Village looks at historic changes

(USPS-116-000)

On top of local news for 52 years

Clarkston, MI 48016

By Marilyn Trumper

The committee appointed to review Clarkston's Historic District, its regulating ordinance and commission, has proposed the controversial ordinance be revoked for 60 days for further study and possible amendments.

The four-member committee, not unanimous in its findings, gave a preliminary report of a door-todoor survey and a list of recommendations at a special meeting in the basement of Independence Township Hall Nov. 1.

In addition to the 30-day revocation, the committee of village council trustees David Raup and Ethel Sinclair, historic district committee member Tom Hunter recommended the following, with fourth member, Trustee Gary Symons, dissenting:

•The Historic District Commission, which approves all construction and repairs in the 150-home historic district, should make reports of its activities every 30 days instead of the current quarterly basis.

•The commission should make a decision on applications earlier than the alloted 30-day deadline.

•A method to appeal the commission's decision, other than the circuit court, should be devised.

•All guidelines made by the (non-elected) commission should be reviewed and approved by the village council.

•Standards in the regulating ordinance should be revised to reflect the "reasonable rights" of the property owner.

•The chairperson's appointment should be annual, rather than the current three-year term, and the commission should be made up of six people, instead of the current five, with the sixth person voting only in case of a tie.

Council Trustee Gary Symons, a member of the review committee, soundly opposed release of the recommendations at the meeting.

"I think the results of the survey need a lot more study. I think that when you consider all the work that went into the ordinance, the rewriting, I think these recommendations are premature.

"I think that some of these (recommendations) don't take the time to consider the enabling legislation. There's a need for more specifics. Our standards are not unreasonable by national standards.

"Right now emotions are running high and I don't think we've looked beyond to see what the longterm ramifications of this will be," Symons said.

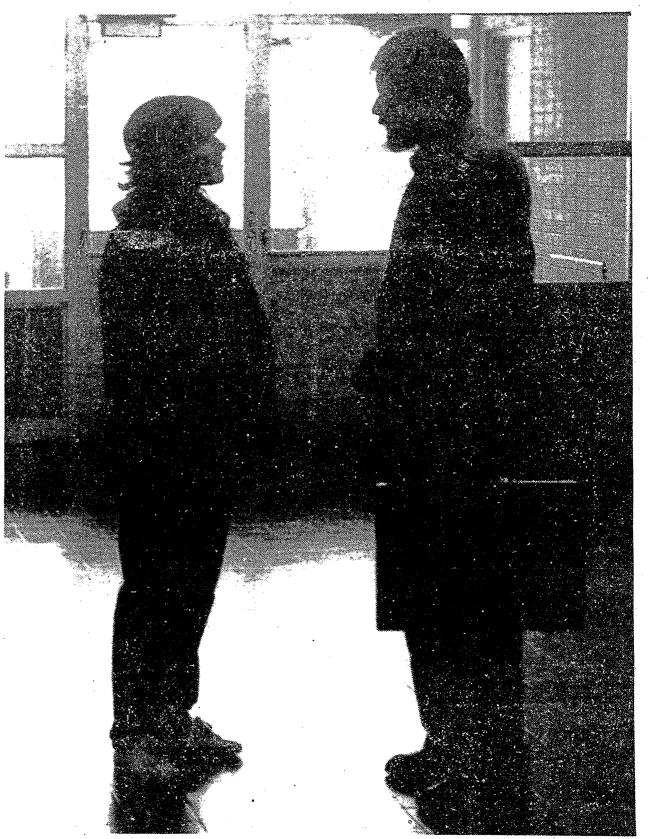

The committee, appointed a month ago by President Jackson Byers, was delegated the responsibility of reviewing the controversial ordinance and Historic District Commission. The commission has become the brunt of public criticism since its recent denial to aluminum-side an 80-year-old home on Holcomb Road, after approving a similar project on Miller Road. The survey asked the 150 homeowners in the district if they favored the current ordinance that regulates the district and requires approval from the commission for construction and repairs, if they are satisified with the present commission, if they would prefer a new ordinance, and if they would prefer not having an ordinance. Jennifer Radcliff, chairperson of the commssion, took exception to the second question and asked how village residents, the council or members of the committee could make that judgment when few had attended the commission's meetings. 'I take that question as a big insult," Radcliff said. "They do not come to see the people who are handled amicably or the applications that are approved with give-and-take. It's an insult to have a survey circulated asking people to base an opinion on something they haven't seen.

"All you are hearing are the complaints of one man who is throwing a temper tantrum—and that's what people are relating to," she said. "When you make difficult decisions, people take potshots at you."

Andersonville Elementary School battle rages

By Kathy Greenfield

Sandy Dougherty and Sherry Pyles' two-yearlong battle over problems they see at Andersonville Elementary came to an abrupt end last week.

But while the battle is over, they say the war-is not

"We were kicked out of Andersonville Elementary and told not to come back until our attitudes changed," said Pyles. "There's really nothing Andersonville or Clarkston could do to make it up. We want this known.

The skirmish began when credit was given in the school newsletter to the school board, which had agreed to spend up to $5,000, and the administration for grading and drainage work done on the playground.

Upset over lack of credit to the parents and the PTO for $530 spent on an engineering study for the project, the women met with Andersonville Principal William Neff. After talking 15 or 20 minutes, an argument was in full swing.

While Pyles admits she swore at Neff, using a four-letter word, she said the principal should have shown more professional behavior than to kick the women out of the school.

Asked about the situation, Neff noted that what was said could not be printed in a newspaper.

"With their behavior the other day, they should have been asked out of here a long time ago," he said, adding that the women could attend conferences and meetings and come to the school to pick up a sick child, but they were not welcome to participate in other ways.

"What I was referring to was, I do not want them in here creating the kind of furor they created the other day," he said, explaining that his office door was open, other people were nearby, students were in the lobby and all could hear the expletive.

Last year, Dougherty was PTO president and Pyles was first vice president. The women said they volunteered for the posts when it looked like the school wasn't going to have a PTO.

Under their leadership, they said, the PTO's activities included a Christmas bazaar, school spirit days, an ice cream social, T-shirt sale, decorations for St. Patrick's Day and a track-and-field day for sixthgraders.

Dougherty said she remembers lying awake at nighttime trying to think of activities to raise money and both women talk about making numerous phone calls seeking volunteers for projects.

They also took complaints about Andersonville Elementary to the school board office and to administrators.

"We got the reputation as troublemakers," Pyles said. "I'm not a troublemaker."

The women agree that their biggest concern is that if people volunteer in the school, they should be acknowledged.

"You don't walk on them and treat them like dirt. People are getting tired of being walked on by everyone," Dougherty said. "Literally their biggest concern is parental involvement. If you don't give them credit, you're not going to get involvement.' They say they are hurt and angry.

"We want other people to know there are other parents who are upset-they aren't alone," said Dougherty.

"We never did anything to harm any child at that school-it was always for the betterment," said Pyles. "I hope parents will get involved and try to get things changed."

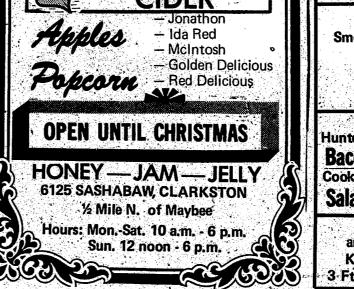

Neff, meanwhile, has plans for a new parentteacher organization at the school.

"We'll start from scratch. It could be just a parent organization. It could be a PTA," he said. 'That's something that has to happen.

"The one thing I want in the parents' organization is parents who are positive and who are working for the improvement of the school, not necessarily parents who have axes to grind and are here to be a negative influence," he added.

By Dan Vandenhemel

Clarkston Athletic Booster Club members are thinking ahead to next year and they're worried.

"There is a very good possibility that the system won't have athletics next year," Booster member Jeanne Molzon said. "I'm scared to death they could eliminate it for next year, so I felt we had to do something now."

Rather than just sit back and worry, the club members have come up with a plan. The idea is to get as many people as possible involved. The next newsletters for the two junior highs and the senior high will include forms for parents to fill out, asking Wednesday, thieves broke into a house on Rattalee Lake Road, Springfield Township, and stole $42.

Friday, thieves broke into a house on Andersonville Road, Independence Township, and stole $1,000 worth of men's clothing.

Saturday, vandals caused $400 in damages when they rolled a 1982 Volkswagen into the ball field at Clarkston High School, 6595 Middle Lake, Independence Township, and pushed it on its side.

Friday, police arrested a 23-year-old Holly man on the side of Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, for indecent exposure and urinating in a public place.

Saturday, police responded to the call of a Peepthose concerned to volunteer for as little as one activity like taking tickets at a game, selling raffle tickets or working in the Booster Club concession stand.

Molzon points out that the Booster project is at the investigative level-they want to see how many parents and community members are willing to help. If participation is high, she said, it would be a message to the board of education that the community is behind the sports program.

This year, the athletic budget is $109,896 with $76,896, coming from the school district's general fund and $33,000 from ticket sales. If things go as hoped, the Booster Club could contribute another ing Tom on Oakvista Road, Independence Township.

Saturday, thieves stole the hood off a 1980 Chevrolet parked in the driveway of an M-15 home, Independence Township.

Saturday, thieves broke into a garage on Perry Lake Road, Independence Township, and stole $1,200 worth of car parts.

Sunday, thieves broke into a house on M-15, Independence Township, and stole jewerly and a TV.

Sunday, thieves broke into a shed on Mustang Drive, Independence Township, and stole a $1,000 all-terrain vehicle.

This information came from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

$40,000 or $50,000, Molzon said, lowering the general fund contribution to less than $40,000.

Clarkston schools Superintendent Milford Mason agrees that it is likely there will be some cuts for the next school year, but with work on the '83-84 budget only beginning, no firm decisions have been made, he said.

(Sports are) as much a possibility as a whole host of other things," he said. "I feel (the Booster Club plan) is a positive outlook. It's the community trying to work together to face this--it's something they can do.

"Perhaps it will save the day," he added.

In the past, money raised by the Booster Club has gone for extras the athletic department couldn't afford, like the video taping equipment recently purchased.

"I feel we have to go in and help with the basics," Molzon said.

Clarkston Athletic Director Paul Tungate is not too worried.

"We have plans to go ahead with next year. As far as I'm concerned, we won't have any trouble. The last two years, we have had a very consistent budget. Last year it was around $112,000 and this year it's around $110,000," he said.

But the Booster Club is taking the stance that the past cannot predict the future, and Molzon stresses the importance of sports for the entire school system, citing school spirit and recreation for those actually on teams as well as those who attend the games.

Parents may use the form in the newsletters to indicate their willingness to help. Others interested in assisting may contact Jeanne Molzon at 625-9399 or Mary Jean Cox at 625-4446.

CJH mime troupe hosts show

Theater One students in Clarkston Junior High are gearing up for a Mime Show Thursday and Friday, Nov. 11 and 12.

Teacher Jan Gleeson said the students have been working the last five or six weeks on the show. "There are 60 students in the three Theater

One classes and all of them are working toward the show," Gleeson said. "There are enough skits that it won't be the same show on both nights."

Showtime is 7:30 p.m. both nights in Room 24 at Clarkston Junior High. Seating is limited to 100 people with tickets at $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students.

Locals lose

By Marilyn Trumper

Independence or Springfield township as a home address didn't appear to benefit those running for office this year.

Almost all candidates from the two townships : lost their respective races, except where they were running against another township resident as in the county commissioner race.

Former State Rep. Claude Trim, a Springfield Township Democrat, lost his bid to be re-elected to a third term.

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patter-. son, an Independence Township Republican, lost his bid for the governor's seat in the August primary, and his bid for the attorney general's seat last week.

James Hurrell, a Libertarian from Independence Township, lost his bid to capture a seat in the race in the United States congress, as he went up against veterans James Dunn (R) and the victor, Robert Carr (D). 12月11日

In the August primary, incumbent Senator Kerry Kammer (D) from Springfield Township, lost his party's race for the governor's seat, won by James Blanchard (D), the new governor.

It was not a good year for local politicians.

Thirteen seniors in

Thirteen Clarkston High School seniors plan to compete for scholarships Saturday, Nov. 20, in the Clarkston Junior Miss Program.

Last year the winner received $600, said Junior Miss chairperson Barbara Hamaker, and this year the winner should get about the same.

"We are looking for sponsors for the scholarships," she said. "The money coming from the tickets will also help toward the scholarships."

The girls competing are: Julie Bruce, Teressa Rizzo, Dawn Colling, Shellie VanKevren, Martha Huttenlocher, Kendra Kurz, Kelly May, Lisa King, Teresa Rathsburg, Jean Smart, Amy Selvala, Marget Nelson and Kelly Sokal.

The junior miss program is to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the CHS Little Theatre.

Tickets are $5. They may be purchased at the door or in advance. For more information, contact Barbara Hamaker at 625-4041.

Trim weighs all his options

It's back to the private sector after losing state rep's race

By Marilyn Trumper

Although he took his home townships of Independence and Springfield, former State Rep. Claude Trim (D-Davisburg) lost the election by 2,000 votes, and is throwing in the towel, leaving the political arena.

Beaten by opponent Mat Dunaskiss (R-Oxford), an 18-month holder of the office, both incumbents fought to capture the 61st District. The situation occurred because their home territories were joined when district lines were redrawn following the 1980 Censús.

Trim, 47, an eight-year veteran of the house, lives with his wife Geraldine in rural Springfield Township.

"After serving the people for eight years, seven days a week, 24 hours a day, it's really a letdown now." Trim said. "We're shutting down the Lake Orion office and keeping our options open. I don't know what I'm going to be doing."

Before his political career, Trim worked in the engineering department of General Motors for 22 years.

Trim remains proud he ran a "positive" campaign, and says his defeat came when voters refused to split their tickets.

"I tried to appeal to the majority of the voters" and here, most of them stuck with me," Trim said. "I went door-to-door in his district, as he did in mine. I think the deciding factor was that people refused to split their tickets.

"I knew it was going to be an uphill battle. I knew that when I decided not to run for the (state) Senate."

Old friends and constituents continue to call days after the election, looking for the state representative to run interference on some problem.

But Trim can't help.

"It's surprising how many people in Lansing don't want anything to do with you after you've lost, Trim said. "They pretend they don't know you, or just aren't available any longer.

"I've had people call me at home wanting me to do things for them. It's discouraging. I can't.

"Jim's jottings"

I believe golf clubs are being put away later each year and deer hunting talk is starting earlier each year . . . if that's possible.

Sat., Nov. 6 there was a "frost bite" tourney on a North Oakland golf course. The last time I played golf, October 23, it snowed . . . hard a couple times. So, I wasn't about to commit to Nov. 6.

It was a couple days after Oct. 23 when deer hunting was the topic of a call. Needling time had begun. Annually, several who know, remind me I have never shot a deer in over 30 years in the woods.

My-insistance that I really do go into the woods, and, I think, hunt quite seriously for a couple days, only increases the razing. But, they need an outlet for their viciousness.

This recent call had to do with a car;deer accident on a road near where we hunt.

Happy hunting

Seems Tom Offer (more on him in a minute) was travelling old US 2 with son, Tim strapped in the seat beside him, when a big (they're always big) buck blasted into the side of their vehicle.

It was only stunned and ran off.

The caller reported the incident to-me, adding . . . "My grandson is only 18-months-old and he has come closer to getting a buck than you have in 56 years."

Talking about hunting is like planning a vacation, which in many cases it is. The planning is great. The above mentioned Tom Offer, who deer hunts with us, is either building or planning an addition to his deer blind all year.

Sometimes he forgets just where he is in his planning. One day last year, a couple days before deer season, Tom had the cement truck delivering material for the blind foundation the same day the shutters were to arrive.

Tom has cleared the view from his deer blind so he has a good view of Lake Michigan, 12 miles away . . . in case a buck swims in from Hog Island.

We have another hunter in our group, Pansy Baldwin, who never plans a blind, but has his duffle laid out six weeks prior to Nov. 15.

Pansy's been hunting since WWII when he got frustrated when the Navy wouldn't give him a rifle, and has been going deer hunting ever since. He's been slightly more successful than, I. He got one once and swears he'll never shoot another.

CHS teacher retires after 37 years

By Marilyn Trumper

Leigh Bonner's deep, resonant voice filters out of Lecture Room 801 and echos down the lonesome hallways at Clarkston High School, empty for the most part while classes are in session. 'What are the three branches of government?''

"What is a hidden tax called?"

Who rules on the constitutionality of the laws passed by congress?"

After each question a chorus of well-prepared answers rise from the tiered rows of seats in United. States History class.

Faded blue-jeaned legs sprawl across the chairs, noses are buried in notebooks and pens scribble furiously across lined paper.

Bonner's at the podium.

The Attila the Hun of the history lecture circuit.

And he's not fooling around in these, his last few days of teaching.

Why break tradition?

After 37 years at CHS, Bonner, 62, is collapsing the telescope that helps him look into the past.

As of Nov. 12, he's retired. And in all those days, months, years and chapters, it's never gotten boring.

"Why should it? I don't teach a course, I teach children," Bonner says matter-of-factly, his face hidden behind a snow-white beard and umbrellaed by a head of matching white.

When he pulled onto Main Street so many years. ago in answer to the administration's offer, "I drove all around to see what Clarkston looked like. I had offers from Warren, Milford and Clarkston. It reminded me of my home in Traverse City so I decided to move here.

"I never regretted it and I have no plans to move. My friends are all here," he said.

From the home he shares with wife Lois on Hickory Trail in Independence Township, the couple can look out and see for miles. Clarkston splays out at their feet, and Waterford Hill tries vainly to fill the horizon, but falls short in the attempt.

"We used to live in the house across the street and at the time, this lot was vacant. I used to come over here, sit on top of a rock and look out at the view thinking, 'What a beautiful place to build.' We finally did.

While the historian has lived firsthand the past. 62 years; he still conjures up worn texts and outside reading material to help in teaching.

After 37 years, United States History teacher Leigh Bonner is retiring from Clarkston High School. In the dwindling days of his career, decade of the stock market crash and America between its big wars.

'When I was growing up then, I really didn't pay too much attention to what was going on. When I heard my parents talking about the stock market crash I thought it was a big building in New York that had collapsed." He smiled. "I enjoy that period because it's meaningful to what's going on today.

"As Santayana (a famed Spanish philosopher) said, 'Those who do not learn from history are condemned to repeat it.' I firmly believe that, I think that's what we're all doing. We're again going into the over-extending of credit at the bank, over-building and extensive spending, just like we were then," Bonner said.

Since beginning his teaching career in 1945, Bonner speculates he's taught 10,000 students, a possible record because of the large numbers in his classes:

His students still contact the strict, old-fashioned disciplinarian.

Two have returned to the alma mater as teachers.

"In all those years the only real change in the kids was the period of the '60s and early '70s, and that was understandable as far as I was concerned," Bonner said.

"Vietnam was a bad war, and they had very little to look forward to except misconduct."

Bonner lectures to an attentive class of students seated in the tiered seats of Room 801.

As he enters retirement and leaves the classroom, Bonner says his primary concern lies with the future of the public school system.

'I think it's pretty dim unless school boards and administrators learn to work together with teachers. But, I don't see that as possible because there's no trust," he said.

The priorities are like this. Number one, the bus and lunch schedule. Number two, computers. Number three, administrators. Number four, teachers. Number five, students.

"As far as I can see it's absolutely backwards. They should start with the students first. Either way you twist it, the administrators will still be in the middle," he said, smiling at the tongue-in-cheek joke.

But, Bonner says he won't run for the school board to turn the system around.

"No one individual can change things. (The school board's) had its mavericks and they've whipped them right into shape."

All in all, Clarkston's a good school, he said.

We've had a good school all the time I've been here. And a good faculty, But with the caliber of kids we have it shouldn't be a good school, it should be a great school. And we've never had that because we've never had the leadership from the administration. 'Education," Bonner said, "should be a privilege, not a right."

It was in the fall of 1944 that I made my first visit to Detroit's Marygrove College, to visit my much older sister, Terrible Jean, who was then a student there. My second visit was made 38 years later, last Saturday, to attend a lovely wedding and reception. Terrible Jean was there this time, too, threatening to kill the only point during the long war that she thought our side might lose.

The medals were in recognition of my performance on the shooting range during basic training at Fort Knox. I'd never shot a real gun before being drafted and, in fact, I'd never demonstrated the slightest skill at hitting anything, such . as a baseball or a tiddlywinks cup, and Mother figured if her son would win three medals for marksmanship, the average shooting ability of our troops had to be poor enough to allow the enemy to capture Michigan by simply marching sideways. Mother didn't realize that, even way back then, it was important that the weapons of war be sophisticated enough to allow even the wimplest soldiers to kill each other. I still remember how frightening it was to discover that even I could hit the bulls-eye with a rifle bullet. Today, of course, a "marksman" can wipe out an entire city without even seeing it. And today I realize that in 1944, I didn't know the meaning of real fright. BUT BACK to Marygrove in 1982. Men are not only allowed inside today, but many of them are students. On a campus where smoking was once forbidden, there is now a beer pub. And the college's banquet rooms are sometimes rented for Bacchanalian parties that, 40 years ago, would have caused rampant heart attacks among the nuns assigned to keep the college pure. I liked Marygrove better the second time around.

Except for what happened to make Terrible Jean threaten to kill me. Most of our large family attended last Saturday's party, and we traveled in several cars which were parked on the tree-shaded, peacefulappearing campus where vandals slashed two of my lovely radial tires. But I didn't learn about it until the next day because I rode home in another car. The relatives stuck with my car had to deal with the police report. the tow truck, the bill for temporary repairs, and other grief. One of those lucky relatives was Terrible Jean. She didn't get home until after 5 a.m. Witnesses later reported that. Terrible Jean's wrath was, naturally, terrible to behold, "My stupid little brother is home sleeping in a warm bed while I stay up all night waiting for his car to be fixed. I'm going to murder him," she said, among several other pungent declarations that can't be reproduced here. A Marygrove security officer guessed that Hallo-

me, thus proving some things never ch

But Marygrove has changed. It used to be strictly a Catholic college for girls, staffed by nuns, and strictly strict. In the eyes of the church, a student could be legally hung for smoking on campus. On my 1944 visit, I wasn't allowed inside Terrible Jean's dormitory because, from all outward appearances, I was a man. Terrible Jean came out on the front lawn and took a snapshot that, if immediately published in Germany and Japan, might have hastened the end of World War II.

IT IS THAT snapshot, still in a family photo album, that has kept my initial memory of Marygrove College alive all these years. In it, I am wearing my army uniform with three medals on my chest. In those days, I weighed 120 pounds and my chest was of such proportion that three medals covered it from shoulder to shoulder. I am standing beside my young, beautiful mother who, years later, confessed she always remembered that Marygrove photo as being taken at weeners ruined my tires. But the officer's name was Jim Fitzgerald (honest to God, but no relation), so what could he know? Personally, I think the slashers. were some Marygrove nuns who've been checking my church attendance for the past 38 years.

Michigan's gasoline consumption has declined to ... its lowest level in 13 years, down for the third straight year in a row.

That means a drop in gasoline sales tax and license plate purchases, and a $295 cut to Clarkston Village coffers.

Traditionally the village has used its state gas and

A tribute to Clarkston in the book of poems she keeps on her coffee table prompted Pat Dennis to share it with readers of The Clarkston News.

The book, "Dream Summer Songs" by Orrin Alden Demass, was published in 1931.

Dennis, an Independence Township resident, remembers meeting the author when she was a little girl. Alden had a summer home on Walters Lake, smoked a pipe and had gray hair. "He seemed old even then," she says.

The poem mentions the colonel's house on Pine Knob Hill, now the Hamburger Mansion at Pine Knob, and the Sashabaw, a creek that flows through property nearby.

On the Road to Clarkston Town By Orrin Alden Demass

'Long the rustic road to Clarkston town, Over the high hill, winding down, The gray road neighbors the blue lake's end, Where dogwoods bow, and willows bend. Where Lake Field farms lay spreading fair, With peaceful kin in the pasture there. The colonel's house on the Pine Knob Hill, O'er the deep green wood where the whippoorwill Sings his songs when the shadows fall, And night-time mantles over all. Where the Sashabaw 'neath alders cool Winds its way to the slumbering pool. There's the old rail fence from long ago, Where the fox squirrels play and the wild grape

A CONSUMER SHOPPING TIP

When waterproofing your basement, make sure your con-tractor's reputable. Read your contract carefully before signing. Question all language you don't understand. Be prepared to remove your own interior basement walls if contract so states. And don't let a salesman tell you soil conditions and water table are irrelevant. They're important.

Married 69 years, couple heads for the south

By Kathy Greenfield

Michigan's been their home for over 90 years and Emery and Louise Jones are sad about leaving. But they're together, smiling as usual, as they head to Florida this week to live with their son.

"It's sad to have to go," says Emery, 94.

"We've lived all our lives in Michigan," says Louise, 91

Residents of the Clarkston Mobile Home Estates on Sashabaw Road in Brandon Township, they moved to the Clarkston address four years ago, near the home of their granddaughter Carol Allen.

We don't do very much. It takes all of our time to take care of each other," says Louise. "We just liv- ; ed a natural life. Because we could stay together, we managed to live longer."

Emery's puts his advice into three words: "Justbe careful.

Asked to show a photograph of the couple taken when he was a lumberjack and she worked in the office of a northern Michigan town, Emery first produces wedding portraits.

"I cut her bangs," he says, pointing to the stylish hairdo of his young bride in the photo.

"We've been married 69 years." He smiles. It is something to be proud of.

The Joneses have participated for several years in the Méals on Wheels program offered by the Oakland Livingston Human Services Agency (OLSHA) through the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center.

Midge Taylor, the site manager for OLSHA, has known them two years.

She brought a small farewell gift to the couple last week as they were preparing to head for sunshine, and when she walked into the Joneses' home, the couple gave her a warm greeting.

Having someone stop by and say hello while dlivering the meals is an important part of the OLSHA program for housebound senior citizens,-Midge says.

But the Jonses, they have always been special. "They are extraordinary," she says. "They always look happy and smiling. If they have any problems, it doesn't show. I just think they're cute.

Equestrian team wins finals

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Clarkston Equestrian team traveled to Marine City last weekend and came home with a state championship.

Clarkston edged out South Lyons by one point, 100-99. Defending champion, Marine City was distant third with 83 points.

"Everything was going in our favor," coach Arlene Laurie said. "It was just the luck of the day."

This was Clarkston's first trip to the finals in the team's six-year history. South Lyons had won the event three years in a row previous to Marine City's win last year. Two other teams competed in the meet. Saranac finished fourth with 40 points and Lake Michigan Catholic was fifth with 35 points.

"We were sort of the underdogs by being the wildcard team," Laurie said.

To become the wild card team, Clarkston had the highest point total of any high school that didn't win

Wolves edge Lakers

By Dan Vandenhemel

What a great way to end a football season. A onepoint victory against a rival that dates back over 20 years.

Last Friday night the Clarkston Wolves defeated the West Bloomfield Lakers 7-6 in a Greater Oakland Activites League (GOAL) game to raise their record to 6-3 and to drop the Lakers to 3-6.

The Wolves scored first midway through the third quarter when quarterback Craig Kulaszewski plunged in from the 1-yard line. Place kicker Willie Williams made the extra point which furned out to be the winning margin.

Clarkston had an excellent scoring opportunity midway in the fourth quarter but was stopped on the 2-yard line by the Lakers.

The momentum switched to West Bloomfield because of its goal-line stance. The Lakers marched 98 yards to score on Bob Russette's 3-yard run with only 1:30 left in the game. The extra point attempt to tie the game was just wide to the left.

During the scoreless first half, both teams could not seem to mount any form of offense. Penalties and turnovers played a big part in stalling the offenses.

Clarkston committed two fumbles and Kulaszewski was intercepted once to stop their drives. On the other side of the field, the Lakers were having their troubles staying away from penalties. They had 10 penalties for 56 yards compared to the Wolves' two penalties for 25 yards.

"I'm real happy with this game," Wolves coach Walt Wyniemko said. "At the start of the year some people said we weren't big enough, that we weren't strong enough, but the team has done a great job.

"We hurt ourselves a couple of times out there in the first half but were able to come back," he said. "A team has to be able to come back if they want to win. We showed that we could do it."

Two of the three losses suffered by Clarkston this year were at the hands of undefeated teams. Their first setback was a 14-0 defeat to Bloomfield Hills Lahser. Then they lost 14-0 to league-leading Rochester. Their only other loss was to Waterford Kettering, 20-0.

"Traditionally, the game against West Bloomfield has been tough," Wyniemko said. "It's a strong rivalry that has developed between the two schools. They went after each other, it was a war out there."

Clarkston's Susan Kithil is finding it hard to do anything with the basketball as Sashabaw's Kim Bender (left) and Kecia Powell move in to cut her off.

CJHS finishes at 8-7

one of the four districts. They finished second to South Lyons in District 1, Marine City won District 2, Lake Michigan Catholic took District 3 and Saranac was the champion in District 4.

Clarkston placed in the top six in every one of the classes except one. South Lyons and Marine City each missed two classes. Clarkston finished first in seven of the classes compared to three for South Lyons.

Glarkston held the lead for the entire event, and after 12 of the 17 classes were finished they held a 27-point lead. South Lyons came back to cut the lead to just six points with one class to go but fell just short

"After Marine City found out that they couldn't of the win, beat us they started to root for us," Laurie said. 'They were really happy for us that we had won." There are 59 high schools in the state that have equestrian teams. The Clarkston team is totally selfsupporting, receiving no funding from the school ALTENTA IL , INCHIGINIO . TOTT

Susan Lovelady scored 10 points to lead the Clarkston Junior High basketball team over Sashabaw Junior high Nov. 4 41-30 in the last game of the season for both teams.

Clarkston coach Denny Bronson was please with his team's performance over the course of the year.

"We've won seven out of our last seven games. In this game, the kids were taking the outside shots instead of moving the ball in toward the basket. Maybe they were a little nervous," he said.

Sashabaw was led by Sue Stefanski with nine points and Kecia Powell with eight points. For Clarkston, Sherry Kulaszewski and Shivonne DeBoer each had seven points. 01 ್ರಿಲ್ನಿ ಈ ನಿರ್ದರ್ಶ

Clarkston held a 18-13 halftime lead and kept the lead the rest of the game. Midway in the fourth quarter, Lovelady hit a long jumper then stole the ball at half court and drove in for a easy lay-up to increase lead to 40-28. In the first meeting between the two teams, Clarkston won 26-23.

'Sashabaw has come a long way since that first game," Bronson said. "They are a better team than earlier in the year. This was a good ball game, they just didn't get the shots."

Sashabaw coach Nancy Foster said her team's missed free throws really hurt them.

"We tried to hold their big scorers, but they scored the same as they did in our first game," she

Season ends at state finals

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Clarkston Cross Country team ended its season last weekend in the State Finals held in Flint.

The girls' team competed in the team event and two boys, Paul Burch and Guy Chandler, ran in individual races.

For the girls, it wasn't a good afternoon. They finished in last place, even though they qualified for the finals by placing second in the state regional.

"The girls were disappointed," coach Mike Kaul said. But I reminded them that really they were not losers because only championship caliber teams can ever qualify for the state meet.

'We may have been last at the state meet," he said. "But there are about 75-80 schools in the state that couldn't even qualify for the meet."

The team was led by Pam Stoecklin with a time of 20:36, good for 66th place. Kris Baert finished in 80th with a time of 20:56 and Montie LaPorte was 99th with a time of 21:15. Other varsity runners were Trisha Johnson, 131st-22:05; Kim Heaton, 137-22:12; Lisa Burkemo, 146-22:45; and Beth Galbey, 147-22:46.

Burch and Chandler both qualified at the state regional. Burch, making his second appearance at the state finals, finished 32nd with a time of 16:24. He improved by about 40 places over last year's finish. Chandler finished in 62nd place with a time of 17:09.

The Clarkston Girls Varsity Basketball team is coming off two upset wins this past week against Troy Athens on Tuesday and Rochester on Thursday.

Athens is rated one of the top 20 high school teams in the state and is ranked third in Oakland County. Rochester was in first place in the Greater Oakland Activities League (GOAL) and Clarkston was ranked sixth in the county.

In Tuesday's game against Troy, the Wolves had three of their starters foul out before the fourth quarter began but still managed a 46-39 victory. Sue Ketvirtis led Clarkston with 18 points and Annette Ulasich added 12 points. Lin Klingler did a fine job under the basket by bringing down 11 rebounds.

In the game against Rochester, Ketvirtis was again the leading scorer with 18 points. Lori Martin chipped in with 17 points and Ulasich turned in an all around good game with 12 points, 11 rebounds and 11 assists.

"The 11 assists by Ulasich was just outstanding as was the scoring by Ketvirtis all week," Clarkston coach Dave McDonald said. "We've played excellent defense all week which was a big factor.

Sashabaw defeats Clarkston

By Dan Vandenhemel

When Sashabaw Junior High School played. Clarkston Junior High in football last Wednesday night, two events took place that never happened before. It was the first time Sashabaw has ever beaten Clarkston twice in the same season and it was also the first time Clarkston has had a losing season.

The Cougars defeated the Wolves 48-12 which left Sashabaw at 6-3 for the year and Clarkston at 1-8 for the year.

The first score of the game came on the Cougars' Jeff Davis' 78-yard run early in the first quarter. Davis later added one more touchdown as Sashabaw took a 22-6 halftime lead.

Todd Fenton scored the Wolves' first six points in the second quarter on a 12-yard pass from Randy Kosek, Clarkston's final touchdown came on Erik Johnson's 50-yard run early in the final quarter.

Others scoring touchdowns for Sashabaw were Jim Ruelle, Tim Weir, quarterback Bob LaPorte, Kevin Krupp and Tom Gosley, LaPorte did a fine job at quarterback for the Cougars by completing eight of 11 passes for 97 yards as the team also ran for 403 yards.

"This has been a real good season for us," Cougar coach Steve Pearson said. "We have been short a couple of times but the kids did a great job."

"They are a good football team," Clarkston coach John Craven said. "What can I say? We were completely dominated."

Section II

Article XIII Section 12.01 is hereby amended to add the following:

With regard to the National Flood Insurance Program; and the regula-tion of development within the flood hazard area zone as prescribed in Article X, the duties of the Building Inspector shall include, but are not limited to: a. notification to adjacent communities and the Department of Natural Resources of the proposed alteration or relocation of any watercourse, and the submission of such notifications to the rederal Insurance Amministration; verification and recording of the actual elevation in relation to mean sea level of the lowest floor, including basement, of all new or substantially improved structures constructed within the flood hazard area, and in the case of floodproofed structures, the elevation to which the structure was floodproofed; ь.

recording of all certificates of floodproofing, and written notification to all applicants to whom variances are granted in a flood hazard area zone indicating the terms of the variance, the increased danger to life and property and that the cost of flood insurance will increase commensurate with the increased flood risk, and may reach amounts in access of 25200 for S100.00 of insurance coverage per year. A record of all variance notifica-tions and various actions shall be maintained together with the justification for each variance.

All records and maps pertaining to the National Flood Insurance Program shall be maintained in the office of the Building Inspector and shall be open for public Inspection.

It shall be the responsibility of the Building Inspector to obtain and utilize the best available flood hazard data for purposes of administering this ordinance, in the absence of data from the Flood Insurance Administration. Section III

Article XII, Section 12.02 is amended to add the following:

d. Flood Hazard Area Application Information. In addition to the information required for an application for a building permit, special use per-mit or any other type of development permission required under this Ordinance, the following information must be submitted as part of an application to com-mence any type of development within a flood hazard zone:

the elevation in relation to mean sea level of the floor, including basement, of all structures; · 1.

where floodproofing will be employed, the elevation in relation, to mean sea level to which a structure will be floodproofed;

where floodproofing will be employed, a certificate from a registered professional engineer or architect that the floodproofing criteria of this ordinance will be met;

where it can be determined that development is proposed within zones AI-30 on the FIRM or the regulatory floodway, a cer-a determination that failure to grant the variance would result in exceptional hardship to the applicant; and a determination that the granting of a vortance will not result in flood heights in excess of those permitted by this ordinance additional threats to public safety, extraordinary public expense, create nuisances, cause fraud on or victimization of s the public, or conflict with existing laws or dedinances.

eria na bra depade trans

The variance granted shall be the minimum necessary, considering the flood hazard, to afford relief to the applicant.

The Zoning Board of Appeals may attach conditions to the granting of a variance to insure compliance with the standards contained in this ordinance.

Variances may be granted for the reconstruction, rehabilitation or restoration of structures listed on the National Register of Historic Places or the Hichigan Historic Makers listing of historic sites, or any other state register of historic places without regard to the requirements of this section governing variances in flood hazard areas.

SECTION V

Article III is hereby amended to add the following Section: Section, 3.03, Flood Hazard Area Mapping Disputes:

Where disputes arise as to the location of the flood hazard area boun-dary or the limites of the floodway, the Zoning Board of Appeals shall resolve the dispute and establish the boundary location; in all cases, the decision of the Zoning Board of Appeals shall be based upon the most current floodplain stu-dies (ssued) by the federal Insurance Administration. Where federal Insurance Administration information is not available, the best available floodplain. Information shall be utilized.

Where a dispute involves an allegation that the boundary is incorrect as mapped and Federal Insurance Administration floodplain studies are being questioned, the Zoning Board of Appeals shall modify the boundary of the flood bazard area or the floodway only upon receipt of an official letter of map amendment issued by the Federal Insurance Administration.

All parties to a map dispute may submit technical evidence to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

The most recent base flood elevation data received from rederal insurance Administration shall take precedence of data from other sources.

Mohile Home Standards

All mobile homes shall be anchored to resist flotation, collarse, or lateral movement by providing over-the-top and frame ties in accord with the following specifications:

Over-the-ton ties shall be provided at each of the four corpers of the molite home, with the additional ties, per side at intermediate locations, except that on mobile homes, less than 50 feet in length one tie per side shall be required.

Frame ties shall be provided at each corner of the home with five additional ties per side at intermediate points, except that on mobile homes less than 50 feet in lennth four ties per side shall be required.

All components of the anchoring system shall be capable of carrying a force of 4,800 pounds. 13.

All additions to a mobile home shall be similarly

8. An evacuation play indicating alternate vehicular access and escape routes shall be filed with Oakland County Emergency Hedical Service and Disaster Control Division for mohile home parks and mohile home subdivisions.

Mobile homes within zones Al-30 on the Fidod-Insurance Rate . Map shall be located in accord with the following standardst.

All mobile homes shall be placed on stands or lots which are elevated on compacted fill or on pilings so that the lowest floor of the mobile home will be at least one foot above the base flood-level.

Adequate surface drainage away from all structures and access for a mobile home hauler shall be provided.

3. In the instance of elevation on pilings, lots shall be large enough to permit steps, piling foundations shall be placed in stable sail no more than 10 feet awart; and reinforcement shall be provided for piers more than six feet above ground level.

4. In mobile home-parks and mobile home subdivisions which exist at the time this subsection is adopted, where repair, reconstruction on improvement of streets, utilities and pads before the value of the streets, utilities and pads before the repairs, the streets is utilities and pads a, and e of this subsection shall be complete with.

6. Standards for areas of Shallow Flooding

The following standards shall apply in areas of shallow flooding denoted as AO zones on the FIRM:

All new construction and substantial improvements of residential structures shall bave the Invest Three including basement, elevated above the crown of the mearest street to or above the newth number snecifier on the FIRM.

All new construction and substantial improvements of pon-residential structures (shall either)

Alphabetizing attendance slips, a duty usually performed by his daughter Dawn, is one of Dennis Willett's duties during Swap Day.

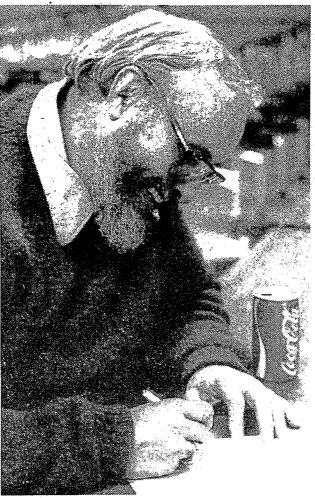

Ruth Hutchons keeps track of her place in the algebra book of her son Darryl, a CHS 10thgrader.

His day as a CHS student is over, and Elden Mudge takes time to fill out a survey used to judge parents' reactions to Swap Day.

from Shirley Wollerman, Elden Mudge, Bill Kurz, Helen Smith, Dennis Willett and Sharon Scott.

The parents were among the about 200 who participated in Swap Day last week at Clarkston High School.

Each had good things to say about experiencing their child's high school schedule for the day. And most of them laced their comments with a touch of humor.

Busy alphabetizing attendance slips while taking over his daughter Dawn's duties as an office assistant during one class hour was Dennis Willett.

His daughter's a senior and he wanted to participate while he could, Willett said. Then he talked about the intricacies of dashing to classes from one end of the building to the other.

"I guess sometimes they manage to get there in time. I was late in two classes." He laughed. "I thought I was going to have to stay after school today."

Elden Mudge, junior Melinda Austin's guardian, had a similar experience.

"I was lost," he said. "I was supposed to be going to chorus and I was down there." He pointed to the building's far northeast corner, then to the far southwest corner where he should have been.

"The kids have a hectic life," he said. "I think they try to jam too much in one day. It seemed like when I was in high school I had more time."

Standing behind the piano in band class was Shirley Wollerman. She got some assistance from band Director Clifford Chapman, a first for the day.

"They expected a lot more work out of us than I thought they would," she said. Parents were responsible for classroom assignments and were supposed to participate in classroom discussions and activities.

She had to work with a microscope in two classes. "I didn't find anything under either one!" she said.

"I had fun with it though," she quickly added. "I worked a lot harder today than I would have had I gone to work."

Wollerman split her time between her children's classes—Wendy's a sophomore and Chris is a junior—with each of them putting in a half-day.

Spotted walking down the hall reading an algebra book was Ruth Hutchons, there in place of her sons, 10th-grader Darryl and 11th-grader Andre.

"The hassle of the early morning and the classes you have to take—I can see what the guys have gone through when they get home. They really need the time to prepare for classes," she said.

Experiencing what her daughter Sarah, a senior, went through was a positive one, said Sharon Scott.

"It's a long day, a lot of running back and forth between classes and a head full of information I'm trying to assimilate," she said, summing it all up. "I think she has excellent teachers and most students were helpful and courteous."

Exercising in the weight room was one experience Dawn Haskins won't forget, thanks to her daughter, 10th-grader Kelly, who insisted she participate.

"I said I wanted to take aerobics because I'm familiar with that. She said, 'I want you to see what I'm going through,' "Haskins said, adding the surprise of the day.

"I liked it. It's a lot tougher than the health spa.

Surrounded by CHS band members, Shirley Wollerman stands behind the plano, the usual spot of her son Chris. Band was a relief, she says.

I'm familiar with that. Those kids are really strong—I had to take half the weights off. The kids have it a lot tougher job than I thought. I'll have sympathy for them."

Bill Kurz was dropped off at school by his daughter. The day was almost over, and Kendra, a senior, had returned with the car to pick up her dad.

senior, had returned with the car to pick up her dad. "It was great," he said. "(Advanced-Placement) English was tough. Drafting was a cinch."

"He's a draftsman," she said, clearing up the reason for her father's confidence.

Mixed feelings about classes also came through for Helen Smith, there for her 11th-grader Steve.

"I'm very confident in some areas, but it's been interesting," she said. "I'm completely lost in geometry. I think I flunked the test in Spanish." The teacher said the test wouldn't have much affect on the total grade, but the work of their parents counted, following the Swap Day philosophy. That's

A CONSUMER SHOPPING TIP

When waterproofing your basement, make sure your contractor's reputable. Read your contract, carefully before signing. Question all language you don't understand. Be prepared to remove your own interior basement walls if contract so 'states. And don't let a salesman tell you soil conditions and water table are irrelevant. They're important.

the St. Daniel Church Hall kitchen are Marion Linenger (front) and Esther Thomas.

St. Daniel's readies for bazaar

The kitchen and dining hall at St. Daniel Catholic church was all a-bustle last week as members of the Rosary Guild prepared for the annual Christmas Bazaar planned Friday, Nov. 12.

As women stirred giant pots of white and dark chocolate, filled molds and put sticks in place for suckers, they listed the other candies to be sold: peanut brittle, fudges, dipping chocolate and rock

Already baked and ready for Christmas trims were a new bazaar item, 60 pounds of homemade

Also new this year is the location of the luncheon, moved to a hall of its own inside the building, the luncheon will feature space set aside for those who have to eat quickly and get back to work or to other planned activities. For $3.50, the lunch includes Maurice salad, rolls, dessert and beverage. It will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Bazaar hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. with plenty of homemade craft items for Christmas gifting, wreaths, decorations and Grandma's Attic with slightly used goods for sale.

Winners of the raffle-tickets are $1-will boast ownership of a handmade quilt from German Town, Ohio; a ceramic nativity set with a basket; an afghan; a Christmas tree skirt; or a leaded glass angel and tree

Co-chairpersons of the bazaar are Diana Frechette and Fran Schirle.

The church hall is located at 7010 Valley Park, at the corner of Holcomb Street and Miller Road in Independence Township.

They're all twins and 7th-graders

By Marilyn Trumper

Being a twin isn't all it's cracked up to be if you listen to the four such sets in seventh-grade at Clarkston Junior High.

"Everybody always says, 'Oh, aren't they cute. They're twins,' " said Matt Zabel, scrunching up his face and squinting his eyes, mimicking a nosy old busybody.

"Gootchie, gootchie-goo!" he adds. "I hate it when they say that. You get sick of it."

Being a twin is not cute, sometimes it's darn tough and there's no gootchie, gootchie-goo to it, according to Matt.

They have to share friends and clothes and learn how to deal with one brother or sister socializing while the other stays home.

They struggle for that independence and individuality associated with junior high kids, and have to shrug off a copycat shadow that's there all the time.

"I bought these new Nikes with the blue stripe," he said, brandishing a foot.

"(Paul) had to go out and get a pair just like 'em," he said with disgust.

"Yep," laughed Paul, offering a look at his foot, smiling all the while.

Matt and his 12-year-old brother Paul are paternal, non-identical, twins.

Paul's smaller, has a head of blond hair and a face filled with freckles. Matt has none of the above. But they often think alike.

"Sometimes I'll be thinking a song and it'll be in my head, and (Matt) will start singing it," said Paul. Ready to talk about the benefits and shortfalls of being a twin, Matt and Paul, Norman and Nancy Warden, Lori and Lisa Irwin and Kelly and Jennifer DuPree shuffle inside a small room at the end of a long empty hall, dropping down into folding chairs.

Norman and Nancy Warden, 12, while not identical, look a lot alike.

Both have a upturned noses and faces filled with freckles.

But, they say, the similarities stop there.

While other twins exchange clothes and copy one another's wardrobes, Nancy said, "We don't have the problem."

The group snickers at the thought of seeing Norman in a skirt.

"And, I don't like to eat...he's always eating," Nancy said.

Norman draws the line for differences, with age. "I always like to remind her I'm the oldest," he said. "I'm older by 10 minutes."

Lori and Lisa Irwin, 12, are co-conspirators in a lot of shenanigans like the dreaded flush-the-toiletpaper-down-the-hatch event at an early age.

"I was the lookout," laughed Lisa.

"And anything we do, I always get hurt," said Lori. "She never does. During the pillow fight, I broke the lamp."

"That's because I didn't catch it," confessed Lisa.

For these two non-identical sisters there is at least one benefit to being a twin. "We can do homework together."

"People always ask, 'How come Lisa has braces and you don't?' I tell them it's because I don't need braces, my teeth aren't like hers," Lori said.

All the twins agree it's tough for the average guy on the street to understand how twins can be the same—yet different.

"People want to know how Nancy and I can be twins when I'm a boy, and she's a girl," Norman said. "I always have to explain it to them."

Matt agrees saying, "People don't understand how Paul and I can be twins when we don't look alike. But we are."

Jeniffer and Kelly DuPree, 12, don't have that problem. They're identical, and it stumps a lot of folks.

Suprisingly, none of the twins share secrets with the other.

"No way, she'd tell," said Kelly.

They don't talk about their fears and problems with each other.

"I ask my older sister," Kelly said.

"People say we should get along better than we do, but we fight a lot," agreed Jeniffer. "And it's hard because we share the same friends. We like a lot of the same kinds of people and like to do the same kinds of things.

things. "It's really hard when one friend will call up and ask Kelly or I to spend the night. One goes and the other stays," Jennifer said.

Twins.

It's double-trouble all the way around.

Parents learn ways of high school life what worried 10th-grader Chuck Hoover, one of the over 1,100 students whose parents didn't swap.

"I wouldn't let (my mother) come. She'd flunk all my classes. She can't do algebra or cell phys (a science class)," he said.

Still, it wasn't so bad having parents there.

"They're nice—most of them," said the outspoken student. "There was one in a bad mood or something, he seemed grouchy. Other than that, they were all right."

There were some differences in the school's atmosphere, too, said a trio of 10th-grade boys. The lunchroom and classrooms were quieter and teachers were in better moods.

One problem surfaced during the second Swap Day at CHS, said Principal Dom Mauti.

Parents called in absences for their children at Trying leg presses in the weight room is Dawn Haskins. There at the insistence of her 10thgrader Kelly, she'll now understand what gym class is like. about twice the usual rate—up to 132 from the normal 60 to 70.

"I think some of them said, 'Well, I'm not going up there, but I'll call in for you' and that defeats the purpose," Mauti said, adding that for the next Swap Day, more thought would go into ways to encourage more parental involvement and less absenteeism.

At the end of the day, about 125 parents filled out surveys and Mauti was pleased with the results. Asked if the experience was worthwhile, 124 said "yes" and one said "no." A full 100 percent said students were helpful and courteous. The way students dress was approved by 94 percent, and 85 percent said they did not see overcrowding as a problem.

While holding Swap Days in the spring and the fall is under consideration, a final decision has yet to be made.

"We don't know if we're going to do it again this year, but we'll do it next year for sure," Mauti said.
