Pine Knob constructs interconnecting roadway

By Marilyn Trumper

Without the need to consult the local government, Pine Knob Investment Co.'s begun excavations to build what co-owner Joseph Locricchio says is an "interconnecting roadway," servicing traffic between the Hamburger Mansion, La Veranda Ristorante, the ski resort and music theater.

The network will allow Pine Knob employes and patrons to travel inside the grounds instead of venturing onto outside roads to get from one recreation area to another.

The two-and-one-half mile network that winds around the Knob's 400 acres, encircling the ski hill and cutting a ridge into the northern slope, will be of a "hard surface" like blacktop or concrete, according to Locricchio, and is targeted for a September completion.

Township officials are frustrated because Pine Knob in this instance is exempt from local inspection, according to Director of Building and Planning Kenneth Delbridge, who says he's been excluded from any firsthand knowledge of the project.

Private roads built for private use do not require county or township approval, according to Delbridge, who added, "...But I think the township has a right to look at it. People have been calling my office wanting to know what in the hell is going on up there. I have to tell them 'I don't know.' "

Delbridge says he doesn't know how many miles long the proposed network will be, the type of surface that will be used or when completion is targeted. Work on the roads began as early as April.

Surprise guest pays township board a visit

By Al Zawacky

Some Springfield Township residents just have no respect for the decorum demanded at an official meeting of the township board.

The August board meeting was a case in point, as township officials had their regular agenda interrupted by a someone who barged unannouced into the room.

After stopping briefly to greet a newspaper reporter who denied knowing him, the resident then began to run in circles around the wide-eyed township board, in total disregard of its august proceedings.

A contest for sand castle builders kept sunbathers busy Sunday at Deer Lake Beach. Sue Kithil (pictured) and Shivonne DeBoer won se-

Housing site rezoning nets OK

By Al Zawacky

Developer Hugh Garner's proposed senior citizen housing development has vaulted another hurdle in Springfield Township.

At its monthly meeting Aug. 11, the Springfield Township Board unanimously approved the rezoning of 13' acres from C-3, expressway service, to multiple, which would permit the construction of the housing complex.

The proposed 30-acre complex—13 acres in Springfield, Fownship and 17, acres, in neighboring Independence Township—is projected to cost $24 million and house 400 senior citizens, including a nursing center, dining area and a clinic.

Springfield's 13 acres is landlocked and cannot be reached except through Independence Township. Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls, noted that the development still faced planning commission and township board approval for its health center center. "The key is whether the clinic is going to be for residents only or for anybody," Walls said. "Under our ordinance, a public clinic is not allowed (there)." A citizen in the audience graciously left her seat and held open the Springfield Township Hall's front door. The cavorting resident took the hint and departed the way he came.

The visitor is described as being about 18 inches tall, with floppy ears, a cold, wet nose and wagging tail.

Rumor has it that he (she?) has a number of aliases, including "Spot" and "Rover."

The unexpected canine visitor had board members and the audience sharing a good laugh.

"That's the first time I ever remember that happening," said Supervisor Collin Walls with a chuckle. After the civic-minded dog darted out the door, the board routinely continued on with its discussion of the township's assessing department.

Neighbors to battle for county commission seat

By Al Zawacky

A battle of political newcomers, neighbors and friends looms in the November general election for the District 3 county commission seat.

In his first try for elected office, Richard Kuhn Jr. was the upset winner over incumbant Charles Whitlock in Republican primary balloting Aug. 10.

For the Democrats, Brian Cybul ran unopposed in his first political campaign and will thus face Kuhn in general election Nov. 2.

Although each made their decision to run independently, Kuhn and Cybul are hardly strangers. They live on the same street in Waterford Township and are both 22 years old; both graduated from Waterford Kettering High School in 1978 and from Oakland University in 1982.

"I'd been pondering running for the past six or eight months," Kuhn said. "I had no idea at the time that he (Cybul) was going to run, too.

"We're friends, but of course now it's down to business. I just plan on continuing on and doing my best."

Kuhn, whose father Richard Kuhn Sr. is an Oakland County circuit court judge, attributed his victory over the incumbant Whitlock and fellow challenger Paul Stupka to "very hard work."

"I'm sure my name helped, but you can't win on a name alone," he said.

"I went door-to-door to several thousand homes in my district and ran a very positive campaign. Mr. Whitlock is a very fine man. He called to congratulate me after the election."

Whitlock, who was elected to the commission for the first time in 1980, took his defeat in stride.

"After working day and night through 35 years of public service (Whitlock is a retired captain from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department), I'm quite pleased to have a chance now to get re-acquainted with my family and to enjoy life," he said.

"It took me a long time to decide whether or not to run again, and when I did I determined to keep my

Kammer prepares his return back into the private sector

By Marilyn Trumper

A somber Kerry Kammer stood in a hallway the day after Tuesday's primary, divvying up desks used by election workers at campaign headquarters.

After more than a year of hard riding and politicking in the gubernatorial race to become the candidate for the Democratic party, it was time to close up shop.

But, the 34-year-old state senator said of the defeat, "There's no long face.

"I enjoyed it and wouldn't change anything. I am a little disappointed. But, there is an upside to this. I'll be able to spend more time with my family and community."

While James L. Blanchard won the state's Democratic votes and faces Republican Richard Headlee in November for the governor's office, at home Kammer dominated the Democrats' race, garnering 37.70 percent of the votes in Independence Township and 36.44 percent of the votes in Springfield Township.

the governor's office, and now returns to the private sector with little knowledge of what lies ahead.

"There are a lot of options that have been presented to me but I'm not going to make any immediate (decisions)," he said. "I do know I'll become more active in the community, in education, little league baseball, the PTO, whatever.'

State legislature race results

Howarth wins bid for senate without campaign

By Al Zawacky

Last week's primary races for local seats in the state house and senate produced only one surprise.

In the race for state senate in the 17th District, which included Independence and Springfield townships, colorful Davisburg attorney E. Leonard Howarth captured the Democratic nomination without actively campaigning.

The remaining races in both parties followed predicted trends. In Republican primary for state representative in the new 61st District, incumbent Matt Dunaskiss brushed off a challenge from political newcomer Tom Gitter.

In the GOP state senate race, four-term state representative Richard Fessler of Bloomfield easily captured his party's nomination. Fessler will face Howarth in the November general election.

Claude Trim, incumbent in the old 60th District, ran unopposed in the state representative race for the Democrats and will square off in November against Dunaskiss.

Howarth, who did not spend any money and did not campaign after filing to get on the ballot, said he was still undecided as to whether or not he would make a concerted effort to capture the state senate seat.

"When I first filed, I just wondered how many votes my name would draw," he said. "Apparently, it turns out my name has enough drawing power to win.

"I'm just pondering a decision on whether I should run a serious campaign or not. Many people have been encouraging me."

According to unofficial final tallies, Howarth captured a close three-way race with 3,122 votes, a 34.25 percent plurality. Gerald Tattersall was just 106 votes behind with 3,016 (33.09 percent) while George Feuerman garnered 2,976 votes (32.65 percent).

Howarth commanded comfortable leads locally, taking 41.57 percent of the vote in Independence Township and 47.73 in Springfield.

Fessler won the GOP state senate race handily, receiving 12,472 votes (48.01 percent) to Mary Fowlie's 7,039 (27.10 percent) and David Nederlander's 6,465 (24.89 percent). Locally, he was the top vote-getter as well, commanding 46.63 percent of the vote in Independence and 45.76 in Springfield.

"I was very grateful to see the people in my old house district and the new areas turn out to support me." Fessler said.

In the state rep race, Dunaskiss out-polled the 21-year-old Gitter 6,001 to 2,738, a majority of 68.67 percent.

Dunaskiss' local totals varied-radically from Independence to Springfield. In Independence, he garnered 1,448 votes to 799 for Gitter—a majority of 64.44 votes. In Springfield, however, the race was close, with Dunaskiss capturing 299 votes (51.02 percent) to Gitter's 287 votes (48.98 percent).

Reached at his headquarters election night, Dunaskiss expressed satisfaction over the results in his race in the newly-created 61st District.

"He (Gitter) ran a very good, hard-hitting campaign," Dunaskiss said. "I'm very pleased with the support in my home base (Oxford-Orion) and very pleased with the support out in the Clarkston area."

Music theater patron robbed

By Marilyn Trumper

The police tell Steve Layne he's lucky to be alive. The 25-year-old Grosse Point Woods man agrees, but wants the man caught who robbed him of $83 at gunpoint after the Al Jarreau concert at Pine Knob Aug. 8.

Layne had parked on the grassy hill to the north of the music theater, farmland leased by Pine Knob to accomodate overflow parking.

"There's no security on that hill. No lighting. It's a grand opportunity for people to do what they did to me and get away with it," he said. "I've already talked to a lawyer and I'm thinking about filing a lawsuit.

"I paid my $3.50 to park and expected safe entry and exit from my car for that."

Hit-and-run victim

A Detroit man is listed in critical condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, the victim of a hitand-run accident that occured at about 11 p.m. Sunday in Independence Township.

Carl Anthony Sackrison, 25, was reportedly walking west in the westbound lane of Clarkston-Orion Road, near the Snowapple Road intersection, when he was struck from behind by a full-size, dark colored vehicle. According to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD), there were no witnesses.

Persons with information are asked to call the OCSD at 858-5058.

Shot breaks glass

An Independence Township man is recovering from facial wounds caused by flying glass after a gunshot shattered his front window early Sunday morning as he and his wife slept atop a mattress on the living room floor.

Raymond Burton Davison, 57, of Maybee Road, was treated and released at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, Pontiac.

According to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) the Davisons awoke to the sound of breaking glass as a single 12-gauge shotgun blast shattered the front window and penetrated the wall beyond.

Police with tracking dogs found a spent 12-gauge shotgun shell on the shoulder of the road in front of the house.

The shooting remains under investigation, reports said.

Girl escapes biker

A 14-year-old Springfield Township girl walking home on Oak Hill Road Saturday narrowly escaped abduction when a passing motorcyclist tried to force her on his bike.

According to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD), the man made several passes on his motorcycle, asked her twice if she wanted a ride, then grabbed the girl's arm to force her on the bike,

The teen fended off the would be abductor by striking him in the groin with a hairbrush.

The man then fled, reports said, and the girl escaped uninjured.

Layne said he'd seated his date in the car and walked around to the driver's door when someone shoved a gun into his calf and said, "Give me your wallet (expletive deleted)."

"I told him I didn't have it, that it was in the car. But he felt me and found it. I thought about just giving him the money, but I felt that sawed off shotgun and handed it all over. He took off running into the woods (between Sashabaw Road and the hill.)

"It was 15 minutes before I could get through all the exiting traffic and make out a report with the (deputies) directing traffic," Layne said.

An avid hunter, Layne said he's familar with firearms and shotguns.

"If he'd shot me at point blank range, I know I'd be dead. Especially by the time they got an ambulance to me through that crowd."

Layne describes his assailant as a black male, approximately 5 feet, 5 inches tall, 140 pounds with short cropped curly hair.

Detective Sgt. Roger Allen of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department who is investigating the incident, says robberies at Pine Knob in its 10-year history have been limited to strong-arm and at knifepoint. Never has a firearm been involved.

"Really, I think that's been a pretty good history considering close to a million people go in and out of there each year from all over. He's lucky to be alive."

Lt. Gerald Reeves, in charge of deputies at Pine Knob, says its difficult to patrol parking areas during what's called the "blowout," when all the patrons exit the theater and deputies begin directing traffic.

"Any other time we're constantly patrolling everywhere," Reeves said.

Steve Finkel, Pine Knob Music Theatre general manager, says lighting and security is the responsibility of the landlords, Pine Knob Investment Co., and expressed shock over the incident.

"What do you say when something like that happens?" Finkel said. "It's very scary."

Officials of Pine Knob Investment Co. could not be reached to comment.

16 Wed., Aug. 18, 1982 The Clarkston (Mich.) News Letters to editor Points to ponder on garbage

Our township board wishes to create a trash pickup agency and drive out the free enterprise, private companies that have served the community well for years:

If we allow this to happen, the obvious will occur:

1. Taxes must be raised to support its function. 2. Administrators and their assistants must be employed to run it.

3. Insurance and retirement benefit programs must be purchased for workers.

4. Office space and support equipment must be furnished and maintained.

5. Utility bills must be paid to house these workers.

6. Large trucks must be purchased, maintained, licensed and insured.

7. A truck storage and service facility must be supplied.

If we allow our township board to take our free enterprise system, you will no longer have the freedom of choice, should you wish to change trash pickup

Bugs were free,

but Ford wasn't

Dear Kathy,

I read with interest your article describing your impressions of the Jerry Ford visit to Clarkston as well as Bob Carr's visit to my home.

Contrary to the Ford event, which cost $150 per couple, Sheila and I hosted at no charge an informal social gathering for our friends and acquaintances to meet on a personal level former United States Congressman Bob Carr and his wife Susan.

If the killer mosquitos were your only lasting memory of the evening, the only consolation I can offer you is that they were free.

Sincerely, Fred Ritter companies.

Free enterprise creates competition, and competition creates quality service at competitive price!

Compare other communities and you will find that our trash collection fees are a bargain at twice the price.

In conclusion; I direct you to call or write your township board and let them know your feelings, "They Represent You!" But only if you let them know you care.

Ron Galley

Editor's note: The township board is considering putting the question of a township-wide trash collection service on the November ballot. Voters would then have a chance to cast their vote regarding the move which would mean the fee would be paid with taxes. In previous meetings, the board has said a trash collection firm would be awarded the contract for the entire township, not that the township itself would take over the duties.

Join contests

Time is running out to enter two contests sponsored by The Clarkston News and the Clarkston Community Historical Society.

We're looking for young writers and amateur photographers of any age to help celebrate the Village of Clarkston's 150th birthday.

Cash prizes await the winners of the contests which have the same deadline for entries—Friday, Aug. 27.

While I can't promise prizes to everyone, therf) are many to be had. The photos will become the property of the Clarkston Community Historical Society to aid in their quest to maintain an ongoing history of Clarkston. And winners will have their entries published in the fourth Clarkston Sesquicentennial special section to be published by The Clarkston News Sept. 15.

There are three categories in the photo contest. The first is a general category with cash prizes provided by The Clarkston News—$25 for first, $15 for second and $10 for third. The historical society will provvide a copy of its hardcover publication, "Heritage," for each winner plus five additional copies for honorable mention awards. The photos must have been taken in 1982. They may be in black and white or color. Prints must by 5-by-7 inches. The photographer's name, age, address, phone number, and the date and place the picture was taken must be printed on the back of the photo. The picture must have been taken in the Village of Clarkston. Any topic—people, places or things—may be used.

The historical society is providing prizes in two categories, each with a first-place award of $25 and second-place of $15. "Heritage" books will go to each winner, including two honorable mention awards in each category. The first category is best architectural photo. The topic is a structure in Clarkston and judges will look for a photo with artistic value. The second topic is for a photo of historic value—a picture that would show how the village operates today so it will be significant in the future.

In The Clarkston News Young Writers Contest children in grades three through nine may choose one of two topics—"Why I Like Clarkston" or "What I Would Like Clarkston to Be."

Entries should be 250 words or less. Because the idea is to honor the town's 150th birthday, writers should keep in mind that "Clarkston" refers to the village. Writers must provide their name, age, address and telephone number.

Prizes are $25 for first, $15 for second and $10 for third.

Entries for both contests may be mailed or drop ped off at The Clarkston News office, 5 S. Main, Clarkston 48016. Deadline is 5 p.m. Friday, Aug. 27. Office hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. If we're not open, use the mail slot in the front door.

Over the tube in prime time came the report of just how bad things had become in Detroit schools.

The news reader was lamenting that money was so short for supplies and equipment that students were going to have to learn on obsolete equipment.

Schools and newspapers have little like equipment, but we do both have typewriters. We have 16. Oxford High School has twice that many. Of our 16, six are manual, 10 electric. Of Oxford High's 35 or so, all are electric. I remember well the night bids were let on these typewriters. The superintendent of schools recommended a certain number be manually operated and the balance electric.

GM and Ford company employees on the Board of Education convinced fellow members, "When the students go to work for us they will be working on the latest equipment. That means electric typewriters."

No manual typewriters were purchased. Too bad. GM and Ford are not hiring. The Oxford Leader has hired a couple people in the last six months, one of whom offered to bring their own electric typewriter because "I've never typed on a manual before."

GM and Ford may have the latest equipment, but it's small business that hires the bulk of the people.

Got a friend in a welding and machine shop. His equipment is durable and has been for 25 years or more. Vocational ed students trained on some super duper lathe, grinder or milling machine would have to be retrained to run a practical, non-digital readout apparatus.

The same is true in other areas of education. Every school may have an Apple computer, but few businesses do. Someone has to learn how to write a bill in longhand, spell without benefit of a memory typewriter, and add without a calculator.

Which reminds me of the line a newspaper publisher in Pontiac used on an employee. Seems they were going to buy a new typewriter. The employee suggested the latest IBM with memory, dictionary, etc.

She brings home Ford's autograph

By Kathy Greenfield

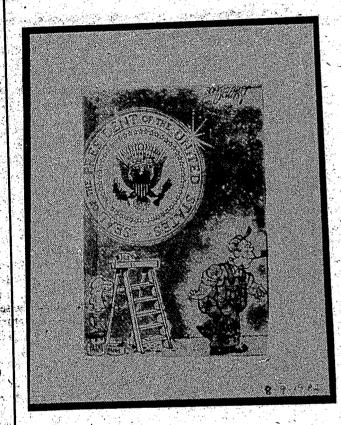

Karen Ohrnberger's political cartoon of President Gerald Ford clipped from a newspaper when he relinquished his office in 1977 now has a new addition-Ford's autograph.

The 38th president of the United States put his signature under the clipping taped to a piece of cardboard last week when he appeared in Independence Township at a fund raiser for Congressman James Dunn, the Republican seeking reelection in the new 6th District.

The story of Ohrnberger's keepsake goes back six years when her son Klaus was a seventh-grader.

An English assignment was to choose something that appeared in newspapers and make a report-Klaus chose political cartoons. "My mother has books of all the things we've done," he said. "You go back and look at things when relatives come and we've found that's one of our favorite cartoons."

Ohrnberger remembers her first look at the cartoon which shows Ford dressed in paint-, polish- and glue-splattered work clothes with bandages on his arms and hands. He's walking away from a ladder under a shiny seal of the president of the United States hanging on the wall, a tear running down his cheek.

"When I saw the cartoon, I almost cried, because it expresses so well what Ford tried to do-to restore the dignity of the presidency after Watergate," she said.

When they learned Ford was appearing in Independence Township, she and her husband Peter decided to attend the affair, and she remembered the cartoon.

After talking the idea over with friends, she decided to pursue it.

"They all thought it was fantastic to take this along, particularly since it's six years old and we still have it," she said.

That night, when Ford entered the room from the rear, Ohrnberger was standing closeby on the balcony.

Most of the 225 people at the event didn't realize Ford had arrived, and Ohrnberger took advantage of the situation.

"He stopped at the first group of people and I was the next one standing there," she said. "So I went up to him and said, 'Mr. President, good evening,' and then I said, 'I have a very special favor to ask of you. Would you please sign this cartoon?'

"He was stumped, surprised, flabbergasted. I think there was anything he would have expected except that. He looked at it, somebody from Dunn's staff whipped out a pen and gave it to him, and he signed it."

When his parents arrived home from the event, Klaus was waiting.

"The first thing I said was, 'Did you get it?" and the second thing I asked was, 'Could you tell who the Secret Service men were in the crowd?' ' he said.

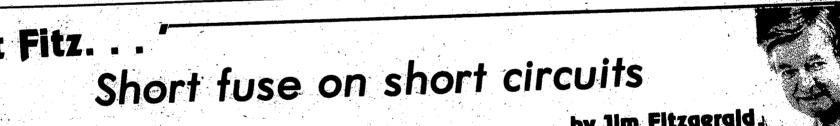

Karen Ohrnberger's copy of a political cartoon signed by former President Gerald Ford is destined, appropriately, for a spot on the wall in her study. "I read this is Ford's favorite cartoon and he has the original framed in his study at home," she says.

Now Klaus just teased his mom about the event, calling her "my mother the autograph hound."

"No, no," she responded. "That is the very first autograph I've gotten in my life.

"It really is something special."

The sensitive fingers of a safecracker are required to turn on the TV set, and when the icebox door is opened, the light goes out.

Little things like that really bug the husband.

It doesn't bug him that, when he says icebox instead of refrigerator, people say, "Boy, you must be real old." He doesn't mind admitting he's the grandfather of a teenager. He likes to remember sucking ice slivers swiped from the back of a horse-drawn ice wagon on a hot summer morning, and he doesn't care promise to be home to accept delivery anytime between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. every day during the first week of every month. Meanwhile, the neighborhood boys would be at basketball camp learning how to slam dunk and snort cocaine in one swooping motion.

But there are no more ice wagons because there are no more iceboxes. And what bugs the husband about growing older in a refrigerator world isn't the big things, such as the increasing proximity of nostalgia to senility. It's the little things, such as why does the light go out when he opens his refrigerator, and what should he do about it?

by Jim Fitzgerald afraid of drinking ginger ale by mistake?

Obviously, the husband isn't mistaken about the refrigerator light going off when the door is opened, but you might put forth a hoary question and ask how he can be sure the light goes on when the door is shut. Couldn't the light be out all the time? No. He is sure, not because he sat inside the refrigerator, but because that is how life treats him. Consider the television set. When it was purchased a year ago, the way to who knows it.

The driver of the ice wagon learned whether 25 or 50 pounds of ice were desired simply by looking at the sign in a customer's window. The signs, supplied by the ice company, were marvelously utilitarian and uncomplicated. The two numbers 25 and 50, were printed on the same side, but one of them was always upside down, depending upon how the card was placed in the window. The driver chopped off a chunk of ice matching the right-side-up number, carried it through the customer's always-unlocked back door and slid it into an ice box that never needed defrosting, Meanwhile, the neighborhood boys removed slippery loot from his wagon or fed apples to his horse.

If there were still ice wagons today, customers would be required to phone or mail precise orders and Sec. 2 Ale

The defect is minor, to be sure. The food in the dark is still cold, and he can find a bottle of beer by Braille with a minimum of fumbling and cursing. That's the trouble. If he summons a refrigerator repairman to fix such a dinky problem as a backward light bulb, he will be charged the same as though the freezer compartment had collapsed into the vegetable. bin.

That is the bugging problem, thrust upon him by an increasingly computerized civilization that offers airconditioned lawn mowers but no slivers of ice to swipe and suck. Should he forestall the repairman until the damaged refrigerator resembles a head-on collison instead of, a dented fender? Or should he pay $100 for a $20 repair job simply because he is deathly turn it on was to pull a knob out. To turn it off, he pushed the same knob in. Today, the situation is exactly reversed. The husband realizes if his TV set can change its on-off function 100 percent by itself, his refrigerator certainly doesn't need divine intervention to change darkness into light.

Because of its extreme sensitivity, the TV is even more vexing than the refrigerator. The knob must be manipulated gently and patiently, or the set goes off when he wants if on, or vice versa. And sometimes the set turns itself on, or off, when a truck drives by outside.

The husband is bugged because; again, he is faced with a minor mechanical malfunction not worth a. major repair bill. He waxes nostalgically, if not senilely, about the days when the same handyman repaired an icebox and a radio. And he walks forlornly up and down strange streets, looking for a horsedrawn ice wagon.

New vaccine to combat increase in cat rabies

By Al Zawacky Cat owners, beware.

The dreaded rabies disease, more commonly associated with dogs, is on the rise among felines.

Unlike their canine counterparts, cats are not required by law to be vaccinated. But vaccination, in view of the disease's heightened presence among cats, is a wise precaution, according to Dr. Paul Cunningham.

A veterinarian at the Springfield Veterinary Clinic at 9780 Dixie Highway, Cunningham says that many cat owners are lax about having their pets protected from rabies.

"A lot of people just think of dogs and don't consider cats worthy of a vaccination," he says. "But a (rabid) cat is every bit as dangerous to people as a (rabid) dog."

Veterinarians recently received a new weapon to help in the battle against rabies in cats, says Cunningham.

A new vaccine is now on the market—"Rabguard TC," a product of Norden Laboritories—and it can be administered to any cat over one year of age. "The advantage of the new vaccine is that it's effective for three years and is produced specifically for cats," he says. "In the past, the cat vaccines have been only be good for one year."

A routine vaccination usually runs as little as $10 or $12—just a few cents a day over the three years, Cunningham notes.

For the safety of the pet and its human owners, "it's certainly worth it;" he says.

Downtown Davisburg will be the scene of a comeone, come-all shindig on Saturday, Sept. 11.

That's the date of the "Davisburg Days" party sponsored by the Davisburg Rotary club.

The party will close down Davisburg Road between Eaton Road and the downtown gas station from 1 to 10 p.m.

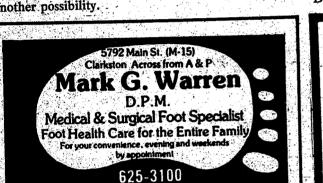

Among the festivites will be a disc jockey playing music to appeal to all tastes, a beer tent, pig-roast, dunk tank and a blind cance race sponsored by the Boy Scouts. A parade to kick off the day's events is another possibility. Admission will be free, although there will be a still-undetermined charge for the pig roast.

"We did this two years ago and called it the 'End of Summer Days' party," says Collin Walls, Springfield Township's supervisor and a Davisburg Rotary member.

"The whole idea is just to offer a day of good, cheap fun."

Tickets for the pig roast and information on the party can be obtained by contacting a member of the Davisburg Rotary Club.

Springfield board gives break, sets millage 25 percent lower

By Al Zawacky

Navigating through a jungle of the new tax law, the Headlee Amendment and a pending court decision, the Springfield Township Board set its 1983 millage levy approximately 25 percent below 1982 levels.

The township levied 2.8966 mills last year for the combined police and fire services and general fund. Under the new Truth in Taxation law enacted by the state legislature, which ties millage rates to increases in assessed property value, the maximum allowable levy this year was 2.6810.

Last year's police and fire levy was .9438 mills, but the Headlee Amendment, which allows property tax levels to rise in tune with the rate of inflation, permits a new levy of .9695.

Further complicating matters is the state's recent review of Oakland County's assessment figures, which declared them too low and boosted them by 6 percent, according to Collin Walls, Springfield Township supervisor.

The county is now challenging that move in court.

Weighing all the factors at work, the Springfield board managed, after extended discussion, to whittle down its final levy for the coming year to 2.1895 mills—a reduction of .7071 mill, or 24.41 percent.

Included in that figure was a .5 mill levy for police protection and the maxmimum .9695 for fire, with the remaining .72 mills going to the general fund.

One mill is $1 for every $1,000 of assessed property value.

Walls said afterward that the overall millage reduction was possible in view of the fact that the township receives only 21 percent of its money from local taxes, the rest coming from state and shared revenue.

"More (millage) wasn't needed," Walls said, explaining the board's action.

"It seemed to me that the philosophy of the board is that it's not necessary to levy and collect taxes simply because we have the ability to do so. We should only levy what is necessary to maintain services."

The fire millage passed unanimously with little discussion in view of the extra funds needed to complete the township's new fire station on Dixie Highway. But the .5 mill for police drew a negative vote from Clerk J. Calvin Walters.

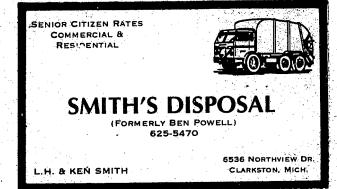

"I wasn't opposed to the reduction, I just thought that was a little too low," Walters said. Springfield currently contracts for 1% patrol of-

Springfield currently contracts for 1% patrol officers with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. "People are probably going to be asking for increased police protection in the future when the next contract comes up," Walters noted.

The vote on the .72 mills for the general fund also drew a dissenting vote, this time from Walls. "I just felt that it probably could have been lower," he said. Walls also noted that taxes would be computed from the state's plus-6-percent figures.

Should the court later rule in favor of the county's lower figures after tax collection has begun, the difference could be either rebated or credited to next year's tax, he said.

Title still up for grabs in Gamma National

By AI Zawacky

Silver Lake Golf Club-University Standard still reigns in Gamma National—but just barely.

Friday at Clintonwood Park, the hitherto undefeated Silver Lake club fell to second-place Tune Saloon-Primo Outfit 12-5, tightening up the home stretch race for the top spot in the Independence Parks and Recreation Men's Gamma National softball league.

'We played bad, and they were ready for us.'

The loss left Silver Lake with a 17-1 record for the year while boosting Tune Saloon-Primo Outfit to 17-2, just 1/2 game behind in second place.

We played bad, and they were ready for us," said Silver Lake Manager Jeff Karns afterwards.

The last time the two teams met, Silver Lake pulled out a 7-6 victory.

Tim Lyons and Billy Merriman provided the winning pitching. The defense, anchored by infielders Donnie Hayward, Dave Clancy and Jimmy Hayward played well.

That short-to-second-to-first combination has accounted for 31 double-plays so far this season, according to Lyons, who co-sponsors the team.

Jack Neidric holds Tune Saloon-Primo Outfit's top batting average at .797. while Jimmy Hayward is hitting .597.

Top averages on Silver Lake Golf Club-University Standard include Billy Kay at .618, Wayne Morenz at .590, Gordie Nelson at .583, John Seterlin at .560, Ron Karns at .540, Rick Blakey at .512, Rory Vaughn and Jeff Cox at .500, Glenn Hodge at .472, Mike McCowan at .478, Jeff Karns at .458, Paul Hodler at .450 and Billy McKnight .400.

Hodge has pitched in all 17 of the club's victories. "We've been an excellent hitting team and the defense has always come to play," said Jeff Karns, Last year in the Independence Township league, the club was known as Waljo's and finished second.

Tune Saloon-Primo Outfit finished fourth in Men's Beta last season before returing to Gamma

Village Clinic:

One more perfect 14

By Al Zawacky

Last year they were called Fisher Foods as they racked up a perfect 14-0 record in the Independence Parks and Recreation Widget league.

This summer they were Village Clinic-and the switch in sponsors was the only thing that changed.

We just had a good bunch of athletes," says Paul Tungate, who along with Jon Gilbert co-coached Village Clinic to another 14-0 campaign. "The kids had super attitudes," Tungate adds. "They really loved playing baseball, and that makes it a lot more fun for everybody."

Carrying the most effective bats for Village Clinic this season were Mike Gilbert, Stacy Turner, Aaron Hesse and Jeff Tungate. Gilbert and Turner were noted for hitting the longball.

Tungate and Hesse did a stellar job handling the team's pitching.

It was Tungate who went the distance in Village Clinic's last and closest game of the year, a 5-2 decision over second-place Highland House.

Mark Colwell's homer in the second inning put Village Clinic on top 3-1. Erik Mackson's run-scoring triple in the fifth and Tungate's pitching the rest of the way sealed the victory-and the second undefeated season in a row for Village Clinic.

The recent Fourth Annual Pine Knob Music Theatre Halfathon produced its share of winners and impressive times.

Two races were held-a 4.6-mile race and a halfathon of 13 miles.

The best men's time in the halfathon belonged to Dave Montgomery, who ran the course in 71:24. Ann Aronson ran the best women's time at 91:44.

The top male runner in the 4.6-mile race was Kevin Kitze with a time of 23:45, while Dana Houle had the best women's time at 28:19.

In the halfathon, the leading male runners in their respective age categories were Tim Diggs (18 and under), Dave Montgomery (18-29), Clifford Majoch (30-39), Ron Berby (40-49), Fred Holappa (50-59) and Fred Gurol (60 and over).

Male category leaders in the 4.6-mile were Chris Bailey (11 and under), Steve Tschirhart (12-15), Jim Tschirhart (16-19), Kevin Kitze (20-29), Jim Hibler (30-39), Jerry Host (20-49) and Ron Hiselman (50-59). Leading female runners by age categories in the halfathon were Kathy Kubicki (18 and under), Cindy Cook (19-29), Carole Dieck (30-39) and Sue Cuthbertson (40-49). Top female runners in the 4.6-mile were Jody Spurgeon (11 and under), Brenda Biebuyck (12-15), Karen Taylor (16-19), Leslie Parker (20-29), Pattie Currell (30-39), Alice Beckwith (40-49) and Betty Kelly (50-59).

Karns' team appeared to on its way to and win Friday when it opened up a 3-0 lead in the second, but from then on Tune Saloon was in control.

Tune Saloon tied the score at 3 in the fourth and went ahead to stay by tallying five times in the fifth. Highlighting the comeback was a fence-clearing blast off the bat of Jimmy Hayward, who leads the club in home runs with eight:

competition this season.

The switch in leagues and a turnover on the roster are the big reasons for the club's contention for first place, according to Lyons.

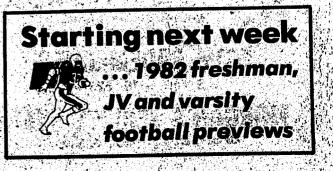

"I think that's the big reason for our success-we've had almost a complete change of personnel," he said."

Clarkston Trio finds town perfect for classics

By Kathy Greenfield

Classical music and Clarkston go together, says James Wilhelmsen, one of the members of a brand new group called the Clarkston Trio,

"As far as culture, Clarkston's very big on culture. There's a very appreciative audience," he says.

The trio-pianist Wilhelmsen, violinist Kirk Toth and cellist Richard Piipo-is to make its debut in a chamber music concert Friday, Aug. 27. The week before on Friday, Aug. 20; Wilhelmsen and Plipo are to appear in concert.

Both concerts are to take place in Sadows Auction Galleries inside the Clarkston Mills Mall, 20 W.

He lives in Ann Arbor, but James Wilhelmsen has enjoyed teaching at the Clarkston Conservatory of Music and performing in the area for vears.

How trio received its name

The man who gave the Clarkston Trio its name and whose Clarkston Conservatory of Music has served as the town's cultural center for years is Ivan Rouse.

His enthusiasm for his hometown is boundless.

"This is the 150th birthday of Clarkston and every music school worth its soul eventually has its own groups," he said.

The trio agreed to the name because they like playing in Clarkston and because Rouse guaranteed them a couple of concert dates a year here, he said. "I love Clarkston and with these things in mind, I think we sould honor the birthday.'

Rouse's conservatory is housed along Main Street's business district. The building where he's taught music for 21 years sits behind trees and greenery, practically hidden from the view of passersby. Its oldest portion has existed for about 150 years and was originally the livery stable of Horatio Foster.

Rouse agrees Clarkston is a small town bent on preserving its image and its past. But there's more than meets the eye about the place he calls home. "Someone once said that you couldn't use cosmopolitan to describe a small area, but I think Clarkston is," he said. "It's absolutely an ideal setting for something artistic."

"Quite frankly, the reason Clarkston won't change-and Independence Township-is I think 99 percent of the village and township want to keep what they have, and they're fighters," he said.

Rouse also touches on why he's devoted his life to teaching students, conducting a center for music lessons of all types and working to bring high-caliber musical performances to Clarkston.

"Through musical things and artistic things, the mind is tooled," he said. "Music means everything to me."

Washington, Clarkston, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tickets for the hour-and-one-half performances are $5 for adults and $2 for students. They are for sale at Sadows and at Tierra Arts & Designs, 20 S. Main, Clarkston.

"The gallery where we're going to perform is just perfect for a concert," he says. "The acoustics are very good. It's a small room so it lends itself to chamber music. You're surrounded by art objects and antiques. The view out of the window-you can see the pond. It's just gorgeous.'

The credentials of the trio are impeccable, and Wilhelmsen readily lists their accomplishments.

Piipo is a music professor at Wayne State University, Detroit. He studied cello on a Fulbright Scholarship in Geneva, Switzerland. He has performed locally with such notables as Henry Mancini and he appears regularly in the Detroit Institute of Arts' Brunch with Bach.

Toth holds a master's degree in violin and is presently a professor of music at Stetson University, Deland, Fla. This summer, he is working at Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp in Twin Lake, Mich.

Wilhelmsen has taught piano at the Clarkston Conservatory of Music seven years. His income is derived mostly from performing and teaching, but he also writes and arranges music, and is involved in writing advertising jingles. He has a master's degree in piano and is working toward his doctorate degree in piano and chamber music. He studied piano in Vienna, Austria, on a Fulbright Scholarship.

After reciting their backgrounds, Wilhelmsen adds the reason Clarkston concertgoers will find the events to their liking.

For the concert on Aug. 20, sonatas by Strauss, Beethoven and Debussy are planned and on Aug. 27, the music program is includes compositions by Le Clair, Shostakovich and Dvorak.

'They're going to hear very fine music played very well. We've all played with each other for a long time...and we know each other's styles well," he says. "And the music is so beautiful."

And he expects it to stay that way.

In Springfield Township Arcade to open next month

By Al Zawacky

The opening of Springfield Township's first electronic game arcade is now only weeks away.

With the blessing the the township board, Springfield resident Larry O'Dell is setting his sites on a Sept. 10 target date for the opening of the "Bridge Lake Arcade" at 9421 Dixie Highway.

Board members gave their unanimous approval to O'Dell's arcade after stipulating that a few changes be made in his plans.

O'Dell originally approached the board in July with a request to open an arcade with 20 machines and a snack bar, but, citing limited space in the proposed building, board members delayed action until a detailed floor plan was put together.

At the board's Aug. 11 meeting, O'Dell returned with his floor plan, but said he had decided to drop the idea of a snack bar and instead have 28 machines, most located around the outside wall of the building and some in the center of the room.

However, citing possible overcrowding and fire safety, the board approved the license application on the stipulation that the center of the building be kept open, thus limiting the total number of machines to 23

The hours of operation for the arcade will be from 10 a.m. to ll p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 10 a.m. to midnight on Friday and Saturday.

In accordance with two other board stipulations, the arcade will be supervised at all times by an adult

ende and the to 5

at least 21 years of age and no parking will be permitted in the front of the building.

O'Dell owns the Larron Cabinet business on Dixie Highway and was using the arcade building for storage. He will be required to pay the township a $5 annual license fee per machine to operate the arcade. T'm not really sure how it's going to go;" he said of his new business venture, noting that stiff competition seems to be hurting some arcades further down Dixie Highway.

'All I've bever been in is the cabinet business. But there's been a slack in my business and I figured I'd take the gamble."

Clarkston Village taxpayers have until Oct. 18 to pay their 1982 summer taxes.

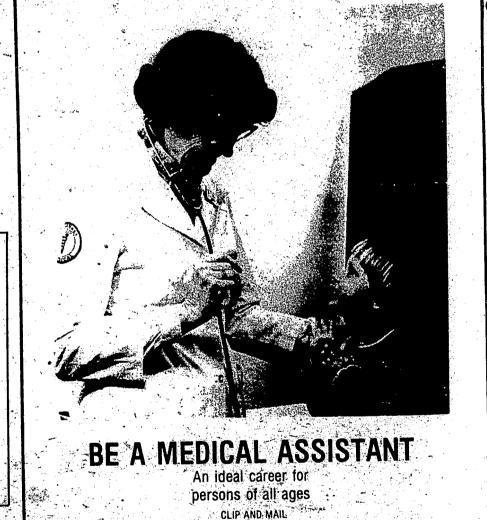

In keeping with tradition, at the Aug. 8 meeting the village council extended the Aug. 31 deadline.

Village taxpayers are enjoying an additional .3-mill savings in this year's general fund levy when the state, in a last minute dictum, ordered the millage total be shaved from 4.7 to 4.4.

Preschool starts afternoon shift

Nighttime daycare; late afternoon enrichment classes for 21/2- to 8-year-olds, and a tutoring referral service for children of all ages join the regular program at Clarkston Preschool this fall as the owners Nancy Planck and Jill Stringer strive for total service for parents of children enrolled in their school, "It seems so much safer," said Planck about the new nighttime program due to begin Sept. 13. "It's difficult for mothers to get babysitters during the week and I think a lot of parents are uneasy leaving children for long periods of time."

They will take children whose parents work, are attending classes or want to go out for an evening from about 6 p.m. to midnight Mondays through Fridays at the preschool which meets in the Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church building, 5300 Maybee, Independence Township.

And if work schedules require an extension of hours, the school will stay open to accomodate them.

"We know there's a need-we have a lot of people who have inquired about it and it's not offered anywhere else that we know of," said Stringer.

A fun time and quality care are what they offer, the women say. All the facilities and equipment of the preschool will be available to children during nighttime childcare and activities planned include arts and crafts, organized games, free time, and possibly some field trips and films. TV will only enter the scheme of things when there's a special, worthwhile program.

The staff will be state licensed, and there will be snacks and a hot meal.

NOTICE

Day holiday, Sept. 7.

The Village of Clarkston Planning Commission

While they have yet to set a precise amount, the rates will be reasonable, say Planck and Stringer. Parents can expect to pay only a little more than a. regular babysitter would cost.

The after-school enrichment programs are also available, with enrollment priority to families already enrolled in the preschool during the regular program. The classes are to meet from 4:15 to 6:30 p.m.

and they will last eight to 10 weeks.

Open to preschoolers through third-graders, the classes offered in September are dance and creative movement for beginners, and a good manners class.

In order to learn good manners, the pupils will talk about how to behave in public and field trips will give them experience. There'll be lessons on table manners, how to make introductions and how to express thank yous and condolences.

The tutoring referral service will seek to match instructors with children in all grade levels from elementary to junior and senior high school. The building where the preschool meets can be used for tutoring sessions, or the teacher and student can make other arrangements.

The Clarkston Preschool daytime program meets five days a week, and follows the Clarkston schools' calendar. Children, ages 21/2 to 6, may attend from one to five days a week. Scholarships, based solely on financial need, are available.

For more information on any of the programs, call 674-1515 or 391-2504.

periences are open to anybody. If you have confidence in yourself and you're not scared, you can go just about anyplace."

His yen to wander began when he was 18. He had graduated with honors from Western Reserve Academy in Hudson, Ohio, and his father encouraged him to don a backpack and travel through Europe. He" spent three months there before beginning studies at Hamilton College in Clinton, N.Y.

During his undergraduate years, he covered wanderlust expenses by alternating summers with auto factory work and travel.

After graduating magna cum laude with a bachelor's degree in history and political science, Hewko was granted a full Marshall Scholarship for two years of study at Oxford University, England.

The portion of scholarship money for living expenses was dolled out monthly by the university, and Hewko managed to save some $500 a month by living with a group of fellow students.

"The way I travel, it costs $5 a day. That was $500 in the pocket-for me that's 100 days of travel," Hewko says, adding that plane, bus and train fares take up larger chunks of money, but there are bargains there, too-reduced-rate train passes that cover Europe and specials by airlines if one is willing to fly standby.

During his first year at Oxford, his class schedule allowed some seven months of travel time. He organized trips with schoolmates to southern Europe, spent two months in Israel and four months in Asia.

"The second year, I had to pay for the sins of my

After traveling around the world, John Hewko finds his parents' home in Independence

Hewko found the trip interesting and worthwhile, summing up the experience this way: "I enjoy going to places where things are happening, where things are changing."

He later found out that a group of travelers in one place he'd been were ambushed and killed, but the Township a perfect place to relax before heading to Harvard law school.

Hewko was ready, willing and able.

The voyage took a month and the 36-foot yacht won the cup for winning the race in its division.

Hewko had decided his next goal-to live in South America six months and learn Spanish.

"I sort of wanted to set that up as a challenge," first year and I was only able to squeeze in one v Paris and one week in the Soviet Union," he says.

But after he was graduated with a master's degree in political science, Hewko made up for lost time.

He and seven friends purchased two British Army trucks for $800. They stripped one for parts and prepared the other for an extensive trip through Africa.

His adventures included crossing the Sahara and traveling through the jungles of South Africa. Hewko climbed Mt. Kilimanjaro, at 19,340 feet the tallest mountain in Africa, but it was more of a challenge to climb Mt. Kenya, a 17,058-foot peak not geared for tourists.

Many of the roads were primitive, and the group got stuck every five minutes at one point, covering only 30 miles in one day. They even built a bridge to get across a swampy area in Sudan.

They sold the truck and went their separate ways in Rhodesia.

"It makes you feel lucky," he says. "We met a lot of people and they told us there are a lot of rebels still in the bush waiting to attack."

Meanwhile, Hewko had decided to travel on his own to South America. He hitchhiked to Cape Town, South Africa, figuring if he got there it was a straight shot across the Atlantic Ocean.

Preparations for the Cape Town to Uruguay South Atlantic Yacht Race were underway. Hewko decided to participate.

"I'd done some sailing, but never across the ocean," he says, and he proceeded to spend four solid days going from boat to boat asking if anyone needed a crew member. The answer was always no. Two hours before the race was to begin, he was approached by one of the yacht's captains.

"He said the evening before one of his crew members had hurt his back and they were in desperate need of someone to take his place."

he savs.

He arrived in the country and found a listing for English high schools in the telephone book.

"Within three or four days, I had seven or eight job offers," he says and he began working part time at an Argentine girls' private school teaching English.

Working toward his plan to learn Spanish he lived with Argentinian students who only spoke the language and promised himself he wouldn't read anything in English, breaking his resolve only to scan copies of Time and Newsweek to see what American publications had to say about the English-Argentine war.

While there were anti-American government feelings and anger at former Secretary of State Alexander Haig, Hewko never had problems as an individual while the war was undway.

"I really loved Argentina. I fell in love with the country, the people and the language," he says. [Continued on Page 26]

Bill and Leone Saranen of Independence Township are looking forward to their free balloon ride with happy anticipation. The Saranens beat 1-in-350 odds to win the ride.

The Saranens: Looking forward to their trip through the skies

By Al Zawacky

It's going to be up, up and away for Bill and Leone Saranen next month.

On Sept. 11, the retired couple are slated for their maiden flight aboard a hot air balloon.

The ride will come courtesy of the CREW (Clinton River Environmental Workers) organization, which recently held a fund-raising raffle with a balloon ride as top prize.

Husband and wife are both happy they won and are looking forward to the trip.

With one balloon ride awarded for every 350 tickets sold, the Saranens beat some long odds to win.

"It was for a good cause," says Bill, "so we bought five raffle tickets—and one of them was a winner."

"I'm not used to winning anything with raffle tickets." Leone adds with a chuckle.

A camera will be standard equipment for Bill and Leone aboard the lighter-than-air craft, and hopes are that the balloon will pass over the Saranens' home in Independence Township.

That will give the passengers a chance to look at their home from a different perspective. And a photographer will be there on the ground, too.

"If we fly over this area, our daughter is going to take some pictures of the balloon," says Leone.

"Plus, when the neighbors found out, they said we should have a balloon party—so I suspect we're all going to have a lot of fun."

Two crossing guard subs wanted by Clarkston

By Marilyn Trumper

Attention: The Village of Clarkston is now hir-

Traffic Enforcement Officer Chuck Smalley is on the lookout for one or two relief school crossing guards for his post on M-15 at Middle Lake Road.

What I'm looking for is someone who'd be interested in taking my place so I can have days off or when I go on vacation or whatever. It could develop into full-time," he said.

Smalley, hired to enforce parking and loitering in downtown Clarkston, has monitored the crossing post since last December when the guard resigned.

The $5-an-hour job calls for 15 hours of work each week, from 7 to 8:30 a.m. and 2:30 to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

"I find I can't do anything now or go anywhere because I-have to be back in the afternoon," he said. "I really need some responsible people who can take over.'

Those hired will be expected to attend Oakland

County's one-day seminar on traffic control. For more information or to apply, phone Clarkston Village Hall on Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at 625-1559.

Village's road fund gets small boost

Clarkston Village finds itself $311 richer with gas and weight tax revenue and, according to council President Jackson Byers, it won't be hard to find a place to spend it.

'That's a nice surprise," Byers said, of the raise. For the past two years Clarkston has suffered a loss from the state which gets the funding from gasoline and license plate sales. Although gasoline sales have dropped, license plate tab fees and gas taxes have increased and explain the revenue hike. "I'm sure we'll use it for road improvements,"

Byers said.

Garage sale funds back-to-school plans

Leaving elementary school and entering-junior high is a milestone in every young person's life, so Kathy Lamphere and Kara Kurz decided to celebrate the transition in style:

The two girls wanted to buy some school clothes for the fall and have a sleep-over party this month forsix of their friends—and that raised the need for some extra funds.

So, Kathy and Kara brainstormed and decided to hold a garage sale at Kathy's house over the last weekend in July. "They did yery well," says Kathy's mom Linda Lamphere of the girls' garage sale. "It was all their idea—they did the work, washed the clothes and sat there patiently for those three days."

The party was held Aug. 4, and enough money was left over to buy some new school clothes, she says.

Formerly of Clarkston Elementary School, Kathy and Kara will become bona fide junior high students this fall when they start seventh grade at Clarkston Junior High.

Make waves at beach contests

Put your paddle boat and long-distance swimming skills to the test at Deer Lake Beach's upcoming contests.

On Saturday, Aug. 21, there'll be a Mile Swim open to all ages beginning at 12:30 p.m. Certificates of achievement will go to those who complete the milelong, length of the lake, swim. Boats will escort the swimmers to ensure safety, said John Schultz, the ac-

World traveler

After the six months were over and he was proficient in Spanish, Hewko decided it was time to come home.

"I hadn't seen my folks in three years," he says. "But I was sad to leave all the travels because I think it's the end of a part of my life I may not be able to repeat again."

During his trip, he met people his age who envied him for his right to vote and his ability to travel.

"People in the United States do have the greatest advantage," he says. "We have the opportunity for summer jobs and to save money.

"I still think the States are the best place to live, but I realize if I have to go to a strange place, I can cope with it," he adds. "It's sounds hokey, but it made me appreciate the freedom we have."

He also saw some advantages for young people growing up in South America. In Argentina, there is almost no drug or alcohol abuse, he says. And even in large cities, there's little crime—a safe stroll at 5 a.m. is possible.

As Hewko looks ahead to his years at Harvard—he plans to graduate with a law degree in 1985—he knows his life will change.

"After three years of basically having a good time, it's going to be hard," he says.

But, as usual, his future is mapped out.

Using a bow sander, John Hyde works at the lengthy process of putting a smooth surface on the roughly-hewn wood. Above right is an example of the basic stages a decoy goes through in its transformation from an ordinary block of timber to a collector's piece for the family home.

Hyde's ducks in first-class show

By Al Zawacky

A place in the sixth annual "Art at Meadow Brook" art show is quite a prestigious accomplishment.

John Hyde and his family have earned it.

"We had to submit our work to a jury of professors and artists, and they make the decision," says John. "It's a pretty tough show to get into."

Out in the garage of the Hydes' Independence Township home is where John, wife Dorothy and sons Greg and Larry, patiently turn out their artistic creations—hand carved wooden duck decoys.

Time, patience and skill transforms a lifeless block of wood from an old telephone poles into a handsome and prized decorative piece.

"It took a lot of practice," John says with a smile, recalling his first venture into wood carving 35 years ago. "The first one I made took me about a year. It took me that long before I could get one that really looked like a duck."

Today, he and his family can create an averagesize decoy in five to six hours.

The Hydes sell their works of art—and sales are particularly brisk around the holidays. But the work remains more of a pastime than a business.

"It's a hobby more than anything else," says John. "All the work is by hand, so we can only make them so fast.

"I'd say the money we make just covers our expenses in material and traveling around to different shows."

Admission to the Aug. 21-22 Meadow Brook show is free. About 100 artists and artisans will set up their exhibits in the courtyard of Meadow Brook Hall, located on the east campus of Oakland University in Rochester.

A CONSUMER SHOPPING TIP' Many stores have voluntarily set up policies to let you return articles purchased at their stores. Honest mistakes over items that don't fit or suit the right purpose do entitle you to the privilege of the store's return policy—providing they have a policy and your purchase fits within it. Make sure you know, what it is. Ask yourself whether you are depending on a store's liberal return policy rather than your own good judgment in making purchases.

4-H group showcases homegrown entertainment

The show is over-it's time to wind down and relax. Chatting about their just-completed performances are Peggy Huffman (center), Andrea Zanotti (right) and a friend.

Andrea formerly studied gymnastics, and the grace and coordination learned on mats and parallel bars come in handy in this difficult dance number.

LARKSTON JUNIOR High ninth—graders Andrea Zanotti and Peggy Huffman like performing on stage, traveling and meeting new friends.

That explains their presence on the Michigan 4-H Performing Arts Troupe, a 77-member group of talented young people aged 14-19 from across Michigan.

The purpose of the group is to showcase the artistic talents of Michigan's 4-H members while providing audiences statewide a chance to enjoy live entertainment.

This summer alone, the Performing Arts Troupe will visit nearly 50 fairs, festivals and other community events, from the Michigan State Fair in Detroit to the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island.

Included in that tour was a performance at the Oakland County 4-H Youth Fair Aug. 6, which featured dancing, singing and drama.

The Clarkston area's contribution to the group, Peggy and Andrea, both joined this year.

"It's fun," says Peggy. "You learn a lot of new things and get to meet people from all over the state."

"I've made so many new friends," says Andrea, who is also active in drama at school. "Performing is something I've always liked to do and really enjoy."

The opportunity for new members to join is there. There are no auditions, no initial fee to join and the total costs are small.

Information on the Performing Arts Troupe can be obtained by calling the Cooperative Extension Service at 858-0889. The troupe's next performance is slated for Aug. 28 up at the Houghton County Fair.

"My mom read something about it in the paper," Andrea says. "That's how I found out about it. I'm glad I joined."
