Senior complex lands certification

By Marilyn Trumper

The state Department of Public Health ended developer Hugh Garner's year and a half wait and issued a certificate of need for Clarkston Place, his proposed $30 million senior citizen complex.

That word came Tuesday from State Representative Mat Dunaskiss (R-Lake Orion) who's been in close contact with the licensing department.

Dunaskiss pushed for immediate review of Garner's application in June when it appeared the state would look at 13 applicants vying for the same certificate, and review them comparatively.

"I'm glad they (issued) it," Dunaskiss said. "They should have done it a long time ago."

Garner, owner of Deer Lake Realty, was pleased. "We don't have it in writing yet, but word is it's favorable," he said. "We were told it would take a few days to get official notification."

"I think it's fantastic—unbelievable! We felt we were entitled to (the certificate of need) all along."

"We're negotiating with the hospitals to manage it, and plan to break ground in the spring. We've lost the winter obviously, so we'll use that time to complete the plans."

The proposed complex has proven to be of critical interest to the local medical community.

Pediatrician James O'Neill, M.D., has been in contact with Garner regarding health care at the complex.

And said he's been meeting with Garner "...to join forces. 'We're going to be working with him,'" O'Neill said.

"(Hospitals) want to get people in—and out—of the hospital. Hospitals are paid by the diagnosis. Whenever a patient is admitted they're paid $3,000 to $4,000 for say diagnosing a coronary, whether the patient's there two days or 20 days."

"There's pressure for hospitals to be an acute care facility. To do that you have to have extended care—you can't boot patients out without a pace to go," O'Neill said.

Clarkston Place would be the place to go, he added.

While Independence has approved the site plan for the 120-bed nursing home, 64 units of housing for the elderly, 64 cottages and 200 apartments, Springfield Township has yet to approve the plan which includes development of 13 acres there.

Clarkston Place is proposed for 30 acres at I-75 and Dixie Highway. The 13 acres in Springfield Township include multiple housing for the elderly.

The single-story commons area for all residents includes a health club, indoor swimming pool, library, meeting rooms, game area, lounge, restaurant, reading room, arts and crafts room, beauty and barber shop, laundry, clinic, party room, chapel and motel for guests.

The state's decision comes on the wings of the Nov. 30 deadline issued by Oakland County Circuit Court Judge related to a suit filed by Garner in September.

Finding his application in jeopardy, Garner asked the courts for an immediate review of his application.

The 56-page supplement is back this season by popular demand.

The classic Christmas carols with musical arrangements are ideal for group sing-alongs. Enjoy!

Dunaskiss bows from senate race

Republican Mat Dunaskiss did not receive his party's nomination to seek the vacant seat of recalled Sen. Phil Mastin, which means the state representative from the 61st District will complete his term.

"Of course I was very disappointed," Dunaskiss said. "And frankly surprised. We went in with 42 committed delegates and came out with 33."

"I didn't present my electability as well as I should have. That's the bottom line," he said.

Rudy Nichols of Waterford Township, a first-term state representative, won the Republicans' nomination.

Former representative Claude Trim (R) said last week he would seek Dunaskiss' seat should Dunaskiss win the senate race.

Asked if this ended Trim's plans to recapture the house seat, he said, "Temporarily."

"Let's just say I'm looking at that. The committee would like to see me run. We'll see what happens," he said.

After eight years in office, Trim lost to Dunaskiss in 1982 following redistricting from the new census count.

Formerly a Democrat, Trim surprised supporters last year when he switched parties and joined the GOP.

Pediatrician explores pregnancy phenomena

By Marilyn Trumper

"It's a rare day someone doesn't come in worried about being pregnant," said Independence Township pediatrician James O'Neill, M.D., referring to the numbers of teen-age girls in his office for exams and direction.

"The first thing, is (that) statistics for pregnancies and the number of abortions are not valid. A lot of pregnancies and abortions are not reported," he said.

"The other thing is that if a child comes to you worried about being pregnant it means they're not only sexually active, but that they're not protected against pregnancy."

O'Neill and partner Charles Yee, M.D. offer an anonymous urine test to girls who suspect they're pregnant.

"We call it the 'Jane Doe Service.' They can bring in their urine with a number on it and call back

"Parents are the two best friends a kid can have."

—James O'Neill

later to find out if it's positive or negative," O'Neill said, adding the test is 99 percent accurate.

"We encourage them to talk to their parents, to go to their parents or someone, and to get on a program that works for them. We try to stress the spiritual and intellectual as well as biological reasons—and give them birth control protection information.

What PACE is

Lee Wells developed the Clarkston school district's PACE (Parent and Child Education) program.

The four-month-old PACE allows young mothers to complete high school graduation requirements with their infants in the classroom, or with their toddlers down the hall in day care.

It currently services 16 girls between 15 and 18 years old. Each is taught and graded individually.

PACE is state financed through the first Friday count and, according to Wells, the school is working on state licensing for the day care center which will allow them to serve hot meals and qualify for further aid.

Students incur no cost, for instruction or day care service, she said.

Also offered are counseling, parenting skills and homemaking skills. The program is open to anyone, and currently serves young women from Independence, Waterford and Orion townships and Pontiac.

IF IT'S A MAJOR FIRE, or a minor oddity, we want a call at The News, 625-3370

"And we stress that it's not only a girl's problem. That it's the boy's problem as much as it's theirs. It's pretty comprehensive," he said.

Girls who come to him fearing pregnancy are usually 16 or 17 years old, O'Neill said, and they shy from obstetricians and gynecologists because "...often, the only person they know to come to is Dr. Yee or myself."

"They know us because we give talks in the schools. They know we don't moralize or lecture to them. And if they're pregnant, we try and get them to talk to a parent. I've never broken a confidence. I've never called a parent.

"Frequently, (the girls) ask me to call," he said.

Parents traditionally are concerned and cooperative, according to O'Neill.

"Parents are the two best friends a kid can have. It's where they'll get their best advice, and I tell them that," he said.

"There's so much to human sexuality. The biggest problem is that kids tell each other you're not cool if you don't drink, don't take drugs, don't have sex.

"They're afraid to tell someone. 'I'm saving this until I'm married.' They're afraid to be chided or kidded by the other kids—but those kids will respect them for it.

"They need information that tells them not to be bluffed into it. A lot of kids get into problems because they don't have enough people to tell them this isn't the norm," O'Neill said.

"Human relationships between male and female are very deep, very spiritual, and have to involve the whole being. It has to involve the home, and the church and community and not be reduced to some biological part of their being."

Abortion totals

The Michigan Department of Health's Office of Health and Vital Statistics offers 1982 figures as the latest conclusive year for Oakland County abortion statistics.

According to Gary Pohl, statistician, the figures cannot be broken down into townships or villages.

In 1982 there were 2,726 abortions in Oakland County performed for county residents.

Of those:

•733 were for girls and women between the ages of 10 and 19.

•863 were for women between the ages of 20 and 24.

•546 were for women between the ages of 25 and 29.

•352 were for women between the ages of 30 and 34.

•177 were for women between the ages of 35 and 39.

•49 were for women 40 or older.

•Six women did not report their age.

Trials of teen motherhood

EDITOR'S NOTE: Names of young mothers enrolled in the Clarkston school district's PACE (Parent and Child Education) program are not used in this story because many of them agreed to talk with The Clarkston News only if they could remain anonymous. The program is designed to give young mothers and pregnant teen-agers an alternative to traditional high school.

By Marilyn Trumper

A 15-year-old girl in the PACE program, Clarkston's school for young mothers, has a seven-month-old son.

By the time she graduates from high school he'll be ready for preschool.

Another 16-year-old girl gave birth to a daughter six weeks ago.

Tomorrow, after keeping the child in a home for unwed mothers a month of those six weeks, she's signing adoption papers.

The child will no longer be hers.

There are no Friday night football games for these girls, they say.

No impromptu dinners at McDonald's.

Instead of lipstick, records and earrings they buy diapers and baby shoes.

The 16 students share a common bond.

They come from all over Oakland County. Some are married, one works, some live at home or with their boyfriend's parents. All are between the ages of 15 and 18, and either have, or are expecting, a child.

They've grown up fast.

A 17-year-old has a 13-month-old child.

A 16-year-old has a seven-week-old son. She lives with her parents in Lake Orion.

An 18-year-old has a 15-month-old child.

A 16-year-old has a year-old son. Her husband, 23, sells medical equipment.

A 20-year-old, married and divorced, has a 2-year-old son. She lives with her boyfriend.

A 17-year-old Clarkston girl lives with her parents. Her child's due in February.

One Holly girl, 16, was married three weeks ago. Her husband, 24, is out of work. Their child is due in March.

A life of young parenthood is a tough road to hoe, they said.

"I hope I get to see her before I sign the papers," said the 16-year-old.

"I kept her until she was a month old. I was determined to keep her. But I wasn't ready mentally. After a month of her I was insane.

"After she was born I was in a foster home. There were two 17-year-olds there. They would go out and have a good time. I couldn't go for a walk without thinking what to do with her."

She explains the reasons for deciding on adoption.

"I'm only thinking about her well-being. There's a lot of me in her. I was involved with the courts all my life," she said. "She's two days old and my caseworker is breathing down her neck. I was abused when I was little. I didn't want to abuse her."

Another girl, 18, is five months pregnant. She's working two jobs, each one day a week and going to school. She lives in her parents' home.

"I don't want any men in (my life)," she said simply. "I have no use for them. I'm not in any hurry to get married."

A 17-month-old mother with a 13-month-old son remembers what went through her 16-year-old mind when the doctors confirmed her pregnancy.

"My mother knew before I did. She made the appointment. I thought, 'God, I'm the only one. Should I keep the child, or shouldn't I?' Then for a while I thought I wasn't going to keep it," she said.

"I went into the darkroom and cried and cried. Then I decided I had to do what I had to do—not what other people wanted me to do. I'd raise my baby as best as possible. I don't believe in abortion. My parents were so supportive.

"I kept asking myself, 'Am I going to be able to give up my social life?' I would pray to God to help me. You grow up so fast. I used to skip classes, smoke a cigarette. I thought that was big time...." she said. "Sometimes I wish I could go back."

The 20-year-old mother with a 2-year-old son said the biggest surprise was divorce.

"I wasn't counting on getting a divorce. I thought he'd be more supportive," she said.

A 17-year-old Clarkston girl is due in February.

"I kept thinking I'd get an abortion. I finally told my mother and went to the doctor at five and half months. They'll perform abortions up to six months," she said. "My boyfriend's mother is a nurse. Even knowing the health risks she encouraged me to get an abortion.

"For any girl that gets pregnant I don't think they realize how much support their parents can give. I thought my mom would kill me. I could not believe how understanding she was.

"I'm still with my boyfriend. We're engaged. He wanted it. I didn't want to keep it. I ignored it so long—it was just too late."

Money is tight, they say, and sometimes it's embarrassing.

to God to help me'

Two girls from the class were out last week. One's pregnant. The other has a child. One described a trip to a gas station.

"We scraped every penny together from the bottom of our purses for gas, and I went up and dropped a handful of change on the window.

"A lady, dressed real nice in her '84 Trans Am, came up behind us and pulled out a wallet full of money (to pay for her gas)," she said, offering a graphic description of how easy it is for some people compared to others.

JOLLY GOOD FELLOWS: As dusk settles in Friday, firefighter John Nicholson sells Goodfellow papers from the corner of Main and Washington streets in Clarkston. During the two-day Goodfellow Drive, over $1,700 was collected to aid local needy families in the joint effort of the Independence Township Fire Department and the Clarkston Rotary Club. The amount is about the same as last year, according to Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

A change in procedure

Village clinic staffs physicians all night long

By Marilyn Trumper

Bending to colleague pressure, the Clarkston Ambulatory Clinic will be staffed with a doctor through the night, not EMT paramedics or on-call physicians as first reported.

Pediatrician James O'Neill, M.D., spent the last nine months organizing the clinic and worked its first night, Dec. 1.

"I'll be there all night with 24-hour coverage," he said that afternoon. "We're on the starting blocks."

Outside pressure generated change to have a physician at the clinic through the night, O'Neill said.

"Some association said it was inappropriate to have EMS there. I don't know who they are, but I think they were incorrect. They don't want (paramedics) handling emergency situations. But we're not a multiple trauma center with ambulances screaming in and with people dying.

"In emergency situations (paramedics) would be great. That's what they're trained to handle. There's nobody more qualified than EMS to take care of it," O'Neill said.

According to O'Neill, the plan always was to open the clinic to 24-hour physician coverage by February, with osteopaths Alfred Hamilton, Ronald LePere and Theodore Engelmann staffing their practice's office until 7 p.m. and a clinic physician on duty until the osteopaths reopened in the morning.

"We're just doing it ahead of schedule," O'Neill said. "I'm much more comfortable with this."

Barbara Deneen, an eight-year veteran registered nurse working at Wheelock Memorial Hospital in Goodrich, opposed EMTs staffing the clinic and was pleased with the new decision to have physicians there through the night.

She is president of the Pacesetters Chapter Emergency Department Nurses Association.

"I'm sure there were other professionals who op-

"We're just doing it ahead of schedule. I'm much more comfortable with this"

— James O'Neill, M.D.

posed it, too, for all the same reasons I outlined in my letter to The Clarkston News. I know it's a concern nationally, too," Deneen said. "We are running into this in a few areas where they're staffing or attempting to staff clinics with paraprofessionals and in some cases are rendering treatment.

"I think it's very sad for the public that's not aware who's providing care."

She stresses the importance of EMTs in the medical field.

"I'm not saying they're not trained. They are trained for pre-hospital care, and according to their licensure are to work totally under the direction of a physician," she said.

"They are superb in a pre-hospital setting. It's been proven that problems at an accident that could occur have been shortened due to their immediate actions."

The clinic ends the necessity of going to Waterford, Drayton Plains or Oxford ambulatory clinics for treatment during local physicians' off-hours.

Clarkston Ambulatory Clinic is staffed with 20 area osteopaths and medical doctors.

It's open from 7 p.m. to 8 a.m. Monday through Friday, and Saturday from 1 p.m. through Monday at 8 a.m.

Patients are encouraged to see their family doctors during the day for treatment.

People with life-threatening illnesses should go directly to the hospital, and call the fire department's EMS for emergency first aid.

Phone 625-CARE for more information on the walk-in clinic.

Doctor sees two patients first night

Clarkston threw a clinic—and Independence Township came.

On Dec. 1, Clarkston Ambulatory Clinic's first night of operation, pediatrician James O'Neill, M.D., saw two patients during the midnight hours.

"That's a start," he said.

The first patient had fallen and complained of an injured foot.

"The second was a case of the flu. We sent them on to St. Joseph's," O'Neill said.

The clinic, located in the offices of osteopaths Alfred Hamilton, Ronald LePere and Theodore Engelmann on M-15, south of the Village of Clarkston, is open from 7 p.m. to 8 a.m. Monday through Friday, and Saturday from 1 p.m. through Monday morning at 8 a.m.

People with life-threatening illnesses should go directly to the hospital.

Phone 625-CARE for more information.

Light finery

After dark, the Village of Clarkston in all its Christmas finery is a treat.

It brings memories of what someone once said about living in the area: "Clarkston is the way it's supposed to be."

The shop windows are decorated with roping and sparkling lights thanks to the merchants, and the Clarkston Mills Mall looks elegant as usual.

The Clarkston Rotary Club did their magic, too, putting up the lamppost decorations that celebrate the season.

On Friday, Dec. 9, the village merchants sponsor "Family Night" and invite everyone to gather round the Christmas tree at the corner of Main and Washington streets to sing Christmas carols, sip hot cider and enjoy a fresh donut.

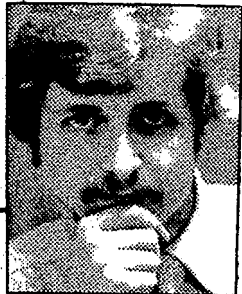

Bring a weather-proof ornament from home to hang on the tree during the hour-long festivities that begin at 7 p.m.

There's a fine community spirit waiting to be captured by one and all.

—KLK

Pot bangers

Al Zawacky

John Dettor and Robert Sullivan both died last week, and there was something in the disparity of their respective deaths that left me troubled.

Sullivan was executed in the Florida electric chair. Predictably, anti-capital punishment forces were demonstrating outside the prison walls, banging their pots, reading carefully selected passages of Scripture and bemoaning the fact a human life was being extinguished inside.

Sullivan was a convicted murderer. He wanted to trash the life of another human being, a man who left behind a grieving wife and children. The righteous anti-death penalty forces outside would remedy the situation by having the victim's widow help pay, out of her tax dollars, to keep Mr. Sullivan in clean clothes, shelter and three meals a day for the rest of this life.

MEANWHILE, THERE WAS no demonstration—at least none I'm aware of—when Dettor died Monday. A 21-year-old maintenance man for a fast-food restaurant, he died while on the job at an east-side Detroit restaurant. Dettor had gone outside to empty some grease; someone else decided to empty a gun into his head. His wallet and money were missing. He was found slumped over some garbage cans.

Would that Dettor had chosen murder rather than maintenance as an occupational pursuit. Then, a few pot-bangers would have showed up to mourn his death. As it was, nobody gave a damn, save the victim's family and friends.

I AM ACTUALLY rather ambivalent on the question of capital punishment. The very real danger of false conviction is never really addressed by death-penalty advocates, and it poses a major stumbling block to any thoughtful person's endorsement of capital punishment.

But the pot-bangers, who gush with righteous indignation at the death of a murderer while uttering not a peep about the decent citizen he killed, leave me feeling sick.

There is something wrong with a society that posts 10,000 television cameras outside a prison execution and wrings its hands over the death of a murderer—and then reacts to thousands of homicides each year with a business-as-usual shrug.

Better late than never

Kathy Greenfield

My sister-in-law called from Virginia last week to thank us for birthday gifts for her clan.

We talked about them being late, which is normal for me. But, she said, the gifts are always appreciated and they have proven to be even more fun because no one ever knows when they're going to arrive.

Then we talked about Christmas and the packages we're preparing.

She said one of her daughters was wrapping the gifts that day.

Boy, did I have a surprise for her.

When I told her that everything was ready for mailing a Christmas package to Virginia she reacted like this: "Really?"

***

A long time ago, I used to do better. Birthday cards and gifts were always on time. I made a list each year in a pocket calendar and checked it faithfully 12 times a year.

Everyone always received a letter suitable for the occasion.

My problem, I guess, is that I can't force myself to give up the time-consuming part of the gifting.

So if I don't have the time or energy to write, I wait until I do.

That explains why my sister, who lives in California, received her birthday card several weeks late this year. It wasn't the first time.

She wrote back.

"Better late than never," was her reaction.

***

On to Christmas. A friend stopped by last week to visit between holiday shopping, decorating and preparing for the week ahead.

Although she knew better, she asked if my Christmas cookies were all baked.

I gave up baking huge batches of holiday sweets years ago. I figure I'm doing my whole family a favor—who needs the sugar and extra calories anyway?

***

That doesn't mean I don't miss the lost tradition.

Last weekend when Clarkston businesses celebrated the season with open houses, I was there.

We ate our way through the shops, sipping cider and spiced tea, and munching on all sorts of treats—spice cake, hors d'oeuvres and cookies.

It had been a couple of years since I was in town during the traditional Christmas Open House, always held on a Sunday.

What a nice tradition it is. If you missed it, put it on your 1984 calendar.

That's what I'm planning to do.

THE CLARKSTON NEWS LETTER POLICY

We welcome our readers' opinions. Letters to the Editor must be at The Clarkston News office by noon Friday to be considered for the following week's paper. We reserve the right to edit all letters for the sake of brevity and clarity and to limit the number of letters from any one individual on any one issue. We don't publish open letters or copies of letters sent elsewhere. Letters must be signed and a phone number and address included. Names will be withheld on request.

Senior comedy

Jim Sherman

When I reached 50, seven years ago, I heard the usual and expected remarks . . . "Now that you're a senior citizen . . ." and "Don't forget to apply for your AARP card", etc.

I don't believe anyone at age 50 or 57 thinks of themselves as senior citizens.

My father is a senior citizen. He's 91. He'll probably deny it next time I see him.

Nevertheless, the "senior citizen" label was hung on the three couples in our party when we visited the Comedy Castle last week. And, one of the couples won't reach 50 for several years.

Apparently, that's the way it is when enveloped into a crowd of people who had to show ID's to get in and are being entertained by a guy with an overnight pass from the hospital nursery wing.

The Comedy Castle is on Woodward just south of 14 Mile in Royal Oak. With it is a John Laffrey restaurant where the steaks and service are excellent.

The dinery is on the street level and the Castle is in the basement. And, it looks exactly like a basement. Absolutely no frills, just an 8-inch high stage, a bar, and tables too close for movement.

The place is really popular. It was packed when the warm-up comedian, dressed in Army fatigue pants, tennis shoes, and odd sport coat, came on at 8:30. The next comedian wore blue jeans and the night's big feature had corduroy pants, t-shirt and poplin jacket.

It was the first fuzzy faced microphone squeezer who asked, as we walked by the stage, "What is this, senior citizen night?" We were the only six who didn't laugh.

It has been many years since Hazel and I were in a night club. The most recent was about 8 years ago at the Trowbridge Tavern in Detroit. That was a good experience.

The Comedy Castle is just an experience. Oh, we laughed at all the dirty words that made up the comedians routines, but they weren't really funny. You certainly couldn't repeat their 'jokes' in public.

Stag deer camps and sailor shipboard language I've experienced never reached the depths of these "today" comics.

So, while I might have been taken aback by the "senior citizen" label thrust at us at the Castle, it was certainly fitting that night.

Clinic concerns

I read with great interest your editorial Nov. 23 regarding the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center.

I agree the community has reason to be thankful but I feel the community also has a large area of concern.

That is the fact of staffing the center "during the early morning hours" with Paramedics "to assess medical problems and contact on-call doctors IF NEED BE."

EMT-Paramedics are prepared and licensed to act as "first responders" providing the following in a pre-hospital setting only:

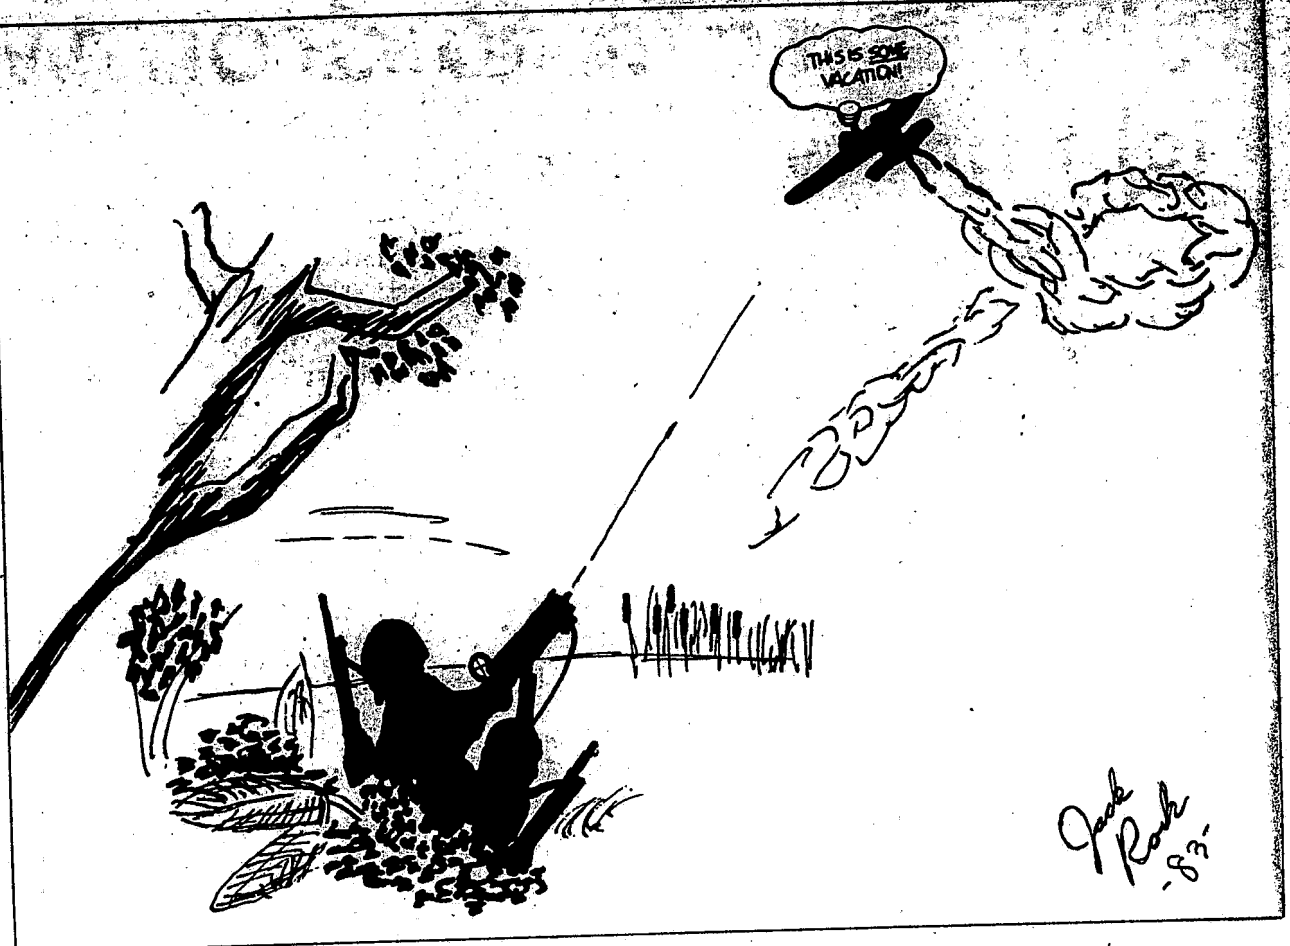

1. An initial assessment to determine life-threatening conditions
  2. Initiating techniques to stabilize acute conditions
  3. Communication of condition to a base hospital
  4. Transporting of patient to hospital
- The community deserves clarification of a few issues.

1. Will each patient presenting themselves for treatment be examined and diagnosed by a licensed physician?
2. Will results of diagnostic studies (lab and x-rays) be immediately available and evaluated personally by a physician for appropriate treatment of all patients?
3. How will the determination of whether the physician on-call is to be notified made, and who will take the responsibility of deciding the acuity of each patient?
4. If a patient requires such treatment as sutures, cast application, or prescriptions for illnesses, who provides these services?

Certainly the need for an ambulatory care center has been demonstrated in the Clarkston area, but the people of the community deserve and should expect quality medical care provided by licensed professionals working within the designation of their licensure.

Barbara Deneen, R.N.
President, Pacesetters Chapter
Emergency Department Nurses Association

Editor's note: According to Dr. James O'Neill, the plan to staff the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center with EMS-Paramedics during early morning hours has been dropped. A physician will be there every minute of the day and night, 24 hours a day, he said.

Jack Roek, 11, reacted to what's going on in the world with a political cartoon. When the Andersonville Elementary School sixth-grader shared his work with his teacher, Sherril Bailey, she suggested he bring it to The Clarkston News. Jack explains the cartoon: "I put in the caption

'This is some vacation' having to do with shooting down the Korean airliner. When some people were on vacation, the Russians came and shot them down." The message, says Jack, is this: "They shouldn't involve citizens. It should just be the war and the soldiers."

Goodfellow sale success

The Clarkston Goodfellows would like to thank all those who supported the Goodfellow Paper Sale last weekend.

A total of $1,700 was collected through your donations to be used to help the needy families in the immediate area.

It is only through your participation that this program can be a success.
Again, thank you.

'If it Fitz...'

Industrial age epitomized

Jim Fitzgerald

My wife bought an amazing hanging lamp from Sears for $40. I think I can sell it to the Detroit Institute of Arts (DIA) for at least $100,000.

At an art auction, the DIA recently paid $67,000 for a 1939, black and white photograph of locomotive wheels. I looked at that picture for a long time, in my most sophisticated art-gallery manner. I squinted and then opened my eyes wide. I held the photo close to my nose, and then looked at it from across the room. I asked myself what the photo said to me, and what I wanted to say back to it.

But I couldn't figure out why it's worth $67,000. It may be worth $63,452, but not $67,000.

A spokesman for the auction house that saw the DIA coming explained that the photo "epitomizes the Industrial Age." Oh.

BUT WHAT that $67,000 photo said to me was: "Here are a couple of locomotive wheels that pulled many freight trains in 1939." And what I wanted to say back to it was: "You are a nice enough photo but the locomotive wheels appear to be working properly, which doesn't epitomize the Industrial Age to me, unless it took from 1939 until now to get the photograph developed because the drugstore mislaid the film."

My wife's lamp does a better job of epitomizing the Industrial Age because of the astonishing things it can do that a candle or kerosene lamp could never do. Locomotive wheels transport freight and people, but so did stage coaches and canal boats. The amazing lamp from Sears does more than merely improve upon the light provided by fire. It also mystifies, and spooks, and causes grown people to cry like babies.

This lamp hangs on a chain in my old poolroom that is now the family room. My wife bought it so as not to waste the hook in the ceiling from which my budweiser pool-table lamp used to hang. She could have simply removed the hook, but that wouldn't have cost $40 and caused grown people to cry like babies, so naturally she didn't do it. She has a reputation to maintain.

The first thing I noticed about the lamp is it has no switch. There is no visible means of turning it on and off. It is the same as a candle with no match and no pursed lips to blow. How can that be?

"Just touch it on the base," my wife said smugly. Sure enough. First touch for dim, second for medium, third for bright, and fourth for back to darkness. Wow.

I have no idea how that touch system works or why Sears substituted it for the ordinary on-off switch. Frankly, I've mistrusted Sears ever since it unexplainedly pushed Roebuck into such a subordinate role. What happened there, anyway? Was Roebuck too old-fashioned to go along with an Industrial Age catalog that tears out its own pages whenever the privy door is touched?

AT FIRST, the mystifying lamp was fun. I used it to demonstrate my magic powers to Emily, the two-year-old granddaughter. She laughed and acted suitably amazed, but not for long. Two days after Emily left the room, I was still playing with the magic lamp, and hollering out the window for people to come see what I had.

However, one night my wife and I were returning home and noticed a light in our window. We never leave any lights on. "It might be a burglar," she said. "It could be worse," I said. "Our son could be back in town."

None of the above. The lamp has now taken on a life of its own. It turns itself on and off at will, no touch required. In fact, it no longer responds to touches or even squeezes, I think it's frigid.

The lamp most often turns itself off when I am reading by it, which causes me to sob, and turns itself on when no one is home, which causes me to suspect that Sears owns the Edison company.

That frustrating lamp epitomizes the Industrial Age. It should hang in the Detroit Institute of Arts, preferably over the $67,000 locomotive photo. I want $100,000, but I'll take $40.50.

Jobless rate to drop with training

By Kathy Greenfield

Three local programs designed to find work for jobless adults and youths have been approved through the federal Jobs Training Partnership Act.

If all goes as planned, 20 people should be employed within six months, five youths should have jobs by June, and the work force should increase by up to 25 additional people each month.

And funding will continue only if placement projections are met.

"The excitement has just been tremendous since the announcement," said Kathleen O'Donnell, director of community education for the Clarkston school district. "I'm ecstatic that out of the numbers of school districts, universities, public schools and agencies of all sorts that competed Clarkston did so well."

The proposals were submitted to the Private Industry Council (PIC) of the Greater Pontiac Area Consortium (GPAC). GPAC encompasses Independence, Waterford, Orion, White Lake and Pontiac townships and the City of Pontiac.

Two of the proposals, Job Club and Direct Placement, were made by Clarkston's Community Education Department; and one, Exemplary Youth, by Clarkston's Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center (NWOVEC).

"Job Club was the highest ranked of 13 submissions. Only the top four were selected," said James Bleau, community education coordinator.

Job Club is "designed for people who have job skills but don't know how to find a job," said Mona Cottick, Job Club coordinator.

Those accepted into the job-finding class will attend five hours a day, five days a week for three weeks.

The original proposal estimated the cost to be $2,400 for each three-week session. If 75 percent of the 15 to 25 people accepted for Job Club are placed within the three weeks, the funding is to continue each month for up to six months.

For the Direct Placement program, there were 13 proposals and 12 were accepted, Bleau said.

Written in cooperation with NWOVEC, the plan is to find jobs for 15 to 25 adults and youths within six months.

"That means people who are deemed work-ready will be sent to us to service and we will find, with their cooperation, a job for them," said Barbara Banker, Job Club placement coordinator.

The goal is to place 20 people. Funding to community education for Direct Placement was estimated at $5,200.

Community education became involved in the federal program for several reasons, Bleau said, but profit-making was not one of them.

The proposals are designed to blend with existing placement programs and the money will go for staff salaries and supplies, he said.

Bleau stressed that credit for the success of the applications goes to Banker, Cottick and O'Donnell.

"It must have taken a good 30 hours apiece between all the hours and 'What are we going to do with that?' It took a long time," he said. "It wasn't an easy grant to write at all. I helped very little—those three did it."

"The reason community education is going into this is it's better servicing the public," Bleau added.

Job Club is expected to begin Jan. 3 and Direct Placement Jan. 9.

Exemplary Youth is the title of the program proposed by NWOVEC. The plan is to find jobs by June for five students enrolled in ongoing programs at the vocational school who are economically disadvantaged, handicapped or otherwise disadvantaged. The cost is estimated at $40 a student.

"We submitted a most modest proposal," said NWOVEC Principal Daniel Manthei. "They asked why. I said we weren't in it for money but to provide services for students."

On Oct. 1 the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) replaced the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

With CETA, many people were placed in jobs with governmental units, worked a year or two, and when the funding that paid their salaries was dropped they were unemployed again.

JTPA, in contrast, is designed to allow government and business to act as partners to provide training and placement to economically disadvantaged youth and adults. The plan is to provide pretraining if necessary and to allow time for job success, leading to full-time employment in private industry.

Hire from programs

Employers looking for people to hire should check into placement programs offered through the Jobs Training Partnership Act, says Barbara Banker.

Banker is Job Club placement coordinator for the Clarkston school district's Community Education Department.

"Employers who are interested in helping or, especially, in more information, should contact our career center, either Mona (Cottick) or myself, at 673-5745," she said.

"They are eligible for credits and reimbursement of wages for placements, and I don't think many of them are aware of it."

Call if interested

The unemployed, displaced homemakers, the handicapped, those on ADC or welfare could be eligible to participate in Jobs Training Partnership Act (JTPA) programs.

Some of the programs provide help with job-hunting skills and with job placement, while others provide training prepare a person for employment.

For information on eligibility for a program, contact the Waterford JTPA-Intake Office at 674-4794.

Brandon man wants to see Oak Hill paved

County leaves it to townships, property owners

By Marilyn Trumper

Dennis Darrow drives Oak Hill every day, the dividing road between Independence and Brandon townships.

He'd like to see at least six miles paved between Dixie Highway and M-15.

"It's in terrible shape," said Darrow, a Brandon Township resident. "In theory it's graded once every three weeks. But within a week, within a couple of days, the potholes are back beating the cars to death."

"It's hazardous. People could hit a pothole and lose control of their car, swerve to miss a pothole and hit a kid or run into oncoming traffic."

"And," he repeated, "it's beating the cars to death. Cars that drive gravel roads wear out a year sooner than those that don't."

Oak Hill is a county "local" road, according to Dennis Pajot, public information officer for the Oakland County Road Commission.

By law, the county can pay only 50 percent of the cost of work to local roads, with townships or property owners financing the rest, he said.

County funding comes from gas and weight tax revenues.

"We know about Oak Hill because of letters we received during our annual report, but it's not a priority, and (paving is) done on the basis of funding," Pajot said.

The county is responsible for 2,572 miles of roads, he added.

Darrow's proposal to pave Oak Hill Road qualifies under the Tri-party Road Agreement, where the township, Oakland County Road Commission and Oakland County Board of Commissioners match funds, each paying a third of the cost.

"But that money, too, comes from gas and weight taxes, and in the past few years those have dropped too," Pajot said, adding the township would have to agree to finance that particular project.

Darrow says he wants to pursue the issue.

"And I don't want people to think I'm against the rural look. It's nice to have a scenic route. I don't mind driving gravel roads, if they were kept up," he said.

"That's a main thoroughfare. For me to do it alone is asking the impossible. For a special assessment I have to have a petition signed by two-thirds of the people.

"I don't know where to start," Darrow said. "I'd like to be involved in a committee between Independence and Brandon townships."

Stuart to chair 6th District

By Marilyn Trumper

Dale Stuart, a trustee on the Independence Township Board, has been elected chairman of the Republican Committee for the 6th District.

Stuart finishes the term of former chairman Clare Johnson through 1984. Johnson recently resigned to run for the United States House of Representatives.

The 6th District is now represented by Congressman Bob Carr, a Democrat. It runs from Lansing to Pontiac and is one of 18 congressional districts in the state.

"Each (district) has a committee made up of officers that run the organization," Stuart said. "As chairman I'm part of the state's central committee. Because there are only 18 districts, it's quite an honor and a position of some responsibility."

Stuart had one opponent vying for the chairmanship.

"This is a position of more responsibility than ones I've had with the party before. It's going to take a lot of my time," he said.

"I felt I had something I could give to the party. This is going to be an important national election year."

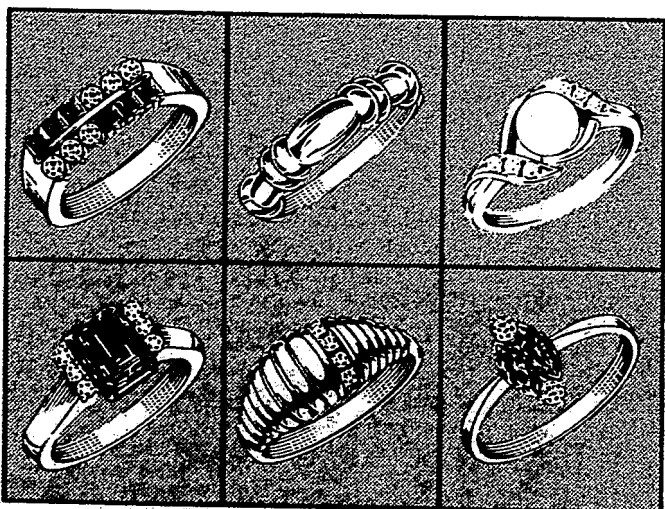

Stuart, a partner in the law firm of Murphy, Kimmel and Stuart of Waterford Township, lives on Mustang Drive.

He was elected to a four-year term on the township board in 1980.

One man campaigns for subdivision paving

By Marilyn Trumper

John Bates spearheaded the campaign to pave two miles of the Waterford-Drayton subdivision in southern Independence Township, but gave up wanting the full two miles after mounting opposition from neighbors.

Instead, Bates says he'll work to have half of Frankwill Road and half of Heath Avenue paved, where residents tentatively agree to a special assessment.

"I've lived here on Frankwill for 31 years, and it's been gravel all this time," Bates said. "We've got potholes in the winter and dust in the summer. I thought it was time someone did something."

"I canvassed the neighbors, and got 86 percent on Frankwill who wanted it," Bates said. "People who don't want it don't have the sewers. They're afraid that if they agree to the paving, that one day the township will force them to have sewers and come in, and tear up the blacktop."

"I told them the contractor would pay for that, but they wouldn't listen."

And some residents didn't want the special assessment, he added.

Bates said the next step is to get a formal petition from the Oakland County Road Commission, which he said he'll do.

Frank Beach, county subdivision design engineer, estimates cost to pave two miles at $235,613, or $1,541 per lot over a 10-year assessment.

The county does not finance subdivision paving, Beach added.

Independence Township wants Oakland County to understand its co-payment policy for road paving.

At a special meeting Nov. 22, board members agreed to inform the county, via official letter, that it's interested in paying 25 percent of paving costs when funds are available, but can't guarantee residents' money will be there for road paving, according to Supervisor James B. Smith.

In the past, the township has provided a portion of paving costs from federal community development funds.

"I think if more people got involved in this project to update the township, it would be an advantage for everyone," Bates said.

Bates has not yet approached the township, according to Smith.

Village president now gets a vote

Ending almost 100 years of tradition, the Village of Clarkston president now has a vote on the council.

At its Nov. 28 meeting, the council unanimously accepted Senate Bill 161 that amended the Public Acts of 1895 and made it lawful for village presidents to vote on all motions, not just to break ties.

President Jackson Byers used his new power to vote in a closed session later in the meeting.

"I think it's a good change," said Byers, who announced last week he will not seek re-election. "It gives the village official a little more input as to likes and dislikes, and the way he'd like to see things go."

"Before he could jump up and down all he wanted for policy, and he didn't have a vote. Now he's on the record."

Sitting quietly in her antique rocker from Glidden, Wisc., is 90-year-old Elizabeth Schraufnagel. She keeps in touch by mail with her relatives, including 44 grandchildren and 29 great-grandchildren. Not a day goes by without a letter from one of them.

She's seen 90 Christmases

By Dan Vandenhemel

As much as Christmas has become commercialized, the holiday season is still basically the same for 90-year-old Elizabeth Schraufnagel.

Now pine trees are sold for up to $60 rather than being able to go into the forest and cut the perfect tree down.

Or you can go the local store and buy a tree that you can store in the basement until the next year.

Stores advertise sales and longer hours just for the holidays.

But when Mrs. Schraufnagel was growing up, Christmas was much simpler.

"Oh, there is a big difference in Christmas now," she said. "I was always satisfied with my present. There was no work to be found, no money, we were just satisfied with the gift."

Mrs. Schraufnagel lives on Perry Lake Road, Independence Township, with her daughter and son-in-law, John and Mary Ann Shiff and their 16-year-old son Dean.

She came to live with them from Glidden, Wisc., where she was born, three years ago when her husband died.

"We brought all of her bedroom furniture from Glidden," said Mary Ann Shiff. "Her rocker, bed, dressers, all of them have to be at least 50 years old. We wanted her to have them here."

"My parents died a few years ago," Mrs. Schraufnagel said quietly. "They came over to America from Germany and settled in Glidden."

Glidden is a small town, similar to Clarkston with one major exception—there is less snow here.

"I'm used to the cold," Mrs. Schraufnagel said. "You don't get nearly as much snow here, it was pretty bad a lot of times there. I don't miss it anymore though."

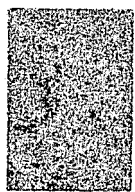

Mrs. Schraufnagel celebrated her birthday Nov. 21. Most of her 44 grandchildren and 29 great-grandchildren called her that day as did her brothers and sisters.

She is the oldest of 12 children. Her relatives are spread out, mostly in Wisconsin, Texas and Illinois.

She said not a day goes by without receiving a letter from someone. She also has the Glidden newspaper delivered.

"I do miss my friends back in Glidden," she says. "They're all disappearing. We look in the paper and one by one they're dying. It's sad."

"But I'm glad I lived the majority of my life when I did. Everything was so much easier. It was easier bringing your kids up then, too."

Wolves lose 1st game

By Dan Vandenhemel

The crowd that gathered for the opening game of the Clarkston High School varsity basketball season couldn't have asked for a more exciting game.

A big comeback by the Wolves, overtime, some great moves by both teams, all were there.

A win by the Wolves over Detroit Catholic Central (DCC) Shamrocks would have made it perfect. But the Wolves fell short, 67-63, in overtime Dec. 2.

The beginning of the game and the end were dominated by DCC. But the middle of the game belonged to the Wolves.

The Shamrocks stayed consistent in the opening two quarters by scoring 20 in each as they held a 40-26 lead at halftime in the opening game for both teams.

The contest was slowly turning into a rout for the Wolves by DCC which features a junior rated in the top 20 in the state this year.

John McIntyre led the Shamrocks with 28 points, 16 in the first half. As a guard, he controlled the tempo of the game but had to work for most of his points. Clarkston's defense didn't allow him many easy baskets.

"It looked like he was tiring late in the game, the whole team was," said Wolves' coach Dan Fife. "I just think we wore them down."

Fife credited the second-half turnaround to the ball dropping in the basket more.

"We didn't really change anything we were doing," he said. "I don't think there was anything we could have done except score. When you're 11-27 from the free-throw line, you don't expect to win many games."

The Wolves did not capitalize on scoring opportunities from the charity line most of the evening, many coming late in the game.

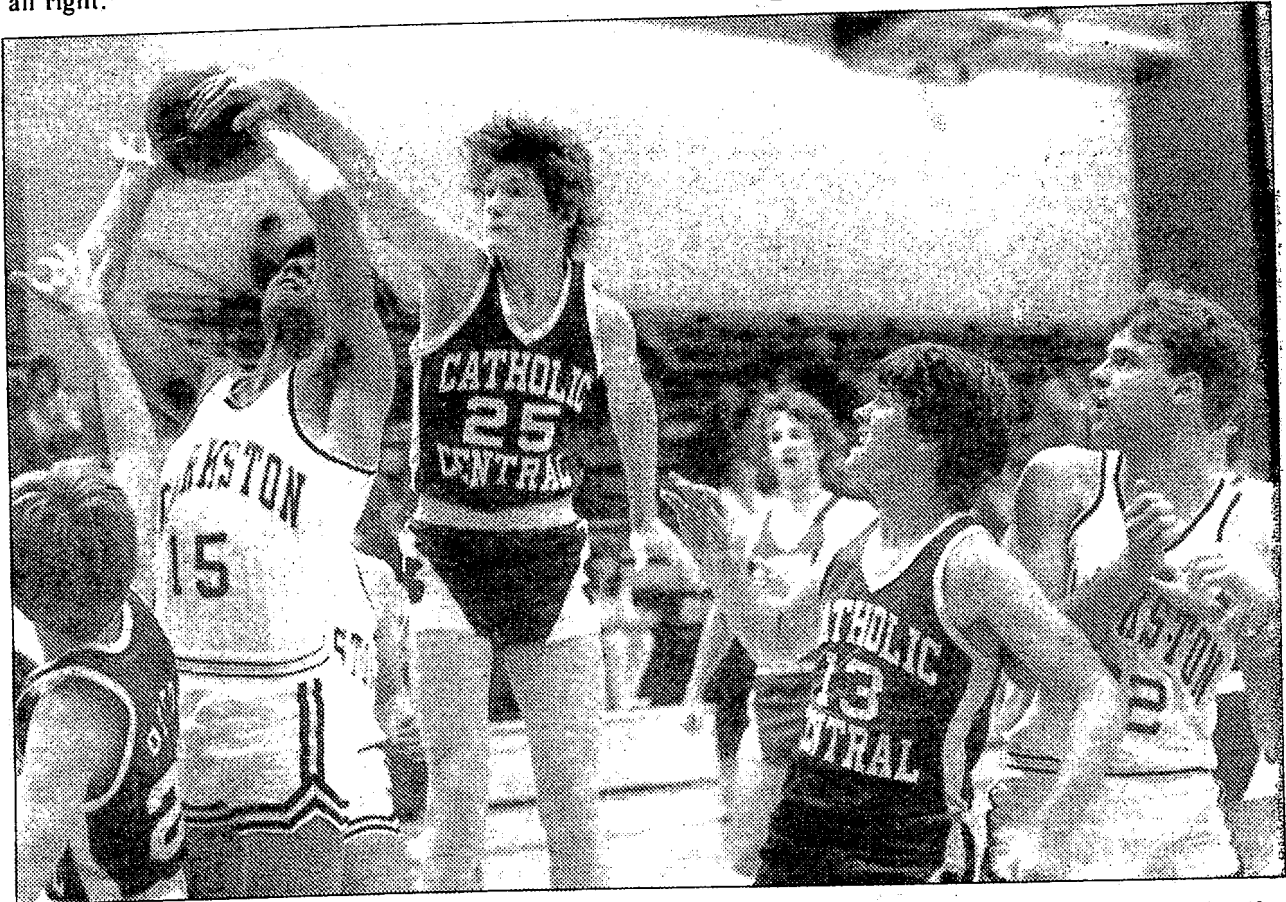

Dave Jokisch led the Wolves with 23 points and 22 rebounds. Erik Kline was next with 14 points, and Chris Bruce and Craig Kulaszewski each had 10 points.

Fife said the Wolves are going to have to rely on team scoring because the team doesn't have a dominating player as the Shamrocks have in McIntyre.

"They relied on him for everything. He brought the ball up the court and he did the scoring," Fife said. "We are hoping to find someone who can take charge for us out there, someone who can handle pressure."

"It was a nice comeback we had, but the bottom line is, we should have won that game," he said. "We made a lot of silly mistakes. I think we'll bounce back all right."

Varsity basketball is underway at CHS. Craig Kulaszewski's shot is blocked under the basket by a Detroit Catholic Central player in the Wolves' 67-63 overtime loss.

Sports

Clarkston's JVs win season opener, 54-40

By Dan Vandenhemel

The season is off and winning for the Clarkston High School junior varsity basketball team.

The Wolves controlled Detroit Catholic Central for most of the game and won their opening game, 54-40, Dec. 2.

Sophomore Mike Walters led the Wolves with 19 points. Juniors Brian Lewis and Matt Riddle were next with 14 and 10 points each.

"Walters played a phenomenal game," coach Tim Kaul said. "He did great for someone that age. He's the best all-around player on the team. Others may shoot better, or jump better, but he does a lot."

After a 22-21 lead at halftime for Clarkston, the Shamrocks stayed close and took the lead, for the first time, late in the third quarter, 31-30. By losing the lead, the Wolves turned on the power and ran away with the game.

The Wolves' offense was led by speedy Scott Riganon. When a fast break scoring possibility was there, the team took it.

Otherwise, the Wolves took their time on offense. "Sometimes, early in the season like this, it seems that the team is moving in slow motion," Kaul said. "Right now the team has to think about what they are doing, they don't react to it yet. When they do, they'll move quicker."

"Scott didn't score many points, just four, but he played a perfect game," Kaul said. "His role on the team is to run the offense. He doesn't have to score that much, just move the ball."

On the junior varsity level, player turnover from year to year has coaches starting over from scratch with mostly sophomores.

Kaul hopes juniors Lewis and Riddle will provide more than their ability to score to the team.

"They gave us some great leadership out on the court," Kaul said. "Their experience is going to help us."

Everybody wants the basketball as Wolves JV teammates Brian Lewis (No. 44), Craig Hol-ington and Kevin Pitcher battle a Detroit Catholic Central player for a rebound.

New coach, new season ahead for Spikers

By Dan Vandenhemel

The players on the Clarkston High School varsity volleyball team won't have any trouble getting used to their new coach. They all played for her within the last two years.

Nancy Foster is taking over the varsity coaching post this year after coaching the junior varsity squad the past five years.

"The players all know what I expect from them and how I run things," Foster said. "The only difference is I might be a little tougher on the varsity than I was on the junior varsity. That doesn't mean that I was a pushover on the JV team."

Foster has the team of 11 girls working out for about two hours after school or, as Foster said, "As long as we can stay in the gym."

Stretching, running, jumping rope and push-ups begin the practice even before a volleyball is picked up.

Physical conditioning is as important in volleyball as any other sport, Foster said.

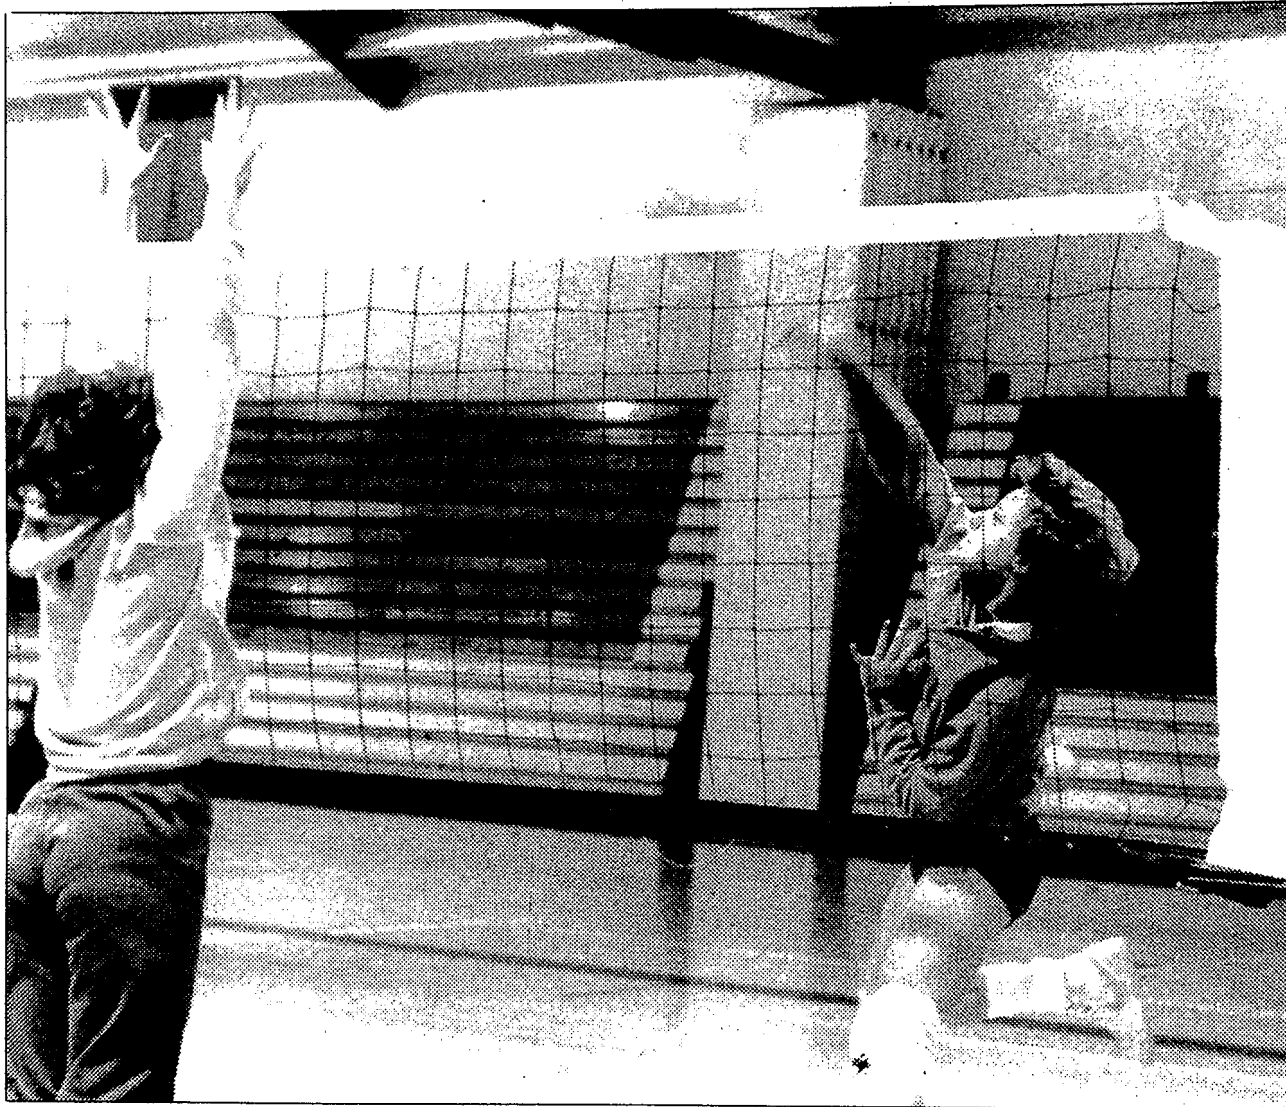

"They have to stay in constant motion on the court," she said. "A big problem is standing and watching the ball instead of moving toward it. They have to keep moving their feet."

"Conditioning is really important, especially in an all-day tournament," she added. "Near the end the girls will be jumping maybe 1-inch off the floor."

Foster is counting on the seniors to stabilize the team: Lisa Ashton, Kim Lorenz, Amy Stark, Beth Chartier, Denise Giroux and Kris Tisch.

Juniors are Beth Springer, Wendy Learmont, Tricia Butler, Laura Hurren and Roseann Hirneisen.

"I'm expecting a good year," Foster said. "We have some good players coming back. Amy will help in the front line, Kim and Lisa in the back row and Beth as the setter. I'll probably move Laura up as a setter, too. We'll do all right."

Junior Laura Hurren connects on a spike during the CHS varsity volleyball practice. Coach Nancy Foster moved up from the JV squad to handle the team this year.

CHS wrestlers off to slow start

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Clarkston High School wrestling team opened its season at the Grand Blanc Invitational tournament with its share of ups and downs.

The Wolves finished fifth out of eight teams Dec. 3, 94 points behind first-place New Lothrop, and three wrestlers did not make the weight requirements.

On the positive side, Greg Ellis continued his winning ways with a first-place finish in the 119-weight division.

Seven Clarkston wrestlers placed in the top four of the tournament. Besides Ellis, Dean Buchanan and Jeff Lawrence each placing third; Jack Basham, Ken Stuk, Brian Dennison and Keith Edwards all finished fourth.

"Ellis kept getting better and better," said coach Rick Detkowski. "He won all three matches by pins and each one got quicker."

Ellis finished last year with a 49-1 record and a second-place finish in the state finals.

"Dennison and Edwards did a real good job," the coach said. "Brian lost by only two points and Keith lost by one."

Detkowski is hoping Ellis, Buchanan and Lawrence can carry the team and provide leadership. Lawrence is the team captain.

Wrestling is a very disciplined sport and for a small, young team like Clarkston it can be tough, the coach said.

The Wolves' inability to compete with a full team because of the weight requirements is a problem Detkowski expects to end.

"We had a couple of guys that didn't make the weight," he said. "Some of the guys are young and not very disciplined yet about keeping the weight off, but they will."

"We have . . . everything we need except bodies."
—Rick Detkowski

The Wolves only have 20 wrestlers to fill the varsity and junior varsity squads. This is the first year for a JV schedule and there are not enough people to go around.

"Of the sophomores we have on the team, not one came from Sashabaw (Junior High)," Detkowski said. "I don't know why. They had a good program and some real good wrestlers. We have the new room, the JV schedule, everything we need except the bodies."

With the Christmas Season upon us all, some of us are much more fortunate than others. The American Auto Industry has been trying to recuperate from the hard times of the past few years. The resurgence of our industry has been difficult and many families still suffer economically as a result of the extended layoffs and paycuts that resulted from the turn down.

We at Valley Lincoln-Mercury wish to assist those who are less fortunate than ourselves.

During the month of December we will donate a bag of groceries to a needy family in the Pontiac-Waterford community for every new or used car we sell!

This donation will decrease the number of families who may have to go without a Christmas dinner. We are painfully aware that this is only a small step in a community effort to see that every family enjoys the Christmas holiday.

If you are considering a purchase of a new or used automobile, stop by, make your best deal and provide a needy family with a Christmas dinner!

Up My Alley

Don't say anything

By Dan Vandenhemel

Columns are a great invention for newspapers. They don't take up a lot of space, they can convey important information and it's not tough to come up with ideas, most of the time.

Some columnists write about controversy, others about different happenings around them, and others write about whatever they feel like.

Take some columns on such important topics as where Fair Haven is or the dangers of owning a little brown car, for example.

I'm positive everyone in Clarkston needed to know where Fair Haven was.

In over a year, my car has been immortalized in a column a number of times. About how it leaks oil, how it is rusting out, how it breaks down with more regularity than night and day, and how it caused me to be pulled over by a sheriff's deputy.

If you're thinking this is going to be another column about that little car, you're wrong.

Vacations are also a favorite topic. Maybe because everyone likes to relax or I'm dreaming a lot. Traveling to all the major league baseball parks, camping trips with my parents, fishing trips to Grayling and spring break in Florida have all crossed my mind and the typewriter.

Not all the columns that have filled this space have had nothing to say, just most of them.

One complained about the lack of support for girls' sports in Clarkston, another congratulated the Clarkston High School basketball team and another bid farewell to a close friend.

I've made two bets in the column, and lost both of them.

Rumor has it that since I started working here, there have been more bowling articles than in the newspaper's entire 54 years.

Columns have been filled with tales of accidents, paddle boats, being on TV, watching people and, the best of all, about the Muppets.

Going back over the great columns I wrote, very few of them said anything of importance.

Now if you have been reading carefully, and read the entire column, you've probably discovered that I did it again.

FCC ruling ends local control of cable fees

By Marilyn Trumper

A recent Federal Communications Commission (FCC) ruling put the kibosh on local control of cable TV fees, a move that has Independence Township Supervisor James B. Smith seeing serious implications.

But James Anderson, general manager and vice president Tribune/United, says his company has every intention of honoring frozen rates in the contract negotiated last May.

The township's $2.5-million Tribune/United cable system is scheduled for construction beginning next month.

Smith's concerns with the FCC ruling center on the lack of protection of the contract rates negotiated by the township with Tribune/United.

"The decision means that apparently even on existing contracts, the rates negotiated are out the window," Smith said. "That's a real bombshell for every city in the country, but particularly for an area like us where we've spent a lot of money and time negotiating favorable rates and service in the face of relative low density of housing."

"Now if I read this correctly it's all out the window. Now instead of $8.95 they can say the fee is $12."

Anderson says his company will honor the contract rates.

"The decision means (the ruling) provides us with flexibility, because now we no longer have to go to the township board to raise all but the basic rate,"

Anderson said. "But if the rates get too high people don't subscribe. And we know that."

As outlined in the cable contract, officials from Tribune/United must appear before the township board to increase rates on satellite programming and the non-commercial movie stations like HBO and Cinemax.

"If the companies that offer that service raise the rates to us, we would have had to go to the board and get permission to pass that increase onto the customer," he said. "Now we don't have to."

The new freedom is not regulated, he added.

"But we're not going to raise the rates just to raise them. We're going to honor the contract," he said.

The contract, signed last February, restricts local programming subscription fees to $5.95 a month; the 15-station satellite subscription programming to $9.95; and $8.95 for non-commercial programming like HBO, the Movie Channel and Cinemax.

Smith read of the new law, effective after publication, from a federal information bulletin, and said the township's on record against similar legislation pending with House Bill 4103 that was tabled until late February or March in the U.S. House of Representatives.

In the interim, the FCC delivered the new ruling. Smith is expected to discuss the issue with cable officials at a meeting Nov. 30.

In addition, he's sought support from U.S. Congressman Bob Carr and asks he see that existing contracts will be exempt from the new law when the final decision is released.

Smith asks township residents protest their opposition to losing local control over fees by writing Carr.

Ritter delay

Tom Ritter's candidacy for United States Congress is still unofficial.

Earlier he planned to make his bid as a Republican nominee for the 6th District seat official Nov. 29.

Now he's planning to make it official in January. "The lack of announcement doesn't mean there's a lack of activity," Ritter said. "We're in good shape right now."

An Independence Township resident, he owns Ritter's Farm Market on Dixie Highway.

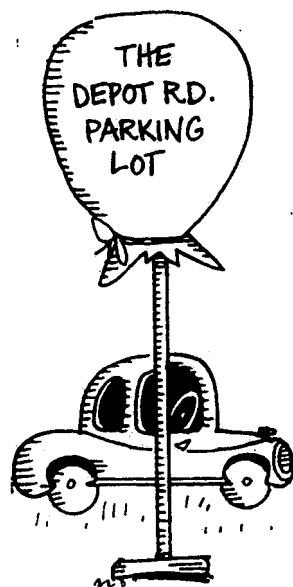

He decided to postpone the official announcement for several reasons, Ritter said.

"I needed additional time to do issue research which we are right in the middle of now," he said.

He also cited the need for more time to organize the campaign opposing incumbent Congressman Bob Carr (D-Okemos).

"We wanted to provide a little more hoopla," Ritter said.

Santa Claus recalls past Christmases

'... a chance to believe in something good'

By Marilyn Trumper

The eyes of Pat Tinson, also known as Santa Claus, well with tears when he remembers bringing last year's Christmas to a needy Springfield Township family.

"I made Christmas Eve calls for the Davisburg Rotary. I got a list of families with kids that might not really have Santa Claus that year," he said.

"I canvassed the parents and let them know I was coming. We had toys collected from Neighbor for Neighbor, food and fruit baskets, and I bought a couple of things.

"I knocked on the door of this one house and rang my bells. There was one little girl, I guess she was about 8, and she had a twin brother and sister that were 4. She opened the door. Her eyes were huge. She was so excited.

"She ran up to me and grabbed me and kept hold of me. She pulled me in the house and ran up to her parents and yelled, 'Santa's here! Santa's here!'

"Well I'll tell you," Tinson said, wiping his eyes. "...it was worth the price of admission."

"When things wound down I took the father aside and asked him to come out to the truck. He did. I gave him a fruit basket.

"He started to cry. I was included in that myself. That's bad for Santa," Tinson said, smiling.

The annual masquerade makes the 53-year-old Tinson's holiday season.

"It makes it the way Christmas should be. I grew up during the depression when things were tight. If you got a couple of presents you were lucky. A piece of fruit, a toy, a book," he said. "People don't like the idea of having kids go without. I think people want to help as a general rule—but don't know how to go about it."

Tinson offers his expertise.

For the third year running he's Santa at the Clarkston Mills Mall.

In a new red suit, white whiskers and wire-rimmed glasses, he sits on a gala throne flanked by two angels, accepting Christmas wishes from kids beginning the day after Thanksgiving.

"I try not to make too many rash promises. I try not to push myself on them. They're scared to death," he said.

"I enjoy having the kids on my lap. Some of them really take to me. Some, you can't hardly keep them

Pat Tinson sits at a metal table in the Clarkston Mills Mall and sips hot coffee. Behind the glasses and under that ball cap he's Santa Claus, the spirit of Christmas.

away. They ask me where the reindeer are. I tell them on the far side of the park. They believe it. It's far enough away they won't see if they can find them.

Dressed in a blue and white ball cap, flannel shirt, green corduroy jacket and jeans, Tinson sips hot coffee in the mall shadowed by a Christmas tree. He's winding up holiday decorating.

"I like to make Santa Claus as real as possible. For the borderline kids between believing and not believing, they don't know what they're losing when they don't believe anymore," he said.

"You're losing a big, big part childhood. A chance to believe in something that's all good. It's hard to find something like that these days."

Feeding birds for the winter? Keep it up!

By Pat Emerson
Clarkston News Special Writer

Don't start feeding wild birds this winter unless you plan to continue, says Kathleen Dougherty, a naturalist with the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department.

"Birds become dependent on human han-

The feeder log with a suet cake in it makes a good food source for birds during the winter, says Kathleen Dougherty.

douts," she said. "While they are active food hunters, once they became dependent in bad weather, they have been known to starve to death because your feeder is empty—even though there is a feeder in your neighbor's yard."

"You should continue feeding them until the weather breaks, usually through April," she said.

Dougherty gave her advice during a recent nature interpretive program at Independence Oaks County Park.

The pastime can be expensive.

"Over $15 million is spent on bird feeding, mostly during the winter months—plus the cost of such items as books and binoculars," she said.

Dougherty and assistant naturalist Debbie Williams offered tips on feeding stations that will attract a variety of birds and ways to keep down the cost.

A good feeding station includes four levels:

- Ground feeders—place directly on ground, use a large piece of plywood nailed to a tree stump or use a tree trunk. Load it with sunflower seeds and the cardinals will love you, as will the mourning doves and blue jays.

- Hanging feeders—usually designed to take down during warm weather, they can be filled with commercially mixed seed or buy seed in bulk and mix yourself. Some of the seeds in pre-mixed bags are useless—try mixing millet and small and large sunflower seeds.

- Suet bags—made from the all-fat part of beef, suet is high in calories and takes a long time to burn. Put suet in onion bags and attach to trees. Suet may be mixed with peanut butter or hardened bacon grease and stuffed in the holes of a log. Woodpeckers and chickadees are fun to watch clinging to the bark and pecking at the suet.

- Thistle hangers—small, exotic thistle seeds dispensed from cylinder-shaped hanging feeders attract goldfinch, the tiny yellow birds with black-tipped wings. Only their beaks are small enough to reach the seed through the small holes.

Beyond bird seed, other items may be used.

Grit is appreciated for digesting the seed. Coarse white sand or ground clam or oyster shells mixed with seed will do.

Fruit will attract the cedar waxwings, winter robins and the large ground-feeding birds.

Large seeds such as soybeans, wheat, oats and corn will bring in quail and pheasant.

Expect, of course, the many flocks of sparrows. Don't begrudge their share—their friendly commotion around a feeder attracts more desirable birds.

When squirrels become pests by stealing from feeders (or running off with the feeder), they can be warded off by placing a baffle just below the feeder.

NWOVEC hosts holiday buffet

Celebrate the season with the Holiday Buffet at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center's Northwest Inn.

The first buffet of the year is planned Friday, Dec. 16, from 11:15 a.m. to 1:15 p.m.

Prepared and served by the food service students from Clarkston, Holly, Brandon and Waterford high schools, the meal includes a 12-foot salad bar, entrees of beef, ham and fish, and holiday tarts.

The cost for the entire meal is $5.50 a person.

Telephone reservations are requested. Call 625-5202.

The Northwest Inn is located inside the school at 8211 Big Lake, Springfield Township.

Council seeks permanent end to kimono sale

By Marilyn Trumper

The Village of Clarkston is seeking a permanent injunction to prohibit a one-time kimono sale from ever happening at 29 E. Buffalo in the home of Sharon Catallo

In closed session Nov. 28, the council directed its attorney to "...proceed in that direction, but whether or not he'll actually get it remains to be seen," said President Jackson Byers.

Betsy Travis, one of three women holding the sale, described the council's move as "...an unnecessary action."

"I didn't think there would be (another sale). There was going to be one. Why did they do that?"

They already had one (injunction.) It seems to me an unnecessary action," she said.

Two weeks earlier, intent on enforcing the residential zoning ordinance, the council received a temporary injunction to prohibit the kimono sale by partners Catallo, Mary Jane Scharfenkamp and Betsy Travis.

The women filed a DBA (doing business as) name with the county and registered with VISA and Master Charge.

The council was concerned then over parking problems and a commercial business in a residential district.

The women relocated to the Clarkston Mills Mall and held the sale there.

Take it from one who knows . . .

While atop the bleachers, Lisa Ladd shows with her face what she says when safely on the gym floor: "At first it was scary..."

Gravity defied Army-style

By Kathy Greenfield

They weren't rappelling down the side of closed bleachers with the greatest of ease. Cautiously inching their way down would be a better description.

But "fun" was the most common reaction of Sashabaw Junior High School gym students who volunteered to rappel Thursday.

They were helped by two red-beret-clad Pathfinders from the United States Army 101st Airborne Division of Fort Campbell, Ky.

Lisa Ladd was one of the first volunteers recruited by her ninth-grade classmates to make the descent.

"At first it was scary, but it was easy after that," she said.

But when Lisa returned to sit with her friends, the idea of convincing them to try rappelling wasn't a consideration.

"I'm gonna make 'em," she said.

As the rope harness was removed, Kim Webb reacted to several queries of, "How was it?" with an emphatic: "Oh, frightening!"

"I was nervous," she said, but her message to friends would be "that they should try."

"It's fun," said Steve Lambourn and Janet Jablonski.

"It was neat. I liked it," said Matt Beamer. "When you get up there you think, 'I'm going to fall.' But as soon as you get right on the edge of the step you think nothing is going to happen."

The experience was a bit different for Steve Boal. "It was all right," he said. "You get up there and at first you're all right, then you get the butterflies."

In combat, the Pathfinders are the first ones into an area to set up landing lights so goods can be dropped and helicopters can land, said Staff Sgt. Daniel Christiansen, station commander of the U.S. Army Recruiting Station on Dixie Highway in Independence Township.

Just two days before, the Pathfinders and Christiansen were at Clarkston High School recruiting for the Army by explaining careers and cash incentives. A rope was hung from the top of the gymnasium roof and the men put on a demonstration.

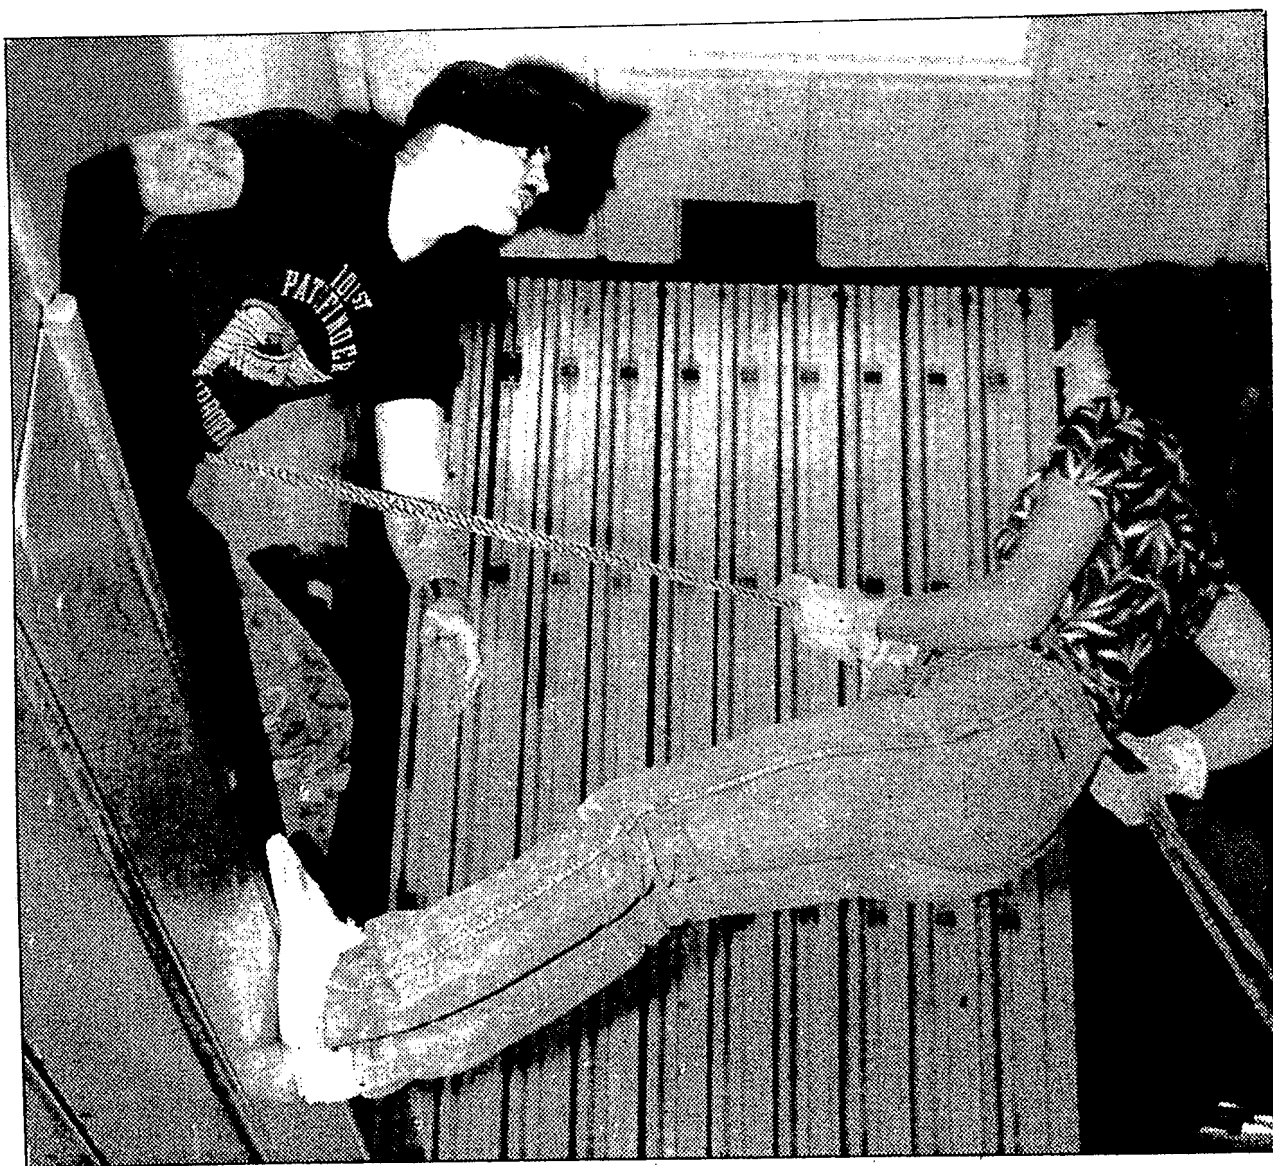

But on Thursday they were just having fun. Another high school had canceled the Army presentation, so the trio visited SJHS.

"This is not recruiting," said Christiansen. "This is just having a day off."

With the help of Spec. Jeffrey Bayer, Steve Lambourn begins his descent. "It's OK," Steve says later, and he'll try to convince his friends to rappel because "it's fun."

Army Sgt. Michael Estes, a Pathfinder with the 101st Airborne Division, assists Janet Labonski as she begins making her way down the bleachers in the Sashabaw Junior High gym.

She's president of Tri-Sigma

Sorority key to Sara 15 years after college

By Marilyn Trumper

Sororities for Sara Woolfenden didn't end when she graduated from Adrian College 15 years ago with a teaching degree.

Today, at 37, she's National Collegiate Vice President of Sigma Sigma Sigma, a 90-year-old sorority geared to friendship and commitment for young college women.

Sara Woolfenden accepts a blue pizza pie from her daughter Trish, 4. Woolfenden is Tri Sigma Sorority's National Collegiate Vice President.

Her volunteer work can mean 12-hour days. "My phone never stops ringing," she says.

It boasts 72 collegiate chapters and more than 150 alumnae chapters in the United States.

Woolfenden volunteers her work, which can mean 12 hour days.

"But I really feel sometimes I should be paying them for the experience I'm getting," Woolfenden said from her Independence Township home.

"People tend to think of sororities as only for college-aged women, but it's not true. After they graduate they become alumnae. With Tri Sigma we have two basic principals: to develop a strong and womanly character and to develop to your potential, and a perpetual bond of friendship.

"Once you leave college you don't have to say that's it. If you move to Chicago there are five chapters of Tri Sigma there," she said.

They also emphasize education.

"And they learn how to interact with grown women. With the office-holders, hopefully, they'll learn how to make a commitment and follow through. The rest of the sorority is there to help them with the job," she said.

"There's no other place where they can learn responsibility and have someone there lovingly helping them do it.

"It's those from Tri-Sigma who graduate, get those resumes out, get those interviews and get those jobs," Woolfenden said.

The collegiate experience inspired Woolfenden to remain active in Tri-Sigma.

"I had such a wonderful experience in college, and I realized it wasn't something that had to end.

"Really, it's the challenge of the job. A staff of 30 answers to me. My phone rarely stops ringing. It's helped me develop.

"And," she said, "it's ideal because I can be home and working at the same time."

It's time to get reacquainted with your phone bill.

When you go to your mail box and find your next phone bill, you'll notice it's changed in some ways.

For example, there'll be more pages because the billing information will be more extensive and listed differently. These initial changes are the result of Michigan Bell's upcoming separation from AT&T on January 1, 1984.

We'd like to explain these changes. Probably the first and most important thing to understand is that after January 1, 1984, your Michigan Bell bill may include charges from Michigan Bell and AT&T or other long distance service companies, but you'll continue to pay the total bill to Michigan Bell.

Your billing information will be in three general categories:

Basic Service.

In the future, Michigan Bell will continue to provide and bill your basic telephone service, as well as your local and zone usage. Included in your monthly service could be Custom Calling, Touch-Tone® Service, or optional calling plan charges. Michigan Bell will also bill you for any directory assistance charges you incur.

Long Distance.

Your long distance calls will be separated between those provided by Michigan Bell and those that after January 1, 1984, are provided by other long distance carriers but may be billed by Michigan Bell. They will appear on separate pages.

Telephone Equipment Charges.

In the past, your telephone equipment charge was added into your charge for basic service. Now it will be itemized on a separate page. Ownership of the equipment Michigan Bell now provides you for a monthly fee will soon be transferred from Michigan Bell to AT&T.

Phone numbers will be listed on your bill to call if you have questions about your billing or service. And when you receive your new bill in December, a bill insert will clarify the various pages of the bill in much greater detail.

We want to do whatever we can to help you understand the changes that are taking place in your phone company. Please remember...

IT'S AT&T
WE'RE SEPARATING FROM...
NOT YOU.

Facts down the line. We suggest that you continue to watch your monthly telephone bills for any additional changes in the billing format, repair service or procedures for establishing or changing telephone service. Also, because your telephone business office is busily engaged in normal day-to-day telephone service matters, this toll-free number is a source for answers to your questions about your changing telephone company. 1 800 555 5000.

Christmas Sing

Calvary Lutheran Church plans its third annual Christmas Sing Sunday, Dec. 11, at 7 p.m.

Along with the chance for everyone to sing Christmas carols from many countries, the Chancel and Junior Choirs will sing under the direction of Yvonne Lowe, Calvary's director of music.

The Calvary Folk Exchange will also share their music. Members are Larry Miller, Teresa Giroux, Mike McClean, Inger Nelson and Mike Lange.

A handbell number and a special nativity scene are other highlights.

The Christmas Sing is Calvary's gift to the community.

The church is located at 6805 Bluegrass, Independence Township. For further information call 625-3163.

Club notes

Thanksgiving dinner for the Clinton Valley Barracks No. 2803. Veterans of World War I and Auxiliary was held at Springfield Township Hall Nov. 12.

The turkey was prepared by the Davisburg Rotary Anns and members each brought a dish to pass.

Guests were Pauline Walls, Linette Pfeifer, Bill Moore, Clifford Pierce and Jean Tarco.

We were happy to have Eva Lucas and Charles Crist back with us.

Entertainment was provided by World War I veteran Arthur Schwartz with his harmonica and Alice Rioux at the piano.

We are happy to welcome Mr. Schwartz back to Holly. He has been living in Florida.

Mrs. Rioux baked a cake for the celebration of Vernon Ridgeway's 86th birthday. Pictures were taken.

Nov. 11, Veterans Day, brought back the memory of things past. We pray our flag will always wave as a symbol of our highest hopes and be a constant reminder of those who have worked and died to give us the heritage we enjoy.

The next meeting is Dec. 10 at noon.

Task force fights substance abuse

The second meeting of the task force formed following "The Chemical People" television program is planned Wednesday, Dec. 7.

The group has the goal of decreasing drug and alcohol abuse by young people in the community.

Plans are to meet at the Clarkston school district administration office, 6389 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

"Anyone is welcome," said Fred Baumann, director of the Clarkston office of the Consortium for Human Development.

Twenty-two people attended the first task force meeting Dec. 1 at Independence Township Hall.

"It was a pretty broad representation, although I was surprised and pleased to see so many parents there," Baumann said.

"The first session was mostly just brainstorming. Everyone contributed what their thoughts were regarding the issue."

Among the topics were education, prevention, judicial enforcement and treatment.

"It was very cordial," Baumann said.

Those interested in knowing dates and times of future task force meetings may call 625-9600.

SPOTLIGHT*Humor in 'Gingerbread'

by Pat Emerson

"The Gingerbread Lady"—Neil Simon's adult comedy presented by The Clarkston Village Players Dec. 9 and 10 at the Depot Theatre, 4861 White Lake Rd., Independence Township. Showtime 8:30 p.m. Admission $4. Tickets may be purchased at Tierra Arts & Design, Clarkston, or by calling 363-0188.

An aging alcoholic singer just released from a sanatorium... Enter a homosexual, a self-centered fading beauty and an outspoken teen-ager.

A somber note to ring in this Christmas season? No, not when Neil Simon and The Clarkston Village Players get ahold of it.

"Gingerbread Lady," the three-act play directed by Pat Thomas, opened last Friday at the Depot Theatre. A story of human frailty, five characters rally around one another as each comes unglued over personal tragedy.

Evy, played by Carol Arend, self-described as a lush, arrives home to find her closely knit group of friends trying to console her while her own nerves are stretched taut.

Jimmy (Hugh Rose), with the confused hormones, is coming undone over one more rejection in his unsuccessful acting career, while Tobie, Evy's best friend, learns that her husband needs more from her than creamy-white skin and feet groomed by an Oriental.

Lou (John Stuetzer), Evy's former live-in boyfriend and broken down songwriter who left her for an 18-year-old, would like to re-establish their relationship but, instead, gives her two black eyes.

Waltzing nonchalantly through this turmoil is Evy's teen-age daughter, played so refreshingly by Sonja Ritter.

Telling it like it is to these middle-aged misfits, her outspokenness seems to soothe their frazzled nerves.

Neil Simon doesn't get these humpty-dumpties glued entirely back together, but the humor is superb as five screwed-up characters manage to keep each other on an even keel.

Derrick Sorles' character role as the delivery boy with a Spanish accent is so amusing that one wishes he would deliver more groceries.

All six characters do an equally good job of acting to bring these somewhat pathetic characters together, making them lovable.

Dramatics is the watchword as Pamela Hill as Toby Landau works to try to convince her friend, Evy, to get her life in order.

What's new in business

Cleaners gets new owner, new name

Warren Quality Cleaners is now Elliot's Cleaners. Jerry Elliot, an Independence Township resident, bought the business at 6700 Dixie Highway two weeks ago. It's near the M-15 and Dixie Highway intersection. Hours are 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The shop is closed Sunday. Elliot says he's lengthened the business hours and plans to have shirt laundry done on site rather than sent out.

Library puts this volunteer to work

She's there one day a week

By Kathy Greenfield

Each Tuesday Julie Meredith gives at least an hour to the Independence Township Library.

She alphabetizes, tapes covers, punches holes in book catalog cards, sometimes makes posters and is responsible for most of the work on the library's Christmas contest for children now underway.

"Nothing real exciting. Just the usual stuff," says the Clarkston Junior High School seventh-grader.

But she enjoys the volunteer work, and remembers well how it came to be.

"I'd been thinking about it" she says. "It took me about a week to get up the courage to ask and, finally, I said, 'Mom, let's go to library.'"

"It was October and (children's librarian Ann Rose) was putting up decorations and I asked her, since I had some extra time after school, if I could come in and help."

Julie likes books and she likes to read, and even before she got the OK for volunteer work, she spent a lot of time at the library.

"Mostly I came in when I had to get a book for a book report," she says. "And sometimes just for no reason at all."

Her favorite subjects in school are band and art.

College is in her future plans, and Julie may someday be a librarian—but maybe not.

"I might want to be a computer programmer. I asked my dad to get one for Christmas, but he said, 'I don't know anything about computers,' so I'll keep working on it," she says.

Math contest

How many feet of shiny snowflakes will the Christmas Elf have to paint before Dec. 22?

First-through sixth-graders can put their math knowledge to the test and vie for the prize in a contest sponsored by the Independence Township Library.

The poster that explains the procedure is inside the library at 6495 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

It's the work of volunteer Julie Meredith, who drew the elf and cut shiny snowflakes from aluminum foil, and children's librarian Ann Rose.

For more information call the library at 625-2212.

Julie Meredith's at work on finishing touches for the library's Christmas contest for children.

Behind her hangs the bulletin board that describes the contest.

A Special Offer From The Publisher.

Hi -

Time is drawing short to take advantage of my Christmas subscription offer.

Between now and December 16 I'm going to extend a subscription offer to everyone in this area that has previously been available only to regular subscribers.

I'm going to let you buy a one, two, or three year subscription and give (that's right, GIVE) the same number of years to anyone else in this community who does not now subscribe to this newspaper.

You can pay $7 for one year, $13 for two years, or $19 for three years and give a free subscription to someone else provided they do not have the same address as you and are not a current subscriber.

If you want this newspaper to be a Christmas gift we'll wait until Christmas to start the subscription and send a greeting card with it in your name. In any case, any subscription given must start before January 1, 1984.

Of course, this offer is good for present subscribers, too. Just fill in the coupons below and send them to this newspaper with your $7, $13, or $19.

Happy Holidays

Send letters to Santa here

Children's letters to Santa are part of the magic of Christmas.

It's a perfect opportunity for parents to oversee a project that teaches communication skills and, if the child is old enough, offers printing practice.

We'd like to share your child's message to Santa with other readers of The Clarkston News, so all can remember what it was like to really believe in someone as special as a man who lives at the North Pole and grants wishes.

Just send the letters to Santa Claus, c/o The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Volunteer returns to help teacher

By Marilyn Trumper

At the age of 6, Christine Serb sat in Audrey Shupe's first-grade class at Clarkston Elementary.

Today at 12, she's a junior high school volunteer, and daily helps Mrs. Shupe's 6-year-olds master reading and vocabulary.

"She was my favorite teacher," Christine said. "She used to explain things over and over until you got it right. She listened to you."

"I remember I had trouble with my numbers, and stayed after school. She worked with me, and told my mom what kind of things she could do to help me."

Last semester, Christine got an A- in math.

Her volunteer efforts to struggling first graders is kind of a way of saying "thanks" to Mrs. Shupe, she said.

"I did it last year and this year. And I'll do it as long as she wants me to," Christine said.

Christine Serb: She came back to Clarkston Elementary and volunteered to help in her former first-grade teacher's class.

Hunter's nut harvest theory works

By Kathy Greenfield

William Morse has more faith than ever in his trusty acorn theory.

He's landed his fourth buck since he developed the plan for hunting deer.

"You go out in the woods and find a hole, a depression. I call it a foxhole. And you get in there and make no more noise or movement than an acorn," he said.

This year the plan worked after five days into the deer hunting season that began Dec. 15.

"I was in the same foxhole up there by Atlanta and it was the fifth morning. Before it took him seven days to find me—this time only five days because I hid so good," he said.

"He was up in the oaks eating acorns. He was coming down to the swamp where they go to hide during the day."

The spot was only 10 feet from where he shot his last buck, in 1980, and the time was just 10 minutes earlier, 8:10 a.m.

Morse, 60, has been hunting since 1940.

"It took me about 35 years to learn how to do it, and I've got all (four) since 1972," he said.

He received nothing but praise for his latest catch.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources has a voluntary check-in station in Atlanta.

"The DNR said it's one of the finest racks they've seen," he said.

Following the hunt, he visited a friend who is a veterinarian in Atlanta.

"The vet said if you want one more perfect you have to paint it. He said, 'Man, that's a beauty,'" Morse said.

The 3½-year-old buck's eight-point rack is 18 inches across the beam, and it weighs 170 pounds.

Its head is destined for a spot in the Morse home on Glenburnie Road, Independence Township.

And venison will be found on the family menu for the year to come, which is better, he said, than what would happen to many deer if hunting were outlawed.

"It's harvest time again—these deer are the harvest of the forest," he said. "If we don't get them a wood-pulp truck will, or the ravages of nature in the winter."

"His meat will be salvaged and his head will be hanging on the wall for my grandchildren to appreciate for years to come."

Each year Morse hunts with relatives. This year also brought success for his cousin, Vern Walker of Union Lake, who bagged a buck with a 5-inch spike.

The other hunters, both brothers of Morse, came home empty-handed—Bob of Independence Township and Richard of Marquette.

Bill Morse proudly displays the latest buck bagged using his acorn theory of hunting. The 3½-year-old buck's eight-point rack has almost perfect symmetry.

Give summer fun for holiday

Here's a heart-warming gift idea from the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

Their Summer Fun Passbook gives access to dozens of activities at Oakland County parks. An $80 value, it costs $20.

Tickets include a ride down the Slidewinder water slide at Waterford Oaks, camping at Addison or Groveland Oaks, a round of golf at one of four Oakland County golf courses and more.

The books are available at all county parks, or call 858-0906 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays.

Dressed for a pow wow, the kindergartners of Jo Vaara at Bailey Lake Elementary sit quietly between the Indian songs, dances and knowledge they shared with their parents last week. From left are Mike Weverstad, Chad McLaughlin, Nathan Manuel, Matt Davis, Lisa Herron and Donnie Downey. Their drums, tucked for the moment under their chairs, were kindergarten homework. Their parents brought food to the feast that Indians either taught the Pilgrims to grow—like corn and pumpkins—or would be likely to eat.

Pee wee pow wow

During the feast, Beth Bills helps herself to a treat of mixed seeds and nuts wrapped in a dried corn stalk.

Donnie Downey brings his whole family to the pow wow—his parents and both sets of grandparents. They watch as he shows off his macaroni necklace and other regalia.

ETERNAL MEMORIES

Oh, I've asked myself
A hundred times,
No, a thousand times or more,
Is it wrong for us to love
As we want to love?
And a thousand times or more
I've searched your eyes,
But they seem to ask the same.

Our paths have crossed.

Our lives have touched.
How much longer will they touch?
A day or two?
Or many years?
Time only knows.

Should we not take
These few moments
That we have now
To look into each other's eyes.
And deeper, into each other's soul

And share with each other
Our special love?

Perhaps these few moments then
Will be enough,
Enough to give us eternal memories
That will bring us together again
In other lifetimes.

Can this love be wrong?

God rest ye merry, gentlemen

God Rest Ye Merry, Gentlemen is another of the traditional carols for which no author is known. It has been a favorite of carolers from the times of the minstrels of old England until present day. Since neither the words nor music can be traced to an individual it is surmised that many have added their own flair to the song throughout the centuries.

The First Noël

The First Noëll is one of the oldest and most mysterious of our carols. No record is known of its origin. Sir John Stainer harmonized this version from the many renditions of his day. The song is not in keeping with scripture: the shepherds didn't see the star. But the music and words of this old song remind us all of the wonder of the season.

What Child Is This?

The words What Child Is This are sung to the old English tune "Greensleeves" which was popular before the time of Queen Elizabeth. It was one of the best-liked tunes of its day and Shakespeare mentions it twice in "The Merry Wives of Windsor." The present words about the Christ Child were written by William C. Dix during the reign of Queen Victoria.

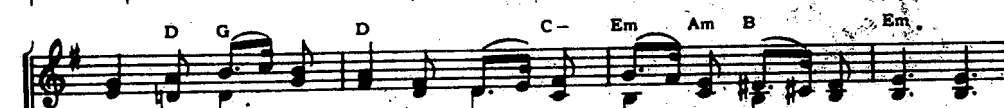

Traditional English Tune, "Greensleeves"
Harmonized by Sir John Stainer

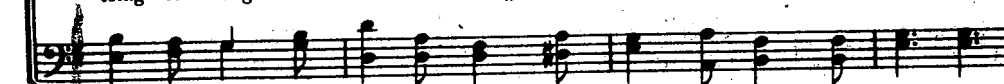

Words traditional

1. What Child is this, Who, laid to rest, On Ma-ry's lap is sleep-ing? Whom
2. Why lies He in such mean es-tate, Where ox and ass are feed-ing? Good
3. So bring Him in-cense, gold and myrrh, Come peas-ant, king, to own Him, The an-gels greet with an-thems sweet, While shep-herds watch are keep-ing?

Chris-tian, fear: for sin-ners here The si-lent Word is plead-ing:
King of kings sal-va-tion brings, Let lov-ing hearts en-throne Him.

This, this is Christ the King, Whom shep-herds guard and an-gels sing:
Nails, spear, shall pierce Him through, The Cross be borne, for me, for you:
Raise, raise the song on high, The Vir-gin sings her lul-la-by:

Haste, haste to bring Him laud, The Babe, the Son of Ma-ry!
Hail, hail the Word made flesh, The Babe, the Son of Ma-ry!
Joy, joy for Christ is born, The Babe, the Son of Ma-ry!

Deck The Halls originated in Wales where the tradition of bringing greenery inside for Christmas was always part of the festivities. The song is now sung all over the world and boughs of holly are shipped from the special places where they do grow to far away places and big cities so that we all may still Deck The Halls.

The Twelve Days of Christmas lie between December 25 and Epiphany, January 6. It was on January 6 that the Three Magi brought gifts to the Christ Child in the manger — the first Christmas gifts. It was common folk belief that on the eve of January 6 animals were given the power to speak.

Away in a manger

This song has often been attributed to Martin Luther, although it is not confirmed that he did write it. But it does come down to us from that era, sung to the tune of a German Folk-song. It has been a favorite all these years of little children everywhere with a tune that is easy to sing and a lullaby message enjoyed by all ages.

It came upon the midnight clear

This is another of our American born carols. A Unitarian minister from Boston, Edmund H. Sears wrote the poem which was later set to music by his friend, Richard S. Willis. The real Christmas message rings out to ages in this beautiful carol written in 1849: "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

Edmund H. Sears      Richard S. Willis

an-gels bend-ing near the earth To touch their harps of gold: — "Peace still their heav'n-ly mus-ic floats O'er all the wear-y world. — A-with the e-er circ-ling years Comes 'round the age of gold — When on the earth, good will to men From Heav'n's all-gra-cious King!" — The bove its sad — and low-ly plains They bend on hov'-ring wing — And peace shall o-ver all the earth Its an-cient splen-dor fling — And

THE HERALD
ANGELS SING

Written in 1730, the words to this song were inspired by the pealing of the church bells on Christmas morning. Charles Wesley was to become one of the most famous protestant hymn writers. However it was not set to music until 1840 when Dr. Cummings of Waltham Abbey fitted it to this tune by Mendelssohn. It was published as such in 1856.

Good King Wenceslas

This is a song about a king who was really a duke. Duke Wenceslas, the Holy, ruler of Bohemia was known widely for his good deeds and kindness to the poor and for his liberality at the Feast of St. Stephen celebrated on December 26. This is another of the carols whose author remains a mystery, but the Duke dates back to the 10th century, so we know at least that the song has been around for centuries.

We Three Kings is an American original. The carol has been with us over one hundred years and has become one of the most well known of all carols. Written in 1857 by John Hopkins. We Three Kings tells the story of The Three Wise Men of the Orient. These are the gifts they brought to the Christ Child, each having its special meaning.

Oh Little Town OF BETHLEHEM

Inspired by his visit to the Holy Land, Phillips Brooks wrote this hymn for his Sunday School Class in 1868. He was rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity in Philadelphia at the time and asked the organist, Lewis Redner to set it to music. Redner says the melody came to him in a dream on Christmas Eve and that he barely had time to finish the music for the services the next day.

Joy to the World

Joy to the World was first sung in England where the father of hymns, Isaac Watts, wrote the words. The music it was originally sung to was written by Edward Hodges. But later, an American musician, Lowell Mason, revamped the old carol and put it to the music here by the composer, Handel. Joy to the World dates back to 1719 when it was first published.

I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day

Written in 1864 by Henry W. Longfellow, these words were later set to this tune by J. Baptiste Calkin. The last four bars come from an old "amen." Samuel Longfellow was better known than his brother as a writer of religious poetry, but this carol, one of the most famous, is attributed to Henry.

Angels, from the Realms of Glory

Angels, from the Realms of Glory dates back to December 24, 1816.
It is attributed to James Montgomery and first appeared in a paper he edited. It was included in one of the Church of England's first hymnbooks and has been widely known in both England and America. It was formerly sung to the tune of an old French carol but is more widely known at present with the music which accompanies it here.

16th Century Melody
Har. by MICHAEL PRATORIUS, 1571-1621

All My Heart This Night Rejoices

EBELING. 8, 3, 3, 6, D.

PAUL GERHARDT, 1656
Tr. CATHERINE WINKWORTH, 1858

JOHANN G. EBELING, 1666

1. All my heart this night re-joice, As I hear,
2. Hark! a voice from yonder man-ger, Soft and sweet,
3. Come, then, let us hasten yonder! Here let all,
4. Thee, dear Lord, with heed I'll cherish; Live to thee,

Far and near, Sweetest an-gel voices; "Christ is born," the choirs are Doth en-treat, "Flee from woe and dan-ger! Breth-ren, come! from all doth Great and small, kneel in awe and won-der! Love him who with love is
And with thee, Dy-ing, shall not per-ish; But shall dwell with thee for sing-ing, Till the air Ev-ry-where Now with joy is ring-ing.

grieve you, You are freed; All you need I will sure-ly give you!"
yearn-ing! Hail the star That from far Bright with hope is burn-ing.
ev-er, Far on high, In the joy That can al-ter nev-er. A-men.

Good Christian Men, Rejoice

Latin; Tr. JOHN MASON NEALE, 1853

Fourteenth Century Melody
Har. by WINFRED DOUGLAS, 1918

1. Good Chris-tian men, re-joice, . . . With heart and soul and voice;
2. Good Chris-tian men, re-joice, . . . With heart and soul and voice;
3. Good Chris-tian men, re-joice, . . . With heart and soul and voice;

Give ye heed to what we say: Je-sus Christ is born to-day;
Now ye hear of end-less bliss; Je-sus Christ was born for this!
Now ye need not fear the grave; Je-sus Christ was born to save!

Ox and ass be-fore him bow, And he is in the man-ger now.
He hath oped the heav'n-ly door, And man is bless-ed ev-er-more.
Calls you one and calls you all, To gain his ev-er-last-ing hall.

Christ is born to-day! . . . Christ is born to-day!
Christ was born for this! . . . Christ was born for this!
Christ was born to save! . . . Christ was born to save!

HOLLY AND THE IVY

The holly was originally the Holy Tree, and this traditional song suggests the importance attached to it at this season. It is supposed to have sprung up for the first time beneath the footsteps of Christ when he first trod the earth.

The Holly and the Ivy

Words traditional

Old French Melody

1. The hol - ly and the i - vy, Now both are full well grown, Of
 2. The hol - ly bears a blos - som, As white as an - y flow'r, And
 3. The hol - ly bears a ber - ry, As red as an - y blood, And
 4. The hol - ly bears a prick - le, As sharp as an - y thorn, And all the trees with - in the wood, The hol - ly bears the crown.

 Ma - ry bore sweet Je - sus Christ, To be our sweet Sa - vior.
 Ma - ry bore sweet Je - sus Christ, To do poor sin - ners good.
 Ma - ry bore sweet Je - sus Christ, On Christ - mas Day in the morn.

O the ris - ing of the sun, The run - ning of the deer, The play - ing of the mer - ry or - gan, Sweet sing - ing in the choir, Sweet sing - ing in the choir.

O Come, All Ye Faithful

O Come, All Ye Faithful was originally sung in Latin and didn't become popular until after the English translation in 1841 by Frederick Oakeley. The music is usually credited to John Reading, an English organist at Winchester during the later half of the 17th century.

English translation by
 Rev. Frederick Oakeley (1802-1880)

Latin Hymn of the 18th Century,
 Attributed to John Reading

1. O come, all ye faith - ful, Joy - ful and tri - um - phant, O
