O'Neill plans surgical clinic

Psychiatric day care, too

By Marilyn Trumper

In conjunction with his Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center, pediatrician James O'Neill, M.D., proposes an outpatient surgical clinic and psychiatric day care center.

His application was filed for a certificate of need Feb. 7 with the State Department of Public Health.

Unlike hospitals which face comparative review, the proposed Clarkston Surgical Center Inc. will be analyzed on its own merit, according to Joan Luecke, project review coordinator for the state.

"There's nothing of its kind in that area, so it shouldn't be too difficult to show a need," Luecke said, adding there's a 90-day wait prior to review, followed by a 90-day review. One of the two can be waived, she said.

O'Neill said the outpatient and psychiatric clinics will be housed in the walk-in clinic until a new building is constructed behind his M-15 offices.

The proposed 30-patient psychiatric outpatient clinic will ultimately be housed in Clarkston Place, O'Neill and developer Hugh Garner's jointly proposed senior citizen village at I-75 and Dixie Highway, he said.

"I don't think it will be an easy one, two, three step thing," he said. "I think it's going to take a lot of effort. But I do think there's a need for day-psychiatric here, for people with acute depression, drug abuse, alcoholics, that are referred to us for one reason or another. We do have Insight at Colombiere, but that's about all.

"This will give them a place to go during the day when they don't require hospitalization but require supervision, and give their families a break during the day."

The surgical outpatient clinic could service up to 20 patients a day, O'Neill said, and would end area residents driving to Pontiac Osteopathic and St. Joseph Mercy in Pontiac, or Henry Ford Hospital in West Bloomfield for things like minor eye surgery, removal of lumps and moles, scoping procedures and x-rays.

Reflections of Greek drama

Tragedy and comedy—the feelings of each are written on the faces of these Pine Knob Elementary kindergartners watching a presentation of the Greek Art portion of the Bringing Arts Studies into Classrooms, a 12-week program underway in Clarkston schools. Work to begin on cable-TV studio

By Kathy Greenfield

The metamorphosis of the Clarkston schools' maintenance building to the Independence Cable Television business office is expected to begin within the next couple of weeks, according to Manuel Capado, commercial marketing manager for Tribune/United Cable Communications.

The 15-year lease for $11,612 a year was approved last week by the Clarkston board of education.

Tribune/United officials are expected to sign to lease soon, Capado said.

The Independence Township Planning Commission approved the site plan March 8.

"We're going to make substantial improvements to the building. It won't look like a maintenance building when we're through with it," Capado said, adding that a new facade and extensive landscaping are planned.

Plans are to have the first subscribers signed up for the cable-TV service by mid-April.

Neighborhoods nearest the head-in site that contains the tower and satellite dish behind Rademacher Chevy Inc. at M-15 and Dixie Highway will have the service first.

The Village of Clarkston will follow shortly thereafter, he said, and service for the entire township should be available by mid-October.

"We get literally hundreds of calls a day asking when they're going to be able to hook up," Capado said. "Nobody's more eager than us... (but) it's such a complex technology that you have to take your time and do so in the prescribed manner, but we're getting close."

Conditions attached to the lease, according to Clarkston schools Superintendent Milford Mason, include termination of the lease if the cable-TV firm is told to relocate by the village and township, and the return of the building in its renovated state when the lease agreement ends.

"They will be able to take all nonpermanent equipment, but we would retain everything else," Mason said, including a new heating and air conditioning system, studio, workroom and additional rest room.

Display warns teens not to drink and drive

By Marilyn Trumper

A graphic display in protest of drunk driving is inside an illuminated glass showcase down a back hall at Clarkston High School.

Xeroxed official 8-by-10 police photos give a gruesome, eerie, gray ghost look at 14 Oakland County alcohol-related accident scenes; the mangled wrecks, twisted frames and shattered windshields.

Cars are wrapped around a telephone poll. Others have their roofs shaved off and doors torn from hinges like destroyed plastic model cars.

"DO YOU DRINK & DRIVE? THESE PEOPLE DID" reads a sign in the showcase.

And in the bottom of the showcase are scattered crushed beer cans, corkless wine bottles and an empty champagne bottle.

The showcase so captured the student body's attention, the teacher in the nearest classroom suggested charging admission for a look.

"He couldn't get his class in the door," said Janet Lamm, who with Kris Baert put the window together. "Some people think it's really negative, and others don't like it because they had a relative, friend or neighbor involved in an accident. I think it makes some of them think," Lamm said.

"It scares a lot of people more than anything. I think (drunk driving) is a real big problem."

Lamm joined the CHS chapter of Students Against Drunk Driving after attending a seminar hosted by the SAAD group, a national movement to educate youth on the dangers of drunk driving.

About 10 students meet informally every few weeks at CHS and design concepts like the showcase, and a booth at the parent/teacher conferences March 15.

"We'll be passing out a five-question questionnaire to parents, and a contract they can sign. If their kids are drunk at a party, they promise to pick them up and not question them about it until the next morning," Lamm said.

The strategy is to keep minors from drinking and driving.

"I feel (drunk driving) is a real big problem. After the seminar it really made me think," she said. "People get involved in alcohol around prom time and during senior trips."

"It makes you think who else might not be in the class to graduate."

"The (showcase) is designed as a scare tactic more than anything else."

2 trustees weigh campaigns

The two trustees presently holding the Clarkston board of education seats up for election June 11 have differing stances on their re-election plans.

Vincent Luzzi has yet to decide.

"I've not really sure. I'm kicking it around," he said. "I've been on eight years and I think it's maybe time somebody else had a shot at it, but I haven't arrived at a final decision yet."

"I've really enjoyed it. It's been fascinating and I've had some impact on things that have happened over the eight years, but it takes a lot of time to do it right," he added. "And when you take a lot of time it means something else has to give way."

David Kithil is sure he'll be on the ballot.

He has held a seat on the board one year. Last year, he won the election for the one year remaining in the four-year term of a school board member who resigned after accepting a job in another state.

Kithil is a district sales manager for the business systems divisions of Eastman Kodak.

"I feel that the background and the experiences I've had in my business life have allowed me to make some decent contributions on the board," he said.

Nominating petitions for the election are available from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays at the Clarkston school district administration building, 6389 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

Those seeking the four-year trustee seats must return the petitions by April 9. Twenty verified signatures are required.

New clinic

"Conservative estimates say that 37 percent of all surgical procedures can be done outpatient," O'Neill said. "It also frees the acute-care beds."

Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center opened the first week in December in the offices of osteopathic physicians Alfred Hamilton, Ronald LePere and Theodore Englemann.

The 16-physician staff, comprised of area doctors, alternate working at the clinic from 7 p.m. through the night, until the three osteopathic physicians' family practice reopens at 8 a.m.

The clinic is designed to handle cases that are not life-threatening.

Schools ponder outstanding employee rewards

By Kathy Greenfield

A letter from the school board and a certificate aren't enough for district employees who have done outstanding jobs, says the Clarkston board of education.

Reacting to a five-point employee recognition program presented March 12, the board voted 6-0 to direct the committee to propose a reward at the June meeting that includes something "beyond a certificate."

The board approved the other four areas recommended by the committee:

- Retirement recognition for employees with at least 10 years of service, including dinner for the retiree and a guest and a plaque presented by the board of education.

- Recognition for 10, 15, 20, 25 and 30 years of service. An inscribed watch for 25 years of service and lapel pins for the other milestones are to be presented the on first day of school in August.

- Mention in building newsletters or at a September board of education meeting for employees who have been at work every day of their work year.

- Encouragement for the creation or continuation of recognition within buildings and departments for noteworthy contributions of individuals.

"It seems like most of the monetary value is on longevity as opposed to anything else," said board member Mary Jane Chaustowich, who called for "something more tangible than recognition at a board meeting for people who are outstanding at their jobs."

Several months ago, board members Chaustowich, Carolyn Place and Stephen Werner worked on preliminary recommendations for employee recognition and the 11-member Employee Recognition Committee was formed following their consensus that outstanding employees deserved notice.

At last week's meeting, Werner recommended classroom aids and said the idea was to recognize achievements and to encourage outstanding contributions from others.

Place suggested a "menu of things" for rewards that might include a day off, visit to another school district, a workshop or curriculum materials.

"I think these are all things that would ultimately benefit the children as well as the employee," she said.

Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara, who chaired the 11-member committee, said several school districts had been contacted, only one had a recognition program for outstanding employees and it did not include monetary rewards. The teachers on his committee thought certificates would be enough, he said.

Council members want raise

By Marilyn Trumper

Five years have passed since the part-time Clarkston Village Council's received a raise, and the council is considering raises for Clerk Norma Goyette and Treasurer Artemus Pappas.

According to President Jackson Byers, Goyette and Pappas took their request for $1,200-a-year raises based on a 20-hour work week to the council March 13, but met some opposition from Trustee Pontie ApMadoc.

The issue was tabled until talks for the 1984-85 budget, scheduled before the March 27 meeting.

Currently Goyette receives a $4,400 annual salary, and Pappas $5,128, while DPW workers receive an average of $7-an-hour.

"If you calculate it based on their 20 hours, it works out they make less than the DPW workers, and I think that was the point they were trying to make," said Byers.

ApMadoc said she argued against a raise for Goyette, but approved of one for Pappas because a raise should be based on experience. She added the treasurer's responsibilities had increased with the collection of summer taxes.

"I don't think anybody on the council needs a raise this year," ApMadoc said after the meeting. "But I've thought about it since then, and I guess the clerk does have extra duties during election time."

ApMadoc said she would reserve further comment until the proposed new year's budget is forged.

Below is a list of the other elected officials' salaries:

- President: $50 per meeting.
- Assessor: $300 annually.
- Trustees: $20 per meeting.

The council meets twice each month, with an occasional special meeting.

Food thief

Shopper loses $70 in groceries

A woman left her shopping cart with $70 worth of food in the A&P parking lot in Independence Township last Friday, and stepped inside the adjacent drug store for some last-minute items.

When she returned—her food was gone.

She called police, and a witness offered the Oakland County Sheriff's Department deputy a license plate number and description of the alleged thief.

Police paid the Springfield Township man a visit in his home where he confessed.

Yes, he'd taken the food.

And yes, he'd give it back—but he'd already put it away.

Instead he agreed to pay for the food and gave the officer $70.

The woman agreed not to press charges.

Drawings readied for 5 multipurpose rooms

If voters approve $1.75 million bond proposal, work can begin

By Kathy Greenfield

The Clarkston board of education agreed last week to spend between $45,000 and $48,000 for working drawings for five multipurpose rooms, one for each of the district's elementary schools.

Voters will have a chance to approve or deny spending $1.75 million for bonds for the project at the June 11 school election.

If voters approve the project, having the drawings ready will allow bids for construction to begin shortly thereafter, with construction completed by June 1985 at the latest, according to Superintendent Milford Mason.

Charles Sherman of Charles Sherman Associates of Troy presented architectural drawings for each building at the March 12 school board meeting.

The identical multipurpose rooms measure 74-by-74 feet and include a 500-foot stage, a playing area, individual toilet rooms, small kitchenette, coat area, furniture storage area and heating equipment.

Each would be surrounded by an earth berm for energy conservation, leaving about 8 feet between the ground and beginning of the roof.

The buildings would be constructed of masonry with asphalt shingle roofs and tile floors, although bids will include an alternate price for metal roofs and floors made of sturdier tile.

Sherman's cost estimate of $1.8 million for all five additions did not include landscaping, storage room shelving, stage curtains, backstops, tables, chairs or appliances.

Sherman estimated the cost of each addition at $255,000. Additional estimates for site preparations and service hookups varied according to conditions at each elementary school, bringing the total estimates to: Andersonville $319,000, Bailey Lake $310,000, Clarkston Elementary $315,000, Pine Knob $304,000 and North Sashabaw $314,000.

If voters approve funding for the multipurpose room additions, the money could be invested for a period of time and interest earned would reduce the total funding needed, thus placing the ballot request at $1.75 million.

Wording for the ballot proposal is to be approved at the April 9 board of education meeting.

Clarkston is the only public school district in Oakland County without multipurpose rooms/gymnasiums for its elementary schools.

Two more candidates to run

Seeking trustee seat

By Marilyn Trumper

Carol Balzarini announced she'll seek a four-year trustee seat on the Independence Township Board this year.

Balzarini, 45, said she wants to be a part of the decision-making process.

"I know it sounds pretty trite, but that's basically it. I want to participate in the community," she said.

A Republican, Balzarini is serving her second term as secretary of the Independence Township Planning Commission and was a member of the Cable TV Task Force. In addition she was cochairperson of Citizens United to Restore Education, a citizens' lobbying group designed to better fund education.

Carol Balzarini

She's also a precinct delegate and secretary of the 19th Congressional District Republican Committee and northwest regional director for the Oakland County Republican Committee.

In the 1980 election, she was unsuccessful in her bid for the treasurer's seat on the township board.

She's lived on Reese Road in Independence Township 13 years.

Supervisor hopeful

A 25-year-old Independence man tossed his hat into the ring for the supervisor's seat, submitting a 59-signature petition to township hall Monday morning.

George Vitinoros, a Republican, of Transparent Drive says he sees many improvements that can be made in the community.

"Like improving the water quality by keeping businesses out that want to pollute the water and lower taxes by reducing salaries townshipwide. And I want to get more people interested in politics on the national level," he said.

Ritter's Market sale expected in 90-120 days

By Marilyn Trumper

Two unidentified people described as "prominent Clarkston businessmen" hold an option to purchase Ritter's Farm Market for an undisclosed sum.

Knob eateries open for business

By Marilyn Trumper

Borg Warner Equities, the multi-million Chicago-based firm that received the Pine Knob Golf Course and The Mansion and La Veranda restaurants in the bankruptcy settlement, announced last week it's retained much of the former management—and is open for business.

"It wasn't a house-cleaning," said public relations representative David Savage. "They're happy with the people and are planning on making improvements as needed."

General manager Sam Locricchio remains on staff to help during the transitional period.

The remodeled rambling English Tudor mansion, formerly the home of Col. Waldon, is open Tuesday through Thursday from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Friday and Saturday from 11:30 a.m. to 11 p.m.; and a special Renaissance Food Festival is served from noon to 7 p.m. Sunday.

La Veranda Ristorante's head chef William Hall specializes in southern Italian gourmet cuisine. It's managed by Italo M. Rovere, and open from 5 to 10 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday; 5 to 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday; and Sunday from 5 to 10 p.m.

Pine Knob's championship golf course is being readied to open as scheduled May 1 or as the weather permits, with Matt Daubner as the staff golf pro.

According to Savage, Borg-Warner has invested in all new grooming equipment, and expects the public course to be the best it's ever been.

with the final sale expected in 90 to 120 days, according to owner Tom Ritter.

Ritter says he'll stay on as a managing consultant and remain a key part of the 55-year-old business established by his father.

The sale has nothing to do with his candidacy in the 6th United States Congressional District race, Ritter said.

"My wife and I talked about my making a career change about six months before I decided to run for office," he said. "I'm not selling the store because I'm a candidate, I am a candidate. I'm not looking for a job."

Burger King to replace historic home

Ritter's Farm Market owner Tom Ritter sold the property under his 120-year-old home next to the market on Dixie Highway to Burger King Restaurants.

The fast-food hamburger chain plans to build a restaurant on the 1-acre site, and last week discussed a proposed site plan with officials from Independence's building department, according to Building and Planning Director Kenneth Delbridge.

A spokesperson from Burger King could not be reached for comment.

Delbridge said he anticipates close monitoring of the plan by the planning commission with emphasis

"We were approached on it, and agree (with the buyers) to the sale in principle, to the purchase agreement and transaction."

Ritter says business will continue as it has under the new ownership.

"I don't have any regrets at all," he said of the sale. "It's been good to me and my family. But it's time to test other waters."

Ritter announced early this year he'll seek the Republican nomination for the 6th U.S. Congressional race.

It's expected he'll try to unseat incumbent Bob Carr (D-Okemos), who's yet to officially announce candidacy.

on greenbelts and beautification.

"I know they've been trying to dress up that corner," he said. "But I don't anticipate any problems. The land is zoned for that use and they meet all the requirements."

No date has been scheduled before the planning commission.

Ritter says he plans to move the family home, or sell it to someone who will move it.

"It's almost too big to move the 35-foot cube and difficult to find an average road size to do it. But the number-one priority is to save the home. It's too graceful a home to destroy," he said, adding that the Ritters want to stay in the area.

Residents want funding for cleanup

Keep financing the annual townshipwide spring cleanup, said residents at Independence Township's March 6 hearing to forge a $197,000 federal revenue sharing budget.

"I belong to (a homeowner's association) out in the northeast quadrant, and it's really a dump out there," said a Stickney Road resident. "I'd also like to suggest you schedule it two weeks earlier this year, before all the new undergrowth starts and makes it difficult to see things."

In addition, Margaret Olesnavich requested $2,000 for SCAMP, a five-week summer program for children with special needs.

"Under state law municipalities are restricted to funding non-profit organizations, to drug abuse and child shelters," said Supervisor James B. Smith. "I certainly think SCAMP's a worthy cause, and we'll have to get a legal opinion on that."

The March meeting was the second of two budget public hearings.

The board's expected to adopt the budget at its March 20 meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Schools hire computer coordinator

A new computer education coordinator is on staff for Clarkston Community Schools.

The board of education voted 6-0 March 12 to hire Donna de Witt for the 14 weeks remaining in the school year.

Paid $12 an hour for not more than 20 hours a week, de Witt began her job March 19. The wages do not include benefits.

"I looked and searched and have done just about everything I could to turn up a person who could be contracted for this position," Superintendent Milford Mason said.

There is a need now for a computer coordinator, but because the future of computers is uncertain, Mason said he did not want to hire on a permanent basis.

De Witt's first priority will be to focus on the elementary curriculum, Mason said after the meeting.

She is to plan and establish teacher training, take an inventory of computer equipment throughout the district and work as a liaison with support groups, like the Oakland Schools computer department.

Oakland Schools serves the 28 public school districts in Oakland County with resource and support services.

Think about these questions: "What are the last two books you read?" and "What are your three favorite books?"

Now, imagine that the person asking those questions is someone you need to impress.

Let's add that you hadn't prepared for the conversation by reading two decent books.

And let's suppose you hadn't made a mental, or otherwise, list of favorite books in, say, 15 years—about the time you stopped trying to come up with stimulating party talk and decided to let conversations flow as they would.

What would you do?

Would you say, "I just finished rereading some classics—'The Prince' by Machiavelli and 'Crime and Punishment' by Dostoyevsky" or would you admit that you just finished something like a book of Garfield cartoons and "The Grass Is Always Greener Over the Septic Tank" by Erma Bombeck?

Would you recall that you once read W. Somerset Maugham's "Of Human Bondage" twice because you liked it so much and add to the "favorites" list John Hersey's "The Child Buyer" and Mark Twain's "Letters from the Earth"?

Or, would you admit that your perspective has changed and you now prefer Kurt Vonnegut's "Deadeye Dick" because it made you laugh, Jerzy Kosinski's "Being There" because it said a lot about our TV-generation and Danielle Steel's "Crossings" because it was well-written pure entertainment.

Would you say: "I don't read anymore. I just watch TV."

Would you say: "I read a lot, but I only have time for newspapers and magazines."

Would you say: "I gave up on books when Joyce Carol Oates switched to writing gothic romances."

In case you haven't guessed, somebody I know was asked the questions that began this column, but nobody asked me.

If anyone ever does, I'll be prepared with a whole bunch of off-the-wall possibilities. And so will you.

Planners take jobs seriously

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Joe Martines for a very well done presentation to the planning commission for his proposed equestrian training facility.

If all goes as planned, it will undoubtedly be an asset to the community.

Additionally, I would like to express my appreciation for his understanding and patience.

Too often, developers (and occasionally even a commission member) feel that we gratuitously impose regulations and conditions on the proposals that come before us.

As Mr. Martines understands, it is the planning commission's legitimate function to question the details of new developments. Moreover, it is the commission's duty to impose such restrictions as may be necessary or desirable to assure the community is protected now and in the future.

We are all fortunate to live in a community with the character and potential that exists here. However, we must continue to be vigilant to maintain these assets of our community.

If, at times, the planning commission seems to delve too deeply into the proposals it reviews, it is because many of us take our responsibility and concern for this community seriously.

It is not that complex; in fact, it is rather simple.

Neil E. Wallace, Chairman

Independence Township Planning Commission

Concern appreciated

It is very difficult to be stopped in the middle of a busy schedule.

Think about it!

Time magazine, which makes such a big thing of it's covers, showed a 1-room school as a lead to their coverage on "America's schools are getting better".

Too, the campaign by school-conscious people called "We Care" has as it's symbol the 1-room school.

Yet, no one is building a 1-room school. Obviously, this floor plan must be best... why else continually point it out as representative of education for our children.

With the persistent use of a single room country school as a symbol, and the epidemic insistence to build and continue to use multi-room schools, aren't students having their minds confused by the contrasts?

In a way it's no different than an adult telling young people not to wear their hat indoors, walk on bleacher seats, or jay walk, then doing those same things in front of them.

It's warping their little minds, perhaps causing all sorts of difficulties that will either create a generation of unusu-als or fill psychologist offices.

We have just got to be more careful.

Or, we can really build 1-room schools. This brings me to my elementary days, in which direction many of you probably thought I was headed.

Ah, bring back the backhouse at Fremont, bring on the bell ringing at Garrison, and let me get rejected once more by a first grader at Knagg's Bridge.

I do not yearn, however, for the repeat of the one school box social we had as a 7th grader at Fremont, which is (was) just northwest of Bancroft.

That was another rejection, which probably shouldn't have upset me, except I'd forgotten the others between age 5 and 11.

I won this pretty young thing's box of goodies, only to have her turn her back on me, one of those double seats, cry, and wish some kid named Bruce was with her.

But, I do think there's something to be said for having all classes open. First graders hear teacher and students from all grades as they learned in the front of the room, as did all grades hear all grades.

There wasn't any misleading symbols for education and millages in those days. Only the promise that if we passed the 7th grade we'd go to the multi-roomed school in Bancroft.

Girls merit praise for courage

I'd like to congratulate Joanne Brazel and Sara Roy, the two Sashabaw Junior High girls petitioning for equal emphasis in sports.

1. For having the courage to put the conviction of their beliefs into action.

2. For deciding on a democratic process in their efforts to resolve what they view as an undemocratic inequality.

3. For properly assessing the adult world which would immediately question the validity of the complaint if only two girls approached them. Instead, they gathered supportive signatures from other students.

4. For displaying maturity and thinking the problem out themselves and with their peers, and for suggesting several approaches for solving it.

5. And finally for supporting the efforts of their peers, hoping to encourage all of them to excel.

Joanne and Sara feel the girls' ninth-grade basketball team should be proud of their effort and that the whole student body should be allowed to give them recognition.

As Joanne Brazel's mother, I'm proud of both the girls for taking the time to encourage a change that I, too, believe is needed.

And Proud of It

Election boredom

Al Zawacky

I have this theory about why almost half of the eligible electorate stays home on election day. They're bored stiff.

By the time election day rolls around, we've all been subjected to an endless string of primaries, speech-making and poll-taking. Even people intensely interested in politics begin to grow faint.

The British have the right idea. Their campaigns are over in six weeks or so. Our presidential hopefuls announce their intent to run over a year before the election; the primary elections and caucuses seem to drag on forever; and the endless polling tends to make the election itself anticlimactic.

THE MEDIA HYPE is smothering during an election year. Trivialities are blown into major issues for the sake of filling airtime or newspaper space. Why did Gary Hart change his name? Is John Glenn "exciting" enough? Does Walter Mondale really "look presidential"?

How long, one wonders, before we suffer through the following:

Announcer's voice accompanied by ominous "special news bulletin" sign filling TV screen: "We interrupt our regularly scheduled programming for this CBS News special report. We take you to the CBS News anchor desk with Dan Rather."

RATHER: "Good evening, CBS News has just learned that Democratic presidential candidate Walter Mondale belched at a Mexican restaurant in Texas while making a routine campaign stop. We take you live to CBS News correspondent Roger Mudd for this exclusive report."

MUDD: "This may look like an ordinary Mexican restaurant behind me, but just moments ago inside those walls, former vice president Walter Mondale embarrassed his aides by belching while shaking hands with some diners. Political pundits are already saying the incident may have serious implications on Mondale's candidacy."

RATHER: "Roger, have we been able to determine if the former vice president ate anything at the restaurant?"

MUDD: "Yes, apparently he had—two large burritos. But we've had some difficulty getting Mondale staffers to confirm that. Apparently, the Mondale people are concerned that should it leak out that their man had a bad reaction to Mexican food, it may cost him some crucial ethnic votes here in Texas, a state with a large Hispanic minority."

RATHER: "This just handed to me—according to an exclusive CBS poll, taken every three minutes 24 hours a day, the former vice president has dropped 3 percentage points in his pending Texas primary fight with Colorado Senator Gary Hart. The phenomenon has already been labeled 'the burrito factor.' Roger, were you able to speak with the former vice president?"

MUDD: "Only briefly—Mr. Mondale said that he's on the record as liking ethnic food, and that his entire public career verifies that. He attributed the incident to some stomach problems he's been having of late, brought on by the hectic pace of the campaign trail."

RATHER: "Thanks, Roger. CBS News will feature an hour-long special report after the late news tonight, dealing with Walter Mondale's stomach problems. We return you now to our regularly scheduled program."

Sports equality

As I flipped through the pages of last week's Clarkston News, I noticed an article with a picture of Sara Roy and Joanne Brazel by it.

It was an article about how they wanted girls to have the same amount of pep assemblies for their sports as the guys.

I'm an eighth-grader at Sashabaw (also, I'm a girl!) and I agree! I signed the petition they sent around because it is true! The boys have always been treated better than the girls in sports!

Mr. White said that they should have talked to Positive reporting

Jim Fitzgerald

On Nov. 25, 1983, a Detroit Free Press headline said: "Bar's boss suffocates atop nude on piano." That headline, one of my all-time favorites, is a splendid example of how even the most negative news can be presented in a positive light. Mayor Coleman Young would surely approve.

It happened in San Francisco. According to the story below the headline, 38-year-old James (Jimmy the Beard) Ferrozzi, manager of a topless bar called the Condor Club, was accidentally killed when a mobile grand piano was inadvertently activated while he was on top of it. It was after regular business hours, and Jimmy the Beard was alone except for a 23-year-old woman who escaped serious injury.

The piano, usually used by a dancer for grand entrances and exits, was hoisted electrically to an opening in the ceiling when Ferrozzi's foot apparently brushed a control switch, police said. Because Ferrozzi was too far from the center of the piano top, he missed the opening and was pressed against the ceiling.

The headline could have said: "Bar's boss squashed to death between piano and ceiling." But that would have been negative reporting. It would have made San Francisco look like a city where it isn't safe to ride a piano.

Instead, noting that Ferrozzi's companion was between him and the piano top when he died—probably to keep warm, as she was wearing no clothing—the headline writer generously put the grisly news in a perspective not too damaging to the mobile piano business in San Francisco.

"BAR'S BOSS suffocates atop nude on piano." Notice how much more positive "suffocates" sounds than "squashed to death." People are seldom squashed to death by hugs and kisses, but it is well known that people are often suffocated by love while being smothered in affection.

Also, the headline writer's adroit use of "atop nude" took the onus off the piano. To suffocate atop a nude is obviously a more positive way to die than to be squashed to death atop a piano. Such a positive

THE CLARKSTON NEWS LETTER POLICY

We welcome our readers' opinions. Letters to the Editor must be at The Clarkston News office by noon Friday to be considered for the following week's paper. We reserve the right to edit all letters for the sake of brevity and clarity and to limit the number of letters from any one individual on any one issue. We don't publish open letters or copies of letters sent elsewhere. Letters must be signed and a phone number and address included. Names will be withheld on request.

headline gave the mobile piano manufacturers of San Francisco almost as much protection as they'd have had if a sign atop the Condor Club piano had said: "Please keep your onus off the piano."

The headline writer obviously took a positive cue from the reporter who wrote the suffocation article. The first paragraph said: "The night manager at one of America's best-known topless bars was killed when he was sandwiched between the club's ceiling and a nude woman atop a moving piano."

SANDWICHED. I ask you, is that more positive than squashed, or what? Readers received the impression that Jimmy the Beard was pastrami and a mobile piano was as harmless as a slice of whole wheat bread. That paragraph couldn't have been written more positively by the public relations director of the San Francisco Association of Mobile Piano Manufacturers.

That is the type of positive reporting Mayor Coleman Young yearns for when he complains about the news media's using negative reporting to give Detroit a dismal image. Take the turkeys, for example.

Last October, 1,200 frozen turkeys rotted when the refrigeration system failed in a city-supervised warehouse. The turkeys were federally donated, and the city was supposed to distribute them to hungry people. The mayor said press reports of the wasted turkeys were overblown and unfairly implied that the city had done something terribly wrong.

He was right. Every article I read simply said the 1,200 turkeys rotted. How much more positive it would have been to read this headline: "City rescues 1,200 turkeys from being eaten."

And the lead paragraph could have explained: "Mayor Coleman Young announced today that, because of his compassionate action, 1,200 frozen turkeys earmarked for Thanksgiving dinners were spared from rude chewing by carnivorous people. Instead, the turkeys were allowed to melt peacefully in a warm warehouse."

Onward and Upward, and put no onus on the pastrami, please.

- Sheriff's log - Report looks at crime prevention

Sunday, thieves caused $100 worth of damage when they smashed the windshield of a car at the Pine Knob Ski Resort, 5580 Waldon, Independence Township, and stole a pair of $200 boots, $150 skis and a jacket.

Monday, thieves stole a $13,800 motor home from Howe's Lanes, 6697 Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

Tuesday, thieves broke into an apartment at Bluewater Bavarian Apartments, Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, and stole a $4,000 diamond ring, $50 worth of cosmetics, $350 TV set, ski jacket and boots.

Wednesday, vandals shooting a BB-gun caused $100 worth of damage to a storm window on Timberidge Trail, Independence Township.

Thursday, thieves stole a $250 gold watch, $70 in cash and a $100 money order from a patron's purse at Howe's Lanes, 6697 Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

Thursday, thieves broke into a house on Plum Street, Independence Township, but took nothing.

Friday, thieves broke into a motor home on White Lake Road, Independence Township, and stole $60 worth of cassettes.

Friday, thieves broke into a barn on Broadway Street, Davisburg, and stole $180 worth of hay.

Saturday, thieves broke into a garage on Clintonville Road, Independence Township, and stole a $300 saw and $200 worth of tools.

Saturday, thieves broke into a car at the park-and-ride lot, Sashabaw Road and I-75, Independence Township, and stole $50 speakers and an electric lamp.

This information came from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Crime prevention education for the people is the recommendation of a committee report on police services in Springfield Township.

The committee of residents was formed in December provide ideas to help with the police protection. The report was presented at last week's township board meeting.

"The township board is going consider the ideas to see what can be done," supervisor Collin Walls said.

Spokesman for the committee Gary Dove said the success of any action, such as a neighborhood watch, must be townshipwide.

"The township would be divided into sectors to make sure the entire township is covered," he said. "Signs would be posted at points of entry to the township stating there is a neighborhood watch in the area."

Other forms of education would involve speakers on crime prevention, Dove said.

Unlikely dash decor

An Independence Township resident on Amy Drive is serious about his drinking.

On March 14, according to reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, thieves broke into his car and ripped three permanent fixtures from the dashboard:

- One car car stereo.
- One digital clock.
- And one beer tapper.

Man dies in crash

A 70-year-old man died March 14 in a single-car accident on East Holly Road in Springfield Township near the Tindall Road intersection.

Dead is Howard Joseph Taylor of Flint.

According to a spokesperson from the Michigan State Police Department, Taylor drove off the road and hit a tree.

Teen goes to prison

A 19-year-old Independence Township man has been sentenced from two to 15 years in a state prison for a head-on collision last fall that took the life of an Orion Township toddler and his aunt.

Michael John Menard of Maybee Road pleaded guilty March 12 before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge George LaPlata.

Menard, who was 18 at the time of the accident, had a blood alcohol level of .21 two hours after his arrest, according to Deputy Mark Gallo of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. A level of .10 is considered legally drunk.

Angela Johnstone, 22, and Justin Cansler, 2, were killed on Clarkston Road Sept. 25, when Menard's car crossed the center line and struck the Cansler car, driven by Justin's mother.

him first, but he wouldn't do a thing!

Boys' ninth-grade football and basketball are given more attention than any girls' sports!

The only sport that competes with other schools that seventh- and eighth-grade girls can join is track! The boys have wrestling and track!

Eighth-grade boys have basketball games in front of the school, while our girls' team gets hardly any mention at all!

The boys get more publicity, more support and more sports!

I think Joanne and Sara are absolutely right! It is not fair!

And it's time Sashabaw caught up with the rest of the world and treated everyone the same! It's also time us girls did something about it!

Springfield grants tax abatements

Tax abatements have been granted to two new Springfield businesses by the township board.

The action at the board's March 14 meeting gave Metalform Industries and Carbide Form Masters 10-year abatements.

"What tax abatements are, is an incentive for industrial or commercial businesses to locate in the township and employ township residents," Supervisor Collin Walls said.

Metalform is using a pre-existing building and will pay the same amount of taxes for the 10-year term, Walls said. Carbide, on the other hand needed a new building and will have their taxes cut 50 percent for 10 years.

"Carbide's 50-percent cut will stay the same, but their property taxes may fluctuate," Walls said. "Metalform's won't fluctuate."

Both businesses are moving to the area from Lake Orion.

Carbide employs 10 people and plans to increase the number in the next two years. For Metalform, 70 percent of its 100 employees come from the surrounding areas.

Liquor issue

Steps have been taken by Springfield Township to request the state Liquor Control Commission to revoke the liquor license owned by Roman Hills Golf Enterprises Inc.

The township board voted unanimously at its meeting March 14 on the motion requesting the action.

Roman Hills used the license at the Holly Greens Golf Course, which the company no longer owns.

"We requested the Liquor Control Commission to revoke the license so it can be free to be given back out," Walls said after the meeting.

Listen for tornado warning siren

Don't panic when Oakland County activates Independence and Springfield townships' tornado sirens Thursday, March 29, at 1:30 p.m.

It's part of re-educating the public on what to do in case of a tornado warning, while recognizing Michigan Tornado Safety Week, March 25 through 31.

The National Weather Bureau and the Michigan State Police Emergency Services Division are conducting the drill.

And please, don't call the fire department, says Independence Township Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

"We have that problem, not so much during a drill, but when the weather's bad and there's a warning. People call the fire department when the sirens go off to find out what to do. A lot of time, it's younger children left alone, and they're scared," Ronk said.

"I'd ask that parents tell their children what to do in case of a tornado warning—and to not call us.

Learn how to spot wicked weather

Want to learn to spot tornadoes?

Attend a Skywarn Spotter Class in recognition of Michigan Tornado Safety Week, March 25-31.

Free classes are scheduled Tuesday, March 27, from 7 to 8 p.m. at the Oakland County Board of Commissioners Auditorium, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac; or Wednesday, March 28, from 9 to 10 a.m.

Persons interested in having a large group should call 858-5300 for special arrangements.

Skywarn spotters assist the National Weather Service in identifying and reporting severe storms and determining the type, location and direction of movement.

They flood the lines, and the real emergency calls can't get through."

•When a tornado warning is issued, a steady, three-minute siren tone, seek shelter and listen to the radio or TV weather information. A tornado warning means a tornado has been detected and may be approaching. Take cover immediately.

•There is no immediate cause for alarm in a tornado watch. Continue with your normal activities, but keep tuned to the radio or television for the latest information while keeping your eye on the sky for developing storms. A tornado watch means tornadoes are possible.

Some tornado facts:

•Most tornadoes move from the southwest to the northeast at average speeds of 38 miles per hour, but can hit 78 miles per hour.

•On an average, Michigan has 17 tornadoes each year. Tornadoes occur in every state, at every hour of the day, but most frequently in the late afternoon or early evening.

•Last year, Michigan had 19 tornadoes.

•Although they've touched down during every month, more than half of the yearly total are reported during April, May and June.

•Since 1950, Michigan's had 560 tornadoes that took the lives of 229 people.

Lobbyist hired

Professional lobbyist Kerry Kammer is on the Clarkston school district payroll for the second year in a row.

The board of education agreed in a 5-1 vote to pay $6,000, the same amount as last year, for the services of Kammer/Michigan Association Inc. through 1984.

Kammer, a Springfield Township resident, is a former state senator. His firm's clients include the Clarkston, Ferndale, Huron Valley, Pontiac and Waterford school districts and Oakland Community College.

Superintendent Milford Mason recommended that the board continue Kammer's contract.

"He is virtually the only voice we have in Lansing at the present time," Mason said. "The inequality of in-formula and out-of-formula districts is still very real."

An in-formula district, Clarkston's funding per pupil is a combination of local taxes and money from the state. It amounts to about half of larger school districts with tax bases that provide total funding, Mason said.

Board members voting to retain Kammer were Janet Thomas, Mary Jane Chaustowich, Elaine Schultz, Vincent Luzzi and Stephen Werner. David Kithil was absent. Carolyn Place voted "no."

"I feel the best advisers for the school district are citizens and I think that amount of money could be spent in other ways," said Place after the meeting.

Retirement bonus

A $5,000 bonus for early retirement is available to Clarkston school district teachers.

In a 6-0 vote, the board of education approved the retirement incentive March 12.

Five teachers took advantage of an almost identical offer last year and the savings to the district were considerable, said Conrad Bruce, administrative assistant in charge of personnel services.

"We think there is a possibility again this year that some members of the staff may accept the incentive and retire early," he said.

In order to qualify for the $5,000, teachers must be in the top three steps of the salary schedule, must notify the district of their retirement before April 16 and must retire between June 15 and Aug. 28.

Weightlifting is not for the meek at heart but it is for the willing. Strongmen gathered at Clarkston High School to help raise money for the school's weight room and training room in the fourth annual Lift-A-Thon. Numbering 29 lifters, they received pledges of close to $2,000 from area residents and businesses. Along with the money that was raised, quite a lot of weight was hoisted. Records were set by Brent Gwisdalla in the 129-pound weight class by pushing 200 pounds over his head. Neil Nelson at 159 pounds raised 260 pounds for a record and Dave Newblatt at 204 pounds grunted with the 330 pounds he lifted to a record. And in the alumni class, Kurt Norman pushed up 365 pounds. The day before, he lifted 405 pounds at his Eastern Michigan University Lift-A-Thon. The participants at CHS came from Clarkston and Sashabaw junior highs as well as the high school.

JV's turnaround surprises coach

By Dan Vandenhemel

When the season started for the Clarkston Junior Varsity basketball team, coach Tim Kaul was trying to be realistic.

Kaul said he hoped the team could win five to eight ball games, but they wound up with a very respectable 12-8 record.

"I didn't expect a record like that," he said. "I didn't think we'd get to .500. That is the reverse of what I expected."

Kaul mentioned two reasons for the Wolves' unexpected good showing.

"For one we averaged 55 points a game," he said. "I didn't think we'd score that many points to win."

"The second is Matt Riddle, and at 6-foot-3 inches he still has a lot of growing to do."

Riddle, a junior, led the team in scoring with over 13 points a game, 12 points better than his sophomore season. He was second in rebounds to sophomore Mike Walters, 6.9 to 6.1 a game.

Another important factor was the lack of losing streaks.

"We never lost more than two in a row," Kaul said. "Our longest winning streak was three in a row. For a young team like this, it's important not to start bad habits like losing streaks."

The 16 players were led by Riddle and Walters most of the year. They gave what Kaul describes as

"quiet leadership."

"We didn't have rah-rah kids on the team," the coach said. "They worked hard every day and the rest of the team looked up to that."

"We played well as a team and had good defense," he said. "The times we lost were to teams that were quicker and faster."

Sports

Soccer sign up

The Independence Parks and Recreation Department is ready to kick off the warmer weather with the registration of its youth soccer leagues.

The deadline for signing up for the spring and fall leagues is March 31. The leagues are for children 13 years old and over with games on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at Bailey Lake Elementary School on Pine Knob Road.

Experience in soccer is not required. The fee is $12.50.

For more information call the parks and recreation department at 625-8223.

Steve Mayer (left) and Matt Riddle wait for a rebound in the junior varsity's last game of the season against Pontiac Northern. The Wolves lost to the Huskies, 60-47.

Wolverines nab records in perfect season

By Dan Vandenhemel

Of all the records the Clarkston Junior High basketball team broke this season—and there were many—none stand out more than team assists.

The Wolverines shattered 10 team and individual marks while posting a perfect, 16-0, record. The 278 assists outdistanced the old record by 43, and that was done in four fewer games, a distinction coach Dave Smith likes to point out.

"Our success isn't due to one or two people," Smith said. "We played as a team all year. The assists prove that."

The team records that toppled were shooting percentage, now 47.9; scoring average, 67.7; steals, 250; assists, 278; and blocked shots, 110.

Individual records were set by Craig Chamberlain with 58 assists for the season and eight assists in one game; Dan Jokisch with 16 field goals in one game and 37 points in one game; and Steve Secatch with 100 percent field goal shooting from the floor in one game, 5-5.

The 16-0 win-loss record fell just short of the school mark; in the 1970-71 season the Wolverines were 17-0. This season was a vast improvement over last season, when the record was 5-13.

"These kids were very coachable," Smith said. "The nice thing about them is that they are friends on and off the court. You like to see that because it holds them as a team."

"Another thing is the depth we had," he said.

"Most junior highs have maybe six players that can play. I could go down the bench 10 deep and not worry about it."

The top players on the team were Jokisch and Chamberlain, but all 13 had a hand in every victory. They are Mike Norman, Secatch, Brian Galley, Gary Ritch, Pete Hollis, Rob Ronk, Scott Wilson, Terry McNally, Brian Baert, Todd Zeller and Andy Hunter.

"Everybody had a role on the team and they accepted it," Smith said. "Some were rebounders, some were scorers, some handled the ball and got assists. This was a very unselfish team. Next year when these kids combine with the players from Sashabaw, the high school is going to have a great team."

Cougars have ups and downs

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Sashabaw Cougars did more than just run up and down the basketball court. Their record also teeter-tottered back and forth.

But the number of ups equaled the downs as the team finished with an 8-8 record.

The Cougars started the season fine by winning two of the first three games. Then they went into a bad streak, dropping four of the next five.

"It would have been easy for us to call it quits right then," coach Wayne Thompson said. "I told them that would have been the easy thing to do, to quit. Right after that is when we started to turn things around."

After the slump, the Cougars reeled off five straight victories.

Playing a major part in the resurgence were Joe Hamelin, Keith Mercier and Dave Larkin.

Mercier led the team in scoring with almost 15 points a game. He and Larkin were co-captains. They maintained the control of the game.

"Hamelin had a great second half of the year," Thompson said. "He's one of those guys who'll do anything to win. He really improved skill-wise. He put things together."

"Jeff Billig also helped out on the floor. He was sort of the silent leader on the team. He gets the job done quietly."

Jim Hall and Scott Harvey did their share of work on the team that counted in the mid-season turnaround.

The season went pretty much as Thompson expected but two surprises popped up—Mike Vocault and Matt Beamer.

"Mike came up to me after Christmas and asked what he had to do to start," the coach said. "I told him we needed somebody who could bring the ball up

"This is my first year of coaching but these kids made it easy."

—Wayne Thompson

the court in the second quarter. I guess he decided that he was going to be the person.

"Beamer really improved a lot during the season. He was instrumental in a couple of wins, especially the Rochester Reuther win. He scored nine points in three minutes. He has really done the job," Thompson said.

Filling out the roster for Sashabaw Junior High were Chris Morgan, Mike Foyteck, Andy Roy, Alan Logan, Gunnar Karlstrom and Gunnar Vandeberg.

"It was easy for us to get down (mentally) at times," said Thompson. "Every team that we went up against was bigger than we were. We had to do the fundamentals right to have a good season. This is my first year of coaching but these kids made it easy."

Scores roll in from Howe's

The scores are rolling in from the Howe's Wednesday Trio afternoon women's league.

Kerry Eghigian is holding the top spot for both the high series with 625 and high game at 255. She was also 178 pins over average with her 625 series.

Other top scores in the league are Edith Blue with 151 pins over average with a 514 series; Beth Miller with a 590 series; Lois Dunn with 580; Elena Forbes with a 226 game; and Bonnie Hale with the conversion of the double pinochle, 4-6-7-10 split.

Skier reaches Jr. Olympics

By Dan Vandenhemel

Twelve-year-old Rob Brown is on his way to the Junior Olympics in Colorado.

Rob qualified in the top 10 in the 12- to 13-year-old age bracket at Pine Mountain March 11.

"I did real good," the Clarkston Junior High seventh-grader said. "I was hoping to make the team, but I was not really thinking about it."

Winter Park, Colo., is the site of the Junior Olympics March 19-25. The Allen Road, Independence Township, resident will be competing in the slalom, giant slalom, downhill and dual slalom.

This is the first year Rob is eligible for the olympics. Last year he qualified but was too young.

"I was unsure about last year," he said. "I didn't get a chance to go, but I'm very happy I'm going this time.

Traveling to Colorado is nothing new for Rob. He and his family have been out there skiing a couple of times before.

"When I get out there I'll study the course, get my skis ready, do some practicing," Rob said. "I'm going to try hard out there."

Rob skis during the winter in CUSSA, an organized race circuit around the state. He is in the elite division that includes many 17- and 18-year-olds.

"He's been doing very well," Rob's father, Ron, said. "He usually finishes in the top 25. He's been skiing for 10 years."

"Rob has only raced one downhill before. We had to go out and buy a new helmet for him—you can get up to 60 or 70 miles an hour. He should do all right."

Ribbons, trophies and race jerseys line the Rob Brown's bedroom wall. His next competition is the Junior Olympics in Winter Park, Colo.

Ski racer loves competition

By Dan Vandenhemel

The ski season is winding down, and Reggie Lixey is making the most of it.

The weekends bring ski races and Lixey brings home the trophies. Since Feb. 25, she has raced three times and has placed near the top each time.

The 38-year-old substitute teacher in the Clarkston School district won awards in the Newport ski races Feb. 25, the Grand Marnier Ski Cup Challenge March 4 and the White Birch-Miller Lite ski race March 17.

The awards include ski boots, a ski duffle bag, ski goggles, T-shirts and a large wall mirror.

The biggest event was the one sponsored by Grand Marnier at Boyne Mountain. Lixey, who lives on Blue Water Drive in Springfield Township, and the Schussmeister Ski Club of Flint placed third out of 48 teams in the midwest region.

"It's put on by the U.S. Ski Team. Part of the entry fee is donated to the team," Lixey said. "The whole thing is really well run. Besides, they have the world's greatest party after it's all over."

The race is a head-to-head slalom course with the total team time of the six skiers added together for the results.

The teams are made up of three men and three women, and they have to fill the three age divisions, 21-27, 28-35 and 36-and-up.

"I really like racing ... It's fun to compete."

—Reggie Lixey

Lixey is a member of four ski clubs, the one in Flint, one in Lansing and two in Detroit.

The age division was her reason to ski for Schussmeister.

"Some of the clubs don't have what they call the mature women skiers," she said. "The funny thing about it is that my two clubs in Detroit finished first and second."

"Teams come from all over to race in the Grand Marnier," she said. "There's more publicity. It has the best competition."

The competition is one of the reasons Lixey has been racing since age 14.

"I've been racing a long time," she said. "I took seven years off, but I'm back at it now."

"I really like racing. You see the same group of people at most of the races. You pretty much know everybody. It's fun to compete."

The trophies are piling up for Reggie Lixey. Fine showings in the last three races have increased her winnings.

Arts program stresses the history

By Kathy Greenfield

Art history plays a prominent role in education of the arts—be it painting, singing, dancing, acting or instrumental music, says Karen DiChiera.

It's all tied together and it's all part of a basic education Clarkston pupils are not receiving, she says. Or at least they weren't.

The Michigan Opera Theatre was commissioned by the Clarkston school district to develop a program called B.A.S.I.C. (Bringing Art Studies into Classrooms). DiChiera is the education director for MOT.

Lisa Ngote, curator of slides for the art history department at Oakland University, Rochester, is co-director of the B.A.S.I.C. program.

The project was conceived by Dorothy Neff, arts grants coordinator for Clarkston schools, and funded through a $10,000 grant she applied for and received from the Michigan Council for the Arts. School parent-teacher organizations and the Clarkston High School student government also contributed money.

Since the program began at the end of February, hundreds of Clarkston pupils have been exposed to the arts in a most unusual way.

The pupils participating are mostly elementary-school age. Their teachers asked to be included in the program. There is also some participation by junior and senior high school students, but on a smaller scale.

The first step took place in Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church, where most pupils were bused. Churches are being used because they're the only buildings large enough in the community.

A time line was put in place first. The string, as long as a football field, represented 2,000 years from the time of cave dwellers to the present. Tags were hung every 12 inches, representing 50 years. Larger cards with pictures of significant achievements in the arts were hung where appropriate.

DiChiera and Ngote began the children's journey through time by explaining the relationship of art to history—and showing slides.

"The arts are a reflection of what's going on," said DiChiera. "They don't happen in a cubby hole."

The next step was designed to make children aware of folk arts.

During week two, storyteller Fred Boyce and weaver Jim Gilbert visited individual schools.

Boyce is a professor at Wayne State University. His storytelling adventures began seven years ago and he said he's been "perfectly happy" ever since.

He told the children storytelling is an art that goes back through the ages. He shared tall tales and folk tales, and many of his stories were first heard from his father.

Reacting in a similar fashion to the younger pupils on Page 1, older students reflect Greek tragedy and comedy in their faces as well. The Pine Knob Elementary School sixth-grade teacher in the second row is Tim Hewell. The photos were taken at Calvary Lutheran Church.

Later, he explained his art.

"Most of the stories I tell, you would not find written in a book," he said. "They are not literary stories. It's almost like we're sitting down in my living room and I'm telling you a story."

Although he usually works with older audiences, his experience with Clarkston pupils has been good.

"I can transform them from rowdy children into rapt listeners," he said. "It's been happening for three days out here."

He remembered, in particular, appearing at Sashabaw Junior High School right after lunch.

"That's a very off time of day," he said. "I thought, 'Oh boy, this is going to be a challenge for me. Am I going to be able to control them?'"

"I had no problems at all."

The children? They listened, laughed and participated. And they offered their best reward as the sessions ended—enthusiastic applause.

Weaver Jim Gilbert carried a small loom to his appearances. He's the exhibition coordinator at the Pontiac Art Center and he teaches at Oakland University, Oakland Community College and Cranbrook.

Some of his works may be familiar—one of his weavings hangs in Detroit's Renaissance Center. It's the one visible from the elevator at the restaurant on top.

His work is also found in the Amway Grand Plaza Hotel in Grand Rapids. Made of 100 percent rayon, it stands eight stories high.

Gilbert, too, talked to the children about history. He told them there was a time when people had to weave all their own material for clothing and showed samples of weavings from other countries.

His goal: "to teach them something they don't understand anymore and have them appreciate what goes into it."

During each session, Gilbert chose a pupil to run the small loom. After his 15-minute talk, he showed the group how much could be accomplished in a short period of time.

At Clarkston Junior High School, Jennifer Church did the weaving. "It's different from sewing,"

PK jobs here

Pine Knob job applications will be available at The Clarkston News office beginning Friday, March 23, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The applications are for usher, security and clean-up positions. The minimum age is 16.

The News gives out the applications as a community service and cannot mail them. We can provide only one application to each person.

The Clarkston News office is located at 5 S. Main, Clarkston. Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. The office is closed Saturday and Sunday. (625-3370)

Skiers promise a rose garden

The Clarkston High School ski team promises a rose garden for the winner of its raffle.

Bordine's Better Blooms of Clarkston donated one dozen rose bushes to the fund raiser designed to help pay for team sweaters.

If the winner is from the Clarkston area, the bushes will be planted by horticulture students from the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education School.

Raffle tickets are $1, and they may be purchased from any ski team member or by calling coach Don Balzarini at 625-5948.

The drawing is scheduled Saturday, April 25, with planting as soon as weather permits.

New sub OK'd

Back with a revamped plan, Reese Development Co.'s off the ground with plans to build a 61-acre subdivision off Reese Road.

On March 6, the Independence Township Board unanimously gave tentative preliminary plat approval for the proposed Independence Groves subdivision on property that abuts township Supervisor James B. Smith's farm.

Tentative plat approval is the first step to final approval, when developers will be able to get a building permit and begin construction, according to Clerk Richard Holman.

Denied a 1,000 foot cul-de-sac in December 1982, the developers filed suit in court alleging Smith had a conflict of interest.

Smith was later cleared of those charges and the court ordered the developers to redraft their plan, eliminating the non-conforming cul-de-sac.

The new plat shows a cluster development of 14 lots on just under 2.5-acre parcels, with a 600-foot cul-de-sac, the maximum allowed in the ordinance.

Candy sale

The annual Camp Fire-North Oakland candy sale is planned March 23 through April 7.

Boys and girls who are members of the organization are selling milk chocolate candy bars for $1 each.

Each Camp Fire group retains a percentage of the money collected, and all the children who participate earn prizes.

Clarkston Village Players host benefit sale

The most dramatic event for the Clarkston Village Players will occur off stage this season, says the theater group's president, Linda Porter.

Their first benefit auction is planned Friday, April 13, at the Deer Lake Racquet Club. The goal is to raise the necessary funds to complete the Depot Theatre addition project, which will create a lobby area and restroom facilities.

A silent auction is to begin at 7 p.m. and the live auction at 8 p.m. with Paul Sadows of Sadows Auction Galleries serving as guest auctioneer.

A complimentary cocktail, complete hors d'oeuvres table, desserts and dancing afterward are included in the $10 tax-deductible contribution. Tickets are available at Tierra Arts & Design, 64 N. Main, Clarkston, or by calling 625-2941.

The Players have set a goal of $15,000 in auction proceeds.

An impressive assortment of auction items has already been contributed, said Porter, who organized the campaign.

"I've been delighted with the positive and generous response of the merchants so far," she said. "Almost everyone contacted has contributed, which means we are well on our way to achieving our goal."

Up for auction that night will be a 1973 Jaguar XKE V-12 Roadster valued at approximately $20,000.

Other items and services range in value from $5 to $750 and the drive to obtain additional merchandise will continue until April 1.

Among items donated by merchants are a silver on copper tea service, pewter candlesticks, wheel balancing, video club memberships, dinner gift certificates, a brass and copper milk can, aerobic sessions, haircuts and permanents, a grape vine wreath, dinner and boat tour of Lake Angelus, gold bracelet, wine; a session with a psychic, a wicker chair and original art works.

Contributions made by private parties include a hot air balloon ride, brunches at Deer Lake Racquet Club, an antique sewing machine, a cocktail cruise of Deer Lake, dental checkups, and cakes and pies.

"I feel so good about the auction and the excitement it is generating," Porter said. "I really think this can be the project that puts in those bathrooms which have eluded us for over 18 years."

Names of businesses or individuals whose donations net $500 or more will appear on a bronzed plaque prominently and permanently displayed in the addition.

Those wishing to make contributions of items or services may call Linda Porter at 625-2941.

Obscene calls made

A man who says he's hiring for the Clarkston school district is making obscene phone calls to area youth.

"We'd like to explain again the school district is not connected with the caller who claims to be working for the schools either in job placement, baby-sitting or whatever," said Superintendent Milford Mason.

"Anything like that would be done through press releases and written documents—not over the phone."

Reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department indicate two phone calls were made over the weekend.

The caller indicates he's hiring for a baby-sitting/dating service, according to police reports.

Davisburg Daze plans

The Davisburg Rotary Club has obtained permission from the Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Department to hold Davisburg Daze on Saturday, Aug. 18, at the Mill Pond Park.

An organizational meeting is planned Thursday, March 29, at 7 p.m. in the Springfield Town Hall.

Any groups or individuals interested in participating may attend.

Call 634-2044 for more information.

Preschool openings

There are five openings in the Crosshill Community Preschool's mini-session from April 30 through June 8.

The classes meet in the Davisburg area from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

For more information call 634-5536.

PASTA PURCHASE: It was more than a normal grand opening for Riggio's Pizza in the Waterfall Plaza in Waterford. That's because the three new owners all reside in Independence Township. They are Ken Rogers, Rudy Lozano and Joe Noll. Pictured here is Lozano tasting some of the free pizza offered to celebrate the opening of the restaurant. The three businessmen decide to keep the original name because "it sounds more Italian than any of ours," Lozano said.

Pine Knob grabs trophy

The Holly Cup returned to its first home when the Pine Knob Ski School recaptured the trophy in the race featuring area ski schools.

The race was held at Mt. Holly, March 11, and the Pine Knob men's team outdistanced five other schools to win the 4-foot trophy.

The women's team placed a close second despite having only four racers.

Last year was the first time in the race's 14-year history that Pine Knob did not win.

"Holly came up the idea of having a friendly challenge with other ski schools," said Ron Brown, Pine Knob Ski School director. "Last year, we only missed by .01 of a second."

"It was a last-minute thing for the women," he added. "They haven't gone in the last couple of years and just decided to this year."

Instructors for Pine Knob racing in the timed event were Joe Shnure, Jerry Karl, Mike Karl, Kevin Karl, Dave Karl, Dave Bertoncin and James Barrett.

Racing for the women were Carron Griffiths, Julie Greene, Sandra Peters and Kelly Roberts.

Essay takes first

Eighth-grade English teacher Vince Licata admits there could be a few aspiring Walt Whitmans at Clarkston Junior High, then laughs.

Three girls in his English honors class captured first, second and third places in the Farm Bureau Insurance Group's competition, entered by several thousands students statewide from over 500 schools.

Jenny DuPree placed first; Megan Balloid, second; and Rachael Young, third.

"I was impressed with the sophistication of their work," Licata said. "Overall I was very impressed."

Jenny goes on to the state level competition with her essay, "What America Means to Me."

WHAT AMERICA MEANS TO ME By Jenny DuPree

America today has many unsolved problems both at home and abroad. It is my responsibility to work at finding solutions. America needs me to make it more peaceable: free from inner strife and clashes with other nations.

This generation of young people has been able to learn much more than people fifty years ago could. There has been a multitude of new studies and findings in the fields of nuclear power, solar energy, astronomy, medicine and human behavior.

We must take these findings and put them into use. They will serve in helping us work toward answers to involved questions facing our country.

Jenny DuPree: First-place winner.

Megan Balloid: Second-place winner.

Rachael Young: Third-place winner.

I may be a future leader, or I may not be. Whichever, both are very important. America needs good leaders, and America needs good followers.

As a leader I could be a government representative and vote on topics related to our country. I would keep the voters in my district informed on these subjects.

Being a mother, I could be a leader. I would try to teach my children what is good and right, so they would grow up to be responsible citizens.

As a follower, I would try to be a well-informed citizen and vote on what I think is right.

Most important of all, I am needed to work toward a spirit of unity. We must have positive attitudes. If we are too critical of our leaders, or if we complain too much, we would ruin this spirit. We must work toward friendships with our fellow workers. If we do this, we will have a much better feeling about ourselves, and therefore, we can work together without quarreling, and accomplish much more.

America needs me in helping to give it a better future, because I am the future of America.

Greek theater delights its novice audience

she said afterward. "It's more fun."

During the third week, children again got on school buses and saw a program on Greek Art—this time at the Calvary Lutheran Church.

Ngote began the presentation by having the children use their voices and hands to feel Greek drama and comedy.

Half of the audience rubbed the heels of their palms together and said, "Sad, sad, sad." The other half tapped their fingers on the heels of their palms and said, "Happy happy happy."

Her slides took them to Greece and gave them a feeling for the 5th century B.C. when 15,000 to 20,000 people would fill Greek theaters four times a year during festivals.

Professional actor Matt Penn of Detroit provided the experience of hearing excerpts from major Greek works, the tragedy "Oedipus Rex" by Sophocles and the comedy "The Three Clouds" by Aristophanes.

Reacting to the force of lines from Oedipus, the children's faces registered awe.

"Better than Dallas, isn't it?" said Ngote when Penn finished. "Remember, (the Greeks) would have been as shocked as you. There is a lot of shock power when somebody yells at you."

The children then experienced Greek comedy—reacting with smiles and laughter.

Penn has appeared on the Meadowbrook stage at Oakland University and at the Hilberry Theatre at Wayne State University.

His experience in Clarkston, however, brought back memories of high school. Not being fond of writing papers, he opted for a classroom project that involved acting. It was so successful, he was "booked" into many schools in his district.

"Great" and "tremendous" were words he chooses to talk about Clarkston kids. "The thing we were impressed most with was the kids were actually involved," he said. "They asked questions that came from being involved with the material rather than just silly questions. I was really surprised at how bright they are."

The rest of the B.A.S.I.C. program covers medieval art, renaissance painting, a medieval festival, baroque decor, classicism, romanticism, abstraction in art and contemporary art. It wraps up with an arts festivals in the schools.

For DiChiera, there's no surprise at all that such sophisticated topics can be presented so successfully to children so young.

"When schools do not provide arts through the schools, they're only educating half the person," she said.

Dressed to resemble Hawaiian dancers, complete with fresh flowers in their hair and on their leis, these Camp Fire members use their hands to sign the song "Lei of Stars." The event was the annual the parent-child banquet to celebrate Camp Fire's birthday. The theme of the 74th birthday party was "Clarkston Camp Fire Celebrates Mini Cultures," and the tables and costumes reflected cultures from around the world. The party was held March 8 in the Clarkston United Methodist Church hall. Part of

Bazaar participants can help SCAMP

Non-profit organizations can help Clarkston SCAMP and raise money for themselves by renting a booth in the 1984 Summit Place Charity Bazaar.

The bazaar is planned Oct. 1-6 at the newly renovated mall at Telegraph and Elizabeth Lake roads in Waterford Township.

The booth space is rented for a flat rate, which goes to the North Oakland SCAMP Funding Corp.

SCAMP is a summer camp program which serves over 200 young people with special needs. Now in its eighth year, the camp program was originally supported by federal and state funds. Now the entire program is dependent upon local efforts.

Charity bazaar participants are to sell handmade and home-baked goods.

The tradition of decorated booths and costumed attendants is encouraged each year by the selection of a theme.

This year, the theme is "It's a Small World." A total of $450 will be awarded to the groups that best interpret the theme based on booth decorations, costuming, and quality of merchandise and display.

Any non-profit organization interested in participating in the bazaar may call Jack Hunt at 332-4178 or the Summit Place office at 682-0123.

For more information, call bazaar chairperson Sandy Scutt at 394-0190.

Host families sought for exchange students

Maggie Karvala is looking for families to host exchange students from Europe for the 1984-85 high school year.

Karvala is the area representative for the Educational Foundation for Foreign Study, a non-profit student exchange program.

Five families are needed in the Clarkston-Davisburg area.

For more information, call Karvala at 628-6382.

Bouquet of adult classes

A bouquet of spring enrichment classes for adults are offered by the Clarkston Community Education Department.

Courses include aerobics, German, quilt making, ceramics, oil painting, herbs, canine education, creative self-discovery and computer survival skills.

Registration ends Friday, March 30, at the Clarkston Community Learning Center, 5275 Maybee, Independence Township.

For more information call 673-7756.

Bringing 'Brigadoon' to life.

A look at behind-the-scenes work on CHS's musical

By Kathy Greenfield

The press release written by Sonja Ritter for the upcoming Clarkston High School musical "Brigadoon" goes like this:

Something very magical will be happening at Clarkston High School's Little Theatre starting March 29.

"Brigadoon," the story of a mythical Scottish town that appears every 100 years, will be making this century's appearance on March 29, 30, 31 and April 5, 6 and 7 at 8 p.m. and on April 1 at 2 p.m.

Be sure to see Clarkston High School's Drama Department perform their spring musical "Brigadoon."

Hurry and purchase your tickets early at Clarkston High School, 625-0900.

The miracle is about to happen.

It's Thursday afternoon, two weeks before opening night.

Hammers pound while finishing touches are put on sets. Paint brushes swish over hunks of papier-mache as they're transformed into facsimiles of rocks.

Out in the hallway, water flows into the fog machine as it gets ready for a test run.

In the band room, the orchestra puts in a practice session.

In the chorus room office, alterations on the kilts are almost finished.

The piano next to the stage comes to life.

Songs and dances are practiced and practiced again—perfection is the goal.

There are 52 cast members. In all, about 75 people are involved in the production.

And the activity going on is just a tip on the proverbial iceberg.

Preparations have been underway since January. Director Barb Gibson, the drama teacher at CHS, oversees sets, the budget and all committees, in addition to directing the acting.

She's worked with every student who needed to develop a Scottish brogue, defined unfamiliar terminology and talked about Scottish traditions.

Music director Grayce Warren began by making sure she knew every student's voice range before casting began. She and Gibson spent two Sundays at the Grosse Pointe Memorial Theatre renting props and kilts.

And Warren made 10 dresses, 14 aprons, three blouses and some Scottish scarves, and altered several other costumes.

Dance director Nancy Albyn choreographed all routines, began working with students two months ago so their leg and foot muscles would be ready, and taught them authentic Scottish sword, reel and funeral dances.

She also developed a special diet, given to all performers, so they stay healthy. There are no understudies.

CHS band director Cliff Chapman leads practices of the orchestra.

Students are in charge of working on stage sets, backdrops, tickets, programs, posters, reserved seating, stage lights, spot lights and publicity.

And almost all of them are on stage, too.

"You actually take a schedule and write down every minute," says CHS senior Jay Smith, who has a leading role in "Brigadoon" and is in charge of lights and publicity. "You don't have any time to waste when you're in a musical."

Shawn Smith, a CHS junior, also has a lead role. He's in charge of sets and is learning to handle lighting so he can take over next year.

"I'm not going to say it's fun, because a lot of times it isn't," he says. "I've asked myself the question many times—why am I doing it?"

"For one thing, I get to meet a lot of people that I would never have met. And I love people."

"Some of the sophomores, they're great people. They want to help and be gung ho. If I can make their coming into the school a little easier, that's good."

"The whole cast, it becomes like a family—it's like you help me, I'll help you," adds Jay.

That's part of the magic.

Busy pounding a wooden shelf onto the platform is Mike Weber, who will work the spotlight during the presentation of "Brigadoon." He's assisted by Julie Pescore.

The backdrop of lavenders, blues and a touch of pink is the creation of Audrey Chenoweth.

With pen in hand, Sonja Ritter works on a news release. She asks the opinions of Kim May and Kelly Haskins, and they agree she's doing fine.

Painting takes place to make the papier-mache creations look even more like rocks. Applying paint are Becky Olney, and the person in charge of the rocks, Ted Myatt. Both are dancers in the play. In addition, Myatt designed the "Brigadoon" T-shirts.
