Principal reassigned

By Kathy Greenfield

Following action by the Clarkston board of ducation Thursday, John Reabe is no longer principal of Pine Knob Elementary school.

On Monday morning, George White became acting principal of the school, moving from his assistant principal post at Sashabaw Junior High School.

Reabe has been reassigned to Superintendent Milford Mason for the remainder of the school year.

Following the board of education's instructions, he met with Mason Monday morning. On Tuesday, he was sorting and inventorying teaching materials at Andersonville Elementary School.

An employe of the Clarkston school district 28 years, the first four years as a teacher and 24 years as a principal, Reabe's administrative contract will be renewed for the 1984-85 school year.

The school board voted 5-0 to reassign Reabe and to direct the administration to prepare a plan of improvement for Reabe, with input from him.

Voting to approve the motion were Janet Thomas, Mary Jane Chaustowich, Vincent Luzi, Carolyn Place and Elaine Schultz, Stephen Werner and David Kithil were absent.

Before the vote, board president Thomas read a

He was among 101 seventh- and eighth-graders. from SJHS who look the test in Februrary. On Monday he received a certificate of merit forsuperior achievement, one of 30 awarded to seventh-graders statewide by the Michigan Mathematics League. His score of 32 out of 40 placed him 24th. Steve was surprised. "I didn't which was going to do that good?" he said. "I was guessing on a lot of them. I guess I got some of them right." statement that summarized the board's action that began in March when Reabe was notified nonrenewal of his adminstrative contract was under consideration, allowing the 30 days required by state law for Reabe to request a hearing with the board.

The hearing, which Reabe requested be closed to the public, was held April 16.

On Thursday, the board's lack of action on the contract meant automatic renewal. The plan of action it took, however, is unprecedented in the school

The statement Thomas read included the follow-

"...it is the opinion of this board that the concerns and problems expressed April 16 are serious and indications are that staff/principal relations are severely strained (at Pine Knob Elementary).

... as an immediate action to help alleviate the stressful situation and improve the educational environment at Pine Knob, we should direct Mr. Reabe to be reassigned the balance of the 83-84 school year."

No other board members commented. After the vote, Reabe said, "I don't feel I had a [Continued on Page 2]

Fire budget still debated

By Marilyn Trumper

Despite Independence Township Supervisor James B. Smith's direction to submit a list of proposed purchases and projects, Fire Chief Frank Ronk says he'll make individual requests.

'I've given them list after list after list. I'm tired of giving them lists," Ronk said.

His comments came a week after the highly publicized heated meeting where firefighters and some members of the board argued over an almost $1 million fire surplus, and firefighters opposed the Smith administration's record of saving.

"I'm going to give them each thing as it comes along, and the first is to get bids on the new rescue vehicles. I'm getting the specs done now and should have them by the end of this month," Ronk said.

"I can't buy the engines until I've got something to put them in, so the stations will be the next thing."

The board budgeted $100,000 in January for three rescue trucks. It takes approximately two years before delivery, according to Ronk.

In early January, the board also appointed the supervisor, clerk, treasurer and fire chief to investigate sites for a new fire station, budgeting $300,000 in the 1984-85 budget for building. The team has yet to meet.

"First there's the business of this muchpublicized $1 million fund," said Supervisor James B. Smith: "The fire department has only one payday—and that was last December: The next one's not until next December. (The chief's) got to pay for the department operations with that money and we've figured out that over a period of a year, (operations) will take 60 percent of the year's budget."

NO FISH, BUT ...: The weather cooperates during spring break from school last week-for a while—and Matt Rouse takes advantage of the warmth by going fishing at Spring Lake off Maybee Road. "It's not that good because it's too early in the year," says the two year veteran fisher about his luck. But Matt and his friend did haul in a catch. See Page 22. [Photo by Kathy Greenfield]

New homes

Subdivision first in 2 years

The proposed 14-home Waldon Glenn Subdivision at Waldon and Walters roads is "...the first new iat i ve seen in two years, says independence Township planner Richard Carlisle.

Developer Mike Hofer, owner of Welcome Homes, proposes the subdivision on 10 acres north of Waldon, east of Walters Lake, zoned single family residential.

"We're excited about being the first," Hofer said. "We feel it's the right time to start and hope we can continue with it:

"We're planning a second subdivision for next spring, 44 lots also on Waldon Road, between the orchards and Eastlawn. Of course that could change if interest rates continue to go up.

"It's nice to be able to offer the people in the market something.

Hoter is scheduled before the Independence Township Planning Commission May 10 for preliminary plat approval. The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. in Independence Township Hall, 90 Ne Main,

Crash takes life

Police theorize a Springfield Township man lost control of his Honda motorcycle and died when he failed to make the Pontiac Lake Road curve at Williams Lake Road in Waterford Township.

Dead is 36-year-old Raymond L. Ditch.

It's believed Ditch was dead over 10 hours before passersby spotted his body and motorcycle floating in a nearby pond at 11:30 a.m., Saturday, April 28, according to Lt. Richard Dorrance of the Waterford Township Police Department.

Police believe Ditch hit trees before hurdling a ditch and landing in the pond. Preliminary reports from the medical examiner show he died of head injuries, not drowning, Dorrance said.

Following the meeting, Reabe declined to comment further.

On Monday, George White reported for work as

Smith backs no-spend policy

In addition, Smith says approximately $200,000 of the $950,000 surplus is invested.

"I don't think the firefighters understand the board's position," he said. "It isn't building a milliondollar kitty, as politically attractive as that might be.

Want ads work!

"Cancel my ad," John cried. He had received 150 calls for a "For Rent" want ad in The Clarkston News, Penny Stretcher, The Ad-Vertiser, Oxford Leader and Lake Orion Review.

the new acting principal at Pine Knob Elementary School.

He said he'll begin his work days at Sashabaw Junior High School, where he's been assistant principal nine years, completing projects like ordering track uniforms and answering questions about students he's worked with. SJHS Principal Gus Birtsas will take over White's other duties for the remainder of the school year.

"I didn't sleep very much last night, just like a new kid going to school," White said. "I'm looking forward to working with the new staff. I've heard some excellent reports about their professionalism."

White has been with the Clarkston school district 16 years, the first seven as a biology teacher at the high school.

His salary will remain the same, for elementary school principals and secondary principals are on the same pay scale.

"They're all talking about a lack of equipment, a lack of maintenance, a lack of anything, but for them the record is very clear. Number one, there has been well over $200,000 spent in new buildings and equipment to date (since the Smith administration took office in 1980)," he said.

"Number two, the chief's request indicates only one item in 1983 and that was a sale not a purchase. Number three, the board has never refused a maintenance request to my knowledge and I think there have been substantial surpluses at the end of each year. All their money has not been used by the department for maintenance of its vehicles.'

Smith denies firefighters' word that the department's deteroiation has reached emergency levels.

"Emergencies have always been responded to. All they have to do is request. We got them new hoses, new beepers...all the way down the line," he said.

Smith talks about deteriorating morale, and says fireworks at the April 17 meeting were from tired firfighters strained by overtime and two hotly contested

"I'm very sorry the firefighters feel that way. I think that a lot of the problem arose from areas where no one had control," he said. "There were four firefighters off with injuries which created an emergency situation. That caused the men to work extra days and in conjunction with that we had the grievances."

On Tuesday the debris was cleared and roof repairs were underway, but Bailey Lake Elementary was closed due to a power outage not caused by the roof damage. High winds—gusting between 60 and 70 mph—blew off the tar and insulation roof over five classrooms and loosened it over five more, but the sub-roof stayed in place. "We were very lucky we didn't have rain last night," said principal Doris Mousseau.

Independence weathers the wind

By Kathy Greenfield

In a 24-hour seige, high winds took their toll Monday, blowing off rooftops on large buildings in Independence and Springfield townships and halting electrical service for many residents.

Due to power outages, school was closed Tuesday for pupils at Andersonville and Bailey Lake elementaries.

Extensive roof repairs—between $15,000 and $16,000 worth—were also underway at Bailey Lake, but if there had been power school would have been in session, said William Dennis, administrative assistant in charge of auxiliary services.

About 4,000 square feet of roof over five classrooms blew off at about 3 p.m. Monday at the school located at 8051 Pine Knob Rd.

"The teachers said it was a real eerie feeling, hearing all that rumbling going on," said principal Doris Mousseau. "The roof...just rolled over and went off the front of the building into the driveway and the yard.'

The children were sent to tornado areas until it could be determined if there was any danger. Because the sub-roof stayed in place it was safe, she said.

The only worry was that it would rain and materials were moved out of classrooms, but the rain didn't come.

"The kids really remained very calm," she said. "Of course I assured them it was not a tornado and they were safe.

"As one little boy said when he left last night, 'Good night, Mrs. Mousseau, and we're all alive.'

Between 10:30 and 11:30 a.m., a large warehouse at Lakeland Builders Supply Co. on Dixie Highway in Springfield Township received extensive damage when two masonry walls were blown down and the metal roof moved forward and collapsed on materials inside.

Co-owner Don Hughes estimated the damage L' between $12,000 and $15,000.

"It was really kind of odd to stand there and see that roof go up three or four feet and see it come down," he said.

On Tuesday morning the debris was being cleared away, and the firm was open for business.

Downed trees and electrical wires kept the Independence Township Fire Department busy, and a tree "crunched in a roof" in a Birdland subdivision home off Maybee Road, but there were no stormrelated injuries, said Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

"It's bad because there were a lot of people without power and still are," he said Tuesday morning. "I guess it's where you're sitting if it's bad."

Gusts of wind, reported at 60 to 70 mph, made cleanup difficult.

'We had times when we were cutting trees off power lines and it would blow you three or four steps across the yard," he said. "You had to be awful careful of flying garbage cans... They were flying like missiles around here."

Three Detroit Edison circuit crews were at work in Independence and Springfield Tuesday and seven additional crews were making sure residents were protected from downed wires, said Paul Potter, community affairs representative.

"Clarkston and Davisburg were very hard hit," he said. "They got more than their fair share of damage for that size area. That area is heavily treed...

While he did not have figures for the number of local addresses without service, Potter offered some Oakland County statistics:

•40,000 customers were without service at times

•On Tuesday 25,000 were still without service, or about 11 percent of the 280,000 customers in the

•About half the circuits in the county were affected.

•24 poles were broken.

•116 wires were downed.

Monday morning Maynard Kizer looked at the over-50-year-old magnolia tree in front of his house on Main Street, Clarkston, and saw the first blossom. An hour later the tree was gone, victim of a 40-foot maple tree that toppled in the wind and stripped its branches.

Lost to the wind is a 75-year-old maple in front of Nancy Haven's Buffalo Street home. Another will be planted, and "it will grow again, but not in my lifetime," she said.

Meetings rescheduled in May

Planning commission has 4 full agendas

By Marilyn Trumper

Unable to reach a quorum for two meetings in April, the Independence Township Planning Commission rescheduled the issues, many of them controversial, to four full agendas for the month of May.

The meetings are scheduled each Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

May 3 •Review of the proposed Planned Unit Development ordinance which allows the township to closely supervise and restrict a development with several types of zoning on the same parcel.

Proposed amendments to the berming and fencing ordinance.

• Review of the safety path master plan outlining 50 miles of of proposed safety path contruction.

May 10 • Request for preliminary site plan approval for W.H. Investments' proposed $2.5 million, 50,000-square-foot retail/shopping mall on M-15,

Golf for SCAMP

Saturday afternoon golfers at the Spring Lake Country Club will help Clarkston SCAMP, the five-week summer camping program for handicapped children and youth from northern Oakland County.

From May through September, the club will donate $2 from every $7 fee for nine holes of golf on Saturday afternoons. The $2 donation is tax deductible.

SCAMP's entire operating budget is supported by local contributions and fund raisers.

Spring Lake is located at 6060 Maybee, Independence Township. For tee time reservations, call 625-6864.

north of Clarkston, on the abandoned Texaco station site.

•Site plan review for Joseph Cook's proposed 8,208-square-foot greenhouse on 13 acres on Holcomb Road. Township ordinance restricts greenhouse size to 1,500 square feet, but allows the use under the residential zoning. Cook must develop the greenhouse under a site plan review.

• Request for preliminary plat approval for Mike Hofer's 14-home subdivision, Waldon Glenn Subdivision, at Waldon and Walters roads. The land is zoned single-family residential.

May 17 • Joint meeting of township and village planning commissions to review developer Frank Walker's request to rezone 7 acres off Deer Lake, on land shared by both municipalities. Walker proposes five units per acre, prohibiting lake rights in the deed restriction. Rezoning is from single family residential to multiple.

•Rezoning request for 78 acres at Clarkston and Eston roads from R1-R, requiring 3-acre minimum lots, to R-1B and R1-C, allowing 1.5- and 1-acre lots. In addition, owners Barcel and Helen Zeunen want 10 acres rezoned commercial. The site is located across the street from Richardson's Farm Dairy.

May 24 • Developer Charles Nunn and Southfield attorney Irving Keene's request to mine 50 acres at Sashabaw and I-75. The pair propose an 18-month sand extraction operation to level the land, making it buildable for a proposed industrial park with a 2,200 foot cul-de-sac.

•Site plan approval request from Burger King Corp. to build a $650,000 restaurant on a 1-acre site next to Ritter's Farm Market, where the Ritters' 120-year-old Italianate home now stands.

Before you panic about the way teen-agers are beginning to dress, consider this:

The massive rebellion that went along with the rumpled look of the flower children in the 1960s doesn't seem to go along with the punk look of the 1980s.

No one's refusing to be drafted, protesting governmental policies, staging sit-ins or marching on Washington.

It can be said that the original Punkers in England are nihilists in the truest sense—they don't care about anything.

But what's happening now seems to have more to do with fun than rebellion.

And as a fashion trend, the style is making a stronghold.

"Can't be!" gasp fans of button-down collars, permanent press, alligators and Docksiders.

Non-believers might want to take a trip to one of middle-American teen-agers' favorite shops—the Super Gap.

A large assortment of punk-style clothing lines walls and racks, and the customers are beginning to look different than last year.

Or visit a high school. The same kids who looked so neat and nice last year haven't changed their personalities, just their choice of clothing.

For more enlightenment, travel to the growing list of punk shops in malls, Birmingham and Royal Oak.

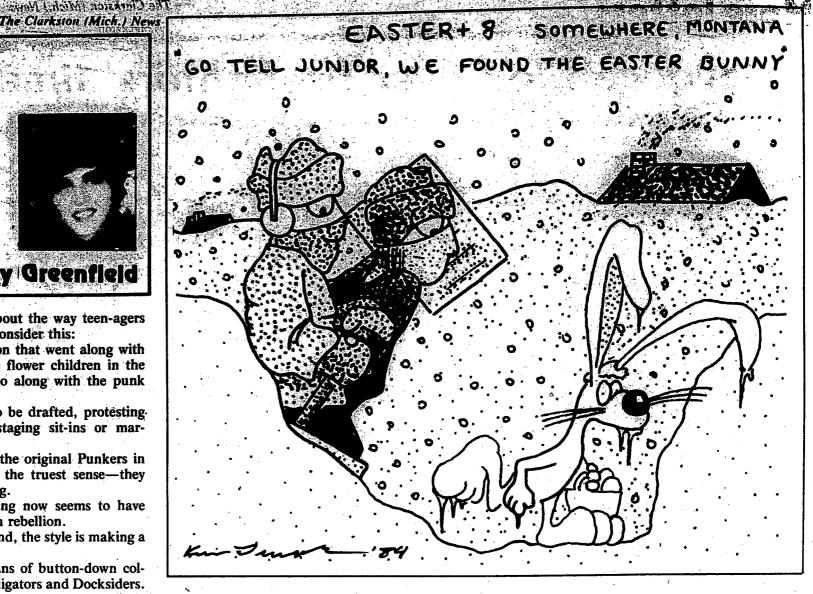

Then glance at some of the pricetags.

Perhaps that's the difference. A rebellion against society cannot include dressing in $50 unpressed, pre-bleached jeans, $6 anklets and $40

Think about it.

Everybody knows of the latest onslaught of lawsuits against bosses on down to neighbors, right?

Well, one of these days I'm going to gear myself in full battle fatigue and shoulder pads and cross that extra five feet at the intersection of Sashabaw Road and Waldon Road and find out what happens.

There's a little white line about a foot wide that stretches from the Standard Gas Co. just past East Waldon Road.

I've always figured that this path was for traveling pedestrians who wanted to turn into the gas staion or onto the road. I don't know about anyone else's experiences, but mine are always the same.

I proceed over the I-75, Waldon overpass and come to a halt as I am cut off by five or six blitzkrieging Jackie Stewarts traveling at warp speeds just to get around someone.

I usually find this very nerve-racking, and don't know what to expect next.

This raises another disturbing questions and that is where do you stop?

From exactly where the stop sign is you cannot see to your left because of all those restaurant

Now if I'm legally correct about this whole absurd situation, I figure that the next time I'm at this intersection I could cash in on a few mill just around

I hope someone can prove me wrong because I really would like to know if it's worth it or not.

I hope this matter can be cleared up before some imaginative deranged person like myself gets any more swift ideas.

Got any money in Dow Chemical USA stock? If so, you'll be delighted to know to the extent they are going to protect names of their products.

In my March 28 Jottings I talked of buying hot dogs and made reference to a "coffin-looking styrofoam box".

That ticked Dow more than one way. They didn't like it because I failed to capitalize the word styrofoam. They also want the trademark used with the word styrofoam.

Then, too, they say the coffin-looking boxes aren't styrofoam in the first place. Dow sent a four color brochure on glossy stock telling me plastic foam cartons are made by forming thin plastic sheets.

'None are STYROFOAM brand products, nor can they be made from any of the STYROFOAM brand plastic foam products." The capital letters are theirs.

Dow is cordial about the whole thing. They "ask" writers to be aware of the trademark. It appears they prefer we capitalize the entire word, but will settle for a capital S.

The makers of Dioxin and Saran Wrap go a step further in their cordiality. They suggest we not use styrofoam, but substitute 'plastic foam' or merely 'plastic' as a generic term.

All this is well and good. I guess we all want to protect our names, even when we have so many like Dow does. But, it all takes time. Therefore, I'm listing this series of S's and Dow can put them where they belong ... S-S-S-S, and here's another for March 28; S.

As a resident of Independence Township I would like to add my two cents to the debate over the adequacy of this township's present fire protection

I-sympathize with Chief Ronk's rancor at the ludicrous expenditures of $17,000 for overtime and $23,000 for legal expenditures.

I agree with the chief's belief that the combined sums could have been more appropriately applied to added department personnel and equipment.

I supported the millage request in 1979 to upgrade and maintain an efficient fire protection system. I did expect it to be used wisely and budgeted with accuracy, but I did not expect the funds to be tied into the management of the sewer fund, nor did I expect to find Station 2 closed again or lacking sufficient personnel or equipment to respond efficiently.

I live in Thendara Park, a secluded, hilly and wooded area located in the northeast section of the

The residents here maintain their own private roads, seeing none of their road tax dollars and receiving very little, if any, aid or service from the township. The least we should be able to expect is adequate fire protection.

I personally do not feel that exists, in entirety, at this time for this area and I question the adequacy of protection afforded the village and other remote areas of the township.

I am concerned that several members of the township board appear to lack knowledge as to the severe impact poor scheduling and overtime in the firefighter profession have on its personnel and the service they generate.

Burnout among firefighters is a major problem of the profession and if left unattended will escalate insurance and health benefit costs and reduce perfor-

I am also concerned with the type of thinking. that freezes a voter approved fund and then denies the pleas of over 100 township residents not to increase

Certainly this board, or several members of it, have failed to allow citizen input and representation.

The $23,000 spent by the department for legal fees is the tip of yet another township iceberg. I question the township's legal expenditures as a whole and suggest that the township budget would be better served if less money were spent on legal services in general.

This township spent a minimum of $80,000 in 1983 for legal services (not including those paid by the fire department) and shows no sign of decreasing or stabilizing that amount in the future.

In fact, several proposals presently under board consideration would in all probability increase legal costs (for example, planned unit development).

In summary, I feel that this township's governing and service units are suffering from severe personality differences and I fail to see how Independence tax-

Card callers

Lately the mail has brought me, in six different envelopes, six plastic phone-charge cards from AT&T. I don't want them. They worry me. I'm going nuts trying to figure out what to do with them.

Each of the cards has the same name and number on it. Each arrived attached to a handsome brochure that, on the cover, urges me to "Reach Out Touch the Future LI don't want to do that It is the future that scares me.

I have no idea why AT&T sent me six identical cards when one would have been too much if I have any questions; the brochure says, I should dial 800 CALL ATT. Is that supposed to be clever? AT&Tis customers have phone numbers: Why does AT&T have phone letters?

Because AT&T has taught people to dial numbers endlessly, it is awkward for them to dial let-ters. CALL ATT figures out to 2255 188: Why doesn't AT&T just come right out and say so? I resent being put to the trouble of translating letters to numbers, especially when 800 CALL ATT is usually busy anyway.

BHAT'S PROBABLY why AT&T disguises it numbers as letters it really doesn't want anyone tocall it because, as the world's largest phone company ATTACLESS embatassed that people can taget it on the phone. I dialed 800 CALLEATTIES times in two days. TWA TEREM DELIVE

Eight times the line buzzed busy. Seven times a taped voice said all the operators were busy and I was put on hold to listen to dentist-office music.

I don't know how long the music plays before a live operator come on the line. I refuse to wait on hold to talk to the phone company. The people who sell phone service should answer their phones promptly, to demonstrate the convenience of their product. I also won't buy a car from a salesman who tak for a demonstration ride and runs out of gas.

So, unable to communicate with the communications giant, I'm left to speculate on why AT&I sent me six identical charge cards attached to six identical brochures in six different envelopes addressed to six identical addresses. And I speculate the giant is sloppy but doesn't care because it knows it's big enough to get someone else—you and me—to pay for the losses cuased by its slop.

Live heard from several readers who also received multiple mailings of identical AT&T cards. I don't know the production cost of each card and brochure but it has to total why AT&T didn't at least save postage by mailing them in one envelope

ALL TKNOW IS, now that AT& Land Michigan, Bell have separated; long-distance rates will be cheaper. My wife spends most of her time talking long distance to our two daughters Who live less than 100 miles away. From another colorful brochure, which AT&T sent me eight times so far, I learned that for me to benefit from lower long-distance rates, our daughters must move to Belgium. But you want to know why I'm afraid of a future with six AT&T cards? Kathleen Vokes is why. She is the Howell woman who received phone bills totaling more than $60,000 last January and February. Ma promising to straighten things out, explained that some crooks charged thousands of calls to Vokes card number. Two months later, Vokes told me AT&T had just billed her for $50,000 and sent her five new charge cards, four with a new number and the fifth with the old number the crooks use

Faced with that type of corporate efficiency, haye six charge cards that could fall into crooked hands, I can't burn plastic without stinking up my apartment. I won't cut up the cards and throw them in the trash because a trash picker could glue them back together, d won't flush them down the toilet because a sewage plant worker might have daughters living in Belgium. AT&T brochure, they are; 'state of the art' cards that I can "insert into new special public AT&T Card Caller phones." Caller phones."

Tknow where I'd like to insert them.

payers are being served by allowing this animosity to override their best interests.

It is time for personal differences, whether they concern fiscal procedures, budgeting techniques, or interpretation of the problem itself to be set aside.

The population and characteristics of this township require that we have an organized, efficient and futuristic program of fire protection.

At this point in time, four years after the millage approval, this township should be operating a smooth running and quality fire department.

This township board should be researching and planning how it will (or if it should) implement an emergency medical unit and how this fire department might escape such professional maladies as burnout, lack of personnel incentive, and insufficient or improper training methods and costs.

It appears that a great deal of work will be required to become progressive in fire protection ser-

I would suggest someone, somewhere, get on the ball and give the residents of this township their money's worth.

We will not have our families and neighbors tragically victimized by the inability of our township representatives to get along.

Rate this movie 'S' for sick

I'm not much of a movie-goer. If it's the type of film that "everybody's talking about," I'll usually make an effort to catch it just so I won't feel left out of party conversations. But as a rule, today's flicks don't seem to be worth the price of admission. People who have nothing better to do than to suffer through some of them are worthy of pity.

I offer as evidence the latest chapter in the "Friday the Thirteenth" saga. Why would anyone waste their time (not to mentiom warp their brain) by sitting through this Celluloid carnage?

JUST THE PREVIEWS advertising the film on television are revolting. Apparently, this artistic triumph consists of an hour and a half or so of a psychotic killer running around in a hockey goaltender mask, cutting up a lot of pretty young girls and good-looking young guys like so many slabs of beef.

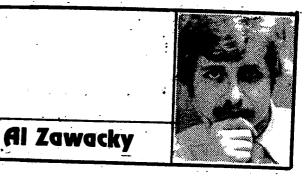

That's entertainment in the 1980s, folks.

Personally, I wouldn't even want to be in the same movie house with people who get their jollies watching this kind of junk. Yet, what bothers me even more than the idea of some sicko sitting there and enjoying films of this type are rumors I've heard that some people in the audience laugh during the gruesome scenes.

Even if we know the knife is rubber and the blood is Heinz' extra thick, the fact that anybody can laugh at the sight of seeing someone cut to pieces scares the hell out of me.

When I was in college, a guest lecturer (my memory has failed to preserve his name) spoke to one of my classes on the effect of movie and television violence on American society. The crux of his antiviolence argument was that excessive gore had the effect of desensitizing people to the real thing. Pointing to the possible long-term effects this could have on young people, he warned: "No civilized society is ever more than one generation away from barbarism."

The thought seemed absurd to me at the time, but today, years later, I'm not so sure. I think about this man's Cassandra-like prophecy when I hear about people laughing in theaters at the sight of people being mutilated; when I consider the murmurs from some quarters calling for "right to die" legislation that sounds suspiciously like the first step toward euthanasia; when I read about a killing, mugging or housebreaking taking place in broad daylight while passersby calmly went about their business without offering help.

I GUESS I started out with the intention of talking about movies. Forgive the digression. By the way, I freely admit that I've never seen one of these grisly modern horror movies, and if that causes you to wonder how I can roundly condemn something I haven't seen, let me leave you with this final thought: There are some substances you don't have to stick your nose in to know that they stink.

Engineering plans are in the works to repair the dam and its mechanisms.

House-move meeting

If you're following progress on moving the 120-year-old Ritter house from Dixie Highway to downtown Clarkston; mark Thursday, May 10, on your calendar.

Hank Radeliff is scheduled before the village's zoning board of appeals for a 10-foot sideyard setback variance and 7-foot height variance on the house, targeted for the vacant lot just north of the municipal parking lot at Main and Washington streets.

According to village President Carol Eberhardt. Radcliff can move the house without a sideyard variance; but would have to seal off windows and doors the north side, something he doesn't want to do.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in Clarkston Village Hall 375 Depot, Clarkston,

ZBA appointments

At its April 9 meeting the Clarkston Village Council unanimously made the following three-year term, appointments to the zoning board of appeals (ZBA) and planning commission.

To the ZBA: Richard Weiss of Main Street and H.W. (Bud) Yoh of Buffalo.

To the planning commission: Nancy Prucher of Main Street, Robert Sanderson of Holcomb Street and Laurie Stern of Church Street.

Rose garden winner

Lowell Mullins is the lucky winner of a rose garden in the drawing held by the Clarkston High School Ski Team.

His name was drawn from about 900 tickets. The ticket was sold by ski team member Troy McKim.

The rose garden is to be planted in Mullins' Chickadee Lane yard by horticulture students from the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center.

The bushes were donated by Bordines Better Blooms of Clarkston.

Money from the fund raiser will help purchase racing sweaters for the team.

A WARM WELCOME: Much to her delight, Roberta Denton Mann found a sign on her South Holcomb Street home when she returned last week from open heart surgery at the Cleveland Clinic. "I just couldn't believe it," she said. "I found out it was my girlfriend Elaine Buynak that did it." Mrs. Mann is taking it easy now, but she expects to be on her feet in 10 days. "They did tell me in about eight to 10 weeks I'd be almost as good as new," she said. She's lived in her Clarkston home 39 years.

YMCA looks for pools for lessons

The North Oakland YMCA would like some help getting children and adults in the swim this summer.

They want to hear from persons willing to let neighborhood children and adults take lessons in their residential pools from June through August. For donating the use of a pool, the homeowner's family will receive instruction free of charge.

Certified instructors from the YMCA will teach the two-week swim classes.

To offer a pool for the summer classes, call the YMCA at 335-6116.

Stepping out from behind a pine tree, dressed in buckskin almost from head-to-toe, carrying a black powder rifle, and maybe the skins from a number of animals was not an uncommon sight during the early

They were called "'Mountain Men' 'Pioneers:" They had to fend for themselves.

Now someone walking down the street with a foxpelt hat, tanned buckskin pants, shirt and moccasins would cause a double-take

They take their hobby seriously enough to hold demonstrations

On Saturday, May 12, the Front Enders will take part in the Pontiac Lake Muzzle Loader Exhibition. Club member Joe Rutkoski said he got into it because of bad luck. 'I didn't have any luck deer hunting one year, and they had an extended period for muzzle loaders, so I decided to give it a try," said the Tappon Road, Independence Township-resident.

'Muzzle loading is much more personal," he continued. "You just don't put a cartridge in the chamber and pull the trigger. You have to measure your shot first. That's the way the mountain men did

Listening to Rutkoski and fellow club member Dan Bruyere talk about muzzle loading is like a minihistory lession.

"Mountain men would meet at what they called rendezvous," Rutkoski said. "The French were a big influence in this area because of all the trapping they did and the inland roads they built. You get a real appreciation for what they did, how they survived using these crude rifles."

There are three types of muzzle loading guns. The match-lock, flint-lock and the percussion in either rifle, shotgun or pistols.

"My wife got me a kit of Christmas one year," Bruyere said. "A lot of people get into it that way." The basic kits cost about $100. The top-of-theline custom rifle can run upwards of $3,000.

"There are a lot of guys who get the kits as gifts," Rutkoski said. "At the sportsmen's club there are about 200 shooters. We have 29 in our club. What were trying to do is shake them out of the bushes to come out. This is something the whole family can do.

'At our annual picnic we let anybody shoot. We just put in a light load for the kids. They just have a

CHS baseball gets lift from junior highs

By Dan Vandenhemer

The Clarkston Junior Varisty baseball team is off to a flying start and coach Kurt Richardson can thank the junior high programs for that

Last year the Wolves set a school record by posting 16-2 for the season. Most of those players have either moved up to the varsity level or are out for another sport.

Clarkston and Sashabaw junior highs are supplying the talent from their 11-2 and 5.7 teams of last

"The junior high coaches have given me some pretty good players;" Richardson said. "I've got 15 kids on the team and all 15 are capable of producing. I had to cut some real good kids.

One word can sum up the Wolves 3-0 start, pit-ching Mike Walters, Ed Adkins, Steve Atkinson and Jim Ruellegare, the best-hurlers.
At this point, I've got to say pitching is our Richardson said. "Those top four are as good as I've had here in five years as coach. Usually we only have one or two good pitchers but we've got four

In the first three games, the pitchers have done their part keeping the opponents in check so the offense can get to work.

Milford and Holly each lost to the Wolves by 5-4 scores, then Waterford Kettering was blown out,

To go along with the standout pitching, catching is a major factor.

"Randy Kosek and Steve Wiedeman have been handling the pitchers real well, the coach said. "Kosek is realy sweet behind the plate and Wiedeman as the backup is working very hard, too.

Pitching can only keep the opposition off the scoreboard. The offense has to provide the punch, You've got to be lucky," Richardson said of the undefeated start. "The kids are getting timely hitting. I think we'll keep getting better it we start to eliminate the mental mistakes. We've made a lot, but they are starting to come down."

More team depth builds strong JV squae

By Dan Vandenhemel

Don Peters has his hands full this season as coach of the Clarkston High School Junior Varsity softball team

By his own doing, the Wolves have the largest number of players—even—on the JV squad, 17.

"We've got more depth on this team than ever,"

"We've got more depth on this team than ever,"
Peters said. "That's why we have 17 on the team.
We're two deep at every position. This could be the best team we've had at Clarkston in some time."

Peters, a self-declared optimist, said he always can find something good to say about just about anything about the team.

The Wolves have given him plenty to rave about. They are off to a 2-1 start. The loss came to Waterford Mott, April 13, with three starters in Florida with their families.

"It's tough to win with your starters gone," the coach said. "I don't mind the players going to Florida. If they go with their parents, that's fine."

Peters' optimism is fueled by the 21-3 record the JV Wolves recorded last season.

"We should be as good or better than last year," he said watching practice last week. "We should win 20 games this year. They have the talent but we have to put it together."

What is going to help the team merge is a solidcore of athletes led by pitchers Terri Sherman and Chris Jarrett.

"Terri is fast, has agility and can hit for power," Peters said. "Chris is our No. 1 pitcher right now. We teach the pitchers to throw hard down here, sometimes it takes a while to come around. Once Terri comes around and can get it over the plate more, we're going to be really, really good."

The supporting cast of players more than hold up their end of the game, especially on defense, said Peters. One fielder is nicknamed after a vacuum cleaner.

"'Hoover,' I mean Sue Lovelady, is a tremendous third baseman for us, she picks up everything hit out there," he said. "We really have a strong defensive team all around. Kelli Cruz is another one who can play defense anywhere, first, third, pitch.

"Hitting won't be a problem for us because when you catch the ball .you're going to get more chances to hit."

Watching the Wolves at batting practice confirmed what Peters said. The softballs were zipping through the infield for their destination somewhere between the outfielders.

"You're watching one of the pure hitters on the team," Peters said as Kelli Cruz lined a pitch over the shortstop's head. "Once we get on track, we'll be bet-

Jamyaller,

Downtown dizziness

By Dan Vandenhomel

It had the makings of a perfect Friday night in Downtown Detroit.

The riverfront ethnic festivals at Hart Plaza were kicking off their summer season with the Fine Food Festival.

Rock artist Ted Nugent was performing at Cobo Hall.

The Pistons were playing the deciding game of their best-of-five playoff series with the New York Knicks at Joe Louis Arena.

And the Tigers were going against the Cleveland Indians at Tiger Stadium.

With those four activities centered within a fivemile area, the number of people converging on the downtown area was staggering.

The amount of excitement that could have come out of the area would have been higher if the Tigers and the Pistons cooperated.

As it was, 34,000 attended the Tiger game and 21,000 went to see the Pistons.

The 127-123 overtime defeat by the Pistons and the 8-4, 19-inning marathon loss by the Tigers all but killed the fever pitch the crowd was building.

This was even more evident while sitting along the first-base line watching the Tigers and listening to the Pistons' game on the radio.

Many of the fans brought radios to catch the basketball game. Officials at Tiger Stadium helped by flashing the Pistons' score on the huge center-field scoreboard.

I was one of the few people watching the Tigers that forgot a radio. Having to lean across the aisle to ask how the Pistons were doing became a bother after the 12th time.

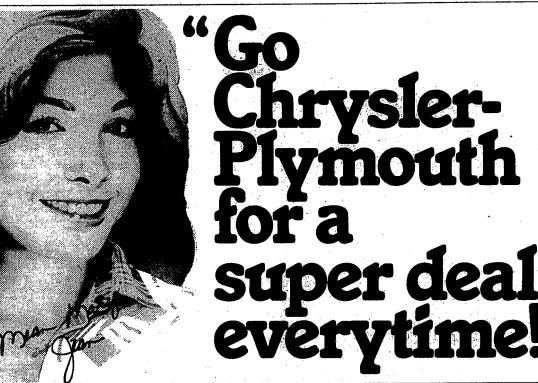

You knew something was going on in the basketball game when a large roar filtered around the outfield upper deck. The Pistons had fought back to send the game into overtime.

Meanwhile on the grass of Tiger Stadium, the Indians and Tigers were locked in an all-night struggle.

At first the Pistons let us down, then the Tigers fell asleep on defense and lost the game. The Tigers really goofed up the evening's plans, not just by losing but by ending the game after 1 a.m.

It was too late to catch the end of the ethnic festival and too late to go into Greek Town. The only thing left to do was go home.

The best part of the evening was not having to fight with the traffic from all four events letting out at the same time.

Debbie Spencer was born in Chambersburg, Pa. Later her family moved to Birmingham, Mich., where she spent her childhood and school years.

She earned her bachelor's degree at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant; and her master's degree at Oakland University, Rochester.

A third-grade teacher at Pine Knob Elementary School, she's in her 11th year with Clarkston schools.

Debbie's philosophy of teaching is that we cannot afford to forget, or not use, that which we have learned

Children should apply everything they learn to other areas. Parents should be involved, too, in what children are doing in the classroom. She feels that a sense of humor is an absolute must in teaching.

Debbie has had many interesting travel experiences. During her high school years, she was an exchange student to Uruguay in South America.

She has been to the Bahamas, to Hawaii, to England, and has traveled extensively in the United States.

She likes to incorporate art and creative writing into other subject areas. She plans some of her art activities as a family venture, done outside the classroom and brought in when completed.

An early interest in teaching was encouraged by Debbie's mother who is a second-grade teacher. To-day she and Debbie often exchange ideas for interesting projects.

Debbie's hobbies are reading, doing crossword puzzles, aerobic dancing, and growing plants. Her home reflects this love of plants which, also, is carried into her classroom.

help, planted many bulbs around the front of the school. Now everyone is able to share and enjoy the beauty of Debbie's project.

Debbie says she is an organized person who feels she must be organized to function efficiently. She is known for her efficiency, her professionalism, her enthusiasm for teaching.

She is an innovative teacher who brings much to her students and to the profession of teaching.

An Apple for the Teacher is provided through the efforts of a Clarkston Education Association committee. Its purpose: "to acquaint or reacquaint the community with members of the Calrkston school district's teaching staff who represent a highly trained and diversely talented resource in which we can all take pride." This week's column was written by Rosemary Krause, a fourth-grade teacher at Pine Knob Elementary School.

'Chemical People' rise again

By Kathy Greenfield

Working quietly since last fall, the Clarkston Chemical People Task Force is now ready to strike

"People would say 'Chemical People'? Who are you? Do you make chemicals? That's a very typical reaction," said Jeanette Sanders, education committee chairperson.

"We haven't had any exposure because we've been formulating our ideas. We've been formulating our ideas. We had to find out what was necessary in the community and what was needed—now we're ready to act on it."

Formed after the public television Channel 56 special programs kicked off by First Lady Nancy Reagan, the group now has about 15 active members.

Their main objectives are to prevent drug and alcohol abuse in adolescents, educate parents about what's going on and tell them where to go for help.

Toward those goals; the following projects are underway:

• Resource centers in Clarkston's two junior highs and high school that would contain free information on where to go for help.

•A class for parents on the fundamentals of drugs. Sanders is at work on a course syllabus that includes what drugs are, symptoms of drug use and speakers from AA and the police department.

•Student seminars directed toward drug diversion and a plan for in-school suspension that would involve classes in drug abuse for students caught with drugs.

•A teacher awareness program, already approved by the school district, to educate teachers on what to look for and what to do if they suspect a student is abusing drugs.

•A long-term project, presently in the exploratory stage, that would provide a youth center for Clarkston students.

The more she becomes involved in the Chemical People project, the more she realizes the severity of the problem, Sanders said.

"Everywhere I go I meet people with drug-related problems, or someone whose life is affected, so I just thought maybe I could do some good," she said about her involvement with the task force. "I've seen the misery it can cause, not just to the family but also to the user."

A Clarkston area resident two years, she taught high school German, French and psychology 15 years and worked with chemical abuse in an Ohio clinic seven years.

The next-meeting of the task force is Tuesday, May 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the Clarkston school district administration office.

"We need people to work and help," Sanders

For more information, call task force cochairman Fred Baumann at the Consortium for Human Development at 625-9600.

Name search

A contest—with $180 in prizes—to rename the Clarkston Chemical People Task Force is coming to Clarkston's three secondary schools May 14-25.

"We want a name that the students will relate to and become involved with. Let's face it, Clarkston Chemical People Task Force is not a catchy name," said Jeanette Sanders, education committee chairper-

The student government groups in each school will choose five finalists, and from the 15 entries four prize-winners will be selected in early June, Sanders said

First prize is a $50 gift certificate for Coach's Corner and $25 in cash.

Second prize is a $35 gift certificate for Coach's Corner and $15 in cash.

Third prize is a $25 gift certificate for McGillicutty's restaurant and $10.

Third prize is a $25 gift certificate from the Clarkston Elias Brothers Big Boy.

MYSTERY THEATER: Rehearsing a scene from Agatha Christie's "The Mousetrap" is Brandon High School sophomore Shelly McReynolds. The mystery will be performed May 10, 11 and 12 at Brandon High School's 750-seat Performing Arts Center. It's the first production since BHS moved to its new building in January. Tickets, available at the door, are $3 for adults, $2 for students and $1 for senior citizens. For more information, call 627-4981, ext. 217.

Century-mark • for Ellis farm

Emmalyn Freeman shares memories of growing up in Springfield Township

By Kathy Greenfield

Before she begins the tour of the century-old barn, Emmalyn Freeman apologizes for the dust.

"I haven't done my spring dusting yet," she says, and smiles, setting a gracious tone for a look into her family's past.

Mrs. Freeman, 76, was born and raised on the farm built by her grandfather, Norman J. Ellis, on Dixie Highway in Springfield Township.

She lived there until she was 30, when she married Ralph Freeman.

"My brother told my husband I'd be back in a week," she says.

That didn't happen, but she drives from her Birmingham home to visit the farm about twice a week and keeps two horses there. Over the years she stayed at times to help her parents, the Glenn Ellises.

The Ellis farm, officially the Ingomar Farm, became a certified Michigan Centennial Farm on March 28

To qualify, the property had to be in continuous possession of the same family for 100 years or more and contain at least 10 acres with estimated sales of

Mrs. Freeman has a certificate with an impressive gold seal from the Michigan History Division of the Department of State. A plaque is to be erected this summer.

She and her brother, Norman J. Ellis of Albany, Ga., own the farm.

A caretaker lives in the large farmhouse, leaving the barn as the place Mrs. Freeman visits on a regular basis.

The farm was named after Ingomar, a Percheron stallion, and the barn was built to house the magnificent horses that weighed a ton.

Her grandfather purchased the farm in 1873 from Sarah and John Stevens. The first home he built was destroyed by fire in 1883, and in 1884 the present house was built, about the same time the barn went "Grandfather went to New York State and took Mr. Brock, the builder, with him to have a farm he liked copied," she says.

She begins her tour by showing photographs on a wall of her brother and his wife when they showed horses, a niece riding a horse over jumps and a blacksmith with an anvil next to an open trunk: "He shod horses until he was 85," she says, remembering that he arrived with his traveling blacksmith shop and always stayed for lunch.

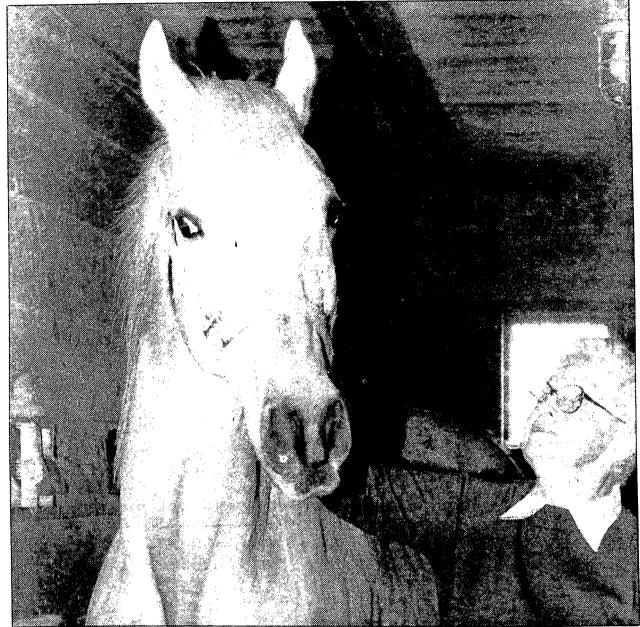

The stable area where Mrs. Freemans' palomino Scrapper is housed is like it was when the barn was built. The original watering system still works, with the horses able to press their noses against a piece of metal for a fresh drink.

Scrapper, 16, was born in the barn.

"He's not aptly named," says Mrs. Freeman.
"He's a nice, gentle saddle horse."

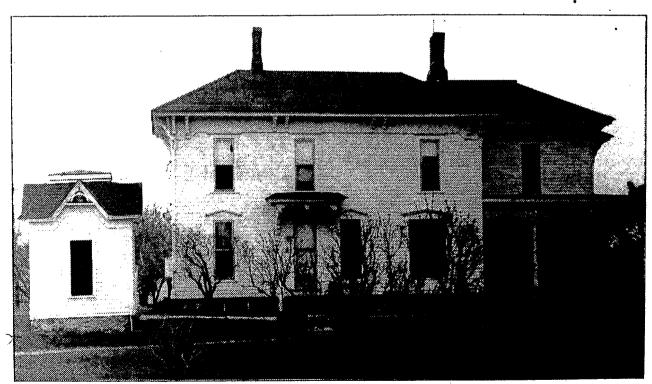

A left turn leads to a hallway of sorts lined with several stalls built by Mrs. Freeman's brother when he was showing horses.

At the end is a room with an exercise bar turned by electricity. The room is large enough to exercise

Mrs. Freeman's horse, Scrapper, was born in the barn where he now lives. While giving a tour of the century-old barn, she pauses to feed Scrapper an apple.

two horses at once when weather conditions do not allow outdoor riding.

The next stop is the basement barn which once housed sheep.

Most recently the area has been used to exercise the horses during icy weather, and she's also given children horseback riding lessons there.

Next, it's up the stairs to the main barn.

There are no fireplaces in the house. The furnace, large enough to accept six-foot logs, is still in place, although no longer in use.

"Nothing in this farm was made for weak, old women. Everything was made for men, even the stairs," she says, while climbing the steeper and higher than average steps.

The farm's only present product, bales of hay, are neatly stacked here and there. The person who harvests the hay keeps two-thirds and stores much of [Continued on Page 44]

Birds bring spring to Bullens

Robins nest in grapevine wreaths

By Kathy Greenfield

Sally Bullen steps out her front door, looks up toward the grapevine wreath over the light fixture and chats with Missy.

Over the last couple of weeks, the robin sitting on its nest has become so familiar Sally's named it.

"It's like a pet, just sits there and listens, moves its head once in a while," she says. "People walk in. People walk out. One person thought it was stuffed. I thought, 'I'm never going to do that, stuff a bird and stick it in a nest for show.'"

When Sally walks out her back door, there's another robin in another grapevine wreath.

"Maybe they're sisters," she laughs.

The back door mother bird also has four eggs in its nest, but Sally hasn't named it. She doesn't walk by it as often and its perch is not as close to the door.

The whole robin episode began last fall when Tom Bullen was trimming the grapevines around their home on Kingfisher Lane in Independence Township.

The Bullens decided to put the grapevines to good use. They formed the wreaths and put them up. Then, when he trimmed the holly bushes, they added holly, giving them a Christmas touch.

A few weeks ago, Sally decided to take the front porch wreath down. But the holly was still green.

"I thought I'd leave it up a little longer," she

She noticed bits of leaves and sticks and such on the porch carpeting and cleaned it up.

"Then I looked a little closer and, my gosh, the bird was flying in and making a nest," she says.

She went out back to check the other wreath and was surprised to find another robin building a nest in an identical position.

Sally remembers years when the Bullens' yard was too busy to appeal to nesting birds. But now that their five children are raised, it's quiet.

"I've gone from raising kids to raising birds," she says. "I don't have any cats or dogs to scare them. They've sort of found a haven here."

Sally Bullen greets Missy, the robin nesting on top of the grapevine wreath on the front porch of the Bullens' Kingfisher Lane home.

Elementary schools start latchkey program

By Marilyn Trumper

Youth program coordinator Jeanne Molzon's responded to parents' "overwhelming" requests for a latchkey program in the Clarkston school district, with the first offered to North Sashabaw and Pine

Scholars' boost

"Hats to Fashion" was such a success the Waterford-Clarkston Business & Professional Women's Association doubled their money for next year's scholarships.

On April 24, 433 women had dinner at the Deer Lake Racquet Club and saw fashions from The Clothes Tree modeled by club members—and raised over $2,000 for next year's scholarship fund.

Two $500 scholarships provided by last year's fashion show were presented to:

 Anne Ronk of Clarkston, who is working on her master's degree in nursing at Wayne State University

• Renee Lee Jones of Davisburg, who is a Clarkston High School student with a straight-A average in the dental assisting program at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center.

Knob Elementary pupils.

In three separate surveys last year, parents wanted children supervised two hours before school and two hours after school, instead of letting the children come home to an empty house or wander around the school yard in the early morning waiting for classes to begin, Molzon said.

"It's going to be housed at North Sashabaw, simply because they have a large central room that lends itself to a latchkey program," Molzon said. "And Pine Knob (students are included) because we're getting the buses that run by there in the morning and afternoon to pick the kids up and take them to Sashabaw.

"I had to beg for that," Molzon said. "I had to be able to prove these buses were running by (Pine Knob) everyday, so why not put these kids on them. We hope to have it in all five elementaries next year."

The program, designed to be self-supporting, begins the first day of school and runs the school-year, costing $1.50 per hour, per child.

It will be licensed by the Department of Social Services so ADC parents can qualify for child care payment "And we're looking for a teacher," Molzon said.

"They need at least 60 hours of credit in child psychology or child development and will work from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m. and 4 to 6 p.m.," Molzon said. "I've already had several calls from parents who say, 'Are you offering this for certain, because if you are, I can go back to work.'

"Many parents see this as a way they can do that," she said.

Initially the program will be open to just those two schools she said.

"But when it's in full swing for all the elementaries we hope to be able to have it open to others on a part-time basis, like the parent who wants to go shopping occasionally. But we do want to keep it available for those who really need it everyday." she said.

for those who really need it everyday," she said.

In the first survey, conducted last fall by Clarkston Area Youth Assistance, a questionnaire was sent home with each elementary student.

In the second, volunteers from community education phoned 265 homes, according to Molzon.

The third survey consisted of a questionnaire on the back of a latchkey pamphlet.

"We asked them what they wanted in the program and they didn't want it to be a baby-sitting program and no television. They wanted nutritional snacks and crafts and activities with music and free time," Molzon said.

Poetry place

RAIN IN APRIL

Rain has such fun in April It patters through the trees Talking to all the leaf buds And robins that it sees

It splashes in the puddles And skips upon the walks. Goes coasting down the grass blades And dandelion stalks. It dips in all the flowers
And when the clouds blow by
It paints with bright hued colors
A rainbow in the sky.

I love to see the rainfall.
It seems to cleanse my soul.
The world is better for it.
And Spring has reached its goal.

MAKING MICHIGAN'S FUTURE

are talking about 150,000 megawatts, which is 150 typical nuclear plants or 250 to 300 coal-fired plants, which must be constructed just to replace plants which need to be phased out. In addition, if we have just a three percent increase in load growth, we'll need another 18,000 megawatts per year-something in the range of 200,000 to 300,000 megawatts by the year 2000. This nation's utilities are not building anything approaching that now."

> Donald P. Hodel U.S. Secretary of Energy

THE FUTURE IS WHAT OUR SOCIETY MAKES IT.

American technology is poised for a new leap forward. Michigan industry, shocked by recession and foreign competition, is committed to modernization. Michigan's people will not accept less than full opportunity for themselves and their children.

That means economic growth in Michigan. And economic growth demands an increased supply of electric energy.

What is the outlook for that supply?

NATIONWIDE:

The U.S. will need almost twice our current electric generating capacity by the end of this century. That's an addition of almost 400,000 megawatts of electric generation, but utilities nationwide currently have less than 200,000 megawatts of new capacity under construction or planned. Small wonder, then, that virtually every forecaster, including the Department of Energy, anticipates serious U.S. electric shortages between now and the turn of the century.

THE MIDWEST:

Present forecasts for our region anticipate a 30 percent growth in electric demand over the next ten years, but only a 16 percent growth in generating capacity. That assumes the completion of all plants now under construction, including both Midland units. Without those plants, we will face the same bleak prospect of shortages as other areas of the nation. With the plants, however, our region can enjoy a reliable supply of electric power based on the lowest-cost generating fuels available: coal and the atom.

MICHIGAN:

During 1983, our state's economy began to rebound. That, of course, is good news. But, to put it bluntly, our present electric system cannot accommodate continued growth. Without the added generation now under construction, even the modest annual demand growth we foresee will completely outstrip our generating capacity before 1990. That will not only raise the spectre of brownouts and blackouts: it will effectively prohibit economic growth.

It doesn't have to be that way, however. Consumers Power Company has planned for the future, has invested in the future. is building for the future—not only to meet the minimum needs of Michigan's industry and people, but also to accommodate the determination of Michigan's industry and people to grow and prosper. That is our Company's tradition, our commitment...our business.

We need your support.

(Look for another message on this subject in the near future).

Rotary honored

The Clarkston Rotary Club was honored by the Clinton Valley Council of the Boy Scouts of America April 28 for exposing junior high-aged Independence Township youth to different careers.

The sixth annual Explorer Awards Banquet, held at the Rochester Golf Club, recognized Rotary for bringing different career speakers to Sashabaw and Clarkston Junior Highs the past two years, according to Susan Osmanski, scout coordinator.

Rotary received the William Spurgeon Award. Spurgeon, a volunteer leader, was responsible for changing the thrust of the Explorer's Program in the late '60s and early '70s from high adventure to career exploration, she said.

For stamp lovers

A free catalog illustrating all current and soonto-be released United States postage stamps is available by mail.

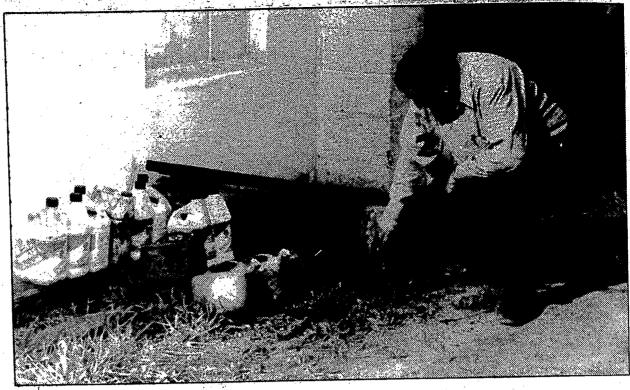

The Philatelic Catalog describes the postal service's complete stamp-collecting line and contains reproductions of all commemorative and regular stamps that may be purchased by mail.

"Some of our commemorative stamps are truly beautiful, such as the 1984 Louisiana World Exhibition stamp featured on the catalog's cover and the orchids block of four stamps with floral designs," said Clarkston Postmaster William Kinsley.

The stamps may be purchased from the post office or with the mail order form and pre-addressed, postage-paid envelope found in the catalog.

Also available free is "And Now... The World's Greatest Hobby," a booklet telling how to get started in stamp collecting.

Write to U.S.P.S. Philatelic Catalog, Philatelic Sales Division, Washtington, D.C. 20265-9997.

Bob Clark empties a container of used motor oil into a holding tank under his service station.

The used oil contest is helping local groups raise money.

Recycled oil: slick fund raiser

Saving used motor oil is becoming safe and a profitable task for Springfield Township organizations.

The West Oakland Do-it-Yourselfers' Used Oil Recycling Contest sponsored by the East Michigan Environmental Action Council is helping raise money for area groups.

Recycling the oil protects the area ground water.
People who change their own motor oil can drop it off at Bob Clark and Sons 76 Station on Dixie Highway and Davisburg Road or Davisburg Atuo Service on Davisburg Road and Andersonville Road.

Residents can select an organization that they would like to receive credit for the oil.

Area businesses have contributed $800 for cash prizes for organizations including: Davisburg Busy Bees, Davisburg Rotary, Davisburg Rotary Anns, Neighbor for Neighbor, Davisburg Scotties, Clarkston Youth Assistance, Holly Area Youth Assistance, Davisburg Girls Softball League, Davisburg Little League, Springfield Township Historical Society, Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Commission, Springfield Township Lions Club and Susin Lake Association.

For more information on the contest, call Gary Dovre at 681-1200 or the EMEAC at 879-6040.

When 1-75 was built in the late 1960s, it cut through the 160-acre farm facing Dixie Highway in Springfield Township and used 14 acres. Because access to the 30 acres on the other side of the expressway was so difficult, the property was sold.

it in the barn, while the remaining third goes for taking care of the horses that live on the farm.

A gigantic haying wagon, dwarfed by the massive barn, sits in the semi-circle designed so wagons could be brought in one door and out another without backing up or turning around.

In another corner sits Mrs. Freeman's cutter, which Scrapper pulls through the snow very well, she There's a storage area for grain, no longer used. The basketball hoop was installed by some children down the road.

"We had a barn dance last fall, a dinner dance. It was great fun," she says.

There were tables for the 80 guests, space for the band and some people who had never been to a barn dance had an experience to remember.

"People can't believe the barn hasn't sagged and the beams, I think, are very beautiful," she says, remarking on the sturdiness of the old wood.

The parties from long ago are among Mrs. Freeman's fondest memories.

"I like to remember the parties and the dinners," she says. "My mother was a very gracious hostess."

She remembers having guests for dinner when the cupboards seemed empty—but a chicken from the barnyard with biscuits and a little sour cream in the gravy ended up a feast.

"We had lots of company, lots of horse people and friends that came and rode with us and we kept horses for. It was just a real nice place to grow up, says Mrs. Freeman. "Everyone seemed to like to come to the farm and everyone still does, I think.

One party she shares took place about 27 years ago, for her parents' 50th wedding anniversary. The hors d'oeuvres were frozen in the small building that once held the windmill. And everyone went across the street to the Tea Room for their meal.

The windmill came down shortly after electricity was available over power lines in 1925.

Standing outside the barn, Mrs. Freeman talks about attending her first eight years of school in the one-room schoolhouse across Dixie Highway, now used for storage by an antique shop.

The teacher boarded with her family, and her father was treasurer of the school board.

She graduated from Clarkston High School when it was housed in what is now Independence Township

"That was big business to me, from one room with an outside privy," she says.

When Mrs. Freeman's grandmother, Esther Ellis, died, her grandfather left the Springfield Township farm and built a house at 99 N. Main, Mrs. Freeman remembers moving to town and the warmer house some winters, something she never liked to do.

We didn't like downtwon Clarkston," she says. "The dog didn't like it either. We had an airedale dog and he'd head over here (back to the farm) every mor-

There was a huge tank on the second floor for water. Mrs. Freeman's not sure if it held rain water or well water, but she remembers separate faucets in the kitchen for soft water and drinking water.

A barn behind the house held the horses.

'The horses didn't like to stay there. It wasn't too bad a place, either," she says. "It was laughable, because they'd be so lazy coming from the (Clarkston) barn and then when we'd get close (to the Springfield Township farm) they'd tear back."

Mrs. Freeman reminsces about driving the team of horses during potato harvest time, milking the cows and caring for her horses.

'What always killed me was people who asked, 'Well, what do you do with yourself all day?' " she says. "If I couldn't find something to do, my mother would have helped me."

She remembers her mother's fondness for farm life, and her hobbies of china painting and playing the piano that seemed to conflict with the role of a

'It was pretty much a self-supporting farm, Father raised a lot of potatoes and grain and hay and corn, and he always had saddle horses and showed them," she said.

Her father was adopted by the Ellises after he was left on their doorstep as an infant. They had no other children.

One of Mrs. Freeman's fondest memories involves horseback riding with her father.

"I always boasted to ride what he could ride,"

She left the farm 46 years ago, living 17 years in riint where her husband practiced law, and then moving to Birmingham. Her husband is a federal judge in Detroit, and at age 82 he goes to work every day.

Mrs. Freeman matches his spunk. She's never lost her habit of waking early in the morning, and she's never given up the farm.

"I love coming here," she says. "I like to putz around with the horses and get on and ride them, and I run my dog with the horses. There are no birds here anymore, but we have some land with woods and I can run him through there.'

She looks with dismay at the soft ice cream shop on one side of the farm's 70 acres that face Dixie Highway and the lot full of old cars on the other side.

"I don't like progress, but I can't do anything about that," she says. "We're getting too much of it in Birmingham, too many condominiums. It's too big. And my brother and sister-in-law say they notice the pollution when they come back here."
