Fall ballot asks .5 mill for police

By Marilyn Trumper

Faced with a dwindling police fund that would be in the red should Independence Township keep its newly hired seventh deputy—the board's agreed to cancel his contract effective Nov. 30, and for the sixth time since 1976 ask voters this November to approve a millage increase for police.

At its Aug. 21 meeting the board voted 5 to 1 to place the question of levying .5 of a mill for police on the November ballot, a half mill less than the one mill voters defeated three weeks ago on the primary ballot.

Trustee Dale Stuart was the lone dissenter, and voted "no" because he wants the seventh deputy to stop work now, not in November.

"We're seriously lowering the fund balance to a dangerous position, and I recommend we terminate the seventh deputy as soon as possible," Stuart said.

"And I'm not going to vote for another millage until we're able to say to the people exactly what it will do for them. That's why I think (the millage) failed.

"If there is a need, then we've got to sell it," he said after the meeting.

Currently the township levys one mill for police, which generates approximately $265,000 to pay for the salary and equipment of six full-time deputies, approximately $52,000 each. For four years the township's supplemented its $292,152 police bill with federal revenue sharing, using $24,000 in '84-85, $20,000 in '83-84, $59,000 in '82-83 and $9,250 in '80-81.

The difference comes from interest income, liquor license fees and the Village of Clarkston's police contracting fee.

Its current fund balance of $144,675 gets closer to the red each year, and will be $115,015 in March of '85 if the seventh deputy remains on the payroll, according to Treasurer Frederick Ritter.

Attorney says he'll sue for the right to mine

Township board to reconsider its decision Sept. 4

By Marilyn Trumper

If the Independence Township Board reconsiders and again denies Charles Nunn's proposed 50-acre land-leveling operation at Sashabaw and Waldon roads—he's suing.

Nunn's attorney Irving Keene says they'll seek $2 million in damages for the township's refusal to "...allow them economic use of their land..." as outlined in the 5th and 14th amendments, which say no person shall be deprived of their property without just compensation.

According to Keene, a federal court in Cincinnati in the similar case of Hamilton Bank vs Williamson County Planning Commission, recently affirmed a $350,000 judgment against the planning commission.

The board's expected to rehear the controversial issue at its Sept. 4 meeting, 7:30 p.m., Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Under the township's new, more restrictive mining ordinance adopted in 1983, Nunn must apply for a permit to mine sand and level the 50 acres, making them buildable for an industrial park.

At the Aug. 21 meeting Keene asked the board to reconsider its 3-3 vote from the meeting a week earlier, and instead approve Nunn's proposed plan. It was denied because of traffic hazards.

First introduced in 1980, when the bottom fell out of the market, Nunn's plan never got off the ground.

Keene says his clients will use sand from the mine to complete work on I-696 west of I-75.

The township planning commission, building department and professional planner all approved the plan, according to Clerk Richard Holman.

Opposition comes from Borg-Warner Equities, owners of the Pine Knob Manor Homes which sell for upwards of $250,000 a unit. In a June 28 letter Borg attorney Joseph Galvin said his company objects to the mine because it will "seriously diminish the value" of Borg's property.

In addition, it cites no benefit to Independence Township for allowing the mine; that it will create an additional traffic hazard at an intersection which has Independence's highest number of accidents, 20 in 1982, and finally, that Nunn hasn't met the requirements of the township's zoning ordinance.

At the Aug. 21 meeting Clerk Holman asked Keene to address Galvin's objections via letter, but he refused.

"We've given you all we're going to," he told the board. After the meeting, he indicated his clients would sue if the plan isn't approved Sept. 4.

Walker's pushing for condos

By Marilyn Trumper

Developer Frank Walker's still pushing for his proposed condominiums on Deer Lake, at least in the village portion—and goes before the Village of Clarkston's planning commission Sept. 4 with a proposed ordinance amendment that would allow the $200,000 units to be built.

At the village council meeting Aug. 20, Walker argued that condominiums are single family dwellings, and that the ordinance needs a "reclassification" to allow them, according to President Carol Eberhardt.

"I agree with him," she said after the meeting. "The council directed it to the planning commission for review, and to consider (his development) under a Planned Unit Development (PUD)."

"The village needs ways to increase its tax base, and this is just one way to do it," Eberhardt said. "I would like to see it seriously considered."

In early June, despite the planning commission's recommendation to approve, the village denied Walker's plan to build on 1.67 acres off White Lake Road next to the west village limit. Council cited the density of such a development, spot zoning and Walker's inability to show need in his quest for a rezoning.

Walker remains optimistic.

"We still are very positive on it," he said. "We feel there's a need in the community for this type of development."

Police tax

The proposed .5 of a mill increase would yield approximately $130,000 for an undetermined number of years.

The millage wording is scheduled for discussion at the next township board meeting, Sept. 4, 7:30 p.m.; Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Ritter home cleared for move downtown

By Marilyn Trumper

There's a string of drainage, runoff and DNR permits needed to move the 120-year-old Ritter home downtown Clarkston—as well Federal and State Highway Department permits to take down lights, electrical and telephone wiring across Dixie Highway and M-15.

But Hank and Jennifer Radcliff are going to give it their best shot.

At its Aug. 23 meeting the village board of appeals gave the Radcliffs a 10-foot sideyard and seven-foot height variance to move the historic Italianate home to the vacant lot, north of the Mill Pond municipal parking lot.

The 5 to 1 vote before a standing-room-only crowd of 30 people came under the village's newly amended zoning ordinance that allows the ZBA to approve the relocation or construction of historic homes with the Michigan History Division sanctioning their contribution to history.

Lillian Bauer abstained, saying after the meeting she thought the home should be located elsewhere, that the lot was too small.

Members Edward Thomson, H.W. Yoh., James Schultz, Howard Huttenlocher and Richard Weiss voted "yes."

The agreement stipulates all DNR, drainage, runoff and highway department permits be received before the house is moved, according to Bauer, who added some members of the audience objected to the move, believing the lot was too small.

"They also didn't think the apartments would be big enough," she added.

The board of appeals granted Radcliff a variance to put two upstairs apartments in 489 square feet. Village ordinance calls for a 600 square feet for two apartments.

After the meeting, Radcliff said he was pleased. "Now what I call the fun work begins," he said. "It'll be productive. We have the movers take care of all the permits they needs, and we've already got the wheels of motion for the others."

Burger King Corp. has an option-to-buy land the old farmhouse sits on, the targeted site of its proposed $600,000 fast-food restaurant next to Ritter's Farm Market. Despite several appearances before the township's planning commission, Burger King's not been able to land final site plan approval because its officials haven't had the proper information. A clause in the option agreement allows for the home's destruction 30-days after closing, expected when Burger King finally receives final site plan approval.

Sheriff reserve back to work

Join township's new deputy in crime prevention

By Marilyn Trumper

When 25 laid-off deputies from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department returned to work three weeks ago after a year and a half of attrition, the department's 70-man volunteer reserve force was eligible to work in Independence and Springfield townships and other county municipalities.

The reserves were idled in January of 1982 because a contract clause prohibits them from working when full-time deputies are laid off.

Already, two reserves are assigned to Independence Township's newly hired seventh-deputy working crime prevention, traffic patrol at the Pine Knob Music Theatre and crowd control at the Michigan Renaissance Festival.

It's expected they'll be directing traffic and maintaining crowds at Clarkston's Labor Day Parade too.

"They're community-based people," said Lt. Gerald Reeves, in charge of the reserves. "They know the area and are in tune to the community's needs. They've established good rapport with the locals."

"Each (deputy) would be hard pressed to turn down free assistance and back-up," Reeves said.

Trevor Wingfield, an 8-year veteran of the reserve force, is pleased to be back in uniform.

"I think it's fantastic," said Wingfield, a charter member of the reserves. "This is what we've been waiting for and we're back."

At its Aug. 21 meeting the Independence Township Board authorized the reserves use of the assessing department's third car.

According to Sgt. Robert Smith of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, the car will not be used for pursuit, but for patrol and whatever other uses he can find.

Aquarium sign comes down

By Marilyn Trumper

After six years—the Clarkston Aquarium sign's come down from the resale shop storefront One More Time on Main Street.

The aquarium's been gone since 1978, according to Carol Eberhardt, resale shop owner and president of the Village of Clarkston. Before taking office, she lobbied hard was successful in amending the ordinance to allow overhanging and marquee signs.

In the past, management balked at removing the outdated inserts because the sign would lose its nonconforming status and have to be removed altogether.

"I'm thrilled it's down," Eberhardt said, acknowledging the sign remained hanging a full year after the ordinance allowed it to be removed.

"It wasn't my decision, it was the landlords," Eberhardt said.

"A group of friends met me on the sidewalk and we cheered and clapped. I know the workmen thought we were nuts."

Just days before the sign was removed, Eberhardt continued to field inquiries about the fish store.

Two perches

Taking a break from the day's work, this costumed employee of the Renaissance Festival climbs to a lookout point and surveys the village below, buzzing with people shopping and playing.

As part of her costume, a colorfully feathered bird perches on this Renaissance maiden's shoulder.

Exercise your freedom and vote

During the recent primary in Independence Township only 3,077 voters out of 12,800 eligible, or 24 percent, cast ballots.

This is a sad reflection of the interest people are showing in their government. Despite the growing impact decisions made by officials have on our lives, two-thirds of those eligible remained at home.

Voting is one of the great privileges granted to citizens in the United States. Our founding fathers pledged their lives and property that we might have this right, and wars have been fought to preserve it. Yet, thousands cast it away without thought.

Oh yes, some will argue that it makes no difference who gets elected. All politicians are the same. That attitude allows unqualified individuals to gain office simply because they must run out only a limited number of supporters to win. There are many examples of how much difference a single vote or a handful of votes can make.

Freedom carries with it certain responsibilities. One is to remain vigilant about what government is doing and to play a role by voting. It only requires a few minutes to cast a ballot, and that is time well invested.

I hope that all those who chose to sit out the primary will reconsider and make a genuine effort to vote in the general election. Failure to exercise one's franchise is irresponsible. Those who are not interested enough to vote have no right to complain.

But beyond that, the greatest danger is that if we become complacent about voting, there is an opportunity for the unscrupulous to prevail.

This is a great nation, but it will only remain so if each of us takes his or her responsibilities seriously. The first step is to vote in every election.

Colleen M. Waananen

Viewpoint:

In memory . . .

Al Zawacky

This week, my family silently observed a sad anniversary. Eight years ago Sunday, my grandmother suffered a massive stroke; she passed away four months later, having never regained consciousness.

How many, many memories I have of this lady, the only grandparent I had who lived long enough for me to know. I remember her as alternately stern and loving, somber and joyous. She was happiest in the presence of her family, or shopping the dime and department stores in old Hamtramck, or wearing an apron in the kitchen on one of those Friday afternoons when she'd come and visit us, and help my mom prepare some ethnic feast like kielbasa, kapusta, and Polish meatballs.

More than love her, I admired her. She had character—a kind of character rare in my generation.

MY GRANDMOTHER CAME to this country in 1921. Her father was a physician—a pious, upright and intelligent man with a bushy Victorian-style mustache. When war came to Europe in 1914, the Russians decided they needed his medical skills and, without apology, dragged off a man in his 50's with eight children to serve as a medic in the Russian Army. He returned at the end of the war to find his home, farm and savings destroyed; a few years later, aged and tired, he was dead.

My grandmother spoke little about what she saw during the war. The hunger, devastation and the sight of a Russian Cossack hacking off a German soldier's head on her father's land was not something she wanted to reminisce about.

So she came to America, seeking, like so many others, a better life. She had the ideal temperament for an immigrant: A commitment to the work ethic, unimpeachable honesty, and a personal brashness that defied intimidation or exploitation.

She came here with nothing, endured the tragic loss of child, and weathered the Great Depression by working in food packing plants and pie factories for 25 cents an hour. Finally, with the aid of a daughter she helped send through business school—my mom—she saved up enough money to purchase an old home in the Harper and Van Dyke area of Detroit.

Her blue eyes could be soft and loving—especially with her grandchildren—but they could also be piercing and stern. My grandmother knew the difference between right and wrong and made no apologies for defending the former and condemning the latter. She was not one to mince words or make excuses. And yet, no matter how little she had, she never passed a street beggar without making a contribution, or failed to share what food she had with those who had even less.

SHE WAS NOT perfect. She could be exasperatingly stubborn and domineering. It wasn't until later that I realized that these traits were one of the sources of her strength. To endure what she did and carve out a life in a strange land required a strong character.

Yet, like all grandmothers, she could be counted on to weaken and say "yes" to my brother and I when we knew mom would say "no."

She was one of a generation that met head on the challenges of a hard life. My generation, by comparison, is a collection of hedonistic whiners and wimps. My grandmother expected nothing out of life that she didn't put in first. Life owed her no comfort or guaranteed success. Her's was not the "me generation." It was the "we generation"—we as in family and community.

Today, a barren patch of charred earth is all that remains of the home she was so proud of. Next New Year's Eve, it'll be eight years since she was laid to rest. But, I like to flatter myself by thinking that somewhere deep inside of me, an ember of her firm and noble character still glows. I can still remember the funeral, looking at her for the last time, stupidly embarrassed about the streaks of tears on my face. I still miss her today, and I know I always will.

Jim's Jottings

Flying high

Jim Sherman

Did you read where People Express is going to fly people from Detroit to Newark for $45? I assume you walk back.

The newspapers are predicting another airfare war. Freddie Laker will love it.

This morning I heard Piedmont airline would fly youngsters to never-never land for $39. Then there's the $99 special that takes you to Kansas City, or is it Salt Lake City?

No matter, the point is the Uniteds, Americans, TWAs, Frontiers, etc. can get you to here, there and everywhere for practically no money, according to their barkers.

But, alas, I find the fares are low except when you go.

I'm planning to attend a newspaper convention in Reno next month. Maybe its runway is not as popular as O'Hare in Chicago, but it's a popular place.

So, I called a friendly travel agent and asked for fares. How about $409 to go and come? Not satisfied with this low-low fare, I called what I was told was a lower fare flyer, Frontier.

Frontier even sounds western, just like Reno. Ah, they'll fly me there and back at a savings of $20. Trouble is, to get home I have to leave Reno about the time the sun comes up, which would be ok if I stayed up all night.

What I'm getting at is the ballyho is no different for airlines than it is for selling cars. The price is low unless you want to fly, or want heat in your car. I don't know why I can accept this bologna with car promotions, but find it upsetting in air fares.

I remember asking for flying costs to Tampa, Florida last year and being told it was over $300 round trip. Newspaper ads had been shouting "AIRFARE TO TAMPA ONLY $109" since September.

When I reminded the airline representative of the difference between advertised and actual price I interpreted the answer to be something like: "Oh, you want to take a plane?"

Comedian Alan King does a great job ridiculing airlines and their services. Trouble is, he's very close to my experiences.

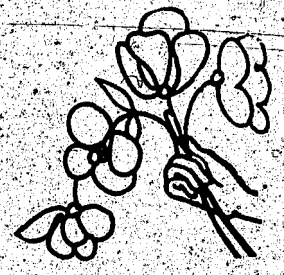

On one flight the Captain said, "We've reached our altitude and you're free to leave your seats."

I stood up to talk to a friend and the flight attendant (Don't call them waitresses or stewardesses) said, in a not-the-friendly-sky-tone, "Would you take your seat? We have to get through here."

Playing the part of a martyr, I've never stood up in a plane since, even through abdominal pain. I also haven't flown United since . . . or until I go to Reno and I hope I don't have to go on the way.

The Mahlers

The Independence Township Library Summer Reading Program owes an important part of its success this year to the efforts of many volunteers who helped decorate the library, assisted in the weekly programs, kept records and generally were of tremendous help in making the program what is hoped was enjoyable and worthwhile.

Particular appreciation is extended to Julie Meredith, Jeannie and Bonnie Whetstone, Sandy Coulter, Sara Spiece and all the adults who gave their time.

The library and all the children who participated are especially grateful to the local merchants and businessmen in the area who contributed items for our Costume Party prizes and for the Grand Lottery.

A most sincere and hearty acknowledgement is expressed to all who helped us in every way.

Anne Rose,
children's librarian

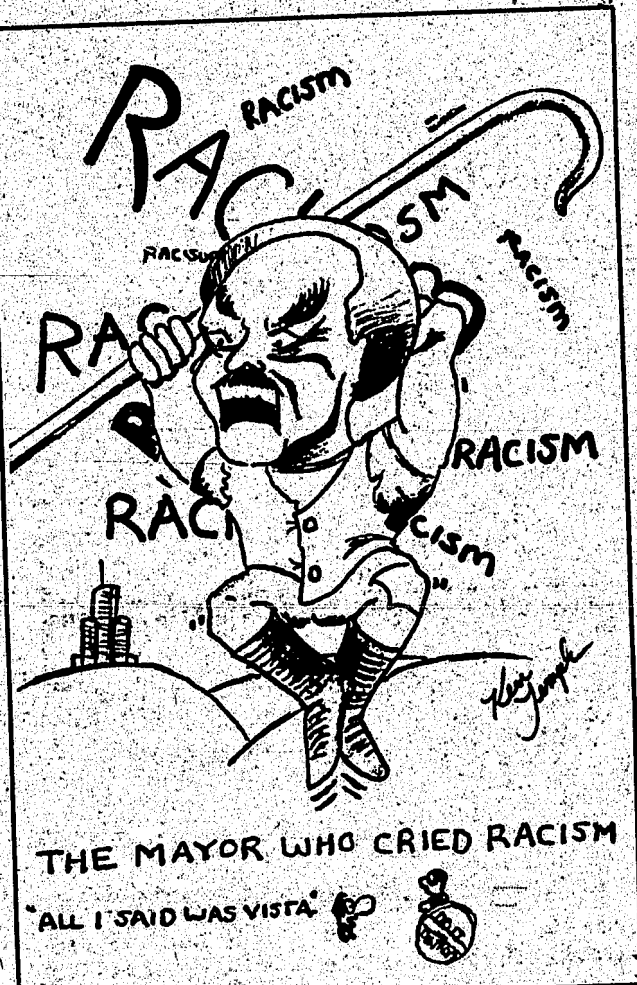

Thanks for the safety path in Woodglen

The children of Woodglen Estates and I would like to thank Joe Figa, his committee and the residents supporting the new sidewalk on Waldon Road.

Our children's safety has been a concern for many years. The area which the children had to walk was part of the road that motorists have used for passing.

We are so pleased that the sidewalk has gone in before a tragedy occurs.

'If it Fitz ...'

Pajama peril

Jim Fitzgerald

Ever the careful columnist, I checked out Kell's pajama story with a high Tigers official, and he confirmed it. Don't forget, you read it here.

Anyway, besides ordering me to quit picking on Kell, my wife insisted it would be healthier for me to endanger my head playing sports, rather than watching them. So, ever the dutiful husband, the next day I accepted an invitation from my friend Sherman to play golf at baronial Indianwood Country Club in Lake Orion, where he is a member.

Waiting for tee-off time, our foursome was seated on lawn furniture in the shade of some beautiful trees next to the pro shop. I was feeling bad because I'd just learned it was a free day for Indianwood guests and that Sherman didn't have to pay my green fees. Ever the dedicated sponger, I had been so looking forward to costing Sherman as much money as inhumanly possible.

Suddenly there was a loud thud and my body shook. An adventuresome golfer had taken a shortcut to the 18th green, shooting blind over the pro-shop roof. His ball crashed down on the top of my chair, an inch from my ear. Holy Moses!

My entire life didn't flash before my eyes, but I did suddenly remember how nice it was when I was a little boy and my mother took better care of me than my wife does.

It happened suddenly, with absolutely no warning, late on a sunny, innocent Friday afternoon: I came within an inch of being killed or seriously injured.

It was my wife's fault. She put me in danger when she declared that if I were going to hurt myself through sports, I should do it while participating in athletic games, not while watching them on TV. "That way you will at least get some exercise before you break your head," she explained.

Her declaration was prompted by my behavior while listening to Channel 4's George Kell describe the most mysterious hit-and-run play in Detroit Tigers broadcasting history. Alan Trammell was on first base. When Chet Lemon grounded a perfect single into right field, the camera followed the ball. The TV audience didn't have to see Trammell run to third. It was obvious that he would make it easily. But he didn't.

"Trammell is lost, Trammell is lost," Kell kept yelling. But he didn't say how he got lost, or why he was called out—forced at second or tagged at third or what, for God's sake, what? The Tigers had blown a great scoring opportunity in the last inning of a tie game, and Kell never explained that the second baseman faked Trammell back to first by pretending to catch a pop fly. I had to read about it the next morning.

I TEND to become unreasonably frustrated when sports announcers don't tell me what I want to know exactly when I want to know it, especially during a Tigers game. If the situation is critical, I tend to sob and pound the floor with my head. That, plus the fact that my wife's a big George Kell fan, was what disturbed her.

She and Kell have exchanged headache remedies over dinner, and she knows something about him that most people don't know. Last year, after I wrote that I never wear pajamas, an unbelieving Kell admitted to my wife that he is a pajama freak. He said he lives in pajamas while lolling around hotel rooms before and after baseball games. He said he can't pass a pajama store without stopping to buy a pair.

From now on, my sports career will be strictly video-vicarious. I'm going to stay home so much I may start wearing pajamas, if anyone gives me a pair. That's right, George.

Unqualified audit

Firm suggests township tackle failing funds

By Marilyn Trumper

Outlining Independence Township's 1983-84 audit, John Nanthais of Doeren Mayhew & Co., Troy, said funds in the 49-page document are in "adequate financial condition," and pointed to the troubled sewer and water fund, and a police fund with a balance that will support it for only six months.

"That's the minimum amount a fund balance must have to be in a fund," Nanthais said, adding it's an unqualified audit. "It's easy to see you're trying to do something about it with the proposed police millage. And I know there's an ongoing study to decide what to do with sewer and water."

Without discussion, the board unanimously accepted the township's audit for its $4 million budget, covering the departments of water, sewer, general fund, fire, police, property purchase, safety paths, library, taxes and trust agency, developer's money held by the township to finance engineer work and professional reviews.

In February the board authorized $15,000 for a sewer and water rate study by Bendzinski & Co. of Detroit to determine levies for both dwindling funds. It's expected to be completed at the end of October.

For the past two years the township hasn't levied its ad valorem tax, instead using some of its $1.2 million in excess sewer construction funds at the coun-

The sewer department has a cash reserve of $150,000, and the water a reserve of $30,000, Anderson said, stressing they're not broke.

"Our fixed costs have gone up and so have rates from the county and the City of Detroit," Anderson said, explaining the drop. "We've absorbed the increases three or four times and didn't pass them on to the customer."

...adequate financial condition..."—John Nanthais, auditor ty to meet the sewer debt.

The sewer budget is $60,000 to $70,000 in debt and the water fund approximately $20,000, according to George Anderson, director of the Department of Public Works.

"We knew last year we were running into problems, but we didn't want to raise the rates by pulling a figure out of the air. We wanted a figure we could adjust every year. That's what we're waiting for in the study."

Fire talks

Firefighters and the Independence Township Board have named negotiating teams for upcoming contract talks scheduled to begin Sept. 1, but Supervisor James B. Smith, a veteran at the table, asked not to be on the committee.

"I felt it would be more productive, in light of the election, that someone in a constant role be involved," said Smith, who was unseated in the August primary election by fire Chief Frank Ronk.

Smith was closely involved in the 1981 contract talks which took nine months to negotiate.

Neil Ashley, Steve Ronk and Gar Wilson comprise this year's firefighters negotiating team. Clerk Richard Holman and Trustee Dale Stuart make up the township's.

The current contract, forged for three years, expires Sept. 30.

"We're looking forward to it," said firefighter Neil Ashley, referring to the bargaining table.

Village weighs cityhood

Quarterly sewer billings offer background;
ask residents for their positions

By Marilyn Trumper

The Clarkston Village Council's putting out feelers in its quarterly sewer billings to see how many residents like the idea of cityhood.

"People should respond so the council has an idea of how they feel, since there was such a low turnout at the meeting (on the issue)," said village President Carol Eberhardt. "It is an important issue."

The two-page letter dated July 30 explains that should Independence Township become a city township like Dearborn Heights, the village could be annexed with a majority vote of both municipalities. It would be in danger of losing snow removal, beautification and tree maintenance, village zoning and a council that makes the decisions.

As potential advantages, it would prevent annexation by Independence Township, lower village taxes because township taxes would no longer be paid, and make the village eligible for additional federal funding.

As potential disadvantages, the village would have its own police and fire department, although it's expected they'll continue to operate by contracting the Oakland County Sheriff's Department through the township, and their own assessing department as well as hold their own school, national and state elections.

The village council would become a city council, with the president becoming a voting mayor.

Hiring a city manager would be at the council's discretion.

Cost to become a city is estimated between $3,000 and $6,000, according to the letter.

Police suspect robbery motive

Police suspect two men, one of them masked, who tugged on the locked rear door of the Pontiac State Bank on Sashabaw Road the morning of Aug. 29, intended to rob the bank.

Unable to enter they walked back to their rusting red Chevrolet without license plates parked behind the building and drove away, according to a report at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

One of the two men is described as wearing a black ski mask and carrying a black plastic garbage bag.

They were seen from the window of the employee lounge by an employee, who phoned police, according to reports.

No one was injured, and neither of the two men pulled guns or produced robbery notes, reports said.

New deputy returns lost Detroit

The sharp eyes of Independence Township's new seventh deputy Larry Liggett, brought the return of a mentally impaired and legally blind 43-year-old Detroit man to his home Aug. 22, hours after he was reported missing.

According to Sgt. Robert Smith of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, Liggett, on routine patrol, spotted Roy Smith sitting outside a cluster of cottages on Dixie Highway near Waterford Hill Florist.

Unable to discern where the man was from, Liggett transported him to the Pontiac Mission.

Later that night, watching a Channel 7 newscast, the deputy recognized the man as one listed as "missing" on the broadcast.

He was returned the next day to his sister's Detroit home.

According to a spokesperson from the Detroit Police Department, the man had wandered away from his workshop at the Jewish Vocational Center in Detroit. It remains a mystery how he got to Independence Township, police said.

"This is just one example of how the seventh deputy can help in Independence Township," Sgt. Smith said.

Hard work could pay off on football field

By Dan Vandenhemel

The popping of pads has started again. The Clarkston High School varsity football team has been working up a sweat, preparing for the upcoming season.

Two hour practices, twice a day has been helping the Wolves get in shape. Breaking up into small groups, teaching plays and techniques, the coaches have had their work cut out for them.

Head coach Walt Wyniemko and assistants Kurt Richardson, and George Porritt have been drilling the team since Aug. 13. Former assistant coach John Getzen is volunteering his time to help with the coaching duties.

Last year the team finished with a 3-6 overall record but had a shot of winning a share of the Greater Oakland Activities League title going into the final two games.

"If you look at the record alone, it wasn't a successful year but we had a chance of winning the league," coach Walt Wyniemko said. "That's all behind us now, we're looking at this season."

The early schedule could determine what kind of year the Wolves will have. They face a very strong Romeo team in the opener Sept. 7 then face equally tough Sterling Heights Stevenson and Pontiac Northern.

The Wolves are 49 players strong with a solid nucleus of returning players.

"We've got a young team, five sophomores are up with us," Wyniemko said. "The team is bigger than it has in the past few years and that is going to help. It'll help on the specialty teams, it'll make us a better rounded team."

Wyniemko is expecting captains Mike Galley, Doug Colling and Erik Kline along with Robert Newblatt, Greg Garrett, Jeff Davis, Jim and Tom Ruelle and Brent Card to be the strong players for this years version of the Wolves.

"I'll never prognosticate about how we'll do," the coach said. "If the kids play the best they can and work hard, we'll be all right. We're just going to take them one at a time."

Bumps and bruises are a common occurrence around the football field during a preseason workout. Before the season begins, the players have a lot of different formations to learn.

Wolves varsity coach Walt Wyniemko makes a point to the down linemen during a preseason football practice at the Clarkston High School.

The opening game is Sept. 7 at home against Romeo.

GOAL looks to possible expansion in '86

By Dan Vandenhemel

There could be a major facelift in store for the Greater Oakland Activities League (GOAL).

Clarkston High School athletic director, Paul Tungate said as many as three schools could enter the league by 1986.

Lapeer East and West and Holly High School have shown interest, Tungate said following the league meeting Aug. 22.

"It's in its informal stages right now," he said. "There'll probably be some meetings down the road with all eight schools."

The GOAL currently has five schools, Clarkston, Lake Orion, Waterford Kettering, Mott and Pontiac

Northern. Last season, the league dropped to five as Rochester and West Bloomfield went to different leagues and Waterford Township closed its doors.

The Lapeer schools and Holly belong to the Flint Metro League. Of the 10 teams they are the only Class A schools.

"I think we'd all rather have eight teams," Tungate said of the increase. "It's tough having five teams for scheduling especially football where you have to have five non-league games and wrestling where you go around the league once and you need 14 non-league meets."

The additional teams would decrease fees

Clarkston High School pays to maintain its league standings. Currently CHS pays $400 a year to help with awards and league meets.

With the changes the GOAL has gone through in recent years, Tungate said the school applied to the Big 9 league in the Flint-Saginaw area.

"We wanted to get into a stable league," he said. "They re-wrote their constitution to allow new school to come in. Lapeer also applied, we're both on hold."

"I don't think we'll (CHS) merge with another league now," Tungate said. "We're building a good non-league relationship with Lapeer and Holly now. They could enter in the '86-'87 school year."

Quickness is main advantage for Wolves

By Dan Vandenhemel

"OK, let's break into a scrimmage, let's get something going," coach Dave McDonald told his Clarkston High School girls' varsity basketball team.

Almost immediately with the frontline players playing against the second-stringers, the game turned into a track meet.

The starting five players of seniors Laura Hurren, Kim Ottman, Wendy Learmont and Bridget Kilcline and junior Michelle Taulbee could have other teams reading the back of their uniforms all night.

"We're probably the fastest team in the county," McDonald said while watching the team scrimmage.

"I've got some great athletes on this team, not just good athletes but great ones."

While guards Hurren and Ottman are on the court, the tempo of the game is nothing but fast. Ottman was the Wolves leading scorer last season with over a 13 point average. She had honorable mention in the state last year as a junior.

"With Laura and Kim I have two quality guards," McDonald said. "Wendy and Bird (Kilcline) have been playing very well and Michelle is coming around real well."

"They're all playing very well together, they're playing smart. I'm pleased with that."

Rounding out the team of 11 players are Kecia Powell, Melanie Upcott, Sue Lovelady, Sue Stefanski, Terri Sherman and Beth Greiger.

McDonald said this team is ahead of the pace set by last years team that finished with a 15-5 record.

"They're running the offense and the defense, they're good at adjusting on the floor," the coach said. "That makes it a little easier on me. Our game is the press and fast break, press and fast break. We've got a good team for that."

Like the varsity football team, the opening schedule for the Wolves is not a favorable one. Against the first four teams, Flint Bentley, Rochester, Rochester Adams and Milford, McDonald hopes to come away with two wins.

"This is the toughest schedule since I've been a coach here," he said. "I don't have a set goal to how many games I'd like to win but if we finish 12-7 I'd consider that a good season. I look at the schedule and I can see six teams that can beat us. That might not happen but I can see it."

Up My Alley

Together again

By Dan Vandenhemel

The big hand-painted banner inside the door proclaimed, "Welcome, Class of 1979."

All the apprehension, all the wondering what your former classmates are doing finally became reality Saturday evening at my five-year high school reunion.

Five years is not a lot of time so many of the Algonac High School graduates had not changed much.

The people destined for success are living up to their hopes, the "in" people are still in, the beautiful people are still beautiful.

The nicest thing about the evening was everybody talked with everybody. There were no snobs, there were no loners who sat in the corner.

Over 100 people attended the dinner-dance, of those, about 70 were '79 graduates. The following day is an extra event, a picnic with another 40 people showing up. We only had 219 that graduated from the tennis courts on that very windy day in June.

Graduates came from Florida, Texas, California, and all over the state of Michigan to relive some memories, to see old friends.

There were mechanics, salesmen, insurance executives, truck drivers, real estate brokers, housewives, bank tellers, college students, construction workers in attendance.

Memories, everyone has a special something they remember about each person they meet in high school. For the class of '79, most of us lived together four years, it's hard not to feel a little melancholy.

Many hands were shook, quite a few hugs were given. All this took place in sight of the "Welcome, Class of 1979."

The following day the biggest astonishment came about. It was all the babies walking around the picnic sight. In all seven children, ages 1 to 3 years old were there. There were also a couple more on the way.

The kids running around and the people talking only made the you realize what was happening, everybody changes, some little, some a lot.

The weekend reunion started to wind down and when the former class president took the "Welcome, Class of 1979" sign down and carefully folded it, you knew it would be another five years before you saw these beautiful people again.

Lights wanted

They've tired of gangs

Plagued by gangs of loitering teens, residents of Woodhull Lake Subdivision want Independence Township to install a streetlight on its two lots in that subdivision.

At its Aug. 21 meeting the board unanimously agreed to the request which came via letter.

Originally to be a subdivision park that never manifested, the two lots are adjacent to four vacant lots that belong to the subdivision association, according to Clerk Richard Holman.

The township board agreed to pick up the annual light bill.

After the meeting, Anita Mann, treasurer of the subdivision association, said she is pleased the board's paying the bill and not the residents.

"It is their two lots," she said, referring to the township. "They're on the corner of Jerome and Glenalda—and they never cut them. The weeds are high. The kids, young juveniles, come in there after dark and pull their cars right in have their parties and sometimes stay up until two and three in the morning. We hope this will deter them."

Road paving help

By Marilyn Trumper

Residents of Waterford/Drayton Heights Subdivision in southern Independence Township have agreed to a special assessment for the next 10 years to finance road paving—but they'd like financial help from the local government.

At its Aug. 21 meeting the township board unanimously authorized $20,000 from Community Development Block Grant fund to help finance the project, and directed Treasurer Frederick Ritter to investigate budgeting more from yet-to-be received '85 funds.

The project, targeted for construction in spring of '85, will cost approximately $235,000 and means $1,553 to each lot owner over the next 10 years.

"It took a little arm twisting," said paving organizer John Bates. "I'm really glad we got the township's help. I believe the township's responsible for a certain amount of it anyway."

Six streets in the 35-year-old dirt road subdivision, Frankwill, Heath, Winell, Guyette, Williams and Eckles, will be paved.

Traditionally, Independence Township has paid 25-percent of road paving costs when residents agree to a special assessment.

Independence Township is going back to the voters this November for approval on a .5 mill for police. Does Independence Township need more police protection?

"I don't know, I haven't heard of any complaints, any problems they haven't answered."

"Yeah, they need more. It's fortunate that we haven't needed it in Springfield Township but you could always beef up the protection."

Township loses; pays $6,250 in kennel suit

By Marilyn Trumper

David Endreszel's four-year-old lawsuit succeeded in closing down his neighbors, J&J Kennels on Pine Knob Road, and the courts awarded him a $12,500 settlement to be paid equally by Independence Township and kennel owners, Jack and Jody Nelson.

The mediated settlement was granted a month ago and at its Aug. 21 meeting the Independence Township Board unanimously agreed to pay its share, $6,250, from the general fund.

"I encouraged the township to accept the award," said Richard Campbell, township attorney. "The ZBA accepted facts that were not correct, and as a result the kennel was allowed to expand when it had been abandoned."

"It actually was an nominal award," Campbell said. "Endreszel had originally asked for thousands."

Kennel owner Jody Nelson, who filed a counter lawsuit against Endreszel and the township in February, was disappointed with the court's settlement.

"I feel it's unfair," she said. "We did go to the township and they gave us the approval to expand. You don't expect to be sued when you do everything right to begin with."

Endreszel, who originally sought $300,000 in damages, could not be reached for comment.

In his suit, filed in May of 1981, Endreszel charged the kennel, an abandoned nonconforming use, had been renovated and was being used illegally.

The Clarkston News

SECTION 2

By Jim Sherman, publisher

Every second 100 bolts of lightning explode into the ground.

A single bolt can kill living things, destroy buildings, ruin equipment.

In an early August thunderstorm in Oxford a man was struck by lightning while walking between his boat and camper in his yard.

A couple years ago a Clarkston girl was struck cases involves golf great Lee Trevino. He was struck on a golf course 10 years ago and has had back problems ever since, though he did come back last week and win a major golf tourney.

Lightning is spectacular, unpredictable and devastating. It can strike more than once. The top of the Empire State Building was hit 68 times in the first three years after construction.

Lightning takes about 500 American lives a year.

Normally there won't be enough electrons collected until the moisture itself collects into a massive cloud.

The electrons hover along the underside on the cloud, looking for an avenue of escape. When the build-up becomes large enough they begin, like a magnet, pushing to one side the free electrons on the surface of the ground beneath them. That leaves an area of positive charge, to which the electrons are

It kills, burns, shatters and killed while playing ball in Pontiac.

In the August storm lightning hit a golf green at Indianwood Golf Club and killed the grass in the exact shape of a very crooked bolt of lightning.

During the Oxford man - lightning incident, his wife said two blue, spark-spitting spheres the size of basketballs hovered overhead.

One ball hit Langley, paralyzing his legs for a few hours.

Mrs. Langley also said three other men in a nearby garage were singed by the lightning.

One of the more reported lightning-hits-man more than shark attacks, floods or explosions.

On the average, every square mile of America is struck by lightning 40-80 times a year. A direct hit from a bolt of lightning almost invariably means instant death.

Most lightning victims are struck at the fingertips or on their toes. Lightning normally seeks out the sharpest point as its path of entry.

A lightning bolt is part of the give-and-take between earth and sky. Loose electrons on earth are continuously being taken into the air on evaporating moisture.

attracted.

When the attraction is great enough, lightning leaps across the gap like an enormous spark. It comes down in a half-inch thick core of pure electric energy, surrounded by a four-inch channel of air, so hot it glows.

It rushes ahead about 100 feet, looks for another soft spot in the sky and punches through it for another 100 feet, and repeats the process over and over again, changing direction slightly each time, and giving the lightning bolt its peculiar jagged look.

Barbara Lohff's teaching in Spain

By Dan Vandenhemel

Spain and Guatemala are quite a distance and change in culture from southeastern Michigan—but it's no big deal for Barbara Lohff.

The 25-year-old school teachers is off to Madrid, Spain to teach a 4th-grade class in a private school.

Last summer, Lohff returned from a stint as an English teacher in Guatemala.

"Someone asked me if I was excited," said the 1977 graduate of Clarkston High School. "I'm not really excited because it's not a trip I'm going on, it's work. It'll take a while to get use to the city."

Lohff left her parents hom on Laurelton in Independence Township Aug. 26 and she arrived in Madrid the following day.

Finding a place to stay, becoming accustomed to the school and the people are the first thing on Lohff's mind.

"I've got friends in Spain and in France and Belgium so it won't be so bad there," she said. "This will be my fourth trip to Spain."

Once Lohff graduated from Michigan State University in 1981, she began looking for a teaching position and didn't find with much success in the states. A professor at MSU mentioned overseas jobs and Lohff applied.

"Guatemala was wild," she said. "They were still bombing the city. We didn't know if we'd have school from day to day."

For the teaching position in Madrid, Lohff said there were 200 applicants for each teaching position.

"I never met the guy who was doing the hiring," she said. "I heard about the opening and sent him a cable, then a letter, then another cable, lots of cables."

"When the contract is up in two years, I may look at other job offers," Lohff said. "Maybe Africa. Tanzania would be a really good place to work."

"...It's not a trip I'm going on, it's work."—Barbara Lohff

It's off to Madrid, Spain for Barbara Lohff. The Clarkston High School graduate will be teaching 4th-graders in a private school there for the next two years.

Lightning: Mother Nature's unpredictable fire

When the lightning reaches just above ground, a "streamer" forms—small flashes of positive ions rushing skyward from the ground to meet the downward flow of electrons.

When the two meet, it's like joining two wires. The ground literally sucks an even greater flood of electrons from the cloud. This is the blinding flash of lightning one sees.

For sheer speed, lightning is hard to beat. The typical jagged start of the flash averages 243 miles per second, while the massive flow that follows has been clocked at 61,400 miles per second.

The lightning stroke may carry anywhere from 10 million to 100 million volts.

It travels from 1,000 to 9,000 feet, and the massive flow is all over in as little as .00005 second.

Most of the energy in a flash of lightning dissipates into the air, raising temperatures along its route to 15,000 degrees centigrade.

Thunder is an explosion along the length of the bolt's channel.

The rumble of thunder is partially due to the varying distances between the listener and the different portions of the jagged lightning stroke.

"Heat lightning" is simply lightning too far away to be heard.

While more people are killed by lightning in their own homes than anywhere else, statistically the most dangerous place to be is out on a flat, open area.

This makes sportsmen particularly vulnerable.

Lightning striking water has been known to kill swimmers 500 feet away.

You can't get away from lightning. Every state has electrical storms, though New Englanders get longer and more severe storms than the rest of us.

You are not protected by your TV antenna, or by having a tall tree on your property. Shutting windows and doors will not keep lightning out.

If you are home during a storm, the safest place is your basement.

If you are caught out in the open, find a depression in the ground and lie down in it.

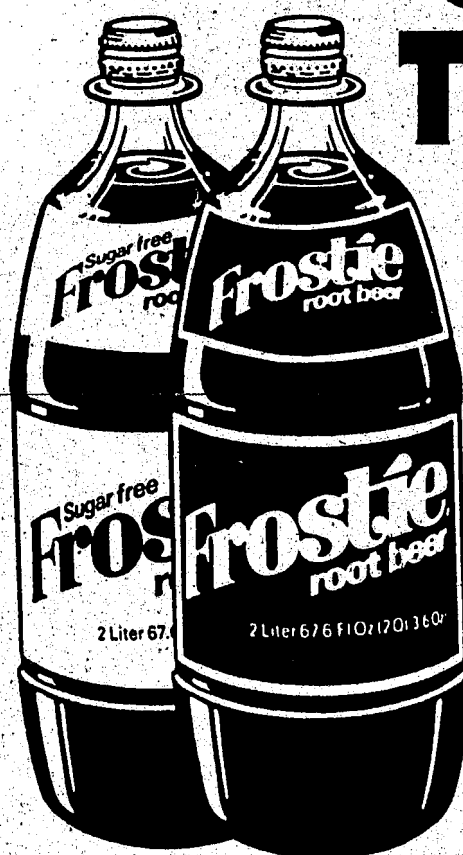

Lightning can strike twice, and often does. But rest assured about one thing—if you see a bolt of lightning...it's already missed you.

A Hoosier import

by Dorothy Leaming

An Apple
for the Teacher

Gordon Spellbring is a Hoosier import available in any of Clarkston's elementary schools most any school day.

Born and raised in central Indiana, Gordon was educated at Indiana State University where he took a five-year program specializing in the following: the mentally handicapped, physically handicapped, hearing impaired, speech and language impaired.

In 1956 Gordon came to Clarkston where he taught mentally handicapped children for seven years. Wanting to better understand his students and thus be better prepared to teach, he earned a master's degree in psychology, enrolling at both Indiana State University and the University of Michigan while continuing his teaching here in Clarkston.

His first experiences as a school psychologist make a lively documentation for the development of special education in northern Oakland County.

At that time the job was year-round and he served the districts of Lake Orion, Oxford and Clarkston since the Clarkston school population was not sufficient to support a psychologist according to earlier guidelines.

He remembers wiping off coal dust from testing surfaces sometimes located in furnace rooms in our district and driving frantically from sessions in the eastern end of Oakland County to meetings at Andersonville School hoping to meet time limits.

A particular development Gordon sees as positive is greater sophistication of parents together with their greater acceptance of special programs.

He feels the types of parents he encounters here in Clarkston are exceptionally interested in their children's education and the school system. At the same time, he enjoys working with teachers and has great empathy for them.

As if to prove you can take the boy out of the country but not the country out of the boy, Gordon loves basketball and rarely misses a varsity basketball game. He's a frequent spectator at the junior high level as well.

His involvement in the community includes the village planning commission, Clarkston United Methodist Church, Clarkston Community Historical Society and the Oakland County Historical Association.

As this would suggest, he has an interest in collecting and also refinishing antiques.

He has visited the major cities of the United States as well as every section of this country and Canada. Not surprisingly, his favorite is New England.

His 1984 summer travel plans included a trip to central Europe. He is also a jogger and a golfer.

Gordon has the ability to make a variety of people feel at ease. He's patient, tolerant and has a marvelous sense of humor.

We natives feel fortunate Gordon elected to make our state his home.

Editor's note: An Apple for the Teacher is provided through the efforts of a Clarkston Education Association committee. Its purpose: "To acquaint or reacquaint the community with members of the Clarkston school district's teaching staff who represent a highly trained and diversely talented resource and in whom we can all take pride." This week's column was written by Dorothy Leaming, a school social worker.

Gordon Spellbring:
"His first experiences as a school psychologist make a lively documentation for the development of special education . . ."

Fitness trail

Clintonwood Park will have a new addition by the year's end—a physical fitness trail.

The one-mile trail is under construction now at the Independence Township Park on Clarkston Road. Bulldozers are cutting a trail around the park's boundary and clearing areas for the exercise stations.

There will be 14 stations with different equipment to workout with, said township parks and recreation director Timothy Doyle.

"It should be ready this fall," he said. "The trail and the surface should be done by the end of the week. It'll take a little longer to put the equipment in."

The cost of the trail is covered in the Land and Water Conversation Fund grant the township received two years ago. Part of the $39,000 went toward the shelter built at the park last year. Doyle said he requested an addition $13,000 so they could finish the trail.

"What is good about the trail is that we have a senior citizen center right here and hopefully they'll take advantage of it too," he said.

Amy Eiden's at it again

Her bike-a-thon raises $220 for Muscular Dystrophy

Two winners emerged from a bike-a-thon over the weekend on Ellis Road in Independence Township.

The Aug. 25 fund raiser brought $500 for the first winner: Muscular Dystrophy.

The second winner was 11-year-old Jacob Snapp. He collected the most donations ($220) for the three-hour bike ride. The Peaceful Valley Drive, Independence Township resident received a personal computer from the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

"We've done carnivals in the past to help raise money," organizer Amy Eiden said. "They (The carnivals) didn't raise that much, about $200. The bike-a-thon was definitely better."

Eight people, ranging in ages 8 to 17 went around the neighborhood asking for donations from residents prior to the event.

"Most of the people just wrote a check or just donated money when the kids asked," Eiden said. "We'll do it again next year, hopefull it'll be a lot bigger."

ROAD HAZARD WARRANTY AVAILABLE

On an 85-degree August afternoon, the dunk tank proved a popular game with kids of all ages—including adults. They waited in a long line for the chance to toss a beanbag and upset the bucket, where it drenched the fellow standing below. If there was a miss—workers on the plank walk were happy to toss a pail full of water on the dry winner.

Renaissance scenes

Too tired to go on after an afternoon of walking and shopping at the many festival booths, Gene and Susan Turner of Romeo drop beneath a shade tree and relax.

*Chemicals Are Trouble. People Are Working.

Drug meeting

The public's invited to attend a meeting of the Chemical People of Clarkston, Tuesday, Sept. 18, at the Clarkston School Board Office, 6389 Clarkston, Independence Township.

The group is dedicated to fighting substance abuse in the school district.

Dear Cat Paw,
What is PCP?

Not With It

Dear Not:

PCP is a tranquilizer for animals. PCP ("hog" or "angel dust") produces a feeling of numbness in arms and legs, and hallucinations.

Sprinkled on tobacco or marijuana cigarettes, or taken in capsules, PCP can create temporary psychosis very much like acute schizophrenia. It often leads to paranoia and has been linked with serious violence.

Dear Cat Paw:

When is the time to teach our kids about drinking?

Worried Mom

Dear Worried:

By the time they reach legal age, they've long since learned what we can teach them. Like it or not, we teach our kids from birth. And they learn more from what they see us do than from what they hear us tell them.

Dear Cat Paw:

Which age group has the highest percentage of drug abusers?

Nosy

Dear Nosy:

18-25. The 1982 National Survey on Drug Abuse showed that among the three major age groups surveyed (12-17, 18-25 and 26 and over), illicit drug abuse was most prevalent among young adults, ages 18-25.

Dear Cat Paw,

What is A.A.?

Reserved

Dear Reserved,

Alcoholics Anonymous is a movement started by two alcoholics in 1935. They wanted to do something about their disease and started a movement that has become the most successful alcohol recovery program in America. A.A. spread because it works, and it works because no one understands an alcoholic like another alcoholic. If you feel you are an alcoholic, A.A. may be for you. Go to a meeting. Look it up in the phone book under Alcoholics Anonymous.

Dear Cat Paw,

I've heard you can "blackout" when you drink. What does that mean?

On the outside

Dear On,

Having a blackout is not the same as "passing out." A drinker who experiences a blackout remains awake but suffers temporary memory loss so that the next day he or she can't remember anything that happened while drinking.

Dear Cat Paw,

I feel I should drink when my friends drink. What can I do if I don't feel like drinking?
Am I different?

If you don't want to drink, don't. It can be hard to resist pressure from friends, especially if their focus at parties is a keg of beer or a jug of wine. Usually the best way to refuse a drink is with a simple and direct "no thanks." Skip any apologies, excuses or arguments. If you feel comfortable about not drinking, others will be more likely to accept it and not hassle you.

Dear Cat Paw,

Why don't we just stick all the alcoholics into the "dunk tank"? That's where they all belong anyway!

Mad

Dear Mad,

Nonsense. Alcoholism is an illness and can be treated successfully. We don't jail people for other illnesses. Why for alcoholism?

Dear Cat Paw,

Where do you get your facts? I don't know any alcoholics.

Good and Clean

Dear Good and Clean,

Maybe you just don't know you know any alcoholics. Some of your best friends may have drinking problems. They don't seem "different," and they usually try to hide their illness, even from themselves. About one of every 10 executives has a drinking problem.

Dear Cat Paw,

I have a friend who can really hold his liquor. I bet he'll never have a problem.

Envious

Dear Envious,

Don't envy your friend. Often the guy who can hold so much is developing a "tolerance" for alcohol. And tolerance can be a polite word for need.

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., Aug. 29, 1984 31

Dear Cat Paw,

Come on now! A good host never lets a guest's glass get empty.

Good Host

Dear Good Host,

There's nothing hospitable about pushing alcohol or any other drug. A good host doesn't want his guests to get drunk or sick. He wants them to have a good time and remember the next day.

Dear Cat Paw,

Isn't it true that Indians and Jews don't drink because they can't?

Big Chief

Dear Big Chief,

Some can, some can't and some do and some don't. Just like Caucasians.

Dear Cat Paw,

A few drinks can help you unwind and relax. Have done it for years.

Dear Have,

Maybe. But if you use alcohol like a medicine, it's time to see your doctor.

Dear Cat Paw,

I say never trust a man who never takes a drink. Likes to Tip 'Em

Dear Likes,

You know that's silly. Yet many of us are a little nervous around people who don't drink.

There was no line at the castle gate, but a steady stream of people kept filing into the Michigan Renaissance festival—and few left. Crowds multiplied throughout the day. It's open each weekend through Sept. 30 at Colombiere Center in Springfield Township.

Hundreds braved the choking dust at the Fifth Annual Michigan Renaissance Festival's Childrens Weekend, flocking around jugglers, musicians and vendors hawking talents and wares in the recreated 16th Century Village.

The hungry tore into roasted turkey legs and drank heartily from tankards of ale; women crowned their heads in flower wreaths; children, for this was their weekend, delighted in a treasure hunt, wild-eyed storytellers and lined up for a chance to play dueling buckets on an 85-degree August afternoon.

Crowds gather around tinsmiths, blacksmiths, weavers, potters, glassblowers and carvers to buy the artisans' popular work.

In respective sections of the winding village, in shade or sun, knights joust; swordsmen fence and a man kneels in waist-high water washing the tired feet of women.

His 16th Century guise is out of character with this contemporary director's chair, but it doesn't matter to this tired youth who drops down for a brief respite.

Sir lasis is first to laugh at his name, it's his victims who are quiet. A volunteer from the audience bows in obedience, her head in a guillotine, while lasis works his magic. The blade drops, and she emerges unscathed.

Sashabaw Road under review

Township targets one of its three major corridors for study

By Marilyn Trumper

Once dominated by rural, undeveloped fields, one mile of the Sashabaw Corridor between Maybee and Waldon roads is expected to flourish the next decade, with high-tech, industrial and office developments.

The planning commission, building department and the township's professional planner, Richard Carlisle, are looking at the corridor's master plan right now, especially the two-lane road, to see if it can accommodate what's projected to be an explosion of growth.

"It's not just development, it's concern with the roadway itself," Carlisle said, from his Ann Arbor office. "It's important the land uses be in keeping with use of the road. Number one, we're going to be looking at the road itself and modifying its capacity. Number two, how it can be modified and number three, how doing that will effect future development."

"Capacity is not something we've looked at. Previous studies have been for land use and the corridor itself. Can a two-lane road serve what's projected for that area? That's what we have to answer."

The township solicited the Oakland County Road Commission's participation for traffic counts, engineering designs and their opinion on Sashabaw's ability to handle existing traffic, he said, adding they're expected to begin work soon.

When the latest land use plan update ended in early 1981, it outlined more multiple zoning, less commercial, and more office and industrial zoning to replace single family residential.

Land use is a plan for development, not a rezoning. Independence's last townshipwide revamping of the master plan was 10 years ago.

Since then there've been a half-dozen additions and expansions in the one-mile stretch of the Sashabaw Corridor: a chiropractor's office, dental office, party store, photography studio expansion, a fast-food restaurant, and one developer proposes land balancing 50-acres at Sashabaw and Waldon to make the land buildable for an industrial park.

In addition, a gas station has repeatedly sought a special use to open a convenience food store. Once denied, the owners are on their second review.

"It's a very desirable area for development," Carlisle said, "because of its proximity to the interstate, Pine Knob, and it's going to undergo increasing pressures for development."

But he warns against creating a second Dixie Highway.

"What we don't want are a lot of small parcels, a lot of strips, like we have along Dixie Highway. There

Eyeing Dixie Highway

Along with its look at the Sashabaw Corridor, the Independence Township Planning Commission's targeted Dixie Highway from M-15 north to the township line for one of six areas under study in the current master plan review.

"It's all part of the master plan update," said the township's professional planner, Richard Carlisle, referring to two areas north of I-75, an area north of Clarkston village, areas that include Dixie Highway and Sashabaw and an area near Spring Lake Country Club.

Dixie Highway is the last area to be reviewed.

"Dixie Highway is critical because it's a major thoroughfare and there's a lot of commercial development and a lot of undeveloped parcels," Carlisle said.

Parcels along the four lane road are zoned residential, commercial and multiple.

"But at this point we're still at the evolution stage, no one's talked specifically about what they'd like to see happen."

Business grows in basement

A sewing entrepreneur

By Kathy Greenfield

In her basement workshop, Gay Ann Johnson makes patterns, cuts, sews, paints fabric designs and silk-screens. Some days she works from early morning until early the next morning, but she doesn't mind.

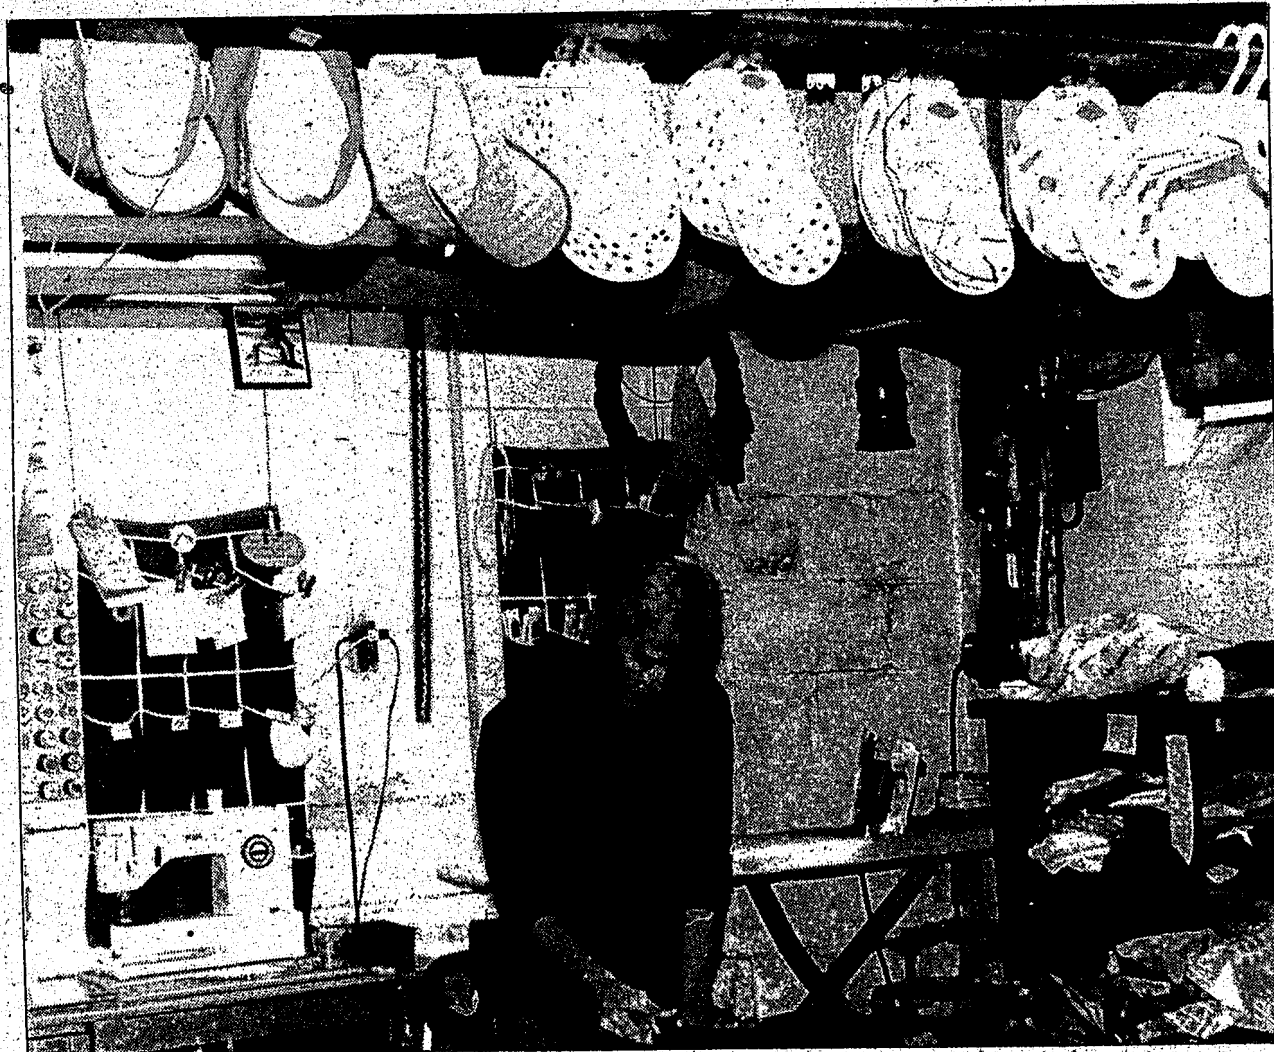

"It is so exciting to me to think that somebody would want to buy something I've made," she says. "I've gotten such good comments on it. That's what keeps me going."

She named her 10-month-old business Gay Ann, and the items she sews inside her Clarkston Road, Clarkston, home sport a signature label she designed and silk-screened.

Her painter caps, sport bags, cut-off sweatshirts and T-shirts, golf caps, golf visors and laundry bags are sold at Coach's Corner on Main Street in the village.

She also makes hats and sports bags for school fund raisers. Last year she filled orders from Clarkston Elementary School. This year she's expanding contacts to schools in nearby districts and she's

VIEWPOINT

Clarkston News Publisher

Occasionally something comes along to reassure a person's conviction that they should never pay for a product or service until satisfied. We are going through that reassurance right now.

It's a lesson for businesses, for sure, but just as important a lesson for all consumers.

In late June 1983, our company signed an agreement to buy new typesetting equipment. It was extremely new technology, having only been introduced nationally in early June.

The manufacturer is one of the oldest in the printing business.

Buying from an established business, where major purchases are concerned, is also a good idea.

When the equipment didn't arrive in the four-month promise, we called. The $75,000 worth of goodies... video screens, laser beams, digital typesetting, etc... was installed and instruction began April 4, 1984.

With all other sizable purchases through the years we have given at least 10 percent down, thus we sent $7,500 with the order.

The equipment was faulty from the start. The first week one of the laser mirrors came unglued (that's right, glue... like in the Zilwaukee bridge).

We have gotten just two weeks of production out of this latest and greatest stuff since it arrived.

Needless to say, we are unhappy when it doesn't work, but very pleased when it does. If we could get it working consistently, I'm sure we'd shout it out to the world. Its capabilities are endless in setting type. It expands, shrinks, slants, reverses, changes faces... all those great things, fast.

There is nothing like it available from another supplier for anywhere near the price. We want the stuff to work.

Now, back to the point. We have paid nothing more for the machine, AND the company has had our money for a year.

The company isn't local, so all communications are backed up in writing, though most of it on our side.

By not paying for the equipment we at least have a chance at getting some of our time, aggravation, and material waste paid for. Without the holdback, the incentive for the manufacturer is reduced considerably.

are some big parcels of land that lend themselves to planned development, and the time to look at that is now," Carlisle said.

As examples, he pointed to the proposed land balancing at Waldon and Sashabaw, and an abandoned 40-acre gravel pit kitty-corner.

The planning commission, he said, will play a major part in revamping the master plan.

"They'll determine the character of the corridor," Carlisle said, "and its potential."

Building and Planning Director Kenneth Delbridge agrees.

"Everything from Maybee Road south is residential," Delbridge said. "Consequently, the commercial is moving north and jumps up to the expressway. This means the road will be widened, traffic will increase and we'll get more traffic from the expressway."

Neil Wallace, planning commission chairman agrees.

"I think no matter what we do, the free market will dictate the Sashabaw corridor be developed," Wallace said. "It's our job as a community to make sure this happens in an organized fashion for the future of the village and the township."

MONTH IN REVIEW

After months of breath-holding, Pine Knob's Ski Lodge lands one of Independence Township's two available liquor licenses and plans a late November opening. The license, according to Knob attorney Tracy Allen, is critical to the ski lodge's financial success.

Gary Skibowski's lost all court appeals and Independence Township rehearings for permission to mix and sell concrete at his business, Michigan Rental Service on Dixie Highway. Says manager Rod Mellen, "...It's not going to help our business." The courts maintain mixing is not allowed in Skibowski's zoning.

Tom Ritter's landed township approval to move the family's 120-year-old red wooden barn from behind his Italianate farmhouse on Dixie Highway, to the rear of Ritter's Farm Market next door. It's one more step that brings Burger King's proposed $600,000 fast-food restaurant closer to reality. It's targeted for the barn and farmhouse site.

Plans to build a Burger King restaurant on Dixie Highway, south of Maybee Road, are on hold until officials of the fast-food chain land their sign variances Sept. 5 before the board of appeals—then go onto the planning commission for final site plan approval.

Turned back from the planning commission Aug. 9 for the third time, Burger King's architect was asked to clarify signage, height of shrubbery and stipulations the plan show how the driveway would change the property behind the site if developed in the future.

Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital officials bounced back with optimism following another state committee's recommendation of denial for its 100-bed satellite hospital in Independence Township.

So far, only one of four state committees recommended approval of the $34 million proposal for North Oaks Community Hospital, a two-story building on 50 acres at White Lake Road and Dixie Highway.

There's a Sept. 7 deadline for the state to make its final decision whether the project will receive a state certificate of need required for construction.

A 120-bed nursing home on Clintonville Road in Independence was granted conceptual site plan approval Aug. 9 by the township planning commission.

Called Grovecrest Nursing Home, the skilled nursing facility is proposed by Frances and Paul Ver Lee, the owners and operators of the 57-bed Grovecrest Convalescent Center in Pontiac and two six-resident adult foster care homes in the Clarkston area.

The nursing home has already received a state certificate of need required for construction.

Built in a spoke design with four patient wings, an office wing, and a dining and recreation wing, the project is expected to cost between $3.2-$3.5 million. The building site consists of 19 acres.

Architect Ron Schurman said the plans should be ready for final site plan review by the planning commission this winter, with construction to begin in the spring of 1985 and be completed by January 1986.

Pine Knob Music Theatre production manager Mark Harriges leans against one of four new signs that were installed two weeks ago in the theater to help promote upcoming shows.

PK: More than entertainment

By Dan Vandenhemel

With its outdoor music theater during the summer, and ski lodge in the winter, the entrance to the Pine Knob complex is rarely empty.

The Pine Knob Music Theatre has a month to go before rapping up its '84 concert series and the ski lodge is slated to open around Thanksgiving.

Owners of the music theater and the ski lodge, the Nederlander Corp., employ close to 500 people most of whom come from the Independence Township area, according to theater production manager Mark Harriges.

"We have about 400 to 500 people working here and I think about 80 percent is from the township," Harriges said.

Maintenance, security, and concession crews are all a part of the music theater operations.

Maintenance goes over the entire theater following a concert to clean up. The rangers and ushers make sure the show goes smoothly and the concessionaires keep the throngs of people fed.

"We're really fortunate to have good people as department heads," Harriges said. "They enjoy their work so there isn't a large turnover as there is in say the maintenance crew or the rangers."

But keeping sellout crowds in control isn't always the easiest. An example is the recent trouble on opening night of the Neil Diamond concert where disgruntled customers complained about not enough room on the hill.

"I want to go on record about that," Harriges said, referring to complaints of overselling the lawn.

"The pavillion seats 5,920, the hill seats 10,000. There's no way we ever sold the lawn. The most we had was around 15,800.

"What happened and this may sound kind of rude, but the people on the hill are use to spreading out with their blanket and cooler. They can do that for a show that doesn't attract that many people but for someone like Neil Diamond they're not use to the crowds. We like to provide a service here, our whole attitude is to give an enjoyable and hopefully a memorable evening for the customers."

The thought of glittering performers creates an aura. A ski lodge during the peak of the season shows part of its personality. For the Pine Knob facility, Harriges believes a total outlook to the surrounding area is important.

"I think we have an improved relations with the community," he said while walking around the music theater. "Now that we're under one owner it helps."

In February, the Nederlander Corp. bought the 11-year-old theater for $14 million in a bankruptcy sale. Previously, they held a 60-year lease from the owners, Joseph Locricchio and Gary Francell.

Local businesses have been on 24-year-old Harriges' mind for some time.

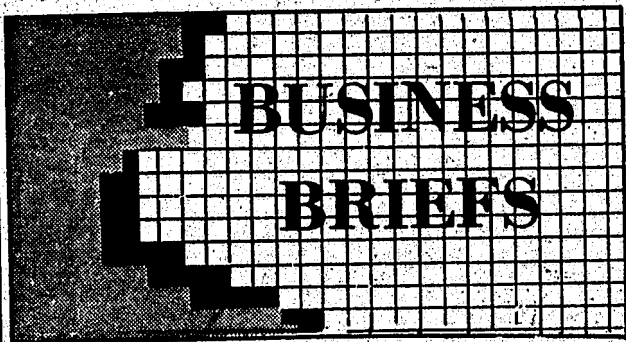

Throughout the concert series of close to 100 shows and an average of 11,000 customers per show bring a lot of people into Independence Township.

"I've wondered what kind of draw the facility has one area businesses," Harriges said. "There's nothing in the immediate area but I hope some of them are benefiting from the facility."

COME AND GET IT: Clarkston Area Jaycees controlled imported beer and wine concessions at the Michigan Renaissance Festival at the Colomblere Center in Springfield Township. Jaycees President Brian Bissell said they raised $1,600 during the festival's opening weekend.

Bissell said he hopes next year they'll be able to run the concessions more than one weekend. Concessions are operated on a rotating system for giving different organizations a chance.

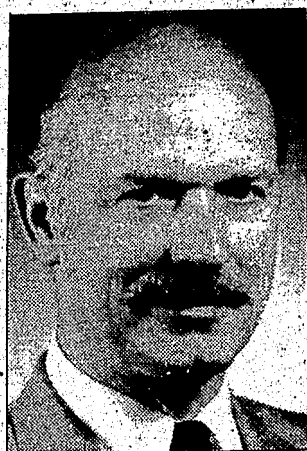

Dieters lose collective pounds in workshop

The Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center classes of Diet Workshop have tipped the scales with 1,300 pounds lost.

Carol Hawley, instructor for the Monday and Wednesday evening class, made the announcement of the achievement.

The classes have met an hour twice weekly since April 1984 in an Independence Township medical office building on M-15. Members may join any week. For more information call 625-CARE.

WHAT'S NEW IN BUSINESS

Two months ago Cindy Krause bought Country Greens in downtown Clarkston. She clerked inside the combination florist/retail shop on and off five years, and says "...I always thought this would be a great community to own a business in."

Country Greens sells

Cindy Krause wants store's florist shop to flourish

Two months ago, after five years clerking on and off at Country Greens a combination florist/plant retail store on Clarkston's Main Street, Cindy Krause bought the business from Laurie Stern.

She's painted and spruced the interior, eliminated old stock, introduced new merchandise and is hyping the shop's florist business.

"We're going to offer professional, better service," Krause said. "We're trying to get more into the florist business and so far we're succeeding."

"We're providing the plants for General Motors, with color coordinating pottery for their office carpeting and drapes."

"There's not anything we can't, or won't do,"

Krause said.

In one month her right-hand help and potter, Juanita Mikulas, will have custom pottery for sale inside the store.

They sell live and silk plants, baskets, planters, stencilled chalkboards and spindles, candles, dried flowers, flower arrangements and more.

"There are so many florists in the area, and we're doing very well," Krause said. "We like to think of ourselves as country with style."

Country Greens is located at 25 S. Main, Clarkston. It's open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday, Friday from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. (625-9777).

Basement shop, a booming success

added an unlined jacket to the collection.

Gay Ann's work experience includes jobs in banks and businesses, but for 13 years she worked at home. She's the mother of two, Erik, 17, and Heather, 12.

Rather than being career drawbacks, her children and husband, Jim, have played vital roles in the creation of her company.

Now 42, Gay Ann didn't sew at all until she was 29 years old.

"My grandmother passed away and I was given her sewing machine. I decided, 'Gee, yes, I'd like to have it' because I could do mending," she says.

Her husband suggested she take lessons, and she took several. She laughs at the memory.

"When I first started out I was a nervous wreck, now I find it relaxing," she says. "If anybody had told me in my older teens or early 20s I was going to do this I would have told them they were crazy."

Erik gets the credit for the idea that eventually led to the creation of the business.

The family had been on a vacation in Florida. When they returned, Erik was swapping information with a friend who had also been in Florida. Their telephone conversation turned to the hats they'd seen on so many people.

"He said, 'Mom, Brent and I want you to make us painter's hats in school colors.'"

"I said, 'Erik, I can't do that.'"

"Erik said, 'Yes you can,' and I could hear Brent screaming over the phone, 'Yes you can!'"

That led to many hats for many teenagers. Then her sister, a good golfer who lives in South Lyon, convinced Gay Ann to make golf visors and later encouraged her to sell them to Coach's Corner. The business placed her first order—for golf caps, golf visors and painter's hats.

The sales of caps and sports bags for a Clarkston

Elementary fund raiser happened after a friend jumped up in a PTO meeting and mentioned her name as a source of painter's hats.

When plans for the hats were underway, Gay Ann thought of making matching sports bags.

As she says, "One thing seems to lead to another."

Creating is part of the process. Gay Ann remembers never following a pattern even in those early days of sewing. She always added something or changed something to suit her taste.

Now she does everything from scratch—from perfecting the splash, dot or brush designs and colors for hats and bags not made in school colors to coming up with new ideas.

As she strives for success, Gay Ann admits she uses up time that once went almost exclusively to her family.

Their reaction would best be described as "mixed," she says. "I think they're proud of me, but they don't particularly like me down here (working in the basement) all the time."

She illustrates with a conversation that began when a woman asked her son, "How's your mom?" and he replied, "I don't know, she's always in the basement."

"That didn't particularly thrill me...but I didn't miss any of his track meets," she says.

Quality is important. She's especially pleased that everything she makes can be machine washed and dried. Some have suggested she cut costs by using lesser quality materials. Gay Ann rejects the idea.

"I won't make a cheap hat. I just won't do it. It just goes against my grain," she says.

While she's never calculated just how much she's made for the hours she's worked, Gay Ann figures she makes less than minimum wage—for now.

"At this time I have more time than I have money," she says. "I can't really compete with bug business. I don't make much money for the time I put in, but I don't know any other way to do it."

For the future, she has two women who have agreed to work helping fill orders starting in the fall. Meanwhile, she keeps thinking of new ideas and says she "has a feeling" something big will come from all this.

"It gets so exciting, the thoughts of what could happen, the direction you could go," she says. "I have to keep moving, I suppose. When nobody wants (painter's hats) anymore, I have to find something else."

Not a future M-15

Dixie Highway topic of study

"With whatever developments go in, they'll have to look at the same problems they have in developments south of there. Today, the traffic congestion is very high and that will continue to be a problem they'll watch very closely."

Carlisle doesn't see Dixie Highway developing into a second M-15 or Sashabaw Road.

"I think it's going to continue as it has in the past, as a traditional commercial corridor," he said. "We're primarily concerned with it as a visual thing. The planning commission has been making a specific effort the last couple of years to take a careful look at the aesthetics and landscaping. I think they'll continue that here."

Wrangler promo at Dee's Boutique

With a promotion for Wrangler jeans underway through October, Dee's Boutique Ltd. attracts attention with the former Grand National race car of Ricky Rudd, a top NASCAR racer. People reacted with "a lot of interest, a lot of raised eyebrows," said Mike MacQueen, owner of the shop with his wife, Dee. The car was parked in front of Dee's Aug. 8. As part of the hoopla, free caps and posters were included with a jean purchase and Ryan Fitzgerald, 5½, was one of the lucky recipients. "Neat," said he and his sister, Kelly, 6½, about the car. Putting Ryan's new hat in place is Shannon MacQueen, daughter of the shop's owners.
