Man walks •from 1-75 crash

Officials call it amazing

By Kathy Greenfield

Gerald McArthur walked away from a crash on I-75 east of M-15 Tuesday morning that left Independence Township firefighters, police and bystanders shaking their heads in disbelief.

McArthur, 36, an Oxford resident, was steering a van towed by a 1½-ton panel truck. They were parked on the side of the road and pulled out in front of a dump truck pulling a trailer with a bulldozer, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Department Deputy Donald Moore.

In a matter of minutes the dump truck crushed the van against the panel truck, but McArthur got out alive. The accident occurred at about 7:30 a.m.

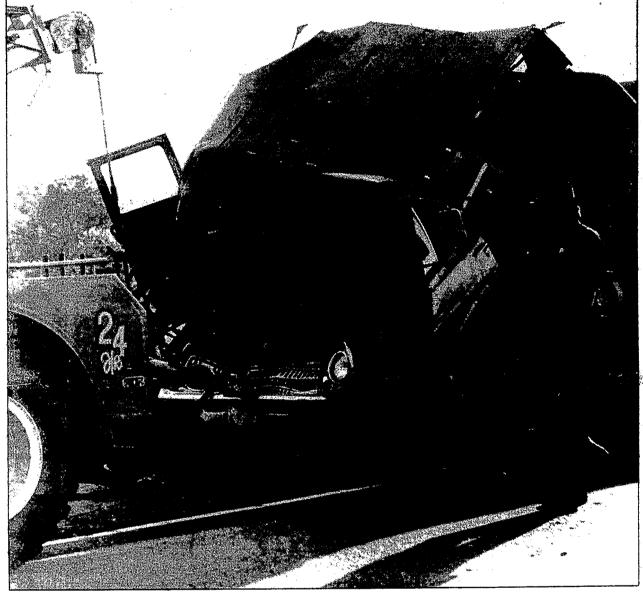

"Amazingly, at this point, it looks like minor scratches and cuts. He walked out of this!" Moore said, looking at the remains of the van, now the size of a compact car.

"He said he felt the metal coming around his feet and the windshield blew out and he leaped out of the windshield," said firefighter Michael Fahrner. "We have no idea how he got out of there without something happening."

Earl Colloto of Davisburg was one of the first people on the accident scene.

"When I got here he was sitting over there smoking a cigarette, totally conscious," he said. "How anybody could have gone through that I don't know."

McArthur was taken by Fleet Ambulance to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Everyone who saw this crash Tuesday morning on 1-75 couldn't believe the man behind the steering wheel in the van walked away after leaping from the windshield opening after the window popped out. Ritter home move gets two-week reprieve

By Marilyn Trumper

There is another delay in moving the 120-year-old Ritter home from Dixie Highway to downtown Clarkston as the ball falls back in the planning commission's court.

At its June 11 meeting, the Clarkston Village Council voted to schedule a joint meeting with the commission to review a proposed ordinance amendment that would allow designated historical homes in historic districts, without variances, and to ask its attorney to rewrite the proposed amendment.

"I'm pleased because they're doing what I want them to do—they're keeping this whole thing moving," said Hank Radcliff, who with wife Jennifer holds an option-to-buy the Italianate home contingent upon the move.

"The only thing I'm worried about is that the clock is running. We're working in a tight time frame. Burger King goes for preliminary site plan approval tomorrow night (June 14) and can go for final on the 28."

Burger King Corp. proposes a $600,000 fast-food restaurant on the home's site next to Ritter's Farm Market, and has a contract that allows them to raze the house 30 days after sale approval.

Sale of the land is contingent upon Burger King receiving final site plan.

President Carol Eberhardt said she won't be rushed into approving the ordinance amendment to accomodate the Radcliffs.

"I have a lot of questions and a lot of concerns, and I want to make sure this amendment is absolutely correct and does in five years what we want it to do today.

"Are we going to let in stables, barns, sheds? And I'm not certain there's a need for it. Historically there's not been shown a need for it and I haven't been able to find an instance of any home being moved in.

"I also don't know if the Michigan History Division's goals are the same as ours and I don't want the

Michigan History Division to be the recommending

The Radcliffs filed to the MHD for registration of the Ritter house as a historic state home, one of the qualifications needed to meet the proposed ordinance amendment that would waive variances.

The MHD has strict guidelines for inclusion and to remain on the register, which include removal of the home's aluminum siding, according to Eberhardt.

Trustee Fontie ApMadoc who three weeks ago favored a proposed condominium complex for the public good, disqualfied herself from discussions regarding the Ritter home.

"We were told then that the (condominium) project wasn't good public policy and now we're told this is. I was talking about the needs of 300 people, not the needs of one," she said.

Trustee Sharron Catallo argued in favor of adoption.

"I feel it's a good idea, and I still do," Catallo said. "It's something not covered in the ordinance. It's something that's developed out of a need. I still feel it has merit and would be well worth our while."

The planning commission has set no date for the joint hearing.

How to east write in ballot and make it stick

By Kathy Greenfield

People voting for write-in candidate Evelyn Miller for the Clarkston board of education-last week had a rough time of it; and the results have left Miller wondering why instructions aren't more clear at the

The first confusion was caused when the votes were read at the board of education meeting and tallied on a chalkboard.

When it was over 22 votes were recorded for Evelyn Miller, but there were, in fact, 34 votes recorded on precinct reports.

Then were the others: Evelyn Miller, E. Miller, Lady Write-In, Evelin Miller, Evely Miller, Eve Miller, Evelynn Miller and Evil Miller.

Miller began questioning the results when people she knew voted in various precincts were not recorded on the chart of unofficial tallies published in The Clarkston News. Official certification by the Oakland County Board of Canvassers is expected this week.

"The spellings are important;" said Clarkston school district financial manager William Jackson, who oversees school election. "Evelyn Miller, the way she spells her name, got 34 votes."

Independence Township Clerk Richard Holman conducted the election for the school district.

The decision was made to list all the write-ins as they were spelled and allow the district to decide how to count them, he said.

-Correction

A story in last week's Clarkston News incorrectly stated that non-motorized vehicles on township safety paths can be ticketed.

In fact, non-motorized vehicles like bicycles are allowed on the paths, but motorized vehicles in-cluding cars and motorcycles are illegal.

Such a procedure is correct, according to Jan Stickley of the Oakland County elections office. At times election officials will decide anything close to a write-in candidate's name counts and others will require that the name be correct.

There's nothing really written in the law that's specific enough," she said. "There are so many areas in elections that are gray. It's unfortunate that these things happen. It's the principle, really—did they count them or did they not?'

By the end of the week Miller was satisfied that every vote was counted, but she was still concerned about the difficulties involved when someone wanted to vote for a write-in.

"I think there is a problem," she said. "The problem is people don't know how to do it and if there is a problem most people don't want to let others know who they're voting for.

"I had to ask and I felt silly. I talked to (Independence Township clerk) Mr. Holman and he and I disagreed. I told him there should be a little poster on the wall people can look at and read. People shouldn't have to ask. The information should be there for them.

Holman said he conducts two seminars for election workers, even those who have worked at numerous elections.

People who ask how to write the name of a candidate on the ballot are told, and if they get inside the booth and need help two people go into the booth to give instructions.

Sample ballots which include write in instructions were available at each polling place, he said.

The situation was never one of questioning the winners of the election for two four-year terms on the school board.

Incumbent David Kithil and Thomas Bills were elected, Kithil with 1,380 votes and Bills with 1,126. In third place was Thomas Azoni with 1,025 votes. If all possible votes were counted for Evelyn Miller, her tally would have been 43.

Independence bridges under repair

Independence Township may be getting two new bridges, one on Andersonville Road east of Clement, and the other on Andersonville Road west of Airport Road.

They are two of 11 county-wide to be replaced with money from $2 million in federal and state aid if the funding's approved. It will be the first time the bridges have been replaced since construction more than 50 years ago, according to Richard V. Vogt, chairman of the Oakland County Road Commission.

We don't know if or when aid will be approved for these structures, but without it we don't have the necessary funding;" Vogt said: "Our application will be considered along with applications from all over the state for limited funds in federal and state bridge programs.'

All 11 were recommended for replacement by Johnson and Anderson, independent consulting engineers from Pontiac.

POSSIBLE DISASTER AVERTED: No one was injured when concrete from the Davisburg Road bridge over I-75 collapsed onto the pavement late Monday afternoon, according to a spokesperson from the State Highway Department. For an hour and a half Monday I-75's north and southbound lanes were closed, while Michigan State Police diverted traffic on Dixle Highway to Holly and Clarkston. Workmen resurfacing the bridge saw the concrete curbing about to fall, and began flagging cars on 1.75 to prevent them from approaching the bridge, averting disaster, the spokesman said. Thumbs up for greenhouse

After a six-month battle, Joseph Cook can erect an 8,000-square-foot greenhouse on Holcomb Road to grow plants for his plant business.

Earlier this year the property was rezoned from R1-A, single family residential to R1-R, 3-acre minimum rural residential, which allows dog kennels. equestrian training facilities, truck gardening and poultry raising with special use permits.

In a 4-3 vote at the June 14 meeting, the Independence Township Planning Commission gave

Cook final site plan approval. Members Carol Balzarini, John Gray and Lew C Hewko voted "no." Daniel Travis and Walter Eidam were absent. Chairman Neil Wallace, Holly Stephens, David Katz and William Cox voted "yes."

"Once the township rezoned the property it was a foregone conclusion and I lost the battle," said Balzarini. "He's said he'll grow wholesale for his business and not retail or commercial, but we have no way of controlling that."

According to Balzarini, the proposed greenhouse has a forced-air dome roof.

"I envisioned a glass and steel-frame construction greenhouse, and didn't like at all what he was proposing," she said.

John Gray agreed and after the meeting explained his dissent.

"I think Mr. Cook will do a fine job, but we have no way of controlling what happens if he were to leave and a new owner takes over."

Cook could not be reached for comment.

Site plan tabled

Burger King Corp.'s request for site plan approval's been tabled by the Independence Township Planning Commission, and bought Hank Radcliff two more weeks to relocate a 120-year-old home from the restaurant's proposed site.

Traffic routes remain a critical concern, according to commission Chairman Neil Wallace.

Key to discussion is the service drive that runs off Maybee Road behind Pontiac State Bank and Ritter's Farm Market. According to Wallace, Burger King, too, will use the drive.

"Principally there's a concern with traffic and congestion with the neighbors," Wallace said. "They have to make a decision about what kind of road access they want.'

In addition, the planning commission received Burger King's plan at the meeting and did not have time for a proper review, he said.

Burger King's expected to be on the June 28 agenda for site plan review at 7:30 p.m. in the Independence Township Hall, Annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

The fast-food hamburger chain proposes a $600,000 restaurant on Dixie Highway on the 1-acre site where the cubed Italianate Ritter home sits next to the family market.

Park sprinklers

Clarkston's Depot Road Park could be destined for an underground sprinkling system.

At its June 11 meeting, the Clarkston Village Council weighed a proposed four-phase construction of an underground system at a cost of $5,350.

The flush-head sprinkler system would draw water directly from the Mill Pond stream, and water flower boxes on Depot Road, the area around village hall, the large grassy play area and the memorial gardens.

In the 1984-85 budget $3,000 was itemized for a sprinkling system.

"I really think we need something like this," said Trustee Fontie ApMadoc. "Maybe not all four phases, but perhaps two of the four. Every year we lose more and more trees that could have been saved by water.'

Main Street resident Edward Thomson asked if the sprinkler's cost would be a savings compared to the number of hours village employes now spend reeling out hoses.

After brief discussion the council made no decision, opting to investigate how much is paid in salaries for watering, compared to the cost of the proposed

Postman's car bursts into flames; mail saved

'You're in a hurry so you don't notice if it's hot'

By Dan Vandenehemel

While his car sat on the edge of the road in flames, Frank Nance knew what he had to do: Save

A mail carrier for the Clarkston Post Office. Nance and was nearing the end of his route Saturday afternoon in the Heather Lake subdivision off Clarkston Road when his 1976 Buick started smok-

"I had to get the mail out so I went back in and got it," Nance said. "You're in a hurry so you don't notice if it's hot. You're scared.'

Nance believes the fire began in the transmission where he recently had some work done. Charred seats, bubbled paint and fluid leaking onto the pavement was all that was left of the car.

"A guy started hollering that the car was on fire, so I backed it up and got a fire extinguisher from him," Nance said. "That didn't stop it, so we got a garden hose and that did stop it. I went back in the car and got the rest of the mail out. There wasn't much left. I think I got all of it."

Resident Cindy Bennett saw the flames from her house two blocks away and went to see what it was.

"At first I thought a house was on fire. You could see the fire from my house," she said. "I think he (Nance) should be commended for saving the mail. I'm sure the rest of the residents feel that way too. There could have been checks or something that would take months to replace in there."

Postmaster William Kinsley II, called to the scene, said they would go back to the office, try to figure out if any of the mail was lost and report the accident to the postal service.

Tax shift OK'd

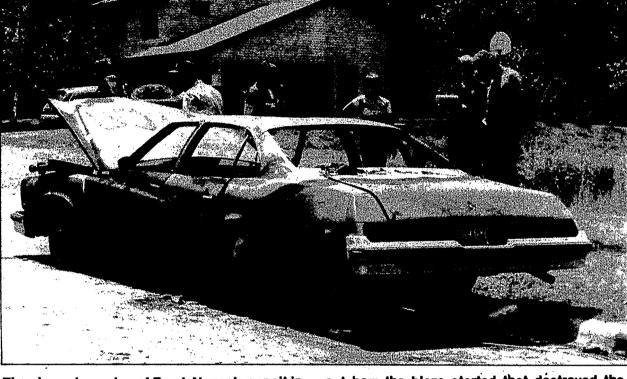

After the 1984 tax collection, the Village of Clarkston's general fund will be $42,000 richer.

With brief discussion at its June 11 public hearing, the Clarkston Village Council unanimously approved a 3-mill shift from the sewer fund to the general fund.

The shift does not mean an increase in general fund tax dollars.

The change was spurred by a $250,000 surplus in the sewer construction debt fund which can only be used to build sewers, and a general fund tax that hasn't been raised in 10 years.

The shift means a 77-percent increase to the general fund. Plans are to use the additional money for road repairs and construction.

The charred remains of Frank Nance's car sit in the street as firefighters and Nance try to flaure

Who's stopping bike path to village?

We read with great interest the letter appearing. in last week's newspaper from Larry and Michaelene Hearn concerning the safety bike path along Clarkston Road.

We have also wondered why the sidewalk stops at the village limits.

It would seem that all of the bike paths planned and constructed in the township, the path from the village to the library would be the most logical, most used and most needed.

What or who is stopping the bike path from be ing constructed in this very needed area?

Don't touch labandoned animals

Spring is that time of year for baby animals and birds. Contrary to what many people think, when they discover young animals such as fawn deer in the field, they are not lost or abandoned.

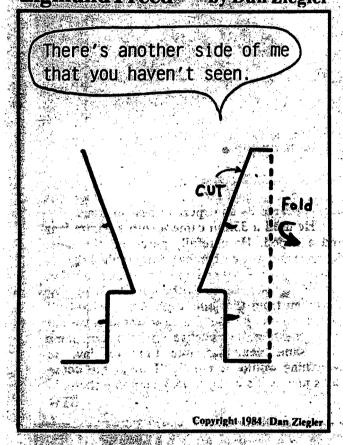

Picking them up is not only unlawful, but frequently results in their death from improper care.

The Department of Natural Resources requests that you resist the urge to pick up baby birds and animals from the wild, even if they seem abandoned.

Most of us take high school graduation for granted.

We read about past generations, not so long ago, when high school graduation was uncommon: We read about the high school dropout rates. But most of us are pretty much untouched by the reality, for many, of unfinished high school years.

The Clarkston school district began offering a high school degree program last year and 10 people graduated. This year the number increased to 35.

And this year was the first time I attended the adult high school graduation exercises:

I wasn't sure what to expect. I have covered the past six Clarkston High School graduation ceremonies, so I knew the standard procedure.

People told me that the adult graduation was special, that it would help put it all into perspective.

They were right, There isn't anyplace I would have rather been Wednesday night.

The graduation speeches were inspiring, for they spoke of struggles and victories and love for one another.

The closeness was something to behold. The class cheered teachers and other staff members they all knew and respected. They cheered fellow students. And they cheered themselves.

I couldn't help but wish that every 1984 high school graduate could have been there to see what a special time it was—and to appreciate more their own success.

Rarely do we include photographs with editorials and never, to our knowledge, have we published a composite photo, one put together by pasting two photographs together.

In newspapers, composites are frowned upon because they are not real. Nevertheless, after considering the integrity of the photo, we decided it would give our readers an accurate visual image of what the about 120-year-old Ritter home would look like if moved from Dixie Highway to Main Street in downtown Clarkston.

Make no mistake, we're doing this because we support the moving of the house.

We believe it would be a fine addition to the village and find the alternative—the destruction of the house—upsetting.

Hank and Jennifer Radcliff have an option to buy the house from owner Tom Ritter contingent upon village approval—and time—to move the dwelling before the building of a Burger King at the site between Ritter's Farm Market and the Pontiac State Bank on Dixie Highway.

Jennifer Radcliff brought the photograph into The Clarkston News.

"I think people do not realize it's very much on the scale of the village," she said. "I just thought it was interesting to see. When I showed a couple of people, they were amazed.'

The many delays in village council, planning commission and zoning board of appeals decisions have left the Radcliffs "very chagrined," she said, and she'd like some community support. In order to allow the moving, a 3-foot height variance is needed and a sideyard variance.

Furthermore, the Radcliffs are ready to use now vacant lot located between the Washington Street parking lot and Main Street Antiques, she said.

We cannot imagine a new building that

If the belief was the house should not come into the village that decision should have been made long ago, so there would be enough time to search for an alternative.

But if passing the matter back and forth in a maze of bureaucracy continues it's possible approval will be granted too late to schedule crews to move power lines and traffic lights. That would be a tragedy.

Fashion statement fizzles

Last Saturday night, when I went to the Menage disco in downtown Pontisc, I wore the mited plaid sport shirt with the middle button missing that I'd put on when I got up that morning to rearrange furniture. The fashion statement I wanted to make was that my wife gets angry when I dirty more than one shirt in one day.

Over and below the shirt I wore the navy jacket and blah-beige trousers I often wear to summer funerals. My intention was to appear dull enough to be denied admittance to Menage. But I did want Menage management to realize that I own a spiffy blue pin-striped suit, so I told my son Nerd to put it on and come with me.

Nerd is three inches taller than his father and 20 pounds skinnier. He used a safety pin to keep the too-short pants from falling over his feet, upon which he wore sandals that showed his big toes to their best advantage. His arm stuck so far out of the coat sleeves that he appeared to be carrying two white brooms. His shirt was blatant Hawaiian:

IT WAS at the behest of several editors that I visited Menage, which is not my type of saloon. They lightheartedly suggested it would make a funny column if L pouted when a reporter failed to realize that my light. Rollins, a co-owner, has recently gained the Manage

But he also wanted me to know that once he asked his wife what she contributed to their partnership in return for all the riches he lavished upon her. And she said she was the most beautiful woman in the world and he should be grateful to have such a breathtaking ornament

"She didn't mention that she looks good because I bought her a new nose, a new chin and new breasts," the husband said.

How's that for juicy gossip? But I couldn't print it with names and addresses without first giving the wife a chance to deny her husband's charges. And I am constitutionally unable to ask a woman if her nose, chin and breasts are true or false: What business is it of mine?

ANYWAY, my Saturday Night Plot at Menage was tried to get inside but couldn't. I went along with the idea and to be turned away because my clothes were too dull or because I used to be an editor and I remember how I because my son's were too Salvation Army. Richard-

Nerd and I were welcomed, and so was everyone else. No one was rejected during the three hours we w there, and 99 percent of the customers were dressed for a kiwanis picnic or the senior prom. The wildest thing I saw was "a well-known stockbroker" in tennis shorts

Richard Rollins was nowhere to be seen and, before leaving, I asked why. Gary Fried, another co-owner, said Rollins "is home where he belongs." Fried said business has been hurt by Rollins' snobby tongue, and he was almost not kidding when he said the only one who should be barred from the Menage is Rollins.

So there you are. On me, my clothes aren't dull enough to be rejected by the Menage, and on my overgrown son, they're not Garage Sale enough. And I would have enjoyed Menage, which is spacious, attractive and friendly, if it weren't for the never-ceasing, alwaysblasting disco music that makes talking impossible. I like soft jazz and quiet conversation.

So, on the way home, Nerd and I stopped at the scruffy little Club 101 in the old Tuller building in downtown Detroit to hear the marvelous Kris Lynn sing better than Nancy Wilson. We apologized for our fathion state-

Soccer help appreciated

The Independence Parks and Recreation Department would like to sincerely thank all the people who once again volunteered their time to organize, coach, and manage a Youth Soccer Team, our Ladies Team and instruct and help with our Saturday Soccer

A league program of this nature is definitely dependent upon those individuals in the community who step forward to take on the responsibility of handling a team.

Our department acts as an organizer, scheduler and administrator, but you serve as the direct contact and influence on the children.

We sincerely appreciate your time and effort. Our special thanks to Dan Vandenhemel of The Clarkston News for his excellent coverage and time spent on our Soccer Program.

Thank you, ALL.

THIS IS IT: Clarkston's own Julie Beamer, Michigan's Junior Miss, arrived in Mobile, Ala., June 8 for the 1984 for the Junior Miss national finals. Although she had to miss her Clarkston High School graduation ceremony Sunday, Principal Dom Mauti announced from the podlum that she won a 2-mile race and $500 during preliminaries leading up to the televised contest Wednesday, June 20, on CBS-TV at 7 p.m. Her classmates sent up a cheer-almost loud enough to be heard in Mobile. Julie is the daughter of Larry and Margaret Beamer of Independence Township.

Parade sign-up

Those who want to be in this year's Fourth of July parade should contact the Independence Township Fire Department at 625-1924, Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The theme of this year's parade, sponsored by the Independence Township Firefighters Association, is 'Circuses are for Kids.'

The parade begins at 10 a.m. July 4 with a 9:30 a.m. lineup at Clarkston Junior High School, 6300 Church, Independence Township.

Prizes will be awarded for best floats.

Repeat request

The Dandy Oil Co.'s coming back to the Independence Township Planning Commission for permission to make the Union 76 Service Station at Sashabaw and Maybee roads a gas/convenience store.

A special use hearing has been scheduled June 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

A convenience store is not an allowed use in M-S service station zoning, and will require a special use approval, according to a building department spokesperson.

The Troy based firm's first request was denied earlier this year, when neighboring businesses opposed the plan, charging the use was not allowed in that zoning.

Resident irked by damaged water sprinkler

By Marilyn Trumper

Cable TV crews laying underground cable tore up Rudy Lozano's underground sprinkling system on Tamarack Park Lane—and he's angry.

Tamarack Park Lane—and he's angry

"They tore my lawn all to h---;" Lozano said. "I couldn't believe it. I had my sprinkler system shut off and Sunday, before I went into the office, I turned it on to water the lawn.

"It didn't work. I called my guy, the man who installed it, and he charged me $45 to make repairs so I could keep my lawn from burning up.

"I called the company Monday to tell them about it and the girl got snotty with me. She said I should have called them to take care of it.

have called them to take care of it:

"H--, it was Sunday. What was I supposed to do? Wait until my lawn burned up?"

According to Lozono there's some question if Tribune/United will reimburse his $45,

"There was zero apology. She told me what I did was not proper procedure, that they have their own people who repair the damage and she didn't know if I'd be reimbursed.

"My wife told them the sprinklers were there. I want to know why (the crew) didn't ask for a trial run to see if it was working when they finished the job.

"They just charge across my g-- d--- lawn and leave tractor gouge depressions in the lawn. I pride myself on my lawn. I'm hot. Why is the ball in my court?"

Lozano says he still plans to hook-up to cable.
"I'm looking foward to it. But we'll see if I pay the first two months," he said.

Manuel Copado, commercial marketing manager for Tribune/United, was not familar with Lozano's case.

"But sometimes it does happen," Copado said.

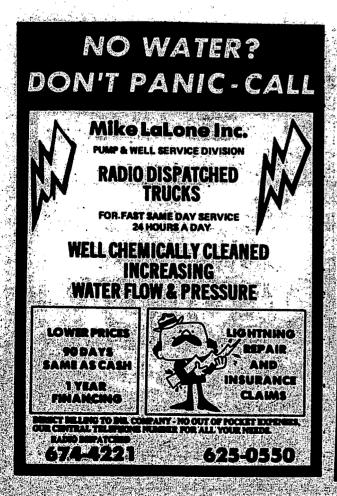

Free videotaping classes coming

Tribune/United, operators of Independence Township's $2.5 million cable TV system, will be offering free classes on how to videotape, direct shows and learn your way around the studio.

According to Jim Vonderhaar, access director at the Waldon Road studio, classes have yet to be scheduled but are planned for late July or early August.

They're free to anyone located within the township's franchise.

Vonderharr said the company will advertise the classes with posters, on the local cable channel and through newspapers.

"Whenever you do undergrouond construction with cable TV there are bound to be some problems. But there's no doubt that the contractor is responsible to correct any problems.

"We do like to get the complaints as soon as possible so we can take care of them. I don't know the specifics or who he talked to; but perhaps he caught (the employe) on a bad day."

Copado indicated he'd contract Lozano personal-

Approximately 75 people attended U.S. Congressman Bob Carr's (D-6th District) meeting about the eight-mile stretch of accident plagued Dixie They're requesting center lanes be built and more traffic lights be installed; according to one of his Washington aides, Alan Fox.

The key issue is how quickly the job can be done, said Fox, stressing Carr's request for $3.5 million passed the House Appropriations Committee and now goes to the full house where a vote was scheduled this Held June 11 at Our Lady of the Lakes, Carr's second meeting was designed to get more residents' input on Dixie Highway problems.

"The people of this community have let me know that fixing Dixie Highway is a top priority," said Carr

In addition to the $3.4 million; Carr plans to earmark an additional $4:5 million next year to complete the alterations, estimated by the Michigan Department of Transportation to cost $8 million.

The project has a construction date of 1987.

"If anything we know that the wheels turn slowly and a lot of people are getting impatient." Fox said. "Most of the people think 1987 is too long, and MDOT said it might make it by 1986, but that there are Environmental Impact Statements and right-ofways to be bought.

"People have been waiting for this a long time and there's a mixture of a sense of urgency with understanding that it's going to take time."

Tim Birtsas starts pitching after injury

By Dan Vandenhemel

Tim Birtsas is working his way back into professional baseball following a knee injury and a month in a leg cast.

The Clarkston resident left town last week to return to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., with the New York Yankee minor league Class A team.

"He's in Fort Lauderdale because that is where the doctor is who took care of him," said Tim's father, Gus Birtsas. "They want to keep an eye on him."

The 6-foot-6 Birtsas twisted his right knee and injured muscles while playing basketball near the end of spring training in March.

Officals from the Yankees gave the 23-year-old a tour of Yankee Stadium before returning him to Florida.

"They took him around, showed him the plaques in center field (of retired Yankee greats)—he even stood on the mound," the senior Birtsas said. "It was his first time there. Oh, he was thrilled."

Birtsas, a southpaw starting pitcher, was to begin the season at the Yankee Class AA team in Nashville, Tenn., but the injury slowed his progress.

"He'll start pitching in 10 days to two weeks," his father said. "They'll wait until his muscles are built up. They are being very careful with him. They have faith in his potential.

"I don't really know where he'll be at the end of the year. He could stay in Fort Lauderdale, go up to Nashville or even Columbus (Class AAA). It's hard to say. The Yankees did say they want him to pitch in the instructional league in September to get more innings in. With the injury, he'll miss two to three months of

«Cougars win and improve through year

By Dan Vandenhemel

The baseball and softball season has come to an end at Sashabaw Junior High. For the baseball team it was a season of winning; for the softball team it was a matter of improving.

"At first our defense was bad," said softball coach Nancy Foster. "Then they really started coming around. We couldn't find any pitchers who could throw the ball across the plate and that hurt."

The Cougar softball team finished with a 2-12 record, the first time in five years the team has not had a 500 record.

The team voted two Most Valuable Players in Maggie Gdula and Jessica Shoup. Gina Houck was the Most Improved Player.

"Jessica led the team in hitting with a .400 average and RBI's," Foster said. "Maggie was more of the defensive MVP. She played short and even caught a couple of times. Jessica played every position in the infield."

Foster also mentioned Kolleen Kline, Paula Gulian and Michelle Nelson for their solid work during the season.

For the baseball team, they set the school record for the most wins in the 11-3 season.

"We're not that interested in records," coach Jim Koslosky said. "They are to the boys, but my main job is to get them ready for the high school."

Koslosky seems to have accomplished what he set out to do. Dave Larkin led the hitting attack with a .419 average. Joe Hamelin was next with a .406 and Andy Roy hit at a .357 clip.

"We relied on four pitchers most of the year, Jeff Billig, Scott Harvey, John Miller and Al Logan," he said. "They all did a good job when we depended on them."

At the start of the season, the coach knew a good season was ahead of the Cougars.

"I thought we'd win our share of the games." he said. "We had good pitching. We set out to win them all. It was just a great season."

SOCCER SCRIMAGE: Members of the spring soccer clinic for women join in a scrimage with the two indoor boys' soccer teams from Clarkston. Independence Township Parks and Recreation helped organize the clinic and scrimage. Hadyn Cook, coach of the indoor teams and the womens clinic, hoped for a better turnout for the June 16 scrimage at Bailey Lake Elementary School, but added it was their year-end picnic and was "...just for fun."

Youth leagues benefit from ticket sales

After two months of door-to-door ticket sales, the Independence Parks and Recreation Department announced the winners in its fund-raising drive.

The money collected by junior baseball and youth softball players will go toward major field improvements. Plans include adding player benches and safety screens, replacing backstops and possibly installing outfield fencing.

The ticket drawing grand prize of a 19-inch color television was won by Bob Lund of Clarkston.

Second prize of a deluxe microwave oven went to Jake Edwards of Warren.

Third prize of $100 cash went to Catherine Katz of Huntington Woods.

The sellers also had incentive to sell the most tickets. Chuck Graham of Wealthy Road sold the most books of tickets and won a 10-speed bike.

The next two highest sellers for the boys and the girls received a AM-FM stereos. They were Jamie Montgomery of Pine Knob Lane and Chris Merz of Perry Lake Road, and Julie Bishop of Deer Lake Road and Loretta Foster of Clarridge Road.

Four $50 cash prizes were drawn from all sellers of over five books. The winners were James Cohoon of Walters Road, Ben Montney of Felix Road, Daven Pyles of Ute Street and Jason Ruth of Peach Road.

The dust has cleared from the ball diamond at Clarkston Junior High after a long season for the softball and baseball teams.

The Wolverine baseball team finished with an 8-7 record while the softball team came in with a 3-11 mark:

"We lost our first three games and the opponents scored 45 runs in those three games," baseball coach Dave McDonald said: "We turned around and beat them the second time we played them. We really improved from beginning to end."

One reason for the turnaround was the pitching corps. The highlight of their season was Bob Har-

"We've come a long way...
They showed their softball maturity." —Rupprecht

rison's no-hit performance. The other hurlers that came through for the Wolverines were Rob Ronk, Gary Ritch and Brian Galley.

Harrison was voted the Most Valuable Player and hit .434 with a record 20 RBI's for the season. Pete Hollis also came through with a blustery average of .418. Ritch hit .368; Craig Chamberlain averaged .333; and Scott Emery punched out a :304 average to win the Most Improved Player Award.

"The amazing thing about Chamberlain is that he never batted left-handed before this season," McDonald said "He fooled around with it in practice; then we told him to try it in a game. I don't think he'll bat right-handed again.

"I'm really happy with season;" the coach said.
"After that embarrassing start, we came back."

The softball team also turned the season around; but the record does not show that.

In the final games against Mason and Oxford they lost by one run, but earlier in the season the Wolverines were blown out against the same teams.

"We've come a long way," coach Holly Rupprecht said. "They were outstanding games. They showed their softball maturity. Just to see the improvement made the season worthwhile for the girls and myself."

The Most Valuable Player on the team was Shelly Heyman, while Beth Tilley and Amy Morris were a close second and third in the voting.

"Shelly was able to play any position," Rupprecht said. "She played them all very well. Beth and Amy led the team in stolen bases with 29 each. They were all strong players.

"Tracy Rock was the Most Improved Player," the coach said. "She really picked up since the tryouts."

Up My Alley

Graduation day

By Dan Vandenhemel_

Your life is just beginning, make it work. Go for it.

These are some of the graduation mottos from my past that I can remember as the Clarkston High School Class of 1984 receive their diplomas.

The Photo Inquiry in the week's Clarkston News asks people what they remember from their high school graduation.

Holding that slip of paper certifying the completion of your high school recquirements affects everyone differently. Some will cry; others will rejoice that their prison sentence is over.

The now former students are going to remember different portions of the actual ceremony.

I remember just parts of my graduation.

The entire day was spotted with little intricacies, starting with a few family photos in the backyard.

A nice shady spot between a couple of apple trees provided a good backdrop. Unfortunately a bee also wanted in on the activities. No one was stung, just a little frazzled.

My father, bless him, was manning his trusty Polaroid camera. After a few minutes of picture snapping, we had a handful of blurry glossy prints with cropped heads and feet. Not all of them were bad, but they all have been forgotten.

On the way to graduation, we stopped to pick up a friend of mine. His parents would be there a little later. The next three miles were pure torture for my parents, having to listen to us cackle about upcoming parties and activities.

I also remember my hay fever was acting up that day and my eyes were a lovely shade of red. Once arriving at school my friends were kidding me about walking up to get the diploma and sneezing.

It also looked like I had been crying for the last four years, a fact that didn't slip by unnoticed.

The ceremony was set up on the tennis courts next to the school. Platforms for the speakers and chairs facing the audience were lined up, ready to be filled.

Walking up the aisle with music playing, cameras clicking and parents waving gave the strongest of individuals weak knees.

The class clowns tripped as could be expected and the achievers read their speeches without trouble, though one did have some notes take off with the

The rest of the day went without many problems. There were the goodbyes and knowing you will never again see some of your fellow classmates.

Some people did not have the chance to attend their own graduation for one reason or another. All I can say is they missed a memorable moment in their lives.

Golfers tee off

The 10th annual Junior Golf Invitational sponsored by the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission is set for two courses in Oakland County.

June 28 is the date at Springfield Oaks Golf Course on Andersonville Road in Springfield Township and June 29 at White Lake Oaks on South Williams Lake Road at M-59 near Pontiac.

The tournaments are for golfers, ages 19 and under. Entry fee is $16 for age 11 and under and $21 for those over 12 years old. The cost includes two practice rounds, 36 holes of golf and lunch.

Trophies will go to the top three finishers in each division

Pre-registration is required before June 26. For more information call Springfield Oaks at 625-2540 or White Lake Oaks at 698-2700.

Tennis team nets first in tourney

Dan Vandenhemel ...

Successful tennis doubles partners occasionally have a strong relationship off the court. For Roger and Kelly Craig; this has gone a step further.

Kelly is the 17-year-old daughter of Roger.
The Scenic Ridge Road, Independence
Township residents won the Equitable Family
Challenge Father-Daughter tennis tournament, June
2. in Flint.

The Equitable Family Challenge is in its 10th year of pairing family members together in competition.

"This was the first time we've seriously played doubles," Roger said, "She's the dominant force; she made up for my mistakes."

Kelly, a senior at Clarkston High School, was the

No. 1 singles player on the school team and received a Western ranking of 45th by the United States Tennis Association.

Roger, 42, is ranked fifth in the Southeastern-Michigan 35-years-and-over division and is 23rd in the Western rankings.

"This was our first time in the Equitable tournament," Roger said: "My wife Joyce entered us and we said, 'Why not?' We had a good time.

"The matches were close. We had three matches before the finals. We go on to the sectionals in Chicago August 6th and 7th."

If the Craigs win in Chicago they advance to Flushing Meadows in New York for the finals, held during the U.S. Open Tennis tournament.

by Jeanelle Selhost

Virginia L. Myers, fifth grade teacher at North Sashabaw Elementary, has taught elementary school a total of 32 years.

She was born and grew up in Indiana, where she began her teaching career.

After having graduated from Ball State University Teacher's College in Muncie, Ind., where she attained a bachelor's and master's degree, Virginia taught her first four years in her home state.

She then moved to Michigan where her remaining 28 years in the classroom have been spent, mostly teaching upper elementary children.

Virginia, who lives in Waterford Township, is very active in church activities. These include teaching an adult Bible class and being actively involved in her church's missionary group. She is presently a member of the church governing board.

Virginia loves to travel! She has traveled extensively throughout the United States, having visited all 50 states with the exceptions of Hawaii, Washington and Nevada.

One highlight of her travels came in 1961 when she took a five-week tour of Alaska, traveling the Alaskan highway.

Other interests include reading, music, jigsaw puzzles and being "handyman" around the house.

Virginia enjoys teaching and in reflecting on her teaching career, she relates that she has seen many changes in methods of teaching as ideas have chang-

However, she believes, and states, "Children basically haven't changed. Children are still children with hopes, desires, and minds to challenge."

We at North Sashabaw admire Virginia for her good teaching, integrity, and her willingness to help teachers new to the building and profession.

Job deadline

The Michigan Youth Crops summer work program through the MESC (Michigan Employment Secruity Commission) has extended its deadline for filing applications.

The deadline is Friday, June 22, for people 18 to 21 years old interested in applying for the six- to 12-week program.

Applications are at any MESC office. The jobs will pay $3.35 an hour and will be for 30 to 40 hours a

"Many of the work sites are outside of the Pontiac area in public areas," said Don McGhee of the MESC information office. "Hopefully we can get more young people to apply from the outlying areas."

Pond renovation

Renovations are underway at the Springfield Township Mill Pond Park.

A paved parking lot and tennis courts are under construction now and the entire project is scheduled to be completed by late July.

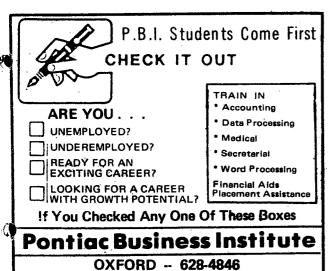

The township has received a grant from the National Park Service of $31,500 for work on the park on Davisburg Road, near Andersonville Road.

"It's federal money through the DNR (State Department of Natural Resources) and it covers half of the project cost," said supervisor Collin Walls. "The township's half of the money is coming from the parks and recreation budget.'

Playground equipment, picnic tables and outdoor cooking grills are also going to be installed.

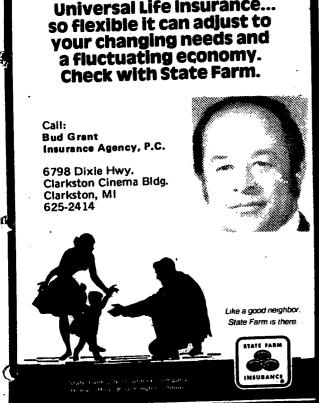

"Most of the work already done can't be seen. The utilities have been placed underground," Walls said. "Once the work is completed, the park is going to be closed during non-open hours except for the area for fishermen. That will curtail any vandalism or extracurricular activities."

Mill Pond Park hours are 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Chemical Reople contest results in all-new slogan, logo

By Kathy Greenfield

C.A.T. P.A.W. stands for Chemicals Are Trouble, People Are. Working.

That's the new name for the Chemical People Task Force, thanks to the efforts of Emily Winfield, a seventh-grader at Sashabaw Junior High School.

Three other entries were also awarded prizes in the contest to rename the task force, formed last fall to fight drug and alcohol abuse by young people following the airing of "The Chemical People" on PBS-TV. There were 18 entries.

Emily submitted hers on a poster board, with the letters arranged on a print of a cat's paw.

Using her idea, a design will be made for buttons, T-shirts and sweatshirts, according to Jeanette Sanders, chairperson of the task force education com-

For her efforts, Emily won a $50 gift certificate to Coach's Corner (donated by the Clarkston Rotary Club) and $25 in cash from the task force.

'I just entered it to see what would happen, because it was a good cause and all, and I couldn't believe it when I won," Emily said: "I think it was a good prize and I'll use it wisely.

"I was trying to think of something like the Cougar (SJHS's mascot) and I thought of the cat paw. I had a hard time thinking of something for the 'W,' then my math teacher sort of helped me. I had a lot of help from my step-dad, Dale, because he's an art teacher.

"I thought my poster was good," she added, "but I didn't think it was good enough to win."

The second-place entry was "Are You H.I.?"—for harmfully involved—by Kelsey Harmon, an eighth-grader at Clarkston Junior High School. She won a $35 gift certificate from Coach's Corner (donated by the Clarkston Rotary Club) and $15 from the task force.

"I liked it because I'm getting a Clarkston High School jacket from Coach's Corner," said Kelsey.

Taking third prize for "S.P.A.P."-Students-Parents Against Chemicals—was Jim Phipps, an eighth-grader at SJHS. His prize was a $25 gift certificate from McGillacutty's restaurant in Clarkston (donated by the Village Business Association) and $10 from the task force.

Jim said he entered the contest "just for the fun." 'It was great," he said. "I was hoping I would win. I just didn't know it would happen.

Kelley Miller, a seventh-grader at SJHS, won fourth place with "P.A.D.D."—People Against Drugs and Drinking. She won $25 in gift certificates from Elias Brothers Restaurants (donated by the Waterford-Clarkston Business' Women's Association).

"I was surprised," Kelley said. "It was my mom and dad's anniversary yesterday, so I gave it to them. I told them it was their anniversary present. They thought that was really neat."

Police study

Police services in Springfield Township and surrounding communities are the topic of a upcoming 👝 study.

The report is to check what kind of police services are available, said Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls said.

The Springfield Township Board adopted a resolution at its meeting June 13 saying the township is interested in being part of the study.

"The purpose of the study is to find the most logical way to use the services," Walls said. "This can answer a lot of questions. This is not intended as a primary step of stopping our services with the sheriff's department."

Walls said the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, which is under contract for three deputies to patrol Springfield Township, may or may not offer the service next year.

"We've heard that for the past several years," Walls said. "If it happens, we want to know what alternatives we have. As it stands now, we have no alternatives. This study could help the sheriff, too, on what is available."

CIH salutes pupils for academic excellence

The McGrath Award winner, Craig Chamberlain, was selected by a committee of Craig.

Established last year in memory of counselor, teacher and coach Bud McGrath, the award criteria: include citizenship and school spirit.

Craig's participation in baseball football and basketball plus his enthusiasm about the school were considerations, according to Lewis.

"He's just really a good kid; very friendly and well-liked around the school by all the students and staff." said Lewis.

A boy and girl from the class were selected by Lewis for the Principal's Award. The selection was based on scholastic ability, contribution to the school, leadership qualities and personality.

SJHS honors its scholars

Recognition given

Recognition for jobs well done went to Sashabaw Junior High School students during the recent annual scholastic awards ceremony.

Four students received special recognition as ders of the ninth-grade class: Principal's Award winners Beth Southby and Jim Hall, and Cougar Spirit Award winners Dave Larkin and Michelle Crites.

SJHS Principal Gus Birtsas selected Beth and Jim for his award.

"Beth, she's just a tremendous, tremendous girl. She's a real leader. In student government she's the president. She's very active in many things," Birtsas said. "Jim's active in everything, too. He's in sports. 's in band, that type of thing. But the biggest thing that impresses me is they're leaders in the school. They're just great, great kids."

For the Cougar Spirit Award, students were nominated by interscholastic coaches for leadership and sportsmanship and the final selection was made by George White, assistant SJHS principal and interim principal at Pine Knob Elementary.

'Michelle, I don't believe was involved in athletics but she was a school supporter, very involved in school activities, always participating, exuberant, enthusiastic," he said. "That would be contrasted by We Larkin who participated in three sports. Both in the athletic competition as well as around school, they've displayed the leadership and the sportsman-

Many students also received certificates for academic excellence and perfect attendance. Because the number was so high all the names could not be printed, so the school submitted the following partial

English fun with word processor

By Kathy Greenfield

Rarely do students use words like "fun" to describe English classes.

But that seems to be the norm at Clarkston Junior High School for the students of Ruth Duling who did many of their English assignments on computers this year.

The opportunity came about after Duling's plan was one of 14 accepted from 1,700 submitted in the Tandy TRS-80 Education Grants Program, "New and Innovative Uses of Microcomputers in English."

The $10,000 grant, received in July 1983, purchased five word processors for students and a computer with monitoring capabilities for the teacher from Radio Shack, a division of the Texas-based Tandy Corp.

"I think it's been quite successful," Duling said.
"I've seen exciting things going on. They're doing some of the things good writers do—sitting back and looking at their work, being willing to rewrite it.

"I had kids just before science projects were due coming in during study halls, during lunch hours, after school to get the typing done.

"I've never had them fighting to stay after school to work on things like this. About 4 o'clock some days I literally had to pull the plug and push them out. That's exciting."

Duling has collected data all year to send to the Tandy Corp. in her final report—and to write the dissertation for her doctorate degree from Michigan

State University.

Under scrutiny are things like attitudes, and whether students do more revision in spelling, punctuation, sentence structure and the direction of their pieces when writing on computers than when writing in longhand.

Every ninth-grade English student at CJHS had some experience with the word processors this year, with a minimum of a two-week block of study.

Duling's students in four ninth-grade English classes, an eighth-grade English class and a journalism class expanded their use of computers by using those in the mathematics department as well. That allowed about half of each class to be on word processors while the other half worked on another phase of a writing project.

For English assignments, they wrote out the first draft and completed the second draft on the computer.

The journalism students learned to compose at the keyboard. The last issue of their school newspaper was 16 pages—the longest ever.

The week before school was out, some of Duling's ninth-grade honors English students talked about their experience with the computers.

"I think they're fun to work with rather than just writing it out yourself. It made it more enjoyable," said Jim Tedder.

"I learned to type faster. The essays and compositions we had to write, I did it on the computers. It was worth it to have them in here. It made the class involved in something they were interested in. It took less time. It was fun," said Amy Travis.

"I think they're fun and they're helpful to us. We learned a lot of computer skills. It takes away the hassle of trying to rewrite a paper all the time," said Heidi Vines.

"I thought they were fun. If you made a mistake it was easy to correct. They're really easy to use. When I first started I didn't know how to use them," said Kathleen McInnis.

"They're different because I never got to work on them anywhere else. I didn't know much—I thought I'd screw up the whole system," said Jenny Kuzma. "People were telling me what to do and I learned how. It's nice to know (but) I would like to know more because you can do a lot more than that."

"They're useful. They're easier to write a story on. It's better than a typewriter because it indents for you, and to correct errors it's a lot easier," said Todd Zeller

Since Ed York was named the Teacher of the Month for May at Clarkston High School, his fellow teachers have had a good time with a little harrassment.

"They have been kidding me about it since I was voted in," said the 29-year-old chemstry teacher. "Just now when they called me down (to the office), they were all laughing and joking."

The student recognition program started in February and has named four teachers. The entire student body nominates teachers and the National Honor Society makes the final selection from the

Lahser coach/teacher retires after 33 years

By Dan Vandenhemel

A yard sale was to start the following day and Don Hoff was busy getting some last minute items in order.

He was dusting off an old typewritter, gluing some molding onto a box, looking through some antique beer trays.

The 59-year-old Hoff now has time to putter around the home of he and his wife, Hope, on Wealthy Road in Independence Township. He has retired after 33 years of teaching and coaching high school students.

For the last 28 years, Hoff was a physical education teacher, driver education instructor, athletic director and coach at Bloomfield Hills Lahser High School.

"My wife saw me staring out into nothing and asked if it was worth it," Hoff said. "I said, 'Yeah,

After 33 years of teaching and coaching, Don Hoff is retiring from Bloomfield Hills Lahser High School.

you bet ya it was worth it.' I wouldn't have changed it for anything else; it was fun."

Hoff started his teaching career in Negaunee, a small town in the Upper Pennisula. After four years there, he moved downstate to Berkley to work for Bloomfield. Two years later the Hoff family moved to Clarkston.

"Oh, I was fortunate to be there (Lahser) at the beginning of all the growth," he said. "It was a Class D school the year before I started and in a year or two it was up to a Class C. It just kept growing."

For most of his years at Lahser, Hoff was a coach of one sport or another, ranging from football in the fall, basketball in the winter and track in the spring.

But doctors ordered him to slow down during 1968 because of an ulcer that required surgery.

Hoff sat out the 1969 and 1970 seasons without helping a team, but the urge never left to coach.

"I was coming home at three in the afternoon. It was the middle of the day. I didn't know what to do," he said. "I found myself just staying after school to be there. I got back into coaching cross-county. Then I started with the girls and the boys in track."

A teacher for most of his life, Hoff has countless memories of the students and the friends he has made along the way. "While cleaning out my desk, I ran across a clipping of a runner I had," Hoff said as a big smile crossed his face. "One year we had a real good 880-relay team—they were rated first or second in the state all year.

"At the state meet, this guy was tripped on a handoff. The tears were running down his face, not because he lost but because he had fallen and let the team down.

"The clipping was of him receiving the Silver Star as a Marine. I thought, here's a kid who was crying for tripping and now he's getting the Silver Star. It's real nice to watch the kids grow up.

"Another time was when my wife and I were at a track meet and came across a kid I coached. He said his son was running in the meet. My wife leaned over and said, 'Now don't you feel old?' "

Now that he's retired, Hoff has projects going at home—but it won't be the same.

"I'll stay busy around here. I can see projects that will take two years to do," he said. "Sometimes I'll come out and water the flowers. That's quite a difference from hollering at some kid to run faster or jump high or to make a tackle."

Teacher-of-month has rapport teachers with the most nominations.

"I think this is nice that the kids show something in appreciation for the teachers," York said. "You don't get much, so this is really nice."

York said he sets high standards in his chemistry class, but adds that it's for the students' own good.

"A lot of times you get negative feedback," he said. "I go on a 7-percent system. You need a 93 for an A. You could be doing 92 work, which is normally an A, but be getting a B.

"I tell the students at the beginning of the year this is the way it's going to be and it's not going to change. They fight a little at the start but realize it will help."

One thing that York believes helps his teaching is rapport with the students.

"I can kid with them and they kid back," he said. "Never is the kidding nasty. I get along with most of the students. Not everyone likes me but I don't expect that."

York has been a teacher for eight years, the last six at CHS. He's working toward his master's degree at Oakland University, Rochester, in reading and language disabilities.

"I started teaching earth science here and a lot of the kids were from the LRC, Learning Resource Center. I'd like to get more experience in teaching that area," he said.

Dad travels from Germany to see graduation

Ry Dan Vandenbemel

If an award were given to the parent who traveled the farthest for Clarkston High School Class of 1984 graduation, Dieter Kolf would most likely be the winner.

The resident of a town near Frankfurt, West Germany, was at Pine Knob on Sunday to witness the graduation of his step-daughter Andrea Dohne, 18, an exchange student.

The father-daughter reunion was no surprise, but it was uncommon.

"The exchange program is through Youth for Understanding and they discourage this kind of thing," said Kenneth Willson who is the host to the West Germans. "They feel it disrupts the home life of the student. They do allow it in special cases. Andrea is very shy and they felt this will help her out."

Kolf is spending two weeks in the United States and he noticed a difference in Andrea right away.

"She is very open now," said Kolf in a thick German accent. "She was shy, now she is more like other girls."

Andrea just shrugged her shoulders when asked how she has changed since coming to the Willson home on Rattalee Lake Road in Independence Township last August.

"I don't think I've changed much," she said. "People are so much friendlier here. They will talk with you."

Besides seeing each other, the trip by Kolf was to watch the graduation ceremony at the Pine Knob Music Theatre.

"Graduation is so much different here," Kolf said. "(In Germany,) there is no ceremony, no celebration. The last day of school and you are out. No cap and gowns."

Andrea was looking forward to graduating with her friends June 17.

"It will be nice," she said. "Graduation is a once in a lifetime thing. I'm excited."

While staying with the Willsons, Kolf has managed some sight-seeing.

"We've gone to Greenfield Village, restaurants of different ethnic backgrounds," Willson said. "We're planning trips to Niagara Falls and Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton, Ohio." "The restaurants are not much different," Kolf said. "There are more houses. Most of the people in German live in apartments. This is my first trip to the states. I hope I can come back one day! Andrea, too, wishes to come back."

Why do we make the Dandelion our foe? Its creation was just for us, from head to toe!

Students from the Sashabaw Junior High's Science Olympiad team gather around the trophy they claimed after tying first place in the junior high division with Slauson Intermediate School, Ann Arbor. SJHS thought they finished third after leaving the competition at Oakland University, but a retabulation of the scores moved them up to the top spot.

Students tie for Olympiad's top honors in science competition

Placed in the center of the display case at Clarkston Junior High School is the 2-foot trophy the school won in the 1984 Michigan Science Olympiad.

CJHS tied for top honors with Slauson Intermediate School of Ann Arbor at May 12 event held at Oakland University. But when the team left the olympiad, they thought they finished a solid third out of the 38 high schools and junior high schools com-

An early Monday phone call to the junior high revealed they had actually tied for the championship.

"There was a mix-up on some of the scoring," said Jim Llewellyn of Oakland University. "So instead of finishing third, they moved up to a tie for first. We had to order another trophy for them."

Team coach and science teacher Anthony Stachurski said the university gym was very noisy during the events and award ceremony.

"It was just like being at an athletic event," he said. "They were cheering on their teams. The kids got gold, silver and bronze medals just like at the Olympics."

Earning gold medals were Jane Selent and Jeannie Whetstone for "password"; Jeff Martin, Ed White, Selent and Whetstone for "name that artifact"; and Sarah Hunter, Rob Morlock, Mike Kolody and Selent for the pentathlon, an event where participants ran an obstacle course, carrying water balloons and answering questiongs.

Second-place silver medalists were Kelly Cook and Paul Jensen for computer programing; and Jeff Martin for orienteering.

Other members of the state championship team were Chris Scharfenkamp, Matt Ritter, Eric Hopp, Lew Galligan, Bree Michelson and Wayne Novak.

First Lady given school's yearbook

Michigan's First Lady, Paula Blanchard, will soon possess a Pine Knob Elementary School yearbook.

When she was in town in May as guest of honor at a party celebrating arts grants programs in Clarkston schools this year, Pine Knob yearbook coordinator Tim Hewelt told Mrs. Blanchard about the yearbook—and offered to send her a copy when it ar-

In elementary schools, pupils usually cannot contribute to the yearbook because of their schedules, said the sixth-grade teacher.

He'd thought about trying to include children's work in the yearbook and the idea culminated when professional artists visited the school this year to share their knowledge and help with projects.

"We're thinking of doing it next year, too," he said, pleased with the outcome.

Other Pine Knob staff members who worked on the yearbook committee were sixth-grade teacher Lee Brown, teacher aides Gale Hyde and Donna Rudolph, substitute teacher Pat Harrison and school secretary Phyllis Karpovck.

Now that graduation is over and it's all on videotape, Janet Gaines receives congratulations and a special embrace following the ceremony June 13. She's one of 35

Clarkston Adult High School Class of 1984 graduates, up from 10 last year.

Adult grads

Jubilation reigned as the 35 members of the Clarkston Adult High School Class of 1984 graduated June 13.

At the ceremony in the Clarkston High School auditorium, they cheered their teachers, the staff members of Clarkston Community Education—and themselves.

The class members ranged in age from 18 to 35. Five gave commencement addresses and presented the story of a group of people pulled close together through a common goal.

Following are excerpts from their speeches.

"Fourteen years ago, I was a very unhappy junior at Rogers City High School, but today I'm a very happy graduate of 1984," said Janet Gaines. "The past two years have been very difficult, very challenging, very frustrating and very rewarding."

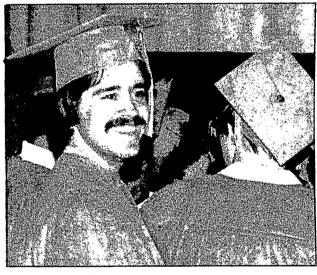

"I feel I've accomplished a great deal this year mainly because the fantastic network of support," said Sandy Hodge. "Every one of us here tonight has admitted to God and everybody, 'I blew it, but I came back.'"

Maryellen Epley said she raised five children while her husband served in the military 20 years: "There was always a small yearning deep in my heart for the diploma I never received... I want to thank my best friend, my husband, for his support and his love and doing the dishes as I ran out the door to go to class."

"We had to take a giant step backward to take a giant step forward—to return to high school. It gave us confidence in ourselves," said Tracy Hillman. "Thank you all and instead of applauding my speech, stand up and applaud yourselves for giving your love and support."

Bonnie Lundrum read a poem that finished this way: "And now, fellow graduates, 'til we meet again, good luck, God bless, I love you, amen."

-Kathy Greenfield

As his class stands to cheer their graduation, Johnathan VanPutten turns and smiles.
