Teen shoplifting hits new heights

By Marilyn Trumper

Shoplifting teens are robbing merchants in the Village of Clarkston to, in the words of one storekeeper, "...see how much they can steal—now what they can steal."

The increasing popularity of peer-pressure theft has reached new highs, according to storekeepers.

"It's kids," says Carol Eberhardt, village president and owner of One More Time, a resale clothing store on Main Street.

"Primarily they take the rock buttons, bandanas and T-shirts. I just caught a kid rolling up and trying to stuff a T-shirt into his shirt."

"It's my understanding the kids consider it a game to see not what they can steal in an afternoon downtown—but how much. They go from shop to shop."

Eberhardt is angry.

"This is my bread and butter. This shop is the way I feed my family. The business association supports the community a lot, it's part of doing business here. Yet we're ripped," she said. "It's really a shame because we mark the prices toward the kids and it's just a few who are making it miserable for the rest. We're going to get hard-nosed. They should be able to just come down and shop."

"But I'm going to start calling the police, even for the theft of a $1 button," she said.

In addition, the Clarkston Business Association is printing signs that say, "SHOPLIFTING IS NOT A GAME—IT'S A CRIME" and will post them in all the stores.

"Most kids have more money in their pockets than I do—so I know they're not doing it because they don't have the money," Eberhardt said.

Rosemary Christie of Christie's of the Clarkston Mills has few clothes that appeal to young teens, but they vandalize her store anyway.

A month ago a still-warm dead starling was found in the breast pocket of a silk dress.

"We know who did it. She was bragging about it in the school," Rosemary said. "It's really a good thing we discovered it when we did. Can you imagine what would have happened if it had begun to rot?"

"A woman was trying on the dress, bent over and it fell out of the breast pocket. She was deathly afraid of birds and came screaming out of the dressing room. What if she'd been an older woman and had a heart attack? These kids don't realize what they're doing."

Halliman's Apothecary has always made it a practice to call police, says owner/pharmacist Bob Bennett.

"The girls go for the cosmetics and the boys go for the candy and gum. I don't even talk to them—I call the police," Bennett said.

Joan Kopietz, owner of Tierra Arts & Design, appears to be the hardest hit.

"It's escalated since we moved here to a store that's so big and open. It's a game the kids are playing in this town to see how much they can steal from the downtown merchants," she said.

"I'm really fed up. I've worked long and hard to make my business succeed and I've seen hundreds of dollars taken. I can't keep taking these losses."

According to Kopietz, kids in her store go for the small Dungeons and Dragons figurines.

"You see a kid with the package in his hand—then you see him back in the stationery. Then

Firefighters, board at odds

By Marilyn Trumper

After more than an hour of heated discussion lasting into the midnight hour, several members of the Independence Township Fire Department stormed from the April 17 board meeting, unhappy with the administration's policies and accumulation of close to a $1-million surplus in the fire fund.

"We're here to tell you and the people of Independence Township that fire protection is slipping away and becoming a dangerous level compared to surrounding communities," said the firefighters' spokesman, Steve Ronk.

"We're not the top of the heap like were five and 10 years ago. In 1980 the people voted a third mill for fire which shows me they want us to stay on top of the heap—or at least near the top."

"Nothing is more difficult to explain than when we roll up to a fire 12 minutes after it's been called in and the owner asks, 'Why are you so late?' And I say, 'Because the truck broke down.'"

Ronk pointed to personality problems between some firefighters and some members of the board.

"We're not here to do any hollering and screaming tonight. We just want to know where you would like to see this department go as far as fire protection. We're hurting. And we've got to start spending the money. The public paid its taxes and that money is collecting interest. There's been no impact to services."

Ronk listed the following complaints:

•Despite a command structure request in 1981, there have been no fire department promotions the past 10 years, and one demotion, which means there is no one in command after 5 p.m. when the the chief and captain end their eight-hour day.

•The closing of Station 2 for 27 months in 1980 and '81 because of manpower shortages, with the board freezing all fire funds until the then $210,000 debt to the sewer fund was paid.

•Fire department legal fees fighting grievances the past 30 months rose to $23,000. That combined with the $17,000 paid in overtime equals $40,000.

Ronk said, which "...could have been rechanneled to better the depar ..."

•Firefighter they are the lowest paid in Oakland County compared to the number of runs made in similar departments. Commerce Township full-time firefighters are close to matching Independence's 1,000 runs last year, and make $5,000 more in wages, Ronk said.

•Training and fire prevention is at an all-time low, according to Ronk. "No one's in charge of them and you get to a point where you say, 'Why?' Those things are not a part of our job. We did it because it

Mastering TV

Two Clarkston High School seniors, two juniors and a sophomore manned cable TV cameras and filmed the Independence Township Board in action at its April 17 meeting.

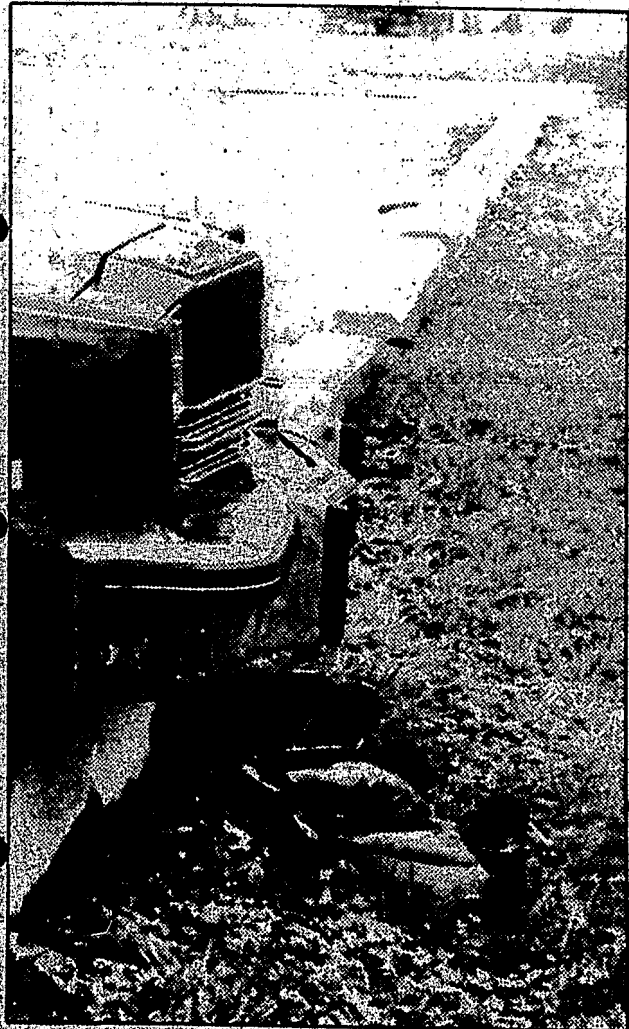

But residents won't see the film from their living room couches—at least not that meeting, according to Jim Anderson, vice president and general manager of the township's $2.5 million cable-TV system.

With 75 percent of the system in, and a three-week countdown before the Waldon Road studio is complete, Independence Cable Television is on schedule, Anderson said.

"But airing a township board meeting will be a decision of the board," he said. "It's their system. It's their equipment. They have to decide if they want to do it."

"If they do, there are two ways to go about it. Film it in its entirety and show it several times throughout the week. Or edit it, which I don't think the public would appreciate."

Students manning cameras was just one way to show the board the township's equipment, and that people have been trained to use it, Anderson said.

DUCK DAY AFTERNOON: Hot August temperatures may produce Dog Days but April is for the ducks. Spring showers and cool weather will keep the humans indoors while these three ducks seek shelter under a bumper in the Main Street parking lot.

Merchants prepare to combat teen thefts

OCSD's Northwest Quadrant team involves school liaison work.

"I didn't know this kind of thing was happening, this fad thing," he said. "Maybe it's time to schedule some talks in the school to teach these young people that shoplifting is a crime."

"Past history shows that when word gets out the stores are prosecuting—there's typically a reduction in juvenile crime."

Under Michigan law all shoplifting, known as larceny from a building, is a felony charge, Smith said.

"The law's designed that way. It doesn't matter if you take a 39-cent candy bar or a $29 leather coat. It's a felony."

But sentencing is up to the judge's discretion, he said.

Oakland County Circuit Court juvenile judge, John J. O'Brien, says he and the court's other three he's gone. You go back in stationery and find the package it was in just laying there," she said.

"We've got a new policy in our store. Ask the kid what he wants and if he has no business there—he leaves the store."

"I've even had customers tell me they've seen kids steal something. That's it," she said. "We're tightening our belts."

None of the merchants could give exact figures on losses, agreeing there's no way to measure something like that.

Sgt. Robert Smith of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department says the solution is twofold.

"Prosecution is the best answer. You have to show a definite deterrent—that if you're caught, you'll be prosecuted," Smith said. "And let them know there's the likelihood they will be caught."

"Some stores post signs, others make it known there's a plainclothes detective in the store. Let them know shoplifting is a crime."

Part of Smith's responsibility as supervisor of the juvenile judges take shoplifting seriously.

"I don't consider it a minor offense and neither do the other judges," said O'Brien, a 10-year veteran of the bench. "Studies show that many first-offenders began shoplifting and went on to B&E's and from there it tends to escalate."

"It's also a major commercial crime and creates a major cost to doing business. People pay for shoplifting," he said.

The juvenile court deals with children up to 17 years of age.

When a juvenile is prosecuted for shoplifting, O'Brien weighs several things before sentencing.

"We look at each case separately. First we examine if it's a first offense or a repeat offender," O'Brien said. "Whether it's an isolated case, if it stems from family problems and if it is we often refer them to youth assistance."

"We try to fit the punishment to the needs of the child. If necessary, if a child takes the charge lightly, we've been known to put them in Children's Village for three or four weekends."

"That changes their minds," he said.

Children's Village is a detention center for convicted juveniles. Similar to a jail, their movements and freedoms are restricted, according to O'Brien.

"That changes their minds. Kids want to be with their families. If it doesn't, and the family seems to be the problem, then we'll have them placed in a foster home."

O'Brien asks for community support.

"I wasn't aware there's a problem in Clarkston," he said. "But we'll need the merchants to prosecute and testify. I'll certainly be willing to help in any way I can."

Firefighters want board input bettered the department, for a long time, for nothing. The attitude has gotten to point where we're not going to do it unless we're compensated for it, and the other guys feel the same way. The chief can't tell us it's our responsibility. We're not paid extra for it," he said, adding compensation would be promotion to captain or lieutenant and more money. "We're not holding out for money. We need people in charge. The department's grown to the point of where we need that. It's time."

On three runs in the past two weeks there were breakdowns with the equipment. Two of the department's front-line engines are 15 years old, with over $2,500 budgeted each year for equipment maintenance and repairs.

Stations 1 and 2 were defined by a structural engineer as "unsound." "The two stations are totally inadequate for what we're using them for today," Ronk said, adding firefighters would like to see two new stations built.

I-75 construction continues

Prepare for rush hour bumper-to-bumper traffic on north and southbound I-75 from now—through October.

It's part of the federal government's $9.5 million road improvement plan from University Drive to Grand Blanc, according to Ed Winkler, resident engineer with the state highway department.

Work includes removal of all bridge guardrails, asphaltting I-75 from M-15 in Independence Township to Grand Blanc, and patching holes, he said.

"Federal studies have shown you don't need a guardrail. If a car goes over, it was going too fast," Winkler said.

"Work at the Clintonville bridge is not an exit ramp. I've had one other call on that. We're just flattening the slope to federal standards, and we're doing that all along that stretch. We've already done the Joslyn bridge and the railroad bridge at Baldwin," he said.

Smith explores regional police

By Marilyn Trumper

Independence Township is one of 20 communities exploring a jointly operated Regional Police Force separate from the contracted Oakland County Sheriff's Department, according to Supervisor James B. Smith.

Smith, president of OCATS (Oakland County Association of Township Supervisors) says a membership meeting is planned to discuss the issue May 2 at a yet to be decided location.

The meeting has little to do with Sheriff Johannes Spreen's comments before the Board of Commissioners two weeks ago, Smith said, when Spreen criticized both Orion and Independence townships for not beefing up police numbers, and refused to sign their 1984 contracts.

"He has since signed the contracts and apologized to me," said Smith. "We hired a seventh deputy and apparently he didn't know that. I thought his comments were improper. I also think he has little to say about what contracts are let. That's a board of commissioners' decision."

"I would say we are, all of us in the contract services, looking at (a regional police force) hard. Especially the seven townships in the contract group, not counting villages and cities. In all, there are about 20."

JoAnn VanTassel, supervisor of Orion Township, agrees.

"I don't have any feelings about it one way or the other," VanTassel said. "But I haven't ruled out any options. I'm concerned from a cost point of view and a service point of view. Orion Township is happy with its service from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department."

Unlike Independence Township's 1 mill, Orion has no millage for police, and pays its bill with money generated from the .94 general fund mill. Like Independence, Orion supplements its police bill with federal revenue sharing, this year using $80,000.

At the commissioners' meeting two weeks ago Spreen criticized Independence and Orion saying, "...Townships must agree to pay as they grow. Most of the townships under contract have recognized the need to expand. Only one or two—Independence and Orion—have not complied. Independence has made movement in this direction at their board level. However, no formal request has been made."

VanTassel was angered by the comments. "It would have been nice if the sheriff had discussed his concerns with me, come to a board meeting and explained, instead of leveling a blast at a board of commissioners' meeting."

"All I ever heard was as soon as the (GM) plant is finished you'll need more police. I have seen nothing to indicate to me we need more police," VanTassel said. "For 15 or 20 minutes every morning and 15 or 20 minutes every night there's heavier traffic on the road."

"If we get more police, we're still going to have the heavy traffic."

VanTassel says she's received no citizen complaints on poor police service.

"The residents here have organized citizens' watches and citizens' patrols. I think that we've got a strong contingent in this township who believe the township isn't there to provide them with all the services. I've not had taxpayers knocking down my door saying, 'Raise our taxes so we can have more police.'"

Non-union employes net raise

Independence Township's six department heads and all other non-union employes received 5-percent raises for the 1984-85 year.

Board members unanimously approved the following raises at the April 17 meeting.

- From $29,500 to $31,000 for director of parks and recreation, building and planning, assessing, department of public works, library and fire.

- From $18,500 to $19,425 for the deputy clerk and treasurer.

- From $23,750 to $24,950 for the financial director.

- From $17,500 to $18,375 for the senior citizens and parks coordinator.

- From $16,224 to $17,056 for the supervisor's secretary.

Board makes about-face

Consortium allocated $3,000

By Marilyn Trumper

Despite objections from Clerk Richard Holman and Treasurer Frederick Ritter, the Independence Township Board allocated $3,000 to the Consortium for Human Development, a non-profit state-funded counseling agency serving the Clarkston area since 1979.

Clinical director Fred Baumann initially requested $5,000 from federal revenue sharing under "community promotions."

"The law requires we restrict the spending of (federal revenue sharing in these cases) to prevent juvenile delinquency or drug abuse. In my view, this doesn't do it," Holman said. "I personally would feel more comfortable seeing how they would confirm the $5,000 is being used to treat Independence Township residents and not outside drug abusers."

Ritter agreed.

"I feel I may have made an error allocating these funds a year ago," he said. "I feel we're using public money for basic health care. The point I'm trying to make is what would prevent anybody from developing any drug abuse program and then requesting public money?"

According to Baumann, 70 percent of his clients are treated for substance abuse and 30 percent for other problems. Of the 432 clients treated last year, 113 were from Independence Township, he said. The clinic works on a $250,000 annual budget paying the salaries of four full-time and nine part-time people.

"Our fees are somewhat lower than private clinics which make a percentage of what their clients pay," Baumann said. "We typically charge $16 a therapy hour for counseling. I'd estimate 25 to 30 percent of our clients are indigents and do not pay."

Private clinics typically charge $55 to $60 an hour, he said.

"If someone in the community is in need of your services and are unable to pay, would they be taken care of?" asked Trustee William Vandermark.

"They always have been, and they always will be," Baumann answered.

Trustee Dale Stuart favored allocating the Consortium $3,000.

"I do not share the concerns we have to monitor every dollar," Stuart said. "...I'm satisfied they're providing the kind of services we can use. If providing a token $3,000, a drop in the pan, will keep them in the community, I'm happy with it."

After lengthy discussion, the board voted 4-2 to allocate the $3,000 from 1984-85 federal revenue sharing funds. Supervisor James B. Smith, and trustees Stuart, Vandermark and Daniel Travis voted yes.

Cable contract law approved

After more than an hour of discussion the Independence Township Board and an attorney for Tribune/United arrived at a language agreement which allows the multi-million dollar Chicago-based firm to raise $23 million selling limited partnerships.

The money will be used to fund construction of Independence Township's system and the 11-community consortium in southern Oakland County.

The board voted unanimously at its April 17 meeting, contingent upon the township attorney's final stamp of approval on the language.

Tribune/United proposes selling 225 limited partnerships at $100,000 each, and has a bank letter of credit for $33 million, according to vice president and general manager Jim Anderson.

The limited partnerships will not change cable service, according to township attorney Gerald Fisher.

One year ago Rosann Morrow and Diann Donnelly joined forces and opened Toppers Hair Fashions on Dixie Highway.

"It has exceeded our expectations," says Rosann as she and Diann host their combination one year anniversary/open house May 1 through 5.

They'll have munchies throughout the week; a cake Saturday, May 5; make-up and color specialists; and specials on their "chemical" work, like perms. Retail products will be a third off, according to Rosann.

Toppers is at 5488 Dixie Highway, Waterford Township.

Hawaii conference

Bud and Shirley Grant of Independence Township recently returned from Maui, Hawaii, where they attended a conference hosted by State Farm Life Insurance Co. for leading agents and their spouses.

Grant, a State Farm representative 28 years, operates Bud Grant Insurance, P.C., which has been located in the Clarkston Cinema Building on Dixie Highway for eight years.

Sales mean cruise

Due to outstanding sales performance, the North Oaks Insurance Agency of Clarkston qualified for the Royal Adventure Cruise sponsored by Home Mutual and Homeco Life Insurance Companies, Appleton.

Agent Bill Smith and his wife, Darlene, of Independence Township sailed the Mexican Riviera aboard the Pacific Princess for a week.

The award was based on increased insurance business placed with the companies in 1983.

Whether to allow apartments in commercial zoning is the subject of a public hearing April 30 at 7:30 p.m. in the Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot, Clarkston.

If approved, the new law would allow Hank Radcliff to rent the second floor of a 120-year-old Italianate home he wants to move to Clarkston's downtown.

The village planning commission recommended the amendment be adopted.

When Radcliff first proposed moving the house, he said if the state granted a barrier-free exemption he would rent the house's second floor for offices. If not, he wanted to rent it as apartments.

The hearing is not on moving the house, warns village President Carol Eberhardt.

"That's not it," she said at the April 9 council meeting. "In fact, if he gets the variances needed from the zoning board (Radcliff) can move the house now.

"It's the proper zoning," she said.

Program for learning disabled on tap

Some local parents of children with learning disabilities are interested in starting a chapter of the Michigan Association for Children and Adults with Learning Disabilities (ACLAD), and they've scheduled programs on May 10 and 24.

"The nearest ACLAD is in the Birmingham-Southfield area, which is a little ways away," said Gail Dickerson, one of the organizers.

"We feel parents really need some help and to find out they're not the only ones with these problems and find ways to help their children," she said. "Maybe coming to hear people talk will be their answer, or talking to someone to find more specific answers for the particular needs."

ACLAD is a non-profit, volunteer organization of parents and professionals devoted to defining and finding solutions to the broad spectrum of learning problems.

The programs are planned at the Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church, 5300 Maybee, Independence Township, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

On Thursday, May 10, Denise Jenkins of the planning and compliance division of Oakland Schools is to speak on "How to Identify the Learning Disabled Child."

On Thursday, May 24, a representative from the Michigan Association for Children and Adults with Learning Disabilities is to speak briefly on "Your Rights as a Parent" and answer questions.

Robbery charges

Two men allegedly involved in the early April armed robbery of a Clark Service Station in Independence Township have been charged with stealing a leather coat from the American Legion Hall on Maybee Road.

William Stanley Jolesiewski, 20, of Detroit and Eugene Hall, 18, of Hamtramck, were charged with larceny from a building of over $100 before 52nd District Court Judge Gerald E. McNally.

The pair were bound over to circuit court April 13. Conviction on the felony carries a maximum four-year prison sentence, according to a court spokesperson.

They face arraignment before Oakland County District Court Judge David Breck April 26.

Independence adopts new race track law

By Marilyn Trumper

A two-year-old battle by adjoining homeowners to tighten restrictions at Waterford Hills Race Track appears to have ended.

In a 4-2 vote April 17, the Independence Township Board amended its racing ordinance, establishing a sound-reading noise limit and allowing only one holiday weekday race a year.

Officials of the track located at the Oakland County Sportsman's Club agreed to drop the circuit court lawsuit in exchange for the township amending its law, according to track attorney Jeffery Heldt.

Trustees Larence Kozma and Dale Stuart dissented. Trustee Daniel Travis, a life member of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club, abstained.

"We hope this is the start of a new era," said Heldt after the meeting. "And improved relations between the township, neighbors and the track."

The new law takes effect 30 days after publication.

Robert Hall, who spearheaded the residents' campaign to tighten restrictions, asked Supervisor James B. Smith who to call if there's a noise violation.

"I guess you call me," Smith said, "or Ken Delbridge, the building director."

After the meeting, Hall elaborated.

"I didn't like my answer," he said. "That was no kind of answer. By the time they get there the noise is over anyway. I've got a little bit of hope—but no faith (in the amended law)."

"I still say they'll end up going to court and getting a judge to allow them to race like they did last year."

The new law outlines the following:

•It allows two weekend races in a four-weekend month and three weekend races in a five-weekend month.

•It reduces the number of hours cars can race to noon to 4 p.m., instead of 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

•It allows racing half the number of weekdays in a year, but limits that to three weekdays in any one week.

•It allows racing one holiday weekday a year.

•The track must notify the township of weekend races one month in advance, and a week in advance for weekday runs.

New sound standards find a car in violation if it exceeds 90 decibels for two seconds in a 200-second run.

After the meeting, Kozma and Stuart explained their votes.

"I am against amending an ordinance to satisfy and individual," Stuart said. "We have brought litigation against the Hill for not complying with the ordinance and I think in fairness to the citizens we should have taken that to a conclusion."

Adoption of the new law ends the track neighbors' two-year coalition before township hall asking for intervention to ease the sound of races and eliminate back-to-back racing weekends.

Rosso files for trustee seat

By Marilyn Trumper

A teacher with 17 years under his belt at Clarkston High School filed a 40-signature petition Friday to run for Independence Township trustee.

Larry Rosso, 40, of Delmonico Road, is running on the Republican ticket for the four-year part-time seat.

He's the third candidate to officially file.

"I've been thinking about it since last June, about nine months I guess," said Rosso, who at that time weighed filing for the clerk's office, vacated when Christopher Rose resigned to take a town manager's job in New Hampshire.

"I think township meetings could be run more efficiently. Sometimes they can't see the forest for the trees on the various issues like cable TV, operations of the fire department and federal revenue sharing funds," Rosso said. "I also don't think meetings should go on until midnight or one in the morning."

Rosso says he'll make attendance a campaign issue for the incumbents.

"I don't want to name names because I like all the members of the board. But it seems to me that family and job come first, but their jobs are interfering with their positions on the board."

"I can make the meetings other than sickness or personal tragedy. I get off my job at 2:30 in the afternoon. I can make the meetings," Rosso said.

The deadline for filing petitions for township board offices is June 5.

Differences

Al Zawacky

Alabama Governor George Wallace, in the midst of his abortive third-party presidential quest in 1968, was quoted as saying he didn't see "a dime's worth of difference" between Republicans and Democrats.

I beg to differ. Tongue firmly in cheek, I present the following hypothetical situations, and how a rock-ribbed Republican and a die-hard Democrat would respond to them...

A house in the neighborhood catches on fire: A Republican won't offer help; because a rugged individualist should be able to put out the fire himself. A Democrat will go out and set all the other houses in the neighborhood on fire, too, so that everyone will be treated equally.

A swimmer is drowning 40 feet from shore: A Republican will throw the swimmer a 30 foot rope and tell him to swim the other 10 feet, because it'll be good for his character. A Democrat will throw a 100 foot rope and then walk away pleased with himself, looking for other people in trouble.

Somebody soliciting contributions for the poor rings the doorbell: A Republican will contribute a small amount of his own money, but not before lecturing the solicitor about welfare freeloaders. A Democrat will donate a small amount of his own money, but offer to donate a generous amount of somebody else's.

Comforting a robbery victim: A Republican will tell you the robber ought to be hung by his heels and fried—before he's even brought to trial. A Democrat will tell you to try and see the mugger's point of view.

Discussing politics at a cocktail party: A Republican will denounce senators who "gave away our Panama Canal," and say that what this country really needs is a better business climate. A Democrat will denounce "U.S. involvement in Central America," and say what this country really needs is affirmative action for gay, left-handed Eskimos.

Debating the budget deficit: A Republican will say we should balance the budget, but not at the expense of the nation's defense. A Democrat will say we should balance the budget, but not at the expense of the nation's poor. (In both cases, obviously, the budget does not get balanced.)

Asked to name three favorite presidents: A Republican will say the three greatest presidents who ever lived were Teddy Roosevelt, Calvin Coolidge and Dwight Eisenhower. A Democrat will say the three greatest presidents who ever lived were Franklin Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson and John Kennedy.

Jim's jottings

From Model A's to me

Our married daughter was near tears when she heard we'd sold the Model A. "It holds a lot of memories," Luan said.

Among other things she had taxed her high school chums about town in the black 1930 2-door. Too, it served as the announcement vehicle following her marriage to Bob Offer.

They careened the streets Ah-ooo-gah horn sounding, wavin' and a-laffin'. I guess she does have memories.

The Model A experience I remember most mixed the car and Jim Fitzgerald, then a Lapeer County Press salesman, now columnist for this newspaper and the Detroit Free Press.

It was party time on a sunny afternoon and I decided to show off. I started driving the A around our yard, windows down, and going slow.

Fitz jumped on the running board, wrapped one arm around the post, pointed the other hand the direction we were going and shouted, "Follow that car." Even in those days he was seeing too many B-rated movies.

I bought the Model A around 1960 as sort of a Mother's Day joke for my wife, Hazel. Some years later I also bought her a corn crib. I'm just trying to keep some of the farm girl in her.

John Singleton had been driving it to school and he kept it in good shape... not refurbished for show, but very acceptable.

Through these years it has always been kept outdoors, sometimes covered in winter with a canvas. It's been repainted, upholstered, and re-topped. The motor and carburetor have been worked on, but only for adjustments.

I have a 1984 Olds that just got a new engine, and 1979 Phoenix that just had $752 in motor-type repair, and the company Chevy van had a new engine at age 5.

We just traded that 1977 van last week and there wasn't enough good metal left in the body to cover your hand. It was so bad even the rust bugs had left.

I can still sit on the fender of the Model A without fear of it collapsing. A person can still jump on the running board and not have it fail, the engine starts after just a couple turns, and the mileage is as good as the Olds.

But, we've had our turn and it's time others should enjoy it. I'll think of another tool as a reminder to Hazel's past. Maybe a manure spreader. No. An ex-friend told me once Hazel already has one. She married it.

NUCLEAR ARMS RACE:

LIKE CHILDREN PLAYING WITH MATCHES...

Greaseballs revisited

Kathy Greenfield

It's time, once again, to sit back in my rocking chair and reminisce.

I added the rocking chair when I figured out that the scene I saw last week at Clarkston Junior High School was a quarter of a century old.

On stage the Greaseballs were rocking 'n' rolling. Below on the gym floor the kids were dancing. In honor of the special before-spring-break assembly, the school had a '50s day.

They looked so much like we used to, it was a shock, and what made it even more Twilight Zonish was that the junior high school I attended had a gym that looked very much like the one at CJHS.

I decided to take a few minutes to lean back against the gym wall and watch the goings on. That's where the teachers were.

I looked over and there stood teacher Dave McDonald. Why not? We both graduated a long time ago from Rochester (Mich.) High School.

He, apparently, was thinking the same things I was, because when I asked him if we looked that silly, he said he could see the "Rochester" written on the backs of their jackets.

The kids who were dancing really looked like they were having fun. And talk about aerobics. I thought about finding some old music, cranking up the record player and practicing some of the old dances at home.

None of us from that era needs exercise instruction, we just need to remember the steps.

Later I talked to science teacher Tony Stachurski who, as one of the Greaseballs, wears sunglasses, a T-shirt and sings.

He asked if I would be at the dance they're giving for adults in the community and parents and students at CJHS.

I told him I might, and said something like, "It's got to be worth something to step back into the past."

"At least a couple bucks," he said.

That's the price of admission. Friday, May 4, 7:30 p.m. Clarkston Junior High. In the gym. The Greaseballs, by the way, are good.

Pine Knob: outstanding school

Although we have lived in Independence Township for the last 12 years, our family just became a part of the Clarkston schools with a son who started kindergarten at Pine Knob school this past fall.

We have been so pleased with his experience and so has he. Everyone has been so friendly and helpful.

Mr. Reabe, the principal, made us feel welcome and a part of the school district right from the start. Every time we visited the school, he was always there with a smile and a handshake, thanking us for coming.

Mrs. Karpovck is certainly a wonderful secretary. She, too, has the same warm smile and is a friend to every youngster in the building.

Even Mr. Hamilton, the custodian, goes out of his way to accomodate everyone.

Our son's teacher, Mrs. Allen, has made his first educational experience a most successful one. He loves all the interesting projects and activities, not realizing that he is learning at the same time. We are amazed at the amount of reading and number concepts all the children in Mrs. Allen's room have accomplished.

Even the PTO at Pine Knob School, under the direction of Judy France, has been outstanding. They sponsored the Santa Secret Shop, flower sales, the Book Fair, and the candle sale, to mention only a few activities, and have raised over $12,000 to spend for the students of Pine Knob.

To my husband and I, this combined effort of teachers, administration and parents make Pine Knob School a truly outstanding school for our two boys.

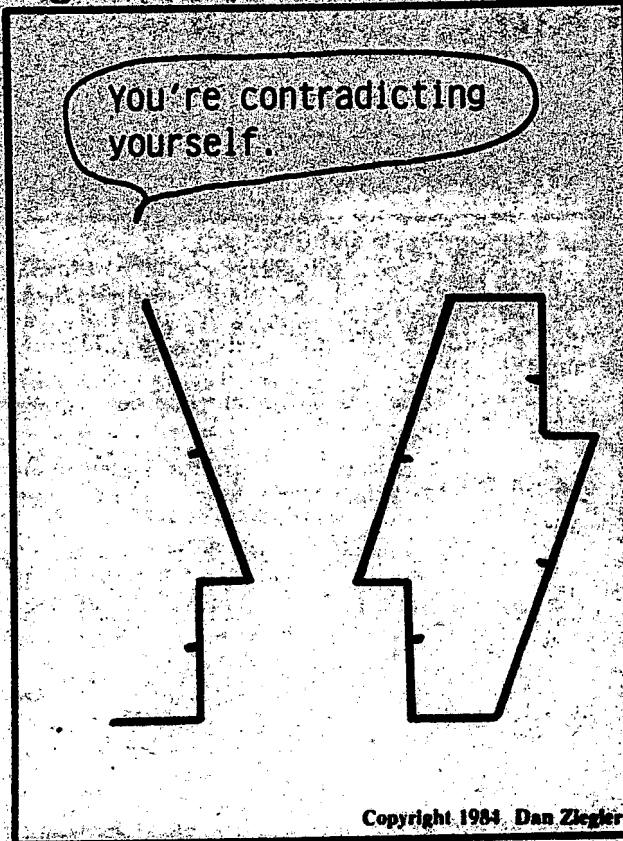

In the last few months, we understand that there has been some dissension at Pine Knob School.

Although we do not know exactly what has taken place, my husband and I hope that these problems can be solved, so that Pine Knob's reputation of being an outstanding school can continue. We do not want to lose good members of this working team.

Our son's education has benefited from all the hard work of such fine people as Mr. Reabe, Mrs. Karpovck, Mr. Hamilton, Mrs. Allen and Judy France, and, for that, my husband and I are very grateful.

Tom and Carolyn Romsin

P.S. We also hope that everyone who reads this letter will vote in favor of the bond issue in June so that multipurpose rooms can be added to each elementary school. We, as adults, do not work all day at one desk and eat our lunch there too. Yet, our elementary students work and eat at the same desk for six hours every day. VOTE FOR THE BOND ISSUE IN JUNE!

Line 33 will help fight abuse

Attention Mr. Zawacky (No Excuse for Abuse):

Apparently you don't have children or if you do you have never been upset and spanked them more than, let's say, three times.

You see, to me line 33 on the tax sheet is very important.

I have a son who is hyperactive. He attends Clarkston Community Learning Center in the SPICE program. He is considered an EI (emotionally impaired). He is only 4 1/2 years old!

I also slap him around. At least I used to! I belong to a group called Parents Anonymous. It's an open group for parents who have trouble with their children.

Not all of us were abused as children, either! I wasn't, yet I have a real rough time with my 4 1/2-year-old. We are not animals or, as you put it, "reptiles." We are not people who have alibis for our so-called

"anti-social behavior."

You, on the other hand, are the one in my opinion who needs help in understanding people. We are not all as perfect as you seem to be.

God created no perfect human. We are all capable of making mistakes. That's not an excuse, but a fact.

I invite you and anyone else who would be interested in sitting in on the group to call 625-3330.

This way maybe people will give us a fair chance. Some of us are willing to admit what we do and want help for ourselves and our children.

The unfortunate conclusion is that without the support of line 33, social workers won't be able to give their time to abuse groups like Parents Anonymous.

ONE THING IS CERTAIN: Line 33 will help solve, fight, and help to alter child abuse.

Mrs. Jane Allison

SCAMP says thanks

We would like to take the opportunity to express our appreciation on behalf of the North Oakland SCAMP Funding Corp. to Clarkston High School and the Student Government for the recent SPORT-ATHON to benefit the Clarkston SCAMP program.

The dedication and commitment of these high school students to raise $368 for the Clarkston SCAMP program is to be admired.

It is impressive that they were willing to dedicate a Friday night to help persons with disabilities enjoy their summer vacation.

The 160 teen-agers who participated in this event deserve our thank you and our congratulations.

Market foolishness

Jim Fitzgerald

A typical response came from a man who, a few days after buying a Chevrolet, noticed a plastic plug on the floor of his garage. It had dropped out of the bottom of his brand new car. So he took the car and plug back to the dealership where he soon found an acute shortage of common sense.

At first, the Chevy mechanic said: "No problem, I'll install a new plug and it won't cost you a cent." But the right-size plug couldn't be found in the parts department.

"Just put back the old plug and screw it in tight this time," the car owner suggested.

"We can do that, but it will cost $14," the mechanic said.

A new plug is free, but a used plug is $14? There's nothing like common sense.

I ALSO HEARD from a man who ordered a $200 three-piece suit from Brooks Bros. But he never wears a vest, so he said two pieces would be enough. OK, the salesman said, but that's a special order and will cost $225.

Another example was provided by a woman who ordered lemonade at an Olga's restaurant. The waitress said there was plenty of lemonade, but the woman couldn't have any, because they'd run out of lemonade glasses. The woman suggested the lemonade be poured in a Coca glass which was the same size as the missing lemonade glasses. The waitress said no, management forbid her to substitute glasses.

Also, there was a note from a man who ordered the tin-roof sundae special for $1.25, but skip the peanuts, and was told it would be $1.50 without the peanuts.

There was much more, but that's enough. These testimonials to the lack of common sense arrived in response to my column about the lawyer who ordered the 96-cent breakfast special—one egg, bacon or sausage, toast and coffee—at a downtown cafeteria and said he didn't want anything to drink. The cashier said that unless he took the coffee, he'd have to pay $1.25.

None of which is surprising. We all know there is regularly much foolishness perpetrated in the marketplace to further the unholy conformity that makes business simpler for the merchant but incredibly annoying for the customer. But I'm here today to be fair.

It should be noted that a few readers thought the lawyer was an elitist jerk for insisting it made no sense to charge more for breakfast with coffee than without. And they said it was insensitive of me to publicize his foul behavior.

STEVE PARADIS of Davison said it most eloquently: "So your friend plays Clarence Darrow, of the lunch counter and ruins some poor wage slave's day. If he feels good provoking someone who couldn't pay for the suit your friend wears with three weeks' pay, then that's his problem. Your problem is that you had nothing to write about today and decided to enahrine some swinish behavior in the interest of common sense. At the very least you have humiliated in print several people, named and unnamed. It would go against the laws of experience to hope that no one is fired or reprimanded for offending a man with powerful friends."

Oh my. I've never even seen the lawyer in question our brief relationship was purely electronic. But some of my best friends are, or were, clerks or waitpeople. In fact, my wife married one. I remember several arrogant customers who ruined my day when I was a waiter and soda jerk.

I should have made it clearer that top management is almost always to blame when all rules are enforced at all times, even when they spit in the face of common sense. It was the boss of that cafeteria, not the employees, who deserved to be humiliated.

Bosses should not only make sensible rules, they should instruct employees, for God's sake, to use a little common sense when asking customers to obey those rules.

That is how we can all proceed Onward and Upward in the marketplace with less aggravation—and no vest on our coffee.

Storekeepers responsible for clean fronts

Dear Business People and Citizens:

There was a time in this village when the business people were out early in the mornings—sweeping their sidewalks, washing their windows and greeting early walkers and customers with cheery smiles.

As a whole this has become a thing of the past and I, for one, am ashamed of our sidewalks, gutters and waste containers.

Why should we waste the taxpayers' money to do a job that is your responsibility and should be your pride?

You should take your brooms and dustpans and do your share. If waste containers are becoming full before pickup time, why don't you take a plastic bag and empty them? And why can't you use a little soap and water on the outside of these containers?

We put them there to help you—not to get complaints as to how full and dirty they are.

How many of you have been to Northville and taken a look at their business section?

Now citizens, it is your turn.

Why can't you help this little old lady pick up odds and ends of paper and other trash and put them in the waste containers?

Help to pull a few weeds that appear regularly in different plantings around the village.

Help me to educate business people on pinching back petunias, taking off the dead geraniums and keeping their barrels watered. Yes, the barrels will be out again this year.

This letter is not from the council as a whole, but just from me—the councilwoman in charge of beautification and a person who cares.

I personally want to thank the Masons for donating two benches to our business section and hope you have set an example of goodwill.

Please remember trees for the park—or donations for beautifying our village and park.

Let's all pull together and help our village to become a place of beauty and pride.

Thank you,
Fontie M. ApMadoc

Applause for auction

THE CLARKSTON NEWS LETTER POLICY

We welcome our readers' opinions. Letters to the Editor must be at The Clarkston News office by noon Friday to be considered for the following week's paper. We reserve the right to edit all letters for the sake of brevity and clarity and to limit the number of letters from any one individual on any one issue. We don't publish open letters or copies of letters sent elsewhere. Letters must be signed and a phone number and address included. Names will be withheld on request.

I would like to give a hearty round of applause and a heartfelt thank you to Don Porter, Tom Azoni, Paul and Carolyn Sadows, the Clarkston Village Players and the many merchants and donors who contributed to make the Clarkston Village Players Benefit Auction on April 13 a wonderful success.

About $6,000 was netted from the evening's sales, which brings our total building fund balance up to $10,000, enough to get us started with our lobby and lavatory addition this summer.

Don Porter and Tom Azoni, co-chairmen of the event, deserve special thank yous!

Tom's idea of the auction and diligent planning developed into the Players' most successful fund raiser ever.

And Don's persistent dedication and untiring energy throughout the project was the driving force which motivated such positive results.

Paul Sadows of Sadows Auction Galleries turned in a splendid performance as our guest auctioneer as well as generously donating in many other ways. Together with his lovely wife, Carolyn, he added a special touch of class to the entire event.

Donations are still being accepted and are always welcome, so we may continually grow and offer this community a better theater experience.

School kids sample opera

Michigan Opera Theatre performs to rave reviews

"Meow, meow, meow, meow," sang one Clarkston pupil as he headed toward the bus outside Calvary Lutheran Church following a program on opera last week.

Similar to the familiar "Figaro," the "meows" covered musical ranges not usually heard in songs kids sing.

"I didn't think I'd like opera," said another Bailey Lake Elementary School pupil, Beth Eschker. "(But) I thought it was good—the singing and the acting."

Fellow pupil David Eby had another viewpoint: "I thought it was going to be good before I came. I liked it. It was good," he said.

But David was the exception rather than the rule, according to Karen DiChiera, director of education for the Michigan Opera Theatre.

She's also the director of the Bringing Art Studies into Classrooms program underway in all Clarkston schools to introduce children to the arts and emphasize career possibilities, paid for with a $10,000 grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

"I think the main problem is kids are exposed to a parody of opera before the experience one," she said. "It's the same thing if their first baseball game was a ballet of a baseball game."

Their reactions to real opera music?

"They end up applauding and asking questions," she said.

Two teens held for greenhouse B&E

Two Independence Township teens face charges of larceny under $100 for allegedly stealing extension cords and floodlights from Waterford Hill Greenhouse on Dixie Highway last February.

A trial for Jay Charles Wilson, 19, of Meyers Road and Blair Collins, 18, of Havelock Drive is scheduled before 52nd District Court Judge Gerald E.

McNally May 18. Conviction of the charge carries a 45 day jail sentence and/or $50 fine, according to a court spokesperson.

Collins faces an additional charge of possession of a controlled substance, marijuana, a one-year misdemeanor, the court spokesperson said.

Dunaskiss tackles medical law

If a bill introduced by State Rep. Mat Dunaskiss passes, the Board of Medicine will be back to square one drafting competency test requirements for physicians.

The repeal would eliminate a five-year-old law that ordered the licensing board to implement competency tests as part of the Public Health Code. The licensing board came up empty-handed as the Oct. 1, 1984, deadline approached, Dunaskiss said.

"The medical society has done in-depth research and hit a quagmire," said Dunaskiss (R-61st District which includes Springfield and Independence townships). "It's very difficult if not impossible to come up with a test for competency."

"By (repealing the law for implementation and adopting one to draft requirements) the issue remains on the front burner rather than repealing the law altogether."

Six years ago the legislature decided that health care professionals should not have life-time licenses and ordered the health licensing board to develop competency tests as a condition of license renewal, administering them at least every four years.

The tests were to begin this October.

Instead, a Michigan State Medical Society task force set up to study competency testing concluded it cannot be done—at least not fairly and economically.

Competency, the task force reported, is as hard to measure as incompetency. It includes knowledge, but also encompasses judgment, technical ability, self-discipline and a caring and ethical attitude.

The key is to give the licensing board more power, according to Dunaskiss.

"Licensing boards do not have the clout that's necessary often to pull the license. Physicians get an injunction to block the pull and thumb their nose at the licensing board," he said.

"What we have to do is put some teeth into the Physicians' Review Board. Without it, licensing and regulation is nothing but a paper tiger. Pull their license, and make sure they don't practice until a decision's been made regarding malpractice."

Thirteen medical professions were to be included in the competency exams: nursing, optometry, pharmacy, podiatrics, medical and surgical, dentistry, chiropractic, health and occupations council, medicine, osteopathic medicine, and surgical and physical therapy.

Knee injury puts season on hold

Tim Birtsas is out of action for 2 months

By Dan Vandenhemel

The baseball season is going to have to wait for Clarkston native Tim Birtsas.

While playing basketball to keep in shape during spring training with the New York Yankees in Dania, Fla., Birtsas partially tore ligaments in his right knee.

The 6-foot-6 southpaw pitcher slipped on some perspiration on the court and twisted his knee.

"They wanted me to lose some weight," the 23-year-old Birtsas said. "I was at 245 at the start of spring training. They wanted me at 235 but I wanted to be at 225. I got there by playing basketball."

It will be close to July before the starting pitcher will get a chance to return. He faces one month in a fiberglass cast, encasing much of his leg, then another month of rehabilitation before he can even pick up a ball.

"They didn't want to take a chance of having me come back too early," Birtsas said on his way to do some weight training. "They're not going to screw around with me because they drafted me."

The Yankee organization is taking every precaution to help Birtsas, but they are not happy.

"I got yelled at by the manager, the coaches, the trainers, everybody," Birtsas said. "The director of minor league operations, Dave Hersch, called me into his office and I knew I was going to get chewed out but I told him the only person that wants me to make it to the majors more than him, is me. I think that saved me, but I meant it."

While limping around with the cast, Birtsas has been spending time working on his upper body strength with weights.

Last season was the first full season in professional baseball for Birtsas. Pitching for the Fort Lauderdale Yankees in the Class A league, he compiled some impressive statistics: no home runs allowed in 168 innings and 160 strikeouts.

An equally impressive spring training landed the 1978 graduate of Clarkston High School on the Yankees Nashville team in the AA league. The improvement plus having confidence in himself has Birtsas on the move.

"I felt after last year that I had a good chance of moving up in the system," Birtsas said. "I don't want to come over sounding cocky, but I felt I had a chance to pitch in New York this September. But this knee has set me back some. My goal is still to reach the major leagues. It's just going to be a little longer now."

Golf season canceled

By Dan Vandenhemel

For the first time since the sport came to Clarkston High School in 1974, there will be no girls' golf team.

A lack of interest was the cause of the cancellation this year, said coach Jim Chamberlain.

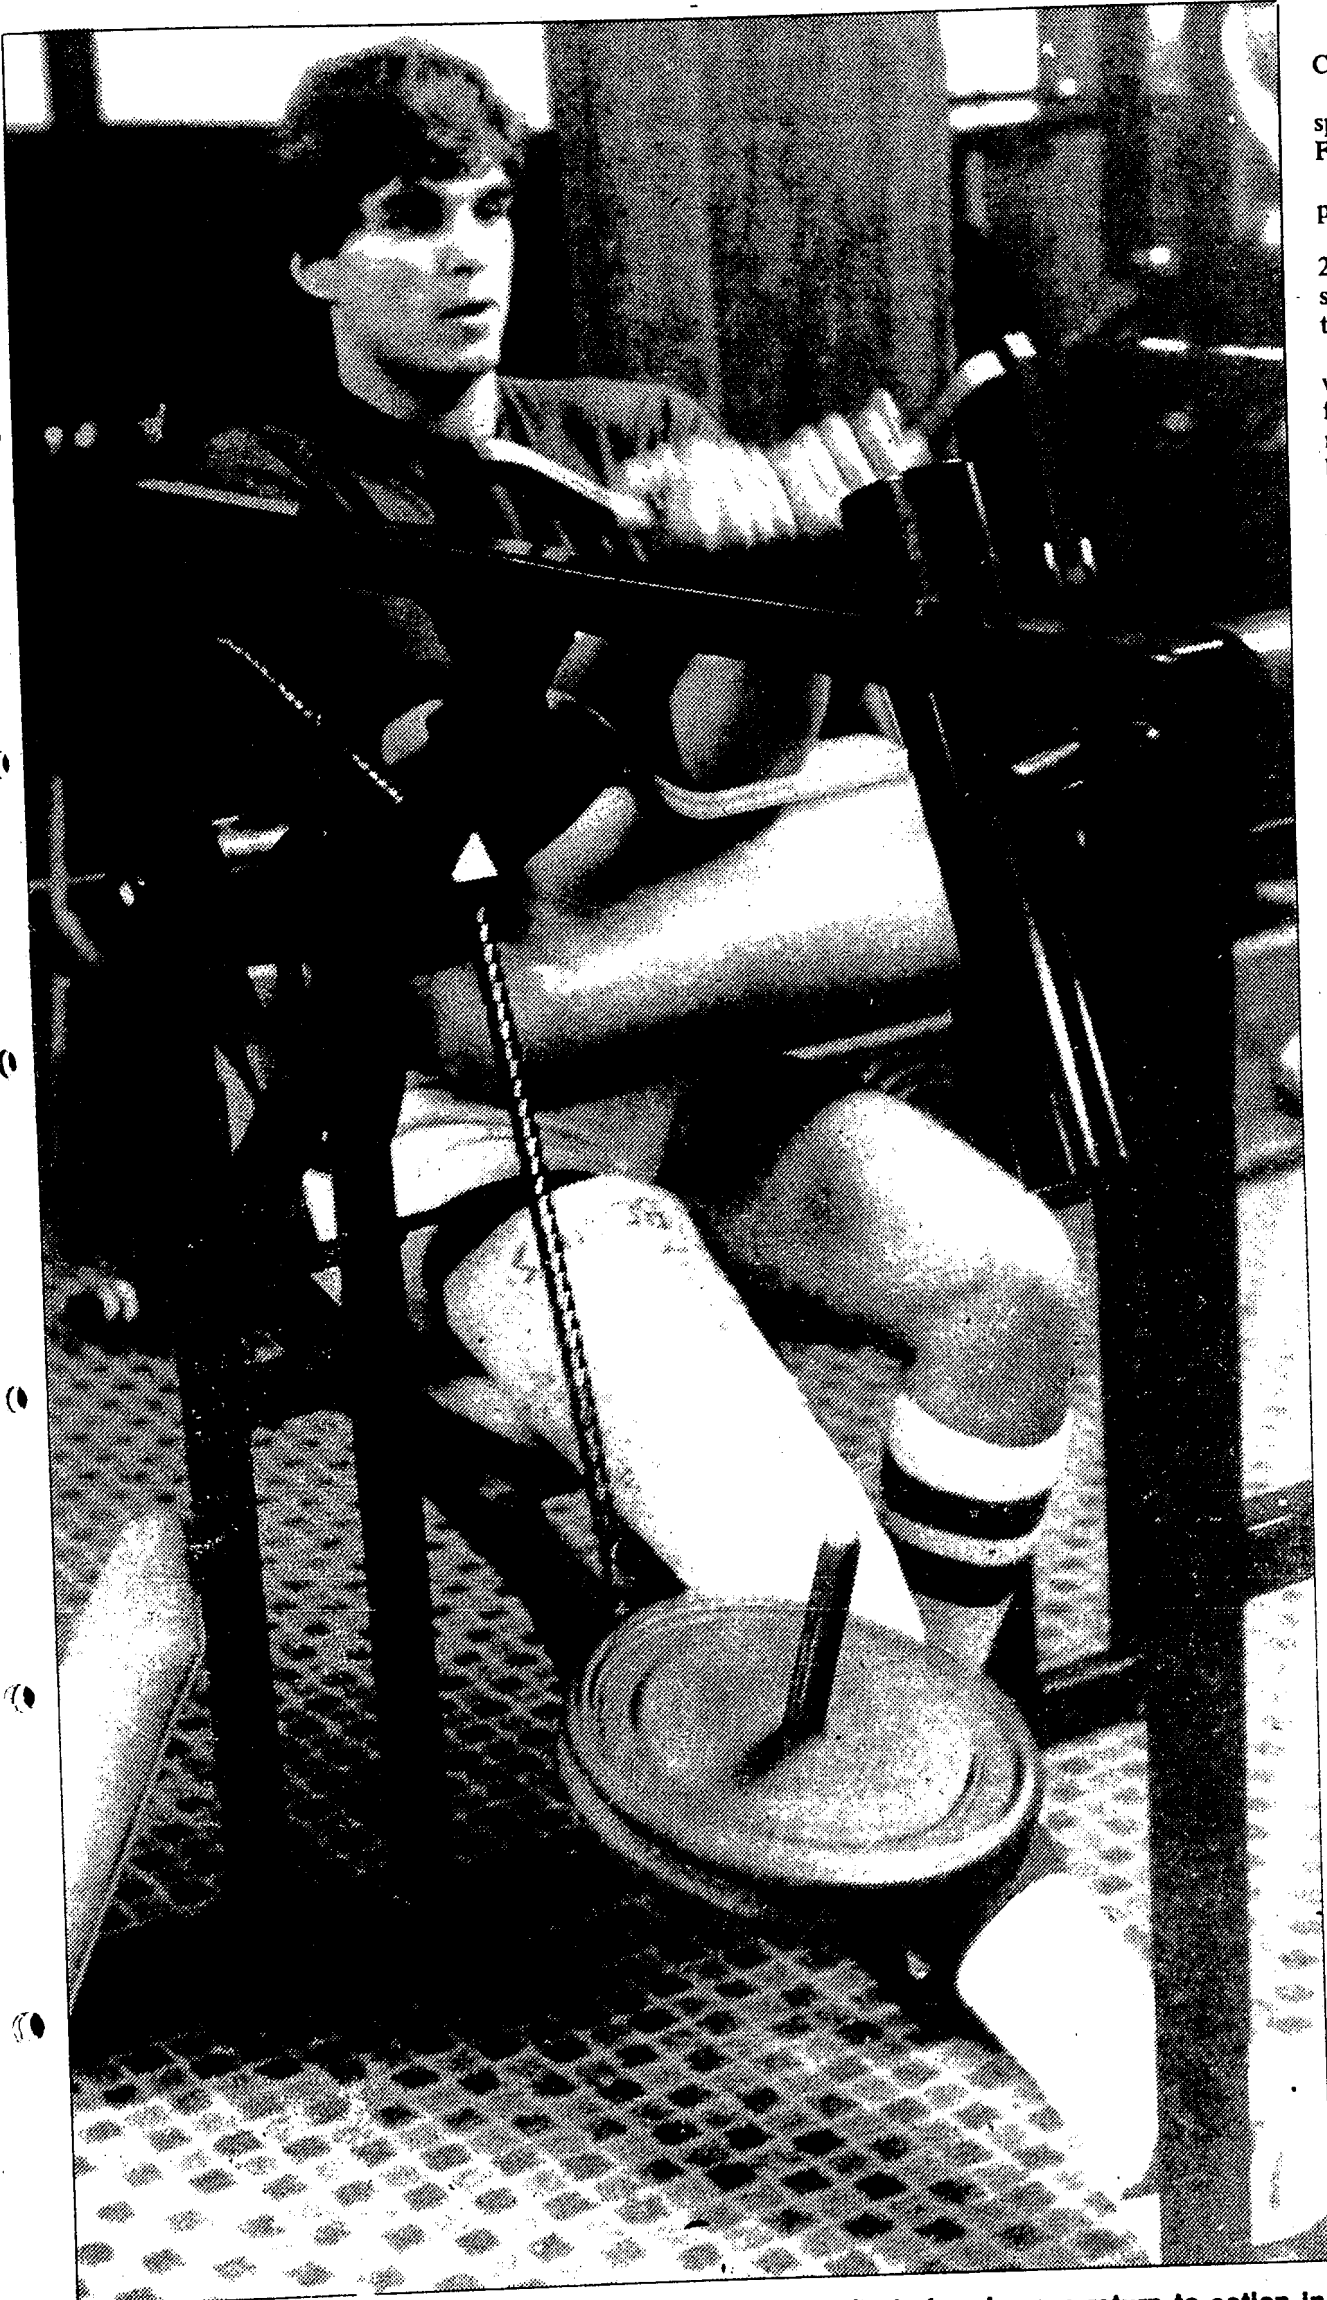

"We only had eight girls out for the team and only three of them had any experience," he said. "The other five were just learning."

In the past season, he has been able to go with little experience on the team but he needed enough players to compete, Chamberlain said.

"They needed six players to score and some of them are in Florida," he said. "We needed more interest from the kids."

The decision to halt the season before it began came from the school's central office.

"We didn't have a choice," said Clarkston Athletic Director Paul Tungate. "We didn't have enough players for the first week and wouldn't have for the rest of the season. In fairness to the other schools, we canceled."

Working to stay in shape is no easy task for Tim Birtsas. Torn knee ligaments mean it will be two months before he can return to action in the New York Yankee organization.

CHS Wolves sizzle during spring drizzle

By Dan Vandenhemel

The weather is the only thing that stopped the Clarkston High School varsity baseball team from winning this season.

The Wolves posted sound victories their first three games and had one game suspended in the fifth inning because of rain and unseasonably cold temperatures.

One reason for the Wolves' early success is they are getting the bat on the ball.

"You never really know how strong you are until get going," coach Roy Warner said. "We really need to keep up our run production."

Scoring has been the least of the Wolves' problems. They have beaten Waterford Mott, 11-5; Holly, 14-2; and Milford, 8-5. They were tied with Waterford Kettering, 8-8, when play was stopped.

"You never really know how strong you are until you get going."

—Roy Warner

The April 14 washout with the Captains will be finished the next time the two schools meet, May 7, at Kettering.

In the Mott game, April 13, the Wolves didn't exactly crunch the ball but they didn't have to. Mott pitchers served up 14 walks as Clarkston hit only four singles.

In the rout of Holly, April 11, Scott Carter and Randy Bailey each clubbed homeruns as Carter and Mike Harbaugh collected three hits.

In the opener against Milford, April 10, Kurt Bottorff and Bailey each connected for homers to pace the attack.

The Clarkston pitchers can't be faulted for the high number of runs scored against them. Catching the ball has not been a major plus for the Wolves.

"We're just making too many errors," Warner said. "We had six against Milford and only three against Holly. We've improved quite a bit since the first game. We'd only been outside about four times before the first game. The more we are outside, the better the defense will become."

The pitching is about where Warner expected it, strong and sturdy.

Junior Todd Olsen holds a 2-0 record and has given up four earned runs in 12 innings. He has also recorded 12 strike outs. David Ladd notched the other victory when he pitched a solid three innings against Holly.

But the Wolves' ace in the hole is Harbaugh. The senior left-hander has come in to pitch nine innings of relief, given up one earned run and whiffed 16 batters.

"I figured they (Harbaugh and Olsen) would be my top pitchers," Warner said. "And they are."

Up My Alley

Rust in peace

By Dan Vandenhemel

A change in vocabulary is in order. No longer can I randomly ask, "Do you want to buy a car?"

That was the standard question on the subject of how my car was doing. Most of the time it was breaking down.

That little brown car will no longer be the brunt of nasty jokes, of kicks from an angry foot. No it didn't die, but it's close.

This is the epitaph of the car that has seen many parts of Michigan and Canada.

While having it three years and 90,000 miles, I can't help but have feeling for it even though it is an inanimate object. So let us forego with the name "it" and select a more appealing title. Let's go with the name Rusty.

Rusty wasn't as bad as I made him out to be. Rusty may be his name but badly sprinkled with automobile cancer he wasn't.

Only the two doors and a slight part near the windshield sported trouble signs of the growing deterioration.

A little bondo will do wonders for the shape of a rusted door.

Granted, Rusty did have a nasty habit of breaking down at the worst possible moments, like at 2 a.m. 30 miles from home, or on Christmas Eve. But Rusty got me where I wanted to go most of the time.

To Detroit Tiger baseball games, to movies, to vacations, to bowling tournaments, to friends' houses, to work.

Rusty will be fondly remembered for his rough starts, his power steering by Armstrong, the no heat in the winter, the 2-60 air in the summer.

The little quirks about Rusty never really bothered me. At times they were inconvenient and expensive but in the long run, we were friends.

He would listen to my horrible singing to some song on the radio. I would listen to the racket he made from under the hood. Maybe in his own way, he was complaining.

Rusty is not being replaced, he is being retired. The new car is different, plus "it" doesn't have any feeling as of yet. Someday, memories of "it" will pop up just like the memories of Rusty.

If it's a major fire, or a minor oddity, we want a call at The Clarkston News. 625-3370

Wolves' netters search for first victory

The beginning of the tennis schedule for Clarkston High School has not been the brightest of times.

Losing their first three matches, the Wolves can only get better.

Coach Dick Swartout summed it up neatly.

"It's been a long week," he said.

The Wolves opened with a 1-6 loss to Waterford Mott, then back-to-back 3-4 defeats to Waterford Kettering and Milford.

"Our doubles are not winning," Swartout said.

"That's what is happening. Against Milford, our No. 1 doubles lost the final set 6-4. That decided the match. We're not winning the big points."

One pleasant surprise for the Wolves is sophomore Dan Travis. He is 3-0 during the young season.

"He has been playing well," the coach said. "He's never lost on the varsity level."

Travis teamed with John Reading at No. 1 doubles to take the Wolves' only match against Mott. Against Kettering, he won at No. 4 singles while the double teams of Dan Martin and Matt Hargett (No. 2) and Mike Weber and George Briggs (No. 3) also won. Against Milford, singles winners were Travis at No. 4, Bob Adams at No. 1 and Scott Volberding at No. 2.

This is a younger tennis team than last year, but Swartout also believes it is better.

"Our three doubles teams are all sophomores and we only have two seniors on the team, Greg Wagner and Scott Volberding," he said. "We ARE better and the boys realize that. From top to bottom we're better. We just can't win."

This is also the third year out of the last four that the No. 1 singles player transferred into the system. Adams, a junior, came to Clarkston from Virginia.

"I don't think that bothers the other players," Swartout said. "I just think it makes us a stronger team."

Waterford couple win Nanjo's Toronto trip drawing

A three-day weekend in Toronto belongs to Marion and Opal Shipman, the winners of a drawing April 14 at Nanjo's restaurant.

"It was quite a shock," said Marion. "We never had an inkling that we'd win. I've tried these things for years. I missed a new car once by one number—that's the closest I've ever come.

"I know how these guys feel on the lottery who win a million bucks, on a lesser scale."

Owner of the Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, eatery is Nancy Clouse. She conducted the contest by having one ticket stub drawn for 30 days, then contacting all the winners to be there for the grand drawing.

Twenty-four people appeared, and the Shipmans' ticket was the last one drawn. The previous 10 names received dinner gift certificates from Nanjo's.

The Shipmans, who are retired, plan to take their trip when the weather is warmer.

"So, it's nice," he said. "You retire and you want to travel a little bit, so it was just what the doctor ordered."

Woman wins Sampler's Easter basket

"I won a horseshoe in the first grade, but that's it. I haven't won anything in years," laughed Martha White, when told she won the Village Sampler's gourmet festive basket drawing marking their three-year anniversary.

The Cramlane resident's name was pulled from a bin of 100, according to Deborah Moore, whose mom owns the popular shop in the Clarkston Mills Mall.

Inside the basket are coffees, jellies, teas and candies.

"I remember coming into the store and sampling the coffee, you know how (the owner) always has coffee there when you walk in the door. And she said, 'Here, why don't you fill out one of these,'" Martha said.

"We're lucky to have that shop here. I could live in that shop."

Teachers (rock and) roll back years

The Greaseballs make their mark at CJHS

By Kathy Greenfield

When the Greaseballs next fire up their microphones and offer tunes from the likes of Phil and Don Everly, the Beach Boys and Danny and the Juniors, it will all be for the sake of science.

Well, almost all.

They're inviting adults from the community and

Eighth-grade science teacher Dave Smith provides most of the music for the group.

students and parents from Clarkston Junior High School to a dance on Friday, May 4, in the school gymnasium from 7 to 10 p.m. Admission is $2 a person or $5 a family. No high school students will be allowed.

Members of the Greaseballs are seventh-grade science teacher Tony Stachurski, eighth-grade science teacher Dave Smith and counselor Larry Sherrill.

"Our primary motivation was that we could make some money for the science department," Stachurski said. "We're just on a pencils and crayons and construction paper budget. I thought if we could raise a couple hundred dollars we'd buy a few more items."

That's the serious part.

The Greaseballs have performed occasional concerts since they discovered each other's talents five to seven years ago.

Their first appearance was at a CJHS ninth-grade camp "Gong Show," where the youngsters shared skits and talents. The teachers wanted to show-off some skills of their own.

Back in his high school years, Stachurski, 41, had a band that performed at high school dances. He played the accordion.

Sherrill, 34, held the first-chair clarinet seat in his high school band; and Smith, 34, played the saxophone in high school.

They've since appeared at assemblies in school, in a benefit performance for the Clarkston Village Players and at Spring Lake Country Club.

Last year CJHS had a '50s day the last day before spring break and wrapped it up with an appearance by the band. It worked so well they did the same thing this year.

"The surprising ones are the seventh-graders, because they haven't heard us," Sherrill said. "They really don't understand teachers have talents, too—they have talents other than teaching.

"The eighth- and ninth-graders say, 'When are you going to do the Greaseballs again?' The kids always like it. They never say, 'Oh no, not these guys again.'"

"It's a lot of fun, and that's the only reason we do it."

Stachurski agrees.

"I think it's the universal urge to sing. We're probably living a certain fantasy doing this because it's a lot of fun to sing," he said. "We have fun and the kids seem to enjoy it just as much, so everyone benefits."

But he admits there have been some negative reactions from students who really would rather not have their parents at a dance.

"I don't know how much backlash we're going to get from the kids for having the nerve to ask their parents," he said. "Maybe we'll have a dance full of parents and a bunch of junior high kids home watching TV and pouting."

His hope is, however, that the gymnasium will be filled with adults remembering the way it was and students enjoying a gathering of adults and teens—while the Greaseballs present their repertoire of about 40 songs from the late '50s and early '60s.

"We all carry around so much excess social baggage," Stachurski said. "But if you throw things to the wind and have some fun..."

$6,000 raised

The building fund for rest rooms at Depot Theatre swelled by $6,000 thanks to the Clarkston Village Players' benefit auction April 13.

"It will give us about $10,000 total in our building fund. It's enough to get things rolling, and we're going to do a lot of the work ourselves," said Linda Porter, Village Players' president.

"We're going to take it as far as we can this summer and then kind of beg, borrow and steal to get enough to finish the project."

The event was such a success the Village Players are considering making an auction an annual event.

"I haven't heard one bad thing about it," Porter said. "Everyone who came just had a super time. It was really fun."

About 120 people attended the auction at the Deer Lake Racquet Club.

Porter said she expects the rest rooms at the Depot Theatre on White Lake Road to be completed for the upcoming 24th season.

They've been performing plays at the theater without indoor plumbing for 18 years.

Dennis Colwell, the Village Players' house chairman, is overseeing the project.

Jaycee officers for '84

The Clarkston-area Jaycees have elected new officers for the 1984-85 year.

Chairman is Bob Vollbach of Holly Township.

President is Brian Bissell of Sunnydale Drive, Independence Township.

Jim Falardeau, of Phelan Drive, Independence Township, is vice president of Ways and Means.

Tom Lowrie of Waterford Township is vice president of external affairs.

Delbert Breeding of Maybee Road, Independence Township, is chaplain.

And Treasurer is Bruce Harley.

They'll serve one-year terms.

teacher Tony Stachurski and counselor Larry Sherrill.

Reformed alcoholic to talk substance abuse

By Kathy Greenfield

When alcoholism therapist Sue Leonard talks about substance abuse, she speaks with first-hand knowledge.

Now working in the Insight Program at the Colombiere Center in Springfield Township, when she began her career in substance abuse treatment 10 years ago, she was a recovering alcoholic, the child of an alcoholic and, at that time, the spouse of an alcoholic.

Leonard, who is also the mother of two teenagers, will present a program on substance abuse for parents and students at the Clarkston High School Little Theatre on Tuesday, May 1, at 7:30 p.m.

Admission is free. It's sponsored by the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee, a group devoted to the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

As an alcohol therapist at Insight, Leonard works with persons age 17 and up.

But she strongly believes in prevention and gives lectures high schools and church groups to fulfill that need.

"Substance abuse among adolescents is epidemic at this point and Clarkston is no exception to this rule," she said. "Kids don't drink socially. They drink to get high. They take drugs to get high. And it's killing them."

Among topics she plans to cover Tuesday night are the disease progression of alcoholism, the addiction progression of marijuana and Tough Love, a method of handling adolescents with problems.

"No one wants to believe their child is abusing or using drugs," she said. "For that matter, probably the most paradoxical attitude is that it's OK if they

"No one wants to believe their child is abusing or using drugs . . ."

—Sue Leonard

drink, and the addiction to alcohol is both physical and psychological. The other types of drugs are basically psychological-type addition. Combining drugs, as kids often do, is very often lethal."

Because they aren't fully developed, teens can become alcoholics in half the time it would take an adult, according to Leonard.

"It's a joke to the kids. They think they're indestructible," she said. "All the newspaper articles and pictures, that doesn't scare them. All the friends they they lose, that doesn't scare them."

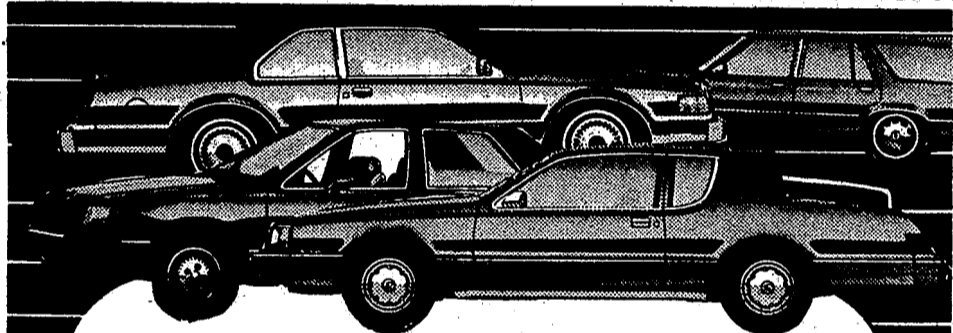

"The parents aren't getting the message either. Ignorance is bliss I guess with the parents—what I don't know won't hurt me."

But it doesn't have to be that way, she said. Parents armed with knowledge and the ability to recognize signs of trouble can make a difference.

While the Insight program at Colombiere does not handle those under age 17, they do answer calls from people with questions and serve as a referral service. The number is 625-0400.

Sue Leonard, an alcohol therapist with the insight at the Colombiere Center, is to conduct a substance abuse program for parents and students at Clarkston High School, May 1.

Poetry place

HANNAH
By Kim Ward

Well, once again it's here
my happy, sad time of year and yes, once again
this time draws my tears.

The years now number six well, han, where have they gone?
from crawling to now walking to school at the dawn---

First grade is upon us with so much more to come
it's been "my" pleasure
no regrets, honey, not one.

I see in your eyes now that "young lady" look how i prayed i might stop that no matter what it took.

I see that i was wrong
there'll be no changing this here comes my special "young lady" goodbye to the baby i'll sure miss.

So Happy Birthday little sweetheart
Today you're six years old i'm sure when he made you--- our maker broke the mold.

All my love,
Mommy

DAINTY LITTLE DANDELION

Dainty little dandelion,
Dancing down the street—
Your seeds blown in every corner,
Even 'round my feet.

I know the children like you most (Maybe 'cause you're free)
But please don't rest on my new lawn.
This is my decree!

She earns scout Gold Award

By Kathy Greenfield

Sandy Ross is the first-ever Girl Scout Gold Award winner in the Clarkston area, and she'll be among the first four girls ever to receive the award at the Northern Oakland County Girl Scout Council annual council meeting May 2.

"I'm happy," said Sandy, a Clarkston High School 10th-grader. "It was hard work, but it was worth it."

The award is highest achievement in Girl Scouting, comparable to the Boy Scout Eagle Award.

It was introduced in 1980, and shortly thereafter Sandy began working toward the goal of winning the gold sunburst-style pin for herself.

The requirements included 25 hours of paid work experience, 25 hours of leadership experience, an interest project and a challenge project.

Sandy's challenge project involved taping two complete seventh-grade textbooks, in American history and science, for the Bath Community School District.

She found out about the need for the tapes through a neighbor whose daughter is a teacher there.

"It's for kids who can read, but they read slowly," said Sandy. "Each chapter was about one-half tape long, about 45 minutes. I did about eight science and 10 history. It takes a long time because you have to read slowly."

In a letter to the Girl Scout office, teacher Cindy Langdon said this about Sandy's work: "The value of her efforts will prove invaluable to my students. I can't be strong enough in praise of Sandy's efforts. She has provided a service and product that will prove beneficial for years to come."

To fulfill the other requirements, Sandy worked as a day camp counselor for Pontiac PAL; has been patrol leader and vice president of her Explorers group and an officer in Job's Daughters; and learned CPR, first aid and some automobile maintenance.

An A-average student at CHS, Sandy would like to become a lawyer.

Active in Girl Scouting since third grade, she's a member of Troop 242.

"It's interesting. We learn new things. We meet new people. We have fun," she said.

Independence Township resident Sandy Ross worked one-and-one-half years to fulfill the requirements of the Gold Award, the highest achievement in Girl Scouting.

Schools honored

Six Clarkston schools received certificates of achievement signed by Gov. James Blanchard, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Phillip E. Runkel and Dr. Gumecindo Salas, president of the Michigan State Board of Education.

Recognized for outstanding performance on the state board of education's annual reading and math assessment tests were the district's five elementary schools—Andersonville, Bailey Lake, Clarkston, North Sashabaw and Pine Knob—and Clarkston Junior High School.

Seventy-five percent of the pupils in each school passed the tests administered annually in September and October.

Statewide 1,511 schools received certificates, or nearly half of the 3,241 public elementary, middle and junior high schools and high schools in Michigan.

Doors

unravel mysteries

by Susan Basinger

Handsome doorways are a universal sign of welcome, hospitality and status.

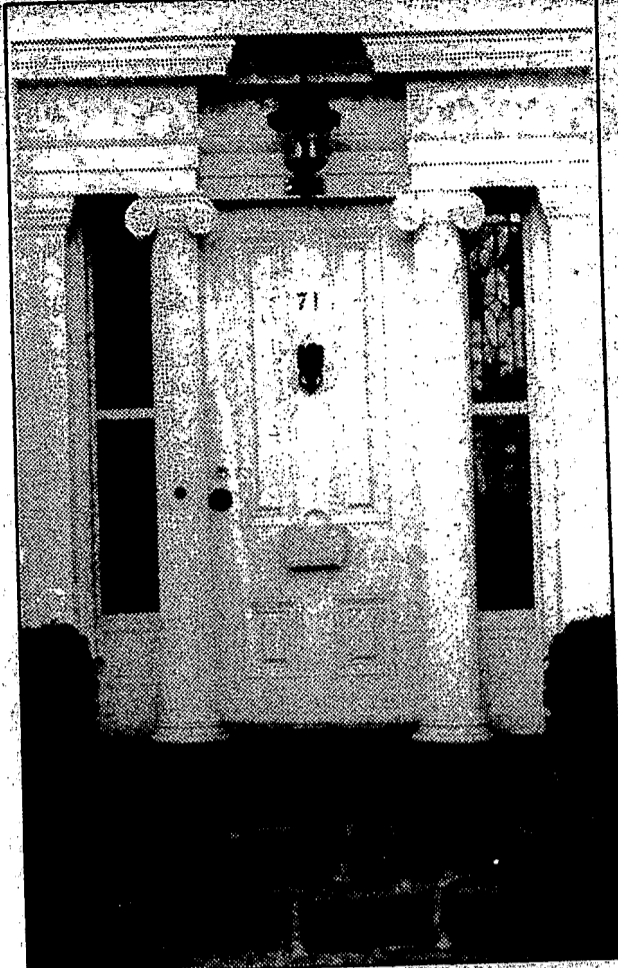

The 19th century phrase "fine men build fine houses" might well have been concluded "and fine houses have fine doorways."

In the last article, we discussed the significance and charm of doors and their surroundings and accoutrements, but what about more practical issues? What can a door tell us about a structure?

Like original windows, original solid wood doors are rare. Those which do survive can provide clues to the style and age of a structure.

Early American "Colonial" buildings were simple timber forms with simple doors of vertical boards to match, the only embellishment being the wrought iron strap hinges and thumb latch.

These plank doors were seen in rural areas on simple structures long after the 17th century, and better constructed varieties were often used on 20th century Tudor Revival style houses, harking back to their English prototypes.

Doors with panels and windows were the next evolutionary step and the Eastern Georgian and Federal styles used both successfully for interior as well as exterior doors, with the six and eight panel doors being the most common.

Buffalo Street: The single panel door appears on many local Greek Revival houses.

North Main Street: Pairs of doors like these are typical of Italianate (circa 1840-1880) and Mansard (circa 1860-1890).

The six panel door was also common to the Greek Revival style (circa 1820-1860), especially on the more grand examples of the style, but in Michigan and the Western Reserve areas two panel (two vertical panels) and single panel interior and exterior doors were more common.

Some fine examples of those styles have survived in the Clarkston area.

Panels, whether raised or recessed, remained a common feature on other 19th century styles, but the proportion of the door changed with Gothic and Italianate architecture.

The door, or pairs of doors as was typical with the Italian Revival style, became taller and more slender, matching the proportions of the structure and its other features, like windows.

It is difficult to generalize about later "Victorian" doors, especially those seen on Queen Anne style houses where late 19th century technology and the increased availability of pattern books brought a rich architectural heritage to the owner, and builder or architect.

Technology and craftsmanship combined to produce a wide variety of designs with a seemingly infinite number of details.

The choice of stained glass, leaded or beveled glass and wooden wreaths, sunbursts or garlands allowed the builder to satisfy his whims.

Twentieth century revival styles, Tudor, Georgian and Federal among them, brought revivals of early doorway designs.

The real trend, however, of the 20th century was replacement of the solid wood door. Today, molded plastic doors, steel-clad security doors or glass door walls are the rule.

Perhaps even the original solid wood door on your home has been replaced by a "modern" form.

How can you replace the replacement? Unlike window sashes which rarely survive intact, period wood doors abound at architectural reclamation shops like Materials Unlimited in Ypsilanti.

Authentic reproductions of period doors are also available from new millworks established to answer the demand for vernacular American architectural elements brought on by the increased appreciation for our own design heritage. (See the "Old House Journal" in the Independence Township Library for sources.)

A number of local mills are also capable of producing custom doors and windows to fit existing openings.

Combination wooden storm-screen doors are also being produced. The Old Wagon Factory in Clarksville, Va., advertises Chippendale and Victorian styles of Douglas fir. For a catalog send $1 to Box 1085, Dept. CH 3, Clarksville, VA 23927.

The Independence Township Library has an excellent collection of books which can help identify the appropriate door for your structure as well as tell you how to repair and maintain it:

"The Shingle and Stick Style" by Vincent Scully Jr.

"Sweetness and Light: the Queen Anne: Movement 1860-1900" by Mark Girouard.

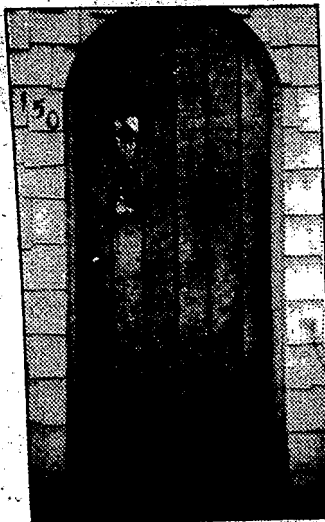

"Craftsman Homes: Architecture and Furnishings of the American Arts and Crafts Movement" by Gustav Stickley.

"Victorian Architectural Details" by Marcus Fayette Cummings.

"Preserving and Maintaining the Older Home" by Shirley Hanson and Nancy Hubby.

North Main Street: The leaded glass with a single wood panel below combines two elements used for doors of Queen Anne style houses (circa 1880-1890).

North Holcomb Street: Reminiscent of the Tudor Revival style, this harkens back to doors from the earliest American structures.

For one night only on Thursday, May 3, a Mini Builders Show is planned by the North Oakland County Builders Association (NOCBA).

From 5:30 to 10:30, 30 exhibits at the Deer Lake Racquet Club will feature the latest in energy saving devices designed for those remodeling homes as well as new builders. Land developers with building sites for sale will also be represented.

"This is something new for us. We've never tried before to put on a builders' show," said Wayne Zilka, NOCBA secretary.

"We're trying to get everything that's involved—lumber companies, window companies, cabinet companies, plumbing fixtures. Anything that's new in energy we're trying to have."

Admission to the show is $2. The price includes one drink a person and snack trays. A cash bar will be available.

The Deer Lake Racquet Club is located at 6167 White Lake, Independence Township. For reservations call Carl Tuggle at 681-6510.

White Cane Week

The Clarkston Lions Club wants your support during 1984 White Cane Week, April 27 through May 5.

They'll be seeking donations for the symbolic white cane that can be pinned on collars or lapels.

The money is used to assist the needy by buying eyeglasses, purchasing white canes for the blind, training Leader Dogs and assisting in obtaining cornea transplants.

The club also wants to know of any person who might need their help. Such information may be sent to: Clarkston Lions Club, P.O. Box 460, Clarkston, MI 48016.

2 groups seek funds

The Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Cancer Society will be out in Independence Township this April and May—the first collecting funds and the second distributing information.

•The American Cancer Society will be crusading against cancer for four weeks, beginning April 28, offering life-saving information and accepting donations.

•The VFW Poppy Sale is scheduled May 17 and 18. Funding goes to the VFW families.

The Independence Township Board unanimously approved the solicitations at its April 17 meeting.

TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE

ORDINANCE NO. 80 - AS AMENDED

CHAPTER 4

ARTICLE II SPEED EXHIBITIONS

SECTION 4-16 DEFINITIONS

dB means noise level in decibels determined by the A-weighting of a sound meter.

DECIBEL (dB) means a unit for measuring the volume of a sound, equal to 20 times the logarithm to the base 10 of the ratio of the pressure of the sound measured to the reference pressure, which is 20 micropascals.

L-1 means the statistical noise level standard which permits the stated maximum noise level to be exceeded one (1%) percent of the time during the measurement period.

MEASUREMENT STANDARD means the method and standard for determining compliance with the maximum noise level regulations of this Article. One or more noise measurements shall be taken, each with a measurement period of no less than 200 seconds, using an L-1 standard. Notwithstanding the application of the L-1 standard, during the one (1%) percent period in which the stated maximum may be exceeded, the noise level shall not exceed the stated maximum noise level by more than 5 dBA.

NOISE LEVEL means weighted sound pressure level measured by the use of a metering characteristic with an "A" frequency weighting network and reported as dBA.

SPEED EXHIBITION means any time, speed or distance competition by one or more motor vehicles.

SECTION 4-17 DURATION OF OPERATION

(a) Hours of Operation.

The licensee shall not permit the licensed premises to be utilized for or in connection with speed exhibition purposes at any time other than the following:

(1) Spectators shall be permitted to enter and remain on the premises only between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. on weekends, and, 11:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. on weekdays.

(2) Speed exhibitions shall be permitted between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. on weekends, and, 12 noon and 4 p.m. on weekdays.

(3) Regulations applicable to hours of operation on weekends shall govern activities conducted on weekday holidays on which speed exhibitions are authorized under this Article.

(b) Days of Operation.

(1) A speed exhibition shall be conducted no more frequently than the following:

(i) Weekends: On two weekends during a four weekend month and on three weekends during a five weekend month.

(ii) Holiday Weekdays: On one holiday weekday in any one calendar year.

(2) A speed exhibition which shall not involve competition of or between two or more vehicles concurrently on the track shall be permitted on the equivalent of one-half of the calendar weekdays available in any season, provided, however, not more than on three days during any one calendar week.

(c) Advanced Notice of Scheduling: At least one month in advance with respect to weekend (including holiday weekday) activities, and one week in advance with respect to weekday activities, the licensee shall provide, by mail or personal delivery, notice of the scheduling of speed exhibitions to be conducted. Such notice shall be sent to the Township Clerk, and to all property owners within a one-half mile radius of the licensed premises who, on an annual basis, have registered with the licensee to receive such notice.

(d) Camping: If participants are permitted under local ordinance and state law to camp or otherwise remain on licensee's property during times not otherwise permitted by the hours of operation regulations of this Article, the following regulations shall apply:

(1) Proper sanitary facilities shall be provided, including, but not limited to, bathroom facilities and solid waste disposal.

(2) A quiet time shall be established from 10 p.m. to 8 a.m. during which no music or other sounds shall be permitted which unreasonably interfere with any adjoining resident.

SECTION 4-18 MAXIMUM NOISE LEVELS

The maximum noise level from speed exhibitions, including, without limitations, spectators, loud speakers, amplifiers and other sound equipment, and motor vehicles, shall not exceed the following dBA levels, as measured at any point on the property line of the licensed premises and applying the "measurement standard":

(a) The level of 75 dBA measured adjacent to any residential, educational, research, office or commercial use.
(b) The level of 80 dBA measured adjacent to any light industrial or industrial use.

(c) Existing Facilities: notwithstanding the provisions specified in subsections (a) and (b), above, if a speed exhibition facility has been previously licensed for more than five years, maximum noise levels shall be deemed to be increased 15 dBA in 1984, 10 dBA in 1985, and 5 dBA in 1986. No increase in maximum noise levels shall be permitted subsequent to 1986 unless the licensee clearly demonstrates to the Township Board, in advance, that taking into consideration the opportunity to plan and construct physical features and noise barriers, and to plan for and orient drivers for reduced maximum noise levels, the applicable maximum noise level cannot be met.

strates to the Township Board, in advance, that taking into consideration the opportunity to plan and construct physical features and noise barriers, and to plan for and orient drivers for reduced maximum noise levels, the applicable maximum noise level cannot be met.

SECTION 4-37 FEES

(a) Fee for Licensure. (No change.)

(b) Fee for Monitoring. In the event the Township receives a written and signed complaint from any person alleging that a licensee is violating the requirements of this Article, and the Township Board, or the Township Supervisor, determines to monitor such licensee in response to such complaint, the licensee shall upon demand pay a monitoring fee in an amount not to exceed the actual costs and expenses incurred for the monitoring. The test result data obtained by such monitoring shall be made available to licensee upon request.

SECTION 4-39 RENEWAL

Within 30 days prior to expiration, or thereafter, the license of a licensee who has been licensed within the immediately preceding one year may be renewed, provided that there are no material changes of facts or circumstances relating to the conducting of the speed exhibition from the time of issuance or last renewal of the license. Renewal shall be subject to and in accordance with the following:

(a) The applicant for renewal shall submit to the Director of the Department of Building and Planning the following:

(1) The licensure fee.

(2) Request for renewal of the license, specifying any and all modifications in the operation and/or physical facility from the time of the immediately preceding licensure as regards the information required under Section 4-32.

(3) Proof that the required public liability insurance and surety bond are and will be in full force and effect for the licensure period.

(4) A request for inspection by the fire marshal, local police or sheriff, Township Building Department and County Health Department.

(b) The Director of Building and Planning shall transmit copies of the request for inspection to the fire marshal, local police or sheriff, and to the County Health Department, and shall cause an inspection to be undertaken by the Building Department.

(c) If corrections or other actions must be taken by the applicant as a condition to securing approval in connection with one or more of such inspections, the Director shall cause written notice of such fact to be transmitted to the applicant.

(d) If the applicant has made all submissions required under this Section, and has obtained approvals with respect to all required inspections, the Director of Building and Planning shall issue the renewal license for the same period of time, and under the same terms and conditions, as the previous license.

(e) In the event the applicant desires modifications in the permit, the application shall so specify. The matter of the proposed modifications shall be submitted to the Township Board for consideration, and the Township Board may either grant the modifications, grant the modifications with conditions, or deny the modifications. If the Township Board shall impose conditions, or deny the modifications, the reasons for such action shall be stated in writing.

All Sections expressly addressed shall supersede former Sections.

New 'Teacher of the Month'

Students at Clarkston High School think Spanish teacher Cheryl Seelbinder is special enough to be the second recipient of the "Teacher of the Month Award."

"I consider it an honor," the 24-year-old said. "There are so many good teachers I would think it would be hard to select one."

"And it makes me feel good. There are really some super kids out there."

The student body makes nominations for teacher of the month, with final selection left to the National Honor Society.

Seelbinder landed her teaching job two years ago right out of college, and moved with her family from Troy to Clarkston.

"I had a couple of other offers, but I took this one because they were the first, and because I really liked the area," she said, adding with a smile, "I just got tenure."

She teaches six classes, Spanish one through four, and while current trends show schools suffering low enrollment in foreign language classes, Seelbinder's numbers are up.

"The counts are up, and they're going to go up again next year," she said.

What is it about her the kids like?

"I don't know," she said matter-of-factly. "It could be my youth. I'm involved in a lot of after-school things like chaperoning the dances. I had the pom-pon, I'm working track after school. That could be it."

27 CHS seniors honored for fitness

The President's Academic Fitness Award has been announced and 27 seniors at Clarkston High School will receive the honor.

The award was implemented by President Reagan to recognize academic achievement.

"This is the first year for it," said CHS principal Dom Mauti. "We got the information from Washington, D.C., and thought it was a good idea. We've got students here who have worked hard for it. They should be recognized."

To qualify for the award, the seniors must have a 3.3 grade point average; be in the top 20 percent on any nationally recognized standard achievement test or college admissions examination, SAT or ACT; and have completed by graduation at least 12 high school or higher level courses in the "New Basics" including English, math, science, social studies, foreign languages and computer science.

Still time for award nominations

There's still time to recognize those who contribute their skills to make Clarkston a better place to live—and thank them publicly for jobs well done.

May 1 is the deadline for making nominations for Community Awards, sponsored by the Clarkston Area Jaycees and the North Oakland Civitans.

Those chosen as winners in the seven categories will be presented with plaques at the sixth annual Community Awards Dinner, May 18 at the Deer Lake Racquet Club.

Everyone nominated will receive a certificate of recognition.

TV-Channel 7's Erik Smith is scheduled to speak at the dinner, with Tom Ritter serving as emcee. Ritter is a Republican candidate for the United States Congress, 6th District.

The dinner costs $15 a person, and tickets will be available at the Independence Township Library.

Those wishing to make nominations for the awards can pick up forms at the library, 6495 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

Nominations may be made in the following categories: outstanding Clarkston or Independence Township government official; outstanding Clarkston educator; outstanding young citizen, age 18 or younger; "Super Person" Award for an extra special effort in the area of good citizenship; outstanding contributor to the creative arts, distinguished service award in three categories—citizen, group or project; and outstanding volunteer.

For more information call Library Director James Hibler at 625-2212.

Volunteers wanted

Volunteers are wanted to work at the annual Independence Township Friends of the Library Book Sale May 3-5 at the Clarkston Mills Mall.

Donations of used books are also needed. They may be hard cover or paperback.

The sale begins at 10 a.m. each day and lasts until 6 p.m. Thursday, 9 p.m. Friday and 4 p.m. Saturday. The mall is located at 20 W. Washington, Clarkston.

For more information on the sale call the library at 625-2212. To volunteer to work call Chris Shull, Friends president, at 625-3250.

Jackie Roberts wins first runner-up in Michigan U.S. Teen Pageant

Jackie Roberts was named first runner-up in the Michigan U.S. Teen Pageant, April 14, from a field of 84 contestants. A 10th-grader at Clarkston High School, Jackie lives on Waterford Road in Independence Township.

By Kathy Greenfield
 Twelve Michigan U.S. Teen Pageant hopefuls stood on stage. The fourth runner-up was named...then the third and second.
 Jackie Roberts remembers the moment at the Plymouth Hilton Hotel April 14.
 "That part of the pageant was just...I thought I was going to have a heart attack because I couldn't breathe. I was so happy I made finalist," she said. "When they said my name for first runner-up, I burst into tears I was so happy."
 There were 84 contestants, and "I overheard there were 600 applicants," Jackie said.
 She now owns a silver tray engraved on the back with her title—something she said she'll keep forever. "The experience was a fun experience," she said. "It's very rare you get an experience that turns out for the best. Usually there's something bad, but there wasn't."

 Jackie would like to pursue a career in music and modeling. She plays the trumpet in the CHS Symphonic Band, is the only female member of the CHS Jazz Band, and gave up softball to appear in the CHS musical "Brigadoon."
 She has modeled for a photographers' class and is working with a photographer on a portfolio.
 At 5-foot-4, she worries about her height.
 "I have my parents measure me at least every month," she said.
 But one of the judges at the Michigan U.S. Teen Pageant is the vice president of a modeling agency. She gave Jackie her business card and told her to call.
 "Hopefully this will get me started toward modeling," she said.

TO PEOPLE I Might have missed: Perhaps you sent a lovely card, or sat quietly in a chair. Perhaps you sent a funeral spray, If so we saw it there. Perhaps you spoke the kindest words. As any friend could say; Perhaps you were not there at all, Just thought of us that day, Whatever you did to console our hearts, We thank you so much whatever the part. Exploring a world of difference

17-year-old West Berliner spends a year at Clarkston High School

By Marilyn Trumper

In the dark of night between Aug. 12 and 13 of 1961, the communist government of East Germany erected a wall splitting the city of Berlin into communist east and free west factions.

Norbert Schaar was 6 years old then.

He had yet to start school in his West Berlin neighborhood.

Unable then to understand the impact West Berlin's oasis of freedom would have on the rest of the world, today at the age of 17 he's well versed on that and a list of political issues, sharing his culture with classmates at Clarkston High School where he's been as an exchange student since last fall.

'... Isle of Freedom'

West Berlin, a city the size of Detroit and teeming with 2 million people, is surrounded by communist East Germany.

"There are three ways to leave into (free) West Germany," Norbert said. "The train, air or three major streets."

"People in East Berlin or East Germany can visit people in the west but it's almost impossible. Only if they write a letter to the government and ask permission. There are only 21 days in a year you can go over. And for a man you must be 65 and for a woman, 60. And you can come over only on certain occasions, like a wedding. And then only the brother or family member can come, not the rest of the family, so they can be sure you will go back," Norbert said.

"Many times a year people try to escape from East Germany to the west. A small percentage come over. Either they are shot at the border, the most fortified border in the world, with two walls, several fences, mine fields, guards with dogs, towers with soldiers and patrols."

"You can't even walk (within) two miles of the border."

He's reserved for 17, sitting stiff-backed on the couch, hands clasped in his lap, speaking with self-assured English learned in four years of schooling.

Norbert recalls a cousin who attempted escape from Bulgaria, part of the communist block, into Turkey. He was captured and sent to an East German prison because that is his citizenship.

"He spent three months in prison as a political prisoner and said the conditions were what is seen in Nazi prison movies. He was sold to West Germany. West Germany buys political prisoners for a certain amount of money, western currency, which the East Germans want. He lives with us now."

"On visits to the east, it's expensive. Each member of the family must exchange a certain amount of currency, $12, at a one-to-one ratio. Trading one eastern mark for one West German mark. But the problem is one West German mark is worth four East German marks."

"And if you don't spend it all—you have to leave it there. The East German government wants our money. So we leave it with relatives. Plus, you buy gifts for relatives. They always want something because of the shortages."

Norbert recalls an East German family that picked up West Berlin television advertising diced pineapple instead of the sliced.

"They saw it on TV and see it's the real best," he laughed.

German schools differ from Clarkston High School, he said.

"We have three split schools. Everyone goes from first through sixth grade together. After sixth grade your teacher determines which kind of high school. Seventh to 10th grade is about the same as here, with highest, middle and lower. Sixty to 70 percent of the kids go to the middle, 20 percent to the highest, and the rest, those who do not like education, to the lower."

"Some have a vocational schooling and are apprenticed to a company. For others it's college prep

Exchange student Norbert Schaar, 17, arrived from West Berlin to the Grattan home last August. He's scheduled to return in July after a year at Clarkston High School. He's so versed where you choose certain subjects you like We also go to school on Saturday.

"College is free. Well it's not free, it's paid for by taxes. Nothing is free. But to study medicine you must have a grade point average of 3.9 to 4.0. It is very tough," he said.

Norbert attends the highest high school, and wants to be a history/political science teacher, easily recalling his country's history

"In 1961, people heard talk about building a wall—and published it. The president of East Germany said no one was intending to (build) a wall. But on Aug. 12 and 13, in night action, they built the wall."

"There are still ties between the west and east Berlins with family and friends, people who lost their working place. Until 1971 there wasn't contact between west and east Berlin."

"(The free) West Berlin is a status symbol. It used to be our nation's capital and people hope that one day we will be whole again."

"But we never will be," Norbert said. "Both Germanys belong to different defense blocks. People live farther and farther apart. Those that stay are those born there."

According to Norbert, young people are the first to leave free West Berlin because of its confinements. Faced with the city's dwindling numbers, the government offers incentive to stay or relocate.

"A lot of people come here to work because we have jobs, not like West Germany with its high unemployment. Also, the government gives money for a tax reduction, extra pay, for living in Berlin, and money for each child (born) there."

Fifty percent of what a West German earns each year is used to subsidize West Berliners, he said.

"We are called the 'Isle of Freedom' within communist East Germany," Norbert said. "And many East Germans don't like us."

Norbert's father, a native West Berliner, holds a police officer's job and will not move because under the state's contract, he must find another police officer from West Germany to take his place.

"I don't think I will leave either," Norbert said. "I don't really feel I have limitations, although it is crowded with 2 million people. But we have forests and lake areas. There are those who say it is a risky place to live. In 1945 after the war, four allies agreed to stay in Berlin for 50 years. In 1995 nobody knows what will happen."

"I don't know they won't agree to let (East Germany) have Berlin."

Norbert sees differences between German and American youth.

"I like one kind of (high) school. I like that better. At home they make a big difference between education and make the kids who go to higher high school feel better than the others—even though we don't feel it," he said.

"The kids here have the same classes with friends since second grade."

But U.S. schools have some shortfalls, he says. "Too many here don't know history, government, a language. We take more classes and have a deeper understanding of the subject. We get a broader view, then go into the field. I take five classes here. At home I take 12, but don't meet every day."

"And here I study more to understand what I'm reading. My mom helps me."

His year in the states was an adventure for the palate.

"You have fast foods here. We have that hardly. We have our main meal at noon. Here it's night. We are more formal and taught how to treat older people."

Norbert remembers a scene on a Detroit bus. "An older lady wanted a seat and some people gave her not a nice response. At home you would stand up for the old lady."

There were a few misconceptions about America. "We get American TV but they put in German. I thought school here was like the show 'Welcome Back Kotter'."

"And that everyone is rich like 'Dynasty' and 'Dallas.' I didn't know there was a middle class."

Norbert's a member of the Edward and Betsy Grattan family on Maceday Lake Road, Waterford Township. Over Easter, they'll be traveling to Florida. "It will be nice to drive and drive without coming to a border and checkpoints," he said.
