'Free' dumping overwhelms officials

By Marilyn Trumper

Officials in Independence Township know how Dr. Frankenstein felt.

They too have created a monster.

The 10, 40-cubic-yard dumpsters at designated sites throughout the township were filled to the brim, overflowing and creeping onto the roads Monday morning after a weekend of townshipwide house cleaning.

Last March the board set aside $4,000 in federal revenue sharing to pick up the tab for dumping costs.

Supervisor James B. Smith estimates final clean up costs will be "at least double" and no one knows where the funding will come from to pay the bill.

No one was prepared for the overwhelming response, Smith said.

"I don't feel so good about it," Smith said. "but it was invaluable in pointing out the need that exists (for getting rid of unwanted items). People had to get rid of a lot of surplus stuff from their homes."

There's no word when site clean up will be complete, but Smith said residents were already complaining at township hall Monday morning about the abundance of garbage at road intersections and parking lots.

James Rizzo, a Thendara Park resident upset by the public dumping trash on rural roads bordering the subdivision, spearheaded the campaign for the Independence to foot the bill and organize a township-wide dumping weekend.

"I didn't think this would happen. I couldn't believe it," Rizzo said, referring to the amount of trash left at the sites. "I said during those (revenue sharing meetings) that we were probably opening up a boar's nest. I was right."

"Our dumpster out here is filled, overflowing and has garbage 300 yards down the road."

Rizzo's initial appeal was for the township to finance the cost of trucking the trash to a dump if he and neighbors cleaned up the subdivision's woods.

"And we did. We got out there early Saturday morning and it was a bad day, raining and all. By the time we got to the dumpster at 10 a.m., it was already full."

Although overwhelmed at the turnout, Rizzo is pleased with the results.

"I really think someone has to take a hard look at the township residents' needs. Obviously there's a need," he said.

Supervisor Smith agrees, and says he's thankful the refuse is localized and not scattered throughout township acreage. In recent years, public dumping has become a local epidemic.

Smith is calling on the Solid Waste Task Force to speed up recommendations to ease the dumping problem, saying he sees three feasible options to encourage garbage pick-up instead of public dumping.

The first is to implement the Commerce Township plan where residents in subdivisions agree to a special assessment, and because they have pick-ups on the same day, cut costs, he said.

The second is the "Lansing plan." Residents purchase color-coded garbage bags at the township and local officials can get a handle on who's responsible for public dumping, residents or outsiders, based on the bag's color.

The third is an ad valorem trash pick-up tax that would be paid by every resident to finance the cost of townshipwide collection.

"That might be the way to go and I'm encouraging the task force hand in its recommendation so that if that's one, we can get it on the November ballot," Smith said.

Recycling appears to be on the mind of this resident as he climbs to the top of the trash mountain located behind Independence Township Hall in Clarkston.

Sunday evening, the discard pile had grown until it covered the top of the hill behind Independence Township Hall, the building in the background. The site was one of 10 scattered throughout the township to provide residents with a place to take discards paying without a fee. Federal revenue sharing funds, totaling $4,000 were set aside by the township board to pay for hauling away the trash.

Lightning bolt kills 16-year-old Clarkston girl

By Marilyn Trumper

Softball coach Paul Couture takes comfort in knowing shortstop Carol Hyde was a born again Christian, "...who had accepted the Lord as her personal savior."

Carol Hyde

In a freak accident June 15, the Clarkston High School junior was struck down by a bolt of lightning and killed while leaving a softball diamond at Boys' Club Field in northwest Pontiac, near Baldwin and Columbia streets.

"The incident happened so unexpectedly," Couture said. "The girls were on the field practicing for the game and the storm blew up. We called the game and ordered the girls off the field."

The 16-year-old collapsed between second and third base at approximately 5:40 p.m. Although two people immediately administered cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), Carol was pronounced dead three hours later at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

Carol, a Clarkston village resident, played shortstop and third base on the Waterford Community Church team, Couture said.

"She was one of the good ballplayers, faithful to the practice and the games.

"It does seem strange to a lot of people that she was taken by lightning, but she was a born-again Christian and she had accepted the Lord as her personal savior. Although it's hard for us not to question the Lord, He took her in the perfect way," Couture said, saying he found comfort in that Carol "...Really loved the Lord. She was simple and uncomplicated and had a good spirit. We will see her again in heaven."

Carol was the youngest daughter of Leslie and Ethelynn, an English teacher for the past 24 years in the Clarkston School District.

She would have been a senior when school began this fall, according to Principal Dom Mauti.

"She was full of vim and vigor and popped in and out of here," Mauti recalls. "We never had any trouble with her."

Carol is survived by her parents, Leslie and Ethelynn Hyde, brother Alan of Berkley, Calif., brother Stephen of Clarkston, sister Nancy of Waterford Township, grandmother Mrs. Adeline Smith of

Deer Lake Beach rules galore

Monday marked the first day of summer, so for those with thoughts of swimming, sailing and water-skiing in mind here are some of the rules for Independence Township's Deer Lake Beach:

- No swimming outside markers.
- No more than eight people on diving raft.
- No playing or wading in stream channel.
- No climbing or playing allowed on walking bridge.
- No "dunking" or general horseplay.
- No children under 10 allowed without adult.

Ten-year-olds may not bring younger brothers and sisters.

•No alcoholic beverages, fires, pets or glass containers.

- No picnicing.
- No lawn chairs in the water.

For the first time, following the erection of "No Parking" signs, cars left on White Lake Road will be ticketed and towed. If the beach parking lot is full residents must wait for a space to open or park in the Independence Township and grandfather, G.L. Hyde of Toronto, Ontario.

A private family burial took place June 17 at Lakeview Cemetery.

Public services took place the following morning at Waterford Community Church, officiated by the Rev. Phillip Whisenhunt.

Goyette Funeral Home handled the arrangements.

The family requests donations go to the Youth Ministry Fund of Waterford Community Church or the Memorial Building Fund of William Tindale College, 35700 W. 12 Mile, Farmington Hills 48018.

village of Clarkston and use the safety path to walk to the beach.

Although parking has always been prohibited, it has never been enforced.

According to a township handout, there are 12 to 15 spaces available for boat trailers.

A complete list of the Deer Lake Beach boat rules can be picked up at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Yingling recoups after freak softball accident

By Al Zawacky

The softball season is over for Mike Yingling, but the 26-year-old Independence Township resident isn't complaining.

Struck in the heart by a line drive in a softball game at Clintonwood Park June 10, Yingling just feels lucky to be alive.

Hospitalized for eight days, including four days in intensive care, he was released from the hospital

Friday and continues to make rapid progress from his injury.

"I can't do anything strenuous, and I won't be able to play ball for the rest of the year," Yingling said. "But in a couple of weeks, I'll be able to play golf."

"The only thing I remember from the game I got hurt in is that between innings I was going into the stands to talk to my sister-in-law and my brother," he added.

"When I woke up in the hospital, I kept asking, 'What am I doing here? What happened?'"

The injury occurred when a line drive hit Yingling in the chest while he was pitching in an Independence Parks and Recreation softball contest.

The blow disrupted the natural rhythm of his heart, and he may not have recovered if sister-in-law Flora Yingling and Susan Novosel hadn't been in the stands watching the game. Both are familiar with the technique of cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), a technique used to sustain heart attack victims until the arrival of an ambulance.

"If it hadn't been for the quick action of those two people, I wouldn't be here," Yingling said.

"I'm grateful to both of them, the Independence Fire Department, everybody that helped. When I came home from the hospital, it finally sank into me how serious it was. I sat down and cried a little."

The accident left Yingling, a laid-off Pontiac Motor employe, with some slight memory impairment, he said. He is currently following a therapy program to promote a full recovery.

And despite the ordeal, he plans on returning to the ball diamond next year.

"I've really enjoy the game and always have," he said. "I'm going to pitch again, but I'm going to wear a chest protector."

"And I also want to learn CPR. I wouldn't ever want to have to use it, but if something ever happens, I'd like to be able to return the favor to someone else someday."

Salesman stopper

Independence Township may not be plagued with bands of roving gypsies, but it has its share of magazine salesmen.

Residents who don't want solitors at their doorstep do have an out.

Signs reading "No Solicitors Invited" can be purchased for 25 cents at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

On the flip side for those who welcome the door-to-door salesmen the sign reads: "Only Solicitors Registered with Independence Township Invited."

A local ordinance prohibits door-to-door sales unless persons are registered with Independence Township. There is no fee to register, according to Clerk Christopher Rose, who says the move is designed to prevent those with arrest warrants and a criminal history of break-ins from "casing" homes.

Tornado aftermath

Residents of Mann Road, the southern Independence Township boundary near the intersection of Clintonville Road, have yet to recover and clean up the damage left in the wake of a tornado that touched down last week. At the time this resident worked against the falling darkness to cover a hole left in his roof by an uprooted tree. Damage is estimated at $400. Today, a dozen stumps and piles of sawdust and branches scattered up and down the road are all that's left to remind residents of their close calls. No one was injured. Neighbors and outsiders scurried in to make broken trees into firewood. Elsewhere in the township, homeowners on Eastview Road, said 18 inch trees were "twisted right out of the ground." The violent storm is also blamed for taking the life of Carol Hyde, a Clarkston Village resident who was struck by lightning as she left a ball field in Pontiac.

Special section heralds village's 150th birthday

Dear Readers,

It's Clarkston's 150th birthday, and we're celebrating at The Clarkston News with four special sections throughout the summer heralding the sesquicentennial.

In next week's paper, we'll go on a tour of the village and look at our past with pictures and details about many of the splendid old buildings and homes in our town.

We'll be talking to residents, too, some whose families have lived in Clarkston for over 100 years, and others whose memories go back to when Clarkston was merely a youngster, and so were they.

Don't miss our first special section, on the newspaper stands next Wednesday, and in your mailboxes Thursday. We know you'll enjoy adding to your feeling that "Clarkston is a great place" with facts about our past.

And keep in mind that sesquicentennial sections are also planned in the July 28, Sept. 1 and Sept. 5 Clarkston News editions.

Garner gets 'rezoning' for senior citizen village

By Marilyn Trumper

It's full-speed ahead for local realtor Hugh Garner and his proposed $24 million senior citizens complex.

At the June 15 meeting after a short closed session, the Independence Township Board unanimously approved the amended consent judgment regulating the targeted 30 acres near Dixie Highway and I-75. Trustee Daniel Travis was absent and Clerk Christopher Rose, who's family owns land in the area, abstained; Supervisor James B. Smith, Treasurer Frederick Ritter and trustees Larence Kozma, William Vandermark and Dale Stuart voted "yes".

Ground breaking is still planned this year, Garner said, after the board waived the 1976 judgment that bound the land to commercial development allowing the zoned multiple development.

According to Garner, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac is the candidate to operate the non-profit center, designed to house almost 400 people after it's built. Construction can begin after he receives the Certificate of Need from the state and compliance is made for Public Act 440, both regulations for senior housing.

In addition, the Springfield Township Board must approve the rezoning of 13.6 landlocked acres zoned high intensity, targeted for codevelopment with Independence's acreage. Garner will go before the Springfield board as soon as the county finishes with the plans, he said.

"It feels fantastic. I'm starting to realize now that it's real. And I know I have a market for this despite the economic climate," he said of the six-month-old plan.

Not part of the judgment but indirectly related, Garner forfeited lake rights at the Deer Lake Farms common beach, an earlier request of the homeowners' association upon hearing of the proposed development.

"(The board) didn't hold it over my head, I just did it," Garner said. "I really didn't give anything up, because it only covers the senior village. If something else were to go in there it doesn't count.

"Instead, I donated another piece of land, approximately 10 acres for the seniors' use."

According to the consent judgment which is good for two years, the development can be constructed in phases with individual site plan reviews.

Garner has not altered the plan since it was presented in January.

The design still includes optional living in condominiums, housekeeping units, or in a nursing center with supportive care; a social dining area and clinic.

Unlike other senior complexes, the residents will be allowed to have children visit and come and go as they like, Garner said.

Residents, according to the judgment, will pay an initial entry fee and monthly service charge.

Key school issues at June 28 meeting

A public hearing on the proposed $13.6 million budget for Clarkston schools, grades K-12, is on the docket for Monday, June 28.

The meeting is to begin at 8 p.m. at the district administration office building, 6389 Clarkston-Orion, Independence Township.

After the public hearing, the board is expected to vote on the tentative budget for the 1982-83 school year. Final figures will not be available until after fall enrollment is known and the state aid formula is determined later in the year by legislators in Lansing.

The final decision on which two administrators will be demoted to teaching positions is also expected to be voted on at the meeting.

Another controversial issue, the fate of attendance clerks Clarkston's two junior high schools, is also expected to be settled.

The office personnel association has requested that the board override the administration recommendation of layoffs for the attendance clerks.

"This is an important area, and we shouldn't have any more cuts," said Office Personnel Association negotiating committee member Sharm Blasey, predicting attendance problems if the layoffs occur. "The kids are going to find out. There is just no way we can keep tabs the way we should."

Fireworks OK'd

Look for bursts of color over the skies of Pine Knob July Fourth at the close of the Santana concert, as the music theater offers its annual fireworks display in celebration of our country's independence.

George White, director of community relations, again warns township residents to select spots on their front porches and lawns and to stay away from Pine Knob's exiting traffic jam.

The show's expected to begin around 10:30 p.m.

Board must respect the law

Balancing between the liberal interpretations of one attorney and the conservative interpretations of another, the Independence Township Board is walking a dangerous line as it continues to test the waters of the Michigan Open Meetings Act.

At the June 15 meeting, over strenuous objections from this newspaper, the board attempted to meet in closed session with developer Hugh Garner to discuss the consent judgment regulating the 30 acres targeted for his proposed senior citizens complex.

When the board was unable to muster the five votes required to close the meeting, the motion failed. Trustees Larence Kozma and Dale Stuart, both attorneys, dissented.

It's our opinion that the move to include Garner in litigation talks is in direct violation of the law that regulates closed sessions for purposes of discussing legal strategy.

The law specifically states such closed sessions to discuss "pending litigation" known in this instance as the consent judgment, shall take place only "... (for the board) to consult with its attorney regarding trial or settlement strategy in connection with specific pending litigation, but only when an open meeting would have a detrimental financial effect on the litigating or settlement position of the public body."

Trustee Kozma agreed, saying it would be impossible for the board to arrive at negotiation strategy with the party present, thereby defeating the purpose of the law.

Township co-counsel Gerald Fisher put his stamp of approval on closure with Garner present, bowing to law partner Richard Campbell's discovery of an attorney general's opinion which "allows it."

Asked specifically whether the opinion allowed Garner or his attorney to be present, Fisher waived and said, "In my opinion Garner is acting as his attorney, but (closure) doesn't make any difference to me."

Supervisor James B. Smith finding the board on sudden rocky ground, said, "Can I take a radar range into the pokey with me? If the food's no good there I can cook my own."

It is this lack of respect for the law that forces us to stand our ground and fight for our first amendment rights, riding shotgun on a supervisor and board members who choose to flippantly test the law.

A public official who "intentionally" breaks the law is guilty of a misdemeanor, a crime punishable by a $1,000 fine.

It is laws like these that sharply define the difference between the United States and closed societies like the Soviet Union.

Mr. Smith and the board would do well to bear that in mind and afford the Michigan Open Meetings Act the respect it merits.

Letter to editor

The longest week in my life'

This letter is to inform parents of students entering Clarkston High School this fall if they ever make a mistake of doing wrong while in school to lie their way out.

My daughter and a friend were suspects in a smoke bomb and fire cracker incident. She admitted to the smoke bomb after she realized it was more serious than a childish prank.

She apologized to everyone involved and accepted the responsibility of paying for damaged carpet.

This TRUTH cost her a seven-day school suspension, which resulted in the loss of one-half credit.

This she could accept. What she couldn't accept was the administration withheld her cap and gown (which we paid for) and denied to her participation at commencement. Since she still had 16 1/2 credits, they would let her pick up her diploma Monday, June 14.

After a week of pleading, we still received a flat "no" on commencement, even though this was her first trouble in 13 years of school.

The happy ending to this is she has many friends who stood by her and, through the loan of a cap and gown, she surprised the CHS administration by going all the way through commencement. The only missing part was her name was not announced.

Monday when she went to pick up the earned diploma, these certain few administrators told her they lost it and they couldn't get another one until the fall. This was a lie, because after her father did some more pleading she had her diploma.

Now, my daughter is an 18-year-old who made a mistake. These adult administrators who are acting like children are running our high school.

I would like the seniors of '82 to know Pam was even accused of causing the throwing of confetti and caps at the end of commencement.

I hope no other parent has to have their son or daughter used as a scapegoat like I did.

Patriela Weir

P.S. I'm sorry this letter is so long, but this has been the longest week of my life.

Snacking nuts

What do you snack on?

Of course, leftovers come first. Well maybe not first if your home is the kind that has peanuts laying invitingly in a bowl on the kitchen table.

Peanuts are my downfall, but for Hazel it's candy. She begs, "Don't bring any candy in my house (always it's 'my house')", then out of the shopping bag comes m. & m.'s, jelly beans, mints or malted milk balls.

Dinner waits until they are gone.

Given more time for snack selection I'll open the peanut butter jar. Then I make a decision between dipping a teaspoon full of creamy peanuts into a jar of salad dressing, or topping off the filled teaspoon with a dill pickle chip.

I don't know where or when I developed a taste for peanut butter. That was one of the sandwich spreads forced on me when I brown bagged it through my first nine school grades.

After that we lived so close to the school I could go home for lunch. Mother made warm, sit-down meals then.

Peanut butter sandwiches and mashed bean sandwiches stand out as bad days with the lunch box. There never was enough milk to keep up with the bite-and-drink routine a kid had to establish to have time for the school yard before the bell rang.

Another choice, time permitting, for snacks is sardines and crackers. Love 'em. Crackers and milk make a good snack, too, but it always seems to take more time cleaning up the cracker

Up in the dumps

by Kathy Greenfield

Adventure seekers found plenty at the trash mountains that cropped up in 10 sites this weekend in Independence Township.

I made my first approach to the one behind Independence Township Hall early Saturday afternoon.

A bunch of my neighbors were wandering around the pile, shaking their heads in disbelief.

Someone said the enthusiastic response to the township-sponsored trash weekend illustrated the need for a local landfill.

But, of course, people don't want dumps in their backyards.

Knowing the township agreed in advance to have the mess cleaned up, the thing to do this weekend was to relax and enjoy it.

We saw people drive in with loads of trash, dump them and then find treasures to take home—pieces of wood, pipes, lawn chairs that only needed a little fixing, furniture, rejected bicycles, and so on.

The neighborhood kids joined in the spirit of things by recycling a dart board, pogo stick, hockey stick, a lawnmower engine earmarked for a go-cart, a sled and other stuff.

There was a man who dropped off some trash and spotted a washing machine just like his. He drove home for some tools, and returned to salvage some parts from dump doom.

A couple traversed the trash looking in vain for some sleds accidentally included in garbage dropped off earlier.

We were standing there, grinning over the trash pickers when a neighbor said, "Look, Kathy, there's a good pot."

"You're right!" I exclaimed as I took a closer look.

After thwarting threats of snatching my camera and taking a photo of me with my prize, I walked home and found a place for the newest old thing I possess.

What a find!

crumbs than it does eating the repast.

Sometimes I just grab a piece of bologna, sliced or ring, then if I have just a little more time, I spread on salad dressing.

Among the things I don't grab between meals, or hardly any other time is bananas or fresh fruit. They usually rot in the bowl. It's not that I don't like fruit and bananas, in fact I love 'em. But they are a 'moody' food. Apples take cold weather. Bananas take milk and sugar. Oranges take too much time. Grapes are good, unless they have seeds. Hazel eats the seeds, and I leave the room.

I realize you readers don't give a darn about my snacking habits, but my second choice for a column this week was politics and you surely didn't want any of that.

We know you are excited—we all remember when we graduated—but now we are parents and we have a warning for you...

Your celebrating will not be tolerated when the victims are kindergarten and elementary school children. Pick on someone your own size!

A group of children reached my house Wednesday, June 9, scared and bewildered by the gray pickup truck full of seniors who threw bucketfuls of water on their four kindergarten companions.

My daughter was dripping wet—including her year-end papers—and she was crying. She had just become brave enough to venture home on her own...now how does she know it won't happen again?

Well—it won't—children should not be the target of pranks—they should be protected, physically and emotionally.

If you are capable of dousing a little child with water, what does that say about your personality and what will you be capable of in the future?

We are watching you.

We expect NO MORE!

Detroit Edison sets us straight

I read with concern and interest two articles by Marilyn Trumper which appeared in your May 5 and May 12 editions.

The first article was on a wind generator which the zoning board of appeals recently ruled on. It is refreshing to see there are still people who display the great American spirit of independence and at the same time I would like to issue a note of caution.

Any generating device which is tied in to a central electrical system must be coordinated with the local utility. The most important reason for this is to assure the safety of our linemen when working in the vicinity of such a device during periods of storm and maintenance. These systems can backfeed and cause injury or death.

Also, as expressed by one of the members of the zoning board, they can cause interference with other people's service if not properly designed and constructed.

Also, in order to sell electricity to a utility a se-

Candidate's thanks

Thanks to everyone who supported me in my bid for re-election.

These are critical times for the Clarkston schools, and the school board has had to make some very hard decisions both individually and collectively.

I believe your support of me is a vote of confidence for the school board team as well as a personal victory for myself.

cond meter must be installed to register the power generated.

The credit mentioned in the article is not correct. We have assisted many individuals who have installed wind generators with proper safety and technical aspects in order to help assure safety and good operation. We have been in contact with Mr. Hirneisen and we wish him well in his endeavor and if he does indeed produce 93 percent of the electricity his family needs, he will far and away exceed the performance of any other wind generator utilized by our customers.

The second article I refer to was in the Deja Vu column on May 12 and written by Marilyn Trumper. It was a well written article but I would like to clarify the point on an energy crisis.

While I will admit that there is a petroleum problem, there is no shortage of electricity generated from American produced coal in southeastern Michigan. Detroit Edison is not attempting to discourage the use of power but merely encourage the wise use of energy. Electricity still maintains its position of versatility and good value in spite of the many inflationary pressures we have experienced.

The demise of the lamp (lightbulb) exchange program and the small appliance repair program are two events which Detroit Edison deeply regretted.

However, with the availability of low cost irons, toasters, etc., our customers decreased the use of the service from a peak of over half a million repairs a year to just thousands.

The demise of the lamp (lightbulb) exchange program was a case in which everyone lost...

Hurray coaches

Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department would like to thank those individuals in the community who stepped forward and gave of their time to coach or assist with the youth soccer program this spring.

Their commitment benefited the 250 children enrolled.

A program of this nature is largely dependent upon community effort to run successfully. We're confident that the many children participating are appreciative of the encouragement and instruction they received.

Crash info wanted

In follow up to your article in the April 14 edition concerning a head-on crash on M-15, please be advised that our firm represents 82-year-old Luther Cromley Plymale.

Mr. Plymale was the driver of one of the two vehicles involved in the collision. He continues to be hospitalized and is slowly responding to treatment.

No witnesses have come forward concerning their knowledge of how the accident occurred. We are hoping that one or more of your readers will offer information.

If anyone has any information, please contact me at the law offices of Buchanan and Buchanan, 2140 Walnut Lake Rd., West Bloomfield 48033. The telephone number is 855-4636.

'If it Fitz...

I will not serve

by Jim Fitzgerald

During his European tour, according to news reports, President Reagan apparently dozed off when he was supposed to be listening to a speech given by a very important person. I don't blame him.

There are advantages and disadvantages to being president of the United States. One of the disadvantages is having to listen to countless boring speeches every time you get out of bed.

One of the advantages is if the president's spouse wants to wear expensive jewelry, he or she can borrow it from a jewelry store, instead of buying it.

Women libbers should not my admission that the president's spouse could be "he or she." There will surely be a woman president someday, which raises an important question of state: Will a first gentleman get as much media attention as a first lady for wearing beaded knickers?

In its May 24 issue, Newsweek magazine reported Nancy Reagan still had $100,000 worth of gems borrowed from a New York jeweler to wear to her husband's inaugural ball 16 months earlier. When questioned about the tenure of the loan, a White House spokesman replied, "She'll return them." The jeweler had no comment.

After reading about the first lady's jewelry loan, I asked a jewelry clerk to loan me some baubles for my wife to wear to the Elks Club dance. The clerk not only refused, but she also said my request was the most ridiculous thing she'd heard in all the years she'd worked at K-mart. Chances are she wouldn't have treated me so shabbily if I'd had the advantage of being president of the United States.

Naturally, I don't mean to be critical of Nancy Reagan for borrowing $100,000 worth of jewelry to war to a 16-month dance. I'm sure she prefers rhinestones, but wears diamonds only to help the diamond industry advertise its wares. It's just too bad that most people don't realize how much her sacrifice contributes to the national economy. But, unfortunately, advertising is an imprecise marketing tool and there is currently no way of knowing how many citizens went out and bought diamonds simply because they saw the first lady wearing some on TV.

SUDDEN BRIGHT IDEA: To help White House publicists accurately measure Mrs. Reagan's ability to sell diamonds, it would be a great idea if jewelry stores were allowed to accept food stamps.

But that's enough about the advantages of being president. Before deciding whether he or she wants the job, a person should also consider the disadvantages, such as the aforementioned speeches a president must listen to in the holy name of diplomatic protocol.

There is no greater anguish than, after a banquet meal, to be forced to stay awake for three hours and listen to ponderous personages prattle precious platitudes alliteratively. There was never a speech given than an audience couldn't appreciate more in written form, read in bed with the constant option of turning out the light and going to sleep.

MY BIGGEST HERO now is Alexander Solzhenitsyn, the exiled Soviet author. He recently turned down an invitation to a White House banquet because "the life span at my disposal does not leave any time for symbolic gestures."

That's what I call a supremely classy rejection. It used to be that, whenever invited to hear a speech, I'd make some wimpy excuse about a previous commitment or a sore stomach. (I'd do the same thing when asked to make a speech. People opposed to being murdered have no right to murder, and the same principle applies to speeches.)

But now I simply tell the banquet chairman there is no room in my life span for the symbolic gestures necessary to keep smiling while an entire Rotary Club sings "Ain't She Sweet?" It feels great.

But a president couldn't do that. International good will and peace in our time depend upon the president's staying awake during hundreds of speeches while wearing his or her best beaded knickers, borrowed or bought.

If elected, I will not serve.

Village threatens to sue 93-year-old resident

By Marilyn Trumper

Clarkston's Village Council wants to oust tenants from the home of 93-year-old Allen Hawke of West Washington Street, charging the senior citizen with violation of single-family zoning.

Via letter at the June 14 meeting, council ordered Hawke to anticipate court action if tenants don't vacate the premises within 10 days.

The letter culminates a battle that began last summer after council's repeated communiques of violation. Ingoing the push, Hawke continued to lease his mother-in-law apartment to seasonal tenants.

"(Hawke) damn well knew he was in violation when he again rented his home this summer," village attorney Thomas Gruich told council members. "Last August you were lenient pleading that he not do it again. I don't see you have any choice but to sue him."

Some council members expressed concern that looking the other way would encourage other homeowners to take in renters.

Trustee Ruth Basinger called the rental "a clear violation" of the zoning ordinance, and moved to take court action of the property is not vacated by the deadline.

According to village officials, the house is zoned single family residential and is taxed on that basis. Hawke alleges his property, once part of the Ford Motor Co.'s factory and now the Clarkston Mills Mall, is zoned light manufacturing and would be conducive to multiple living.

"(The village) never notified me of any zoning change," an agitated Hawke said, promising to remain steadfast. "I still have a machine shop here."

"Do you know how big this house is? there are 3,000 feet in the downstairs and 3,000 feet in the upstairs. There's too much room for a man to live all alone.

"I have (tenants) here for the company mostly. It's not good for a 93-year-old man to live all alone."

Hawke bought his property from the Ford Motor Co. 35 years ago.

"I keep the place up and make it look like a residence, but if they want to make something out of it, if they want to spend money, I'm willing too."

A variance is all that's needed to allow a 93-year-old man to have live-in company, "...if that's the way they feel about it," Hawke said.

-Sheriff's log-

Wednesday, vandals grabbed a patron's half open car window in the Pine Knob Music Theatre, 7777 Pine Knob Road, Independence Township, and snapped it in two causing $50 in damages.

According to police, the vandal and driver of the car had been fighting.

Wednesday, thieves broke into a car on Pine Knob Road, Independence Township, and stole a $280 stereo and $80 radio.

Wednesday, thieves broke into a pole barn on Rattalee Lake Road, Independence Township, and stole $25 jumper cables and a $295 chain saw.

Wednesday, thieves stole a battery and siphoned gas from a tractor on Hidden Trail, Springfield Township.

Wednesday, two fishermen on Townsend Lake, Independence Township, say a hunter on shore took potshots at their boat, denting the side.

Sunday, police used a tracking dog to apprehend a Rochester man hiding in a field off Clarkston-Orion Road, where he had fled after exposing himself to two Independence Township women on Waldon Road.

According to reports the man, in his 20s, is a group home resident from Rochester who was in the township visiting family.

After being put in the patrol car, reports said he kicked out the rear passenger window causing $150 in damages.

Police transported the man back to the group home.

The above information was collected from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

New law keeps tabs on racing

There's a new clause in the Independence Township "Speed Exhibition Ordinance," one that will affect the Waterford Hills Racing Association at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club.

In effect, the amendment, unanimously approved by the board at the June 15 meeting, mandates all track activity, races, time trials and practices, whether spectators are present or not, be submitted to the township at the beginning of the year.

The move is an attempt by government officials to get a stronghold on track activity, an issue spurred by track neighbors, residents of Woodhull Lake and Pelton Heights subdivisions.

For years residents have complained of repeated weekends of racing and loud and excessive noise from the cars.

The law takes effect 30 days after publication, according to Clerk Christopher Rose.

Track officials have yet to return to the Independence Township Board with sound data results, compiled by a privately hired professional audiologist. Unless the data is produced, the license expires after the Fourth of July weekend, bringing the racing season to an end at the track.

Obituary

Russell F. Moline

Memorial service for Independence Township resident Russell F. Moline was held June 22 at the Clarkston United Methodist Church with the Rev. James Balfour officiating.

Moline, 60, died June 19. A graduate of the University of Michigan in civil engineering, he was a supervisor for South Eastern Michigan Transportation Authority. He was a member of the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Margaret; children, Alan of Jacksonville, Fla., Linda of Clarkston and Nancy of Clarkston; and sister, Mrs. George (Alice) Alvesteffer of Ludington.

Burial took place in Lakeview Cemetery, Independence Township.

Memorial tributes may be made to the Clarkston United Methodist Church or to the Women's Aglow Fellowship, P.O. Box 1, Lynnwood, Wash. 98036.

Arrangements were made by the Lewis E. Wint Funeral Home, Independence Township.

Seniors' transportation boost

The Independence Township Board unanimously agreed to channel $2,664 from SEMTA (Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority) into easing local senior citizens transportation costs.

To date, Independence Township has received $12,000 in transportation credits from SEMTA. The funds, according to Clerk Christopher Rose, are generated from the sale of license plates and returned proportionately to local municipalities.

Traditionally, the township has used the funds to subsidize senior transportation in various forms, Rose said.

Director of the Independence Township Senior Citizens Center Rina Chemin says were it not for the municipal credit program, her seniors would not be able to charter a SEMTA bus, which normally costs $26 an hour.

The seniors use the buses for a variety of trips, and for transporting members to and from doctors' offices and on shopping trips, where they would otherwise be confined to home.

Grim outlook: Rocked by defections and millage defeats, the GOAL is in trouble

By Al Zawacky

The vital signs continue to weaken. The prospects for recovery are grim.

Three months before its scheduled debut, the eight-team Greater Oakland Activities League is already on the critical list. In fact, the very survival of the league in any form past the 1982-83 school year is a matter of serious doubt.

Within the past few months, the GOAL has been shaken to its foundations by a stream of defections, financial problems and general bad news:

- West Bloomfield and Rochester, two of the league's original members, announced last winter their intention of leaving the GOAL and joining the Metro Suburban Activities Association in 1983-84.

- Pontiac Northern is slated to enter the GOAL this fall, but barring a miracle, the school will not have athletics. Another failed millage proposal is being blamed.

- Continued millage failures and declining enrollment is casting a shadow on three league members—Waterford Kettering, Waterford Mott and new addition Waterford Township. Although the ongoing voluntary fee system is expected to maintain most of the Waterford schools' programs next year, declining enrollment is expected to force the closing of one of the three high schools in the fall of 1983.

Lake Orion's on-again, off-again program con-member in the next few years. Athletic Director Paul Tungate doesn't foresee any immediate threat to Clarkston's athletic program.

"The only thing we're recommending right now is a discontinuation of seventh- and eighth-grade track," he said. "And the reason for that is that most schools in the area have done away with it and it's difficult to find anybody to schedule."

As for the shaky league situation, Tungate isn't quite ready to write the GOAL's epitaph. But he's exploring all of the available options.

Still, the undependable nature of certain individual programs—not to mention the possibility that some league members may not have sports at all—is what prompted West Bloomfield and Rochester to jump ship.

"Lake Orion had no JV baseball or softball this spring, the Waterford schools had no girls' tennis and Pontiac Northern probably won't have any sports period," noted Betty Brosier, girls' athletic director for Rochester Community Schools.

"The GOAL bothered us also because it's a league without swimming as a league sport. I think it's the only Class A league in the state that doesn't have it, and swimming is very big in Rochester."

Clarkston High School, like the majority of GOAL members, has no swimming pool. Pools are a universal feature in the MSAA, which beginning in September 1983 will consist of Royal Oak Dondero, Southfield Lathrup, Bloomfield Hills Lahser, Troy Athens, Birmingham Groves, Rochester Adams, Rochester and West Bloomfield.

"We're not thrilled about having our two schools (Rochester and Rochester Adams) in the same league," Brosier said. "But it's better than not having any competition at all."

Meanwhile, Tungate is careful to work in erasable pencil when setting up next year's schedules. For example, Troy Athens has been inserted in-

"We inquired about joining the MSAA," Tungate said. "They said in effect that they'd love to have us, but they'd already made commitments to West Bloomfield and Rochester."

"We have plenty of places to look. Just off the top of my head, there's the Davison area, Grand Blanc, Milford, Milford Lakeland. We might also look toward Utica."

Waterford, funding its programs with Booster Club money and voluntary contributions by athletes, is almost certain to have sports this fall, according to John Moffat, Waterford school's Athletic Director. But the possible demise of the GOAL has him concerned.

"I don't know what we're going to do," he said. "We're going to be closing one of the high schools in 1983-84, and Rochester and West Bloomfield are leaving. That takes us down to five schools right there."

"Maybe we can keep the league going by drawing somebody like Avondale or a school from the Huron Valley."

Although Waterford has had some holes in its athletic program in the past few years, Moffat insisted that the absence of teams in various sports hasn't been directly related to the district's financial problems.

"We didn't have any girls' tennis last year, and Kettering had no JV girls' basketball, but the problem was one of participation," Moffat said. "We had the money—we just didn't have the bodies."

Waterford Athletic

Director John Moffat:

'I don't know what we're going to do...'

the varsity football schedule in place of Pontiac Northern, "and if there are no Waterford sports, we'll probably pick up some dates with some Warren schools," Tungate said.

The possibility exists that 1982-83 will be the last chance for anyone to win a GOAL championship.

Clarkston Athletic

Director Paul Tungate:

'We have plenty of places to look...'

tinues in a state of disarray. Athletics in Orion this fall remains a question mark after a millage defeat this month.

Ironically in view of the district's financial crisis and temporary cancellation of athletics a year ago, Clarkston shapes up to be the league's most stable

POINT AFTER

Listening in . . .

By Al Zawacky

Mike Mozzarella has bought the Blue Wings hockey club, and former owner Bruce Billions and lame-duck General Manager Jimmy Mismanager are having lunch after cleaning out their desks. We listen in on the conversation...

BRUCE: "Well Jimmy, now that Mozzarella is in charge, I imagine there are going to be a lot of changes. And I'll bet he starts with the scouting staff."

JIMMY: "A bad move in my opinion, boss. I don't think you can blame the club's problems on the scouts, not when they've been instrumental to putting us on to talent like Freddy Noskate, Billy Noshol and Rick La Bum. As a matter of fact, one of our scouts was supposed to meet us here today for lunch, but he couldn't make it."

BRUCE: "Oh? What happened?"
JIMMY: "Couldn't find anybody to drive him, he said."

BRUCE: "Couldn't he drive himself?"
JIMMY: "No. He's legally blind."

BRUCE: (After long pause) "I thought I noticed something funny about him. Anyway, I've been meaning to talk to you about the draft..."
JIMMY: "Oh, I'm against it. Taking all those young men against their will..."

BRUCE: "I'm talking about the summer player draft."
JIMMY: "So am I. When it comes to the player draft, the Blue Wings are conscientious objecters. You know, just before you sold the club I was working on a deal with Philadelphia. The rights to two more minor leaguers in return for our 1998 first-round draft pick."

BRUCE: "1998? Now that's what I call thinking ahead."

JIMMY: (Modestly) "Well, the 1998 pick was the only first-round selection we had left in this century, and I didn't want to leave any loose ends for my successor."

BRUCE: "By the way, wasn't Coach Wayne Hasbeen supposed to join up with us for lunch today?"
JIMMY: "Coach Hasbeen? Oh, you mean last week's coach? I fired him. He'd been here six days already, and I figured it was time to make a change."

BRUCE: "So who did you hire to replace him?"
JIMMY: "Ah, Stan Plucinski, that's his name. Big sports background—he's the former captain of the Rouge Ford Plant bowling team."

BRUCE: "Who? How'd you find him?"

JIMMY: "Just picked up the phone directory and started dialing some numbers. You know I had to get all the way to the P's before I found somebody who hadn't already coached the club and been fired."

BRUCE: "Hm... You know, the more I think about it Jimmy, the better I feel about selling the club. I'm looking forward to just being a face in the crowd this winter, watching a highly successful, dynamic franchise forge its way into the playoffs..."

JIMMY: "You mean...?"
BRUCE: "Yep. I'm moving to Long Island..."

English Car Club to appear

A full schedule of racing action, highlighted by a visit from the English Car Club, is slated for this weekend at the Waterford Hill race track.

A variety of production sports cars, open-wheel formula cars and racing sedans will hit the challenging Waterford Hill course June 26-27.

The English Car Club will appear Sunday, when members of the club will gather their British autos and let spectators view the machinery on a parade lap slated for 11:30 a.m.

The action starts at 10 a.m. Saturday with racing and qualifying, with feature racing starting at 1:30 p.m. On Sunday, when four feature races cap a 10-race slate, action starts at noon.

Admission to Waterford Hills is $3 Saturday, $5 Sunday or $6 for both days. Children under 12 are free when accompanied by an adult and ample free parking is available.

Waterford Hills is located just east of Dixie Highway on Waterford Road in Waterford Township.

7 Wolves All-league in baseball

Seven members of the 1982 Clarkston High School varsity baseball team have been chosen for Greater Oakland Activities League All-league honors.

Named first team All-league were seniors Mark Piazza and Joel Schrader and junior Mike Howe.

Piazza was the ace of the Wolves pitching staff this season, while Howe was a standout at second base. Schrader served in the outfield and was one of Clarkston's leading hitters.

Named second-team All-league were junior catcher Mike Dearborn and junior outfielder Richie Schrader.

Receiving All-league honorable mention were juniors Bill Weeks at first base and Dale Hesse at shortstop.

GOAL honors 5 softball players

Three members of the Clarkston High School Girls' Softball team have been named to the Greater Oakland Activities League (GOAL) All League Team and three received honorable mention.

With the honor goes a medal, said CHS varsity softball Coach Carla Teare.

The All League Team is selected by the six softball coaches in the GOAL.

Receiving first-team honors were Lanette Whitehead, pitcher, Annette Ulasich, infield, and Sandy Mason, outfield.

Honorable mention went to Becky Buhl and Shaun O'Brien.

Regional award

By Al Zawacky

Former Clarkston High School junior varsity basketball coach Larry Mahrle has been named Class B Region II Coach of the Year by the Michigan High School Basketball Coaches Association.

Mahrle, who coached the varsity Avondale Yellowjackets to a league championship and 19-2 record overall last season, received the honor at Saturday's prep all-star game in East Lansing.

Larry Mahrle

Region two encompasses all of Oakland and Macomb counties. Coach of the Year selections are made by coaches in the area.

"It's an honor, because it comes from the coaches, and they're in a position to know," Mahrle said.

In five seasons at Clarkston High School, Mahrle's JV teams won three league titles and posted a combined record of 67-31. Mahrle accepted the Avondale varsity position in November 1981, but continues to teach at CHS.

Beauty queen

Winner of the recent Michigan State Eagles Beauty Contest was Tyra Lea Warden of Waldon Road, Independence Township. Tyra won the District 10 Eagles' beauty queen contest in May and then went on to win the state contest June 18 in Cheboygan. Her talent was acrobatic dancing. A 1982 Clarkston High School graduate, she has been in three modeling shows and recently signed a contract with the Gail & Rice Modeling Agency in Livonia. Tyra eventually plans to pursue a career in the business world. She is the daughter of Gillette and Sally Warden Jr. The Warden family has resided in the Clarkston area for six generations.

Historic cemetery gains protection

Woodchucks won't be roaming through Case Cemetery anymore.

At the June 1 Independence Township Board meeting, members unanimously agreed to spend $2,908 for fencing of the small cemetery on Dartmouth Road, near the corner of Oak Hill.

Case Cemetery, with graves that date from the 1880s, was acquired by the township last March after a persistent campaign by the Clarkston Community Historical Society. The last recorded burial in the abandoned cemetery was in 1950.

Vandals had smashed and stolen headstones, grass grew five-feet tall and the fence around the perimeter had fallen down.

Funding for the fencing came from Blount Materials Inc., operators of the Salem Gravel Pit on Oak Hill Road which abuts the burial site. As part of Blount's four-year extension to mine the 200-acre pit the organization agreed to fence the perimeter of the mining site. Instead of a farm fence proposed by Blount, the township sought to erect a cyclone fence around the cemetery area.

Blount agreed to give the township the money for the fencing the cemetery which will pay for cyclone fencing of the site, according to Clerk Christopher Rose.

Subdivision paving postponed

Despite residents' keen interest, the Independence Township Board has temporarily postponed jumping in to pave Sunshine Acres Subdivision until next fall, pending exact cost figures, further word from the county and final word on next year's revenue sharing and community development funds.

That's the word from township Clerk Christopher Rose following the June 15 meeting where residents of that subdivision again appealed to the board for financial aid.

At a past meeting, subdivision spokesperson Karen Haines informed the board that residents have agreed to a special assessment to finance paving costs, and in addition asked the board to consider footing the full cost of paving Mary Sue Road which ends at the American Legion Hall.

Property owners say the regular blood banks, Boy Scout camp-outs, fish fries, weekly bingo, fishing, swimming, baseball and hall rentals make Mary Sue a routine route for delivery trucks. The facility is akin to a "community center" used by dozens of township residents, they said.

Although the board agreed it would like to pay the full cost of paving Mary Sue Road, it can't.

"County estimates are that it will cost in excess of $300,000 to pave the subdivision, and the township doesn't have that kind of money," Rose said.

Sunshine Acres subdivision off Maybee Road includes Cécelia Ann; the southern part of Pine Knob Lane, Sunnyside and Oak Park.

To institute a special assessment district the county requires that 51 percent of the front footage on the project must be represented by property owners' signatures, with front footage key to user benefit.

As a result, the American Legion Hall can well be asked to be a part of the special assessment district.

Jaycees hit skids:

Membership dwindles —future threatened

By Marilyn Trumper

The Clarkston Area Jaycees' numbers have dwindled down to 19 and the group faces inactive status if its ranks don't soon swell.

If the Jaycees fizzle, Independence Township can say goodbye to annual events its come to enjoy like: the Haunted House at Halloween, Pass Punt and Kick contest, the Junior Miss pageant, Easter Egg Hunt at Clintonwood Park; Senior Citizens' Breakfast, donations to the library, SCAMP and fund raisers like the football field lighting, all sponsored by the Jaycees.

That's the word from Bruce Shull, recent Jaycee reitree who's hanging on by the skin of his teeth in hopes of spurring on a successful membership drive.

The group is comprised of men age 18 to 35 who work to better their country, community and themselves. Thirty-five means mandatory retirement from the group.

Fifteen years ago the Jaycees ran a "building process" in hopes of padding the membership. It worked and the group's numbers swelled to 100. With 19 members they're "...hanging on a cliff" said Shull, for the state automatically comes in and reorganizes locals if their numbers drop below 20.

"At that time it was one of the most promising (locals) for its size anywhere in the state," he said. In contrast, few responded when the Jaycees mailed out 1,000 fliers in a recent membership drive.

"I think it's that no one wants to put any time into something when they're not compensated for it," Shull said. "It's the new generation. Those of us who are retiring (at age 35 and 36) are of the late '60s early '70s generation. An age of activism. A time to get involved in what's happening. People today don't feel that way anymore."

Shull sees the Jaycees as a stepping stone to success, a way to balance home, family, religion and society, and cites present members like Independence Township Treasurer Frederick Ritter, Clerk Christopher Rose, and past members like Trustee William Vandermark, Dr. James O'Neill, village Clerk Bruce Rogers, Lew Wint and Jerry Powell, former township trustee.

"You can't always be a taker, you have to be a giver," Shull said.

For information on the Jaycees, call President Greg Bemister at 625-8265, Bruce Harley at 625-3691, Jim Randall at 625-8644 or Bruce Shull at 625-3250.

Park shelter OK'd

After two years Independence Township's Clintonwood Park is going to see the park shelter going in—sans fireplace and electricity.

At the June 15 meeting, board members unanimously approved spending $24,575 for the shelter, but the bid was higher than expected and but the kibosh on installation of electricity and a fireplace.

"The fireplace sounds like the perfect target for a fund-raiser," said Supervisor James B. Smith.

Half of the project funding is coming from a Land and Water Conservation Fund grant, and the other half from the township's improvement revolving fund.

In addition to targeting a park shelter for development when he applied for the grant two years ago, Parks and Recreation Director Timothy Doyle also earmarked development of a fitness trail. Both projects must be completed to qualify for receipt of the grant, according to Clerk Christopher Rose, although the board has yet to tackle the latter.

The shelter is expected to be completed in 60 days.

Springfield Township adopts arcade ordinance

By Al Zawacky

Nine months of discussion in Springfield Township have produced a new arcade game ordinance—but the new law isn't very different from the old one.

Under the provisions of the new law, which will go into effect in July, any business with three or more "mechanical amusement devices" or pool tables must apply for an annual license granted by the township board.

The old ordinance required licensing for four or more devices. That and a few word changes are the only differences between the old and new ordinances, according to Collin Walls, Springfield Township supervisor.

The new ordinance was approved by a 4-1 vote at the township board's regular monthly meeting June 9. A second vote on a motion to set the licensing fee at $5 per machine was approved unanimously.

"The new ordinance is different from my initial reaction," said Walls, who when the issue arose nine months ago proposed that all machines in the township be licensed, regardless of their number at any one business.

"But, after watching some of the places that have one or two machines, I'm satisfied that there doesn't seem to be any tremendous problem."

Walls said the township has received two inquiries about the possibility of opening an arcade on Dixie Highway in the future.

"This ordinance gives us the ability to deal with it," he said. "Arcades are not necessarily bad, but if you have a bad one, you need something to deal with it."

The new ordinance gives no specific standards by which a license may be refused, Walls pointed out, leaving complete discretionary powers in the hands of the township board.

"That would make me stop and think if I was thinking of opening an arcade here," Walls said.

Clerk J. Calvin Walters cast the lone dissenting vote on approval of the new ordinance.

"It wasn't that I was against the new one, I just had no objection to the original ordinance," Walters said.

Roof repair on tap

There'll be no more drip, drip, drip from the roof at Independence Township Fire Station 3 on the corner of Pine Knob and Maybee roads.

As with all aging the roofs, it was crying for repair last year as crews worked on the addition of a bay, according to Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

The original roof was soaking up the rain and would not accept the bonding of the new addition's roof, Ronk said.

At the June 15 meeting, board members unanimously agreed to spend between $7,000 and $11,000 for the work, depending upon how much insulation can be salvaged, with the stipulation that Building and Planning Director Kenneth Delbridge review the project and see if the initial structure will support the additional roofing weight.

Whiting anniversary celebrates 30 years of reliable electricity

Howard Thoma saw it for the first time 30 years ago. Silent and untried, the J.R. Whiting Plant stretched high above him, the equivalent of a 16-story building.

The year was 1952. At the time, the new Whiting Plant would have the most powerful equipment ever to make electricity for Consumers Power Company. The plant's total capacity to produce electricity would be second largest in the company, smaller only than the Weadock Plant in Essexville.

Whiting was tucked between the small village of Erie and the Lake Erie shoreline, in a pleasantly rural area comfortably close to Toledo and Monroe.

Thoma, now operations superintendent, still walks into the Whiting Plant each workday morning. He is one of only eight original plant employees still working there. Whiting's three generating units, and the plant's total output, have been dwarfed by newer plants.

But there are some things time cannot change. As the plant celebrates its 30th anniversary this month, it still is producing electricity as reliably as ever. It is a performance that over the years has earned Whiting a stalwart reputation at Consumers Power Company.

Very simply, Whiting burns finely ground coal to produce intense heat in its boilers. The heat turns water to steam. The steam is used to turn turbine blades, which are connected to a generator. The generator creates a magnetic field, producing electricity.

The statistics show that Whiting employees execute the process extremely well. Despite the plant's age, for example, Whiting last year was again well above the company's standards for what is called "availability"—the percentage of time a generating plant is mechanically capable of operating. Plant employees are proud of their ability to keep Whiting running almost trouble-free. It is an impressive feat, considering the machines involved. The boilers heat steam to temperatures of 1,000 degrees, and turbine blades can spin at almost 950 miles an hour—around the clock, 365 days a year.

But reliability is only one of many accomplishments in which plant officials and employees share tremendous pride. Among the achievements they point out:

—In 1981, Whiting saved the company and its customers $1.4 million through improved efficiency and lower fuel costs.

—Whiting leads the company in selling ash, which is the residue left when coal is burned. Thirty percent of the plant's fly ash was sold to the cement industry last year, reducing on-site storage costs and producing income for Consumers Power Company. Plant employees also have developed a way to use ash in black-top paving; they hope that will create additional income.

—In 1981, Whiting's precipitators surpassed clean air standards. Precipitators are anti-pollution devices which cleanse the gases produced by burning coal; they remove dust and ash before the gas is discharged through the plant's chimney.

—Endangered plants like the lotus lily and swamp rosemallow are thriving on plant property, proving industry and nature can live in harmony.

Thoma points out that accomplishments like these don't happen by accident. "We've had good equipment and good people," he explains. The people he has worked with during the plant's lifetime "have contributed very much to the plant's performance record."

"They are proud of these accomplishments, and they should be," Thoma says.

Johnnie Stringfield: American self-made saga come to life

By Al Zawacky

"How are you today, ma'am?" asks Johnnie Stringfield as another motorist drives into the automatic car wash at 4379 Dixie Highway.

The greeting is standard, as are such automatic car-wash rarities as scrubbed whitewalls and towel drying.

Johnnie Stringfield has always believed in giving every customer the best service and courtesy he can offer, but that's especially true now that he's in business for himself.

Years of hard work have paid off.

"I'm working 12, 14 hours a day now," he says, seated in his small office off to the side of the whirling brushes and spraying water.

"This is the first year that I'm not playing softball anywhere—I just don't have the time. But I really feel proud of what I've achieved."

Things have not always been so rosy for Johnnie Stringfield. Born in Tennessee in 1953, he can remember being 8 or 9 years old before his house had electricity.

"I never remember having a father, but I had a real tough mother," he recalls.

"I can remember bathing in a tub in the middle of the kitchen floor, and on cold winter nights how my mom would come into our room and throw pants and coats over us to keep us warm."

The family moved to Florida in 1968, where young Johnnie attended Hillsborough High School. After never missing a day of school for nine years, he wound up quitting in the 10th grade to go to work.

In 1970, the Stringfields came north to visit Johnnie's brother Glenn, who had found a job working with Pontiac Motor in Pontiac. It was here that Johnnie got his start in the car wash business.

"I answered an ad in the paper for a job at the local car wash," he recalls. "I can remember standing in line to wait for the interview, and I never could have guessed then where I'd be today."

"The first thing Mr. Carter (Owner Bob Carter) asked me was if I was going to school. I told I had quit, but that if he'd hire me, I'd work real hard. He said that if he decided he needed me, he'd call me back."

"Well, the next day I went back there and told

Johnnie Stringfield spends some of his time on the job working on the machinery needed to keep his car wash running smoothly. The sign him he didn't call me—and he put me to work on the spot at $1.45 an hour."

He enjoyed the work and decided to stay in Michigan when his mother returned to Tennessee. She passed away in July 1972, and Johnnie remembers it as a difficult time.

"I'll never forget Mr. Carter—he loaned me $750 to help pay for my mom's funeral," he says. "Me and two of my brothers had to dig our mom's grave. I think I grew up a lot that year."

"I remember how we'd live on $66 a month welfare, but we'd raise a big garden and always eat good in the summertime."

We'd get free food from the government once a month, but my mom was always the type of person who would give our food away to people who had less."

After his mom died, Johnnie continued to work at the car wash until in 1978, he had saved up enough to become a 10 percent partner in the business.

Continuing to save and work hard, he bought

Lew's Car Wash on Dixie Highway last April, renamed it Johnnie's Car Wash and went into business for himself.

"With money being tight the way it is now, I feel I really have to do a superb job for every customer," he says, reciting his business philosophy.

"And it doesn't cost anything to be nice to people. I like to get to know my customers and a lot of them I'll know by name."

That hospitality on the job is how Johnnie met his wife, the former JoAnne Henning. The couple currently make their home on Holcomb Street in Clarkston and are expecting their first child soon.

"I just always used to say hello to her when she came in," he recalls. "And eventually, we got to know each other that way."

Johnnie's Car Wash is open Sunday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Drive in, and you're sure to get a shiny car and a smile, too, from a man who these days has a lot to smile about.

Wash free July 1

Johnnie Stringfield and some fellow car wash owners nationwide will offer free car washes to anyone driving in July 1.

It's all part of a "Happy Birthday, America" promotion in honor of the Fourth of July, sponsored by the International Carwash Association and the National Carwash Association.

The promotion's slogan: "A clean car contributes to a clean America."

"It's just something to let people know what the car wash business is all about," says Stringfield. "There's no obligation—we just want people to know about the type of services we offer."

From 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. July 1, car washes will be free at Johnnie's Car Wash, 4379 Dixie Highway. On that day only, drivers can have their car's interior cleaned also for just $1.50.

Coupon books of 10 washes for $20 or five washes for $12 will also be available.

Sign up for 4th of July parade

There's still time to sign up for the 1982 Fourth of July Parade.

Sponsored by the Independence Township Fire Department, the parade is planned Monday, July 5, beginning at 10 a.m. and following the usual parade route from Church Street to Main Street and north to Miller Road in downtown Clarkston.

This year's theme is "A Red, White and Blue Salute to our Independence." Individual entries and floats are welcome with a $25 prize to be awarded in three categories—most original float, best children's float and best theme float.

To register parade entries or for more information, call 625-1924.

During her final moments as a sixth-grader Amy McDonald poses for a photo outside Clarkston El. Behind, younger children head back inside the school...where memories await.

Author marks school passages

A school assignment prompted former sixth-grader Amy McDonald to put her pencil to paper and write about her school days.

Her teacher at Clarkston Elementary School, Bernice Rynders, was so impressed she contacted The Clarkston News.

"I felt like this was the kind of poem that expresses the sentiments of a lot of sixth-graders this time of year, and I thought it was worth sharing with other people," said Rynders.

When given the choice of drawing a picture of something that happened in school or writing a poem, Amy decided poetry was her forte.

"I didn't want to draw a picture, so I decided to write a poem," she said. She titled her work "Memories."

Memories

By Amy McDonald

I have some special memories
Sealed in my mind
One from every special grade
But all one of a kind.

But now I'm moving upward
Higher every day
And still those memories come to me
Every step of the stairway.

Now I'm reaching the 7th step
I have six more to go
And those memories are still there
They will be there forever more.

11-year-old expresses love

After a three-day hospital stay, Tina Sgroi was settled in bed at home. Her 11-year-old daughter, Mia, prepared a tray with milk and cookies, and the most special welcome-home gift of all, a poem about love.

"I was just really touched," said Tina, who resides on Michigamme Road in Independence Township.

The poem described the emotion of love so well, that Tina decided to share her daughter's creativity with readers of The Clarkston News.

LOVE

By Mia Bella Sgroi

Something inside me
Is twisting and turning
My heart is thumping,
Burning and yearning.
It's a new kind of feeling,
It's hard to explain.
Yet it's pleasant and comforting,
Leaving no sorrow pain.
Something is calling above
..... that something is
LOVE!

P.S. Get well soon!

Teacher on leave

Star Hauser put her feelings on paper during the last day of school last week, and then shared the poem with her fellow teachers at North Sashabaw Elementary School.

It was at their urging that she submitted her work to The Clarkston News.

DEAR FRIENDS AND FELLOW TEACHERS

By Star Hauser
The school year's past
The dye is cast,
I shall retreat to home at last.

To barbecues
And slow-cook stews
While calmly reading daily News.

To sailboat rides
And misty tides
And swimming in the pool besides.

I'll sip iced tea
So leisurely
While watching Kelly's Company.

And when it rains
I'll rest my brains
Till noon, while no one dares complain.

'Cause I'm on leave.
You best believe
I've no objectives to achieve.

No tests to grade,
No "charges" paid,
No messy projects to be made.

No recess fights.
No sleepless nights.
No "Who's that fooling with those lights?"

Just having fun
With my own son
Enjoying life till summer's done.

Happy Summertime!

Fathers' Day bash

Wearing a black, tight-fitting dress and swathed in feathers, Mae East provided the frosting in the cake for the Fathers' Day bash put on for 11 dads Sunday. Eastern Onion, the wacky Southfield-based telegram service, provided Mae to read a telegram, sing a song and chat with the surprised group of surprised fathers during her 15-minute visit at the picnic put on by families in the Big Lake neighborhood in Springfield Township.

Honored guests at the party held at Duane and Carolyn Stuk's house on Wertz Road were Derrel Batchelder, Bill Bishop, Ken Crochran, Bill Hubbard, Joe Kuderika, Tom Martin, Bob Moshier, Dick Sloan, Ray Steel, Duane Stuk and Skip Wendt.

When she said her goodbyes, Mae left each lucky man a small horn to carry on with the festivities.

Drake Alan Stalker and Pearl Ann Kelly

Couple share vows

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Stalker of Warbler Lane, Independence Township, announce the June 26 marriage of their son Drake Alan Stalker to Pearl Ann Kelly.

Drake was a 1968 Clarkston High School graduate and senior class president. After high school, he enlisted for four years in the United States Coast Guard.

Pearl is from Napa, Calif., and formerly from England. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Hogarth of Hauxley, England.

The couple is to be married at Deer Lake Racquet Club with a reception to follow. The wedding invitations were designed by Drake's sister, Pamela Stalker, as a wedding gift to her brother and his fiancée.

Among those planning to attend the wedding are guests from England, Sweden, California, Minnesota and Indiana.

Honeymoon plans include a trip to Bora Bora in the South Pacific. Drake and Pearl will reside in Napa, Calif.

Grad

Mark McCrary was graduated from Ferris State College, Big Rapids, with a bachelor's degree in finance and an associate's degree in building and construction technology.

He resides on Rattalee Lake Road, Independence Township.

Raising their arms to the gym ceiling at Clarkston High School are a handful of Independence Township Parks and Recreation gymnasts. The students recently put on the department's annual pageant for their families to show what they've learned the past year.

Gymnasts spring for the show

Dressed in a blue leotard with rainbow stripes, a petite 4-year-old gears herself for a stupendous somersault.

She approaches the mat inside Clarkston High's gym, leaps into the air, goes into a roll and lands on her flying long, blond pigtails. The somersault is cut short and so's her scalp.

Unshaken, she tries again. This time, paying more attention to her blond locks.

Linda Sturgis, instructor for Independence Township's Parks and Recreation Department and owner of Pine Hills Academy of Gymnastics, remains undaunted by the the pre-schoolers who are all arms and legs and energy. So they're a little spindly. Maybe some of them do need that little push to complete the somersault. They'll learn.

So went the practice for the rec department's annual presentation to moms and dads, set for showtime last Wednesday at the high school.

During rehearsal, 150 kids ranging in age from 4 to 16, walked the beam, swung through the parallel bars, trounced the trampoliffe and bounced on the mat. There were handsprings, somersaults and back flips, and the costumes were first-rate.

Youngsters donned cowboy hats, suspenders, matching leotards, and shorts and tops decorated with the "Pink Panther."

"Somehow it always comes together for the show," said a weary Sturgis, calling the choreography like an exhausted Broadway director.

There were giggles, a few pouts, some embarrassment, but the show went on and capped a year of lessons.

Look out Nadia Comaneci—look out!

The kids from Independence and Springfield townships are moving in.

Strobehns honeymoon in sunny Hawaii

St. Mary's Queen of Angels Catholic Church was the setting for the marriage of Melinda Marie McClain and Stephen L. Strobehn. The Rev. James Bettendorf performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Elizabeth and Ethro McClain of Swartz Creek. Her husband is the son of Marlene and Fredric Strobehn Jr. of Springfield Township.

Given in marriage by her father June 19, the bride selected a gown of ivory candlelight organza trimmed with Venice lace, which also surrounded the chapel train.

Mrs. Stephen L. Strobehn

The bride also wore an heirloom diamond drop necklace. She carried a cascade of ivory-colored roses, gardenias, stephanotis and lilies-of-the-valley.

Mary Wittbrodt of Flushing was maid of honor. Also attending the bride were Michelle Strobehn of Traverse City and Monica Strobehn of Davisburg, sisters of the bridegroom; Patti Davis, cousin of the bride, of Mason, Ohio; Leigh Ann Dye of Swartz Creek; Maria Reinelt, cousin of the bridegroom, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa; and Andrea Hill of Holt.

They wore gowns of apricot chiffon with off-the-shoulder bodices and carried apricot-colored century lilies and baby's breath.

Brenna White of Lansing served as flower girl, and her brother Donnie was ring bearer.

Brenna wore a floor-length, ivory-colored gown accented with an apricot velvet sash and carried a basket of apricot lilies and daisies. Donnie wore an ivory-colored Eton suit. The ivory satin heart-shaped ring pillow, accented with lace and pearls, was designed and made by the bride's aunt.

Jeffrey Strobehn of Linden was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Ted Strobehn, brother of the bridegroom, of Davisburg; Dan Priebe of Denver, Colo.; Dan Maas of Clarkston; Brett Sellers of Logan, W. Va.; Peter Toukhanian of Huntington Woods; and Mike Vanas of Ann Arbor.

Following the ceremony, a reception and dinner for 200 guests was hosted at Kosman's Carriage House.

The new Mrs. Strobehn is a graduate of Swartz Creek High School and Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, and her husband is a graduate of Clarkston High School and the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

After honeymooning in Hawaii, the couple will reside in Mason, Ohio.

Honors

The Adrian College dean's list for the spring semester included Clifford Matushin.

A sophomore, Matushin resides on Eston Road, Independence Township.

Karen Weaver has received a Meritorious Achievement Award from Oakland University, Rochester.

She was cited for her efforts in bringing rare leadership, imagination, loyalty and responsibility on behalf of the arts at Oakland University, while maintaining similarly high-level endeavors on behalf of the wider community in church and public schools.

Weaver resides on Greene Haven Drive, Independence Township.

Band Boosters select officers for 1982

The Clarkston Band Boosters have new officers for the 1982-83 school year.

President is Don Place; vice president, Carol Chamberlain; secretary, Kay Chenoweth; and treasurer, Chris Lamberton.

The group is encouraging new members from the ranks of parents whose children belong to the bands at Clarkston High School, Sashabaw Junior High School or Clarkston Junior High School.

"We need full cooperation from band parents," said Place. "We raise a good deal of money—from $7,000 to $15,000 annually, and all of that money goes back into the instrumental program one way or another."

The band boosters meet on the third Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the CHS library, with the next meeting scheduled July 20.

For more information, call 625-2390.

Ortonville Countryfest June 24 thru 27

Four days of family fun—from sunrise to sunset—is the promise made by organizers of the Ortonville Countryfest.

The event, planned June 24 through 27, includes parades, barbecues, carnival rides, a beer tent, fire engine rides, contests, street dances, arts and crafts booths, a wet T-shirt contest and the third annual International Championship S.W.I.N.E. (Sow Wrestling Invitational for Nearly Everyone).

S.W.I.N.E. is the not-to-be-missed event, says co-chairman Tom Wimble, a member of the Ortonville Jaycees.

The contest Saturday, June 26, is between people and pigs, with four-person teams attempting to catch and lift a pig, and hold it on a barrel for three seconds. The team with the fastest time wins.

All proceeds go to the Reyes Syndrome Foundation. Last year, S.W.I.N.E. raised $1,700 for the charity. This year, the target is $3,500.

The event is to begin at 1:30 p.m. and last about three hours. Admission is $3 for adults; and $2 for children for bleacher seats, and $2 for adults and $1 for children for lawn seats.

To get to the fair, drive north on M-15 and follow the signs into downtown Ortonville.

Sunday, June 27—Davisburg Antiques Market; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; free admission and free parking; Springfield Oaks County Park, Youth Activities Center, 12451 Andersonville, Springfield Township.

Friday, July 2—View a lunar eclipse at Independence Oaks County Park; "The Lunar Lowdown" is a nature interpretive program which includes a slide presentation, a discussion concerning the eclipse and summer constellations and an observation of the celestial even with explanations from the parks naturalist; 9-11 p.m.; program is free with parks entrance fee of $2.50 per car or use of annual sticker; call 858-0903 or 625-0877 to pre-register; park is located two-and-one-half miles north of I-75 on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township.

Tuesday, July 20—Clarkston Band Boosters meeting; 7:30 p.m.; parents whose children are enrolled in band in Clarkston's high school and junior high schools are welcome to attend; Clarkston High School library. (625-2390)

"Quality Proves Performance"

The glass panels seen here on the side of the Indian Springs nature center make up the building's solar collector, as the sun's rays shine through the panels into a confined area, creating a greenhouse effect. The heat is then circulated throughout the building. An oil-fired furnace is also on hand to back up the system on cloudy or very cold winter days.

Indian Springs park naturalist Steve Horn gives an assembled group of youngsters a closer look at a turtle, one of the living things making up the displays in the park's nature center.

Indian Springs Metropark open for all

Attention picnickers, hikers, nature bugs and vacationers—Indian Springs Metropark's 1,681 acres are waiting for your enjoyment.

The park, located in Springfield and White Lake townships, opened last week as members of the Huron-Clinton Board of Commissioners gathered for opening and dedication ceremonies at the Indian Springs nature center.

Indian Springs features seven miles of nature trails, picnic tables and a picnic shelter. The park's nature center is solar heated and offers a variety of nature exhibits.

"The facilities we have here now are just the beginning," says Steve Horn, park naturalist.

"We don't have the water facilities they have in Kensington and Stony Creek, but we are going to be adding things in the future. What we do have is beautiful from an aesthetic point of view.

Indian Springs is open Wednesday through Sunday, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekdays and from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on weekends. The Park is closed Monday and Tuesdays.

The park entrance is located off Crosby Lake Road, west of Andersonville Road, in Springfield Township.

Uptown New York: A taste of the city awaits

There's a touch of New York City right down on Dixie Highway in Waterford Township.

Uptown New York, the newly renovated and renamed restaurant, has been owned two years by manager Harry Gavris and his brothers-in-law, Atlas Super Market owners Sam and Abe Cosma.

Gavris has been in the food business 25 years, 23 of which he spent in grocery store management. Now he's found his niche managing a restaurant that boasts the combination of sophistication and moderate prices.

As patrons step inside the lobby, the first thing they see is a small neon New York skyline. Gavris matches the glow with his enthusiasm.

"Before I never felt comfortable in my restaurant," he said. "Now I feel comfortable because my customers feel comfortable."

Since the changes took place, lunch business has increased 200 percent, he said, and dinners have increased above the 200-percent mark.

"We are very fortunate with the economy the way it is and the money we did spend remodeling," Gavris said. "We feel we spent money in this area to promote a business we love—to cater to people who like to go out to dinner and have a good atmosphere, good food and good prices."

Before the changes, diners sat in one large room. Now, the restaurant has four rooms, each with a different theme—Central Park, New York Alley and Skyline Room which wraps around into the lounge area.

restaurant that captures the sophistication and feeling of Uptown New York.

The sign outside the restaurant at 5171 Dixie Highway is the first indication there's something artistic going on. Uptown New York in white script stands out from the totally black background.

Once restaurant patrons are inside, the extensive changes in decor effectively carry out the New York theme.

Symbols of the city, captured in photographs and pen and ink, cover the walls. For those who have never been there, it's an experience in the sights and the sophistication one might expect in the city. For those who have visited or lived in New York, there are enough familiar sights to fill several evenings with conversation.

The theme was chosen by designer David Savage, and most of the photographs blown up to mural size are Savage's work. An exception is a photograph of a hiker with a backpack walking over a Central Park bridge—the hiker is Savage.

In the New York Alley room a large photograph of graffiti dominates one wall, and smaller matted and framed photographs capture the feeling of alleys scattered throughout the city.

The Skyline Room is surrounded by backlit photographs taken after dark from a New York restaurant, the House of Windows.

"A guy came in the other day and said, 'Oh yeah, I used to work right there in that building,'" said Gavris, illustrating their realistic quality.

On the menu are items ranging from deli sandwiches—there are several for $2.95—to ribs, salads, seafood, pasta, pizza, omelettes, nachos and steaks—the most expensive item is an 18-ounce New York strip steak for $9.95. Full bar service is available.

The restaurant seats 140 and reservations are taken for parties of four or more. Hours are 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 10 p.m. until midnight Friday and Saturday, and Sunday from noon to 10 p.m.

The telephone number is 673-7751.

New doctor arrives in town

From his first year in medical school, unlike most other doctors-to-be, Ala Imam, M.D., says he knew he wanted to specialize in gastroenterology. Medical problems of his mother, and wanting to help her, prompted his interest.

In addition to treating diseases of the stomach, intestine, colon, liver and pancreas, Imam also treats just about everything else as an internal medicine specialist, the first step before studying gastroenterology.

He was graduated with a medical degree from Damascus University, Syria, in 1972, and from 1973-78 he continued studies in his specialties at St. Louis University. He came to Michigan in 1978 to join the HMO group in Detroit. Then he worked in the Pontiac area and presently has an office in the White Lake Clinic in addition to the office opened six months ago at 5790 M-15 in Independence Township, the former location of now retired Dr. Rockwood Bullard Sr.

"I like the area. The people, first of all, are very nice," he says, "and there's a need for my specialty here."

Imam is on staff at St. Joseph Mercy, Pontiac General and Wheelock Memorial hospitals.

Residents of Troy, he and his wife, Ola, and 2½-year-old son, Anwar, are looking for a home in the Clarkston area.

Dr. Ala Imam recently opened a local office.

SYNOPSIS

of Clarkston Village Council Meeting

Minutes of June 14, 1982

Present - Byers, Basinger, Raup, Schultz,

Sinclair, Symons

Absent - Powell

Approved the bills in the amount of $8,469.06. Gave tentative approval to the low bidder to construct a foundation and base for a gazebo in the park to be completed by June 30th, pending approval of the Historic District Commission.

Authorized our attorney to order the tenants at 42 W. Washington out within ten days, or the matter will be taken to circuit court. This is a repeat of the single-family zoning violation that had occurred last year.

Authorized Gar Wilson to hire Bob Tursley for street work at a rate of $4 per hour up to 12 hours per week.

Granted permission to the Farm & Garden Club to have an ice-cream social in the park after the parade on July 5th.

Approved placing the $125 refund from SEMTA for license plate fees in our street fund.

Wrote-off as uncollectible $170.40 in personal property taxes for 1979-81 from businesses no longer operating in the village, as recommended by our treasurer.

Adjourned at 10:05 p.m.

All votes unanimous unless otherwise indicated.

Bruce Rogers
Village Clerk

Camp Bay Court caretaker Joseph Brewer takes a break and sits down on a sculptured bench.

Boy Scouts built Bay Court in 1923

Camp caretaker's memories span 24 years

By Marilyn Trumper

When the Kaiser Frazer Motor Car Co. folded in 1954, quality controller Joseph Brewer retired.

Four years later after losing $15,000 in a business venture, Joseph moved into Camp Bay Court as caretaker. He's been at the Andersonville Road address ever since and still collects a pension from the defunct Kaiser-Frazer company.

That was 24 years ago.

In exchange for living at Camp Bay Court year-round, thwarting thieves and vandals, the owners, United Community Services, pay the utilities and allow Brewer, 78, wife Donaldda and son Joseph to live there free.

The Kaiser-Frazer pension and Social Security foot the food and clothing bills.

"We're getting by OK," Joseph says, looking at the world through steel-blue eyes. "I like living out here. It's quiet and nice. If I didn't like it, I wouldn't have stayed 24 years."

The facility is rented by the Detroit Public School System for a handicapped kids' summer program, and Joseph expects to receive the year's first campers June 26.

"I like it when the kids come and I like for them to have a good time," he says, admitting the camp's 59 acres, 57 cottages, rec hall, kitchen and main dining room come alive with the sound of voices and laughter.

But, although the commotion of the summer is welcome, Joseph says, it doesn't get lonely during the winter.

"I have a good neighbor who plows the drive and

I like it here just fine. I'm my own boss. When I was younger I kept the lawn mowed, painted and was a general handyman.

"I haven't done anything today," he says.

In years past, Joseph says he did "some fishing" on Greens Lake. "Yes, that was my hobby. But I don't do that anymore. I'm too old."

In its heyday after being built by the Boy Scouts in 1923 at a cost of $25,000, the camp was loaded with baseball diamonds, canoes, boats, recreation equipment and swings, Joseph says. Today, all that is gone, and he estimates it would cost $250,000 to renovate the camp.

Joseph remembers.

After all, he's put in almost a quarter of a century at the camp.
