Leading sheriff personnel frown on vote

Deputy hired for schools

By Marilyn Trumper

Detectives and leading sheriff's department personnel recommended that Independence Township hire more road patrol or an officer for crime investigation, but the board voted 4-2 to hire a part-time deputy for school liaison and crime prevention work.

The $12,000 salary for four months, the rest of the fiscal year, comes from federal revenue sharing transferred from the general fund, and is expected to be split with Springfield Township

The hoard has yet to agree to the cost-sharing plan and whether the new deputy will work road patrol or crime prevention.

Trustees Larence Kozma and Dale Stuart

"I think an officer investigator would be well worth the money," Kozma said, "I talked with Sgt Allen and Capt, Curtis—they agree a school liaison officer is not what this township needs."

Stuart voted "no" for different reasons.

"I can't see spending that kind of money to hire a deputy that—in two to three months when the contract runs out and we have to decide if we'll stay with the sheriff—may not have a lasting effect," he said.

"There's no way we'll know if we're going to have adequate funding on a continuing basis. And I'm not sure we couldn't be better served by hiring a retired police officer or someone with expertise to organize neighborhood watches and talk in the schools."

Supervisor James B. Smith pointed to dwindling police funds as sheriff department contracting fees increase and revenue stays the same.

The police budget this year was supplemented with $60,000 in federal revenue sharing. In addition, Smith said not to discount establishment of a North Oakland Police Force serving northern Oakland County.

"We have absolutely nothing in crime prevention—nothing in the way of that. And we need it," Smith said. "We do have the money to hire a half-deputy. Springfield would equal the cost, and the deputy could help us with public education and establishing citizens watches.

"It would be for the next four months until the contract renewal is up. And," he said, "I would hope the Clarkston Schools would help with the cost if it's feerible."

Deputy Marc Cooper of the sheriff's department E.S.C.A.P.E. program disagreed.

The executive vice president of the volunteer nonprofit program aimed at crime prevention said a phone call is all it takes to get deputies into the schools or out to neighborhoods to organize watches.

Teachers' contract ratified

By Kathy Greenfield

Clarkston school district teachers can expect a 6 percent salary increase for the 1984-85 school year, and in 1984 students will begin school Aug. 29.

The Clarkston board of education ratified the new one-year teachers' contract Monday night. The vote was unanimous.

Next year 79 percent of the district's teachers will be at the top of the pay schedule, according to Conrad Bruce, the district's chief negotiator.

With the pay raises, those with bachelor's degrees will receive $28,259 annually plus benefits and those with master's degrees will be paid $31,785 plus benefits.

The 1984-84 contract settlement is the earliest anyone can remember.

"Since I've been working with it, I think it's a record," said Bruce. "About 1976 we tried expedited bargaining, but that didn't work—that was in June."

In 1981-82, the teachers worked nearly the entire school year without a contract, with a two-year settlement reached in May that included a pay freeze for 1981-82 and a 5.95 percent increase for 1983-84.

Superintendent Milford Mason said the additional cost of $438,372 for raises in 1983-84 for the about 260 teachers would be covered by expected revenues

"I feel this agreement is a good plus for the district," said board member Mary Jane Chaustowich. "I think it takes a lot of pressure off both sides and I think the district should be com-crime prevention, safety, take fingerprints and speak in schools throughout Oakland County—at no charge, Cooper added.

"We're not county funded, we're not a county project—and we don't charge. You don't contract for us," he said.

"In fact, we were out at North Sashabaw Elementary three weeks ago, and we're lining up something right now at Andersonville Elementary."

Should Springfield agree to the cost-sharing and where the deputy will work, Smith said a contract would be hammered out between townships citing what hours would be worked in what capacity, and where.

Det./Sgt. Roger Allen and Capt. James Curtis, were pleased the township hired a deputy in any capacity, but both said a school liaison officer should not be a priority.

Allen, an Independence Township resident, favored hiring a crime investigator.

"He could be out there recovering stolen property, making arrests and performing follow-ups. I'm buried," said Allen, the township's only detective. "A school liaison would be nothing more than a PR man to furnish information to me and others like me in the department.

"He's not a snitch, but basically all information he can give us deals with juvenilles which rarely can we do anything with until they're seniors in high school. They're good with PR to teach kids that cops are not all dirty bastards.

"I'm glad (the township hired another deputy), but I think their money could be better spent."

Rochester pays big for liaison

Currently the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) provides liaison officers to one school district, Rochester Community Schools.

For two years it's contracted two deputies and one officer from the City of Rochester, according to Lt. Gerald Reeves, in charge of the OCSD Community Services Division.

"It's an excellent program," Reeves said. "Having those officers there frees up the officer on road patrol. If someone pulls a knife in school, an officer doesn't have to come in from the road and spend two hours investigating what happened."

Reeves added he couldn't remember when such an incident occurred in the schools.

"But we have had some mysterious bombings and lockers blown up," he said. "And I can tell you we've established a rapport with these kids. People abhor seeing their school torn up. We find out who's repsonsible."

Each liaison officer costs $48,000 a year. During the summer when schools close, the officers go on routine road patrol, Reeves said.

In Rochester, cost is shared equally between the school district, Avon Township and the City of Rochester.

The primary function of a liaison officer is public relations, according to Reeves.

The men work a 40-hour week, and spend time working with discipline boards, offering quasi-legal advice, and talking with the student council and general student body.

In the elementary schools they teach crime prevention and safety, talking about shoplifting, vandalism, good citizenship and bike safety.

Walls balks

By Marilyn Trumper

After last week's police hearing and public outcry for increased protection. Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls shies from committing to paying for half a school liaison deputy to be shared with Independence Township.

On Dec. 8 the Independence Township Board agreed to pay half the part-time deputy's $12,000 salary through this fiscal year for school liaison work and crime prevention.

"The conversations I had with (James B. Smith, Independence Township supervisor) regarding that were prior to our public meeting last week," Walls said. "And it was only one board member's opinion. Our board hasn't discussed it and a lot has happened since then."

According to Walls, approximately 50 people attended the meeting clamoring for more road patrol. In addition township officials received numerous letters and phone calls for the same thing.

"It's very possible from overwhelming comments at last week's meeting would indicate that what we as a township might be looking at is not part time, but in fact, full time," Walls said. "It's worth discussing.

"It would appear to me that (a school liaison officer) would not be (Springfield residents') priority," he said.

CJH assistant principal switches to business

In just over a month, Cecelia Wiar will say good by to her 16-year career in education and move into the business world as vice president in charge of operations for a Troy firm.

By Kathy Greenfield

After working 16 years in the field of education, Cecelia Wiar's shifting careers.

Her resignation from her post as assistant principal at Clarkston Junior High School is effective Jan. 22, at the end of the first semester.

Then she'll be vice president in charge of operations for DeAngelis & Co. of Troy. The firm prints newspaper inserts and other items for bulk mailing.

"My position will be to develop and install operating procedures, staff development, goal setting, expansion of programs," she said.

An Independence Township resident, Wiar, 37, has worked for Clarkston schools seven-and-one-half years. She was principal of Pine Knob Elementary three years, principal of Clarkston Elementary three years and assistant principl of Clarkston Junior High one-and-one-half years.

"Hard" is the word she uses to describe her departure from the world of education.

I know the idea to leave and the need to leave is something I want to do," she said, "(but) education is so heavy in my blood, from the time I thought of a job, from the eighth grade on.'

She'll miss fellow educators and working with children the most.

"I like the kids. I like working with them. I like doing serious things with them. I like having fun with them," she said.

"I really can't let myself think about it too much. It's something I'm going to have to deal with-to adjust to those voids.

Because her job in the business world is a newly created position in a firm just over a year old, she said she'll look forward to freedom and challenges not found in education.

"There are a lot of things public schools cannot provide just by its nature. There's not a lot of risk taking," she said. "Any idea that you come up with tends to get watered down, because you have to take every single person's approach into consideration.

'Right now what I'm looking forward to is a place, a career, a job where some of the limitations aren't there.'

Last summer Wiar worked for DeAngelis & Co. on future development. She got the job when her husband, Robert, was working as a financial consultant for the firm and she was asked to fill the need for an operations consultant.

"They apparently liked my work," she said, "and asked me if I would continue, offered me the vice presidency, and asked me if I would work full time.

"I'm at the age now where, I don't know, if I wait much longer there might not be another opportunity like that.

Work on her doctorate degree in organizational development at Wayne State University is complete except for the thesis, and Wiar has done some consulting work for other school districts.

Her new job will allow her to put ideas to work in a different field.

'For the last few years I've found myself thinking more and more about what is it like in the business sector," she said. "I got an opportunity that a lot of people don't have, so now is the time."

The Wiars' daughter, Ruth, is a ninth-grader at Sashabaw Junior High School, and as a resident in the Clarkston school district Wiar plans to continue her involvement in education.

She'll continue working on the task force formed following "The Chemical People" program on PBS-TV and on the curriculum development committee.

But, according to Superintendent Milford Mason, she'll be missed as a member of the school district's administration.

"I'm very sorry to lose her, absolutely no question about that," he said. "She has been an innovator as an administrator. She has been wholeheartedly involved in many of the efforts involving district target goals and is the kind of person the administration can't really afford to lose.'

Pierson to return

Douglas Pierson will return as assistant principal at Clarkston Junior High School in January, following the resignation of Cecelia Wiar.

One-and-one-half years ago when reductions were made on the school district's administrative staff, Pierson was demoted to a teaching position after four years as CJHS assistant principal.

Since then he's taught industrial arts classes at Clarkston High School, a job he held 12 years before becoming an adminstrator.

Monday night the Clarkston school board voted unanimously to recall Pierson for the administrative position. After the meeting, between handshakes and congratulations from colleagues, Pierson commented on returning to the teaching ranks.

"It was fun. I enjoyed it," he said. "It was a really good experience to deal with kids in a positive way again-you don't get much of a chance to do that as an assistant principal.

"I think it would be good for every administrator to go back in the classroom and find out what's happening," he added. "I found it a very healthy experience.'

Why schools close

By Kathy Greenfield

Monday's school closing brought out the questions: Why close when the main roads are clear? A snowstorm a few days earlier clogged roads, and many other districts closed so why did Clarkston have school then? And, who makes the decision, and how?

When conditions are questionable, two men ride the Clarkston school district's back roads beginning at 4 a.m.-William Dennis, transportation director, and Gary Bliss, transportation supervisor.

They are solely responsible for making the decision, Dennis said.

If school hadn't been closed Monday, Dennis figured about half of the approximately 4,700 out of 6,000 students who ride buses wouldn't have made it

"When I looked at the roads at 4:30 a.m., I could hardly manage my car and I didn't have to start and he said. I figured we would have so many buses stuck getting the high school students in we couldn't have gotten the junior high and elementary kids in a timely manner," he added. "Because of the three trips it really has to mesh very closely."

With snow, the district's 38 buses can travel almost anywhere and the main concern is getting around cars that get stuck. But when you have icy conditions like (Monday), if we don't have traction on a back road there's no way we can stop or start a bus," he said.

Around 60 percent of the district's bus routes are on unpaved roads.

So during the wee hours, Dennis patrols side streets in the eastern and northern sections of the district around the Pine Knob and Sashabaw schools. Bliss heads out to the northern and western sections.

They communicate by radio about 4:30 or 4:45 a.m. "to see what the other person is seeing" and meet at the bus garage in a effort to make the decision by 5:30 a.m., Dennis said.

"It's not based on what happens in other districts," he added. Dennis calls WPON and WXYZ radio stations directly and the Michigan State Police who provide a computer network to other media, including WJR, CKLW and WWJ radio stations.

Unless the closure is announced by 6 p.m., or 12 hours in advance, the bus drivers are paid for the day.

"Very seldom is it possible to do that, because conditions change in 12 hours," Dennis said.

The only exception is during a major snowstorm that begins in the afternoon, and then the Oakland County Road Commission is consulted to see of it expects to clear back roads before the bus runs begin at 6 a.m. There are, at times, reactions to the decisions made by Dennis and Bliss.

"Leget complaints when I don't call off school and everybody has their own opinion—it depends on where they live." Dennis said, "Very seldom do I get complaints when I call off school."

School district's transportation receives boost

Six new diesel school buses and 46 radios are on order to upgrade the Clarkston school district's transportation fleet.

The board of education unanimously approved spending $243,412 for the 72-passenger buses and $26,546 for the radio system Monday night.

Of three bids submitted for the buses, the board accepted the low bid from C&S Motors of Flint. The radios and speakers are to be purchased from Motorola.

Following expected delivery in May or June, the 32-bus fleet will include 12 diesel buses. In addition, there are six special education buses.

The latest purchase is the second of four phases that began two years ago when the district purchased six diesel buses.

The original six were transit style, with flat noses, but the new buses will be traditional style, according to Gary Bliss, transportation supervisor.

While he prefers the flat noses because there is more visibility for drivers, the switch back to the old style was based on cost, Bliss said.

Two years ago, the six transit buses cost about $47,000 each. Now the cost has increased to over $60,000.

Cost of the traditional-style buses is $40,552 each.

"I'd rather they'd been the transit-style, but other than that I'm happy with them," Bliss said. "They're more expensive than I expected."

Members of the Clarkston Education Association (CEA) voted on the contract Nov. 30, said CEA President Allen Bartlett.

About 80 percent of those who attended the meeting were in favor of the one-year contract, he said.

In addition to the raises other changes include: •A $25 raise for major department chairpersons-from $600 to $625.

•A $5 raise for minor department chairpersons (staffs of three or less)—from $135 to $140 a year.

•An increase of $5 a day to $15, when teachers resign, for half the days accumulated in sick-leave

•The addition of soccer to the A-1 extracurricular payment schedule. Last fall the Clarkston Athletic Booster Club paid the soccer coaches.

•Fifty-cent-an-hour pay hikes for members of the

Try to remember the true spirit of Christmas

The word from retailers is that Christmas 1983 is shaping up to be one of the most profitable in recent years. Inflation is down, employment is up and consumers are parting more readily with their holiday shopping dollars.

While we all cheer the sunny economic forecasts, there is something vaguely offensive in the tendency to treat this holiday as an economic pump-primer. At times, Christmas can indeed seem to be little more than a secular orgy of over-spending, over-eating and over-drinking.

Perhaps it is best to pause in the midst of the bacchanal and consider what we are celebrating. St. Luke informs us:

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the ungel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying:

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

These seven verses speak to us across a span of some 2,000 years, serving as a reminder that, whether the cash registers ring or not, Christmas remains a blessed and joyous time of year.

Find time to remember that when picking out dad's new watch, Uncle Fred's tie or Aunt Hilda's French perfume.

Politics as usual...

The National Organization of Women has officially blessed the presidential aspirations of Walter Mondale, the man who for four years played a dashing Tonto to Jimmy Carter's inept Lone Ranger. On the stump, Mondale has continuously blasted the Reagan Administration's economic policies, citing in part the continued high interest rates.

Now, when Walter Mondale talks about high interest rates, I am hushed into reverent silence. The man is obviously an expert on the subject, having served in an administration that saw them soar to over 20 percent.

While we're on the subject, I can't imagine anything more presumptuous and pompous than an organization that claims, in name if not in practice, to speak for ALL American women. The arrogance of the NOW leadership is really incredible.

Governor Blanchard, interviewed following the recall of another one of his favorites, Senator David Serotkin, showed some rare political acumen.

Making a particularly perceptive analysis, he asserted that there are obviously a lot of people out there who feel his 38 percent tax increase was wrong.

He went on to say that he was just going to have to take it upon himself to go to Oakland and Macomb counties and do a better job of educating all the yokels who still doubt his infallibility on state budgetary matters.

Translation: If you happen to differ with James Blanchard on the income tax increase, you aren't just an equal with a different point of view. You're an ignoramus.

The "California example" is getting a bit jaded for over-citation, but the lesson from the West Coast is still clear: It is indeed possible to cut spending dramatically without harming the state's ability to provide basic services. The governor is being intellectually dishonest when he continues to pose the choice in March of 1983 as being between his tax increase and economic ruin.

A Republican friend of mine recently bewailed Lansing's 10 year trend to skimpon funding education—while allowing the social service budget to grow like the "blob" in a cheap sci-fi thriller. He suggested that the solution to reverse the state's poor sense of priorities is the election of more GOP candidates to the legislature.

That's an interesting opinion, for it was under the tenure of Governor William Milliken that the state's spending priorities became skewed against education in favor of elaborate social programs. Bill Milliken, to the best of my knowledge, was not a Democrat.

But he was arguably the worst governor in Michigan history.

All that glitters

Kathy Greenfield

It was lunchtime and several teachers had gathered in the lounge at their school.

One was looking through a magazine, and she found something she had to share.

The thought of eye shadow with glitter built right in for some holiday sparkle made her laugh.

As a kindergarten teacher she glitters through the whole Christmas season, finding the stuff in her clothes and hair long after art projects are completed.

Another kindergarten teacher agreed, joking that she even picks it out of her teeth.

Hmmm

I have always been partial to glitter.

I can even remember at some time during my teen years putting glitter in my hair during the Christmas season—just a little bit to catch the candlelight.

And when my children were tots I always had glitter around to brighten up Christmas art projects.

Once there was much excitement (mine) when I found some glue with glitter mixed in—the sparkle without the mess, right? Wrong.

No matter what I tried, I remember finding it months later still clinging to carpeting or lolling in crevices, but that never thwarted its use.

This, too, must be true for the teachers. They could, after all, just stop using it.

Maybe all that glitters is golden after all.

Coverage heightens community awareness

You are to be commended for your continuous coverage of "The Chemical People" regarding growing student drug abuse.

You are bringing about necessary community awareness that our country's invovlement and utilization of alcohol and other drugs are being passed to our National studies show youth drug abuse has reached epidemic proportion.

It is also recognized that "so go our youth-so goes the country." Community awareness may help to redirect our school policies, our parenting techniques, and may promote the need for community action.

Therefore, I would like to respond to your Nov. 23 article titled: "Boy, 14, leaves school drunk."

The junior high school principal was quoted as saying, "We feel the punishment has to be tough."

Firmness to encourage addicted students to seek treatment is absolutely necessary, however, punishment is not necessary.

Do we punish people when they have allergic reactions? Do we punish diabetics when they do not follow a prescribed diet and have a relapse?

The diabetics may not initially be aware of how to arrest the illness. The same is true for the disease of alcoholism.

The American Medical Association recognized alcoholism as a disease in 1965. Hence, alcoholics are ill and usually do not have the energy or the "knowhow" to obtain special treatment, which is essential for recovery.

Denial is one of the symptoms of alcoholism. Families are also notorious for "covering up" and making excuses for addicted family members.

In addition, parents unintentionally keep youth from getting help by hiding the facts and not facing the reality that they are part of the conspiracy of silence. Parents themselves hurt badly and usually don't know what to do.

Does school policy of expelling students from school encourage parents to "cover up" the truth about the addicted child? Are parents sharing society's attitude that somehow they are to blame?

They certainly are not responsible for a child's addiction and families will need assistance too. Al-Anon, an international organization for families of addicted people, is very successful and is listed in the telephone book of every community.

Consequently, Clarkston community is concerned and becoming aware of an unmet need which will require action.

It has been my experience when organizing, developing and implementing drug prevention programs that each community must go through certain

These phases are:

Phase I—Community people feel mildly interested in the subject. An example is "The Chemical People" film shown at town meetings.

Phase II-Denial that the problem exists in their schools and homes. There will be rationalizations and "skirting" the issue, such as at the town meeting when a person said, "We don't have a problem here. Maybe just one or two kids who are drug abusers." Also expressed was, "If kids know where to buy drugs, why don't we adults know who are selling the drugs?"

Phase III-People will want an evaluation of drug abuse in schools (still hoping results will show it does not exist in their community).

Phase IV—Some will be surprised, others will feel shock when results bear witness to the fact that youth are indeed suffering from hidden addictions.

Phase V—Concerned citizens will come out in force to find a satisfactory solution to drug abuse prevention such as: a)training faculty, counselors and parents in drug abuse prevention methods; b)setting up information and referral systems.

Finally, community awareness will initiate the redirection of school policies and parenting methods, and will promote essential community action.

The five phases which the community experiences in a search for the truth are healthy and will shed light where it is necessary.

The hope and joy in the process is that we are

Touch of home

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the staff of The Clarkston News for keeping me in touch with the place I know as home.

I grew up and spent most of my life in Clarkston.

Upon graduation from CHS in 1982 I enlisted in the Army which took me away from the comfortable life-style I knew in Clarkston.

I was assigned to serve in South Korea and even though I was 8,000 miles from Clarkston I felt that certain home feeling every week when the mail came, and

I saw familiar faces and read familiar names in The Clarkston News.

I will be completing my tour of Korea this January and I have been reassigned to Ft. Riley, Kan.

This is a lot closer to home, but I will still look forward to getting my home paper and keeping in touch with that place that will always be home.

I will be home for the month of January before going to Ft. Riley.

Thanks again for such a fine service of providing the news. I personally wish the entire staff the happiest of holidays.

From cabbage to beer

I overheard my wife and daughter complaining that they were unable to find the doll they wanted to give two-year-old Emily for Christmas. I assumed they were talking about the Cabbage Patch doll that has lately pushed Lebanon and space shuttle Columbia off front pages nationwide.

My wife was angry because the doll was advertison TV but no store had it in stock. She said that never happened with beer, so why did it have to happen with something for little kids? That brand of logic is common to my wife. She says it is OK for her to run up $150-per-month phone bills because she doesn't drink. For the same reason, she says, it is wrong for party stores to have a large supply of well-advertised beer if toy stores don't have (Q all the toys advertised on TV.

If you ask for an explanation of her logic, she will explain that her husband never uses the phone or buys dolls. And you will be expected to understand, A

My daughter was angry because a JCPenney store had promised that 200 of the dolls would be available the next day, but they were all sold two minutes after the store opened—four hours before she phoned the store to see if the dolls had arrived as scheduled.

OBVIOUSLY, if she wanted the doll so badly, my daughter should have been at the JCPenney store before it opened. But I didn't tell her that for fear she'd tell me I never had to wait outside a closed party store to buy beer. I don't mind seeing my wife in my daughters, but I don't want to hear her there.

Attempting to be helpful, I asked the two women if they were aware that, according to Dan Rather, the New York Times and all the ships at sea, this wartorn, economically wracked world was currently suffering the worst blow of all—it was running out of Cabbage Patch dolls.

"That's not the doll we want," my wife said. "We want the Glow Worm doll."

A worm? For my granddaughter? Why? The Glow Worm never shoved Lebanon and space shuttle Columbia off the nation's front pages. I never even heard of it.

"It lights up when you squeeze it;" my daughter said.

Well, that's nice, of course. Come to think of it, it's a lot more than my touch lamp from Sears will do. Since I started writing about that allegedly frigid lamp, in fact, it not only refuses to respond to my touch, it has started causing static on my radio. Honest to God.

THE ONLY TIME I listen to the radio is when it wakes me with music in the morning. However, the last few mornings it has awakened me with screechy static that causes my toes to gasp for air. At first, I blamed atmospheric conditions. But when my wife noticed the touch lamp in the family room was turning itself on and off, and every time it went on, the

Jim Fitzgerald

It is no fun to own a touch lamp that won't respond to my touch, but prefers to turn itself on, and causes spiteful static. Some of the boys in the saloon say I should pull the lamp's plug, but that seems too harsh for this early in our relationship. First I'm going to try blowing into its shade while very slowly loosening its bulb...

But I digress. It's keen that the Glow Worm can be turned on, but it can't be adopted. That's what made Cabbage Patch dolls nationally famous. They can't be simply bought. Adoption papers must be filled out and approved. If Emily gets a Glow Worm instead of a Cabbage Patch doll for Christmas, people, will think her family was found unsuitable by Toys R

Worse yet, they'll think we don't love Emily enough to give her the doll absolutely everyone has wanted ever since the news media announced absolutely everyone wanted it.

"I don't care" my wife said.
Why?

Because you never had to adopt a bottle of beer;"she explained. Certainly.

Students sing in holiday with new costumes

By Kathy Greenfield

Looking sharp in their brand new jackets, bow ties and shirt ruffles, the male members of the Clarkston High School Madrigal Singers and the Fortissimo's are greeting the holiday season in song.

The clothing for the 20 singers was purchased with $2,000 raised last year in a cheese and sausage

It's the beginning of uniform costuming for all vocal music students, according to department director Grayce Warren.

Her students are in the midst of their busiest season with numerous holiday singing engagements.

It's hard work and it's time-consuming, but the idea is to experience the spirit of the season, she said.

'I do it basically to instill into young people the idea of sharing their talents to beautify the Christmas season," she said. "It's only through sharing that they learn the true meaning, rather than worry about what they're getting.'

Earlier this month members of the Madrigal Singers, Fortissimo's, Choralaires, Varsity Choir and/or Mixed Chorus sang at a restaurant at Keatington Village, performed in the play "The Fantasticks" at CHS, were at the foster care Christmas program at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Maybee Road, sang at the Somerset Mall, appeared at the Clarkston Rotary Club's Christmas party, and joined CHS student government members at a party at Lourde's Nursing Home in Waterford.

On Dec. 16 some will sing for senior citizens at the First United Methodist Church in Pontiac, on Dec. 17 they'll perform at the Oakland County Infirmary and on Dec. 18 they'll be at the E.F. Hutton Co. Christmas reception in Clarkston.

They wrap up the season with the annual Christmas Concert in the CHS Little Theatre on Tuesday, Dec. 20.

Beginning at 8 p.m. their voices will bring forth holiday music from around the world and they'll sing traditional Christmas carols.

There'll be one-and-one-half to two hours of nonstop music, followed by a reception for the entire audience and the performers.

Thumbs up for complex plan

The Independence Township Planning Commission has unanimously recommended the township board approve rezoning for Ronald Helin's proposed 48,000-square-foot retail/office complex.

The C-2 zoned development is proposed for the abandoned Texaco Service Station site on M-15, north of Clarkston.

Helin, of W. H. Investments Inc., West Bloomfield, could not be reached for comment.

The commission made the recommendation Dec. 8, said Chairman Neil Wallace.

The plan goes next to the Oakland County Planning Commission, then to the township board for final approval, he said.

The land is currently zoned for gas stations and motels.

When the proposal was first discussed in November, Independence officials considered the project's development under a PUD (Planned Unit Development) and briefly explored the issue.

A PUD ordinance would allow the township to closely supervise and restrict a development with several types of zoning uses on the same parcel.

PUD scrutinized

Independence Township continues to pursue adoption of a PUD ordinance for Planned Unit Developments.

The ordinance would allow the township to supervise and restrict developments with several types of zoning uses on the same parcel.

The Independence Township Planning Commission has scheduled a public hearing on the matter Jan. 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Board explores tree poaching

Stop massacre before it's too late, say residents

By Marilyn Trumper

An attempt to fell a 100-foot-tall tulip tree Halloween weekend spurred the Independence Township Board to investigate adoption of a tree poaching ordinance that would outlaw similar acts.

The person cut the tree without written permission from the Deer Lake Farms property owner. It crushed three cars in an adjacent driveway.

"We've had numerous complaints of property damage, trees removed without permission, loss of healthy, mature trees. I know they've cut trees on the rear of my property on Allen Road, without authorization," said Supervisor James B. Smith at the Dec. 8 board meeting.

"And we've had them cutting on the 80 acres we just bought and the 40 acres we have an option on," he said, referring to the township's recent acquisition from the Edward C. Levy Co., land adjacent to Clintonwood Park.

"I think something should be done."

Terry Evans of Deerhill Drive agreed.

"Those were my cars," he told the board. "He also cut healthy, 10-inch oaks. I don't think that's right—that trees should be cleared indiscriminately, particularly our good oak trees. And it's going to happen more and more as the price of wood goes up."

Betty Wagner of Deer Park Trial also agreed.

"Many of us are saddened with the loss of our landmark tree," she told the board. "And we're concerned about the continuation of this happening."

Evans and Wagner called for an ordinance that would protect trees and preserve the property values of surrounding properties affected by what happens to adjacent lots.

Trustee Larence Koama disagreed.

"Number one, you can't stop a builder from removing trees on his property. You can't stop the owner from doing that I don't think. And number two, unauthorized tree removal is already a four- or five-year state felony. All we could do is adopt a 90-day misdeameanor. We'd be authorizing (the attorney) to do something we already have in force," he said

"But I don't oppose attempting to get them to stop cutting trees unless they've got insurance, or written permission from the property owner.

"That way," Kozma said, "a (sheriff's deputy) can stope them. But to (adopt a 90-day misdeameanor) would be useless and fruitless."

Trustee Dale Stuart called it a "...ticklish issue."

"It's the right of an individual to use property as he sees fit. On the other hand, we have a real interest in protecting the resources of the township," he said. "Once the 100-year-old tulip tree is gone, nothing can be done."

Trustee Daniel Travis proposed the attorney investigate designating scenic easements to protect trees along lake shores.

After discussion, the board agreed to have the attorney review the laws.

Election deadline

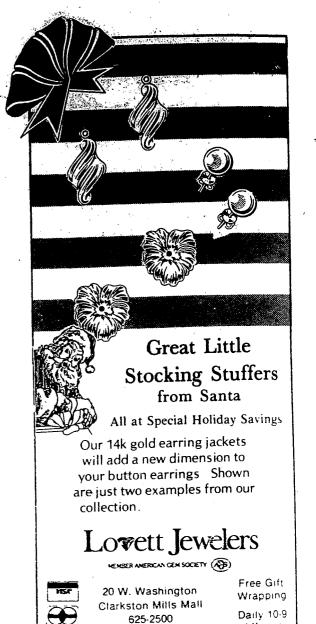

Candidates for the Clarkston Village Council have until Tuesday, Dec. 20, to file 14-signature petitions.

The part-time offices of president, clerk, treasurer and three trustee seats are up for election.

Deadline for filing is 4 p.m. The petitions may be dropped off at Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot. Clarkston.

The general election is scheduled March 20. If a primary is required for contests between members of the same political parties, it is to be held in February.

A Special View

of the First Christmas Day

By Ross Rosenthal 7th Grade

On Christmas Day all through the house not a creature was stirring, except me, and I'm not a mouse.

The reason I was stirring was to sneak a peek at some presents. When I was taping up the rips, I was startled by a noise.

Slowly I turned around and to my surprise I saw not Santa, or my mom or dad, but a glowing staff. Immediately, I walked over and took it.

The next moment, I found myself flying through a tunnel of different colors. When I landed, I found myself in a town.

I started walking around and I saw a dim light in a stable. I walked over and I found a wooden cradle with a crowd of people around it.

Suddenly, a golden crown appeared in my hand and I found I was wearing a white cloak. It was then that I walked up to the cradle and saw the baby.

I gave his mother the crown and noticed I was witnessing the birth of Christ.

Then I heard a voice behind me. I turned around and the voice said, "You must go back to your own time now."

Once again I found myself flying through a tunnel of different colors. The next morning I found myself in bed.

I think I'll do the same thing next year and, maybe, if I'm lucky it will happen again.

Quoth the Old Lady ...

By Bob Harrison 9th Grade

Once upon an evening dreary,
half awake and eyesight bleary.
While I saw The Clarkston News
lying there outside her door,
As I stood there stretching, yawning,
Wond'ring what inside was spawning,
Then came a figure as of sprawling through the hallway as to war;
"Oh my God," I said to myself, "who runs as if she's off to war"
"Just a loony, nothing more."

I could see her wrinkles clearly,
and her old white hair nearly,
Poking right through her wrinkled bald head and the scarf on her head she wore;
Deeper breaths she now was taking,
And from grunts she now was making,
I felt sure she must be aching from accomplishing this simple chore;
"Does your body ache," I asked, "each time that you perform this chore?
Quoth the Old Lady, "Ev'ry pore!"

Round the corner she now was veering, fists clenched shut and eyes glearing. Battered, scarred, and pleading in a state most people would deplore; Ev'ry garment she was wearing. Now was either ripped or tearing; Furthermore her legs were bearing signs of scratchmarks by the score; "What on earth, "I asked has caused these signs of scratchmarks by the score?" Quoth the Old Lady, "Cats galore!"

Suddenly, it started raining,
She invited me in without complaining,
Li went inside and wonder d
what she had in store;
Drenched with rain, I soon was dripping

And sometimes I lost my gripping,
Causing me to wind up slipping
in her hallway, bruised and sore;
"Get up!" she pleaded, as I
lay there bruised and sore;
Quoth the Old Lady, "Get off the floor!"

On and on she-did continue straining every bone and sinew,

Talking on and on again
until listening was a bore;
"Hey," I asked her, "aren't you done now?
"Surely this can't be much fun now;
"Two hours or more you've talked now
Since I've been here keeping score;
"Isn't that enough?" I uttered,
As I stood there keeping score;
Quoth the Old Lady, "Just one minute more!"

Then it was that I did see there just how old she seemed to be there Ancient was her weathered face with wrinkles I could not ignore;
Years of sitting so insanely
Made her look much older, plainly,
Than her age, which I felt mainly must be eighty-five or more;
"What's your age?" I asked expecting she'd say eighty-five or more;
Quoth the Old Lady, "Fifty-four!"

Then at once; the raining stopped, then right out of my chair I hopped; I said that I must leave now so I said to her good bye; I started to head for the door.

As she got up I could tell she was sore; From a seund that of a roar that said, "Wait a minute guy; "Why did you come here?" she said, as she waved good bye; Quoth myself, "Merry Christmas from Clarkston Junior High!"

Besides being the last day it is also time to judge the decorated doors. All of the doors were decorated by the first hour in the room.

All of the doors have different scenes. My favorite is the one that makes you imagine yourself outside looking in a window. You see a family around a tree laughing and opening presents. Some other good ones are doors that have either a gigantic Santa or snowman on them.

At the end of the day when the bell rings the students race out the door yelling good bye to everyone, and we would like to wish you a "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year." from CJHS!

'Herbie didn't.'

'Yes. Herbie. Who would have thought he would go on to be the oral hygiene expert at the White House? Mama, that means Herbie used the same instruments to cap my teeth that he used on Ronald Reagan's!"

"Santa, calm down! Your ulcer."

"Yes Mama. The robots are more efficient than the elves anyway. Oh how I do miss the reindeer. I can't really blame them for renting a condo in

Now, with the feeling of power, Mother walked casually to the family room couch, sat down and said, "I suppose that if someone gets me a cold Pepsi I'll tell you what it is.'

Todd was gone and back in a flash with two. glasses of pop. The other one he drank himself, naturally.

"So tell us Ma," the boys shouted simultaneous-

"Well, ya know how you boys have been wanting to ski this year," she said casually.

"Ya, ya, ya!"

"I think the two of you are old enough to Uncle Willie's for Christmas and go skiing down those slick slopes of Colorado!"

It took a minute or so for this incredible trip to sink into the boys' minds, but after that they went dancing through the house singing "Mom is the

Mom explained that they would leave on Dec. 19 and stay there for 10 days. The two boys would stay with Uncle Willie and Aunt Jenny during that time.

When they got back their family would have a big Christmas-New Year's celebration. Mom told the boys a few minor details and then delivered the all-famous mother line, "Remember to always say thank you."

Sooner than they had imagined the 19th rolled around and Scott and Todd were on board the airplane fighting for the window seats

"I can't wait to get there," said Todd. "This is great."

Scott replied, "Ya, I hope you can stay up with me once we hit the slopes.'

"You'll be the only one who hits the slopes. I'll be schussing down them.'

At about 2 o'clock in the afternoon the DC-10 arrived in Denver and Scott and Todd got off the plane and immediately met their aunt and uncle. (You can't miss Uncle Willie.)

Everyone said their hellos and there was a lot of excitement in the air. It was an hour drive so they did a lot of catching up.

Once they arrived at their house Todd and Scott unpacked and Aunt Jenny showed them around. She explained to them that any time they wanted to go skiing she would drive them to Pine Mountain.

Well a few days passed of skiing, sight-seeing and messing around in the house. They were all having the time of their lives, until Dec. 24.

Todd and Scott were skiing sort of late on Christmas Eve. They were having a wild time and to even make it more exciting they decided to try a slope that was forbidden to skiers.

This slope was full of trees and ended in a really thick forest. They decided to ski down this slope, walk around the bottom until they got to the lodge, and call Uncle Willie.

Wush! Down they went. Scott followed Todd down the slope at breakneck speed. In fact, they got going too fast. They were nearing the forest and getting scared.

When they each tried to stop, they unfortunately hit an ice patch and slid deep into the forest until you heard two sharp, teeth-clenching bands-suddenly there was dead silence.

Then a feeble "Todd."

'Scott, thank goodness you're still alive," replied Todd.

"Todd, my ankle hurts. I think I might have sprained it.

"You're not alone buddy. My leg has got to be broken," said Todd.

Scott got up and hopped toward his brother. "Don't move. I'm comin'!"

Once they were together they suddenly realized that it was almost dark, they were alone in a forest, and thre could do nothing but sit and wait for help.

This hit Todd and he was scared. Scott, who was a little more sensible, said, "Don't lose your cool. I'll build us a fire. You still have those matches, don't "Ya," replied Todd half-heartedly. "We're doomed anyway."

Soon a fire, crackling with new hope, was built. Todd was still disgusted. He said, "Some Christmas this is turning out to be. How unlucky can you get?"

Scott hobbled up and said, "Listen, Todd, this is the best Christmas ever. We skiled down a hill like maniacs into the heart of a forest and we are still alive. Not only that, but we are together. We will be rescued soon. You can bet on that."

"Ya," replied Todd with a smile. "We will."

Getting Into the Christmas Spirit

By Michelle Pettit 9th Grade

As I was walking down the dark streets alone. I thought, "What does Christmas really mean?" I looked up at the stars that shone. And thought of all I'd seen.

Throught the whole rustling, bustling Christmas

People were running around here and there. Pushing and shoving each other without reason. Buying cheap gifts without care.

Children running to tell Santa their favorite dreams, Stores' decorated windows shining bright. Reople rushing around all the time it seems, Decorating trees with delight.

Parents buying the most to spoil each kid. Baking and cooking to prepare for the feast. Everyone about ready to blow their lid. With all the tension or excitement, at least.

But one small boy I met on the street. Wasn't doing any of these things at all. His family was too poor for even one Christmas treat, Yet, they still had quite a ball.

The family still celebrated this Christmas time. With just thanking the Lord from above. Even though they hadn't even a dime.

They could be happy with just their love.

Then an old man sitting alone by a tree, Waved me to come over by his side. He put his hand on top of my knee, And with the look in his eye, I could have cried.

He told me of the day when Christ was born, Of the shepherds, angels, and kings. He told me of the most glorious morn', When the world had a reason to sing.

He told me about the little drummer boy, And of the animals by his side. He told of the stable with great joy. And all the holy ones inside.

A special feeling overcame me there as I knelt, As a tear trickled out of my eye. As I left the smiling man, I felt So good deep down inside.

On Christmas Eve as I lay in bed. I knew what it was all about. All that had happened ran around in my head. And all of a sudden I wanted to shout.

Christmas wasn't buying with a push and a shove, Yes, now I clearly could hear it. The true meaning of Christmas is Christ and love. Then I really felt the Christmas spirit

Modernized Night Before Christmas

By Julie Hewelt 9th Grade

It was Christmas Eve And all 'round the house Everyone was snoring, Even the mouse.

The socks were all drying: On the floor by the heat. Hoping Saint Nicholas, Would stuff their feet.

The kid was a tossin'. An' turnin' in bed, With visions of Santa, Beating his head.

And mother in her nightgown, And me in my drawers. Had just hopped in bed, For a couple of snores.

Then out in the driveway. I heard a clumpety clack. And Santa jumped out, Of a new Cadillac.

All the reindeer are dead, And the sleigh is broken, So he's got a car. And man, I ain't jokin'.

He pulled out his bag, Which was filled with computers, Gave one to me, My wife and son, Pewter.

He went to the kitchen, And ate his fill, Walked to the table, And left us our bill.

Too Much to Ask

By Amy Travis 9th Grade

You may not feel it's much to ask For a bicycle or a camera But for some kids it's quite a task Because they are too poor for such luxuries.

You may not feel it's much to ask To live with your family, in a big house But for some kids it's quite a task They have no money to pay for a house.

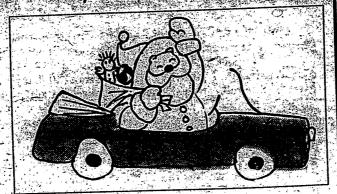

You may not feel it's much to ask To eat a big meal of turkey or ham But for some kids it's quite a task They will be lucky to have bread and jam

You may not feel it's much to ask To have a Christmas that is Metry But for some kids it's quite a task A little love is all they need to be Merry

AT THE REAL PROPERTY. exellections on

Early one long ago morn, In a manger a babe was born. Jesus Christ was the name of this child He was to lead the meek and mild 2,000 years later we still celebrate his birth, With anticipation, joy and mirth. Somehow I m afraid we've gotten away From the meaning of that Christmas Day We've let commercialism dim that light Spread over the earth as a blight. Bring peace to the world was his plan Let it not be destroyed by man. Instead let us reflect about things pasti Then maybe at long last,. We can understand and be able; To know the meaning of that stable:

He walked out the door, And I heard him say. "Thanks for the food; Don't forget to pay."

Now you all know. Presents aren't free, There's always someone, Paying your fee.

That Time of Year

By Laura Manser 9th Grade

Christmas... Children sledding, skating, sliding Their laughter rings Like church bells.

Christmas... The giving of presents To the ones we love Receiving some too.

Christmas... The sweet smells-coming From the kitchen-it's Delicious holiday food.

Christmas... A jolly old man in red Giving presents to All deserving people.

Christmas... The snow falls to the ground Causing a glaring white A strange beauty.

Christmas... That's what it's all about But don't forget its origin-A birthday celebration.

Christmas is .

By Julie Johnston 9th Grade

Service Con 30.00 Christmas is a great time of year with the tree and Santa and all:

With all the gifts we like to give, and especially receive, that's not really what Christmas is supposed to be about.

It isn't bright lights and big feasts, but Jesus birthiday. Yes that's why we celebrate Christmas, forwhen lesus was born, not to get toys or whatever-

The first Christmas was in a cold manger and not too many people knew about it. Gifts are given to symbolize the gifts the three Wise Men gave the newborn baby Jesus.

I know most people ≥do realize that's what Christmas is for: and receiving gifts, doing the tree and all that other stuff we do at Christmas time is

But I think we should stop and take time out to really think about what the whole world celebrates Christmas for:

Christmas Past

By Lauren Carlson 9th Grade

The night is promising overcast As I remember the days of Christmases past Searching through the dusty picture books of mine. I think of all the good times I had at Christmas time. Caroling through the snow Sleigh rides at the farm, Tumbling in the snowdrifts, Doing us no harm. Coming down at 6:00 a.m. To find the glistening tree, Buried under presents: Mostly all for me. The shreds of Christmas wrappings, Thrown and strewn around, As I find the presents My parents bought downtown. And then a trip to grandma's house, For a festive feast. With two or more big helpings We'd stuff in at very least. Then we'd gather 'round the piano, To sing a song of cheer, Loud enough for everyone To hear from far or near. With that, our spirits flew as high, As Gabriel on her lofty seat In the starry heavens, Not measured by mere feet. But by that time twas very late, We'd all let out a sigh, For that sad old time had come, To say all of our good byes. And now I must too say good bye, My memory has fizzled out, I cannot remember Christmas anymore, Or what it's all about. So as I close my picture book, I hope you all can see, Treasure Christmas now.

It'll last for an eternity.

Christmas ABCs

By Kellee Duty 7th Grade

A is for the angels we are all supposed to be. B is for the broken bulbs the kids knocked off the tree.

C is for the carolers that sing right at our door, D is for the decorations that fall upon the floor.

E is for the eggnog our mom always makes us drink. It is for the friendships that sometimes tend to

G is for the giving that we oh so hate to do. H is for the hoping that I'll get more presents than you:

I is for the lectes that freeze us half to death. I is for the joy we feel that makes us out of breath

K is for kindness we sometimes hate to show L is for the love that is hidden in our little toe.

is for the nagging thought of how much it's abused O is for the ornaments that the children hang upside down Pis for the presents that are hidden all

Q is:for the questions that in our minds seem to roam. R is for the rhyming of this really dumb old Sistor Santa Claus so jolly and so fat. This for the tree that he knocks over flat.

U is for the union of the families far apart. V is for the visitors that very soon depart.

W is for the wishing that this season will soon end. X is for the x-rays of broken bones that will

Y is for the jummy treats we greedily will take Z is for the zip codes on those special cards we make

Well now I'm finished and I'll fell you only one time. I hope you enjoyed the positive views of this Christmas thyme

There Really is a Santa Claus

By Jenny Robbins 9th Grade

Why do all the kids laugh at me when I tell them Santa Claus will soon be here?

I can take it when they call me a small mischievous little kid, but making fun of me over Santa Claus, I can't take that!

You have to realize I'm a second-grader named Johnny Brooks and I idolize Santa Claus.

All the older kids tell me there is no such thing as Santa Claus, but I know that's not true.

My mom and dad have told me there is a Santa Cluas ever since I was three, and I know that has to be true, but just to make sure I'll talk about it more tonight with my mom and dad.

I knew when I got home my parents would cheer

The talk with my parents turned out to be very disappointing. They told me I was now old enough to accept that there was no such thing as Santa Claus.

No way! There is a Santa Claus and I was going to prove it! The next night was Christmas and I was going to stay up and wait for Santa.

That day I kept quiet so I wouldn't let out what I was planning to do and ruin my little scheme.

That night I kissed my parents good night and went straight to my room. I waited two hours for my mom and dad to go to bed and then they finally went up to their room.

Christmas is Giving

By Dawn Kosinski 7th Grade

WE celebrate Christmas because that was the day Jesus was born. Christmas is sharing and giving with people you love and care for. Christmas is not just for receiving gifts but giving gifts too. So when Christmas comes give love to people whom you care for, and show them that you care cause Christmas only comes once à

A Christmas Deeling

By Ruth Webb

Christmas is a feeling It's great tides of joy, It's church bells pealing, It's a child's favorite toy.

Christmas is a blessing, It's hope and a wish. It's a big turkey and dressing On mom's good china dish.

Christmas is a song, Everyone loves to sing. It's an old-time sing-along. With our old friend Bing.

The Two Wise Men of Christmas

By Mark Colwell 8th Grade

Now we all know about Santa Claus We think of him when it's time to deck the halls You can go see him at all local malls Little kids think he's the greatest of all He is always jolly, amusing and gay He makes some of us wish Christmas was every day But after all our happiness and laughter goes away Who should we really think about this holiday? On this day came a great man To kill Him was some people's plan But from the day He was born. There were others who couldn't be torn For this man was lesus Christ

Quietly, I tiptoed out of my room and sat by the Christmas tree waiting for Santa. I was so excited!

As the clock struck 12:30, I let out a sigh of discouragement. I guess the kids at school and my parents were right. I guess there really wasn't a Santa

As I walked back up to my room, a small teardrop rolled down my cheek. I guess Santa Claus was just another fairy tale. I got in bed and fell right asleep.

I woke up during the night to a loud ringing sound outside my window. I looked out the window and just stood there in amazement.

Was that really Santa Claus I saw outside my window?

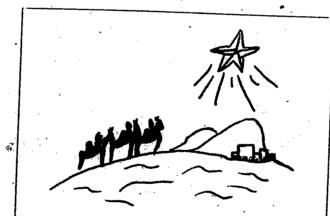

I ran downstairs and there sat a stack of presents under the tree. Sure enough Santa Claus had been to my house.

I may just be a small mischievous little secondgrader, but at least I know there really is a Santa Claus and I know that old St. Nick isn't just another fairy tale.

Christmas Season

By Matt Jensen 9th Grade

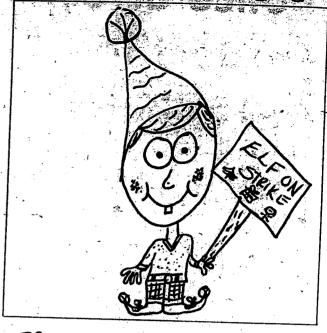

To many folks, winter is pleasin', Ice on country ponds that's freezin'; White snow that from the sky is falling, Happy sounds of Christmas calling. While the flakes are falling lighter, Cheery lights are glowing brighter; Snow that piles in a drift, Reminders of a wind that's swift. Then as the night begins to leave, All are ready for Christmas Eve; And the evergreen tree does spirits lift, Because underneath are many a gift. Then up on the roof comes the sound of paws, Only to be followed by Santa Claus; And wouldn't you know it, the very next day, All of the children are back out to play.

Snowy Christmas Eve

By Sandy Lovelady 9th Grade

Last year on Christmas Eve. A snowy one, I believe. Was full of fun and real good times With carols and carolers singing to chimes. We all sat in front of the fire, Opening gifts for all to admire. When all of a sudden with a crash bang Down came Santa Claus and we all sang. 'Santa come here!" 'Santa, oh dear, oh dear." "Look at this; look at that." "Look at my new skiing hat." "Just a minute;" he did say, With a big Christmas grin all rosy and gay. "I have one special present: "; And it's not a pheasant Not a cat, a bird, or a guppie, But a happy little puppy With floppy ears and little brown nose. When I saw it I froze. Then with a clatter, clatter, neigh Off when Santa in his sleigh With Rudolph in the head We all their cleaned up and went to bed

Elves Go on Strike

By Mary Ellen Unsworth 9th Grade

Christmas was nearing, and the elves had decided they didn't get enough "fringe benefits," so they decided to go on strike.

When Santa received the news, he didn't like it one bit. He couldn't understand why the elves would want to go on strike. And if they did, there wouldn't be any toys for the kids on Christmas morning.

The elves were very nervous the next day because Santa was going to hold a meeting concerning all of the elves going on strike, and all of the elves were ordered to attend.

"Order please," cried Santa. "Order!"

A sudden hush came over the elves.

"I would like to know what is going on here!" exclaimed Santa.

One of the elves named Melvin raised his hand. "Yes, Melvin," said Santa.

"On behalf of all of the elves, I would like to say that we don't get enough vacations or medical benefits." he said.

"That's funny," said Santa. "You never complained about this before. You should've called it to my attention sooner."

"We were afraid you wouldn't listen," exclaimed

"Never be afraid to ask me anything," said Santa, "for I am your friend and I will always be here to listen."

"Three cheers for Santa!" yelled the elves. "Hip, hip hooray! Hip, hip hooray! Hip, hip hooray!" shouted the elves.

And so, Santa gave the elves their vacations and, most important, their medical benefits. After all, have you ever heard of a sick elf?

The True Christmas

By Matt Mellen 7th Grade

Christmas does not need to be Santa Claus and stockings on mantels, Christmas candy and turkey for a feast, Presents of clothes and stere White snow and reindeer, And a time to get away from school It's a time to celebrate a special birthday, to give and not to receive. Also to show your Christmas spirit,

HAYE A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND CANERY HAPPY NEW YEAR (474 7 2)

Police arrest suspect for M-15 thefts

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies and Troy police arrested a Waterford Township man in connection with two armed robberies at the Clarkston Cleaners on M-15 in Independence Township.

Police say the man is a suspect in the holdups of 19 cleaners throughout the county.

His name is being witheld pending arraignment expected sometime this week, according to Det./Sgt. Roger Allen of the OCSD.

At 8:25 a.m. Dec. 8 a man wielding a knife robbed the clerk at the Clarkston Cleaners. There was no money in the register. No one was injured.

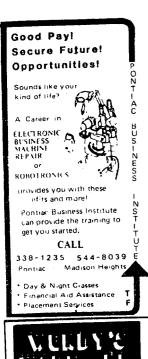

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., Dec. 14, 1983 15

Minutes later a cleaners at Baldwin and Waldon roads, Orion Township, was robbed of $100.

Later that afternoon Troy police and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department spotted a vehicle that matched the getaway car's description.

Following a high-speed chase on Rochester Road, the suspect lost control of his car and hit a building. He was transported to William Beaumont Hospital, Troy, for injuries sustained in the crash.

The Clarkston Cleaners was first robbed Nov. 25 No one was injured. Allen said.

64-40 victory over OLSM

Wolverines win with height

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Clarkston Junior High basketball team can be summarized in one word, tall.

The Wolverines opened their season at home Dec. 8 with a convincing 64-40 victory over Orchard Lake St. Mary's.

The reason for the whopping margin was height. St. Mary's tallest player is 6-1. Clarkston has seven players at that mark or above, with Dan Jokisch, 6-5, at the top of the list.

"That will be our key," said coach Dave Smith. "With our size, our strong suit will be rebounds. If we don't control the boards with our size and strength, I don't know what to do.'

"If we don't control the boards with our size and strength, I don't know what to do."

—Dave Smith

The Wolverines hauled in over 40 rebounds during the game. The totals were spread out over the team. Mike Norman pulled in the most with 11.

Jokisch was high-scorer with 18. Craig Chamberlain followed with 14. Steve Secatch and Norman each had 10.

"(Rob) Ronk also played a great game," Smith said. "He came in and handled the ball well and drove to the bucket. He was the only one to do that. He scored six in the fourth quarter.'

Smith said he is trying to install a running game

"The small gym is hurting us, but we can't wait to get on a big floor," he said. "The big guys love to move, too. They proved that in the game. They all want to run.' The Wolverines shot a hot 47 percent from the floor, mostly on inside lay-ups.

'We don't want to rely on our outside shooting," the coach said. "We'll try to work the ball inside and try to force mistakes—there are always a lot in junior high basketball.

"This game was a confidence builder," he added. "Everybody got into the game and I could see how they played. We have the potential to improve on last season (5-13). The kids are working hard and they know we can be good.'

Dan Jokisch rises above teammates and opponents to score two of his 18 points against Orchard Lake St. Mary's Dec. 8. Clarkston Junior High wins the game, 64-40.

Clarkston Wrestling Club looks to 1984

By Dan Vandenhemel

Young wrestlers, get ready for the 1984 season. The Clarkston Wolves Wrestling Club will be looking for wrestlers from the ages of 5 to 14 to help

This is the fifth year for the club started by fill the club. Duane Stuk and Al Lawrence. Lawrence, last year's president, brought up the idea of a seven-member board to run the club instead of the president, vice president form.

"Last year a lot of the responsibility fell on the officers' shoulders," he said. "This way it will be spread out more and we will be able to help the head coach

Craig DeLowe is the coach, and the seven-member board, once elected, will act as assistant coaches.

"During tournaments last year, with all the kids there, it was hectic for the coach," Lawrence said.

In 1982 the club had 32 wrestlers divided into the four age groups, 5- to 8-year-olds, 9- and 10-yearolds, 11- and 12-year-olds, and 13- and 14-year-olds. Each division is also broken down into weight classes.

"We wrestle freestyle which is different from what the high school wrestles," Lawrence said. "They wrestle collegiate. Freestyle is much more aggressive. We're teaching the kids the fundamentals of the sport, plus to be aggressive for high school."

The club is a member of the Southeastern Michigan Age Group Wrestling Association and the Mid-Michigan Wrestling Association.

The season starts Feb. 4 and ends with the state championship April 7.

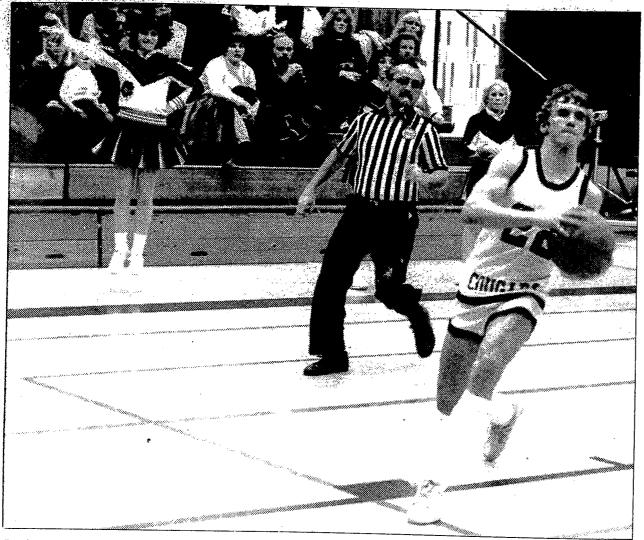

There are tournaments each weekend and, this year, the club will host its first on March 24 at Sashabaw Junior High.

"We're looking forward to the tournament," Lawrence said. "There should be about 500 kids there. That takes a lot of workers."

The club has all volunteer workers and Lawrence said they are always looking for more helpers and wrestlers. Registration day is Jan. 4 at Sashabaw Junior High at 6 p.m. The fee is $20 per wrestler. For more information call Al Lawrence at 625-3267.

Sashabaw's 1st triumph sweet

Charging toward the basket for an easy two points is Sashabaw's Jeff Billig. The Cougars notch their first victory of the season as they edge Holly, 38-35, Dec. 8.

Coach Wayne Thompson is going to remember the second basketball game of the season for Sashabaw Junior High.

The 38-35 victory over Holly Dec. 8 was the first win of the year for the Cougars and the first win as a coach for Thompson.

Sashabaw lost its opening game against Mason Dec. 6, 64-54.

Thompson, 25, is a 1976 graduate of Clarkston

"The win was great, just super," he said. "After we lost the the first game, we wanted to win one before the Christmas break. It'll help carry the momentum during the practices."

Keith Mercier led the scoring for the Cougars with 17 points and Scott Harvey was next with nine.

The Cougars controlled most of the game against Holly with the lead stretching to eight points early in the opening quarter. Defense and the lack of turnovers played a major role in the win.

"The first game, we had trouble holding onto the ball but we were able to put the ball in the hole," Thompson said. "We only had nine turnovers against Holly, but the ball wouldn't fall for us. We would have won by 20 points if it went in."

Thompson said his team doesn't have outstanding size so their game plan will center on defense.

"With this team, we'll have to," he said. "They're not that big, but the kids are quick. We don't have the height to play a zone defense so we'll rely on speed."

Coaching basketball for the first time is not proving to be any trouble for Thompson, who is a substitute teacher in the Clarkston school district. He has coached football before.

"Coaching is a lot like teaching," he said. "You have to get a point across and have the kids grasp the thought. The biggest thing is that these kids are very coachable. That's one thing I was looking for when I picked the team."

Lions almost assured a playoff berth this year.

Last year the Lions made the playoffs in the the strike-riddled season. They lost the opening game against the eventual Super Bowl champions, Washington.

This year, the Lions are playing better and they have provided some excitement for the loyal fans.

Billy Sims is running wild after returning to the line-up following his broken hand, the defense is not allowing anyone to score many points, and Monty Clark looks like a genius.

Earlier in the season, after the team's 1-4 start, Clark was expecting to be fired. Now nobody is thinking about the dismal start, only the upcoming playoffs.

It's about time the Lions gave their fans something to cheer about.

After their horrible start, the Lions won six of eight games and were rated one of the top teams in the National Football League.

That winning streak only brought the Lions up to .500. But as bad as the rest of the division is, it's enough to win the Central Division.

Against weak opponents such as Minnesota, Chicago, Green Bay and Tampa Bay, the Lions are 6-1. Against the rest of the league, they are 2-6.

Just to look at the record would not be fair to the Lions. The majority of the league has settled for a .500

Washington is the machine-like team. They march up and down the field and score almost at will; their 13-2 record proves that.

Dallas loves to overcome adversity. In their 12-3 record, the Cowboys had to come from behind for nine of the wins.

McGrath league starts

Parents lined the walls of the Clarkston High School gym to watch their children take part in the second year of the Bud McGrath basketball league.

Director George Porritt led over 30 fourthgraders in dribbling drills Dec. 10 during the first clinic. After three clinics on basketball basics, the eight-game season begins.

The league is named after McGrath who died in the summer of 1982. He was a long-time coach, teacher and counselor in the Clarkston school district.

The youth basketball league is open to students in the school district from grades four through eight. Over 120 are signed up for the league. Last year there were about 80 players. "We have the Clarkston Chiefs (football) and little league baseball," said CHS Athletic Director Paul Tungate. "We needed a little league basketball program like this in the area."

THE REPORT OF THE PROPERTY OF

Homebound recovery continues for Bohl

By Dan Vandenhemel

Jim Bohl doesn't need his wheelchair anymore to get around, just a cane will do.

Bohl was injured Sept. 22 in a Clarkston High School soccer game and suffered a blood clot in his brain. The month long, medically induced coma to help the healing process weakened the 16-year-old and he has needed therapy.

"We've canned the wheelchair," said Rosalie Bohl, Jim's mother. "He's progessing very well. He still has a little trouble with balance, that's why he uses the four-pronged cane. He should be switching to a regular cane this week."

Bohl came home for the hospital for good on Thanksgiving.

"We're like a family again," Mrs. Bohl said. "He's so excited to be at home."

Plastic models from the Star Wars collection keep Bohl busy and help rebuild coordination he lost while in the coma.

'The models are excellent therapy for Jim," his mother said. "His younger brother is also great Tom Bohl, 14, remembers the way Jim used to be, said Mrs. Bohl. He keeps asking Jim to play pool or work with the computer.

"Nobody could beat Jimmy in pool before. At times he cries because he is aware he is not the same person he was before the accident," she said.

Bohl, a junior at Clarkston High School, will be able to start homebound school work in January.

'He lost this semester," Mrs. Bohl said. "But he'll be able to make it up and graduate with his class.

He does homework for his speech therapy now. He doesn't just sit around or sleep all day at home. He loves to move around," she added. "He'll go play with the computer or play the video games. We are planning to take him the high school basketball game this Friday. He really wants to go."

Prosecutor drops purchase

By Marilyn Trumper

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, an Independence Township resident, has given up plans to buy the Clarkston Party Store on Dixie Highway following an attorney general's opinion that

Leveling eyed

By Marilyn Trumper

Developer Charles Nunn resurrected a four-yearold plan to level 30 acres near Sashabaw and Waldon roads, but Independence Township says the 1980 permit has expired and wants the plan reviewed again under the township's new, more restrictive mining

In 1980 Nunn, of Village Development, proposed balancing the land, targeted for an industrial park development.

Because the township has no land-balancing permit, approval to excavate was given through the mining ordinance.

"But that permit was never actuated," said Kenneth Delbridge, director of building and planning.

"He got the ZBA's permission, but never did anything with it. Under township ordinance appeals are good for six months. In the eyes of the township, it's expired."

According to Delbridge, Nunn is scheduled to reapply to the township board Dec. 20. The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

'I need to level that land before I can build," Nunn said. "There's a big hill right in the middle of it. If I can't level it, I won't build. It's as simple as that."

According to Walter Keck, director of executive services for the state Liquor Control Commission, Patterson's request was denied because state law says persons who enforce the penal codes cannot have interest in a liquor license.

'The license was never going to be in my name. I was going to buy the store and lease the business out to someone else. I'm disgusted with the attorney general," Patterson said.

"Based on my own lawyer's opinion I don't think it's illegal. I think it's dirty politics. I'll have to look for another investment."

Patterson unsuccessfully challenged Attorney General Frank Kelley for the governor's seat last fall.

On Dec. 8, the Independence Township Board voted 5-0 to recommend the Liquor Control Commission again review the application contingent upon $600 worth of repairs to be made, and agreed to hold $1,000 of Patterson's money in an escrow account to ensure the work is done.

Trustee Larence Kozma, a member of the prosecutor's staff, abstained. Treasurer Frederick Ritter

According to Supervisor James B. Smith, state and township inspectors found a number of plumbing, electrical and building violations to the store, currently under renovation.

"If the repairs aren't made, he would forfeit the $1,000," Smith said. "It's like a bond."

Patterson, after deciding not to buy the business, said he got his check back from the township.

Their eyes barely visible from behind the puppet theater, Jackie Jablonski with Shivers the Penguin [left] and Sara Roy with Stinky the Skunk perform their show. It will be one of seven short puppet shows with holiday themes that make up part of a presentation by Sashabaw Junior High School drama students Tuesday, Dec. 20, in the school gymnasium. The show begins at 7:30 p.m. and admission is free, although donations will be accepted. The

Drama I students will also present their puppet shows for pupils at Clarkston Preschool and for North Sashabaw Elementary kindergarten, first- and second-grade classes. [Photos by Kathy Greenfield]

Narrator of the collection of puppet shows with Christmas themes is Wendy Wheiner, the creation of Sharon Hawley.

The collection of rabbits visible from the front of the stage includes [from left] Melissa Elfes' Macho Bunny, Marie Rovere's Raspberry and Elise Eldam's Myran.

Even when performances aren't underway, it's fun to work with a puppet you made yourself. Chris Johnson with Miss Piggy and Jody Bouck with Clyde do just that.

More than a teacher

for the leacher

by Nancy Albyn

When is a social studies teacher more than a social studies teacher?

When he is Dave Bihl.

At least that is what his former students say about him. They describe Dave as a "good teacher, who is current and who makes class interesting."

"I'm excited about the future," smiles Dave Bihl when discussing education. "I love teaching ideas; looking for a way to impact on the way students think."

An example of this is the GATE program which Dave teaches at Clarkston Junior High School. It is an extended program of three years of working with thinking skills.

"Thinking is the content of the class," Dave said.
"We are dealing in the process of thought with emphasis on bridging into real life situations. Thinking skills will remain the same in the future as they ae now; that is, valued if one can apply them to flexible and changing situations. Ther person who can think will be the person with a job."

Dave, who attended Pontiac area schools, earned his bachelor's and master's degrees at Oakland University, Rochester. He is a self-declared perennial student.

"I enjoy going to class, and I take the courses that interest me, not just the courses that deal with topics in my area of teaching," he said. "I see it as a response to upgrade what I do with the kids, a response to the future."

In addition to his work in the classroom, Dave is a member of the Future Curriculum Project for the Clarkston Community Schools committee, enagaged

"I'm excited about the future"

—Dave Bihl

in evaluating the present curriculum and making suggestions for the future.

In his private life, Dave is busy completing the construction of a house for his wife, Dolores, and their two children, David, 12, and Dana, 9.

This has been a family endeavor, and a new kind of learning experience for the Bihls, who are happy to see the end of it in view.

An Apple for the Teacher is provided through the efforts of a Clarkston Education Association committee. Its purpose: "to acquaint or reacquaint the community with members of the Clarkston school district's teaching staff who represent a highly trained and diversely talented resource in which we can all take pride." This week's column was written by Nancy Albyn, an English teacher at Clarkston High School.

Kammer named

United States Congressman Bob Carr (D-6th District) appointed a former state senator from Springfield Township to a district-wide selection committee interviewing high school students applying for admission to military academies.

Kerry Kammer said he's honored.

"I'm happy to serve the congressman. It's something he asked me about eight or nine months ago and, frankly, it's an honor," he said.

"There are a lot of young people out there interested in entering military academies to pursue their education."

Glenn Korth is bartender at the Clarkston Cafe. The 35-year-old's Bazooka was one of 21 nonalcoholic drinks selected for AAA's "Great Pretenders" mixing guide.

Cheers!

By Marilyn Trumper

Clarkston Cafe bartender Glenn Korth suggests raspberry liqueur and vodka to give a kick to his Bazooka, a non-alcoholic bubble gum flavored drink selected by AAA for its holiday "Great Pretenders" mixing guide.

Of 54 entries from some of metro-Detroit's finest restaurants, Korth's was one of 21 "spunky nonalcoholic" drinks that made up AAA's holiday pamphlet. Competition was by invitation only.

According to AAA, alcohol is a contributing factor in more than half of all fatal Michigan traffic ac-

The "Great Pretenders" mixing guide is designed to keep holiday parties focused on guests' safety and to "Bring 'Em Back Alive.'

"Oh, I've mixed non-alcoholic drinks before, but never for fun-for profit," Korth laughed. "Really, this is the first time I've ever tried (to compete).

"I was sitting at home trying to figure out what to do, came in, made drinks and tested them on the waitresses and management. They liked this one.

"Everyone wanted to know what the secret ingredient was-but I wouldn't tell them."

Throwing caution to the wind Korth now tells all:

For the past year and a half Korth, 35, has worked at the Clarkston Cafe downtown Clarkston. He's tended bar eight years, and lives in Ortonville.

The Bazooka, manifested after a random mixing

•11/2 oz club soda.

- •2 oz Coco Lopez cream of coconut.
- •1 c ice.
- •1.5 oz pineapple juice.
- •1/2 tsp raspberry Kool-Aid
- •Maraschino cherry
- Bazooka bubble gum and its comic strip

Mix ingredients well in blender and pour into tall glass. Garnish with cherry, gum and comic strip on a pick. Serve with two straws.

Plow picture

In village, township

If you live in the Village of Clarkston, snowplowed roads are part of the village's services.

Independence and Springfield township residents are at the mercy of county plows for subdivision pav-

According to Oakland County Road Commission Chairman John R. Gnau Jr., "high-volume routes" like Lapeer, Woodward and Telegraph roads have top priority for snowplowing and salting.

'Subdivision streets will continue to be serviced only after those objectives are met and only at regulartime costs," he said.

Village plows are out and working almost immediately.

"We do it, because it's part of the DPW's service. We take care of the roads," said Gar Wilson, village DPW director. "But I do have one request-if people would move their cars when they see the plow coming. They're not doing that, and it's tough to get the job done.'

In addition, Wilson asks Main Street businesses to shovel their sidewalks.

"When it snows three inches in the afternoon and three at night like it's been doing, we can't keep up with it," he said. "People walk on the sidewalks, pack the snow down, and it gets all lumpy and icv and hard."

Bakeshop's piano man now plays Keatington

By Marilyn Trumper

"Play me a song, you're the piano man. Play me a song tonight. Well we're all in the mood for a melody, and you've got us feeling all right."

-Billy Joel

By Marilyn Trumper

Gasper Grimaldi's gone from the bench of a rusty old upright inside Clarkston Village Bakeshop to the keyboard at Keatington, Steak and Seafood, the quaint new restaurant in former Keatington Village.

The 34-year-old Grimaldi is there every Friday and Saturday night, "indefinitely."

"I feels great! It's working out nice," he said.
Grimaldi, a Waterford Township resident,
taught music five years after three years of piano lessons.

"In between there was a lot of work," he said. He earned a reputation as a late night fixture in Clarkston, entertaining in the bakeshop for a handful of late-nighters who'd gather around the piano, singing, stomping, clapping and making requests.

"If I'm not enjoying myself, the music doesn't come across," Grimaldi said. "I enjoy myself totally...to enjoy yourself you have to give totally. It's like being in love with what you're doing and having fun. What could be better?"

Adopt a pet

The Michigan Animal Rescue League wants to let people know they have many dogs, cats, kittens and puppies waiting to be adopted to loving homes.

Most dogs and cats have had their shots. Many are spayed or neutered. Some cats are declawed. Most animals are wormed.

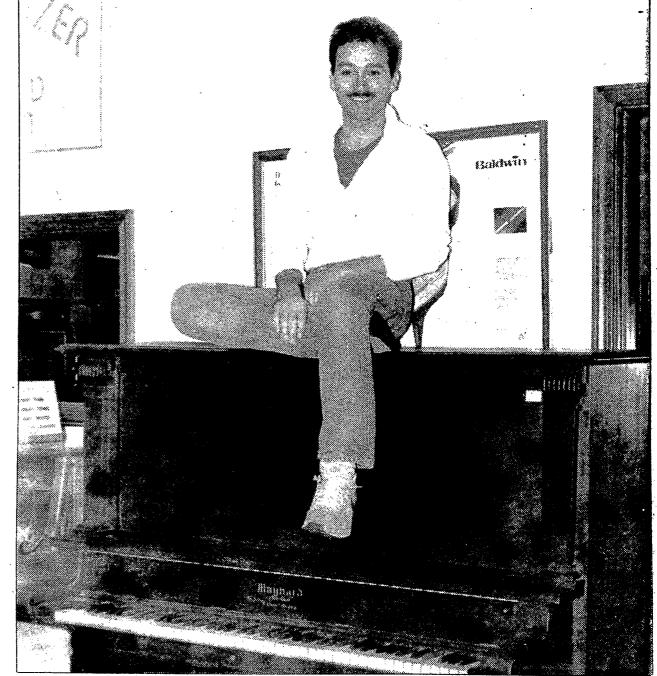

Donations are accepted for the animals.

The Michigan Animal Rescue League is a non-profit organization that does not receive public funds or support from any government agency, but relies on private donations.

The league does not destroy healthy animals, or any animal except on medical advice.

It is located at 790 Featherstone Rd., Pontiac. For more information call 335-9290 from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

Gasper Grimaldi lounges atop an upright piano. The 34-year-old pianist, who delighted latenighters with songs played on an old upright at the Clarkston Village Bakeshop, is now the piano man at Keatington Steak and Seafood.

Candle tradition

The residents of Robertson Court in the Village of Clarkston want to share a Christmas tradition.

For over 10 years they've lined their street with the soft glow of candles in bags and gathered to sing Christmas carols.

This year the event is planned Sunday, Dec. 18, at 6:30 p.m.

They invite each and everyone to drive through that evening and enjoy the Christmas scene.

81 local students make 'Who's Who

Eighty-one local students are included in the 17th edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1982-83."

"Who's Who" is published by Educational Communications Inc., Lake Forest, Ill. It's the largest high school recognition publication in the country.

Students are selected by high school principals and guidance counselors, national youth groups, churches or by the publishing company based upon performance in scholarship award contests or extracurricular activities.

Final selection is on the basis of criteria which include high achievement in academics and leadership in school activities, athletics or community service.

Traditionally, 99 percent of the students have a grade point average of B or better and 97 percent are college bound.

Published in nine regional volumes, the 17th edition of "Who's Who" features 375,000 students, or 5 percent of the nation's 6.5 million high school juniors and seniors. They are from 18,000 of the 22,000 public, private and parochial high schools in the United States.

State's phone services altered

AT&T takeover of Bell changes bills

By Dan Vandenhemel

Phone service for Michigan residents is changing. But the changes will be subtle, at least for a while, according to Michigan Bell spokesperson Len Singer.

With the American Telephone and Telegraph (AT&T) takeover of Bell Industries, phone bills will look different as of Jan. 1. 1984. The bills will have the total on the front page and an itemized list of long distance, local calls and service.

People will also have to decide whether to lease or purchase their telephones from AT&T.

Singer doesn't see a big change for the customers, but later in 1984, they will have to make some decisions.

"As of the first of the year, if you do basically the same thing with your phone service you won't notice a change," he said. "It could get complicated when the long distance services come into play."

Michigan Bell will handle all the local calls and the long distance calls within the same area code, such as 313. AT&T will cover the long distance calls to other zones. "People do not automatically have to use AT&T," Singer said. "Under the legal guidelines, there is equal access for all the long distance companies like AT&T, Sprint and MCI.

"One may be cheaper than another," he said. "A customer can have one primary company for long distance and another to a different area of the country. That decision won't have to be made for a while."

When the options are open to the customers, Singer said Bell will be contacting them by mail to fill out a form stating what services are wanted.

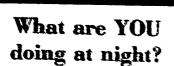

The rates will change, too. The basic rate for unlimited local calls will double, but to equal that out, the long distance rates will drop.

"The rates will be going up over the next couple of years," Singer said. "In the long run, the total phone bill may drop for some customers.

"If they use long distance a lot, the cut in price there will cover the increase in local calls. The customer that may see the biggest increase is the one that doesn't use long distance very much."

Windows: Eyes of history

-by Susan Basinger

riginal windows generally give an indication of the date and the style of an older home. From the photographs that appear here, you can begin to get an idea of which windows are an integral part of the architectural styles found in and around Clarkston.

This unique "oculus" or "roundel" has a hood molding with modillions or dentil-like molding. Individual handcrafted wooden details like this give area houses character and charm.

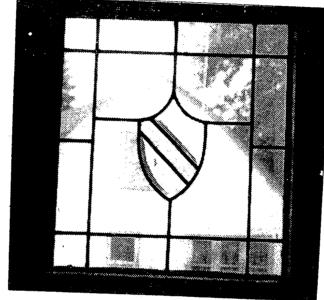

This interesting late 19th century sawn-wood detail appears on a South Holcomb Street residence. Similar decoration is seen on other area houses.

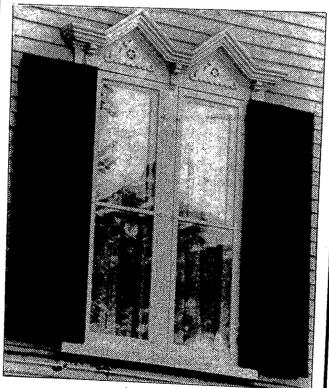

Difficult to maintain, old exterior shutters with moveable louvers are among the first original details to disappear. While not always original to period houses, these triple-panel shutters are a lovely accompaniment to the slender windows with pointedarch Gothic Revival style window hoods. Shutters should be hung, as these are, so they would actually close over the window. (To fix sagging shutters, see The Old House Journal, June 1976.)

The late 19th century saw an exhaberant use of stained, etched, figured and leaded glass. Some 20th century styles incorporated these details. This lovely leaded window with a colored glass shield at the center appears in a North Holcomb Street Tudor Revival style house. ("How to Repair Leaded Glass"-Old House Journal, August 1975.)

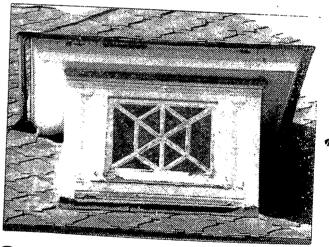

This unique window hood detail appears on a Greek Revival house on East Church Street. While the structure was built circa 1850, some of the windows with their accompanying detail have tall, slender Gothic or Italianate proportions. Was the structure built with this combination of styles, or were the windows a later fashion update?

estled beside a stone chimney is this lovely, elegant window. Unique in village, this detail gives a North Main Street house irreplaceable charm.

Y'ALL COME: The story line is familiar but there's a southern twist as Sashabaw Junior High School Drama II students present "A Hillbilly Christmas Carol," a spin-off of the Dickens' classic. The one act play is part of an evening show by drama students in the SJHS gymnasium on Tuesday, Dec. 20, beginning at 7:30 p.m. There is no admission charge, but donations will be accepted. The ninth-graders are to present their play schoolmates the next day. "There are so many exciting things about this one," said teacher Jan Malane. "It's our first performance before the entire school, we've never had to build props before, and we're making use of our new sound system that we just got last year." Members of the cast are [from left] Karl Schaffer, Deanna Stricklin, Jeff Huber, Karol Bilbey, Vicki Chenoweth, Kristi Bas and Jim Campbell, who plays Joshua Frunheiser, a modernday Scrooge.

Christmas shop

Nestled at the end of the hallway upstairs in the Clarkston Mills Mall, The Village Sampler glows with holiday finery. Also aglow is owner Donna Kolisnyk, who is thrilled with her shop's recent move from a Main Street mall. "We love it," she said. "The response by the community has been overwhelming. Everyone is delighted with our new space and we are delighted with all our new sales, of course." The new shop is twice as large as before, and all lines have been expanded, she says, adding that the best description of her merchandise is "unique country gifts and sweet shop." The Village Sampler, 20 W. Washington, follows the mail's special holiday hours-Monday through Friday until 9 p.m., Saturday until 6 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 9 p.m.

Christmas for pets

by Ann Glenn

Winter's holiday season is a time to take stock of our lives and a time for celebration.

It is a time to buy presents for our pets to show them that we love them.

The rawhide chew, fancy dog biscuits, sweaters, iewel collars, a new bed are a few ideas for you.

It's also a time when it is a great temptation to go out and buy a furry canine or feline friend to add to the household.

Getting a new puppy may not be a bad idea, but getting one during the holiday season may be ill-

Christmas puppies are better received before or after the holidays when the excitement of toys and the distraction of visiting friends and relatives has died

A new puppy (or kitten) requires a very rigid routine of rest, feeding, playing and going outside. The new owner must have time to observe signs the the dog should be taken out-right after naps, when he wanders from people or play, and after meals.

A puppy must be safeguarded from being overfed, overtired, overexcited or overlooked.

A new puppy should be kept away from Christmas tree needles which can be chewed and swallowed.

Christmas tree lights, breakable Christmas ornaments, chewable toys and Christmas stockings should also be kept out of reach.

Poinsettias can be poison to all pets-birds included. Too much turkey can cause stomach upsets. Mistletoe and holly can be deadly when chewed by an unsuspecting puppy or dog.

When you decide to get your puppy, arm yourself with a couple of good books on dog training and find a breeder who will help you you, will guarantee your satisfaction with the dog, and take it back if it does not work out for you.

A health guarantee is not enough.

Be sure you know the background of the puppy and the kind of care it received at vital stages of development—three weeks, six weeks, eight to 12 weeks-because these times permanently mark the

Nothing is more rewarding than the love of a dog. There is no greater friend.

Nothing is more pecious than a Christmas puppy: but remember in all fairness to the dog's devotion, you must not get a dog or any animal on a whim, but with full understanding of your lifetime commitment to the

"For better or worse, til death do you part" should be the motto of any animal owner.

Wanted: food

Donations to help make Christmas brighter for local needy families are being accepted at the Clarkston Mills Mall.

Canned food, non-perishable food, new toys or any new clothing are wanted for the Neighbor to Neighbor program of Springfield Township.

The drop box is located in the mall office located in the lower level.

The mall is located at 20 W. Washington in downtown Clarkston.

For more information call 625-2174.

Library hosts fun

The annual Night Before Christmas Party is planned Thursday, Dec. 22, at the Springfield Township Library.

Festivities from 7 to 8 p.m. include the reading of the story, "The Night Before Christmas" and

It is rumored Santa Claus will pay a visit.

The program is free for all ages at the library located at 10900 Andersonville, Springfield Township.

MS holiday party

"A Christmas Party for MS" provides an opportunity to blend the essences of the holiday season—fun and helping others.

The party is planned Saturday, Dec. 17, from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Maybee Road in Independence Township.

Brothers Mike and Tim Lyons, owners of Tunes by Tune Saloon of Waterford, are the hosts.

A family member who has multiple sclerosis prompted the fund raiser.

"MS, they still can't define what's going on with that type of disease and there's lots of reasearch going," said Mike Lyons.

Plans for the party include entertainment by "Hound Dog Elvis" (Presley immitator Larry Musgrave of Waterford), comedian Bill Hart of Troy and dancing music spun by deejays from Tunes by Tune Saloon.

"We'll have music from the '30s to the '80s," Lyons said. "We don't want to cater just to the 21- to 30-year-olds. My mom and dad, they're bringing 50 of their friends. We want everyone to come."

Admission of $5 a person includes two drinks, and there will be a cash bar.

Advance tickets may be purchased at Tunes by Tune Saloon, 5200 Dixie Highway, next to K mart. For more information call 623-1888.

Ski patrol sign-up

Interested in becoming a Nordic Ski Patroller, traveling the paths at Independence Oaks County Park in search of lost or injured skiers and administering first aid?

How about patrolling the golf course cross country paths at Glen Oaks in Farmington Hills, Red Oaks in Madison Heights, Springfield Oaks in Springfield Township and White Lake Oaks near Pontiac?

The Nordic Ski Patrol unit wants volunteers.

The 44-person unit, established in 1978, is the only one of its kind in the state. Its chief, Jim Meloche, lives in Independence Township.

The 16 patrollers, eight candidates and 20 trainees, all volunteers, patrol the 16 kilometers of cross country ski trails at Independence Oaks, off Sashabaw Road, Independence Township.

Candidates must take courses in advanced Red Cross first aid and cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

In addition, they undergo a season of training in search and rescue, evacuation, toboggan handling and must pass the National Ski Patrol's test.

Potential candiates need not be considered athletes, but should in reasonably good health, know the basics of cross country skiing and have the stamina to make it around the trails.

Eor information call Meloche at 879-8820 of 625-8668; for contact Oakland County Parks and Recreation at 858-0906.

Math whizzes up for contest

Take the kids' test and see how you do

Bv Marilyn Trumper

pink-sweatered girl with shoulder-length brown hair sits on her foot in a circle of desks at Clarkston Junior High. She frowns through a pair of glasses.

She's stumped.

This is the afterschool Enrichment Program's MORE class of Marilyn Kettler, math teacher.

Again, Kettler asks the question that brought a frown to Carrie Slade's

"...What's the measure of each angle of an equalateral triangle-one where all sides equal the same?'

Receiving no answer, she gives a

"Its sides have to add up to 180." A shout from the back of the room: "I've got it! Sixty!"

"That's right, and how did you arrive at that?"

"There are three sides to a triangle, so I divided by three.'

'Exactly, and that will work every time," Kettler said.

MORE is for kids who want more math. Students pay $4 tuition and once a week after school for a semester get together with other kids and banter about story problems, learn new theories and scientific notation, and dabble in geometry.

What makes this class different is that four kids, two from the seventh and two from the eighth grade and one alternate, will be selected to compete in Mathcounts, a national competition sponsored by the National Society of Professional Engineers, National Council of Math Teachers, the CNA Insurance Company, NASA and several other scientific and educational organizations.

Kettler's priming the kids for a test at the semester's end. The top five winners make up the team.

According to Kettler, 15 schools from Oakland County have signed up for the February competition.

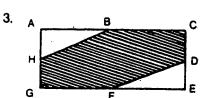

'I really feel we were lucky to get in. I'm working on my master's in gifted education, and have a friend who's an engineer and helped put (Mathcounts) together," she said.

"He knew I was interested in gifted kids, and taught math, and said, 'Have I got one for you.' These kids are great. They're in here because they want to be in here, they can talk, work with their friends, it makes all the difference in the world."

Some kids in the 30-member-plus class signed up for MORE specifically for eligibility to compete for Mathcounts. Others wanted to hone their math skills.

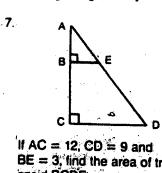

"I took it for both reasons," said Liane Swan, 12. "At first I didn't know how to do geometry. My dad taught me. Now I can. Somebody's got to make that team."
