WHOA A MINUTE: Just finished riding down from the Petoskey-Charlevoix area, Jim Jones ties his horse to a tree in Clarkston and makes a few phone calls. His goal? To find a place somewhere nearby to board his horse. The 300-mile trip north and back was a vacation. Jones says was in the saddle for about 20 miles Wednesday before reaching town. A White Lake Township resident, he grew up in the Clarkston area.

Pine Knob hat thief at large

The hat thief at Pine Knob Music Theatre's Ashford and Simpson concert July 17 saw it and liked it, so she took it.

Then she looked at her victim and told him that if he wanted it back he'd have to follow her home.

The Rochester man did after Sunday night's concert.

All the way to Farmington Hills.

Once there police reports say he was given the old raspberry and she refused to give up the coveted chapeau.

So he called the Oakland County Sheriff's Department and according to reports, intends to press charges.

The booty as described in the report: a gray Stetson, circa 1930; family heirloom; in good condition.

Name change to ease stigma

By Dan Vandenhemel

Changing the name of their road will close the file on the toxic waste dump site near Shindler Road, say some Springfield Township residents.

"This has been a real personal thing to the people in the area," said Joe Gorka. "As a group we're satisfied with the clean-up. The name change is just the conclusion of the matter. We want to call it quits."

Residents of Shindler Road filed a petition with the Springfield Township Board to change the name to Woodland Trail.

Nine of the 12 residents signed the petition.

"We probably would have gotten everyone," said resident Laurel Larson. "But during this time of year, a lot of people are out of town on vacations."

"As a group, we have been able to work out our problems and get things in shape. Collin Walls (Springfield supervisor) didn't think it would be much trouble to change the name. We approached him and he gave us the information on the petition," she said.

The toxic dump was discovered in 1979 and the clean-up and testing were completed earlier this year.

"All the tests and studies prove that everything has been cleaned up," Walls said.

"I think they still tend to get gawkers. It's been a traumatic experience for the residents," he said. "This gives the residents the opportunity to start over."

The next step is by the Oakland County Road Commission.

"First we have to see if there is any duplication of names in the county," said Dennis Pajot, road commission spokesperson. "Then we have to get 100 percent approval of the residents and support of the township."

Tax complaints

By Marilyn Trumper

Summer tax bills arrived in Independence Township mailboxes July 8, and already the treasurer's office has received 100 calls of complaint and inquiry.

"One man today came in mad because he wasn't notified (of the summer tax). He said it was on the ballot, the people turned it down, so why did (the schools) go ahead and (collect summer taxes) anyway?" said Linda Richardson, employee in the treasurer's office.

According to Treasurer Frederick Ritter there have been a number of deferrals made for persons 65 or older who make less than $10,000 a year.

Persons totally disabled are also eligible to pay their full tax bills at the end of the year, he said.

Neighbors, fire chief resolve dispute

By Marilyn Trumper

Mary Pettit's resolved her earlier charges that the Independence Township Fire Department responded poorly to a fire that destroyed a Harvard Road home and ultimately took the life of her 39-year-old neighbor, Jackie Price.

Pettit and eight other disgruntled neighbors met last week with Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

"We feel a lot better and hope we accomplished something," she said. "The chief took notes, and wrote down questions he had for his department, things he wondered about too. He wasn't there the night of the fire and couldn't answer some of our questions."

"I feel a lot better."

The fire chief agreed the meeting helped settle the controversy.

"The crux of the situation is that the neighborhood met with a real emotional crisis. When we arrived the house was two-thirds involved and we didn't stand a fighting chance," Ronk said.

"You do what you have to do. I feel the (neighbors) did everything they could do—our guys too."

According to Ronk, neighbors were unhappy with procedure followed at the fire.

When the firefighters arrived, the home was engulfed in flames and neighbors were cutting a hole in the back bedroom wall to pull Jackie Price to safety.

"They wanted to know why it took so long for us to arrive at the scene. Why when the fire department came on the scene they did not take over the operation and come running up with axes telling them to get back," Ronk said.

"Number one, they were doing a good job and we didn't have enough people to (start unrolling hoses) and put on (air tanks)."

"They were doing a fine job, it was something they could do, and the only way we were going to get the lady out was through the hole they cut. (The firefighters) had to keep the fire away from that room."

The house had been burning for some time before the department arrived, Ronk said, adding architecturally it presented problems. The windows were high and small making it difficult to get a hose through to extinguish the blaze.

According to Ronk, the fire log shows the first truck arrived on the scene seven minutes after the emergency phone call came in. Not, he stressed, 20 minutes as Pettit had said earlier.

"I know it seems like an eternity when you're in an emergency situation. But we were there in seven minutes," he said.

"We had a bad situation, a losing situation. Everybody did what they could to get that woman out of the building."

Price died three weeks later from burns suffered in the fire.

Investigators suspect careless smoking started the blaze, Ronk said.

Men say they won't pay taxes

"One man came in and said, 'That's it. That's it. I've had it. I'm taking my kids out of the Clarkston Schools.' Another man said, 'That's it. I'm just not paying those taxes,'" Ritter said.

A fourth man, 79 years old, thought the tax unjustifiable, according to Richardson.

"He said he didn't have any kids in school, that he wasn't going to school, so he wasn't going to pay the taxes. It's hard for him to understand."

Tax payments are due Sept. 14. Late payments will be charged 1 percent a month. After Feb. 14 a 4-percent penalty is added.

In January the school district mandated summer tax collection following passage of a new state law.

The law is aimed at bailing out financially strapped districts that pay thousands in loan interest. Half or all the school taxes can be collected in the summer.

In the Clarkston school district half the taxes are being collected.

Last year the school district borrowed $4.2 million and paid approximately $215,000 in interest.

New mail box

There's a new place for residents to mail letters. A post office mail box has been installed at the corner of Sashabaw and Maybee roads, Independence Township.

The action came after 25 requests were made for the service, said Clarkston Postmaster William Kinsley.

There will be one pick up of mail each day with the exception of Sundays and holidays.

SCAMP's more than summer camp for kids

By Marilyn Trumper

Gail Dougan has two mentally impaired sons, Steve, 9, and John, 10, and three "normal" children. SCAMP, a five-week summer camp for children and youths with special needs, is her lifesaver.

"John is not as mentally handicapped as Steve is. Last year we took him out of the SCAMP program and tried to get him in with normal kids, although I hate to use that phrase," the Waterford Township woman said.

"We got him into T-Ball—and he did fine on the ball field. He got along with all the other kids. But off the field, there was no companionship.

"SCAMP provides that companionship. It gives him what I can't give him—what T-Ball can't give him," she said.

SCAMP meets for five weeks, four days a week, five hours a day at Sashabaw Junior High School in Independence Township.

It serves North Oakland County residents from preschool to 25 years old, and finances itself through fund raisers. This year's budget is $60,000.

"Steve and John don't know any of the kids in the neighborhood, because they don't go to the regular school or ride the regular bus. They spend most of their time standing around and wondering what to do," Dougan said.

"SCAMP gives them a feeling they belong. They learn how to play with other kids, they learn to give and take, and learn about fairness. SCAMP was the first time John had a school experience where a teacher was able to be a friend.

"It brought tears to my eyes when I arrived one day early and found my son sitting on the teacher's lap leading a sing-a-long."

On a typical Thursday morning in the Sashabaw Junior High alcove, a volunteer sits at the upright piano pounding out music to "Head, Shoulders, Toes" and other upbeat warm-up songs. The kids stomp and clap and sing, some dressed in the recognizable yellow SCAMP T-shirts.

Teachers and 30 volunteers help kids bend bodies stiff with cerebral palsy and other muscle-deteriorating diseases.

They steer a wandering mind and body into dancing and singing, art, swimming, and playing ball.

Everyone participates.

Those are the rules.

"There are tears on the last day," Dougan said. "And the first day is like a reunion. I have never seen so much love in one spot."

Four-year-old Michael Lilly gets a hug from Michael Courtwright, also 4. Discovering friends is part of the loving atmosphere at Clarkston SCAMP, a five-week summer day camp for northern Oakland County residents with special needs.

Summer camp keeps the learning process going. "A child that is special loses more academically over a summer than other children. They might struggle for months to master a math concept or how to get their letters the right way," she said.

"Then over the summer, they lose it. They go back to school and have to start all over again. SCAMP helps them retain these things."

Trust, and one-on-one attention is a big part of the program, Dougan said.

"My kids trust their SCAMP teachers. They have infinite patience—something I don't have. They'll go over it and over it, again and again.

"Steve has tackled swimming. I tried for years to get him in the water but he was afraid.

"I couldn't find an instructor with the patience to teach him. But thanks to SCAMP he's overcome that fear. It's a lot easier to wash his hair. I know it's the one-on-one attention they were able to give him that's made the difference."

And John's in Sunday school class with children his own age.

"Before SCAMP, I had him in with kindergartners because he couldn't get along with kids his own age. Now his behavior blends. He's learned to give and take. He's learned fairness," she said.

"I have never seen so much love in one spot"

Weed harvester works cleaning up Big Lake

By Dan Vandenhemel

The brand new weed harvester scoops up Big Lake's weeds at the rate of 27 tons a day.

Since the $184,000 harvester arrived the last week in June, 600,000 pounds of lake weeds have been cut, said Barnard Wendt.

Wendt, a member of the lake board, said there has been a weed problem in Big Lake for 25 years.

"A chemical treatment was tried prior to this," he said. "With the chemicals, the weeds died but they just went to the bottom and made fertilizer. Chemicals have no long-range effects. It was either the harvester or dredging."

A four-year payment plan for residents was helped by an Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) grant of $92,000.

"We would have proceeded without the grant," Wendt said. "The plan would have lasted five years instead of the four. This is the only grant in Michigan and only one of 11 in the country."

A two-year DNR and EPA study on the lake plus Big Lake's position at the headwaters of the Clinton River watershed are why the federal money came through, Wendt said.

Lake front property owners will pay $182 a year for four years and an additional $120 for maintenance. Residents with lake access will pay $125 a year plus $20 for maintenance.

The harvester is scheduled to be on the lake eight hours a day for a minimum of 320 hours between May 15 and Sept. 15.

"This is one of the largest harvesters in the country," Wendt said. "It makes a 10-foot-wide cut and can go as deep as 6 feet. Big Lake has only an average depth of 5 feet and the deepest is 15 feet."

"Three weeks ago you couldn't ski out here," he said. "The engine would keep stalling; it would get clogged up with weeds. It was unnavigable, unswimable. It was not suited for recreational use or fishing."

"The fishermen were complaining that they were losing lures and fish in the weeds. The harvesting will probably make the fishing better. In four years we will still have weeds but about two-thirds will be reduced."

The weeds are given to area farmers and residents for fertilizer.

The Big Lake harvester chews a 10-foot-wide cut while making its way around the lake. From

Friday, thieves stole a lawn mower from a garage on Eastlawn Drive, Independence Township.

Friday, would-be thieves caused $200 in damages when they attempted to break into a processing plant on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township. Unable to gain entry, they left.

Saturday, police recovered a BMX bicycle in Clarkston's Depot Road Park.

Saturday, thieves caused $150 in damages when they broke into a car on M-15, Independence Township, and stole $270 worth of jeans, a $120 pair of pants and a $75 coat.

Saturday, vandals caused $500 in damages to the doors of Clarkston High School, 6595 Middle Lake, Independence Township, when they threw metal garbage cans into the glass.

Sunday, thieves stole a lawn mower from a yard on Stevens Road, Independence Township.

Sunday, thieves broke into a shed on Lakeview Drive, Independence Township, and stole a $500 motor, $700 motor and five gallons of gasoline.

Sunday, thieves stole a 5-foot tall promotional Snoopy doll worth $130 from the lobby of McDonald's restaurant, 5625 Sashabaw, Independence Township.

This information came from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Independence stops parking project

By Marilyn Trumper

A troop of 14 enterprising Explorer Scouts undercut Pine Knob's $4 parking fee by $2, and started parking cars on a lawn across the street from the music theater entrance.

But the township's put a stop to it, charging them with violation of the zoning ordinance.

"The kids were doing it as a fund raiser," said leader Terry Bruns, who donated his lawn on Sashabaw Road. Three of his children are Explorer Scouts.

"They are trying to raise money for a canoe trip and a Waterford Township kid who we understand needs a kidney transplant and can't afford it."

In three nights the scouts raised $100.

According to Director of Building and Planning

Kenneth Delbridge, the scouts can seek a variance to allow the commercial use in a residential area.

"I told him he could have his friends park there for free and they could party all night long, but that he can't charge for parking. Otherwise," Delbridge said, "it's going to look like Briggs Stadium where every guy around's got cars in his yard."

Bruns said there would not be parking every night, only on predetermined nights.

"We wouldn't want to do it every night. My God no!" he said. "I live here. I don't want this going on every night."

The scouts met formally to discuss strategy, but want to find out more about the Waterford Township youth in need of a kidney before deciding if they'll seek a variance, Bruns said.

Get dog sticker at post office

By Kathy Greenfield

Clarkston Postmaster William Kinsley would like to see a warning sticker on every mail box on every residence with a dog inside, or outside.

Safety of the mail carriers is the reason, he said.

The post office has a campaign underway and will provide the stickers without cost.

Top priorities are the 2,500 homes serviced by walking mail carriers. Areas with a high population of dogs serviced by motorized mail deliveries are also high on the list.

"It's a major problem," said Kinsley. "It ultimately costs the post office millions of dollars a year in dog bites."

"We don't have a serious problem here," he added. "And we don't want to have one. A dog bite could disable a person permanently."

Last year only one Clarkston mail carrier suffered from a dog bite, he said, and following federal law the homeowner was required to pay medical expenses.

The law also requires reimbursement for days off work that result from such injuries.

Mail carriers are trained in evasive action to protect themselves from attacking dogs—they carry dog spray and know how to put the mail bag between themselves and the canine.

The sticker would alert them to be ready for such action if necessary, Kinsley said.

Because he has been postmaster in Clarkston for less than one year, most of his experience with dog bites comes from employment in Birmingham.

"I don't know how many dog attacks I've had reported to me—people who say, 'My dog's never bitten anyone before,'" he said.

He remembers the case where the dog crashed through a picture window trying to get at a mail carrier. The dog died.

And there was the time a large dog quickly grabbed the mail put through a slot in a door and pulled hard. The mail carrier's hand was broken.

To receive a sticker call the post office at 625-2323.

Chiropractic Clinics

Headache Sufferers Take Note

Stress, nervous tension and strain are believed by many to be the cause of their headaches and they subsequently endure years of needless suffering.

Often headaches stem from abnormal positioning and mobility of one of several vertebrae in the upper neck.

Undue stress on the muscles, nerves and ligaments from improper posture, physical strains, poor sleeping positions and other similar causes of stress may create pain in the base of the skull.

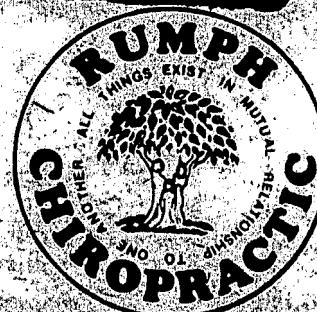

For many people chiropractic is an effective answer to recurring headaches. By correcting the abnormal alignment of the vertebrae in the cervical (neck) area, chiropractic goes to the root of the problem to gain permanent relief.

Michigan Youth Corps works!

We admit we had our doubts about the Michigan Youth Corps, the program instituted by Gov. James Blanchard for getting 18- to 21-year-olds to work for the summer.

The state-funded jobs are handled through school districts, governmental units and non-profit civic organizations.

Most fall under the category of "beautification," a term that covers labor-intensive work like clearing fields, trimming and planting shrubs and improving the appearance of areas that include, in Clarkston, the high school football field.

When we went to the field last week to talk to Youth Corps members, we didn't know what to expect.

The day of one of Michigan's worst—hot, humid and miserable.

No one complained about the heat or the required work. What we found, instead, was a spirit of camaraderie and lots of enthusiasm.

Some of them called the program "fantastic," they said they were happy to have work to do and they praised their supervisor. They said they were pleased to learn to do some things they'd never done before.

And they were glad they were working, even if the pay was the minimum wage of $3.35 an hour, there were no benefits and the work was grueling.

Some of them said, "Take my picture. I want to be in the newspaper."

We asked several what they had been doing before they joined the Youth Corps.

The looks on their faces when they talked about sitting at home or searching for ways to keep occupied said more than words ever could.

This is the real heartbreaker of Michigan's unemployment. We weren't quoting statistics, we were talking to people who have suffered the feelings that evolve when there is no work to be had.

Perhaps we'll read stories of Youth Corps activities that didn't work.

But we know that in Clarkston, at least, the program brought hope and pride to some of Michigan's young men and women.

Help wanted: flower waterers

I am begging for help with our beautification.

We are having problems trying to get a decent portable water container put together in order to keep our sign beds, parking lot beds and village park bed

(Depot Road, band shell side) watered.

Would any of you even consider putting a couple of buckets of water in your car each day you go out and water one of these areas?

I will let you know as soon as we get things under control, but right now we need help please.

To the businesses—I am asking that you put at least one, preferably two, buckets of water in each of your barrels at least every other day until this dry spell is over. Right now.

We have made a good start. Please help me to continue.

Thank you,

Fontle ApMadoc

Jim's Jottings

Par for the course

by Jim Sherman

Perhaps because I've played more golf this year than any other year of my life a reader thought the following poem by J.D. Manley Treece appropriate:

FORE

A golfer asked that his remains
Be brought back to the scene
And scattered from a passing plane
Upon the eighteenth green.
The day they met with his request
It was in the wind and rain
And when his ashes hit the breeze
It was "out of bounds" again.

— O —

Golf certainly is a frustrating sport. A golfer can take all the credit for a good shot. They alone made it.

Conversely, a golfer should take all the credit for a bad shot. They alone made it. More frequently, however, the golfer will turn and remark, "Did you hear that bird tweet in the next county in my backswing?"

We golfers look forward to the day when all of our good shots come together in the same round. This happened to me for the first time since I started playing in 1939, though I didn't play for 10 years in a row.

It's like playing in dreamland. That day the ball went where I've been aiming every other round. It was so-o-o easy shooting a 1-under-par 35 at Oxford Hills.

The next time I played the same nine I shot a 46.

Same aim, same swing, same stance, same weather. The only thing different was the twittering bird in the next county.

And that's the way my year-of-the-golf has gone. I keep looking for more better rounds that are promised by the people who say the more you practice the better you get.

Likely, I should be satisfied with that one glorious day, and not expect another until next year. But, golfers don't do that. Once they know the club and swinger can coordinate on a shot they expect it every time.

A parallel can probably be drawn with other sports and life itself, including the part about interference in the backswing.

Porch memories

Kathy Greenfield

My grandparents' porch.

I hadn't thought about it for years.

But when I read Susan Basinger's latest Architecture Archives column for next week's Clarkston News, the memories came rushing back.

My grandparents lived in Royal Oak on Main Street. Their home was built when that was out in the country.

By the time I came along, the traffic was beginning to get heavy on the road in front of their house.

That did not lessen use of the wrap-around porch.

I can remember sitting with my grandparents on their porch, Grandpa in his wicker chair and Grandma on the porch swing that was replaced several times over the years because it wore out.

The cars never bothered me. When I was young enough to still experience the thrill of knowing how to count, I could count over 100 cars as they passed by.

Later, as the game became more sophisticated, we'd count types of cars or numbers of trucks.

I still think about that perfect place for tallying traffic when I'm curious about such things as the number of foreign cars versus domestic, how many people actually wear seatbelts and how many cars are driven with only one person inside.

The other stand-out memory has to do with lightning.

There was no better spot for watching storms approach. The lightning flashes lit up the sky and we could see the jagged paths for a spectacular instant.

Sometimes we'd wonder how close they were to my family's home in a community about 20 miles due north or whether it was raining there already.

There were lots of other activities.

Visits from neighbors.

Family gatherings where everyone would congregate on the porch to talk and talk.

Quiet rocking on the swinging chair that could accommodate three adults or a grandmother and several grandchildren.

The memories are good ones.

Panthers earn championship; explode myth

A myth has been exploded: There is nothing in the climate or atmosphere of southeastern Michigan that mysteriously prevents professional sports franchises from winning championships.

PANTHERS

The iconoclasts who layed waste to the myth? None other than the Michigan Panthers.

And the way they did it reads a little like a page out of Cinderella.

Five games into the season, the Panthers and the newly-formed United States Football League were the butt of many a joke. The locals had dropped four of their first five contests and attendance and interest were dwindling. As far as Michigan was concerned, the new game in town looked like a failed experiment.

But it was then that the Panthers' pumpkins began turning into gold chariots. Owner Art Taubman parted with some dollars to bolster the offensive line. The team began to jell. Coach Jim Stanley's group rolled to triumph after triumph, culminating their astounding rebound from oblivion to defeat the Philadelphia Stars Sunday in Denver and wrap up the first USFL championship.

The heroes this season were many—Bobby Hebert, Anthony Carter, John Corker and Ken Lacy being only the most visible in what was truly a team effort. And take a bow, Coach Stanley and General Manager Jim Spavital.

Perhaps the biggest ovation should go to Taubman, boss him, who slashed ticket and parking prices for last week's playoff game at the Silverdome. That came as a welcome change of pace to area sports fans, who remember former Red Wing owner Bruce Norris jacking up everything from parking to the price of a bag of potato chips the last time the Wings made the playoffs in 1978.

The Panthers have indeed given us something to feel good about. Something to take just a little bit of the sting out of multiple woes like spiraling state income taxes, high unemployment and the play of the Detroit Lions.

We raise a glass to the USFL champions, our first pro title winner in 15 long years. Welcome home, Panthers. And thank you.

News letter policy

We welcome our readers' opinions. Letters to the Editor must be at The Clarkston News office by noon Friday to be considered for the following week's paper. We reserve the right to edit all letters for the sake of brevity and clarity and to limit the number of letters from any one individual on any one issue. We don't publish open letters or copies of letters sent elsewhere. Letters must be signed and a phone number and address included. Names will be withheld on request.

I think it was Theodore Roosevelt who coined the term "Hyphenated American" as a pejorative for countrymen of divided loyalties.

I wonder what T.R. would be saying today, now that plain "Americans" seem to be all but extinct. In their place are Afro-Americans, Italian-Americans, German-Americans, Hispanic-Americans, Asian-Americans, Polish-Americans, Irish-Americans and Japanese-Americans, to name just a few. The list is only limited by the supply of available hyphens.

I suppose there's no harm in clinging to some aspects of your ethnic heritage. But mixing ethnic considerations with politics and American foreign policy makes for a foul brew.

A FEW WEEKS ago, a small demonstration criticizing American and Israeli policy was held in the Detroit area by a group sympathetic with the present government of Iran. A poster of the Ayatullah Khomeini was among the groups' modes of expression.

I find it interesting that people so enamored with the paradise being built in Iran by the Ayatullah should prefer to live 8,000 miles away in what Khomeini has called "Satan America." It would seem to me that they could better serve the cause of the Iranian revolution by staying in Iran, rather than spending time in Satan's favorite playground.

I imagine, too, that the Ayatullah would have liked to personally thank the demonstrators, but he was probably too occupied with the daily grind of affairs of state—things like signing execution orders and sending more 16-year-old boys to die in his holy war against Iraq. Busy, busy, busy.

Hyphenate it

EVERY ETHNIC GROUP, it seems, has an ax to grind. Some Irish-Americans want the U.S. to use its influence to get the British out of Northern Ireland. Some Polish-Americans clamor for further sanctions by the U.S. against the Polish martial law government. Some Afro-Americans are obsessed with the U.S. policy toward South Africa. Some Jewish-Americans demand blind American support for every action taken by Israel. Some Palestinian-Americans want the U.S. to recognize the P.L.O. and back the concept of an independent Palestinian state.

All this stuff makes me nauseous.

I'd like to put forth the radical concept that the United States should look out for its own interests, and not anybody else's, in the Middle East, Europe, Africa, Asia—everywhere on the globe.

I'd also like to suggest that we ban the hyphen.

'If it Fitz...

Lost a beer, broke a foot

by Jim Fitzgerald

Lately, I've been pushing my wife around. It's not funny. In fact, I may sue the City of Detroit for causing me to behave in such an unnatural manner.

This tragic tale begins with a visit from Melissa, our 10-year-old granddaughter who lives in Frankenth, Michigan's most enchanted kingdom, where tourists go to each chicken and pretend Sir Lancelot will protect them from all harm forever.

Understandably, Melissa gets bug-eyed at many of the things she sees in the big city. She was there, for instance, when two men climbed up the outside of a 72-story tower in the Renaissance Center. And she was astounded when I explained that the only reason the climbers attracted so much public attention was they were the first couple in history to spend an entire day at the Ren Cen without getting lost.

As Melissa neared the end of six days of sight-seeing, it appeared that when she returned home, she would talk most about a fuzzy-crested, deep-slouched panhandler sighted in Greektown. She was amazed to see the young man ask strangers for money. Melissa can't even ask her grandfather for moeny for fear her mother will find out and kill her.

"Grandpa, why didn't you give him anything?" Melissa asked.

I explained I didn't want to get the panhandler in trouble with his mother. He would have had better luck if he'd said he really loved rainbow ice cream cones, but they cost 60 cents and he had only 10 cents left from the $2 allowance his mother gave him three years earlier.

Naturally, I would be embarrassed if Melissa told everyone in the enchanted chicken kingdom that crass Detroiters don't know the first thing about effective hinting. So, in an effort to put something more impressive than a blunt bum at the top of her mind, I made special plans for Melissa's last night in town.

After the usual movie (the sequel to "Superman III" will have to be "Superbore IV"), and after buying the usual bags of food and drink, instead of going home to consume them, we went to the ethnic festival in Hart Plaza on downtown Detroit's beautiful waterfront. People of Slovakian heritage were celebrating that weekend, and I thought Melissa would be fascinated to see that Slovaks are no different than Irish, Greeks, Italians, Poles and other ethnic groups who regularly get festive on the plaza—they all do it to the tune of the same loud rock music, chintzy carnival booths, and three-throws-for-a-dollar games of chance.

But before we could sit down in the amphitheater, my wife fell down. Because of the crowd, she didn't see a four-inch-deep well dug into the cement so a little tree could grow out of it. She was carrying the beverages when she tripped and somehow managed to lose my beer while saving her coffee and Melissa's pop. Incidentally, she also broke her left foot.

SO THAT'S WHY I'm pushing my wife around our home in a stuffed leather chair with wheels on it. The doctor said it will be six weeks before she walks normally again, and there is no hope at all for my beer.

The loss-of-consortium-not-to-mention-Strohs lawsuit will be filed as soon as I decide whether to charge Mayor Coleman Young with treeism or wellism. Of course, as a civic-minded citizen who realizes the city likes to settle minor suits out of court to save legal costs, I might let $500,000 dissuade me from hiring F. Lee Bailey.

I can laugh now but, as mentioned, it really wasn't funny. My wife was stunned by the fall, and I'll not soon forget those few seconds when she didn't move and I worried that she'd hit her head on the cement and been seriously injured. A sudden accident can sober even the smartest aleck and remind him of how much he loves someone.

As for little Melissa, she couldn't help sobbing as she put an arm around her fallen grandmother. The panhandler was forgotten. Melissa will always remember the summer of '83 visit as the time Grandpa fell down and Grandpa picked her up before he picked up his beer.

October face lift ready for Davisburg

By Dan Vandenhemel

Downtown Davisburg's face lift is scheduled to start in October.

Mark Fish of the Mosher-Kapelczak Co. on Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, presented plans for the second phase of construction at the Springfield Township Board meeting July 13.

The board unanimously approved the plans that call for 30 additional parking spaces behind township hall and an access road to the lot.

"Bids will be accepted in September and Phase 1 construction should begin Oct. 1," Fish said. "In the second phase there are two possibilities for access roads to the rear lot. The cost of Phase 2 will be either $30,000 or $25,000 depending on which access road is built."

Phase 1 was approved by the township board May 10. Those plans include 8-foot sidewalks, angle and parallel parking spaces on Davisburg Road and landscaping for a total cost of $70,000.

The plans will eliminate parking in the front of township hall and will provide parallel parking near the hall and angle parking farther down the road.

"The reason for that is to have safer traffic flow in the area," Fish said. "The whole idea was to put as much effort on the front street as possible so we could spruce it up."

Crossing guard on hold

Because no one's applied for the job of crossing guard, the Clarkston Village Council has decided to wait until August to re-advertise the position.

The $5-an-hour job involves two hours a day crossing children at M-15 and Middle Lake Road.

Two months ago village enforcement officer Charles Smalley resigned the post because he was crossing just one junior high student.

Since then a new family has moved to the area with more junior high children that would justify the expense of a guard.

Get 'em straight

Make sure you pull neatly into parking spaces in downtown Clarkston, in both the municipal lot and along Main Street.

Cars straddling white lines will be ticketed $15 as part of the village's new crackdown.

The warning went out at the council's July 11 meeting.

"(Enforcement officer Charles Smalley) wanted us to get the word out," said Trustee James Schultz. "Apparently it's become a real problem. One car parks wrong, and the next is forced to, and the next, right on down until the whole line is parked wrong."

Special projects nixed

The Clarkston Village Council came up empty-handed bidding against other Oakland County communities to finance special projects with available Community Development funds.

The first plan was to beautify Depot Road Park, finishing the gazebo, adding playground equipment, plantings and benches with $30,000.

The second plan was to renovate the downtown area with $125,000 and implement architect Betty Lee Francis' plan for pedestrian walkways, streetlighting, benches and signage.

"We didn't think we'd get it, but it was worth a try," said Trustee David Raup.

Park improvements

Architect David Katz, the township resident who volunteered his talents to design the Depot Road Park gazebo for Clarkston, is hard at work, according to council Trustee David Raup.

"Right now he's drawing four different facades so we can decide which one we think we'd like best," Raup said at the July 11 Clarkston Village Council meeting.

"And there's more good news. I've called on the playground equipment and they said it's on the way. We should have it in two weeks," he said.

Earlier this year village officials financed purchase of playground equipment with $2,500 in Community Development funds.

A REVIEW OF OUR DISCERNING CRITICS FOR 1982

WILLIE NELSON —

"My nights at LaVeranda were some of the high points of my summer tour. Can't wait to get back."

OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN —

"The place was so beautiful I had to enjoy it with all my friends" (So she threw a party at LaVeranda, video camera, et al.)

HENRY MANCINI —

"An ambience that is unmatched and the homemade pasta is great"

JOAN RIVERS —

"I wish I had a few more nights at Pine Knob because I could have a few more dinners at LaVeranda."

WAYNE NEWTON —

"Some of the finest Italian food in the country."

KENNY LOGGINS —

"My wife Eva and I loved the place and we can highly recommend the scampi."

SHIRLEY EDER —

"Raves for the new LaVeranda restaurant. The Italian food is divine, the ambience is dress-up and elegant, the service is wonderful."

MOLLY ABRAHAM —

"LaVeranda may just be the prettiest restaurant in the area. Its interesting cuisine equals its smashing looks, but LaVeranda's food proves it's more than just a pretty place."

Influx of solicitors irks Woodglen residents

By Kathy Greenfield

People from far-off communities knocking on their doors selling products they don't want is upsetting a group of homeowners in Independence Township's Woodglen Estates.

And the township's ordinance that allows anyone to sell door-to-door who hasn't been convicted of a felony in the past five years or have an outstanding police warrant makes them even more frustrated.

"We have so much area unemployment, why do they let people come in from the outside for things that are, in my opinion, outrageously priced?" asked Arv Stegeman of Almond Lane.

The latest episode is the fourth time this summer outsiders have appeared selling door-to-door in the neighborhood.

For $21 Stegeman could have purchased four dust cloths from a man from Cleveland, Ohio.

"It does windows. It does everything but dial the telephone for you," she said, giving an indication of the sales pitch.

The pressure tactics, she added, were not appreciated.

In an effort to convince her to buy the product, the salesman said, "Didn't somebody give you the opportunity to live in a house like you do?"

"So I said, 'I couldn't live here if I bought everything from everybody who tried to sell it to me,'" she said. "There just has to be a better way. The guy is just standing there trying to put on high pressure."

Letters will go to the township asking for stiffer laws governing door-to-door sales, she said. And she's considering petitions to let the officials know residents are upset or to force the solicitation question to be on the ballot.

Every time Administrative Clerk Rosemary Howey has a group arrive at Township Hall to register to solicit, she knows there are going to be complaints from residents, she said.

Potential solicitors are asked to fill out a form, copies are made of drivers' licenses and a check is made to assure they are not wanted by the police. There is no fee.

Howey also tells each one that if a sign saying "no solicitors" is in place on or near the residence door they cannot, by ordinance, offer their wares there.

"If they have a no-solicitor sign on their door, then if they do (solicit), they could call the sheriff," Howey said.

Residents can also call the police if they verbally tell the person no solicitors are wanted and the person doesn't leave, or if the solicitor refuses to depart when asked to leave once inside the home.

Small signs that follow the size regulations in the ordinance can be purchased at Township Hall for 25 cents.

They've been available for a couple of years. In that time, only one has been sold, said Linda Richardson, the treasurer's assistant.

Mine on target with repairs

By Marilyn Trumper

Reclamation of the Salem Gravel Pit on Oak Hill Road follows the plan in an amended consent judgment and could mean a two-year extension to mine, according to Independence Township Supervisor James B. Smith.

New flashers

By the time school starts in September Springfield Christian Academy on Dixie Highway near I-75 should have school-zone warning flashers.

Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls said he hopes the signs will be installed in time.

"Luckily there haven't been any major accidents there yet," Walls said. "The area is congested, especially now that enrollment is increasing at the school."

The township board approved entering a Tri-Party plan to pay for the signs at the July 13 meeting.

The estimated cost is $4,543, to be divided equally between the township, Oakland County and the county road commission.

"The maintenance will be split between the township, the school and the county," Walls said. "Each will have to pay $150 a year."

The flashing, 25-mph-speed-limit signs will be located on each side of the school.

Crafts and Cider

Applications are being accepted for the Clarkston Community Historical Society's 1983 Crafts and Cider Festival.

All arts and crafts should be handmade by the exhibiting artists.

To apply send slides or photographs with a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Clarkston Community Historical Society, P.O. Box 261, Clarkston, MI 48016. For more information call 625-8784.

There is still some space available for civic groups that would like to participate with a service like popcorn sales or entertainment.

Ideas and information for such groups will be furnished upon request. Call 625-8823 for more information or write to the above address.

"They've got a 15-foot-deep lake out there that's just gorgeous," Smith said. "We've been monitoring closely what's gone on there and they've seeded everything they were supposed to."

"And so far, the depth of Round Lake hasn't been affected," he said.

Last May, after weeks of negotiation, the township board adopted an amended consent judgment that stipulates restoration of the area.

The agreement gave Blount Materials of Michigan a two-year extension to mine the 200 acres with the option of two additional one-year extensions if reclamation is met, and if the 2 million tons of gravel estimated in reserve are not mined.

According to Smith, the mine now has 200,000 tons of unsold gravel, a half-year supply, in what he calls a "soft market."

Adams-Pratt Law Library's special for public

By Pamela Gruber

Rather than call an attorney to find out their rights, some people are opting to find the answers themselves—at the Adams-Pratt Law Library.

The only public law library in Michigan, the Adams-Pratt Library was dedicated in 1976.

Located on the fifth floor of the Oakland County Court Complex, the library offers the statutes for all 50 states as well as federal law.

Jane Fichtenau, assistant director, says the library began in the third court house building in two rooms.

SPACE SAVER: The public law library is equipped with the West Ultrafiche Edition of the National Reporter System, which has replaced several book shelves. The system is capable of printing material viewed by the reader. Law Library Director Richard L. Beer, right, explains the system to a library patron.

"Since then, we've moved and expanded and our patrons have computers, the West Ultrafiche Edition of The National Reporter System, and several law reviews," she explains.

"The library started with one table and a few chairs. We're now able to seat up to 50 patrons at tables, work stations, and conference rooms.

Fichtenau says that although many of the patrons are lawyers or law students, many of the library users are members of the general public.

"There are several reasons to visit a law library, but I've found that many of the patrons are researching questions themselves instead of hiring a lawyer," she says, Michigan law book in hand.

"Some of the biggest reasons are divorce, child custody cases and landlord-tenant conflicts."

Fichtenau says one of the best resources for first-time law library patrons are the several law reviews which attempt to explain the law, plus cite all the statutes involved with particular cases listed.

"The law reviews are written for the most part by selected law students and are similar in format to a magazine," she says.

According to Fichtenau, another helpful unit is the material on microfilm which can be viewed and printed with the touch of a button.

"The library is moving into the audio and computer fields and this is a tremendous help when trying to locate specific material quickly," Fichtenau says.

The law library is open Monday through Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Dick Swartout talks with Independence Township Parks and Recreation players after the tennis meet with Rochester Parks and Recreation at Clintonwood Park.

Tennis meet nets bonus for players

By Dan Vandenhemel

The players in the Independence Township Parks and Recreation tennis program got more than just their normal lesson Monday.

Sixteen of the 38 players competed in an exhibition match against the Rochester Parks and Recreation team.

"Up until three years ago there was a league for recreational tennis," said Independence tennis director Dick Swartout. "There were a lot of teams. Now just Rochester and we have teams that I know of."

The tennis players meet for the six-week, 12-lesson program at Clintonwood Park on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. It costs $24.

"The match was just to give them a little experience in competition," Swartout said.

The 38 players this year are down from the over 40 from last year.

"I've had this program for 11 years," Swartout said. "It's nice to see the kids improve since the start of the year."

"The ages range from 8 to 16 years old. Most of them are girls. I think the boys play baseball or find other activities during the summer. The lessons vary from beginner to advanced, beginners mostly."

Sports

UNMATCHED, UNBEATEN: Bob Henry tells his teammates on the bench what kind of pitch he hit for a triple in the opening inning that led to Moe's Sporting Goods first run of the game against Coach's Corner. Tom Ruelle's sacrifice fly brought Henry in as Moe's won 11-0 last Thursday. Moe's clinched the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Pony League title with a perfect 8-0 record with one game remaining. Coach Pat Cadwallader said his team is headed to the state playoffs in Lapeer where they have a first-round bye later this month.

35 straight, and counting

Winning streak stretches

By Dan Vandenhemel

Winning streaks in any sport never last very long. But for John Gilbert and Paul Tungate, the last time they coached a team that lost a baseball game was 1980.

Since then, their team has rolled up a string of 35 victories in the Independence Township Parks and Recreation little league.

The first 28 wins were in the Widget league for 11- and 12-year-olds. This year in the older Midget league, seven more triumphs have been added.

"When we moved up in leagues I never thought we'd be undefeated at this time," Tungate said. "All our players are 13 years old. Not one of them is a second-year player in the league."

Through the league's draft, each team can keep a nucleus of six players. Since the streak began in June of 1981, Mike Gilbert, Jeff Tungate, Stacy Turner, Mark Colwell, Aaron Hesse and Doug Bronson have stayed with the team.

"We've been able to have a good athletes on the team that enjoy playing ball," Gilbert said. "Paul and I just try to teach them the basics. This isn't a one-, two- or three-player team, everyone contributes."

Other members of the team sponsored by Village Clinic include Randy Nelson, Keenan Powell, Rob Sanderson, Scott McGinn, Steve Hollis, Mark Hargett, Tom Fenbert.

Gilbert and Tungate both agree that the winning streak isn't on their minds or the players'.

"We take each game separately," Gilbert said. "A number of boys know about it. But they've played together since they were 6 or 7 years old."

"We don't try to over-coach them," Tungate said. "We stress the fundamentals and the winning comes along with it. We just let them have a good time. They just love to play."

Week of fun, baseball at MSU

By Dan Vandenhemel

For 10 Clarkston youths, a week at Michigan State University meant baseball, swimming and more baseball.

Stacy and Keith Turner, Jeff Ryan, Matt Cook, Mike Gilbert, Jeff Tungate, Mark Colwell, Mark Sanderson, Doug Bronson and David Tinkiss all attended a baseball instructional camp at MSU July 4-8.

Their day began at 6:30 a.m. and ended at 10:30 p.m. In between they had six hours of baseball practices and scrimmages.

"It was great up there," said 11-year-old Mark Sanderson of South Holcomb Street, Clarkston. "We practiced twice a day and I learned a lot about leading off and other things. There's a lot more to leading off than just standing there."

This is the 12th year for the camp at MSU. It lasts five days and costs $177 a person. Meals and a room in a dormitory are included.

"We've been averaging about 60 kids a week," said Rick Church of MSU Sports School. "The kids really seem to enjoy it, many come back the next year."

"I'd go back again if I could," said Stacy Turner,

13, of Hillside Drive, Independence Township. "We went over everything from catching to infield and outfield and the double play. The coaches really knew what they were talking about. If I go back, hopefully I can learn more. But mostly I had fun."

The fun included a swimming pool and a video arcade.

"We had a lot of time after dinner for activities," Keith Turner, 11, said. "This is my second year here and it is still fun because of the swimming and all the baseball."

The week wasn't all fun and games for the players. Exercises, stretching and practicing were a large part of activities.

"At the end of the day you were tired out," Mark Colwell, 13, Princess Lane, Independence Township. "It was fun, but a lot of hard work too. The coaches made it fun."

There was one minor complaint. "The food wasn't too great," said Doug Bronson, 13, Meadowlawn Road, Independence Township. "The coaches did make the week nice. A few of my friends had coaches who were too serious, but my coaches were funny. It was a good time."

Youths win ski honors

By Dan Vandenhemel

Not many people think about snow skiing in July, but for two area residents it means receiving awards for last winter's competition.

Sixteen-year-old Rick Whittaker and 4-year-old Reid Southby each placed in the top 25 of their age groups in the National Standard Race (NASTAR).

This is the second year in a row for Southby. Last year, the Michigamme Road, Independence Township, resident was 19th in the 1- to 4-year-old division. This year he finished second.

"We got a call about a month ago," Reid's mother, Linda, said. "We were really tickled that he won again. He only skied in three races, once at Crystal Mountain and twice in Vail (Colorado)."

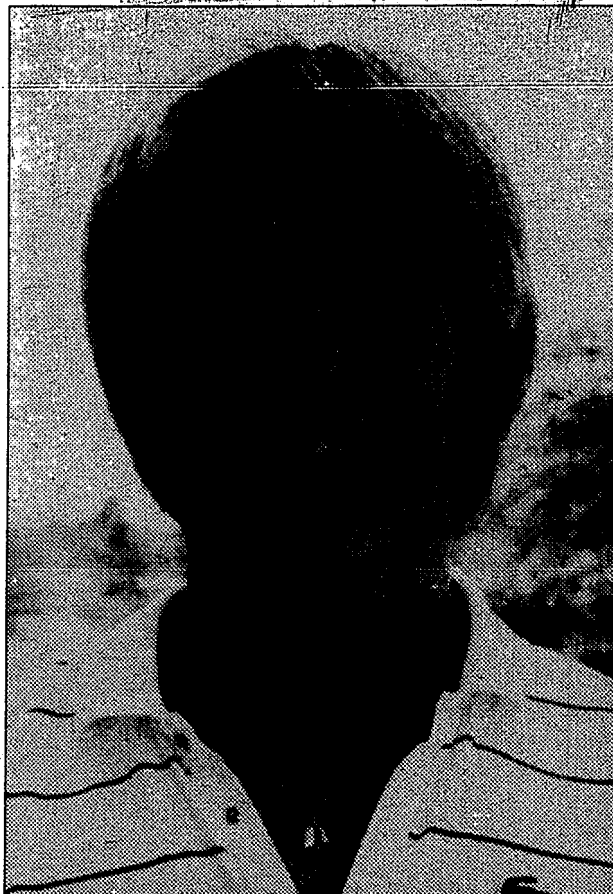

Whittaker of Sun Valley Drive, Independence Township, finished fifth in the nation in his first year of racing. He was on the Clarkston High School Ski team and received the most improved skier award.

"I was going to join NASTAR last year but chickened out," Whittaker said. "I went to Sugar Loaf near Traverse City about five times. I didn't think I would do well. I just went out to run the race."

NASTAR is sponsored by Ski Magazine and Pepsi-Cola for anyone under 18 years old.

The race is based on a pacesetter's time and the participants race against that time.

"At Sugar Loaf we knew Rick had done well because he beat the pace-time," said Sally Whittaker, Rick's mother. "He beat it by over two seconds. But we didn't know that it would be the fifth best in the nation."

Rick Whittaker

Linda Southby said that a letter was sent to all the winners that said over 100,000 entered the races.

The courses were set up for all age groups and Rick said thought that helped.

Reid Southby

"It wasn't that tough a course," he said. "There was less pressure to do well there that there was on the ski team. It was more fun, the snow was better and I was more relaxed."

Reid concentrated on fast starts.

"I was just trying to go straight down and take straight turns," he said. "I'm really proud to have won again."

'Five Hopefuls' bring home $3,000

The Five Hopefuls, a women's bowling team out of Howe's Lanes, won $3,000 in the Michigan Women's Bowling Association team tournament.

They bowled in the tournament Feb. 27 in Jackson and, at that time, their score of 3,136 held the lead.

By the end of the tournament June 19, their score had dropped to third from first place, a difference of $1,000 in prize money.

But there were no hard feelings.

"Last year we didn't even get $5 back and they pay down 1,420 places," said captain Jenny Sansom.

Team members Sansom, Lisa Erkfriz, Wanda Timmons, Shirley Kell and Betty Prevo each will receive $600 for the tournament.

"I'm not sure what I'm going to spend it on," Sansom said. "My sister Lisa is going to use her money for school. Shirley wants to buy some diamond earrings and Betty wants to travel.

"We were a high handicap team and that saved us," she said. "The handicap put us where we were. We really had a good time out there."

Dig unearths mastodon remnants

By Marilyn Trumper

Ten thousand years ago, five-ton elephants with coats of fur and long, curled tusks roamed Brandon Township—and a group of 75 volunteers are proving it at a mastodon dig off Seymour Lake Road.

Just six miles north of Clarkston village in a field of tall grass in 90-degree heat under a sweltering sun, shirtless men and near-shirtless women labor, sweat running in rivulets down their backs.

They kneel on hard-packed, black earth marked off by string in 10-meter lengths and slowly push trowels through its layers, dumping the shaved dirt into a bucket.

Barefoot, up to their ankles in murky gray pond water dredged for the dig, they sift cupfuls of earth through a sieve, fingers playing the dirt and rock for anything that could prove significant.

A piece of rib.

A shard of skull.

Or more of the premiere find—two tusk tips.

Students from Wayne State University, Oakland Community College's Highland Lakes campus and Cranbrook Institute of Science began the dig July 2 and have until the end of the month to complete work.

Students and volunteers range in age from 10 to 74. Some are doing graduate work, some are curious neighbors and a few are caught up in the enthusiasm with friends excavating the site.

Linda Smith and her 15-year-old son live on Shelly Drive in Independence Township. They're helping with the dig.

"I have to put in 40 hours of field work to meet the requirements of my geology class at OCC," Smith said. "I took a week off work last week, and stopped by every night on my way home from work."

Driving east on Seymour Lake Road it looks like gypsies set up camp on the acreage owned by Frank Shelton.

A pop-up camper, two tents and a blue and yellow canopy add striking color to an otherwise bleak horizon.

Cars parked on both sides of the shoulder mark the entrance to a tire-worn track leading to the excavation.

Someone is on site 24 hours a day guarding the dig, according to Hezy Shoshani, principal investigator of the excavation and graduate biology student at Wayne.

His wrists and hands ringed with dirt, Shoshani reaches for the six-inch tip of a hollow chalky tusk discovered days earlier from a mound of dirt dredged from the site.

A second tusk is more solid and colored several shades of brown. Then he points with broken and black fingernails to a fragment of mastodon cranium found close to the surface of the dig.

"We found these tiny fragments of cranium along the surface and pieces dumped in places where we think the dragline could not have reached," he said.

"This means the mastodon might have been killed, and its skull crushed into many pieces before the

Volunteers and students straddle the stepped land they've been digging into since July 2. Yellow flags and string mark off 10-meter lengths of ground next in line for digging. The pond, dredged deeper for the excavation, lies to the right. The group has until the end of the month to complete their search, and already found part of an upper jaw, two tusk tips and pieces of a cranium.

earth was disturbed. This is important because who else would do (the killing) if not early man? If this proves to be the case, you have here a butchering site and the only way to prove it is to find marks on the bone."

Excavating is like solving a mystery.

"I tell all these people not to dismiss anything. Every small piece adds a bit of information. We're like detectives solving a riddle," Shoshani said.

He points to a box filled with pine cones found in the dig.

"That's a jack pine cone," he said. "There are not any of those around. It's probably 1,000 years old and, I'm told, grew when the area was in transition between spruce and pine."

The earth's tannic acid preserved the cone.

"It's just like pickling it," he said.

Shoshani selected the excavation site following a 1977 find by two Brandon Township boys.

They discovered part of a mastodon skull and tusk in a pile of peat, unearched when property owner, Harold Shelton began digging a pond.

Appointment for clerk seat near

The Independence Township Board interviewed the 23 applicants for clerk, and the seat's expected to be filled at a special meeting Thursday, July 28.

Treasurer Frederick Ritter says he's shaved the list down to four possible candidates.

"Party affiliation aside, I'm not certain whatever candidate is selected that it will be unanimous," Ritter said.

When questioned, Supervisor James B. Smith and trustees Dale Stuart and Larence Kozma agreed the interviewing process went well, that some candidates are ahead of others—but that none had made up their minds.

A majority of the now six-man board, or four members, must agree on one candidate before the seat can be filled.

Smith had proposed a three-man team of full-time officials screen the applicants and eliminate interview time.

"I still think that would have been the way to go," he said, after 12 hours of interviewing spread over two days.

Ritter disagreed.

"I'm glad we did it as a board," he said. "We have collective notes we can compare. The process helped all of us recognize who the shining stars were."

The board is scheduled to meet Thursday, July 28, at 7:30 p.m. in Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

The clerk vacancy was created in May when Christopher Rose resigned to take the city manager post in Littleton, N. H.

Peg Daugherty's a bulletin board philosopher

By Marilyn Trumper

Peg Daugherty, a 54-year-old bus dispatcher, is a bulletin board philosopher.

The cork board behind her desk at the Clarkston High School bus garage is routinely rotated with posters, whimsical quotes and quips that give dimension and scale to topics like children, aging, injustice, war, drugs, motherhood and being a woman.

Daugherty offers a manila folder filled with quotes and pictures that have, over the years, decorated the wall at work or the bulletin board in her kitchen at home.

Norman Rockwell's oil painting "The Problems We All Live With" shows a small black girl escorted to school by four U.S. Marshalls during a period of civil unrest. Behind her, a smashed red tomato drips down the wall.

"I cut that out when integration was taking place and Irene McCabe and Brooks Patterson were taking their walk," Daugherty said. "My kids were picking up on that and I thought, 'They're going to hear two sides.' (Looking at the Rockwell painting) I thought, 'If I were the mother (of the little girl) I'd never quit."

"Somehow, my kids have got to see as much of one side as the other. I hate unfairness. I hate it when kids suffer because adults get hung up on all kinds of things."

Daugherty's raised five children. They range in age from 13 to 34.

Injustice between the sexes stymies Daugherty.

"I can't imagine how things like that got started," she said. "How is it that men were ones who started going out in the field? I tell you, (Eve) screwed up somehow when she didn't take the biggest half of the apple."

Daugherty's collection speaks to that.

"Ain't I a woman? Look at me! Look at my arm! I have plowed and planted and gathered into barns, and no man could head me...I could work as much and eat as much as a man, and bear the last as well..."—Slave Sojourner Truth: Speech at the Woman's Rights Convention, 1851.

"It's not true that women want a great deal; a woman is quite content with very little, if that very little is precisely what she wants; if not, than nothing is enough."—Anonymous.

Substance abuse concerns Daugherty.

"That was a big thing when my oldest were growing up, and I was always worried about it," she said. "I've got one left at home, and if she's into it I don't know anything about it. It would be very low keyed."

Daugherty's collection has a column by Nickie McWhirter of the Detroit Free Press. She talks about the drug-related death of comedian/actor John Belushi and how it affected her.

"...Maybe I'm angry because I have a lot of friends who routinely or occasionally smoke pot and words of wisdom on the bulletin board, at work and home and says they help "...smooth out the rough edges" of life.

think that's fun. I feel stuffy and ancient declining the hit. I feel out-of-it saying 'no thanks' to cocaine when the beautiful people are giggling and saying it's swell. I feel preachy and puffed up saying I have enough bad habits, and expensive ones, without adding drug use to the list. But it's true, and I feel angry that people I care about see no connection between themselves and their drug diversions and people like Belushi.

"I know two people who have multiple sclerosis and are struggling with that disabling terror, too. I think about what they would give for robust good health, and how precious a relatively healthy body is. How dare John Belushi or anyone else shoot cocaine and heroin into healthy veins just for kicks."

Maintaining a sense of humor is also important, Daugherty says, as is keeping an even temperament.

Two reminders from her collection:

"For every minute you are angry you lose sixty seconds of happiness"—Emerson.

"The degree of one's emotion varies inversely with one's knowledge of the facts—the less you know, the hotter you get."—Bertrand Russel, British mathematician and philosopher.

"I think collecting these helps level off the rough spots," Daugherty said, speaking from experience. A quote materializes on cue.

Mark Twain on experience: "...We should be careful to get out of an experience only the wisdom that is in it—and stop there, lest we be like the cat that sits down on a hot stove lid. She will never sit again on a hot stove lid—and that is well, but neither will she ever sit on a cold one."

At 46, Norma's on double-duty at school, job

By Kathy Greenfield

"Darned right," says Norma Thompson's husband, Tom, when he's asked if he's proud of her accomplishments.

While he admits her schedule during the past 17½ years hasn't been without its problems, he produces a plaque, says she doesn't want anyone to see it, and proceeds to show it off.

"If you've got it, flaunt it," he says.

"Norma Thompson, 1982-83, The National Dean's List" is embossed in gold.

In April Norma, 46, expects to complete her bachelor's degree in nursing at Oakland University, Rochester.

She's the head nurse in labor and delivery at Crittenton Hospital, Rochester, and has worked at there since 1969, shortly after she completed studies at Oakland Community College.

"I had five children when I went back to school to become a registered nurse," she says. "The youngest, at that time, was 1½ years old. She's 19 now and she's at Oakland in the engineering department."

Her interest in the field is something she categorizes as "always" and Norma was a student at the Hurley Hospital, Flint, school of nursing when she married Tom.

The births of their five children merely caused a delay in plans.

Norma talked about what happened to her lifestyle over the past school year.

During a typical five-day work week, she was up at 4:30 a.m. and on the job by 5:30. She left there to attend classes two to three hours and returned to finish her eight-hour shift.

Home by 4:30 or 5 p.m., she'd have dinner and study four or five nights a week.

"Exhausted" is the word she chose to explain how she feels.

But she's not attending school this summer because there are no classes she needs available.

"It feels good," she says. "I think I needed a break."

Once the fall semester begins, though, she'll be back. And the schedule will be even tougher.

There'll be classes three days a week, so she plans to work four days.

"That means I'm going to work every weekend and taking one vacation day until they run out," she says. "I may have to take an education break, but I should have enough to complete the school year."

"I'm looking forward to Thanksgiving and Christmas because it's going to give me two extra days off," she says, laughing.

Then, Norma says, she's going to relax, go on a vacation, and...

"Then we're probably going to remodel the house and I'm going to think about a master's degree in the meantime, but if I do that it won't be immediately."

"I would seriously consider a school of midwifery," she adds. "I really, really enjoy mothers and their babies."

Norma Thompson expects to complete her bachelor's degree in nursing in a year. The 46-year-old grandmother of six works full time as head nurse in labor and delivery at Crittenton Hospital. For her accomplishments in the classroom, she was named to The National Dean's List.

Youth Corps spiffs up football field

By Kathy Greenfield

"All right, Coach, what's the deal?"

"You're going to roll."

Roll paint, that is, on the fence surrounding the Clarkston High School football field.

Working with green paint for the bleacher seats and silver for the fence, nine members of the Michigan Youth Corps were at work Thursday under the direction of their supervisor, Walt Wyniemko, a teacher and the CHS varsity football coach.

The football field is only the first item on a long list for the summer workers expected to be on the job through the end of August.

They had been working there about a week.

"You can see the things we've done," said Wyniemko. "We've been working very hard. I think we've got a lot accomplished."

"People who drive by say the fence looks brand new and it really improves the appearance of the school."

And the more work they've done, the more Wyniemko's enthusiasm grows.

"You never know what to expect. It's the first time for everyone—the program is new," he said. "I think everyone would like to do it again next year. It's hard times for kids out there getting a job."

The youth corps members, who are 18 to 21 years old, are all employed through funds provided by the state.

They filled out applications in June and waited three to six weeks before being contacted.

"I was just happy, real happy," said Charles Pennerman of Pontiac. Before he was hired he had played a lot of basketball, he added.

Once his summer job is done, he'll look for another job.

Pausing between putting strokes of green on the bleachers, Tanya Gleason of Pontiac said she had nothing to do before she got the job.

"It's nice," she said. "Better than sitting at home."

She, too, will look for work elsewhere come September.

The temperatures were in the upper 80s, the humidity high. But they kept at it.

"It's all right. I can work out in the sun," said Julie Thornton of Waterford. "It gets a little warm, though."

Her plan is to spend some of the $600 she expects to earn on computer courses at Oakland Community College.

"It's kind of fun because the people are nice," said Calvin Brent of Pontiac. "They're friendly and it gives me something to do."

Chris Blair [left] and John Salvo work on mixing the silver paint before they begin rolling it on the fence around the Clarkston High School football field.

A transfer student from the College of Alameda, California, he is waiting to hear from Michigan State University where he wants to study accounting.

The team of Chris Blair of Pontiac and John Salvo of Independence Township were rolling paint on the fence, one on each side.

Wearing goggles, his feet covered with silver paint, Salvo joked about the nickname he's received—Aquaman.

He also talked about his opinion of the Michigan Youth Corps.

"I think it's fantastic," he said. "It's given people who haven't had a chance to be employed a chance."

"There is a multitude of jobs within this job. If one fills out a resume, that allows for diversified experience."

He's in his senior year at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant.

"I think it's fantastic too," said Blair. "This is what you'd call a heck of an experience."

He'll look for another job after the youth corps ends but, he said, he'd really like to be an actor.

Julie Thornton's at work putting green paint on the bleachers.

State jobs bill puts 36 to work

Through the Michigan Youth Corps, 36 people have local jobs with a total budget of over $62,000.

The largest staff, 15, is to work for the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department.

Some will start July 20 with the others on the job beginning July 26, according to parks and recreation Director Timothy Doyle.

Through the Small Business Association's participation in the youth corps, $9,000 comes for workers and materials including trees, shrubs and woodchips. In addition, $19,000 comes from youth corps funds.

They are expected to work on beautification and soil erosion prevention at Deer Lake Beach, perform landscaping at Clintonwood Park and rough in a trail for a physical fitness course.

Others will work in the new township park on Maybee Road. Jobs include mowing, tree trimming and clean-up plus work on raking, seeding and mulching soccer and baseball fields. On rainy days they will paint and assemble picnic tables and grills.

The Clarkston school district is next highest with 12 youth corps employees plus a supervisor and a budget of $15,719, according to Superintendent Milford Mason.

In addition to painting and sprucing up the Clarkston High School football field, the crew is to put woodchips in place on the path between the high school and the Birdland subdivision and work on grounds maintenance at the Clarkston Community Learning Center, Bailey Lake and Andersonville elementaries, the junior high schools and the senior high.

Seven youth corps members are now at work for the Independence Township Department of Water and Sewer.

50-year reunion for Class of '33

By Dan Vandenhemel

1933 was a very good year; especially for the graduating class of Clarkston High School.

The class of 19 held its 50-year reunion last Friday at the Deer Lake Racquet Club.

For some of the graduates, this was the first time they had seen each other since that June day, said Winifred Holcomb-Beach.

"Ethel (Lamberton) and I got together and got ahold of everyone," Holcomb-Beach said. "She had some addresses and I had some addresses. Through our contacts, we got to everybody."

Many of the graduates were surprised to see their English teacher, Dorthey Huttonlocher, at the reunion.

"I was a little embarrassed because I had to ask their names," Huttonlocher said. "I wouldn't have known them if I didn't, but I've changed a lot too."

Before dinner, the small group gathered to bring back memories and to exchange stories of their lives over the past 50 years.

"Oh this brings back a lot of good memories, for sure," said Georgia Chandler. "All the good times we had in school, the plays, the bands, the choir. This is nice."

Alice Miller admitted she looked forward to graduation back in 1933.

"I didn't really like school," she said. "I couldn't wait to get out. I was more into school when my boys were in than when I was in. My granddaughter graduated this year and she liked it more than I did. She graduated 50 years to the day from when I did."

The class graduated in the gym of Clarkston High School, now Clarkston Junior High.

Milton Chandler, the husband of graduate Georgia, said his wife was really surprised to hear from Winifred about the reunion.

"She has kept in touch with a couple of the graduates," he said. "But she was anxious to see everyone."

David Cell said he started laughing when he heard about the reunion.

"I was tickled to think about it," he said.

Learn CPR with trained experts

By Kathy Greenfield

They want Oakland County to be the CPR capitol of America, say the owners of the Training Institute for Paramedical Sciences.

CPR, the life-saving technique necessary when the heart and breathing cease, is an acronym for cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

"The EMS (emergency medical services) program in Oakland County is very sophisticated...but the most frustrating thing for the average paramedic when they do get to a cardiac situation, nobody's started CPR," said Patrick Turner, paramedic, and TIPS spokesperson.

"Brain damage starts to occur between 4 to 6 minutes and unless you're right on top of an address it's almost impossible to get there fast enough," added Daniel Nelson of Emergency Medical Services Consultants, the instructor-coordinator of the TIPS program.

They're looking for groups of 15-20 who want to take CPR training at the location of their choice—a living room or backyard, at a coffee klatch, an outdoor barbecue or an evening cocktail party.

The fee is $14.95 a person and the course includes two four-hour classes. Upon successful completion, students will be certified by the American Red Cross in basic life support.

"The reason we give an eight-hour course is because if this type of maneuver is not taught well it can be harmful," said Nelson. "They not only know what to do, but what's going on; why a person ends up like that."

The students also learn techniques for assisting people who are choking and how to help victims of electrical shock, near drowning and severe trauma (like an automobile accident).

Free courses in CPR are offered by the Red Cross and in Independence Township by the fire department at a fire station every other month during summer and every month during the school year.

Fire Chief Frank Ronk said Nelson has taught courses to township firefighters and he's good.

The disadvantage of local courses is that people have to go where the classes are held and Red Cross courses are canceled if enrollment is too low, Taylor said.

The men say they would be pleased if everyone knew CPR, regardless of where they learned it.

They want to make learning the technique as convenient as possible.

And they're out to surpass Seattle, Wash., where approximately 50 percent of the residents are certified in CPR.

What's new in business

"Apathy. That's been the biggest enemy. It's such an easy maneuver to learn," said Patrick Riney, TIPS marketing manager. "The only thing that prevents people from learning CPR is apathy."

Sommerfield-Batchelder

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sommerfield of Westmont, Ill., and formerly of White Lake, announce the engagement of their daughter, Debi Ann, to Rick Batchelder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Batchelder of Wertz Road, Springfield Township. Rick graduated from Clarkston High School in 1978. The couple plan an August wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. James Alan Geukes

Carol Lou Linderoth and James Alan Geukes were recently wed at the United Presbyterian Church, Sault Ste. Marie, by the Rev. Earl Harris. Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. Leon

Linderoh, Geukes married at Sault

Linderoth of Sault Ste. Marie and Mr. and Mrs. John Geukes of Snowapple Drive, Independence Township.

For her May 28 wedding, the bride wore a gown she made featuring Chantilly lace layered at the neckline and lower edge of the three-quarter puffed sleeves and full skirt. Her floor-length veil was also fashioned from Chantilly lace.

She carried a bouquet of daisies and baby's breath.

Lyn Piippo of Sault Ste. Marie was maid of honor. She wore a gown of pink cotton over taffeta and carried lavender and pink daisies.

Best man was David Shires of Grayling. Ushers were Karl Linderoth of Sault Ste. Marie and Robert Raab of Cadillac.

Richard Thibideau sang to the accompaniment of organist Carolyn Thibideau, both of Pontiac. Following the ceremony the reception was held at the Senior Citizens' Hall.

The bride is a 1983 nursing graduate of Lake Superior State College, Sault Ste. Marie. This fall she plans to enroll in the Bachelor of Nursing Program at the college.

The bridegroom is presently a junior in mechanical engineering at Lake Superior State College.

New arrivals

Robert and Julie Johnson of Middle Lake Road, Independence Township, got a new grandson and granddaughter, both in less than two weeks!

Virginia Marley Johnson was born June 29 in St. Charles Hospital, Bend, Ore. She weighed 7 pounds, 15½ ounces and measured 20½ inches long.

She's home with her 20-month-old brother, Robert.

Parents are Tracy and Ken Johnson of Bend.

Other grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. Thomas of Apple Valley, Calif.

Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas

Johnson of Rochester and Mrs. Alice Cole of St. Clair Shores.

The Johnson's new grandson, Justin Ross Barts, was born July 13 at Bronson Hospital, Kalamazoo.

He weighed 8 pounds, 3 ounces and measured 22 inches long.

He's the first child of Sandy and Ken Barts of Kalamazoo.

Other grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Barts of St. Joseph.

Great-grandmother is Mrs. Meschke of St. Joseph.

Lafnear, Bannister exchange vows

Jayne Elizabeth Lafnear and William Rowland Bannister were united in marriage at the Gloria Dei Lutheran Church, Pontiac, with the Rev. Richard Chilkott officiating.

For the 5 p.m. ceremony June 18, the altar was decorated with mini-carnations, daisies, nosegays, lavender statis, pompons and gladiolus.

The bride wore a polysheer gown with a Queen Anne neckline and cathedral train. Venice lace and pearls adorned the center of the bodice and neckline, and the skirt and train were defined with the lace.

She carried a cascade of purple and lavender mini-carnations, white daisies and lavender pompons.

Tracy Richardson of Traverse City was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Karen Norris of Evart, Linda Flessland of Avon Township, Kris Nichols of Dearborn and Marcia Mason of Clarkston.

They wore long linen gowns with short white eyelet jackets. The maid of honor's was orchid and the bridesmaids' were purple.

Troy Edwards, the bride's cousin, of Drayton Plains was ring bearer.

Best man was Vince Sarno of Lima, Ohio. Other groomsmen were Scott Wirth of Flint, Mark VanderVelde of Elkins, W. Va., Steve Lafnear of Clarkston and Jeff Clark of Midland.

Music was provided by Debbie and Diane Chema of Grand Blanc. They sang "My Love" and "Time for Joy" and accompanied themselves on guitars.

The wedding reception was held at the Deer Lake Racquet Club.

The bride's uncle, Clarence Mount, made the wedding cakes, a traditional four-tiered cake decorated with a fountain and morning glories, and a Norwegian wedding cake called a "Kransekake" with several baked almond paste rings in various sizes stacked to form a cone-shape.

The bride is the daughter of James and Karen Lafnear of Simler Drive, Independence Township.

A 1978 Clarkston High School graduate, she graduated from Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, in 1982 with a bachelor's degree in education and teaching the emotionally impaired.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rowland Bannister

A substitute teacher for Clarkston schools, she worked as a teacher at Clarkston SCAMP this summer.

The bridegroom's parents are William and Genevieve Bannister of Flint.

A 1983 graduate of Michigan Technological University, he is employed as a production supervisor at the GMC Buick Division, Flint.

The newlyweds took a wedding trip to Disney World and the Epcot Center, Florida.

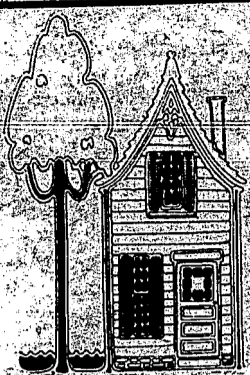

They are residing in Grand Blanc.

Cowdrey-Blue

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cowdrey of Dvorak Street, Independence Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rebecca Lynn, to Richard A. Blue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Blue of Waterford. The bride-to-be is a 1983 Clarkston High School graduate. She is employed at the Oakland Geriatric Village, Pontiac. Her fiancé works at Farmer Jack's in Waterford Township. A September wedding is planned.

'Graphicannie' takes Clarkston by storm

Young graphic designer Anne Bennett's work adorns signs, business cards

By Kathy Greenfield

Anne Bennett stands outside Wendy's Warm Up, a shop in the Clarkston Mills Mall that sports the logo and the window display she designed. A 1976 Clarkston High School graduate, Anne's parents are Brooke and Sue Bennett, owners of Bunder Hill Kennels in Springfield Township.

Yes, says Anne Bennett, some people do call her Annie.

And from that came the name of her free-lance business—Graphicannie.

"I thought of it one night at midnight—it means me, me and art," says the 25-year-old Clarkston area native whose work can be seen many places around town.

She painted and designed the signs for The Plum House and Village Produce, etc.

Her designs are the logos of Wendy's Warm Up in the Clarkston Mills Mall, Body Language in Waterford Township, the custom woodworking business called Piety Hill and Clarkston Concrete.

She also works at Deer Lake Racquet Club, having recently been put in charge of promotions. Bennett designed the menus there and the club brochure.

"I was going to school, taking all my English and communications," she says, "and I started doing art work, mostly at the Deer Lake Racquet Club. It got me through college and now it's my major preoccupation."

Her bachelor's degree from Oakland University, Rochester, is in journalism. And through all her years at Clarkston High School and at OU, she took very few art-type courses.

"I didn't even mean to get into this, that's what's really funny," she says. "I didn't go to school for it. It just kind of evolved."

With plans underway to attend the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit in the fall and work full time at Deer Lake, Bennett says she may have to curtail her free-lance artwork.

But it's clear she has enjoyed doing it.

"You have to get an image going for somebody when you paint or do graphic work. You look at what they're doing—if they want to be subtle or loud," she says.

"You look at Village Produce, they're countrified." And, to Bennett's delight, owner Jo Fussman wanted that sign painted on an old wooden headboard.

"Clarkston's been really good to me," she says. "They really supported me as a free lancer."

With her New Wave outfit and close-cropped hair groomed in the wet look, Bennett looks like she's ready for the city life.

But Clarkston's the place she wants to be.

"It's my hometown. It's important to like your hometown, I think," she says. "It's just really nice to like where you live."

DPW puts youths to work

Their budget is $14,000 for youth corps salaries plus $2,500 for administration, said DPW Director George Anderson.

Working on the five-acre site off Flemings Lake Road where the DPW Building is located, the crew is cutting brush, trees and grass, trimming trees and planting shrubs where the property abuts I-75.

In Springfield Township, two youth corps members were expected to join the staff Monday.

The budget is $1,996. One is to work with the assessor measuring property and the other is to do maintenance-type work including painting of flag poles and washing windows in township hall, said Clerk Calvin Walters.

The most common length of employment is 10 weeks and the youth corps workers will be finished with their summer jobs by mid-September at the latest.

She teaches the songs

by Nancy Albyn

An Apple
for the Teacher

Excellence, vocal music and Grayce Warren are inseparable ingredients of Clarkston's vocal music program.

"If you can't express yourself verbally, music will do it for you" is a credo often expressed by Grayce, to which many of her students will say, "Amen."

She teaches singing and piano at Clarkston High School.

"I use the medium of music to reach the students and to help them attain the full potential of the capabilities they possess," she said. "I enjoy watching a student grow and develop and take on responsibility."

A native of Negaunee in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, Grayce attended Northern Michigan University, Marquette, where she earned a bachelor's degree in music education.

She majored in classical pipe organ and voice at the performance level, which was unusual. She was the second student at the university to do so.

When Grayce decided to move "down below," she chose Clarkston as an ideal place offering a small-town atmosphere near a metropolitan center where she could enjoy the advantages of both.

In the 18 years she has been a teacher in Clarkston, she has done just that.

Her tireless hard work and dedication have brought the high quality of Clarkston's music program to the attention of music circles throughout the state.

Her personal involvement as a singer with the Rackham Choir and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra (under the direction of Sixten Ehrling) have added professional depth to the program.

Nevertheless, she has not forgotten her roots, and returns to Northern Michigan University every summer where she is the assistant director-administrator of the summer music camp.

It is not unusual for Grayce and her various choral groups from the high school to make as many as 35 different singing appearances during the school year from September through June.

Her students have consistently high scores in state competition.

The last two years, the CHS Madrigal Singers appeared at Tiger Stadium to sing the National Anthem. On June 25, they performed at a benefit for the National Scleroderma Foundation, hosted by Dick Smothers.

In 1973, Grayce was nominated as Woman of the Year for Oakland County, and in 1975 she received an award from the Michigan House of Representatives for "outstanding musical accomplishments and contributions as an educator of the youth of Clarkston, and for the high quality of her work and dedication to humanity."

Grayce is a member of the Michigan School

Vocal Music Association and has worked as a music therapist at SCAMP for the past six years.

Although music is the center of her life, Grayce also enjoys sewing (she has made costumes for the musical productions at the high school for years), handicrafts, reading and traveling.

Her boundless energy and varied interests make Grayce Warren a hard woman to keep up with, but there is one thing that will always stop her dead in her tracks—a student who wants to sing.

[An Apple for the Teacher is presented through the efforts of a Clarkston Education Association Committee working to enhance knowledge about local teachers. More post boxes

The Clarkston Post Office will soon have 444 additional post office boxes for rent.

Work is underway and they are expected to be available for rental in one to two weeks, said Postmaster William Kinsley. (a)

Minimum rental period is six months. Fees for a six-month period are $10 for a small box, $13 for medium and $22.50 for large.

The lobby where the locked post office boxes are located is open from 6 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 6 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. The mail for the day is in place by 8 a.m., according to Kinsley.

"We're going to start a list right away of people wanting the boxes so we can rent them out right away," he said. (d)

The additional boxes will more than double the present number, 378.

There are also 66 locked post office boxes at the Clarkston Mills Mall in the village and some of those are available for rental.

The post office is located at 5886 M-15, Independence Township. The telephone number is 625-2323.

PUBLIC HEARING

Public Hearing on Federal Revenue Sharing Funds will be held at The July 28th meeting of the Village Council. Village Hall, 375 Depot Road, Clarkston, Michigan.

Keri's fingers move and her arms are raised.

She brings band music to life

Strip drum major Keri Chenoweth of the stiff chin strap holding the tall plumed hat to her head. Get rid of the visor hiding her eyes.

Dump the rigid military Clarkston High School band uniform with epaulets and ornamental loops that hold the chest buttons together.

Do all that and you've got a first class drum major whose animated face was seen, and whose body bounced, shucked and jived all the way down Clarkston's Main Street leading the high school band in the Fourth of July parade.

Keri forfeited the drum major uniform when she graduated in June, but agreed to help her alma mater in the Fourth of July Parade because the principal drum major was out of town.

So she led the band—dressed in white pants and a blue band shirt.

Bouncing up and down, quick stepping, her arms moving rhythmically, fingers snapping, Keri's big eyes smiled as she dissolved the reserved drum major stigma.

"It was great," Keri said. "I didn't have to worry about the hat falling off or about looking military. When you're in the uniform there's a certain amount of dignity and stature you have to hold. I was more relaxed, and smiled a lot more."

The drum major's job is to keep rhythm and put some expression into the job.

"It's exciting to be up there to show people the music and help the band get the music across to the audience."

This fall, the 18-year-old hopes to enter the pre-med program at Michigan State University, but says she won't be a part of the band.

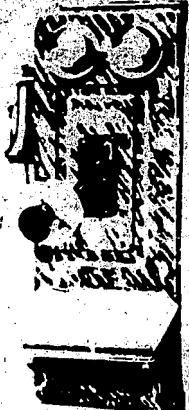

"But I'm going to look for a jazz ensemble. After six years playing (the saxophone) it's hard to give it up just because the music building is 20 minutes across campus."

WORDS OF LIFE - "Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these, adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies, envyings, murders, drunkenness, revelings, and such like: of the which I tell you before, as I have also told you in time past, that they which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God. But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law. And they that are Christ's have crucified the flesh with the affections and lusts. If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit. Let us not be desirous of vainglory, provoking one another, envying one another." Galatians 5:19-26!!RX28-1

Crazy black and white geometrics and punk mirrored, cat-eye shaped sunglasses were fun for Heidi Jewell of Dearborn Heights.

Polka dots were big among B-52'S fans, so were ripped T-shirts, leather pants and hair molded into fright designs with plenty of sticky hairspray and a little artistic license.

Punking-out at Pine Knob with the B-52'S

Photos by Marilyn Trumper

Saturday night it was Halloween in July for B-52'S fans funneling into the Pine Knob Music Theatre. If it was wild and crazy, it flew. Orange, pink and purple hair, spiked wrist bands and bizarre makeup. These two men give a little camouflage flair to the hill party.
