Boy pulls man from icy lake

By Dan Vandenhemel

A 14-year-old Springfield Township resident rushed to save a man's life on Susin Lake Feb. 20, and endangered his own in the process.

Scott Davis was stacking wood behind his Norman Road home when he noticed the man walking on the frozen lake toward his home with an arm full of groceries. The man lives on the island in the middle of Susin Lake and crossing the lake is his only access.

"One minute I saw him, then I turned around and he was gone," the ninth-grader at Clarkston Junior High said. "I grabbed a board and went to get him out."

"I can't remember his name and my parents haven't met him yet. I'm worried about him because he doesn't have any heat on the island yet or a phone. I hope he'll be all right."

As Davis was running toward the man, he fell in up to his waist, but was able to get out by himself.

After helping the man out of the water, Davis then fell through the 3-inch-thick ice again and the man helped him out. The man is about 30 years old, Davis said.

By this time a crowd had gathered on the shore to help.

"We waited to see if he made it back to the island all right," Davis said. "He said for me to come over in a couple of days so he can talk to me."

"I fell in four times. The water was cold. It was about 6-feet deep. The ice was shattering like crystal. I was scared. I'm glad it's over."

4x4 tragedy

By Marilyn Trumper

An afternoon of four-wheel drive sport in Independence Township ended in freak tragedy Sunday night, and took the life of a 23-year-old man.

Dead is Steven Stark of Waterford Township.

According to Deputy Mark Gallo of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, Stark and two other trucks were driving fields in the old Double D Ranch, a quarter mile off Clintonville Road near Maybee shortly after 5 p.m. Feb. 18, when one driver bogged in the mud.

Ready to help a fellow enthusiast out of the mess, Stark hitched a nylon tow strap to a hook on the front of the disabled truck, and tied the other end to a trailer hitch on his rear bumper.

When Stark started to pull the truck from the mud, the hook came loose from the disabled truck.

Still tied to the strap, the hook was propelled through the air and broke the back window of Stark's truck as he looked out, striking him in the head.

He died an hour later at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, according to a hospital spokesperson.

Free tax form aid for seniors

By Kathy Greenfield

The tax service is free for all those over age 55 and for taxpayers of any age with low incomes.

That's why Douglas Ferguson can't understand why business isn't brisk Wednesdays at the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center.

Ferguson is there from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., or later if necessary, with three other men—all just waiting to use their expertise to prepare tax forms.

"Emphasize there's no charge for this," he said. "We try to figure out every way possible for people to get money back."

"In fact, I found a woman, the wife of a veteran and on the homestead tax. She's been paying $100 and I found she can get $500 back. You can go back four years—for last year she'll get $300 back."

A Springfield Township resident, Ferguson is

Damming floods 80 acres

Independent contractors damming the Sashabaw Creek at I-75 got more than they bargained for last week when over a million gallons of water backed up and flooded 80 acres, according to Michael Clark.

Clark's property off Clintonville Road suffered the brunt of the damage.

"I was ready to get an injunction against them, but they said they'd handle it," Clark said.

Iafrate Construction of Warren won the job bid by the State Highway Department, according to Clark. They're restructuring Sashabaw Creek's culvert to new legal grade specifications, he said.

Dominic Iafrate, spokesperson for Iafrate Construction of Roseville, said the problem's been eliminated and that the water is now draining through its proper course.

"It should be already taken care of," he said, last week.

Independence Township's director of building and planning, Kenneth Delbridge, said he received a second call of complaint from a property owner whose driveway was flooded, as was Clark's.

"I had two and a half feet of water in my driveway; it was up my knees. I had to wear waders," Clark said. "The toilet wouldn't flush. I couldn't take a shower. The water level was up 18 inches over what it was last year during the 100-year flood."

"They did two other jobs where they dammed up creeks, but I guess they didn't know exactly how much water comes through here."

Clark says 30 of his 40 acres were under water.

retired, as are the other men who assist with tax forms—Edward Secatch and Elmer Barnes, both of Springfield Township, and Richard Kline of Pontiac.

They volunteered to attend classes, that totaled seven days, to study the tax forms and had to pass a test before they could offer the service.

Their purpose is to "take care of our own family," Ferguson said, referring to people in the community.

They'll also help any eligible person who comes from areas other than Independence or Springfield.

The same service offered at the Waterford senior center is extremely busy, according to Ferguson.

"They had an appointment book. They were going hogwild," he said. "Here we only had four this week. Last week we had eight."

He wants to see many more local people take advantage of the free service.

To make an appointment call the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center at 625-8231. The service will be offered through April 11.

The center is located at 5980 Clarkston Rd. at Clintonwood Park.

Those seeking the tax service need to bring their social security number and their spouse's, a statement of income from any job or other income in 1983, the 1983 tax forms received in the mail this year and a copy of taxes paid last year if available.

In addition, they need records of social security received in 1983, general assistance received (if any), interest and dividends received in 1983, the amount paid for health insurance other than Medicare, rent or house payments paid in 1983, property taxes and a record of one month's heating bill (homeowners only).

Dumping dispute

By Marilyn Trumper

Through an anonymous letter, The Clarkston News learned Independence Township Supervisor James B. Smith used an off-duty DPW employee and DPW truck to pick up and transport old fencing from his Allen Road farm to a public collection site during last year's townshipwide spring clean-up.

DPW employee Derek Place remembers doing the work for Smith because the truck got stuck in a field, and a wrecker was called to pull him out.

"I was working (privately) for Smith at the time and 29 hours a week for the township," Place said. "He hired me to do some clean-up work out at the farm, and I went out to get the fencing."

"Yeah, it was my own time, but I did use the township truck. But I take that home every night anyway," he said.

Smith remembers it differently.

"I'd hired him to clean the barn, basement and outside, and he did a fine job. But forgot the fencing," Smith said.

"All I did was call (George Anderson, DPW director) and say, 'I've got a problem. There's some fencing out here that wasn't picked up. If you've got a truck going by this way sometime, could you see what you can do?'" Smith said.

"The next thing I know it was taken care of, and I probably wouldn't have known about it, except he got the truck stuck."

Plautz brothers pull permit for medical clinic on Dixie

By Marilyn Trumper
Partners in Crest Contractors, brothers David and Michael Plautz were one of three firms to pull commercial building permits in 1983.
Last November they broke ground on a

David Plautz builds medical complexes, and this year broke ground for one of three commercial buildings in Independence. It's on Dixie Highway, across from the Clarkston Cinema.

5,000-square-foot medical clinic on the south side of Dixie Highway, north of M-15.
Estimated cost: $400,000.

"We really started on it three years ago when the economy was most foreboding and decided to skip it. But we'd had the engineering done and the plans finished. We talked to two other investors and decided to do it. We feel there's a real need here for deluxe office space," David Plautz said.

He cites orthodontist Charles Munk's Clarkston Professional Plaza built four years ago south of Clarkston village on M-15.

"That's 20,000 square feet! And look at what a success it's been for him. He was a smart guy. Doctors today can't build building and make them pay for themselves," he said.

The Plautz brothers own and lease Clarkston Professional Center on M-15 and the Pine Knob Professional Plaza on Sashabaw Road, in addition to 12 clinics throughout Oakland County.

"We don't anticipate any problems leasing out the new one," Plautz said. "We've had two serious people looking already. But building, it's been a gamble."

Plautz says he got the land at a reasonable price. The building is five feet from the Clinton River.

"I bought it for aesthetics, it's beautiful. But nobody else wanted it because of all the problems involved in building there. Everyone says we were crazy," he said.

"But the economy has been so bad for us general contractors that you have to create your own work. If you do nothing, nothing happens."

Completion is scheduled for spring.

"We have a future in the Clarkston area. It's number one as a medical center and draws people from 30 miles away to see our doctors," Plautz said. "Every town is famous for something—and in Clarkston, I guess, it's doctors."

"We feel it's a good area and a real good investment."

Plautz says he couldn't build the clinic on his own.

"But with the other two investors it was possible. I wouldn't be able to hold it open and unleased very long, but two other investors makes it easier," he said.

"It's at least 15 years before you see a return on your money. Like with any real estate, it's long-term investment."

Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital announced last fall it's pursuing a 50-acre site at White Lake Roads and Dixie Highway for a $38-million satellite hospital.

"That was a pleasure to hear," Plautz said, noting his clinic and the proposed hospital are in the same corridor. "It reinforces my theory that we made the right choice. They feel Clarkston's heading the same way—and they're attracted to this community too."

Mr. G's expands to 3,000-square-feet from ground up

By Marilyn Trumper
Dick Ayres says it's tough for the little guy, the small businessman, to take risks today.

The guy who wants to build a church or open a saddlery shop probably won't make it.

It takes big money to build and wade through permits, government restrictions, engineering diagrams and endless boards and commissions.

But the American Dream is there for those who take the risk.

Ayres, who specializes in hair replacement, was one of three developers to pull commercial building permits in Independence Township last year.

Unable to garner a conventional commercial loan from the bank to build his own shop, yet strongly believing he'd make it, Ayres mortgaged his own home to finance construction.

His 3,000-square-foot, $150,000 Mr. G's Hair Center opened Feb. 14 across the street from his 15-year-old location in the Independence Commons shopping strip on Dixie Highway.

The contemporary building with rounded corners has a private entrance and lobby for hair replacement clients, three more stations for cutting hair and room for a skin service salon.

"The hair replacement business had grown so much it was interfering with the rest of the business. So I looked at two things: renting two new locations, or building a much larger building. So I bought the property (across the street)," Ayres said.

"... It's scary. But you've got to take risks. The banks didn't want to lend me the money without security so I mortgaged my home..."

—Dick Ayres

"It's scary. But you've got to take risks. The banks didn't want to lend me the money without security—the building itself wouldn't be enough. So I mortgaged my home. They've gotten stuck with so many unfinished subdivisions, they're leery."

It's easy to spend a lot of money just getting plans together.

"I started out thinking, OK, OK, I'll spend a hundred here and a hundred there. It ended up being a thousand here and a thousand there. But I don't see any other way to do it, other than buy an existing building," Ayres said.

"People, I think, are intimidated by it. It took Edison two and a half months to hook-up. And Consumers, one and a half months. The state highway department had my request for approaches to curb and gutter for two to three months.

"That alone cost $7,500," and the parking lot, after final application of blacktop, will have cost $25,000, he said.

Dick Ayres stands before his new hair shop on Dixie Highway, Independence Township. One of three developers to pull commercial permits in the township in 1983, Ayres financed construction by mortgaging his home.

Office/cold storage site proposed

Gil Ham pulled a building permit Nov. 7 from the Independence Township Building Department for his proposed 5,280-square-foot office/cold storage building on 3.5 acres off White Lake Road.

But no inspections have been made, according to Bev McElmeel, department spokesperson.

"I'm not even sure if he's started construction, but I remember he was in a real hurry to get through all the paperwork," McElmeel said.

Ham, owner of the LACH company, was the third developer to pull a permit for commercial construction in Independence Township last year.

He could not be reached for comment.

Energy conservation study ends with note bid

By Kathy Greenfield

The final step is complete for the $735,000 energy conservation remodeling project by the Clarkston school district.

The majority of the money will go to replace windows and glass brick in the district's eight school buildings and learning center with insulated panels.

On Feb. 13 the board of education voted unanimously to accept a bid from Merrill Lynch White Weld Capital Markets Group, Chicago, Ill., for the purchase of 10-year notes at 9.1444 percent interest.

"It's a big plus for us," said district financial director William Jackson, whose opinion was confirmed by Richard Barch from the financial consulting firm of Stauder, Barch and Associates of Ann Arbor.

"I believe in the last 21 sales (of notes), this is the lowest rate of 19," Barch said. "This is terrifically low interest rate, particularly with the stock market going down. The last note was Three Rivers school district, that was about 30 days ago, and it was 10 percent."

The financial consulting firm was hired because it handled a bond issue for the district in 1979 and because it was recommended by Daverman Associates

Inc. of Grand Rapids, the architectural and engineering firm in charge of the project.

Jackson also noted that projections made by Daverman Associates were based on an interest rate of 10.45 percent, and the difference would greatly reduce the district's expenses.

After the meeting, he elaborated.

"With the lower interest rate, payback schedule and investment of funds received, there won't be a negative cashflow the first year," he said, meaning that savings generated should immediately begin to cover expenses.

The note payments begin at $35,000 the first year and continue to increase to a high of $115,000 in 1993.

Work on the school buildings is expected to begin in June and be completed before school resumes in September.

District to keep its 18.9 acres

The 18.9 acres leased by the Clarkston school district to Springfield Township for recreational purposes is going to stay that way.

A letter from Springfield parks commission secretary Gary Dove asking if the district would consider transferring the title resulted in discussion of the importance of the property at last week's school board meeting.

"I think we as staff here recognize that the 18.9 acres plus the adjacent almost 40 acres of land could eventually hold a school for the district," said Superintendent Milford Mason.

The property, located on Holcomb Road north of Bridge Lake Road, is about half-way between Andersonville Elementary and the elementary, junior and senior high complex off Waldon Road.

If M-275 is completed or the population increases a great deal, the land could become "most significant," Mason said.

Although no vote was taken, Mason said he understood the board's consensus was to keep the property.

Dove, who also serves as the Springfield Township attorney, said his letter was not meant to be a formal request.

Last year he was successful with a similar inquiry to the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department for the Mill Pond Park in the town Davisburg. The department recommended approval of the plan that now awaits action by the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

"It was the same kind of thing—just testing the waters," he said.

Springfield Township holds a 20-year lease on the property, but any additions or changes must be approved by the Clarkston school district.

According to the lease agreement, signed in 1981, if the district wants the land back it needs only to give six-month notice.

Dove said some playground equipment, picnic tables and grills are to be installed on the property this spring.

Walker joins council

Carolyn Walker has been named to the Oakland County Special Education Parent Advisory Council. Her appointment was unanimously approved by the Clarkston school board Feb. 13.

The 28 school districts in Oakland County are represented on the council, said Robert Brumback, director of special services for the school district, who recommended Walker for the position.

"I think she's going to be a real asset to our district," said board member Carolyn Place. "I'm glad you recommended her."

A six-year resident of Independence Township, Walker has two children.

She works at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital as an emergency room admitting clerk, serves as a part-time receptionist for a local physician and is a free-lance writer.

A graduate of Oakland University, Rochester, she holds a bachelor's degree in English.

Drug suspension

A Clarkston High School student has been suspended for the remainder of the school year for selling drugs.

The matter came before the board of education last week. The board, which rules on all suspensions over 30 days, voted 7-0 to support the administration recommendation that the student be suspended.

Under the Michigan Open Meetings Act, student discipline hearings may be closed if requested by the student or parent. Because no one was present to represent the student, the discussion had to remain open to the public.

The student may return to school in the fall of 1984. Board members discussed alternate education open to the 17-year-old—adult education courses in Waterford or summer school.

Also pondered was requiring the student to sign a pledge or show cause why he should be allowed to return to CHS in the fall if he chooses to do so.

Such a requirement would be impossible because the action was a suspension rather than an expulsion, said Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara.

"I'd like to know what we did to the person who bought the drug—did we suspend him as well?" asked board member David Kithil.

"We got him for possession of marijuana, so that was a 10-day suspension," said CHS Assistant Principal Jan Gabier.

Another victim

Al Zawacky

Crime statistics have a way of numbing you after a while. Oh, we all shake our heads and utter the appropriate feelings of dismay, but unless we have some personal involvement, crime stats are just numbers—cold, meaningless ink blots on a sheet of paper.

So, we arch our eyebrows when we read that there were some 581 homicides, 16,922 robberies and 1,514 rapes in the City of Detroit last year, but the reality of those figures never quite strikes home.

Until you become a victim.

My close encounter was a trivial one: Someone broke into my car in Dearborn two weekends ago and made off with my AM-FM stereo cassette player and power booster. In the process, the thug or thugs destroyed half of my dashboard.

THE THING THAT amazed me was the way I reacted when I walked out to my car and discovered what had happened. I bit my lip, nodded sadly, and walked to a pay phone to call the police. Totally uncharacteristic. Usually when confronted with crime, I rage like some Old Testament prophet, demanding retribution and punishment.

Maybe this reaction on my part was a symptom of how anesthetized we've all become to the reality of crime.

"I suppose it could have been worse," I said to the police officer as he filled out his report. "They could have taken my car."

The officer laughed. "You must be the eternal optimist," he said.

"What do you mean?"

"Most people are all up in arms when we get here—'Why weren't you guys watching my car? Where the heck were you?' Stuff like that."

I shrugged. I didn't really feel lucky—just resigned. And helpless. My stereo equipment was worth some $200. I have to bust my butt to earn $200, and here some creep had just made off with the tidy sum for some five minutes of effort.

I couldn't even console myself with vows to "be more careful next time." I had locked my car, as I always do. I had parked under a light, as I always do. I had parked near a building entrance in a spot visible from the highway, as I always do. It didn't make any difference.

THE OFFICER FINISHED his police report, handed me my license and registration, expressed his sympathy and advised me to call my insurance company. It was all he, or any police officer, could do.

I got back in my car and paused a moment, staring at an empty hole in my dashboard and thinking about the $100 deductible on my insurance policy.

I gave a passing thought to what I'd have done to the bum if I had caught him red-handed, but the actual chances for revenge seemed so slim as to rob these fantasies of any satisfaction. The thief would never be found; I was out of at least $100. End of incident.

It was not a major crime, of course, but in some small way it helped me appreciate the human tragedy behind those cold, meaningless ink blots. There were 581 homicides, 16,922 robberies and 1,514 rapes in Detroit last year. Think about it. It's scary.

Keep windows

Rainstorms, snow falling, birds in flight, clouds, to name only a few of the glories of nature and our "Fragile Island Home," which so sorely needs lessons in reverence.

All of these lessons would be blocked out to our school children if the current windowless plan is adopted.

Several years ago while a student at The National Music Academy, one of our great centers for the instruction of the arts, all agreed that the glories of nature aided and abetted our learning processes and were never listed as distractions.

Administrators weigh carefully the measurements for nature to shine through.

Threats

Jim Sherman

You like threats? I don't. Few people do. Yet that's the way our governments starts out some of the forms they send us.

Annually, we're required to fill out a manufacturers form MC-2701. Top left corner says: NOTICE-Response to this inquiry is required by law (title 13, U.S. Code).

Annually, we have to file a form with the Postal Service. Top page 2 threatens us with a $500 fine if certain things aren't done.

Then there's the personal property tax form sent by townships and/or cities to businesses. We have to tell how much we spent on machines, furniture, and fixtures for the past 12 years.

Top middle front: "Act No. 206, Laws of 1893. The law is mandatory." The fine for not returning the form can cost me $1,000 and put me in jail for six months.

"See section 21, Act 206, public acts 1893, as amended" it says. And, do it before February 6.

I never thought of discarding the form and risking time in the slammer.

I can't remember why I called one of the

Adventure

Kathy Greenfield

It all started when our newest licensed driver had the unfortunate task of announcing the gas cap was gone.

A friend noticed it. She went back to the last gas station visited—it wasn't there. She went to every nearby place that sells auto parts. None of their gas caps fit.

It was time for true confession.

My husband, one of the greatest bargain hunters of all time, called a junkyard—yes, they had one; yes, it would only cost $5; yes, they were open on Saturday.

I agreed to go with her.

By the time we got going that weekend morning, the junkyard was officially closed. We called. Someone would be there.

When we stepped out of the car, I knew somewhere nearby lurked of those infamous junkyard dogs. The evidence was everywhere underfoot. Mercifully, we never saw the perpetrator.

Actually the junkyard office was a wonderfully interesting place. Piles and piles of treasures-in-the-rough were everywhere. The eyes never had a dull moment.

The helpful man behind the counter produced a cardboard box full of gas caps. He suggested we go out to the car and try them all.

Twenty twists later, we gave up. Our hands and coats were a bit greasy. We returned the collection.

This whole mess wasn't her fault, said my daughter. After all, she didn't just take the gas cap and toss it away. And she didn't want to buy a brand new replacement at the dealership. Babysitting brings in only so much money.

As these things sometimes go, this story has a happy ending.

My daughter bemoaned her fate to a neighbor who happened to have an extra gas cap in his garage that fit—close enough—the gaping hole.

But there's more.

While we were on the great gas cap hunt, a pothole or something ate up one of the hubcaps.

assessors I deal with in January, but while we chatted I asked him how many businesses filed these property tax statements.

"About half," he said.

No wonder the jails are full with people, $1,000 lighter.

Of course, no one is prosecuted. The threat is an idle one, made to put fear into those of us who drive SS, stop at stop signs, and fill out forms correctly and on time.

For those who do not fill out forms, the assessors guess at the property value. When no form is filed the second year assessors often add 10 percent to the year before.

I truly believe businesses who neglect the property statement forms are much further ahead than I. Can an assessor really know how much I paid for a Compugraphic Trendsetter photo-composing machine?

Assessors can still get to the truth if they so desire, and again they have the threat of prosecution behind them. They can require a business to open their books, do an audit.

That's what happened to me about 15 years ago, and why I'm so honest today.

Vote 'Ritter' for U.S. Congress

Wouldn't it be great if Clarkston and Independence could have 'one of their own' in the United States House of Representatives?

That bragging right will become ours and Tom Ritter's when he is elected to Congress next fall.

If there were no other reason at all than the fact Ritter is from this community, we should vote for him.

Baring proof of incompetence, dishonesty, and high crime, Clarkston and Independence voters should support his candidacy.

Since none of the trio of rejection factors are hinted at, even by Tom Ritter his opponents, there is no reason to not get behind a snowballing effort.

There are several 'good' reasons to vote for Ritter, as opposed to the negative trio of words mentioned above.

We have yet to see a voter poll that gives anyone a chance of defeating President Reagan in November. Thus, the public supports his actions and policies. That being the case the public of the 6th District should want a person representing them who will work with the President.

Ritter will do that. He will support the programs that have lowered inflation, decreased unemployment, and brought down interest rates.

Also, in his favor is his not being a professional politician, and his being a small businessman who has gone through and survived a recession or two and the 1979-82 depression. So much was learned by those who survived those three years in business. Those in elected offices for that period cannot know those lessons learned 'the old fashioned way' in the school of hard knocks.

Tom Ritter will be a fine representative of all the people in Congress, and he'll be an especially fine representative for Clarkston and Independence.

County Line

County planning

by Daniel Murphy, Oakland County Executive

The Oakland County Property Management and Community Development Division helps communities and citizens throughout the county improve their residences and neighborhoods.

The division administers the Housing and Community Block Grant Program. Projects funded include sidewalks, senior citizen centers, beautification treatments and street improvements.

The Property Management section negotiates leases, manages the county-owned real estate portfolio and provides housing services to homeowners and renters.

Listed below are a number of services which directly relate to residents. For further information about any of the programs, call 858-0493.

The free Oakland County Housing Counseling and Referral Services helps people concerned with:

- Finding a place to live
- Subsidized housing rentals

- Evictions
- Mortgage foreclosures
- Landlord/tenant problems
- Home repairs and general maintenance
- Discrimination in housing
- Budgeting and money management

The county's Home Improvement Program helps low and moderate income families make necessary home repairs by providing 0- to 3-percent home improvement loans.

The county's Rental Property Rehabilitation Program helps landlords improve rental housing by providing low-interest loans.

In addition, parcels of excess county-owned property are made available for sale to the public.

Before the residents become disenchanted about the cost of making home improvements, they should consult a representative of the County's Property Management and Community Development Division.

'If It Fitz...

A real elephant

According to three professors from the Ohio State University School of Journalism, "news by definition is racist" because the unusual is news and it is unusual to be black when most people are white.

It is also unusual to be a professional athlete when most people don't get paid to play games. So news reports of the Billy Sims trial were sportist by definition.

It is racist to hate an entire race because of the actions of a few members of that race. It is sportist to love an entire football player because of the actions of a few of his legs.

Stick with me on this. If I can make you understand how the news media is guilty of sportism, I may be able to get a job as a university professor.

Those three Ohio State professors were hired by Mayor Young to evaluate, among other things, local news coverage of the Magnum case, in which two former mayoral aides and the president of Magnum Oil Co. were charged with negotiating an illegal deal. All three were acquitted.

In their report saying it was racist for newspapers to identify the races of Magnum disputants, the three professors explained: "The media have to recognize that as long as they continue to operate in an unequal society where that inequality is based on race and do not constantly try to change that inequality by taking affirmative action, they are racist."

That means when there's a race riot, it is racist for reporters, columnists and editorial writers to write that red people fought yellow people. To withhold that information is affirmative action aimed at making society more equal, albeit less informed.

CONVERSELY, in the case of sportism, affirmative action can be accomplished not by withholding information, but by adding to it. The Billy Sims case provided a splendid example of sportist reporting.

Sims signed a $3.5 million contract with the Houston Gamblers and then broke it to sign a $4.5 million deal with the Detroit Lions. After a two-week trial, U.S. District Judge Robert DeMascio ruled in favor of the $4.5 million contract. Trial testimony, out-of-court interviews and the judge's decision were reported in agonizing detail by print and electronic media.

But no one reported how much the Sims-vs-Houston trail cost taxpayers who own the courtroom and pay the salaries of Judge DeMascio and staff. No one explained why the public should pay one lousy cent for the decision determining whether a reneging football player should make $4.5 million or $3.5 million. Also, how come Sims got almost overnight service while less famous litigants often wait months or years to get a civil suit into federal court?

Jim Fitzgerald

Is there a different brand of justice for a running back? Are his time and income more important than that of an ordinary mortal? And how much truth is there to the incredible charge often made (in Texas) that the verdict would have been different if the trial had been held in Houston instead of Detroit?

In trial testimony, Billy Sims came off like a lying phony. In 1982, he righteously accused Lions management of breaking a handshake agreement. In 1983, he broke one signed contract to sign another. And in 1984, he admitted there never was a handshake agreement.

BUT NO SPORTS COLUMNIST or editorialist wrote: "Hey, Sims can't be trusted. He'll break his word for a few bucks. He's a liar and a terrible example for the kids who want his autograph. We don't want such a man playing for our team."

No way. In Detroit it was universally reported as a big victory for the Lions to keep a big phony in the backfield. The media judge Sims by his legs, not character. As long as he ends up in the enemy end zone, it doesn't matter how he gets there.

Plainly, because it is unusual to be Billy Sims, news coverage of the Sims affair was sportist by definition. Don't giggle. That is not nearly as silly as saying that, because it is unusual to be black, all news is racist by definition.

CINDERELLA, CINDERELLA??!!: The Clarkston High School Mime Troupe shared their version of the classic fairy tale during Preschool Story Times at the Independence Township Library Feb. 8. Cory Goodrich as Cinderella wears mime makeup with blackedout teeth, so it's no surprise when Prince Charming, played by Shawn Smith, tries to make a break for it. The students entertained during both story times—at 10 and 11 a.m.—and the preschoolers watched with rapt attention, smiled, laughed and offered their applause.

CHS a success at ensemble

Music students from Clarkston High School performed at the District 4 Solo and Ensemble Festival at Royal Oak Kimball High School.

They received ratings based on the preparation of two contrasting styles of music that showed technique, musicianship, quality and memorization.

Each performed for one of eight judges and received a rating from one to five. (I equals superior, II equals excellent, III equals average.)

Those students with a I rating will attend the State Solo & Ensemble Festival at the University of Michigan-Flint campus April 7.

'Cardiac Kids' grab league title

By Dan Vandenhemel

The league title plus a few gray hairs for their coach make for an exciting season for the Clarkston High School volleyball team.

The varsity Wolves gave themselves and their coach, Nancy Foster, the Greater Oakland Activities League championship with a narrow victory over Lake Orion Feb. 15.

The team has won every league game, and it posts a respectable overall record of 18-2. But many of the matches have been close.

"I must have a few gray hairs after some of these victories," Foster said. "We're starting to call ourselves the 'Cardiac Kids.'"

The Wolves do have a knack for making the matches interesting.

Against Lake Orion, Clarkston jumped out to a 11-2 lead in the opening game and later held a 14-5 advantage. The Dragons came back only to lose

"I must have a few gray hairs after some of these victories."

—Nancy Foster

16-14. The Wolves won the second game to cinch the title 15-10.

"We were able to hold them off," Foster said. "All year we've been the favorites to win the league. I thought, 'If the kids play well we should win it.'"

As it has been most of the year, Wendy Learmont and Laura Hurren led the Wolves to their seventh straight league triumph.

"The second game was back and forth and I think it was 6-6 when Wendy took over," the first year coach said. "Every time Wendy hit the ball, it went to the floor. Laura just hustled around the court."

The 11 players on the team offered few surprises for Foster.

Returning senior Amy Stark has been a consistent plus in the Wolves' attack along with other returners, Beth Chartier, Kim Lorenz, Denise Giroux and Kris Tisch.

Also playing a major part in the this year's success are senior Lisa Ashton, juniors Beth Springer, Roseann Hirneisen, Trica Butler, Hurren, and Learmont.

"Amy has been steady, I haven't had to worry about her," Foster said. "Roseann has been a nice surprise. Denise has been an excellent player, but she went up north for a weekend and Roseann stepped in. Denise has to work her way back into the line-up."

The Wolves face district opponents March 3.

Wolves douse Dragons; still in 1st place

Dave Jokisch battles a Lake Orion player for a rebound and Erik Kline is ready to lend a hand.

The Wolves stay in first place in the league with the narrow 57-55 victory.

By Dan Vandenhemel

The showdown is all set.

The Greater Oakland Activities League basketball title is coming down to one game, Clarkston against Pontiac Northern.

That match-up became a reality when the varsity Wolves shot past Lake Orion 57-55, Feb. 17.

Both Clarkston and Northern will be 6-1 in the league when they meet March 3, in Clarkston. Northern has just Waterford Mott in its way before the game.

Pre-season favorites for the league were Northern and Lake Orion. Clarkston was picked to finish in the middle of the pack.

"If you told me that we'd be playing for the title at the beginning of the season, I wouldn't have believed you," Wolves' coach Dan Fife said. "I would have hoped that we would but I wasn't sure."

The game with the Dragons hinged on the free-throw line. The Wolves' Erik Kline sank a pair of foul shots with less than 10 seconds left to clinch the win.

Chris Bruce, Clarkston's deadly outside bomber, hit a shot that put the Wolves back in the lead for good in the final minute.

"Kline's two free throws were big, but Bruce just hit a tremendous shot. When he takes a shot, there's a good possibility that it's going in," Fife said.

The crowd and the gym were as much a factor in the game as the teams.

It was standing room only at Lake Orion with extra seats added under one of the baskets.

"It was hot in there, too," Fife said. "It was humid and that made the floor a little slippery. But it was such a good game, it's a shame somebody had to lose it."

The Wolves were up at one point in the second half by 12 points. Then the Dragons came back to take the lead.

"In the third quarter for about four minutes, we played super," Fife said. "Then we went into a lull. It was crazy the last two minutes of the game."

Clarkston held a 26-22 lead at halftime, mostly on help from the bench. With four starters out of the game due to foul trouble and six minutes left in the half, Fife had little to worry about as the reserves took control.

"The second string, and I'm not even sure if I can call them that, did a good job," the coach said. "They played as well or better than the regular kids. I think that's one reason we won."

Dragon coach Chuck Mahoney also credited the Wolves' bench in his team's loss.

"I think they had a good team with a lot of depth," Mahoney said. "I felt we played hard, but obviously not as hard as we had to, to win."

Lake Orion Review editor Al Zawacky contributed to this story.

Girl skiers head to finals; boys fall short

By Dan Vandenhemel

As foul weather won't keep postmen from their appointed rounds, good weather won't keep the Clarkston High School ski teams off the slopes.

The unseasonably warm weather almost forced the cancellation of the State Regional ski meet at Pine Knob Ski Resort Feb. 16.

Deteriorating snow conditions and 45-degree weather didn't slow the Wolves girls' team from qualifying for the state finals, but it hurt the boys.

The girls' team tied for first with Grand Blanc to qualify and the boys' team finished third, just six points behind second-place Grand Blanc.

The top two teams and the top three individuals in the regionals go to the finals at Nub's Knob Feb. 27.

Wolves' coach, Don Balzarini, was on the hills at 6 a.m. trying to get the course ready for the 14-team meet.

"We put salt on the course so the snow could melt then refreeze and firm it up," he said. "The course was in good shape during the morning, but it softened up and we had trouble holding our speed in the lower part of the course."

After the slalom portion of the meet, the Clarkston girls held a nine-point lead over Grand Blanc, the boys were seven points up on eventual winners Bloomfield Hills Lahser.

The giant slalom later in the day hurt both teams.

"It was pretty much a straight course and we are a small team. We couldn't carry our speed at the bottom of the hill," Balzarini said.

"We've beaten them (Lahser) seven times in a row. They were due to beat us. You just can't consistently beat a good team like them."

Leading the girls were Lisa Burkemo with a second place in the slalom and a fourth in the giant slalom. Stephanie Brown skied to a fifth place in the slalom and 13th in the giant slalom. Heather Laurie also finished high in the standings, with 10th and sixth places.

For the boys, Craig McLeod missed qualifying for the finals by .01 of a second. His time of 42.19 in the slalom was just behind third-place John McAlindon of Grand Blanc. McLeod was 13th in the giant slalom.

Rick Whittaker came through with a fifth in the slalom and 10th in the giant slalom. Mike Roeser placed ninth and 12th.

"The whole boys' team was disappointed, partially because of their performance and of the snow," Balzarini said. "The girls were disappointed, too, that the boys didn't make it. We really had mixed emotions."

Up My Alley One for the road

By Dan Vandenhemel

Drinking problems come in all shapes and sizes. So do the people who have them.

Being an alcoholic doesn't depend on how big you are. It just matters how aware you are of how much you've had to drink.

There are the staggering drunks, the giggling drunks, hostile drunks and the worst kind of all, the ones who say they don't have a problem.

It's one thing to go out and have a sociable drink once in a while, but it's the five times a week sociable drink that gets people in trouble.

They say they are OK. They may actually believe that. The person is usually the last one to know that there is a drinking problem. Everybody they come in contact with already knows.

I spend a number of hours in bowling centers. Because I take bowling seriously, I don't drink while bowling. While being straight, I'm able to watch many people weave their way out of the bars and into their cars.

I really didn't pay much attention to who the people are, and I didn't care that much unless they were friends of mine.

Don't get the wrong idea. I'll have a drink occasionally, too, like most other people.

But what is scary, is many of the people who are drooped over the bar counter don't realize how often they are getting blitzed.

I've done a couple of stories on rehabilitation centers and I've found out your profession doesn't matter.

Doctors, lawyers, construction workers, bowlers, bakers, the unemployed, all get hit by the bottle flu.

You literally have to badger and harp at some of them to let them know they have a problem. For others, a few caring words will do.

The breweries and the whiskey distributors won't go out of business if you don't have that next drink, but a large number of people will be a lot safer.

Another good news follow-up to a feature story that appeared in the Feb. 1 issue of the Clarkston News.

Bryan Pankey, the 15-year-old motorcycle racer, competed in the National Amateur Ice Race Championship in Lake George, New York, Feb. 5 and came home with a fourth-place finish.

His reward was a 3-foot-high trophy for being near the top of the 350 racers aged 12 to 15.

Bryan's trophy will be added to the over 100 trophies he already has at home.

Get ready for soccer season with clinics

A soccer clinic for women and girls, and a soccer referee clinic kick-off the soccer season for the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department.

Designed to teach basic soccer skills, team competition and rules, the clinic for women and girls is to meet at the Clarkston High School gymnasium Thursday evenings, beginning March 1.

The soccer referee clinic will qualify individuals to referee competitive youth soccer league games under the state Youth Soccer Association.

These are paid positions, with compensation provided by the parks and recreation department.

Improved Cougars give Wolverines scare

By Dan Vandenhemel

The setting was right for an upset.

The Clarkston Wolverines were undefeated going into the basketball game against the Sashabaw Cougars Feb. 15. The Cougars had won five straight prior to the match-up.

An upset by Sashabaw never happened as the Wolverines won, 50-42, but the game never stopped being exciting.

"We were in the game all the way," Cougar coach Wayne Thompson said. "We were down by three with a minute left. They did everything I expected them to do."

Wolverine coach Dave Smith also praised the Cougars' play as the big difference from when the Wolverines crushed the Cougars earlier in the season, 57-28.

"It was very simple. Wayne had his kids better prepared," Smith said. "We were disorganized the whole game. It looked like a different team wearing our jerseys."

In preparing the Cougars for the game, Thompson told his them the whole game rode on getting rebounds from the much taller Wolverines.

"The first time we played we tried to slow the tempo down," he said. "We had to get the offensive boards. Joe Hamlin did a great job inside. The first half we were worried about our shot selection, but in the second half we took those shots and stayed even."

The deliberate offensive by the Cougars, along with a hustling defense by both teams, kept the score low in the first half.

Four minutes were gone in the game before Sashabaw was able to score its first two points. The quarter ended with a 20-foot shot at the buzzer by Cougar Keith Mercier that made the score 8-7 in favor of Clarkston.

Clarkston ups its record to 13-0. Dan Jokisch led with 20 points and 11 rebounds. Pete Hollis added 11 in the victory.

Sashabaw's record is now 8-6. Hamlin was the team's top scorer with 15 points, 10 coming in the final quarter. Dave Larkin hit for eight points, Mercier posted seven and Jeff Billig, six.

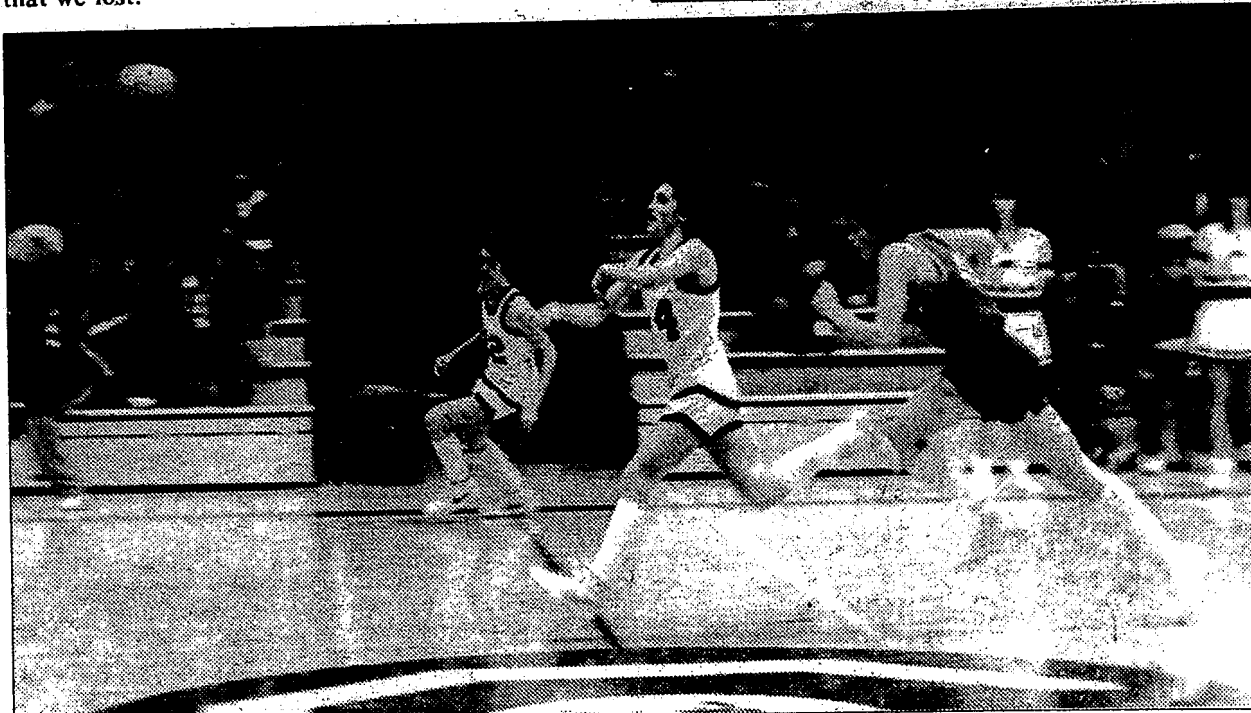

"You have to give a lot of credit to Sashabaw. They really played hard out there," Smith said. "Wayne got the maximum out of everybody. We had to struggle to win."

"I told the kids that losing by mental mistakes is one thing, but if you play the best you can it's not really losing," Thompson said. "Really I'm happy despite that we lost."

"It was very simple.

Wayne (Thompson) had his kids better prepared."

—Dave Smith

Keith Mercier of Sashabaw makes a long pass to a teammate during the 50-42 loss to Clarkston. The Cougars' defense is a big factor in keeping Clarkston 17 points under its average.

Meet Lynn Salata

1st runner-up Mrs. Michigan

By Dan Vandenhemel

The surroundings were not normal for Lynn Salata, but she made the best of it.

The Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn was the setting for the eighth annual Mrs. Michigan Pageant on Feb. 9 and 10.

Salata, a 35-year-old mother of one, finished the pageant as the first runner-up out of the 23 contestants.

The Minne Wana Road, Independence Township, resident is the strategic production planning manager at the Flint General Motors Buick plant.

"I've dealt with the auto industry for a number of years and other things that are typically masculine," Salata said. "I wanted to do something very feminine. This was a nice contrast."

The two-day event started on Thursday with private interviews with the judges. Later in the evening were the evening gown and swimsuit competitions. By Friday night, only the top 10 finalists remained.

"I just went into it to have fun," Salata said. "I felt if I made it into the top 10, I would be a winner."

The top four finishers received a silver dish engraved with their name and their place. The winner, Darlene Doetsch, goes to Las Vegas for the Mrs. America Pageant in April.

A large album holds pageant photographs taken by Salata's husband, John, and her father, Ralph Haskins of Marine City.

"There were 6,000 people that came to watch the pageant," she said. "I just had my parents, John's parents and some close friends there—it was really fun."

Her experience in management helped Salata cope with nervousness during the pageant.

"I wasn't really nervous, but the first day of the swimsuit part my father said to me it was obvious that the only thing I wanted to do when I got on the stage with my suit was to get off of it. Swimsuits are a big difference from these business suits," she said.

"This is the first time I've ever done anything like this," she said. "I have to do a lot of public speaking, so being on stage wasn't too bad."

"I didn't tell anybody at work about it because entering beauty contests is not conforming to the executive image that I've worked so hard to achieve. But winning the pageant would be because you would be looked at as an achiever."

"I'm looking forward to doing it again next year, but next time I'll win it."

ACT workshop for college bound

College-bound students from public and private schools are offered some assistance through an ACT-preparation workshop sponsored by Clarkston Community Education.

Many colleges and universities require the ACT as an entrance examination and use results for placement in classes.

The workshop is to prepare students for the various sections of the exam, which include English, math, social studies and natural science.

Time-saving techniques, test-taking strategies and study hints are included. During the workshop batteries of tests will be used and additional practice tests will be included for home use.

The instructor is College Counseling Consultant Karen Davison.

The $15 fee includes the textbook. Students may sign up for one of three workshops—Thursday, March 1; Thursday, May 10; or Thursday, May 17. They are to meet from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Clarkston High School.

Registrations will be taken at the Clarkston Community Learning Center, 5275 Maybee, Independence Township.

For more information call 673-7756.

Lynn Salata is looking forward to competing again next year in the Mrs. Michigan Pageant. This year she was first runner-up, but next time she plans to win.

Changes on tap for wetland law

By Marilyn Trumper

Making it easier for property owners, the Independence Township Board is weighing amendments to its wetlands ordinance that would eliminate appearances before the board and planning commission, and allow permits to be issued administratively.

In addition, proposed changes to the 17-page law create a Wetlands Board of a yet to be determined number of township board and planning commission members, where larger developers would request permits in addition to DNR and Army Corps of Engineer requirements.

"It's a significant proposal for its administrative treatment," said township attorney Gerald Fisher after the Independence Township Board's Feb. 7 meeting.

"Permits for the little guy can be granted administratively through the building department rather than going through the full hearings.

"For example, say there's a man who has a single family home on a five-acre parcel, with 2.5 acres of that pond. He wants to dredge it. It's a wetlands by definition under the ordinance. With the amendments, the township notifies the adjacent property owners, and if there's not objection, would grant the permit. It does not negate the DNR or Army Corps," Fisher said. "They must meet their requirements if there are any."

"It should eliminate the lengthy process and allow the township to take care of its citizens," he said.

Fisher's expected to report back to the board with the completed draft.

House size clause under council debate

The size requirement for new homes in the village is under debate.

At the Feb. 13 Clarkston Village Council meeting, Trustee Ethel Sinclair argued against a zoning ordinance clause that mandates new homes be 2,000 square feet, and suggested the 11-year-old law be revised.

"I know if my home burned down and I were to replace it, 2,000 square feet would be bigger than I'd want. That's too much home to build again," Sinclair said.

"A 1,000- or 1,500-square-foot home, like those in the Orchards, is average. What about the seniors who can't afford a home that large or just don't want one? I think that's putting a hardship on them."

President Jackson Byers disagreed.

"If it was built prior to 1973 they don't have to comply with the setbacks," he said. "I think it should stay."

Trustee James Schultz agreed.

"That's what the board of appeals is for. If there's a hardship, they'll grant a variance," he said.

Trustee Carol Eberhardt agreed with Sinclair.

"That's a major gripe of mine," Eberhardt said. "You can't build anything in this village without a variance. I've heard many people say it's who you know, not what you want in this village that gets you your variance. That really smacks of selectivism to me."

After discussion, the council did nothing.

"It's not over yet," Sinclair said after the meeting. "I just threw it out for them to think about. I still feel it's unrealistic that a person declare a hardship or ask for a variance to build something smaller."

Developers sue Independence

By Marilyn Trumper

Their development stymied for the past year and a half, Don Nolte and Martin Brennan filed suit against Independence Township.

The men want the courts to force the township's hand and grant a tax split on 60 acres deeded the Land Conservancy.

Until it's done, they continue to pay taxes on the land, according to the court document.

The suit, filed Jan. 31 in Oakland County Circuit Court, asks for building permits for the proposed 240-acre subdivision on Dartmouth Road, attorney fees, and whatever "...relief the court finds agreeable in equity and good conscience."

Attorney for the developers, Carl Karlstrom, could not be reached for comment.

The suit stems from the developers' gift of 60 acres to the Independence Township Land Conservancy more than a year ago, in exchange for approval of private roads for the subdivision.

The request for a lot split that's needed in order to build, was denied because the conservancy property does not have frontage on a private road as required in the ordinance.

The 60-acre parcel does have an easement for access, but the conservancy doesn't want road frontage because it lacks funding to pay for grading, snowplowing or future special assessments, Karlstrom has said in the past.

Independence Township attorney Gerald Fisher is negotiating for a settlement and says a proposal is now before the planning commission to amend the ordinance to allow the lot split.

Fire caused an estimated $20,000 in damages to this Independence Township home last week.

House burns

A fire that began outside a three-story renovated barn house on Perry Lake Road Feb. 14 caused $20,000 worth of damage to the cedar exterior, according to Independence Township firefighter Steve Ronk.

No one was injured.

Cause of the fire is under investigation.

The house was unoccupied when the fire began sometime before 3:30 p.m., he said.

Firefighters had the blaze under control in an hour, according to Ronk.

Owner E.H. Sharon, D.D.S., says he's moved to a motel until he can live in the house he bought five years ago.

"Some of the things I've lost are irreplaceable," Sharon said. "It was a 170-year-old barn. I'll never replace that wood, or the floors."

Ray Eby lives for his newspaper

'... I've learned (the business) from the guts up ...'

Ray Eby competes with the sound of thundering presses inside the Detroit News' North Plant in Sterling Heights. The Independence Township resident is vice president in charge of operations for the metropolitan area's largest daily newspaper.

By Marilyn Trumper

Newspaper ink courses through Ray Eby's veins. His heart pounds with the rhythm of roaring presses.

He's vice president in charge of operations at Michigan's largest daily newspaper: The Detroit News, the city's Old Gray Lady boasting a daily circulation of 650,000 and Sunday circulation of 855,000.

But Eby's romance with newspapers began in Chicago at a young age where the then entrepreneur started a neighborhood paper, writing the copy, selling the ads—and making deliveries.

The first edition's headline blared his brother's celebration: KEN EBY CELEBRATES 8TH BIRTHDAY!

In high school he wrote a column for a suburban weekly newspaper, took print shop class and finished a five-year typing apprenticeship.

"I've learned it from the guts up," he said, inhaling deeply from a cigaret. Then he smiled. There's been a lot of guts between then and now.

In college Eby wanted a part-time job and knocked on the Chicago Sun Time's door.

Calling his young bride, Eby shared his delight in landing a job. Today Jan remembers.

"He said, 'I'm so happy. It's good to smell ink again.' Ray was never romantic that way and I thought, 'Oh no. I buy all this perfume so he'll appreciate me.' And I was devastated. How could I compete with a newspaper?"

But she laughs.

Today the oldest of their five children, Matt, 13, delivers The Detroit News on a rural 11-customer route along Reese Road near their Independence Township home.

It's often a three-mile walk for the committed Matt.

He's like his dad.

"My mother used to say, 'I know Ray's a doctor. I just know he's a doctor. We'd get calls all night long from downtown. He'll leave here after dinner and say, 'I'm going to the Sterling plant. Be home by 10.' But of course, he's never home by 10," Jan said.

Eby joined the News 10 years ago as an assistant production manager.

Rung by rung he's climbed the corporate ladder, and was named one of two vice presidents the first of the year.

At 42, he's in charge of four major departments.

"We don't bring any revenue into the paper," Eby said. "My departments put things together and get the paper out the back door. The transportation department delivers the newspaper. I'm responsible for the operations of the paper, its cost, the operations of putting the paper together—production, the presses and getting it out.

"I am responsible for the production department, the building maintenance, all the facilities and the garage, and fleet maintenance. The News owns its own fleet, over 300 vehicles.

"I'm in charge of makeup, picking up ads and putting the paper together every day."

Eby's also involved with labor negotiations. Nine of the paper's 14 unions are in his departments.

How does he do it?

"I have good department heads," he said.

The day begins at 8:15 a.m. and goes until at least 5:30 or 6 p.m.

"We do the same thing each day. We put out a newspaper. We solve problems. It's a different problem everyday. I'm a problem-solver," he said.

"And no matter what happens, one way or the other—you get it out."

Temporary summer homes wanted for 15 visiting European teachers

By Kathy Greenfield

A group of 10 to 15 teachers from Europe visiting Clarkston this summer is something Joette Kunse would like to see.

All she needs are people willing to open their homes and provide meals for seven to 14 days for individual teachers or married couples.

She envisions a large picnic for the hosts and their guests so all could share their experiences, and an opportunity provide a sense of life in the Midwest.

"My belief is Clarkston is small enough and it's centered around the village enough. It's typical, midwestern middle America," she said. "It's also a chance for the community to get together."

For 10 years Kunse, a Clarkston Elementary school teacher, and her family have hosted European teachers in their home every-other-summer, working through the American Host Foundation, a California-based organization established in 1962 by Tom and Frances Murphy.

While studying in Europe the Murphys realized there were many misconceptions about the United States, and they decided to do something about it.

The visiting teachers are from free Europe and they all speak English. They pay their own transportation costs to the U.S. and contribute an amount to the American Host Program to cover administrative costs. The Kunse family has provided room and board for teachers from England, Finland, Germany and Sweden.

While sharing their life-style, a lot of learning has gone on—for the visitors as well as the hosts.

"It's interesting to talk to them. You can't use slang. They speak very proper, precise English, and you really don't realize how poor you are in the English language," she said.

Americans have more appliances and less public transportation. A common misconception is they can hop a bus in Clarkston and go to Detroit.

Because they've traveled all over Europe, the visitors expect to do the same in the U.S.

"Some of them feel like the Grand Canyon is only a day's drive away because Europe is so small," Kunse said.

The teacher from Finland lived in a house owned by her family since 1600, didn't eat beef—only reindeer occasionally, had never seen canned corn and was surprised to learn Americans tell Polish jokes, because in Finland there's a great deal of respect for Polish people.

Although she has developed a sense of extended family with her visitors, Kunse has not been to Europe—yet.

But when she does, she'll have friends to visit.

Single people or families interested in becoming hosts sometime in July or August may call Kunse at 623-6759 evenings or on weekends.

What's new in business

Cookery makes air magazine

Clarkston's American cuisine restaurant, The Cookery, landed a full-color, double-page spread in the January issue of Ozark Magazine, a publication of Ozark Airlines.

The restaurant's reputation's gone national.

Owner Ned Barker says the picture of himself on Page 50 took eight hours to shoot. Dressed in a white apron he's seated at a table covered with succulent roast duck, whisky pudding, wine and fruits. Clarkston's Mill Pond stream and the bridge covered in fresh snow act as the backdrop.

The following pages feature Barker's Midwestern competition for American cuisine: Michael Foley's Printer's Row in Chicago's Loop and Richard Perry's in St. Louis.

"They wouldn't tell me how they found me," Barker confides. "But I'm glad they did."

NEW AT CLARKSTON MILLS: A monthly fashion show at The Cookery restaurant by Christie's of the Clarkston Mills began Feb. 15. Here, Shirley Wallerman chats with eatery customers while informally modeling an outfit suited for springtime. Shows are planned the third Wednesday of every month in 1984 from 1 to 2 p.m. The Clarkston Mills Mall is located at 20 W. Washington, Clarkston.

—Business briefs—

Gene and Betty Reppuhn just received their first Shaklee Bonus Car, a 1984 Pontiac 6000. As supervisors for Shaklee, they received the leased car as a sales incentive. "Once you become a supervisor, if you attain certain sales goals you get a car," says Mrs. Reppuhn. "Then you have to keep the sales there in order to keep the car." The Repphuns, who live on Northview Drive in Independence Township, are pictured with Elmer Seelbinder of Ortonville, who sponsored them into Shaklee.

Carr names Cox

Thomas Martin Cox, a Clarkston area resident, is among 23 young people recommended for positions in the United States Service Academies by Congressman Bob Carr (D-Okemos).

There were four appointments and 19 nominations.

As one of the nominations, Cox will be tested further for a qualified alternate pool and may be invited to attend. He's interested in attending the Air Force Academy.

Each U.S. Representative and Senator is officially limited to five cadets at each of the service academies at one time. The academies, however, may choose additional students from the alternate pool nominated by members of Congress.

Carr's appointments and nominations were based on the applicants' high school records, letters of recommendation, college entrance examination scores, extra-curricular and civic activities, and personal interviews with a board of community leaders and educators.

Seniors step out

Thanks to an anonymous donation, getting off and on the Independence Township senior citizen van is a breeze.

New running boards were donated and installed free by a van conversion firm last week.

"It's been a pain in the neck. They had steps to put out, but sometimes they slipped on the ice," said van driver Dick Surre. "The running boards are really nice."

Surre has been filling in while regular driver John Thomas recovers from surgery.

The van was donated to the senior center by the Clarkston Rotary Club. It is used to transport seniors to and from the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center on Clarkston Road.

It's also used to provide rides for doctors' appointments and for such things as visits to spouses in hospitals.

For more information, call the senior center weekdays—625-8231.

Honors

Two Clarkston area residents are among 179 Adrian College students named to the dean's list for the 1983-84 first semester.

Clifford Matashin is senior majoring in biology. He resides on Eston Road.

Marcia Vokre, an Allen Road resident, is a sophomore music major.

Lois Ensmiller Jr. is on the dean's list at the DeVry Institute of Technology, Columbus, Ohio.

A student in the electronics engineering technology program, he's the son of Yvonne Fraser of Feltz Drive, Independence Township.

Jaycees on lookout for needy folks

The Clarkston Area Jaycees are getting back on their feet, says president Bob Vollbach, and that means some area organizations can expect donations from the club.

In early February the Jaycees gave $200 to SCAMP, a summer camp program for children with special needs.

"We gave the money to SCAMP because it hasn't been done in quite a few years," Vollbach said. "We are going to be doing things in the community to help build our membership and help the community."

The Jaycees' haunted house last Halloween and Santa's Workshop at Clarkston High School in December were big fund raisers for the club.

"We also had a mum sale after the Labor Day parade," Vollbach said. "We were able to give $100 to the library to help with their youth day where they show films and have readings."

"We still have money left that we plan to give away. By the time my presidency is over in April, hopefully we'll have another $100 to give out," he said. "We haven't nailed down what to give the money too yet, but we'll give it locally."

Symphonic band goes to capitol

It's off to Washington, D.C., in May for the Clarkston High School Symphonic Band, Wind Ensemble and Jazz Band.

The musicians were invited to participate in the 10th Annual Festival of Nations by the International Music Festivals audition chairman, Dr. Wilfred C. Bain, dean emeritus of the Indiana University School of Music.

The students will prepare for the trip with concerts and fund-raising activities throughout February, March and April.

This will be the second trip to Washington for CHS bands. In the 1980 Festival of Nations, the Symphonic Band and Jazz Ensemble won bronze medals in concert performances.

The May 11-13 event is sponsored by International Music Festivals, a non-profit organization, to encourage and support high performance standards by nonprofessional organizations.

Music marathon

A musical marathon at Clarkston High School, includes the invitation to community members to bring their instruments and play along.

Residents may also visit just to listen to the variety of music during the CHS Band-a-thon on Friday, Feb. 24, through Saturday, Feb. 25.

The music begins at 4 p.m. and ends at noon.

Each band student will collect pledges for the number of hours he or she performs during the musical marathon.

The purpose is to earn money to assist with individual transportation costs to attend the 10th Annual Festival of Bands May 11-13 in Washington, D.C.

During the band-a-thon, community members may make a pledge or donation in support of an individual or the group as a whole.

For more information, contact any CHS band member or call band director Clifford Chapman at CHS—625-0900.

Wood-carver Patrick Smith poses with four of his works showing at the Summit Place's art exhibit. Next to him on the bench is "Rapunzel," which captured a third-place ribbon.

Carver capture gold ribbon

"I'm really proud of that," said 29-year-old wood-carver Patrick Smith, pointing to his nude "Rapunzel" that captured a third-prize yellow ribbon in the Oakland County Art Show Awards at Summit Place.

"It's tremendous. I got the idea from a book on wood-carving, and liked the way it was so free-flowing."

Smith, an Independence Township artist, has carved since 1977.

"Carving is my favorite medium," he said. "I do it for the challenge of it. Every project I try, I've never tried before, at least never quite the same way."

Smith's Rapunzel took 100 hours and is made of basswood, dyed a light brown.

"Family," another sculpture on display at Summit Place, is dyed dark brown and features a father with children on his lap and shoulders.

"I did that when I was going through my divorce. It helped me come to terms with what was happening, and taught me a lot about a family. A child psychologist wants to buy it," Smith said.

Other pieces are two-foot-high "Santa Claus" and a "Cat Decoy."

"I like its face," Smith said, showing the cat. "It has a lot of character. I've been trying to get more into their faces."

Smith doesn't listen to the comments of passersby peering over the red velvet roping. "I never do. I listen to the artists. They really have something to say," he said.

Kids place tenth

Mathcounts doesn't add up

By Marilyn Trumper

For months, kids in Marilyn Kettler's math enrichment class at Clarkston Junior High studied for the Mathcounts, a math competition sponsored by the National Society of Professional Engineers.

Held last weekend in Southfield, the four-kid team came in 10—out of 10.

"I told the kids I knew we were going to be up against stiff competition, so I didn't want them to feel badly about it. It was something to be invited to compete and take part in it all," Kettler said.

"A lot of the kids are already talking about next year, and planning for it. They said, 'It's a little like training for the Olympics,' and I said, 'Yes.'"

According to Kettler the winning team took the competition very seriously.

"It was Birmney Middle School, from Southfield. They got together for two hours each week, twice a week and Saturday mornings. It really makes a difference. They deserved to win," she said.

Of the 30-plus kids who signed up for the school's math enrichment program, the four who ultimately competed were: Jeff Taylor, Leane Swan, Ben Huffman and Kelly Eberhardt. Kathy Garascia was selected too, but her alternate went because Kathy went on the Washington trip, Kettler said.

Tell schools if you want a latchkey program

Would your family use a latchkey program?

That's one of the questions members of the Clarkston Community Education Department's advisory council would like answered, and the reason for a random telephone survey planned Wednesday, Feb. 29.

Volunteers will call parents of children in each of the five elementary schools and the two junior highs between 5 and 7 p.m.

Because there are so many single-parent families and those where both parents work many children are on their own before and after school.

The word latchkey comes from the practice of children wearing house keys around their necks so they can let themselves inside their homes after school.

The questions asked during the survey will be directed at finding out if parents would use a latchkey program for their first- through sixth-graders, how often, if they would use such a program during the summer and what types of activities they'd like to see offered.

Following a written survey, efforts to start such a program at North Sashabaw Elementary School last fall were not-successful, according to community education advisory council member Karen Ohrnberger.

It was decided, however, to pursue the matter by telephone so the program could be explained.

"Even though the previous survey came back inconclusive, we feel there has to be a need in this community," she said.

Successful latchkey programs are now underway in the Waterford and Rochester school districts, she said.

"If the response (to the survey) is positive, we would like to have it started here by September," Ohrnberger said.

CHS senior Karen Phipps is on the fashion panel for Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi.

Phipps makes fashion panel

When Karen Phipps noticed the small article on the fashion page in a daily newspaper, she thought, "Why not try?"

So she did, and she's one of 25 selected to serve on the Twelve Oaks Mall Fashion Panel through 1984.

"I think it's terrific," said the Clarkston High School senior. "One thing I like about it is I get to meet all the other models, make a lot of friends. That's super for me."

There were nearly 200 applicants, ages 16 to 22, for the panel.

The panelists are to attend workshops on poise, polish and grooming, fashion forecasts and career directions in retailing and modeling.

Also in store are mall fashion shows, and Karen plans to be in the one for Easter.

"I'm just doing it for fun," she said. "I don't have plans to be a model, not at all."

After high school graduation, Karen said, she would like to attend an art school to study fashion design.

Her parents are Charles and Ruth Phipps of Waldon Road, Independence Township.

SEPTIC TANK NEED CARE. The Michigan State University says maintenance is the key to a lasting septic disposal system. It also recommends that you pump your tank at proper intervals - one to five years. An average sized family's tank should be pumped every 2 to 3 years. This will prolong the life of your septic system and avoid field tile problems. We charge $60 for a residential tank if the lid is uncovered and we would be happy to serve you. 394-0303!!CX28-2p

No-nuke talk at St. Daniel's

"The Nuclear Situation: There is no cure once it happens—only prevention" is the topic of speaker Molly Tan Hayden, M.D., at St. Daniel Catholic Church Sunday, Feb. 26.

Hayden is a member of Physicians for Social Responsibility, a group concerned with the nuclear situation.

She is scheduled to speak from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the church located at 7010 Valley Park, at Holcomb Road, Independence Township.

The session, open to all community members, is part of a series of classes for high school students and adults on the nuclear situation, said Frieda Arpoika, religious education director at St. Daniel's.

The classes stem from the Catholic bishops' pastoral letter, "The Challenge of Peace," which advises church members to "inform themselves and make a stand on the issue" of nuclear armament, Arpoika said.

The next session, also open to the public, is planned Sunday, April 1, when Bishop Gumbleton's topic is "The Call to Peacekeeping."

For more information call the church at 625-1750.

Practice makes perfect, and in Wendy Ripley's case it also brings a trophy plaque. She won a solo contest in rifle twirling at a recent competition in Chicago.

Rifle-twirler captures trophy

Wendy Ripley takes first

By Dan Vandenhemel

From early November to late April, Wendy Ripley is full of bruises—and she doesn't mind.

The 17-year-old Clarkston High School senior is a rifle twirler for the high school marching band and for a CHS club named Phoenix.

"I've been doing this for four years now," said the Amy Drive resident. "I have the hands of a 50-year-old. They're always bruised, sprained. Sometimes I don't know why I stay with it."

Well, Ripley stayed with it just long enough, because in a competition in Chicago Feb. 4, she came home with a first-place plaque for a solo performance.

Her two-minute routine to music came during the Central States Judges Association Contest where close to 150 guard members came to compete. The Solo competition was aside from the group judging.

"The solo was open to anybody," Ripley said. "There were about 100, maybe, in the solo. I won by nine points and that's a lot. It was so exciting. All the guards were lined up watching. It was packed."

Phoenix is the only color guard from Michigan to attend the contest and the membership is down to just nine people. It is open to anyone up to the age of 21.

"We practice twice a week for a couple hours," Ripley said. "Sometimes I need the extra practice, too."

When she first started in the guard, she received a black eye that lasted almost five weeks, so the other members gave her a foam rubber rifle.

"I was a klutz. The Nerf rifle was a good idea," she said. "Twirling a rifle is by far the hardest to control. You get hurt more."

Besides the rifle, Phoenix members twirl flags and in the past, sabers.

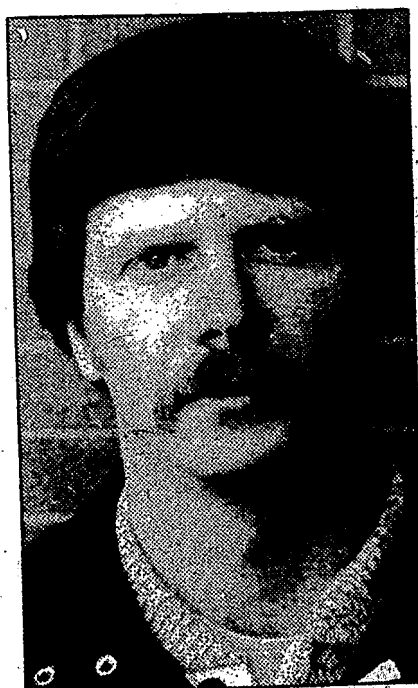

Ripley plans to attend Michigan State University next fall and says this is probably her last year in the guard.

"I like doing it because you get a special feeling," she said. "I guess I'm hooked on it. You get on the floor and hear all that cheering. I haven't gotten that anywhere else."

Do you think age will be a factor in the 1984 presidential election?

"No. I don't think it will. It doesn't seem to be factor in any other country. In Russia it's not a factor, they are in office until they die."

"No. I imagine it will be based more on quality than age."

"I think the young kids are more likely to look at the younger candidates instead of Ronald Reagan, but that's about it."

Mike Birg

"No. I don't know if age has anything to do with it. There are two ways to look at age, some people are old and think old, and others are old but have a young mind."
