Contract approval predicted

By Kathy Greenfield

The tentative Clarkston teachers' contract is not quite official, but negotiators are predicting approval of the pact by the teachers and the school board.

The about 290 teachers in the Clarkston Education Association (CEA) are expected to vote on the two-year contract Monday, April 25.

They have worked without a contract since

August 1982. Included in the tentative agreement is a salary freeze for the 1982-83 school year and a raise for the 1983-84 year, said Conrad Bruce, chief negotiator for the Clarkston school district. "The important thing is we got a freeze for this school year," he said. "I think it's very important for the school district.

"The public is expecting a pay freeze for the employes this school year because so many of the citizens, no matter where they work, have had to accept pay freezes. They're taxpayers and they think what's good for the goose..."
CEA President Allen Bartlett called the contract acceptable."

"You can tell by the tone of my voice I'm not jumping up and down, he said, "It's not everything we would have liked, but it's something we could agree upon, both sides."

The salary dispute was settled Wednesday, April 13, after a special hour-long school board meeting was called at 12:15 in the morning.

The negotiating teams met again Wednesday afternoon to put the finishing touches on the tentative contract, including details like the school calendar.

The next step involves a vote of the teaching staff. The tentative contract must be in their hands for 48 hours before a vote is taken, and on Tuesday the document was still being prepared for distribution.

Bartlett said he expects the contract to be accepted.

"I can only project," he said. "We will have a fairly large 'no' vote, perhaps larger than what we had in the past. I hope they ratify it. If they don't we're in trouble-back to square one."

Following standard procedure in the district, the school board will then vote on the contract, Bruce said, and he expects the board to approve it.

At that time, details of the pact will be made

Trip prompts meeting date change

Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls is going out of town next month.

His destination is the University of Wisconsin in Madison, Wisconsin, on May 12-13 for a conference on effective zoning administration.

The trip is on the Thursday following Springfield's regular board meeting.

At the April 13 meeting, Walls asked if May's meeting could be switched to another date.

The board voted to move the meeting to Tuesday,

Firefighters' pay based on training

Firefighters in the first two classes were the only ones to get the raises.

People in Class 3 receive $8 an hour, Class 4 gets $6 and Class 5 brings in $5.

Walls said one reason the raises came into effect is because there are more firefighters.

"With the opening of the new fire station, there is a wider spreading out of the training in the department," he said.

"This is really the proper way of paying them, by their training, not their seniority. Some of them may have put a lot of time in the department, but some others put more time in training."

May 10, at 8 p.m.

The rest of the year's meetings are sheduled on the second Wednesday of each month.

"I have gone to this conference before," Walls said. "I missed it last year, and wanted to go this year.

"I've never missed a board meeting since I've been here and wouldn't have for the conference.'

The conference is to provide information on the legal framework of zoning ordinances, recent developments in zoning and how to enforce zoning

"About half of the program will be on zoning in areas that are not really rural and not really urban,"

"I consider northern Oakland County to fall in there. I haven't been able to find any information on something like that before.'

Walls said the cost of the entire trip including the onference and airflight will be around $400.

"We'll take that money out of the contingency fund," he said.

Clarkston Place:

St. Joseph Health Systems-Flint surfaces as likely manager for owner of Independence, Springfield retirement village

By Kathy Greenfield

The vision of Clarkston Place, a retirement community with about 750 residents, prompted In-dependence Township Planning Commission Chairman Neil Wallace to say this:

"We're recreating the Village of Clarkston."

Wallace was among representatives from Independence and Springfield fownships who met April 12 with Clarkston Place developer Hugh Garner, St. Joseph Health Systems-Flint officials and architect James Tomblinson, Calling the meeting "a little out of the ordinary" and "unofficial," Wallace stressed it was designed to allow the townships to react to preliminary plans.

The 28-acre development spans both townships; with about half the acreage in each,

The property is located northwest of Deer Lake and plans include housing for four distinct lifestyles—small homes built in clusters of two to four with attached garages apartments, housing for people who require day care and a nursing home.

While plans for the development have included linking the services with a non-profit organization, the connection with St. Joseph Health Services Inc. was made public for the first time.

The firm has been working many months on the plan and once studies are completed, the project will be presented to the board of directors, said Kenneth Trester, vice president of marketing for St. Joseph Mercy Hospital-Flint.

We're as committed as we can be without signing on the dotted line." he said. "We're very serious about our involvement. The exact nature should be made very clear within the next 60 days."

The question whether the health services group would manage the site or own it is also yet to be determined, he said.

St. Joseph Health Systems presently owns and operates several facilities in Genessee County including a nursing home, day care center for adults, clinics, and hospitals including Wheelock Memorial in Goodrich and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital-Flint.

Preliminary plans for Clarkston Place include the Sixty-four cottages with one or two bedrooms and options including a den, basement and fireplace... The units would be built around the southeastern perimeter of the project on tree-lined streets to blend with the surrounding residential area. Fre construction prices range from $79,000 to $90,000. The committee members suggested taking zoning

*About 200 apartment units ranging from two to three stories designed for independent living, but with easy access to dining areas and other facilities. There is a rental or purchase plan, with prices ranging from $31,000 for a studio apartment to $64,000 for two bedrooms.

Sixty-four units in housing for the elderly in three- and four-story buildings. Similar to hotel living, each unit would include a two beds, with meals in à common dining room. On each floor, lounges would serve 12 to 15 people. Cost is projected at $750 to $900

 A 120-bed nursing frome for people who need continuous care. The cost would be up to $55 a day for private pay.....

A single-story commons area, available for all residents, would include a health club, indoor swimming pool, library, meeting rooms, game area, lounge, restaurant, reading room, arts and crafts room, beauty and barber shop, laundry, clinic, party room, chapel and a motel for guests.

With the exception of the cottages, the commons area would interconnect with all other buildings so residents would not be required to go outside to use services offered.

Also planned are outdoor recreation areas, in cluding lighted walkways.

Public access to the site was questioned.

It's basically oriented to the people who live there and their guests," said Michael Elliot, executive vice president of St. Joseph Health Systems, responding to questions about public use of such facilities as the clinic and the restaurant.

The need for security was also discussed.

We feel one of the attributes people will feel about a facility like this in Clarkston, Mich., is we won't need an iron gate;" Trester said.

Other concerns included the two different township zoning ordinances which limit density, park-sing and building heights. All buildings over two stories high would be located in Springfield Township.

The use of only one main entrance off Deerhill Place, just east of Dixie Highway, was also discussed. as well as Deer Lake access for residents.

Developer Garner said residents would not have access to Deer Lake other than through the township beach, as with other Independence Township residents.

variations to the zonings boards of appeals as soon as possible so plans could continue with the knowledge of whether or not the variances would be granted.

'It's not fair for us to say the concept looks really good, but, but, but, but, but. And when you're through with the buts, you have to take out half your complex," said Springfield Township Supervisor Col lin Walls.

Wallace noted that the officials at the meeting had no problem with the concept, but attention needs to be paid to details.

Garner said groundbreaking for model homes in the cottage section is planned in June.

"We're still shooting for this year for some occupancy in the cottages," he said, adding that occupancy in the other facilities will probably not occur for at least one year.

We do have about 100 people on our list who have indicated interest," he said, and about five have made deposits.

Schools push for early retirement

A $5,000 incentive for early retirement is available for Clarkston school district teachers.

We think we have some people at the age they may accept this plan for next year," said administrative assistant Conrag Bruce at night's school board meeting.

Board member Carolyn Place asked about the amount of the retirement bonus...

She said a nearby district offers $10,000

With the additional payment of $25 a day for sick days not used, those eligible for early retirement could receive up to $7,500, Bruce said.

The bonus is available to those in the upper three steps of the 12-step pay schedule for teachers, said Superintendent Milford Mason following the meeting.

Early retirements save the district money, he said, because it a replacement teacher is recalled from the layoff list, unemployment benefits are no longer paid and most are at a lower pay level.

The same incentive was used during the 1982-83 school year.

CAYA honors local kids

The night seemed fitting for the 26 Clarkston Area vouths.

They had given their time and efforts to a variety of activities without asking for anything in return.

Last Thursday at the Clarkston United Methodist Church on Waldon Road, 24 of the 26 received framed certificates for their services from the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee.

The other two, 13-year-old Jon Sampson of Paramus Road and 17-year-old Julie McClellan of Hillcrest Drive, were awarded plaques for their outstanding volunteer work.

McClellan, a senior at Clarkston High School, volunteered time at the dental clinic in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

Sampson, a seventh-grader at Clarkston Junior High, is working with the United Scleroderma Foundation. His grandmother died from the disease that hardens and thickens the skin.

"I didn't do the work for the award," Sampson said. "I did it to give scleroderma some publicity. It was a nice surprise when I got it, though.

McClellan plans to attend Oakland University next fall and to eventually become a dentist.

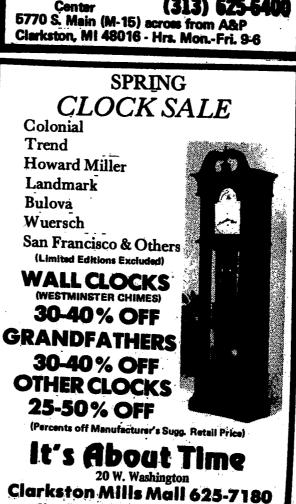

"She worked the front desk and did just about everything a dental hygentist would do," said her mother, Connie. "After she got a job, she went to the hospital on her days off. She really likes it there."

All of the youths honored were nominated by people they worked with and had to live within the Clarkston school district.

Others to receive awards were: Robert Bennett of East Washington Street; Laura Brown of Wealthy; Dawn Colling of Hummingbird Lane; Susan Colwell of Princess Lane; Marilyn Decker of Flemings Lake Road; Jeff Donnelly of Clarkston Road; Marcy Frantz of East Church Street; Mark Heil of South Main Street; Jodi Irwin of Laurelton; Trisha Johnson of Glenburnie; Debbie and Steve Kent of Mary Sue; Beth Moshier of Hillman; Tony Morrow of Warbler; Ellen Pitcher of Snowapple Drive; John Planck of Kootmia; Alec Puskas of Edgewood Drive; Glen Schreitmueller of Deer Hill Drive; Rana Scutt of South Eston; Amy Selvala of Rattalee Lake Road; Karen Simunovic of Deer Hill Drive; Michelle Stanley of Nathan Oscar Road; Mike Trester of Tuscarora; and Kris Zimmerman of Hillsboro Road.

Use our millage as intended, say firefighters

In reference to the editorial in the April 14 edition of The Clarkston News, we as the full-time, paid firefighters of Independence Township couldn't agree with you more.

In 1980, the members of the fire department went to the voters of Independence Township, with no support from the township board, asking for a millage increase for upgrading the antiquated and deteriorating buildings and equipment then in use within the fire department.

The voters of the township saw the need for these improvements and passed that millage.

As of today, these same buildings and equipment are still in use.

As the full-time firefighters in Independence Township, we would like to make it well-known to the citizens who supported the millage that Chief Ronk has sent proposal after proposal to the township board for the improvements this money was voted for, and each time the township board finds an excuse for not spending this voted millage.

The township board's roadblocks for improving the fire department facilities seem to stem from a financial bind the fire department was in prior to the approval of this last millage.

Today there is no financial bind. In fact, there is a large carryover from previous budget years.

This money was not voted for, nor collected for a bank account. It was collected to be spent upgrading the fire department.

Each budget year since the approval of the millage, Chief Ronk has proposed improvements within the fire department only to have them axed by the township board for one reason or another.

Their latest tactic is their so-called policy of not financing capital improvements, but waiting until cash is in hand for these expenditures.

This is ludicrous when talking hundreds of thousands of dollars for a major building program and equipment replacement.

By the time this large quantity of money is saved for these expenditures, the cost of the item has in-

This fact was proved with the latest purchase of a large-gallonage tanker.

The tanker was requested by the chief four years ago and not ordered because the cash was not on hand, yet it was to be collected in the next three years.

The township board made the citizens of Independence wait for this added protection, and the cost increased by $30,000 due to inflation.

This increase greatly outweighed any cost of financing that same tanker four years ago.

We strongly feel they should spend their bankroll and finance major capital improvements with the fire department now, not years from now when not only the costs will have increased but the quality of fire safety within Independence will have decreased.

Much-needed improvements existing within the fire department today include: Replacement of two rapidly deteriorating stations which no longer serve the needs of the department; and replacement of fire and EMS vehicles, some of which are 14 years old and still serve as first-response vehicles.

These are major expenditures which could be servicing the public while being paid for, instead of being sacrificed while they increase their bank account.

Any shortcomings in buildings or equipment within the fire department are solely due to the township board's lack of responsibility to provide them, not because the fire chief hasn't requested

This political sour grapes over a millage they did not openly support must stop and they must start acting in the best interest of the citizens of Independence Township and provide them with the best fire department possible with the money earmarked for that purpose.

We are by no means talking deficit spending, only spending what is being collected instead of saving

Fight to keep good public education

by Kathy Greenfield

We've all heard about the large numbers of Michiganders who have been laid off from their jobs, so 28 doesn't sound like much.

But when the 28 Clarkston school district teachers destined to receive pink slips and their colleagues stood up while their names were read to the school board, it gave me the creeps.

Enrollment has been projected to drop about 260 pupils, causing the need for about 10.5 layoffs.

Money problems have created the need for the remaining job losses, according to school officials.

The decrease in staff will mean larger class sizes, more split classes in the elementary schools, less music, less art, less home economics and fewer sections of social studies on the high school level.

I have always believed strongly in public education.

The reason is uncomplicated.

Those with money will not suffer the ill effects of reduced programs. Private lessons in the fine arts will be at their disposal. Or, the children can attend private schools.

It has a lot to do with Democracy and with the obligation of our society to see that every child has an opportunity to receive a wellrounded education.

I don't want my feelings to be misunderstood, for I believe the administration of the Clarkston school district agrees with me wholeheartedly, as well as the teachers.

But I see something going on that needs to be corrected by the people who live in the Clarkston school district.

Clarkston Education Association President Allen Bartlett said it precisely, so I'll quote him.

"We have to insist on good schools." People tired of paying school taxes or disgruntled with the school system seem to be quite verbal.

The people of the community who see the need for public education must speak out.

They need to insist that all the taxes that can ()) be levied are, vote to approve the 5-mill tax renewal for Clarkston schools on the June ballot and push for methods that will keep our schools operating at an acceptable level.

Good public education is one of the things. around us worth fighting to keep.

Holy mackerel Andy!

Here's a note in a Bill Myers column that got my attention.

Since 1949 . . . average . . Wages are up 470 percent.

Income tax is up 570 percent. Social Security taxes are up 6,480 percent.

Holy Mackerel Andy as Kingfish (Amos) ased to say to his sidekick. For you readers under 35 Amos and Andy was a very popular radio show in the 1930's-40's.

However, and also 35-year-olds, all these percent climbs came in your lifetime, too.

Then there was this Myers note: Twenty five percent of American workers pay more in Social Security taxes than they do in income taxes. Which brings us to President Reagan's third-year, 10 percent cut in income taxes ... across the board.

This tax reduction, which Tip O'Neill and his majority in Congress are tyring to cut, was the same for everyone. Big income or small, the cuts in 1981 and 1982 were the same percent for all.

TV newsreaders and Tip would have us believe the tax cuts were unfair to the little fellow.

It's a fair, even cut of exact percentage to each. I rouble is, big or small, the 10 percent cut a year in the resolution didn't really amount to 10 percent. Because of the time in the year it took effect, the first year the net reduction was only 1.25 percent because it was in effect only 3 months.

The second year we had 5 percent reduction for 6 months and 10 percent for 6 months. All from Tours out the constitution of Hopefully, Congress will keep their hands and votes off the repeal route and we get the entire 10 percent in 1983.

When you met the April 15, 1983 income tax deadline your tax rate was 10 percent less than under President Carter. That's something, anyway.

But, if you're in a higher tax bracket now you probably sun a notice Reagan's generousity.

You surely don't have much more income, regardless of raises. With gasoline up 5 cents federal and going 2 cents Michigan our spending power has diminished.

About the gas tax increase, Len Barnes of Triple A said, "What the Arab Sheiks couldn't do, our lawmakers have done.

After all, if it weren't for the Democratic Michigan legislature, we might be cutting spending or something silly like that.

Oh, by the way, since our grand Democratic leaders made the tax increase retroactive to Jan. 1, 1983, we will all get a surprise at year end when we discover how much tax we still owe.

I don't know about you, but I can't wait to see what the Democratic power team will do to us next.

Say 'no' to the tax increase

Thank God for the group forming CAUSE (Citizens Against Unnecessary State Expenditures).

Somebody has to do something when so gross a mistake has been made by the people for voting Mastin (our "representative") and James (Jobs, Jobs!) Blanchard into office.

I was totally astonished at the audacity of James (Jobs!) Blanchard the night of his "Victory" celebration. How dare he laugh and raise his fist in celebration of the fact that he has raised our taxes! The fact that we now have higher taxes because of him is bad enough, but to laugh about it in front of the entire state of devastated Michigan is outrageous!

I demand an apology, or at least an explanation of this insulting act. I am getting angry, I hope WE

I will gladly join this group (CAUSE), and hope more and more people will raise their voices against this idiocy of taxes-more-taxes. Look at Massachusetts. I seem to remember that when they voted for the Tisch-type amendment, sentiment was that the entire state would fall flat. Well, look at Massachusetts now, booming!

Is Michigan going to wake up? Thank you for allowing me to make my noise to help it do so.

A few weeks ago, I had fun kidding Blue Cross-Blue Shield and Joe Muer's seafood restaurant about their joint appearance in newspaper ads. At the time, I didn't realize how really funny the advertising was.

Also a few weeks ago, 87-year-old Howard Reed of Flint was shocked to learn from a physician's lab that Blue Cross-Blue Shield refused to pay his medical fees because it had canceled his policy five months earlier without his knowledge. That wasn't funny.

Reed's daughter, Barbara Reed Palmer, imdistely phoned Blues headquarters and was told it is company policy to not notify customers when their policies are automatically canceled by some warmhearted computer. Honest to God.

Reed's policy was canceled because his premium. payment was overdue. He insists he never received the bill. Even if he had, it seemed reasonable to expect a second billing or some sort of warning about the impending cancellation.

But the Blues spokeswoman said it is company policy for customers to first learn they were canceled when the Blues refuse to pay a bill submitted by their doctor or other provider.

When Palmer offered to immediately send a check, so the policy could be quickly reinstated; she was told such outlandish efficiency was impossible. Instead, a "Board of Review" had to rule on the application for reinstatement. That could take two weeks, and Reed could be refused.

Constituted and another than the

I PLEADED Howard Reed's case to Richard Femmel, the Blues' vice-president for corporate communications. He confirmed that, to save money, customers are no longer notified of impending cancellations. And Femmel pointed out that many customers don't notify them when they intend to cancel, they just stop paying their premiums. So

Up until a year ago, according to Femmel, setion. But most customers didn't respond to these, so they were eliminated to save money. Each customer was informed of the policy change.

Only 12 customers have complained to the Blues about the no-warning cancellations, Femmel said. But he also said the new policy is still undergoing review, indicating a switchback is possible which would be nice for customers who might not know how to complain with the intense thoroughness demonstrated by Barbara Reed Palmer.

Howard Reed's insurance policy was reinstated two days after his daughter mailed a strong letter to the Blues and sent copies to two newspapers, two congressmen, two ministers, the Michigan Insurance Commission, the Better Business Bureau and the prosecuting attorney. She received the good news in a phone call from a Blues spokeswoman, who admitted she'd been contacted by the Free Press.

Did the Reed case get special handling not readily available to the Blues' less-sophisticated customers? You can answer that for yourself.

AS FOR THE FUNNY advertising, the Blues recently ran full-page newspaper ads with a headline quoting Joe Muer, head of the restaurant, as saying: "You can't beat the value of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan." You had to read the small print to discover that only Muer's handful of "corporate staff executives are insured by the Blues. The several dozen employes who prepare and serve that great food

A laughing Muer waiter soon told me that, shortly before the ad appeared, most employes dropped the Blues in favor of cheaper coverage recommended by their union.

Femmel explained: "We had already developed the Muer print ad Rather than scrap the ad we simply changed the wording to indicate that Joe's testimonial included only his management

So it was to save money, the same reason Howard Reed was cut off without warning, that the Blues ran rather misleading advertising — and now look a little silly: Too bad:

Allow vote on SEMTA transit

Too many flaws in the $32 million plan

It was with much whooptydo that the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority board voted to ask $32 million in federal funds for a new mass transit system study.

These funds would pay for engineering studies. The transit officials estimate the total cost of the light rail system linking Pontiac and Detroit at $1.6 billion.

The mayor of Detroit, Wayne county executive, and officials of Macomb and Oakland Counties support the plan. One or the other has been disagreeing with other plans since 1979.

When completed in 1990, a rail line is expected to run to Mt. Clemens from Detroit, and there'll be a subway from the Detroit River to Grand Boulevard (New Center area).

Many more dollars for the proposed project will be sought from federal and state sources, such as the new gasoline tax.

However, some $40 million has to be raised in the tri-county area.

Oakland county officials, to their credit, insist that the tax question go to the voters before construction begins.

Others in the SEMTA block want to start spending the $32 million now. Added jobs is their reasoning. We think that's a flaw.

Without assurance the balance of the $1.6 billion is coming, why spend $32 million?

Possibly the thinking is that SEMTA believes voters are more likely to approve a tax if the project is underway.

They may be thinking of some school districts that have built new schools without operating funds. Eventually, the schools are used. Eventually, light rail would be approved.

We support the Oakland representatives who want the vote up front. Let's let the people check their ballots before spending $32 million of our money.

Whether the federal money went to Washington before coming to southeast Michigan or not...it's still our money.

It should not be spent for a study that might not be used. We've all seen too many of them. Let the voters give the money up front if that's their

There is one other risk in starting the project without voted financial assurance of completion. Given the opening, SEMTA may find a way to force the project and added tax on us.

Manners

I just want to share this letter I recently received. So much is published about some of our students who cause problems, I feel we need to let people know that this more accurately represents our students and how they behave.

Those pupils who visited the Kelsev Museum of Ancient and Mediaeval Archeology at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, were members of the Clarkston Academically Talented program.

William Potvin, Principal Clarkston Elementary School

noted

Dear Sir:

I write to commend a group of students from your school system (Pine Knob, Clarkston Elementary and Sashabaw) who I have just have the privilege of seeing in the museum here.

In contrast of many groups of similar age, your students were well behaved, interested, articulate and prepared, and I want you to know how much we appreciate having visitors like this.

They did have the advantage of a pretty good guide, to be sure, but this should not detract from their high level of conduct and I congratulate you and the teachers concerned.

Control cancer

April is Cancer Control Month and, once again, Clarkston area residents will visit their neighbors with life-saving information about cancer while asking for contributions to assist in the control of the disease.

Beverly MacDonald, community chairperson, will coordinate the efforts of 348 volunteers.

The goal is to raise $5,601 in the area. Last year volunteers raised $4,788.

In addition to asking for a contribution, each volunteer will distribute a new leaflet that explains some of the advances in diagnosis and treatment for cancer and lists the seven warning signals.

Village council makes committee appointments

New Clarkston Village Council trustees Jon Gaskell and Fontie ApMadoc received the committee appointments that go along with their jobs.

Gaskell was named to four committees—the legislative and planning committee, the Community Development and Revenue Sharing committee, the cable television committee and the M-15 committee.

ApMadoc is on the finance committee, Michigan Municipal League, the Clinton River Water Shed Council, hydrology committee and is in charge of beautification.

Ted Thomson, who did not seek re-appointment to the planning commission because of personal reasons, is still a member of the zoning board of appeals. His term expires in 1986.

CHS vocalists earn competition praise

First-rate singing was displayed by members of the Clarkston High School vocal music department at the State Solo & Ensemble Festival.

That's what the judges said.

Each of the soloists, the duet and the Madrigal Singers all received I Ratings, the highest possible, said Grayce Warren, CHS vocal music department

The participants all received I Ratings at the District Solo & Ensemble Festival in February, making them eligible for the state festival held April 16 at the University of Michigan-Flint Campus.

The students had to perform two selections of contrasting nature and sight-read a line of music, a capella, demonstrating their knowledge of pitch, melody and rhythm.

Soloists were Cory Goodrich, Marc Hewko and Karen Simunovic

Performing a duet were Inger and Marget

Members of the Madrigal Singers are sopranos Dawn Colling, Cory Goodrich, Jodi McAlister and Joy Schmidgall; altos Martha Huttenlocher, Kim Koerber, Dawn Lamberton and Marget Nelson; tenors Greg Bailey, Marc Hewko, Paul King and Jay Smith; and basses Jeff Blagg, Blair Collins, Bill Mosher and Alec Puskas.

K-screening

Children and their parents who missed the Clarkston school district kindergarten screening last week can attend the make-up session planned Wednesday, April 27.

Parents should bring their child's birth certificate and immunization records to enroll the kindergartner-to-be for the fall of 1983.

The make-up screening is planned between 4:30 and 7 p.m. at the Clarkston Community Learning Center, 5275 Maybee, Independence Township.

Sports "Weather no trouble for Wolves

By Dan Vandenhemel

Cold and windy weather conditions during last week's track meets for Clarkston High School didn't slow down the boys' or girls' teams.

Last Wednesday was the warmest of the two days. The temperature was close to 45 degrees during the meet with Waterford Kettering.

But on Friday, against Royal Oak Kimball, brisk winds plus a 38-degree reading, had both teams wondering why the meet was held.

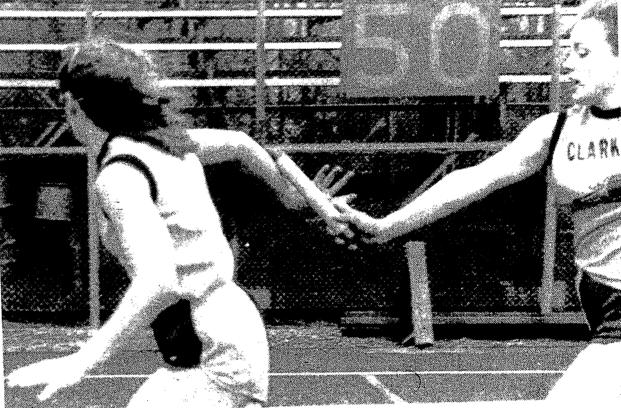

The meet was originally scheduled at Royal Oak, but their track was still under water from Thursday's heavy Despite the weather, the girls' team trounced Waterford Kettering 114-9 Wednesday and Royal Oak Kimball 90-33 on Friday to raise their record to

The boys lost to Kettering 76-56, but came back to edge Kimball 67-64.

In the girls' meet against Kettering, the Wolves placed first in all 15 events, allowing only two secondplace finishes and three thirds to the Captains.

'I don't think this match helped anyone personally," said girls' coach Gordy Richardson. "I moved the kids around a lot to give them experience in different events. I wasn't interested in a big score. I just overestimated how good Kettering is."

The boys' meet against Kettering was closer than the score indicates.

Leading by three midway through the meet, the Wolves literally ran into trouble in the relays.

Clarkston lost all three relays, and that proved to be the margin of victory for Kettering.

"It was close until the end," said coach Walt Wyniemko. "If we got a few breaks it would have been different."

The boys' meet against Kimball Friday came down to the wire, or maybe bar would be more appropriate.

The Wolves led by only four points going into the final two events, the mile relay and the high jump.

"The key to victory was the high jump," said Wyniemko. "We lost the mile relay, so it was important that we hold our own in the high jump. With Joe Powe and Paul King taking second and third, Kimball wasn't able to get the points needed to win the team beat the Captains by nine seconds. The Wolves placed first in all 15 events of the meet.

"We only won one of the three relays, and gave up the other two. Relays are very important and the team can't continue to lose relays. (The Wolves lost all three against Kettering.) Improving on those will be something we will be working on...

Other key people in the boys' meet with Kimball were Rusty Bennett and Willie Williams

Bennett won the 100- and the 220-yard dashes while Williams won the shot put and the discus.

In the girls' other meet, Julie Beamer had four more first-place finishes to bring her total for the week to seven.

Individually, she won the 110-yard low hurdles twice and the 330-yard low hurdles twice.

She combined with Kim Ottman, Bridget Kilcline and Ronnie Barnard to win the 880-yard relay and teamed with Kilcline, Barnard and Wendy Learmont to win the mile relay against Kimball.

Against Kettering, the 880-yard relay team with Beamer, Michelle Trzcinski, Paula Ziolkowski and Ottman also won.

(The Scoreboard has the complete listings of the boys' and girls' top finishers.)

Up My Alley April showers

By Dan Vandenhemel

Choose the most appropriate:

Rain, rain go away, come again another day. □ April showers bring May flowers.

□ With this weather, this must be Michigan.

☐All of the above.

Strange weather during the spring is becoming more common in Michigan every year.

The first part of last week, we had nice warm temperatures, just right for outdoor sports.

Mid-way through the week Michigan was hit with monsoons. And now this weekend we got more of the snow we missed this winter.

Besides throwing everybody out of any kind of routine, the weather also delays, postpones and dampens most of the sporting events in the area.

Spring is time for baseball, softball, track, golf and tennis in the Clarkston school district.

But so far this season, seven baseball games, two softball games and three tennis matches have been. washed or snowed out.

The only reason more softball or golf matches weren't canceled was because they hadn't started yet. One high school track meet had to be switched to Play baseball

Men who want to join baseball leagues run by the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department still have time to sign up.

A limited number of openings include the morning, evening, 35-and-over and Sunday leagues.

Games begin the first week in June and continue through mid-August.

All games are played at the township's Clintonwood Park.

Most of these athletes don't want to sit around and wait until the middle of summer to play their sports.

Mother Nature is sure messing everyone up with seasonal changes every two days.

Doesn't she know there are hundreds of school kids in the Clarkston area alone that are sitting at home (sure they are!) waiting for the rain to stop?

Nobody wants to be inside in the middle of April. There are bikes to ride, baseballs and softballs to catch, tennis and golf balls to hit, not to mention a few Frisbees to throw around.

Everyone knows it's April. April means spring and spring means warm weather.

Maybe somebody should tell Mother Nature what month this is.

Shooters give boosters lift

The Clarkston Athletic Booster Club received a shot in the arm when they raised over $2,000 in their first Shoot-A-Thon.

Participants gathered pledges for each free throw they made out of 100 attempts.

The 39 students and adults at the Clarkston High School gym Saturday helped raise money for the booster club's general fund.

"This is the first time we've had a shoot-a-thon in Clarkston," said Arden Collier, chairman. "Next year we'll probably have it in November."

Matt Scharl, a seventh-grader at Clarkston Junior High, received the most pledges of $156.52. Clarkston senior Ray Kubani made the most free throws, 91 out of 100, and raised $101.92.

The booster club raised an additional $30 with a batting cage in the gym, charging 50 cents for 12 pitches or $1 for 25 in baseball or fast-pitch softball.

"The batting cage was just something extra for the people," Collier said. "For the first time, I'd have to say this was very successful."

Clarkston sophomore Steve Mayer takes aim on one of his free-throw attempts during the booster club shoot-a-thon on Saturday. The boosters raised over $2,000.

No-hitter blanks Milford; Wolves win 4-0

By Dan Vandenhemel

A better opening game couldn't have happened for the Clarkston Wolves varsity baseball team.

The Wolves beat Milford 4-0 April 12 behind senior pitcher Shawn Mosele's no-hitter.

Mosele struck out 11 and walked one as he wasted little time showing coach Roy Warner what kind of pitcher he is.

"I knew he had it in him," Warner said. "But what impressed me is fact he was still strong at the end of the game."

Mosele was hurt in mid-season last year and hasn't pitched a game for the Wolves since.

Richie Schrader started the scoring for Clarkston in the first inning when he ran home from second on Dale Hesse's double. Schrader led off with a walk, then moved into scoring position with a stolen base.

Hesse also came home on his double on a twobase throwing error by Milford.

The Wolves increased their lead to 3-0 in the fourth when Jeff Swan doubled home Chris Bruce from first base.

The scoring ended for Clarkston in the sixth inn-

Bob Ruelle led off the inning with his second hit of the game, a triple, and scored when Milford threw the ball away on the relay home.

Two errors helped Milford mount its only scoring threat of the game in the first inning.

With two outs, Ruelle dropped a pop-up at second base and catcher Rob Mortimore let a third strike get past him to put two runners on for the Redskins. But Mosele got out of any further trouble by

If you like old movies you'll love Old Tucson

Note: The number of mining towns, Old Tucson, and a pontoon boat ride on Canyon Lake were among the pleasant experiences in Arizona. Traveling via van with Marsha and Jerry Olrich of Oxford, we took backroads that were the thinnest blue lines on the map.

By Jim Sherman Publisher of The Clarkston News

It was another fine day as we re-packed the van and headed out of El Paso, crossing the Rio Grande into New Mexico on State 28.

The Rio Grande is a grand irrigation supplier. Cement trenches have been built to direct the brown water onto farm lands along its route.

We bordered the river north and started noticing more than the usual number of pecan trees. As we continued a few miles through a forest of nut trees, the pecan loving Olriches could stand no more.

Jerry followed a pecan carrying truck into a processing plant and found a man to ask where to buy the nuts. 'At the company store,' he said. This store, near Santo Tomas is more than a nut stand. It's a full

We learned the trees we'd seen were part of the Stahmann's Pecan Farm, 3,800 acres, the largest in the world. Harvest was 2 months late this year because of wet weather.

We meandered on through Hachita, Animas and Rodeo to Douglas. We walked across the Mexican border at Douglas where 3 blocks of souvenir shops

We found it a lot tougher to bargain for wares in Douglas than Juarez, Mexico.

The American guard told us the high fences at the crossing point were mostly show. There are no fences a half mile down the river.

We reached Tombstone, Arizona in early evening. Shops were closing, thankfully. We stayed at the Best Western Motel overlooking famed Boot Hill Grave Yard.

A lighted, yellow plastic sign denotes the place. Bad. We looked over the fence at what appeared to be a tourist cemetery, then drove the ½ mile downtown. One walk along the board walks is enough, but we did enjoy a spare rib dinner at the Lucky Cuss Saloon.

We would have had more time to be bored with Tombstone had we not been attracted to a copper mine and the town of Bisbee, south of Tombstone.

Bisbee was built 1902-1905 for the most part, though silver mining started in the 1870's,, and continues with a leaching process today. A high fence keep cars from jumping the curb and falling a few hundred feet to the bottom of the mine.

Several turn-of-the-century buildings have been kept in great shape in this hillside town that boast of having two streets too steep for mail delivery. It's a fascinating place.

In Tucson driver Jerry soon tired of my not being able to read the map and we headed southwest toward Old Tucson. I really like that place. I like places and things I can relate to, and I can relate to old movies.

Old Tucson was built by Columbia Pictures for Bits and pieces of hundreds of movies and tv shows have been shot in Old Tucson.

"Arizona", a film starring Jean Arthur and William Holden in 1939. It lay dormant 20 years before it was brought back to life by Columbia.

Pieces of many, many films have been shot here including the back end of the train for the tv show, Wild, Wild West.

We watched a shoot out at the OK Corral, from the movie of the same name, saw the ranch home of High Chaparral, the depot/school for Father Murphy, the Golden Nugget saloon where parts of El Dorado and Rio Bravo were shot, the mission where Bing Crosby made Bells of St. Mary, and the whole bit. Ah, nostalgia.

Leaving old Tucson we stopped in the Papago Indian Reservation to ask about the several crosses along the roadside. An Indian lady wouldn't talk to us, but the store keeper said the crosses marked spots where Indian people were killed.

Some are more shrines than crosses.

The desert was in bloom enroute north. The yellow daisies, poppies, and cactus, and blue lupine lightened our trip through the reservation wasteland.

There is only one grade of gasoline on the Papago Indian Reseration and it's $1.25 a gallon. Litres aren't mentioned.

Enroute north to Mesa we stopped at Casa Grande Ruins near Coolidge. This was a 4-story prehistoric apartment building built centuries before Columbus. It's worth a stop.

We met the Gene and Jean Suras in Mesa. They lived in Lake Orion several years. He was a school administrator, she edited the Clarkston News for us for a

Now retired they play golf, play golf and play golf. Between which they entertain. We golfed at Rio Verde and spent four very delightful hours on a pontoon boat on Canyon Lake between Morman Flat Dam and Horse Mesa Dam.

We ate fried chicken in the quiet of a crack in the rock border of the canyon. It was probably the most relaxing part of the trip. Pontoon boats can be rented for $50 for 6 hours.

Then on to Roosevelt Dam, some 50 miles from Mesa and 22 miles from Canyon Lake. It's a real white knuckle trip, especially with a driver who doesn't mind looking straight down.

The dam was built in 1902-05 and needs work. I don't trust it.

It's amazing the number of mining towns we saw on our 22 day trip. Not the least of these were Miami and Globe some 30 miles east of Superstition Mountains. The waste from mining silver and copper almost overwhelms Miami.

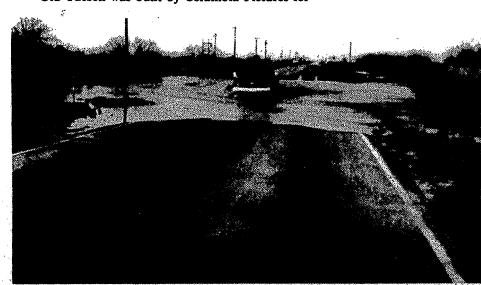

Mesa, Ariz. must have a million mobile homes, practically all along Apache Trail. If they aren't in parks they fill sales lots. By contrast, neighboring Scotsdale must have a million expensive single family houses, all of unusual design and all sticking out from

While we were there a developer proposed another (they have several) $465 million complex for Scotsdale. Complex is a good word for the entire metropolitan Phoenix area . . . sprawling complex.

Come with us next to Sedona, Grand Canyon and Indian country.

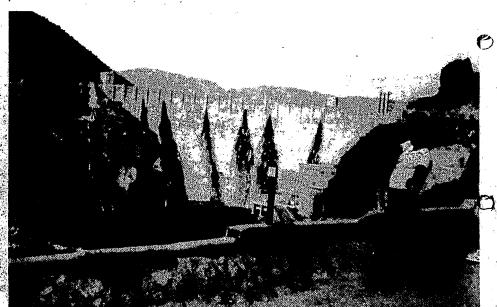

This mined out cavern is this close to the road in Bisbee, Ariz.

"Watch for dips" signs are prominent in Arizona. A dip can mean water like this truck is going through . . . only sometimes the flow washes cars and cows away.

The dark areas on the Roosevelt Jerry Olrich trying to hit the lake dam look like leaks to me. That's below with a stone.

Dog's back home

Cleo's been found.

The mixed breed dog with a face anyone could love was missing for eight days during the first part of April.

Cleo ran off when her owner, Gay Kasza of Kalkaska, was visiting her parents, Dale and Gera Petroff of Cranberry Lake Road in Independence Township.

After distributing 1,200 fliers, placing ads in several newspapers, and visiting the Oakland and Genessee county animal shelters, Gay was ready to give up. She had to return home.

Then the family that had given the dog shelter called a computer service designed to match missing pets with owners.

"Would you believe, the people that found the dog, that's the one place that we hadn't taken fliers," said Gera.

Now Gera's being stopped by people who want to know if Cleo came home.

"Like Gay said, she never realized there were that many really nice people," she said.

Paper drive's on

Newspapers tied in bundles or stacked in grocery bags can be dropped off this weekend at Clarkston Elementary School.

Hours of the PTO-sponsored paper drive are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, April 23 and 24.

Plans are to spend the proceeds on computers or playground equipment for the school located at 6595 Waldon Road in Independence Township.

Those who wish to have their papers picked up can call 625-1262 or 625-0756.

Telephone books and magazines cannot be accepted for recycling.

Hayward-Taylor

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hayward of Pheasant Run Road, Independence Township, announce the engagement of their daughter Terri Lyn te Paul Wells Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Taylor of Davisburg. The bride-elect is a 1979 graduate of Clarkston High School. Her fiance is a 1980 CHS graduate. An August wedding is planned in St. Daniel Church, Independence Township.

SJHS Encores: 'A total joy to . . . hear'

"Very impressive" and "a total joy to watch and hear" said the judges about the Encores, Sashabaw Junior High School's singing group, according to vocal music teacher Jan Knapp.

The Encores, a mixed select group of eighth- and ninth-graders, received the praise at the Macomb College Northern Region Show Choir Festival.

Among those attending the nine-hour event were three junior highs and 12 high schools from Pennsylvania, Indiana and southern Michigan.

Included were performances by the Macomb College Jazz Band, Macombers Show Ensemble and the Academy of Popular Arts.

"All the students involved enjoyed and appreciated the entire day," said director Knapp.

Ninth-graders in the Encores are Sharon Abbott, Ruth Acton, April Amato, Curt Eckert, Scott Klinger, Kim Lafferty, Julie Monroe, Charlie Moore, Mike Peterson, Jim Ruelle, Tom Ruelle, Staci Savage, Walt Svekesen, Nichole Upcott, Kris Whisner and Julie Zumwalt.

Eight-graders are Matt Beamer, Jennifer Fenton, Jeff Funck, Mike Koslosky, Dave Pyane, Audrey Peterson, Kimm Reynolds and Scott Wood.

New arrival

Dr. and Mrs. Christopher Bork of Franklin, Maine, announce the birth of their second son.

Timothy Hampshire was born March 14, weighing 6 pounds, 9 ounces and measuring 20 inches.

Waiting to greet him at home was his brother, Erik, 2.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William Hampshire of Clarkston and Mrs. Edward Bork of Cheektowaga, New York.

Great-grandmother is Mrs. David Fallon of Pontiac.

Clown openings

There are still 20 openings for kids who want to look like clowns.

The Kids Clown Session is planned by the Independence Township Library on Saturday, April 30, from 10:30 a.m. to noon.

Participants must sign up in person at the library, 6495 Clarkston Rd. The program is for first-through sixth-graders.

It is to be held at the Church of the Resurrection, directly across the street from the library.

The Crittendon Clowns are to be on hand to put a happy face on the first 50 children who register.

Admission is free, with a 50-cent fee for a Polaroid picture if desired.

The volunteer clown group hales from the Rochester area.

Formed in 1978 so they could participate in the town's Thanksgiving parade, they have since participated in numerous events including the Super Bowl Parade, parties at Crittendon Hospital and school fairs.

For more information on the Kids Clown Session, call the library at 625-2212.

Comstock-Keller

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Comstock of Rioview Drive, Independence Township, announce the engagement of their daughter Lisa Marie to William F. Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Keller of Perry Lake Road, Independence Township. The bride-to-be is a graduate of Springfield Christian High School. Her flance, a graduate of Clarkston High School, is employed by Tra-Tech Van. A July wedding is planted.

Honors.

John Schultz has been tapped for Mortar Board, a national honorary society established on the Albion College campus in 1941 to honor students outstanding in scholarship, leadership and service.

A 1980 Clarkston High School graduate, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schultz of Phelan Court, Independence Township.

He is majoring in biology at Albion.

In service

Airman 1st Class Carrie Washburn has graduated from the United States Air Force intelligence specialist course at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss.

She will now serve at Offutt Air Force Base, Neb., with the 544th Strategic Intelligence Wing. Her parents are Ronald and Shirley Washburn of

Bank name transition goes smoothly

The transition created by their name change has been smooth, according to Elizabeth Bunker, assistant vice president and Clarkston branch manager of First Federal Savings Bank.

'Probably because we did notify (our customers), most people were well-informed about our change, she said. "Most of them were pleased because it does expand the services we give them."

In March, First Federal Savings of Oakland took on the new name along with becoming a full-service counts. "This has been quite a change for the staff to go through and yet it's very challenging," Bunker said. "It will be nice not to send (customers) down the street, to say, 'Yes, we have car loans, sit down and let's talk.'

. The bank has 37 branches including the one at 5799 M-15 in Independence Township.

While changes have been made in the name and services, the board of directors and management are the same, Bunker said.

The bank continues to operate under the rules and regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, with deposits fully insured to $100,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp.

Keyboards: Mockingbirds of music industry

The theme from "Chariots of Fire" was done completely on a keyboard.

'The really interesting thing is one person is doing it," says Terry Stanley, manager of Evola Music. "One person can be a symphony."

Professional electronic keyboards in a semisoundproofed room of their own are the latest addition to the store located at 4977 Dixie Highway, Waterford Township.

Completed last week, the carpeted-everywhere room holds the latest in synthesizers, modern keyboards and electronic pianos.

The idea, says Stanley, is that people can come in and try them out.

Because of what's going on electronically, the trend, as we see it, is going toward the keyboard," he

"My personal feeling is before the end of the 1980s, the keyboard is going to be the most pervasive instrument on the market because of what it can do."

He can demonstrate the capabilities. With a touch of buttons, sounds change from brass to string to clarinet.

Or, musicians can choose flute, oboe, french horn, electronic piano, guitar, bass guitar and more.

He compares the keyboard revolution to the changes in computers in recent years, from enormous size down to pocket-size.

In 1969, rock stars needed a truck to carry synthesizers. A forklift was needed to put them on stage. The cost for equipment was about $300,000. A typical synthesizer measured 7-by-80 feet.

Stanley lifts what he calls a comparable

It weighs about 24.5 pounds, includes over 70 pre-programmed sounds available with a few button pushes, and costs around $2,000.

Keyboards, says Stanley, will save the music industry, because not only do they produce a range of sounds, but they're fun.

Children fascinated by video games and television, he says, just might be able to get into discovering the wonderful things a keyboard can do.

"Sitting down to a piano is not exciting. A keyboard is exciting," he says.

"Even two years ago, the only person who would buy a synthesizer would be a professional. Now I sell a lot of these little $250 synthesizers to people just for use in their own homes.'

Sounds of music

Pine Knob Elementary School kindergarten through third-graders showed their musical talents at their spring concert, "Music, Music, Music."

The free concert was held Monday at the Clarkston High School Little Theatre.

Music director Janis Madden said the 35-minute concert showed how music affects everyone.

"Music is in every part of our lives," she said. "The concert has a little of everything in it—music, dancing, vocals, instrumentals. Every part of music is important."

The four state winners cluster in the immediate area around the tall red, gold and black tropy while the second team from Clarkston schools fills the sidelines. Eight students from Clarkston, Bailey Lake and North Sashabaw elementaries brainstormed in Ann Arbor last weekend, with one team taking the top spot in the mind-bending competition. Teachers Joette Kunse and Sue Banworth said the victory was

Clarkston grasps mind-game prize

By Marilyn Trumper

For weeks, two handfuls of fifth- and sixthgraders from three Clarkston elementary schools waded through over 25 bibliographies to learn all they could about computers and finance.

Undaunted by the heady jargon in magazines like "Fortune," "Forbes," "Physics Today" and the "New York Times," the two fearless foursomes wracked their brains, spending hours pouring over information and brainstorming to develop 20 hypothetical problems and solutions to a situation they'd yet to have Gathered around a table at the University of Michigan, Saturday, April 16, with only a blank pad of paper and sharpened pencils, the teams had two hours to develop problems and solutions for a computerized world at the turn of the century.

The scenario showed a world where money had become obsolete and everyone banked with plastic cards, transferring funds from one account to another.

Eight of the 114 C.A.T. kids, (Clarkston's Academically Talented) volunteered for the state competition on "Future Problem Solving" against 32 teams from all over the state.

One Clarkston team walked away with first

"First they announced the fourth-place winner, then the third, then the second," recounted 11-yearold Peggy Agar. "We sat and listened, and I didn't think we had a chance with 32 teams competing.

"Then," broke in 11-year-old Kellee Duty, "my dad said, 'Get ready to jump up!' They announced us in our code and none of us heard it.'

"Then, I screamed" Peggy said, ending the tale. The winning team, comprised of Peggy, Kellee, Leanne Stevens, 10, and Ben Huffman, 11, eyed the yardstick-high gold, black and red trophy centered on

The second team of strong competitors—Ross Rosenthal, 11, Tami Haines, 11, Kristen Martin, 11, and Rachel Woody, 12-took pride in their peers' vic-

When the winning team sequestered itself behin closed doors and first tackled the problem, Leanne says the scenario stumped the group by painting the picture of a world without currency.

We weren't ready for that. In all we'd read and talked about, we didn't talk about that. We talked about how robots replace human jobs and what that means.'

The groups has its workd cut out for the national competition May 30 in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where the scenerio will be one around nuclear war.

The bibliographies are stacked and ready for scrutiny.

"And we're going to win!" said Kellee.

Boys net balloon in frog hunt

Four boys running through a field toward a swamp for a frog hunting adventure found, instead, a patch of blue.

In the lead were Eddie White of Oakhill Road, Independence Township, and his friend, Matt Falk of Royal Oak.

They discovered a deflated blue balloon.

'It looked like somebody had taken a knife to it and sliced it," said Eddie, a Bailey Lake Elementary School sixth-grader.

Upon closer inspection, they found a note attach-

Part of the Weekly Reader's Writing Pals Balloon Contest, it was set adrift from Raisinville Elementary School in Monroe.

"I've been there once or twice and I remember it's a long drive," said Eddie.

As the crow flies, it's about 55 miles to the town located on the southeastern border of Michigan on Lake Erie.

Included in the attached note was this suggestion: "Tell your local newspaper that you heard from me."

That prompted the call to The Clarkston News, Eddie said.

Another request attached to the balloon was from Matt J. Cramer, a second-grader at Raisinville Elementary. "Please write," it said.

'I sort of set it on the table and ignored it for Easter vacation," said Eddie, who added that he plans to write, but he doesn't know when.

"Between having to write a story for English, going to the eye doctor and doing my average chores, it kind of makes it hard," he said.

When he does, a marker will go on a bulletin board in the Monroe school's hallway.

A cluster of five balloons were found at the tip of Michigan's thumb on a Lake Huron beach in Burtont, said Dorothy Hile, Raisinville Elementary's secretary.

They traveled the farthest so far, about 170 miles after the St. Patrick's Day release. Of the 504 sent, about 40 have been acknowledged with letters, she said.

Along on the balloon discovering adventure was Eddie's younger brother Danny, a fourth-grader at Danny said he and his friend Mike, who's Matt's younger brother, found something too.

A beer can from lowa, worth 5 cents if he could only get it there. ,U

Q— We use a crabgrass preventive every spring, but we still have weedy grasses. What's the problem? A- Pre-emergent crabgrass controls will only control annual grassy weeds such as crabgrass, foxtail

These grasses grow from seed in late spring and are killed by frost in the fall.

Dacthal, Balan, Tetasan and Tupersan are all effective in controlling annual grasses if they are applied before germination.

About the third week in April is usually a satisfactory application time.

If the soil is cultivated, the chemical barrior is broken and germination may occur.

If the grassy weeds are present at this time, they are perennial grasses, which can not be controlled with pre-emergent chemicals.

Unfortunately the only control for such grasses as quackgrass, bent and tall fescue is to either dig out the spots or to treat them with a non-selective vegetation killer such as Amitrol-T or Dalapon.

O- Last summer, my Austrian pines developed a lot of brown tips that were quite unsightly.

I let it go at the time, thinking that maybe the dry weather had something to do with it, but now I'm wondering if it might have been some disease instead.

Is there something I should be doing now to prevent it from happening again?

Thomsons strive for natural look

By Dan Vandenhemel

A closely manicured yard does more than just look good.

The trees and shrubs are placed to stop erosion on hills or to create shade.

Edward and Barbara Thomson of Clarkston planted trees in front of their Main Street home to block noise from passing vehicles.

"We like the natural look in a yard," Barb said. "The trees are as much a pleasure as they are there to screen the traffic.

"Around the house, we like the shade of the trees plus the shrubs. But it's hard to put flowers around the house because of the shrubs.

The Thomsons have lived in Clarkston 32 years. For the last 20 years, they have done practically all the maintenance on the one-acre yard.

"Pretty soon it will be warm enough to get outside and do some work," Barb said. "We can get out and start our vegetable garden. At first, the work is spasmatic. After the heavy weeding is done, we can relax until it's time to harvest."

As is the case in most everything, technology has improved equipment and made work easier for the home landscaper.

"We started out with one of those push mowers," Barb said. "About one season was enough of that.

"To maintain a yard this size, it is especially important to have motorized equipment. I think every bit of the motorized equipment is easier to use rather than the old-fashioned way of doing it by hand. It's easier physically and it takes up less time."

Barb believes there is a growing pride in property owners to make their yards look presentable.

"A nice-looking lawn enhances the value of the home," she said. "But if you are just starting to landscape. I think it's a good idea to go and talk to an expert, like at a nursery.

'People like that have a feel for what type and what size of tree should go where. They want you to think five or 10 years ahead to see how the tree will

"If it is planted too close to the house, then it would have to be trimmed and that will make it lose some of its natural beauty.'

One way of staying away from problems such as insects or disease is to regularly have the trees

'We don't have many problems here," she said. "Once in a while we get moles or voles under the turf. We have one of the lawn services to come for weed control and the trees are sprayed periodically.

'I think it's better to have it done that way rather than buying all the equipment and doing it

Asparagus

Helen's an expert

By Marilyn Trumper

Sweet, light green, tender-tipped asparagus spears are among the lowest-in-calorie vegetables there are.

"But they haven't done much for me," laughs Helen Austin, a rounded asparagus farmer of "plus-60 years."

Seated in her family's 130-year-old home Helen crosses her arms and leans into the kitchen table, flashing smile lines that run from her alert eyes to her

Outside, a misty day offers little light into the room through wide-band venetian blinds.

Helen pushes aside her lunch and announces young asparagus spears should be forcing their heads up through the ground shortly.

"Then I'll be out there in the morning before it gets too hot, snapping off the spears. First I put them' into a plastic bucket, then dump them in the wheelbarrow and then I hose them off. Then I rubber band them in bunches.'

For six years, Helen's familiar form has been seen bending between the six-foot rows growing on the quarter-acre asparagus patch at the Kier Road farm.

"(A whole spear) will grow on a good, hot humid day. Out in the western part of the state where they have big asparagus farms, you'll see people laying on tractor platforms. They drive up and down the rows with knives in their hands and cut them off," she said.

"I snap (the spears) off rather than cut them off because cutting makes them tough."

With a corner on the asparagus commodity, Helen offers her bunches of one-pound delicacies at the Oakland County Farmers Market.

"They'll probably go for about $1 a pound this year," she guesses. "I don't think that's too much. After all, they are kind of gourmet.'

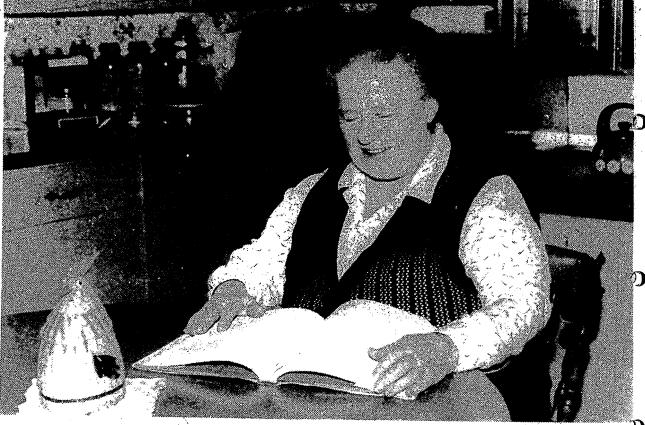

With repeated unsuccessful attempts to transplant asparagus roots, Helen gambled and and won with seed instead.

It takes four years from planting before the first harvest, she said.

Because of that, asparagus farmers jealously guard their plants.

"After failing so many times and losing my investment, it became a challenge to me. I was determined to do it," Helen said, her blue eyes flashing.

Over the years she's collected numerous asparagus recipes.

Helen Austin scans a cookbook she recently purchased at a white elephant sale at her church. Because of the cold weather, her asaparagus won't be ready until around May 1.

Her favorite: Chicken with asparagus. "It's very

"And one day I hope to write a book on vegetables and include the recipes.'

But the best way to eat the tender shoot, says Helen, "is to pick them in the morning and steam them for lunch.' And that from a veteran asparagus farmer.

ASPARAGUS

Many people overcook asparagus, says Helen, and she offers her method of cooking the green spears

Asparagus is most delicious when cut in thin slices (4 inch thick) and cooked 7 or 8 minutes until just tender and still bright green.

If possible, select thick stalks and cut diagonally. Use a wide-bottom pan with a tight cover, add 3 or 4 tablespoons water, salt and butter to taste.

Heat quickly, then turn heat low and shake frequently to prevent scorching.

For variety, thin slices of processed cheese may added 2 minutes before serving, allowing the cheese to melt over the asparagus.

Or melt 2 tablespoons butter in a small frying pan. Add 1/2 cup crushed wheat flakes. Cook until crispy and sprinkle over the asparagus in the serving Cut asparagus in 1-inch pieces, leaving the tips longer. Cook in salted water about 8 minutes until barely tender. Drain.

Add ham, butter, milk and flour. Let boil to thicken. Add diced processed cheese and Accent. Stir to blend.

Pour in buttered casserole. Cover with cracker crumbs. Bake 35 minutes at 350 degrees.

Life on the farm

It's been home to five generations of Vergins

By Kathy Greenfield

Homes hold memories, but few go back as far as those of Lloyd and Helen Vergin of Springfield Township.

Members of the Vergin family have lived in their home since 1878.

Their daughters, Tammy, 21, and Cyndy, 19, are the fifth generation raised in the yellow farmhouse on Scott Road.

Like John, his great-grandfather; Benjamin, his grandfather; and Floyd, his father, Lloyd is a farmer.

With a herd of about 40 milking cows, the Vergin farm is one of only three left in Springfield Township that is the major support of a family, and all of them are located within a triangle.

The Vergins raise all the feed for the cows on the 125-acre farm and the additional 200 acres they rent.

"It's a 14-hour, seven-day-a-week job," Lloyd says. "You don't have much time to do anything else.

"That's what I can't figure out. My grandfather, he didn't have the work to do. He only had six to eight cows and that supplied the family and kept him going.

"Dad, he had a lot of time off, too. Six to eight cows in those days was enough. The tools and everything else you buy are higher now."

There are more memories to share than just a comparison of work.

Lloyd's eyes sparkle when he's asked if he remembers when electricity was first available in the house in the 1930s.

"When they turned it on in the house in the daytime, it was really amazing, the difference," he says.

On the overcast, rainy day, the flip of a switch illustrates his point, for chandelier in the living room lights up the house, making it bright and cheerful.

He remembers water pumped by a windmill, and community members setting their own poles in the fields and stringing the wires when telephones became common.

"That's just the way it was done in those days," he says.

The Vergins still use water collected in a cistern built by Lloyd's father in the '30s. Used solely for laundry, the system has its own water heater.

"A cistern itself can be useful for something else," Lloyd says. "I recall a fire here a while back and they formed a bucket brigade from the cistern to help put it out."

That happened in the '50s, he says.

Their records include an abstract of owners of the land back to 1836.

And there's a tax bill from 1898 that totals $17.01.

Lloyd has also kept track of equipment expenses. Tractors that once cost less than $1,000 now cost $50.000, he says.

While he admits they're more sophisticated with power breaks and power steering, the tractors still perform the same function.

Milk products have also increased in value, but the contrast is striking. In the 50s, he received 4 cents a gallon. Now he receives 13 cents.

He shakes his head, noting that's only three times higher while things like taxes and tractors have increased up to 200 times.

Some things have changed for the better

Lloyd uses a motorcycle to round up the cows.
Their home has been made more practical with

Married 25 years, Lloyd and Helen Vergin celebrated their silver wedding anniversary

ed. Two small bedrooms were made into one master bedroom. The house was raised to make it level.

"You could put a marble at one end and it would go zoom, right to the other end," says Helen.

For the 25 years they've been married, the Vergins have lived on the farm property, although they purchased the family farmhouse in the 1970s, a tradition, of sorts, explains Helen because each son has bought the house from his parents.

For 10 years, Helen worked side-by-side with Lloyd on the farm, driving tractors, haying and participating in all types of work.

"Those good days are gone, because I had heart problems," she says.

But she keeps busy with community work, church work and her own business.

Several activities have been particularly rewarding, like the Davisburg Christmas Craft Fest that drew 7,500 people last December in its second year. It was started by 12 women, members of the Davisburg Scotties.

Another positive activity she's involved in is Neighbor for Neighbor, a food distribution program that now serves 140 families from Springfield and Rose townships every 10 days. Norris Walls coorwith a trip to Hawaii. Farming keeps them busy—it was only their fifth vacation.

dinates the program.

"He said he figures we're probably dispensing over a ton of food a week," says Helen, her pride showing.

Helen's business is selling Sasco Aloe Vera cosmetic products that uses direct-sales techniques similar to Amway.

"The reason I like to sell is because it gives me an excuse to go visit my neighbors," she says. "Both Lloyd and I like to neighbor."

They are members of the Davisburg Methodist Church and the Springfield Township Historical Society.

For their 25th wedding anniversary, the Vergins went to Hawaii.

The trip was only the fifth vacation they've taken since they were married, says Helen.

"I've been pushing him to retire for the past five years," she says, "but I can't get him away from the farm."

Eventually they'd like to see their daughters own the family farm.

"He'd like to sell the whole kit and kabootle, and

"He'd like to sell the whole kit and kabootle, and I said no," says Helen. "There are just too many memories."

的情况是不够,我只要你是我们的,我们也是不是我们的,我们就是不是我们的,我们就是我们的,我们就是我们的,我们就是不是我们的,我们就是我们的,我们就是我们的人

Q— When we transplanted our Iris last fall we found that many of the plants were damaged by a worm-like insect. How can we stop this problem?

A— The insect you described is the Iris borer. I suggest you spray weekly with Cygon starting when growth first starts and continuing through early June.

Q— Our rhododendrons are no longer a darkgreen color. The leaves have slowly turned yellow, but the veins are still green. What happened?

A— Your rhododendrons are suffering from iron chlorosis, that is, a lack of iron.

We have sweet (alkaline) soils in this area and rhododendrons require acid soils. Complex chemical reactions in sweet soil make the iron unavailable to the plant.

I suggest you treat your plants with an iron compound (Sequestrene) and also try to acidify the soil.

You can do this by applying two pounds of sulfur per 100 square feet. In addition, mulch with peat moss and only fertilize with acid-type fertilizers.

Q— Last year our birch tree had something attacking the leaves. Sections of the leaves turned brown and papery and we noticed a small worm inside the leaves.

A— The insect that caused your problem was the birch leaf miner. You can eliminate this insect by spraying the Lindane about mid-May.

The most destructive insect to attack birches, however, is the bronze birch borer. The larvae of this insect tunnels in the wood and eventually kills the tree.

You can control this insect by again spraying the Lindane on June 7 and again 10 days later. Be sure to spray the trunk and major limbs.

Q— I have been told that shade trees should be fertilized periodically. How do I do this?

A— Large shade trees should be fertilized every two or three years, either in the spring or late fall.

Do not fertilize in the summer or use a weed-andfeed-type fertilizer.

Trees over 6 inches in diameter at chest height require 3 pounds of a 10 percent nitrogen fertilizer such as 10-6-4 per inch of diameter or 1½ pounds of a 20 percent nitrogen fertilizer such as 20-10-10.

For example, a 10-inch oak would require 30 pounds of 10-6-4.

This fertilizer could be spread on the soil surface over the root zone area, but this method probably would burn the lawn.

A better method is to punch or bore holes about 18 inches deep and 3 feet apart in the root zone.

The root zone can be considered to start about at the outermost spread of the branches and proceed toward the trunk about half the total distance.

Place about 3/3 cup of fertilizer in each hole. If you fill the holes to the top, you will burn the lawn around each hole.

Other methods for fertilizing trees such as root feeders or tree spikes can be used, but be sure to follow the directions.

Timely tips on starting your outdoor gardening adventure

Getting off to a good start is important in practically every aspect of life. Growing your first outdoor garden is no exception.

When spring rolls around each year, gardeners from coast to coast begin preparations for what they hope will be a successful planting year. But handling fledgling plants, vegetables, and flowers with tender loving care is more than just a cliche—it is a necessity.

Start preparing for your first gardening efforts at the ground floor. Actually, you must go even lower than that in order to care for the fragile root system of your plants.

From woody shrubs to succulent annuals, root development is the key ingredient for the good fortune of outdoor foliage. When roots do not grow rapidly enough, the rest of the plant will most likely suffer an untimely demise.

Agronomists have found that phosphorus is an effective stimulus for root growth and the overall vigor of new plants.

Studies have also determined that during the spring, when most planting is initiated each year, the level of phosphorus in the ground is at its lowest.

This means that new plants must receive additional phosphorus or they most likely will not develop to to their full potential.

Application of root stimulators is simple. Most can be poured directly into the planting hole and then over the soil once the roots have been covered.

These products are also effective with bulbs. You should use caution with bulbs, however.

A thin layer of soil is required between the seed and the fertilizer in order to prevent root burn.

Once your plants have begun their journey skyward through the soil, it doesn't mean that they have had enough fertilizer. Remember, plants need food as much as humans, and it is a good idea to consult your local garden supply dealer for advice regarding plant feeding and care.
