A PERFECT DAY: Bright sunshine, little wind, a light covering of snow are all the ingredients to a perfect day of cross-country skiing. Independence Oaks County Park was a buzzing all day Saturday as skiers from all around came out for an afternoon of fresh air. The cross-country skiers are taking advantage of the excellent skiing conditions this winter. Last year's mild winter destroyed the ski season.

Pine Knob sells for $14 million

By Marilyn Trumper

The 15-year rollercoasting dynasty of Joseph Locricchio and Gary Francell ended at Pine Knob last week when portions of complex sold for $14 million to Northern Equities, a group of yet unnamed Farmington investors.

The financially struggling complex has operated under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy code four years.

Just two parties bid in the Jan. 4 auction sale held in a United States Federal Bankruptcy courtroom.

The sale excludes the golf course and restaurants, La Veranda and Hamburger Mansion. They go to Borg Warner Equities Inc., and give the new owners a one-year option to buy the properties back, according to Independence Township attorney Gerald Fisher.

It also gives the Nederlander Corp. a 10-day option to buy the music theater, although the company's 99-year theater lease must be honored, Fisher said.

And according to the new owners' attorney, Lawrence K. Snider, negotiations are underway with the Nederlander Corp. concerning that sale.

"I've been asked not to disclose the names of the new owners until negotiations are complete," Snider said.

The sale also paves the way for Independence Township to collect approximately $400,000 on Pine Knob's unpaid back taxes, Fisher said.

The sale ended what Fisher called "two full days of proceedings" in federal court. Bidding opened at $17.5 million and was raised in increments of $100,000, he said. It was over in five minutes.

A group of Southfield investors bidding under the name MMW-837 lost to the Farmington group, 308-3 Inc., Fisher said.

By 4 p.m. that afternoon Conrad Wagner, a Florida developer who last fall bought the interests of Locricchio and Francell and offered to buy Pine Knob for $18 million, filed an appeal before U.S. District Judge Thomas Thornton.

Wagner's reorganization plan filed in October had a $16.5 million commitment from the Florida bank, Sunrise Savings & Loan. He did not take part in the bidding.

New fire station under review

Independence Township's outgrown two of its fire stations, according to Chief Frank Ronk, and replacement of Station 1 in downtown Clarkston is under consideration.

On Jan. 3, the Independence Township Board unanimously appointed the supervisor, clerk, treasurer and fire chief to investigate possible sites, including a 1.5 acre parcel on M-15 north of Clarkston, purchased by the fire department in 1978.

Included in the fire department's budget is $300,000 for new construction.

Pressed for priority replacement of Station 1 or 2, remodeled car and tractor dealerships respectively, Ronk favored the Clarkston station.

"And that's based on the number of runs and which station is more active. Then we're talking about 1," Ronk told the board. "It's our headquarters and where we hold our extracurricular events. But no one station is in better shape than the other."

Ronk proposed the township look at a half-acre site at the junction of Waldon Road and Main Street.

"Being in that busy intersection is not ideal, but the land is available—and it's good access. And we could enhance the possibility of getting a stoplight there," he said.

After the meeting, Ronk said he favored a

In exchange for ending lawsuits over a mortgage and lease-back agreement, Borg-Warner got uncontested control of the property, canceled a $2.6 million debt owed them by Pine Knob and paid the estate an additional $200,000, according to Snider.

Northern Equities has 30 days to close the deal, Snider said.

downtown site instead of M-15, north of Clarkston.

"I'd prefer to be within the village because the villagers will have access to the fire station. It's in the middle of village proper. It's where the greatest density of people are and would shorten our response time," he said.

For 21 years the department's been in Station 1 and Station 2 at Sashabaw and Clarkston roads.

Station 3 at Pine Knob and Maybee roads was built by the township in 1970 for $70,000.

Coming: gym vote

Clarkston school district voters will be asked in June to approve spending $1.5 million for gymnasiums for the five elementary schools.

The exact wording of the ballot question is to be determined at a special meeting Monday, Jan. 16.

After about one-and-one-half hours of discussion at the Jan. 9 board of education meeting, the board unanimously approved a motion of intent to go to the voters for approval of a tax increase.

Highlights of the discussion are found on Page 3 of this week's Clarkston News.

OCSD plan gives shared deputy for 3 months

By Marilyn Trumper

If Independence and Springfield townships agree to pay gas and transportation costs for a shared road patrol/school liaison deputy, there are indications the Oakland County Sheriff's Department would underwrite the salary as part of a "pilot program"—at least through March, the end of the fiscal year.

That word comes from Independence Township Clerk Richard Holman and Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls, who've been in negotiations with Sheriff Johannes Spreen the past week.

A salary-free deputy for two months would mean a combined $10,000 savings for both townships, Holman said.

"We sat for two hours (last week) and discussed the concept and tried to nail specific points down," Holman said. "The sheriff indicated he was prepared to begin a pilot program that would last through the end of the fiscal year that would cost us substantially less than the $20,000 quoted earlier."

"(Spreen) indicated he was prepared to underwrite the cost of the deputy, and was looking at the townships paying the lease and gas costs."

When contacted, Spreen denied the proposal was his and refused specific comment saying only, "I'm not prepared to say anything. We're still in negotiations. I don't want to comment until we have it all straightened out. I can't say specifically. I don't care to comment until we have met and finalized the plans."

Spreen's "pilot program" is in answer to Independence Township Board's December vote to hire an additional part-time deputy, sharing costs with Springfield Township.

The board allocated $12,000 from federal revenue to pay for the deputy, and proposed a third of the deputy's time be scheduled patrolling Independence, a third patrolling Springfield and a third in schools, working on crime prevention.

If at the end of the fiscal year the townships want to keep the deputy, they would pick up the full cost, Holman said.

Two weeks ago Springfield Township hired a full-time deputy following public outcry for more road patrol, and tapped its police fund reserve, according to Supervisor Collin Walls.

But Springfield remains interested in the shared-deputy concept and could finance it with federal revenue sharing, Walls said.

"The only problem we haven't tied down yet is the cost," Walls said, regarding negotiations with Spreen on the pilot program. "After our meeting was my understanding we have more negotiations to do. The sheriff was also not sure who he was going to get to do it, and from where he was going to pull (the deputy) internally."

High damage figures in fire

A fire that burned "...a long time" Jan. 3 before being reported caused approximately $110,000 worth of damage to a contemporary home on Clintonville Road in Independence Township, according to Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

The owners, the Roy Rouse family, were out of town for the holidays but decorators were working in the home, he said.

Cause of the fire remains under investigation, although it's believed to have started in the kitchen, possibly by an overheated motor or cigarette, Ronk said.

No one was injured.

"We don't know how long it was going, but it was a long time," Ronk said.

The Rouse family remains in Florida while Roy Rouse searches for a new place to stay in the area, Ronk said.

2 held in ski theft

Two 17-year-old Sterling Heights men accused of stealing skis from the Pine Knob Ski Resort in Independence Township waived preliminary exam Jan. 6 before Oakland County District Court Judge Gerald E. McNally.

Keith Starr and Garnet Lennox were bound over to circuit court for preliminary exam Jan. 19 before Judge David Breck.

The pair were arrested following a routine car-to-car search that unearthed stolen skis, part of Pine Knob security's crackdown on thefts.

Conviction of the felony could carry a five-year prison sentence, according to a court spokesperson.

Kaul enjoys students

His teaching position is on again, off again

By Kathy Greenfield

For the past three years Michael Kaul's teaching job has been like a lightswitch—on again, off again.

His plight is common for teachers without years and years of seniority, but Kaul's lucky in two respects.

As a secondary teacher, he's been called back from the layoffs and in 1984 he'll be teaching subjects he enjoys at Clarkston High School—history and government.

In Clarkston, there are laid-off elementary school teachers who began teaching in the district seven years ago.

The first year Kaul was pink-slipped, he was recalled before school started. The next year, he was off until the end of the first marking period. This year, a job for him opened after half the school year was over.

"It keeps getting later every year. That's what's so scary," he said.

Kaul, 32, graduated in 1973 from Oakland University, Rochester, with a bachelor's degree in history and African studies. He traveled for a year before returning to school, this time at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

In 1976 he had his certification in secondary education with a history major.

Teaching jobs were beginning to get scarce then and Kaul substituted for about six months. Then his brother, a teacher at Sashabaw Junior High School, told him about a teacher's aide post there.

He applied and was accepted, and for two years Kaul worked with children with learning disabilities.

Five years ago, a teaching job opened up. Kaul was where he wanted to be, sharing the subject he loves, history. Everything went smoothly for two years.

Enrollment declined. The economy soured. The test of Kaul's tenacity over teaching began.

He's been able to handle his financial plight this year by teaching classes for Clarkston's Community Education Department while drawing unemployment benefits at half-rate, coaching cross country and track at CHS, and working in his father's painting business.

He figures he could survive a year without a teaching post.

But he's not sure what to do about his career—the past two years he's been accepted into a master's degree program at the University of Arkansas. He's decided not to go both times.

His family and friends are here, he's buying a home—and he really wants to teach.

"I like dealing with the subject matter," he said. "I like the business of being on your own—you don't have a boss kind of looking over your shoulder and making comments all the time.

Teaching classes in community education has been a positive experience, says Michael Kaul, shown here during a math and science GED class for adults. He likes the students, and the income has kept him going while laid-off from his teaching job with Clarkston schools.

And then the kids, too. I thoroughly, thoroughly enjoy them... I'd say that one-third to one-half of the kids that I've met through teaching, there's something very admirable about them...they have talents I don't have...and qualities that I admire."

Perhaps Kaul has held on long enough to be what he wants to be, for he looks at next year with optimism.

"Hopefully this is going to be put behind us. I think the signs are right that the district won't be going through what it has in the past," he said. "But only time will tell."

28 laid-off teachers are back

It took half the school year, but the tally's even—28 Clarkston teachers were laid-off this school year and 28 have now been recalled.

The board of education voted unanimously Monday night to recall Michael Kaul and David Stobbe.

"That's not bad at all," said assistant to the superintendent Conrad Bruce last week. "I think our list is smaller now than it has been in the last three to four years."

Because there are fewer students than in years past, the dwindling recall list reflects other occurrences.

Last year six teachers retired, and six teachers are on leave.

In the cases of the two teachers just recalled for the second semester, other factors were at work.

Kaul takes over some Clarkston High School classes formerly taught by William Genshaw who has time off from half of his classroom duties to create a course of study in conjunction with coming cable-TV. Kaul's full-time teaching schedule will alleviate overloaded classes.

Stobbe will teach the CHS drafting courses of Douglas Pierson, who will be assistant principal at Clarkston Junior High School, a post vacated by Cecelia Wiar who has taken a job in the business sector.

There are still some teachers on the Clarkston school district's layoff lists—10 on the elementary school level and three special education teachers. Most of them were laid-off two years ago.

"Some of these teachers contact me regularly—'Where do I stand?' 'How far down am I on the list?'" Bruce said.

While he can only speculate, he offered some hope for them.

There should be some retirements this year, but not as many as last, and the leave-taking practice is expected to continue, Bruce said.

"We're looking for some drop in enrollment next year, and when we drop enrollment we drop teachers," he added. "(But) it won't be like past years. We'll stabilize somewhat."

Vote on gyms to go to polls

The question wasn't whether the school district wanted to seek taxpayers' approval to fund gymnasiums for the five elementary schools but, rather, how to do it.

After the debate was over at Monday night's school board meeting, it was decided simply to ask voters in June to approve spending $1.5 million for bonds to fund the project.

The decision was met with applause by the about 15 people still at the meeting when it ended at 11 p.m.

The proposal includes 6,090-square-foot additions on each school, including a gymnasium, stage, storage room and kitchenette.

The motion, unanimously approved, stated the intent to go to the polls with the question, with the precise wording to be determined at a special meeting Monday, Jan. 16.

Under consideration was a proposal that would have attempted to freeze the district's debt tax levy at 1.28 mills, where it presently stands.

The plan, proposed by Superintendent Milford Mason and business manager William Jackson, was rejected because of the possibility of having to use general fund money to assist with payments for two or three years of the 15-year debt.

Board member Mary Jane Chaustowich opposed taking money from the general fund other than to fund programs

"There is no point in having these multi-purpose rooms if we do not have the projects to support them," she said.

Board member David Kithil said he preferred a straight-forward proposal to the voters.

"This is not just a school project, but a community project as well and we might talk to the parks and recreation department to help support it—not financially but verbally," he said.

Board President Janet Thomas pointed out that the $1.5 million tax request would raise the present debt rate to by .4 mill at the highest point, in 1986, and then it would decline. (Four-tenths mill is 40 cents for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.)

Before the vote, the other board members were asked to comment.

"I absolutely agree with what's going on," said board member Stephen Werner. "I don't want to use the general fund to build something."

"I feel the same way," said board member Elaine Schultz. "I'm uncomfortable down the road maybe having to pink-slip teachers (in order to pay the debt)."

Board member Vincent Luzi put it a bit stronger. "I'm not about to consider raiding the general fund for any amount of money," he said.

Cable TV work begins

Crews from LeCom Construction of Orion Township are on Independence Township roads stringing cable for Multi-Cablevision's new $2.5 million cable TV system.

Work began last week along Dixie Highway and Clarkston's Main Street.

Completion is scheduled in mid-April per the contract agreement, according to Manuel Copado, commercial marketing manager, and first subscribers are to begin hooking up in mid-January.

Crews installing the headend behind Rademacher Chevy, Inc., at Dixie Highway and M-15 last week knocked out computers at Clarkston Medical Pharmacy on M-15.

Record keeping was halted two days, according to owner Ron Chrovian.

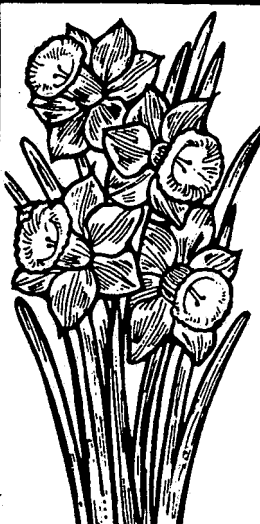

"It's really the worst problem I've had in seven years," Chrovian said. "It kept me from billing. I couldn't put in any dates or records and couldn't use the information in my computers."

Copado said he hadn't heard about the pharmacy's problem, and said no other problems have been reported.

LeCom trucks are clearly marked with the name and company logo and personnel are required to carry proper identification.

Persons with questions or complaints during the construction period are asked to call 585-9292.

Greed

Al Zawacky

The real tragedy about hunger in America is that the money is there; it just doesn't always go to the right people.

There can be little doubt that there are hungry people in our midst, Ed Meese's comments notwithstanding. But to suggest that the problem is rooted in inadequate social spending is absurd in light of mushrooming welfare costs at both the state and federal level, extending back to even pre-recession times.

The real problem is allocation and screening—finding the individuals who need help and deciding where the money should be spent.

In other words, a lot of people who plainly don't need help are getting it anyway.

THE U.S. DEPARTMENT of Agriculture recently reported that a party store in Pontiac is being disqualified from participating in the food stamp program for three years, an action based on evidence that the business accepted food stamps in exchange for "ineligible items."

Among the articles the party store sold in exchange for food stamps were cigarettes, beer, trash bags, household cleaners, laundry products, light bulbs, aluminum foil, plastic bags, egg coloring, soap and dishwashing detergent.

Question: How hungry can a food stamp recipient be who is using his or her allotment for staples like cigarettes, egg coloring and trash bags?

The great cheese giveaway probably involved more examples of the goods too often ending up in the wrong hands. There's no way of knowing for sure, but I suspect a good portion of the free cheese wound up in the freezers of people who really didn't need it.

What of subsidized meals for senior citizens? There are clearly seniors who need the help and ought to be entitled to it. But what about the senior citizen who, through retirement benefits, savings, investments and social security combined, enjoys a high standard of living? Why should he or she be entitled to restaurant discounts or federally-subsidized meals paid for by a 30-year-old family man barely eking out a living at $18,000 a year?

Edwin Meese was wrong to suggest that there are no hungry people in America. But if his point was that human greed often has a way of getting ahead in line of human need, he was absolutely right.

Jim's Jottings

My son gave me a 1884 calendar for Christmas. Why not? It's the same as the 1984 calendar.

This got me to wondering if calendars repeated themselves every 100 years. Not necessarily, I've been told. I think 1983 was a repeat of 1926.

We did learn that at the turn of each century Leap Year is dropped, but it will not be in the year 2,000. Something about catching up with the moon, or counting sun spots, or timing it with the first arrow that was shot into the air splitting the atmosphere.

My interest in time was prompted when I started my new calendar of known appointments, meetings and vacations. It came as a mild surprise that the shortest month of the year has five publishing days for this weekly newspaper.

Editorial Conflict goes public

Relations between Independence Township Supervisor James B. Smith and Fire Chief Frank Ronk are at an all-time low.

The men brought their problems to the public arena at two recent township board meetings this way:

On Dec. 13 (Ronk wasn't there) the supervisor stated that there was a leak of confidential information to the firefighters' union from a meeting between himself and the fire chief.

On Jan. 3 (Smith wasn't there) the fire chief said he would no longer meet with the supervisor unless the clerk or treasurer was present.

In off-the-record discussions with board members since then, they have identified the problem as a "festering sore," "a personality conflict" and "a communication problem."

They agree it's an area of conflict that has to be resolved.

We find it significant that the first actions toward approving the fire department budget this year, taking bids for replacement equipment and establishing a committee to ponder replacing obsolete fire stations took place at a meeting when Smith was absent.

And while most of the board members we talked to say fire and EMS protection have not suffered because of the clash, not all agree.

In addition, members of the firefighters' union feel the personality clash is beginning to affect their jobs.

While we cannot ignore that this is the beginning of an election year and this situation could be a beginning of some heated political campaigns, we believe the situation must be resolved.

It's time for both leaders to settle problems, leave mistrust and suspicion behind and get on with providing the best fire and medical emergency services possible for the people.

A true test

Kathy Greenfield

Under the Christmas tree this year was a brand-spanking new digital alarm clock.

It doesn't tick. It doesn't tock. It glows red—in the dark or light. It has little red dots that indicate if the alarm is set and whether the readout is for a.m. or p.m.

It is a nifty machine.

It doesn't RRRRRing; but beep-beeps, quietly but effectively. For some reason, there's a compulsion to act even though it's not an irritating sound; it's not an alarm you'd sleep through or wait awhile to turn off.

The beep part is why I'm writing about it.

It is the essence of a new sound in our lives—there's a definite computer tone to it.

It makes me think of working on the word processor that beeps when I'm almost out of characters and have to press some buttons to enter the words into the computer before I can continue.

It makes me think of computerized games that beep and make other such noises—the games you cannot tear yourself away from.

It makes me wonder if we're all becoming programmed to listen—or wake up, or become alert—whenever we hear such a sound.

Have you ever noticed, for example, a compulsion to watch those cute commercials on TV that are messages from a computer?

Ah, but then there's Fred.

He wears a wristwatch that beeps every hour on the hour. Whenever he's around you know when the big hand reaches the 12, so to speak.

Because all eyes in all rooms go to Fred when his watch beeps, I asked him if he hears it himself.

He said he frequently doesn't.

So stop worrying. If someone tries to get to us all with a soft computer beep, there'll be at least one survivor.

Double take

Jim Sherman

Leap year did it to us. Another thing, January and July look just alike. They start on Sundays and end on Tuesdays. No other two months in 1984 can make that statement.

Ah, the innovative unemployed.

Recently a friend was coming out of Detroit on Third St. Traffic came to a halt. Then cars would move a few lengths, stop, and this continued until the friend could see the hood up on a car in the northbound lane.

The car was stalled in front of the unemployment office. Then, out of the office walked a man. He slammed the hood down on the car in the street, got in, and drove off.

The man in the stopped car next in line got out, lifted the hood, and walked into the unemployment office.

Sure beats driving around looking for a parking spot close to the front door.

One other bit of nothing. I asked Consumers Power Co. out of Flint to turn on the gas in an apartment in Davison. I couldn't be there for the ceremony. His message came back something like: It's a good thing I checked the apartment before I turned on the gas. There could have been an explosion if I hadn't shut off the electric breakers.

The message taker doesn't know what the man meant. Neither do I, and he can't be talked to, Consumers said.

So now what? Do I dare turn on a breaker? Let the apartment pipes freeze? Buy a parachute?

'If it Fitz...'

Crisis

Jim Fitzgerald

My first thought was that Amway hired former Secretary of State Alexander Haig Jr. as a "consultant on international affairs" late last year so that he could manage the corporation's Canadian crisis concerning fraud charges.

But then Peg Jensen, a Muskegon reader, sent me two copies of Nov. 27th's "Tank McNamara" comic strip, and I thought maybe Haig's job was to manage every crisis caused by a U.S. newspaper that deserved instant deportation for publishing anti-American words about Amway.

Intensive investigative reporting proved my second thought wrong. Darn. Another brilliant column destroyed by deflated facts while still in its embryo stage. I've got to quit talking to people who know what they're talking about.

It's true, of course, that Haig likes to manage crisis. When he was secretary of state, it was well-publicized that Haig was seen pounding the table in frustration because he wasn't appointed to manage the nation's crisis while President Reagan took his Wednesday afternoon naps. Vice-President Bush got the job instead, and Haig later left the administration.

But it's not true that Haig hired on at Amway to manage crisis caused by Tank McNamara or any other comic-strip character.

In that Nov. 27 strip, McNamara told about a university that wouldn't sell season tickets to its ever-popular football games unless purchasers also bought a lot of things they didn't want—such as tickets to women's fencing matches, stadium bonds and "$15,000 in Amway products."

At least the Amway wisecrack appeared in the Detroit Free Press version of Tank McNamara, which is syndicated to hundreds of newspapers across the nation. But Peg Jensen also sent the Grand Rapids Press version, in which the same character said he'd buy "$15,000 in novelty products."

Grand Rapids is the home of Amway, the second largest seller of household goods in the United States. The corporation did more than $1.13 billion in business in the year ended Aug. 31 and employs around 7,000 people, many of whom live in the Grand Rapids area, where the leading hotel is the Amway Grand Plaza.

Jensen asked if Amway owns all of Grand Rapids, including its newspaper, or "will the Free Press do anything to knock Amway?" Which version was the original, as written by the McNamara cartoonist?

The Free Press was the first newspaper to reveal that Amway defrauded the Canadian government of millions of dollars in a customs scam. At first Amway denied the charge, accusing Canada of anti-Americanism, and promised to sue the Free Press. But no suit was filed, and eventually Amway pleaded guilty and agreed to pay a $20 million fine. In return, Canada dropped criminal charges against four top Amway officials who could have been imprisoned for 10 years.

In view of all this, would the Free Press rub it in by changing comic-strip words to further embarrass Amway? Goodness gracious, no. Universal Press Syndicate of Fairway, Kan., which distributes McNamara, assured me the only change was made by the Grand Rapids Press, after getting the cartoonist's OK. "I think they were afraid of the potential for legal problems," said Lee Salem, editorial director for Universal.

Grand Rapids Press editor Mike Lloyd told me McNamara's "Amway products" was changed to "novelty products" only so readers, many of them Amway supporters, wouldn't think the local newspaper took "a deliberate cheap shot" at Amway. The strip appeared shortly after Amway admitted defrauding Canada.

And Lloyd added that Amway didn't pressure for the change. No one from Amway got in contact with the paper concerning the McNamara strip, he said.

So I can't write a smartie column about Amway hiring a former U.S. secretary of state to manage comic-strip crisis while top Amway officials take unimprisoned naps. That's frustrating.

I could pound a table. Or would that be a deliberate cheap shot?

Fire department ready to go paramedic in '86

By Marilyn Trumper

Should Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital open its satellite hospital here in 1986, Independence Township's Fire Department will have the rescue trucks to institute an Advanced Life Support Emergency Medical Service (ALS) with full paramedics.

"(Our three new trucks) are being specced out so they'll be operational now, but be capable of modification should we go into a more advanced program," Ronk told the Independence Township Board at its Jan. 3 meeting, following authorization to let bids.

"If the possibility of hospital surgical care becomes a reality, it's entirely possible that in three or four years we'll be transporting to our own medical facility," Ronk said. "That would make a real difference in what to buy in an ambulance."

"(An ALS program) may be so expensive we'll have to go back to the people."

Trustee William Vandermark defended Fleet and Riverside, two private ambulance companies contracting in Independence Township.

"Something like (ALS) would be a board decision. I don't think it's a good idea to compete with private business when we don't have to," Vandermark said.

Trustee Larence Kozma talked about the rescue truck bids.

"I don't want to buy three vehicles now and next year decide we're changing the direction the department is going," he said.

Ronk agreed expanding to an ALS would be a board decision.

"We're just seeing what we can do now that may serve us in both directions," he said.

Ronk estimated 55 percent of the department's 817 runs in 1983 were medical and the rest fire and miscellaneous.

The fire department operates on a 3-mill budget that generates in excess of $700,000 each year. The third mill, approved by voters in 1980, expires in 1988. Currently the department has a $400,000 capital expenditure budget to finance station construction and buy new vehicles.

The fire department first provided basic life support with its Emergency Medical Service (EMS) unit in 1976.

"It was something that got pushed on us," said firefighter Gar Wilson at the meeting. "We didn't take this job to get into the medical end of it—but we do it."

According to Ronk, Independence Township's EMS "just evolved."

"It became a part of us automatically. If someone needed help like a heart attack, we'd run out with oxygen and help until the ambulance arrived. With the introduction of EMS through TV and the public learning about it, we trained in CPR and life-saving techniques. It just became a part of the department," he said, adding funding comes from the fire millage.

Ronk warned of the costs to establish an ALS with paramedics.

"I didn't say I wanted to start one, I just wanted to apprise the board that if there was a possibility of extra training to be advanced life support, the fire department could provide that to the community," he said.

"It's expensive, very expensive. And unless a private company isn't there for backup if our truck is on the road, we can't do it. The law says you have to have backup."

"You also have to train your men while they're on duty. Somebody has to be here to mind the store, so you have to hire more men. All that means more cost to the people. It's all in what the people decide they want."

ALS insurance is very high, Ronk added.

"Because of lawsuits, liabilities and malpractice," he said. "Private companies figure it into their prices. We have to figure it into taxes."

Waterford has $1.6 million budget

Waterford Township is the nearest community to Independence with full paramedic Advanced Life Support (ALS).

Its population, number of calls and fire personnel are three times the size of Independence, and its fire stations outnumber Independence almost two to one.

According to Chief Wendell Trager, Waterford's ALS and its fire department operate on a $1.6 million budget from 1 mill collected for ALS. The $1 million balance is supplemented from the general fund.

Insurance costs $600 per year, per man, according to Trager, who says his department became self-insured Dec. 15 to cut costs.

Waterford started ALS in 1978 and added 10

firefighters, one station and two rescue vehicles, Trager said.

The difference in training for basic life support to advanced life support is less than 1,200 hours and costs approximately $550, according to Dick Osgood, director/instructor for Oakland County Community College's Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) program.

"Our program is more extensive than the bare minimum required by state law," Osgood said. "There's also an intermediate level recognized by the state. Depending on how much training they come in with will affect what the education will cost."

Osgood explains the difference between basic life

Firefighter wants more spent on department

By Marilyn Trumper

Firefighter Mike Fahrner, a nine-year veteran of the Independence Township Fire Department, says the department's outgrown its three stations and that most of the nine vehicles are rapidly deteriorating.

He wants more money budgeted—and spent—on rescue vehicles and station expansion.

Most important, it's affected morale, said Fahrner, president of the firefighters' labor union.

"Response-wise and at the scene, the people are going to get the same service they got five years ago," he said. "Off the scene it's a different story.

"No one stays around the stations anymore. They do their job—and leave. The men used to volunteer carpentry work, electrical and plumbing. Not anymore. Morale? There is none. People show up, put in their time and go home.

"Out of the (nine) trucks we've got, the two rescue trucks at Stations 2 and 3 are 10 years old or more. Neither is actually a rescue truck. One is a pickup truck and one's a converted grass rig.

"Neither has the capacity of putting a patient inside to work on. They have to stay outside until the ambulance arrives," he said.

"In the last two weeks we've put four or five people in the snowbank to wait until the ambulance arrives. Today was a perfect example. A lady ran off the road on Sashabaw and hit a tree. She sat in a snowbank; we held her hand and told her she'd be OK. We waited until the ambulance arrived."

In addition, Fahrner said the engines at two and three are 1969 vehicles.

"Both engines are obsolete. If they break we'll have to replace the complete motor," he said.

And, he says, "The stations aren't in the best of shape.

"They're outdated, and don't have the room we need. When we wash a truck downtown we have to let the water out by the door. It freezes in the street. At Station 2 when you wash a truck, you get water on all the other trucks and all the walls because it's so cramped."

"Morale? There is none.

time in and go home."

Station 1, downtown, is a remodeled Chevrolet station. Station 2, at Sashabaw and Clarkston roads, was a tractor dealership.

Fahrner cites the fire department's past budgets: "For three years we've asked for replacement of vehicles. It hasn't happened. Rescue trucks would cost between $20,000 to $30,000 each for vehicles and equipment. They're custom built to specifications and take six months to build."

In 1981 the township bought a tanker for $115,000, a purchase authorized under the Whitey Tower administration.

"The chief was authorized to get bids in 1979 and we were quoted a price of $89,000," Fahrner said. "In 1980 the new administration put a hold on it, saying they wanted to pay cash. When we finally ordered it, it cost $115,000. Even with the $15,000 we would have paid in interest it didn't match the cost of inflation."

Chief Frank Ronk confirmed the figures, but refused comment.

Trustee Larence Kozma denies allegations the township board delayed equipment purchases.

"I don't see any holdup on the part of the township board," Kozma said, following the Jan. 3 board meeting and authorization to let bids for three new rescue trucks. "The question of medical trucks never came up before the board. We took the recommendations and requests of the department head, as it should be, and reviewed it."

Board OKs 1984-85 fire fund

-Business brief-

After weeks of discussion between the chief and supervisor, the Independence Township Board approved the fire department's proposed 1984-85 budget totaling $763,483.

There was little discussion at the Jan. 3 meeting before the unanimous vote of the four board members present—Clerk Richard Holman and trustees Daniel Travis, William Vandermark and Larence Kozma.

The new total reflects a 5-percent increase from last year across the board, according to Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

The budget includes $100,000 earmarked for capital investments like three EMS trucks authorized for bids last week, and other capital expenditures like the proposed new station, according to Ronk.

In addition, the truck maintenance and auto repair budget, which totaled $8,000 last year, is projected at $28,400 for 1984-85 to finance what Ronk calls "...much needed repair on a front-line engine. It needs work done on the pump, and the body because it's rusting, and new paint," Ronk said.

Legal fees are down $5,000 from last year's $10,000 total because it's not a contract year, and Ronk said he doesn't anticipate spending that much in 1984.

"I'm not disappointed with (the budget)—not by a long shot," he said after the meeting. "We're finally going to spend some money on things we should have done a long time ago."

New truck buys

With little discussion at its Jan. 3 meeting, the Independence Township Board unanimously authorized bids be let for three new EMS (Emergency Medical Service) rescue trucks for the fire department.

The trucks would allow people to be treated inside cabs, like ambulances.

Currently only one of the department's three rescue trucks is designed accommodate people inside. The others are converted-pickup trucks.

Fire Chief Frank Ronk estimates the trucks will cost $100,000. The money will come from the capital expenditure fund that now totals $400,000 since the department's third mill was approved by voters in 1980.

Clerk Richard Holman and trustees Larence Kozma, Daniel Travis and William Vandermark authorized accepting bids.

Supervisor James B. Smith, Treasurer Frederick Ritter and Trustee Dale Stuart were absent.

"We really need them," Ronk said after the meeting. "What they'll do is prevent us from leaving people out in a snowbank until an ambulance arrives, like we've had to do in this cold weather the past week."

Eby promoted

Raymond Eby was recently elected vice president of The Detroit News by the board of directors of The Evening News Association, parent company of The News.

Eby: newspaper veep

He was named the newspaper's director of operations two years ago and will retain that post.

Eby, 42, is a native of Chicago and a graduate of DePaul University, Chicago, Ill.

Previously employed by the Dow Jones Co. as production manager of its Dallas plant and by the Chicago Tribune, he came to The News 10 years ago as assistant operations manager.

As operations director, Eby has responsibility for The News' production department, building maintenance, general services and the garage and fleet operations.

He resides in Independence Township.

support, which is required for all firefighters, and advanced life support training, which is what paramedics receive.

"The advanced person can cut an airway into the trachea, previously hospital procedure. Also they start IVs, and administer medication like cardiac drugs, pain drugs and combination drugs.

"They're trained to recognize heart rhythms and through communication with the hospital select the appropriate drugs. If (the person) is in arrest, they have to be defibrillated sooner, and (ALS technicians) have the equipment and training to that.

"It's like taking the hospital's emergency department out to the scene," Osgood said.

Wolves win from free-throw line

A Waterford Kettering player can't seem to get to the ball as Clarkston's Jim Acton and Dave Jokisch come down with the rebound. The Wolves win the game, 62-58.

By Dan Vandenhemel

Free throws helped the Clarkston High School Wolves notch a victory over rival Waterford Kettering.

The varsity Wolves hit 20 of 34 shots from the foul line during a scheduled 40-minute game.

Clarkston's Bo Kulaszewski led the charge with the 10-of-17 points in the fourth quarter. He also had six of 11 free throws in the final 10 minutes.

"That was the ball we've shot as a team from the line all year." — Fife line all year," said coach Dan Fife. "Bo (Kulaszewski) really kept us in the game. He iced it with the free throws."

The victory raised the Wolves' record to 2-0 in the Greater Oakland Activities League and 6-2 overall. The Captains are 0-1 in the league and 3-5 overall.

When Clarkston and Kettering get together, it's always a dogfight, Fife said. Besides playing in the Captains' gym, the Wolves had some concerns about the conditions.

"Some of the players were complaining about the dirty floor," Fife said. "The floor really didn't affect the game, maybe a couple of extra turnovers but both teams had to handle it."

The contest started off as a tight game between equal teams. Kettering held a one-point lead after the opening quarter. The Wolves came back and led, 30-24, at the half with the help of a 30-foot shot at the buzzer by Chris Bruce.

Defense kept both teams in the game as neither could mount a consistent scoring attack.

"We didn't play very well offensively," Fife said. "Most of the game was played between the foul lines."

Dave Jokisch led the Wolves with 14 points, followed by Kulaszewski with 13 and Erik Kline with 11.

"This was a big win for us," Fife said. "Anytime you go into an opposing gym and win, it is. We won't have any easy wins this year at all."

SJH loses, 54-24

Jitters hurt Cougars in wrestling meet

By Dan Vandenhemel

Lack of experience and a delayed start in the wrestling season were part of the reason the Sashabaw Cougars lost their opening meet.

The Cougars fell, 54-24, to Rochester VanHoosen, Jan. 5 in Rochester.

"We had a little trouble in the lower weight classes," said coach Jim Baines. "For a lot of them, it was their first match and they were taken by surprise. There's no substitute for experience."

The first two meets of the season for Sashabaw fell through. The original opener against Rochester Reuther was postponed due to snow and the second with Andover was canceled because Andover didn't have a full team.

"Really this was our first match," Baines said. "VanHoosen has had a couple and were ready for us."

Though only four wrestlers won for the Cougars—Steve Bridger at 78 pounds, Brian Robertson at 121, Mike Gilbert at 134 and heavyweight Jeff MacDonald—Baines insists his team is in shape.

"The funny thing about the meet was either we won by a pin or lost by a pin," he said.

"No one gassed out on me. Everyone is in good physical shape. That's not the problem, experience is."

Before the team's next meet, Baines said there's hard work ahead.

"We have to concentrate on takedowns. The majority of the time, the person that can get control of the match is going to win," he said.

"We were missing some people in the lineup for various reasons. I'm not using that as an excuse but it is part of it.

"Rob Smith at 100 pounds and Mike Noel at 155 should get better and better as the year goes on," he added. "They are going to help a lot."

Hit ski trails with the Blues

Springfield Oaks Golf Course in Springfield Township is the site of the fourth annual Blue Cross-Blue Shield Ski Race.

The cross-country race is set for Saturday, Jan. 21, at the golf course on Andersonville Road near Hall Road.

The race is open to experienced and beginner skiers. Children under 10 years old will compete on a 1.5 kilometer course while the more experienced racers will race 15 kilometers.

Starting time is 11 a.m. for advanced skiers and 2 p.m. for beginners.

The cost is $4 before Jan. 13 or $6 the day of the race.

The race is one of a series at Oakland County Parks. Others will be at Glen Oaks Golf Course in Farmington Hills on Jan. 29 and at Independence Oaks County Park on Feb. 26.

For more information call the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department at 858-0915.

Spikers begin with easy victory

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Clarkston Wolves didn't take their time in defeating Milford in the volleyball opening match for both teams.

The varsity Wolves won in two games, 15-1 and 15-8, Jan. 5.

"We were done in about a half-hour," coach Nancy Foster said. "Our front-line killed them. Amy Stark, Beth Springer and Wendy Learmont controlled the match. They put the ball on the floor most of the time."

Laura Hurren led the team in serving by scoring nine straight points in the opening game.

"We are a very balanced team, with a lot of bench support." —Nancy Foster

Milford was able to score in the second game by surprising the Wolves with quick returns, Foster said.

"They caught us off guard in the last game by just throwing the ball back up," she added. "We weren't able to set anything up."

Helping in the easy victory were Denise Giroux and Beth Chartier. They ran the offense and controlled the defense.

"We looked pretty good as a team," Foster said. "We are a very balanced team, with a lot of bench support. I felt I could put anyone in the match and feel comfortable with the move."

Because it was the first match of the season, Clarkston played with high intensity.

"Out of the six seniors and five juniors (on the team), five are returning from last year," Foster said.

"Looking at this team, I'd have to say the five returning weren't as nervous as the rest of the team. The JV match took a long time so we had to sit around a long time before we got started.

"Over the season, we'll win more than we'll lose but I really can't say what kind of record we'll have," she added. "If we play as well as we did against Milford, we'll do pretty well the whole season."

Up My Alley Forever memories

By Dan Vandenhemel

Phooey on progress. Don't take that the wrong way. Everything thrives on progress.

Computers are a way of life now. But 20 years ago, even 10 years ago very little was done in the computer world.

Progress also means expansion.

The population grows and new areas are built up. In the buildup of a neighborhood, memories can be torn down.

A new house is going up where a small clump of trees used to be. A pond is exposed from the clearing of the corner field.

That field, on the corner of Broadbridge and Swan Creek, was the location of many youthful picnics, fishing trips and just time goofing around.

Hammer's Pond, as it was known in the neighborhood, was a great spot for frog hunting and bird watching.

The pond was only 30 feet away from the road and on private property, but with all the trees and bushes, the waterhole was hidden.

My parents really didn't want us to go near the pond that much because it was deep, about 6 feet. When you're only 12 years old and 4-foot tall, that's deep.

I would tell them I was going across the street to John's house. Then after meeting with him, we'd circle back and head toward the pond.

There was mystery with that pond. What treasure will we find today? Is someone going to see us?

That was 10 years ago.

A lot of things have changed since then. John has moved out of the neighborhood and so have I.

Four new houses have been built on the road, and kids today worry more about their video games than how fast a frog can jump.

On my last trip home for Christmas, I glanced at the corner lot and was shocked.

Right there in plan view was the pond with most of the trees cut down and the weeds cleared out, and a culvert was put in for a driveway.

Soon a house will stand far back off the road with the pond in the front yard. The children will probably not even pay any attention to it.

The new owners will dredge it, clean it out and find a tennis shoe or two lost long ago.

No more will a couple of 12-year-olds be able to sneak away from their parents and creep up on a granddaddy of a bullfrog.

People change, landscapes change.

It's a good thing that memories last forever.

Forever in bronze

By Marilyn Trumper

Fred Petrucci's hands are ringed with black grime, ground deep beneath his torn fingernails and into the lines of his knuckles.

They tell of 30 years casting bronze from the Fine Arts Sculpture Center, a white cinderblock garage off Clintonville Road at the Waldon Road junction in Independence Township.

Two weeks ago one of Detroit's highly touted sculptors, Ed Chesney, commissioned the life-size casting of Monsignor Clement H. Kern to Petrucci, the midwest's only bronze-casting artisan.

Kern, a legendary Catholic priest, is famous for befriending the poor in Detroit's old Irish Corktown.

The 7-foot statue is frosting on the cake to a $6 million low-to-moderate-income housing project at Bagley and Trumbull, two blocks from Tiger Stadium.

Kern worked 15 years to get federal financing for the 110-unit development, according to Bob Murphy who chairs the 20-member committee behind the Clement Kern Garden development and statue.

Cost for the statue, fencing, plaques and landscaping is estimated at $55,000, he said.

Kern died last July at the age of 76 after 51 years in the priesthood.

In Petrucci's fine arts building, orange flames hiss at the ends of copper rods juxtaposed in the aisles. They force a loping dodge through the spotless, but cluttered room lined with tables laden with molds in various stages of development. Classical music plays from a portable radio.

While the Kern statue is a challenge, Petrucci says it's not going to be his greatest accomplishment.

That billing goes to a fountain that took two years to make, commissioned by Harris Bank & Trust, Chicago, Ill.

Lighting a True cigarette, Petrucci rubs his lined forehead and produces a photo album.

"There it is, right there," he says. "It was beautiful. We had to put all the copper tubing in and weld it together. This was when we were loading it on the trailer for delivery."

Then he changes his mind about the greatest accomplishment.

"This was another," he says. "It went in the St. James Court in Louisville, Ky. It took two and a half years to make. It's a classic fountain and stands 25 feet high."

Or maybe, he says, it's the Firefighter's Memorial in Roscommon County. He's proud, too, of the trophies commissioned by metropolitan country clubs.

Petrucci art is a "lost wax process," taught to him 30 years ago by Italian artisans.

From the sculptor's clay model he makes a rubber mold, a negative. Then he uses wax to make a positive. That wax positive is "invested" in a cement-like material which is put into a kiln, and the wax is burned from inside at high temperatures.

Molten bronze is poured into the cement-like mold—and that's the casting.

"Every mold is like opening a Christmas present to see what's inside," he says with a smile.

From another table Petrucci produces bronze feet for a bronze bed.

The owner will have to reinforce the floor just so the bed won't fall through the ceiling, Petrucci says.

"This one," he fingers the foot, "is going to cost a fortune."

Petrucci laughs.

He's first to admit bronze casting has been a lucrative career.

Fred Petrucci holds one of his many bronze castings made during the artisan's 30-year career. Petrucci, an Independence Township resident, was commissioned to do the bronze casting of Monsignor Clement Kern's life-size statue.

Democratic Party needs a real compromise

Since the passage by the Democratic Party dominated legislature of a reapportionment plan, there has developed a misconception that the plan was a true bi-partisan compromise.

It is true that a reapportionment bill was passed. It is also true that the bill received the votes of some Republicans.

However, for a "real" compromise to occur, participants to the agreement must bargain from positions of similar strength.

The Democrats have dominated both houses of our legislature. The very first week of the 1983 legislative session, the Democrats introduced a bill to "gerrymander" the legislative districts to ensure their continued monopoly of power.

That bill, Senate Bill 3, passed the State Senate on a straight party line vote on Dec. 1, the same night voters were discharging another of the Democratic steamrollers from the senate.

Ironically, Sen. Serotkin, who then knew he would be removed from office, joined in this, another insult to the people of Michigan.

The Democrats have used their "Senate Bill 3 Club" to seek concessions and to try to force Republicans to support Democrats faced with recall.

It is critical that the people of this state realize that not one Republican "wanted" reapportionment. Faced with an insulting reapportionment plan and one that provided a modicum of potential for balance to this state, some Republicans supported the lesser evil.

It is important to note that throughout this reapportionment debate, Gov. Blanchard, a man who claims to want bi-partisan consensus government, refused to take a decisive leadership role.

The governor could have brought the reapportionment debate to a close by simply indicating he would veto reapportionment legislation, in the same fashion he indicated he would veto any efforts to rollback the 38 percent income tax hike passed by the Democratic legislature earlier this year.

Instead he and the leaders of his party remained committed to placing their own political survival ahead of the best interests of the electorate.

The citizens of this state need to know that the Republicans are committed to government for the people while the Democrats are committed to government for the Democrats.

Root, Brown wed

Linda Mae Root and David W. Brown were united in marriage Dec. 17 in a traditional ceremony performed by the Rev. Tony Sobocinski at the Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church, Independence Township.

The bride wore a powder blue, full-length taffeta gown with a sheer overlay. In her hair, she wore three miniature blue and white carnations. She carried a bouquet of white, blue and yellow flowers.

Maid of honor was the bride's daughter, Paula Root of Durand. She wore a cream-colored knee-length dress and carried two blue carnations.

Best man was Paul Brown.

The reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother, Leona Jones of Clarkston.

The bride's parents are Robert and Margaret Springs of Durand.

The bride is to graduate from Spring Arbor College in 1984.

A band director employed by Concord Community Schools, the bridegroom graduated from Clarkston High School in 1976 and from Albion College in 1980.

The couple took their honeymoon trip to Chicago, Ill.

They are residing in Concord.

Club notes

Civitan's at work

The North Oakland Union Civitan Club is a service club that centers its work on the community, the schools, and the mentally and physically handicapped.

The club covers the Clarkston-Waterford area. It was started four years ago and was officially chartered in December 1981.

Since then the club has had many projects, such as a pancake breakfast and a spaghetti dinner as fund raisers.

Service projects include special olympics, work with the residents of Cambrook house in Waterford Township and singing Christmas carols and parties at many group homes, hospitals and neighborhoods.

The group has many goals, including expanding the membership of the club. The club meets the first and the third Thursday of every month from 7 to 8 p.m. at the Cambrook home located at Our Lady of the Lakes High School (LHS).

The club has just installed new officers for 1984.

Mei Mah is president. She lives in Waterford and is a junior at LHS. She was one of the original founders of junior Civitan when in the eighth grade.

The vice president position was filled by Ann Christenson. Ann lives in Clarkston and is a junior at Marion High School. She has been a member of junior Civitan two years.

Ruth Acton is secretary. A tenth-grader at Clarkston High School, she has been in the club one year.

Jenny Place has filled the treasurer's post. A junior at CHS, she has been in junior Civitan since ninth grade.

Good Samaritan does it one better

By Marilyn Trumper

Somewhere in Springfield Township today a 75-year-old woman's thawing frozen cheese cut and packaged in a freezer just defrosted by Good Samaritan Douglas Ferguson.

"I don't deserve recognition. There are a lot more people out there who do more than me," Ferguson said.

Involved in the Independence Township Senior Citizens Center, Ferguson, 62, volunteered to package and deliver holiday food baskets to needy people.

"Do it once, and you'll always want to do it," Ferguson said. "It makes your Christmas for you. There are old people and families with kids so glad to get that stuff. They actually cry on your shoulder."

"I want out to this lady's house in Springfield Township. I'm 62, so she was probably 75. She lived alone and wanted to know what she was going to do with all the cheese.

"I told her to freeze it, and pull it out in chunks a piece at a time when she wanted some. So I helped her slice it into chunks. Then I went to put the turkey in the freezer, opened the door, and though 'Oh my God.' It had never been defrosted. So I did that with instructions to close it up in three hours. I couldn't stay around there anymore."

Prime rib on NWOVEC's new buffet

Warm up with the January Buffet at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center's Northwest Inn.

The meal is planned Friday, Jan. 20. On the menu are Prime Rib with Brown Sauce and Crown Roast of Pork with Dressing and a large assortment of salads and desserts.

The cost is $5.50, including tax, for the meal prepared and served by high school students from Clarkston, Brandon, Holly and Waterford enrolled in the food service program.

Due to the popularity of past buffets, a reservation system has been established. Tickets may be picked up in advance at the school or reservations may be made and the tickets will be held at the door.

Because payment will be required at the door, no money will be accepted in advance.

For those holding tickets, the doors open at 11:15 a.m. Those without tickets will be seated after 12:30 p.m. The serving line closes at 1:15 p.m.

The Northwest Inn is located inside the vocational school at 8211 Big Lake, Springfield Township. Call 625-5202 for reservations.

Ann's ark

All creatures deserve peace

Ann Glenn

A few days ago, there was a man on television with a 5-month-old tiger.

He bought the tiger from a zoo when it was 4 weeks old. Now that it consumes 55 pounds of meat each day, and plays roughly with neighbors and friends, he wants to sell it for $2,000.

What about that animal and its devotion, trust, faith in that man? What about the confusion, torment and cruelty that lies ahead for this elegant beast who belongs lithe and free in the wild; who has learned to conform to man's will?

Do we have the right to subject a sentient animal to our whims and our throw-away world?

On my morning walk, I see eight or 10 dogs tied on 3-foot chains to shabby sheds called dog houses.

Yesterday one was dead in the cold.

I have never seen anyone caring, day or night, for these dogs. Why do men keep dogs in squalor and loneliness?

Dogs for centuries have been brought into man's den to serve him, to bask in his caring. How can we justify anything less in modern, civilized America?

I once thought dairy cows lived in pastoral glory raising prized young.

I was horrified to find out, after my urban youth, that cows are stuffed in feed lots that do not even permit them to stand on clean ground, let alone lay on it.

Often, they have no shade or shelter. In fact, look how they die in Texas when a twist of nature catches man in his gluttony, not prepared for emergencies.

Who suffers? The cattle die one by one, up to the ten-thousands.

Mother milk cows are separated from their calves at birth and cry out in the night, often for a period of days, for their God-given right to care for their young.

The calves long to suck, to be licked and massaged, and to experience their youth.

Chickens are jammed in pens where they never see the light of day, never gather their brood under their wings.

They are quite creative and productive when left to fulfill the measure of their creation, knowing earth and sun and people.

Cornell University just completed a study showing that chickens receiving kind, human contact and "normal" life-styles are less susceptible to disease and produce better and longer than factory farm chickens.

And the egg has more nourishment to boot.

I talked with a man from Istanbul, Turkey, who told me that the United States and Canada have less than 5 percent of the world population, yet they consume 65 percent of all products.

He speculated that the waste from our tables in the U.S. and Canada would feed all the hungry in India.

I carried treats to our 28-year-old pony over the holidays. He whinnied quietly, his velvet nose quivered as his breath steamed in the cold.

His eyes are softer than they were years ago. His coat is long and shaggy to warm his older bones.

He came to us 19 years ago as a birthday present for our now 23-year-old daughter. He has moved with us from New Jersey to Illinois to Vermont and then Michigan.

All three daughters learned to ride, drive and handle him. He figured each of them out; he knows them as we do. He helped them grow up and taught them to be sensitive and responsible.

Should he now be sold to the highest bidder? No. He deserves green pastures and familiar pats and loving, peaceful retirement. He has served us well.

My New Year's wish is a prayer for all mankind to know peace and plenty. As these creatures forgive and forget and love, may man sense his stewardship and face cruelty and inhumanity with indignation.

Each year, may we get closer to the peaceable kingdom intended for all of earth's creatures.

Energy saving means less glass

By Kathy Greenfield

If the Clarkston school district wants to conserve energy, it's going to have to cover up windows, according to representatives of Daverman Associates of Grand Rapids.

The men, Thomas Bisbee and Al DeJonge, presented details of three plans and options at the board of education Monday night. Included were sketches of all the buildings involved in the study.

"Please be aware it will change what you now see at Andersonville, Bailey Lake, Clarkston Elementary, Pine Knob, North Sashabaw (and the new portion of Clarkston Junior High) rather dramatically," said Superintendent Milford Mason. "It will change less the view of the high school."

The board decided to discuss the plans, and possibly choose one, at a special meeting on Monday, Jan. 16, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the board of education office.

Board member Carolyn Place, a teacher, began discussion on the effect removing windows would have with this comment on her classroom at Davisburg Elementary School in the Holly school district: "I happen to be the unfortunate teacher who presently teaches in the windowless classroom."

DeJonge defended the proposed changes by saying teachers usually end up liking them.

"The first thing they do is go into shock when they know they're going to lose all that glass," he said, but they discover the advantages—no drafts, less distractions and more display space.

Mason noted that the rooms should stay warmer in winter and cooler in the spring and fall because they are better insulated.

"The current vogue in school architecture now is the elimination of windows, or fewer windows," said board member Mary Jane Chaustowich.

Bisbee noted that each classroom must follow current state law by having a window large enough to provide escape in case of an emergency.

"Please be aware
it will change what you see now."

—Milford Mason

Allen Bartlett, Clarkston Education Association president, asked if the rooms could be air conditioned.

"Those of us who are aware of what's going on know there is a movement afoot (in Lansing) to lengthen the school year...by some 20 days," he said. "Now, hopefully that won't come to fruition, (but) it would seem to me if we do get into a situation where length of the school day is a mandate we may have to look at air conditioning and the ventilation."

"It would be very expensive and it's not conserving energy," said Bisbee. "Obviously I don't think that would fit the energy conservation program."

Building gets boost

Independence Township's Building Department issued 54 permits for new homes in 1983, compared to nine in 1982, according to a department spokesperson.

The increase reflects statewide in figures that show 14,438 permits issued for new homes in 1983, compared to 8,319 in 1982.

The district plans to pay for the changes with bonds or notes that would be paid back with savings in energy expenses.

State Act 431, one of the last acts approved by former Gov. William Milliken, allows school districts to borrow money for energy conservation purposes without going to the voters for approval. They must prove the changes can pay for themselves within a 10-year period.

There were three basic plans for most school buildings.

Plan one ($270,000) included weatherstripping existing doors and installing insulation around them, and covering existing skylights and glass brick with insulation.

Plan two ($700,000) included all of plan one plus removing existing windows in most school buildings and installing one 4-by-6-foot window in classrooms.

Plan three ($720,000) included all of plan one plus removing existing windows in most school buildings and installing two windows—each 4-foot-by-4-foot-4-inches.

The cost with options would be $1.1 million, and would include electrical and mechanical work with longer payback schedules.

Board members indicated they wanted to study the detailed proposal presented in booklet form by the Daverman firm and consider options only if they would save money in a relatively short period of time.

Springfield family shares heritage

History shows they came over on the Mayflower

By Dan Vandenhemel

What do the Mayflower, Bing Crosby and a 13th century English castle have in common?

All three appear in the family history of 38-year-old Al Crosby of Crosby Lake Road in Springfield Township.

Crosby, his wife, Annetta, and his visiting sister, Nancy Jo Duckett, discovered all these facts while looking through a 40-page family history.

"We just got this from our cousin, Sandy Campbell, yesterday," Mrs. Crosby said. "We are still trying to figure everything out."

What they did find is they had a cousin born on the Mayflower on its way to the New World with Christopher Columbus.

They are the 32nd cousins of Bing Crosby.

And there are still eight estates in England that carry the Crosby name.

Crosby, his wife and three children live on what's left of his great-great-grandfather's property near Crosby Lake.

Enoch Crosby settled on 95 acres in 1877. After being handed down from generation to generation, the property was taken over by Al Crosby in the early 1970s.

"My dad built this house in 1948," Crosby said. "I got the property in 1945 when our grandfather died."

All but five acres were sold and the profits divided among the family.

"We used to have cattle and pigs and chickens on farm," Crosby said. "Also we grew hay and corn."

When the property was sold most of it was mined gravel, and that activity provided many memories Crosby and his siblings.

"When I was 12 and working on a farm on the other side of the gravel pit I had to save a man's life," Crosby said. "As I was walking near the pit, I saw a man buried up to his neck from a cave-in. I had to run and find a shovel and dig him out. I'll never forget that."

Crosby Lake, now practically a dead lake Crosby said, was filled with fish and was a good swimming hole.

"The Indians used to come down and get water out of that lake," he said. "Now, it's almost dried up."

Crosby plans to eventually offer the family property to his son, then move to northern Michigan.

"I'd like to keep the property in our family, but if that's not possible it's going to be hard," he said.

Going through 40 pages of family history can bring back a number of memories. Al Crosby, his wife, Annetta, and sister, Nancy Jo Duckett, [foreground] sort out the facts.

Snowplows hamper street cleaning

Clarkston's director of the department of public works wants village residents and plowing contractors to keep sidewalks free of snow piles.

"The big problem I see are the pickups with plows that come down a driveway and leave snow at the end. We can't get our little tractor down the walks. Big piles of snow left from plows block the ends of the walk, and it's too much for the little tractor to lift," Gar Wilson said.

The DPW used to clean all sidewalks. But they quit two years ago, Wilson said, when residents complained they weren't getting it done fast enough.

"We're trying it again this year, but I don't want to hear complaints because we can't get around that snow," he said.

Wilson also warns that contractors and residents who dump snow into the street are held liable for accidents that occur because of the snow.

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP RESIDENTS

The township wishes to inform all residents of Independence Township that actual physical construction of the Independence Clarkston Cable TV System has begun.

The cable operators, Independence Cable Television, have hired LeCom Construction for both aerial and underground cable construction. The first activity that you will see is the placement of pole anchors in the ground at the end of each pole run. Construction has begun in the area of the headend (near Rademacher's Chevrolet). Construction will continue throughout the winter.

LeCom's trucks are all clearly marked with their name and company logo. Their personnel are all required to carry proper identification. If you have any questions or complaints during the construction phase, please call Independence Township Cable Television at 585-9292.

New zoning concept under scrutiny

A new zoning concept, Planned Unit Development, could change the future of developments in Independence Township.

It's the topic of a public hearing before the planning commission on Thursday, Jan. 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Township attorney Gerald Fisher says the proposal could prove of critical importance.

Fisher is one of the state's leading experts on PUDs, according to Independence building and planning Director Kenneth Delbridge.

"When you stop and think about the kinds of people in need of housing in Independence Township and elsewhere, and compare it with the kinds of housing available, and throw in the availability of shopping and recreational, etc., it's all been done on zoning to date. Zoning from the last 50 years or more has been done in a grid. The cost of that kind of housing to many has become out of reach," Fisher said.

"The PUD concept presents some relief to the developer. Number one, in terms of housing, it allows creative layout and greater density. It allows houses to be closer together, and also deviates by allowing variety from the zoning ordinance."

Fisher put together a statewide interdisciplinary committee to develop a model plan PUD ordinance for state distribution and authored a law review article on the subject.

Planning commission Chairman Neil Wallace sees the proposal as something "...for the better."

"It does two things. Principally it gives the township flexibility in the planning process to enhance the development of unique and special properties," he said.

It allows a mixture of uses on one parcel, like offices and commercial, or multiple and single family residences, he said.

News' worth

The article in last week's Clarkston News on village business buildings selling for prices far above what tax assessments indicate should have included The Clarkston News building.

Although the assessed valuations of all buildings in the downtown business district were not in the story, the News building should have been included in order to avoid the appearance of omitting property because it is owned by the newspaper, said publisher James Sherman.

The 1983 assessment was $37,500 for the 2,500-square-foot News building located at 5 S. Main, according to David Sherrill, township assessor.

In last week's story, Sherrill indicated tax assessments for village business buildings would increase in 1984.

"The assessors have always treated us fairly, but the building is not for sale and it concerns me possibly being taxed for an unknown," said Sherman.

The two-story masonry structure, located at the southwest corner of Main and Washington streets, is at least 107 years old.

Teen held for theft

A 17-year-old Independence Township man arrested for stealing a car waived preliminary exam before Oakland County District Court Judge Gerald E. McNally Jan. 6.

Jason Vanderpool of Drayton Road was bound over to circuit court on $2,500 cash or surety bond and is scheduled for arraignment Jan. 19 before Judge Alice Gilbert.

Vanderpool was arrested last week on charges of stealing a 1980 Chevrolet.

Conviction of the felony could carry a five-year prison sentence, according to a court spokesperson.

Peeking into the past

10 YEARS AGO

Jan. 10, 1974

Construction lags with 164 building permits issued in Independence Township in 1973, compared to 176 in 1972.

***

Guard Gary Mason leads the way for the Clarkston High School Wolves, scoring 19 points in the loss to Waterford Mott.

***

The Clarkston United Methodist Women re-elect Joy McKibben president for 1974.

Grocery bargains: head lettuce, 22 cents; four rolls toilet paper, 35 cents; butter, 79 cents a pound; chunk light tuna, 6 1/2 ounce can for 44 cents.

25 YEARS AGO

Jan. 8, 1959

Many who celebrated New Year's Eve are forced to stay at the point of celebration because of slippery roads.

Among Clarkston residents who opened their homes to stranded guests and neighbors were the R.E. Spohns, the William Mansfields, the Bob Philllipses, the Ray Parkers, the Earl Taylors, the Luke Martins, the D.C. Innans, the Robert Whitlocks, the Clyde Beckers, the Reginald Birds, the Paul Frechettes and the Lester Howes.

Grocery bargains: salmon, 39 cents a can; bacon, 59 cents a pound; five large grapefruit for 35 cents; frying chickens, 29 cents a pound; dog food, 12 cans for 99 cents; peanut butter, 2 1/2 pound jar for 49 cents.
