Nederlander buys Knob

By Marilyn Trumper

The 15-year dynasty of Joseph Loericchio and Gary Francell ended at Pine Knob last week, when the Nederlander organization paid $14 million for the Pine Knob Music Theatre and Ski Resort.

The sale frees the ailing resort's finances, held in Chapter 11 escrow the past four years, and means Independence Township will receive over $200,000 in delinquent personal property taxes, according to Treasurer Frederick Ritter.

To purchase Independence Township's largest development Nederlander joined with 3803 Inc., Neil Sosin, the bankruptcy court's winning bidder in the $14-million auction sale in January.

The sale's closing was delayed while Florida developer Conrad Wagner appealed the sale to the Michigan Supreme Court. Last August, Wagner was first to go public with plans to buy Pine Knob.

On the wings of the supreme court's denial to hear the case, Nederlander officials closed the sale Feb. 23 at 11:15 a.m.

As the ink was drying, theater manager Steve Finkel sat with the township's planner and building director discussing plans to build more bathrooms at Pine Knob, reroute sidewalks and eliminate the landmark "star row," the white walled theater entrance covered with stars' names.

"They say it acts as a funnel and carries the noise right out," said Kenneth Delbridge, director of building and planning. "So they're going to fill it in, and put up a berm to buffer the sound."

According to Delbridge, Nederlander has contracted Kenneth Neumann Robert Greager & Associates Architects Planners of Southfield to redesign portions of the complex. Work is expected to be completed for the theater's May 25 opening, Delbridge said.

Finkel could not be reached for comment.

Independence Township resident George White is in his 10th year as community relations director for Pine Knob.

School's open during snow

By Kathy Greenfield

Clarkston schools dared to be different Monday. Virtually the only school district open in northern Oakland County following the heavy snowfall, Clarkston was "very close to being" the only district in the entire county where school was in session, said transportation director William Dennis.

"The media really does a number on weather," Dennis said. "This is a situation where we're doing what we're supposed to and everyone else is a hero."

Following standard procedure, Dennis and transportation supervisor Gary Bliss made the decision to keep the schools open.

The men began driving bus routes at 3 a.m.

A big mutt went through the thin ice on Dixie Lake last week, and Kari Swift didn't stop to think. Using the canoe she's sitting on, Kari paddled 25 feet out into the lake, breaking ice as she went—and pulled the wandering Rafus into the boat. Rafus went back to his owners, so Kari gives the closest dog around a hug—her collie.

Beware of thin ice

Girl saves drowning stray

By Marilyn Trumper

Somewhere around Springfield Township's Dixie Lake, a Saint Bernard-Lab mutt named Rafus is alive—pulled last week from the frozen water by 12-year-old Kari Swift Kari's neighbor, Lorraine Emery, unfolds the tale.

"I was driving home, I'd just had my nails done at Carla's, and there was a crowd of people out here on the one lane road watching. Traffic was stopped, and I saw Kari in a canoe going out to this hole in the ice with a dog's head sticking up...

"She was breaking the ice in front of her as she went, and the canoe was tipping. I was sure she was going over...

"That little girl reached that dog, leaned over, and pulled it into the boat. I don't know how she did it."

Lorraine speculates Rafus was in the water 45 minutes before he was found. Kari picks up the story from there.

"I didn't even think. I just grabbed the canoe and took off. I didn't think about going over...but my mom did. I was crying, and the dog was crying. I was trying to break the ice and get to him...and I was afraid he'd go down before I got there.

"I just reached over and pulled him in."

The three to four minutes it took "...seemed like hours," she said.

Back on shore Lorraine and Kari rubbed Rafus with dry towels to restore his circulation.

"He couldn't move his back legs," said Lorraine, who sacrificed her just-put-on $35 nails.

A car drove down the road, someone yelled "Rafus" from the window, and the dog was gone.

"I told them what happened, but they didn't seem to care," Kari said. "They must live somewhere around here. I've seen the dog before."

For Lorraine, it was a chance to repay a good deed.

Two weeks before Christmas several years ago, the Emerys' 19-year-old deaf and blind dog escaped from their Springfield Township home. A couple pulled it from a hole in the ice on Maceday Lake in Waterford Township.

"I was so grateful at the time," Lorraine said. "I've always wished I could do the same and save the life of somebody else's dog, like they did mine."

Pine Knob sells; Locricchio era comes to end

"I think (the sale) is a situation that will make my job run smoother," White said. "Many of the concerns expressed by the community have not been with the theater but with the former landlord, something we had no control over."

"Now the owner and landlord, will be one in the same. Both bosses will be under one umbrella."

Nederlander owns theaters in New York and California and leases others nationwide. Since opening 12 years ago the company's held a 55-year lease on Pine Knob, with rent determined by a percentage of the annual gate receipts, according to White.

John Essex, Nederlander spokesperson, said he expects current employees will keep their jobs.

According to White, rangers and crew members will be hired this summer as they have in the past.

There's no word on how the sale will affect ticket prices or the sale of alcohol, but Essex did say he expects parking prices to drop.

"I know that in the past people thought parking was too high and there were complaints," he said. "I think (Nederlander) will try to solve the problem."

Pine Knob was Joseph Locricchio's brainchild in 1972: an outdoor music theater with seating for 13,000 fans.

Then appeals board Chairman Mel Vaara remembers an emergency board meeting at 10 p.m. one Friday to grant Locricchio the necessary approvals to build.

Construction had already begun, according to Vaara.

Then building director Dick Curn remembers. "At the time, then, there was nothing like it anywhere in the world. Now they've got 'em out in Vegas. But then, it was something."

"There were a number of townships that were interested in it; Troy and Avon I remember for sure."

The $2.5 million theatre was built in just over three months, he said. "Joe had to work day and night to get that thing done, and I think he came in just a couple of weeks behind deadline."

White remembers singer Andy Williams' performance at the theater's debut.

At the next concert, the James Gang, thousands of fans beyond the 13,000 capacity filled the unfenced wooded complex.

There was bumper-to-bumper traffic on Sashabaw Road, and I-75 traffic was backed-up for miles, according to White.

It was at this concert the theater suffered its first concert-related fatality.

A fan was killed walking along the expressway.

Schools brave blizzard

500 to 600 phone bus garage

Monday, Dennis said.

"We just felt we could run, that's all," he said. "I checked (at least 80 percent of) the roads and there wasn't any problem."

"I don't know why the other schools closed. I haven't talked to them," he added. "But we can't close Clarkston because other schools close."

The district's 22 buses make three runs each, and just under 5,000 of the about 6,000 students enrolled in Clarkston schools ride buses.

Following the decision to keep school open, Dennis headed back to the bus garage behind Clarkston High School, and began receiving instant feedback.

The phones started ringing at 5 a.m.

Dennis estimated the number of calls between 500 and 600, an amount he called normal "if there's a flake of snow."

"It's just horrendous," he said. "I just sit there punching the lines. Some of them expressed disbelief and some of them complained.

"I would say I had five or six people say I was nuts."

There were no problems with any of the high school bus runs and, as of 9 a.m. Monday, all other runs were going smoothly, he said.

From mid-November to the end of March, Dennis said he pays close attention to weather reports.

"I have to keep in mind that WJR is based in Detroit and they're reporting what's happening in Detroit, not what's happening here," he said. "I don't think I would ever close down the school system based on a weather forecast."

"It kind of bothers me that I could have called it off and been a hero with the rest of (the school districts)," he added. "But it's kind of a value judgment—you base it on what you see."

Firefighters settle shift-man schedule dispute

By Marilyn Trumper

Independence Township's plan to file suit against its firefighters for breach of contract lasted less than 24 hours last week.

On Feb. 21 the board voted 6-0 to proceed with a lawsuit, but marathon talks Feb. 22 ended a three-month-old dispute to establish a swing-shift man.

The new agreement gives the swing-shift man seven days' notice of scheduling changes, and allows him to be scheduled at any of the department's three stations to fill in for sick or vacationing firefighters.

Two firefighters are still prohibited from taking vacations at the same time, except for two weeks during deer hunting season and Christmas week, according to Michael Fahrner, president of Local 2629.

"We're still not happy with it, and it's not over yet," Fahrner said. "In a couple of months we'll be negotiating the new contract, and I'm sure it will come up again."

The agreement ends a nearly one-year-old dispute, when one firefighter was denied a vacation last April because another firefighter was already off. Township officials said two vacations at the same time would leave the department shorthanded.

Firefighters filed a grievance against the township's decision and opted for arbitration, but negotiated with board officials and hammered out specifics for the shift-man instead.

"I hope it's clarified once and for all," said Supervisor James B. Smith after the agreement was forged. "It's been a continuing problem. And, of course, agreements last only for the life of the contract."

At the Feb. 21 meeting board members voted unanimously to file suit in Oakland County Circuit Court for breach of contract, alleging the two-man committee acted with the rank and file's authority to negotiate the new agreement, but that the rank and file refused to adhere to the outcome; that the township file unfair labor practice charges, charging Local 2629 with failure to bargain in good faith; and that the fire chief act as though the agreement existed, scheduling vacations and absenteeisms as outlined.

Water damage totals $6,000

By Marilyn Trumper

A defective 85-cent sink washer in Independence Township's Annex caused $6,000 worth of water damage to the township's new meeting room and building department office, according to Clerk Richard Holman.

Deputies from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department spotted the flooding early Feb. 16, and phoned the fire department, which shut off the water, according to Kenneth Delbridge, director of building and planning.

"What happened was a jam nut fractured. It was holding a half-inch water line that flowed through the night," Delbridge said. "It ruined the carpet, ceiling tiles, insulation. It's a real mess."

Two years ago Delbridge and George Anderson, director of the department of public works, volunteered to renovate the former building department into a barrier-free meeting room.

Until repairs are made the township board will meet on the second floor of township hall.

Delbridge said he doesn't know when repairs will be made.

- Sheriff's log -

Wednesday, thieves broke into a house on Rat-talee Lake Road, Independence Township. It is not known what was taken.

Wednesday, thieves stole a 1978 Chevrolet from Pine Knob Road, Independence Township.

Wednesday, a woman drove up to a garment rack outside Dee's Boutique, Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, and stole $1,600 worth of clothing.

Thursday, thieves broke into a garage on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, and stole $190 worth of tools and torches.

Sunday, thieves stole a $600 motorcycle from En-nismore Road, Independence Township.

This information came from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

$197,000 up for budgeting

Unable to hold 1984's federal revenue sharing hearing in the flooded barrier-free annex, the Independence Township Board rescheduled the meeting to March 6.

The annex is expected to be repaired by then, according to Clerk Richard Holman.

This year Independence anticipates $197,400 in revenue sharing, and Holman proposed the following budget for board review:

- Dust control: $26,000.
- Police fund: $24,000 to supplement the township's $308,844 bill from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.
- Tri-party road paving: $27,500.

•Library books and informational material: $18,000.

•Annual townshipwide spring cleanup: $17,500.

•Community promotions: $10,000; half to Clarkston Area Youth Assistance and half to the Consortium for Human Development.

•Senior citizen center: $11,800.

•Park improvements: $62,100; with $6,500 for a fitness trail, $5,600 for Deer Lake Beach restoration and $50,000 for a "match" proposed grant.

Township residents are encouraged to attend the March 3 meeting and discuss how to spend the money. It's scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

"This is your life: Miss Liberty" performed by Davisburg Elementary School employes, is just part of the Save Our Statue project. Julia Ford is Miss Liberty in the play that tells the history of the statue. Next to her on stage are Ed Talley, Linda Finch and Marilyn Kay. The national project is to help raise money to restore the statue donated to the United States in 1876. Davisburg Elementary is setting aside four Fridays to raise money for the restoration. Popcorn sales, button sales, and donations are how the school plans to help the cause. [Photo by Dan Vandenhemel]

Board denies Piazza's liquor license change

By Marilyn Trumper

"You will see how I start operating that business with a bar—tomorrow," yelled restaurateur Allie Assad, exiting Independence Township Hall when a board poll showed a tie vote would deny his request to sell liquor in addition to beer and wine.

"You will appreciate me when I'm gone," Assad said.

The day after the Feb. 21 board meeting the owner of the three-year-old Italian restaurant LaPiazza on Clarkston Road near Eston apologized.

"No, I have no intentions of opening a bar. I was just mad," Assad told The Clarkston News. "It got so I saw lips moving and didn't hear anyone talking, that's how angry I was."

"He (Assad) committed political suicide."

— William Vandermark

"It just seems that everytime anything happens in that shopping center it's my fault. People come to me to correct it—and I couldn't take it any more. I don't want a bar. I don't want anything like that, that would jeopardize my business."

At the meeting, a half-dozen residents from surrounding neighborhoods spoke out against the Class C license, fearing the next expansion would be to a bar.

"We've granted Mr. Assad everything," said Path Cushing of Monterey Road. "At first it was to expand his pizza carry-out to serve donuts and coffee. Then in '82 it was a sit-down restaurant. Then in '83 it was beer and wine. Now in '84 it's liquor. He says it's to compete with other restaurants in the area."

"I've got news for you—there are no other restaurants in the area," Cushing said. "And there aren't, because it's a residential area and that's the way we want to keep it. What's to stop him from coming back in '85 and saying, 'We don't want a family restaurant—we want a bar.'"

Bob Anderson of Vinewood Road disagreed, and wanted to see the license extended.

"I think Mr. Assad has done a lot for the corner. He's helped to clean it up and he's spent a lot of money in good faith. I think he deserves something for it."

"The rest of the township has restaurants—why should the northeast be any different?"

Assad said last year's sales reached a quarter of a million dollars, up 30 percent over last year.

"Our intentions are to serve as we have been serving, but if a customer wants a martini or a cup of coffee with his meal, I'd like to be able to give it to him," he said.

"I'm an abstainer. I don't drink. I'm not looking to run a honky-tonk."

Board members questioned his hours of operation.

"I close now at 10 o'clock weekdays, and I would still do that. I'm not catering to the alley cats," he said.

Supervisor James B. Smith asked Assad about the feasibility of setting up a service bar for patrons waiting to be seated.

"If my business gets to the point where I need a lounge area for people to sit and wait for a table, then I won't say (I won't put one in)," Assad answered. "I don't want to come back here eating my words."

Trustee Larence Kozma, who opposed Assad's other expansions, opposed this move too.

"It was in the master plan a convenience area for the residents. What you're proposing would be for more than just the residents and changes the principle use."

"I don't think it's appropriate for the area's overall planning," Kozma said.

Trustee Daniel Travis opposed the plan, fearing Assad would expand the business intensify "an already busy corner."

Supervisor Smith agreed.

Treasurer Frederick Ritter wanted the license expanded, as did Clerk Richard Holman.

"I can see no reason to deny it," Holman said, with Trustee William Vandermark agreeing.

"I don't see any great burning reason to deny it," he said.

After discussion, the board voted 4-2 to recommend denial. Smith, Kozma, Travis and Vandermark voted "no." Ritter and Holman voted "yes." Trustee Dale Stuart was absent.

In the informal poll, prior to Assad's outburst, Vandermark said he approved the plan.

He voted differently, however, and after the meeting explained.

"I didn't like his threats and innuendos," Vandermark said. "His actions made me see him as someone we didn't want to have a Class C license."

"He committed political suicide."

According to a spokesperson from the Liquor Control Commission, the state must have the township board's stamp of approval before a license can be issued.

Rezoning OK'd

Announcing he'd bow to the planner and planning commission's recommendations, the Independence Township Supervisor gave his stamp of approval to rezone approximately one acre on Sashabaw Road.

The township attorney has an option to purchase the property for his office.

The board unanimously approved the rezoning from residential to office at the Feb. 21 meeting. Trustee Dale Stuart was absent.

Two weeks earlier the board tabled the request for more information.

At that meeting, Campbell's representative Larry Russel said Campbell holds a purchase agreement on M.R. Stitt's land contingent upon the rezoning, and wants to build his office there.

Following the rezoning, Campbell declined comment.

New man resigns

After eight months as Independence Township's enforcement officer, Phil Gentile resigned his post at the building and planning department for more money on the City of Southfield's payroll.

Shared with Brandon Township on a part-time basis, Gentile was paid an $18,000 salary.

"We'll have to replace him, because of our contract with Brandon," said Kenneth Delbridge, director of building and planning.

Anticipating future projects like Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital's proposed satellite hospital, Delbridge is looking for someone with experience.

"We'll be advertising the job in Michigan Township News and places like that, and I think this time around we'll be testing (the applicants)," Delbridge said. "Because of that, it may be some time before we find a replacement."

The job involves enforcement of township zoning and building ordinances, and includes issuing warnings and tickets to violators.

Bliss

Al Zawacky

*"Ignorance is bliss.
What you don't know can't hurt you."*

As trusted old sayings go, these two are pretty dumb. But they certainly seem to have their share of adherents among public office holders.

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young provided the most recent example when he reacted to figures that gave Detroit the dubious honor of having the highest per capita murder rate in the nation. In a copyrighted story in the Detroit Free press, Young rapped the news media for giving big play to the fact. "I don't think you ought to cover up... but you shouldn't highlight it, either," the mayor said.

Every soul who has ever worked for a newspaper must have read that line with a knowing nod. We hear this all the time. Don't write all that "negative" stuff about our city, community, schools. Stick to the nice stories.

If the City of Detroit lands the Thomas Hearn-Roberto Duran fight in June, run a banner headline on the front page. Keep nasty stuff like murder rates on the bottom of Page 12, right next to the muffler ads.

I HAVE NEVER understood the notion that problems will go away by themselves if we just ignore them long enough. It is certainly not healthy to dwell on the negative, but it isn't salutary to habitually sweep the dirt under the rug, either.

Bad news, whether it is reported or not, remains bad; problems, whether they are aired or buried, remain problems.

When we hide from problems, we often end up confusing images with reality. We paint smiling faces on the iodine bottle, as though that were enough to change its contents. Michigan's economic problems are dissolved by multi-million dollar "Say Yes To Michigan" ads. Detroit's woes disappear on the heels of the "Do It In Detroit" campaign. The public's flagging regard for our schools is altered by bumper stickers proclaiming, "Your Public Schools—There's No Better Place to Learn." Image first. Reality can wait.

WELL, THE NEWS media certainly has its warts, but the suggestion that informing the public somehow exacerbates a problem is a crock. Long before the advent of modern communications, rumor and hearsay created panics, caused riots, led to wars. History is rife with examples. For every rumor the media has mistakenly circulated, it has nipped 100 in the bud. For every story over-played, it has calmed fears in 100 other cases.

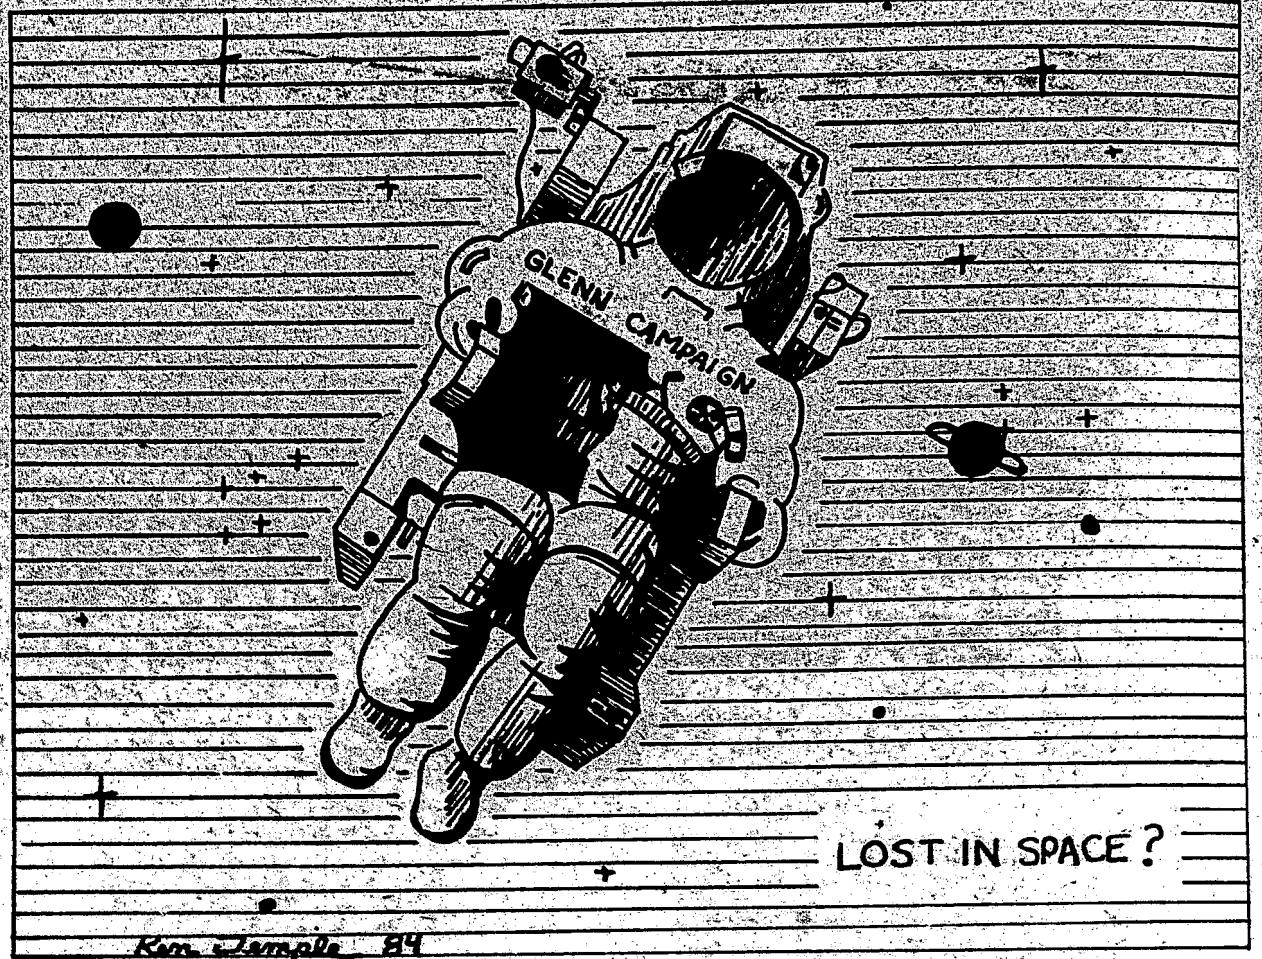

Of course, there are places in the world where all the news is good, and negative stories never make the grade. Places where the workers are always reported to be happy, where the economy is always reported to be booming, and where the government is never in error. One of these places is the Soviet Union, but at last report, few persons have been known to be breaking their necks to move there.

Zoning change

New tax wanted

On Feb. 22, 1984, we received notice, via form letter, of a 10 percent increase in the assessed valuation of our home.

1. Does our local government intend to keep on raising our taxes forever?
2. What are we receiving in services today, other than the sanitary sewer, that we didn't have 20 years ago?
3. Assessor David Sherrill tells me he is only following state guidelines. I say it is high time we changed things at both the local and state levels.
4. If there are others who feel as I do I hope they, too, will write and let their views be known.

Richard Weiss

I agree with Ethel Sinclair and Carol Eberhardt, trustees of the Clarkston Village Council, that an 11-year zoning law be updated to coincide with today's economy.

Any zoning ordinance today that mandates a 2,000-square-foot living area for new dwellings is not only ridiculous, but an expression of ignorance on the part of our bureaucratic government.

The 2,000-square-foot residence is ancient history for the average young family or senior citizen couple, who cannot afford the 100-grand pricetag.

I cannot understand why any future taxpayer should be subjected to the appeals board for a variance of a stupid law that should have been adjusted several years ago.

Kathy Greenfield

Things I've been meaning to tell you:

A few weeks ago someone asked me how things were going during a deadline day here at The Clarkston News.

"Frantic, as usual," I said.

So she told me her story. She had attended a meeting that morning and had then gone to her regular place of employment.

That's where somebody noticed her shoes.

On one foot was a shoe without a toe, and on the other was one with a toe. At least the colors matched.

No one had mentioned it at the meeting—they probably thought she was quietly trying out a new Punk style of shoe dressing.

Other people where she works were visiting her office in droves to laugh with her at the combination.

She said she was sure her story would add some cheer to my day.

It did.

Funny, isn't it, how someone else's mistakes make us laugh. Thank goodness there are other real people out there.

Ah, back I was kneeling down at a nursery school taking photographs.

A little boy marched up, looked me straight in the eye and asked what my name was.

I told him, and asked his.

He told me, and immediately asked the next routine question.

"How old are you?"

I paused, figured what the heck, and told him. Then I asked him how old he was.

"Three," he said.

Somehow the three sounded better than my number.

Another day in an elementary school a second-grader sitting at her desk looked up at me and asked, "Do you like Michael Jackson?"

I could tell my answer was important to the whole scheme of the future of inter-generational understanding, so I said, "I sure do."

"I like him too," she said.

Then she got up to take a paper somewhere and I saw what she was wearing—an oversize pink over-shirt with a picture of Michael Jackson right in the middle.

Window update

by Milford Mason

Superintendent of Clarkston schools

Within a short period of time, citizens of the Clarkston school community will become aware of several changes in the outward appearance of several school buildings.

The plan for change started more than one year ago.

The following comments are intended to describe the evolution of the project and the objective the district intends to meet.

In August of 1982, a five-member administration team was designated to inspect district facilities and report their recommendations.

The committee was aware that more than one-half of the school buildings range in age from 30 to over 50 years.

These facilities, in particular, are presenting major maintenance problems that must be resolved if the structures are to remain serviceable for the years ahead.

Recommendations resulting from the study were presented to the board of education on Aug. 8, 1983.

The report stated that although the buildings are functional, they are deteriorating and can only remain functional with a properly funded program of major maintenance that should involve energy management renovation.

The study group made several recommendations, the chief one being to urge the board to interview and select an architect with experience in renovation of older buildings placing high priority on energy management.

They further urged that a series of projects be identified and that appropriate revenue be found to fund the work.

Since sufficient monies would not be possible from annual operating funds, the committee studied recent legislation, Public Act 431 of 1982, and recommended it be the means to obtain financing.

The Act provides authority for school districts to borrow funds for energy renovation projects and repay the loan with energy cost savings over a period of 10 years.

The board of education then proceeded to implement the program, utilizing the authority of the Act.

Since last August, the board has worked on the plan in seven regular and special meetings, culminating in a $735,000 program. The financing was obtained from Merrill-Lynch at the regular February meeting.

After an interviewing process, the board retained the firm of Daverman and Associates of Grand Rapids to do the architectural studies.

An energy audit of the buildings was conducted which formed the basis for a series of recommended projects in each school building.

Each project was identified with a cost estimate and a statement of the annual cost savings to calculate the payback period. All of the projects were reviewed by the board and the final program of upgrading was approved.

Close to 70 percent of the construction funds are committed to renovation of the older school buildings.

The entire project centers on changes that will produce reasonable payback periods in energy savings and still address major maintenance problems.

For example, portions of the work will pay back the construction costs in as little as four years.

The plan calls for removal of windows and glass block at Andersonville, Clarkston Elementary, Pine Knob and Clarkston Junior High. In its place, an insulated wall system will be installed.

A window 4-foot high and 6-foot wide will be fitted in the wall. The window will open to allow emergency exiting and will be of aluminum construction with insulated glass.

The building exterior will be treated with a plaster-type material on insulating board. The interior will be finished drywall. The district plans to install tackboard on the drywall for additional display space.

Bailey Lake will have windows replaced with exterior and interior finish as previously described.

The remaining schools will experience lesser modification. Funds are available in the program to upgrade the mechanical and air-handling systems in all buildings.

Projections of energy costs and energy savings give a clear indication that paybacks will more than meet the costs of the renovation over the 10-year period of the loan.

The reduction in window space at the buildings is consistent with the manner in which school facilities are being constructed today.

The architectural firm retained by the board of education to develop the program has considerable experience with this type of project in Michigan.

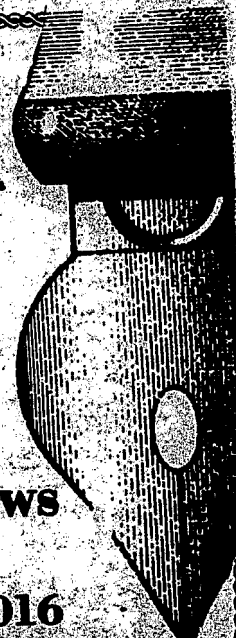

In conclusion, the board has studied thoroughly the facility needs of the school district and has embarked on a solution to many of those needs that is fiscally sound, and will also improve the classroom environment for students.

Citizens interested in knowing more about the program are encouraged to view the drawings of the buildings and the project information at the district administrative office.

'If It Flitz...'

Testing wink

Jim Fitzgerald

My wife walked by while I was involved in an activity that I enjoy, and do well, so I winked at her amorously.

"Remind me to put Depo-Provera on my grocery list," she said.

She was being sarcastic, I think. Depo-Provera is an experimental drug that reportedly reduces the sex drive in men. It has received much publicity recently because a Kalamazoo judge sentenced a millionaire, who pleaded the equivalent of guilty to raping his stepdaughter, to take Depo-Provera instead of serving the long prison stretch usually slapped on rapists who aren't millionaires.

"SOME MEN are truly oversexed, like a furnace which overheats the house if the thermostat is set too high," the judge said in explaining the unusual sentence. And he told the wealthy walking furnace: "You had warm feelings for your stepchildren, but you let them get out of hand."

I assured my wife that my thermostat has been set at 50 to conserve energy ever since I reached puberty and found I had insufficient fuel to reach much further. She didn't appear surprised, thus bolstering my suspicion that she was being sarcastic about buying Depo-Provera to close the damper on the furnace in her bed.

The reason I winked at her was to test the advice given in the newspaper by an expert on flirting. The most important thing is to "flirt" in situations where you are involved in an activity you enjoy and do well. If you love to read, join a book club; tennis lovers should seek a singles tournament. You're most attractive when you're in your element," said Bob Houle, an Ann Arbor communications consultant who conducts how-to-flirt seminars.

The activity I enjoy most, and do best, is reading newspapers and watching TV while sitting in the stuffed leather chair with matching footstool in my living room. That is surely the element in which I am most attractive. So I was rather surprised that, when I winked at my wife, she responded with a sarcastic remark, instead of ripping off my clothes.

Further how-to-flirt advice from Houle was to "get in the flirtee's line of vision and make eye contact. Glance to a common spot, like the door, and move in that direction. That's a signal for the flirtee to join you there."

UPON CONTACTING my wife's eyes, I immediately glanced at the TV set. Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer was staring in the premiere of a new series I was watching on the advice of a TV critic who, it turned out, was as reliable as the flirting expert. I wanted my wife to join me there so she could observe closely that the man she married could solve Spillane's mystery 115 minutes quicker than Mike Hammer could.

During the first five minutes of the show, several cops and crooks treated Hammer harshly. Only one person—a federal drug enforcement officer—treated him decently. "The drug guy is the head crook," I said the very first time he spoke kindly to Hammer. "Just you wait and see."

She didn't wait. She somehow misread my signal to move toward the TV set and instead moved to bed. That really made me mad. There is no satisfaction in being smarter than Mike Hammer if there is no one watching you prove it.

So, as the show neared conclusion, and Hammer finally began shooting at the drug officer, I ran to the bedroom and woke up my wife. After establishing eye contact, I said: "I was right! The drug guy did it."

She said if I didn't get out of her line of vision, she would hit me with a lamp. I'd watched a dreadful TV show for two hours simply to impress my favorite flirtee, and she didn't even care. I told her she sure knew how to set my thermostat back.

Three-pronged moral: It's easy to predict the end of TV detective shows; it's easy to predict flirtation failure for a man whose element is a stuffed leather chair, and it's easy to predict that a judge will discover more warm feelings in a wealthy furnace than in some poor ash.

Work begins to toughen school requirements

By Kathy Greenfield

Stiffer academic requirements for kindergartners through 12th graders are under consideration in the Clarkston school district.

The changes proposed in the Clarkston K-12 Curriculum Committee's preliminary report would:

- Add one semester of fine arts and more English, mathematics and science courses for high school graduation, totaling 21 credits for required courses rather than the present 13 while keeping the present 32 credits for graduation intact.

- Increase the required courses on the junior high level from 26 to 32 by adding applied technology, fine arts, foreign language and an additional year of health/physical education.

- Require specific hours in each area of study on the elementary school level, add foreign language for sixth graders and applied technology for third-through sixth graders.

Steps toward such changes began Monday at a meeting at the Deer Lake Racquet Club attended by about 40 school district administrators, board of education and staff members, and representatives from Oakland Schools, which oversees the 28 public school districts in Oakland County.

The topic was the preliminary report from the 13-member curriculum committee, co-chaired by assistant superintendent Conrad Bruce and Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center assistant principal Alberta Ellis.

The 65-page preliminary report was the culmination of 18 months of study and 37 meetings.

Bruce opened the meeting by noting that the district has cut staff and programs the past five years.

"We hope those days are behind us and we can now put our energies on creating a curriculum program for our students," he said.

The cost of changing the course offerings was not a consideration in the report, Bruce said, and no estimates have been made on cost.

"This is probably the most ambitious project of any sort we've ever embarked on in this district."

—Milford Mason

"We looked at what should rather than what could be," he said.

Work on future curriculum for Clarkston began before state and federal government reports strongly criticized education.

Bruce said the committee began work in 1982 as "pioneers" and the report allows the district to take a lead in changing the direction of education.

Clarkston board of education secretary Mary Jane Chaustowich, a member of the curriculum committee, agreed.

"I think it would be interesting to be one step ahead for a change rather than two steps behind," she said.

Concerns about the recommendations expressed by non-committee members at the meeting included the proposed requirements of algebra and geometry for all students, the elimination of departments as they are combined into different categories, a possible increase in the dropout rate, and lack of specific plans for students unable to meet more stringent academic requirements.

Committee members said all those concerns would be addressed in the final report, and they talked about the need to re-educate teachers and redesign classes to take each student as far as possible.

"This is probably the most ambitious project of any sort we've ever embarked on in this district," said Superintendent Milford Mason. "I hope we can look at this in a positive manner to make every effort to do the very best thing based on the recommendation." Two other major changes were proposed in the preliminary report.

The first would divide the curriculum into eight categories: applied technology (computers, business, home economics and industrial arts), fine arts, foreign language, health/physical education, language arts, mathematics, science and social studies.

The second would require that educational plans cover all grade levels rather than the present division that now exists—elementary, junior high and high school.

To do that, the report recommended a full-time administrator in charge of curriculum and committees for each area of study made up of representatives from each of the three levels.

The curriculum committee's goal is to begin the changes in the 1985-86 school year, but final decisions rest with the board of education.

Board President Janet Thomas indicated the school board would meet with the curriculum committee to discuss priorities once the final report is made.

Copies of the preliminary report are available for the public at the administration office, 6389 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

Following hearings for administrators and staff, a public hearing is planned April 4 at Clarkston High School.

TV tower goes up

Tribune/United Cable Communications erected its 120-foot receiving tower behind Rademacher Chevy Inc., at Dixie Highway and M-15 last week.

And on schedule, crews from LeCom Construction continue to install cable throughout Independence Township, according to Manuel Copado, commercial marketing manager.

The tower improves cable TV reception, and eliminates subscriber's need for a roof aerial, Copado said.

Completion of Independence Cablevision's $2.5 million system is still scheduled for mid-April, he said.

User policy in works

To prevent double scheduling, and give township-affiliated functions first crack at using township facilities, the Independence Township Board is drafting a user-policy.

Historically, township buildings have been off-limits to outside groups, according to Clerk Richard Holman.

In a Feb. 21 memo to the board Holman wrote, "...the library is sponsoring a workshop Saturday, April 14, and requested use of the township annex building. Since we have also received recent requests from subdivision groups to use township facilities, it behooves us to adopt a clear policy statement regarding the use of township facilities."

At the Feb. 21 meeting the board briefly discussed adopting a policy and, according to Holman, is looking at a non-refundable deposit fee yet to be decided, a refundable escrow fee to cover damages and having groups sign waivers freeing the township of liability.

"The idea is to let other groups use the township, but give township groups first crack," Holman said after the meeting.

The board's expected to hammer out the final policy at its March 6 meeting.

-Obituaries

Chester A. Lehman

Funeral service for Chester A. Lehman of Pontiac is scheduled Thursday, March 1, at 11 a.m. at the Lewis E. Wint Funeral Home, Independence Township.

Michelle Ellis hangs from the monkey bars behind Pine Knob Elementary School, her face sprinkled with freckles and a perpetual grin. Of the 72 entrants to name Independence Township's 15-acre park on Maybee Road, Michelle won, claiming a $50 savings bond.

Girl, 9, names Maybee Park

Now Sashabaw Plains Park

A 9-year-old Pine Knob Elementary student submitted the winning entry to name the former Maybee Road Park, and all she can do is grin.

"My mom gave the name. She said with all the local history that would be a good name," explained Michelle Ellis.

The Independence Township Board agreed with her philosophy, and on Feb. 21 from the 72 entries submitted by school children, unanimously christened the 15-acres "Sashabaw Plains Park."

For her efforts, Michelle receives a $50 savings bond, which when matures, will buy her family a dinner, she said.

According to a parks and recreation department spokesperson, Michelle will be presented the bond this spring when the park sign's erected at special ceremonies.

The park-naming contest was open to students at North Sashabaw and Pine Knob elementaries and Sashabaw Junior High.

Some of the other names submitted were:

- Friendship Park: To bring people together.
- Woodland Park: Indians in this area were of the Woodland Era, 700 to 1600 A.D.
- Adawa Park: The Ottawa Indians of our area were known as great intertribal traders. "Adawa" is the Indian origin of their name meaning "to trade." The new park will be a trading center for children and adults, to trade friendship through the sports offered there.
- Jessapike Park: An acronym for Junior Elementary Schools Sashabaw and Pine Knob Elementary.
- Oakland Woods Neighborhood Park: Because it's right next to Oakland Woods neighborhood.
- Freedom Park: For freedom for all children to play together and also since our township is Independence.
- Pine-Sash Park: Because I think that will catch the people's eyes.
- Ottawa Sports Park: Chief Pontiac was from the Ottawa Tribe.
- Oak Park: I think you should name it that because it has a lot of oak trees.

Clarkston Schools offer placement program

By Kathy Greenfield

Independence Township residents looking for jobs and employers seeking workers may find help through services now offered by the Clarkston Community Education Department.

Barb Banker serves as coordinator for the new Clarkston Career Center located in the community education building, 5275 Maybee.

The center's services include direct placement

Barb Banker, coordinator of the Career Center, talks with her new employe Judy Monroe, who will instruct the JTPA program called Target—Jobs!

and Target—Jobs!, a three-week workshop for JTPA-eligible clients. JTPA stands for Jobs Training Partnership Act, a federally funded program for the unemployed, underemployed or economically disadvantaged.

"It just seemed like a natural tie-in," Banker said about the job placement program. "Instead of giving them the basic skills and saying goodbye and good luck, we give them support; in other words, help them do something with the education they've just gotten."

"The neat news about (it is) it's free and it's a service to employers, our students and a group of unemployed people in our community," she added.

Since Target—Jobs! began in late January, response from Independence residents has been disappointing.

"We're trying to reach out and find people specifically in Independence Township who are JTPA-eligible and we're not getting them," Banker said.

In the past people were asked to call the JTPA intake office in Waterford, but Banker now wants Independence residents to call the Career Center. The number is 673-5745.

JTPA eligibility encompasses persons who receive public assistance, those with income from the last six months below a certain level based on family size, and persons who have not worked for several months with no source of income.

"We'd like to help the people in Independence Township because that's where we're located and that's what community education is all about—helping people in your community," she said. "And I really feel there have to be people out there who could use help."

On the flip side, employers who need workers are wanted. They, too, can call the Career Center at 673-5745.

"What we're doing is matching workers with jobs," she said. "If an employer has an opening we can help. We can save time and money, and we do have qualified people. That's really important to know. We send in (job applicants) who meet their specific requirements."

Clarkston High School Varsity
Pontiac Central 73, Wolves 70 OT
Feb. 21—The Wolves cannot overcome a 44-point performance by Central's Eli Parker. Erik Kline is top scorer for the Wolves with 24 points. Dave Jokisch follows with 18 points. Chris Bruce adds 12 and Ed Whitaker pitches in 11. The Wolves drop their record to 13-5.

Clarkston High School Junior Varsity
Pontiac Central 56, Wolves 50
Feb. 21—Matt Riddle continues his strong performance this season with 18 points. Mike Walters adds 13 points in the loss for Clarkston. The Wolves' record is now 11-7.

Clarkston Junior High Wolverines
Wolverines 68, Mason 41
Feb. 23—A big third quarter when Clarkston shuts out Mason, 17-0, makes the difference. Balanced team scoring paces the victory. Dan Jokisch tallies 15 points; Craig Chamberlain, 14; Mike Norman, 10; and Scott Wilson and Brian Baert, six each. The Wolverines stay undefeated with a 15-0 record.

Cougars spikers win

Both SJH and CJH play well in match

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Sashabaw Cougars turned things around on the Clarkston Wolverines in volleyball.

The Cougars downed the Wolverines in two games, 15-7 and 15-13, Feb. 23 to split the season series between the two junior-high school teams.

Clarkston defeated Sashabaw in two games on Feb. 6.

"I'm really pleased we won in two games, extremely pleased," said Cougar coach Sue Koslosky. "Everyone on the team had a hand in the win."

Indeed, the bench did play an important part in the match for Sashabaw. Koslosky started six different people in the second game than she did in the first.

On the Wolverine side of the net, they too played well as a team, but the Cougars held on to win.

"I'm really pleased we won in two games."

—Sue Koslosky

"Both teams played well," Wolverine coach Sally Lindemann said. "On any given day, any team can beat any other team."

For the Wolverines, Ruth Webb had a good day in the front line and Sandy Lovelady in setting the ball.

Koslosky was obviously happy with the Cougars' performance. She couldn't stop naming the players who gave good showings in the volleyball match between cross-town rivals.

Leading servers were Tesha Burnett, Coreen Hummel and Stacie Jensen; passing were Gina Houck, Kelly Laidig, and Terry Weir; spiking were Wendy Cohoon and Joanne Beck; setting were Michelle Nelson and Amy Ashton.

"Joanne (Beck) had just an amazing block in the second game," Koslosky said. "...at this level you don't see too many solid spikes and when you do, to have someone block it, it's great. That really pumped us up."

The match ended the season for both teams. Sashabaw finished with a 7-7 record and Clarkston with a 7-5.

Lindeman said she was pleased to have that record.

Koslosky sets a goal of winning as many as they lose during the year.

"We aim for 500. Because there are so many second- and third-year teams that we play, I hope we can catch up and play better near the end," she said. "This was an excellent season."

CHS joins 5 teams

New soccer league opens

By Dan Vandenhemel

Next fall should be better for the Clarkston High School soccer program than its inaugural season in 1983.

The high school is now a member of the five-school North Oakland Soccer Association, which includes Lake Orion, Oxford, Milford and Lakeland.

"It will be kinda nice," said Wolves' soccer coach Neil Granlund. "It gives us a goal to shoot for. We can set our sights toward that from the start."

Granlund said another important factor in establishing the league is all the other teams are also new.

"It'll be nice to compete on our level," Granlund said. "Everybody else is either in their first or second year."

"We were trying to get a league with schools new to soccer so the competitions would be closer," CHS athletic director Paul Tungate said. "We'll have an eight-game league schedule and, hopefully, 14 overall."

The varsity Wolves finished the first season with a 0-13-1 record. Junior varsity was 3-10.

Ruth Webb goes high and Amy Morris stays low for Clarkston against Sashabaw.

Cheerleaders rate near top of state

Congratulations are in order for the Clarkston High School varsity cheerleading squad.

For the first time in 20 years, the squad of 10 girls qualified for the Michigan Cheerleading Coaches Association State finals.

Alma College, Alma, was the site of the finals Feb. 25 between 18 squads from around the state.

CHS finished 17th at the day-long competition. "The big thing is not finishing 17th, but that we qualified for the state," said squad member Donna Lessel. "We are the 17th best squad in the state."

Judging was based on two timed routines, the first was for leadership and the second was for overall.

At the regional competition Feb. 17 at East Detroit High School, the cheerleaders qualified for the state finals through one of the hardest regions around, said member Annette Cipparone.

"Ten squads out of 11 made it from the regionals," she said. "We did really good at the finals, too."

Squad members are Cipparone, Lessel, Tracy Smallwood, Dawnarce DeBoer, Deana Stuart, Paula Ziolkowski, Joni Collier, Shelly MacAlpine, Fe Red and Francine Saunders.

A nice and easy set shot by Tesha Burnett of Sashabaw helps during the two-game victory.

Wrestling meet no match between rivals

"I kind of expected the score to be like that... but Clarkston definitely knew they were in a match." —Jim Banes

By Dan Vandembemel

The traditional season-ending wrestling match between Clarkston and Sashabaw junior highs is over and neither team is upset with the results.

The Wolverines won, 48-17, Feb. 15 to finish with a 8-1 record. The Cougars closed the season with a 4-6 mark.

"I had hoped we could have finished around 7-3 or 6-4," Cougars' coach Jim Banes said. "We gave a good account of ourselves all year."

The outcome of the cross-town wrestling meet was predictable. The team score may not have been close, but many of the individual matches were.

"I expected the score to be a lot closer," Wolverines' coach Dave Stobbe said. "This is the second time we've beaten Sashabaw this year. To tell you how tough that is, in my six years of coaching we've only done it twice."

Stobbe said the intensity died out near the end because Clarkston had the meet wrapped up with six matches remaining.

"I kind of expected the score to be like that," Banes said. "I had hoped a couple of boys could have done better, but Clarkston definitely knew they were in a match."

Winning for Clarkston were Jason Valenzuela at 78 pounds, Chris Luzi at 87 pounds, Dan Stuk at 94 pounds, Rob Lund at 114 pounds, Dean Moscovic at 121 pounds, Rich Sederchuk at 135 pounds, Jeff Valenzuela at 141 pounds, Matt Stark at 148 pounds, Rich Charles at 158 pounds and Garret Bass at 181 pounds. Dave Tucker, at 170 pounds, tied Troy Castle.

Notching victories for Sashabaw were Rob Smith at 101 pounds, Grag Cherniak at 108 pounds, Mike Grable at 129 pounds and heavyweight Jeff McDonald.

Each coach praised one of his wrestlers despite a defeat.

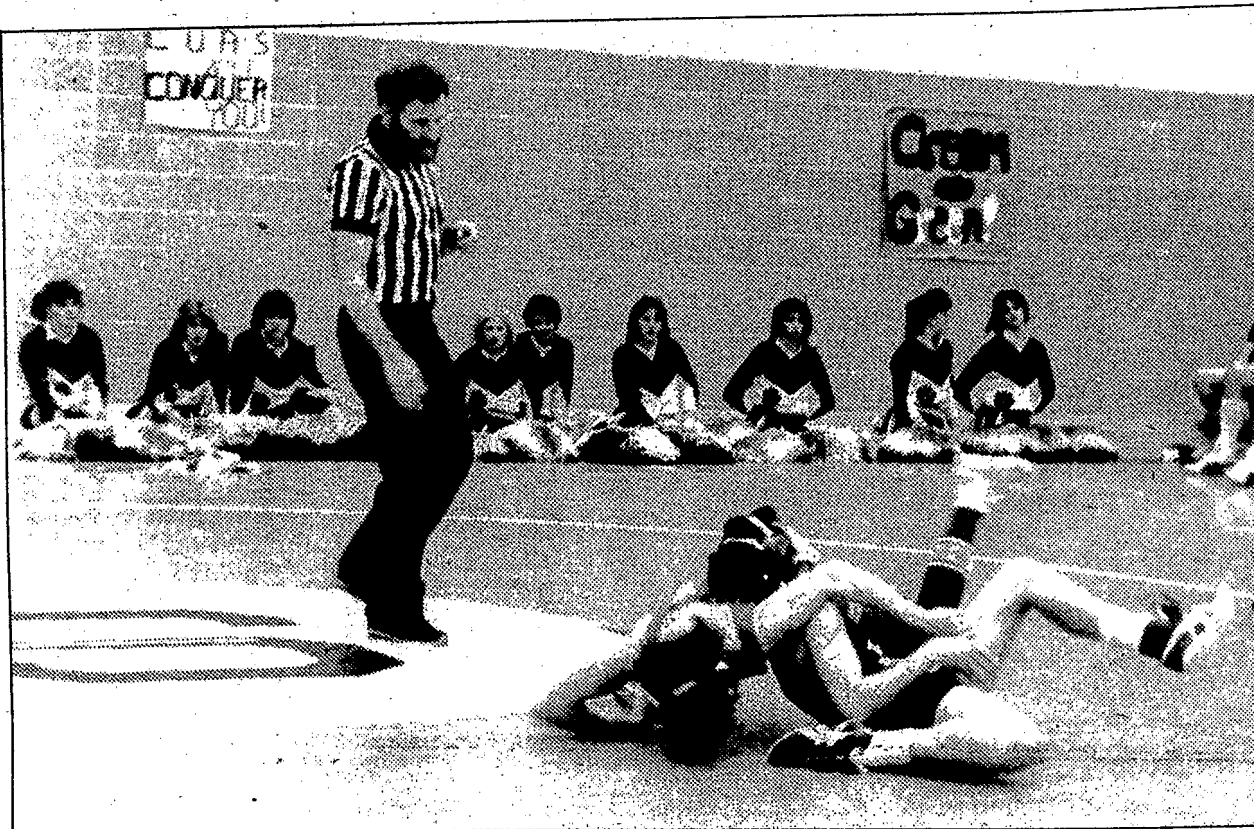

At 141 pounds, Craig Rosenberger lost to Jeff Valenzuela in the final second.

"Craig and Jeff have been wrestling against each other since they were little boys," Banes said. "Jeff has beaten the daylights out of him, too. Craig was scared to get in there against him but did. He was losing badly on points when he got pinned, but he was a real man about it. I admire him and all my boys. They're all winners."

Stobbe patted Scott Emery on the back for his performance against Mike Grable.

"Everyone expected Grable to win," Stobbe said. "Every time Scott threw Grable to the mat, he got a big roar from the crowd. He only lost 7-5, and it wasn't over until the last few seconds. I'm disappointed for him because he did a great job and he should have won."

"We've really worked hard this season," Stobbe added. "I didn't think we'd be this good. It's the best season I've ever had here."

Greg Cherniak of Sashabaw appears to be in trouble against Randy Maloney of Clarkston in this match but Cherniak comes back with to win, only one of five for the Cougars.

Dream lived by young bowler

By Dan Vandenberg

Every bowler's dream is to have a perfect game. Millions of bowlers across the country take to the lanes to search for that elusive 300 game.

Only a small percentage hit the mark; many only after a lot of hard work and many hours of practice. For 15-year-old Pat Stringfield, the wait was not a long one.

The sophomore at Clarkston High School rolled his perfect 300 Feb. 13 at Howe's Lanes.

"I didn't know what was going on until the 10th frame," Stringfield said. "I was bowling with my friend John Barber, and when we bowl together we don't look at the score. We just try to beat each other."

Although the achievement came in a practice game rather than in league play, the feeling was the same for the Ellis Road, Independence Township, resident.

"When I found out I had a chance for a 300, I really wanted it," Stringfield said with a smile. "John told me I was going to get tapped on the last shot. I

"I didn't know what was going on until the 10th frame."

—Pat Stringfield

got mad at him and threw the ball right in the pocket. Every one of the strikes was in the pocket."

The perfect game was the last of three practice games. Stringfield rolled a 221 and 192, for a 713 series.

A half-hour earlier in the Monday Clarkston High School bowling league, Stringfield also bowled well.

"I was right around 600," said the 165-average bowler. "I have really been bowling good lately. Two days after my 300, I had a 724 series and a 262 game."

Stringfield started bowling four years ago. His previous high game was 267.

"When my dad came to pick me up after bowling, I was playing a video game and told him that I bowled a 300 game," the right-handed bowler said. "He didn't believe me. He had to go up to the counter and ask. I got the score sheet witnessed and dated by a woman that works there. I took that to school the next day and showed everybody."

"Every time I leave to go bowling, I say that I'm going to bowl a 300," he said. "It's a standard joke around here. Now I want an 800 series."

Pat Stringfield is still having trouble believing he bowled a perfect game. The 15-year-old Clarkston High School sophomore set his next goal for an 800 series.

Tournament readies Wolves for districts

By Dan Vandenhemel
 Hosting their own volleyball tournament, the Clarkston varsity Wolves fell short of winning the title by one match.
 The Wolves won their pool of five teams during the tournament Feb. 25 with a 6-2 record but lost in the semifinals to Lansing Waverly.
 Losing by scores of 15-8 and 15-10, the Wolves did what they do best, fall behind early and try to comeback.
 "Yeah, we got behind in both games and started to comeback but not enough," said coach Nancy Foster. "We played well the whole match. There was a lot of volleying back and forth."
 The Wolves fell behind in the opening game, 8-2, but were doing most everything right. Foster admits the passing game was off.
 "They (Waverly) had a couple a good hitters," she said. "And they had a great defense. Everytime we hit the ball, they would dig it up. In volleyball, defense will win it for you."
 During the pool play, starting at 9 a.m., the Wolves split with Dearborn Fordson, 14-16 and 15-4. Against Southfield Lathrup the Wolves won both, 15-8 and 17-15. They took care of eventual winners of the tournament Royal Oak Kimball by identical 15-12 scores. In the final match, the Wolves lost, 14-16, to Mt. Clemens then beat them, 15-6.
 "Kimball is ranked sixth in the state," Foster said. "I just wish we had another shot at them in the finals. More than anything else, this tournament showed the kids that they can hit and block with the best.

"... this tournament showed the kids that they can hit and block with the best."

 Doing most of the hitting and blocking for the Wolves were Amy Stark and Wendy Learmont.
 Stark had 15 spikes that went to the floor and Learmont had 16. Learmont's big achievement was blocking shots—she hit 24 and Stark added 11.
 "Those 24 blocked shots for Wendy (Learmont) is getting your hands on a lot of shots," Foster said. "Not all of them went to the floor, but that was a good day."
 Others having a good tournament were Kris Tisch in the front row, Roseann Hirneisen and Kim Lorenz.
 Hirneisen and Lorenz played with injuries. Hirneisen with a large bump on the side of her elbow and Lorenz with a possible chipped bone in her knuckle.
 The Wolves have picked a good time to start playing their best volleyball. The district tournament starts March 3 at 9 a.m. in Lake Orion.

Wendy Learmont attempts one of her many blocks during the varsity volleyball tournament at the Clarkston High School. The Wolves lost in the semifinals to Lansing Waverly.

Up My Alley February feast

By Dan Vandenhemel

A long time ago in a galaxy far, far away...
 The powers that be in television programming need a quick lesson from George Lucas.
 Lucas was the director of "Star Wars" that aired last Sunday night.
 "Star Wars," along with other movies and shows, can keep people in front of the tube for a considerable amount of time.
 "Gone with the Wind," "Roots," and the finale of "M*A*S*H" are prime examples.
 For 11 months out of the year, viewers are forced shows with the quality of "Bowling for Dollars."
 But for that 12th month, February, television is a great source of entertainment. There's something for everyone on the set.
 The temptation to throw a shoe at the screen stops when February rolls around, because the month is the most important to all three networks.
 The ratings during the month help decide advertising rates for the upcoming year, which means more money in their pockets and better shows for the viewers.
 The ratings war brings out the best shows and specials, and the only real winner is the viewer.

Take last Sunday, for instance. On one channel, "Urban Cowboy" aired, trying to draw the closet cowpokes into the open. With a flip of the dial, the mini-series "Lace" tried to seduce viewers into watching. And on the other network, "Star Wars."
 That square box with a picture tube was invented to give the people sitting in front of it something to watch and to entertain them.
 No more do people have to sit and listen to the radio or curl up with a good book, they have a choice.
 But with the quality of some of the shows, curling up with a coloring book would be better.
 Today for every "Dallas" or "A-Team," there are 10 "Real Peoples."
 Maybe shows like "Star Wars" can FORCE producers to give viewers what they want—entertainment.

Accolades for CHS teacher

By Kathy Greenfield

Recognition for a job well done is always appreciated.

What's even more significant for Bill Mackson, the first Teacher of the Month named by the Clarkston High School Honor Society, is who made the selection.

"It comes from the kids. I think it's a real honor," he said. "I've been at this game 22 years and education is kids. When they think enough of you to say you're important—I guess it's one of those intangible rewards."

Mackson was selected by the CHS Honor Society's 35 members. All high school students were encouraged to make nominations. The honor society then voted on the top three or four.

"We thought it would improve school and give teachers the feeling they were recognized for their outstanding accomplishments," said society president and CHS senior David Newblatt. "The really outstanding teachers deserve something more and we didn't feel they were getting it."

Mackson is head of the CHS science department. He teaches anatomy, physiology, physiology lab, ecology and senior review, a composite of all biology courses for seniors who plan to attend college.

"It's difficult material, but the way he teaches makes it easy—it's very interesting," said Newblatt. "He relates well to the kids."

A radio in Mackson's classroom radiates contemporary music—a benefit he allows when the students are working on lab projects.

Tucked on a window ledge is a bean bag cat made of calico fabric—a birthday gift from a student.

As Mackson talks about teaching, he fields teasing from students by asking them to bring in the violins for background music.

The mutual liking makes the atmosphere comfortable.

"I'm truly glad to be in education, and the rewards are in my classroom. I guess beyond that not

Bill Mackson likes teaching and the students like him. He's the first teacher to receive the Teacher of the Month award from the Clarkston much of anything matters," Mackson said.

High School National Honor Society. A 1957 CHS graduate, Mackson has made the Clarkston area his home since he age 6.

While his courses are difficult, his teaching is not always serious—a method he uses on purpose.

"It's funny how much they've learned without really knowing it," he said. "It doesn't have to be serious every minute of every hour—it's a lot like being an actor. You put on a good show and they come back and see you again—that's kind of what I do except there's no singing, no tap dancing..."

Mackson produces a letter announcing a scholarship to Siena Heights College, Adrian, won by one of his students.

"Kristin Baert finished third in a scholastic competition in natural science and was awarded a $3,400 scholarship, which was kind of pleasing to me," he said. "We're all kind of proud of the kids we turn out here. Everyone here does more than an adequate job."

He's pleased, too, that a recent newspaper article in a daily newspaper ranked Clarkston second in Oakland County public schools for Scholastic Aptitude Test scores in natural science, and in the top five in a combination of public and private schools.

In a time when "teacher burnout" are household words, Mackson's experience doesn't apply.

"I don't mind getting up and coming in here in the morning, and I like kids," he said. "And I like my job."

"It revolves around seeing kids succeed and, every now and then, having one of them come back and saying, 'Thank you. You really did a great job.' And they do that often."

"In a very small way you play a little bit of a role in shaping a young man or young woman's life, and that is the gratification—when you see someone succeed and become someone special."

Scouts honor philanthropist Harold E. Fox

It was a fitting salute for Clarkston philanthropist Harold E. Fox.

The Middle Lake Road resident celebrated his 89th birthday with help from the Boy Scouts of America.

Fox gave a donation to the Clinton Valley Council in Pontiac to build a service center and the scouts tossed the party there. About 50 people attended.

"He's a well-known philanthropist," said scout executive Bill Spice. "I'm not sure how much he gave us but it's close to a million dollars. That paid for the building and to start an endowment fund to perpetuate scouting."

The Harold E. Fox Service Center was opened in October 1982 and it services 20,000 scouts.

When asked how he liked the building, Fox said it was perfect.

"It's just what I expected," he said. "The party is a surprise. I didn't know this was going to happen."

He said he has donated money to various groups since moving to Michigan about 40 years ago. He has lived in Clarkston 26 years.

Fox has also given money for the Harold E. Fox Center, located next to St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital in Pontiac.

Dr. Edward McPhee raises his glass to toast Harold E. Fox [center] on his 89th birthday. At right is Henry Price. The Boy Scouts of America hosted the party for Fox.

$1 buys park

It's official. Springfield Township owns the Mill Pond Park.

The purchase of the 7-acre park on Davisburg Road for $1 was finalized by the Oakland County Board of Commissioners on Feb. 23 with the deed transfer.

"The purchase will allow the township to seek a federal grant to make additions to the park," said parks and recreation commission secretary Gary Dove.

"The township has been leasing the park for $1 from the county for the past several years," Dove said. "The idea of owning the park has been around for the past 10 years. The township sent a formal request (to the county parks and recreation department) in April last year to purchase the land.

"We'd like to build some tennis courts, more parking spaces, picnic and playground areas," he said. "The Land and Water Conversation Fund (grant) is still pending. We won't know about that for a couple of weeks."

The grant would come through the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the National Park Service. Half of the total of $63,000 would be paid by Springfield Township.

"We're hoping that part of our $31,500 share will be paid by services," Dove said. "If we can get some residents to help with the work or some local contractors to donate time or machinery, it will cut the cost."

Anyone interested in helping with the Mill Pond Park improvement should contact Dove at 681-1200.

Pillows, blankets, sleeping bags and music filled Clarkston High School Feb. 24 and 25. Paul Frazier and Kelly Cruz along with 90 other students played for most of the 20 hours to raise money for the band's trip to Washington, D.C., for 10th Annual Festival of Nations, May 11-13. While one group of musicians were playing, the others were resting or eating. Groups played in two-hour intervals throughout the night.

Parents, relatives and friends line the track during the Awana Grand Prix race at the First Baptist Church of Davisburg Feb. 18 to watch the pinewood car race. Awana is a youth group open to boys and girls in grades three through eight. Twenty-three racers vied for the six prizes in speed and design. Glen Howard, 13, of Holly charged his way down to track for the first-place finish. Todd Converse, 10, of Ormond Road, Springfield Township, was second and Jeff Nixon, 12, of Davisburg Road, was third. In design, Kathy Schoenhals, 13, of Davisburg Road was first, her brother Steve, 10, was second and Arlie Land, 12, of Jardine Road, Springfield Township, was third.

Independence hosts its first CURE meeting March 8

For the first time, a Citizens United to Restore Education (CURE) meeting is planned in Independence Township, and residents are encouraged to attend.

"They've always been held at the Waterford school district office, but we thought it would help if people came and observed, so we're going to rotate districts," said Jeanne Molzon, CURE representative for the Clarkston school district.

The citizens' group was established about four years ago to lobby against massive cuts in education by the state legislature. Ten school districts are members.

The Thursday, March 8, meeting is planned at the Clarkston schools administration building, 6389 Clarkston Rd., beginning at 7:30 p.m.

This month's speaker is Kerry Kammer, a paid lobbyist who works for several school districts including Clarkston.

"The focus is on what methods of lobbying CURE will be pursuing in the next several months in order to provide education with the necessary funds—so we won't get cuts in 1985, which are anticipated," Molzon said.

"The governor has made such a big deal about education getting money. We just have to make sure education does get money and, as soon as things get tight in '85, that we don't get cuts."

Public Notice of Budget Hearing
For Federal Revenue Sharing

Independence Township will hold a Public Hearing at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 6, 1984, at the Independence Township Annex, 90 N. Main Street for purposes of hearing written and oral comments from the public concerning the proposed Annual Federal Revenue Sharing Budget for fiscal year 1984/85, and the use of Federal Revenue Sharing funds as contained in that budget.

General Revenue Sharing is a program of general fiscal support from the Federal Government to State and Local Governments with only limited federal requirements on how the money should be spent. Decisions on the use of these funds are made at the local level by the Township Board and persons closest to local problems. Revenue Sharing regulations require a hearing on the proposed use of these funds in relation to the annual budget before its adoption.

All interested citizens, groups, senior citizens and organizations are encouraged to attend and submit comments.

ANALYSIS OF FEDERAL REVENUE SHARING FUND

FY 84/85:

Beginning Fund Balance	158,477
Add: FRS Entitlement	97,101
Interest Earnings	10,000
Subtract: Proposed Expenditures	197,400
Ending Fund Balance	68,178

The primary uses of Federal Revenue Sharing Funds have included the following: police protection, dust control, spring cleanup, park improvements, road improvements, community promotion.

A copy of this information is available at Independence Township Clerk's Office, 90 N. Main Street, from 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Teacher bills singers 'outstanding'

Top ratings were awarded to two Clarkston Junior High School students Feb. 4 at the Michigan School Vocal Association Solo & Ensemble Festival.

Michelle Blomberg and Jennifer Kuzma sang their way to Division I ratings with the performance of "On Wings of Music" by Felix Mendelssohn and "Promised Land" by Natalie Sleeth.

"These two girls have really been outstanding," said CJHS choral teacher Laura Schaefer. "The judges said some nice things about them. I was really pleased."

Grads

Six Clarkston area students are among 437 recent graduates from Oakland University, Rochester.

Jeanne Carter, of Cherokee Road, received a master's degree in teaching mathematics.

Graduates awarded bachelor's degrees were: William Bernard, of Holcomb Road, in computer and information science; Diane Bick, of Cramlane Drive, in electrical engineering; James Guisinger, of Buffalo Street, in general management; Richard Little of Hummingbird Lane, in English-liberal arts; and Kenneth Wayne, of Eston Road, in psychology-liberal arts.

Clarkston area resident Mary Higgenbotham is a recent graduate of Southeastern Academy, Kissimmee, Fla. She completed a program in travel tourism, qualifying her for an entry-level position in the airline, travel or tourism industry.

New arrivals

Lucy and Bruce Embrey of Church Street, Independence Township, have a grandson!

Teague MacDonald Embrey was born Feb. 4 in Lima, Peru.

He weighed 6½ pounds and measured 19-inches long.

His parents are Scott and Sandy Embrey.

Says Lucy, "We got there just in time to give them the baby clothes from the shower. We got in on the second, she went in the hospital on the third, and he was born on the fourth. We got there just in time to see him born!"

Jim and Sheryl Butzine are new parents.

Emily Anne was born Feb. 5 at 11:45 a.m. She weighed 9½ pounds and measured 21½ inches long.

Emily was greeted at the Butzine home on Sunnysdale Road, Independence Township, by Todd, 5, and Sarah, 3.

Grandparents are Robert and Alyce Gilroy of Troy, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Butzine of Wisconsin.

In service

Deanna Brewer leaves March 1 for basic training in the United States Army. A 1982 Clarkston High School graduate, she enlisted in the army's Delayed Entry Program through the Clarkston recruiting station. She chose training as a multichannel communications equipment operator for her three-year enlistment and qualified for the Army College Fund.

Pvt. Mark Jimenez graduated with honors from a United States Army food service specialist course at Fort Jackson, S.C.

OU classes here

Clarkston High School is among eight off-campus locations for Oakland University courses beginning May 1.

During the spring session students may take extension classes without admission to the university by registering in the classroom at the first session.

Students not admitted as well as those admitted to the university pay tuition and purchase books the first night of class.

For more information and a complete schedule of spring and summer session classes, call the Oakland University Extension Program at 377-4010.

9 winning 'Dream' writers

"I have a dream" was the theme for writers, artists and music-makers who entered the Bailey Lake Elementary School competition for entries to the National PTA Reflections Art Project.

The winners, named Feb. 17, were:

•Visual arts (drawings, paintings, sketches): Jodi Gorham, Annette Albrecht, Carri Lathers and Blake Farah.

•Music (a tape recording of an original composition): Brian Alessi.

•Literature (poems, short stories, essays): Brad Bailey, Natalie Burge, Jennifer McArdle and Katie Reschke.

Medals, provided by the Bailey Lake PTA, were awarded to the children last week.

"We just went into classrooms and announced it. It was neat," said Roxanna Reschke, chairperson of the PTA's art enhancer committee.

The literature entries that won follow:

I HAVE A DREAM

By Brad Bailey

I have a dream, I would like to be a farmer. I like to plant things in the ground. I like to help my father and grandpa plant their farm.

A SPRING DREAM

By Natalie Burge

The sun is fun
Let's go run
What a beautiful day
Let's go and play
Look at that tree
There's a bee
Come and dream with me

SHARE A DREAM

By Jennifer McArdle

My dream is I want to grow up and not be rich but not be poor either.

I want to marry a healthy husband. Have healthy children.

I want to get a job, have healthy grandchildren. Just live a good life.

I HAVE A DREAM

By Katie Reschke

I have a dream about being a balloon.
I would be bright colors. I would be held by somebody that wanted me.

I would be played with. I would float through the clouds.

That is my dream.

CAYA nets $5,000 gift

For the second year running, Independence Township wants to give Clarkston Area Youth Assistance (CAYA) a $5,000 gift.

On Feb. 21, board members voted unanimously to allocate funds from the 1984 Federal Revenue Sharing budget, still to be adopted.

Garry Pullins, certified social worker for CAYA, says the group depends heavily on donations.

"It's our bread and butter. We have to have it for operating expenses. And we appreciate the office space the township gives us at the senior citizens' center," Pullins said.

CAYA develops and conducts guidance programs for community youth and their families. Its goal is to prevent delinquency and neglect.

Springfield and Independence townships, Clarkston village, Clarkston Community Schools and the Oakland County Probate Court are key sponsors of the organization which hosts the annual summer camp; sponsors PLUS, a program similar to the Big Brothers-Big Sisters; and hosts diversified guidance seminars for children and their parents.

SEPTIC TANK NEED CARE. The Michigan State University says maintenance is the key to a lasting septic disposal system. It also recommends that you pump your tank at proper intervals - one to five years. An average sized family's tank should be pumped every 2 to 3 years. This will prolong the life of your septic system and avoid field tile problems. We charge $60 for a residential tank if the lid is uncovered and we would be happy to serve you. 394-0303. LX-28-2p

Diabetic class

"Living a Full Life While Being a Sweet Person" is a class for diabetics and their families offered by the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center.

Led by Phyllis Spittle, R.N., and a dietitian, the class is to meet on Wednesdays, March 7, 14, 21 and 28, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the lower level of the Clarkston Professional Building, 5885 M-15, Independence Township.

Among topics are tips on how to dine out, go to parties and travel.

"We're encouraging diabetics who have been diabetics awhile to come and also new diabetics, including people mildly diabetic," said Beverly Walters, director of nursing for the center.

The fee is $5 for materials. Advance registration is preferred. Call 625-CARE or 625-2621.

6 down, 9 to go

Six people have responded to Joette Kunse's call for volunteers to open their homes and provide meals for European teachers in Clarkston this summer.

"We're still looking for a few people to host a teacher for a week or two in July or August," she said.

Kunse and her family have participated in the American Host Foundation program for every-other-summer for 10 years.

She would like to have a group of about 15 teachers visit to provide a greater opportunity to learn about life in Clarkston, which Kunse considers typical, midwestern middle American.

The American Host program is designed to bring European teachers to the United States so they can learn firsthand about our life-styles.

The teachers pay their own transportation costs and a fee to American Host, and are provided lodging with volunteers.

For more information, call Kunse at 623-6759 evenings or on weekends.

Church retreat

Women of all ages may attend a mini-retreat on Saturday, March 10, at the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The theme is "You are the light of the world...Let it shine." Matthew 5:14-16.

The Rev. Patricia Meyers of the Baldwin United Methodist Church, Pontiac, is the keynote speaker. She'll open the retreat with the message "Living in a Dark World" and close with "Being the Bright Spot."

Other speakers include the Rev. Diane Vale, Sue Davis, Mary Couzens and Millie Janka.

The $7 fee includes coffee, tea and goodies throughout the day, and a hot lunch.

For reservations or more information, call the Clarkston United Methodist Church office, 625-1611.

The church is located at 6600 Waldon, Independence Township.

Dance benefit

A spring dinner dance to benefit athletics in Clarkston schools is planned by the Clarkston Athletic Boosters.

The cost is $25 a couple for the April 7 event, with cocktails from 7 to 7:30 p.m., dinner at 7:30 and dancing from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The party is to be held in St. Daniel's Church Hall.

Tickets may be purchased at Country Cords or Flower Adventure, both on Main Street in downtown Clarkston, or by calling 625-4446 or 625-3166.

Haeuslers celebrate their 49th

NWOVEC shares couple's special milestone

By Kathy Greenfield

Roy and Aileen Haeusler say they can't wait to see what happens on their 50th wedding anniversary.

Their reaction came during a special party for their 49th anniversary Feb. 23, put on by the food service staff and students at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center.

The Haeuslers were greeted at the door with a corsage and boutonniere, and seated at a table topped with linen.

Their specially made meal began with soup, then shrimp cocktail, beef stroganoff and, for dessert, a German chocolate cake.

A crowd of students gathered, and the whole dining room joined in, as they sang "Happy Anniversary to You."

As the accolades and congratulations flew, Roy and Aileen dined—never mind the interruptions.

"It can't get cold with such warm friendships," said Aileen when one well-wisher apologized.

The party came together through the mutual efforts of food service supervisors and teachers Roberta Allen, Chris Kevern and Lynn Mead.

"They are our best customers—by far our best supporters," said Mead, adding that when the student-run Northwest Inn opened the Haeuslers were among the first diners and they've been coming back ever since—at least three times a week.

"It's a nice tribute to them, but it's nice what they do for us," said Kevern.

As is usual on such occasions, there was a bit of romance.

"He's only been here one time without her," said Mead. "I said, 'My gosh, you're batching it.'"

The Haeuslers have lived in Independence Township full time since 1964 and were summer residents the 13 previous years.

They met in Detroit. A 1933 University of Wisconsin graduate, Aileen worked as a secretary at the YWCA for $75 a month and a room. An MIT, Massachusetts, graduate, Roy was doing vocational guidance aptitude testing for the YMCA.

A friend introduced them. "And that was it," Roy said.

They traveled to Toledo, Ohio, for their wedding.

"We were married in the middle of a blizzard," Aileen said, comparing that day to the spring-like weather 49 years later. "On the way back some boys were throwing snowballs and broke the window on the bus."

Not everyone had cars then, Roy said.

"In spite of everything," Aileen said, she'd spend her life with Roy again, but they'd have to meet another way.

"I said the other day if I could live my life over again, I'd study law instead of social work, and I think Roy would study medicine," she said.

"Medicine or engineering," Roy countered. He retired as an engineer from the Chrysler Corp, and he's busy learning about all the new telephone technology.

"Don't let her hear this," he added, "but she's been quite a gal. I refer to her as dear, patient Aileen and I mean it. I'm a crazy saver and she puts up with it."

"Well, I'm a crazy saver, too," Aileen said. "But we save different things. He saves junk and I save treasures."

One thing they agree on, wholeheartedly, is that the Northwest Inn is a fine place.

"It's almost like a club here. When the people, so many senior citizens, come in they all know each other," said Aileen. "It's a social gathering here. We really look forward to it."

"The food is extremely good all the time, not just today," said Roy. "People in Clarkston ought to know about this."

A special day for the Haeuslers becomes even more special as they're treated to a meal prepared just for them by students enrolled in the food service program.
