Candidates file campaign costs

Over $22,000 spent locally

By Marilyn Trumper

The 17 candidates vying for seats on the Independence Township Board spent well over a combined $22,220 in the primary campaign. The race officially began after election filing June 5 and ended with the primary Aug. 7.

Files at the Oakland County Elections Division show that the victors didn't necessarily spend the most during the campaign.

Ousted Supervisor James B. Smith spent more than any other candidate, with expenditures both actual and in-kind, like envelope donations and typing services, totaling $5,932.

Smith was unseated by township Fire Chief Frank Ronk who spent $3,266 in the two-month period.

Smith's contribution roster reads like a who's who in Clarkston, with pages of line items listing donations of $25 and up from some of the area's most prominent physicians, attorneys, and businessmen.

Smith's wife Mary, his largest contributor, donated a combined $1,800 to the campaign and in addition gave her husband an $800 loan which, according to a spokesperson at the elections division, can be repaid, or "forgiven" and never repaid.

His campaign treasurer, Edward Thomson, gave Smith $500 to finance the primary election race.

Ronk's statement has fewer standout names and lists his own campaign manager Lew Wint as one of the largest contributors, donating $228.

Many of Ronk's itemized donations were $5, $10 and $15 contributions, yet one gift from a retiree totaled $500.

In addition, the Independence Township Professional Firefighters Association and the Independence Township Firefighters Association each gave the chief $100.

Incumbent Treasurer Frederick Ritter (D) neither spent or received any funds to finance his primary campaign.

"It's one of the plusses of running unopposed," Ritter said, referring to the primary.

The losing Republican opposition for treasurer, E. Frank Richardson, failed to file his financial statement by the Sept. 6 deadline and pays a $10-a-day late penalty.

Republican candidate for treasurer, John Lutz, spent $4,520 on his winning campaign.

Incumbent Clerk Richard Holman (R) spent $1,934 on his campaign, beating Claudia Brazel (R) who spent $2,236.

Women welcome

The recent United States Supreme Court ruling that allows women membership in the Jaycees is OK with the Clarkston club.

There's no grumbling here. Club members aren't saying they'd rather disband than admit members of the opposite sex.

In fact, the word "enthusiastic" is appropriate for the approach of Tim Lekander, who's in charge of publicity for the Clarkston Area Jaycees.

"As a formality we must change our bylaws to allow women in the Clarkston Jaycees," he said. "But that will not stop us from recruiting new members of either sex!"

The Clarkston club hit hard times in recent years trying to keep its membership ranks large enough. At one point, they almost had to disband because they didn't have the required minimum of 20 members. Now there are 25.

Each year the club puts on a free Easter egg hunt for the community. It raises money annually with another tradition, the Jaycee Haunted House.

They meet the third Wednesday of each month at Howe's Lanes in the Green Room.

As the Marines say, "We're looking for a few good...people," said Lekander.

For membership information call him at 627-3308 or Tom Lowrie at 623-7405.

Election funds

Democrat Brian Gerber, also a candidate for clerk, spent less than the minimum $500 limit required to file an itemized statement.

Floyd (Whitey) Tower, the Democratic candidate for clerk who won his party's nomination, reported spending $547.

Winning trustees on the Republican ticket were Dale Stuart, who spent $1,049; Daniel Travis, who spent $765; and Carol D. Balzarini, who spent $888.

The fourth Republican, Trustee William Vandermark, did not file his financial statement by the Sept. 6 deadline and pays a $10 penalty for each day it's late.

Democratic victor for trustee, Charles Smalley, spent less than $500 and did not have to file an itemized statement.

The two Republican trustee candidates who lost, Mel Leroy Vaara and Lawrence Rosso, reported spending less than $500 and $1,040 respectively.

Walker pushes condos again, makes appeal to commission

By Marilyn Trumper

It's left to Clarkston's attorney to interpret if the village ordinance discriminates against condominium developments in single family zoning.

At its Sept. 4 meeting the village planning commission unanimously agreed to have the attorney review developer Frank Walker's allegations that the ordinance fails to accommodate condominiums in single family zoning.

"Oh, they do in multiple, but the village wouldn't rezone the land. We tried," Walker said. "They don't in single family R-1 or R-2 zoning. There's no environment provided for people whose families have grown up and are gone. R-1 and R-2 refer to families. To me that means you have to have a family to live there—and that eliminates an awful lot of people."

Walker says he's tired of opposition from township residents.

"I'm disappointed we were subjected to the opinions of people living outside the community that have small minds," he said, referring to a handful of Deer Lake Farm residents opposing his plan. Walker wants to build $200,000 units on 1.67 acres of village land off Deer Lake, next to the Independence Township line.

"They're self-centered, small-minded, and they don't care about anybody but themselves. That's a strong statement, but it's true," he said.

Walker, owner of Frank J. Walker Developer Inc., says 30 percent of the village's 1,400 population, or 420 people, are over the age of 60, according to 1980 Census figures.

"Their life-styles have changed. Their children are gone. They don't want to have to keep up their big homes, they want smaller units. But they want to stay in the community within walking distance," he said after the meeting. "This will provide them with that."

In addition, Walker charges few take into consideration the tax base his $2.2 million development offers to the village.

"That means an additional $70,000 to $80,000 a year for the village to spend," he said.

President of the Deer Lake Homeowners' Association, Ron Wagner, has strongly opposed the condominiums, and argued against their approval at the Independence Township Planning Commission level in May. At the time, Walker's development included acreage in Independence too.

The township commission defeated the plan, fearing poor site drainage, impact to the neighboring residential area and improper zoning.

Wagner was at the village planning commission meeting Sept. 4, and again argued against approval.

"We have a right to be heard at any public hearing," he said after the meeting. "There's no reason why we shouldn't. We're part of the community."

"We oppose it for the same reasons now as we did then. He has not done anything different to change his plan. He's just trying to get a rezoning now another way."

The issue is expected to be discussed again at the Oct. 2 meeting at 7:30 p.m. in Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot, Clarkston.

Ritter sale soon

Within two weeks, Sam Binno expects to be the new owner of Ritter's Farm Market, ending the Dixie Highway store's 55-year reign as a Ritter-family operation.

It's the third business venture for the West Bloomfield resident who's owned party stores there, and in Detroit.

"I'm looking forward to doing business in Clarkston," Binno said, adding a few changes would be made to the store, "...to make it nicer."

Binno expects the state Liquor Control Commission to approve the wine and beer license transfer in two weeks, completing the sale.

Owner Tom Ritter says that's all that's holding up the final sale.

POH to appeal denial of satellite

By Marilyn Trumper

The state's turned down Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital's request for a 100-bed $34 million satellite hospital in Independence Township, and also denied its six competitors vying for bed allocations in southeast Michigan.

But the fight isn't over yet, according to Jack Cruikshank, POH's director of development and public relations.

"All seven of us were rejected," Cruikshank said of the state's Sept. 7 denial. "They graded each proposal and you could say I lost a close ball game. POH received 38 points...on a scale of 48."

Sisters of Mercy received 35; Crittenton Hospital, 34; Huron Valley, 17; Harper-Grace, 22; and Sinai and Henry Ford Hospitals, 23.

"It was a close game," Cruikshank said.

POH has 30 days to file an appeal, and the state has 45 days after that to respond, he said.

"If that doesn't go, we'll probably see the inside of a court room," Cruikshank said. "Ours is a good program. We've had three close calls. But no one would say let's go with POH. It's frustrating to be caught in the bureaucratic system."

Clarkston-area pediatrician James O'Neill, M.D., said he wasn't surprised by the denial and indicated southeast Michigan hospitals must take a cue from the reviewers, Comprehensive Health Planning Agency of Southeast Michigan, and make new medical facilities a joint venture.

"I know POH is taking this personally," O'Neill said. "But CHPASOM didn't make its review personally. You can make a case for any one small area for a facility, but they look at the whole of southeast Michigan to make their determination."

"Obviously if you look at (Independence Township) you're going to see a problem. But if you look at health care in all of the southeast you realize that is the problem."

"In fact the number of beds all over southeast Michigan have dropped," he said.

For 25 years O'Neill has practiced medicine. He served as chief-of-staff for Pontiac General Hospital in 1977, '78 and '79 and is currently an advisor to two nursing homes.

"They're going to have to listen to CHPASOM," O'Neill said. "Sinai and Ford and St. Joseph and Pontiac Osteopathic are going to have to plan together."

"This is not over yet. On the contrary, I still feel the different groups will make their case and appeal and it will go on in the courts."

Several years ago O'Neill steered Pontiac General Hospital's lawsuit through the courts when it sued to land a certificate-of-need for renovations to the Huron Street facility in Pontiac.

"That took two years, but we got it," he said, predicting a similar fight for POH.

Independence Township Supervisor James B. Smith says POH should appeal the decision.

"It seems to me that irrespective of how it is their case is a good one," Smith said. "They're applying for a transfer of beds, not new beds. They would provide a service we don't have. There's no sign of such a service coming here in the near future and it's a service our citizens need."

Neighboring Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls agrees.

"Quite honestly I don't know how in the world the state could have turned them down," Walls said. "Certainly it would have an impact on emergency services to our residents."

"And if I had my druthers," Walls said, "I'd rather it were in Springfield than Independence."

In May, when the six hospitals in addition to POH requested a certificate of need for beds, the state ordered a comparative review to determine which most qualified.

POH officials have long argued their plan is a transfer of beds from the downtown site, not a request for additional beds.

Named North Oaks Community Hospital, it's proposed for 50 acres at White Lake and Dixie Highway with inpatient and outpatient surgery, radiology, a laboratory, pharmacy, physical medicine, rehabilitation, outpatient walk-in service, 24-hour emergency care and community health programs.

In three state reviews POH was denied, but not unanimously as its competitors were, which led hospital officials to believe they stood a good chance in the final review.

According to Cruikshank, POH officials are now drafting their appeal to the state.

Bars differ on proposed end to two-for-one

By Marilyn Trumper

The Michigan Licensed Beverage Association, representing 3,000 of the state's 9,000 liquor license holders, has proposed the state outlaw happy hour's popular two-for-one drink specials.

The reaction of area Independence Township bar managers is mixed.

The plan, according to Walter Keck, deputy director of enforcement for the LCC, is designed to discourage overindulgence and drunk driving.

"We don't have a two-for-one happy hour, we take a quarter off (the price of drinks)," said Lee McNew, owner/manager of the Clarkston Cafe in downtown Clarkston.

"I can see what (the association is) trying to do, to prevent drunk driving...but I can see the owner's point of view too."

"I've never liked happy hour. I think (eliminating two-for-one) is a good idea. We like people to come in and enjoy themselves and we have popcorn. But we don't have two-for-one."

Paul Nichols, one of the owners of Alexander's Restaurant on Dixie Highway, says his eatery has a 2 to 6 p.m. two-for-the-price-of-one happy hour.

"I've got to have it because everybody else has got it," Nichols said. "But I don't like it. It's just that who would want to come in if we didn't do it? Sometimes people do drink to excess. I'm not in favor of (two-for-one) happy hour."

"We've even tried knocking down the price of the drinks, but we had to do it to 50 percent, so really they're getting two-for-one. I wish they'd just get rid of it."

Grace Imbrunone, manager of the Club Players on Dixie Highway, says the restaurant's offered two-for-one happy hour since it opened in 1978.

"We're perfectly willing to do whatever (the LCC) decides," Imbrunone said. "I can understand their concerns. But I don't think people drink too much with two-for-one."

Management at the Deer Lake Racquet Club on White Lake Road declined comment.

According to Keck, the LCC had scheduled a public hearing on the issue Sept. 18. If it plans to go ahead, the issue next goes before the Legislative Service Bureau, the attorney general and the Joint Committee of Administrative Rules comprised of five members of the house and five members of the senate.

They'll make the final determination in 60 to 120 days, Keck said.

MDA givers

By Kathy Greenfield

The five phones in the Independence Township center rang up a storm of contributions for the Muscular Dystrophy Association during the Jerry Lewis telethon Sept. 2 and 3.

"It was great. Some of the people in Clarkston were the nicest folks I've run into," said pledge center coordinator Jack Schoenbeck. "Our center's pledges were way over expectations. Our phones never stopped ringing."

The opening of a center in northern Oakland County was a first; previously the farthest north were Bloomfield Hills-Pontiac and Rochester-Troy.

During the telethon, the 625-exchange was listed with other telephone numbers on the TV screen. It was estimated the new center would generate about $8,000 in contributions.

Instead, people called in and pledged a total of $23,500 to help fight muscular dystrophy.

"We exceeded the goal by about 400 percent," Schoenbeck said, adding that the pledges could be the highest in the United States for the number of telephones and most of the donations came from the Clarkston area.

The center was located inside the Rademacher Chevy dealership at M-15 and Dixie Highway.

"(Tom Rademacher) was more than generous. He let us use his showroom for the entire weekend," Schoenbeck said.

In addition, the Village Bakeshop contributed muffins for the workers, and MacDonald's gave free drinks and burgers.

A Troy resident, Schoenbeck said he now knows the Clarkston zip code by heart; and he added another tidbit to illustrate the good feelings generated by the experience of working here.

"We had none of the prank calls coming in that you would get at a pledge center, and that kind of surprised me," he said.

$2 million suit looms for mine

By Marilyn Trumper

Within 10 days, developer Charles Nunn expects to file a $2 million lawsuit in federal district court, designed to force Independence Township to allow him to remove sand and level 50 acres at Sashabaw and Waldon roads.

"We're surprised at the township's change between now and six months ago when they were cooperating," said Nunn's Southfield attorney Irving Keene. "We proceeded with good faith and assumed they would act similarly."

Keene argues Independence Township violated his clients' constitutional rights by outlawing the mine as outlined in the 5th and 14th amendments, which say no person shall be deprived of their property without just compensation. Keene says he'll ask the court to establish reasonable standards for mining in the ordinance.

At its Sept. 4 meeting the Independence Township Board upheld its earlier vote to deny Nunn's mining request, fearful of the impact truck traffic would have on the already busy Sashabaw corridor.

In addition, the motion says the developers failed to meet the ordinance mining requirements.

When requested by the board, Keene declined to respond in writing to concerns of Borg-Warner Equities, the owners of Pine Knob's $250,000 condominiums adjacent to the proposed site. Borg contends the sand operation would "...seriously diminish the value" of its property.

"We presented all our arguments, plus the opinions of your professionals, engineers and attorneys," Keene said. "I really do not believe that I could add more."

The township planning commission, building department and professional planner all recommended approval of the plan.

Trustee Dale Stuart opposed the proposed operation.

"In my review of the material presented there's been a lack of opportunity to evaluate (Borg's) serious allegations of impact to the property," Stuart said. "Because of that, I'm not in favor of approving the application."

Trustee William Vandermark opposed the plan, but abstained from the vote because he is a Borg-Warner employee.

"I don't think we can stand the traffic on I-75 and elsewhere," Vandermark said. "It's a real safety burden."

Treasurer Frederick Ritter and Clerk Richard Holman approved the plan.

"My feeling is that there would not be negative impact on traffic," Holman said. "And I felt there were sufficient safeguards (in a motion to approve made weeks ago) that would allow us to proceed with it, and let the developers use their land as it's been zoned for use for years."

Ritter agreed.

"I don't look at the project as anything more than a land leveling site," Ritter said. "Under the current zoning they can build on top of that hill right now with nothing to stop it."

"In my view, what they're proposing to develop will be more palatable for the community, and a more reasonable grade."

After discussion the board voted 4-2, to again deny the plan.

Under the township's amended, more restrictive mining ordinance adopted in 1983, Nunn must apply for a permit to mine sand and level the 50 acres, making them buildable for an industrial park.

According to Keene, it's a three-year project.

Sand from the mine is to be sold to complete work on I-696 west of I-75.

Who's to blame?

Kathy Greenfield

Did you ever notice the tendency to blame somebody else for the cold you caught?

Even the phrase "to catch a cold" enforces the quest, so inevitably the miserable malady falls under the life's events category of: "This can't be my fault; it must be yours."

Think about it. You can catch a baseball or football, you can catch a Frisbee, you can catch an object tossed across the room. You can catch a cold.

But finding the person who tossed it presents a challenge—especially this time of year.

Was it the woman in front of you in line at the grocery store clutching a Kleenex? The man who sneezed in the same room? The person who had the audacity to breath on you while talking? The spouse you kissed?

Or, was it someone who had a cold-under-disguise compliments of a cold symptom relief product?

This particular cold I'm carrying around (and, alas, no doubt passing around) this week could be the fault of a family member who eventually developed laryngitis. I'm waiting to see if I develop that definitive symptom.

It could also be connected to the fate of a co-worker who came down with the zinger the same day I did. All I have to do is figure out who we have in common in our day-to-day travels.

It's so mind-boggling that it would be worth some deep thought, except my mind's too clogged to be all that efficient.

Yesterday I was making phone calls to organize a potluck-type dinner.

The person on the other end of the line laughed, and said I'd given her the choice of bringing baked beans—or baked beans.

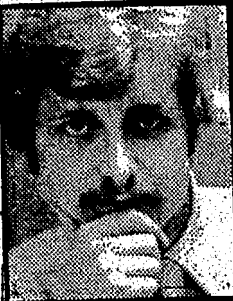

I laughed, too, and said I meant to say baked beans or brownies. "I have a cold," I offered as an excuse for boggled behavior.

She understood. And she can't blame me for catching a cold via telephone.

The choice is clear

Al Zawacky

As the economy gains strength, spending power increases and unemployment declines, it would do us well to remember 1982.

Particular for those of us here in Michigan, tied as we are by an economic umbilical cord to the auto industry. We should hope labor and management representatives in the current negotiations between GM and the UAW have especially keen memories of the situation two short years ago.

Recall, if you will, 1982. Cars were not selling. Thousands of auto workers sat idle on indefinite lay-offs. Chrysler's very survival was in doubt. Some analysts were speculating that American auto manufacturers were destined to go the way of the domestic electronics industry. Rendered extinct by swifter, more-efficient foreign competitors in a process of economic natural selection.

These bleak circumstances were staring us in the face only 24 months ago, and yet, the memories of auto management and labor already seem to be faltering. UAW President Owen Bieber is one of those who seems to be suffering from amnesia.

MR. BIEBER HAS been going around thumping his chest a lot, bellowing about big company profits and the workers' right to their fair share. Absent from his harangues, however, has been any admission that for all its cheery numbers, the auto industry recovery is still a very fragile one.

Thousands remain out of work, and the bright sales picture is artificially propped up by quotas limiting the number of foreign car imports. How healthy would the industry be if the Japanese flooded the American market with whatever they could produce? (There is certainly no shortage of Americans willing to blindly damage their own livelihoods by purchasing foreign automobiles).

Quotas compel the consumer to subsidize the industry by compelling the purchase of more American cars, thus creating profits to be used to allow domestic automakers to catch up with Japanese productivity levels. This is sensible and sound policy, given the auto industry's crucial role in national economic health.

You would imagine that this would create in the industry a sense of duty and gratitude toward the consumer, and a continuation of tight-belt policies on wages and benefits until the quotas are lifted. Instead, management set an incredibly poor example by fattening itself with recent bonuses largely created by those quotas. And now, the union is predictably clamoring for its own slice of the pie. Both, it would appear, are hell-bent on maintaining the high personnel costs that were largely responsible for the industry's inability to compete with the Japanese in the first place.

THE ONLY SENSIBLE approach to the labor-management impasse is a profit-sharing system based on universal stock ownership. Abandon the current system of guaranteed wage increases, and link wage improvement directly to the success of the company. When the company makes money, everyone will share the rewards. When the company takes a plunge, everyone goes down with her. Productivity increases will benefit all.

Mr. Bieber, in rejecting such a scheme, is like the small child who wants to eat his cake and have it, too: guaranteed wage increases regardless of the company's success AND access to company profits. His stand should merit some kind of chutzpah award—or an economic illiteracy medal. Does he understand the relationship of employees to employers?

Unless they have a specific agreement to the contrary, workers have no right to company profits. They sell their labor to management at an agreed rate, and their paycheck and benefits are the end of the company's obligation. Profits belong to shareholders who have invested capital and have incurred some element of risk in their expected return. Without the element of risk involved in stock ownership, a GM employee has no more right to GM profits than a consumer who happens to buy a Chevrolet.

This is basic economics, and basic economics also has something to say about Mr. Bieber's noise about "job security." There is no job security unless someone, somewhere can afford to purchase the goods or services being produced.

It should be remembered that in actuality, management makes no concessions at the bargaining table. It is the consumer who inevitably ends up picking up the tab (just as it is the consumer who will wind up paying for Walter Mondale's air-headed scheme to "tax the corporations" en route to a balanced budget). Henry Ford, appropriately enough, put it best: "Employers don't pay wages. They only handle the money. The product pays the wages."

The choice seems to be between labor-management teamwork, profit-sharing and employee ownership, or the raise-wages-and-prices-regardless-of-productivity cycle that created the mess of 1982.

In other words, we shall see in these upcoming weeks if the American auto industry wishes to continue its renaissance and eventually catch up to Japanese standards of productivity—or whether it prefers to go the way of the dinosaur.

The roads are clearly marked. Quo vadis, gentlemen?

Jim's Jottings

Some information

Jim Sherman

Sometimes notes get lost forever on or in my desk. This one was uncovered after just a couple months. Related to Jottings columns, that's like tomorrow's news.

I made a note during Democrat presidential hopeful Fritz Mondale's acceptance speech at the 'Dem convention in the City-by-the-Bay.

Mondale was talking about education, and what he and the country had to do to make all citizens more learned. He said parents were going to have to "turn off their television sets."

About 10 minutes later Fritz challenged President Reagan to debates on the issues. I believe he suggested the two having six debates "on television."

I assume Mondale wants TVs left on prior to November 6 and turned off after the election.

We all have signs of "getting old". In my business a sign is when you're taking pictures of high school children of students you wrote about when they were in high school.

From time to time writers and speakers get their comeuppance from language purists. One such purist wants "way, shape and form", as a phrase, eliminated.

People who say, and writers who write, "rules and regulations" bother me. It's redundant. There, I got to use that word again.

Too, the words "general public" can only be put together to lengthen a sentence. Unless someone can tell me how the general public differs from the public. "Any and all" are also put together for no good reason.

It took Seven Ponds Nature Center's publication "Heron Tracks" to tell me things about the misquito I didn't know. I'm not sure I really care either. But, because the buggers are what they are, read on.

After they break from the pupal the mosquitos float or walk to a place of shelter where they dry off and wait for wings to harden.

The timing of this phase is critical to the breeding future of the mosquito. If a female attempts to fly too soon the tone that she produces in flight will not attract males.

If a male flies too soon his wingbeats will be similar to that of a female and the tone will attract other males... a most embarrassing and fruitless situation says Heron Tracks.

Studies have shown that a male mosquito may be able to pick up the flight tone of a female up to 100 yards.

Two other notes about the female mosquito... it is the only sex that has the proper mouthparts to dine on blood, and, egg development in the mated female begins only after a meal of blood.

What you do with this information is up to you.

Park pleasures

A beautiful fall evening with numerous friends and families enjoying the stream, picnic tables and playground equipment. A chance to visit friends, have a Coke with a classmate...

Surely I am describing the Village Park on Depot Road.

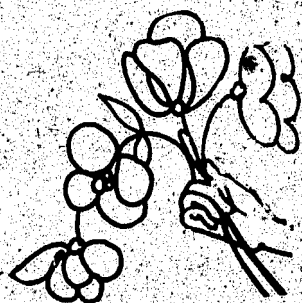

Our gratitude goes to the village council, especially Fontie ApMadoc and the Village Beautification Committee, and Councilman Dave Raup.

Over three years ago, Dave Raup decided to work with Community Development money to bring the locals back and keep drug traffic out.

It would be unfortunate for our community not to recognize these efforts.

Sincerely,

Parade thanks

Dear Clarkston Rotary Club,

Thank you for a delightful Labor Day Parade. I was in town at 9 a.m. to deliver my band member to the junior high—the town was abuzz in anticipation of another Main Street event.

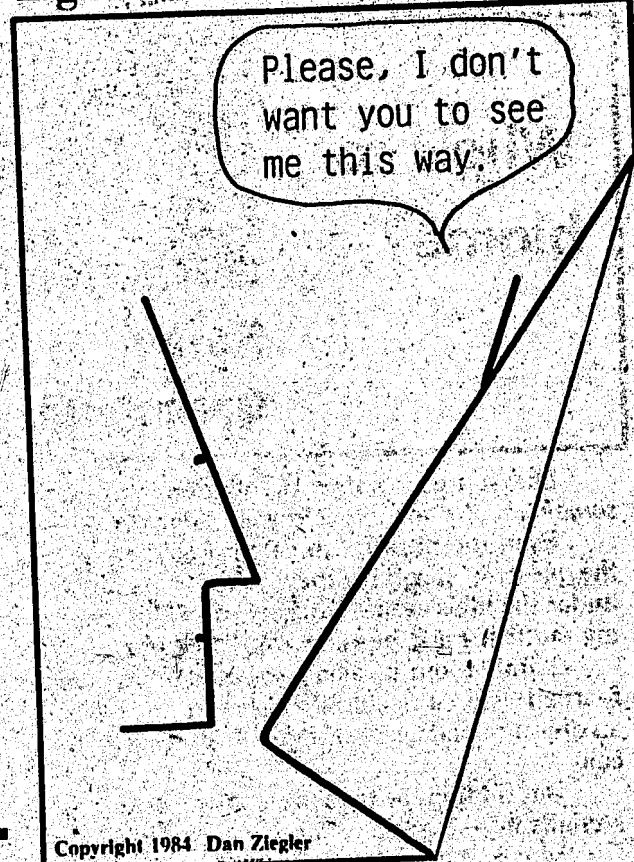

At 10 a.m. when I returned to watch the parade with our family the whole town had turned out, proving Clarkston really does "love a parade."

Gary and Barbara Zabel

P.S. Thank you from all the band parents for letting the band march in front of the horses this year!

—Peeking into the past

10 YEARS AGO
Sept. 5, 1974

It was a cold and rainy Monday, but it takes more than poor weather to keep Clarkston fans away from a parade. People started coming downtown in large numbers as early as 7:30 a.m. to partake of the township firefighters' pancake breakfast—550 were served.

Glenn R. Underwood spent $553.19 in his pursuit of the Republican nomination for Springfield Township supervisor, more than any other candidate in Springfield and Independence townships.

Vacationing at Torch Lake recently were fire Chief Tink Ronk and his family, wife Mary and children, Steve, Kathy and Robb. With the Ronks were Mr. and Mrs. Keith Hallman and their children, Mark, Sue, Dan, and Janet and her husband Dave.

Six Clarkston families took a four-day camping trip last week to Harrisville State Park on Lake Huron. Mr. and Mrs. Greg Leach and Christopher; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Bronson and Doug and Sharry; Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Irwin and Jody, Lisa and Lori; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Colwell and Annie, Susan and Mark; Mr. and Mrs. Tom O'Brian and Erin and Shauneen; and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lamm and Janet and Fritz.

25 YEARS AGO
Sept. 10, 1959

The Labor Day parade, sponsored by the Clarkston Rotary Club, drew quite a large crowd, as usual. Long before the line of marchers started south on Main Street every available parking place along the way was filled. On-lookers crowded the street.

The Clarkston Happy Helpers 4-H Club showed their float in the Labor Day Parade in Clarkston.

The Saturday Night Dance Club held the first dance of the season at the Community Building Sept. 5. "Back to the Old Grind" was the theme. A bountiful dinner was served by the committee: Mr. and Mrs. Max Souby, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robertson; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kelly; Mr. and Mrs. Del Walter; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Osgood.

Grocery bargains: cake mixes 10 cents a package, two heads lettuce 39 cents, pork roast 27 cents a pound, TV dinners—chicken, beef, turkey—49 cents each, three dozen eggs $1.

Lake lots, 1/3 to acre homesites at Clarkston, $1,995—$20 down, $20 a month.

Going up in flames

Jim Fitzgerald

I wonder what would happen if I wrote about the use of artificial candles in Catholic churches? Probably the same thing that happened when I wrote about the use of artificial birth control in Catholic homes. I would be accused of subscribing to the Playboy philosophy, if not the magazine itself.

If they want to, people can not light electronic vigil candles with a magic wand in many churches, including St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Greentown. Some people don't want to.

An unscientific Free Press poll indicated a 50-50 split. Respondents favoring fake candles said such things as: "These candles might prevent fires".... "I think they're better looking than the real ones and a lot cleaner, too."

Typical objections were: "I think religion should be traditional like it has always been.".... "Next they'll have robot priests."

PERSONALLY, as a former church-candle lighter, I think electronic candles are a fine idea. Of course, I didn't light vigil candles, which usually costs money. Vigil candles are small, in glass or plastic containers, and people light them in the name of someone they love and/or want prayed for. At St. Mary's, an electronic candle stays lit for 24 hours for $1.

As a schoolboy, I used a long stick to light big candles stuck in candelabras on altar shelves high above my head. I always had an awful time transferring the flame on the stick wick to the candle wick. The priest and congregation probably couldn't have cared less, but I always felt that the entire world had stopped to wait for a clumsy kid to light some candles, and if I didn't hurry up, the priest wouldn't finish saying 8 o'clock mass in time to say 9 o'clock mass, and I would go to hell for obstructing worship.

A MAGIC WAND, such as the one at St. Mary's, surely would have eased my burden. All you have to do is touch the tip of the wand to the electronic candle and it not only lights up, but flickers like a genuine flame and appears traditional enough to fool the most old-fashioned soul, departed or otherwise. I have no idea how this is done. I'm only grateful that I lived long enough to see a miracle in church, even if the only beneficiary is Detroit Edison.

But if I wrote a column praising the artificial vigil candle, I would surely call it sophisticated, and I would complain that unsophisticated Catholics were afraid to use it for fear of being accused of lighting a candle even though they didn't want a flame. That's similar to what I recently wrote about artificial birth control, and the reaction of several readers was dismaying.

My mistake was correctly interpreting a newspaper quote from Pope John Paul II as forbidding Catholics to have sexual relations for pleasure only, with no commitment to having children. I disagreed with him and the result was letters to the editor saying such stuff as: "Fitzgerald's philosophy of sex puts pleasure as the primary purpose. . . . It's the Playboy philosophy. . . . It is morally wrong to use people for your own self-gratification, sexual or otherwise."

My wife didn't appreciate my being called a playboy in public print. She wondered if it were morally wrong for a married, mutually consenting couple to scratch each other's itching backs. And she suggested that I wouldn't receive disagreeable letters if I quit writing stuff that made disagreeable people angry.

So I'm not going to write that if more people lit more artificial candles, there would be less danger of the world going up in flames.

CHANGE IN STYLE: There's a difference in the color guard this year at Clarkston High School. As the over-30 member group that's part of the CHS Marching Band rehearses, they reflect the change. "Things are moving now more to dance movements and less of a military look," says CHS band director Clifford Chapman. "I guess entertainment is the name of the game, and aesthetics. They will be doing a little more ballet in their movements."

Board points to concentration

Independence denies group home request

By Marilyn Trumper

Independence Township says it has an excessive concentration of group homes for the mentally retarded, and it's not taking more until all communities in the state have the same density.

At its Sept. 4 meeting, charging "excessive concentration," the board unanimously turned thumbs down on the Macomb Oakland Regional Center's plan to build on three acres at Oak Hill and Perry Lake roads in Bloch Equestrian Village.

The state licensing division makes the final decision.

Currently Independence Township has 14 such group homes.

"The township is already at a higher level than other communities in the state," said Supervisor James B. Smith. "We have to let them know we oppose the placement of another facility in this township."

"I think we should send a letter indicating our opposition until a like form of concentration is found in other communities across the state."

Thomas Miller, MORC's director of development, disagrees there's an excessive concentration of group homes in Independence Township.

"We do not confer," he said after the meeting. "Less than half of 1 percent of the persons living in Independence Township live in adult foster care. We do not see that to be overly concentrated."

Early this summer Sam Cataldo of United Neighbors of Independence Township led the 35-member coalition to block a group home in his neighborhood at Hadley and Fireside roads.

Cataldo, too, charged excessive concentration and soon after MORC announced plans to build elsewhere.

"We've come a long way," he told the board Sept. 4, after its vote of opposition. "I'm encouraged by your actions tonight."

Liquor wanted

Party store makes request

Mario Rotundo wants to sell beer, wine and packaged liquor at his deli on Sashabaw Road, south of Waldon, in Independence Township. The Michigan Liquor Control Commission's weighing that request.

The board read a letter Sept. 4 from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department that recommended approval.

The LCC makes the final decision, according to administrator Jerry Norris.

"We really have no deadline for the review," he said. "In fact, some people wait years and apply and reapply."

Rotundo could not be reached for comment.

Sunny Beach residents want better drainage

By Marilyn Trumper

Residents of the 32-acre Sunny Beach Subdivision are fed up with poor drainage and runoff that's created a sandbar in Walters Lake—and they want Independence Township to do something about it.

At the Sept. 4 board meeting, residents asked the board to eliminate the drainage problem. The construction has a price tag of approximately $40,000, according to township engineers Hubble Roth & Clark Inc.

"First we have to decide who's responsible, and then decide who'll participate (in paying the cost)," said Clerk Richard Holman. "It's the board's opinion that Oakland County's responsible. Our primary goal is to define the solution."

To reverse the problems, engineers say a retention basin and storm sewer must be built on an open one-acre site, which doesn't exist. The alternate proposal is to upsize the current 12-inch pipe to 36 inches.

Henry Zilka of Lakeview Drive has lived in the 60-year-old subdivision 10 years, and says after five years of appeals at the local level, he thinks the board's ready to act.

"The problem can't get any worse, and it's gotten worse ever since I've lived here," Zilka said. "The water runs off the county road, into the sewer, and into the lake. The county feels it's not its problem, the township feels it's not its problem, and we're stuck in the middle."

"(The board's) going to appoint someone to talk to the county, which to me feels like it's going somewhere. I think they'll do something."

Drug info

"Contemporary Issues," a course to educate today's parents about today's drug problem, is offered through the Clarkston Community Education Department.

The classes begin Monday, Sept. 17. Clarkston News "C.A.T. P.A.W." columnist Jeanette Sanders is the instructor. Sanders has had 15 years' experience as a high school teacher and seven years' counseling experience in dealing with youth drug involvement.

She is also chairperson of the education committee of the Chemical People of Clarkston.

The class features guest speakers, and parents will be exposed to the legal and medical issues.

Parents may sign up by calling the Clarkston Community Learning Center at 673-7756 or by visiting the center on Maybee Road.

NWOVEC's lunchroom not open yet

It's too early in the school year to lunch at the Northwest Inn, the restaurant staffed by students enrolled in the food service program at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center in Springfield Township.

"We've had a lot of people coming every day to check the dining room," said Roberta Allen, a paraprofessional aide in the food service department.

The restaurant should be open in mid-October, Allen said, following book work and demonstrations to prepare the students for cooking and serving the meals.

There'll be an announcement of the restaurant's opening date in a future edition of The Clarkston News.

Thumbs down for liquor request

By Marilyn Trumper

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department recommends Richardson's Farm Dairy on Clarkston Road not receive a package liquor license, and the Independence Township Board agrees.

A letter to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission, read at the board's Sept. 4 meeting, said the OCS's recommendation to deny is "...due in part to (Richardson's) proximity to another (package liquor store, Lakeview Market), located 2,640 feet away.

"I know of the concern the board had with this, and I wanted to bring them up-to-date," said Supervisor James B. Smith.

In May, the board recommended the state deny Richardson's request, because it feared a concentration of liquor sales on that corner, and the potential of increasing traffic hazards in an already busy intersection.

Charles Androsky, vice president of Farr View Limited, owners of Richardson's Farm Dairy, said the state's still processing the application.

"Of course, the OCS exercised their prerogative," Androsky said. "Other than that, I really have nothing to say."

Farr View Limited owns 31 Richardson's stores in southwestern Michigan.

Cop tax ballot wording OK'd

By Marilyn Trumper

With one dissent from Trustee Dale Stuart, the Independence Township Board approved November ballot wording for a proposed .5 mill police tax increase.

"We have had proposals for the police fund several times over the years, and I'm not confident we have a reasonable handle on what one, two or three more deputies means to the township, to our police protection, or to the support cars that work in several townships and come here when they're needed," Stuart said.

"I'm not going to vote in support of it. I'm not sure what it means to the public if we buy additional help. I don't have a good handle on it and I'm not going to approval a proposal until we can say it.

"I want to be able to say to the public, 'If you're going to give us the money, we'll do this, this and this.' I think the people are saying the same thing."

If approved for collection over the next 15 years, the .5 mill will generate an additional $130,000 a year. Currently the township levies 1 mill which generates $261,000 to pay its $350,000 bill to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. That buys seven deputies, the seventh working only four of the 12 months, their cars, uniforms and equipment, and pays their salaries. The $131,000 difference is made up from the Village of Clarkston's police contracting fee, $24,000 in federal revenue sharing and earned interest on investments.

"We need that half mill to keep the level of services we have."

—Trustee Larence Kozma

A proposed 1-mill police tax increase on the August primary ballot was soundly defeated for the fifth time since 1976.

After Stuart's comments, Trustee Daniel Travis proposed drafting a "fact sheet" with graphs showing costs, what tax dollars buy, etc.

After the meeting, Clerk Richard Holman indicated he would draft the graph prior to the election.

"We are in a deficit situation, that's why I'm supporting it," said Trustee Larence Kozma. "We need that half mill to keep the level of services we have."

A .5 mill equals 50 cents for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation. A home assessed at $40,000 or half its market value would pay approximately $20 more each year for police if the millage increase is approved.

Center to serve hot meal Tuesdays

Soon, the Independence Township Senior Citizens Center will be serving a hot meal at noon on Tuesdays, thanks to the Independence Township Board.

Tuesday lunches ended in June when the Oakland Livingston Human Services Agency ran out of funding to finance meals five days a week, and cut the days to four, according to OLHSA's center manager, Sharon Turner.

At its Sept. 4 meeting the Independence Township Board agreed to pick up the $432 tab to reinstate Tuesday lunches, at least until October when OLSHA's 1985 grant is expected to arrive, according to Supervisor James B. Smith.

"We're very pleased," Turner said of the board's decision. "It really is nice. (The seniors) who don't cook regularly because they're alone, or those who would normally eat alone, get a hot meal and have it with people they can talk to. The lunches are important."

According to Turner, the Independence Township Senior Citizens Center serves approximately 42 lunches each day for 75 cents each. OLSHA picks up the remaining $2.25 lunch cost, she said.

Clarkston squeaks by Bulldogs

By Dan Vandenhemel

Dave McDonald should lead the league in jumping off the bench for the Clarkston Wolves girls' basketball team.

The coach of the varsity team was up and down out of his seat all night as his team held on for a close, 52-50, victory over Flint Bentley Sept. 6.

It was the opening game of the basketball season for the Wolves and they fought the Lady Bulldogs for every point, which made McDonald all the more tense.

"We didn't shoot great but shot well," he said of the 36 percent from the floor and 63 percent from the foul line. "We played a lot better than I anticipated."

The game was decided on a pair of free throws by senior center Wendy Learmont with 30 seconds to go. That put the Wolves up by four points, 52-48. But the big plays that saved the game were a pair of steals by guard Kim Ottman.

With time running down, Ottman twice stole the ball near the Lady Bulldog basket to stop a possible scoring opportunity.

"Those were big steals," McDonald said. "Kim and Laura (Hurren) played fantastic out there."

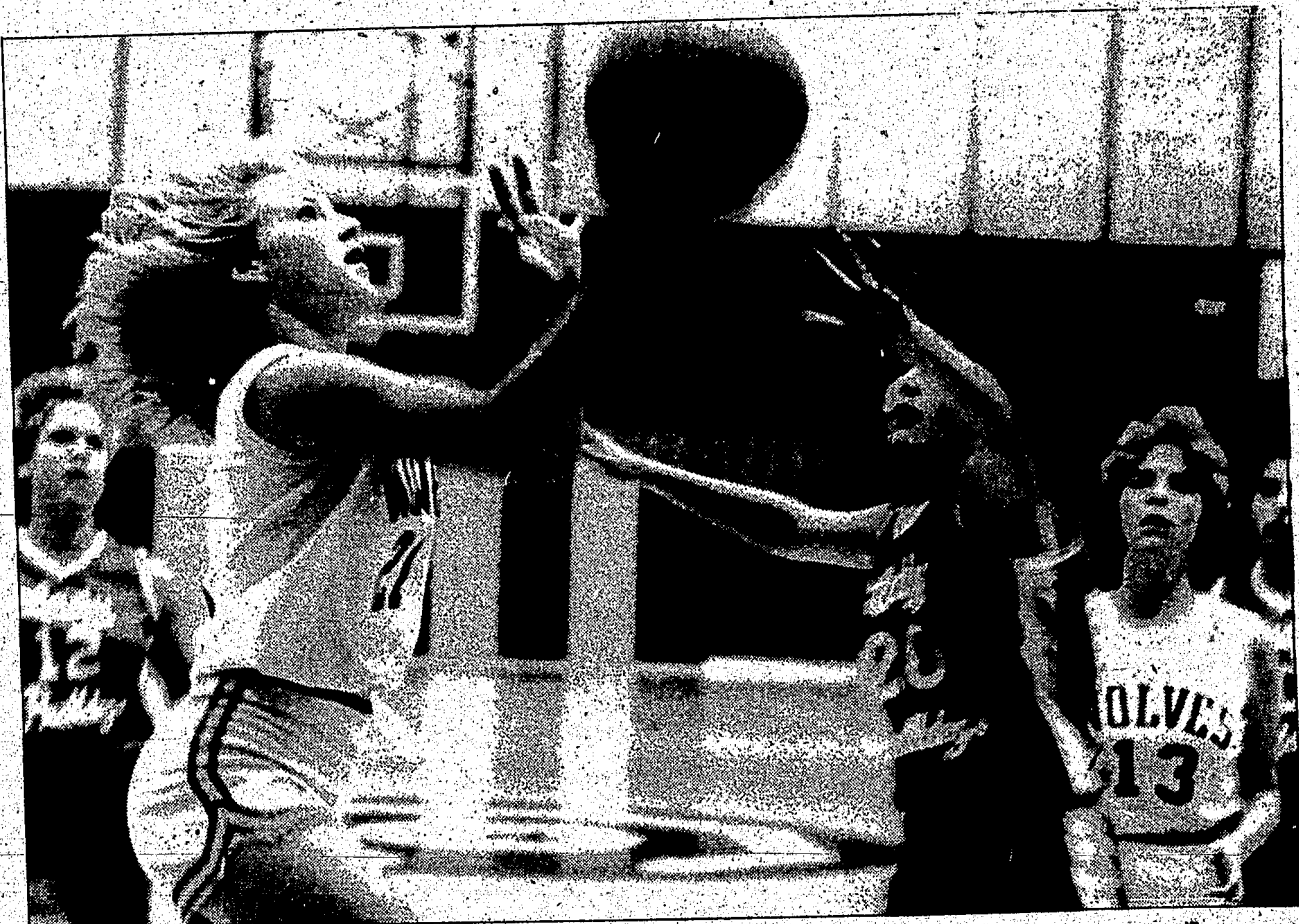

Ottman led the scoring with 16 points and added 13 steals. Hurren ran the offense and tossed in six points while dishing off seven assists. Junior Michelle Taulbee came through with 15 points, Bridget Kilcline had 10 and Learmont five.

Flint tried to control the game at the start and scored six of the first eight points before Clarkston could get on track. The Wolves pulled together and started their running game and led, 14-12, at the end of the opening quarter.

McDonald claims his starting five are the fastest in the county and he won't get any arguments from the Lady Bulldogs.

The Wolves were consistently in front of their opponents, both offensively and defensively. The margin of victory would have been larger if the Wolves controlled the boards better. Besides Learmont's 11 rebounds, no one pulled in many.

"I think the rebounds were the poorest thing we did out there," McDonald said. "It wasn't bad but it could be improved. I think the opening game jitters had something to do with that."

A soft touch over an opponent and Laura Hurren scores two of her six points. The Wolves are off and running this season as Hurren and Kim Ottman lead Clarkston to a 52-50 victory.

CHS triumphs, 7-0

Gridders win opening fight

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Romeo Bulldogs turnout to be pussycats in the Clarkston Wolves' opening football game. The Wolves came out on top 7-0, Sept. 7 at home.

In the first quarter, the contest started in Clarkston's favor as they drove the ball 80 yards on their first possession to a touchdown. Running back Jeff Davis charged over from the 4-yard line and quarterback Mike Galley kicked the extra point for a quick lead.

After that, the defenses took over and controlled the game. The Wolves did manage 232 yards on offense to 116 for the Bulldogs.

"It was a team defense that shut them down," Wolves' coach Walt Wyniemko said. "Everyone was on the ball. We feel very fortunate to win the ball game."

Romeo never threatened until the final minutes when they closed in on the goal line. From 20 yards away with six seconds to play, a fourth down pass in the end zone fell incomplete.

Standouts for the Wolves were Dave Lederman as a lineman for offense and defense, and Erik Kline who caught five passes and made two interceptions.

The shutout obviously pleased Wyniemko but he said he wasn't upset with the offensive performance of only one touchdown.

"We've got a very young team and you expect them to make mistakes," he said. "They (Romeo) did some things we weren't prepared for. It's a young offensive line and the hardest thing to teach is the offensive line play."

The opening battle against Romeo is beginning to be a habit. Last year, the Bulldogs edged the Wolves, 21-20, in another hard-fought game.

But leading the season off with a tough game doesn't indicate how the rest of the season will go, said Wyniemko.

"We take every week differently," he said. "Right now we're thinking about Sterling Heights (Stevenson, the Sept. 14 game). They do some things differently so we'll attack differently."

All in a day

Maureen Brandow, a student trainer from Central Michigan University, is taking her internship at Clarkston High School. At the Clarkston-Flint Bentley girls' basketball game Sept. 6, Brandow said she had seen only one person during the day and [at left] was there in case she was needed. Good thing she was, because duty called late in the game [above] as she took care of Bridget Kilcline's badly cramped leg.

Rough week begins season for Wolves

By Dan Vandenhemel

It's been a rough week for soccer fans at Clarkston High School.

The Wolves' season is starting much like their first season last year. On Sept. 4 they began with a tough, 2-1, loss to Farmington Harrison on Sept. 4. Two days later ran into a well-seasoned Detroit Catholic Central and were bounced, 8-1.

"We were just outclassed by Catholic Central," coach Neil Granlund said. "When they have a guy like Andy Rama who's a senior and was selected to the all-state team last year (and) score seven goals against you, there's not much you can do. They're a fantastic soccer team."

A scoring burst 12 minutes into the contest by Catholic Central all but put the game away as they tallied three times in a five-minute span.

"We were just outclassed by Catholic Central."

—Neil Granlund

Clarkston's John Reading put the Wolves on the board with a long shot up the middle at the 12:20 mark of the match. The half ended at a 4-1 score as Catholic Central pushed the ball in the goal with just five seconds left.

The second half was more of the same with CC controlling the tempo of the game and not letting Clarkston mount any kind of offense.

"We had difficulty passing on offense because they were so aggressive, we couldn't work the ball up the field," Granlund said. "Our defense had trouble clearing the ball out."

As a result, goalkeeper Tom Purves had to stop 18 shots.

In the season opener, the Wolves jumped out to a quick lead but fell to Farmington Harrison, 2-1. Sept. 4, Rob Unsworth punched the ball through the defense after just three minutes had passed. The score held up until Harrison came back with a pair of goals late in the half.

"The two games were very different," the coach said. "The Harrison game was very well played. We worked together well, it was a tough game. Against Catholic Central we never got the chance to work because they were right on top of us."

College boring?

By Dan Vandenhemel

Ah, back to school. Schools are perfect places for people watching, especially colleges.

The semester just started at Oakland University where I'm on the lifetime plan toward graduation and the bookstore is always the busiest.

The seasoned college students know exactly where to go to find a class book on the "Intricacies of Chinese Culture." They know the shortest line isn't always the fastest. What's fun to watch are the freshmen.

The lines at the checkout counters during the early part of the semester are always stretching through the paperbacks, through the calendars and all the way to the greeting cards—a good 20-minute wait. Once in line, the fun begins watching people.

From the back of the line, the security beeper in the front of the store can be heard clearly as someone walks through the door without paying for something. Occasionally the store workers forget to zap the purchase that allows it to leave the store without four security guards frisking you.

When the beeper went off, a wide-eyed freshman behind me asked what it was.

"Oh, nothing much," I said. "Just someone tried to steal a book and the radar got 'em."

She asked what else was going on because from her vantage point, a good foot lower than my 5-foot-9 frame, she couldn't see much.

"They're escorting the guy to the psychology lab where most of the freshmen end up after the upperclassmen get done with them," I said with the straightest of faces.

Her wide eyes just got wider. Freshmen are so gullible.

Two lines over, yet another obvious freshman girl was having trouble with yet another upperclassman. The girl was trying to flirt with this guy who wasn't paying any attention to her. The more frustrated she became the harder it was to hold onto her stack of books. One more cold shoulder from the guy and close to 15 books would hit the floor.

The wait wasn't a long one and the young freshman received a rousing ovation from the crowd. As she tried to crawl between the pages of her American Revolution textbook, the guy she was trying to flirt with helped pick up the books.

And who says college is boring?

Corn use tips for summer harvest

One of the pleasures of summer is enjoying fresh, sweet corn on the cob.

In order to get the best corn possible, these tips are offered by Debra Slezak, home economist with the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

•As a general rule, the less time from the field to your kitchen the better. Natural sugars found in corn begin to turn to starch within 20 minutes.

•To keep corn sweet, refrigerate it as soon as possible.

•Signs of quality include a bright green husk, dark brown silk, even rows of plump kernels and freedom from worm damage.

Slezak provided some ways to enjoy this season's crop:

CORN FRITTERS WITH FRESH CORN

2½ cups fresh corn

Add: 1 well beaten egg yolk, 2 teaspoons flour and ¼ teaspoon salt

Whip corn until stiff but not dry; 1 egg white. Fold the egg white into the corn mixture. Into a hot buttered skillet, drop the mixture as for pancakes and saute until light brown. Makes four servings.

FLAVORED BUTTERS FOR CORN ON THE COB

Chili Butter—In a small bowl, combine ½ cup softened butter or margarine, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon chili powder, and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Blend well. Refrigerate until firm.

Chive Butter—Same as above, except substitute 2 teaspoons chopped chives for chili powder.

Dill Butter—Same as above, except substitute 1 teaspoon dill weed for chili powder.

Board OK's computer for $3,000

For the next three months, Independence Township Hall will be the proud user of an IBM PCET computer for payroll and property appraisals. After a lengthy discussion Sept. 4, the board unanimously agreed to lease the computer for $3,000, to be paid from the general and improvement revolving funds, according to Clerk Richard Holman.

"It's less expensive to lease it, but of course the company hopes we'll want to eventually buy it," Holman said, adding it will greatly ease administrative office work.

Recruiter aide

Pvt. Deanna Brewer has been assigned as a recruiter aide to the United States Army Recruiting Station at 5888 Dixie Highway, Independence Township. A 1982 graduate of Clarkston High School, Brewer joined the army March 1. "I wanted money for college, and through the Army College Fund Program I'll be able to save $20,100 for my college education in three years," she said. She took her basic training at Fort Jackson, S.C., and trained to be a multi-channel communications equipment operator at Fort Gordon, Ga. During her 45-day assignment, Brewer will talk to local residents about army opportunities. Then she'll leave for her permanent duty station at Fort Hood, Texas. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Brewer of Crestview Avenue, Independence Township.

Larceny charges

An Ortonville man and woman face charges of larceny over $100 for allegedly stealing two doors from a truck in Independence Township last August.

Lewis Rider II, 21, and Kristin Skene, 19, had a preliminary exam before Oakland County District Court Judge Gerald E. McNally, Sept. 6. They were bound over to circuit court for arraignment Sept. 21 before Judge Frederick Mester. McNally ordered the $1,000 personal bond remain.

The charge is a five-year felony, according to a court spokesperson.

Edna M. Brooks

Edna M. Brooks, 58, of Springfield Township died Sept. 10. She was a housewife.

She was the wife of Timothy; mother of Sandra Danyluk of Phoenix, Ariz., Suzanne Chase of Clarkston, Terry Brooks of Albany, Calif., Tresea Herrick of Lapeer and James Brooks of Holly; grandmother of nine; and sister of Gladys Forsys of Clifford, Helen Lee of Milford, Milton Bain of Linden, Francis Bain of Hartland, Norman Bain of Grand Blanc and Don Bain of Gould City.

The funeral service is to be held Thursday, Sept. 13, at 11 a.m. at the Goyette Funeral Home, Clarkston, with the Rev. Robert LaPine officiating. Burial is to follow in Seymour Lake Cemetery.

The family suggests memorial tributes to the Michigan Cancer Society.

Nancy A. Reinert

Nancy A. Reinert, 55, of Independence Township died Sept. 4. She was a Past Worthy Matron of Areme Chapter No. 503 O.E.S., Pontiac.

She was the wife of James; daughter of Amy Knight of Aurora, Mo.; mother of Steven, stationed with the United States Navy in Oak Harbor, Wash., and Mark of Pennsylvania; grandmother of two; and sister of Kenneth Reinert of Flint and Betty Dresser of Pontiac.

The funeral service was held Sept. 7 at the Lewis E. Wint Funeral Home, Independence Township. Burial followed in Greenwood Cemetery, Hadley.

The family suggests memorial tributes to the Eastern Star Educational Fund.

Road work to end Sept. 14

Work on the Holcomb Road bridge over I-75 is expected to be completed Friday, Sept. 14, and State Highway Department resident engineer Ed Winkler said he'll be happy to get away from repeated vandalism and ignoring of the road-closed signs at the site.

"The local gentry seem to use it like it is," he said. "Of course, they don't know it's against the law and any damage they sustain is their own (responsibility)."

It's also against the law to move barricades, another common occurrence, he said. In frustration, the workers began parking trucks across the construction area to keep drivers off.

Vandalism was another problem, one that is worse in Independence Township than anyplace else in the county, according to Winkler.

Problems have included smashed lights on barricade signs and damaged equipment.

As soon as the asphalt is down and the guard rail is up, the construction crew will be gone and the road will again be open to through-traffic.

"We should be out of there the 14th," he said.

For map fans

If you want to know more about reading old maps, the North Oakland Genealogical Society has a free program that should help.

At the society's monthly meeting, Thursday, Sept. 20, guest speaker is Michael Kness of the Detroit Library's Burton Historical Room. His topic is informal map histories of Oakland County.

The meeting is to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Orion Township Library, 845 S. Lapeer Rd., Lake Orion.

The two roads closed for construction this summer in Springfield Township are now open, according to Dennis Pajot of the Oakland County Road Commission.

Paving has been completed on Davisburg Road between Dixie Highway and Bridge Lake Road, and the bridge work is finished on Rattalee Lake Road over I-75.

A lifeguard's reflections on summer's end

MSU sophomore returns to school with warm memories

Author Keri Chenoweth is a sophomore at Michigan State University, majoring in pre-medicine. A 1982 graduate of Clarkston High School, she's spent the last two summers as a lifeguard at Deer Lake Beach.

By Keri Chenoweth

The crowds of July are long gone now, and I can feel a new chill in the breeze as I watch the beach for the last time.

There are only a few brave families here at Deer Lake, holding out to the crisp winds for one last day of sunshine. And I'm here too, of course, perched up high on the lifeguard tower facing that breeze on yet one more Labor Day weekend.

Here at the lake, the transition of seasons from frivolous summer to serious fall is more noticeable than just leaves turning colors and school buses rumbling.

First, the water begins to chill as the evenings turn cooler and longer. Sitting on the stand, one hears comments like "C'mon in, it feels great!" shift into "C'mon in, it's really refreshing!" then finally just "Brrrrrrrrr."

Seagulls, ducks, geese and other birds start to flock, and the beach turns into the ideal "supermarket" of bits of chips, crumbs and other assorted leftovers.

Soon, the last subtle sign shows up on shore—leaves floating up in the waves from across the lake.

As I sit here and take notice of all this, I recall how eerie the beach looks in winter. Where two girls are diving off the raft soon some fisherman's shack will rest.

Ice skates and snowmobiles will replace swim buoys and water skis. Where the little boy is building the season's last sand castle (complete with moat) soon snowdrifts will blow.

All in all, this summer went smoothly and quickly—too quickly most students might feel.

Almost 20,000 people came and went this summer, with no major accidents. Yet, tomorrow's the last day and none of us can figure out where the summer went.

Now, only the two hardy girls are swimming and when they leave, so will we, closing the beach for another winter.

But I'll always carry a piece of this beautiful lake and the summer memories it is filled with no matter how cold it is outside.

Then, on some wintry day, I'll close my eyes and for just a second I'll be back on the lifeguard stand in the scorching July sun.

And the thought will make me smile.

Thank you, Independence Township, for another wonderful summer.

From color tours to tennis

Oakland County offers fall fun

There may be a chill in the early morning air, but recreational activities are still plentiful through the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

Fall color tours are offered during the month of October. Two routes have been planned and two 44-passenger buses and one 34-passenger bus with handicap lift are available. Call Dan Stencil at 858-0916 for more information.

Golf is available through the fall and early winter months at all four county courses, weather permitting. Red Oaks Golf Complex in Madison Heights features a nine-hole executive course, practice greens and driving range. Eighteen-hole courses include Glen Oaks in Farmington Hills, Springfield Oaks in Davisburg and White Lake Oaks in Pontiac. (858-0906)

Snowmobile Swap and Sale is planned Nov. 3-4 at Addison Oaks on West Romeo Road, nine miles north of Rochester in Addison Township. Individuals and dealers can trade and sell snowmobiles, equipment, suits, helmets and trailers. (693-2432 or 858-4942)

Boating continues on weekends through

September at Independence Oaks on Sashabaw Road, 2½ miles north of I-75 in Independence Township. For rent are small boats, including canoes, rowboats and pedal boats. (625-0877)

Tennis courts are open at Waterford Oaks Court Games Complex in Waterford Township through the fall. Platform tennis leagues begin Oct. 8 and continue through December. The cost is $25 a person, per league. (858-5433)

Public interpretive programs scheduled at Independence Oaks County Park include: "Pioneer Practices" Sept. 15, "Naturally Nutty" Sept. 22, "Nature's Nature Pots" Sept. 29, "Autumn Canoe Tour" Oct. 6, "All About Bats" Oct. 13, "Make-a-Mask" Halloween program Oct. 19, "Wildlife Blinds and Fall Photos" Oct. 20, "Nature Fears and Halloween Fables" Oct. 27, "Invite a Bird to Dinner" Nov. 3, "Let's Talk Turkey" Nov. 17, and "Pine Cone Christmas" Dec. 1. (858-0903)

A photo exhibit of photographs taken in the county parks or during activities sponsored by the commission is to be at the Winchester Mall in Rochester Sept. 17 through Oct. 1.

*Chemicals Are Trouble. People Are Working.

Dear Cat Paw:
How many people die each year from cigarette use?

Dear Puffing:
It is estimated that 300,000 deaths each year are related to tobacco use.

Dear Cat Paw:
Is it really dangerous to mix sleeping pills with alcohol?

Dear Can't:
One should never mix sedatives with alcohol. Most people do not realize that alcohol is a sedative drug.

Combining sedatives with alcohol increases their effects. Judgment is impaired and lapses in memory can occur.

In this confused state, users can unintentionally take larger or repeated amounts of these substances. This can result in comas and death.

Dear Cat Paw:
Can I get medical help with my drug problem without going to jail?

Dear Don't:
Under the protection of federal law, a person can seek help for drug problems. The law requires doctors, psychologists and drug treatment centers to keep confidential any information received from drug patients if the drug treatment program is federally assisted.

Dear Cat Paw:
I use drugs sometimes and think I'm pregnant. Is this dangerous?

Dear Future:
Pregnant women should be extremely careful about taking any drug, even aspirin, without consulting a physician. Research has shown that heavy smoking and drinking can harm the fetus. Babies born of narcotic and barbiturate dependent mothers are often born dependent and must receive special care. Please see a doctor immediately.

Dear Cat Paw:
What is the best cure for a hangover?

Dear Hurting:
Everybody has his favorite. But they all have one thing in common. They don't work. What works? Preventive medicine. If you don't drink too much, you won't get a hangover.

Dear Cat Paw:
What is methaqualone?

Dear Worried:
Methaqualone is a non-barbiturate sleep-inducing drug called "lud" or "sopor" on the street. Abuse can lead to convulsions or coma.

Roof shapes

by Susan Basinger

In the last article we discussed roof shapes as another piece of the architectural jigsaw puzzle of the historic house.

Recognizing roof shapes, combinations of roof shapes and the architectural styles with which they are most commonly associated can help owners understand the origins of their building and the best way to maintain its integrity.

Shown here are some of the most distinctive roof types seen on Clarkston's historic structures.

For a more comprehensive look at roof shapes, consult the following books, available in the Independence Township Library: "American Shelter" by Lester Walker and "Identifying American Architecture" by John J.G. Blumenson.

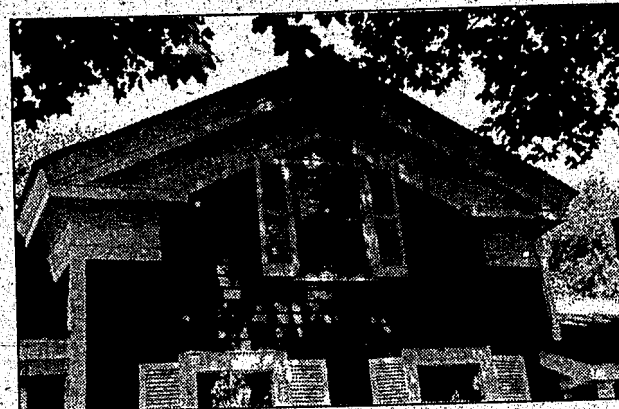

A gable roof on a North Main Street house.

A Gable roof is one which has two slopes, usually with the same pitch and with a gable at each end of the structure. The gable roof was typical to the Greek Revival style (c. 1820-1860).

As seen in the photograph above on a North Main Street house, the Greek Revival roof had a very gentle slope (especially as compared to the Gothic Revival gable).

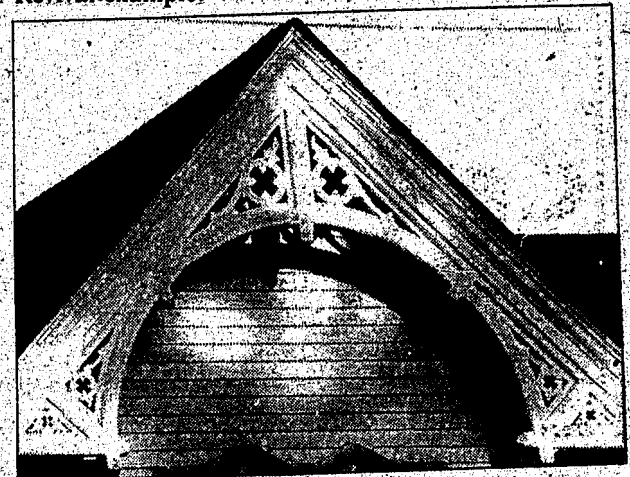

As the name of the style indicates, Greek temples were the prototypes with the pediment of the Greek temple as the inspiration for the gable ends, as may be seen here.

A gable roof on an East Church Street home.

The East Church Street house pictured above is a fine example of the common treatment of the gable roof on less imposing Greek Revival structures.

Here, the molding which forms the pediment under the eaves is broken and does not complete the

A Gothic Revival gable on a Main Street home.

Compare this tall, steeply pitched Gothic Revival (c. 1830-1860) gable in the photograph above with the two Greek Revival gently sloped gables.

This North Main Street house has the decorative openwork typical of the Gothic Revival style.

While only one is seen here, the style is often combined in a variety of steep gables to achieve picturesque effects.

A hip roof on a South Holcomb Road home.

The South Holcomb Road home pictured above has a hip roof—a roof which slopes upward on all four sides.

Camp Fire leaders now wanted

Adults interested in becoming volunteer Camp Fire club leaders are wanted by the North Oakland Council of Camp Fire.

Club membership is open to boys and girls, from kindergarten through high school. Adult leaders meet with small groups of members, usually once a week, to help with club activities and to provide friendship and leadership.

Because Camp Fire is coeducational, entire families can get involved. Many clubs now have husband-and-wife teams sharing the leadership. This provides busy families, especially those where both parents work, with the opportunity to spend a little extra time together while taking part in worthwhile activities.

Founded in 1910 as Camp Fire Girls, the organization is a national non-profit youth agency with members in 35,000 communities in the United States. The North Oakland Council serves Clarkston, Brandon, Waterford, Rochester, Lake Orion, Oxford, Pontiac, Avondale and West Bloomfield.

For more information call 338-4036.

CHS boasts its largest band

The biggest band ever is marching for Clarkston High School, with about 141 members including music makers and the flag-carrying color guard.

The number was a bit of a surprise for instrumental music director Clifford Chapman, who can remember times in his eight years at CHS when band members were scarce.

"The group appears to have considerable potential," he said. "In this business, size does make a difference."

Band members meet in class each day and after school two nights a week. This summer they were strongly encouraged to attend a five-day band camp.

They are working on two programs, one for appearances during half-times at home football games and the other for competitions with other schools.

When playing for football fans, the band does tunes like the national anthem, school fight song and alma mater.

But for the competitions, they're "going a little classical this year," Chapman said.

Selections include excerpts from the "Firebird Ballet" by Stravinsky, a percussion feature called "Tico Tico," a jazz piece called "Rainmaker" and, for the finale, "Softly as I Leave You," which Chapman describes as a real tear-jerker.

The band travels to other locations for competitions, but they will perform their program on the CHS football field Saturday, Sept. 29, at the end of the Clarkston Invitational. For the invitational, other school bands compete during the day and evening and Clarkston provides the grand finale with an exhibition performance.

Because of their size, this year Clarkston will go up against all the big schools, so Chapman doesn't want to make any predictions.

There's only one real problem with such a large band, he said, and that's trying to find enough uniforms.

"I think it's going to be really pleasant season and a pleasure—if we can make sure everyone has something to wear," he said.

There's more to Clarkston roofs than just shingles

The hip roof was the prevalent roof shape used on Clarkston area Italian Revival (c. 1830-1880) style houses.

The Italian Revival roof featured a low gentle slope with a flat top and wide eaves supported by ornamental brackets.

A Mansard roof on a North Main Street home.

The Mansard roof (the invention of French architect Francois Mansart), an important feature of the Second Empire style (c. 1860-1890), was not well represented in our area, making this North Main Street example even more interesting.

The Mansard roof, pictured above, is a variation of the hip roof with a steep lower slope which may curve and a fatter upper section.

A gambrel roof on a Washington Street home.

The gambrel roof on the East Washington Street home pictured above is also rare in this area.

This particular example is also unusual because it combines the gambrel (a roof with two pitches on each side), a shape common to the Dutch Colonial style (c. 1700-1830), and the fishscale shingles common to the Queen Anne style (c. 1880-1900).

More typical of the Queen Anne style than the gambrel roof was a combination of gable roofs and conical roofs which cap turrets and towers, creating the picturesque effects so much a part of the charm of the style.

A former Clarkston Community Historical Society president, Susan Basinger is a resident of the Village of Clarkston. Architecture is her hobby.

WEEK OF SEPTEMBER 17

Enthusiasm is her key

by Dorothy Leaming

An Apple for the Teacher

Pat Andrus is one teacher who believes in miracles. Miracles, she says, can be wrought by means of teacher enthusiasm and ability to motivate students.

Pat is a believer in learning by doing. A recent such experience was a unit of study on Japan when she and her students enjoyed Japanese food, garments, dolls, etc., helpfully orchestrated by the parent of one of her former students.

She stresses the importance of self-expression underlining the word self.

A Michigander, Pat was raised in Troy and graduated from Avondale High School where she was active in the performing arts, the school newspaper and cheerleading.

It is our good fortune that Pat did not fulfill her family's choice of career for her, to become a secretary, but instead went to college.

After attending Oakland Community College, she received a scholarship to Michigan State University where she had a science-math major.

She was in the elementary program and served her internship at Pine Knob School. The following year she was hired as a teacher at Andersonville Elementary. Presently teaching second grade at Andersonville, she's beginning her 11th year there.

Pat has done considerable post-degree work in the area of learning disabilities.

Not surprisingly for someone interested in self-expression, she has an on-going interest in language arts and participates in as many workshops on this topic as possible.

Someday Pat would like to write a children's book, but this summer was filled with European travel.

She enjoys trips to local spots of interest with her

Pat Andrus:
"She stresses the importance of self-expression, underlining the word self."

nieces and nephews. She also takes as many craft classes as she can, believing that aspects of cake decorating, candy making and macrame, for example, can be adapted for the classroom.

Her nieces and nephews are frequent guinea pigs for her class projects!

Pat has served on the screening and endorsing committee for the academically talented program and will be on the math curriculum committee for the 1984-5 school year.

We're glad she's working her miracles in Clarkston.

Editor's note: An Apple for the Teacher is provided through the efforts of a Clarkston Education Association committee. Its purpose: "To acquaint or reacquaint the community with members of the Clarkston school district's teaching staff who represent a highly trained and diversely talented resource and in whom we can all take pride." This week's column was written by Dorothy Leaming, a school social worker.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

Beginning October 1, 1984, an additional penalty of $10.00 will be added to each 1982 and prior years delinquent tax that appears unpaid on the records of the county treasurer. This amount is added according to the provisions of Section 211.59 and 211.60 compiled laws of Michigan to cover the expense of sale at the next May tax sale.

Immediate payment will save you this additional penalty and keep your property from appearing in the public list of lands to be offered at tax sale.

Chinese brush painter at craft festival

By Kathy Greenfield

Maxine Johnson describes her work as the "shorthand look," a phrase she coined to describe Chinese brush painting.

"They say in Oriental art, 'Less is more'—the fewer strokes the better the Oriental look," said the artist, who makes her debut in the Clarkston Community Historical Society's Crafts and Cider Festival, Sept. 21, 22 and 23.

Each petal of a flower is captured in one brush stroke, birds' wings may take two or three, leaves require one, each wing of a dragonfly is one, and so on, as the artist strives to capture the essence of nature's beauty.

Chinese painters skilled in the art may spend three days watching a bird in its habitat before the painting begins. Then they grind the materials for Sumi ink, mix the paint and create a work of art.

Inspiration for most of Maxine's work comes from photographs. She uses authentic materials, and talks about the quest for perfect tools.

"The Chinese brushes are very special," she said. "They're hard to come by. The kind I like are wolf hair and panther hair. They're not on every street corner. Once you use them, you're really spoiled for other brushes."

"And then you use water colors, and the other magic ingredient is rice paper. Rice paper comes from Japan and China. It's like a blotter. That's part of the technique; anyplace you rest the brush (the paint) spreads out."

Maxine and her husband, Douglas, have four children, two daughters, and two sons who still live at home. One son attends Oakland University, the other Clarkston High School.

When her children began getting older, Maxine took advantage of a little more free time.

"It was really my first chance, and my daughter was taking classes at Oakland Community College," she said. "My daughter said, 'Why don't you come with me, Mom? You always say you want to go back to school.'"

The chicken she created using the Chinese brush painting technique hangs in the kitchen of Maxine Johnson's Clintonville Road home.

So while her daughter took academics like psychology, Maxine pursued her area of interest—watercolor painting.

It didn't take her long to adapt the techniques to Chinese brush painting.

"All my life I've been interested in that type of art," she said. "It's just great fun. I enjoy it so much."

In 1982, Maxine entered her first work in the Pontiac Art Society's Oakland County show. This year, she's chairman of the society's show at the Summit Place shopping mall.

She sharpens her techniques with classes in Chinese brush painting at the Pontiac Art Center, and works part time at Finger's Artist and Office Supply in Pontiac, a job she's had for six years.

Maxine has appeared in shows at the Clarkston Mills Mall and the Keatington Antique Village.

She's successfully working to use her technique on flowers, but birds remain her favorite subjects.

"In the paintings, even other people's paintings, they leave me kind of cold if there isn't something alive in it," said Maxine. "It must show, because those are the things people like in all my works."

Mother-and-son team make wooden toys

By Kathy Greenfield

Working as a mother-and-son team, Kathy and Corey Seitz create wooden animals, birds and checkerboards to sell.

They make their Michigan debut Sept. 21, 22 and 23 at the Crafts and Cider Festival in Clarkston, but they're old hands at this type of thing.

Now 15, Corey began making his miniature rocking horses to sell when he was 10 years old.

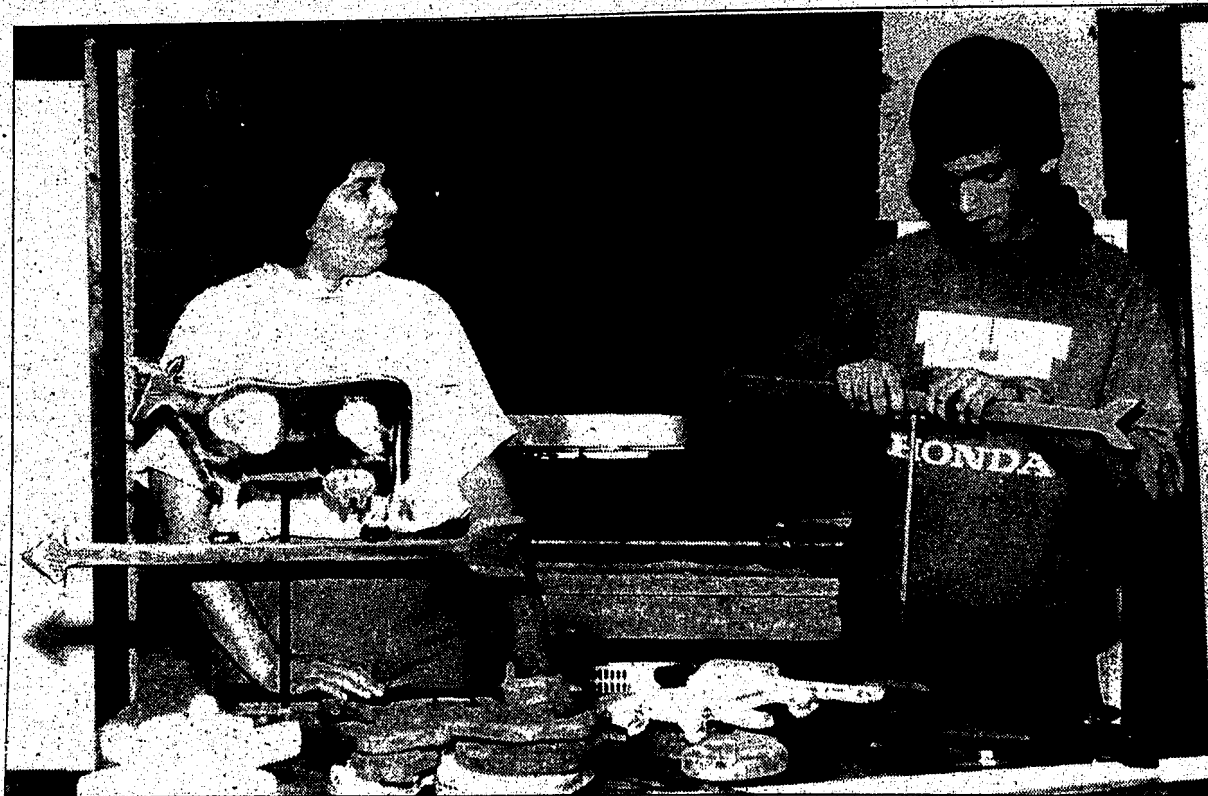

"We just have had more fun together," said Kathy. "It's enjoyable, isn't it?"

"Um huh," Corey agrees.

Kathy and Tony Seitz and their four sons, Tim, Mike, Corey and Pat, have lived on Gibbs Road in Springfield Township one year.

The previous three years their home was in Illinois, and Kathy and Corey sold their wares, tagged "Corey's Creations," each weekend from their own booth at a flea market.

"He was becoming almost famous in Illinois for his horses," said Kathy. "People were coming from miles away to buy them."

Kathy Seitz watches while her son Corey puts together wooden weather vanes to sell at the Clarkston Community Historical Society's Crafts and Cider Festival.

Corey's horses come in several sizes, some suitable for table tops and others large to give a doll a ride on. He designs and makes all sorts of birds and farm animals, and his latest creations are blue whales and sheep.

"We started raising sheep and we couldn't find designs for sheep, and he came up with these," said Kathy, as she proudly held up samples.

They split the profits, with two-thirds going to Corey and one-third to Kathy, who buys the wood from her portion.

Corey smiles in agreement that he has a wonderful mom, but Kathy explains the arrangement with "he does most of the work."

Her contribution is the painting, a talent carried over from tole painting, which she continues to do.

Kathy also raises dairy goats and sheep, spins their wool and is learning how to knit.

The first rocking horse Corey made was a Christmas gift for his mother after she admired one in a shop. It took a long time to get the balance just right, Corey said, but he worked until the horse rocked smoothly.

When he first began his hobby, Corey worked with his father. But as the years passed, the workshop became his. He's purchased new items like the lathe with proceeds from his sales, and his father hasn't used the equipment for a couple of years.

Corey works about two hours each day in his shop, but something happened that made him work all the harder.

"He usually gets started on this when he really wants something," said Kathy. "Now he's supporting a $2,000 dirt bike."

Corey was entered in his first organized AMA race in dirt bike competition when his bike broke down.

"Something came loose and broke the stator coil," he said. "I have to buy a new one."

The cost? $167.

His goal is to earn enough money to fix that bike and race before winter begins.
