Tornado hits Independence

By Marilyn Trumper

A tornado that touched down in a corner of Independence Township shortly before 6 last night left a path of uprooted trees, torn telephone lines and a ruptured gas main before crashing a 50-year-old poplar tree on top of a house on Mann Road.

No one was reported injured, according to residents of the normally quiet street that serves as the boundary for Independence and Waterford townships. Damage estimates are not yet available.

While Detroit Edison and Michigan Bell crews worked repairing wire and line damage, residents fought sundown.

Helping one another, they walked across the rain-soaked lawns. Brandishing chainsaws, they sidestepped gawkers to remove oak trees with circumferences of three feet that had fallen across the road, fences and lawns.

Lupe Rogas, a Las Vegas resident visiting at her mother's home recalled what she saw.

"I was looking out the window admiring the rain because we never get it in Las Vegas, thinking about how pretty it looked, when there was this big swooshing and a tree moved and I yelled, 'Everybody, it's a tornado!'"

"I told my mother, 'This is more exciting than hitting sevens on the nickel machine.'"

Her mother Eloisa Rogas, stationed at the back of the house, described what she saw.

"It sounded like a freight train and there were pails of water hitting the window. I was looking out the window and said, 'There goes my car!' It moved right up against the house.

"The dog was chained out in the backyard and he was up in the air howling. My husband yelled to me to go get the dog, but I couldn't move I was so scared."

Yard decorations were blown like straws in the wind, she said.

Kathy and Tim Vandrush took the hardest beating of their Mann Road neighbors when an aged poplar tree next to the house was uprooted and deposited on their roof. The house has been Tim's home since childhood.

According to Kathy, the insurance had just expired.

To prevent further damage to the home, Tim worked against pending darkness to cover what Kathy called "a small hole" with tarpaper.

"I was on the back porch looking out when it fell. It sounded like a bunch of leaves crunching," she said.

Her brother-in-law Dave Vandrush was acting as a spotter on the front porch, but he did not see the tornado coming, just its results.

"All I could see was pure white when the tree came down," he said, describing the blur of leaves. "I thought the whole porch was going to go."

The Vandrush house was the only building damaged, but residents will likely work for days cleaning up fallen trees and branches.

Quick action saves ballplayer's life

By Al Zawacky

Twenty-six year old Mike Yingling is alive and recovering today, thanks to the quick thinking of two spectators at an evening softball game.

An Independence Township resident, Mike was victimized by a freak accident Thursday during an Independence Parks and Recreation men's softball contest at Clintonwood Park.

Pitching in the seventh inning of a tied ball game, he was struck in the chest with a line drive that caused his heart to stop beating regularly.

Before collapsing on the field, Mike still managed to pick up the ball, relay it to home and force out the runner. But when other players rushed to their sprawled teammate and found him convulsing, it was obvious the injury was serious.

Fortunately, watching the game in the stands were Mike's sister-in-law Flora Yingling, an employee of the Independence Township Fire Department, and Susan Novosel, a recent graduate of Mercy School of Nursing in Detroit.

Both are familiar with CPR—cardiopulmonary resuscitation—a first-aid technique used to revive and sustain heart attack victims until an ambulance arrives.

Flora and Susan acted quickly, administering

CPR to Mike for the few minutes it took the ambulance to arrive.

Mike was placed in the intensive care unit at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital where his condition was reported as "stable" on Friday. By Monday, his recovery had progressed to the point where he was taken off the intensive care list.

"It's one of those things you hope you'll never have to use," Flora said afterwards of her knowledge of CPR. "But I'm glad I didn't have to just watch with a helpless feeling until the ambulance got there."

"The ball hit him directly over the heart and knocked the heart out of its natural rhythm," she said. "It could happen to anyone."

"He's a true baseball player," she added. "He threw the ball home and made the play before collapsing."

Team manager William Matthews of Matthew's Free Lance Photography, the Men's Alpha league team Mike plays for, recalled the scene at the park.

"We were all just shell-shocked," he said. "It was frightening."

The two teams, Matthews Photography and Kustom Decorators, agreed to call the game a tie until the next time they meet, when play will be resumed where it ended—in the seventh inning with the score tied at 7-7.

Mike Yingling: Lucky survivor of a freak softball accident.

But the importance of the softball game was quickly put in perspective when Mike was hurt.

"Both games going on stopped when it happened," Matthews recalled. "And almost all the guys went down to the hospital and didn't leave until the doctors said it looked like he was going to be all right."

Carry-in booze may dry up at Knob

By Marilyn Trumper

This summer could see the end of patrons bringing in their favorite alcoholic brew to the Pine Knob Music Theatre.

Co-owners of Pine Knob Investment Co. and theater landlords, Joseph Locricchio and Gary Francell, are seeking permission to sell beer and wine at the music theater. Application to the Michigan Liquor Commission for approval of the switch was made as early as Dec. 23, 1980.

The move means additional income to the partners and is in part welcomed by theater General Manager Steve Finkel, who sees it as a curb to excessive and underage drinking and one way to put the kibosh on glass containers.

Locricchio says his plan is to expand the license governing the ski lodge to cover the music area, and to sell beer and wine at the existing concession stands. But nothing's transpired since the 1980 application because Locricchio has yet to return papers to the state that would show his intent to go ahead with the plan.

Last week, Locricchio indicated the changeover could well take place this summer, saying, "I'll do everything I can." And adding, "I'm hoping it can be obtained this year."

Officials in Lansing say the license extension is relatively routine, requiring a site plan review and specifics on where the concession stands will be located, how many there will be and where the extension of the license will cover. All they await is Locricchio's OK to go ahead with the review.

If the license is extended to cover the theater area, it will mean an end to patrons bringing in alcoholic beverages.

State law prohibits patrons from bringing beer, wine and liquor into an area regulated by a liquor license, according to Finkel.

The music theater would be no different than Detroit's Joe Louis Arena, Cobo Hall, Tiger Stadium or the Pontiac Silverdome where patrons can purchase beer in paper cups, he said, admitting that prohibition in mid-season would make it tough to re-educate the public.

"I'm both for and against it," Finkel said. "I'm against it from the point of view that a lot of people like to come to Pine Knob because they like to bring their own liquor, like they do at Meadowbrook.

"But I'm for it because it will stop the underage kid from coming in and drinking illegally and getting drunk and sick."

Finkel insists there's no intent to "stilt" anybody's good time, saying only that restricting alcohol will prohibit underage drinking, excessive drinking and glass containers.

Beach repairs aim at erosion

Working to keep up with natural currents and rain erosion of Deer Lake Beach, Independence Township's Director of Parks and Recreation Timothy Doyle is tackling beach repairs.

Employees armed with rakes are leveling the beach and bagging sand and cement to create a "wing dam" to keep sand from eroding and traveling down the stream that connects Deer Lake to Cemetery Lake.

Burnell King of Lakewood Boulevard voiced concern over the mounds of sand appearing at the mouth of Cemetery Lake, "...a delta's forming there," he said. "And it'll fool you. It looked solid to me, I stepped down out of the boat and went in up to my knee.

"It could be a dangerous situation. It's so sandy there the kids are showing up to swim there."

Doyle is sympathetic to King's concerns and says the Deer Lake Beach is undergoing its first major facelift in almost 10 years.

"Hopefully the problem (of erosion) will be eliminated after the wing dam is repaired," Doyle said. "We don't want to do anything that will hurt Cemetery Lake and we're not trying to add to Deer Lake. We're just trying to keep what we have.

"But (erosion into Cemetery Lake) has happened ever since the beach has been there."

School voters choose Chaustowich

By Kathy Greenfield

Clarkston school district voters gave incumbent school board member Mary Jane Chaustowich their stamp of approval by re-electing her to a third four-year term of office Monday.

Chaustowich, 45, of 11060 Clark Rd., Springfield Township, garnered 474 votes, or 36 percent of the 1,301 cast to beat the other five candidates on the ballot.

'This is support of me...and the board in general.'

"I really feel overwhelmed by the personal support that I had," said Chaustowich after Monday night's school board meeting where the election results were announced. "This was support of myself as a person and the board in general."

"I just want to thank everyone for the support they gave me and the faith they had in me as a person," she said.

The election was for one seat on the seven-member Clarkston schools board of education.

Candidate Sara Lou Reabe of 7660 Allen Rd., Independence Township came in second with 324 votes. Close behind with 309 votes was Elaine Schultz of 4682 Clinton Dr., Independence Township.

Robert R. Clark of 9765 Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, tallied 105 votes. A total of 79 votes were received by Paul Van Klaveren of 6443 Woodglen, Independence Township.

Eugene Attaman, who withdrew from the race too late to have his name removed from the ballot, received 10 votes.

Voter turnout was light, according to Independence Township Clerk Christopher Rose who ran the election for the school district, paid for with about $4,300 from the district's general fund.

Rose commented on the totals although he does not have a number of registered voters in the school district which includes most of Independence Township, about half of Springfield Township and small portions of Waterford and White Lake townships.

"In Precinct 8, they had 21 voters, many were below 100," he said. "Apparently people weren't very interested in this election, which is unfortunate."

The number of votes will not be official until approved by the Oakland County Board of Canvassers. The unofficial tally presented at the board of education meeting follows:

School revenues stay on even keel

By Kathy Greenfield

Clarkston schools will operate with about the same income as last year.

The decision to set the tax rate so income will hold steady was made at Monday night's board of education meeting. The vote was 4-2.

Taxpayers, however, can expect their tax bills to increase due to increased property assessments of about 10 percent this year. The assessments were increased by the state after Independence Township and Oakland County officials refused to increase the assessments on a townshipwide basis.

The school board approved a tax rate of 31.2921 mills. One mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

The figure is 2.8191 mills higher than the limit of 28.4729 mills allowed under the new Truth in Taxation law recently passed by the state legislature. According to the law, governing bodies may not levy more than the figure that would bring in the same income the previous year without holding a public hearing and voting at least seven days later on the tax rate.

While the new millage rate of 31.2921 is higher than that determined by the Truth in Taxation formula, the end result will be about the same amount in income, according to Clarkston schools Superintendent Milford Mason. He cited the state aid formula which reduces the amount of revenue to school districts when more tax dollars are collected and the expected decline in enrollment of about 300 pupils.

So, while taxpayers in the township will pay about $1 million more in school operational taxes, state revenue will decrease about $800,000 and federal revenue will drop about $200,000, Mason said.

"Our revenue will end up about where I projected it in January—$13.439 million," he said.

The three people who spoke on the tax rate Monday night urged the school board to levy the highest amount allowed under the Headlee amendment—31.5525 mills.

"As you know, we have already begun the process of major reductions in our school system," said Allen Bartlett, president of the Clarkston Education Association (CEA). "We urge the board to adopt the 31.5525 as the millage to levy next year. To do less is going to create more of a problem for our school district."

Stanley Darling, business manager of the district, noted that the lower tax rate would have a negative effect on the district's base for borrowing money next year.

"In order to keep as many people as possible employed and to keep our programs at the best we can possibly maintain, I suggest we levy the highest amount we can levy," he said. After the vote, Darling noted that the decision to levy a lower-than-maximum levy meant a loss of $84,000 to the district.

The need for textbook updates, library books and necessary repairs to buildings were noted by William Neff, administrative assistant in charge of elementary education.

"I question how the community and the board of education can turn its back and not collect all or a major part of the millage that has been authorized by the voters," Neff said.

Board member Dr. Stephen Werner proposed setting the millage rate at 31.2921 mills.

"This would give the taxpayer the millage rate identical to what he is paying right now; therefore any increase he would have in taxes would be due to an increase in property assessment," Werner said. "Keep ing the same rate is appropriate in these times rather than going to the increased millage rate."

Board member Vincent Luzi pointed out that a 5-mill tax renewal will be on the school election ballot next year, and agreed that the tax levy should be held down.

"I think this action would maintain some credibility with the taxpayers," Luzi said.

Board member Mary Jane Chaustowich disagreed.

"I agree in principal with what you're doing," she told Werner. "(But) I think we should levy the full amount. When (the taxpayers) get their bills, they'll think we lied anyway, because they're going to go up."

Casting "yes" votes to set the millage rate at 31.2921 mills were Werner, Luzi, Fernando Sanchez and Addison Hubbard. Chaustowich and Janet Thomas voted "no." Carolyn Place was absent.

"We would like to commend Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Chaustowich on their votes," said Bartlett later in the meeting, speaking for the CEA. "We would like to express our deep and sincere displeasure with the votes of the other four board members. We believe (their votes were) politically motivated and not in the best interests of our children."

Pac-Man fate in judge's hands

The fate of Pac-Man is in the hands of Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Frederick C. Ziem as the trial over Robert Warrington's proposed arcade opened June 9 and, after brief testimony from an expert witness, was postponed for one month.

With Independence Township in steadfast opposition to the plan, Warrington continues to pursue approval to open an arcade adjacent to Clarkston True Value Hardware on M-15, south of Clarkston Village.

The non-jury trial began with Independence Township calling an expert witness, a planner, to discuss the township's zoning ordinance and master plan as it relates to arcades, but was postponed until next month because the judge's dockets weren't conducive to a continuance, according to township attorney Gerald Fisher.

Since last November when the arcade opened for three days and was closed following township action, would-be arcade owner Robert Warrington has pushed for establishment.

Months later he received mini-mall status from the zoning board but was unsuccessful in his bid to receive parking and setback variances needed to open. He is charging the township zoning ordinance is unconstitutional because it restricts arcades to enclosed malls and the township has no malls.

Independence is arguing the township has not sought exclusion of malls, that mini-mall status was granted Warrington. In addition, the township board recently adopted an ordinance regulating arcades.

Warrington could not be reached for comment.

Trash collection sites dot Independence

GATHER ALL THOSE has-been mattresses, broken lamps, tree stumps, car tires and busted refrigerators—this is the weekend for Independence Township's community clean-up. Officials have earmarked 10 sites throughout the township where residents can discard unwanted refuse free. All those dumping must show proof of residency. The township is picking up the tab using $4,000 in federal revenue sharing. The 10, 40-cubic-yard dumpsters will be at the following sites on Saturday and Sunday, June 19 and 20 only: 1) Northeast corner of Eston Road at Algonquin Road junction. 2) Corner of Clarkston-Orion Road and Eston Road on grass median. 3) Sashabaw Junior High School, 5565 Pine Knob, in parking lot. 4) Pine Knob Elementary School, 6020 Sashabaw, in parking lot. 5) Corner of Sashabaw Road and Pelton Road. 6) Independence Township Hall parking lot, 90 N. Main, Clarkston. 7) Corner of M-15 and Deer Ridge Drive. 8) Corner of Flemings Lake Road and Clarkston-Orion Road. 9) Maybee Road and Chestnut Hill Drive junction. 10) Parview Road vacant lot, across from 5223.

And now, the good news

by Kathy Greenfield

There were a few tears. There were some hugs. There were exclamations of "I'm so proud of you." There was a collective shout of joy when the Clarkston High School Class of 1982 stood to take a bow at the end of commencement exercises at Pine Knob Sunday.

But the 453 graduates were subdued compared to the past three classes that graduated.

This year marked the 10th anniversary of Clarkston High School commencement exercises held at the Pine Knob Music Theatre. While I cannot comment on the entire decade, because I have only been there with camera in hand four years, I still left wondering where some of the usual exuberance went.

The Class of '82 has some dampening events surrounding their moment in the sun.

As one of the students who spoke at commencement pointed out, it's all too likely the economy and unemployment rate, the wars springing up in the Falkland Islands and the Middle East, the mandatory draft registration requirement and the erosion of marriages have had their impact on the students.

That's why I decided to add my two cents worth here and tell them the good news.

For the Clarkston graduates, perhaps the best thing going for them is where they grew up. The community feeling here will be with them the rest of their lives.

It is much like the way my hometown was when I graduated from high school. And although there are always bittersweet feelings at graduation time as young people face tomorrow and know many special friendships will never be the same again, most of them will have some fine memories to take with them on their walk into the future.

It's the feeling I tried to capture with my camera—the photograph on the cover of our special salute to the Clarkston High School Class of '82.

And it's the reason I telephoned an old classmate of mine, a very special friend, and made plans to visit with her and her family soon.

The memories the Class of '82 brought back for me are worth a celebration of my own.

Join neighbors in CREW battle

The Clinton River Environmental Workers are pleased the proposed Levy pit has again received the front page status it deserves.

It was January 28, 1981 when the DNR (Department of Natural Resources) held a public hearing on the Inland Lakes and Streams permit application for the Levy pit. The DNR was then supposed to make a decision within 90 days from that date.

However, it was actually as far back as last summer when the DNR decision on the permit was sidetracked by the Levy Co.'s request the DNR withhold any decision. The DNR has interpreted the legal requirement that the decision be made in 90 days as being solely for the benefit of the applicant.

Subsequent to Levy's request the DNR withhold the decision, Levy altered its proposal and submitted it to a number of the groups which made up the strong opposition at the (public) hearing. Response to this proposal by all the opposition groups has been uniform.

First, Levy has failed to provide sufficient information about the proposal and its effects to either the DNR or the other opposition groups.

Second, based on the information available, the project as proposed would mean substantial damage to our environment, the Clinton River and to the quality of life in this area.

Unfortunately, the fight against this gravel mine did not end with the resounding approval of the special millage to pay for the condemnation of a portion of the area proposed to be mined. The fight to protect our community continues.

CREW has enjoyed support of residents of all walks of life but it is impossible to have too much support in this kind of battle.

We urge everyone who is concerned about this issue to join their neighbors by becoming a member of CREW. To join us send your family's $5. annual membership fee to CREW, P.O. Box 528, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Where are all the people who are so unhappy with our state government and high taxes?

On Tuesday, June 8, my husband, daughter and myself attended a meeting in Clarkston. Rep. Claude Trim was there to answer questions and hear complaints from village and township residents.

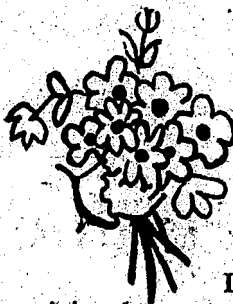

It is a real shame that only seven people availed themselves the privilege of meeting with Mr. Trim. We feel he is truly concerned with the needs of the people he serves and the manner in which state government is run.

Thank you Rep. Trim for taking precious time away from your own family. We do appreciate your generosity.

...and so does team manager

I would like to thank a few people for their quick response to an incident that happened at Clintonwood Park's softball field June 10.

My pitcher, Mike Yingling, got hit in the chest area by a line drive, causing a "cardiac dysrhythmia." His sister-in-law came from the stands along with a nurse and immediately started Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR).

George Porritt, who was in charge of field operations, quickly alerted the Independence Fire Department and Riverside Ambulatory Service. All of these people were instrumental in saving Mike's life.

I would like to thank the crack medical teams of the Independence Fire Department and Riverside, George Porritt, Mike's sister-in-law Flora Yingling and Susan Novasel, the nurse who came out of the stands to help.

World's Fair notebook

by Jim Sherman

We went to the World's Fair in May, took copious notes, and have put off writing about it.

Perhaps that's how it impressed me. The natural and most frequently asked question on our return was: "How did you like the Fair?"

I haven't learned how to answer it. The asker might like it. I wouldn't want to discourage them; Knoxville needs the money.

World's Fairs have always had a fascination. Probably because my folks went to the Chicago WF in 1934. (Wonder who took care of me? Never heard of babysitters in 1934.)

The WF in New York City was impressive. Loved it. Didn't love Knoxville's. When asked the 'how did you like' question now I answer, "If you're in the neighborhood you should stop in so you can see for yourself."

Be prepared to stand in line. The fair really lacks people movers. But, it doesn't lack for people watching. There were 64,381 on that 71 acres the day were there, all of them in line.

The fair is casual, no pressure to keep moving. But there is too darn much reading. That's why the lines are long. It's like sponsoring nations didn't expect anyone to attend. So many took objects from their petroleum companies, museums, and photographers and sent them to Knoxville. I think they were forced or embarrassed into exhibiting and the result was considerably less than exciting.

Now for our footnotes: Don't buy a 2-day ticket for $15.95 that saves $3.95. Buy one at $9.95. If you make reservations in advance you'll likely have to pay in advance and have a 60-day cancellation. There were rooms close in when we got there.

Too, more camping grounds are opening. Churches and others are opening their yards. They are popular for tenting. Price has gone from $6 to $25 a night.

We had a brand new, never used condo. It was $130 a night. Not bad when split 2 ways. It was 17 miles away. The distance isn't bad, and the place was great.

The 1½ hour wait for eating in the Sunsphere was ok. Drinks in line and no hurry at the top. Cornish hen is lowest at $9.95 and prime rib is $14.95. The U.S. 7-story pavillion is good, not great. The U.S. 20-minute film on a 70x90 screen is really great.

One last hint on parking. Park as close as you can. You may want to go to your car to rest your feet.

Putting on happy faces

The last day of school—what better reason for a party? The kindergartners of Andersonville Elementary teachers Sue Cattin and Pat Johnston joined right into the spirit of things, watching diligently as Tweety the Clown put on her costume and makeup, and Whitey the Clown put happy faces on the children lucky enough to have their names drawn for the privilege. The father-daughter clown team of Ken McCombs and Pam Scott of Davisburg do their clowning at schools without fee. Tweety makes it a point to let the children see what she looks like before and after the clown regalia. "Just to show that clowns are real people," she says. Her dad explains why they embark in the adventures with youngsters: "If we make a child happy, that is our job," says he.

Troubles in his bathroom

by Jim Fitzgerald

The husband thinks the wife is trying to drive him crazy.

He has seen several movies, such as "Gaslight," where the villain drives his spouse batty by rearranging the living room furniture after she goes to bed at night and then, the next morning, denying he did it. The poor woman thinks she must have done it herself, in her sleep, and she goes crazy from worrying that some morning she will wake up to discover she spent the previous night in the U-Haul truck moving all their furniture into a motel room with porno movies on cable TV.

The villain's motive for rearranging furniture is to get his wife committed to a group home so her new neighbors will murder her for lowering property values, thus allowing him to inherit her estate and marry the wealthy blonde who rented him the U-Haul truck and who is so rich she can afford to pay his inheritance taxes.

THE HUSBAND suspects his wife has a similar motive for trying to drive him crazy. His suspicions were first aroused when, for 10 mornings in a row, he found his toothbrush in a different slot than he'd left it the night before.

There is a built-in toothbrush holder just below the medicine cabinet in the bathroom shared by the husband and wife. He knows, from reading advice columns and plumbing fixture ads, that the couple who stays together toilets apart, in separate bathrooms. But the second bathroom in their home isn't adequate because there is always an oven grill or a shag rug soaking in the bathtub. Years ago, he thought this continual soaking was designed to drive him crazy, but the wife denied it. She said sharing the bathtub with large, dirty, inanimate objects was simply the penalty he had to pay for forcing her to live in an apartment 26 floors above the swimming pool.

Anyway, half of the toothbrush holder swivels away from the wall, and it is in this half that the husband always slots his toothbrush. So, when he began getting up in the morning to find his toothbrush slotted in the other half of the holder, he at first thought his wife was brushing with his brush and putting it back in the wrong place. When she denied this, and the toothbrush continued to wake up in the wrong slot, he began to wonder if he'd gone nuts. This possibility was completely eliminated when he scored in the top 10 percent in a Cosmopolitan magazine mental test.

So he decided the wife had also seen "Gaslight" and wanted to inherit his estate.

IN SELF-DEFENSE, he got up early one morning and peeked into the bathroom while the wife was brushing her teeth. He saw her use her own brush, but he also saw her reslot his brush. Caught with the smoking toothbrush in her hand, she claimed she was simply teaching him a lesson in sharing. She wanted him to share her irritation.

It isn't easy to remove a toothbrush slotted in the half of the holder that doesn't swivel away from the wall. The toothbrush must be pulled directly up, and cannot be pulled toward the teeth, until it is completely out of the slot. But, unless there is no handle attached to the bristles, the toothbrush hits the bottom of the medicine cabinet before it is completely out of the slot. This is awkward.

The only way to free the toothbrush is to open the medicine cabinet and push up the bottom shelf. This provides enough room to remove the toothbrush while a can of shaving cream and several bottles of medicine crash onto the sink.

"That's what I go through every morning of my life because I keep my toothbrush on the side that doesn't swivel so you can keep yours on the side that does," the wife explained. "The only reason I moved your toothbrush for a few mornings was so you could appreciate how the other half of this marriage lives. I'm not trying to drive you crazy."

She said more than that but the husband didn't hear her because of the awful noise he was making by blowing air through his closed mouth while strumming his lips with the fingers of both hands.

Sign up furry friends for race

And you thought it was going to be just another dull summer for your pet gerbil or hamster.

It's time to sit down with your furry friend and have a little talk about the excitement of racing and how much crunchy stuff a $20 bill would buy.

Yes, sports fans, the first Hamster and Gerbil Race is coming to the Ortonville Countryfest.

Registration must be made by Saturday, June 19, by calling or stopping by the Village Pet Shop, 333 Mill, Ortonville, 627-3383. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The event is for adults, kids, everybody, says pet shop owner Nancy Miller, sponsor of the event.

The gerbils and hamsters will be put inside Habitrail Trains provided by Miller and elimination heats will be held until the top hamster and top gerbil stretch their legs to the final victory.

"Everybody's got these hamsters and gerbils," says Miller, "and everybody can come out and have some fun with them."

First prize is a $20 bill. A Habitrail Train or $10 in merchandise is the second-place prize, and everyone receives a consolation prize.

The race is to be held Saturday, May 26, in the middle of the Countryfest planned May 24-27 in downtown Ortonville.

The name, address and phone number will be taken for those who enter the race. Once the number of entries is known, a racing schedule will be made. Those who enter will receive a telephone call informing them of the race schedule.

Broomfield out, James Dunn in

With the new congressional district lines drawn Independence and Springfield townships say goodbye to former U.S. Congressman of 16 years, William S. Broomfield and greet the new representative—incumbent U.S. Congressman James Dunn.

Before the 1980 Census figures were used to draw new district lines, Dunn represented a strip of Michigan that ran from East Lansing to southern Jackson. He's seeking re-election in what is now the 6th Congressional District and includes Independence and Springfield townships and the townships of White Lake, Highland, Rose, Waterford and parts of Pontiac.

As Dunn scurries to educate himself on the needs of Oakland County residents, key on the list is the federal budget, student loans and Social Security, according to aide Kevin Martin.

Broomfield, who represented Independence and Springfield townships for 16 years in what was the 19th District, is now in the 18th District which includes Brighton, parts of Macomb and Livingston counties, and the townships of Addison, Orion, Oakland, Avon, Troy, Pontiac, West Bloomfield, Bloomfield, Southfield, Farmington, Farmington Hills, Commerce, Novi and Milford.

Voter cards unfair, says commission candidate

By Al Zawacky

Springfield Township resident Paul Stupka wants his neighbors to know he's running for Oakland County commissioner in district three, regardless of what the township's new voter registration cards say.

Like other Springfield voters, Stupka, who will be on the August primary ballot as a Republican, recently received his new registration card, informing him of where he will vote in the upcoming elections.

It was then that he noticed the cards were telling residents they lived in county commissioner district No. 2.

Springfield Township formerly was part of district two, but reapportionment has placed the entire township in district three along with all of Independence and part of Waterford townships.

Stupka said he fears the cards will create some confusion and hurt his showing on his home turf, but Springfield Township Clerk J. Calvin Walters insisted the cards are not in error.

"The new district doesn't go into effect until Jan. 1, so the cards are accurate," Walters said.

Walters added, however, he was considering publishing a public notice to help clear up any confusion that might occur.

According to Howard Altman, director of elections for Oakland County, the mix-up is a matter of individual interpretation.

"For filing and candidacy purposes, Springfield is now in district three," Altman said. "But they're being represented right now by district two."

"But I don't view this as a big concern. A person is going to be guided by the ballot, not their registration card. Somebody who lives in Springfield Township isn't going to try and vote in Rose or Highland to participate in the district two county commissioner race."

Stupka, however, remained concerned about the effect of the mix-up on his candidacy.

"I'm going around telling people I'm running for commissioner in district three, and they're going to look at their registration cards and see district two. They'll think I'm misinformed," he said.

"I've consulted my attorney and I'm going to meet with him later in the week. But I don't feel as a candidate clearing this up should be something I have to do.

"My contention is that if it was important enough to mail me a new card to indicate a change in polling places, the backs of these cards showing the commissioner district should have indicated a change, too."

Harmony seekers

June is recruitment month for the Waterford Sweet Adelines as the group strives to fill 10 openings in their chorus.

The Sweet Adelines sing in four-part harmony with tenor, lead, baritone and bass. Currently, there are openings in all four sections. Women applying for the positions should love to sing and be able to carry a tune.

It's over: Wolves mercied by Lapeer East; Utica Ford takes regional crown

By Al Zawacky

There was very little Coach Roy Warner—or anybody else—could say.

"It's disappointing, but at least we did get this far," Warner said, reflecting on Saturday's 10-0 regional loss to Lapeer East at Royal Oak's Memorial Field.

That about summed it up.

The Wolves had beaten West Bloomfield the previous Saturday to wrap up Clarkston's first district championship in six years. But when the regionals got underway, the Wolves were stifled at every turn, losing to East in a game abbreviated by the mercy rule.

For Clarkston, there were errors in the field and on the basepaths. East, on the other hand, played errorless ball and netted a one-hit pitching performance from Scott Lindsay.

"Once you get in the tournaments, you can't afford to make any mistakes," Warner observed. "You just can't have a bad game."

"Still, no matter how you look at it, we were one of the last 16 teams in the state."

The game was scoreless until the third when the Eagles scored four times on Clarkston starter Mark Piazza. They added six runs in the bottom of the fifth, wrapping up the contest on a bases-loaded double by Doug Holcomb which ended the game on the mercy rule.

East finished the game with eight hits while Clarkston could manage only one, a two-out, third-inning single to right by Mike Howe.

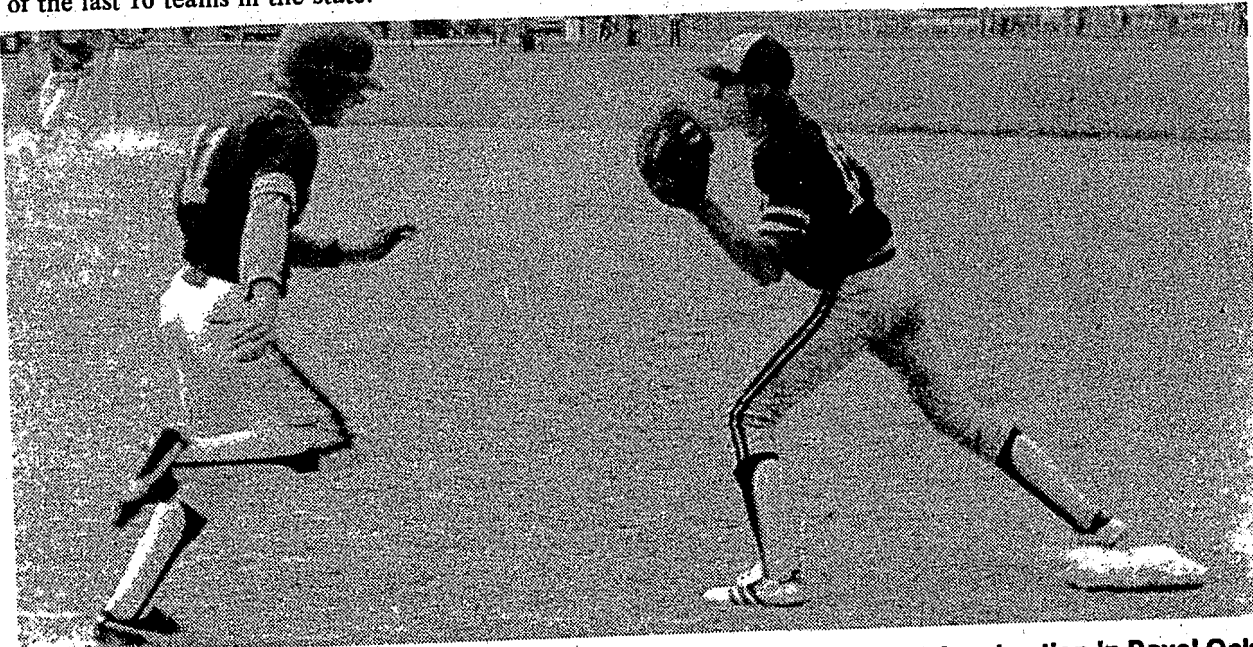

Lindsay went the five-inning distance for East to post the victory. Piazza, who had a 0.87 earned run average coming into the game, worked all five innings and was charged with the loss. "It was his only bad outing of the season," Warner said.

The loss left the Wolves with a final record on the season of 15-12, while East improved its standing to 25-4.

In the other semifinal match-up of the day, Utica Ford bested Troy Athens to earn the right to face Lapeer East in the finals. Ford prevailed over East in what proved to be a pitching duel, as the Falcons triumphed 1-0 to win the regional championship.

Catcher Mike Dearborn performs the unhappy task of packing away his gear for the last time.

POINT AFTER

A study in determination

By Al Zawacky

A SOLITARY FIGURE was running down the dusty shoulder off Waldon Road the other day.

Puff, puff toward the end of another five miles. The legs grow heavy, sweat courses down his face and blond hair turns dark and wet. But the determined form continued on, turning down Snow Apple Drive toward home.

"Hey, I thought that was you," said the writer from The Clarkston News, pulling his car to a halt on Snow Apple.

There was a grin of recognition, and with that the tall, perspiring 19-year-old looked a little more like the guy who gave us all those memories in the Clarkston High School gym a few winters ago.

He was there when the hometowners buried Anderson to wrap up a 20-0 regular season. He was in Charlotte when they dispatched Saginaw, and he was there in East Lansing when tears flowed.

He was back as senior co-captain a year later when Clarkston won its fourth straight league title at home.

"How's it going?" he said, extending a friendly hand through the open window.

Scott McKoin has changed, you know. THE PHYSICAL CHANGES are obvious. The shoulders are broader; the arms and legs are laced with muscle that wasn't there a year ago; and his face sports a modest growth of fuzz.

But it's the inside changes that are most striking. The cocky high schooler that could dominate a game just by being there has undergone metamorphosis. This is a more mature and determined Scott McKoin than the one we remember.

One year in the whirlwind of college ball has a way of doing that.

"In high school," he said, recalling his Wolfpack days, "you can do pretty much what you want to do."

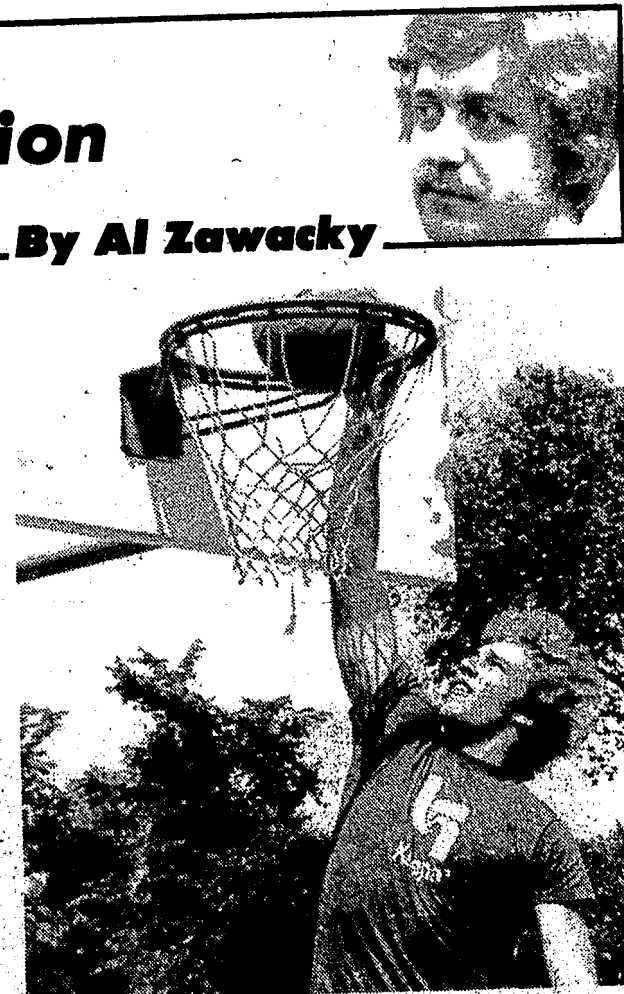

"The difference in college is unbelievable. It's so much quicker, the size and strength...it's a big adjustment. An eye-opener."

"You realize what has to be done in a hurry." Specifically, things like pressing iron Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays; running five miles a day on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays; and playing pick-up games whenever there's a chance.

The results are evident. He's carrying 15 more pounds on his 6-foot-5 frame than he did in high school, and none of that is in the form of excess baggage.

His daily regimen doesn't leave a lot of time for much of anything else, other than eating, sleeping and working, and you have to respect him for that. Some may have expressed doubts about the ability of a free-

Clarkston girls' track posts best year ever

By Al Zawacky

It was easily the most successful season ever posted by a Clarkston High School girls' track squad.

Records fell like October foliage. The .500 mark was catapulted as the Wolves finished the campaign with a 6-2 record. Their third-place finish in the Greater Oakland Activities League was the highest finish in school history.

And with only one senior on this year's squad, Coach Gordie Richardson can already foresee even better things ahead next season.

"Our times were vastly improved this year," he says. "Next year the things we need are a little help in the field events and some depth in the sprints. If we can have that, we'll be able to compete with the best."

The Wolves wound up fourth in the GOAL meet at West Bloomfield May 25, but finished third overall when the results were combined with their dual-meet record. Rochester won the league meet, followed by West Bloomfield, Lake Orion, Clarkston, Waterford Mott and Waterford Township.

Clarkston had three first-place finishes at the meet, as Julie Beamer took top honors in both the 100 low hurdles and the 400 dash, while Beamer, Wendy Hunt, Kris Tisch and Ronnie Barnard combined to win the 800 relay. Both the relay time and Beamer's time in the 400 established new school records.

The Wolves also had second-place finishes from Barnard in the 200 dash, Beamer in the 200 low hurdles and Kelley Craig in the high jump. Third place spots went to Clarkston's 400 relay squad of April Hodges, Hunt, Denise Giroux and Barnard.

Later at the Oakland County meet, the Wolves placed in three events: Barnard was fifth in the 200 dash and Beamer was second in the 100 low hurdles and first in the 200 lows.

A school record was also smashed as Kelley Craig, Tisch, Beamer and Sandy Craig ran the 1600 relay in 4:13:27.

"Our times in general were good times," Richardson said of the county meet. "The kids really ran well."

Flint Northwestern was the scene of the state finals June 5, and Clarkston was represented by Beamer. Though only a sophomore, she advanced to the semifinals in the 100 meter low hurdles before being eliminated.

At the annual CHS track banquet June 7, Beamer was named the 1982 squad's Most Valuable Runner. She set a school record for most points scored over a season—285.5.

Sashabaw hires new grid coaches

By Al Zawacky

Sashabaw Junior High's freshman football program is in new hands.

Hired last week to coach the Cougars in the 1982 season were Steve Pearson and Jim Wiley. Pearson will serve as head coach and Wiley will be his assistant.

They will be replacing former head coach Chris Krueger and assistant Jim Smith, both of whom resigned at the end of last season. The Cougars finished the 1981 campaign with a 2-5-1 record.

Neither of the new coaches teach in the school system. Pearson, a 1976 Clarkston High School graduate, is a member of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

He played football, was a member of the state champion CHS baseball team in 1976 and has served as a volunteer coaching assistant in several programs at Sashabaw over the past year.

Wiley is a member of the Michigan State Police, has coached little league and done some basketball officiating.

spirit like McKoin to really bear down when his talent alone wouldn't be enough.

It takes a lot of sweating the fans never see to make it in the big pond. It takes character. It takes the work and time you spend in practice in high school seem like a breeze by comparison.

Character? McKoin is showing it. He is more than willing to work long and hard to earn more precious minutes on the court next season.

THE STORY AROUND town last winter was that freshman McKoin was hardly seeing any playing time at the University of Texas at San Antonio. In fact, he averaged about 10 minutes a game, started five contests, and earned his letter with the Roadrunners.

"It was our first season in Division One, and we lost a lot of close games," he recalled. "We were ahead of Lamar by six on the road and wound up losing by one point, and they had a 65-game winning streak at home."

McKoin saw most of his playing time at guard before suffering an injury to the tendons in his right ankle during practice in January. He wound up in a cast for a month, and no sooner had the cast come off that he injured his left ankle on the same type of play. "I just came down on it wrong," he said.

"There's a little stiffness, but I'm back to 100 percent now."

TALK TO SCOTT MCKOIN about the old glory years at Clarkston High School, and a few perfunctory comments are all you're apt to hear. The past is the past and the old accounts of "how close we came..." are becoming a bit faded.

There are no regrets about the loss to Highland Park in the state semifinals, no dwelling on how his senior year might have been better.

"I just don't have the time to think about things like that," he said. "I'm just looking forward to next season. I want to play."

You have to like that kind of attitude. I'm pulling for this guy in 1982-83.

Why do the people on Glenburnie cut their lawn that way, you ask? Paul Linenger, who got the idea several years ago when he lived in Genesee County, says he just likes the way it looks.

His lawn has personal touch

By Al Zawacky

Cars, joggers and kids on bikes tend to take it slow when they pass the house on Glenburnie, gazing in interest at the strange appearance of Paul and Marion Linenger's front lawn.

Through a little manipulation of the height adjustment on his lawnmower, Paul gave a unique touch to the ubiquitous herbage that encircles every well-kept suburban home.

From the street, the lawn looks like a huge checkerboard, with high spots and low spots defining the squares.

"I saw this done seven or eight years ago when we lived in Genesee," Paul says. "I liked the looks of it, so I figured I'd try it."

The Linengers moved to Clarkston a year and a half ago—during which time Paul and Marion have heard two basic questions again and again: How is it done—and why?

There's no mystery to the how—just a little adjusting of the lawnmower's height, a straight eye and a steady hand.

As to the why, the neatness and aesthetic value of his yard is a source of pride for Paul, and he just happens to like the way the checkered lawn looks.

Says Marion: "It's just his little contribution to the neighborhood."

Paul says the checkered effect doesn't really require a lot of extra work.

"It's not really that hard to maintain, but some people have tried it, and it looked so messy they cut it down," Paul says.

"I just think it really dresses up the place. And most people in Clarkston are really good about keeping the area beautiful."

Computer classes for Clarkston kids

A one-week class designed to teach basic computer skills is being offered this summer by Clarkston Community Schools.

Developed through the efforts of the Clarkston Community Schools Micro-Computer Goal Committee, the "Computer Camp" will include work at the keyboard of one of the school district's PET micro-computers.

Participants will learn computer language and be exposed to simple programming techniques.

Students must register for the Computer Camp either in person at the Community Education Center, 6389 Clarkston Rd., or by mail. Registration fee is $20.

The classes will be divided into six sessions. Sessions one and two are for grades seven through 12, sessions three and four are for grades five and six, and sessions five and six are for grades seven through nine.

Sessions one and two will run July 12-16, sessions three and four will run July 19-23 and sessions five and six will run Aug. 9-13. All classes will be held in the morning.

Library nets $100

Clarkston Eagles Auxiliary No. 3373 of the Fraternal Order of the Eagles will be presenting a gift of $100 in the Independence Township Library as a gesture of support to the library for its services to the elderly.

The library will be asked to purchase large print books for the elderly and the visually handicapped.

The national donation program is in its eighth year. Eagle auxiliaries receive the grants from the Eagles Memorial Foundation, which contains money raised by Eagle groups around the country.

New arrival

Mr. and Mrs. Tim Hasselbalch of Sunny Meade, Calif., celebrated the birth of their second child May 28.

Scott Ryan weighed in at 9 pounds, 2 ounces.

He was greeted at home by his 14-month-old sister, Amy.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Hasselbalch of Clarkston, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Morris of Santa Ana, Calif.

Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wombacher of Shelby, Neb., and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hasselbalch of Hemet, Calif.

Great-great-grandmother is Mrs. Edith Brandt of Lincoln, Neb.

Honors

Five Independence Township students were recognized for outstanding academic performance during the past school year at Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti.

The recent honors convocation offered congratulations for maintaining a cumulative grade point average of "B" or better.

On the honors list were Jill Bowden of Flemings Lake Road, Cheryl Davis of Snowapple Drive, Susan Gregor of Ellis Road, Scott Jones of Wellesley Terrace and Mark Stevens of Major Road.

Principal Duane Lewis performs the happy task of presenting the 1982 Principal's Award plaques to Clarkston Junior High ninth-graders Shawn Smith and Inger Nelson.

CJHS honors school scholars

As the school year wound to a close last week, Clarkston Junior High recognized its top achievers for the school year.

Receiving highest honors were ninth-graders Shawn Smith and Inger Nelson, winners of CJH's annual Principal's Award.

The winners of the Principal's Award are selected by CJH Principal Duane Lewis, who makes a selection based on outstanding scholastic achievement, leadership qualities, personality and involvement in school activities.

Inger has been on the honor roll in each of her three years at CJH. She is a member of the student council, played on the school volleyball team this past winter and is active in music and vocal programs.

Shawn has also been on the honor roll through each one of his three years at Clarkston Junior High. He is also a member of the student council. He worked as a photographer with the school year book committee and is active in vocal music and dramatics.

Lewis termed his decision "very difficult."

"This was one of the hardest years I've ever had, because we really have some outstanding kids this year," he said.

"I was looking for kids who showed leadership qualities, and Inger and Shawn are two outstanding, mature individuals."

Each department at Clarkston Junior High also selects one or more pupils for its annual department awards, basing the selections on academic performance and extra involvement:

Art—ninth grade, Margaret McInnis; eighth grade Elizabeth Pilarcik; seventh grade Robert Ronk.

Band—ninth grade, Lee Baylis and Margaret McInnis; eighth grade, Erin Dupree and David Johnston; seventh grade, Tasha Vaara and Erik Hansen.

Award winner

"The memorization...that was the hardest part," said 12-year-old Robert Potts as he recalls working toward the John Wesley Medallion, the highest award in the Free Methodist denomination. Robert completed all the requirements in the Christian Youth Crusader program for grades one through six, which include hiking, visiting invalids and ending with memorization of three pages of scripture. "That took five days and two weeks," Robert said, squinting his eyes in deep thought. The congregation of Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church was the recipient of his lessons as Robert recited the pages by memory at a recent service. He also received the Fairbairn award, completed all requirements for grades four through six and the Global award, for reading and missions in grades four through six. The Rev. Clancy J. Thompson presented the award. Robert is the son of Bob and Carol Potts of Guyette Street, Independence Township.

Sashabaw Junior High salutes its top students

Sashabaw Junior High paid tribute to its best Wednesday, as the student body gathered at the school's special awards ceremony.

Ninth-graders Doug Colling and Lisa Hofer were presented with the highest honor—Sashabaw Junior High's Principal's Award.

"Both of them are absolutely top-notch students," said SJH Principal Gus Birtsas. "And both are involved in many, many activities and show great leadership qualities in school."

"There were an awful lot of kids that exhibited good leadership qualities this year—it was a very difficult decision. But they (Doug and Lisa) just stand out."

Doug, a standout with the football, basketball and baseball teams, has been a regular on the school's honor roll. Lisa was active in vocal music, cheerleading and was also on the honor roll.

Dawn Hayward and Barry Collins won the Cougar Spirit Award for the 1981-82 school year. Assistant Principal George White selects the winners on the basis of sportsmanship and leadership.

Several students also received department honors for outstanding work in specific subjects:

Below green leaves for an umbrella and a blanket of ferns beneath hangs the creative for-sale sign of three Whipple Lake Road youths.

The trio offer snakes and frogs for purchase, venturing into the surrounding greenery where Mother Nature produces the goods.

Cornering the snake market

Boys, snakes, frogs and turtles, hot summer days and cool woods seem to go together.

It's a combination Mark Twain would have been proud of.

The selling of frogs and snakes is a business shared by 11-year-old Tony Frechette and partners Kevin Boyt, 9, and Daniel Lamrouex, 8.

The trio have cornered the market with the sale of snakes and frogs—and there's no obvious threat of competition in sight.

All neighbors on Whipple Lake Road in Independence Township, the three boys brave the dense woods in the Frechette backyard and scout the shores of Round Lake in search of the elusive garter snake, frog, toad and turtle.

Three industrial buckets housing their finds are proof of the great hunters' prowess.

This is Tony's third summer involved in the finding and selling of wild reptiles.

"We feed them worms, crickets, ants and mosquitos," Tony said, smiling from beneath a wild thatch of dark brown hair.

Daniel, his face filled with freckles, adds, "...and tomato worms and caterpillars. They really like those."

Last year Tony's profits hit $10.

So far this season they've reached 35 cents.

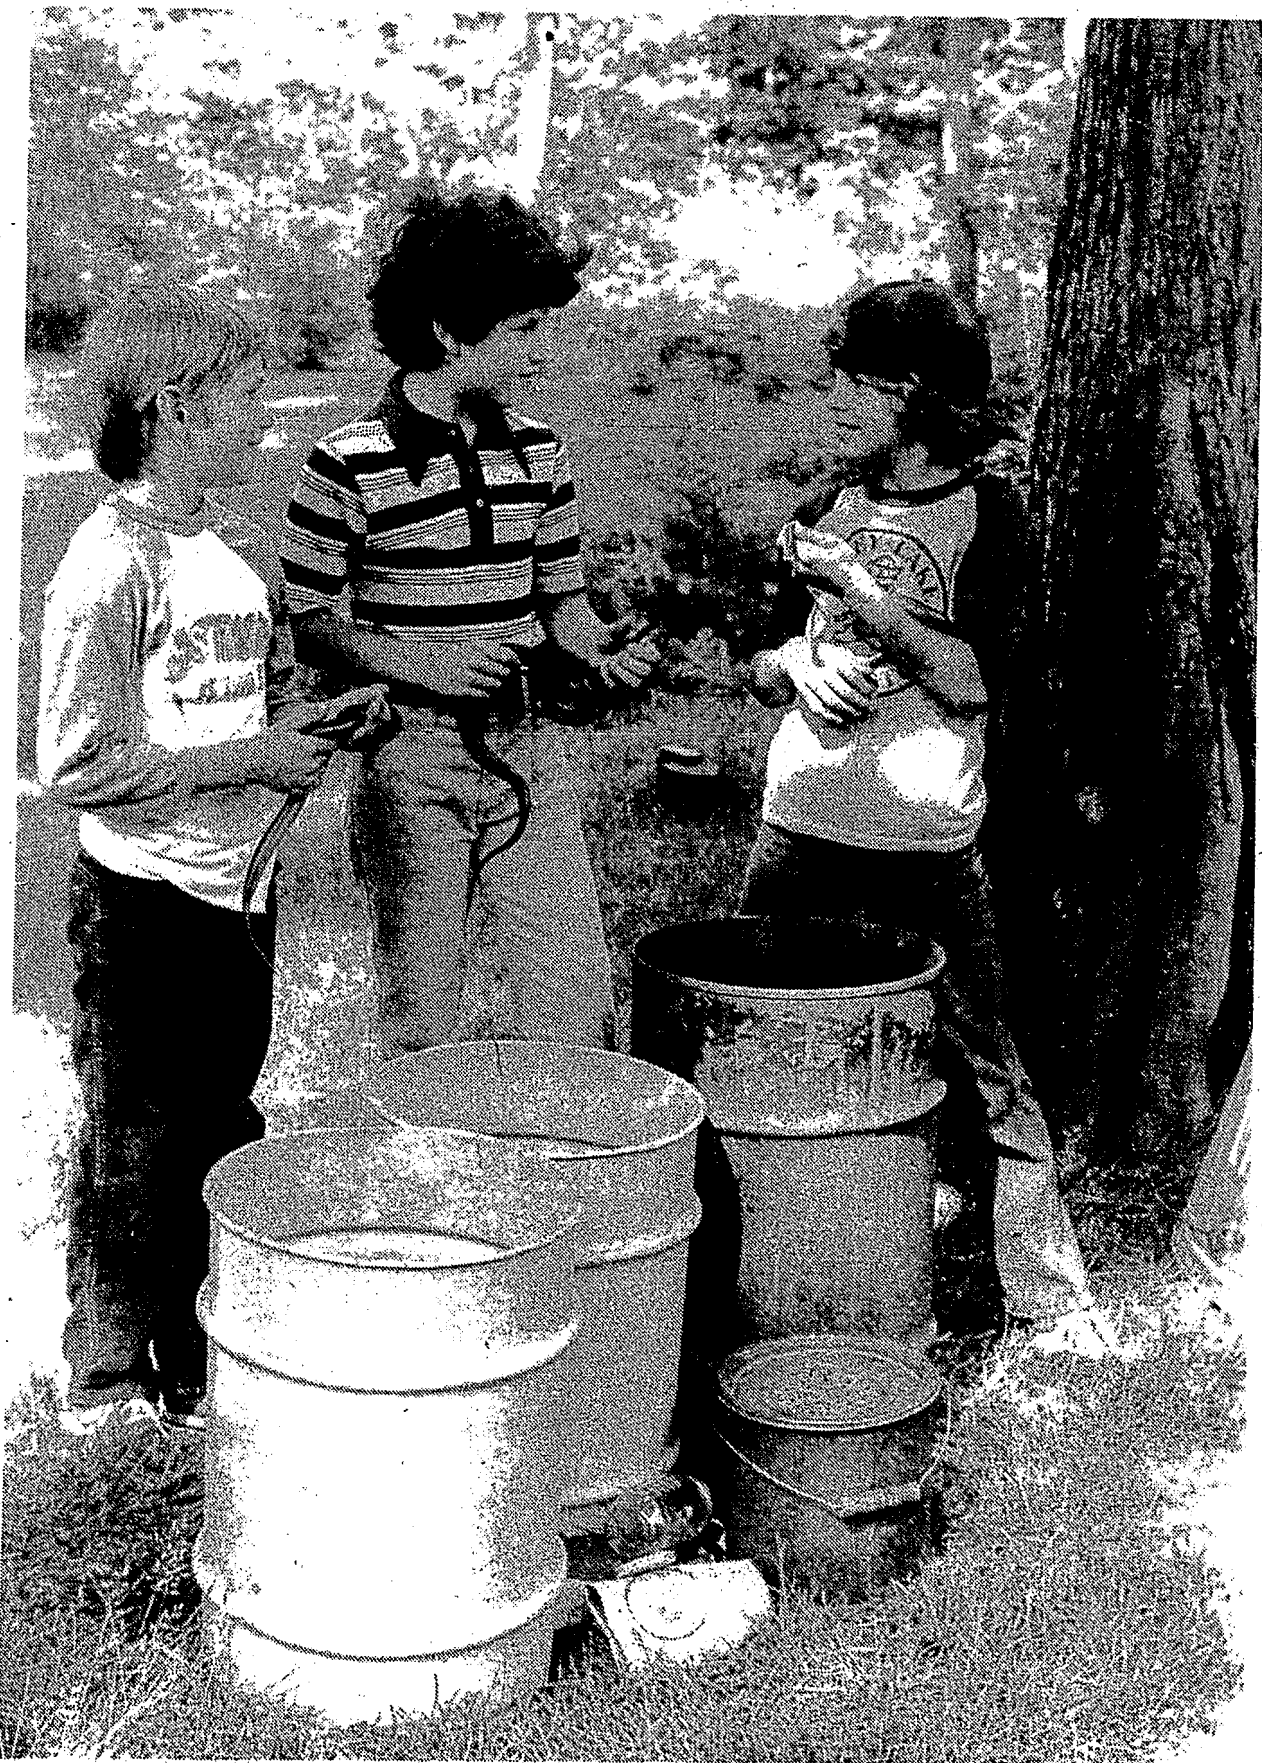

In the fall, the trio release the unsold inventory to nature.

Cost for a small snake: 35 cents. A medium, about one-and-a-half-feet long: $2. And for the big snakes, three feet in length: $4.

The mark of a true entrepreneur is to discover a market crying for specific goods—and fill that market.

Tony, Daniel and Kevin have no competition. This windfall is theirs' exclusively.

CHS departments honor scholars

Individual graduates are selected for Clarkston High School honors in four categories.

The award for the most outstanding senior boy and girl is called the Senior Citizens Award. Recipients are chosen by department chairpersons, class sponsors and administrators.

The Principal's Award winner is selected by CHS Principal Dom Mauti. The person named is chosen for contributions "behind the scenes." This year's winner was active in media work.

The Girl Athlete and Boy Athlete are chosen by coaches.

Departmental Award winners are selected by the department head and faculty members in each category. The honor indicates that of all Class of 1982 members, the person named was the most outstanding in that particular area.
