of Education, at a special meeting June 28, approved by a 5-1 vote a three-year renewal of Mason's contract with the district.

Included in the contract at Mason's recommendation is a one-year freeze on all wages and benefits earned by the superintendent.

The only dissent on the Clarkston Board of Education came from board member Fernando Sanchez, who, before casting his lone no vote, said he was "really disappointed" in some aspects of the district's operation.

Sanchez cited the handling of recent administration shifts and coaching openings.

"There's something wrong with the administration when we can't get teachers to apply for coaching positions," he said, afterward pointing to the hiring of non-teachers to coach basketball at Clarkston High School and football at Sashabaw Junior High.

"I think the superintendent is the leader—he's the one who sets the tone for the entire district, and I feel things aren't going right."

"The credibility of the administration and the board is way down. For the salary he (Mason) is getting, I don't think he's doing the job."

Fellow board member Mary Jane Chaustowich responded to Sanchez's comments by praising Mason's performance in the superintendent post.

don't think it's Mr. Mason's job to recruit coaches."

Mason commented on the board's remarks afterwards, noting that Sanchez's evaluation of his (Mason's) job performance "doesn't come close" to Chaustowich: '... Mr. Mason is doing a fine job.'

"For my money, Mr. Mason is doing a fine job," Chaustowich said. "He's doing a superlative job in very difficult times. We're in a down period, but I think the problems in this district we brought upon ourselves."

Board President Janet Thomas added that, "I

the evaluations of the rest of the board.

"I'm sorry he feels that way," Mason said. "Mr. Sanchez has always taken a lot of interest, and put a lot of time and effort into his job. He's been a good board member."

19-year-old killed in single-car accident

A 19-year-old Independence Township man was among 21 persons killed in traffic accidents this Fourth of July weekend.

Dead is Terry Bruce Ballard of East Circle Drive. According to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, Ballard and seven passengers were traveling east on Eston Road "... at a high rate of speed", July 3 at 9 p.m., when he lost control and rolled the 1982 Mustang.

The passengers were treated for minor injuries, reports said.

Ballard, a 1980 Clarkston High School graduate worked as a stock man at Food Town supermarkets.

Builder posts $500 reward for arrest of vandals

By Marilyn Trumper

Vandals, take this as fair warning. Ed Santala, owner of Briarwoode Builders, is calling an all-out war on the persons who caused $10,000 worth of damage to his model home under construction in Chestnut Hills Subdivision on Maybee Road.

The contemporary house sits high on a hill surrounded by nothing but clover and empty fields.

In repeat attacks over the past eight months, vandals have shattered every window in the house and caused thousands of dollars in damages.

Now Santala knows their names.

He knows, because they've used nails to carve their names into the dry wall and insulation, right next to the bent door wall frame, shattered glass and broken deck.

The names of Jeff, Matt, John, Ron, Brian, Julie, Peter, Jodi and Karen are punched into the insulation inside hearts that read "I love Peter, from Jodi,"

"Peter and Julie," "Jenni plus Joe," "Karen plus Jeff" and "Howdy."

Santala speculates the vandals are young teens from neighboring subdivisions, "and we're going to get them. I promise you that, we're going to get them."

"Last year we were building a house near Pine Knob North Subdivision (near Bailey Lake Elementary School)," he says. "The house out there kept getting hit. It took three days of waiting but we got those kids."

"There were a lot of shocked parents. The kids were arrested, taken to juvenile court, and their parents ended up paying for some of the damages."

"We're going to get them."

Safety glass is shattered from every door wall and most every window sits in shards and splinters, thick as fresh fallen snow around the outside and inside the house, covering almost every sill.

As high as the vandals can reach, shingles have been ripped off the roof. Holes have been kicked through dry wall.

Santala doesn't fault the Oakland County Sheriff's Department which has two deputies to patrol the township on eight hour shifts. Deputies will respond if called, he says.

"The problem is there's no one to see them. We've replaced the windows in this house once already," he says.

"We started building eight months ago and then stopped because of the economy. I guess we're going to have to finish it up and get someone to move in. That's the only way we're going to stop it."

Last Saturday outside floodlights were installed to discourage trespassers.

"By Sunday they were all broken," he says.

Santala says he's paid out 15 percent of the house's $150,000 price tag to repair vandalism.

He's vowed not pay out any more.

Santala's offering a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the damage. He can be reached by calling 625-9229.

CJH principal to be named at July 12 meeting

By Al Zawacky

Final consideration of whether William Potvin or Duane Lewis will hold the principal job at Clarkston Junior High is slated for the Clarkston Board of Education's July 12 meeting.

A final decision by the board is expected at the 8 p.m. meeting, according to Milford Mason, Clarkston Community Schools superintendent.

At a special meeting June 28, Mason recommended a series of administration reassignments to reduce central office personnel. Included in the recommendations was the reassignment of Potvin, the director of building and planning, to the Clarkston Junior High principal post held by Lewis.

Under the plan, Lewis would become assistant principal.

But critical reaction from the audience and reservations on the part of some board members prompted the board to delay making a final decision on whether Potvin or Lewis would become principal, while the other would become his assistant.

Mason said all his recommendations were based on several factors, seniority being only part of the picture.

One factor that influenced Mason's decisions was the loss of an arbitration ruling between the administration and the Clarkston Education Association.

Earlier in the day of the special board meeting June 28, an arbitrator ruled that administrators demoted to the teaching ranks cannot count their experience as administrators toward their teaching seniority.

Speaking at the June 28 meeting, Bob Brumback, Clarkston Community Schools director of special services, termed the union position in the arbitration ruling "militant unionism."

"I think this ruling will affect the future development of administrators in Clarkston," Brumback said. "In response to this decision, I think we should make minimum administration cuts."

CJH teacher John Craven also commented on the arbitration. "What incentive is there for any teacher in the Clarkston schools to work toward being an administrator?" he asked. "I don't see why anybody would want to be one, now."

CEA President Al Bartlett defended the decision. "It was not radical unionism," he said.

Bartlett said that the arbitrator simply agreed with the union's contention that contract agreements "are not designed to benefit non-bargaining units."

"It was not the intent of the Clarkston Education Association to remove the incentive for someone to become an administrator," he added. "Obviously, the incentive is already there in terms of salary and other fringes."

Mason said the arbitration ruling prompted him to recommend that John Reabe, one of the administrators tagged for a possible return to teaching, be retained as principal at Pine Knob.

Under the arbitration result, Riebe, with only four years actual classroom experience, would have been laid off had he been reassigned as a teacher, according to Mason.

"Our elementary layoffs are already up beyond four years of seniority," Mason said, "and the board agreed when we began making cuts that no administrator would be left without a job."

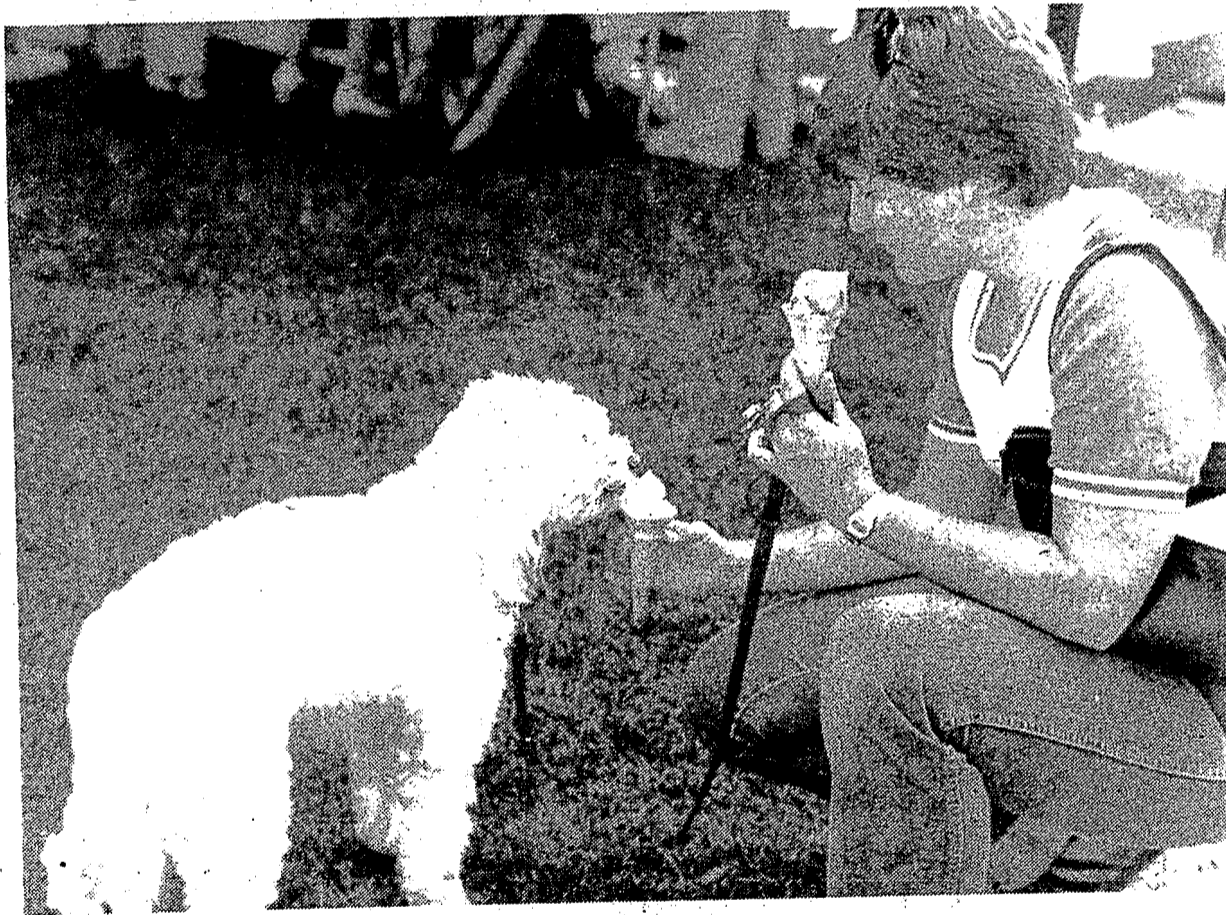

Mason said seniority was the determining factor in his recommendation of retaining Sashabaw Junior High Assistant Principal Goerge White, while his Clarkston Junior High counterpart, Assistant Principal Doug Pierson, be returned to the teaching ranks.

"Viewing their capabilities, the two of them came out equal," Mason said. "What it came down to then was the fact that George had been an administrator longer than Doug."

Pierson said the move came as no surprise.

"I had the lowest seniority or any building administrator in secondary education," Pierson said. "Plus, I have the most teaching experience of any administrator in the district."

"I knew this was coming and can understand and accept it from a seniority standpoint."

Sharing the sweets

Mmmmmmm! Even white poodles get into the ice cream social spirit in Clarkston's Depot Road Park following Monday's Fourth of July Parade. As temperatures topped the 80 degree mark, hundreds stood in line for a cone full of flavor while others scrambled for the park's shade and a free patriotic concert.

Two schools to net new boilers

New heating plant systems are on their way to Andersonville and Pine Knob elementary schools.

At a special meeting of the Clarkston Board of Education June 28, the board gave unanimous approval to the low bid of the Automatic Stoker Service of Pontiac to replace the aged boilers at Andersonville and Pine Knob.

The Pontiac firm's bid of $37,030 for both jobs includes the boilers and installation, according to Milford Mason, Clarkston Community Schools superintendent.

Mason cited frequent repairs and the poor condition of the two boilers as the reason for their replacement.

"Generally, boilers are considered to have a 25-year life—beyond that, you're on borrowed time," Mason noted.

Mason pointed out that Andersonville's present heat plant is 30 years old, while Pine Knob's is 26 years old.

Work to install the new heating plants was to begin this week, although a six-week wait is expected before the new boilers are delivered, Mason said.

July Fourth marchers

Clowns, always a child pleaser, were on hand for the parade, and walked comically up and down Main Street to the giggles and squeals of kids.

Red, white and blue was the theme and this float had it all, in honor of Clarkston Village's 150th birthday. The blaze of patriotism with all the frill and color proved to be a crowd favorite.

Village business Association opposes sign law

By Marilyn Trumper

There's a growing rift between the Clarkston Village Council and the Village Business Association over a proposed sign ordinance—a rift that has shopkeepers preparing for what promises to be a long fight, according to business association spokesperson Joan Kopietz.

After months of scrutiny and a re-draft to arrive at their own version, the association has put the kibosh on outlawing roof and overhanging signs; but are willing to compromise on size and material, Kopietz said at the council's June 28 meeting.

For months, the sign committee, comprised of Kopietz and trustees James Schultz and Gary Symons, has been reviewing the village's proposed ordinance.

In turn, Kopietz has taken the proposed law back to colleagues in the business association who in turn have drafted their version.

"We've written down what we'd like to see, and as you requested, the reasons for our decisions," she said.

"We really feel these need to be addressed by the sign committee and we'd like to know if we could have more business owners represented on the sign committee," Kopietz added, noting that she is outnumbered by elected officials.

Her request was left unanswered as Trustee Ruth Basinger said both Symons and Shultz have interests in downtown businesses.

After the meeting, Kopietz elaborated. "We feel the proposed ordinance is very restrictive. It follows along with the Betty Lee Francis study calling for awning signage and major renovations to business fronts.

"The thing the council seems to be forgetting is we're in business to make money, and we have to have that advertising on our store so that people will see us."

Kopietz called for a flexible ordinance, one that would allow business people to adapt signs to their storefronts.

"History is important—but we're current history," she said.

The business association will continue to fight to have a say in the drafting and final law proposal, Kopietz added.

The sign ordinance issue has been bantered around village hall for four years. Both the council and the planning commission have considered amendments to the current law that would place strong emphasis on historic aesthetics.

'New sophistication' featured at township hall

There's a new sophistication at Independence Township Hall now that the board's meeting in the unfinished, but air-conditioned annex.

Discounting the scarred floor, loose wires in electrical outlets, half-hung paneling and sagging ceiling, the board sits high, behind the new long conference table.

Residents will no longer be able to tell if their socks match.

The aura oozes professionalism. Building and Planning Director Kenneth Delbridge has indicated the annex will be complete as soon as the long-awaited building materials arrive.

His plan to complete the facelift: to lay carpeting and hang a dropped ceiling.

Last March, the board agreed to the renovations which would ultimately end a decade of holding meetings in historical township hall with its ceiling fans, varnished floor and ceiling. The move was aimed at providing a barrier-free meeting hall where seniors and the handicapped could gain access without climbing three flights of stairs. As a bonus, the annex was deemed energy efficient making it cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter.

A tip for those attending future board meetings—bring a sweater. The air-conditioning really works. —MST

Steel jaw trap: Cruel torture

by Ann Glenn

He is a robin, more beautiful than a Bohme Porcelain, round and fat from the diligent care of his mother and father.

Points a the corner of his bill are flexible and yellow so the youngster can part his bill for an insect meal from his parents.

His rounding breast is orange rust flecked with brown to camouflage his first attempts at flight.

He is healthy with an indomitable will to live, to carve out a niche in the scheme of earthly processes. He is a friend of man devouring grubs, larva and insects that consume our horticultural efforts, both flower and vegetable.

In his journey to maturity, this single perfect marvel of life found himself in the clutches of a steel jaw trap.

He valiantly struggled to free himself, tearing off his broken legs. One compound fracture protruded pointed bone from his side, while a foot hung limp as the leg dangled by skin.

Two girls and a gentle father worked to release this struggling beauty from the trap set right in the village of Clarkston.

The steel jaw trap is the most cruel of tortures, mangle legs and leaving the victim to suffer a slow and agonizing death. And yes, they agonize: They have nerves and brains and feel pain.

They experience stark terror for days, awaiting peace in death.

This bird of the wild could have been your cat, your dog, or even a small child right here in your neighborhood.

A one-foot fence will keep rabbits from your garden—go to Hamilton's in Ortonville, they'll help you!

A few mothballs around the edge of the garden will also repel rabbits. There are Havahart Traps that enclose, but do not injure.

Humans simply need not employ such gross cruelty and endanger this gorgeous robin, or any other of nature's beauties—or our pets or children.

Jim's jottings

From A to Z

by Jim Sherman

Sorry I missed last week. Oh, you didn't realize there was no "Jottings" in this paper? Sorry about that, too.

My last column talked of my taking to peanut butter and pickle on a spoon. John Bossardet of Oxford commented, "The bigger you guys get the more your tastes change. I tried it and it was terrible."

John should have left it right there. Instead he told me how good peanut butter and tomato sandwiches are. I was lucky to be in an outdoor breeze when he said it. Sounds sickening.

Daughter Susan has found the right bait for catching turtles. It's a pearl spinner with a number 8 hook. Put a shot about a foot above the spinner and a piece of perch belly on the hook.

To release the turtle, scream just as the beast is beached and he'll jump off the hook. Well, it worked for her.

Susan also has a way of attracting ducks. She went out to feed a mother duck and her eight ducklings.

Just as she threw the bread at the ducks the mama attacked Susan's head. She started running and the duck stayed flapping at her brow for a few feet before returning to her young.

Turtle-soup and roast duck are off Susan's menu.

What did you do with the 10 percent income tax Uncle Sam didn't take this week? Oh, part of it went to Michigan's increase in income tax, you say. Then the social security increase took some,

and the new cigarette tax?

Well, how much less is your paycheck this week than last?

I hope the trickled on theory of Reagonomics runs its course soon.

The proposed Equal Rights Amendment has failed to pass an adequate number of state legislatures to be added to the constitution. ERA backers certainly come from different backgrounds than I.

Should the amendment have passed it would have seemed to be a backwards step for them.

However, the amendment should have failed. No other proposed amendment has been given more time than the law allows to become adopted, as ERA was. Apparently it wasn't equal.

Snack foods tested for lunchrooms

Potential a la carte menu items at Clarkston Community Schools' cafeterias next fall were put to the test June 23. Items as diverse as yogurt, potato chips, snack cakes and carob bars were on hand at the board office as parents, students, administrators and food service personnel tasted and compared. Foods were rated on taste, eye-appeal, fat and sugar content and additive and preservative content. "This is the result of a year-long controversy in the district," said Mary Claya, food service director for both Clarkston and Lake Orion schools. "Some parents have questioned the ethics of selling a la carte items and are concerned about the nutrition of the items for sale," she said.

The issue drew over 60 people to a board of education meeting in March, as parents raised objections to such lunch-time extras as cookies, ice cream and potato chips.

Claya pointed out that a la carte items were necessary to keep the Clarkston food service program financially solvent.

The effort is to find food items that are both popular with students and acceptable from a nutrition standpoint.

"These tests will help us make a decision," Claya said. "From the results, we hope to be able to make some good choices."

Lee Funk (left), Clarkston High School cafeteria manager, and Jean Beaumont, manager at the Andersonville Elementary cafeteria, sample some of the foods and ponder a verdict.

Food Service Director Mary Claya (right) explains the rating procedure to one of the participants in June 23 snack food test at the Clarkston Community Schools board office.

'If it Fitz. . .'

ERA = prohibition

by Jim Fitzgerald

If the Equal Rights Amendment ever becomes law, Phyllis Schlafly will become a bootlegger.

When the ERA failed in Illinois last week, Schlafly told a reporter the defeat was "what the people really want. ERA is a hopeless cause—it will take its place in history alongside Prohibition.

Apparently, she believes the majority of citizens want unequal rights today the same way they wanted booze during Prohibition.

The constitutional amendment prohibiting alcoholic beverages failed because people are going to drink liquor no matter what the law forbids. That's what Jimmy Cagney and other expert anthropologists decreed. After all, if there were no booze, what would happen to the bump shops and morticians who depend upon the drunken driver for their livelihood?

Similarly, an amendment prohibiting sexual discrimination would fail because Phyllis Schlafly is never going to leave home without her husband's permission no matter what the law forbids. That's what Schlafly herself says. After all, if there were no sexual discrimination, what would happen to the ovens that depend on barefoot, pregnant women to tend them when the timer buzzes?

Schlafly begins all her public speeches with the same line: "I want to thank my husband, Fred, for letting me come here." When People magazine asked her why, she said, "Because it's true, and because it irritates the women's libbers more than anything."

A WOMEN'S LIBBER might not be anywhere near her kitchen when the oven timer buzzes. She could be in a hospital working as an obstetrics nurse, for $6 an hour, to supplement the income of her husband, Tom, the truck driver, who makes $15 an hour. Worst of all, she could have left home without Tom's permission.

Such radical conduct would become commonplace if the ERA passed. Our nation would be overrun by women doing things without their husbands' permission. The hills would be alive with the sound of unanswered oven buzzers. It is interesting to speculate on how Phyllis Schlafly would react to such a revolting development.

When faced with Prohibition, Jimmy Cagney gave the people what they really wanted by bootlegging booze made in local bathtubs or smuggled in from wet foreign countries. Schlafly's mission would be similar if the government forbid sexual discrimination to people who really wanted it. She would bootleg unequal rights.

PHYLLIS COULD MAKE effective use of Fred. She could send him to homes where the husband, afraid of breaking ERA law, refused to order the wife to stay home. Fred could do it for him. It would be easy to locate these homes simply by patrolling neighborhoods and listening for the sound of women begging to be chained.

Or Phyllis could smuggle in foreign men from nations where women must wear veils, walk several steps behind their husbands and never leave home without an oven timer. These smuggled husbands would be made available to all U.S. women yearning for the subjugation forbidden them by the ERA.

Deprived women could arrange assignations with bootlegged men by knocking on cellar doors and whispering into peepholes: "Phyllis sent me." These underground establishments could be identified by a discreet sign: "Yokes Fixed Here."

BUT THAT IS SPECUALTION, based on what could happen if Phyllis Schlafly lost the fight against ERA. For now, she has won, and some concerned people are remembering that one result of Prohibition's failure is Alcoholics Anonymous.

People who drink too much can quit drinking by getting together regularly and telling each other they drink too much. Now that ERA has failed, it is feared many women may similarly overindulge on unequal rights. Because they no longer have to fear that their husbands will let them leave home, pleasure-crazed wives could become seriously addicted to oven timers.

They could probably cure themselves by getting together regularly and telling each other that Phyllis Schlafly is a fool, with Fred's permission.

Clemos go solar with new greenhouse addition the peace, quiet and sun. The Clemos built their glass square this past spring, and expect to realize energy savings this winter.

The Clemos have let the outside in—sans pesty moths, nagging mosquitos and rain, but with all the benefits of a burning sun—now that their greenhouse addition is complete.

Don and Bev's solar greenhouse extension on the front of their Church street home is filled with thriving green plants and plenty of warmth.

After a hard day family members drop down into the black wrought iron chairs, read, have a cup of coffee and look out at the enveloping landscape that makes the house one with the yard.

The greenhouse decision was designed to cut energy costs, but there's no work on what exact savings will be realized, Bev said, Arched doors from Detroit's Graystone Ballroom adorn the entryway between the greenhouse and the Clemo dining room.

The mixture of old and new blend easily.

"I wanted something that would complement the (greenhouse) glass," Bev said. "I snooped around this resale antique place in Detroit, and spied these.

'We spend an awful lot of time out here ...'

"When we tried to replace the glass we splintered the wood. I had to go to a millwright for customizing."

The floor has six inches of concrete, gravel and foam, covered with brick.

"On a cold winter day the sun comes through the glass, heats up those brick, and the clay (plant) pots absorb the heat. When we first put the plants in there we lost quite a few old friends. Their roots were fried," Bev said.

In the winter, the inside of the house heats up to 85 degrees.

A fan can force the heated air into the rest of the house, or 15 thermal energy storage rods will store heat and dispense it in the same way long after the sun's gone down.

The Clemos will realize the full benefits of the greenhouse addition next winter, according to Bev, when blowing snow and frigid winds hit Independence Township.

For now, the shade of towering yard trees save the family from frying inside their glass house.

"We spend an awful lot of time out here eating and waving to our neighbors," she said.

Selling kittens? Here's the purr-fect sales pitch

By Marilyn Trumper

The cat's meow.

That's exactly what young Kelley Cook of Clarkston was selling on Main Street—and his form of advertising can't be duplicated.

He was selling the real thing.

Standing on Main Street with a gray calico flung across one arm, and buddy John Kevirtis in tow holding its orange sister, Kelley approached parked cars, customer's exiting Rudy's and sidewalk shufflers.

"Want a kitten? Want a kitten?"

Women stopped and stroked the fur. "Awww! Look at that. Isn't that cute?"

Kids with long faces gathered 'round with strict orders not to bring a cat home.

There were no takers.

Unshaken and refusing to get discouraged, Kelley persisted.

A little over an hour later both kittens had found homes.

"I just came down to buy a loaf of bread at the bakery," said Chris Richmond, a Brandon Township resident. "I like animals and we already have a cat, a barn and four and a half acres. It will have a good home."

Sue Learmont of Deer Hill Drive was wavering and almost became a new pet owner.

She quickly shoved the gray feline back into Kelley's arms, jumped in her black truck and headed for home.

Look out advertising execs.

Kelley Cook's moving up through the ranks.

John Kevirtis (left), Kelley Cook and Sue Learmont stroke and pet the Cook family's new addition. Kelley and John, after some persistence on down on Main Street, found homes for the felines.

Data deadline passes—Waterford racing ends

Racing ended this weekend at the Waterford Hills Race Track when officials failed to produce sound data by the July 4 deadline and exhausted their license.

The season will not continue unless the township board extends the track license for the remainder of the season.

That's the word from Independence Township Clerk Christopher Rose who says the township has been in contact with the racing association for the past few weeks, but track officials have failed to produce the report which the township board has repeatedly requested.

At a meeting in early June the track's legal counsel refused to make the data available at a public meeting, charging it was a privately paid for study, subject to the rights granted trade secrets.

He would however, discuss the report with the board in closed session, a move branded "potentially" illegal.

Rose said that even if the data is produce at the July 6 meeting the board is not expected to make a decision approving the extension without proof the proposals aimed at easing noise will work.

Track officials are asking for a four-year licensing extension, "...and want us to trust them that they'll implement the plan," Rose said.

"A plan that we haven't seen, and aren't even sure will work."

Since April the track has operated with only a partially approved racing season, good through the July 4 weekend.

Tentative 1982-83 school calendar set

Sept. 7 has been set as the first day of classes in the 1982-83 school year, according to Conrad Bruce, Clarkston Community Schools administrative assistant.

At its June 28 meeting, the Clarkston Board of Education put its unanimous stamp of approval on the '82-83 starting date.

The rest of the school year calendar has also been assembled, but Bruce stressed that all the dates are still subject to some changes, pending the outcome of ongoing negotiations between the administration and the Clarkston Education Association:

Summer cooler

This lad smeared more ice cream on his face than got into his mouth, but it didn't matter—as long as it was cold.

Movies these dates will be "The Country Mouse and the City Mouse" and "The Cow Who Fell in the Canal."

Wednesday, July 14 is Outdoor Games Day for the Summer Reading Club. There will be races, games and beverages and the movie for that day is "Doughnuts," about Homer Price who discovers to his surprise that his doughnut machine has a mind of its own.

This will be the fifth activity of the reading club with only three weeks left to turn in book reports. Certificates will be given to those who read eight or more books.

A costume party is scheduled for July 28. Members should start planning their costumes now.

The library would appreciate the names and phone numbers of mothers willing to help with refreshments and games at next week's activity. Parents are also needed for the costume party.

On June 30, the Summer Reading Club held its annual Paper Airplane Throwing Contest. The winners were Courtney Whittaker, Sandy Coulter, Devin DuPree and Mike Davis. The winner of the special challenge match was Ken Haley.

New books in the library are "No Bad Dogs" by Barbara Woodhouse; "The Weider Book of Bodybuilding for Women" by Betty Weider; "The Audubon Society Book of Marine Wildlife" by Les Line; "Peterson's Basic Bodywork and Painting;" "Custer Legends" by Lawrence A. Frost; and Mike Edelhart's "The Handbook of Earth Shelter Design."

New additions in the junior section are "The Detroit Lions" by James R. Rothaus; "Space, Frontier of the Future" by Robert Gardner; "Spiderman" by Roger Stern; and "Scuba Diving and Snorkling" by Peter B. Mohn.

Super Mane Hair Studio opens on Dixie

Barber Bud Bills likes to talk boxing, and promises an earful to customers that sit in his chair—if they want ringside talk.

He, and wife Debbie Bills, receptionist, just opened Super Mane Hair Studio in the former Haristyer I on Dixie Highway, Waterford Township. The move has been a "lifelong" dream.

Doing business

"I've been a barber for seven years, but was in real estate and insurance. I kept wanting to cut people's hair," Bud laughs.

"There are 24 people in my family who are barbers. My grandfather was a barber from Florence, Italy. It's in my blood."

Bud and Debbie have retained the shop's previous owner and employees. Customers will still find Mary Lange, specialist in color and cutting; Sherry Burleson, specialist in perms and braiding; Linda Bradford, specialist in cuts and color and Alan Forsyth, specialist in cuts and perms.

But, they chorus, "We're good at everything," eyebrow waxing and manicures included.

Super Mane Hair Studio is located at 5219 Dixie Highway, across from Looney Tunes, open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. For information phone 623-7555.

Raft racers Tom, Jeff: They catch on fast

By Al Zawacky

It wasn't all that long ago that 14-year-olds Tom Purves and Jeff Chamberlain didn't know a thing about raft racing.

That fact made the boys understandably cautious about their chances of making a big splash, you might say, in the three-mile raft race held as part of the annual "Curwood Festival" up in Shiawassee County.

Apparently, Tom and Jeff both learn quickly. The Purves-Chamberlain team finished second, earning a medal to represent Clarkston well at the June 6 race down the Shiawassee River from Corunna to Owosso.

Their craft: A red, wooden vessel that the boys built themselves.

"My dad helped us a little," says Tom, who like his friend Jeff will start ninth grade at Clarkston Junior High this fall. "I'd say it took about a month of weekends for us to finish it."

Tom's dad, Tom senior, says the whole thing got started when the family attended the Curwood Festival last year.

"Owosso's my home town," he says. "When Tom saw the raft race, he said he'd like to be in it."

Tom's dad sought out the advice of a carpenter friend in building the raft. Race rules don't permit factory-made rafts, and Tom and Jeff knew they'd need something fast to be competitive.

In the race, the boys competed against racers of all ages, as racers are only divided up into categories on the basis of craft type and how many ride aboard. First place, unfortunately, was never really in reach, the boys say, as two older racers took top honors running away in a kayak.

"They took off ahead right from the start," says Jeff. "We never got close."

But—having surprised themselves with a second place finish, the boys are looking forward to the next race. And they're in agreement about their goal.

Modifying their raft's design a bit to allow it to cut through the water with less resistance is one of their plans to help put that goal in reach.

"We want to try for first," says Tom. Don't bet against it.

POINT AFTER

Who mourns for the GOAL?

By Al Zawacky

Nix doughnuts at waist size 36. These are thoughts during a lunch of plain yogurt and sugar-free cola...

I'll bet I know one guy who's almost in tears these days at the prospect of the Greater Oakland Activities League kicking the bucket—Rochester Adams head football coach Joe Zelman-ski.

Without Rochester, Lake Orion and Clarkston, who is Zelman-ski supposed to beat?

Anyway, Zelman-ski has other problems to contend with, too. A few months ago he barely survived a coup attempt by some disgruntled parents who didn't approve of his discipline and coaching techniques.

Wouldn't it be nice if more parents took a similar militant concern about the academic aspects of their son's education?

Sticking with football, I wonder who is going to play in the Wolves' backfield this fall?

There are some top-notch candidates—but who is going to be doing the blocking for them?

This could be a long, frustrating autumn for the Wolves.

Here's the very first word on the never-tiring Clarkston-Sashabaw football rivalry: The Cougars appear to have the edge in talent. They'll beat the Wolverines in the season opener.

Stay tuned for more.

I don't know what the music or beer is going to be like at the upcoming "White's Army" reunion—but I'll bet Rob White's quotes will be good.

What the heck happened to the Tigers? A few more weeks of this, and I'll have to cancel my World Series tickets.

There is no drink in creation that tastes worse the diet cola. It's like drinking used bath water.

Regarding the recent NBA draft, it appears as though we definitely have a front office in town with some bona fide brains. No kidding. I see playoffs in the Pistons future.

Is the new, spring-summer pro football league really such a good idea?

Part of the fun of following any sport is waiting for the season to start—the months of speculation, prediction-making and anticipation.

I don't think I could stomach 12 straight months of "first down and 10."

I can't stomach plain yogurt, either.

The most successful local team in 1982-83 is going to be the Clarkston High School Wolfpack. Coach Dan Fife can start practicing his post-game smiles—a league title is back-pocket material.

Kubani, McCormick, Williams, Kulaszewski, Dearborn, Bruce...definitely worth looking forward to.

Yogurt and diet cola lunches...definitely not worth looking forward to...

Blood drive July 14

Clarkstonites are being asked to give the gift of life next week at the American Red Cross Blood Drive.

The blood drive will take place July 14 at Calvary Lutheran Church, 6805 Bluegrass, Independence Township.

Residents can give blood from 2 to 8 p.m. The entire procedure, which includes registration, medical history, the actual donation and light refreshments, takes about 45 minutes.

The donation itself takes only seven to 10 minutes.

Donors must be between 18 and 65 years of age (age 17 with parental consent) and weigh at least 110 pounds.

Engaged

Ervin and Marion Smith of Independence Drive, Independence Township, announce the engagement of their daughter Fern Renee to Thomas Ogan, son of the late Chester Ogans and Donna Ogans. Mrs. Ogans live on Groveland Road, Groveland Township. The bride-to-be is a 1976 Clarkston High School and Northwest Oakland Vocational Education graduate, and is currently enrolled in Oakland University's Para-legal program. She is employed by Silver, Friedman & Roth PC in Bloomfield Hills. Her fiance, a 1973 Pontiac Northern High School graduate, is employed by the U.S. Post Office Vehicle Maintenance Facility. The couple plans a November wedding.

Just back from a rigorous week at Girls' State, Amy Selvalla (left), Robin Ronquillo and Amy

Gettig, Clarkston High School students, discuss what they learned about politics.

3 students learn political ropes

Campaigning was tough.

The speeches rigorous.

Issues demanded a stance.

When it was all over Robin Ronquillo of Independence Township, a Clarkston High School junior, was a senator, while classmates Amy Gettig and Amy Selvalla were representatives and central committee members.

The event was Girls' State in Mt. Pleasant at Central Michigan University, June 11 thru the 20, where hundreds of high school girls from across Michigan gathered to learn the ins and outs of politics.

They hold campaigns, elections, give speeches, make signs and outline platforms—just like the real thing.

Ronquillo says she came away with a better understanding of what candidates endure.

"I have a better handle on what a politician goes through," she says. "All this time I thought they didn't work—now I know better. We worked hard."

Amy Selvalla, a Springfield Township resident, Robin of Independence Township, and Amy Gettig will be seniors next year. The trio have their sights set on college.

Political science as a major appears to be out as Gettig and Ronquillo shake their heads and Selvalla says, "(Girls' State) kind of changed my mind."

Because Clarkston High School doesn't require government until the senior year, the three students say they'll be way ahead of the game come fall.

"I really think going to Girls' State helped me. I'll know a lot more than the other kids because of it," Ronquillo says.

Blue-ribbon skills can be put to test

Rave reviews greet your culinary skills. Your paintbrush leaves masterful strokes on canvas. When you call your husband the neighbors' windows rattle. Why not win a ribbon from the Michigan State Fair for all those talents?

Although the 11-day fair doesn't begin until Aug. 27, entry forms and premium books outlining contest fees and rules can now be obtained without charge by writing the Entry Department, Michigan State Fairgrounds, Detroit 48203 or by calling 368-1000.

The premium book desired must be specified when writing or calling. Available are Community Arts for baking, canning and crafts; Fine Arts for paintings, drawings, photographs and sculptures; Horse Show; Youth Division, ages 8 through 19; Special Events for husband calling or baton twirling; Livestock; Poultry, Rabbits, Pigeons and Caves which also covers agriculture, floriculture, horticulture and wine show categories.

Entries close Aug. 1 for all divisions except the horse show, which has a July 20 deadline.

"Quality Proves Performance"

White Lake's Camp Gilman holds June 18 open house

Camp Gilman is named after the late Seymour Gilman, who pioneered the camp program back in 1948.

The June 18 open house and dedication ceremony at the Camp Gilman correctional facility on White Lake Road in White Lake Township drew many to the building's clean and spacious interior. A corrections camp for female offenders, Camp Gilman opened in November and currently houses 76 women. The minimum-security facility is one of 12 such camps statewide maintained for offenders who, through good behavior in prison, have earned a place in a minimum security institution. Camp Gilman's 35,000 square feet feature individual rooms, a cafeteria and recreational facilities. It is heated entirely by wood harvested by inmates in northern Michigan.

WORDS OF LIFE - "Let him who means to love life and see good days refrain his tongue from evil and his lips from speaking guile. And let him turn away from evil and do good; let him seek peace and pursue it. For the eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous, and His ears attend to their prayers, but the face of the Lord is against those who do evil." (1 Peter 3:10-12, Psalms 34:12-16)!!ILX-26-2*

Patriotic celebrants

With a balloon for an umbrella against the sun, tall shoulders proved to be the best perch for seeing the concert in the park.

Gitter, 21, joins state rep race

At the age of 21, Tom Gitter's joined the race for State Representative for the 61st District, vying for the seat currently held by fellow Republican Matt Dunaskiss.

To campaign, Gitter, an Oxford Village resident, postponed his senior year at the University of Michigan where he's majoring in economics.

At the top of Gitter's targets is the issue of a part-time legislature.

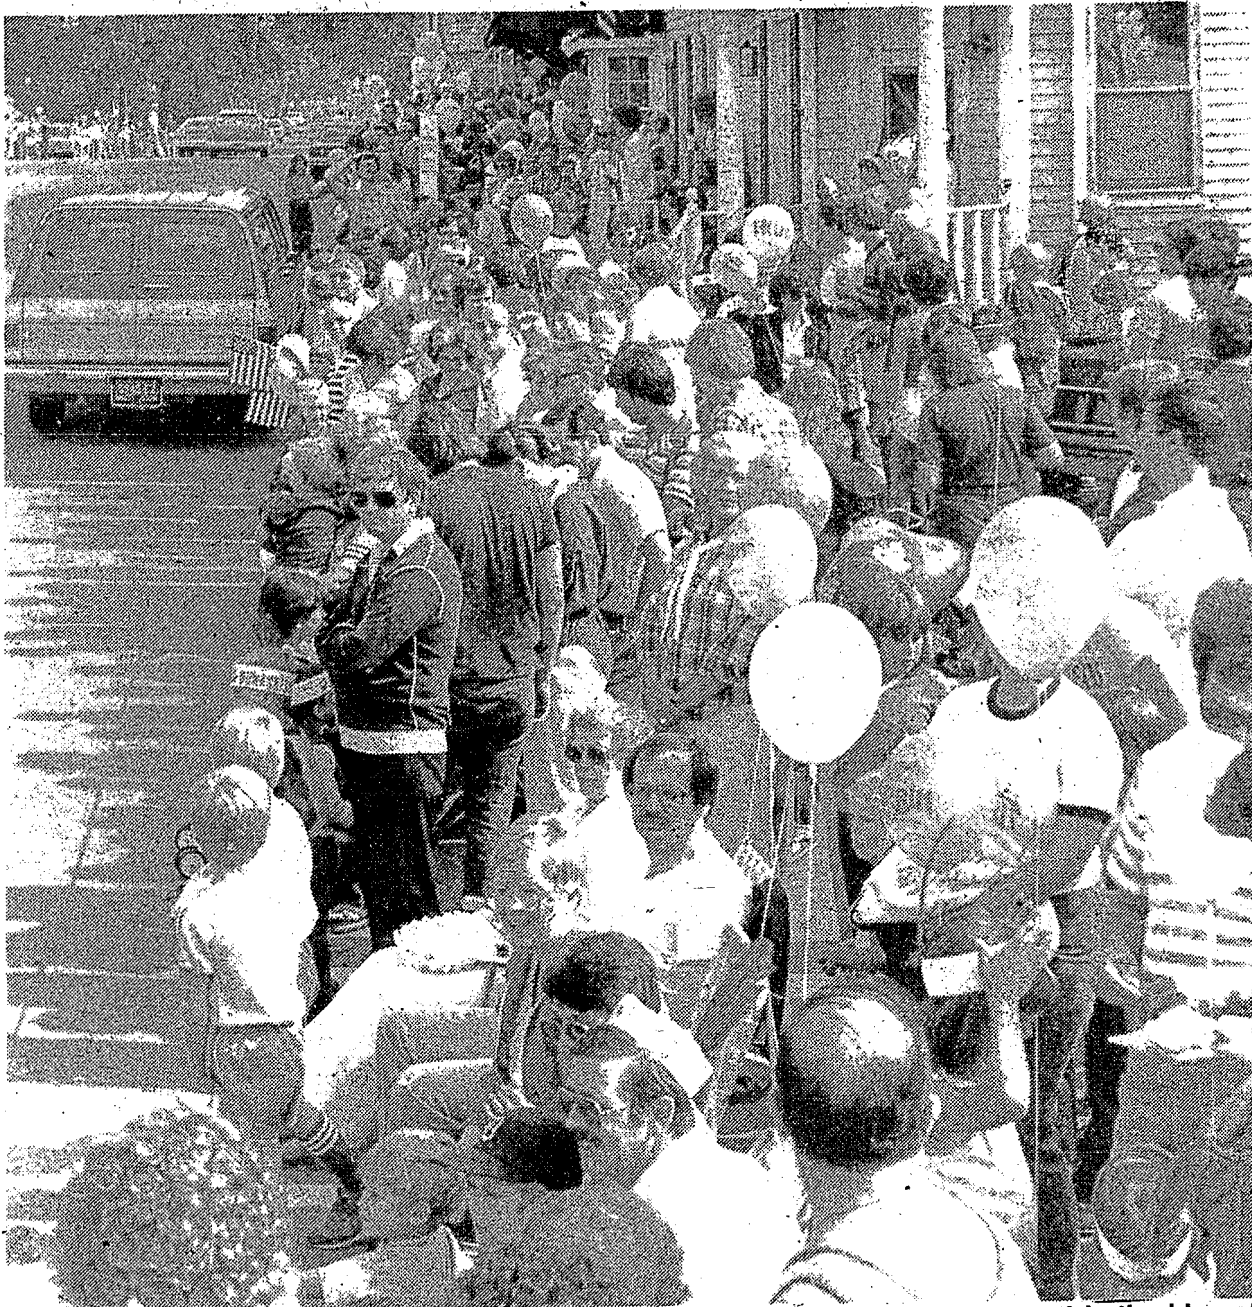

Gitter favors a working social system, one where those on the welfare rolls will go out and clean up the roadways, earning the income they receive.

"I don't care if they have to go up and down the same road three times," he said. "The important thing is that these people regain their pride and contribute to society."

Taxes and school funding are also on the young Republican's list of targets.

Gitter faces Dunaskiss in the August primary. The winner faces incumbent State Representative Claude Trim, a Democrat, in the fall election.

The 61st District is comprised of Independence, Springfield, Addison, Oakland, Orion, Oxford and Brandon townships.

On sidewalks, there was standing room only as people lined up five feet deep along the villages's Fourth of July Parade Route. The crowd was swelling into the street past the cordon as people of all ages lined both sides of Church and Main streets.

Springfield resident Kim Turner, with some help from brother David, hitches up her two pet goats before stopping inside Martin's Country Store for a refreshment break.

This sign greets customers—and horses—as they approach Martin's Country Store.

A page out of the past

Martin's Country Store isn't just a name. It's a real country store—a slice of old Americana right in Springfield Township.

People often come in just to have a cup of coffee and chat at the store on Big Lake Road and Hillsboro, and it isn't unusual to find a horse parked outside along with the cars.

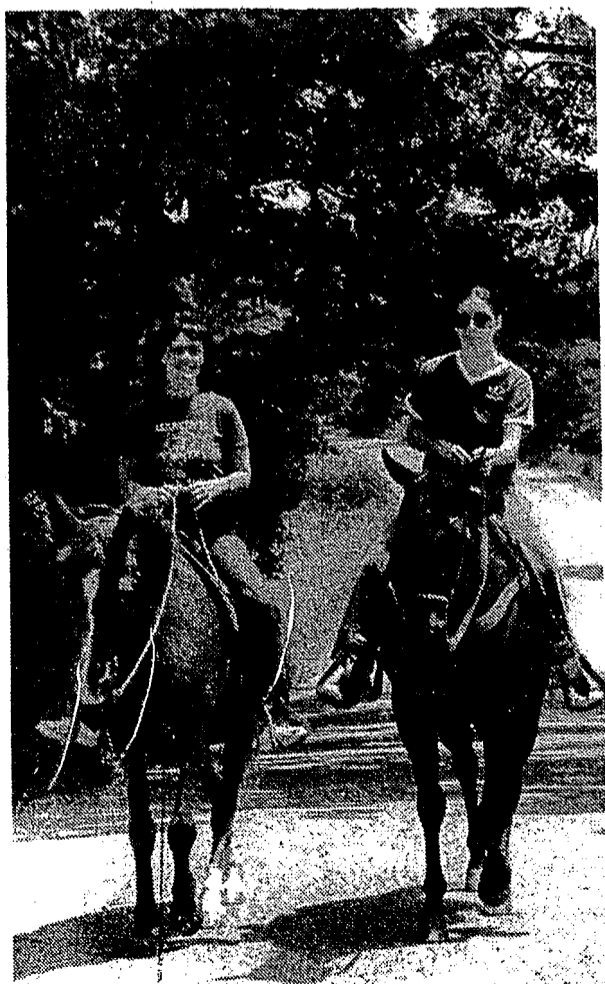

Sue Mathews and Sue Carpenter are two local residents who often make the trek to the store on horseback, stopping over for a break.

"It's the only place around that still has a hitching post," explains Mathews.

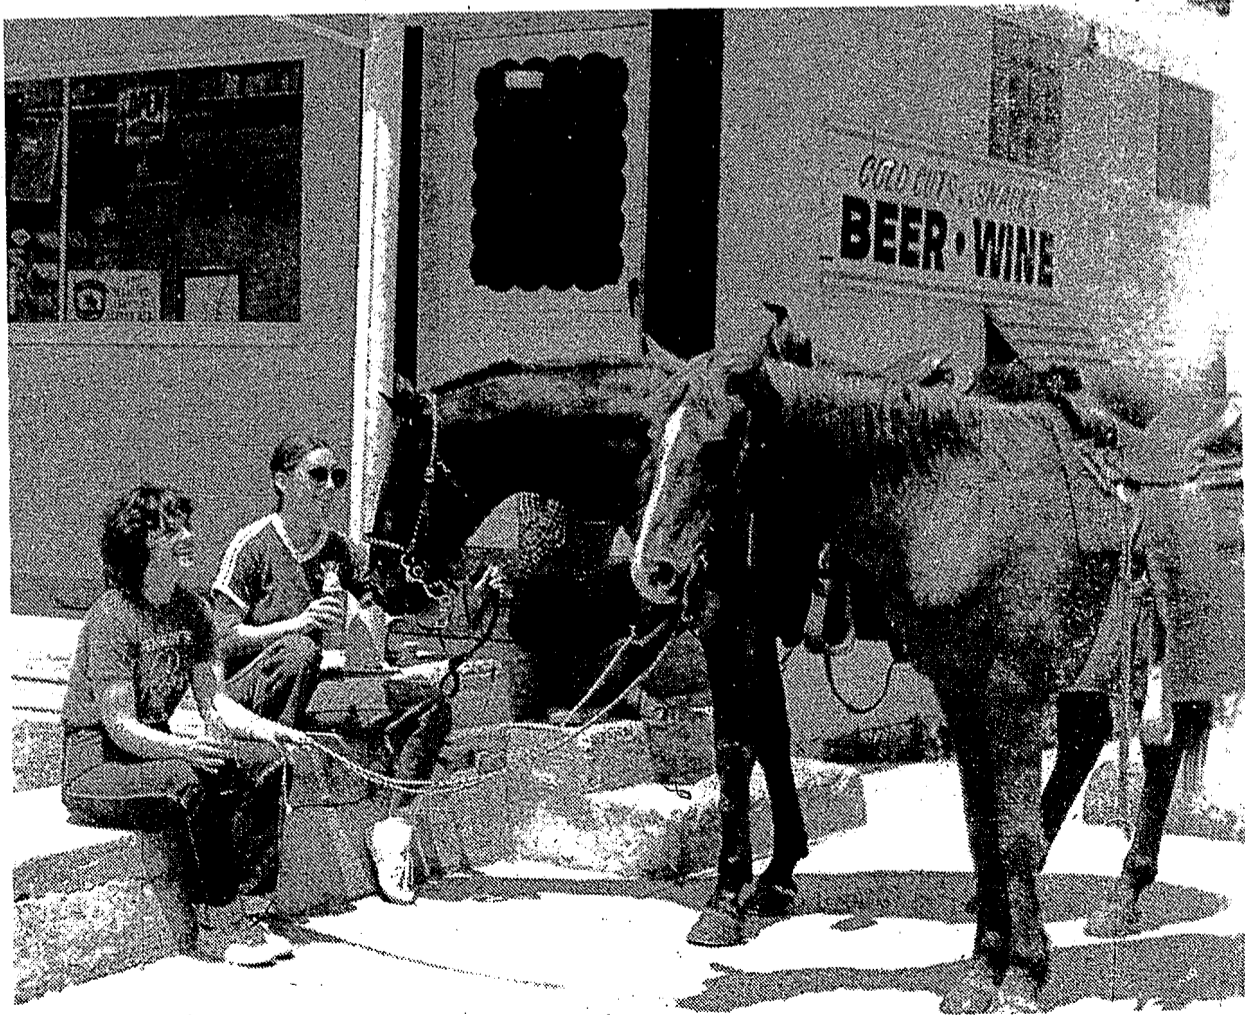

And if the horses aren't around, the goats may be there. Kim Turner regularly takes "Ester" and "Jonathon," her two pet goats, out for a walk. When stopping in the store to take a breather, Kim hitches the goats up right outside.

"We try to keep the old country atmosphere here," says store owner Tom Martin. "It's just like the old grocery stores you hear about—folks coming in just to sip coffee and talk."
