CHS grad Birtsas signs with Yankees

By Al Zawacky

Clarkston High School graduate Tim Birtsas joined the ranks of professional baseball last week, ending months of speculation that he would turn pro by signing with the New York Yankees.

Pen in hand, Tim Birtsas puts his name to a pro baseball contract in his parents' Clarkston home on Robertson Court. Seated alongside is Bill Livezey, the Yankees' director of player development.

Birtsas inked a one-year contract with the Yankees in his parents' Clarkston home July 12. The Yankees assigned the 21-year-old, 6-foot-6 southpaw to their Class A farm club in Oneonta, N.Y.

Reached at home before leaving for Oneonta early Thursday morning, the former Michigan State University hurler was excited at the prospect of pitching professionally and pleased with the terms of his agreement with the Yankees.

"I'm really excited—this is a dream come true," Birtsas said. "I'm looking forward to just going there and finding out what it's like."

"The Yankees said they're going to teach me how to pitch. I've been blessed with a good fastball, but you've got to have a good curve and change-up to make it to the majors. Hopefully, I'll be a Yankee in a few years, but that all depends."

Birtsas played what proved to be his last season at Michigan State University this spring. He won the Steve Garvey Sportsmanship Award and was also named State's most improved player.

He was red-shirted for a year following elbow surgery earlier in his college career and remains a half-year away from finishing his degree in parks and recreation.

Fully recovered from the operation, Birtsas had been scouted by several teams and passed up some previous pro offers before coming to terms with the Yankees, who had made the 1978 CHS alumnus their first pick in the amateur draft.

Declining to discuss the financial aspects of his agreement with the Yankees, Birtsas termed the amount of money he received for signing "substantial."

Part of the money went to buy a sailboat for his mom, "and the rest I put in the bank," he said.

"It's going to be hard at first—I'd expect things to be a little more cut-throat than college ball," he said of his prospects in the minors. "But you've got to have a good attitude to make it and I know I do."

Birtsas said it would take about a week before he could get his arm in shape and be ready for regular duty with the Oneonta club.

He plans to return home to Clarkston for 10 days in September before leaving to play in an instructional league this winter.

Tim's parents, Gus and Carolyn Birtsas, were understandably proud and pleased with their son's new status as a professional baseball player.

"Both the wife and I are delighted," said Gus. "We're hoping now that he can make it to the majors."

"This is something Tim has wanted for a long time, ever since he's been able to hold a ball."

14 group homes

Indianwood Road is target site

By Marilyn Trumper

The state has announced plans to build a house for six developmentally disabled adults on Indianwood Road near Dartmouth Road, in what's been branded a "more rural" area of Independence Township.

If built, it brings the township's total of similar homes to 14.

Ground breaking is expected to begin in three weeks, with builders aiming at Thanksgiving Day for completion.

Neighboring residents of the one-acre site received word via the mailbox last week of the state Department of Mental Health's plan to back the home, that will be monitored by the Macomb Oakland Regional Center (MORC) and run by Lutheran Social Services.

As with most group homes, residents of this house, which will be both men and women, will require 24-hour care and some will be confined to wheelchairs.

According to Tom Miller of MORC, the residents will "probably" come from the Plymouth Center, an institution, and will most likely be selected six weeks before the home opens.

Last year the township vowed to fight a similar home on Whipple Lake Road, seeking an injunction to prevent construction.

Board members at that time said a "more rural" site would be more conducive to such homes, arguing that densely populated area was not.

Plans for the Whipple Lake home ended abruptly when the builder lost his funding.

The Independence Township Board was expected to discuss strategy at Tuesday night's meeting to decide whether to take legal action to stop the home from going in.

Raft flotilla

Summer day camp at Independence Township's Camp Oweki is an activity dating back to the mid-1950s, and 1982 finds the tradition continuing. About 60 girls and boys ages 6-12 participated in this year's program, sponsored by the Camp Fire North Oakland Council. Sailing, handicrafts, nature studies, swimming, hiking and campfire cooking were some of the activities. Here, a team of camp participants floats in the waters of Gullick Lake in the "floatable-boatable" contest, in which each team attempts to stay afloat for 30 seconds on a hodgepodge of homemade rafts made up of innertubes and whatever is on hand.

Township suffers defeat in Levy mining permit

By Marilyn Trumper

Independence Township has suffered a wounding defeat in circuit court in its bid to force a Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) decision on the Edward C. Levy Co.'s Inland Lakes and Streams permit needed to mine 400 acres near the headwaters of the Clinton River.

Last week on July 14, Judge Gene Schnelz ruled that only the applicant has the right to demand a DNR decision within 90 days of the public hearing. That hearing was held over a year ago.

Township attorney Gerald Fisher was disappointed with the ruling.

"I think it was straight in the statute that said 'in 90 days, a decision shall be given.' And there was no indication it could be extended at anyone's discretion."

He pointed to numerous meetings between the DNR, Levy and "interested parties" since the 1981 public hearing, where alternatives to the mining plan have been discussed.

Fisher has argued that Independence Township, an interested party, was not invited.

"The continued meetings with the various groups have served to undermine the public hearing (held in February 1981). What they've done is to go beyond open doors for closed sessions, outside the scope of the public hearing."

"The point is that all of the people in the township were being denied their hearing rights based on a new proposal the public hasn't seen."

D.J. Haywood, chief of the DNR's Land, Lake and Stream Protection Section, says Independence

Township was invited to attend every one of the meetings held to discuss modifications to the Levy plan, but did not show up.

However, according to Haywood, the Levy plan has been altered from the original proposal presented to an audience of 200 people representing over a dozen opposition groups.

Because the plan has changed, the DNR will call a second hearing, upon request, to discuss the new plan, he said.

"Our intention is to re-publish the notice as a modification—if someone decides they want (a public hearing)," he said.

For some time state officials have indicated that if forced to make an immediate decision the DNR would be compelled to deny the Levy application for an Inland Lakes and Streams permit.

There's been strong speculation at the state and local levels that the township saw its first foothold and sought court action to get the denial, and block the proposed 400-acre gravel pit, targeted near the headwaters of the Clinton River.

Levy attorney Joseph Polito, who's handling the specifics of the mining proposal, could not be reached to spell out changes in the plan and how it differs from the original.

75-year-old woman wins state $1 million lottery

By Kathy Greenfield

The celebration for the new millionaire in our midst was modest—chilled wine sipped from paper cups in the parking lot of a shopping mall in Saginaw. But it was in keeping with 75-year-old Margaret Margaret Bernard still wears her contest identification button the day after she won $1 million in the state lottery.

Bernard's plans for spending the $1,000 a week, to a minimum of $1 million, she won for life July 15 in the state lottery drawing.

"I want to go to California," said the Independence Township resident. "I've never been to California yet.

"I think everything is too high priced unless you go with a tour group," she added. "I'm Scotch enough to save my dollars."

Already a world traveler with trips to Europe and Canada under her belt, many with the three senior citizens groups she belongs to, Mrs. Bernard laughs at remembered. "I didn't jump up and down."

But her family members, sitting in the front row, surrounded her with plenty of hugs and kisses.

She laughed at the memory.

"They said, 'How does it feel to be a millionaire?' and I said, 'I don't know, I've never been one before,'" she said. "It's hard to believe—I only get so much a week. It's not like you have your hands on it."

A widow, Mrs. Bernard lives in an apartment attached to her daughter and son-in-law's home. A former nurse, she moved to the township in the mid 1970s from Kalkaska, where her late husband served as a medical doctor. She has four children, nine grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

She has purchased lottery tickets ever since they have been available, she said, buying two to four a week, and giving her daughter half of the tickets and sharing winnings amounting to $10, free tickets and some $2 prizes in the past.

But even after winning $100 with the ticket that ultimately won her $1 million, she never gave a thought to winning the big prize.

"I just like to gamble," she said.

Her winning ticket in the Double Feature drawing was purchased March 19 at the Food Town grocery store at the corner of Sashabaw and Maybee roads in Independence Township, according to a Karen Pyle, public relations director of the Bureau of Michigan Lottery.

Mrs. Bernard's chances of winning the $1 million drawing were one in 7,023,108, Pyle said.

The prize guarantees a minimum of $1 million to Mrs. Bernard or to her estate, with no maximum on the total collected at the rate of $1,000 a week for life.

Margaret Bernard:

'I just like to gamble.'

the thought that she can now travel every week.

She plans to invest some of the money and to live off some of it, she said.

The drawing was held in a meeting room inside the Fashion Square Mall in Saginaw. Ten members of Mrs. Bernard's family accompanied her to the event and they watched as she ended up the winner out of the six contestants eligible.

Her family was more excited than she was, Mrs. Bernard said.

"I said, 'I hit,' a stupid thing to say, but you say stupid things that come into your head," she

Freak accident takes life of Independence teen

A freak accident involving a truck antenna has claimed the life of a 16-year-old Independence Township youth.

Timothy Parke of Clarkston-Orion Road died early Monday morning, two days after admittance to

Timothy Parke

Crittendon Hospital in Rochester with head injuries, according to a hospital spokesperson.

Monday night, the family gathered and a tribute was written for Tim. "It's not really a quote from anybody, it's just the way we remember him," said Tim's aunt, Pat McArthur.

"Most people would say Tim was just an average guy, but to those who knew him he was anything except average. His life rotated around simple pleasures—his family and friends who loved him and football which he loved. He was so full of life, so vital, so determined to have a good life and, perhaps because of this, life was good to him. This is what we will always remember about Tim."

According to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, Parke and two companions were passengers in the open bed of a 1978 pickup truck traveling on Davisburg Road, between Bridge Lake and Claridge roads in Springfield Township at 11:57 p.m., Friday, July 16.

Parke reportedly asked the driver to stop. Police speculate that when the youth jumped from the back of the truck toward the cab, he impaled his nose on the upright antenna, or hit his nose at the bridge, near the right eye. Police arrived to find the youth unconscious and prostrate on the ground.

According to a county official, "brain death" was pronounced Monday morning.

A student at Clarkston High School, Parke completed his sophomore year in June. He was active in athletics, having been a member of the CHS junior varsity football team last year and the CHS boys' track team this past spring.

"I had Tim both as a student and an athlete, and he was one of those kind of kids who always seemed to come out on the winning end," said Gordie Richardson, a teacher and coach at CHS.

"He was the type of kid you just knew was going to be a success in life.

Parke was one of 28 players on Richardson's undefeated 1981 JV football team, and was looking forward to playing varsity football this fall, said Richardson.

"Football was his game, and on game day you could be sure he'd give 100 percent," he said. "He was a good young athlete who was always bound and determined to find a way to win.

"We're all going to miss him."

Timothy Parke is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Parke, brother Rodney and sister Juli, all at home.

School board freezes salaries

By Al Zawacky

Clarkston Community Schools central office administrators will receive the same salaries and benefits in the 1982-83 school year as they did in 1981-82.

The pay and benefit freeze, proposed by Superintendent Milford Mason, was approved by the board of education unanimously at a June 28 special meeting.

As a result, Mason will continue to earn an annual salary of $49,787. The remaining central office administration salaries, also frozen at 1981-82 levels, are as follows: Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara $43,112; administrative assistant Conrad Bruce $41,819; and administrative assistant William Dennis $41,435.

Mason said the salary freeze had its roots in the budget talks began back in January.

"One point we made from the very beginning was that there is no room in the 1982-83 budget for wage improvement," he said.

The only exceptions are in the existing contractual commitments Clarkston Community Schools have with district bus drivers and custodians, Mason said.

Other than that, there is no money available for wage increases "from the superintendent on down," he said.

"How can I propose that for other people if we (the administration) don't set the example?"

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl MacArthur of Holly and Mrs. Claude Parke of Waterford Township.

Great-grandmother is Helen Gundry of Clarkston.

Services are scheduled Thursday, July 22, at Clarkston United Methodist Church, to be officiated by the Rev. James Balfour.

Burial is to take place in Lakeview Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were handled by the Goyette Funeral Home, Clarkston.

The family suggests donations be made to the Clarkston Athletic Association.

Mason added that the district's hard line on future wage hikes was creating some difference of opinion in the ongoing negotiations between the administration and the Clarkston Education Association (CEA).

A strike this fall is not an impossibility, he said. "I would hope it doesn't happen, but I have to be realistic," Mason said. "All the districts that bound us are wrapped up in contract negotiations, and I would imagine there is probably going to be a (strike) target district."

The possibility of any district being singled out for strike action was discounted by CEA President Al Bartlett.

"I know of no targeting of any kind," he said. "We're just bargaining and trying to obtain a contract—hopefully, there'll be a settlement. But frankly, there are many possibilities between now and September."

Bartlett termed the chances of his union approving a wage freeze at the present time "highly unlikely."

"If you're talking about a school district that has gone for several millages and has a $40,000 fund equity, that's one situation," he said. "But even by Mil Mason's figures, Clarkston is looking at a fund equity of $1,000,000. That's something entirely different.

"This district is not bankrupt by any means."

Ninety-three-year-old Allen Hawke of West Washington Street continues to enjoy the company of two renters while Clarkston's Village Council has eased up on threats to evict the tenants.

Council President Jackson Byers pointed out that if Hawke would refuse to accept money from the renters, thereby making them guests, there would be no zoning violation and Hawke could continue to have someone in the house.

At the July 12 meeting, Hawke indicated via letter he would go before the zoning board for a variance that would allow him to have renters in single-family zoning.

Hawke has not yet applied for that appearance. The battle began last summer after council's repeated communiques of violation to Hawke, who ignored the push and continued to lease his mother-in-law apartment.

Arcade trial ends; ruling due Thursday

In one week Robert Warrington should know if he's won his year-long battle to open an arcade on M-15, south of Clarkston's village.

A two-day trial that began last month and ended last week in the court room of Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem is expected to end with Ziem's ruling Thursday, July 22.

Independence Township attorney Richard Campbell argued the arcade should not be allowed because the zoning ordinance restricts them to malls—areas dominated by pedestrian traffic and adults, and geared to indoor use.

An independent expert planner hired by the township gave concurring testimony, Campbell said. He refused to speculate on the trial's outcome.

After closing arguments, Warrington's attorney Bernard Paige said he felt "good" and added, "It's difficult though to say what the judge will do."

In the trial Paige argued the township's zoning ordinance that restricts arcades to malls is unconstitutional, because Independence Township has no malls.

In addition, while the zoning board agreed to recognize Warrington's cluster of buildings as a mall, it refused to grant the variances needed to open, and this, Paige argued, was wrong.

"If we lose, we'll appeal," he said. Warrington would not return News' phone calls. For almost a year the local entrepreneur has been locked in a legal battle with Independence Township as he continues to pursue opening an arcade.

Although Warrington has refused to disclose the amount of money invested in the building, the games, and the profit loss since the arcade was shut down last fall, he has indicated it is close to $100,000.

What I like

Mike Downey, a Chicago imported sports columnist for the Free Press, recently devoted his space to things he hates.

All I could think of when I read it was doing a column on things I like: Here goes:

White shoes and white belts, but only between Memorial and Labor Day. Big cars. Fellowship. Watching a mother and her baby play.

Before I go further I'd like to point out this list is not listed in any order at all.

White shirt and tie. Smell of fresh mown hay, ground coffee and leather. Taste of first sweet corn, fried potatoes and fried chicken the way Hazel does 'em.

Compliments. Fishing, partridge hunting, snowmobiling, deer hunting, golf, mowing lawn, hoeing weeds, and trimming. I like to paint. I like to sweat. And, I love hats.

I like to read weekly newspapers, mystery novels, and the Lockhorns.

I like to see baby everythings. I like profit. I like playing cards but not gambling. I like colors, machines when they run right, and I like to write when the subject is interesting to me.

I like boxes, baseball and bananas. I like to buy gifts that I know people want. I like coney island hotdogs, hamburger deluxes and toasted bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwiches.

I like to watch basketball professionals do their thing, and girls.

I like champions, well kept farms, shooting shotguns, swimming, shopping for fishing tackle, most stage shows, movies, going north, Christmas and Thanksgiving.

Missing the news

by Kathy Greenfield

Everyone laughed when I kept plunking change into newspaper vending machines.

I had to. I was trying to recover from the shock that accompanied the announcement that during vacation news was ignored.

I could accept the lack of TV and radio due to poor reception in the Colorado mountains. But no newspapers? Never.

During the two weeks we vacationed in the Rocky Mountains, we would have missed reports on why Secretary of State Alexander Haig resigned, the return to Earth of the space shuttle Columbia and the plane crash in Louisiana that claimed 153 lives.

There was local news, too, covered briefly if at all 1,400 miles away in Michigan.

Once such article in the first Denver Post I bought concerned 15 drownings of whitewater rafters in unusually high mountain rivers. The heavy snow came late—we saw many snow-capped mountain peaks and even found a still-frozen lake during a hike.

The next day, word-of-mouth and, later, local newspaper accounts told of two drownings on the Arkansas River near where we were staying. The rafters were with a group in a dangerous portion of the river, and their helmets and life jackets failed to save them when their raft overturned.

We thought long and hard about going on a whitewater raft trip ourselves. Rationally, I knew the rafting companies wouldn't send the guide-handlers out if there was danger of losing the passengers.

But, I had some uncomfortable moments when we put on life jackets and listened to the what-to-do-if-the-raft-tips safety talk.

My worrying was for nothing. We had a great time—the ride was exciting, the scenery along the river beautiful.

The entire episode, however, made me think anew about the impact newspaper accounts have.

I strongly believe the newspapers had an obligation to warn the people about the potential dangers on the swollen rivers.

I was dismayed, nonetheless, to learn that all the "negative publicity" had taken its toll. Fewer people than normal were riding on the guided river rafts.

That makes me wonder what happens to people's powers of putting news into perspective.

On the other hand, I was glad we drove home. There were no lump-in-the-throat moments to deal with at the airport while pondering the weather in the sometimes unfriendly skies.

by Jim Sherman

Back roads, streams, big bridges and old bridges, my office, talking newspapering, iced tea when I'm really hot, marigolds, and pelicans.

I like looking at airplanes, colonial style homes, and red farm buildings. Walking on the beach, comedians, a clean shave, shooting pool, four seasons.

My job. Being on time, and not kept waiting. Thumb and Saginaw valley farm land. Beagles. Fresh asparagus, raspberries and fried zucchini.

Country music and big band sounds. Radio. Binoculars. Model A's. Courteous drivers. Wearing tuxedos. Good printing. Air dried sheets.

This is not intended to be a complete list, just a boring one. If you know an analyst, he can probably tell you more about me if you let him read it.

Porters host West German visitors

Bodo and Karin Bogisch say life is certainly different here in America

By Al Zawacky

Rosstal, West Germany, and Clarkston, Mich., are worlds apart. Bodo Bogisch will attest to that.

Bodo, his wife Karin Fischhaber-Bogisch and their 1½-year-old daughter Rebeacca arrived in America from West Germany on June 26. Distant relatives of Independence Township resident Linda Porter, the Bogisches have been spending much of their time at the home of Linda and her husband Don.

So much here in America is different, the visitors agree—and they discovered one of the differences the hard way.

Recently, the Bogisches drove to Chicago, and while passing through Gary, Ind., they wound up with a $42 speeding ticket.

Bodo takes it all in good humor, noting that he was traveling over 70 mph—crawling speed on Germany's famous Autobahn superhighway, where drivers zip along at speeds in excess of 100 mph.

Other than that, the couple have found American hospitality to be one of the highlights of their trip.

coming home from Chicago," she laughs.

Things like American steaks, frozen canned orange juice and American music are more of the things the Bogisches wished they had back home in Rosstal.

Bodo chuckles and shakes his head at the American dependency on the automobile. He recalls a recent trip to Waterfall Plaza on Dixie Highway.

"We go to buy a frame, and Kroger is right across the street—but nobody walks there," he grins. "You get in your car, drive just across the street, park your car, then you walk."

Bodo owns a plumbing and heating business in Rosstal, a tiny village near Nuremburg. He has 20 employes and regularly begins a 12-hour workday at 6:30 in the morning.

He doesn't place every aspect of America in the plus column, however. Pointing to a nearby table lamp as an example, Bodo says that things just aren't made very solidly in the New World.

Linda agrees.

"When we met them in Germany last year, we were really impressed with the quality," she says. "In the homes, the doors are all so heavy and thick, even the doorknobs are huge—everything is made to last for years."

The Bogisches were looking forward to taking a trip to nearby Frankenmuth before leaving for home July 22—particularly since many of the original Frankenmuth settlers hailed from the Rosstal-Nuremburg area.

"We like it here in America," Karin concludes.

"And we couldn't have more excellent guests," Linda says.

Karin: 'The people ... are very friendly and help us when we don't understand.'

"The life is easy in America," Bodo says. "In Germany it is very..."

He searches for the right word.

"Very exact."

"The people in the stores are very friendly and help us when we don't understand," says wife Karin.

The Bogisches were amazed by the late business hours in some American stores, and were particularly surprised to find a bakery open 24 hours in downtown Clarkston.

The bakery has been a favorite stop for the Bogisches during their stay at the Porters'.

"We went down to the bakeshop at 11:30 at night and they were amazed to find it open," Linda recalls.

"They must have made about a half dozen trips for cinnamon buns—that was the last stop before

Pick-an-Elevator

by Jim Fitzgerald

It is traditional for children to visit their grandparents during summer vacation from school. It gives the kids a chance to breathe fresh air, jump off the barn roof into a pile of hay and see calves born.

Of course, as the blacktopping of America proceeds unabated, more and more grandparents are unable to open a milk carton without breaking their fingernails, let alone accommodate a pregnant cow without a stray hoof shattering their microwave ovens.

NINE-YEAR-OLD MELISSA, who lives in a small town, just spent a week visiting her grandparents' home on the 26th floor of a downtown Detroit apartment building. While exploring sylvan corridors in search of a pile of hay, she discovered a great game that can be played by any number of people and elevators except one.

In our building there are four elevators. Melissa's game is called Pick-an-Elevator. It begins when she pushes the one button that summons an elevator to our floor. One of the game rules is no one except Melissa is allowed to push the button. This rule causes considerable discussion when Melissa's little brother is also visiting. It has been my experience that debates over whose turn it is to sit in the front seat of the car are surpassed in crescendo only by debates over whose turn it is to push the elevator button.

Obviously, grandparents had it quieter back in the days when grandchildren could leave the hay loft without taking an elevator. Also cheaper. I wanted to have Melissa arrested for embezzlement until it was proven to me that, honest to God, it now costs a dime to let one gum ball out of a penny gum ball machine.

Anyway, once Melissa has summoned an elevator, the game is to guess which of the four will subsequently arrive. After watching her win five straight times, I figured out how she did it. She sneakily pressed an ear against the elevator doors to get a vibrating-audio preview. I was reminded of Indians pressing their ears against the ground to hear if the enemy is coming. Lately, when the enemy is Tigers, the Indians meet them at the Cleveland city limits in a Welcome Wagon.

BUT YESTERDAY hasn't been completely black-topped. Even though grandparents now live in high rises and think calves are born stuffed with crab meat, a few things are still the way they were. Whenever Melissa rode the winning elevator, for seven straight days, some stranger always got on and asked her: "Where did you get those freckles?"

When I was little, and my grandparents had a barn, I had freckles, and complete strangers always asked me where I got them. I don't know why people ask such dumb questions. Everyone knows freckles come from sunlight. Junior can say he got his floppy ears from his father and people will think he's cute, but if he says he got his freckles from the sun, they'll think he's boring.

I never knew how to answer the freckle question. What did people think, that I stole them? So I always said I didn't know where I got my freckles. Fifty years later, Melissa said the same thing to the elevator strangers. When they appeared disappointed, I offered to tell them where I got my liver spots, but they said that would be boring.

THERE IS ANOTHER THING that hasn't changed. When I was a young father, I took my children to my office on weekends and let them tap out words on a typewriter. Last weekend I took my granddaughter to my office and let her tap out words on a video display screen. The technology is different, but the message remains the same.

My kids always typed noted saying they loved Mom and Dad and asking wheter Mom and Dad loved them ("check here, yes or no"). Melissa typed exactly the same not to her parents.

Little children never forget what's really important, and it has nothing to do with the difference between a barn and a high rise. Parents — and grandparents — need to be reminded, and that's what children are for. Bless them, and who cares about the soaring price of gum balls?

Safeguards haven't worked, they say

Neighbors express distress over village park

By Marilyn Trumper

Extra lighting, a parking ban, the 10 p.m. curfew and alcohol prohibition have failed to keep youth from rebel-rousing in Clarkston's Depot Road Park.

Conditions there prompted neighboring residents to plea for relief before the Clarkston Village Council, who in turn are relying on stepped-up patrol and ticket issuance from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD).

Two families at the council's July 12 meeting complained of kids yelling, hollering, loud radios and vandalism.

"It's really been nothing compared to what happened last Friday night," said one man, who asked to remain anonymous fearing retaliation from the youths.

"It was 3 a.m. and (the kids) were out there throwing stones at the house, rattling the chain link fence and breaking streetlights. We called the sheriff's department. When they do come, they just slow down and look out the window. Half the time they don't come at all."

"Hell, (vandals have) already torn up your parking barrier down there and torn down all your no-parking signs. It'll just be a matter of time before it's all gone."

One woman demanded the OCSD respond to complaint calls and that officers "...stop at that park and act like they mean business. Issue some tickets. Word travels fast after that. Hit them where it counts—in the pocket."

The key is to erect indestructible no-parking signs that can't be torn down, because the signs are required before the sheriff's department can enforce the law, said President Jackson Byers, who promised to call on the OCSD for increased patrol.

Capt. James Curtis of the OCSD, a road patrolman who sporadically works Independence Township, says the department is aware of the problem in Depot Road Park. But he defended his fellow officers and criticized the village council which allowed him to find out a problem existed via the newspaper.

"This has not been brought to our attention," he said. "No one from the village has contacted us about this."

"It's important they realize there are only two officers, sometimes one, patrolling the entire township. We don't have the manpower or the time to respond to the Depot Road situation on every call."

Curtis promised stepped-up patrol of the park and tickets for lawbreakers.

"But I'm asking for the help of the parents too. Do they know where their kids are? It's their responsibility too. I also suggest the township (and village) think about hiring additional patrols."

"Right now there are two on a shift, sometimes one. The village park is not the only complaint we have. There are kids congregating in the Food Town parking lot, in front of Quik-Pik and other places, drinking and making noise.

"We have to chase them out of there too."

Detective Sgt. Roger Allen, in charge of the Independence Township substation, agrees.

"Every person thinks his or her situation is the most important," Allen said. "The B&E up on Dartmouth, the B&E on Ennismore, the kids in the park. We can't be everywhere at one time, and each case has its priorities. Certainly the accident or injured party has the first priority."

Those with complaints about the park should call the OCSD at 858-4911 and ask for Capt. James Curtis.

Concord stays in cable TV picture

Despite the rupture in partnership with Telecommunications Inc. (TCI), Concord Cablevision is on solid financial grounds, is still in the running for the Independence Township cable TV franchise, and will make its bid at the July 27 public meeting.

That's the word from Marketing Director Donald Perry who shuns rumor the company is in dire financial straits.

"Concord's still in the picture. Collectively its current partners are worth millions. But they can't build the company out of their own pockets. You put up so much, and borrow so much," Perry said.

"The problem with TCI, if you want to call it a problem, is longevity. It took too long (for the township to select a company), longer than TCI wanted to wait."

"They are the largest cable company, and wanted to put their money elsewhere where it could bring immediate return," he said.

Perry said Concord, vying for the franchise against two other companies; Omnicom of Michigan Inc., and Multi-Cablevision, will make a presentation at the task force's public hearing, set for July 27 at 7 p.m. at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Planner quits; joins firm fired by board last fall

By Marilyn Trumper

With just 10 months of work under his belt in Independence Township, professional planner Richard Carlisle has resigned his position with Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May of Ann Arbor.

Carlisle has become a partner in the firm of Community Planning and Management, the Utica company fired last October by township government to make way for the Ann Arbor firm.

Last fall strong tremors ran through the board to oust Tod Kilroy, who was then a four-year veteran township planner.

Supervisor James B. Smith raised eyebrows over Kilroy's billing practices and fed the movement to hire a new firm, over opposition from the planning commission chairman and treasurer.

Board members hotly debated the issue for weeks before deciding on the Ann Arbor firm.

The board was expected to discuss the resignation at Tuesday night's meeting.

Smith said his gut reaction is that the board will keep Carlisle, although it has three options.

"We can stick with Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May, stick with Carlisle or let bids for a new planner.

"I would think right now the board would be in favor of staying with him. (Community Planning and Management is the kind of) corporation where each partner operates entirely on his own without reference to another."

Knowing this, Smith said, he didn't think the fact Carlisle had gone with the Utica firm would "be a major factor" in his vote.

Carlisle could not be reached for comment.

Springfield delays senior village rezoning OK

Developer Hugh Garner's request for the rezoning of 13 acres of property at I-75 and Dixie Highway in Springfield Township for the establishment of a senior citizen complex has been placed on the back burner by the Springfield Township Board.

The proposed $24 million, 30-acre complex, 17 acres of which are in neighboring Independence Township while 13 acres are in Springfield, will include housing, a nursing center, a social dining area and a clinic. It is projected to house approximately 400 people.

At the June 15 meeting of the Independence Township Board, the board unanimously approved the amended consent judgment regulating the targeted 30 acres.

The board thus waived the original 1976 judgment that bound the land to commercial development, instead allowing the area to be zoned multiple, which would permit the construction of the senior citizen village.

Springfield's 13 acres is currently zoned C-3, or expressway service. The parcel is landlocked and cannot be reached except through Independence township.

After Garner's presentation at the Springfield Township Board's July 14 meeting, the board balked at considering approval of the rezoning of the parcel to multiple pending viewing of the amended consent judgment.

"I think we should move to table the request until we have the signed copy of the consent judgment," said Trustee William Whitley.

Whitley's motion was seconded by treasurer Patricia Kramer and unanimously approved by the board.

Garner said he would see to it that the board had a copy of the amended consent judgment as soon as possible.

Labor Day call

The call is out for paraders for the Clarkston Labor Day Parade.

To be held Monday, Sept. 6, at 10 a.m., the parade theme is "The Way We Were."

"It's more or less the big wrap-up to the Clarkston birthday celebration. We'd like to make it a big-parade," said Del Lohff, chairman of the sponsoring Clarkston Rotary Club parade committee.

Floats, bands, people in costumes and groups in costume are asked to register as soon as possible. Prizes for those judged best are plaques. Categories include the Clarkston Rotary Club President's Award for best float, first- and second-place awards for best theme floats, best costume award for a group or individual and honorable mentions.

Those wishing to participate should call Lohff at 625-5251 or 625-5777.

Springfield board calls for detailed arcade plan

By Al Zawacky

The Springfield Township Board has delayed action on a request for a license to open an electronic game arcade on Dixie Highway.

The request was made by Larry and Joanne O'Dell, a Springfield Township couple considering opening an arcade at 9421 Dixie Highway, location of a building currently being used for storage next door to Herk's Auto Supply and across the street from Bridge Lake Market.

Under an ordinance enacted by the township board in June, any business operating three or more "mechanical amusement devices" must apply for an annual permit with the township board. The annual license fee is $5 per machine.

The O'Dells made their presentation at the board's July 14 meeting, but the board declined to act, citing the lack of a detailed floor plan and the couple's plan to install 20 game machines in only 600 square feet of floor space.

A detailed floor plan will be ready and the O'Dells will resubmit their request to the board in August, Larry O'Dell said, adding that the number of machines in the new plan would probably be reduced to 16.

Tentative name for the new arcade, which would be Springfield Township's first such business, is the "Bridge Lake Arcade."

"I was a little nervous about opening up an arcade because of some of the attitudes people have toward them," O'Dell said, "But this is a coming thing."

"We wouldn't have a big business here—but we wouldn't have any problems, either," he said, noting that the arcade would be under constant adult supervision.

O'Dell said the business would also offer microwave hot sandwiches, pop and snack foods. Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls said he had no strong feelings either way toward the advent of an arcade in Springfield Township.

"With proper supervision, this type of business is no more trouble than any other," Walls said. "I don't think anybody should be judged guilty of anything before the business is even given a chance."

Prior to the O'Dells' presentation at the July meeting, the board also settled a mix-up that occurred when the game ordinance approved in June was published.

In the publication, the ordinance refers only to property zoned C-1 (local commercial business) and does not refer to C-2 property (general business).

In April, a motion to include C-2 in the ordinance was never voted upon, and the issue did not arise again in the June meeting. The O'Dells' property on Dixie is zoned C-2.

After some discussion, the board decided to print a corrected version of the ordinance to include both C-1 and C-2.

"This may not be what the board desired in April, but it is what the majority of the board desired in July," Walls said afterward.

"The way the ordinance was originally published (mentioning only C-1), property zoned C-2 couldn't even qualify for a license. All we're saying now is that you can apply—but that doesn't mean the board has to approve it."

Board grants department heads 6-percent raises

Citing the "splendid cooperation" of Independence Township department heads, Supervisor James B. Smith heartily endorsed raises of slightly over 6 percent for the six men.

The majority of township board members agreed at the Tuesday morning special meeting. The vote approving the raises was 5-1, with Clerk Christopher Rose casting the lone "nay" vote. Trustee William Vandermark was absent.

The annual salaries, retroactive to the beginning of the fiscal year on April 1, were increased from $25,800 to $27,400 for the directors of the fire, building and planning, assessing, DPW, library, and parks and recreation departments.

"It puts us slightly above the average of the townships. We are 5 percent over communities of comparable size," noted Smith, but he said the higher-than-average salaries reflect the community.

After the meeting, Rose said he voted "no" because he believed the raises put salaries higher than the township should be paying.

In the past, the fire department chief was paid more than other department heads—$1,200 more annually two years ago and $600 more last year. But this year, the chief is to receive the same salary as all other department heads. All department heads are on 24-hour call, Smith said, and he cited the night meetings and evening hours most are required to keep at various times throughout the year.

Building Department Director Kenneth Delbridge's reaction was typical—"I'm just tickled to death. I really am. I appreciate it," he told the board.

Parks and Recreation Department Director Timothy Doyle asked for a three-day increase in time off, what he dubbed "mental health days."

Board members did not act on the proposal for several reasons—it was mentioned that the three-day increase would have to be given to union employees later, that work is underway to reclassify "sick days" and that the township supervisor has the power to give extra days off with pay to department heads who need a break from grueling seasonal schedules.

Shuffle means pay hike, new title for employes

In keeping with raises granted to Independence Township department heads, most of the other non-union township employes received raises of 6 percent.

There were exceptions—two employes of the parks and recreation department were given substantially higher increases, and a new position was formed in the Independence Township Library with former library clerk Ann Rose named the new children's librarian with an annual salary of $13,000 for 35 hours a week.

The 6-percent raises mean an increase in salaries for the deputy clerk and deputy treasurer from $16,500 annually to $17,500.

Clerk Christopher Rose called the increases "modest," adding, "The other thing in my mind was union members are getting approximate a $1,000 increase this year."

Rose also proposed a $1,000 increase for Max Soulbly, the township finance director, but board members decided to increase Soulbly's wages by 6 percent, raising his income from $21,900 to $23,200.

"You saw our audit," said Treasurer Frederick Ritter. "The only reason it was so clean was because of Max Soulbly."

While the six board members present unanimously approved the 6-percent increases, Trustee Larence Kozma cast the lone dissenting vote on salary increases for two parks and recreation department employes.

"That's way too high," Kozma said, referring to a 15.1 percent raise granted to the recreation supervisor and program coordination and the 9.7 percent raise for the senior citizen coordinator.

The raises make the two positions equal in pay, with annual salaries of $16,500.

"I think we have to give them enough money to keep them here," said parks and recreation department Director Timothy Doyle when making his request to the board. "They see what other people in the field are making. My hourly people are making more. Something has to be done."

All wage increases were made retroactive to the beginning of the fiscal year on April 1 with the exception of the new library post.

Wheels turning to block ski run

Independence files appeal before Michigan Supreme Court

Independence Township still wants to block Pine Knob's proposed 185-foot ski run and has filed for an appeal of a lower court's decision to the Michigan Supreme Court.

If the high court agrees to hear the case, a decision could come anytime from 30 days to one year, according to the township attorney.

The township is seeking a reversal from a lower court decision that allows Pine Knob to apply for a building permit to erect the ramp, without going for site plan approval.

Township Supervisor James B. Smith says that while discussions continue with representatives of Pine Knob, the board "...continues to feel (it's necessary) to block (the court's ruling)."

Arguments against the proposed ski ramp include its height and what Smith called its "nature."

"We feel it's unsightly, dangerous and certainly a mandate for others to violate the height ordinance," he said.

Officials at Pine Knob applied to erect the proposed ski ramp before the township adopted its height ordinance restricting structures to 35 feet. Repeatedly Pine Knob attorney Anthony Locricchio has maintained the ski resort is exempt from the new law.

No one from Pine Knob could be reached for comment on the township's appeal.

The supreme court can refuse to hear the case which would mean the lower court decisions would stand and Pine Knob would be allowed to apply for a building permit to erect the proposed ski run.

Public school survey shows summer tax support

By Al Zawacky

Some interesting statistics and a major surprise on the subject of summer tax collection came out of the public opinion survey on public education recently conducted by Oakland Schools.

Clarkston Community Schools Superintendent Milford Mason gave a presentation on the survey to the board of education and the audience at the July 12 board meeting. Among the poll results:

- Only 34.9 percent of the people responding lived in households with children attending public schools. A large majority of 65.1 percent either had no children in school, or had children attending private schools.

- A plurality of 44 percent felt the quality of their local public schools is remaining the same, while 24 percent said their schools are getting worse and 11 percent thought they were getting better.

- Despite perceived local opposition reflected in the refusal of the Independence and Springfield township boards to approve recent school district requests for summer tax collection, the survey indicated that a surprising 72.1 percent of those questioned favored summer tax collection for their schools.

The survey was conducted in March 1982 by using Oakland County phone numbers randomly picked by computer to assure the selection of both listed and unlisted numbers.

"I think it would be a mistake to project the numbers locally," Mason said later, pointing out that a county-wide survey has only limited value in measuring attitudes in any particular district.

"Still, I wouldn't hesitate to say that the figures are an interesting reflection of the county as a whole."

Local attitudes on the summer tax question will be better evaluated next month, as both Independence and Springfield townships will have the issue on their August primary ballots in the form of a non-binding advisory question.

"It think that by and large most people react positively to summer tax collection when the issue is explained and people see the tremendous amounts of money the schools are losing by borrowing and paying interest," Mason said.

"Most people don't realize we have to operate the district for six months before receiving the money."

Thomas stays at school board helm

The Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education has elected its 1982-83 officers and agreed to a freeze of board members' salaries.

Re-elected as board president was Janet Thomas, while board member Dr. Stephen Werner was elected vice president. Mary Jane Chaustowich retained her post as secretary and Fernando Sanchez was elected treasurer.

All the positions were approved unanimously by the board at the regular meeting July 12.

Also approved unanimously at the meeting was board member C. Vincent Luzzi's motion that board salaries remain at their 1981-82 level.

Board members will continue to receive $30 per meeting up to a maximum of 52 meetings per year, according to board President Janet Thomas.

Trim's clinches Pony title, state playoff spot

By Al Zawacky

Trim's has turned the Independence Parks and Recreation Pony League baseball race into a runaway. On Thursday, Trim's knocked off American Legion 6-4 in nine innings to clinch first place and a spot in the state playoffs.

On Friday, the club improved its record to 11-0 by defeating the second-place Orioles 5-3 in the completion of a rain-interrupted contest that began Wednesday afternoon.

Pitching is the big reason for the team's success, says Coach Bill Cox.

David Ladd, one of seven Trim's players hitting over the .300 mark, waits for the pitch in his team's recent win over the second-place Orioles.

"We've got outstanding pitching this year," he says. "We're very lucky in that while most teams have two or three pitchers, we've got five guys that we can go to at anytime."

"That's been our biggest asset."

The stats of Trim's five-man staff of Bob Saiz, Mike Tews, Todd Olsen, Rod Thomas and Scott Carter are enough to quicken the pulse of any coach.

•Saiz, in 27 1/3 innings worked, has fanned 39 batters while allowing just 11 hits and one earned run.

•Tews has struck out 14 and allowed three hits and zero earned runs through 13 2/3 innings, including a no-hitter against the Orioles earlier in the season.

•Olsen has allowed just two earned runs and 14 hits while striking out 18 in 24 innings worked.

•Thomas, through seven innings, has struck out seven and not allowed a single hit or earned run.

•Carter, in five innings, has fanned five and permitted one hit and zero earned runs.

And the hitters haven't been doing badly, either. "Lately, we've been getting the key hits," Cox adds.

That is evident in the team's batting averages. Going into the Orioles game, the club's most proficient bats belonged to Kurt Botorff and Erik Kline, who were hitting .500. Saiz wasn't too far off that pace at .428.

Four more players were hitting .300 or better—Jeff Barnett at .388, David Ladd at .346, Mark Bundridge at .333 and Thomas at .320.

Against the Orioles, Saiz picked up the victory with relief help from Tews. Trim's led 2-1 in the bottom of the third when the rains came Wednesday, but the Orioles never came any closer than one run.

Saiz went six innings and fanned 10 before leaving in the seventh with the bases loaded, bringing in Tews. Trim's then got a quick two out on a flyout to center and a strong throw from Kline to catcher Robert Newblatt, cutting down the runner at the plate. Tews got the final man on strikes to sew up the win.

Botorff, Bundridge, Carter and Newblatt all knocked in single runs for Trim's.

Following the game, Trim's still had two more regular season contests and the league playoffs to contend with before traveling to Lapeer to compete in the state playoffs.

"We're pretty excited," Cox says. "I've had most of these guys since Widget, and we're all looking forward to it."

Waterford to host BMX race

Bicycle motocross (BMX) racers, including Independence Township pro Brian Barlow, will hit the Waterford Oaks track July 31 and Aug. 1 for the American Bicycle Association (ABA) National Motocross Race.

Both pros and amateurs will compete in the race, which is expected to draw about 1,500 riders and 3,000 spectators to the Waterford Oaks County Park BMX track, located behind the Wave-Action Pool off Scott Lake Road in Waterford.

Trophies and plaques will be awarded to riders reaching the finals, and Sunday's competition will be broadcast on ESPN, a national 24-hour cable TV network.

The race is open to anyone with ABA insurance and the required racing and safety equipment. Registration for the pre-race held on Saturday is $12, while Sunday's races are $20 for pre-registration and $25 on the day of the event.

Spectators can view the race free of charge.

For more information on the two-day event, contact Nancy Phillips, Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission BMX coordinator, at 858-0915.

POINT AFTER

Tim's dream is our own

By Al Zawacky

IT IS EVERY kid's dream. Me? I was always the pitcher that came out of the bullpen in the ninth inning of the seventh game of the World Series.

The Tigers would be leading some nefarious National League team 1-0.

They'd be three outs away from the championship of the world—but the villains had the bases loaded with none out!

I would stride to the mound and while providing my own play-by-play—boom, boom, boom—strike out the side on nine pitches. Or ten pitches, if I wanted the whole thing to be a little more believable.

What kid hasn't fantasized about what it would be like to be a professional athlete?

It is something we can all relate to, which explains why it felt so good to talk with Tim Birtsas the other night—just hours before he left his home town and stepped into the world of professional baseball.

"It's great," he said over the phone, his voice bubbling with excitement and anticipation. "This is something I've always dreamed about. It's a dream come true."

An $8 box seat at Tiger Stadium is the closest this writer will ever get to the majors. Yet somehow, I understood exactly how he felt.

He was absolutely on top of the world, not 100 percent sure what it would be like, and you couldn't help but feel happy for him.

Entering the ranks of pro baseball is a big enough event in itself, but when the Yankees sign you—well, it's even more special. You become a member of the most prestigious franchise in baseball. Love 'em or hate 'em, you can't doubt the Yankees' commitment to excellence.

Still, excited as he was, Tim Birtsas does not harbor any illusions about life in the minors and the challenges he's going to face.

THE MINOR LEAGUES, the blue collar circuit of professional baseball, can fade a young man's dreams pretty quickly. The competition is brutal as everyone tries to claw his way to the big club. There are lonely bus rides, little glory and after-the-the intitial bonus for signing, not much in the way of money.

It is still a long way from Oneonta to Yankee Stadium, and Tim Birtsas knows that. He expresses a mixture of confidence and hope when talking about his prospects of landing in the majors in the near future.

"It's not going to be all peaches and cream in the minors," he said—but even as he spoke these words, the enthusiasm in his voice was still evident.

"There are always going to be some setbacks along the way—but my goal is to make it."

WE TALKED ABOUT the fact that Clarkston seems to have built a reputation for producing athletes. The name of Steve Howe inevitably came up, and Birtsas seemed almost in awe of his fellow Clarkston High School alumnus.

"Steve Howe—now, that guy can throw," he said. "And when you look at what he's accomplished in just three years in the majors—it's incredible."

He may not duplicate Howe's feats, but rest assured, the Yankees never would have given him a second look if they didn't know he had the talent and ability to make it to the big leagues.

That's Tim Birtsas' dream and the dream of every kid who ever owned a glove.

It'd be great to see him in pinstripes some day.

13 kids persevere to preserve past

By Marilyn Trumper

A handful of youth have taken it upon themselves to become caretakers for Case Cemetery, a historic cluster of graves at Independence Township's northern boundary on Dartmouth Road.

For the past two months, laboring under the hot summer sun when others their age are swimming, There's Rici Rollison of West Alfa Road, Bob, Maria and Cherry Chapdelaine, and Barbara and Doug Dallmann, all of Dartmouth Road. Next are Dawn and Mark Coleman; Tom, Tracy and Tina Hacker; and Nickey and Brian Ellis, all of Oak Hill Road.

They range in age from 12 to 16 with the smallest of the group, Mark Coleman, 13, wielding a sickle as easily as the eldest, Bob Chapdelaine, rides the mower.

There's no single person giving orders.

Whatever needs to be done is done.

No one shirks a job, or argues.

They grasp whatever tool is free and tackle the weeds, shinny up a tree and saw a broken branch, or prop up a headstone.

"It was spring and we were all out here having a picnic under that tree," Bob said, pointing to a shady fir. "Someone said, 'Let's clean it up.' And we did."

For years vandals had wreaked havoc on the abandoned cemetery which boasts graves that date to the 1700s. In repeated attacks they broke headstones, and those too big they rolled down the hill. The fence around the cemetery perimeter was pushed down.

Last year, at the prompting of the Clarkston Community Historical Society, Independence Township took over the cemetery and erected a cyclone fence.

"Cars drive by and yell at us to get out. They think we're doing (the vandalism)," Bob says. "That really hurts and kind of discourages us."

Mark, his face filled with freckles, laughs a little nervously and says, "At first, I didn't like the cemetery. It was kind of scary. But now, now I know all these people buried here."

"Over there," he points, "is Margaret Perry. She was buried in the 1700s and she's the oldest one."

"Over there's a cavalry soldier from the Civil War. He was in the 11th Infantry."

Would the kids go to such lengths to manicure their home lawns?

"No way," says Bob with a laugh.

'Cars drive by and yell at us to get out. They think we're doing (the vandalism).'

boating and fishing, the 13 kids have raked and cut the cemetery grass, trimmed around headstones, propped up leaning grave markers and removed broken tree branches.

While vandals are terrorizing a builder's model home in the southern section of the township, these kids have embraced tradition, proving the establishment wrong when it comes to negative opinions of today's youth.

Foster home application made

An application has been made for an adult foster care home on Bigelow Road in Springfield Township.

If the application is approved by the state, the new facility will be built at 10539 Bigelow, between Davisburg and King roads on the south side of the street, according to Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls.

Walls added that approval of the application, submitted by Reach Alternative Homes of Oak Hill Road in Brandon Township, was purely a matter for the state to decide.

Under Michigan law, the only valid objection a municipality can raise to the placement of a foster care facility is the presence of similar unit less than 1,500 feet away.

"There's no home within 1,500 feet of the proposed site, so it's out of our hands," Walls said.

The facility is planned to house mentally and physically handicapped adults, Walls said.

Cemetery plots hiked to $200

Springfield Township Board unanimously approves increase

The cost of dieing has jumped in Springfield Township.

At its regular monthly meeting July 14, the Springfield Township Board unanimously approved an increase in the cost of burial lots in Davisburg Cemetery from $50 to $200 for township residents and $250 for non-residents.

The hike was based on a survey of prices in surrounding townships and the fact that Springfield has charged the $50-rate "for years," according to Clerk J. Calvin Walters.

Walters noted at the board meeting that neighboring Independence Township charges $250 for residents and $300 for non-residents.

The new rates went into effect at Davisburg Cemetery, located on Davisburg Road, July 15.

Before voting on the issue, the board clarified that residency status pertains to the individual buying the lot, not the person being buried.

Paving bargain

Springfield Township managed to get a better deal than it had counted on to pave the parking lot at its new fire station, and as a result will go ahead with the lot expansion originally slated for next year.

The township board unanimously approved the low bid of $14,800 by Keyway Costruction Company of Linden, Mich., to pave the lot at Springfield's second fire hall at Dixie Highway and Rattalee Lake Road.

Keyway's bid was sufficiently below projections to allow the township to include in the work eight additional parking spaces—an expansion originally slated for next year, according to Collin Walls, Springfield Township supervisor.

Walls said that chances were good for the paving work to begin this month and be completed in August.

Dobson Open tickets on sale

College scholarships for Clarkston High School graduates are the goal of the Dobson Open, a golf outing-fund raiser planned Monday, July 26, at the Indianwood Golf Club in Lake Orion.

The third annual event generates money for scholarships in the names of Tim and Jennifer Dobson, two Clarkston children who were killed in a plane crash.

Contributors to the cause can golf and dine or just have dinner.

Cost for those who make a day of it is $85 a person. The fee includes a Bloody Mary-Screwdriver brunch beginning at 11:30 a.m., 18 holes of golf and a steak dinner at 5:30 p.m. with an open bar and entertainment.

For just the dinner and evening festivities, the cost is $35 a person.

Top prize is an all-expense-paid weekend at Sugar Loaf Mountain and there'll be door prizes, too.

In June, Tim and Jennifer Dobson Memorial Scholarships were awarded to several Clarkston High School graduates—five received $3,000 awards, five $1,000 and four $500.

The goal is to raise enough money to provide even more scholarships.

For tickets, call 858-5242.

Homemade cherry jam hits the spot

Intricacies of picking sour cherries on a hot summer afternoon

By Barbara Holt Deegan
Clarkston News Special Writer

We picked sour cherries at Spicer Orchards on Tuesday afternoon, quite by chance.

We had driven to Ann Arbor by way of Grosse Pointe, dropping off a daughter and two step-daughters at their homes after a gathering for my husband's birthday.

The first leg of the journey was hang-onto-your-seats because Jennifer believes that men are better drivers than women, on the whole, and that women err on the side of over-caution. The second leg was smile-calmly-while-all-the-world-is-honking because Holly needed an equal turn at driving, but hasn't mastered the delicate play of gas and clutch that a manually shifted car prefers.

Now the smallest daughter and I are on the way home, north on Route 23, but instead of turning east on M-59 as we usually do, we go one more exit, to Clyde Road, in order to drive home through the country.

And there on the left is Spicer Orchards—"Pick Your Own Raspberries, Sweet Cherries, Sour Cherries." As we stop, Keirsten mumbles "May I come?" before she has even woken up.

No raspberries now, sweet cherries at the end of July; but yes, yes, sour cherries! They are so ripe we eat some as we pick, and so plentiful that handfuls can be picked off at once.

My best—I sometimes try for records—was nine cherries, all ripe. The juice runs down one arm while the other gets tired holding up the bucket. I ask if I may pour my cherries into Keirsten's bucket. No, it will be too heavy. (Moment for thought.) "May I pour your cherries into my bucket?" "Sure!"

The sun gleams through the cherries, like stained glass, like a prayer. The trees should be full of pickers—and where are the birds?

I think back to the enormous cherry tree of my childhood that we watched in eager anticipation as the ripening progressed, until we could say, "Tomorrow!" And how we ran out the next morning to find every cherry gone. All gone. The birds also watched!

Perhaps here there are enough for everyone. I keep thinking what a waste it would be if these beautiful cherries were to rot and the idea of writing for The Clarkston News is born. It is not a bad drive: White Lake Road to Andersonville Road. After a brief jog to the right, White Lake continues on the left, eventually becoming Clyde. If you don't enjoy dirt roads and farms and stretches where it must be a village since the road is paved, or seeing a man driving toward you on a tractor in a white shirt and city glasses, then take M-59 west and 23 north to Clyde. That road is nicely paved and mostly under construction.

While you are under the trees, out of the hot sun, and your little child is picking the low ones, snatches of conversation puff like clouds from unseen pickers on the other side:

"My mother-in-law! We left our furniture with her when my husband was in the war. And when we came back for it, it was gone! She'd given it away!"

"Is that right, Johnny? You can eat them right from the tree. My, look how many you've picked!"

Clarkston News

"My mother-in-law... See, that's the way her mind works!"

"It's so hard to get away when you have pets..."
"Oh, Grandma would take care of Bitsy! Grandma loves you dog!"

"My mother-in-law..."
The child has had enough. She doesn't want her mother to fill her bucket, too. She doesn't care about pies and jam for the winter.

"Keirsten, do you remember the story, 'Blueberries for Sal'?" By the end of the story, the buckets are full. It is time to see them washing and magically pitted. Time to go tell Daddy."

Spicer Orchards Farm Market and Cider Mill, 10411 Clyde Rd., Fenton: 632-7692. Sour cherries are expected to last through July. Call to see if raspberries are being picked on a specific day. Open seven days a week, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The Quiltworks: New haven for quilt makers

Quilters, that steady hum you've been hearing is the sound of the Quiltworks, calling you to the lower level of Clarkston's Emporium.

Since owner Deb Nicholson opened last week, a

Doing business

hum's filled the ear of all who quilt, sew, make throws, jackets or stuffed toys.

As Deb herself puts it, "There's finally a place in Clarkston to buy thread."

The store's walls and racks boast packets for pot holders, quilted jackets, pillows, rolls of batting, quilt sculptures, applique quilts, silkscreen patches, scissors, sewing rulers, dressmaker pins, hoops, fabric and ribbon.

There's everything for the accomplished or beginner quilter and a world of knowledge from Deb, who begins teaching the art of quilt making this fall through Clarkston schools' Community Education program.

"Eventually I hope people can come in, pick out a pattern and fabric, and I'll cut it for them. That way I'm sure they're getting what they want instead of buying a kit that already has it in there," she said.

The shop's warm earth tones make it a comfortable place to be, so comfortable that Deb said she hopes one day people will feel so at ease, they'll drop buy and quilt right in the shop.

"That includes men too. A lot of men quilt. You'd be surprised," she said.

Quiltworks is open from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and Friday nights in July until 8 p.m. for village concert traffic.

For information, phone 625-6611.

Grocery store set for Oak Hill Road

A dozen eggs, half-gallon of milk, loaf of bread and head of lettuce will be a lot closer to homes in the northeast section of Independence Township.

Neighboring Brandon Township has approved development of a full-service grocery store on Oak Hill Road at Sashabaw Road, next to the Clarkston Lake Estates mobile home park. Work is expected to begin on the Cracker Barrel store in the coming weeks, according to developer-owner, Dick Brinker.

"I'm building a strip center like the one I have in Metamora," Brinker said. "At first we'll have a full-service store with produce and a butcher shop, and hope to expand next spring with maybe a drugstore and pharmacy."

Brinker must still apply for the building permit, and said he expects completion 60 to 90 days after work begins.

Taste bud tempter

Fudge aficionados, The Village Sampler's got your taste buds by their weakest link.

Under the glass-like candy cases, owner Donna Kolisnyk has a tantalizing, melt-in-the-mouth selection of fudge from Eaton Farms in Massachusetts: Peanut butter and chocolate combination, chocolate, penuche walnut, maple walnut and chocolate-covered mint.

For double sin, get fudge covered in chocolate or the almond, coconut and walnut bark.

Located in the lower level of the Clarkston Emporium, The Village Sampler's number is 625-4693.

Oertel bats .444 on Hiram team

Mike Oertel

Senior second baseman Mike Oertel was a key member of the 1982 Hiram College baseball team which finished the season with a 10-2 record, just one game shy of the President's Athletic Conference title.

Oertel, a Clarkston area resident and graduate of Brandon High School, led the league in hitting with a .444 average and was named to the All-Conference first team. He also finished tenth in the league in runs-batted-in. A management major, Oertel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oertel of Kier Rd., Springfield Township.

Hiram College is a four-year liberal arts institution located in Ohio.

Jan Teets carded a hole-in-one in the Tuesday morning ladies league out at Spring Lake Country Club in Independence Township.

A resident of Independence Township, Jan has been golfing for nine years. The ace on Spring Lake's par-three fifth hole was her first hole-in-one.

Thomas Halpin of Clarkston was the winner of the "Fans Pick the Draft Contest" sponsored by the Detroit Pistons June 29.

In the contest, fans made predictions on who would be selected in the 1982 National Basketball Association draft.

Halpin won a tie-breaker to collect the prize of four tickets to the next season's Pistons-Los Angeles Lakers game. He correctly named four picks in the 10 spots up for selection.

The Waterford Parks and Recreation Department is currently taking registrations for its fall soccer program.

Registration will run until Aug. 20. Fee is $12 for Waterford residents and $13 for non-residents.

Families registering more than one child are charged the full cost for the first and receive a $2 discount for each additional child.

A birth certificate is required for all children who haven't played soccer in Waterford before. The program is open to children ages 6-18.

Registration is taking place at the parks and recreation office, 5860 Andersonville Rd. in Waterford between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Junior tennis players will compete in the third annual Oakland County Parks Tennis Classic at the Waterford Oaks Court Games Complex July 23-25.

Open to anyone through age 18, the tournament offers five separate class divisions for boys and girls.

Trophies will be awarded to winners and runners-up in each class. The competition is sanctioned by the United State Tennis Association.

Entry fees are $10 per person for singles and $10 per team for doubles. Deadline registration is July 17.

The Waterford Oaks Tennis Complex is located adjacent to the Wave-Action Pool on Scott Lake Road between Pontiac Lake Road and Dixie Highway in Waterford Township.

Visitor from France says 'Oui!' to Michigan

Sandrine Pasquet (left) hails from Pau, France, and is the guest of the Stephen and Karen Moore family of Pheasant Run. Stephanie and mom Karen (standing) have been keeping a busy schedule hustling Sandrine from places as varied as the Detroit Zoo and Lakeside Mall.

By Marilyn Trumper

Sandrine Pasquet has only good things to say about Michigan and her first trip to the United States.

So far Stephen and Karen Moore and their 16-year-old daughter Stephanie have taken the visiting 15-year-old French student to the Waterford Wave Pool, Detroit Zoo, Mackinac Bridge, Sault Saint Marie Locks and a week of northern Michigan camping. And they have on the itinerary Greenfield Village and the Henry Ford Museum, the Detroit Science Center, Bob-lo Island and maybe Niagara Falls.

"We asked Sandrine if there's anything she really wanted to see while she was here, anything special she's heard about, and she said Niagara. So, we'll try to get her there. It would be a shame if she came this far, got this close and then didn't make it," Karen said, using her thumb and forefinger to mark the closeness of the falls.

Sandrine quietly smiles and nods her head to indicate her enjoyment of her visit at the Moore home on Pheasant Run Road, Independence Township.

What does she find different about the United States?

"The television. There are more (channels). And the, er, food," she said, stumbling for the word. At that, Stephanie laughs.

"Everytime we have a snack, Sandrine says 'no thanks.' She thinks we eat all the time."

"And I think in France eating is more formal. Here," said Karen, "it's catch-as-catch-can."

Stephanie's taken two years of French at Bloomfield University in West Bloomfield.

"Oh, if Sandrine can't understand me I'll say it in French, but I don't like to," said Stephanie.

The exchange program is sponsored by the North Atlantic Cultural Exchange League.

Interested persons can phone Evelyn and Julian Prince at 626-6641.

He talks Tigers on WWJ-AM dial

By Marilyn Trumper

"Too bad the Tigers don't play the Twins all 162 games of the season instead of just the one or two," commented the deep-voiced Paul Keels, WWJ radio's sports announcer on the ragged Detroit team's rare win.

"The Tigers had 19 runs last night against the Twins..."

The voice coming from the radio sounds like an experienced, seasoned veteran.

Paul Keels: His voice fills the airways.

At 25, Keels has hit the heights. A graduate of Xavier University in Cincinnati with a degree in broadcasting, Keels notched his belt in his second job doing the Detroit Pistons' play-by-plays for WJR, one of the biggest and most prestigious stations this side of the Mississippi.

Says Keels, "I got lucky." When a 50,000 watt Cincinnati station heard Keels at the college station, "They liked what they heard, and hired me," he says.

That was his first job and proved to be the step-up to WJR.

"Getting that first job is the hardest part. That, and getting people to listen to your tapes. Once that happens, a lot of doors open for you.

"I knew the guy who had the job had left in the middle of the basketball season," Keels says of the WJR post. "I just applied."

These days his deep voice can be heard talking Tigers and Michigan football and basketball over the airwaves of WWJ from 6 to 10 a.m. The 24-hour news station is at 950 on the AM dial.

He denies that radio announcing is work. "It's a lot easier than real work," he says, laughing.

"The days are shorter. You meet a lot of people and travel a lot, especially during the football and basketball seasons."

Keels begins work at 6 a.m., which necessitates an early departure from his Independence Township home on Oak Park Street.

"My father still can't believe I do what I do," he says.

WWJ's News Director Don Patrick believes it. "(Paul) has a natural instinct for the business and he's smart. Very smart. He learns quickly, is an excellent writer and more than anything else, he's a hustler," Patrick said.

Although Keels is just 25, young talent in the business is "not unheard of," Patrick said.

"But compared to others on the 'morning drive,' the prime time for radio, I guess he is kind of young. His two co-anchors aren't exactly young. J.P. McCarthy isn't young..."

"Quality Proves Performance"

It's official—the new water slide at Waterford Oaks County Park is ready for fun and frolic. Here, nine-year-old Chris Figa of Independence Township assists Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission Chairman Lewis E. Wint in cutting a ribbon to officially open the new slide, located at the Wave Action Pool. From a 31-foot platform, slide riders on mats are swept through 340 feet of loops and turns into a splashdown pool. Waterford Oaks is located off Scott Lake Road in Waterford Township.

The hot air balloon of Pontiac State Bank fills the sky during the warm-up session Monday morning at SCAMP. The colorful balloon captures the attention of campers, teachers and aides as they watch the balloon fill with air and reach for the sky when it stands upright.

A typical day at SCAMP

Take the 'S' from summer and put it with camp and that makes "SCAMP," the name of the five-week summer camp program held in Independence Township each year.

Designed to strengthen skills for children and youth who may be handicapped or have special needs, the camp program was opened to all preschoolers this year.

It's a varied group, but they all have one thing in common—they're having fun.

"On any given day, with any given group, the kids look happy. That's probably our biggest goal we work on, that everyone have a super time," said Pat Loveless, assistant director of SCAMP.

A typical day at camp includes swimming lessons, art, work on motor skills and, on some days, trips to places like the Detroit Zoo or the Waterford Wave Pool.

"There's a bit of excitement every day," is how Loveless puts it.

The five-week program comes to an end Thursday with a big party at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Maybee Road.

The 185 campers and 95 staff members will be sad to see it end...until next summer.

Busy making no-bake peanut butter cookies are, from left, Phillip Rowland, Teddy Bergeron and Terry Breeding. The children are enrolled in preschool SCAMP, open to all youngsters with or without special needs.
