PK lands lodge liquor license

By Dan Vandenhemel

One of the two remaining Class C liquor licenses in Independence Township has been earmarked for the Pine Knob Ski Lodge.

The township board agreed in a 5-1 vote Aug. 15 to recognize Pine Knob "above all others" in line for the license. Trustee Dale Stuart voted "no." Trustee William Vandermark was absent.

Clerk Richard Holman told the board he sent eight letters to persons who had expressed an interest in obtaining a license.

Of the eight, four sent responses and just two said they were interested, he said.

One was Pine Knob. The other, Allie Assad, the owner of LaPiazza restaurant, did not attend the board meeting.

Tracy Allen, attorney for Pine Knob, told the board the resort couldn't operate without the license.

"We're renovating the entire area," she said. "We're trying to make it more like a ski lodge. People aren't going to come here to watch their kids ski and not be able to drink, when Mt. Holly and Brighton are close."

With a projected opening of Thanksgiving, Allen said Pine Knob couldn't wait any longer for the board to make a decision.

Also discussed were changes underway in the ski lodge. The upper level lounge, Ice, is being remodeled to include a fireplace and a more rustic motif, said Steve Finkle, general manager of Pine Knob.

"We're updating it and it has to meet the building and safety commission requirements," he said.

Supervisor James Smith said the track record for Pine Knob has been good and he felt the board could trust them to complete the building and safety requirements.

"They're making a lot of progress," said township building department director Kenneth Delbridge. "Nothing physical but just having the opportunity to get into the building is progress."

After the meeting, Stuart said his "no" vote was based on past actions of the board and of Pine Knob.

"There have been a great deal of problems with the ski lodge," he said. "The board wanted to see

M-15 widening

Only with village bypass

By Dan Vandenhemel

The proposed widening of M-15 is coming closer to reality but still has one major stumbling block, Main Street.

Independence Township Board members agreed they would be willing to go through with the plan to expand M-15 from two lanes to three or five lanes if they could get Michigan State Highway Department to guarantee Main Street through Clarkston would stay the same.

"I'd like to see the department make some kind of commitment not to change the parking in the village," Trustee Larence Kozma said at the Aug. 14 meeting.

Representative Mike Flajole from the highway department said they agreed Main Street has historical significance and should be a concern.

"We're addressing the problem in the township," Flajole said. "The department has no projected plans to go beyond Paramus."

Less than a half-mile, from Dixie Highway to Paramus, is targeted for the expansion because of the heavy traffic flow created by the businesses in the area.

Residents at the meeting echoed their concerns about what could happen to Main Street following the widening of M-15.

"With the five lanes, you're compounding the problems," said Gary Symons of Main Street. "Coming from five lanes to two, you're creating a bottleneck."

Vandals strike

Pat Ritter has a message for Clarkston resident: Keep your cars off the streets.

The Holcomb Street resident had a surprise when she left her home to head for work the morning of Aug. 16.

"Somebody threw a two-quart liquid screwdriver through the window," she said. "It took three days just to get the vodka and orange juice off the seats."

The glass container shattered the rear window with such force it sprayed glass everywhere—including the air conditioning unit. The bottle itself didn't break, but the cap came off, spreading the sticky substance throughout the car.

It was expensive to repair, Ritter said, and the glass service people said they'd never seen such damage from a shattered window.

"I was surprised it happened on Holcomb, right in the middle of town," she said. "That was such a fluke. The second time in three years I've parked in the street."

Much to her dismay, the problems didn't stop with the car. A couple of days later she discovered a sprinkler gone from the front yard.

"That kind of ticked me off because it was brand new," she said.

Mixing's out

The bottom line is that Gary Skibowski can't mix cement at Michigan Rental Service on Dixie Highway. "And we don't think it's fair," said manager Rod Mellen. "The way the law is written nobody can mix cement."

"It's not going to help (our business)."

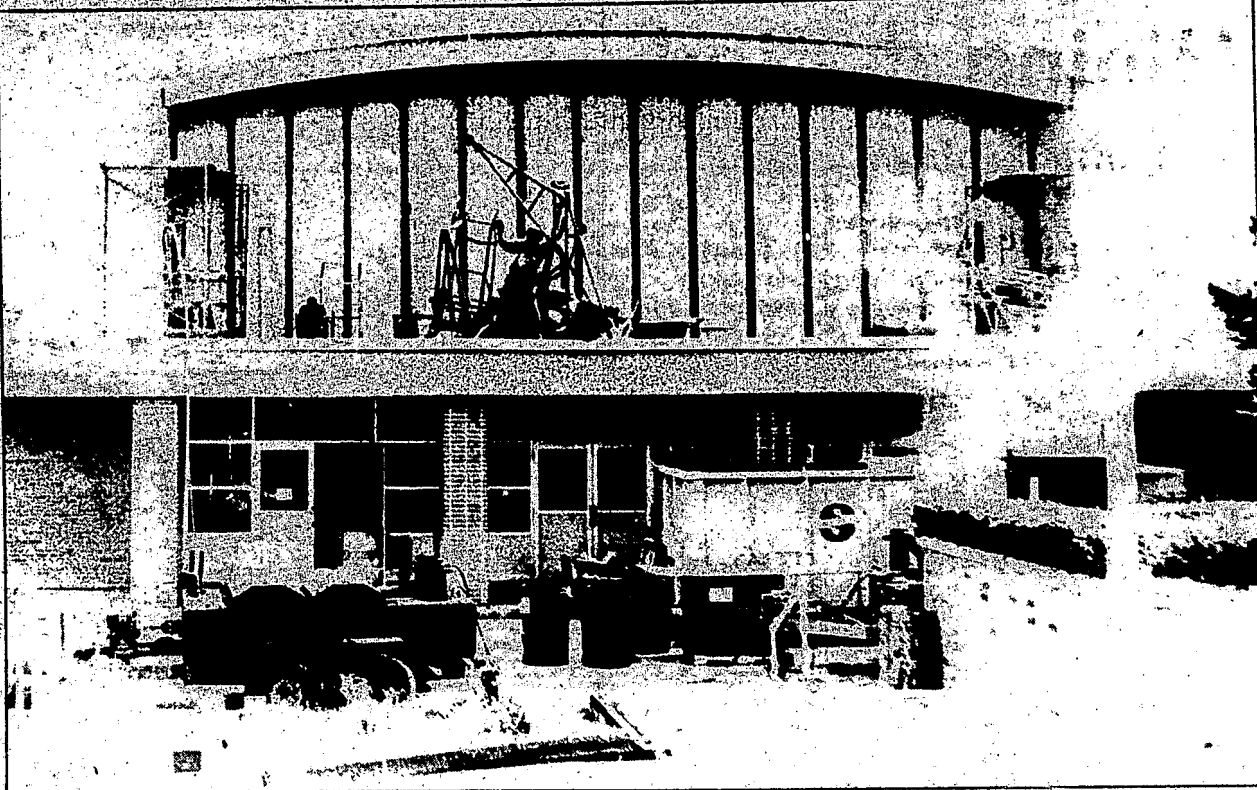

At its Aug. 15 meeting the Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals unanimously denied Skibowski's request to reconsider its earlier denial and allow him to mix cement on a temporary basis.

Charging Skibowski's 20-year-old business wasn't zoned for cement mixing, the township forced him to stop the service last October.

He appealed to the circuit court and lost, and again to the Michigan Court of Appeals.

Last month the court of appeals upheld the township and lower court's decision.

Skibowski, who's owned the store four years, has long maintained mixing small amount of cement for retail sale is not manufacturing, which is allowed only in industrial zones, not his highway commercial zoning.

GETTING READY: Back-to-school primping doesn't belong just to students. At Clarkston High School Aug. 17, roof and brick repairs in the gymnasium area symbolized the kinds of activities underway as people all over the district get ready for school.

Taxes due Sept. 14, extensions end

Clarkston village taxes are due Sept. 14.

The state legislature's ended the council's traditional five-week extension from the Sept. 14 deadline, and ended the traditional reprieve to pay until mid-October.

Late taxes can be paid to the County Treasurer's Office, County Court House, Pontiac, MI 48055.

Village President Carol Eberhardt says she's

"disgruntled" with the legislature not giving the council time to notify residents of the law's change so they could prepare to pay.

And she's notified Sen. Richard Fessler of her dissatisfaction.

"We were only notified just before the last council meeting and people I'm sure were counting the traditional extension," Eberhardt said.

Mining denied

Traffic problem cited

By Dan Vandenhemel

Possible traffic problems were cited as the main reason for rejecting the Charles Nunn Mining application to mine sand near the Sashabaw Road and I-75 intersection.

"We don't need the added traffic to that intersection that already has the highest total of traffic accidents in the township," Supervisor James Smith said at the Aug. 15 Independence Township Board meeting. "And I'm not convinced there won't be a dust problem, either."

Attorney for the owners of the mining proposal, Irving Keene, said they were requesting a temporary use for the property, not a permanent one.

Once the 50-acre site was made more level through the mining of sand, it was to have been developed into an industrial park. The present zoning is light industrial. The sand was to have been used in the construction of I-696 west of I-75.

"I think the objections are totally unwarranted," Keene said. "We'll be removing the grade and taking care of the nuisance. The township would benefit because the property would be used as it is zoned."

One of the owners of the mining proposal, Leo Sklar, objected to the board's decision.

"We've done everything you've asked us to do," he said. "We've attended every meeting that you've invited us to. I feel we're being discriminated against."

Because the board vote was a tie, 3-3, and not a majority opinion, the proposal was rejected. Treasurer Frederick Ritter, Clerk Richard Holman and Trustee Dale Stuart voted "yes." Smith, and trustees Daniel Travis and Larence Kozma voted "no." Trustee William Vandermark was absent.

Holman said the issue would be back on the board's Aug. 21 agenda.

"We advised their attorney about the agenda because we felt they did not really have a chance to respond," he said. "They can present new evidence, or some new arguments. But I don't anticipate a change of heart (by the board)."

Barn moving OK'd

The 120-year-old red wooden barn behind Tom Ritter's Italianate farmhouse on Dixie Highway got the high sign to relocate behind Ritter's Farm Market, next door to the west.

At its June 15 meeting the zoning board of appeals unanimously gave Ritter a 10-foot sideyard and 15-foot rearward setback variance to allow the relocation, according to Kenneth Delbridge, building and planning director.

"In the (commercial) zoning it is a permitted, accessory use," Delbridge said. "They just needed those variances to move the barn."

The barn is partially on land targeted by Burger King Corp. for a $600,000 fast-food restaurant. On its third attempt Aug. 9, Burger King failed to land final site plan approval from the township because it failed to get plans to the planning commission in time for review prior to the meeting.

Burger King holds an option to buy the property contingent upon site plan approval, with a clause to destroy the historic 120-year-old Ritter home 30 days after the closing if it hasn't been moved.

Burger King is scheduled again for final site plan approval Aug. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Township hall repairs

Sidewalk repairs and the removal of a storage tank are in store for Independence Township Hall.

Last week, the township board approved a $11,200 bid for the project from Guinn Construction Company of Pontiac.

The cement in the sidewalk leading to the hall from Main Street and the walkway between the hall and the annex is breaking up and needs to be replaced, according to Clerk Richard Holman.

"The tank is empty. It's an old water tank, they're just going to get rid of it," he said. "They should be starting anytime. We left it up to their convenience. I anticipate they'll start right away."

Hazel and Leo Armstrong and one of their spinners sit on a swing in the backyard of their Brandon Township home. Armstrong has a photograph taken when he was a young boy with a pigeon on his shoulder. This time, he poses with the pigeon on his knee.

Rolling 20s

By Kathy Greenfield

Leo Armstrong opens the hatch, and 20 of his rollers fly out.

Up, above the treetops, the graceful pigeons put on an acrobatics show. Individuals somersault through the air, dropping rapidly until they stop the tumbling motion and rejoin the group, called a kit, as they soar through the air.

The rolling action is what gives them their name, and they'll keep at it about 20 minutes on this hot day. In cooler weather they'll sometimes fly twice as long, returning together when they're ready—or when encouraged by the sound of Armstrong shaking a can of special bird feed.

Raising the birds is Armstrong's newly revived hobby, one he's enjoyed off and on for over 50 years. When he was a boy, he had pigeons for pets. Now he breeds the birds for their spinning skills and for their colors.

"It's really interesting," he says. "I'd rather do that than chase golf balls around."

While the birds fly in giant circles around their Brandon Township home, Armstrong and his wife, Hazel, look up to keep a close watch.

"Leo, that one with the yellow on his wings is tumbling good," she says.

She laughs about an unexpected benefit.

"I'll tell you, the arthritis in my neck is gone," she says. "We're going to have to take up another hobby to get this arthritis out of my legs."

Four years ago, following heart surgery, Armstrong sold his Springfield Township business, Armstrong Screw Products, and they retired in Blanchard, a small farming town located about 16 miles west of Alma.

The Clarkston area had been their home for "32 years sending eight kids through Clarkston schools," as he puts it. Medical needs and a home closer to their children brought them back a year later.

One of their sons gave Armstrong some rollers for a Christmas gift about two years ago, and he's been enjoying the challenges ever since.

"You've got something to look forward to," he says. "Us breeders try to breed the perfect bird."

Now he has about 100 pigeons. The 20 in his main kit are the best of the lot—exhibiting traits like flying closely together and spinning frequently. Others are separated into groups of hens, roosters and the babies, called peepers.

He feeds his collection of rollers special feed, and vitamins.

Breeding is almost a science. When working with colors, there are proven formulas. White bred with red yields a black pigeon, for instance, and that bird bred with a red pigeon yields yellow.

When breeding for rolling skills, however, the outcome is less precise.

"I've got a pair, they fly like a pair of buzzards," he says. "But they produce really good spinners."

Armstrong holds a peeper, the proper name for a baby pigeon.

Their aerial exhibition over, the pigeons return to their coop. They fly together in the sky and land all at once, both attributes if they were flying in a roller competition.

Historical society publishes Springfield past

By Kathy Greenfield

Eighteen months ago a 15-member committee formed to chronicle the history of Springfield Township. Last week their labors culminated with the delivery of the hardcover book, "Springfield: For Those Who Come After..."

"We're proud of it. We're really proud of it," said Lester Smith, chairperson of the history book committee of the Springfield Township Historical Society.

The dark blue book sports a silver logo stamped on its front. Inside are 140 pages—and 150 illustrations, including photographs, maps and documents.

"It's just very attractive and easy to read," said Cathy Phillips, member of the committee and the Springfield Township librarian.

One of the goals of the committee was to have a book ready when the township celebrates its 150th birthday in 1986, and they made it.

Much of the text is a reprint from the 1877 "History of Springfield Township." Short articles on such topics as the once flourishing millinery trade and the mill were prepared by the committee.

The book was edited by Clarkston resident Jennifer Radcliff, also the editor of "Heritage," the history book of Clarkston published in 1976.

The oldest photograph is an 1850 daguerreotype of Cornelius Davis, the first settler on land that became Davisburg. Many of the others were taken in the early 1900s, with a smattering of photos from the '30s and '40s.

"There are a lot of school pictures and group photographs, and a lot of the people are identified," said Phillips. "Most anybody who's had a family history here would find their name in it."

About 400 people ordered copies of the book in advance, and they can pick them up at the Springfield Township Library during regular hours, Monday through Thursday from noon to 8 p.m., Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. (625-0595)

Copies of the book may also be purchased at the library. The price is $15.

"It's got a lot of pictures, it's 140 pages, so it's well worth the money," Phillips said.

From left, Cathy Phillips, Lester Smith and Loren Tower go through the motions of sorting the history books and packing them for mailing.

Of the 1,000 copies ordered of "Springfield: For Those Who Come After," about 400 have already been sold.

Kathy
Greenfield

Never, in my wildest dreams, did I imagine I'd ever be enthused about a new dictionary.

It was an OK gift when I graduated from high school and needed my own supplies for college—right up there with the thesaurus and the bath towels. Essential but not thrilling.

But after searching through three old dictionaries for words like gofer and Lamaze, and finally finding them in the newest dictionary in the office I began to work up some appreciation.

I also noticed that the two words and some others I've looked up in this book with crisp pages had little stars next to them.

"How nice," I thought. "They've starred new entries to show how our language is changing."

Later I decided to search for the dictionary page that explains what all the symbols mean.

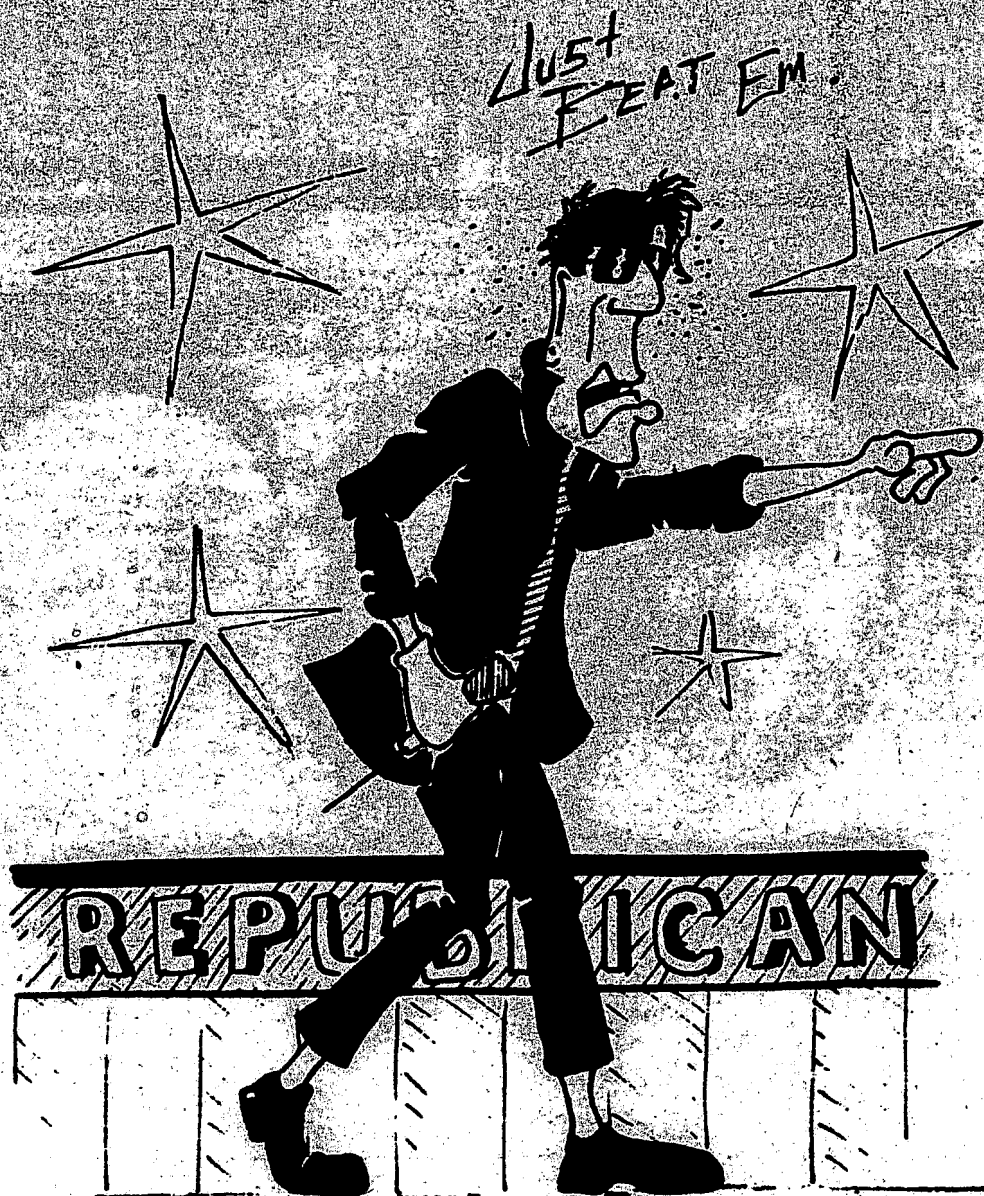

The star, it said, meant "Americanism," defined as "a word, phrase, or usage originating or particular to American English." The word Americanism is starred.

In the book's forward an article is included on the topic. These starred words have been building since English came to America early in the 17th century, it said, and much effort had been made to accurately identify thousands of words as Americanisms.

Here are a few samples: about-face, absorbent cotton, baby-sit, backpack, bad egg, bank account, batting average, belly-flop, bifocals, big shot, blind date, brainstorm, caucus, cavort, chili con carne, dental floss, English muffin, face lifting, fringe benefit, gee-whiz, hassle, kickback, junk food, lumberyard, overalls, phone, radar, roller coaster, student teacher, traveler's check, Watergate, water-ski, Yellow Pages, zipper.

As I said, there are thousands more listed in the book—some much more sophisticated and some that aren't surprises, such as the names of American holidays.

But the most interesting thing about the collection is they're our words, and reading them reveals a lot about our culture and our concerns.

Jim's Jottings

Handicap laws serve purpose

Jim Sherman

Prior to personal exposure (through a friend) to restroom needs of the physically handicapped, my concerns were economical. My economics, to be specific.

Preparing office space required the amount of remodeling necessary to bring me under the Barrier Free Design Act of 1966.

Meeting these requirements means subtracting office space for johns and jills. It also means different and more expensive fixtures, larger doorways, and railings for support.

The floor space is nearly double and so is the price.

Actually, I didn't object to any of these requirements. Building inspectors told me what had to be done and we did it. No problem, no argument.

Perhaps I would have shown some opposition had I not read some of publisher Rudy Petzold's experiences after he was stricken with a stroke.

Rudy is the much awarded publisher of the Tuscola County Advertiser in Caro. He's been there some 25 years, though his youthful appearance would belie the figure.

It's going on two years now since Rudy was struck while exercising. He spent tough days in a Saginaw Hospital and at home in therapy. He's still taking therapy, but he's also spending some time at the Advertiser office.

He's not writing much, but I remember well one of his first personal columns after he had ventured out in public in his wheelchair and/or crutch. He told of the unconcern of people toward those with obvious physical restrictions.

He mentioned rudeness, impoliteness, and selfishness of those about him as he waited in line at a restaurant.

From the tone of his column I assume he was surprised, disappointed and angered by the treatment he received . . . and at the same time he wondered if the other physically handicapped were treated the same way and felt the same as he.

Knowing Rudy and thinking of his column (and the handicapped) I still went to the Barrier Free Design Board in Lansing to get their approval to remodel a second floor of a 90-year-old building, without installing an elevator. With the elevator estimated cost of $45,000, remodeling was out of the question without the lift being excluded by the Board.

Of course, the Board realized it and approved our request. They are, after all, not out to get someone, just making sure the Act is complied with.

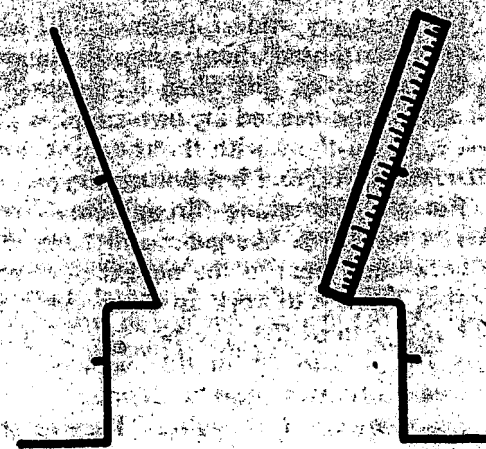

The Board made sure all facilities and employment opportunities were available on the ground floor, before giving me the nod.

The Barrier Free Design Board is doing its part for making physical surroundings adequate for the handicapped . . . now if something can be done to make mental surroundings adequate.

A tribute to Marie

Marie French, just an average, ordinary citizen, as she would say, is certainly more than that.

Marie works hard in the Village Bakeshop. And, as her many friends there have pointed out, she is a kind, warm-hearted and generous person. However, for me, she has one great attribute—her honesty.

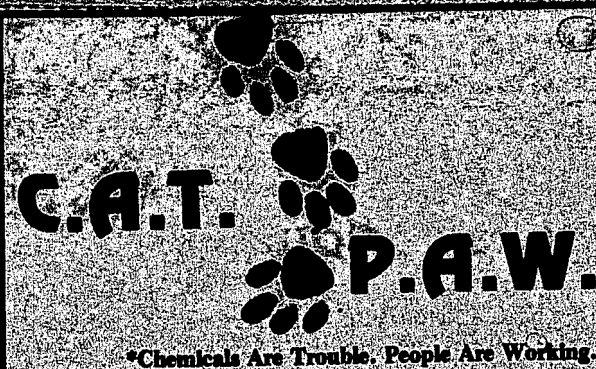

Marie found a small pouch containing valuable jewelry. There was never a thought in her mind of keeping it, and when she found the owner she made a special trip into town to return it to that person—me.

I will ever be grateful to her for her honesty. The sentimental value of said jewelry was irreplaceable. She has my deepest gratitude.

Marie would not accept a reward, so I'm writing this to let everyone in town know what a special person she is.

Daily Drinker

Dear Daily:
It is only beer, just like it's only bourbon, vodka or gin. One beer or one glass of wine is about equal to one average "highball." The effect might be a little slower but you'll get just as drunk on beer or wine as on "hard" liquor.

Dear Cat Paw:
How long does marijuana stay in the body after it is smoked?

Non-smoker

Dear Non:
Special tests can find marijuana's ingredients in the body up to a month after use. The amounts present depend on the strength and number of marijuana cigarettes smoked.

A full month of not smoking is necessary in order to completely rid the body of marijuana.

Dear Cat Paw:
My boy drinks beer daily, but thank God he isn't on drugs!

Mom

Dear Mom:
If he's hooked on drinking, he's on drugs. With nine million Americans dependent on alcohol, it's time we stopped pretending it isn't a drug. If you don't believe it, ask your doctor.

Dear Cat Paw:
What's the fastest way to sober up?

Hurry

Dear Hurry:
There is no shortcut. Not back coffee, not cold showers, nothing. Once the alcohol is in the bloodstream, only time can sober up the drinker.

The alcohol has to be metabolized, primarily by the liver. This process takes about one hour per drink, which is about a can of beer, glass of wine or shot of whiskey.

Dear Cat Paw:
What is a drug?

Old-timer

Dear Old-timer:
A drug is "any chemical substance that brings about physical, emotional or mental changes in people."

Alcohol, tobacco and even caffeine are drugs. Other less widely used drugs include THC (in marijuana and hashish), amphetamines, barbiturates, tranquilizers, narcotics, cocaine, phencyclidine (PCP), volatile chemicals (glue and other inhalants), and LSD.

Dear Cat Paw:
Where do most drug users make their first contact with illicit drugs?

Parent

Dear Parent:
Through their friends. The pressure from friends to experiment with drugs can influence many people to try drugs, especially young people.

Being accepted by friends is strong pressure. But showing friends that you care when they feel bad about themselves and their lives, and helping them solve problems can prevent them from becoming involved with drugs.

'If It Flitz ...'

Some honor!

Jim Fitzgerald

During last Sunday's doubleheader at Tiger Stadium, 42,761 people looked up to see a helicopter towing a sign saying: "Carol Cavillero, will you marry me?—Phil."

That was during the first game, which the Tigers lost, 5-4. During the second game, which the Tigers lost, 4-0, I said to my companion: "I would like to see a helicopter sign saying: 'No, Phil, you are a jerk'—Carol."

Tiger defeats make me sour. Besides, it was my birthday. Again.

A few days earlier, at a huge birthday party, Terrible Jean had handed me a birthday card in a brown paper bag to save postage. It should be pointed out that the party wasn't for me, it was for my brother-in-law Jack, one of the few people alive who is almost as old as Terrible Jean. No one gave me a party.

On the front of Terrible Jean's card, in flowery script, it said: "Happy Birthday to a Special Brother." I read it aloud, and many of Jack's friends (no one gave me a friend) expressed shock that Terrible Jean would give me a mushy card. I told them I would be shocked if the card were actually purchased for me. As usual, I was right.

On the inside of the card, the birthday message was addressed to "Bill" and signed "Frances." Bill is Terrible Jean's husband, and Frances is his sister. Terrible Jean barely crossed out their names and substituted mine and hers. And she changed the message to read:

"You're a very special brother / and you've always been that way / Though perhaps it isn't mentioned / very often day to day / That's why it's so important / when your special day is here / To wish you'd soak that big fat head / both now and through the year!"

The warm birthday sentiments continued. On the day of the doubleheader, my wife gave me an expensive-looking card with a plastic picture of a newspaperman protruding from the front. I remarked how sweet it was that, every year, she managed to find me a birthday card with a journalistic theme. And my daughter Ferd said she couldn't stand it any longer.

"Mother has been giving you the same birthday card for over 20 years," Ferd said, "and you've never noticed."

It was true. Each birthday she has been retrieving my card and saving it 12 months for recycling. The proof was on the back. When originally purchased, the card cost 25 cents. Today, it would cost 53. I never noticed it was the same card because I was blinded by my wife's chicanery.

SOME FRANKENMUTH FRIENDS clipped in and gave me a card featuring a picture of a silly-looking guy standing on top of a big pile of green fruit. The message: "Happy Birthday to someone who is adored by melons."

The card from my sister The Itch said she knew she couldn't have a nicer brother because she'd asked our parents many years ago and they'd said no. I also received several other birthday cards whose combined message, for the benefit of sensitive readers, was: "—"

So, I wasn't surprised, while watching Kansas City beat the Tigers twice, to look up and see it was Carol Cavillero, not me, who was honored by helicopter. The warmest birthday message I received said: "This year for your birthday give them the most precious gift of all." It was from my old friend J.C. Penney Co. Inc., who wanted me to hurry and buy life insurance while I was still alive enough to sign a check.

After leading a life of considerable dissipation, actor Richard Barton '58, died suddenly on my 58th birthday. I wish he hadn't done that.

Accident spurs advice

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story was written by Linda C. Richardson, 31, of Clare. Her car struck Travis Hackett, 11, Aug. 7, when his bicycle swerved in front of her vehicle. Linda could not sleep following the tragedy, and at 1 a.m. Aug. 8 wrote the following. At the time the boy was in critical condition; he died the following day (From the Clare Sentinel).

Today, I did everything I could.
Today, I hit an 11-year-old boy riding his bicycle. I don't know yet if I've killed him, paralyzed him, or just broke his body into slow-healing, painful pieces. Everybody says, it wasn't my fault. Everybody says, I did everything possible not to hit him. Everybody says, I did all that could be done afterwards, waiting. Everybody says, it was an accident. Everybody says, I did everything I could.
I was just in the wrong place at the wrong time. No, I'm not blaming him, he's just a kid on a bike.
Just a kid on a bike, or a kid on foot.

Have a story idea?

Have a news item or a suggestion for a story? Would you like to see something in The Clarkston News that isn't there now?

Let us know.

We're interested in what you think should be in your community newspaper.

There are three ways of contacting us.

•The Clarkston News phone number is 625-3370. We're here from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

•You can write us at 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

•If you're passing by, stop in and see us. If we're not open, you can leave a news item or story idea in our mail slot. It's right in the door.

We want to hear from you.

I've had them dart out in front of me before. Almost accidents, close calls, near misses just dangerous situations.

I've slammed on the brakes, swerved, blown the horn, even yelled out the window - whatever it took to avoid it.

I've driven away, sweating, shaking a little saying a few "Thank You, God" and "Crazy kids", and always relief - maybe even a little proud. I avoided hitting him - I did everything I could.

No, not everything I could. What about next time, or the time after, or twenty years from now as a pedestrian jay walking (I've done it)? A close call does not change habits/attitudes/lifespans. It doesn't stop "next times."

I haven't done anything - just avoided that one accident. I haven't stopped (hang the time) - grabbed the kid - shoot him - screamed at him - cried with him - hugged him - swatted him - hid his bike - dragged him to his parents - frightened him - loved - bullied - pleaded - threatened - whatever it took to make him know that dead is forever.

I will now.

Then, maybe I can say I did everything I could.

So, if your child comes home shook up because a crazy woman was a little rough on him and embarrassed him in front of his friends and maybe he even has a "watch it - Dead is Forever" or "Watch it - Somebody Loves You" button, forgive me for interfering. But be thankful your child could come home at all.

And, I beg you, if you see either of my sons riding dangerously, do everything you can. And maybe then, we can all say "I did everything I could."

Mania

Al Zawacky

According to the papers I read, some 145,000 people paid a minimum of $30 a crack to see and hear the Jacksons perform last weekend. Now, when 145,000 people gather in one spot and spend $4,350,000 in just three days, we are not talking about an insignificant event. There is some real social commentary here.

Yes, this is Clarkston's wizened old philosopher speaking again. Those of you who aren't in the mood for weighty thoughts should read no further.

LET ME FIRST pay the proper tributes. I like the Jacksons' music. "Thriller" is a great album. Michael Jackson himself, from the accounts I've heard, is a decent—if somewhat eccentric—young man.

None of this, however, can rationally explain why so many people would camp overnight for tickets, pay outrageous prices (some tickets were scalped for as much as $120 apiece), and generally go bananas over the presence of just another human being who happens to sing and dance well. Michael Jackson, after all (Is it heresy to say this?), must daily tend to such mundane chores as eating, drinking and sleeping to stay alive, just like the rest of us do.

America loves to worship at the altar of stardom; it is one of our nation's great vices. We tend to equate celebrity status and fame with goodness and virtue. Enter any hospital, medical research lab, police station or school, and you can find a lineup of individuals who contribute more to planet Earth in one week than any entertainer does in a lifetime. But—policemen, doctors and teachers do not sing and dance, so we are not impressed. (Given this obsession with shallow stardom, was it not inevitable that one day we would elect a former movie actor as our national leader?)

SOME DEGREE OF escapism is healthy. We need diversions from our daily routines—whether we find them in football games, hobbies, afternoon soap operas, or entertainers.

But I have often wondered—what could we accomplish if the energy and enthusiasm evident at events like the Jackson concert were channeled into something that really mattered?

If 145,000 people gathered over three days, pitched in $30 apiece and raised over $4 million to peacefully call for a reduction in the tax burden, or declare an all-out war on crime, or demand a balanced federal budget—good Lord, could you imagine the shockwaves in Lansing and Washington? Especially when you consider how even a modest number of angry constituent letters and phone calls can set our political waters to tossing.

But I am guilty of engaging in wild fantasies. Forgive me. Elections and political debates will continue to draw tepid enthusiasm and modest public attention; visits by big-name entertainers will continue to draw throngs of people and generate much excitement. It is the law of the land and, some historians have argued, democracy is safer because of it.

I'm not so sure. I suspect this phenomenon neatly explains why this country has more great recording stars than it does great statesmen.

Sheriff's log

Tuesday, thieves stole a $1,200 four-wheel ATV from a barn on Holcomb Road, Independence Township.

Wednesday, thieves stole a CB-radio and cassettes from a truck parked in a driveway on Brucedale, Independence Township.

Wednesday, vandals threw a rock and broke the front window of home on Bitterbush Drive, Independence Township.

Wednesday, thieves broke into a home on Clarkston Road, Independence Township, and stole a microwave oven and a video tape recorder.

Wednesday, thieves broke into a motor home on Red Bud Lane, Independence Township, and stole a half gallon of rum.

Saturday, thieves broke into a garage on Reese

Road, Independence Township, and stole a $600 10-speed bike.

Sunday, divers from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department recovered a 1981 Monte Carlo from Townsend Lake in Independence Township.

The driver, who police say was drunk, took his clothes off, drove the car into the lake, and walked on foot to a friend's house.

Police believed the 26-year-old from Toledo had drowned and began a diving search when he appeared, unharmed.

Sunday, vandals, wielding a baseball bat caused an unknown amount of damage when they smashed all the windows in a 1974 truck on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township.

Sunday, a thief pumped $20 worth of gas from the Payless Service Station, Dixie Highway, Independence Township, and drove off without paying.

This information came from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON AMENDMENT TO ORDINANCE NO. 72

THE VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON ORDAINS:

Section 13.02 entitled Powers of Board of Zoning Appeals shall be amended to add subsection (8) to read as follows:

(8) 1. Permit in any Zoning District, such modifications of the regulations of this Ordinance governing height, area lot coverage, yards, or other characteristics of the building or its location on the lot, as may be necessary to permit the relocation and placement of an existing building, or to permit reconstruction of a previously non-conforming structure which has been destroyed through fire, wind or other calamity, on a lot within the Village of Clarkston, when each of the following facts are affirmatively found to exist by the Zoning Board of Appeals.

(a) The structure and its proposed site location, in the case of an existing building, have been approved by the State of Michigan History Division or similar federal agency as being a contributor to the Historical District;

(b) The proposed building and its proposed site location in the case of a previously non-conforming building are so approved; and

(c) The applicant has set forth in detail which is deemed sufficient by the Zoning Board of Appeals, the location and size of the proposed building, the plans, which have been approved by the State of Michigan or federal agency, the site layout and its relation to streets giving access to it, as well as to buildings or uses; and

(d) The proposed use or uses shall be of such location, size and character as to be in harmony with the appropriate and orderly development of the Zoning District involved and shall not be detrimental to the orderly development of adjacent Zoning Districts; and

(e) The location and size of the proposed use or uses, the nature and intensity of the principal use and all accessory uses, the site layout and its relation to streets giving access to it, shall be such that traffic to and from the structure and the assembly of persons in connection therewith, will not be hazardous or inconvenient to the neighborhood. In applying this standard the Board shall consider among other things: convenient routes for pedestrian traffic, the relationship of the proposed structure to main traffic thoroughfares and to streets and road intersections; and the general character and intensity of the existing and potential development of the neighborhood. The Board shall determine that the proposed building will not have a detrimental effect; and

(f) The proposed relocation is in the public interest in that it will preserve or enhance the historic nature of the Village; and

2. Not by way of limitation of sub-section (3) of this Section, the Zoning Board of Appeals shall impose the following limitations or requirements on an applicant for a variance under this sub-section:

(a) The Zoning Board of Appeals shall require that all necessary permits have been obtained, that specifications from the Michigan History Division, or similar federal agency, as to correct restoration procedures, be outlined, that the applicant post a surety bond, in such amount and with such sureties as it alone determines sufficient, conditioned on the faithful completion of the relocation or reconstruction in strict compliance with the plans proposed and approved by the Zoning Board of Appeals.

(b) The Zoning Board of Appeals shall impose such inspection requirements as it determines to be necessary to assure compliance with the approved plans.

(c) At the Election of Zoning Board of Appeals affirming findings under this section shall constitute affirmative findings under Section 13.03 (A) (1) below.

EFFECTIVE DATE

This Ordinance shall be in effect twenty (20) days after passage.

Made and passed by the Village Council of the Village of Clarkston, Oakland County, Michigan on this 30th day of July, 1984.

Rotary club feasts on old-fashion cooking

Bonnie Donofrio, 76, shares her talents

By Dan Vandenberg

Every Wednesday evening, Springfield Township Hall is overtaken by the aromas of a home cooked meal.

Downstairs in the basement of the hall, the Davisburg Rotary Club feasts on their weekly banquet prepared by Bonnie Donofrio.

For the past 12 years, the 76-year-old has bought, cooked, served and cleaned the dishes for the Rotary club dinners. Currently, her granddaughter Heidi Vines is helping with the task.

"It's just to help them out," Mrs. Donofrio said. "The Rotary is a good organization, they're non-profit. I try to give them a good meal."

"Helping out" seems to be the key word for Mrs. Donofrio and the Rotary club.

The Rotarians volunteered to fix up her home on Norman Road in Springfield Township.

Outside painting, caulking the windows and repairing broken awnings kept club members busy every Saturday for six weeks.

Sprinklers denied

The sprinkler system proposed for Lakeview Cemetery is all dried up.

The Independence Township Board denied the proposal to install the sprinklers at its Aug. 14 meeting, basically because of the cost, said Clerk Richard Holman said.

The underground system would have cost around $130,000 for the 25-acre cemetery.

"If we went with it, it would bankrupt the cemetery fund," Holman said. "As far as the board is concerned, I don't think there is any likelihood the sprinklers will ever come about. Some of the graves are poorly marked so it would be an astronomical feat to engineer it around those graves."

Crafts sign-up

Crafters' space is available for "His Handiwork," the second annual arts and crafts show and sale planned Nov. 9 and 10 at the Church of the Resurrection.

Rental fees are $25 for the first table and $20 for each additional table. The church is located at 6490 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

For applications or more information call Susan Augur at 625-5965.

Mrs. Donofrio bought the paint, while everything else came from the club treasury.

"It was wonderful," she said. "They saved me a lot of work. I would have done the painting but the other things I wouldn't have done. I fed them when they were there, too."

Rotary member Pat Tinson said their cook asked them to help with the painting in the areas of her home she couldn't reach.

"When we got there, there was a good deal more to do," he said. "She does a real good job for us so we helped her out."

M-15 arguments

Sharron Catallo of Church Street said the parking on Main Street is very important to the businesses.

"They need the parking to survive," she said. "We could have a ghost town here."

The board unanimously agreed on a resolution to have the highway department make a commitment to maintain the village as it is currently. Trustee William Vandermark was absent.

Flajole indicated he would seek responses to the board's questions and concerns and present the answers to the board at some future date.

License approved

something concrete in the changes. They gave us some vague information at the meeting. I felt we wanted to know what they were doing. I have no problem with giving them the license, but they weren't following what we wanted."

Final approval for the license comes from the State Liquor Control Commission.

To prepare the weekly dinner for the 25 members, Donofrio begins around 4 p.m. every Wednesday and the meal isn't served until 7. Saturday is her day to shop for the food with the $100 the Rotarians pay her a week.

All the work doesn't go unnoticed. The Rotarians have yet to grumble about the cooking she's supplied.

"They'd better not complain. If they did, I wouldn't be here," Mrs. Donofrio said. "I've talked to other people and they told me they don't want my job."

Jr. Miss info

Young women who live in the Clarkston school district and will be seniors this year are eligible to participate in the Clarkston Junior Miss program.

For application and orientation information, call Junior Miss chairperson Barbara Hamaker at 625-4041.

Past contestants and committee members are continuing work to raise money for this year's scholarship fund, and their latest effort is a car wash Saturday, Aug. 25, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Rademacher Chevy, 6750 Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

79-year-old poet tells how her writing began

By Marilyn Trumper

When Genevieve Gosh had three children to support and a husband who wouldn't work—she kneeled down and prayed to God.

"I'd prayed and prayed and prayed, and God never answered my prayers. This time I said, 'God, take my life, or take me out of my misery.' And it was as if a hand patted my shoulder. I felt a cool breeze. And suddenly, I was happy at once. God really helped me that day."

To mark the event, she authored the poem, "Only Trust in Him," and at 79, she's still writing.

"I guess I've got about 80 poems now," she smiled, ed, her blue eyes sparkling. She drops down onto a flowered couch in her Buttercup Lane home, one she built 17 years ago after moving to Independence Township.

"I'm happy. I'm really happy. I've lived the life of Riley. I go anywhere and do anything I want. I have everything I want, God," she said, "has been good to me."

Genevieve left her husband, and in 1945 landed a job at General Motors as a secretary.

"All I wanted was $100 to get a divorce," she said.

She retired from GM 22 years later.

When inspired to write, she uses typing and shorthand skills mastered years ago at a desk.

There's no arthritis in her nearly 80-year-old hands.

"I belong to (a women's club) and when I come home after hearing them say 'My back hurts' or 'I ache,' I thank God I'm in such good shape. God's been good to me."

"When I sit down to write in shorthand, it comes out in rhyme and rhythm, as if a ghost were the driving force behind it all."

There's one thorn in her side.

"I should lose weight," she smiles. "But I love to eat. Just give me a pork chop and I'm happy."

A sampling of her poems

CLOUD PICTURES

Have you ever looked toward Heaven
And watched the clouds roll by?
Have you ever seen an angel
Or a bold knight in the sky?

Once I gazed on a garden
With flowers all in rows
And an old-fashioned farmer
Sprinkling with a hose.

Once I saw a great big giant
Watching a flock of sheep;
At least he didn't lose the flock
Like silly, poor Bo-Peep.

But the grandest thing by far
That ever passed my way
Was a beautiful, large rainbow
At the end of a perfect day.

DAINTY LITTLE DANDELION

Dainty little dandelion,
Dancing down the street—
Your seeds blown in every corner,
Even 'round my feet.

I know the children like you most

(Maybe 'cause you're free)
But please don't rest on my new lawn.
This is my decree!

GOOD TIMES

It was a hot day in August.
I didn't know what to do.
I thought of a jolly man
That I once knew.

He was a lovely talker,
And boy, did we have fun!
He used to tell me stories
'Til I just had to run.

Some stories were about cowboys
And some were about the war.
When it was time to go to bed
I'd beg him to tell me more.

He used to tell some funny ones
About Irish men and such.
He knew some real good jokes, too.
I liked them very much.

But now he's dead and buried
Beneath the cold, dark sod.
I know he's gone to Heaven
To live up there with God.

At 79, Genevieve Gosh is a poet. A paperback book on her coffee table tells how to make $20,000 a year writing. But she insists, she has all the money she wants, does everything she wants, and lives the life of Riley. She's first to thank God for it.

New: Latchkey

New this fall, the Clarkston school district Community Education Department's offering Latchkey, a before-and-after school program for kids who would otherwise go home to an empty house.

Open to children enrolled in kindergarten through sixth grade, it caters to students at Pine Knob and North Sashabaw elementaries. Buses will transport kids from Pine Knob to North Sashabaw, where it will be held Monday through Friday.

There's a $2 registration fee, and Latchkey costs $1.50 an hour, with the price going down per child when families enroll two or more kids.

It begins Aug. 29, the first day of school, and runs until school's out in June. Hours are 7:25 a.m. until school starts, and after school until 6 p.m.

Students will be supervised by a teacher and two aides, and learn social skills, crafts, games and physical activities.

Because it's licensed by the state, ADC mothers are eligible to use their child support to pay for Latchkey.

An open house is planned Monday, Aug. 27, at 7:30 p.m. at North Sashabaw Elementary, 5290 Maybee, Independence Township. Parents and their children are invited. For more information phone 673-7756.

WHEEL EASY: A new ramp in a hallway at Clarkston High School means students in wheelchairs or on crutches will no longer be forced to go outside to get from one level of classrooms to the other without maneuvering stairs.

Ultralights: More than a hobby

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Almont Airport is quiet in the early morning hours. One of the four hangars at the private airport is open to the morning haze.

Inside, 14 tightly parked ultralight aircraft sit waiting for the attention of their owners.

On this morning, Roger Smith is checking over his newly acquired ultralight.

The experimental crafts have long colorful wings, sleek cockpits, and an overall appearance of a powerful kite.

But the ultralights are used for more than just a hobby.

Smith, a resident of Hillview Shores, Independence Township, is the president of EAA (Experimental Aircraft Association) Ultralight Chapter 28.

Besides holding that high post, he organized the Ultralight Search and Rescue Team (USRT) in Michigan to help with aiding state and local police forces. USRT has recently gone nationwide.

"A couple of years ago in the gravel pits at Oxford a couple of kids were lost and the parents called the Almont Airport to try and rent a plane to help look," said Smith, who is a Pontiac policeman. "I offered to help with my ultralight and with the help of some other pilots we were able to comb the area better and get a different perspective. The kids were found in Ohio as runaways, but the look on the parents' faces when we went to help told me there was a need for something like this."

Along with the search and rescue, Smith also has patrolled the Pontiac Silverdome during events to help with the traffic flow.

"It works, it really works," Smith said of the ultralight for police work. "Thirty-seven departments around the country use them now. Downey, Calif., has four planes and 10 flyers that patrol all the time."

There are limitations to the experimental crafts. They have to be registered with Air Safety Foundation, not weigh more than 254 pounds and have the proper instruments and markings.

The one-seater planes can cruise at a top speed of 60 mph for about three hours. The average cost is $5,000 to $7,000.

"You have to know a lot about flying," said Smith. "We stress the training aspect of flying. There's a saying that is pretty true, 'There are bold pilots and there are old pilots but there are no old, bold pilots.'"

Smith said there haven't been many serious accidents in the decade ultralights have been around.

"There has never been an injury to a person on the ground when a ultralight has fallen," he said.

"These things float if the engine conks out."

The four support cables of the wings can hold up to 5,000 pounds, according to Smith.

"The plane almost could fly on one of those cables. They're really safe. Accidents happen, but you do what you can to avoid them," he said.

Checking the instruments of his ultralight aircraft, Roger Smith explains the plane can help with search and rescue operations, and traffic patrols for police departments.

Statutory bag limits shall apply—2 male pheasants per day, 4 in possession, and 8 during the season.

Pheasants taken in any of the prescribed pheasant put-take areas shall be included in the small game hunter's daily bag and possession limit.

This Order replaces the previous Order entitled, "Pheasant Hunting Regulations for 1983," CWI-231.83, dated June 10, 1983, and shall take effect October 10, 1984 and remain valid until November 11, 1984.

Cable system part of 12th largest in country

One out of every six homes in Independence Township and Clarkston is now hooked up to cable-TV, according to figures from Tribune/United Cable Communications.

In numbers, that breaks down to 1,200 hook-ups for the about 7,200 residences in the community.

The service is available in most areas south of I-75 and work continues to serve the remainder of the township where the population is less dense.

Meanwhile, the former maintenance garage owned by Clarkston Community Schools on Waldon Road next to Clarkston Junior High has undergone a metamorphosis.

"It's taken a lot of work to turn this into our office and studio," says Manuel Copado, manager of new market development for Tribune/United. "We're very pleased with the way it's turned out."

The first round of marketing and installation was completed in mid-September, and Copado says it's gone well, with about half of the customers who can have service signed up.

Part of the reason, he says, is the availability of the Pro Am Sports Service—and the Tiger baseball games not televised anywhere else.

Tribune/United came into being in December 1982. It was established to seek the cable franchise for an 11-community consortium in southern Oakland County.

Now it's one of the strongest organizations in cable television, the 12th largest in the United States and the largest individually owned, according to Copado.

Its customer-count is expected to surpass 120,000 by the end of the year here and in the consortium of Avon Township, Auburn Hills, Berkley, Clawson, Ferndale, Huntington Woods, Oakland Township, Pleasant Ridge, Rochester, Royal Oak and Troy.

"We've been able to attract top people," says Copado. "Because of what we're doing in Oakland County, we have one of the strongest engineering departments."

That doesn't mean there haven't been problems.

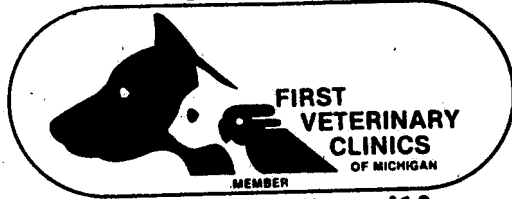

"The first couple of months are the most difficult," he says. "Because of the sophistication of the hardware, these systems like ours across the county are in a sense having to work all the bugs out ourselves."

The advantages of the system, he says, far outweigh the disadvantages. Customers are able to add, subtract or change the selections of stations they pay for—with a telephone call.

Office hours at 6570 Waldon are 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 5 p.m. weekdays and customers can come in to make payments or ask questions about billing or service.

New season, league ahead for Wolves

By Dan Vandenhemel

With their freshman season out of the way, the varsity soccer team at Clarkston High School is ready to concentrate on the upcoming schedule.

Six players are returning from the varsity squad that was 0-13-1 in the inaugural season of the program. This year, the Wolves are in the newly formed North Oakland Soccer Association (NOSA) with Lake Orion, Oxford, Milford and Lakeland.

"They would desire to be on top or near the top of the league in its first year," varsity coach Neil Granlund said. "Our goal for this year is to improve on last year."

The returning players are John Reading, J.R. Keelin, Mike Zabel, Derek Brown, Ron Forbes and Steve Zoss.

Each of the five schools in the new league started a varsity soccer program in the last two years, making the competition closer.

Since the final game of the season last fall, the players have kept busy with winter indoor soccer leagues and summer clinics.

"If hard work and determination is all you need, I can see a successful season for us," Granlund said. "A number of players went to camps at Oakland University, (University of) Michigan and some camps up north."

Practices for the varsity and junior varsity teams began Aug. 13. From 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. five days a week, the two teams worked up a sweat behind the high school.

"I try to break up the practice with drills and scrimmages. When school starts, we're not going to have as much time to work on skills," the coach said.

Although practice sessions appear lengthy, Granlund said they're putting in some quality hours. He plans to place this saying above the goal post: "It's not the number of hours you put in, it's what you do with those hours."

"It seems they want to help each other out," he said. "They point out problems but not in a bad sense. I think they know what to expect this year. They're not so nervous."

Tough defeat ends season

By Dan Vandenhemel

The summer baseball season came to an abrupt end for a group of Independence Township players.

The Village Clinic, a team of 13- to 14-year-olds in the Independence Township Parks and Recreation league, lost in the state regional quarterfinals Aug. 13 to a team from East Lansing.

They dropped a close decision, 2-1, in Dearborn despite a strong pitching performance by Jeff Tungate.

Tungate struck out 13 batters in the game and kept his team in the battle.

Village Clinic, coached by John Gilbert and Paul Tungate, finished the season with a 14-2 record which included a 10-1 league record.

"We made a couple of mistakes and it cost us two runs," coach Tungate said. "But you can't fault kids at this age for mistakes."

They scored their run in the first inning when Mike Gilbert walked, stole second and then third before Stacy Turner drove him home with a single up the middle. East Lansing pushed across runs in fifth and sixth innings.

"We made a couple of mistakes... But you can't fault kids at this age for mistakes." —Paul Tungate

In the 9-3 pounding of a Saginaw team in the district tournament the week before, Village Clinic showed some of its strength.

"Everyone hit the ball well," Tungate said. "Stacy (Turner) had a home run and a single and Jeff (Tungate) and Keenan Powell each had a couple of hits. We've been hitting all year. Several different players have come through. Other than our loss to Moscovice Builders in the league, most of the games were lopsided."

Up My Alley

Starting again

By Dan Vandenhornel

Some quick thoughts as the school year starts faster than most of us want it to.

Parents across the land will organize and petition their state capitals to have the first day of school recognized as a legal holiday for all except educators and pupils.

At the same time, students will vote to have the day abolished forever.

There will be as many bright faces as there are gloomy ones come Aug. 29.

The next nine months will go as fast as the summer vacation did.

Walking around the halls, seeing friends and being in a crowd is not what school is for, but it helps.

Many students will realize school isn't as bad as they thought.

Many teachers will realize it, too. Back to the books, there'll be late night homework and the excuses the following day for not having the assignment done...

...all the lectures and the unreadable notes that go together.

...more tests, quizzes and term papers. Ah, but what about the dances and the football games, the after-school activities?

When the school buses hit the road, undoubtedly someone will not see the big yellow vehicle with flashing red lights and narrowly miss a student about to walk across the road.

For the college students, how about the long walks between buildings...

...the bills rung up at the book store.

...being just a number in a lecture class of 200 other numbers.

...the profs that take that little extra time after the class is over to explain personally the theory of the universe.

...the long walks between buildings in a snowstorm.

...the coffee machines once you get there.

...the student centers where the entire population of the college seems to be at lunchtime.

The mention of dorm life probably brings a smile or two to a few students.

But the cramming for exams doesn't. Going back to school will be a nice change of pace from the lazy summer of time at the beach.

sleeping in, no homework...

Your real financial power

A new credit system from Pontiac State Bank lets you borrow any amount of money from as little as $500 to as much as $99,000.

Based upon the equity in your home, this PSB system is called Equity Line. It gives you remarkable freedom.

You can use the money anytime for any purpose. Buy a car, a boat, an unusual gift. Or anything else. Pay college bills. Make home improvements. Take out cash. You could even use Equity Line to start a new business if you choose.

Equity Line is easy to use. Simply write checks — as many as you please. And only one application is required. Once your credit line is approved, you may never need to apply for another loan.

The cost is very reasonable. In fact, the current rate is far below most credit cards. Find out the full details. Stop in at any PSB office for a free brochure.

Mason highlights school budget

By Marilyn Trumper

This year the Clarkston School District has a $22 million budget, $4 million more than last year—and higher than any budget in the district's history.

The 1984-85 year is shaping up to be one of major construction and renovation.

Voters approved a $1.75 million bond issue in June to finance gyms for the five elementary schools, and the school board approved a $735,000 loan to pay for the window renovation of all schools in the district and other changes to make them more energy efficient. What the school saves in fuel costs is expected to pay for the system, according to Superintendent Milford Mason.

In addition, the board's budgeted $243,312 from the 1983-84 and 1984-85 general funds to buy six new school buses; has approved renovation of eight lavatories in the high school, making one accessible to the handicapped, and construction of a ramp in the high school, making the second level accessible to the handicapped; and has budgeted $40,000 for a new lighting system in the high school auditorium.

Finally, $175,000 is budgeted to finance roof repairs at the high school, Clarkston Junior High and Bailey Lake Elementary, which was badly damaged during a freak windstorm in May.

According to Mason, the gym's bond issue matures in 14 years.

"That was something we really needed," he said. "There was no space to put the youngsters together for physical activities, assemblies, presentations or music. And after-school activities were just as much a problem. We've used the halls or they haven't done the activities at all."

Work is expected to begin when school starts and be completed next year. School officials have yet to decide with bidding contractors whether the gyms will be built simultaneously or one at a time, Mason said.

Work to eliminate all but one row of windows and update inside heating mechanisms began weeks ago and is in its third, and final stage, Mason said.

"That's the work that's most visible to the public," he said.

Work began on Clarkston Junior High School and Clarkston Elementary, now in the final exterior painting stage. The same procedure will follow across the district, with similar work on Andersonville, Bailey Lake and Pine Knob elementaries and the Learning Center and only minor changes at Sashabaw Junior High School and North Sashabaw Elementary.

"It was a problem we had to face. Ours are much older buildings with a lot of glass. Many of the window frames had deteriorated. With the rapid changes from heat to cold here, we found them very difficult to heat," Mason said. "We'll pay off the principal and interest of the loan with savings in energy costs."

"We're looking at raw dollars and energy costs that always go up. With the change, we'll be in a different position of cost than if we had done nothing," he said.

Meeting a rotation scheduled established in 1981, the district's buying six buses every other year, turning over its fleet every eight years, Mason said.

Running at peak, the are 24 regular-run buses and six spares. Half the fleet burns gasoline, the other half diesel fuel.

"I really think we could keep a bus running for 20 years, keeping the drive train intact we can go on and on and on. It's the body that gives out and deteriorates," Mason said.

"Even though they're washed regularly and we keep them clean, a large portion of the school district's roads are not paved, they're narrow, and that really takes its toll."

Before handicapped renovations at the high school, people confined to wheelchairs were forced to get from the ground level to the upper level by going outside and entering through another door.

"That," said Mason, "is why we've made the changes. It's a 24-year-old building, and it was time to accomodate the handicapped."

The summer's been busy for Superintendent Milford Mason with work underway on projects ranging from energy conservation to five new elementary school gymnasiums.

Schools' window work continues into fall

By Kathy Greenfield

The portion of the energy conservation program that involves window replacement in Clarkston schools is behind schedule, but Superintendent Milford Mason isn't worried.

When the $735,000 plan was approved, window completion was projected by the end of August, with the possible addition of tackboard to the interiors later.

Now work on the building exteriors is expected to continue into the fall.

15 still out of work

Laid-off teachers return this year

Three Clarkston teachers laid off since 1981 will be back this year, leaving only 15 still on the layoff list that peaked at 39 names in 1982 as the economy floundered and enrollment declined.

"Within in a year, the way we're going, we'll probably have depleted this list," said Conrad Bruce, Clarkston schools administrative assistant in charge of personnel.

"There are some real good, young people on the layoff list and we're just tickled to death to get some of them back—and that's good," he added. "We didn't want to lose some of these people and that hasn't happened so far. We're getting most of them back."

He's found most are willing to give up interim jobs for their first career choice.

"It's interesting," he said, "most of them have hung in there. I get calls weekly from some of the teachers on the list asking 'When do you think I'm going to be recalled?'"

Elementary school teachers recalled from the '81-82 list this year include Mary Dedrick, Marion Herrell Buchbinder and Debra Latozas.

One-year leaves of absence for teachers are now readily accepted by the district, and that has affected the layoff list more than any other factor, according to Bruce.

The change in policy began in 1979 when personal leaves were included in the teachers' contract. Previously, few such leaves were granted by the district.

The existing layoff list now includes six elementary school teachers, seven secondary and one special education.

On the secondary list, two are physical education teachers who are likely to be recalled when the district's five elementary school gymnasiums are completed for the 1985 school year.

Three on the secondary list are industrial arts teachers, an area where Bruce does not expect recalls. Because the curriculum is in the process of changing, he sees future need for teachers skilled in high-tech areas and in the basics.

The district will hire new teachers in mathematics, English and social studies this year at

"The insides are pretty much done," said Mason. "That's why I'm not terribly nervous about it, because they can continue to work on the outside while school is in session."

Mason said residents have not come to him with comments on how the project is changing the appearance of the schools, but employees at Clarkston Junior High School said reactions were "mixed" and stated concerns about comfort on hot days and adequate lighting in the classrooms which now have only one 4-by-6-foot window.

"We checked all the lighting aspects out before we even went into the project, at night and so forth, with light meters. The footcandle indicates the light should be sufficient," Mason said. "I think it's the perception more than the reality that's creating the comment."

"We've also found out on some of the dog days it's much cooler than it would be," he said.

And he noted that none of the schools, as of Aug. 10, looked like they would when completed.

"It's difficult when you look at the outside. All I can say is that's not the finished product yet," he said.

Workers at Clarkston Junior High School agreed. They listed the three steps of the window replacement project there were completed—the drywalling, insulation with plastic foam and the base coat.

The final step is the finish, which is troweled on, and at CJHS the color will be burgundy to match the existing trim.

Different colors have been selected to complement existing trim on each school involved in window replacement—CJHS, Clarkston Elementary, Andersonville Elementary, Pine Knob Elementary, and the Learning Center. Some existing windows will be covered with panels at Bailey Lake Elementary and Clarkston High School, and there will be only minor changes in appearance at the district's newest schools, Sashabaw Junior High and North Sashabaw Elementary.

The energy conservation project also includes weatherstripping, covering and insulating skylights, adding thermostats with timers at some schools and duct work at CHS.

As new director, Ellis outlines curriculum

By Dan Vandenhemel

For the past two years Alberta Ellis, Conard Bruce and others have been working on a curriculum program for the Clarkston school district.

Now the plan is nearing the final stages and Ellis will get the chance to put the project into motion as the new District Curriculum Director.

She was promoted in July from her position of assistant principal at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center, a job she has held for the last seven years.

Part of the new job for the Timber Ridge Trail, Independence Township, resident is to implement the curriculum plan for kindergarten through 12th-graders.

"I'm looking at this as a challenge," Ellis said. "We've been working on the plan a couple of years. I

"The plan is to enhance and make the skills more systematic."

can start to implement it now. I figure it will take about three to five years for the entire program to work. This will be the gearing up year. It'll build up slowly."

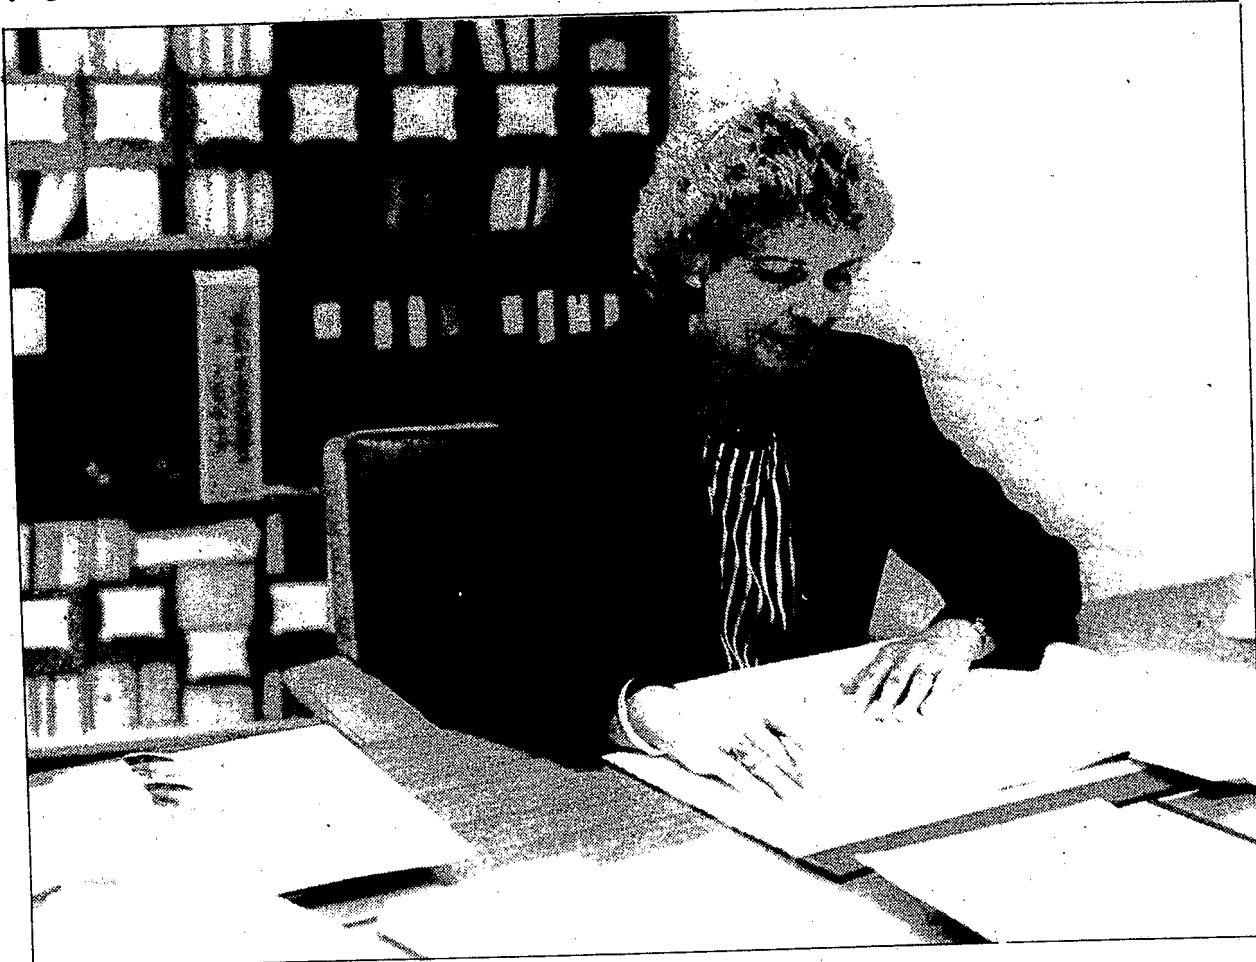

She'll also work with teachers to provide proper learning skills for pupils.

"I'm not going in and saying we're doing it wrong," she said. "The plan is to enhance and make the skills more systematic. I can see a link between the elementary, junior highs and the high school."

The new curriculum plan calls for more attention to high-tech. Keyboard operations, beginning of a foreign language and improved math skills are going to be emphasized starting at the elementary level.

"We didn't write a new curriculum. We reorganized what should occur at each level," Ellis said. "We've done something to every course. The new plan doesn't say how the teachers should teach. It is just a recommendation of what should be taught."

"With computers becoming more and more a part of our lives, children should be getting used to a keyboard in the elementary level. We're trying to prepare the students for the future."

Implementing a curriculum plan is going to be a major portion of the new position of Alberta

Ellis as curriculum director of Clarkston Community Schools.

Cable gives residents good variety

Shows could be produced by neighbors

By Kathy Greenfield

Now over 1,200 customers hooked up to cable-TV in Independence Township and Clarkston can flip their dial to dozens of channels.

And soon they'll be able to make their own programs or watch ones produced by their fellow residents.

That's the goal of Jim Vonderhaar, local access director for Tribune/United Cable Communications.

Part of his job is to teach residents how to film, direct and produce TV programs, and the free classes to do just that are beginning next month at the office

"I think just about everything that comes out of here will have some degree of polish. I don't think I'd ever turn down anything done by someone for air."

—Jim Vonderhaar

on Waldon Road next to Clarkston Junior High School.

"It's extremely important to the community as a whole," he said. "It gives the community an opportunity to participate in the kind of program they feel is important in the community."

"We provide the equipment, studio, most importantly the training and the general supervision. But the neat thing is the people of Clarkston-Independence can participate in the programs themselves."

The studio itself is a fascinating place.

Inside are walls lined in white, studio lights on tracks and stands, TV cameras and talk-show type chairs.

Another room looks like a miniature television editing studio with miniature screens and editing features. Still another contains more editing equipment.

Vonderhaar completed his master's degree in broadcast production and engineering at Central Michigan University in December. In March he was hired by Tribune/United, in time to see the creation of the Independence-Clarkston studio and cable system.

"It's been very interesting," he said. "There have been a lot of advantages to seeing it spring up from the ground. It's really increasing my knowledge of every aspect or phase of what it takes to put a system together."

There are five local stations, and each was established to cover different types of programming. For now, however, Channel 11 will be the one used first for programs with the others offering printed messages.

"When my (Channel 11) program schedule is busting at the seams, we're going to be launching another one," he said.

The other channels and their future use are 32 for religious access, 33 for Clarkston Community Schools, 34 for government access and 35 for library access.

In order to check out the equipment for taping events and recording the sound, residents are required to participate in the free instruction which begins with an eight-hour course that meets from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays or Thursdays beginning Sept. 4 and 6.

Those who take the classes must be at least 18 years old, because that's the age they must be to check out equipment.

With the first class, such events as a church sermon, keynote speaker or awards banquet could be recorded.

Once the initial class is taken, others will be available and students can take them all or select an area of concentration.

They include 16 hours of study in studio production to include lighting techniques, directing and graphics; 16 hours in remote production and how to use portable equipment; and 16 hours in aesthetics and editing.

Once he has some graduates and training has gone on in the video production classes at Clarkston High School, Vonderhaar expects to have a nucleus crew so that requests for coverage could be filled.

One thing he's not worried about is the quality of programs.

"I guess that's kind of a question whether only the slicks will survive," he said. "I think just about everything that comes out of here will have some degree of polish. I don't think I'd ever turn down anything done by someone for air."

The classes are available on a first-come, first-served basis. For more information call Vonderhaar at 625-7069.

Police seek troubled teen

Police from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department are looking for a teenage boy suspected of seeking sexual favors from an 11-year-old Independence Township youth inside McDonald's at Sashabaw and Maybee roads Aug. 16.

The boy was unharmed. According to reports, the boy had been sharing a meal with a friend and left to use the bathroom. He was followed by a teen he describes as a male between 15 and 16 years old, 5-foot-5, medium build, with blond to brown hair.

The teen offered him $20 for sexual services. The boy refused and the teen left on a bicycle.

According to reports, the boy had never seen the teen before.

Persons with information are asked to call the Oakland County Sheriff's Department at 858-4980.

Davisburg Daze dunkings

The floatable boats draw the largest attention and the most laughs with more than a few floatables sinking.

Once again Collin Walls heads for the depths of the dunk tank during Davisburg Daze Aug. 18 in Springfield Township. The township supervisor was in the tank for almost an hour and emerged quite water-logged. The annual event at the Mill Pond Park was a success, according to Walls.

2 area artists paint for picnic

Two Clarkston area artists are among local participants in the Byers Teddy Bear Picnic planned Aug. 25 and 26 in Commerce Township.

The primitive paintings of Audrey Lau and basketry of Jeannean McDaniel are among an array of items for sale at the event, open from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days.

There'll be authors, artists and folk arts, plus a show and sale of teddy bear related items.

Activities on Saturday include a parade and contest for teddy bear owners of all ages. Registration, between 11 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., is $1, with the parade led by a bagpiper at 1 and the contest, with ribbon prizes, at 2.

Clowns, music and an ice cream social with straw-berry ice cream are part of the plans, and a display of bears in the wooded area has been dubbed "Teddy Bearadise."

The picnic is planned at Byers Homestead and Historic Site, 213 Commerce Rd., Commerce Township. (363-9795)

Proceeds are to benefit abandoned and abused animals, and the Commerce Historical Society.

Tetreault-Burger

Mr. and Mrs. Verne Tetreault of Fawn Valley Drive, Independence Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dianne Lynn, to Mark C. Burger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burger of Maybee, Mich. The bride-to-be is a 1984 graduate of Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, with a bachelor's degree in education. Her fiancé graduated from Albion College, Albion, in 1982. He is currently attending law school at Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio.

LADIES OF THE CLUB: Members of the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club gather Monday to weed and feed the pots of plants that line Main Street, Clarkston. Among members at work pinching back trailing petunias and removing seed pods are [from left] Helen Woolfenden, Carol Lowrie and Sally Shields. Member Mary Alice Cook explained the volunteer effort, the idea of club president Virginia Walter: "We appreciate the business people for putting them up and we are going to show our appreciation by cleaning them up."

In service

Airman David Froling Jr. graduated with honors from the United States Department of Defense fire protection course at Chanute Air Force Base, Ill.

He is scheduled to serve with the 81st Civil Engineering Squadron at RAF Bentwaters, England.

Froling graduated from Clarkston High School in 1983. His parents are Sandra Froling of Bluewater Drive, Springfield Township, and David Froling of Cedar Loop, Brandon Township.

Honors

PROMOTED: Dr. Louis Lessard was recently promoted to the rank of Lt. Commander in the United States Navy. His wife, the former Alicia Jones of Jonesville, participated in the July 6th ceremony. Lessard graduated from the Kansas City College of Osteopathic Medicine in 1980. He served an internship at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital from 1980-81 and served as aviation medical officer at Glenview Naval Air Station, Great Lakes, Ill., from 1981-83. He is currently a third-year resident in family practice at the Charleston Naval Hospital. The Lessards and their three daughters reside in Snee Farms, Mt. Pleasant, S.C. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lessard Sr. of Havelock Drive, Independence Township.

At camp

Two local students attended the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp's fourth summer session in Twin Lake.

Kenlea Pebbles, a band major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Pebbles.

Heather Brooks, a dance major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Folts.

AWARD WINNERS: Following completion of requirements in the Christian Youth Crusade program of the Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church, Janelle Hopper and Kevin Sturgis received the Fairbairn award and the John Wesley Medallion. The awards ceremony was held at the church on Winell Road, Independence Township. Janelle is the daughter of Kay Hopper of Independence Township and Kevin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sturgis of Waterford.

Voc teacher marvels at new milling machine

By Kathy Greenfield

In his 12 years of teaching machine trades at Clarkston's Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center, Bill Holmes has never seen anything like this.

It's the biggest change ever, and it involves a computerized milling machine.

Holmes just completed teaching a non-credit, two-week class for six students called "Orientation to CNC Computer Numerical Controlled Machining and Programming."

His enthusiasm is boundless, only to be matched by his students—who were "attentive, asked questions and learned."

"I didn't have a single kid miss a class," he said. "They came in early. I had to kick them out at 12."

Controlled by the CNC, or Computer Numerical

Control, the milling machine can handle simple basic milling drilling operations to complex mold making.

It's so efficient and fast that the $23,000 machine can pay for itself in six months in a factory setting, and that's why Holmes sees its operation as an important skill. It won't be long, he said, before every machine tool is equipped with a computer.

To illustrate its efficiency, he holds up a piece of steel milled in the machine. If a operator with 30 years' experience were to make such a part, it would take about six hours. But to program the machine and have it cut one out takes about 50 minutes—and once programed, it would take about 20 minutes for additional pieces.

"The machine," said Holmes, "doesn't take coffee breaks. It doesn't make mistakes if you program it right."

In dollars and cents, pieces that once had to cost $40 apiece can now be sold for $10 each if made with the CNC.

"If a machine shop nowadays doesn't have a CNC, they're going to go under," he said.

For Holmes' students, skill with the machine translates into better employment opportunities.

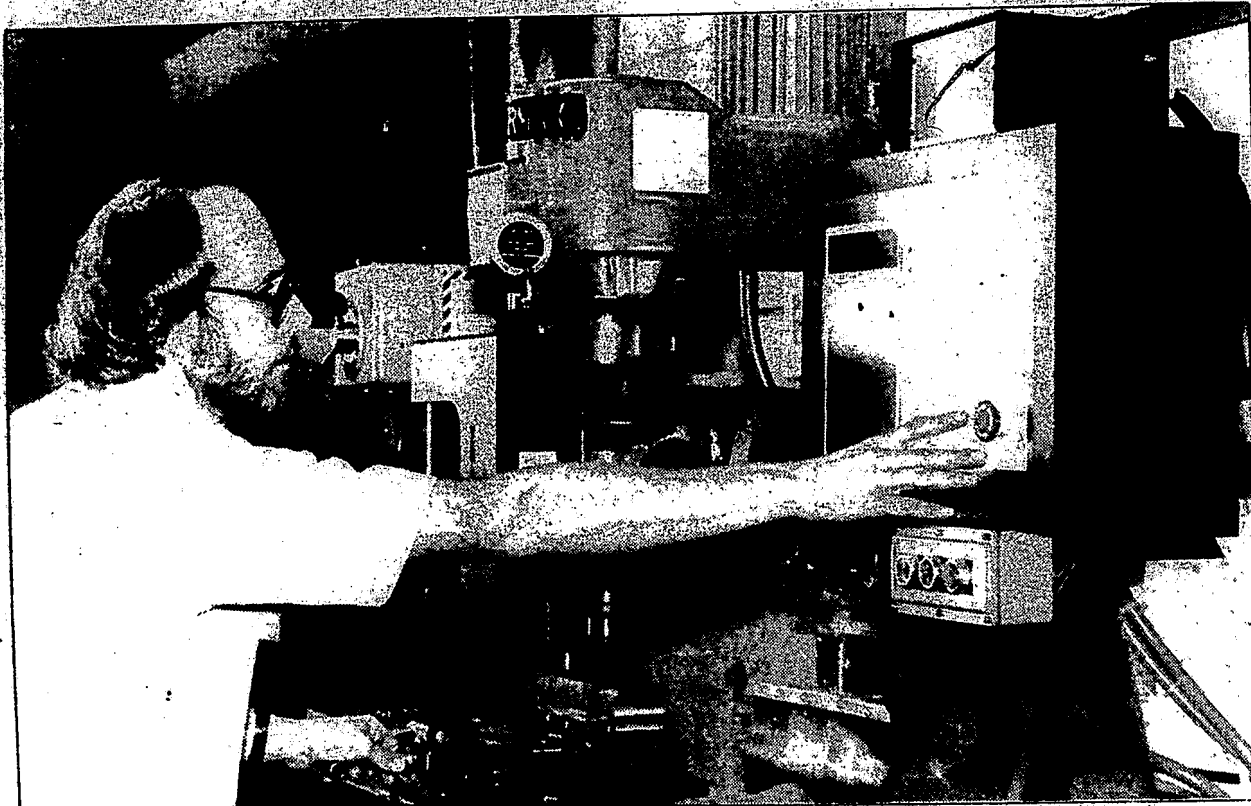

"A student taking this particular class can go out in industry (and) tell them I've been in a CNC class," he said. "This would be a definite feather in somebody's hat, as far as getting a job."

Holmes wrote the textbook for the two-week summer school class offered from Aug. 6-17. He figures he spent about 200 hours this summer teaching himself how to operate the CNC and putting the course together.

"I am definitely excited about it," he said. "I learned so much from this machine."

The CNC will be part of the machine trades courses he teaches at the vocational school, but not in as much depth.

For that, students will have to attend summer school or adult education courses, expected to be offered beginning in the spring.

Once programed, all it takes is the push of a button, says NWOVEC Instructor Bill Holmes, and a computer-operated milling machine can produce parts in a fraction of the time it would take an experienced millwright. The new piece of equipment is now part of his classroom.

We've got the computer your kids can grow up with. IBM PCjr.

Whatever the age of the student in your family, it's the right age for PCjr, the newest addition to the IBM family of personal computers.

One easy lesson from us will show you that while "Junior" makes computing simple enough even for a young child, it's sophisticated enough for the MBA or PhD.

Visit our store today. See for yourself what a powerful learning tool PCjr can be. And what a wise investment in any child's future.

Special ed class

This year Clarkston Community Education's offering a special class for the developmentally disabled age 26 and up—and it'll be held at St. Daniel's Catholic Church beginning Sept. 17.

"We had people from the area ask us to come up with something that would service these people, the trainable mentally impaired," said Kathleen O'Donnell, community education director.

"It's for adults 26 and over who, according to state guidelines, are no longer eligible for education in the K-12 system."

Students are expected to come from the townships of Holly, Brandon, Waterford, Oxford, Orion and Independence, she said.

With one similar class offered in Berkley, Clarkston will be only the second Oakland County Community to offer the program, which will teach living skills, math, reading, cooking and physical education.

One teacher and two aides will be hired, she said. "We're first looking to serve the people of Clarkston," O'Donnell said. "They're the ones that picked up the ball and asked for our help."

the high school. Two are because of personal one-year leaves for English teacher Kate Germuska and social studies teacher Gary Nustad.

There's another change this year Bruce has never seen before. Special education teachers Laura Larson and Susan Powers are sharing one job at Bailey Lake Elementary.

The unusual arrangement will work because they do not meet with their pupils every day as in a conventional classroom situation, Bruce said.
