Schools reject tax collection offer

By Marilyn Trumper

Clarkston schools and Independence Township have failed to agree on a fee for collecting half of the school taxes in the summer.

The next step takes the school district to Oakland County to negotiate a collection fee the county would charge.

School Superintendent Milford Mason turned down the township's offer of $16,800, giving a counter-offer of $9,471, after subtracting utility costs and the prorated salaries of four full-time employees—the bookkeeper, treasurer, deputy treasurer and assistant treasurer.

But the township board voted 4-0 to stick with the $19,727 fee calculated by Treasurer Frederick Ritter.

The fee includes $16,800 for collecting Clarkston schools taxes plus other school taxes township property owners would pay—$992 for Oakland Schools taxes which all property owners pay, $1,468 for those in the Waterford school district and $467 for the Lake Orion district.

Oakland County is on record agreeing to collect taxes without charge to the district, but for a 1-percent fee taxpayers would pay in addition to the school taxes.

Ritter said the fee would total approximately $40,787 above the property owners' taxes.

Contacted after the meeting, Mason explained his decision not to accept the $16,800 figure.

"I'm very willing the school district should reimburse the actual costs. We have no problem with paying for tax billing, an auditor, etc.," he said.

"But the employees already exist. They're not going to be working overtime. And as for utilities, what are they going to do—close the building?"

Mason also talked about approximately $12,000 to $15,000 he said the township will gain on its short-term investment of the about $3.3 million collected.

After discussion at the Feb. 1 meeting, board members voted in support of the treasurer's figures.

Trustee Dale Stuart abstained. The attorney said he feared a potential conflict of interest because of a similar case he's representing in his law office.

Supervisor James B. Smith, Clerk Christopher Rose, Ritter and Trustee Daniel Travis voted "yes." Trustees Larence Kozma and William Vandermark were absent.

The schools' request for bi-annual tax collection followed passage of a state law that allows schools to mandate tax collection in June. The law is aimed at bailing out financially strapped districts which pay thousands in loan interest.

Last year, the Clarkston school district borrowed $4.2 million and paid approximately $215,000 in interest.

After receiving official notification of failure to reach agreement, Mason said the district will begin negotiations with the county.

Then the district will again approach the township and offer them right of last refusal.

First fee OK looms on board horizon

By Kathy Greenfield

The formality of a Springfield Township Board vote is all it will take to make summer school tax collection a reality in the township, says Supervisor Colin Walls.

Officials from the township and the school district met last week and agreed on a fee. The formal board vote is planned Wednesday, Feb. 9.

At 78 cents a parcel to collect half the school taxes in June, the fee is acceptable, said schools

Promenading Valentines

Fun is the word of the night as dads and daughters, like Bill and Carrie Janeshek, gather for the annual square dancing party hosted by the Clarkston Girl Scout and Brownie Service Team. Six troops were at the American Legion Post on M-15.

Thanks, with pizza on top

"Very good pizza," said Bill Brasher (left). "Delicious," said Lena Belle Barber. "Very good," said Bill Tymkow. The Clarkston High School custodians gathered for a pizza lunch, compliments of the Clarkston Band Boosters. The boosters' pizza kit sales, ongoing since August, are given an assist by the custodians, who share their room at CHS with the pizzas delivered monthly and distributed during their breaks. Mel Taylor, coordinator of pizza sales, whipped up the six pizzas in a kit.

$100 surprise awaits lucky pizza kit purchaser

There'll be a bonus tucked inside one of the pizza kits sold by the Clarkston Band Boosters in February.

Some lucky person will open the pizza box and find $100.

"We're thinking this $100 might be more of an incentive to buy," said Mel Taylor, coordinator of pizza sales for the boosters.

The kits include six 12-inch, preformed crusts and tomato and cheese toppings. They are available three ways—with extra cheese, pepperoni or sausage. The cost is $14.95.

"It can be a fun project for home. Let the kids put them together. You have to line the six of them up and divide the ingredients," Taylor said.

The booster club uses profits to purchase music, medals and some teaching supplies for band classes in Clarkston and Sashabaw junior highs and Clarkston High School. Some money also goes into the marching band uniform fund.

The goal of the boosters is to raise $10,000. They also sponsor fruit sales and receive funds from ticket sales at the band invitational held at the high school.

To take a chance on winning the $100 by ordering pizza kits this month, call Taylor at 625-8568.

She'll provide the phone number of the neighborhood person in charge of orders and delivery of the kits to the homes of purchasers.

The pizza sales will continue through the rest of the school year, she said.

Independent view — Mother nature strikes

Hundreds of Clarkston schools kids were all set to go to school.

Some were on their way Wednesday, Feb. 2, by the time word passed that school had been called off.

And some youngsters were already at school and had to ride their buses or walk home again.

It all started at 4 a.m., said William Dennis, director of transportation for the district.

He was out checking the roads where the school buses run and, although it was misting outside, the roads were passable.

He made the final check with transportation supervisor Gary Bliss at 5:30 a.m. and they both agreed the buses could make it.

So, Dennis went home.

"When I got going again, I stepped out on the front porch and it was covered with ice," he said.

The next sign that something was awry came when he headed to work in his car and calls from bus drivers in trouble started coming in over the radio.

"Between 5:30 and 7, our buses ran into all kinds of trouble," Dennis said. "I think, at one point, we had between seven and 11 buses in some stage or other of being stuck."

School was called off at about 6:30 a.m.

A rash of smiling faces broke out among the young in the Clarkston school district.

Vandermark recovers

William Vandermark is making a quick comeback from open-heart surgery performed Feb. 1, said his wife Jeannette.

"He's recovering very rapidly from the replacement of an aortic valve in his heart and we're real pleased with his recovery," she said. "We should have him home by Friday."

"He's expected to be back at work in about three months. The way he's going, though, it might be sooner."

Vandermark, an Independence Township Board trustee, is employed as a manufacturing engineer for Borg & Beck of Sterling Heights.

He has been ill for several months, Jeannette said, and he had no choice but to have the surgery.

The operation was performed at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

"We're very grateful for the many prayers and the emotional support from all our friends," she said.

Mom, kids, hit by car

June Rose and her two young daughters were crossing Main Street, Clarkston, at the corner of Washington Street Friday when hit by a car.

June was taken to the hospital, but she's home now, said her husband, Independence Township Clerk Christopher Rose.

"She can't walk with a bad knee, but she's home," he said. "She's supposed to go to the doctor's at the end of this week to have it checked and tell how much damage there is."

Rose was called at his office at Independence Township Hall, told his wife was in a minor accident and asked to go down to the village parking lot, he said.

When he got there, they were putting June on a stretcher and into the ambulance.

"So I spent a little time in the hospital emergency room Friday night," he said.

Injuries to their children were minor. "Abigail's got a scraped up hand, but it doesn't seem to bother her," he said. "Margaret has an ankle that she won't walk on, but the doctor says it's nothing serious. Maybe it's a slight sprain."

The accident happened when someone making a left turn didn't see the Roses crossing, he said.

June was carrying Margaret, something she usually doesn't do, and that may have prevented their youngest from more serious injuries, Rose said.

"It makes you feel like somebody was looking out for them, because normally she lets Margaret walk," he said.

Residents 'jump for joy' over Pine Knob Road paving job

By Marilyn Trumper

Independence Township is taking the shake, rattle and roll out of about 1,600 feet of Pine Knob Road.

Using the Oakland County's tri-party road agreement, Independence plans to pick up one-third of the estimated $101,000 bill for paving Pine Knob Road from Clarkston-Orion Road to Bailey Lake School's south driveway.

The six property owners along the stretch who agreed to a special assessment have been let off the hook.

"Does doing handsprings count?" said Lynn Mead, reacting to news of the board's decision.

"Or jumping for joy, or Mary. It just goes to show you what we've said all along. (The board) decided what we knew—that a whole lot of people were going to benefit from that paving."

Mead spearheaded the campaign for paving the heavily traveled section of Pine Knob Road.

He sought the paving to end the dust- and washboard-riddled roads created by school bus and parks and recreation soccer and summer class traffic.

At the Feb. 1 meeting, board members unanimously approved spending the money, using the 1982, '83 and '84 allocations of funding from the tri-party road agreement.

In the program, the county road commission, board of commissioners and township each share a third the cost of paving projects, traditionally limited to road approaches.

Mead speculates the six residents would have paid approximately $200 a year for an unknown number of years if the special assessment had been implemented.

Stablex under fire

Neighbors rally to block plant

By Dan Vandenhemel

Connie and Dennis Warchock of Springfield Township want to stop Stablex.

Last week, the couple opened their home to other Springfield residents concerned about the proposed toxic waste disposal plant in adjacent Groveland Township.

Nine people attended the meeting on Feb. 3, including Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls and Bev Bedient, a spokesperson for State Rep. Mat Dunaskiss.

"The whole idea of the meeting was to see what ideas we could come up with to try and stop Stablex from coming here," Connie said afterwards.

"Those ideas will be presented at the Springfield Township Board meeting Wednesday. We hope they will make a motion to prepare a statement for the Site Approval Board."

During much of the meeting, Walls and Bedient answered questions, and their advice to the residents was similar.

"Everyone should read more and become more knowledgeable on the subject before they do anything," Bedient said. "Mr. Dunaskiss suggests that you should flood the Site Approval Board members with letters so you can let them know how you feel."

"You should control your emotions as much as possible," Walls said. "If you use the facts, they will get through to them better than hollow threats."

The proposed site, located on Grange Hall Road between I-75 and Dixie Highway, is above an aquifer that supplies well water for the townships of Springfield, Groveland, Holly and Grand Blanc.

The Stablex proposal includes a ground liner, which the firm says would protect the aquifer.

"Forgetting the possible problems of the land," Walls said. "The site can't be in a better spot for Stablex because it is right in the middle of Bay City and Detroit, the two biggest industrial cities in Michigan."

But he added concerns about the water.

"The Michigan Well Drillers said the aquifer

"Does doing handsprings count?" —Lynn Mead

Clarkston schools have refused to participate in the paving project, saying the money's not there to help finance construction.

But schools Superintendent Milford Mason said he's making inquiries regarding the expense, and the informal feelings of some school board members about funding for extending the paving 250 feet between Bailey Lake School's south and north driveways.

The cost would be about $14,000, according to figures Smith received from the county road commission.

The township board authorized the county to bid the project, and construction is expected to take place in the spring.

Two other projects are included in the $48,000 it estimated the township will spend on road paving during the three-year period.

Also expected to be completed this spring are the Rattalee Lake Road approach from M-15 and the approach from Clarkston-Orion to Flemings Lake Road. The township's one-third of those projects is to total about $8,800.

Township Supervisor James B. Smith said the money the township will spend on paving could increase because several townships are opting not to participate in the tri-party agreement, leaving more funds available.

"As long as we can match, I think we'll get more projects," he said.

serves about 100,000 people with part of that in Springfield," he said.

"Let's assume the aquifer is contaminated. I assume a little of the bad water could get into Springfield. Springfield Township is not important itself, but the area on a whole. Township lines are invisible. Everyone could be affected, not just a certain township."

The residents also expressed concern about the need for more firefighters in Springfield if the Stablex plant opens, noting that the Groveland fire station is within the evacuation zone in case of a toxic spill.

The next scheduled Site Approval Board meeting is Thursday, Feb. 10, at 7 p.m. at Holly High School. Other meetings are scheduled Feb. 23 at 7 p.m., March 10 at 10 a.m., March 17 at 1 p.m. and March 31 at 1 p.m., all at Holly High School.

The Site Approval Board is to make its decision April 5.

Labor contract talk off to quiet start

One month behind schedule, Independence Township has begun labor negotiations with its AFSCME employes (American Federation of State, Local and Municipal Employes).

Thursday, both parties were scheduled to sit down at the bargaining table and begin contract talks, according to Linda Richardson, president of the 18-member Local 2720, Chapter B.

"I really can't tell you what we're talking about. We've met once to lay out the ground rules and we're supposed to sit down again Thursday," Richardson said.

It has not been decided how many years the new contract will cover, she added.

The last contract, settled for three years in 1980, included a 5.5 percent raise each year.

-Sheriff's log-

Tuesday, police arrested a 24-year-old Independence Township man for drunk driving after he smashed a car on Dixie Highway in the township.

Tuesday, thieves stole $1,600 worth of tires from a disabled truck at M-15 and I-75, Independence Township.

Wednesday, thieves broke into a house on Big Lake Road, Springfield Township, and stole a $2,000 stereo system.

Wednesday, thieves broke into a house on Greene Haven Drive, Independence Township, and stole a $250 chain saw.

Wednesday, thieves broke into a house on Holcomb Road, Independence Township, and stole a snowblower and chain saw worth $653.

Thursday, it was discovered thieves broke into a shed on Ute Point Road in Springfield Township and stole tools. The amount of damage was unknown.

Friday, vandals caused $650 in damages to two cars at Clarkston High School when they broke the windshield and side window of one car and broke the front grill and air conditioning coil of the other.

Friday, vandals caused an unknown amount of damage to a car inside a garage on Everest Drive in Independence Township.

Saturday evening, police discovered the side door at Clarkston Junior High School open. A search revealed nothing was disturbed.

Saturday, police found the back door at Everybody Aerobics on M-15 in Independence Township open. There was no evidence of a break-in.

Sunday, vandals in a truck smashed a mailbox on Pine Knob Road in Independence Township.

Sunday, vandals broke a garage window and the door knob off a door at a house on Princess Lane in Independence Township. Entry was not gained to the house and nothing was reported taken.

This information came from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Share history with children

Sharing Clarkston's history with children is the goal and volunteers are needed to make it reality.

"Volunteers will experience the village by sharing it with children in a way they've never experienced it before," said Susan Basinger, who runs the education program for the Clarkston Community Historical Society.

"Everyone who's done this has enjoyed it." She's looking for adults, both young and old, who can attend a discussion meeting and a walking tour and then share the information with Clarkston Elementary School pupils the second and third weeks in May.

The society's first education committee meeting this year is planned Thursday, Feb. 24, at 10 a.m. at 8 E. Washington, Clarkston.

Sharing history with the youngsters is planned in May in conjunction with Michigan Week and Preservation Week.

A volunteer needs only work a couple of hours during the four-day project.

Eventually, the society would like to have walking tours for adults and to include more children.

"We hope we can expand the program to other schools in Clarkston," Basinger said. "We'd like to include them all, but we just don't have enough volunteers."

WHY MIGRAINE SUFFERERS SEEK CHIROPRACTIC CARE

Have you ever been to a Chiropractor? Have you ever wondered why people go to Chiropractors?
 Maybe it's what you could call "educated common sense."
 No, you probably know that sensible eating habits, enough rest and good living conditions are necessary to health and happiness. But is part of the health formula being left out because of something people do not know?
 There are too many who do not realize that the nerves in the spinal column mean life and death, sickness and health. It is not romantic to think about, yet good nerve condition is just as necessary as food, water and shelter to our lives. The relief of headache through the use of deadening drugs is a temporary measure. The cause of most headaches, including migraine, has been demonstrated as a nerve pressure problem in countless cases.
 In these cases, the unique hollow bones of the spinal column have been found to be out of place, and the nerves within their protective centers have been pinched and the brain signals "ache" in protest.
 As you can imagine, people who suffer migraine and go to a Chiropractor, in effect, want to have the misalignments of their spine corrected . . . they want the nerve pressure relieved by having the bones put back in place. We believe that's pretty sensible. It's a pity more who suffer from the plague of migraine don't seek a Chiropractic answer. And maybe one of the important things to remember is that you have to seek it . . . it will not reach out and haul you into the Chiropractor's door.
 If you suffer from migraine . . . or if you experience recurring headaches . . . do what so many others with similar problems have done: see a Chiropractor. Find out if yours is a Chiropractic case.

Punishment needed for mailbox vandalism

In the "Sheriff's Log" of the Feb. 2 issue of The Clarkston News was an item about a 19-year-old man arrested for malicious damage which included driving over a lawn, a mailbox and garbage cans.

This type of crime has been a prevalent problem in many of the area neighborhoods, either by this person or others with the same lack of respect for other people's property.

I enjoin the judge of this case to sentence this person as viciously as the maliciousness of his crime.

I also enjoin the post office to enter the case and prosecute the mailbox damage in federal court, in line with the type of crime it is.

News' story was 'sensitive'

Dear Kathy:
"HOPE," "DETERMINATION" and "SUCCESS" are words not commonly associated with "UNEMPLOYMENT."

I want to commend you on your sensitive and insightful coverage of this issue.

It was refreshing—and encouraging—to read headlines and articles about individuals who refuse to give in to statistics and about a method underway in our own community that is helping local people find jobs.

The Job Club method of job-seeking had been proven successful in several studies, and the results in Clarkston are very encouraging.

Whether faced with the prospect of finding a new job after many years with one employer or entering the work force for the first time or after many years, most people are unfamiliar with the proper techniques for finding a job.

We help them identify those skills that make them valuable and teach them how to successfully "market" themselves to prospective employers.

Each person in Job Club spends several hours each day actively seeking employment.

Beyond the basic instruction in techniques and strategies, we also try to instill in each member a renewed self-respect, self-confidence and hope.

One source of hope lies with the employers and business people in our own community.

I would again like to remind them of the tax incentive available when hiring people from Job Club and, more importantly, encourage anyone who has or knows of a job opening in their community to contact either Mona Cottick or myself at 673-7756.

Help give our local people the chance they are looking for!

Who needs Groundhog Day?

by Kathy Greenfield

There's no longer any need to drag around a groundhog in a cage to see if it saw its shadow.

People will no longer have to pretend they had a secret meeting with the old weather sage.

A better way to predict the coming of springtime happened quite by accident.

On Feb. 2, Groundhog Day, I lost my glove.

That in itself isn't significant. I mean I lose one glove with a fair amount of regularity.

Over the years, I've decided people like me shouldn't bother with expensive hand warmers, so about once a year I purchase knit gloves.

The groundhog: Another myth bites the dust.

That way if I should happen to lose one it doesn't bother me as much.

So, on Feb. 2 when I realized my glove was missing, I soothed myself with the following thought: "It's been such a mild winter, and it is February. I probably won't even need gloves until November."

Then I heard the prediction of groundhogs all across the nation—springtime will be early. That gave me more piece of mind.

As fate would have it, the next day brought icy rain. My right hand froze, but at least I still had a left glove.

I stuffed my uncovered hand in my pocket and told myself this cold weather was just a fluke. It wasn't.

A couple of days later, I had searched my mind and decided where the glove had to be.

And I found it. Frozen. In a puddle. With a trail of red dye symbolizing its demise.

I jumped out of my car, ran over and tried to save it. I yanked at a corner.

I realized the best I would be able to do would be to stretch it and rip it to pieces trying to remove it from its resting place.

I left it. The next time I checked, it was covered with snow.

So tell me, old groundhog, that you didn't see your shadow on Feb. 2 and spring is just around the corner.

Tell it to my glove. I'll have a talk with my frozen right hand.

Jim's jottings

News news

By Jim Sherman

Effect of the depression in Michigan was evident by absence at this year's Michigan Press Association convention.

Publishers and editors stayed away in droves. Past president Ed Perlberg of Standish said, "We got rid of the riff-raff and got down to the wins and alkys." He certainly has a way with words.

Herb Boldt, assistant to the managing editor of the Detroit News replaced Perlberg, and hosted a trip to the News' new printing plant in Lansing.

A page of the News can go from Detroit to Lansing's press in 3 minutes, thanks to laser communication.

I was exposed to Gov. James Blanchard for the first time. After hearing him speak and observing his nervousness I've concluded the "vote against Headlee" movement was bigger than I thought.

Blanchard said some things that bear repeating. "The number of government employes and government programs will go down under James Blanchard... mark my word!"

And, "It's time to take the bull by the horns and get the job done."

On the other hand, the new governor insists on a permanent tax increase of 38 percent, which I didn't appreciate hearing.

The future of the newspaper industry was elaborated on by a couple speakers at this meeting. One was Marshall Field, V, owner of the Chicago Sun-Times, Manistique Pulp and Paper, and a whole lot more.

He said his paper was investing over a million dollars in videotext. That's the communication system that lets home tv viewers punch a button and get a printed sheet of something that has appeared on the screen.

The people who would use such things are called the "retriever generation", and Fields thinks they are light years away, as far as replacing newspapers.

"That 'generation' may never come to the weekly newspaper market, and Fields' paper owns a dozen weeklies or more.

A man-wife research team from Michigan State U gave the most hope for newspapering. They interviewed 3100 people and concluded people will always want the local newspaper.

Talking only of dailies, Drs. Michael and Judee Burgoon said readers want more big picture news, less fluff.

Their study also showed newspaper readers believe more in journalists than vice versa. Hope journalists got the the message.

Sarcastic pen attacks Stablax

We need a foreign-owned company to help us take care of our toxic and hazardous wastes. Our area would make a good test site for such a venture.

The complaints and lawsuits lodged against Stablax in another country are not important.

Because other states have turned Stablax away, Stablax has never had a chance in the United States.

The amount of people and water that may be harmed by spills, leaks, accidents and toxic fumes in route to the site and at the site in Groveland Township is minimal.

There aren't really that many people that count living within the 1.8-mile radius of the evacuation notice zone on route to the site in Independence, Springfield, Groveland, Holly, Grand Blanc or Fenton, or that should demand uncontaminated water.

The fumes and smell emitted during processing will dissipate before reaching a major city, won't they?

The fact that there are presently more than adequate processing facilities in Michigan to handle all our needs and even some of the other states and Canada's wastes while operating at only 60 percent capacity demonstrates that we really do need Stablax.

The million-plus people who use Groveland recreational facilities annually and the surrounding businesses they use can easily find a different area if needed.

We all take risks every day and we all have to die from something.

After all, are these places and people really that important?

Norman Johnson

Keep the old

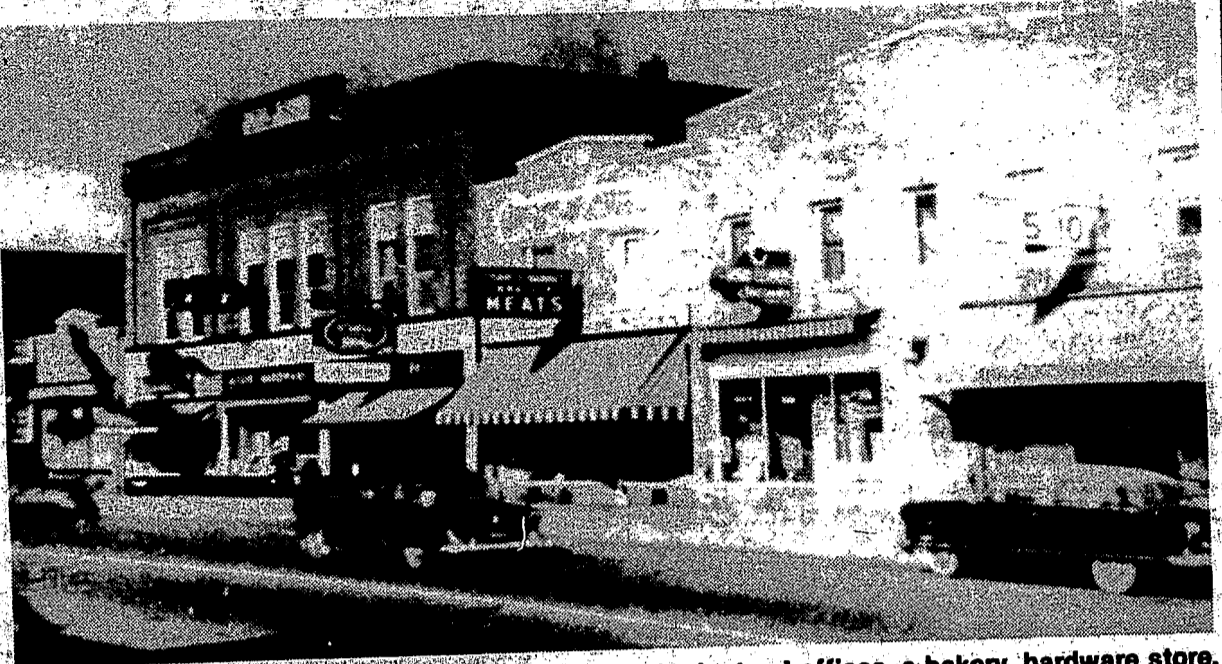

My husband and I are disappointed to learn that the Clarkston Historic Commission has been voted out.

We understand both sides of the controversy, but feel that if those on the side of preservation are thwarted too much they will become discouraged and apathetic, and Clarkston will lose something very valuable.

It may not always be more efficient, cheaper, easier, and all those good things, to keep the old, but surely a compromise can be reached by using a little reason and humor.

Elizabeth Duris' letter of 8 Dec. 1982 said it well. Mr. and Mrs. William Liddicoat

Peeking into the past

The west side of Main Street, Clarkston, in the mid-1950s was reproduced from a postcard. While the buildings are still the same, the lineup of stores has changed. The only building still housing exactly the same group is the Clarkston Masonic Temple (far left). In the 1950s, the rest of the buildings housed (from left) doctors' offices, a bakery, hardware store, drug store, meat market, dry cleaners and dime store. In 1983, the business lineup is an ice cream shop, drug store, bakery, sporting goods store, flower shop and a portion of a restaurant. (Postcard courtesy of Donna Fahrner.)

25 YEARS AGO Feb. 13, 1958

Miss Judy Inman and Miss Dianne Chapman are two of 50 young people selected from Michigan to attend the annual United Nations-Washington, D.C., Seminar sponsored by the Methodist Churches of Michigan.

Leading the Clarkston High School Wolves to a basketball victory over Bloomfield Hills, 79-66, are Bill Noles with 23 points, Larry Parks 22 and Dick Lippert 20.

Scribe Terry Miller reports: "The Boy Scouts of Troop 49 met in the woods back of the Clarkston Elementary School last Saturday. We made a clearing and cooked a meal over an open fire. We especially thank Mr. Craven, Mr. DeLongchamp, Mr. Robbins and Mr. Wilford for their cooperation."

For 49 cents, a pair of pants, a sweater or a skirt can be dry cleaned.

10 YEARS AGO Feb. 8, 1973

Dr. Durand Benjamin Jr., 38, a Pontiac General Hospital surgeon the past 18 months, has opened a private practice in Clarkston.

Clarkston Junior Miss Jane Leichtnam is Clarkston High School's 1973 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow. She will receive a specially designed award from General Mills, sponsor of the Betty Crocker Search for American Homemakers of Tomorrow.

Tim Westover, with 24 points, leads the Clarkston Junior High Wolverines to a basketball victory over Bloomfield Hills, 70-64.

1975 giveaway

by Jim Fitzgerald

"I can see all right, but I get dizzy. Can I take hold of your arm?" the old woman asked the bag boy as he carried out her groceries.

Sure. I was the bag boy and I was feeling a little dizzy myself. The nice woman and I steadied each other as we searched for her car. We found it just in time to keep a bag of tomatoes from splattering on the pavement.

It happened in 1975 in another town. With the aid of many generous farmers and gardeners, the newspaper where I worked distributed free bags of produce to elderly people. All they had to do was come and get it. All I had to do was carry a few bags a few yards. I figured it wouldn't hurt me.

It hurt me. But all the pain wasn't in my rusty flab. Looking at the old people, and listening to them, gave me a pain in the spirit or in the heart or wherever it is a man aches for others.

Eight years later, I am remembering those old people by accident. While searching my messy files for something else, I chanced upon the article I wrote about my day as a bag boy. And it started me thinking.

Some of those old men and women were shy and hesitant. You could tell they were embarrassed to be getting something for nothing. They acted almost guilty. I felt for them, and I wondered how many old people couldn't overcome their pride and had stayed away, no matter how much they could have used some free vegetables.

There were others who weren't embarrassed; who knew what they wanted and practically demanded it as their due. Bless them, they were easier to deal with. They didn't invent fixed incomes, tax hikes and inflation. It isn't their fault they can't have their own gardens. So why shouldn't they be a touch feisty as they battle to survive?

THINGS CAN BE WORSE, of course, especially today. Many old people have no transportation and are trapped inside their homes, unable to get to free-food depots no matter how much pride they're willing to swallow. Or maybe they need something more than food—a visit, a little conversation, a hug.

For instance, at the 1975 giveaway, many of the oldsters didn't want to go home. They didn't want produce as much as they wanted someone to talk to. One little woman said, "Am I holding everybody up? I get talking and I just don't have the good sense to quit."

Doesn't anyone ever talk to her? And those old people said other things that tell their story best. Listen to them:

"He didn't want to come down here very bad," a woman explained about her proud husband who refused to get out of the car.

"I don't get out much anymore. The mister is blind now and you can never tell what he might do. I can't leave him alone."

"These days you have to grab everything to eat that you can," explained a man who said he was picking up food for his older brother. He had to be 85 himself.

"My husband is dead now. I used to smuggle cucumbers to him in the hospital in my purse."

"I FEEL GUILTY," said a limping man who kept trying to give money to someone but nobody would take it. "Give it to charity," he pleaded.

"I'm afraid I can't carry that. It was all I could do to get here."

"It's heck when you get old, isn't it? I have cataracts and diabetes and I just don't see so good."

"I don't want anything. I want to give something." (Many of the people who donated produce were older than the people it was given to.)

With a chuckle: "This would hold us until payday—if there only was a payday."

A woman refusing extra pickles: "I used to can when I had a family but I don't can anymore."

"Dad doesn't get out anymore at all. He's just not well at all. Most of the time he sits in the bedroom and cries."

Bike path debate sends issue to committee

By Marilyn Trumper

A handful of citizens are rallying to have the next safety path connect the Village of Clarkston with the Independence Township Library.

Dismissing the Safety Path Committee's two targeted areas along White Lake and Sasahabaw roads, Virginia Schultz of Robertson Court called first for construction of the less than .3-mile path along Clarkston-Orion Road.

"It's very dangerous for the children riding their bikes along that curve. When the weather permits, they prefer to come into the library across the back and have all this winter because the field's been good," Schultz said at the Feb. 1 Independence Township Board meeting.

"But access to the library from the village would be used by children in Deerwood, Cranberry Lake, the Orchards (Snowapple, Cramlane, Pear, etc.) and from the Mustang (Drive) area proposed for a path."

Fred Heagarty of Robertson Court agreed.

"Let's put the safety paths in like they're designed—for safety," he said.

William Pfahlert, safety path committee chairman, argued that township residents pay the .5 mill for safety paths, not village residents.

Approved by voters in 1980 for 10-year collection, the levy is expected to bring in over $1 million.

"We wanted to put the paths in where township residents would get the most benefit. That's who's paying for them," he said.

"But you are more than welcome to attend our meeting and get involved in the decision-making. We've asked for people again and again."

Christopher Kennedy of Clarkston-Orion Road proposed the committee consider path construction along Parke Lake Trail to the library.

"There's already enough traffic on that stretch of (Clarkston-Orion Road). Why do anything to compound it?" he asked.

After discussion, the board tabled the issue, and the Safety Path Committee scheduled its first meeting in nine months for Wednesday, Feb. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

"I hope everyone who's interested will attend and talk about what they'd like and where they'd like to see the paths go," Pfahlert said after the meeting.

With this year's tax collection, Independence Township expects to have $180,000 for safety path construction, which should build approximately 3 miles, according to Treasurer Frederick Ritter.

In the over 50 miles outlined in the master plan, the committee had targeted the following two routes for Phase II construction:

•The east side of White Lake Road from Mustang Drive north to the Clarkston village limits at Deer Lake Road.

•The south side of Maybee Road west to Chickadee, across Maybee to the north side and west to the Pontiac State Bank driveway.

The Safety Path Committee is a recommending body. The township board has the final decision.

In addition, the board unanimously approved its engineering firm, Hubble, Roth and Clark of Bloomfield Hills, to do the specifications when a route is approved.

Springfield eyes fee for taxes

Superintendent Milford Mason.

"It's very fair. It's very equitable and it meets the reasonable and necessary cost for the collection," Mason said.

The Springfield Township Board agreed to collect the summer taxes during the last week in December following the decision by the state legislature to allow school districts to mandate the tax collection.

The law, which went into effect in January, was what prompted the board to agree to collect the taxes. Because they made their decision before forced by the law, the board could have informed the school district of the fee rather than meeting with the school district and discussing it.

"I think the philosophy took place when we had our official meeting (in December)," said Walls.

"And that is we can play games with the numbers, but the dollars come from the taxpayers, whether it's for townships or schools. It was never our intention to charge the schools more than it actually costs us to collect that summer tax."

About half of Springfield Township is in the Clarkston school district, but because the area included is more heavily populated and has smaller parcels, 59 percent of the taxes collected are to go to Clarkston schools.

Based on 1982 figures, taxes collected in Springfield this summer are expected to be about $1 million.

The estimated collection fee of $3,054 includes expenses for printing bills and envelopes, postage, a cover letter, tax roll paper, tax roll binders and an estimate on the number of hours the deputy treasurer will be called in to work, Walls said.

The figures could change slightly, because the district will be charged the actual costs, he said.

And although he fully expects the township board to concur on the fee, nothing will be certain until the board actually votes, Walls said.

"I've been wrong before, but I don't think I will be on this one," he said.

The Clarkston school district and Independence Township have yet to agree on a figure.

According to Mason, Independence seeks about $1.68 a parcel to collect the summer taxes.

Wint begins sixth year as parks chairman

For the sixth consecutive year, Lewis Wint has been elected chairman of the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

Wint was also appointed to his fourth three-year term as a parks commissioner by the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

There are 10 members on the parks commission, the policy-making body for the 3,700-acre system that includes nine parks and year-round recreation programs.

Wint and his wife Diane own the Lewis E. Wint Funeral Home on M-15 in Independence Township. They reside in Clarkston.

Flood insurance controversy

Sixty people, more than half of the 102 informed about a public hearing on federal flood insurance, filled township hall Jan. 28 to discuss what's proven to be a controversial issue.

After more than two hours of discussion, the board tabled a decision to join the program pending further study, but not before a tie straw-vote from the 26 remaining residents.

"A lot of the people wanted to know why the federal government was doing this," said Clerk Christopher Rose. "Some questioned the flood plain and said it hadn't flooded on their land in their lifetime. Some charged their homes would be unsalable because the flood plain map was published listing their homes. Others wanted to know why they were being forced to buy the insurance."

"After two hours, we took a straw-vote from the 26 homeowners that were left, and got a tie vote, 13-13, on whether to join the plan."

Independence Township has a mid-May deadline to make its decision, according to Rose.

Unless Independence Township agrees to take part in the federal flood insurance program its 102 property owners in the 100-year flood plain may find resale and remortgaging of their homes unacceptable to banks and other lending institutions because of noninsurable exposure of those homes to flood damage, according to Supervisor James B. Smith.

Rob and Kathy Adair pose with four of their sons, (from left) David, Jason, John and Troy. The Brandon Township couple became wed about seven years ago, beginning their lives together as the parents of six sons, 11 years old and under.

Adairs pull a 'Brady Bunch'

By Kathy Greenfield

Almost seven years ago when Rob and Kathy Adair were married, it was a family event.

Rob and his four sons and Kathy and her two sons participated in the ceremony at Calvary Lutheran Church in Independence Township.

And the Adairs began their lives together as the parents of six boys, all under age 12.

"Their wedding was one of the joyful things I've been a part of," remembers the Rev. Robert Walters.

He suggests talking to the Adairs. It would make an appropriate Valentine's Day story, he says.

Rob and Kathy agree to share their story.

Kathy says she's surprised sometimes when she looks at their wedding pictures and all the very young children they brought together.

"We were really brave," she says.

Kathy and Rob, who live in Brandon Township, had both lost their spouses in accidents just before they moved in to their homes there. She and her sons lived up the road from Rob and his sons.

"We both had people trying to get us together," she says. "People suggested I go down and give him a hand.

"I wasn't too fond of the idea. I didn't know this man and I had enough to do."

But as time passed by, they met when attending ball games and school events with their sons.

And Kathy, an only child, recalls conversations with her mother, who also lives in Brandon Township.

"I remember saying, 'Oh, no. I could never have six children. I could never do that.'"

But she did.

"It was kind of scary," she says. "In fact, I think when you get married when you're young, you're not as concerned about whether he's going to be a good provider, a good father, a good husband."

At first, the noise and the added work load were tough to get used to.

"Right from the beginning, it was right down to business. It's just like getting married and all of a sudden you have six children," Kathy says.

"I don't think about it being as storybook as other people do," she adds. "You know, when you're scrubbing the floors..."

But then, after talking about the realities of instant motherhood of six, she softens it.

While she remembers how hard it was during the years before their marriage and afterwards, Kathy's reaction to it all reflects love.

"I think sometimes God tries to give back something to you equally as joyful," she says.

Rob takes his memories back to how he felt about the marriage.

"I liked the family and I needed her," he says.

And after nearly seven years, he's glad they're together.

"I still like to do things with the family, and I like to do things with her," he says.

They laugh about their story falling into the love category.

But as he talks, he reaches over and touches her arm.

They settle down on the couch for a family portrait. David, 15; Jason, 9; John, 11; and Troy, 13, gather around. Bob, 17, and Scott, 16, are occupied elsewhere.

Rob puts his arm around Kathy.

She says, "Now don't get carried away."

They laugh at the silliness of it all.

And Kathy remembers the day before they were married.

"They delivered a grandfather clock here as a wedding gift from him," she says. "He knew I liked antiques and I really wanted a grandfather clock."

She was so touched, it brought tears to her eyes, she says.

Art student Tracey Hollander hangs her picture with her those of her classmates in Sashabaw's Art Exhibition.

Art students from Sashabaw Junior High School have their paintings on display for the rest of the week at the Pontiac State Bank in downtown Clarkston.

The students are chosen from the ninth-grade Art 3 class, and teacher Susan Kiser said this gives them an opportunity to show their talents.

"This is the first time the students have done any display at the Pontiac State Bank in Clarkston. Seventeen paintings are hanging in the bank.

painting this year," she said. "They really turned out nice."

The exhibition of 17 paintings started Jan. 21 and is scheduled to end Friday.

"All 28 students did a painting but only the ones with frames were able to have their works in the exhibition," Kiser said. "This is great exposure for the students. Other people besides their fellow students can see what they did."

JV spikers get past Kettering

By Dan Vandenhemel

Despite a slow start, the Clarkston High junior varsity volleyball team dominated Waterford Kettering in the third game to win their match Feb. 2.

The Wolves won the first game 16-14 and the third game 15-2 to raise their record to 11-3. The Captains edged Clarkston in the second game 16-14.

"We made the last game go quick," Wolves' coach Nancy Foster said. "Laura Hurren played well in the match. Kettering has improved a lot since the beginning of the year and they made it tough."

In the first two games, the Captains jumped out to a big lead only to let Clarkston come back to make the games close.

Kettering led in the opening game 8-3 then later 13-6 before Clarkston could get on track. The Wolves slowly cut into the lead and went in front for the first time 14-13.

"We were lucky to to win the first game," Foster said. "We played terrible but still won."

The second game started much like the first as Kettering grabbed a quick 7-0 lead. Clarkston again came back behind the serving of Arlene Edwards to go ahead 9-8. The Captains rallied to regain the lead 15-14 and went on to win, forcing the third game.

Clarkston High School didn't have school because of the icy road conditions and Foster said that might have been the problem with the team's performance.

"We played bad, but I think the fact we didn't have school bothered the girls a little," she said. "They weren't able to stay in their normal routine. I think that had something to do with it."

Lake Orion wins GOAL

Cheerleaders place second in competition

By Dan Vandenhemel

With less than one week's notice, the junior varsity cheerleading squad at Clarkston High School placed second in league competition.

The Greater Oakland Activities League (GOAL) held its annual competition Jan. 15 at Waterford Kettering High School. The Wolves finished just behind Lake Orion.

Co-sponsor Brenda Alexander said she was pleased but surprised with the squad's performance.

"Kettering didn't get the information out until two weeks before and we didn't decide to go until just one week before," she said. "With only three practices, to finish second is more than I expected. They are really good."

The cheerleaders are juniors Fran Saunders, Fe Red, Shelly MacAlpine and Donna Lessel; and sophomores Michelle Trzcinski, Kristie Dearborn, Tracy Smallwood and Dawnaree Deboer.

They were judged on teamwork, cheering skills, appearance and the originality of their cheers.

The squad's style of cheering is collegiate-like, said Lessel.

"We are like a more modern sport," she said. "We're more basic, more solid in our cheering. A lot of the teams there were cutesy and smiled a lot."

MacAlpine agreed.

"The old style of cheering is fast-paced with a lot of jumping," she said. "We are more precise."

When the announcement at the competition was made that the Wolves placed second, they were disappointed at first.

"When they called us for second place, we were a little upset. We wanted first place," Smallwood said. "We thought we did better than Lake Orion."

Alexander said the girls just looked at each other. "They were glad they placed, but were still hoping for first place," she said. "Some parents in the crowd from Rochester even thought they had first place."

Up My Alley

I'll bet my shirt on it

By Dan Vandenhemel

When the Clarkston High School basketball team host the Dragons of Lake Orion next Tuesday, the Greater Oakland Activities League (GOAL) title will be on the line.

Lake Orion is in second place and is having a fine season. They should give the Wolves a little trouble when they meet.

At least that's what Mark Marentette, a staff writer for the Lake Orion Review thinks.

Mark was shooting his mouth off again by saying the Wolves were lucky to win in Lake Orion earlier in the season 65-64.

He is so convinced the Dragons are a better team and will beat the Wolves, he offered a friendly little bet.

If Lake Orion wins, I have to wash his clothes for a week.

If Clarkston wins, he does mine.

Neither one of us likes to do laundry, but I figured I could use a week away from the washing machine, which is the real reason I accepted the bet.

Clarkston will win.

Granted the Wolves held on for a one-point victory the last time the teams met, but this time they will be playing in front of a large, and probably very vocal, home crowd.

How does Mark believe the Dragons can handle the Wolves in Clarkston?

They couldn't handle them in Lake Orion when they had the home court advantage. How will they do it here?

There won't be any difference on the outcome of the game, just the score. Here's my prediction: Clarkston 56, Lake Orion 49.

Clarkston can bank on their Big Three for the win as they have all year. The Big Three are forwards Mike McCormick and Dave Jokisch and center Ray Kubani.

Throughout the schedule, teams have been trying to stop them but managed to slow only one of them down while the other two did just about what they wanted.

And with guards Eric Kline and Craig Kulaszewski and players like Chris Bruce, Mike Dearborn and Rick Williams coming off the bench, there is little hope for the Dragons.

If both teams win this Friday, their game Tuesday will be the showdown for the league.

To win the GOAL title, Lake Orion must win and then hope the Wolves lose their last league game against West Bloomfield so they can share the title with Clarkston.

The Wolves are close enough to smell the title and I can smell those clean clothes.

Oh Mark, don't forget. No starch in the shirts.

Wolves rout Waterford Township

By Dan Vandenhemel

After trailing 28-26 at halftime, the Clarkston High School Wolves poured it on during the second half and blew past Waterford Township 64-48 Friday.

Clarkston completely controlled the last part of the game as Mike McCormick scored 20 of his 28 points in the second half. He led all scorers and added 15 rebounds.

Mike Dearborn had nine points, mostly in the first half, and Ray Kubani scored eight points and Dave Jokisch put in seven, all in the second half.

The first half, the Wolves came out shooting badly and were not able to stop the Skippers.

Waterford was able to work the ball inside against Clarkston and led 15-10 at the end of the first quarter.

With a high school dance following the game, the team might have been thinking about other things and not focusing on the game at the beginning, said coach Dan Fife.

McCormick agreed with his coach.

"We were a little disappointed with the way we played in the first half," he said. "We were looking forward to other things, like the dance, but we played a good second half."

"We have to start playing better in the first half," he said. "Waterford stuck to their game plan and kept the game tough. Our kids have to learn to get mentally prepared for the game better."

Fife said Chris Bruce and Dearborn came off the bench to save the Wolves.

"Those kids were the difference in the game," he said. "They came in and Township couldn't guard them out front."

The Wolves are 8-0 in the Greater Oakland Activities League and 12-1 overall.

The Skippers are 1-7 in the league and 2-11 overall.

Animal control tries to thwart rabies epidemic

By Kathy Greenfield

The statistics are grim.

But they're all the more reason residents should license their dogs and take advantage of a rabies clinic planned in Independence Township Saturday, Feb. 19, says Carl Anderson, division manager for Oakland County Animal Control.

Over 9,900 of the 12,000 animals taken to the Oakland County Animal Care Center in 1982 were killed.

"That's a cost to the taxpayers, let alone a waste of nice animals," says Anderson.

"We're going to try to convince people to buy a tag and put it on their animal. Then if it gets loose, it will be returned."

It is estimated that only 50 percent of the dogs in Oakland County have been immunized against rabies, and the World Health Organization calls for a minimum of 70 percent to be vaccinated to prevent an epidemic.

In Michigan in 1981, 14 bats, a dog, three skunks and one cattle were confirmed to have rabies.

While none were in Oakland County, several bats were in nearby Lapeer County and the dog was in Wayne County, Anderson said.

And cattle brought into the state sometimes have the disease.

"About all it will take is something like that to happen. Then we'll have an epidemic like we did in '54," he said.

"...then we'll have an epidemic like we did in '54"

In order to assure that people license their dogs and immunize them against rabies, the animal control division along with Explorer Scout Post 345 is conducting a door-to-door dog census as required by state law.

Roughly 60 Explorers are working on the project, Anderson said.

They have already canvassed parts of Avon and Commerce townships, and the goal is to get to as many people as possible so they can purchase licenses before the fee doubles to $15 after March 1.

"We should be getting into Independence Township very shortly, and we're going to be doing this year-round," he said.

"If we could just stress to the people to get that license before March 1 and to get it on their dog," he added. "At least we feel we're giving the majority of people who read the papers a little warning."

The Explorers will ask if the family has dogs, cats or horses, then ask if the dog is licensed. If it is, they'll ask to see the license or for its number.

Those who have unlicensed dogs will be sent a letter and given 10 days to purchase one before they're found to be in violation of the law.

Dog licenses may be purchased at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays.

The fee before March 1 is $7.50 for male or female dogs, or $5 for spayed or neutered dogs.

Proof of the surgery from a veterinarian must be presented to pay the lower fee.

On Saturday, Feb. 19, the county animal control is sponsoring a rabies clinic from 1 to 4 p.m. in the township DPW building, 6050 Flemings Lake Rd.

Three-year rabies vaccinations are to be available for $6 and licenses may also be purchased.

The animal control division is sponsoring several other rabies clinics across Oakland County on Feb. 20, Feb. 26 and March 26.

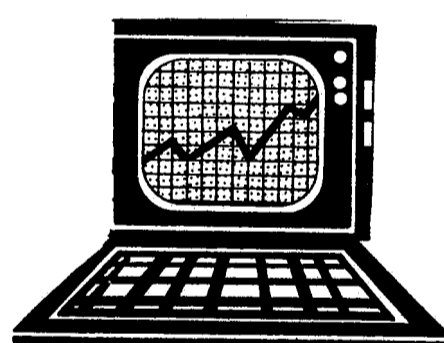

For more information, call the animal care center on Brown Road in Pontiac Township. The number is 391-4102.

Nestled in township treasurer's assistant Linda Richardson's hand is the 1983-style dog license

Ann's Ark

by Ann Glenn

Bringing Athena home

As one pursues the pathways of life, one hopes to lend a helping hand and to transmit some sort of value to the course of things.

The place to begin this process is within the family.

It was with pride and pleasure as I watched Heather and Chris fulfill their responsibility to their dog.

I have always preached a dog is a lifelong commitment. Someone got the message.

Heather Glenn-Kreuger is in her second year of medical school at the University of Utah in Salt Lake City where she resides with her husband and dog.

She graduated from Interlochen Arts Academy in 1977 and from Brigham Young University, Utah, in 1981.

By Heather Glenn Kreuger

One of the main events of my last few years at home before college was the birth and upbringing of nine Afghan Hound puppies.

My mother, sisters and I and pregnant "Afghan," as we called our first big dog, were returning from a stay in Philadelphia when it became obvious that delivery was imminent.

When we checked into a motel, the first puppy had already been born.

After the fifth, there was a lull so Mom called Dad at home and announced, "Five!" and we went for a dip in the motel pool.

I returned first to the room to find still another set of head and forepaws emerging, so I hastened to bring a fresh towel and be of some assistance to the tired, new mother.

Three more pups were born that night. But the one dark as night with white marks on chin, toes and chest that I helped deliver became my particular charge and friend.

The relative tranquility of our Vermont home retreated rapidly before the onslaught of those nine lanky, hungry and rambunctious pups.

One of our cats took great delight in ambushing them as they explored the front yard in their first weeks of walking.

He would spring from behind a bush and they'd yelp and totter desperately back to the porch.

Neither we nor the cat bargained on their prodigious growth rate, however, and soon he was in peril of revenge.

He is chased with special vigor by the dogs we still own from that litter to this day.

I named my beautiful Afghan puppy Athena and spent hours playing with her and leash-training, grooming and preparing her and her littermates for their first dog show.

Travels around New England and to New York City for shows followed. They all did quite well and always kept us on our toes with their antics.

Soon it was graduation time for me and time for most of the pups to be sold. We kept two females, Athena and Sasha, our show hopefuls and special friends.

Holidays were joyful reunions for Athena and I through a year at Interlochen and four years of college summers.

She would leap up at the first sound of my voice and then give a hearty tail-wagging hug and welcome.

We always shared a bed (though often unequally) and enjoyed taking cross-country jaunts or sneaking Christmas cookies.

With college graduation came my wedding. Athena spent a week with Chris and I at a cottage on Lake Huron.

In Salt Lake City, where we're both students at the University of Utah, we could not manage to find an apartment within our financial range and located near school which would permit dogs.

It didn't seem right to me that my new and exciting life-style—now quite permanent—couldn't include Athena.

She continued staying with my parents, now in Clarkston, awaiting my much shorter visits home.

Christmas 1982 brought us to Clarkston for a glad reunion with family and animals.

As I carried a bundle of newly wrapped presents down to the tree, I noticed an envelope with my name on it, in my husband's writing, perched on a tuft of pine needles.

On Christmas morning I got to open the mysterious, smallest present. The envelope contained a Christmas card with a receipt folded inside.

The receipt, signed by Chris, said, "$100 Animal Deposit."

The card, signed by Athena, said, "Now can I come home with you?"

The landlords had been persuaded (by my husband) that an 8-year-old dog, thoroughly housebroken and well-behaved, would be acceptable; especially since we were willing to put down a deposit.

Now the three of us share a bed (still unequally) and Athena is glad to take a walk, welcome us home from work or school, or just lie quietly nearby as we study.

He hooks 24-pounder; takes tournament lead

Jerry Namowiez landed a 24-pound redfish to take the lead in the 48th annual Metropolitan South Florida Fishing Tournament.

If no lucky angler lands a larger fish, his catch is eligible to win the Dupont Stren 20-pound Division.

Namowiez lives on Sagamore Drive in Independence Township.

The contest ends April 17.

Winter watermelon

A beach party, complete with hula-hoop and watermelon speed-eating contests, brought summer thoughts to Saginaw Valley State College students. Independence Township was well represented with watermelon feasters Tom Brand (left) and Adam Kline. Brand, 19, took third place in the event. A computer-science major, he resides on Chapel View Road. Kline, 18, is enrolled in the computer and math program. He resides on Delmas Road.

Honors

Two local Oakland University, Rochester, students are spending the winter 1983 semester in a cooperative education program arranged by the university.

Anthony Becker, a senior computer information science major, is working at the university's computer center. He resides on Surrey Lane, Clarkston.

Senior engineering student David Nacy has been hired by Lamb Technicon Corp., Warren. He resides on Transparent Road, Independence Township.

Robin Bisha was named to the dean's list in the College of Arts and Sciences at Florida State University for the fall semester.

Robin was also selected to have her achievements published in the sixth annual edition of the National Dean's List, 1982-83.

The publication recognizes academically gifted students selected by their college deans.

Bisha resides on North Holcomb Street, Clarkston.

Two local students were among the about 2,000 students recently receiving degrees from Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant.

Jayne Lafnear of Simler Drive, Independence Township, graduated cum laude with a bachelor's degree in education. She majored in teaching the emotionally impaired.

Linda Robenault majored in Spanish for her bachelor's degree in education. She resides on Ellis Road, Springfield Township.

4-eggs cheesecake

By Lorna Bickerstaff

My daughter-in-law Dana Bickerstaff is sharing her Cream Cheese Cake she served Christmas day.

Cream Cheese Cake

Crust:
1½ c graham cracker crumbs
¼ c sugar

1 stick melted butter
Combine and pat into bottom of a 10-inch, springform pan.

Filling:
3 8-oz packages cream cheese
4 eggs
1 t vanilla
1½ c sugar
1/8 t salt

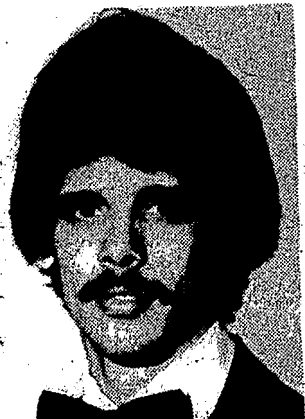

Cream well and pour over graham cracker crust. Bake at 350 degrees for 50 minutes.

Topping:
1 pint sour cream
1 t vanilla
¼ c sugar

Spread over baked cream cheese cake and bake 10 minutes in 450-degree oven.

If any reader would like to contribute a recipe, we would be most happy to have it. Call Lorna Bickerstaff at 625-3370 weekday afternoons or write her at The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

College notes

Mark Siebert, a senior at Great Lakes Bible College, Lansing, is to give his senior voice recital Feb. 15. He is to graduate this spring with a bachelor's degree in religious education with a major in voice and a minor in New Testament. He plans to continue his education at Michigan State University this summer, studying music, education and performance, with the goal of teaching music at the college level. The senior voice recital is a graduation requirement. It includes pieces from the Messiah, French and German selections, various show tunes and contemporary religious songs. Siebert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Siebert of Cayuga Road, Independence Township.

Dayna Swanson received all A's during the fall semester at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant.

The achievement placed her on the university's honors list as one of 116 students out of 16,191 enrolled with perfect grades for the semester.

A senior, she resides on Snowapple Drive, Independence Township.

The Central Michigan University fall semester honors list also includes six local students who placed in the top 10 percent of their classes.

They carried at least 12 hours of letter-graded classes and carried a minimum grade point average of 3.5 out of a possible 4.0.

Five of the students are freshmen with Clarkston mailing addresses—Mary Birkmeier of Clarkston-Orion Road, Billee Hampshire of Sunnyside Road, Vandi Riddle of Wagoner Circle, Elizabeth Sans of Rattalee Lake Road and Karen Thomas of Hillside Drive.

One senior received the honor—Connie Verhey of Cramlane Road.

Wedding spoof turns into love-filled party

For their 20th anniversary, Darrell and Charlotte Cooper decided to get married again. Well, sort of.

It all started out to be a spoof of a wedding. But what happened was a very loving feeling shared with friends and family, says Charlotte.

Their wedding two decades ago in Jonesboro, Ark., happened when they were students at the University of Arkansas.

Instead of a fancy ceremony, the Coopers opted for furniture for their apartment.

"It was just a college wedding," she says. "In a church, with a pastor and parents. Nothing fancy. Quick.

"We didn't have any flowers or candles. We just got married and went to the apartment and the next day I studied for tests."

The decision to have their 20th anniversary wedding, however, was even quicker.

It started with a telephone conversation with a friend and a week later the wedding party with 40-some guests was held at the Coopers' home on Church Street in Independence Township.

Their actual anniversary was Jan. 12 and the wedding was staged Jan. 15.

Charlotte wore her sister-in-law's wedding gown. Darrell rented a white suit with military flavor.

The house was bedecked in ribbons and bows. "We did all the traditional things. Something old, something new, throwing the bouquet, the garter, cutting of the wedding cake, wedding napkins, matches," she says.

Charlotte's parents came from Arkansas to join in the festivities. Her father gave her away and her mother provided the piano music.

A friend performed the unofficial ceremony. "The house never looked more beautiful," Charlotte says. "It was gorgeous."

Friends spent five hours the day of the party decorating.

But as Charlotte paints a picture of the way it was, it becomes obvious there was a mixture of serious and funny.

"There was a tacky champagne fountain. Really tacky. This one was the ugliest that I've ever seen."

And, "There were three dogs at the wedding, by the way. They all lined up under the piano in regimented fashion. They all wore orange ribbons around their necks."

Charlotte explains the curious mix.

"This started out as a spoof and the only problem was that we found out when we were shopping we wanted to be so nice," she says about a party decoration outing with a friend.

The guests didn't know what to expect when the date arrived, but they all wore wedding finery, received flowers to carry or wear and brought food.

"That's definitely the way to have a party. Just say you'll serve cake and mints and nuts and everybody gets desperate and brings all sorts of wonderful food," she says.

And the outcome was decidedly pleasant.

"It was very festive and fun and joyous. And there was a lot of sentiment lingering—a recommitment of each couple here," she says.

"I never regretted not having a wedding, but I wouldn't give up this wedding for anything."

WORDS OF LIFE - "When he was entered into a ship, his disciples followed him. And, behold, there arose a great tempest in the sea, inasmuch that the ship was covered with the waves; but he was asleep. And his disciples came to him, and awoke him, saying, Lord save us; we perish. And he saith unto them, Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith? Then he arose, and rebuked the winds and the sea; and there was a great calm. But the men marvelled, saying, What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him!" There's no place like Rome

Shaking away the winter blahs, Clarkston High School's student body wrapped itself in silk, polyester and cotton sheets and ended the celebrated Spirit Week with Toga Day. Caesar and Nero would have shuddered with pleasure as seniors took the spirit trophy, after eating their way through the most banana splits, tugging the most tug-o-wars and running the most three-legged races. Everyone fiddled while the fun at CHS burned.

Art as an investment: Why it's safe

By Marilyn Trumper

Eyeing the worn couch cushion, frayed drapes, battered carpet and tired walls, you decide it's time to redecorate.

Add a splash of berry to the walls and yellow trim.

Rip the drapes down and let the sun shine in.

Metamorphosize an armless scroll-back chair with a new oriental print in rust, beige and brown. Let subtle greens and golds accent the camel-back sofa.

Tear up the track-worn carpet and enjoy the hardwood floor. Put a contemporary brass and glass coffee table right in the middle.

Make a jade plant and 5-foot palm at home in the corner, stuffed in a blue and white oriental planter atop a carved teak stand.

But what to put on the walls?

In the wall hutch?

On table tops?

Art as an investment is the answer, says Paul Sadows of Sadows Auction Galleries Inc., in the Clarkston Mills Mall.

"Right now we feel there are many fine quality 19th century oils around at good prices in good condition. They're highly decorative.

"We recommend original art as an investment over prints and lithographs."

With enthusiasm, Sadows points to an oil by Guisipe Bortignani: a jovial fat monk with roped belt stands before a roaring fireplace and entertains a party of three. All laugh at his apparent joke.

"Look closely at this woman's arm. It's covered in clear silk and even shows the pulls in the silk," Sadows point out. "This is a very good quality painting."

Sadows next suggests a 19th century French drop front desk with golden wood inlays. Cost: $3,500.

"We feel it has a good solid track record for investment because the pieces are becoming so scarce," he said. "This is an especially good piece because it has all its original hardware. That's rare for a piece that's 140 years-old."

In art there's no depreciation, only appreciation, Sadows says. "With fine antiques you always realize your investment.

"You buy it, use it, sell it, and get your money out of it. It's not the same with wall-to-wall carpeting. Once it's in the home its value is only of value to you. But put down a handwoven oriental rug and that's a different story. If you move or redecorate, roll it up or sell it and buy another. You'll always realize your investment. They'll never wear out unless put in a high-traffic area, and then only after a hundred years."

The standard 4-by-6 rug sells for between $500 and $1,200.

Sadows also suggests carved ivory as an investment.

"Common sense will tell you it's the law of supply and demand that makes something increase in value. As the supply diminishes the price goes up. Soon the only elephants will be in zoos. Ivory is at a premium."

Within most people's pocketbooks, Sadows points to a pair of Foo Dogs that would go for approximately $150.

For the wealthy, a pair of matching blue and white 19th century palace urns. The price, between $12,000 and $15,000.

Art nouveau and art deco are proving good investments, too.

Both are art philosophies geared to youth, wealth, beauty and experiencing life.

Beautiful young women in white flowing gowns towing two white leashed whippets over a green hill and white clouded blue sky.

A long slim, youthful dancer immortalized in bronze.

Balancing clowns with outstretched arms grasping for life.

Upbeat, positive, and a good investment, too, says Sadows. The clown would probably go for $2,000.

An oriental Foo Dog that goes for $150 will not lose its value, and will sell at a profit in the coming years, Sadows says.

Examples of art deco and art vestments, says Paul Sadows, owner of the art and auction gallery in the Clarkston Mills Mall. Don't just redecorate, he says, invest.

What object in your home makes it special?

A photo inquiry
by Dan Vandenhemel

"I have an 18th-century dining set. I'm an antique collector, but I guess I'd have to pick that one."—Mike McBride of Springfield Township.

"My waterbed. I have a bad back and I can't seem to sleep on anything else. It's fantastic."—Ann Hasselbalch of Independence Township.

"I have a picture of a slide that I took in Switzerland. It shows a stream with mountains on both sides of it. I've had it for about 15 years."—Dr. Allen Bush of Lake Orion.

"There is a chair in my bedroom that belonged to my mother's grandfather. It's handmade."—Amy Gettig of Independence Township.

"The game room we built three years ago. It gives our children a place to entertain their friends and it gives us more living space."—Marty Johnston of Clarkston.

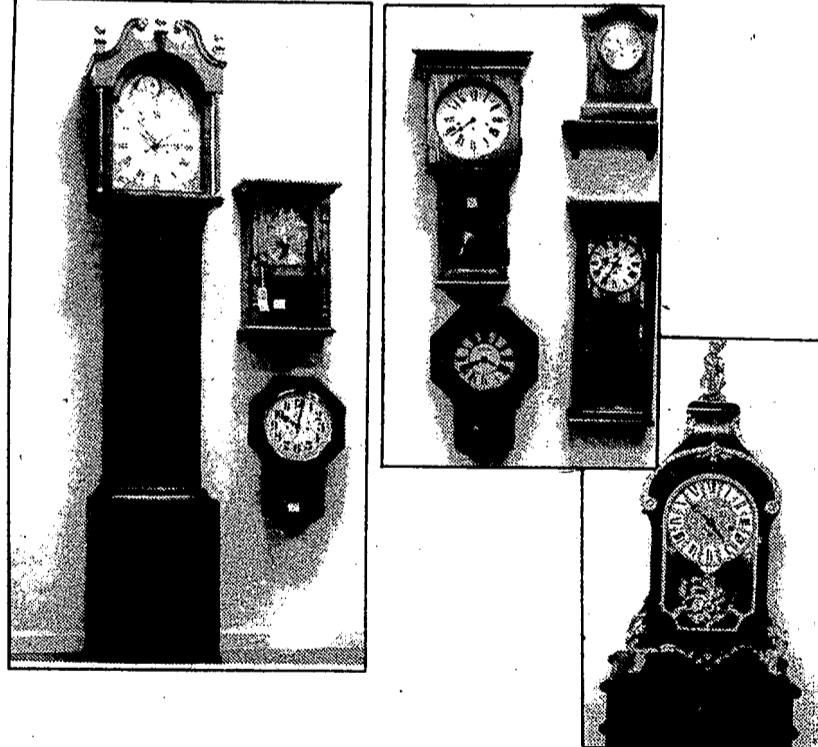

"Our kitchen because it overlooks Parke Lake. It always looks nice out there."—Marilyn Weiss of Clarkston.

"Definitely our Bible."—John Guzzo of Independence Township.

Troweks bask in their wood-burning stove's warmth

By Dan Vandenhemel

Joe Trowek can sit in the comfort of the heat from his wood-burning stove and scoff at winter.

That's one of the advantages of having a Ben Franklin Wood Stove, said the Independence Township resident.

Trowek: He scoffs at winter.

"We get all the wood we need from the five acres of woods behind us"

—Joe Trowek

"It's nice just sitting here in the kitchen and looking at the snow," Trowek said. "The stove heats the whole house as long as the doors are open."

It took Trowek four months to finish a small addition to their home to hold the stove 10 years ago. The cost of $1,100 included the black wood-burner. "That price is real low even for then," he said. But the main reason the stove was put in place had to do with the availability of free fuel.

"We get all the wood we need from the five acres of woods behind us," he said. "If we had to buy the wood, I don't know if we would have installed it."

The Troweks have had four power failures during their decade with the stove.

"We would have been lost without it," said Marie Trowek.

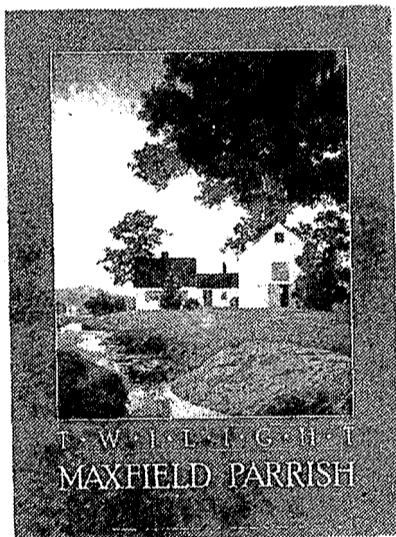

"We have a portable grill that goes with the stove and we can cook on it during the winter. Just last week we had steaks and barbecued chicken. If it wasn't for the stove, we would have starved and froze when the power was out."

Their son, Dave, approves of the stove as well.

"It heats the house, we can cook on it, plus it looks real nice," he said.

"Once when I was just learning how much wood to put in, I had too much in it and you couldn't sit in the same room because of all the heat.

"I really enjoy it, though. It's the best thing about the house."
