M-15 task force proposes 3 lanes

By Marilyn Trumper

After almost two years of study and review, 22 meetings in all, the M-15 task force has recommended three lanes and fewer business driveways for the controversial state highway widening.

If implemented, M-15 would fluctuate between three, four and five lanes, and curbs and gutters would be added as driveway entrances and exits are condensed for right-turn lanes, said task force Chairperson Lewis Wint.

The widening would span from Dixie Highway to just north of Paramus Drive, where the three lanes would taper down gradually to two lanes.

A majority of the village council approved the recommendation, but officials from the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT), on hand for the Oct. 12 meeting before the Independence Township Board, would not commit to the proposal. They did say the work could take two to eight years to complete with financing, engineering and actual construction.

Few business owners were in attendance, a key point with Treasurer Frederick Ritter, who questioned how they would react to giving up parking and sharing driveways.

The task force's three-lane proposal would allow M-15 to meet projected traffic for the year 2000, expected to increase by up to 40 percent.

Wint pointed out traffic studies show the M-15 corridor is not used extensively as a shortcut from Dixie Highway to I-75, noting that widening should have a minimal effect on the Village of Clarkston.

The plan is to reduce the number of driveways on the west side of the street from 16 to 10, and on the east from 18 to 13.

"In most areas you will have five and four lanes because of the right turn lanes, but I still think this plan is better than five lanes all the way up," Wint said, adding the recommendation came unanimously from the task force.

Condensing driveways was approved by Paul Riley of the MDOT. The department must sanction the plan before it will pay 35 percent of the drainage improvement costs. According to Riley, the MDOT still wants the township to commit to the drainage before the state will widen the road.

"We didn't feel that a straight three-lane all the way up was in the best interest of all," Riley said. "We do like the possibility of a three-lane if in fact you can consolidate the driveways. I think it will be a major undertaking to get all of the businesses to agree."

"I think I would rather see a (straight) curb rather than a curb that moves in and out," he finished, saying, "I personally would prefer the five lanes to the three lanes."

The catch-all situation finds local government wanting something done for the M-15 stretch, but struggling to finance 40 percent of the drainage costs. The county will commit to the remaining 25 percent of the cost.

"If we are in agreement, we can find a way to cover our share of the drainage costs," said Supervisor James B. Smith.

After discussion, the board unanimously accepted the task force's report, sanctioned by the traffic consultant firm hired by the township, BRW of Minneapolis.

Then in a 3-2 vote, the board asked MDOT to present concrete estimates on drainage and construction costs for a three-lane widening within 30 days. Treasurer Frederick Ritter and Trustee Larence Kozma dissented, with Ritter citing several reasons for the "no" vote.

Trustees Dale Stuart and William Vandermark were absent.

"Personally I'd like to speak with the business people. I was personally involved with (Ritter's Farm Market) when they widened Dixie Highway. Business was down by 40 percent that year."

"I'm interested in a cost estimate with 1982 figures compared to those given in 1979, and I want to explore the different financing methods for dealing with the drainage," he said. "I'd like a better idea of where we'll come up with the financing. I'm not sure that what is being proposed is the right thing."

Kozma agreed, wondering how the board could agree without knowing the cost of the plan.

MDOT is expected to make its report at the board's Nov. 16 meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Dunaskiss to debate with Trim Oct. 26

The two incumbents battling it out for the Michigan House of Representatives seat in the newly formed 61st District are to meet face-to-face Tuesday, Oct. 26.

Rep. Mat Dunaskiss, the Republican candidate, and Rep. Claude Trim, the Democratic candidate, are to answer questions from the audience beginning at 8 p.m. in the Clarkston High School Little Theatre.

Dr. James O'Neill is to be the moderator.

The representatives, both presently serving in the House, became residents of the same district due to newly drawn boundaries following the 1980 Census.

Voters will select their representative in the Nov. 2 election.

Leaf fire

Independence Township fire fighter Gar Wilson puts out the last remaining flames of a fire that destroyed a pick-up truck Oct. 14. Estimated damage to the vehicle owned by Scott Gamble of Snow Apple Drive was placed at $2,500 by the fire department. No cause has been established for the fire which began in the bed of the truck. Gamble was working in the backyard of a house at 6564 Amy Drive when the fire was discovered.

Building boom?

From those in a rush to get construction work done before the first snowfall, there's been a run on building permits in Independence Township.

According to a spokesperson from the building and planning department, four applications were made in one week.

A report from the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments listed Independence in a three-way tie for 10th place in the county with four building permits issued the first six months of 1982, down from 27 at that same time last year.

-Corrections-

A story in last week's Clarkston News was in error regarding holiday pay for Independence Township fire fighters.

Contrary to what board members discussed at the Oct. 5 meeting, fire fighters have never received holiday pay for working on election day.

If the board, however, declares an election-day holiday under the new 30-month contract, fire fighters will receive time-and-a-half pay.

A story in last week's Clarkston News gave the incorrect address to order McGruff, the crime dog being sold as an Oakland County Sheriff Department fund raiser for the E.S.C.A.P.E. program.

The correct address is: E.S.C.A.P.E., P.O. Box 1301, Pontiac, MI 48056.

Dr. Frank Jones, 35, of Oak Hill Road is proud of his time in the recent Detroit Free Press Marathon.

Jones, a member of the Clarkston 15, ran the 26.2 miles in 3:41.

His time was incorrectly reported in The Clarkston News.

Cops nab suspect in auto radio theft

A 19-year-old Independence Township man has been arrested for stealing a radio out a car at Clarkston High School.

John Walker of 6377 Paramus was arraigned in the 52nd District Court on charges of larceny from a motor vehicle, and is free after posting 10 percent of a $1,000 bond.

A conviction carries a penalty of up to five years in prison.

Deputies from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department made the arrest after acting on information supplied by a witness, according to a department spokesperson.

Man arrested for indecent exposure

Deputies from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) have arrested a 25-year-old man in connection with a string of indecent exposures that have occurred over the past few months on rural roads in Springfield Township.

The Springfield Township resident was arraigned last week before Oakland County District Court Judge Gerald E. McNally on charges of indecent exposure, and released on personal bond.

According to Detective Robert Wark of the OCSD, the man is accused of approaching a string of female joggers on rural roads throughout Springfield Township.

But, he adds, the police continue to look for a second man with a similar approach, believed to still be operating in Springfield Township and neighboring Brandon Township.

Teens face CHS vandalism charges

Acting on a tip, deputies from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) have arrested two teens on charges of car theft and causing $1,000 worth damage to Clarkston High School during the early morning hours one day last week.

Brian Sommer, 17, of 3751 Maiden, Waterford Township, and 18-year-old Ralph Hensey of 6952 Hubbard Circle, Independence Township, have been arraigned in 52nd District Court on joint charges of car theft. Sommer was arraigned separately before 51st District Court Judge Gerald E. McNally on the vandalism charge.

The Waterford teen is accused of of stealing a 1978 Camaro near his home, then driving it over the grounds at the high school and smashing it into the cyclone fence at the north baseball diamond.

Spotted by school officials at 6 a.m. Oct. 6, Sommer abandoned the Camaro and fled in a waiting car allegedly driven by Hensey.

Both teens have been charged in the theft, according to Detective Robert Wark of the OCSD.

Teacher talks frustrate both sides

Mediator called in to assist in reaching a settlement

By Kathy Greenfield

The tone has changed in bargaining for a new contract between the Clarkston school district and the Clarkston Education Association (CEA).

While "cautious optimism" still appears in statements regarding settlement without a teachers' strike, there's a new word both sides are in absolute agreement on—"frustrated."

Leon Cornfield, a mediator from the Michigan Employment Relations Commission, has been called in to consider the positions of both sides and assist in reaching a settlement. The first meeting is scheduled Monday, Oct. 25, at 1 p.m.

The district is holding firm with what it says has to be—a one-year contract with no pay raise for the about 290 teachers, but step increases for those teachers not at the top pay scale and a continuation of current benefit levels. The CEA has indicated a willingness to work one year with a pay freeze, but only if the contract is written for two years with a pay increase the second year.

"I would very much like to get the matter settled. I know it's not a pleasant circumstance to have it up in the air," said Superintendent of Schools Milford Mason. "But that frustration does not motivate me to sell the farm."

"We're at a deadlock. The association will absolutely not accept a zero increase this year on a one-year contract," said Allen Bartlett, CEA president. "It's no secret the audit was in and we still have a surplus of $1 million. I hope it's not getting into, 'We've got it. You're not going to get it.' That's a very nasty game to play."

The surplus, or fund equity, is necessary to maintain programs and jobs, Mason said.

"For the past two years, and for '82-83 we have consciously used our equity position to maintain as complete an educational program in the school district as possible," he said. "When we look forward to 1983-84, a year down the road, we find we must moderate considerably the use of the equity if we are to stay operational."

"In that plan, there are not funds sufficient to enter into a two-year agreement with the CEA," he added.

But there is sufficient money to agree to a salary increase in the second year of a contract, Bartlett said, and the move is necessary to maintain good teachers and quality education for the district.

"We need additional revenue. We're willing to face it," he said. "I am optimistic the community will see it. I don't have any doubt the community will support it."

The CEA would be willing to work toward an effort to seek more taxes from the community to pay for schooling, he added, noting that regardless of the outcome of negotiations unless the district receives more money, the level of education will drop.

But, at this time, the school board has not considered asking for more taxes, Mason said.

"Obviously the board would be the final determination in this, but unofficially I would react to that statement. From everything I can get from the board, there would be no interest in going to the people for more money at this time. Of course, you have to underscore the 'unofficially,'" he said.

The frustration of dealing with declining enrollment, decreasing state funds and increasing fixed expenses have taken their toll, Mason added.

"I'm sorry it comes to this," he said. "When you don't have anything to compromise with, you have to maintain a position."

Appeal's on to aluminum side

By Marilyn Trumper

Sidestepping an appeal in circuit court, Gary Sutton made another appearance before the Historic District Commission to aluminum side his 80-year-old home on Holcomb Road.

On Oct. 6 at a special meeting, Sutton made new application which by law entitles him to a second hearing, and presented the commission with new information, not an altered plan.

"He wanted us to review his new information, five pieces of material, and we'll talk about it again at the Oct. 18 meeting," said Chairperson Jeniffer Radcliff. "According to the law, a new application entitles him to a new hearing, but it's not an avenue that can be used for continuous appeal."

New information, if deemed by the commission to be persuasive enough, can be grounds to reverse an earlier denial, Radcliff said.

In late September, Sutton's application was denied by the commission which two weeks earlier had approved a duplicate plan for a home on Miller Road. Both homes are located in the historic district where all construction and repairs are regulated by an ordinance and approved by the commission.

"I've presented some information on documentation and some case history on aluminum siding and how it doesn't affect the clapboards," Sutton said.

"Other historical districts allow the siding, some of the most prestigious."

Sutton did not want to predict the outcome of his appeal.

Halloween's now on same day

Double trick-or-treating won't happen.

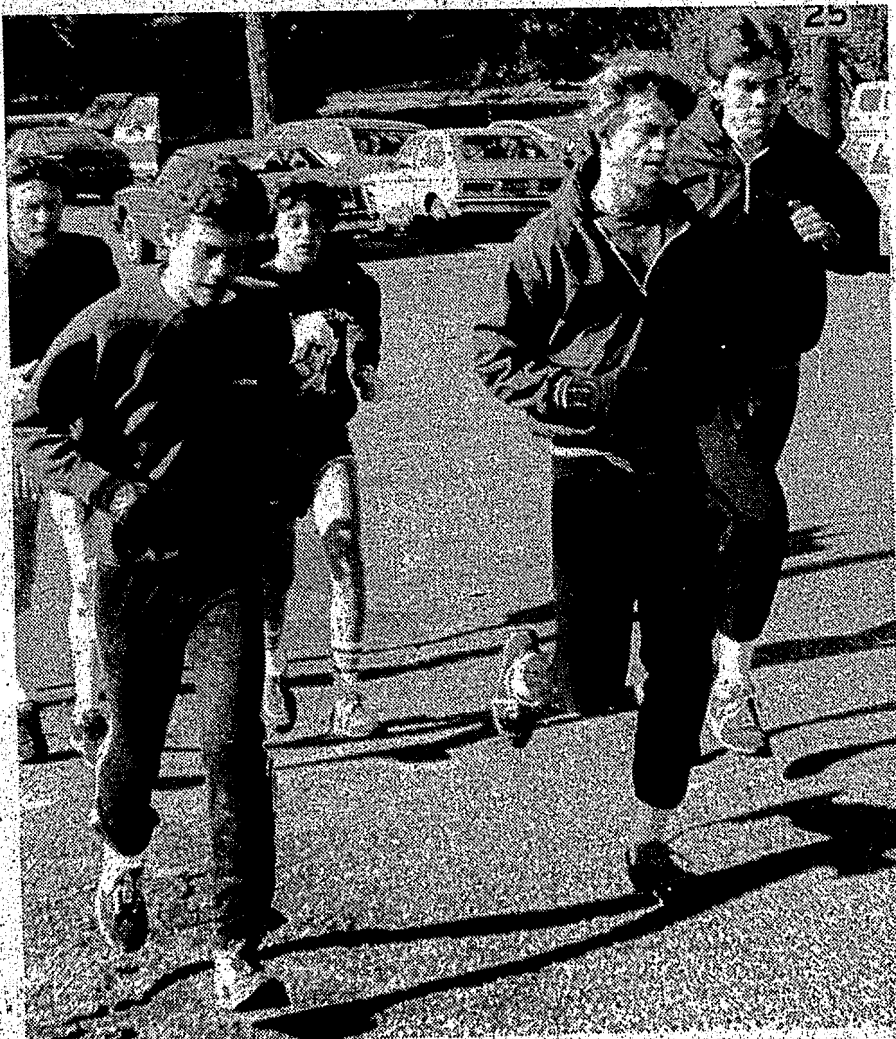

Halloween is now on the same day for Independence Township and the Village of Clarkston.

Polling council members via the phone, President Jackson Byers determined there's been an about-face from an earlier decision to have Halloween on the 30th, and decreed that Halloween for Clarkston will be Sunday, Oct. 31, from 6 to 7 p.m., coinciding with the township's.

A Saturday trick-or-treat night was designed to keep children off the road when hunting traffic would be returning from up north.

"We still feel that way, but apparently the residents don't," Byers said, adding he'd received several calls of complaint on the mish-mash Halloween days.

Springfield Township, too, has designated Sunday, Oct. 31, from 6 to 7 p.m. for door-to-door beggars.

Running for SCAMP

A few weeks ago, SCAMP tents were loaned to the Clarkston High School track and cross country teams. The students returned the favor during Sunday's Walk for SCAMP, the main fund raiser for the five-week summer camp program in Independence Township for children and youths who may be handicapped or may have special needs. As members of the girls' and boys' teams took off along on the 10-mile course, it would have been more appropriate to call their portion a "Run for SCAMP."

It's time to clean chimneys for safety's sake

By Marilyn Trumper

This is the burning season. In Michigan alone, according to statistics from the Michigan Association of Insurance Companies, wood-heat related blazes have risen sharply in recent years with property losses increasing accordingly. Records show $2.5 million worth of damage in 1977 to $11.5 million last year.

Fifty-five people have died from wood-heated fires in the past five years, according to state fire marshal records.

And the study says, "Improper operation accounts for most wood-heating accidents."

Last year alone, 63 percent of the state's wood stove fires occurred because the appliance was used in an unsafe manner. Almost 80 percent of fireplace blazes resulted for the same reason.

Homeowners who failed to have their chimneys cleaned after last year's winter of burning should get down to business, according to Gar Wilson, fire inspector for the Independence Township Fire Department.

Creosote, a build-up of tars and resin on the inside of the chimney, can ignite and start the house on fire if not scraped from inside the flue.

Chimney sweeps are listed in the Yellow Pages, Wilson said.

To head off the annual fall rash of chimney fires, the Independence Township Fire Department offers the following tips and warnings:

- Vent only one appliance in the flue.
- Screen or cap the chimney to prevent sparks from igniting the roof.
- Inspect mortar joints for cracks or holes.
- Check dampers and controls to ensure they're working properly.
- Don't over fuel the stove.
- Keep combustibles 18 inches from a stove pipe, 36 inches from the stove and have no less than 4 to 6 inches from the stove to the floor.
- Always put ashes in a covered metal container and place them outside.
- Burn seasoned wood. Green wood contributes to creosote build-up.
- Never use flammable liquid to start fires.
- Remember to use and maintain a smoke detector.
- Always have a fire extinguisher nearby.

Board ponders more parking

Relief may be in sight for the parking problems in downtown Davisburg.

A plan that would increase parking in the downtown area has been presented to the Springfield Township Board.

Ray Cousineau, representing Mosher Kapelczak, unveiled the plan at the Oct. 13 meeting.

The new plan would allow for 47 parking spaces on Davisburg Road and an additional 30 spaces of off-street parking in the area directly behind township hall that is owned by the township.

Cousineau also recommended that the township purchase additional land behind the building to further increase parking space.

There are currently 45 parking spaces in the downtown area, according to Cousineau. He added that existing uses for the downtown area require 137 spaces for maximum efficiency.

Oakland County engineers had previously submitted a plan that places emphasis on beautification of the downtown area.

The plan included widening of the sidewalks to 12 feet and planting additional trees. But the Oakland plan allows for only 33 parking spaces.

Supervisor Collin Walls said the board is looking for a cross between the two plans.

Inspector resigns

Springfield Township is looking for a new electrical inspector following the resignation of the present inspector.

Tom Jackman submitted a letter of resignation to the township board. He listed personal and health reasons for his resignation, effective Dec. 1 or sooner if a suitable replacement can be found. Jackman served five years in the position.

The board unanimously approved the resignation at its Oct. 13 meeting.

Volunteer sought

If you have time to volunteer and like to help young people, the Holly Area Youth Assistance Committee is looking for you.

HAYA representative Kathy McNiece recently resigned the position and a replacement is needed.

The volunteer position focuses attention on dealing with juvenile delinquents before they reach the court system, said Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls.

Anyone interested in the position can call the township Hall at 625-4802 for more information.

New job for chief

Springfield Township has named Marlan Hillman as its local agent for federal disaster relief.

Hillman, the township fire chief, was granted the position at the township board meeting Oct. 13.

The appointment authorizes Hillman to apply for federal funds for reimbursement should a federal disaster, such as a flood or tornado, occur in the township, said Supervisor Collin Walls.

Proposals A—E: A heady list

Television commercials opposing Proposal D certainly have drawn attention to the question: Perhaps they have not persuaded voters in the intended direction, but it has drawn attention.

As one acquaintance said, "They don't explain what it is, and that upsets me." Others have asked, "What the heck is Proposal D?"

First of all, there are two proposals affecting utility companies on the Nov. 2 ballot. D and H.

If passed, proposal D would require hearings on all utility rate increases, abolish adjustment clauses, and set rules for rate hearings.

The utility companies are behind the advertising that says "Proposal D is Dumb".

They like their current freedom to raise rates without going through public hearings.

Proposal D is backed by the Citizens Lobby and utility foe Attorney General Frank Kelley, among others.

Proposal H was passed by the legislature and softens Proposal D.

H prohibits certain rate adjustment clauses. It prohibits rate increases without prior notice and hearing, and it stops state legislators from taking a job with a utility company for two years.

In our opinion, Proposal H clutters the ballot. It should be rejected just because it adds confusion, which was a trick of the legislature during the height of Tisch's popularity.

On the other hand, we see nothing wrong with having utility companies go through hearings on increases. After all, they are given a monopoly position by the people; they should be accountable.

The experience with the gas company with automatic rate increases allowed, buying supplies from overseas, upping the rates considerably, then finding there really was no shortage in America does not set well.

Let's pass D and see if it's dumb.

There are five more proposals to consider Nov. 2. Proposal G is also utility related. If passed public service Commission members would be elected. We oppose this. It is our opinion more often better people are appointed to office than elected.

Proposal A is the most confusing to us. When confused, vote no, is usually our motto. We're not sure this is true on A. This proposal would allow the legislature to pass laws eliminating the lawmakers' exemption from civil arrest while in session.

It doesn't change the rules giving lawmakers this "exempt from arrest" law, it just lets them pass a law if they want to. We can't imagine the circumstances under which lawmakers would eliminate this protective clause in the Constitution.

If proposal D is dumb, proposal B is bad. It would require hiring more state police, to the higher level of April, 1980, this forcing a budgeting figure regardless of the economy.

There's nothing wrong with the way the State Police are handled, after all, they got their great reputation under present rules.

Proposal C is the "due-on-sale" proposal. It prevents a lender from using the standard contract clause to foreclose a mortgage or land contract when the property is sold, unless security is impaired.

Again, the rule has been working just fine until the depression for most people.

Proposal E is an advisory on nuclear weapons freeze. As a friend said, "I'm for the freeze, but I don't trust the Russians." It's a meaningless question, but will make a lot of anti-nuclear people feel good when passed.

That about covers the propositions. They will be voted on by less people than anything else on the ballot, so your vote will count more. JAS

Special warmth

by Kathy Greenfield

The warm feeling Sunday came from more than the sunshine.

At 11 a.m., the Clarkston Village Park was bustling with activity as the fourth annual Walk for SCAMP got underway. Walkers, about 1,000 of them, soon appeared along the three-mile and 10-mile routes as they worked to earn pledges they gathered for the worthy cause.

Rather than leaving in two big batches as in the past five walks, the walkers departed in small groups during a three-hour period.

Some carried radios, some carried candy, a few carried thermos bottles filled with hot chocolate. There were dogs, backpacks, running shoes and, perhaps most important of all, lots of smiles.

Each walker helped carry part of the load for the five-week summer camp for children and youth who may have special needs or may be handicapped.

For those who have visited SCAMP, the program speaks for itself. There is no place else that comes close to producing the feeling of happiness that surrounds activities.

With 196 campers last year and a staff of 90, it was expensive. The cost was about $48,000. A large portion of the money came from the 1981 Walk for SCAMP, and there were several other fund raisers that gathered the necessary $32,500 in donations. Added to the tuition paid by those attending the camp program, the result was a program entirely funded through the fund raisers and tuition.

The success of the Walks for SCAMP speaks for itself. It's the result of good organization, and of caring people.

After the walkers lunched on hot dogs, chips and soft drinks, some of them gathered along Clarkston's Main Street, their yellow official Walk for SCAMP numbers still pinned to their backs.

They were proud of what they had done. The day was one of Michigan's finest—sun shining, leaves in full color, just cool enough to be good for walking.

But the special warmth surrounding the 1,000 Walkers for SCAMP, that came from inside.

Jim's jottings

A moment with Headlee

By Jim Sherman

Richard Headlee and I have something in common. We both like Anna Marie Offer's brownies and Marsha Olrich's bananas.

Actually, we have more in common than that, but those are good for openers.

"Vote for Headlee" signs and buttons were everywhere in the alumni parking area at University of Michigan last Saturday.

The GOP candidate for governor was unopposed in the area. Jim Blanchard probably didn't even show up at the "Establishment Headquarters for Michigan for one day" . . . Ann Arbor.

But there we were, tucked between rows of motor homes, which in turn wore candelabra and hibachi covered tables as front bumpers along comes Mr. Headlee and entourage.

We nodded and he spotted the brownies. Without being asked he said, "I will have a brownie. They are a weakness I can't overcome." Then he continued on in a brisk walk.

Maybe an hour later, when crowds had left the area enroute to wait in a line, Headlee and entourage returned.

This time we chatted, Marsha Olrich asked the only question not dealing with food, weather or football. "Would you really fire striking teachers?" she asked.

"Yes, I would!" Headlee said. "If they are striking in violation of the law, you bet I would fire them. There are a great many young, qualified teachers who can do the job."

Then he commented about the brownies being so good . . . "What is that extra taste, is it caramel?" Anna Marie confided it was.

That brought the banana offer with the comment by Marsha, "I made them myself".

Turns out potassium is his second favorite food intake.

It was good to have a short visit with a gubernatorial candidate on such an open, informal basis. His reputed sense of humor is well founded, as is his sincerity.

You couldn't help but believe he was going to win the election in November when you heard him say, "I'm going to win."

One thing does bother me. He not only did not promise us a free lunch if we voted for him, but took one off of us.

Letters to editor

Trim clears up phone campaign misconception

I believe it is most unfortunate that there is a need to write this letter, but many have called urging me to clear up an issue created by my opponent.

It is apparent that my opponent, Rep. Mat Dunaskiss, has initiated a telephone campaign in my district and given people some false information. It is first asked if the person knows Claude Trim. Then they are told that because he is chairman of the Mental Health Committee in the House of Representatives that he is responsible for foster care homes going into your neighborhoods. This is as far from the truth as possible.

Let me quote Mike Clark, one who has received a call. "I just couldn't believe it. A Dunaskiss campaign worker actually called me at home and tried to tell me that Claude Trim was responsible for placement of mental health patients in foster care facilities in my neighborhood. I told the person calling I knew better."

The truth is that I have consistently worked to provide a solution to the whole foster care issue and proper placement of the mentally ill and the mentally retarded. Just before recess of the Legislature in September, I won approval of an amendment to the mental health certification bill that requires the Department of Mental Health to establish rules for the placement of mental health patients in foster care facilities.

My amendment passed overwhelmingly because the legislators knew there was a need for proper process for placement. But my opponent opposed the final bill even though he supported the amendment.

I have always felt there was a need for positive campaigning and for that reason I have never attacked any of my opponent's voting record. However, I do hope this letter will set the record straight on this issue.

C.U.R.E. to sponsor voter forum Oct. 26

Voters of the new 61st District, you have many vitally important choices to make on Nov. 2.

C.U.R.E. of Clarkston wants to give you an opportunity to make an educated decision on your choice for the Michigan House of Representatives.

On Tuesday, Oct. 26, at 8 p.m. in the Clarkston High School Little Theatre, C.U.R.E. (Citizens United to Restore Education) will sponsor a question-and-answer forum for you to meet and ask questions of two incumbent members of the Michigan House of Representatives.

Both Rep. Mat Dunaskiss and Rep. Claude Trim, who are running for one seat in the House this year (due to redistricting of this area), will be present to answer any questions you have.

Dr. James O'Neill has graciously agreed to be the moderator for this forum. We sincerely hope you, the voters, will take advantage of this opportunity to be an informed voter.

Jeanne Molzon

Coverage falls

Well at least you're consistent!

I've waited three straight weeks to see some good coverage of the homecoming court and school activities.

Very little has appeared. Never once was there a picture of the nominees, or the chosen court, for the sophomore, junior or senior classes.

I'm sure if the school was to be vandalized tomorrow, that it would be Front Page news.

So why not give coverage to the students who represent the good of the school? These students were chosen by their peers to reside over the traditional homecoming ceremonies.

We know Greg Nelson was present at the game, but never seemed to see any of the half-time activities.

It was a beautiful night, the stands were packed. The band provided an attractive flagged tunnel for the homecoming court to be honored.

It's time for you to dig back through your files, and recall how you used to give three weeks of excellent coverage to the homecoming festivities. These students deserve to be recognized.

Is a shortage of pictures a problem? I, for one, and am sure many of the proud parents would be glad to share their photographs.

Gale Jorgensen

Re-elect Claude Trim to state house

Our candidate for state representative, Claude Trim, has been re-elected four times by the people in the northern townships of our county. This certainly is the best endorsement a lawmaker can have.

It is sufficient proof his voting record has always been in the best interest of the taxpayers.

Trim opposed the lobby that tried to remove the ceiling on the interest that banks and loan institutions can charge.

When taxes were increased on auto licenses and transfers and on gasoline, the money was to be for roads, bridges and mass transportation in Oakland County. Trim opposed transferring this money to Detroit, to pay for just the engineering and drawings for a subway in Detroit.

It is not wise to vote for new and inexperienced people, no matter what their abilities or intentions might be. Today's problems require experience. And taxpayers of this 61st District are very fortunate to have such a representative as Claude Trim.

Many taxation changes are needed. Taxes on homes and farms must be reduced, and the sales tax must be increased to support our schools.

Homeowners paid for everybody's education; so it is fair that everybody pay a major share for the education of today's children.

Trim was responsible for more than 30 new laws, because he established a reputation for introducing laws in the best interests of the taxpayers, and his opposition to proposals by lobbyists.

'If it Fitz. . .'

Don't worry, mom . . . or dad

by Jim Fitzgerald

My son Ed clerks part-time in a drugstore in a small shopping mall on Detroit's East side. The other afternoon, while at work, he witnessed a shooting.

An off-duty security officer and a young man got into some sort of a beef outside the store. After their scuffling propelled them through the front door and inside the drugstore, the guard drew his pistol and shot his opponent in the stomach.

The other drugstore employes, exhibiting more street smarts than Ed, hit the floor as soon as they saw the gun. Ed just stood there, erect, a few feet from the action, and gaped. He was brought up in a small town and is still more fascinated than frightened by the strange things he sometimes sees in the big city. When the gun went off, Ed's first thought was that the sound wasn't as loud as he'd expected.

The wounded man got up and fled the store. Police later found him by following a trail of blood. Apparently, he will survive.

A FEW DAYS LATER, a police officer phoned our home and told my wife, Pat, he wanted to "talk to your son about the shooting." That bit of information could have caused Pat to suffer a heart attack. Naturally, it was reasonable for the policeman to assume our son told his parents about the slightly exciting thing that happened at work. But he didn't.

When Ed returned home the day of the shooting, he didn't even mention it. When I get home from work, I mesmerize my family with descriptions of my day's adventures, such as falling asleep while waiting for the office elevator door to close. But Ed didn't say one word about seeing a guy get shot in the belly. He later explained he didn't want to add to the richly deserved laurels his mother has already won as a world-champion worrier.

Fortunately, Ed did tell one of his sisters, who lives 70 miles away, about his ho-hum experience near the line of fire. And she luckily relayed the story to their mother just before the cop phoned, so Pat didn't have a heart attack when she received official confirmation that her youngest child could easily have been killed by a stray bullet. She just gasped and moaned a lot.

But don't let me kid you. My son's brush with a shooting wasn't funny, and I know it. It's easy to laugh after the danger is dodged, but in a stupid society where thousands of people own guns, it's also easy for an innocent bystander to be shot. And when I ponder what could have happened in the drugstore that afternoon, my whole body shakes and I have to stifle a sob. Fathers worry as much as mothers; some of them just aren't as honest about it.

THE SAME WEEK as the shooting, by coincidence, the publisher of the weekly newspaper in the little town where Ed grew up visited a chic Detroit restaurant and was surprised when two armed guards opened his car doors. "We learned later that everybody gets this treatment," he later wrote. "It's the heart of Detroit, but it felt like Beirut."

It pains me when my beloved Detroit gets that type of one-sided publicity, but it's hard for me to protest when my own son, at work just a few blocks from home, sees a man shot. It doesn't make me feel better to point out that on a recent morning in the publisher's little town, population 6,000, in the most tranquil-appearing park imaginable, a woman was assaulted. And on that little town's main street, young men continually damage property and frighten older people.

The difference, of course, is that assaults are front page news in a small town. In Detroit, they're not news at all. The drugstore shooting that could have killed my son didn't rate one line of print in the next day's newspapers.

The sad truth is that hermits seldom get mugged. Wherever there are people, there is the risk of violence, and the more people, the more risk. When I figure out what can be done about people, you will be the first to know.

Postal service promotes safety

Neither snow, nor rain . . . nor any accidents

By Kathy Greenfield

They sometimes slip, trip and fall; drive away from mail boxes with their hands inside; are victims of ferocious dogs; or injure their backs lifting heavy loads.

Some may consider the accidents on-the-job risks for mail carriers, but that's not the case say United States Postal Service officials who are staging an all-out effort to reduce injuries.

There are two methods underway: Suing homeowners responsible for accidents and the establishment of a preventive program to stop accidents before they happen.

"If our carriers are injured on (residents') property, we are pursuing third-party collections," said Douglas Warner, area safety specialist, noting that in the past year "it's become much more aggressive."

The method has been successful, Warner said, with about $70,000 collected in the last seven months from lawsuits in a portion of the midwest.

Injuries are covered under the federal Department of Labor law that allows suing for five times the amount of the actual damage. The amount can be substantial if, for instance, the mail carrier loses two weeks of work because of an injury. The post office receives reimbursement for fees and the remainder of the money goes to the mail carrier.

While such accidents are covered by the homeowner's insurance, the result can be cancellation of insurance and/or much higher rates.

The accident prevention program underway for about one-and-one-half months is the second method.

A safety specialist discreetly follows mail deliverers, watching for problems as they go about their appointed rounds.

Common mistakes include opting for fast action rather than caution, not wearing seat belts, looking through mail while walking down sidewalks rather than watching where they are going, and not carrying anti-dog spray in satchels.

"I think it's really going to work," said Warner. "The carriers get used to the attitude we're bringing out: 'We don't want to punish you. We're here to make it safe.'"

After observing carriers, the person looking for safety infractions identifies himself and discusses his observations. While any problems are noted on a check list, the carrier's name is not included. The employees are also encouraged to discuss any safety problems they've observed in the postal operation.

"We're not out there as their boss. We're out there to assist them," said George Elfond, area safety manager.

While Clarkston is not considered a dangerous area for mail carriers, the accident rate is high for the number of employees, according to Warner. The 48 mail carriers suffered five injuries from October 1981 to October 1982, putting the injury rate at 10 percent.

In contrast, the Pontiac post office had an accident rate of less than 7 percent during the same period, with 21 injuries among the 350 employees.

The safety program resulted after there were fatal injuries to postal employees in New York and California, Elfond said.

The men are in charge of safety for the Royal Oak Sectional Center that covers about 4,000 postal employees in locations with zip codes that begin with 480, an area that spans from Novi to Milford.

Safety is their goal: After observing mail carrier Terry Hendren's methods of delivering mail in the Village of Clarkston, Area Safety Manager

Cheers for the several hundred Clarkston Junior High School students who rallied behind two causes when they joined the Walk for SCAMP with pledges to the tune of over $5,000. All the money is to be donated in the name of Bud McGrath, their counselor who died of leukemia in August at age 59. "I'm so tickled," said Cecelia Wiar, CJHS assistant principal and building coordinator for the SCAMP drive. "A lot of the students really thought a lot of Bud and they wanted to do something he'd be pleased with." Last year, the school collected $1,600, so this year's figure is a whopping 312 percent higher!

Northwest Inn opens Oct. 26

Get those taste buds into good form for cuisine at Clarkston's Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center (NWOVEC) Northwest Inn.

For the past five years students under Chef Lynn Mead's direction have learned the business of preparing food and waiting tables in the famed restaurant with delicious, affordable food, that's open to the public.

Targeted for the season opening Oct. 26, the restaurant promises hot and cold sandwiches, a variety of salads, homemade soups and daily special entrees. Desserts and rolls are baked fresh daily by morning students and served with lunch.

Approximately once a month, the usual table service will be varied with a buffet, the first scheduled for the first week in December.

While tipping has not been encouraged in the past, such gratuities this year will be accepted and used to fund the new scholarship program for students continuing their education in the food industry.

The Northwest Inn at NWOVEC, 8211 Big Lake, Springfield Township, is open Tuesday through Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., and follows the school calendar.

And this year, with the addition of new equipment that makes for easy baking, the Northwest Inn plans to have fresh pies, cookies and rolls available for sale to the public every day.

Infant's sudden death prompts tribute to faith

When Collin David Bennett died Friday, it was a time of grief for the family, for they had lost a one-month-old child. But through the week-long ordeal while Collin was hospitalized, his parents, Mark and Penny Bennett, were sustained by their faith, said the Rev. Robert Walters.

The first few days, the life support systems brought hope that the baby might recover, but the last few days the life support systems were kept in place while waiting for what the doctor called inevitable and for what was required by state law—that two electrocardiograms show a lack of brain waves.

Walters, the pastor of Calvary Lutheran Church, spent time with the family and the experience prompted him to write about it in the church's monthly newsletter that arrived at parishioners' homes the day before Collin died.

"There are a lot of times when we put faith in the background. I wanted people to see that even though there's a lot of grief and anger, the bottom line is God sustaining us," Walters said. "And the witness of these two people and their child was a tremendous parable of that reality."

The Bennetts requested that Walters' letter to church members be included in their son's obituary.

This is what he wrote:

"It's not fair.

"It's not fair when you see a tiny infant on a great big hospital cart being rolled down the long emergency room corridor. He wasn't the first baby, loved and extremely well cared for, who mysteriously stopped breathing. But this one I knew and personally loved, having shared his first day of life with his parents, having planned his Baptism, having shared both the marriage of his parents and the Confirmation of his mother.

"You understand when it's someone else. It happens. But it's not fair when it's someone you love.

"Right now (Thursday morning), Collin lies as close to death as one can and still be alive, sustained by a ventilator. We have no choice but to wait. I've been angry. I've cried. I've accepted. It was my privilege to Baptize Collin in the emergency room shortly after he arrived.

"But yesterday God brought it all together for me. When I stood with Penny and Mark as they cuddled Collin, all hooked up to the elaborate life support system, I witnessed a miracle of God's love: for this child through his parents, grandparents, and hundreds of us praying for him, for Mark and Penny whose hard grieving is subsiding as they entrust Collin to his and our Father, and for all of us for whom 'nothing can separate us from the love of Christ.'

"We smiled, supported by God's love, at the cute little makeshift stocking cap the nurses had fashioned to keep his head warm. His presence enfolded us as we gave thanks for this child whose life is far shorter than we would have chosen, but who is a great gift from God, nevertheless.

"I know better now that 'fair' is far less important than faith. And I thank God that Collin, Penny and Mark have helped me see it more clearly."

The memorial service for Collin David Bennett was held Oct. 17 at the Calvary Lutheran Church in Independence Township.

The one-month-old infant died Oct. 15 following a brief illness. He was a member of the Calvary Lutheran Church.

Surviving are his parents, Mark and Penny Bennett of Oxford; grandparents, Clifford and Hazel Armstrong, and Dave and Carol Bixby, all of Clarkston; and great-grandparents, Anna Bennett of Clarkston, Rhoda Thompson of Zephyrhills, Fla., Dale Morningstar of Saginaw, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McClennan of St. Charles.

Following the service, burial took place in Lakeview Cemetery, Independence Township. Funeral arrangements were made by the Goyette Funeral Home, Clarkston.

Netters capture regional crown

Girls' tennis team to play in state meet for the first time ever

The Clarkston High School girls' tennis team that Coach Becky Craig called "the best I've seen at Clarkston" is proving her right.

The Wolves tied for first place in the state regional tournament last week and became the first girls' tennis team in CHS history to advance to the state tournament.

The state meet will held in Midland Friday and Saturday and features champions from 11 regionals.

West Bloomfield and Bloomfield Hills Andover tied Clarkston with 20 points each in the regional and will join the Wolves at the state meet.

"I think we'll do decent. West Bloomfield and Andover are both considered in the top 10 teams in the state and we held our own against them. We'll make a good showing," said Craig

"We had some pretty stiff competition in our regional. The girls were all pretty fired up," she added.

All of the Clarkston players made it to at least the semifinals of the regional tournament with Kelly Craig claiming the championship at number 2 singles.

Craig is undefeated in 14 matches this season.

Mary Smith, No. 1 singles, and Anja Holler, No. 3 singles, both made it to the finals before losing as did the doubles combinations of Jenny Kithil-Sam Mallett, No. 1, Audrey Campe-Tonya Cook, No. 2, and Krista Pilditch-Stacy Walker.

A drawing was to be held Tuesday night to determine first round pairings for the state meet, said Craig. Clarkston cannot meet either West Bloomfield or Andover in the first round.

Late rally earns CHS 20-13 win

By Greg Nelson

A strong fourth quarter and a little bit of luck lifted the Clarkston High School varsity football team to a 20-13, come-from-behind victory over Lake Orion Friday night.

David Newblatt rushed for 96 yards and scored all three CHS touchdowns as the Wolves upped their record to 4-2 overall and 3-1 in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

"You never know if the kids are going to bounce back after a tough loss but they reached under a little bit. The kids put it together really good," said CHS Head Coach Walt Wyniemko.

"Passing plays and big plays. Those are the things we needed that we haven't been getting all the time," he added.

Trailing 13-6 in the final quarter, Clarkston scored twice within a five-minute span to grab the road victory.

The Wolves got a big break in the first quarter when a bad snap by Lake Orion on a punt attempt gave CHS the ball at its own 49-yard line.

Clarkston took advantage of the break as Newblatt scored on an 11-yard run and the Wolves led, 6-0.

Lake Orion came back late in the second quarter by driving to the Clarkston seven-yard line for a first down. After gaining just one yard in three plays, the Dragons were stopped on a fourth down pass attempt.

But a pass interference penalty against Clarkston gave Orion a second chance and fullback Mike Argo scored on a three-yard-run with only 18 seconds to play in the first half.

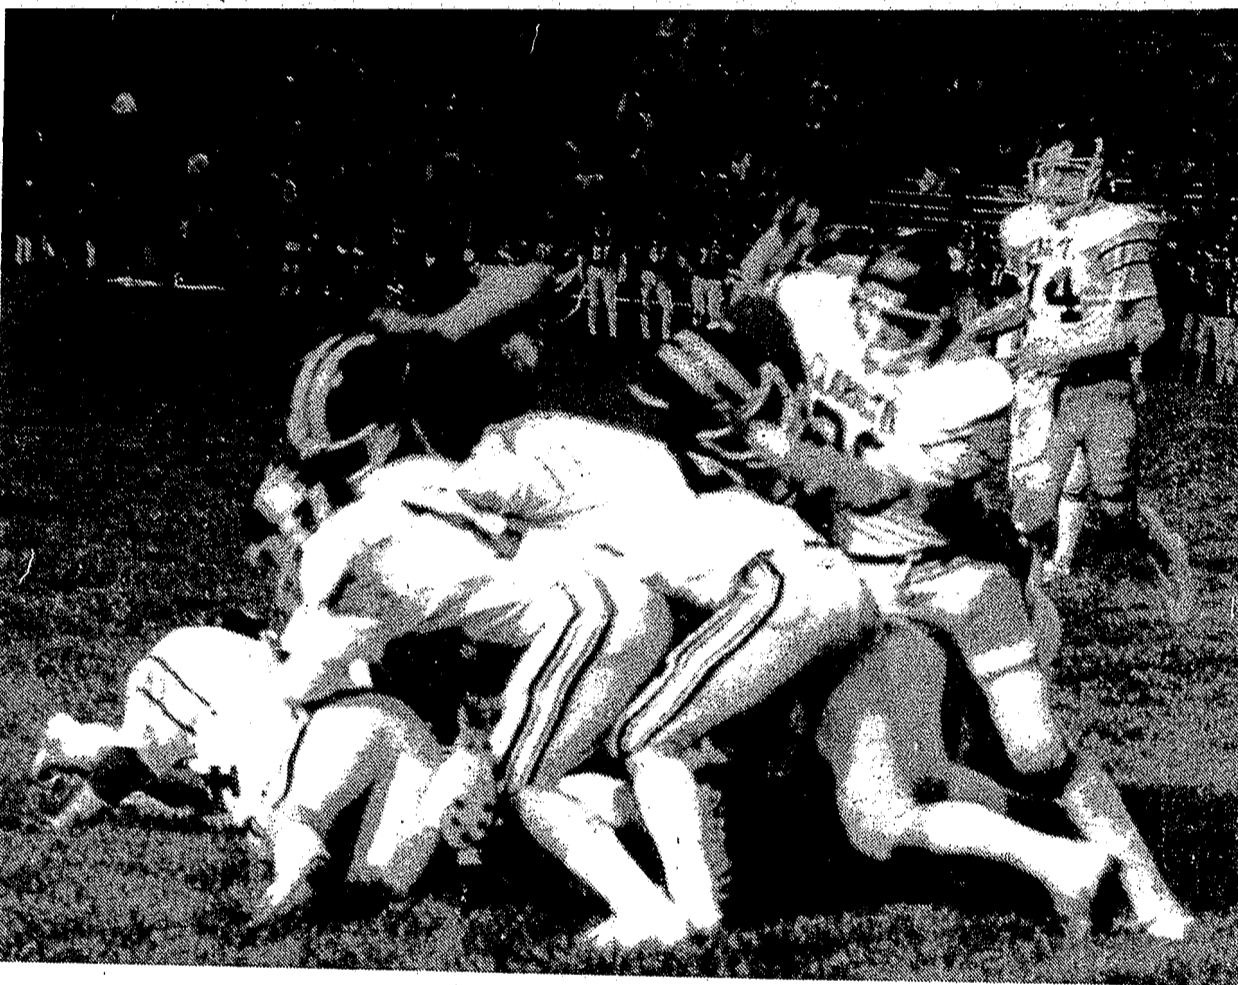

The extra point was successful and Lake Orion led, 7-6.

A two-yard run by Argo gave Lake Orion a 13-6 lead with 10 minutes to play in the fourth quarter and the Clarkston offense wasn't generating much excitement.

But some hard running by Newblatt and fine passing by quarterback Craig Kulaszewski brought the Wolves back to life.

Kulaszewski, who hit 10 of 17 pass attempts for 109 yards, got plenty of help from his receiving corps as they made a number of tough catches.

The Wolves drove 48 yards as Newblatt scored from seven yards out to lift Clarkston into a 13-13 tie with 7:20 to play.

A swarming Clarkston defense gang tackles a Lake Orion running back during the Wolves' 20-13 victory in high school varsity football action Friday night.

The come-from-behind victory was Clarkston's fourth in six games this season.

Then it was up to the Clarkston defense and Wyniemko couldn't have asked for more from his crew.

The defense held Lake Orion on three plays and when another snap sailed over the punter's head, the Wolves had the ball on Lake Orion's 31-yard line.

Again the Wolves' offense marched right down the field and Newblatt picked up his third TD of the night on a three-yard run to give Clarkston a 20-13 lead with 2:13 to play.

John LaPorte ended any comeback hopes the Dragons were envisioning by intercepting a pass with 42 seconds to play.

Brian Davies led the Wolves' defensive efforts with seven tackles, including two for 15 yards in losses. Pat Rausch added five tackles and five assists.

Golf team is 12th in regional tournament

Seaholm runs away with golf crown, leads field of four into state meet

It wasn't good enough to qualify for the state meet, but the Clarkston High School boys' golf team placed a respectable 12th in regional action last week.

The regional, which featured 21 teams, will send Birmingham Seaholm, Bloomfield Hills Lahser, Waterford Mott and Birmingham Brother Rice to the state tournament.

Seaholm finished first with a total score of 313.

Clarkston shot a 354 total which left it 19 strokes behind the fourth-place qualifier.

Ken Sussex turned in the day's best score for the Wolves with an 86 while Dave Huttenlocher posted an 88. Al Kuhn, of Waterford Kettering took medalist honors by shooting 78 on the Dunham Hills course in Highland.

"The scores were high and the course played pretty tough," said CHS Coach Jim Chamberlain.

"Sussex and Huttenlocher both shot below their average. But everyone would've had to play their absolute best for us to have made up those 19 strokes," he added.

The state tournament will be played at Forest Acres in East Lansing this weekend.

The future of sports records

Nel's Niche

By Greg Nelson

Sports records are made to be broken. But just how far can the world's athletes push any given record? Well, our friends in the Soviet Union think they know.

The editors of "Sport in the USSR" fed some facts into their computers and came up with some predictions for track-and-field records in the year 2000.

The computer based its predictions on the growth rates of records over a selected period of years along with the influence of a number of social, moral, educational, technical and other factors.

True, when you're dealing with tenths of a second or a matter of inches, it's like trying to predict whether a female will ever play in the National Basketball Association or when the Tigers will ever win another World Series. But the predictions make for some interesting reading.

Many of the athletes who will be shooting for those records are too young to know what their athletic careers will be. Some may not even be born yet.

But the predictions give today's athletes one more goal to achieve and, who knows, if the predictions come true maybe we had better hire some computer programmers from the USSR.

Anyway, here's a list of the predictions and the current world records as of June 17, 1982. Hang on to this article and pull it out when you're watching the Olympics in the year 2000.

Clarkston evens the score

Sashabaw Junior High School scored one in its favor by claiming a season-opening football victory over Clarkston. But Clarkston evened the score Oct. 12 by scoring a 26-23 victory over the Cougars in girls' basketball action.

Clarkston, 3-6 on the year, was led by Beth Greiger's 19 rebounds and the scoring of Chivonne Deboer and Susan Lovelady. Sherri Kulaszewski and Terri Sherman also played well for the Wolverines.

Sashabaw, 1-7, was led by Melanie Upcott's nine points. Kecia Powell added five points while Sue Stefanski contributed four.

"The outside shooting of Lovelady was what hurt us the most," said Sashabaw Coach Nancy Foster.

Clarkston lost to Walled Lake Western on Thursday, 40-23, after being tied at the half.

The Wolverines made only two of 30 second-half shots.

Bronson says it's tough for Clarkston and Sashabaw to compete because they have only one-year programs while playing schools with three-year programs.

"That extra experience they have kills us. They have a lot more depth. But our kids have really worked hard. They've had no prior experience besides intramurals," he said.

Energy Craft brings sunshine's warmth inside

When Chris Lewis went searching for a new home, he found more than that—he found a new job and a new way of life.

Lewis came in contact with Energy Craft Homes Inc. and decided he wanted solar home.

"I was sick of heat bills. I couldn't justify building another energy-consuming house," he said.

So Energy Craft built a new home for Lewis with all the heat and electricity generated through solar energy.

Chris Lewis, of Energy Craft Homes Inc., holds a panel of a solar air wall. Energy Craft specializes in solarizing homes and making them more energy-efficient.

Doing business

"There's no furnace in my home; it's all solar," said Lewis. "And the tax credits made it extremely attractive. I got back about $5,000 on my house for building it."

Currently, the federal government will refund about 40 percent of the cost of building the solar units, said Lewis. However, the government is considering cutting off such tax credits in the future.

Lewis' house was built more than a year ago and since then he was offered a job with Energy Craft which he accepted.

Since joining the firm, he has become general marketing manager and has developed an expertise in the field of solar energy.

"There aren't many solar experts. You become an expert by living it and dealing with it every day," said Lewis.

Formerly the Joseph J. Duran Building Co., the firm underwent the name change two years ago to reflect increasing demand for energy-efficient construction and a commitment to supply energy-saving homes of contemporary design.

Energy Craft has recently expanded and is in the process adding a showroom and more office space.

Recently the company solarized a laundromat to let the sun heat the water, and the water-heating bills at the laundromat have been cut in half, said Lewis.

"Solar is the wave of the future. It will change sun into free heat and electricity," he said.

He added that solar devices normally pay for themselves in two years, taking into consideration money saved on fuel bills and the tax credits.

Energy Craft can also solarize any existing home or make it more energy-efficient.

One way is by cutting down on heat loss through windows. Energy Craft has two types of window covers that eliminate the majority of heat loss.

Energy Craft Homes Inc. is located at 4385 Dixie Highway, Waterford Township. For more information, call 673-1112.

Autumn scene

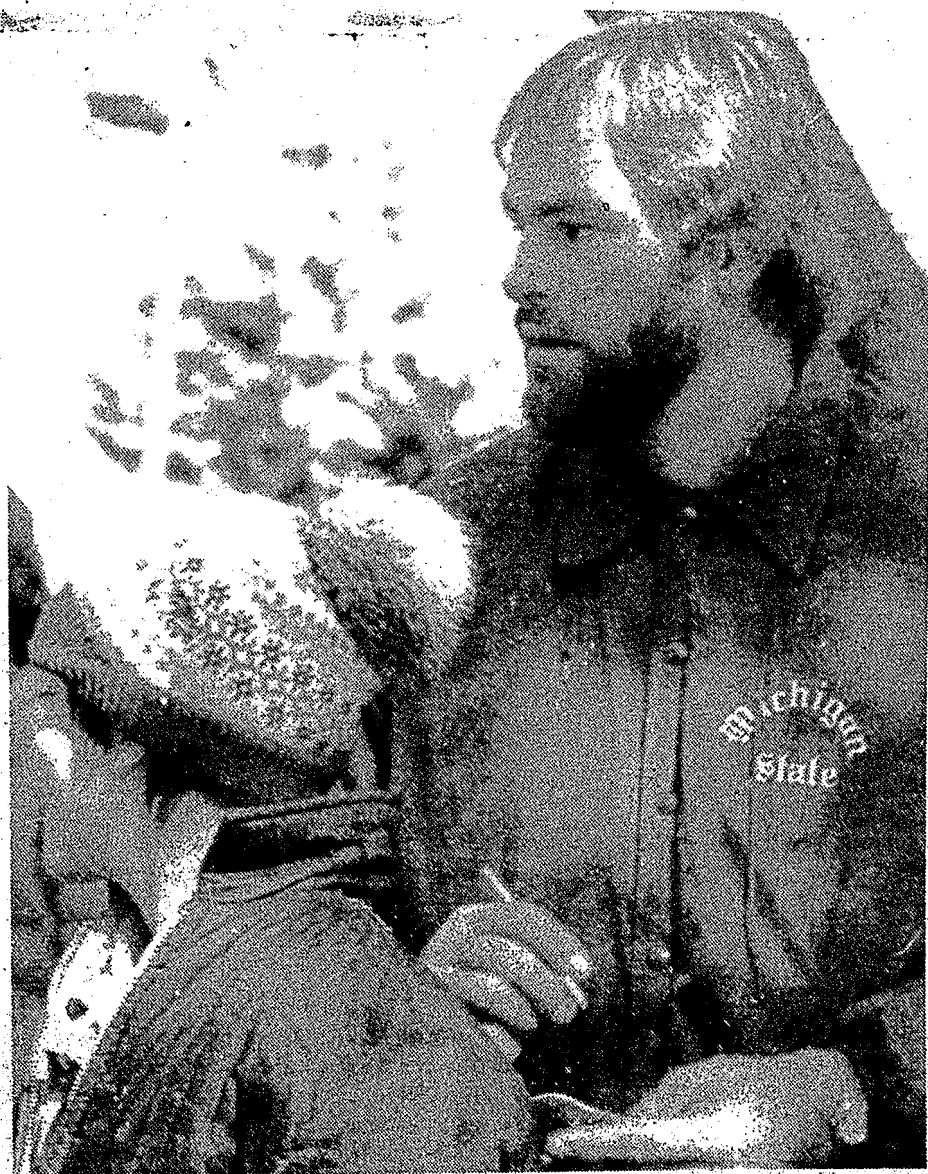

The first turn in a long time results in a burst of enthusiastic running from Robin Wittbrodt (left) and Andrea Yates as they round the corner from Holcomb to Reese roads. The girls were among some 1,000 people participating in the Walk for SCAMP Sunday, raising pledges between $22,000 and $23,000 for the five-week summer camp program for children who may be handicapped or may have special needs. SCAMP has met eight years, and the Walks for SCAMP began quietly six years ago. This year, for the first time, the SCAMP program paid for itself entirely with contributions of about $32,500 and tuition. The program cost about $48,000. The Walk is the biggest fund raiser, and its success assures continuation of the program. "There's still funds to raise," said Jim Butzline, SCAMP director. "But there's not a question whether we'll have SCAMP, but will we have 75 to 90 percent of the program or a full program." The job at hand now is for the Walkers for SCAMP to collect the pledges.

A casual walk with entertainment's the goal of Craig Sabo (left) and Jon Robitaille, as they leave the park equipped with a radio.

Tiger outfielder Kirk Gibson is on hand as the Walkers for SCAMP begin their treks for a good cause. Gibson's signature on several of the walkers' numbers plinned to their backs brought smiles. "Kirk's been a good guy," said Greg Seaman, assistant director of SCAMP and co-cordinator of the Walk. "He's one of the early people involved in SCAMP and he's stayed with us." For the past five years, Gibson has visited SCAMPers during the camping program, signing autographs for all of them.

People walking through the Village of Clarkston as they begin their march for SCAMP has become part of autumn. "The community support...it's kind of like an annual gift," says Pat Loveless, assistant director of SCAMP and co-cordinator of the Walk. "The kids take the sheets around and the folks say, 'Yes, I know about this. Bless your heart! Here you are.'" Walk co-coordinator Greg Seaman adds this thought: "It's just such a warm feeling to see everyone working together for something that is so important to the community."

Mom wins prizes

Mary Kubani is proud of her mom Sally and wants everyone to know it.

In the recent MeadowBrook Mall Art show outside Rochester, Sally captured two ribbons: one first place for a landscape and one honorable mention.

The Allen Road resident is, according to her daughter, "a seasoned artist."

Silver celebration

Clare and Zella Hillman of Waterford Township celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Oct. 10. The couple were honored at a party given by their three children and their spouses: Mr. and Mrs. Malverne Hillman of Independence Township; and Mr. and Mrs. Terry (Carol) Walker and Cheryl Bertram, both of Waterford Township. Friends came in for the event from Illinois, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Ohio. The Hillmans were wed Oct. 22, 1932, and now enjoy six grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren. Clare was born in Springfield Township and grew up on Big Lake. The Hillmans are life-long Oakland County residents.

In service

Airman Glen Milner has been assigned to Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., after completing six weeks of Air Force basic training.

A 1979 Clarkston High School graduate, he is the son of Donald and Mary Milner of Kingfisher Lane, Independence Township.

Guy Riddle has been promoted to Lt. Senior Grade, and is serving the United States Navy in Sicily, Italy, at the Signonella Naval Base with the Naval Communications Detachment.

A 15-year veteran of the Navy, Riddle is a 1966 graduate of Clarkston High School. His wife and two sons are with him in Europe.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Riddle of Tappan Drive, Independence Township.

Couple wed in old church, now home

The old Clarkston Methodist Church, now a residence, was the site for the wedding Saturday of Marcia Saltmarsh of Independence Township and Donald Stacy of Saginaw.

"This will be the first time we've used it for anything actually in relation to a church since we moved in," said Clarence Catallo.

Clarence and Sharron Catallo and their family moved into the restored and remodeled church on Buffalo Street, Clarkston, about a year ago.

The Rev. James Balfour, of the Clarkston United Methodist Church, performed the ceremony.

The couple met at a summer party last year at the Catallos' farm on Big Lake Road in Springfield Township.

About 70 people attended the wedding and the reception, held at the Clarkston Cafe.

The Stacys will reside in Saginaw.

Birthday surprise for the Carpenters

"He was just totally shocked," says Donna Pfeiffer about Ward Carpenter's reaction to his birthday party.

Carpenter's surprise thrilled his neighbors on Bridge Lake Road, Springfield Township. They had worked out the strategy down to the last detail.

The party was for Ward, who turned 70 Oct. 6, and his wife Luella, who will be 69 Oct. 26.

The neighbors scheduled the bash Oct. 2, enough before the Carpenters' actual birthdates to avoid suspicion. Then Donna called and arranged for Ward to provide for a hayride for some friends.

"We had to do a lot of conniving. His son Chuck had to take him for a ride for a long time," she said, so the party givers could arrive and arrange the surprise.

The Carpenters' daughter Sue helped prepare the guest list that included people her parents hadn't seen for 20 years.

"It was beautiful. It really turned out great," said Donna.

The neighbors threw the bash because of Ward's willingness to always help out. In the winter months, he plows snow and assists people getting cars out of ditches, all simply for the sake taking care of his neighbors, she said.

"He's just an all-around good neighbor," said Donna. "We just thought this was a good way to tell him."

MacClennan, Johnson exchange vows

Karen MacClennan and Matthew Johnson were wed Sept. 11 in a ceremony at Calvary Lutheran Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan MacClennan of Clarkston. Her husband is the son of Mrs. Truman Hammett of Clarkston and Mr. William S. Jameson of Linwood.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Ruth Ann Osmond while the best man was the bridegroom's brother, Michael Jameson. Eric Jameson was the ring bearer and ushers included David MacClennan, brother of the bride, and Brett Hammett, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride's gown was of ivory cotton-voile, and had a Mandarin collar and Bishop sleeves. A round, crowned hat had a bow adorning the brim which was intertwined with netting and seed pearls.

The bride's mother wore a three-piece suit of toast and cream while the bridegroom's mother chose a Mauve dress of nylon crepe.

The wedding reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Hammett.

How to wage war against Rover's fleas

Skin disorders seem to be a common problem at summer's end for dogs and occasionally for cats.

Often the problem is solved by removing flaking skin with a thorough brushing, parting the hair to assure that the brush stimulates the skin and removes tangles near the skin.

A capful of Alpha Keri Bath Oil added to the shampoo will give a conditioning, moisturizing effect. Brush the dog always before bathing as well as after bathing.

Often this time of year (my vet estimates 80 percent), dogs have pollen allergies from ragweed, grasses, etc., which cause skin eruptions and loss of hair. Fleas are a real menace, and other things like heart worm, hypothyroidism, lack of zinc metabolism or digestive enzyme imbalance can cause skin problems.

Small lesions and scratching if very mild can be alleviated by applying Aloe Vera Gel or Vitamin E squeezed from a capsule.

Allergies can be detected by tests administered by your veterinarian and treated with desensitizing shots.

If the problem is not a prolonged one, the vet may prescribe a cortisone derivative for 10 days to six weeks. It should never be longer than this because the side effects on the glandular system can be serious. This treatment reduces inflammation and helps the dog over the discomfort.

Fleas are almost every dog's problem this time of year. If you have been using a preventive program like brewer's yeast and garlic added to their food for at least one month, you may be spared.

If your dog or cat has fleas you will see little black specks when you look at the skin behind ears, around elbows and in the tail vicinity. The specks are dried blood from flea bites. A good bath, parting hair and looking along long parts will reveal any fleas.

Chances are if you find some they are in the dog's quarters and possibly your house. They have a larval stage and can exist for months or years in places like crevices in carpeting.

The first step is to remove the fleas from your pet. I do not use flea collars because of their toxicity. Your veterinarian can recommend a dip, but ask about the side effects of the chemical (usually Sevin or Rotenone). A health food store might have a citrus conditioning spray or pennyroyal.

I got desperate once and put garlic powder directly on the dog. It did more than get rid of the fleas—in the area of interesting odor, it was very effective.

Now you must remove the fleas from the house and yard. Again I am very careful because of ornamental birds as well as wild birds outside.

For the house, vacuum frequently and dispose of the bag each time. Use the tools around all edges, under furniture and especially the area where the dog rests.

We found that fleas lived under our deck where the dogs would go to keep cool in summer. We have lined it with cedar. I hope that helps.

Sevin can be used in the yard, and Sevin dust along crevices in your house. You can buy bombs which you activate and then leave the house closed for six or eight hours. (I would leave for 24 hours and then air it out.) These bombs should act on both larvae and fleas.

A dog allergic to fleas can literally lose all of his hair and have lesions at every point of flea contact.

If allergies or fleas are not your problem and the skin condition persists, you may want the vet to take skin scrapings to determine if the dog has mange, or another microbial or fungal infection.

You will then troubleshoot with blood chemistry to determine if its hypothyroidism or heart worms.

I try to make sure my dogs have a good zinc balance for skin. Often soy bean and corn base dog food does not permit proper metabolism. Kelp sprinkled on food is a good source. Safflower or olive oil helps dry skin and Vitamin E can be of assistance.

One of life's greatest pleasures is a warm, clean, meticulously groomed dog curled up by you. They feel uplifted by the experience too!

A CONSUMER SHOPPING TIP

Many stores have voluntarily set up policies to let you return articles purchased at their stores. Honest mistakes over items that don't fit or suit the right purpose do entitle you to the privilege of the store's return policy—providing they have a policy and your purchase fits within it. Make sure you know what it is. Ask yourself whether you are depending on a store's liberal return policy rather than your own good judgment in making purchases.

Skydiver Dave Hillebrandt (left) and Jim Jenkinson, who arranged the skydiving demonstration for the Cub Scouts, head toward the waiting crowd after a successful landing.

Skydivers put on scout show

Dusk settled in. A small airplane droned through the sky, gliding in and out of the clouds. All faces turned upward in anticipation.

It was almost time for a good deed by skydivers Dave Hillebrandt of Milford and Don Tippett of Waterford Township.

The show Thursday evening was for the crowd of Cub Scouts and their friends and families gathered behind the home of Jim and Theresa Jenkinson on Dvorak Street in Independence Township.

Jim Jenkinson is the leader of Cub Scout Den No. 1, Pack 377. His philosophy of scouting—that meetings should be fun for the 8- and 9-year-olds—fit perfectly with the skydiving demonstration about to unfold.

"I'm real excited about it. I think it's real good for the boys to see something like this. It's a new experience for them," he said. "The guys that are doing it, they're even excited."

The show was arranged through Tippett, his friend and co-worker at General Motors Corp. Truck & Coach. Jenkinson answered questions about the skydivers, stopping short of details best provided by the men themselves.

"They'll be dropping in any time now," he said, laughing.

They did. A small black dot appeared next to the plane flying about 4,000 feet above. Within minutes, skydiver Hillebrandt glided to the ground, right in the backyard.

"That looks like fun," said a voice from the crowd.

Hillebrandt laughed—a deep, throaty laugh that showed agreement. "It is fun," he said.

The plane circled again. Tippett made his descent, hurtling out of the plane at 120 mph before releasing his colorful, rectangular parachute. He landed in almost exactly the same spot.

Tippett's enthusiasm for the sport matched his partner's.

"It's probably the most fun thing I've ever done," he said later.

The jump was Tippett's 261st; Hillebrandt's dives number 550.

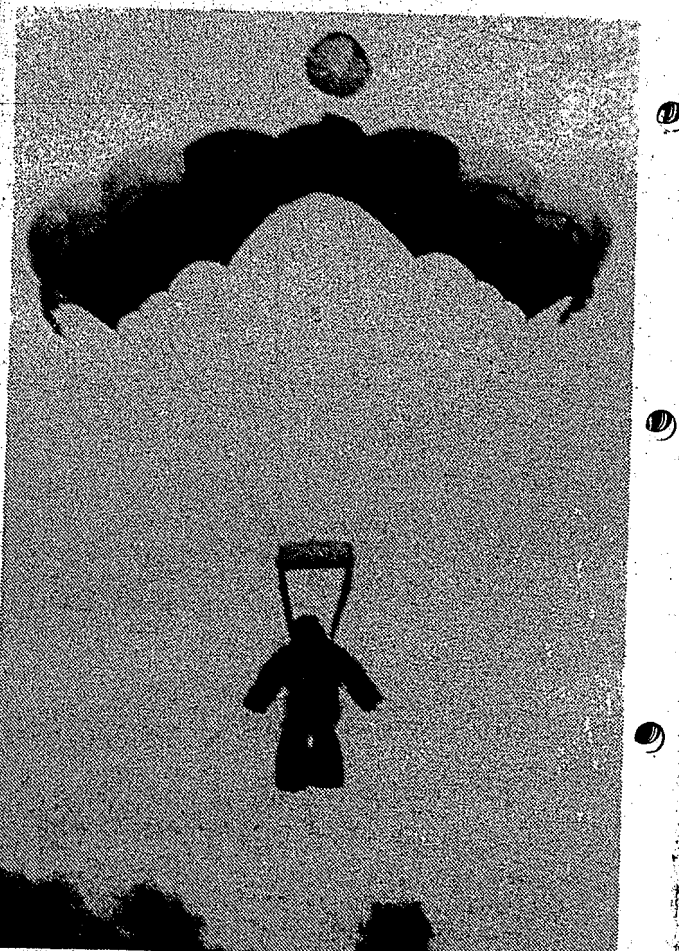

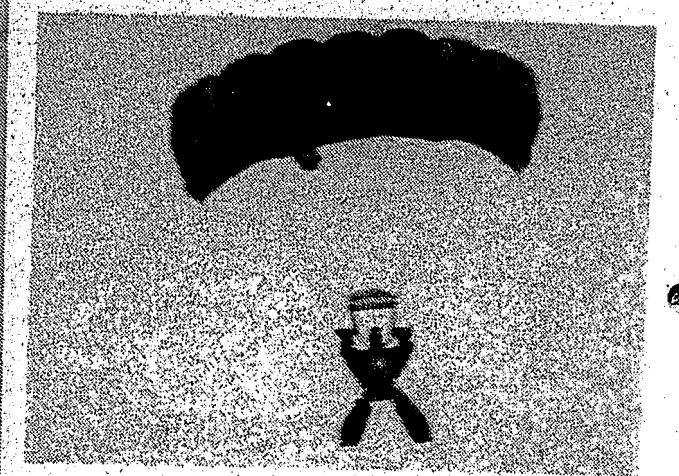

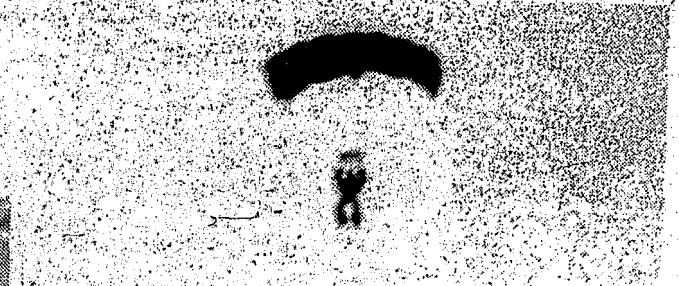

Skydiving, for them, is a hobby, one they earn money for to offset expenses. They dive with the "Rainbow Raiders" piloted by Chris Cecil of Oxford Aviation. Equipment costs for a skydiver's main and back-up parachutes and backpack are about $1,500, Tippett said, and that doesn't include training, special clothing or airplane expenses.

This time, though, the skydivers performed free. "Any excuse I can get to do this," said Tippett.

"Just a nice thing to do," said Hillebrandt.

Cub Scouts call it a good deed.

—Kathy Greenfield

As Don Tippett glides to the ground, he waves his arms and shouts to show what fun he's having despite the chilly temperature and the wind.

Jeff Forbes and Brad Warner go for a closer look at the plane flying 4,000 feet overhead by using a small telescope. Their diligence is soon rewarded.

Mike Barnes concentrates on the plane flying overhead. The white spot in the background is the target put in place for the skydivers.
