3 men arrested in undercover bust

What's been described by undercover state troopers as a "routine narcotics investigation" of LSD sales ended this week with the arrest of three Independence Township men and may have saved the life of an 80-year-old woman, their alleged targeted robbery victim.

According to Detective-Lt. John Fonger, the Michigan State Police Department's two-month surveillance of a mid-level drug dealer ended with the Friday night arrest of Daniel Matt Majewski, 21, of East Church Street, Clarkston; and Steven Hershel Wallace, 21, of Mohawk Drive and Edward Lee Ross, 18, of Console Road, both of Independence

The trio were arraigned Jan. 22 on charges of delivery of marijuana and conspiracy to commit armed robbery.

For two months, state troopers purchased quantities of LSD (a hallucinogen) and marijuana from Majewksi's Church Street address, according to Fonger, and were invited to take part in the robbery of an 80-year-old woman living alone on Walters Lake. According to Fonger, one of the trio knew the woman owned a gas station, and speculated there would be large amounts of cash in the home.

Wired for sound, the undercover officer taped plans of the robbery as the trio traveled Independence Township's dirt roads, mapping their getaway, Fonger said.

'(The officer) was told they may have to 'kill her,' " Fonger said, meaning the woman.

Police removed the woman from her home, thwarting attack, Fonger said, and later arrested the trio in a remote area near Pine Knob when the undercover officer requested they stop the car. Three marked cars swooped in and made the arrest, Fonger said.

A preliminary exam has been set for Feb. 2 at the 52nd District Court before Judge Gerald E. McNally.

Both Wallace and Majewski were out on bond, accused of a Springfield Township breaking and entering when the second arrest was made, according to Fonger.

Police describe Majewski as a "mid-level" dealer, a go-between for bigger distributors working the Davison-Clarkston, North Pontiac area.

February groundbreaking planned by developer

By Marilyn Trumper

By the third week in February, developer Hugh Garner plans to get conceptual site plan approval for proposed. $30-million Senior Citizens Village.

Groundbreaking is expected to take place in ear-

The proposed 30-acre complex near Dixie Highway and I-75 is designed to house 400 seniors, with optional living in condominiums, units with housekeeping and, now, cottages. In addition, the development is to include a nursing center with supportive care, a clinic and social dining area.

"The plan is basically what I've been proposing, but I have revised the site plan and I'm now looking at cottage units," said Garner, owner of Winchester

Real Estate. The addition of cottages followed a feasibility study, Garner said. ... There's no question there's a market. Since we put up our sign in December announcing the project, we've had 34 people on the waiting list to make application," he said.

'This is real exciting. We're getting closer to putting all the pieces together.' Garner's hired the Nashville, Tenn., firm of American Retirement Corp. to design the complex. The firm specializes in building retirement com-

But, Garner added, he's yet to hammer out an agreement with a non-profit organization interested in running the operation or to line up all the required financing.

The development includes 13 landlocked acres in Springfield Township.

The Independence Township resident won't say what lake he caught his contest-winning northern pike in last July.

"I'm not telling where it's at," he said. "I stumbled across the lake about five years ago while rabbit hunting. As soon as someone tells of a big catch and where it happened, the lake will be fished out."

Schliter won the first prize of free mounting at Waterford Hills Sports Center summer fishing contest with the 14-pound, 38-inch pike.

Fishing with Schliter that day was his cousin Curt Talley and he caught a 27-inch pike. In all, the pair pulled in five pike from the lake.

"That's not the biggest pike I caught there, either," Jerry said. "I caught a 16-pounder a couple of years ago. This one here put up a 20-minute fight. It wasn't hard but my arms were tired."

While he's keeping quiet about the place, Schliter did say he caught the fish with a mud-bug lure and a "Ugly Stik" or graphite rod by Shakespeare.

"The lake is off in the woods and you can't get to it by car, you have to walk about a mile to get to it," Schliter said. "I've told some people about it, but not

Arbitrator ends teaching dispute; Kaul

By Kathy Greenfield

A dispute over which teacher should have been recalled to fill a Clarkston High School post has been settled. "Michael Kaul will stay at the high school as a social studies teacher," Clarkston schools Administrative Assistant Conrad Bruce said Tuesday.

Laid-off teacher Barbara Markwood challenged Kaul's recall with a grievance filed through the Clarkston Education Association (CEA) and a hear-CONTROL SECURITION OF SECURITI ing was held in November before the Clarkston schools Board of Education. The board voted 4-3 to deny the grievance and keep Kaul on the job.

The CEA and Markwood challenged the board's decision and all parties agreed to accept the ruling of an arbitrator who heard the case Jan. 19, Bruce said.

"In this layoff, seniority kind of thing you start splitting hairs on jobs, and jobs are very important,"

Markwood testified before the school board that Additional top been notice of block in she could remember meeting Kaul in the administration building the morning they both signed on as Clarkston schools teachers, July 27, 1979. She had already signed her contract and Kaul was on his way in to sign his, she said.

Because the school board's policy is to use time as the deciding factor recalls, Markwood claimed she should have the job Kaul filled when Clarkston High School teacher Leigh Bonner retired in November.

Residents may not pay cable inspection fee

By Marilyn Trumper

Independence Township and Multi-Cablevision have tentatively hammered out an agreement where residents won't have to pay an inspection fee when their cable system is installed.

The township negotiating committee and Multi-Cablevision's Gil Clark agreed to the plan last week, which requires board approval. The board is expected to adopt the franchise at its Feb. 1 meeting and review the permit fee at that time.

Decision ends CHS job debate

Kaul said he could not remember whether he signed first, or if Markwood did. But there were two calendars that listed Kaul's appointment to sign the contract before Markwood's, that of Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara and a receptionist's.

Leon Herman was the arbitrator from the American Arbitrators Association hired by the district and the CEA.

"He said the documents that we had prevail,"

Herman agreed to telephone his decision to the district so the matter could be settled, Bruce said, and a follow-up report is expected.

The school district and the CEA will split the cost of hiring the arbitrator, Bruce said, and he expects the fee to total between $400 and $800.

The district will also pay a fee to its attorney who attended the hearing held last week in the Clarkston schools administration building.

According to Clerk Christopher Rose, in charge of negotiations, Multi-Cablevision has agreed to use a portion of the township's franchise fee upfront to pay the cost of inspections.

As part of the complex agreement between the company and township, the 5 percent franchise fee is broken into two categories. The first calls for 3 percent, approximately $30,000 a year, for general use; the remaining 2 percent, $20,000 a year, is to be used for studio equipment and programing. The 3 percent portion is where the township is looking at to pay the cost of inspections, Rose said.

Clark called it the "most realistic" of all plans the committee had reviewed.

The franchise fee is 50 percent of the cable system's gross revenues, paid to the township each year, according to Rose. Multi-Cablevision has agreed to advance the township a portion of those costs to cover inspection fees and to reclaim the funds in the fourth year of the contract, Rose said.

Earlier, township officials talked about having residents absorb the cost of an inspection, to ensure the system had been installed properly.

-Correction

Background information should have been included, but was not, in a Jan. 19 Clarkston News story on a lawsuit filed in Oakland County Circuit Court against Independence Township:

The suit asks the court to grant approval for a subdivision plan for 53 acres off Reese Road, alleging it would be economically unfeasible to develop the property without a 925- and 950-foot cul-de-sac. The suit also charges Supervisor James B. Smith with conflict of interest, because he owns property adjacent to the proposed subdivision, and seeks to bar his votes on the development.

The subdivision's tentative preliminary plat was approved with U-roads (or loop roads) by the township board in March 1981, Smith said, but after a portion of the original subdivision property was sold, the plat proposal had to be reheard by the board.

Smith's present objections are based on the two proposed cul-de-sacs, he said.

"I regularly oppose cul-de-sacs longer than 600 feet," Smith said. "U-roads are the answer to the problem for safety reasons."

School board upgrades business manager

By Kathy Greenfield

Upping the salary of the business manager position by some $6,000, the Clarkston board of education has approved hiring William D. Jackson for the post.

Jackson, presently the assistant superintendent of business operations for the Millington school district, is to begin his new job late in February, following a 30-day notice to his employer.

The action took place at a special school board meeting Jan. 20. All six of the seven members present approved the motion to hire Jackson for $35,000 with a raise, contingent on acceptable performance, to $37,450 on July 1.

Superintendent Milford Mason began the discussion by stating the need to upgrade the business manager position recently vacated by Stanley Darling, who took a post with the Lansing school district. The need for more long-term planning is needed considering the financial plight of the district, he said, and the salary of the business manager should be equal to the maximum for an elementary school prinicpal.

"I think what it boils down to is we have been getting Stan very, very cheap," said Mary Jane Chaustowich. "I don't think we can afford to take on a person with less experience for $6,000 less...I think we're going to have to bite the bullet and pay for what we want."

Vincent Luzi based objections to the higher salary on three items. He said 12 applications were considered of 19 received and, with the poor economic climate, more qualified people must need work; the district's stance on its financial condition includes no raises for teachers in ongoing union negotiations; and talk of upgrading the position was not shared with board members not sitting on the hiring committee.

He listed money recently spent to form academically talented and community education programs, and to hire a lobbyist to represent the district

"We keep crying, 'Wolf' in terms of the financial burden we're in, but we always find money for these neat things," he said.

Mason countered by saying the academically talented program was formed after the school board targeted it as a district need, community education looks like it will break-even this year and eventually make a little money for the district and having a lobbyist could payoff because the district will have a voice

A qualified business manager could save the district far more money than the expense of his salary, Mason said.

Voting to approve the Jackson for the post were board President Janet Thomas, Vice President Stephen Werner, Secretary Chaustowich, Treasurer Fernando Sanchez and trustees Addison Hubbard and Luzi. Trustee Carolyn Place was absent.

Millington is located in Tuscola County, near Frankenmuth. The district has 2,200 students and a budget of $4 to $5 million.

Clarkston enrollment is about 6,174 and the budget is $13.8 million.

In order to accept the Clarkston post, Jackson took a decrease in salary, Mason said, noting that because Jackson resides in Ortonville, his drive to work will be shorter.

Complaint: 'great orange way

By Marilyn Trumper

Offering a tongue-in-cheek remark about the "great orange way," Supervisor James B. Smith requested the new lights in Independence Township Hall's parking lot be redirected from shining on neighboring houses following complaints from a resi-

"My house is white during the day and orange at night," said Gary Mitchell of 104 Main. "The light emits a strong, orange light that covers the township property, but also lights up my driveway, the side of the house and the entire yard, across the property onto Robertson Court.

"There is a need for lighting this area during the night for the protection of our properties. But something should be done to cut down on the light.'

According to George Anderson, director of the township department of public works, the new highpressure sodium lights were installed just before Christmas as a cost-cutting measure.

"Before that we had the incandescent lights. They didn't work half the time and I think that's why the new lights make such a big difference. They work all the time," he said. "They also cost 60 to 70 percent

Anderson says he'll re-direct the lights this week, and has written the manufacturer for information on screening the orange glow.

"I think if we do that and direct the lights toward township hall and away from the homes, we'll eliminate our problem," he said.

"The Great White Way" is a nickname for Broadway in New York City.

Citizens rally against Stablex

By Dan Vandenhemel

Residents of Springfield and Independence townships could be affected by a proposed toxic waste treatment plant in Groveland Township by the Stablex Corp. of Britain, according to Chris Maniaci, organizer of the Citizens Committee Against Stablex.

The site of the plant is just three feet above the aquifer that provides well water to northern Oakland County, she said.

"If there was an accident, I've been told there would be close to 10,000 homes affected," Maniaci

While Maniaci said she understands dealing with toxic waste is a problem, she suggested other locations

"Our soil here is all sand and gravel," she said. "I would think a clay base would be better for the plant. Detroit would be a much better location, they have city water for drinking and they have sewers. If there was an accident, there would be less chance of a contamination." Stablex representative Robert Popa said, after the meeting, the toxic waste would be combined with a chemical neutralizer before buried in the landfill. The end-product is nontoxic, has no smell, is nonflammable and is noncombustable, he said.

"It's much like cement," he said. "It only takes three days to set up so you can walk on it and after a month you can drive a truck on it."

Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls said the Groveland site at 1-75 and Grange Hall Road is not desirable.

"There are clay areas not far from that site here in Springfield," he said. "It's important to do something with the waste. I think this movement against the plant is not anti-Stablex, just the location

Walls also said the volunteer fire department in Springfield had some training in toxic materials, but that was some time ago and they would need more training.

Independence Township Supervisor Jim Smith expressed similar concerns.

"Our fire department would have to be upgraded in case of an emergency," he said. "The trucks hauling the chemicals would be going right by Clarkston on I-75. If there was an accident near here, we would have to handle it."

Over 500 concerned citizens and residents of Groveland Township showed their opposition to the proposed plant in a public meeting Jan. 19 at Holly High School. The Citizens Committee presented their case and a petition with 3,600 signatures to the state Site Approval Board.

Popa said when former Governor William Milliken invited Stablex to Michigan in 1977, a list of possible sites was made available to the company.

"There were a couple dozen sites and Stablex experts eliminated them one-by-one until just two possible sites were left," he said. "Groveland was the best site and an area in Monroe County was next, but the Federal EPA turned that down because it was on a 100-year flood plane."

Stablez chose the Groveland Township site because of its access to I-75, and it is within 100 miles of many factories which generate of the waste, Popa

The truck traffic won't be that much heavier in the area," Popa said. "There will only be 29 extra trucks a day on 1-75. Twenty trucks will be carrying the chemical and nine will have the treatment for it."

The Citizens Committee told the Site Approval Board that throughout the year, more than one million people visit the recreation parks in the area, and during the school year close to 700 students ride buses past the proposed site twice a day.

The Site Approval Board has an April 5 deadline to make a decision on the Stabler landfill propersi.

Summer taxes near reality

Independence Township agrees to negotiate school's collection

By Marilyn Trumper

The Independence Township Board has bowed to the Clarkston School District's request and agreed to negotiate a summer tax collection fee rather than let Oakland County do the job and collect a 1 percent fee.

At the Jan. 18 meeting, the Independence Township Board voted unanimously to negotiate, stressing the move was no assurance summer taxes would be collected.

'I have in the past been opposed—not because of the burden on my office but because people are going to pay 35 percent of their taxes now, five months early, and pay a collection fee for the privilege of doing said Treasurer Frederick Ritter.

"My intent will be to collect (the taxes) and save you that 1 percent."

Trustee William Vandermark agreed adding, "As I see it, we have no choice."

Ritter has a 30-day deadline to negotiate a fee to recover "the reasonable and necessary expenses of collection" as outlined in the law.

The lone voice of a Rattalee Lake Road opposed the board's move.

"I know what you're saying Mr. Ritter...but we're getting the hell taxed out of us now. I'd rather get my six-month's interest," he said.

The Clarkston School Board agreed Jan. 10 to request summer taxes be levied in Independence. Springfield, White Lake and Waterford townships.

When I first moved to Clarkston over 20 years ago and started my two little sons in the Clarkston school system, I was more than disappointed that there were no gymnasiums in the grade schools and no swimming pool in the high school.

I came from Ferndale, where these things were common and standard equipment for all the schools in the area. But, I felt Clarkston was a young community and surely would shape up in time.

Well, my little boys have graduated now, and all six of my children will be out of the system soon, and there are still no plans for improving the sad, lacking conditions in our schools.

I have worked hard, as head of school fairs, try-

> When I think of all the years we have been turning out kids who have missed all that diving and swimming competition, it makes me sick.

And I am tired of hearing we don't need a pool because we have "all those lakes" in our area. There is absolutely no comparison at all in lakes and the daily physical fitness and exercise year round that can be accomplished in a pool.

How long do we, as one of the most affluent communites in the United States, have to go without the bare essentials that all the other schools already have and have had for so long? It's certainly too late for any of my children to benefit from them, but never too late for the children coming up.

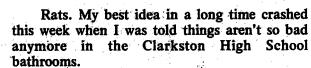

I have run for public office, more than once, because I saw many needs. I would go door to door if I thought the money could be raised. I would do anything to see these goals accomplished. I don't think we could do anything better for the kids.

Red berets at CHS?

by Kathy Greenfield.

In the past, students have had to put up with ripped out fixtures, garbage strewn about and thick clouds of smoke in the johns. But somehow, in the stream of things, some of the problems have been corrected.

At least the smoking is down and the hardcore vandalism has dropped. The school administration is helping all this along by keeping some bathrooms locked except during class changes and by assigning students as hall monitors. The vandalism reward program, put in place through student government, that provides cash rewards to students who tell who destroyed what has helped, too.

Curiosity getting the better of you? Here's my idea, no longer needed desperately, but crazy enough to work: You've heard of Curtis Sliwa's Guardian Angels? The ones who patrol the streets of New York, and other cities, wearing matching T-shirts and red berets?

Going in with the knowledge that not all high school kids are bent on destruction and making life miserable for their fellow students, it seems to me, with a little organization, Clarkston High School could have a set of Guardian Angels of its own, resplendent in their gold berets and blue T-shirts.

A minor uproar, presently being squashed by the swift hand of authority, proves all the makings for the local organization are there.

It seems about 100 or so students have formed a cheering section at high school basketball games. While they do some cute things-obviously overread newspapers while members of the other team are being introduced and chant a couple of cheers they made up—there's also some iffy stuff.

Under squelch are the practices of chanting a two-word excretion phrase that begins with bull when unhappy with a game official's call, interrupting the National Anthem with clashing cymbals and throwing slippery pennies onto the basketball court.

These kids would make great watchdogs. All they need to do is move that team spirit in another direction.

Everyone of high school age, by the way, approached with the Guardian Angels idea has soundly rejected it.

Oh, well. They'd love me in New York.

Drawing a blank

My first car was a Buick. I don't remember it real well, but it was a big Roadmaster. Since 1947 I've owned two more Buicks. Like their commercial says . . . I really would rather have a Buick.

As the need for a new car becomes more evident last fall I looked at other cars, checked all the too-high prices, and finally signed an order for a Buick station wagon Nov. 11...

The sales manager said I'd have the car in a month, the salesman said two months. Early in January I called to find out about my car. I wasn't all that anxious to part with the down payment and accept a 48 month obligation.

However, the dealer wanted the sale and he began checking.

It seems these days a GM dealer places an order by dialing a "grand computer" somewhere. They punch in the accessories, model, etc.

My order, like yours, is now resting in a "bank." Somewhere along the line a decision is made my car will be built in their Fairfax plant, and the computer is so informed.

Then, I'm told, when Fairfax management decides they want to put some station wagons together, they call the computer to check the orders, I assume the decision is then made to see if it's profitable to build my car or yours.

Nothing wrong with making profit. There is something wrong with taking more than 21/2 months to fill an order.

So, I called Buick public relations in Flint. I tried to get that office to explain the process an order goes through for a customer. PR evaded my and dealer

Later that day my dealer called to tell me exactly what day my car would start through the factory, Jan. 22. Five days later it would be at the dealership.

My dealer said my call accomplished more than a dozen of his calls would.

I don't feel my call accomplished anything The car still won't be delivered until more than 11 weeks after I ordered it.

I do feel a little more comfortable now. It's inwardly satisfying to know that General Motors is in good shape, that they don't need to fill an order for nearly three months.

They've often said, as the auto industry goes, so goes the nation. Obviously the auto industry is going well at 11 weeks late

Safety bike path to library needed

In our travels around Independence Township, we've noticed that the only safety path that links a highly populated area with a place to go is, logically, the only one used frequently.

So, while we're on this logic kick, we have a suggestion for the township board: Construct the next path from the Village of Clarkston sidewalk on Clarkston-Orion Road to the township library.

In 1980; township voters approved one-half mill (or 50 cents for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation) for 10 years for safety path construction.

The safety path committee came up with a plan for 43 miles of safety paths throughout the township, and set priorities. The final decision about where to go next; though, is the township board's.

There is enough money now (about-$184,000) to construct three more miles of paths, based on past expenses:

The board is expected to make the decision at the Tuesday. Feb. 1, meeting. Under consideration, following the safety path committee plan, is a mile-long segment northwest of Dixie Highway that starts at the Dixie-White Lake Road intersection and a 1.75-mile path from Maybee Road and Dixie (the location of the Pontiac State Bank building) to Chickadee Lane of the Birdland subdivision.

We have hesitated in the past to support the safety path to the library, because members of The Clarkston News staff would benefit. But after a reader pointed out that thousands of people would have safe access to the library if a path were constructed, we decided to support the plan.

We cringe every time we see young people biking along Clarkston-Orion Road to the library because the curves and loose gravel provide all the elements for an accident waiting to happen.

We're also intrigued by the link of healthy bodies through walking or biking and healthy minds through reading the path would encourage.

Independence Township Library Director James Hibler agrees.

"With all the traffic going by, I think a safety path would be very helpful," he said. "I'm definitely in favor of it."

So call (625-5111), write (Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston) or be there Feb. 1 (7:30 p.m.) when the board decides where the next safety path will go.

Tell them it's a matter of logic.

Chrisimas in church—not E.T.

Your Jan 12 issue featured an article about a woman and a papier-mache E.T. she had made for

The headline and the photo caption stated that the character "glows for Trinity Lutheran's congregation" and that we "used him for a Christmas tree at (the church)."

The truth is that the figure spent only a very short time in the Nursery/Kindergarten Sunday School lassroom at the church and in no way "captured the heart of the congregation...over the holidays."

The focus of our Christmas celebration was and will remain a very much of this world and real, historic person, Jesus Christ.

E.T. may provide us with entertainment, amusement, and fantasy but in no way would it ever be the object of a Christian congregation's worship,

Ir. Miss contestants made us proud

As chairman of the Clarkston Junior Miss program, I would like to let the parents, community and fellow students know what a great example this year's girls are.

This past weekend, we all went to Marshall, Mich., to back Martha Huttenlocher at the state level of Junior Miss.

They were great representatives of Clarkston, their parents and fellow students.

Their parents may be proud of the way they have raised these girls. To Clarkston schools and community, if this is a small example of the generation of today, we have no worries.

Thanks again for loving, responsible, caring parents, for a job well-done and for a fun weekend for all.

Writing's work

Perhaps the best way to explain myself to Bob is to tell him about the afternoon I didn't get mad even though a doctor kept me waiting 90 minutes beyond appointment time and I couldn't find my way out of a multi-level parking garage.

Bob is a column reader who makes his living as a salesman and writes just for the fun of it. He sent me a sample of his fiction, strictly to get my opinion, requesting anonymity and stressing that he had no desire for the world, or even the neighbors, to read his

In my answer to him, via mail, I included the observation that I have a tough time understanding amateur writers because writing is work to me and the only reason I do it is to pay my bills.

Bob didn't believe me. "Surely you must enjoy what you do," he wrote back. "I can't even believe that money enters into it. Frankly, I think you'd do it for half of what they pay you. Please write a column explaining yourself."

OK I do enjoy writing for a living, but compared to what? Compared to working on an assembly line or similar jobs that ached my back, and mind before I began fooling editors. But I don't enjoy writing enough to do itefor nothing

And Lalso don trenior writing enough to do it 20 hours every day! Limitalways areading about superations of the company of the company successful people who got that way by working that kind of a schedule.

I even know a few of those inspired workaholics. I admire their drive and lust after the luxurious fruits of their labor. But even if I had the talent, I wouldn't work hard enough to own 12 cars and 10 homes.

I guess I'm a funaholic, and writing isn't fun to MY PROBLEM is time: Certain fringes invariably cling to a highly visible job like mine. Just as surely as I receive nasty letters, I also receive suggestions that I appear on TV or write books and movies. And along with these suggestions come the pointed observation that I certainly have enough time to make those attempts at becoming rich and famous.

But I don? have enough time. It's true that column-writing often leaves me with idle hands. However, it's also true that some people are born to test the devil in his playground. These people should be born wealthy, with no need to earn an income.

When they re not that lucky, they re forced to manage the best they can with the lazy hours available. That's me.

My funaholic condition has worsened through the years. When I was younger, I kidded myself that someday I would begin using nights and weedends to write the great-American dirty book.

B. But since age 40, all pretense has been dropped in favor of the 30 hour work week and wanton fun.

by Jim Fitzgerald

WHAT'S FUN? To each his own. To me, the trip to the doctor was fun. Actually, my wife had the appointment. I, went along because we were granddaughter-sitting and I was needed to keep an eye on one-year-old Emily while Grandma had her health checked.

It was supposed to take one hour but it took three because a patient's time isn't as valuable as a doctor's time

Usually in these cases, I murder the doctor. But this time I put Emily in her stroller and pushed her to a nearby shopping mall, taking a shortcut through a parking parage.

It took dumb Emily 45 minutes to find the right exit. The rest of the time I sat on a bench and watched Emily laugh and take wipes out of a box and put them back in, over and over Wipes are new to me, sort of a damp Kleenex used to wash a kid's face when no sink is handy. My mother spit on a corner of a hankerchief.

Certainly it was no way for a grown breadwinner to spend a Friday afternoon: I didn't earn a nickle. I should have been working on a movie script. But instead I had the most fun I know how to have. And if I could afford to do it every day. I would.

I wouldn't write a word, Bob, not a word. If you want to come home from work and write for the fun of it, be my guest. I'd rather watch Emily wield wipes.

Puppet magic comes to life

By Marilyn Trumper

At the hands of Sashabaw Junior High's drama/speech class, a pile of red fur, gooey papiermache, colorful paints and bits of cloth come to life as puppets with personality.

There's Garfield, the orange cat; a red-furred monster to rival Jim Henson's Muppets; and the three "last of their kinds," a unicorn, mermaid and jester.

The class of Jan Malane wrote, produced and directed group plays on friendship, scheduled for performances before their parents and pupils from neighboring North Sashabaw Elementary and Clarkston Preschool.

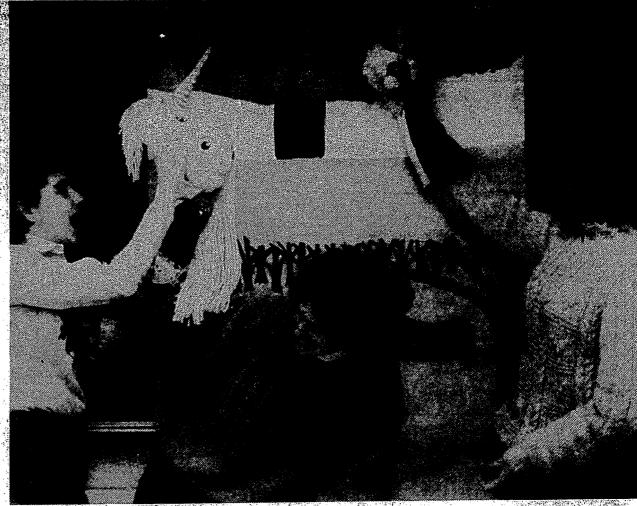

While the groups practice their lines, other students kneel on the floor before unfurled rolls of paper and paint colorful backdrops of castles, woods and a contemporary living room.

"I'm realy proud of these kids," Malane said, walking from group to group, offering suggestions and encouragement.

This class is in the middle of my day and I really look forward to it. They're eager and enthusiastic, sometimes to the point of being a little bit overwhelm-

This is the third year for the junior high's elective course. Nine of Malane's students remained from last year, requesting a second crack at the popular class.

"We have a sign-up sheet for next year that's already two pages long," Malane said. "We're going to have some good kids for the high school."

Three of the "last of their kind," a unicorn, mermaid and jester, head to the castle on the

3 target funding

Three residents showed up at the Springfield Township's second public hearing to comment on ways to spend $46,800 in community development funds.

But while the turnout was low, said Supervisor Collin Walls, they came up with some good ideas.

'They suggested bike paths and improvements to the Mill Pond area," he said. "One suggestion was to save a little of the money toward the 150-year anniversary of Springfield township, which comes up in 1986.

The board decided to set aside $30,000 for the Davisburg improvement plan, $6,800 for public street-number signs, $5,000 for a bike path in Davisburg and $5,000 for the Mill Pond Park.

Board ends final round of many appointments

By Marilyn Trumper

Ten-year zoning board veteran Mel Vaara is officially out of the picture.

With little discussion at the Jan. 18 meeting, the Independence Township Board unanimously appointed to the zoning board of appeals Lubomyr O. Hewko as the planning commission's representative and Roy Hauesler of Hillside Drive. The men will serve three-year terms.

At an earlier meeting, Vaara had been proposed for reappointment to the board he's chaired for five years, but the motion was tabled without discussion. Vaara refused comment.

In addition, the board unanimously appointed Supervisor James B. Smith's candiate, David Katz of Waterford Road, to a three-year term on the planning commission.

The move caps two weeks worth of appointments to the planning commission and board of appeals.

"We need new blood," Smith said: "We need a change."

Two weeks ago, the board reappointed five-year veteran John Dunlop to the zoning board of appeals. He serves with Hewko, Hauesler and Robert Newlin, a five-year veteran, and board Trustee Larence Kozma, recently appointed to fill a two-year term:

The planning commission is chaired by two-year veteran Neil Wallace, whose term expires in 1983; Carol Balzarini, appointed two weeks ago to a three-year term; five-year veteran John Gray whose term ends in December 1983; Holly Stephens, serving the last year of a two-year term; David Katz, appointed two weeks ago to a three-year term; board Trustee Daniel Travis, serving the second year of a two-year term; Walter Eidam, serving the second year of a two-year term; Lubomyr O. Hewko, appointed two weeks ago to a two-year term; and William Cox, who fills the remaining two years of a three-year term, vacated by a former member.

Streetlights: 1 on, 7 doused

By Marilyn Trumper

There'll be a little more glow to Tappon Drive in southern Independence Township, following board approval for a special tax assessment to finance one more streetlight, at a yearly cost of $2 to each homeowner.

But Heath Avenue residents remain split on a proposal to install 15 streetlights there at an annual cost of $45 per parcel. They let the board know their opinions at the Jan. 18 meeting.

"I'm opposed to the lights," said Dan Daniels. "I moved out here to get away from the city. If I want streetlights, I'll move back to the city.

"There's been one argument that we have a crime problem. There's no crime problem on Heath. I'd rather see the $45 go to roads."

Kenneth Hull agreed.

"Why do we need so many lights. Frankwill, the next street over has eight and it's just as long," he

The petition, signed by 20 Heath Avenue residents, was circulated by Al Wieling Quoting a township official. Wieling told his neighbors a special assessment would cost $25 annually.

Township officials used figures from neighboring Frankwill Road to estimate the cost which skyrocketed to $45 a year based on Detroit Edison's estimate of 15 lights, not eight.

John Wickstrom favored light installation, but not the full 15.

"I signed that petition as a study, to get the issue before the board. I'm in favor of it, but 15 is excessive. If you can cut it to half or one-third, I'm listening," he said.

After discussion, the board agreed to resubmit the plan to Edison for half the number of lights and re-petition the residents.

Fifty-one percent of the 43 property owners on Heath Avenue must sign, according to Clerk Christopher Rose,

Players bring mock courtroom drama to life

By Marilyn Trumper

A beige herringbone sleeve reaches across a row of entranced lawyers watching the drama at the bench, and pokes a thigh to catch attention, I wonder how much they paid her to cry?" one attorney whispers to the other.

A shoulder shrug is his answer as the eyes immediately look back to the drama unfolding in the courtroom of Oakland County Circuit Court Judge James Thorburn.

Cheryl Broome, dressed in a green velvet blazer, sits in the witness stand and looks out at the 85 lawyers hip-to-hip, crammed into every available courtroom seat...

They look, listen, then scribble on their yellow legal pads, taking notes during the Trial Advocacy Workshop, a brush up for those who've been away from the courtroom too long.

Cheryl, a member of the Clarkston Village Players portrays Marilyn Kelly, eyewitness to a car accident that claimed the life of a pedestrian.

The defendant, Charles Haskins, also of the Players, portrays the worried truck driver charged with "wrongful death."

Hesitating, Cheryl looks up, eyes wide, and recounts the event.

"I heard the thump. I saw the woman on the hood of the truck then saw her go back.

The actress throws shaking hands up in the air, releases a sob and her eyes well with tears.

Fanning her face she continues.

"The truck kept going and I thought, 'My God, he's going to hit her again.'

At the edge of their seats, the jury listens.

The prosecution presents Exhibit A, a diagram of the intersection.

Cautiously, Haskins begins his testimony.

"I thought they were terrific," said George Googasian, the attorney responsible for planning the three-day workshop. "I listend to (Cheryl) and it sounded so real. She had me believing she really witnessed the accident. (Haskins) did a good job too.'

The jury is expected to deliver its verdict the third day of the workshop, Feb 2, said Googasian, partner in the firm Googasian, Höpkins and Forhan of Bloomfield Hills.

Tax review board persists

Some might call it masochistic.

Those who sit on the Independence Township Board of Review scoff.

For the third, fourth and fifth year running respectively, Dr. Leslie Greene of Dixie Highway, Daniel Ellsworth of Eyee Road and Thomas Brecht of Tamarack Park Lane have agreed to sit on the board which hears property tax appeals.

"These guys have served well," said Independence Township Assessor David Sherrill. "We have a good board in comparison to many communities. They're fair and they do a good job.

"And," he stressed, "we don't always agree."
According to Sherrill, the trio agreed to serve another two-year term following appointment by the Independence Township Board Jan. 18, because it's one way to serve the community.

"I know they're tired of it, but they told me they feel they're doing a service," he said.

The board of review meets in March to hear property assessment appeals and in December to correct tax calculation errors.

Kennel dispute awaits witness

It will be at least February before two Independence Township families know the tack their dog kennel lawsuit will take in Oakland County Circuit Court.

On Jan. 12, the Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA), acting under order from circuit court, reheard the three-year-old dispute and tabled any decision until Feb. 2, opting to wait for testimony from the former kennel owner, according to member John Dunlop.

Pine Knob Road neighbors David Endreszl and Jack and Jody Nelson, owners of J & J Kennel, continue to disagree what constitutes abandonment. The issue finds both parties pulling for testimony from the former landowner in an effort to determine if the kennel lost its non-conforming zoning use by remaining vacant for one year.

Endreszl charges the Nelsons with operating a business he says lost its non-conforming use status when the kennel closed for a year prior to the Nelsons' purchase in 1976.

In addition, Endreszl says two outbuildings were erected on site without permits and without required. setbacks.

Repeatedly the township zoning board has refused to outlaw the licensed kennel.

The Nelsons disagree the kennel is nonconforming, pointing to the buildings which remained on site those years, and the thousands of dollars they've put into the business.

Endreszl says he's not hurt by the delay. "What's another two weeks? This has gone on for three years," he said. The Nelsons offered limited comment, with Jack saying only, "I'd like to get (the lawsuit) over with." Independence Township Supervisor James B.

Smith has indicated the township fears a lawsuit regardless of the ZBA's decision.

'We're in a no-win situation, no matter what happens," he said, briefing the board during a special meeting Jan. 11.

Wolves continue to win with quick defense

By Dan Vandenhemel

Quick defense and all-out hustle in the first quarter enabled the Clarkston High School varsity basketball team to jump to an early 15-0 lead and coast to a 52-41 victory over West Bloomfield Jan. 21.

The Wolves used a full-court press to force turnovers and didn't allow the Lakers to score for the first five-and-one-half minutes of the game.

"We played very intense the first quarter," coach

Dan Fife said. "It's hard to stay up like that throughout the game. We had a lot of fouls and kept them on the foul line most of the game.

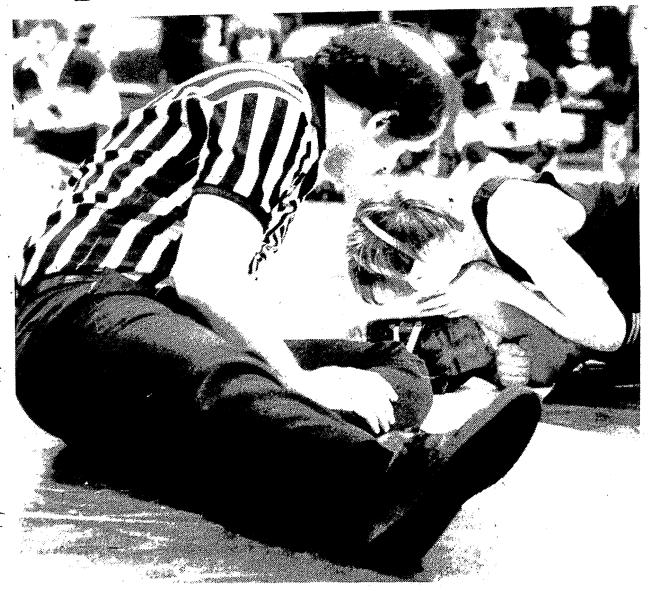

Dave Jokisch led Clarkston with a season high 21 points and Ray Kubani added 10 points. Todd Krumm was the Lakers' high-scorer with 13 points, with Jay Bobel pitching in 11 points.

West Bloomfield played itself back in the game by scoring the first six points of the second quarter. They trailed by nine, 32-23 at the half after a 21-8 first quarter score.

"They keyed on McCormick which left Jokisch open," Fife said. "(Craig) Kulaszewski made his first start at guard and moved the ball well. They couldn't guard him up the middle. That was the biggest change in the game."

The Wolves raised their record to 6-0 in the Greater Oakland Activities League and 9-1 overall. The Lakers are 2-3 in the league and 4-6 overall.

Rival Cougars defeated by Wolverines

By Dan Vandenhemel

The home crowd advantage disappears when cross-town rivals Sashabaw Junior High and Clarkston Junior High meet in any kind of sporting

When Clarkston's Wolverines hosted Sashabaw's Cougars in a wrestling meet Jan. 20, each school had a large and very vocal following.

After the chants of player names and the hollering died down in the Clarkston Junior High gym, the Wolverines finished on top 44-20.

The Cougars came into the match expecting to upset Clarkston. They were excited and intense, but the Wolverines took control of the meet and the momentum by winning the first two matches.

Clarkston's Jason Valenzula at 76 pounds pinned Scott Dunkan in 32 seconds for the fastest pin of the meet. Dan Stuk at 84 pounds followed up with a close 3-2 decision over Jeff Funck.

The Wolverines won the first six matches and took a 27-0 lead before the Cougars could record a victory. Scott Stuk at 91 pounds, Rob Lund at 98, Travis Teirnan at 105 and Brent Gwisdalla at 112 each won for Clarkston. Mike Sanborn won the first match for the Cougars at the 119 weight class with a 7-4 decision over Matt Stark.

'The home crowd helped us," Wolverine coach Dave Stobbe said. "Matches between these two schools are always close because of the enthusiam."
"Clarkston is a fine team," Cougar coach Greg Alessi said. "It turned out about how I expected it would. We had three varsity wrestlers out sick. I don't know if we would have won with them, but it would have been closer.'

Clarkston increased its lead to 33-3 with wins by Jeff Valenzuela at 126 pounds and Pete Sans at 132 pounds.

"Everyone wrestled well," Stobbe said. "We won some matches that we could have lost, it was close."

The next match between Todd Edwards of Clarkston and Walt Svenkesen for the Cougars was the loudest and brought out the most from crowd. Behind chants of Eddie-Eddie and Walter-Walter, both wrestled hard and strong. Edwards won a 9-5 decision and clinched the victory for Clarkston.

'Their match really impressed the crowd," Alessi said. "Walt was undefeated before the match."

Sashabaw won three of the next five matches to make the final score close. Mike Jasso at 145 pounds, Bill Hartley at 155 and Jeff McDonald at 178 won for the Cougars. Clarkston's heavyweight Mike Norman won the final match with a pin of Chester Jeffery. At the 167-weight class, Garett Bass of Clarkston and Rich Davis of Sashabaw tied 8-8.

West Bloomfield's Chris Lamb (left) watches sophomore guard Dave Ladd bring the ball down the court for the Clarkston High School

down Lakers

Record stands at 9-1

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Clarkston High School junior varsity basketball team played well just when they had to and downed West Bloomfield 55-48 Jan. 21.

The Wolves looked sharp...and sloppy...at times. In the first quarter, they were able to get behind the Laker defense and take a 18-9 lead at the end of the quarter. The Lakers switched defenses and come back to tie the game 29-29 at the half.

"This is the worst we've shot at home all year," coach Tim Kaul said. "The good thing is that we still

The Lakers scored nine straight points to open the second quarter as Clarkston looked flat. The lead went back and forth until early in the fourth quarter when the Wolves took advantage of some costly tur-

Dave Ladd led the Wolves with 16 points and Steve Luchenbach added 11, with Doug Collins and Robert Newblatt each scoring eight points.

Luchenbach was switched down to the junior varsity to get more playing time in after Joe Powe broke his foot in the second quarter of the Rochester game. Kaul expects Powe to be out a week to 10 days.

"We made some adjustments on offense during the game," Kaul said. "Newblatt came off the bench and played extremely well. I thought the Lakers shot well against our defense, too."

The Wolves are 9-1, with their only loss to Lake Orion 57-45 Jan. 14.

"The Lake Orion game was a super game," Kaul said. "There were very little turnovers and they shot well and out rebounded us."

By Dan Vandenhemel -

Racquetball is a fun sport and can be used for almost anything you want it to be. You can use it for exercise, you can use it to have fun or you can use it to relieve your frustrations.

My main intent was to have fun.

I played racquetball a couple of weeks ago for the first time in two years. I met two friends from college at the courts and was all set to burn off some extra pounds and have fun at the same time.

I started out fine, working up a small sweat and loosening up the muscles. Larry had more experienced in racquetball and was easily winning the game of cut-throat against Pete and myself. After Pete had hit the ball at the wrong time or I had missed it competely, we could tell Larry was beginning to take it easy on us.

The thing about good players and bad players getting together is that the good players always seem to get in the way. They know they are suppose to stand near the center of the court. But what they don't know is that us bad players just try to make contact with the ball and let it hit the front wall. And when we make contact, we are not always sure of where the ball is going, such as the middle of the good player's back, his head, or maybe his arm or leg.

After a while Pete and I were getting pretty good at hitting Larry's back, which was letting us have fun but I don't think Larry liked it too much.

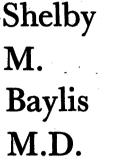

The first game Larry won 21-5-4. I had the five. In the second game Pete and I made the game a lot closer. We each took an eight-point handicap to start but still ended up losing.

The fun of the sport started to leave and it was becoming more frustrating. Larry's feet always seemed to be under ours, and the racquet was becoming two inches too short, and I had a blow-out in my tennis shoe and played the rest of the time with my toes sticking out.

When we were done, I didn't know if it had been a good workout or not. I wasn't very tired. I realized how good it was when I tried to crawl out of the whirlpool in the lockerroom. When I wobbled out into the lounge area, I swore never to play the game again.

Well, as they say, never say never because the three of us plan on playing racquetball every Saturday morning, bright and early.

Maybe Pete and I can actually win a game some-

Few offer targets to spend federal funding

By Marilyn Trumper

Similar to the first meeting, there were few ideas for spending over $198,000 in combined federal revenue sharing and block grants at the second Independence Township public hearing.

After discussion Jan. 18, the board unanimously approved budgeting $35,000 for roads; $15,000 to the library; $23,000 to supplement the police fund; $10,000 to community promotion, split between Clarkston Area Youth Assistance and the Consortium for Human Development; and $30,000 for dust con-

Thendara Park Subdivision's Vincent Rizzo argued strongly for funding a townshipwide spring cleanup like the one he was responsible for instituting

"I definitely feel we have a need here," Rizzo said.

Instead, the board pointed to a $6,200 surplus from last year and indicated it would try a repeat cleanup within that budget.

In addition, the board unanimously approved the following budget for $88,600 in block grants:

•$30,000 for roads.

•$20,000 for planning and management which could include financing the cost of a drainage study for M-15 between Dixie Highway and Paramus.

•$7.000 for senior citizens.

•$3,600 in contingency, a fund designed to cover cost overruns.

•$28,000 for park development, primarily targeted for use at Maybee Road Park near the Sashabaw Road intersection.

Two battle for council seat

Choosing not to accept attorney Jon Gaskell's bid to fill a vacated trustee seat, the Clarkston Village Council opted to table a decision for the second time this month and interview President Jackson Byers' candidate, John Bisha.

Bisha was not present for the second consecutive meeting, but has agreed to accept the post if appointed, Byers said. A Holcomb Street resident, Bisha is challenging past-president Fontie ApMadoc on the March ballot in the only election race. Candidates for the other three seats run unopposed.

"How is it you did not file to run?" Trustee Ruth Basinger asked Gaskell. "To me the filing of a nominee is the greatest show of interest.'

"I just had not decided to run (when the deadline came and went for filing)," Gaskell responded. "I had not considered serving on the village council."

Trustee Carol Eberhardt asked to meet Byers' nominee, and requested Bisha present a resume at the next meeting, Feb. 14 at 7:30 p.m. in Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot, Clarkston.

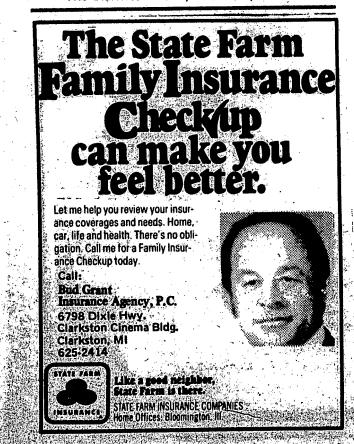

By letter in early January, Gaskell made his pitch for the appointment.

In the letter the Middle Lake Road resident said, "...My interest in government comes from a long involvement in politics and from a four-year term as city attorney for the City of Jackson. In addition to advising the various departments and boards of the City of Jackson, I attended the city commission meetings...to advise them on legal matters. During that time I became more interested in acting in a decisionmaking role rather than simply advisory."

After the meeting, Gaskell declined comment.

Home—a different kind of excitement

Editor's note: Ann Glenn's daughter Shelley is guest columnist this week for Ann's Ark. A senior at Kalamazoo College, she is majoring in political science and French. She graduated from Clarkston High School in 1979. Shelley wrote the column when she was home during winter break from college.

By Shelley Glenn

I've been home for school now for about five days. I am always struck by comments I hear from my friends as we are all up around the clock studying for final exams.

Things like: "Oh, I can't wait until this is all over! I'm going to sit in front of the TV and watch HBO for two days straight" or "I always love relaxing for the first few days at home, but then I get bored and want to come back."

It is incomprehensible to me that people get "bored" at home.

For me, coming home is a great way to spend my break, not because it is totally relaxing, but because it is a different kind of excitement. I often find myself caught in the middle of incredibly tight schedules, wondering how I can best help everyone do all that needs doing.

Perhaps this is why I enjoy my moments out with the critters in the barn so much. It is a way to be helpful and productive, and it is my small reprieve.

All the animals greet me as I trudge out there with leftover greens from the salad Mom made for dinner.

They are layed back and I think they enjoy the extra attention I have the time to give them. As I pour water, dish out grain, toss hay in various stalls, they all watch me attentively. I like talking to them, because they seem to understand what I say, be it in French or English.

The other night, I had just come back from saying "good night" to everyone and had closed the barn doors to keep out the brisk wind which seemed to be wisking up

I was upstairs working on my law school applications when I heard Mom call me from downstairs.

She had just stepped outside and had heard the chickens making quite a racket. She claimed that one chicken seemed awfully close and must have actually left her roosting place in the barn.

I grabbed a flashlight and quickly went out to see what all the commotion was. Outside, all was still and I hesitated to continue out to the barn, but decided I had better check.

I jumped over the gate and carefully began shining my flashlight around the leaves on the ground. It was very dark and my imagination was slowly grabbing ahold of me as I thought of the strange creatures which might be crawling about.

As a result, I jumped when suddenly a big, brown, furry thing appeared in the glare of the light. It was our fat, old hen!

"Well, what are you doing here?!" I said as I scooped her up under my arm. "Let's put you where you belong."

I casually marched through the snow out to the shed, located next to the barn where some of the chickens roost. I shined the flashlight through the shed door. Sure enough, there was the big rooster, still roosting, undisturbed.

"You silly," I commented to the hen. "There's your husband and he's just fine!"

I stepped into the chicken run (inside the shed) to carefully set her beside him.

Meanwhile, the light from my flashlight slowly crept up the back wall, over the nesting boxes. I gasped suddenly and took a step back as I found two glowing eyes surrounded by white, fuzzy fur, staring at me from one of the nexting boxes. An opossum!

I dashed back toward the house, the hen still under my arm, lept over the fence and ran into the garage where I found Mom.

"Mom, there's an opossum! Come see!!"

Mom came running back out to the shed with me. She commented as she reached out to pet him, "He's a smart fellow...he knows exactly what he's doing. No wonder there haven't been any fresh eggs out here for a while."

Mom picked him up and put him in a basket, and we headed back to the house to show my sister, Lisa, who whas upstairs in bed doing her math.

We started up the stairs singing "Christmas is coming, the goose is getting fat..." We did not know it, but Lisa was gearing herself up to see us walk in with one of our pilgrim geese.

We opened her door and Mom placed the opossum at the foot of her bed. Lisa let out this blood-curdling scream, jumped out of bed, ran to the closet and grabbed a pair of shoes which she held in front of her face!

She was so startled!! Mom and I were in hysterics.

We examined the cute, little creature for a few minutes. Unable to find a pouch, we decided he was a male. Then we walked outside and let him go.

It was after that experience that I decided I really had no idea all of the critters that I help provide for out in the barn!

Full-line grocery store plans to open in April

After six months of planning, developers Jim Humphrey and Richard Brinker have broken ground for construction of their 5,000 square foot full-line grocery store at Sashabaw and Oak Hill roads.

The Cracker Barrel General Store will be in Brandon Township, across the road from Independence Township and 2 miles west of the Oxford-Orion township border.

The 72x72 ft. grocery store will have all the items you have come to expect in a full-line grocery store today, Humphrey said.

"We hope to have some of everything, so the guy

Ronald Bray didn't fool around with setting up

Since November he's been running Bray's shop once Independence Township ousted the mechanic from his home garage last summer where he conducted a thriving business.

down the road can come in and know we have nails he can buy," he said.

Construction began the day after Christmas and . we hope to be selling groceries the first part of April." Humphrey added.

The store will be identical to the Cracker Barrel shopping center on M-24 north of Metamora. The front will be rough sawn cedar with cedar posts holding up a porch roof.

This project was built by Brinker. He still owns the property, but no longer manages any of the stores. He is involved in building the new Cracker Barrel and will operate the grocery along with the Humphrey Humphrey, part owner of Lake Villa mobile home park in Oxford and Ideal mobile home park in Metamora, formerly owned the mobile home park adjacent to the new shopping center site. He still owns the seven acres on the corner.

"If the economy changes," Humphrey said, "we expect to add to the building in a year." The pole-type construction makes it easy to add on, he said.

Humphrey also stated they were receiving great cooperation from Brandon Township officials, and they had already applied for a package liquor license.

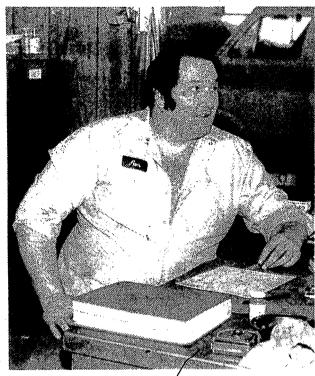

According to Humphrey, area residents now travel six miles to the nearest grocery store, a fact that convinced the partners a market exists for their store.

"If there'd been a place to buy groceries within five miles of here, I wouldn't even have considered it.

"We'd like to have as many people trading there. as we can. We've both sunk everything we have into this," Humphrey said.

Humphrey lives on Hosner Drive in Oxford. while Brinker lives in Metamora.

COGENERATION: Making Energy Work Harder

A system that makes the Midland Nuclear Cogeneration Plant more efficient will make world history as the first such commercial system powered by nuclear fuel.

The system uses a process called cogeneration. Basically, that means that the exhaust heat left over from generating electricity is captured and reused. Most generating plants do not have a cogenerating system, so that excess heat is wasted.

Making Midland a cogeneration plant means more efficient use of energy resources, says the plant's owner, Consumers Power

At Midland, the exhaust heat will be used to produce what is called process steam. That steam will be sold to Dow Chemical Company, for use in Dow's neighboring industrial complex.

A large portion of the Midland nuclear plant's total cost is attributable to equipment needed to produce the steam. This amount—approximately 25 percent of the plant's total costwill be paid by Dow when it buys steam, rather than by Consumers Power's electricity customers.

Producing steam is like heating water in a tea kettle, where heat from the stove is transferred through the kettle to the water inside. At the nuclear plant, three separate water systems will do basically the same thing.

The nuclear reaction process, called fission, produces heat inside the nuclear fuel; that heat is absorbed by the surrounding water in the "primary" system. This very hot water, under high pressure to prevent it from becoming steam, is then piped to a steam generator.

There, water in a second system surrounds the steam generator pipes. The pipe walls transfer heat from the hot water inside to the cooler water outside, much like the tea kettle on a stove. The second system's water becomes so hot that steam is formed.

This steam is piped to a turbine. There, it exerts force against turbine blades, giving up most of its energy and causing the spinning action necessary to drive an electrical generator.

Then, some of this used steam piped to another set of 'tea kettles" called evapo Those evaporators contain water from a third system. As the steam passes through pipes in the evaporators, its remaining useful heat is again transferred outside, turning the surrounding water to low pressure steam. This new steam is then piped to Dow's plant, where it is used in Dow's manufacturing process.

Roller skate for the Athletic Boosters

There's more than one reason to be enthused about the roller skating party planned Sunday, Jan. 30. by the Clarkston Athletic Booster Club, says former president Ray Davis.

"I don't know where you could go for $2 for twoand-one-half hours of fun," he said. "And it's for a

The party, open to children and adults in the Clarkston school district, is to be held in the Rolladium, 4475 Highland, Waterford Township. Hours are 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., and the Rolladium will be closed to others.

Tickets are $2. They may be purchased at Clarkston Junior High School or Sashabaw Junior High School. The skate rental fee of $1 is payable at the Rolladium.

Depleted funds following the purchase of $5,000 of video recording equipment is the reason for the fund raiser, Davis said.

The booster club provides scholarships for high school graduates each year, and last year five $200 awards were given. The club's income has, in the past, come almost entirely from selling snacks during home games at Clarkston High School.

For more information, call Davis at 391-2236 or club president Mary Cox at 625-4446.

Jr. Miss enjoys Marshall competition

Clarkston's 1983 Junior Miss Martha Huttenlocher came away from the State Junior Miss Finals last week in Marshall with a $100 scholarship and fond memories.

"It was exciting," said the Clarkston High School senior. "It was very tiring. They kept us busy the whole time. I met a lot of special friends."

Martha was one of 28 girls from across the state competing for the title of Michigan's 1983 Junior Miss. During her week-long stay, she lived in the home of a host family with another contestant.

"The only bad thing was I couldn't call my parents or friends and any mail you get is read first," she said, explaining that the Junior Miss officials wanted to assure there would be no outside pressure to win placed on the contestants.

They wanted to make sure you had a good time, and that's exactly what I had," she said.

The first few days were spent sightseeing in the historic town and making appearances on TV and radio. Pictures of the contestants were in the local newspaper each day, she said. That left only a day to learn routines performed on stage during the contest held Saturday, Jan. 22.

Martha's $100 scholarship was granted because the Clarkston Junior Miss Program was selected as the best existing program in the state.

Chairperson of the Clarkston program, Barbara Hamaker, was there to receive a plaque for the honor, plus a certificate for raising the most scholarship money for the local program.

Hamaker and her committee raised $1,925 to provide scholarships for winners of the 1983 Clarkston Junior Miss program, she said.

HALLMAN APOTHECARY Downtown Clarkston

24 Wed: Jan 26 1983 The Clarkston (Mich.) News How to survive a blizzard without electricity

Blizzards are not a long way off. Remember last

Bad weather can make you temporarily homebound. Extension Home Economist, Aliene Mills, shares thoughts about some foods to have on hand to get you through those days when you can't get to the store or when the power is out:

 Milk and dairy products: Canned evaporated milk, powdered nonfat dry milk, and instant cocoa powder. Use milk for soups, instant puddings, sauces, and hot and cold drinks. Cheese spreads are available in aerosol cans.

 Fruits and vegetables: canned fruit juices, tomato juice; canned tomatoes, corn, beans, peas or other favorites; canned fruits and applesauce, dried fruits such as raisins and prunes, instant potatoes.

 Breads and cereals: crackers, ready-to-eat or cooked cereal; rice, spaghetti, noodles or other pasta, small box of baking mix; canned date and nut breads.

•Meats, fish and poultry and beans; peanut butter; canned tuna, chicken, deviled ham, and dried beef; dried beans and peas; canned beef stew, and small canned ham not needing refrigeration.

Other: nuts, jams, coffee and tea, canned or dried soups (chunky style or split pea or bean); canned spaghetti sauce, canned dishes such as spaghetti and meatballs, hash and baked beans. Tightly wrapped cookies, hard candy.

With foods like these on hand, you can have meals even when the electricity is off. Meals may be less varied, but you can increase quantities served to meet calories and nutrient needs.

No Electricity Meal

Breakfast: Fruit Juice (canned) Dry cereal with raisins Reconstituted nonfat dry milk Nut bread (canned)

Lunch: Peanut butter Cheese spread (canned) Crackers Fruit (canned) Chilled cocoa drink

Dinner: Chilled canned 3-bean salad Deviled ham on crackers Fruit (canned) Instant pudding

Snacks Tomato juice Nuts, dried fruit

Electricity Meals

Breakfast: Fruit juice (canned) Oatmeal with raisins Reconstituted nonfat dry milk Nut bread (canned) Lunch Soup, chunky (canned) Crackers with cheese spread (canned) Fruit (canned) Hot cocoa Dinner: Creamed tuna (use nonfat dry milk) Hot biscuits (from baking mix) Peas (canned) Beverage Instant pudding Snacks: Tomato juice (canned) Foods on emergency food shelf can be stored for 6 months to 1 year. Foods will still be safe after 1 year, but the quality may not be as good. So, stock the emergency food shelf with foods you ordinarily get and replace them occasionally, using the older items in family meals.

If there is no electricity, you may cook in a fireplace or on the woodstove. A cold porch or pan of snow can be used to chill puddings, beverages and canned fruits.

Tammi Flood's hands easily find the right keys on piano as she sings "Jesus Loves Me" to the production crew at TCI television studio in Bloomfield Hills. The 20-year-old Springfield Township resident's gospel music career has spiraled through appearances on Channel 62 and with sales of a cassette tape she produced, featuring five of her own songs.

Singing for the Lord

Gospel singer Tammi Flood credits God—and people—for her success

By Marilyn Trumper

Tammi Flood's story rings true the adage that "God works in mysterious ways."

The 20-year-old gospel singer says the Lord began charting her music career her junior year at Clarkston High School, and business teacher Anne Reeves could be perceived as the guardian angel who paved the way.

·Today, the Springfield Township resident has ked singing engagements at churches throughout metropolitan Detroit, performed on television's Channel 62 twice and sold over 100 cassette tapes of five songs she's written and produced.

'I'm praising the Lord for this," Tammi said, describing her spiraling career. "Since I've been 15 I've prayed for the Lord to use me in gospel music. I'd love to (sing) full-time, but the Lord hasn't opened the door, so I do it locally.

There's a song called, 'In His Time.' It reminds me that He does what He wants you to do in His sing at her church. From there people heard me, and told other people, who told other people. I sing at churches almost every Sunday and I'm booked through the end of May.

From 9 to 5, Tammi's a secretary for MTS in Bloomfield Hills, a firm that specializes in manufacturing testing equipment.

'It's how God paved the way for all this that prepared me for this like you wouldn't believe. Like the Junior Miss contest, for example. I took first runner-up, but I didn't enter the contest to win, I entered for the experience of it all. That's where she heard me and that's where it all began.'

Tammi remembers the Businesss Office Education Club at Clarkston High School and teacher Anne

"She kept putting me into contests I didn't want to be in. Extemporaneous verbal and job interviewing. I had to stand up there, pull a topic out of a hat and with three minutes to prepare give a five-minute speech.

"When I'm playing at a church I have to get up there and talk. I can't practice. God paved the way for me to do this through Mrs. Reeves at the high school."

As an afterthought Tammi added, "I took first at state in extemporaneous." Then she laughed.

Since the age of 5, Tammi's studied the piano, and for the past two years has taken singing lessons. 'I've improved 100 percent since then. My teacher has taught me how to feel a song I sing and that makes all the difference. I like to feel my music and think about the words. Like when I sing the words "Two years ago in the Junior Miss Pageant, I workweet Jesus, to sing sweetly and not blare it out."

Tammi wanted to be a gospel singer. They were her heroes and heroines.

'Because my parents were so religious, we used to go to a lot of gospel concerts when I was little. I looked up to the singers. I think that paved the way,

Tammi does not charge for her singing and puts all "love-offerings" and "donations" into an account that pays for her television productions and tape recordings. Sale proceeds go back into the fund to "...help me with my music," Tammi said.

The second invitation to appear on Channel 62 found Tammi without funds to pay for the half-hour show, which costs $550 to produce.

"I said, 'Lord, I don't have any money in my account.' I went on and just talked the way I talk. I said, 'Folks, I have to be honest with you. I don't have the money to pay for this.'

"And people sent money. I just thank the Lord," she said. "I got letters from all over. One from an 83-year-old blind man that just blessed my heart. Letters that tell me how much they enjoyed the show or just thank-you. I write them all back a personal response."

While Tammi admits she'd like a full-time singing career if "it's God's will," there's one more thing she'd like to have come out of all the exposure.

"I'd like people who didn't know I was a singer to
