Teen killed in crash

By Marilyn Trumper

Heidi Hubbach would have turned 18 in November, the same month she was to enroll in the David Pressley Professional School of Cosmetology in Royal Oak. A goal she'd juggled two jobs all summer long to pay for.

The 17-year-old 1984 Clarkston High School graduate was killed Sept. 12 when the car she was driving south on Pine Knob Road in Independence Township crossed the center line shortly after 10 p.m. and struck a car carrying a driver and three passengers. They were treated and released from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, Pontiac.

"They're still not sure what happened," said Heidi's dad, Robert, from the family home on Bridge Lake Road in Springfield Township. "The people in the other car said that her car just swerved. She may have swerved to save an animal. She would have done something like that."

Robert remembers his daughter as a responsible go-getter with a spot in her heart for everyone, especially those, he said, "...who other people reject."

"She was a delight to me and (her mother) Irene," Robert said. "I guess you know how all kids go through different points of conflict as they grow up. What pleased us so much with the last several months during her school time, she started to have a mature outlook on life. She applied herself well and wanted to go to the David Pressley cosmetology school."

"We told her we'd like to see her show some dedication by working toward it and not expecting us to give her everything. She took that to heart."

Heidi worked mornings at McDonald's on Sashabaw Road in Independence Township, and evenings at a Waterford Township movie theater.

"She came to me real proud," Robert remembers. "She said 'Dad, I'm putting all of my money from McDonald's in the bank, and some of it from (the theater), and what's left over I'm using for spending money.'"

"She went after that in a real committed way," he said. "We sensed a real development in her character with the Lord really working her life to help build her character. We were so pleased."

Says Robert, "...I've had a real sense of peace about the whole thing. Neighbors and friends have made comments to us about her. One girlfriend at school called. A girl we didn't know she knew. She wanted to know Heidi's favorite colors and I told her purples, reds, browns. It took me by surprise."

"She sent a bouquet of flowers with a note that said, 'To my friend Heidi, for being a friend to me.'"

"I know she did have a place in her heart for people that other people reject. She had a real stand-on-her own attitude to enjoy the people who weren't the most popular or the most beautiful. She appreciated them for their character."

"And I appreciated her as a person," her dad said. "She's returned to the Lord's care, and I'm at peace with that. I'm glad we had her for the time we did."

Heidi is survived by her parents, Robert and Irene Hubbach; sisters, Erica and Sarah, both at home; and grandparents, Mrs. Irene Comps of Pontiac and Mr. and Mrs. John Hubbach of Baltimore, Md.

Services were held Sept. 15 at St. Daniel's Catholic Church. Burial followed at All Saints Cemetery in Waterford Township.

Gyms on way

The mounds of dirt and temporary fences appearing next to Clarkston's five elementary schools are signs that the multipurpose rooms are coming.

"The greatest amount of work showing now is probably at Andersonville and Clarkston elementaries," said Superintendent Milford Mason. "They skim off the topsoil, that's why the mound of dirt is there."

In June, voters approved a $1.75 million bond issue for the additions. They are all expected to be in use at the beginning of the 1985-86 school year.

But right now, construction is moving along more quickly at the schools where availability is better for matching brick, Mason said.

Clarkston is the only public school district in Oakland County without gymnasiums for its elementary schools, and Mason said he's heard several positive comments from people who worked for years to get voters to approve the expense.

"Some people who have been in the community 20-25 years say to me, 'I can't believe this is happening,'" he said. "Even though their youngsters have grown up, they're still tickled to see it happening."

LONG MAY IT WAVE: The wind whips out the folds in the new flag as Clarkston DPW crew member Rick Carpenter places it on the pole at Main and Washington streets Monday. "The other one was getting old," says Carpenter after he climbs down from his perch. The rope is attached high on the pole to thwart thefts, he says. The flag was donated by Cedar Lodge No. 60 of the Clarkston Masonic Temple. [Photo by Kathy Greenfield]

Enrollment in Clarkston schools drops by 106

By Kathy Greenfield

Enrollment in Clarkston Community Schools should hold at about 106 fewer K-12 pupils than last year, for a total of about 5,788, according to Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara.

Vaara presented the preliminary enrollment report at the Sept. 10 board of education meeting. He'll present a final report at the October meeting after the official fourth Friday count is taken Sept. 28. The count is used to determine state aid, which stands between $2,400 and $2,500 per pupil this year.

In addition to the K-12 enrollment, the district receives the same state aid per pupil enrolled in degree programs through community education and in the SPICE preschool program.

"When we did the (1984-85 school year) budget, we figured a 200-student loss K-12, but we felt we could pick up 100 memberships from community education," Vaara said after the meeting. "I think we do have a chance (to maintain the same state aid figure as last year)."

For the 1983-84 school year, 49 preschoolers were enrolled in SPICE, and the number is expected to be 50 this year. Last year's enrollment in community education was 160, and Vaara said it could increase enough this year to make the difference.

The figures in the preliminary report show a loss of 46 pupils on the elementary school level and 60 students on the secondary level.

The largest loss in a school building was for Bailey Lake Elementary, down 64.

Vaara noted that one reason for the loss is that 12 pupils who formerly attended Bailey Lake are now enrolled in Clarkston Elementary.

"Part of it is because of the different times the school starts and ends," Vaara said. "If they provide their own transportation and there is room in the class and grade they can (transfer to other schools within the district)."

Bailey Lake's hours are 9:25 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Clarkston Elementary School meets from 8:35 a.m. to 3:10 p.m.

Renovations behind schedule

Energy windows to be complete by Oct. 15

The work to make Clarkston's eight school buildings more energy efficient is running behind schedule, but Superintendent Milford Mason expects most of the window-replacement project to be completed by Oct. 15.

The finishing coat on materials used to replace windows was delayed at Clarkston Junior High School, Clarkston Elementary and Andersonville Elementary when the method to be used proved impossible.

"Part of the work was going to be a rake finish and we had too many problems with that, so we had to reorder materials for a stucco finish," Mason said.

The $735,000 project includes work on air handling systems and controls for heating in some buildings, and that, too, is almost complete with some adjustments expected when cold weather hits.

The changes are expected to reduce heating bills and make the buildings more comfortable in winter and during warm weather, Mason said. The district received a 10-year loan for the project based on projections that the work would pay for itself in energy-cost savings.

At the Oct. 8 meeting, the board of education is expected to discuss plans for shades for the single 4-by-6 foot window now found in most classrooms, and for vinyl-covered tackboards to cover the new walls and allow teachers to use them for displays.

-Correction-

A story in last week's Clarkston News incorrectly reported the amounts campaign manager Lew Wint contributed to fire Chief Frank Ronk's successful campaign for supervisor; and the amount contributed by Edward Thomson, campaign treasurer for Supervisor James B. Smith.

In fact, Wint contributed $128. And Thomson contributed $1,000.

In addition, Smith repaid his wife Mary's $800 loan, which eliminated the debt.

Paula Blanchard makes impromptu visit here

By Marilyn Trumper

Recognizing the Michigan Youth Corps' work in Independence Township, the state's first lady Paula Blanchard visited Clintonwood Park the afternoon of Sept. 12, and shook hands with some of the 21 people who've worked this summer for the parks and recreation department.

Instituted by Gov. James Blanchard last year, the $17 million-a-year jobs project provides basic work experience for 16,500 unemployed youth age 18 to 21. Of those, 950 are in Oakland County. Their seasonal jobs began the second week of July and end Sept. 30.

"I'm really excited to be here," Mrs. Blanchard told the group of blue-jeaned youth raking gravel on the mile-long fitness trail they built this summer. "You should take pride and find satisfaction that you've built this."

She went on to praise them for their work on the 1,600-foot-long concrete handicapped path connecting the senior citizens' center to the picnic pavilion.

"I hope the experience has left you with a sense of pride. Keep up the good work," she said.

"I am very proud of this park and other youth corps projects in the state which have helped to make Michigan's resources more accessible to the handicapped."

Mrs. Blanchard walked a quarter mile of the gravel fitness path, toured the senior center and carriage house before leaving.

Clintonwood Park is the first selected "site of the week," targeted for its contribution to the handicapped with its new path, making the park accessible to strollers, the elderly, and those using crutches, walkers or wheelchairs.

According to parks and recreation Director Timothy Doyle, use of the park by the handicapped is up 300 percent since the path was built.

But next year's youth corps program is threatened with the possibility of cancellation, or redirecting youth to work in the private sector, with the state paying their salaries at fast-food restaurants and retail outlets.

A proposal Gov. Blanchard, "...does not embrace," according to a youth corps spokesperson.

Doyle agrees.

"I don't think they have a place in the private sector, and I think that defeats the whole purpose of the program," Doyle said. "With today's shrinking budgets, we need this program. We can use the bodies."

"I've depended on (youth corps help) for a lot of what we've accomplished both this summer and last summer," Doyle said. "I have only three full-time employees to keep Clintonwood Park, now the 80 acres, Sashabaw Plains Park and the soccer fields at Bailey Lake going.

"You know these people are doing a good job. I'd like to see us keep them."

The state pays all of their salaries, according to Doyle.

In early summer, a majority of those working for his department come from Independence Township and surrounding townships.

With school back in session, most of those still working live in Pontiac, he said.

Elsewhere in the state, youth corps members have renovated an abandoned Detroit motel as housing for the homeless, cleaned up expressways and built a park in Farmington.

Michigan's first lady Paula Blanchard talks with Independence Township's director of parks and recreation, Timothy Doyle, about the job youth corps workers have done in the township's two parks.

She antes-up with 4 seniors

Four gray-haired seniors were more than surprised last Wednesday afternoon when their discreet poker game in a corner of the Independence Township Senior Citizens Center was interrupted by the unpublicized visit of Paula Blanchard, wife of state Gov. James Blanchard.

"We're just playing for chips," laughed one of the elderly women, pulling Mrs. Blanchard close and whispering in her ear.

"Oh you're so kind," the state's first lady smiled, asking if the group would ante-up after the game.

The whispering senior covered her mouth with her hand and laughed, refusing to tell what secret she'd passed along.

Mrs. Blanchard asked center Director Rina Chemin about the seniors' trips, and suggested the group visit Mill Creek near Mackinaw State Park in Cheboygan, a renovated historical lumber mill.

Walking into the center's lounge, Mrs. Blanchard and pointed to a table shuffleboard court and asked "What's this?"

She played a few minutes, and went out to the carriage house where a dozen members of the Metro Detroit Amateur Softball Association plotted next year's schedule.

They were surprised at her impromptu, unpublicized visit and sat wide-eyed, with mouths agape.

Walking back to her waiting car, Mrs. Blanchard said this visit to the Clarkston area was special for more than one reason.

"Not only did I get to see this beautiful park and the work done by the Michigan Youth Corps, but I grew up here," she said.

Mrs. Blanchard graduated from Clarkston High School in 1962.

One of the township's 21 youth corp employees rakes gravel along the one-mile fitness trail they helped build this summer in Independence Township's Clintonwood Park.

Audra Hubble stands next to her car, damaged Thursday night as it sat in an Almond Lane driveway. She found the vandalism when she tried to go to work Friday.

Wild driver damages 3 cars

Police seek black pickup without front bumper

Audra Hubble's car is damaged beyond driving, and she's waiting for the wrecker to come. She missed work, and an important meeting. The frustrating part is the damage was apparently vandalism.

"It makes me cry," she said. "I bought this off a senior citizen. It didn't have a scratch on it, and now look at this, look at the gouges."

The incident occurred when she was visiting the home of Don Sheldon on Almond Lane. Police believe, she said, the damage to her car was the final attack in a string of three similar acts of vandalism in Independence Township.

Sheldon said he heard a noise around midnight, and the same crash brought a neighbor running outside, thinking there was an accident. The neighbor saw an old pick-up truck douse its lights and head north, he said, but because it was dark he did not see the damage to the car in Sheldon's driveway.

Members of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) crime lab left the scene with a bumper, believed to have fallen off the pick-up truck as it pushed Hubble's 1979 Mercury down the driveway, over a cement curb and into a fence.

According to reports at the OCSD, earlier a homeowner on Sunnydale Road heard screeching breaks, looked out the window and saw a black pick-up truck pushing his 1976 Chevrolet backwards down the road. The truck then fled.

Further down the street a 1972 Oldsmobile parked in a driveway was pushed through the closed garage door.

Then the vandalism on Almond Lane occurred. No damage estimates are available, according to police reports.

- Sheriff's log -

Friday, vandals wielding a slingshot caused $25 in damages when they broke the window of a passing Clarkston school bus on Andersonville Road, Independence Township.

Saturday, police recovered a stripped 1985 Mercury in a field off Clintonville Road, Independence Township. The car was reported stolen Sept. 14 from Waterford Township.

Sunday, thieves stole a moped from a garage on Andersonville Road, Independence Township.

Sunday, vandals wielding a BB-gun caused $1,100 in damages when they shot out a three-pane doorwall in a house on Almond Lane, Independence Township.

Sunday, thieves pumped $24.56 worth of gasoline from Clarkston Shell Service, 7251 M-15, Independence Township, and drove off without paying.

This information came from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Supervisor leaves with pragmatic philosophy

By Marilyn Trumper

After four years as Independence Township supervisor, James B. Smith will be back in the private sector after the November election with late-night, bi-monthly board meetings behind him.

There'll be no more heated union negotiations to sit through; no more fielding of roadside dumping complaints; no more head-to-head battles with the county on solid waste plans; no more debate over police funding or wrestling with proposed group homes; and no more weekend and late night phone calls from irate residents.

Only a successful write-in candidate stands in the way of fire Chief Frank Ronk taking the supervisor's office in November when Smith cleans out his desk and walks out of his office, probably for the last time.

In retrospect, 68-year-old Smith says he gave heart and soul to his term and re-election campaign, and isn't bitter about losing.

Leaning back in the office chair, Smith candidly says he didn't want to serve a second term but filed soon after Republican candidate George Vitneros filed for the primary election, and before Ronk's filing,

"... I ran a hard campaign ...

When the results came in, I had nothing to regret. I tried."

because "...I looked at what was then the only alternative, and decided I had to run.

"I had to face the question. If I run, and don't try, I lose and will never forgive myself for letting the people down who urged me to run.

"So I ran a hard campaign... When the results came in, I had nothing to regret. I tried."

About his defeat, Smith says he's been very "pragmatic" regarding the 78-vote margin that brought defeat.

"It was a very busy four years. Public office can be what the individual makes of it, particularly as a township office. There's virtually nothing you can do if you so desire, or you can address yourself rigorously to correct current problems and the future concerns of the community.

"I feel it's been my pattern to try and get an 'A'. If it's worth doing, then that's what I did," he said.

Did the one term age him?

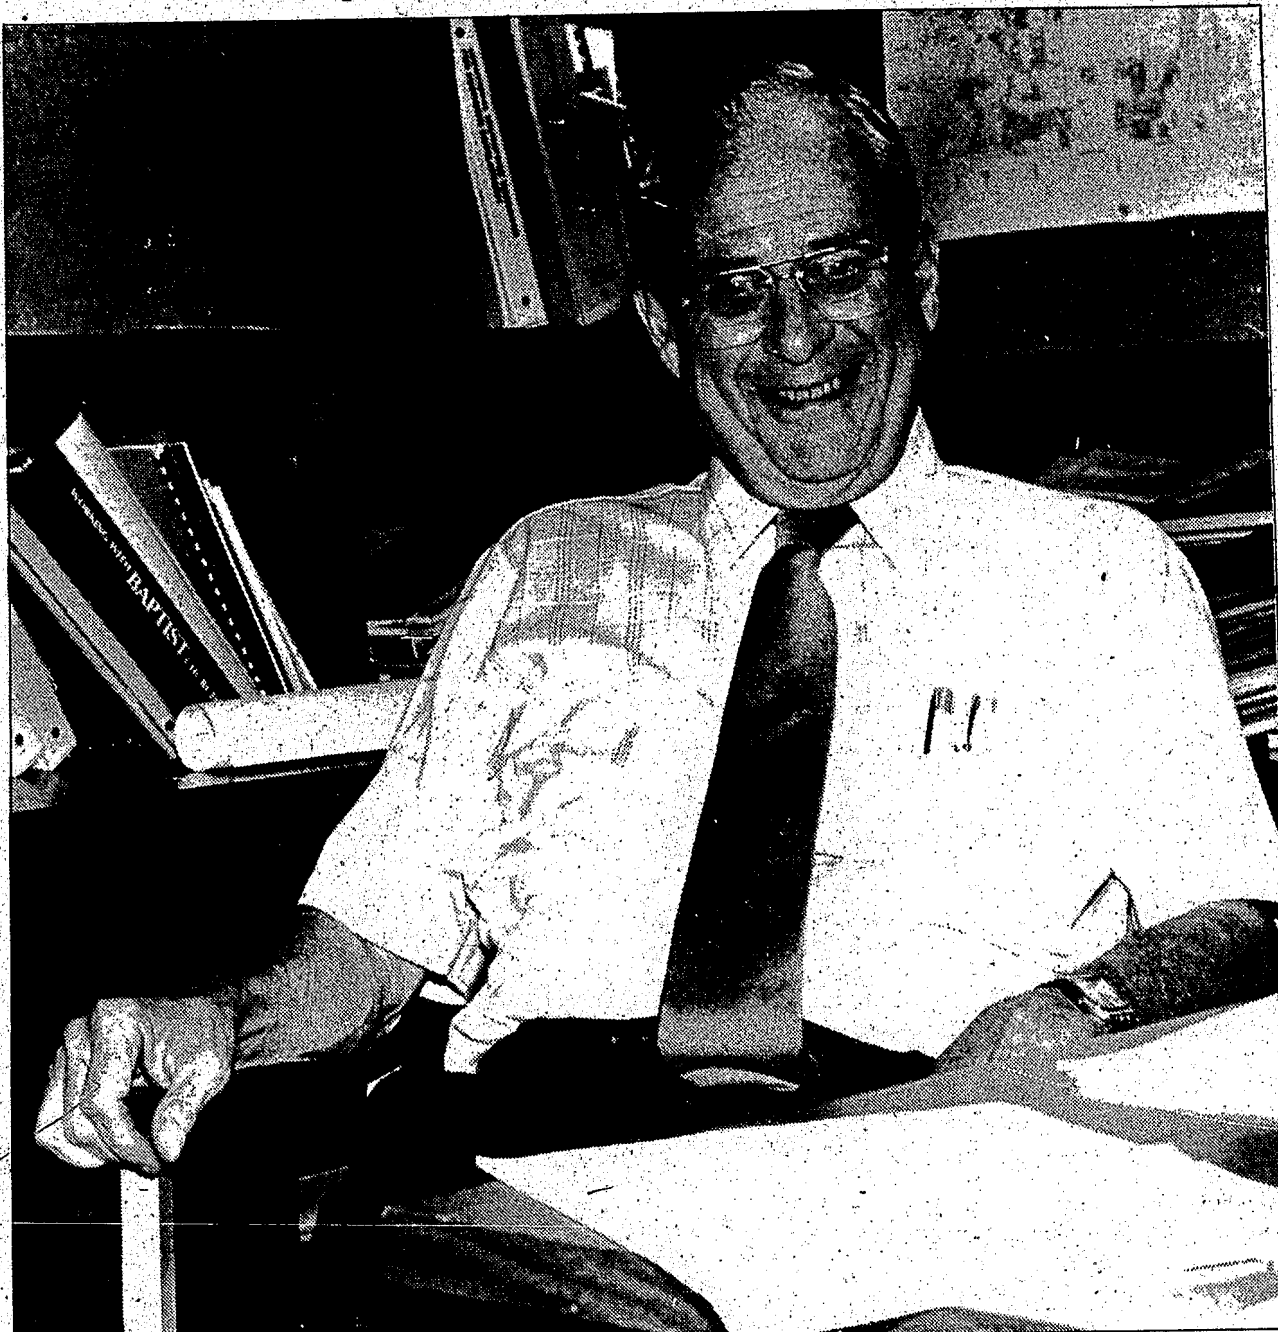

"I don't think so," he laughed. "I have the same low blood pressure I had when I came to office, although it's been up and down a lot since then."

Smith warns about electing township supervisors who need the $35,000-a-year job.

"The person who needs the money is rarely the person who feels he can speak out and address the long-term issues," he said, adding they're more concerned with being re-elected than doing a good job.

In 1980 Smith resigned the presidency of his firm, Howard & Smith Inc. in Madison Heights, and instead accepted the chairmanship.

and training equipment.

Smith says he'll remain chairman and active in the firm as chief executive.

"I don't think I'm going to join the rocking chair school. I'll just be getting my work day down to normal," he said, referring to the end of his term.

"I'm active in a number of public service programs and will probably continue in some of the work I have been involved with here, like SEMCOG (the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments), United Community Services of Detroit and the Boy Scouts."

In addition, Smith and his wife, Mary, are preparing for trips abroad.

"At the moment we're planning a first-class rest. It's the first opportunity I've had in my whole life to travel the world. The reservations are made."

Responsibility to sell millage lies with board

It is a sad commentary on the Independence Township Board when it lays blame for the police millage failure on poor press coverage, instead of at its own feet where it belongs.

At two recent consecutive board meetings, Trustee William Vandermark soundly chastised The Clarkston News and two other local papers for not selling the public on the urgent need for more police funding. For not, as he put it, "...letting the public know we're not going to buy ice cream with it."

Countered Trustee Daniel Travis, "...they'll put it in the paper after the election."

Vandermark accused the press of failing to emphasize the dwindling police fund now operating over $50,000 in the red. And stressed instilling the public with the urgent need to collect more tax dollars.

Contrary to Vandermark's philosophy, it is not the job of this newspaper to sell the public on a millage or bang on the pots and pans creating the issue of needed funds.

It is the board's job.

It is our job to fairly, accurately and objectively report the issue at hand.

We have done that.

In fact, The Clarkston News editorially endorsed the millage prior to the primary, urging voters to approve the much-needed 1 mill.

Since August of '83 when the township board first proposed an additional tax to bolster the police fund, it's been headlined in The Clarkston News.

We've reported the board's differing opinion and its inability to agree whether a newly hired deputy should work crime prevention or road patrol. The board's disagreement over whether additional millage should finance the Oakland County Sheriff's Department or a proposed regional police force via a public safety fund. And their debate to hire two deputies, or as many as the additional funding will buy.

No decisions were ever made.

We reported that.

The public read it.

And for the fifth time since 1976 voters soundly defeated a proposed 1-mill increase on the August ballot.

It appears voters, too, wondered how the money would be spent.

This newspaper can't report what it doesn't know.

We're not soothsayers.

There is no crystal ball.

The Independence Township Board must make the difficult, and often unpopular, decisions it was elected to make.

When the board makes up its mind—we'll report it.

Fantasies are free

"Where's the aspirin?"

"I don't know."

It was another of those cold-fighting weeks and he was getting desperate.

I know, because almost no one asks me anymore where something is. I lost track of most of the contents of cupboards and closets several years ago.

I'm blaming it on work.

The transition was gradual. Instead of being the person in charge of the house, I began asking for help.

Everyone washed dishes, emptied the dishwasher, did laundry, put groceries away, and so on.

A lot of good came out of the changes. Pleading ignorance to handling an iron, fixing a pot of coffee, running the vacuum, washing a load of clothes or figuring out which ones needed to be handwashed became outmoded.

We were all in it together.

When pots and pans, measuring cups, a pair of socks, the potato peeler came up missing, the interrogations had to be directed at many.

"What are you asking me for?" was a frequent counter-statement. "You can search as easily as I."

That's not to say there haven't been problems.

There is nothing more frustrating than losing control of your kitchen, although it was never quite frustrating enough to make me insist that I return to being the one in charge of every dirty dish.

Have you ever tried to prepare a meal for 16 people and had to stop many times to search for utensils and ingredients?

Suddenly this from-scratch-only cook began finding some appeal in boxed cookie mixes, cake mixes and instant scalloped potatoes.

"Some day," I say to myself, "I'll have a week or two to get it together."

When I'm a grandmother I'll spend hours baking cookies, cakes and pies for my visiting family.

Someday, I'll open every door and cupboard and every immaculate item will be in its proper place.

There are those who say someday never comes; but my survival policy has always been that fantasies are free and essential for maintaining sanity.

Things I love

Jim Sherman

Tom T. Hall has a record out that goes something like, "I like little baby ducks, old trucks, sleep without dreams, and I like you."

It's always been easy to write about things that bother me, like bees, putts that don't drop, non-starting cars, etc. Surely I must be able to come up with a list of things that warm the cockles of my heart.

How about sleeping babies, this summer's weather, neckties, printing type faces, hats, marigolds, putting on first coats of paint, and football?

I like the smell of new mown hay, fresh ground coffee, leather, new cars, cologne (but not on men), bacon frying, roses, print shops, and puppy breath. I assume it would also be nice to smell success.

I like to hear the first crickets, frogs and birds in spring. And, the sound of newspaper presses rolling, smooth running cars, surf, gentle rain, a golf ball hitting the bottom of the cup, geese in flight, Lowell Thomas' laugh, and kind words are nice.

Then, too, I like photographs, television, the Detroit Tigers, fine color printing, key chains, mowing the lawn and hoeing (when there's time), sweating (when it's not offensive), and cooking breakfast for myself.

I like Engadine, Monument Valley, Arizona, Monterey Peninsula, Northern Michigan, Hilton Head Island, courteous drivers, pleasant airline personnel, and refunds.

I like to read, but my priority list doesn't get me much beyond the Detroit Free Press, about a dozen weekly newspapers, two magazines, and a half dozen trade publications. I've started reading Megatrends three times.

I like all kinds of weather. Under just the right conditions, snowmobiling can be absolutely refreshing, thrilling, and exhilarating. When the leaves change color in the fall in Michigan, few things can top their beauty in the sunlight.

When grass starts greening, bringing with it the smell of spring, I like it.

When the summer sun has warmed the swimming pool, and the evening is just right for a barbecue, and friends keep the conversation light and the drinks cold, I like it.

Then, I like fishing, shopping for gifts you know will entertain or be appreciated, pheasant hunting, listening to favorite songs played or sung well, attractive landscaping, neatness, and the sound of someone saying thank you.

And, that's what I have to say right now, Thank You fine Jottings readers, I love you.

No MAAD support for judge

In his campaign brochure Judge Gerald McNally ran a picture of himself with the Oakland County Chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Drivers at a Candlelight Vigil.

This picture may imply that Judge McNally is a member of MADD or that MADD supports the policies of the judge.

In truth, Judge McNally is not now nor has he ever been a member of MADD. He was invited to attend the Vigil as were all county judges.

MADD is prohibited by its by-laws from endorsing any political candidate. We do not endorse Judge McNally in his bid for re-election.

MADD's association with Judge McNally has been through the monitoring of his sentencing of drunken drivers which local law enforcement officers considered too lenient.

Clarifying mining decision

The Clarkston News recently reported that the Independence Township Planning Commission recommended approval of the Nunn mining proposal. That is inaccurate.

The commission held a public hearing and reported its findings to the township board. The commission's report included a long list of rather stringent requirements that could be imposed if the township board granted the request.

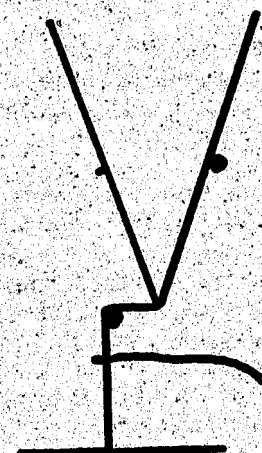

The distinction is important, particularly if this controversy must ultimately be resolved in the courts. The record of the planning commission's numerous hearings on the Nunn mining proposal show that the commission reviewed a wide variety of factors and was particularly concerned and made know to the township board its concerns with the negative traffic impacts.

Hurray for park supporters

Seeing the Symons' letter (in the Sept. 12 Clarkston News) made us realize how remiss we'd been in not publicly thanking Dave Raup for cleaning up and beautifying the Village Park.

Instead of lost nights of sleep, we now hear the laughter of children, enjoy the beauty of weddings, and have a picturesque view.

We certainly must also thank the Village Business Association for the band concerts we enjoy so much there.

We're looking forward to the completion of the gazebo, and a bridge over the stream to complete the park.

In appreciation,

Rescued thanks

Thank you Clarkston!

On Labor Day I drove my two children (Jeff, 4, and Ben, 3) downtown to see the parade.

When we returned to our car, the car would not start. Four different couples stopped to help me out and the people in a house on Holcomb Street let me use their phone, gave my kids water and let them swing on their swing set.

These are angels of mercy. Thank you all.

What a man

Jim Fitzgerald

It was 4 a.m., according to the clock beside my bed, and I couldn't sleep for worrying. I thought about President Reagan, who never loses any sleep over the troubles of the world. What a man.

Nancy Reagan recently told the Los Angeles Times that her husband is so firm in his beliefs that, despite his awesome responsibilities, he hasn't had a sleepless night since taking office. He does not worry as "other people worry . . . He's a born optimist," she said. "The glass is always half full."

President Reagan even dozes off during cabinet meetings. "I've seen him have difficulty staying awake, but he wasn't the only one in the room that does," Michael Deaver, White House chief of staff, told the world. "These meetings are sometimes boring. . ."

INCREDIBLE. I sometimes lie awake wondering how I'll make that month's $1,000 mortgage payment. Reagan is president of a nation over $1.5 trillion in debt, and he sleeps like a log cabin.

I paid my bank $2 American for a roll of nickles, and when I got home I discovered 31 of the 40 nickles were Canadian. That night I stayed awake trying to guess how much my sneaky bank makes every year by charging unsuspecting customers $2 for $1.65. On the other hand, even though the interest on the U.S. debt this year will top $110 billion, the leader of the United States can't keep awake.

There is much to be said for the somniferous benefits of spending other people's money, and I just said it without yawning.

But I don't mean to imply that worrying about crass money is the only thing that keeps me awake nights. Domestic relationships are also a problem. Recently I learned that on the streets of downtown New York City there was a young man selling rubber, lifelike hands that wriggle, and he was my son. That is something for a father to toss and turn about in the dark of night, even though the son subsequently decided against making battery-operated appendages his permanent profession.

ON THE flip side, President Reagan's youngest son recently became—God help us all—a newspaper columnist. And this career change came at the same time Reagan is increasing his physical separation from the press for fear some investigative reporter will notice that he wears pajamas to cabinet meetings. The president won't be able to see his son as often as he sees his grandchildren, which is every other millennium. But Reagan loses no sleep over it.

And what about the recent rebel air raid on a military school in Nicaragua? Reagan aides said they learned "from a highly sensitive intelligence source" that four Cuban military advisers were killed in the bombing. That would be good news for our side, because it would confirm that Cuba is helping the Nicaraguan government the same way the CIA is helping the rebels.

But, according to the New York Times, a Nicaraguan Embassy spokesman vigorously denied the report, saying the good news for his side was that only Nicaraguans were killed—"three children and the cook at the school."

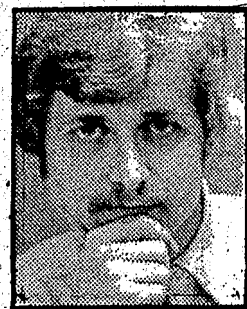

I have absolutely no power over what goes in an insane world where it can be politically preferable that innocent children, rather than military advisers, were bombed to death. But sometimes at night I worry about such things, and I can't sleep.

Ronald Reagan is president of the most powerful nation in the world, with awesome responsibilities, but he doesn't lose any sleep over it. What a man. His glass is half full. Mine is drained.

Viewpoint

Changing times

Al Zawacky

I have sometimes questioned the old wisdom that time changes all things—at least when we're dealing with people. Do parents, kids and people in general really view things that differently today than they did, say, a generation ago?

The answer, as has been demonstrated to me so graphically these past few days, is an emphatic "yes."

I refer specifically to our attitudes today toward sex. My lesson in changing mores came as I followed the Lake Orion school district's struggle with the question of whether or not to include a human sexuality program in the curriculum.

A SURVEY CONDUCTED by the district to gauge parental attitudes toward sex education produced some interesting results. By a wide margin (better than 2-to-1), parents favor the teaching of birth control in the schools.

I found the margin to be a little unexpected, but was not surprised by the verdict. What did arch my eyebrows was the grade level at which those responding to the survey felt birth control should be taught. The No. 1 answer was ninth grade. The No. 2 answer—and here is where I am baffled, amazed, and rendered incredulous—was sixth grade.

Sixth grade!

It's been a while since I was in sixth grade, but my recollections of it are still pretty clear. I remember being particularly proud of my bike, a brand-new Schwinn five speed. My biggest worries were whether or not I'd get good grades and how the Tigers were going to beat Bob Gibson in the World Series. I didn't have to worry about whether or not my girl friend was on the Pill, or whether I could save enough money out of my allowance for a package of prophylactics. And today, I don't think I missed anything by not being sexually active at 11 years of age.

Sixth grade. Eleven- and 12-year-olds. Who are these "parents" who think it is somehow natural for sixth graders to be sexually active and using birth control devices? Is there such a thing as parental control anymore? What goes on in these people's homes? Does their 12-year-old son ride home from school on his bicycle and entertain 11-year-old girl friends in his bedroom before dinner?

Times have indeed changed.

IN SOME RESPECTS, that change has been for the better. I, for one, do not lament over the corpse of Victorian prudery. Few mourn its passing and, at any rate, those who know me well know that my qualifications as a self-appointed moralizer are not beyond reproach.

But certainly, there must be some kind of happy middle ground between the absurd inhibitions of a few generations ago and the moral anarchy we seem to be headed to today.

I found it rather ironic that shortly after these survey results were publicized, Channel 56 began running a special TV series on child sexual abuse. Unless you've lived in a cave for the last five years, you're already aware that pedophilia is a growing problem in this country. It seems hardly a week goes by when the news doesn't include another sordid incident of child sexual abuse at a school, child care center, or by some depraved individual.

I leave you with this uncomfortable thought: If we have come around to thinking that sex between two 11-year-olds is natural and inevitable, does it not follow that we have created a climate in which sex between an 11-year-old and an adult is more likely to occur?

How can parents hand out condoms to children on the one hand, and then recoil in shock at a boy or girl's sexual activity on the other?

Is there a connection between today's attitudes toward childhood sexuality and increases in child sexual abuse?

I claim no credentials in the field of psychology. But the spiraling abuse statistics can certainly make a case for this connection.

Residents' complaints save 27 trees from ax

A total of 27 trees on Independence Township roads have been saved.

They were targeted for destruction under the Tri-Party Road Agreement's proposed intersection clearing project.

As part of its 1983-84 shared-cost agreement with the county commission and road commission, the Independence Township Board authorized intersection clearings at Rattalee Lake and Allen roads, and Pine Knob and Whipple Lake roads earlier this year.

Residents invited to an informational meeting Sept. 6 opposed the cuttings so strongly, the county quickly revamped its plan, according to Supervisor

James B. Smith.

Instead of destroying 16 trees at Rattalee and Allen roads, four will be cut; and two will be cut at Pine Knob and Whipple Lake roads instead of 17, he said.

"I'm very pleased," Smith said. "I heard what they'd planned to do and thought the residents would be pleased to know about the change. Some of those trees (had 36-inches circumferences).

"I wanted to avoid people going out there and cutting down all the oaks, maples and cherries."

The Tri-party Road Agreement is a three-way cost-sharing plan between local units of government, the Oakland County Road Commission and Oakland County Board of Commissioners. Some of the projects it pays for are road approach paving, road repairs, clearing site distances at intersections and installing flashing lights near schools.

More taxes?

Millage increases will be the topic of a special meeting of the Springfield Township Board.

On Wednesday, Sept. 26, at 8 p.m. the public hearing will cover the increases township residents voted for in the August primary election.

Voters approved 1 mill for the fire department, 2 mills for police protection and .5 mill for the general fund.

Supervisor Collin Walls said even though the public agreed on the increases, state law requires a public hearing if more taxes are to be collected.

"It's critical that people know this is only hearing. We can't take any action for a week," Walls said. "If two people attend the meeting, we won't get what the majority of the residences feel."

After the public hearing, a special township board meeting is scheduled to discuss what the community voiced their opinions on. Then the following Wednesday, Oct. 3, another meeting is set to finalize the millage.

One mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

New towers

The 450-foot communications tower at East Holly Road and I-75 in Springfield Township is getting an addition.

Detroit Cellular Communications wants to add four offshoot antennas about half way up the structure, along with a small service shed at the site.

The plan was unanimously approved Sept. 12 by the township board. Supervisor Collin Walls said the car phone company has already submitted a plan to the building department to begin work.

"The building is less than 400 square feet and they're going to tear down a small building for the new one," he said. "We didn't have any problem with it. Besides in a year, no one will notice any changes."

Burger King lands approval

By Marilyn Trumper

After five months of review, Burger King Corp's landed final site plan approval for its proposed $600,000 fast-food restaurant on Dixie Highway, next to Ritter's Farm Market.

The planning commission approved the greenhouse-style dining room 7-0 Sept. 13. Members Daniel Travis and Walter Eidam were absent.

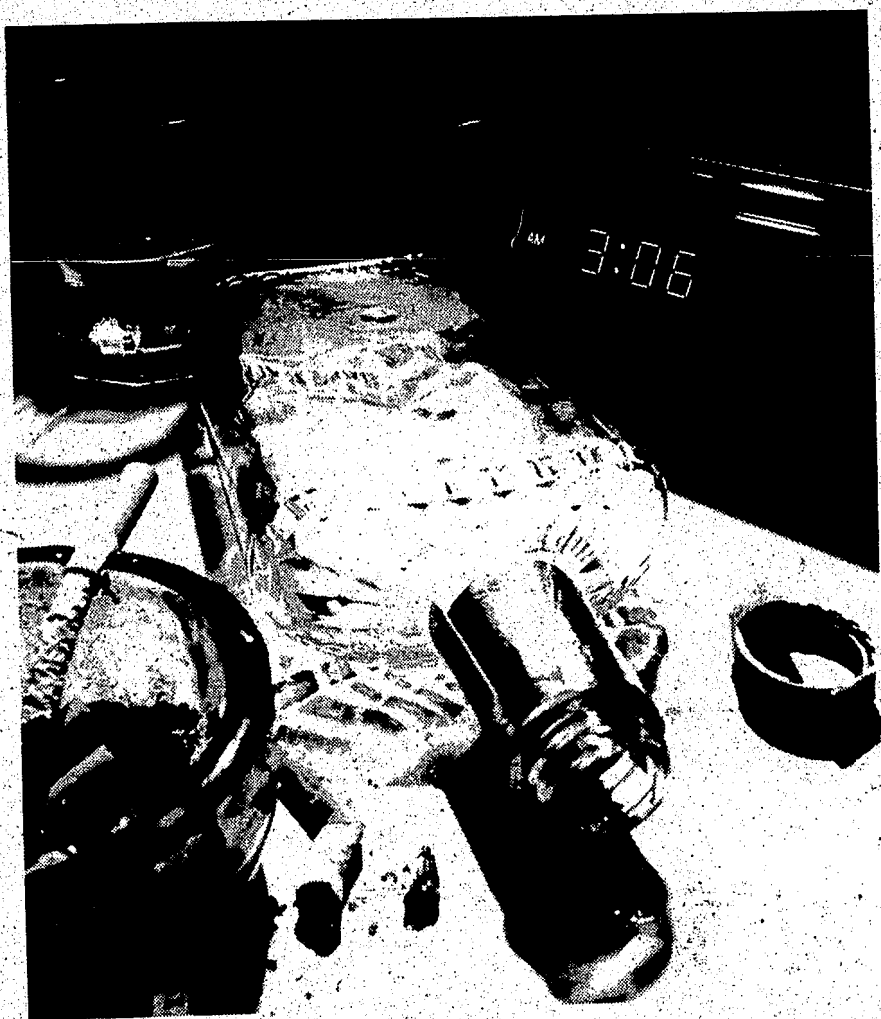

Construction is expected within 30 days, depending on the weather, according to a spokesperson from the Independence Township Building Department.

Tom Ritter's 120-year-old Italianate home sits on the proposed restaurant's site. Burger King held an option-to-buy the land contingent upon landing final site plan approval, with a clause to level the home 30 days after closing if it's not moved.

Clarkston residents Hank and Jennifer Radcliff have village approval to move the cubed historic home to a vacant lot at Main and Washington streets, north of the municipal lot, and are processing the necessary permits now for that move.

SOME KIDS WOULD RATHER LEAVE ALL THEIR TROUBLES BEHIND.

Many of today's kids aren't working their problems out. Instead, they're drinking them away. They're putting all of their hopes and dreams into a bottle of liquor or a can of beer. That's one of the real tragedies of alcoholism. It not only takes its toll on adults, but it can take a young life and stop it before it even gets started.

But the United Way of Pontiac-North Oakland is doing something about it. Through your contributions we support agencies like Catholic Social Services, National Council on Alcoholism and Oakland Family Services, three agencies that work tirelessly to educate and inform school-aged kids about the tragic consequences of alcoholism, and treat kids who have already become victims. But there's so much more that can be done. That's why we need your help. All you have to do is care. If you want to help us do all we can to keep alcoholism from infecting our children, then care enough to give. That way, the next time a kid has a problem he can meet it head-on, instead of cap-off.

GIVE AS MUCH AS YOU CARE.

Charles Barnett accepts his plaque as the past chairperson for the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee from new chairperson Ken Leslie at the annual luncheon meeting.

CAYA begins new year

Committee honors past chairperson and elects new officers

Quiet introductions and a gracious exit filled the annual Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee (CAYAC) Luncheon Meeting.

Retiring chairperson Charles Barnett accepted his plaque with a characteristic smile.

"We try to get a minimum of two years out of a chairperson, two years is enough," Barnett said after the luncheon.

Besides the introduction of Leslie as chairperson, Betty Kozma was named vice chairperson and Kay Robertson was named treasurer. The secretary position is vacant.

CAYAC is an organization devoted to the prevention of juvenile delinquency in the Clarkston school district.

"We're always looking for ways to raise money," said Barnett, who is staying on the CAYAC committee. "The camps we send the kids to in the summer cost money. We rely on our sponsors to help us out."

Also at the luncheon, Oakland County Probate Judge John O'Brien presented a plaque recognizing CAYAC for their achievement with the youths in the Clarkston area.

Post continues

With the first issue of The Post, the Springfield Township newsletter, the reactions from residents have been slow in coming.

Supervisor Collin Walls said the first newsletter turned out great and recommended the township board set aside money for additional issues.

"My recommendation is to send Neighbor for Neighbor $750 for the first payment and another $750 to fund at least two more issues," Walls said at the Sept. 12 meeting. "Hopefully we'll get more feedback on the next issues."

Neighbor for Neighbor the non-profit organization handling the newsletter, that is distributed to the households and businesses in the community. The monthly issue highlights the events of the past month and tells of upcoming activities.

The cost of publishing the first issue was $470, according to Walls but that didn't include the fees for writing the articles.

"I would not like to see us (the township board) pay the whole shot," Walls said. "I'd like to see some community support. We'd like to get reactions to it, either pro or con."

The board unanimously approved the motion to allocate $1,500 for the cost of the newsletter.

Blowout evens Wolves' record

By Dan Vandenhemel

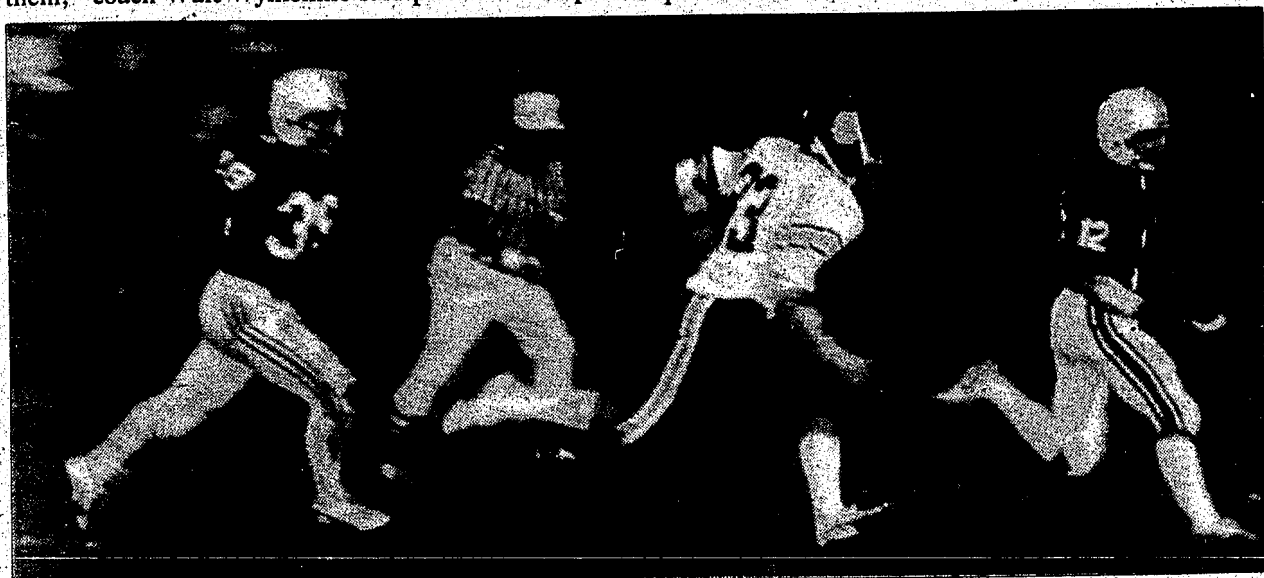

The Clarkston Wolves knew they were going against one of the top prep football teams in the county at Sterling Heights Stevenson. They also knew it wouldn't be an easy game to win.

"We're going to have to play a great game to beat them," coach Walt Wyniemko said prior to the Sept. 14 contest.

14 contest.

Wyniemko didn't get the performance he was hoping for as the Wolves were shutout, 31-0.

Early in the game, the Titans established their superiority over the Wolves with time consuming drives. Stevenson scored with 1:51 left in the opening quarter.

The second quarter was even more one-sided as the Titans ran up 17 points to lead, 24-0, at the half. They held the ball the majority of the half as Clarkston installed its dance step offense, one, two, three, punt.

"You can't play defense the whole half and expect to win the ball game," Wyniemko said after the game. "Especially with a chorus line offense where you go three (plays) then give it back. We didn't even get the three some of the times before we fumbled."

Opening up the second half, Clarkston's offense started rolling. Starting on the 19-yard line, the Wolves drove to the goal line before Stevenson stopped them on downs.

"He (Wyniemko) just told us that we're a better football team than what we showed," Wolves defensive end Steve Morris said.

"We got back into our game plan and they (the Wolves) relaxed," Wyniemko said. "You can't win by making mistakes. They're a good football team, but we beat ourselves."

The Wolves evened their record at 1-1 while the Titans went to 2-0. Clarkston gained only 117 yards to Stevenson's 236.

Quarterback Mike Galley completed five of 15 passes from 54 yards and two interceptions. Replacement Bob LaPorte came into the game during the fourth quarter and was 0-3.

"We've got a young offensive line," Wyniemko said. "It'll take awhile to get some experience."

This was a familiar scene at the Clarkston-Sterling Heights Stevenson football game, Sept. 14. A Wolf defender is chasing the Titan ball carrier. Clarkston lost, 31-0.

CJH holds on, 22-20

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Clarkston Wolverines proved history does repeat itself as they edged the Sashabaw Cougars, 22-20, in football.

The Sept. 12 game score was identical to last season's finale.

This time the Wolverines, led by Stacey Turner and Jeff Tungate, sprang to a 22-6 advantage at halftime.

Clarkston Junior High put points on the board first when Jamison Craig picked off a pass and returned 40 yards for the touchdown. The two-point conversion after the score was good, and the Wolverines held a quick 8-0 lead.

The Cougars came back two minutes later and Keenan Powell charged 67 yards on a reverse after Sashabaw recovered a fumble on the 33-yard line. The pass for the point-after was incomplete.

The rest of the first half scoring belonged to the Wolverines but the Cougars controlled the game.

Quarterback Tungate punched in for a touchdown and passed 41 yards to Turner to close out the scoring. Meanwhile, the Cougars were romping through the Wolverine defense, piling up yardage but not cashing in.

"Sashabaw controlled us. We were fortunate to come out with a win," Wolverine coach John Craven said. "It's a good thing we put the points up in the first half. I'm glad we're 2-0."

Clarkston compiled close to 160 total yards. Sashabaw had 240 on the ground, with Jeff Buchman collecting 130 and a 67-yard run by Powell.

"We knew coming out of the locker room that we could move the ball," Cougar coach Steve Pearson said. "We came out fired up, the defense started hitting. I can't complain at all about the comeback."

What hurt the Cougars in the first half were the turnovers, three fumbles and three interceptions that stopped drives.

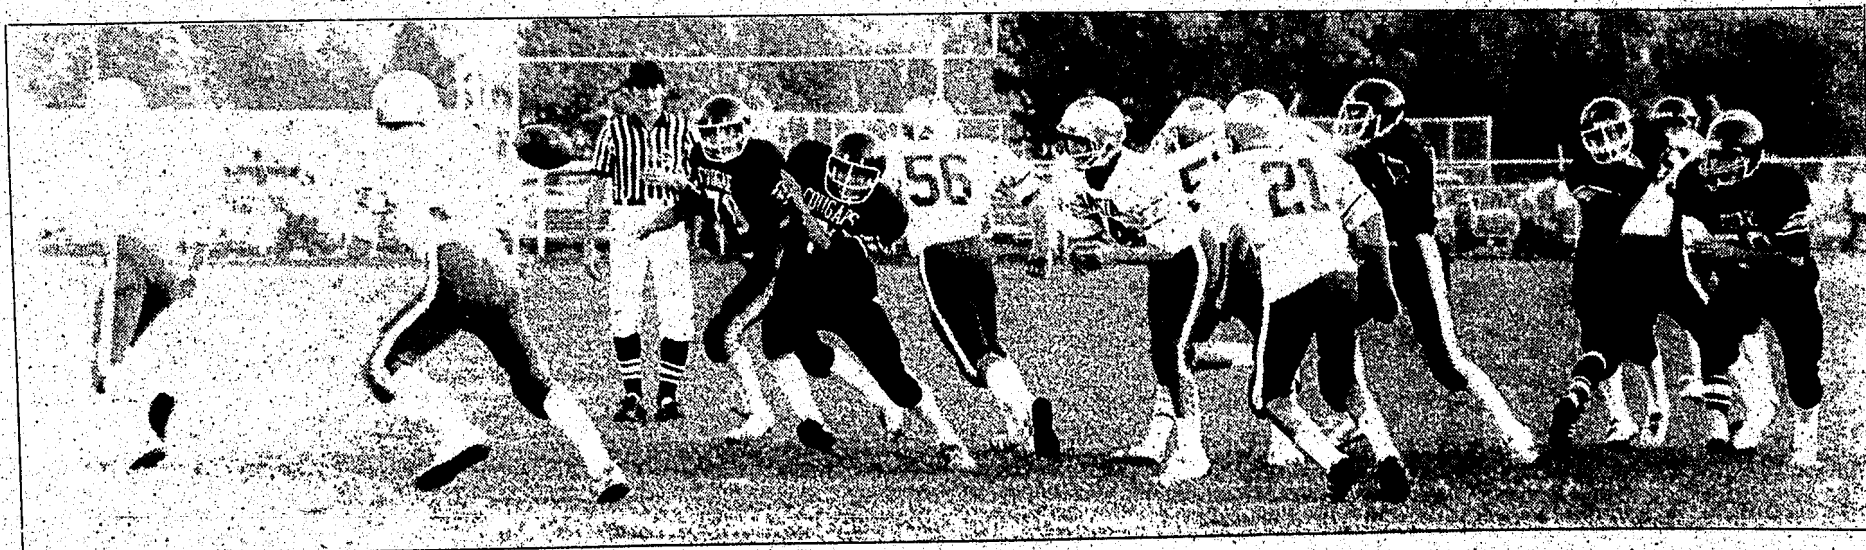

"We moved the ball but they came up with the big plays," Pearson said. "We felt going in we were the underdogs. They've got Stacey Turner who is considered one of the fastest kids in the school district, but we felt we could play with them."

Turner showed that speed on numerous plays including the touchdown strike.

"We tried to hide him on the outside and told Tungate to throw the ball out there and let Stacey run under it. He's got unlimited speed."

Both schools are coming off lopsided victories in their opening games and Craven felt that hurt his team.

"We weren't mentally ready for Sashabaw," he said. "They (his team) thought Sashabaw was weak. They're a better ball club than we are. I'll guarantee we'll be mentally ready the next time we play. I don't know what the outcome will be but we'll be ready to play."

The Clarkston-Sashabaw junior high football game produced its share of excitement over the years. This is the second straight game the Wolverines have won by identical 22-20 scores.

The Cougars controlled the statistics, but the Wolverines owned the scoreboard.

In the swing

By Dan Vandenhemel

While the lowest score in golf wins, victories aren't the most important part of this year's Clarkston High School boys' golf team. Integrity and proper etiquette on the golf course are what Clarkston golf coach Jim Chamberlain and Dave Thomas are shooting for.

But winning makes it easier, and the Wolves opened their season with a 156-170 victory over Waterford Mott, Sept. 11.

"If you're playing well, you usually act properly on the course," Chamberlain said.

The golfers on this year's squad received a sheet of nine suggestions on how to handle themselves on the golf course.

"The way I look at it, golf is a lifetime activity," he said. "If you pick up bad habits early, it's hard to break them."

The Wolves did a good job of breaking up their opponent, as Rich Lay and John Stapleton each shot a round of 38. Gunnar Karlstrom and John Gaulin finished out the scoring with a pair of 40s.

"Hopefully we'll be consistent," Chamberlain said. "Out of the top six golfers I know one or two will shoot well while a couple might have an off day, like (Steve) Willis with 42 and (Chris) Hunter with 41. The rest of the team will pick them up."

The major competition for the Wolves this year in the Greater Oakland Activities League will come from Lake Orion. The Dragons beat the Wolves in both meetings last fall.

"We've set some goals this year and that's to win the league, finish well in the Oakland County meet and qualify for the state playoffs," he said.

With 30 players currently on the team, depth is not a problem.

"We had 40 try out this year, 55 last year," Chamberlain said. "It's tough with that many. Dave (Thomas) is helping with the younger kids. That way we both keep an eye on the other players and single out the ones with ability."

Netters drop two straight

By Dan Vandenhemel

It was not a good week for the Clarkston High School tennis team.

After winning the first two meets of the season, the girl netters lost their next two convincingly.

Milford was the latest Wolf-killer, defeating Clarkston, 5-2, Sept. 17. The only victorious players for the Wolves were No.1 singles player Kristin Tiahrt, 6-1, 6-1; and No.3 doubles, Sandy Ross and Cindy Hewitt, 6-3, 6-7, 6-4.

"We got clobbered pretty good," Tiahrt said. "All the matches were 6-1 or 6-2."

Coach Dick Swartout has been switching the lineup around, trying to come up with a winning formula.

He didn't find one against Lake Orion Sept. 14. The Wolves lost, 7-0, to the defending Greater Oakland Activities League champions.

Only No. 4 singles player Daisy Red was close to winning a match with scores of 2-6, and 5-7.

The season started with a close victory over Waterford Mott, 4-3, on Sept. 10. The meet was decided by a forfeit in the No. 3 doubles by Mott. Winners were No. 4 singles Coreen Hummel; No. 1 doubles, Jennis Johns and Sue Brock; and No. 2 doubles Donna Bright and Sandy Ross.

Brandon proved an easy target for the Wolves in their second meet on Sept. 11. Clarkston won, 7-0, with Tiahrt, Hummel, No. 3 Lynne Howse and Red winning the singles matches, and doubles teams of Mia Graversen and Johns, Ross and Brock, and Bright and Lisa Martin coming out on top.

Up My Alley

Teacher tests

By Dan Vandenhemel

Should teachers be tested? That question has been batted around for the past few months and no one has really come up with an idea of what to do.

Mort Crim, the news anchorman on WDIV, Channel 4, fielded that question on his public forum show, Free for All.

The hour-long show was taped at Oakland University last week to be shown Sept. 14. In the audience, a number of students as well as teachers and parents came to voice their opinions.

Most of the people agreed there are incompetent teachers in the system. The problem was, what to do with them.

Some suggested having fellow teachers do the testing, others said it's the administrators' job.

A couple of students stood up and said they, the students, should handle the passing grades of the instructors.

All these were incomplete answers as far as I'm concerned. Why not have all three groups do the judging?

An administrator can't possibly know what is going on in the classroom all the time, neither can other teachers. But on the same token, the students don't know what the teacher has gone through to get the job, all the hours or the lack of them to become certified.

I remember in high school when an administrator came in to evaluate an instructor, that teacher quite often put on an outstanding show of knowledge and rapport with the captive audience. Then the next day it was back to the same boring lectures.

Administrators and teachers see themselves out of the classroom setting. In front of the students, a teacher may be one of the best in the school district but outside could be different. Drugs, alcohol, or mental problems could surface. Would you want your child to be in contact with a teacher like that?

Granted, the problem of students not coming out of school with enough know-how to tie their own shoes is partially their fault, their parents' fault and the school's fault.

Time and space don't permit a full-blown debate of the entire system of learning. The question of inadequate teachers is a concern of everybody.

Most of the concerns center on the mandatory school years, kindergarten through 12th grade. But what about instructors and professors at the college levels? Ask most any college student of the last 10 years if he or she hasn't had a professor who couldn't speak recognizable English.

They may know everything there is to know about economics or advanced calculus, but putting two words together that the normal college student can understand is something else.

There should be a set system of checking teachers of all levels on their ability to know and convey information.

Having administrators, fellow teachers and the students doing the testing is one answer.

Coding laws

The Village of Clarkston's ordinances will soon be codified.

On Sept. 10, the council unanimously approved hiring a law student at $7-per-hour to do the work, allocating $1,150 to finance the project and directing their attorney to conduct interviews.

Codification will give the village a cross-reference for its ordinances, according to President Carol Eberhardt.

"We also anticipate that he or she will point out which of our ordinances are outdated and no longer useful," she said.

New sprinkler

After months of debate and questions, the Clarkston Village Council approved a $4,300 sprinkling system for Depot Road Park.

It will water the Memorial Garden, grass around village hall and the flower beds, according to Carol Eberhardt, council president.

On Sept. 10, the council unanimously approved the system. Its water will come from the Clinton River stream that flows through the park, she said.

Construction is expected to begin soon.

Safety path OK

The Village of Clarkston's approved in concept a safety path from Main Street south of village hall near the pump station, through Depot Road Park and connecting the nine-year-old White Lake Road path that ends at Deer Lake Beach.

The unanimous agreement came at the council's Sept. 10 meeting, but there was no agreement on funding for the $7,050, 1,071-foot-long path, according to President Carol Eberhardt.

Earlier, Trustee David Raup indicated Community Development would finance the project, but according to Eberhardt, it will now only pay a portion of the cost, and how much is not known.

"That's what we have to find out," she said, adding Raup's been directed to get firm figures from CD.

The plan's expected to be discussed at the Sept. 24 meeting at 7:30 p.m. in Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot, Clarkston.

Light petition

Fielding a resident's request for a stoplight at Waldon and M-15, Clarkston village President Carol Eberhardt's petitioned the state for information.

At its Sept. 10 meeting, the council agreed to ask the state about installing lights at Clarkston and M-15 and Waldon and M-15.

"The same request was made in 1981, and the state turned it down," Eberhardt said. "I'm not sure why, but we'll find out. And while we're at it, we'll ask about the Clarkston Road light."

"We're going to ask for a traffic count too."

Asked if three lights, including the light at Washington and Main, wouldn't be too much, Eberhardt said, "I don't know, that's what the state will have to tell us."

Looking for seniors

The Village of Clarkston has a perfect job for a senior citizens, says its president, Carol Eberhardt.

On Sept. 10, the council unanimously approved advertising a part-time secretarial job, at a yet-to-be determined pay, negotiated at the time of hiring, Eberhardt said.

"We really want to be able to train someone who can take over (the current secretary's) job when she's on vacation or if anything were to happen and she'd be unable to work," Eberhardt said.

"We're also going to redo the filing system, and (the current secretary) won't be able to do that and her regular work at the same time."

New policies

Changes in five Clarkston school district policies were unanimously approved by the board of education last week.

- Expenses for the seven board members may now include up to 52 meetings a year at $30 a meeting. The former maximum was 24 meetings. The board changed the policy following the extensive work required by appointments to some committees. Before a board member is paid for such meetings, the school board must vote its approval.

- The Employee Recognition Program was formally approved. The program rewards district employees for years of employment with pins and watches; institutes a plan to recognize outstanding contributions by staff members; recognizes annually employees who do not miss a day of work; and includes an annual banquet for retiring staff members.

- A job description was OK'd for the newly formed curriculum director, a central administration post created this year.

- Changes were approved in the job descriptions of the administrators in charge of elementary education and secondary education, to correspond with the new curriculum director's duties.

Your guide to fall color beauty

One of the nation's most lavish fall color displays will soon begin in Michigan, creating a perfect setting for autumn festivals, cider mill visits, auto tours and other pursuits, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Stars in the state's autumn spectacular are the more than 85 species of trees in 3.7 million acres of state forests and five million acres of national forests. As their leaves turn, the trees display a vivid mix of crimson, golden and purplish hues.

Color watchers who prefer certain hues should look for sugar maples for brilliant golds and red maples for brighter reds. While sugar maples outnumber other trees in many parts of the Upper Peninsula, both species are dominant in the Lower Peninsula west of I-75 and US 27.

East of that line, brilliant yellow leaves are worn by aspens, birches and poplars. Leaves of oaks vary from russet to light brown while sumac trees become almost iridescent red and tamaracks turn gold.

Color is expected to be about the same as last year's—good, but not spectacular, due to the dry summer.

State forestry experts expect this year's color show to peak from mid-September to early October in the U.P. Best times for color viewing in Lower Michigan north of a line from Ludington to Standish will be late September to mid-October.

In Lower Michigan's midsection, color viewing should be best in early and mid-October. That region is south of a line from Ludington to Standish and north of a line from Muskegon to Port Huron.

Southern Michigan should display a fall color extravaganza during mid- and late October.

Among the most relaxing ways to see fall color are boat cruises offered in every region of the state.

Two are offered on West Michigan's Lake Charlevoix. The Beaver Islander is scheduled for Oct. 6, 7, 13 and 14 and the Star of Charlevoix runs daily through Oct.

14. The Timberlee Belle runs through mid-October on Boardman Lake, near Traverse City.

In East Michigan, Au Sable River paddleboat tours are slated Sept. 29 through Oct. 21. For Southeast Michigan travelers, a cruise of Kent Lake at Kensington Metropark near Milford is set for Oct. 14, 27 and 28.

U.P. boat trips include the Pictured Rocks Cruises at Munising through Oct. 10.

Landlubbers may choose from dozens of other autumn activities.

Southeast Michigan events include Dearborn's Octoberfest, Oct. 1-7; fall color tour, Yates Cider Mill, Rochester, Oct. 1 through Nov. 16; Ypsilanti's Apple Harvest Weekend, Oct. 5-7; Autumn Harvest Festival at Greenfield Village, Dearborn, Oct. 5-7; Autumn Festival, Cranbrook Institute, Bloomfield Hills, Oct. 6-7, 13-14; Fall Harvest Day, Ella Sharp Museum, Jackson, Oct. 7, and an Apple Festival, Port Huron, Oct. 21.

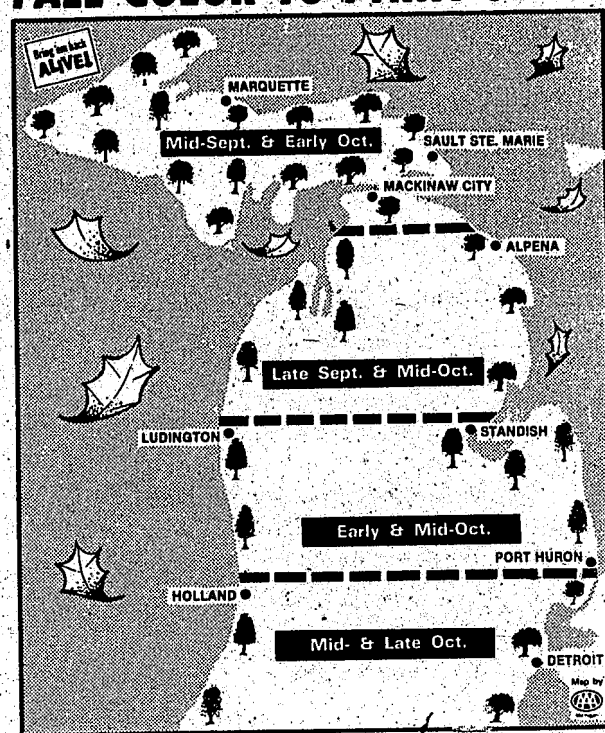

In East Michigan, special attractions with an autumn theme include guided and self-guided color tours, Gladwin County, Sept. 30; Fall Color Tour, Houghton Lake, Oct. 13, and a Fall Color Train Excursion, Bay City to Grayling, Oct. 13.

West Michigan fall events include a Viking Color Festival, Cadillac, Sept. 29 through Oct. 7; Oktoberfest, Kalamazoo College, Oct. 5-6; Red Flannel Festival, Cedar Springs, Oct. 6; Heritage Hill Home Tour, Grand Rapids, Oct. 6-7; Color Tour/ Art Festival, Frankfort, Oct. 6-14, and an Apple festival, Bangor, Oct. 11-15, and Charlevoix, Oct. 14.

Upper Peninsula attractions are a Turkey Shoot, Chassell, Sept. 17-22; Ethnic Food Festival, Escanaba, Oct. 6; Fall Art Fest, Dee Stadium, Houghton, Oct. 6; Annual Home Tour, Iron River, Oct. 7; Pumpkin Fest, Bessemer, Oct. 13, and Arts and Crafts Show, Town Hall, L'Anse, Oct. 8-13.

For a weekly report on where color is peaking, AAA members may call any of the Auto Club's 54 statewide offices. Also, several routes and activities for best color viewing are detailed in the September issue of the Auto Club's Michigan Living magazine.

A number of scenic color routes for motorists in each region are featured in "Autumn in Michigan," a free guide available from the Michigan Travel Bureau. Copies may be requested by calling toll-free 1-800-292-2520, or by writing to the Bureau at P.O. Box 30226, Lansing, Mich. 48909.

Artist's work on sale at Crafts & Cider Fest

Poster touts Clarkston's history, offers firsthand look at Jeremiah Clark, town's founder

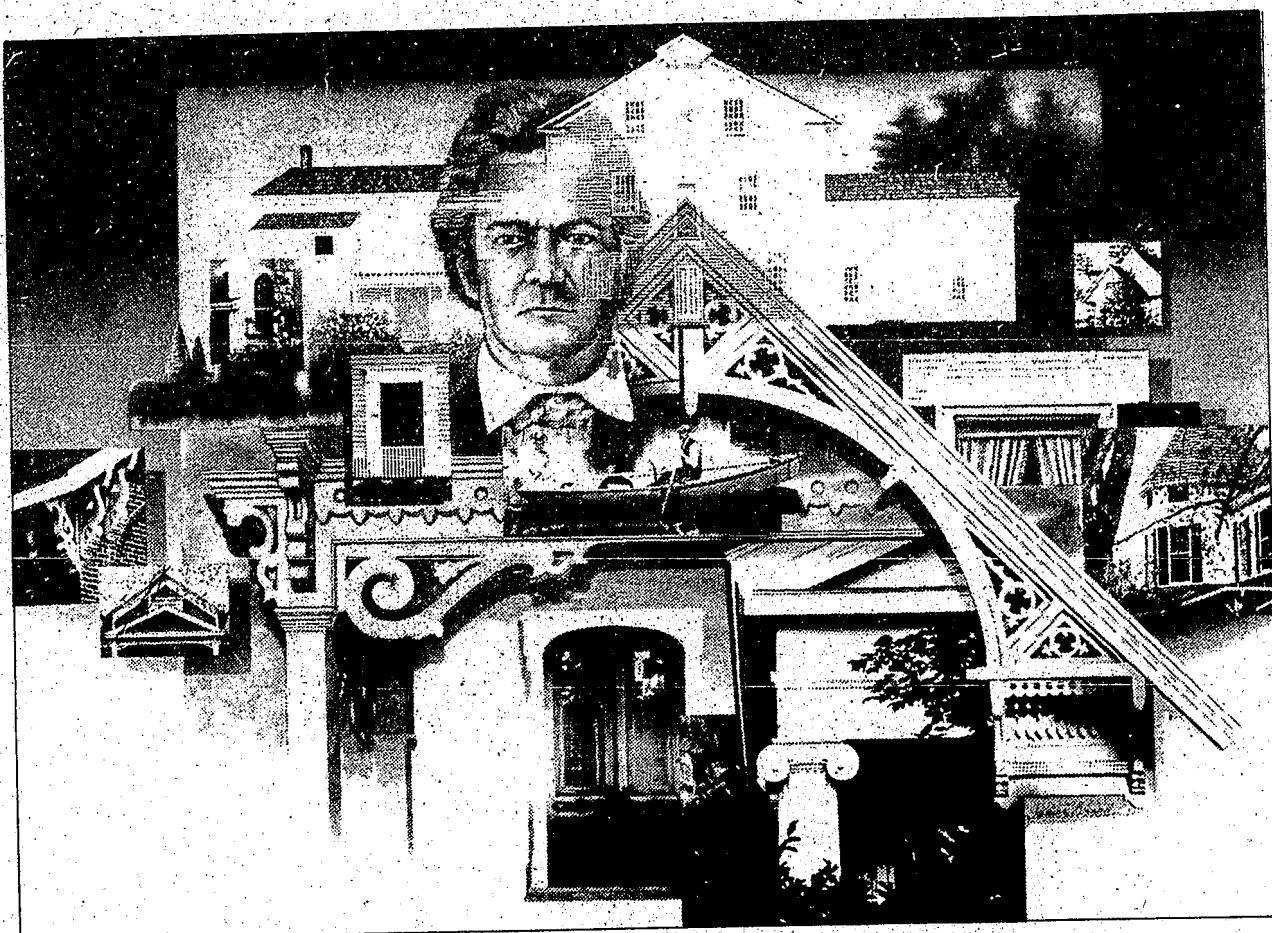

By Kathy Greenfield

Sitting in his studio on Main Street above the Clarkston Cafe, graphic artist Jim Russell created the poster commissioned by the Clarkston Community Historical Society.

Copies of the 16-by-20-inch poster will be sold during Crafts and Cider this weekend. It's a work of art that pleases the artist.

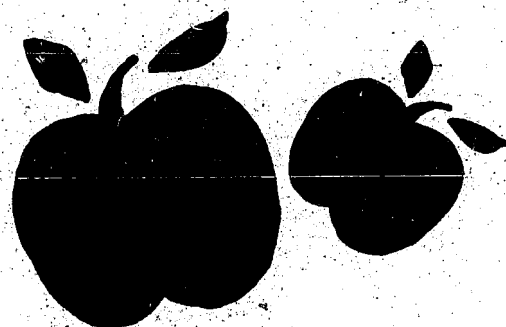

"I feel really good about it," Russell said. "It was kind of a personal achievement, doing something out of the realm of everyday work and just being able to do something that's very dear to me for the Village of Clarkston."

Village residents for five years, Russell and his wife, Irene, have two daughters, Kaitlin, 4, and Lindsay, 1½.

This copy of the 16-by-20 inch poster serves to give some idea of the work of graphic artist Jim Russell. It includes Russell's portrait of Jeremiah Clark, one of Clarkston's founding fathers. "Everyone's remark was, 'Gee, did he really look that good?'" says Russell. "I think there's a pretty close resemblance."

He's employed by Xenoworks in Birmingham, and his achievements include the logo for the Michigan Panthers football team; a poster, similar in concept to the Clarkston creation, for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra; and numerous illustrations for national advertisements for Buick and AAA.

He calls his technique for the Clarkston poster, "art assemblage." It's a collection of photographs of architectural details from historic Clarkston homes; renderings of Jeremiah Clark, the original Clarkston Mills and a detail of a corner bracket on a porch; and an old photograph of a couple boating on the Mill Pond.

Russell said the poster plan came about after a talk with Susan Basinger, a former historical society president. The purpose was to promote the architectural styles in Clarkston and make people aware of preservation efforts.

"The idea I came up with was to take fragments of buildings and use that in a composition along with some images from the past," he said.

"By taking close croppings, I hoped that people would have to come out and hunt for things"—they're located all over the village.

Next, Russell set out to create a romantic mood with background color.

The sky behind the mill is dusky rose and orange; the border color is mauve; and the color behind all the objects in the foreground represents water.

"I think water is a very integral part of the village," he said. "Everyone around here enjoys it so much. That's why I introduced the family situation in the boat."

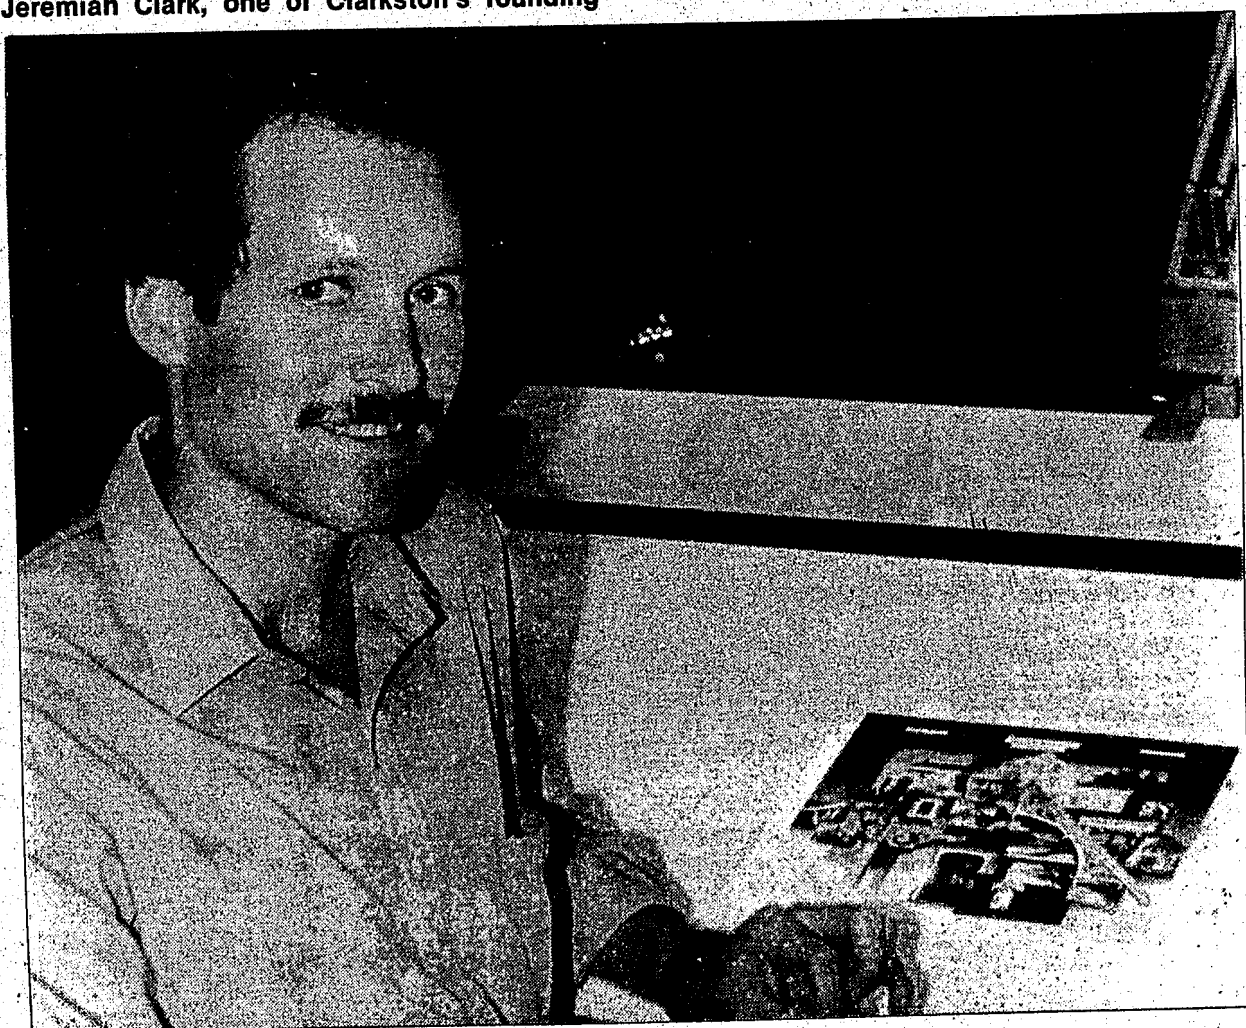

During the two months he worked on the project, Russell learned a great deal about Clarkston's past.

"It takes something like this when you start studying to realize how much was here and how much was lost already," he said.

The theme of the poster is "You don't have to go far to find yesterday."

All the proceeds from the sale of the posters will go to the historical society, aside from the token fee Russell was paid and printing costs.

Historical Society to sell during the Crafts and Cider Festival this weekend.

Author to promote Clarkston book here

By Kathy Greenfield

Author James Genco is coming to town. His book, "To the Sound of Musketery and Tap of the Drum," couples historical facts with letters by his great-great-grandfather written to his Clarkston family during the Civil War.

"It's just a natural for Clarkston," said Nancy Bennett, owner of the Village Bookstore, where Genco will appear on Saturday, Sept. 22, from 1 to 4 p.m. "I think it's great. It's our second author. We had one last year at the same time, during Crafts and Cider."

Genco's book, a numbered, limited edition, has been for sale in the bookstore at 26 S. Main, Clarkston, about five months.

Sales have gone "extremely well," said Bennett. "We've sold many, many of them."

Those who already own copies can have them signed. The book will also be for sale.

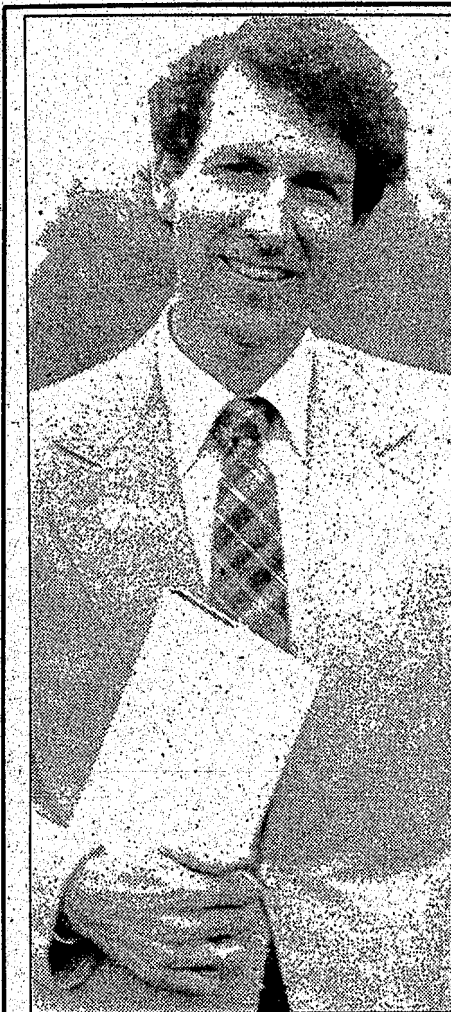

Genco, an Ann Arbor attorney, plans to bring pictures and samples of the letters written by his great-great-grandfather Harold Bartlett to his wife, Rose, while he served in the Civil War from 1861-64.

In addition, he has offered to appraise Civil War artifacts anyone wants to bring into the shop.

Genco wrote the book over a seven-year time span. His quest began when his mother gave him six of his great-grandfather's letters. He searched for other descendants and found over 95 letters.

In almost every letter, Bartlett tells his wife about different members of Battery D of the 1st Michigan Artillery whose families lived in Clarkston.

The author is "really excited" about coming to town for the book signing, Bennett said. "He even said if he didn't have to live in Ann Arbor, he'd move out here."

Springfield to celebrate its 150th

By Dan Vandenhemel

Springfield Township's 150th birthday celebration will be off and running Saturday.

To kick off the 1986 sesquicentennial, a 5 kilometer (3.1 mile) walk-run is set for Sept. 22 starting at the Mill Pond Park on Davisburg Road near Andersonville Road.

Organizer Debbie Ferns said this event is to ready the community for more walk-runs.

"This is a stepping stone for us," Ferns said. "Next year we're going to have 5k (kilometer) and a 10k runs. Then in 1986 we'll have 5, 10, 20 and 35k races. It'll be a nationally organized race walk for people trying to qualify for the PanAm games."

"This is quite a way to get the sesquicentennial on the map."

For Saturday's event, registration begins at 10 a.m. for all age groups. The race for runners starts at 11 a.m. and walkers push off at 11:15 a.m.

No one is left off the age divisions with classifications beginning at 5 years old and under. That is followed by 6-8-year-olds; 9-12-year-olds; 13-15-year-olds; 16-51-year-olds; and 52-year-olds to seniors.

Participants are asked to petition sponsors for each mile finished. For those without sponsors, a $3 fee is charged for those under 12 years old and $5 for those over. All proceeds are for Leader Dogs for the Blind in Rochester, Mich.

The first- and second-place finishers will receive prizes with all participants receiving a sun visor.

"We found people very responsive when they were told the profits are going to the Leader Dogs," Ferns said. "They are only place where you can get leader dogs. They've placed dogs in France and Germany."

Ed Land, chief trainer at the Leader Dogs for the Blind, will be on hand Saturday to give a demonstration of the program.

For more information contact sesquicentennial chairperson Helen Vergin at the Springfield Township Hall at 625-4802 or 634-3111.

Club notes

Veterans of World War I and Ladies Auxiliary of Clinton Valley Barracks No. 2803 Springfield Township, are selling Apple Tags the month of September in memory of Gen. John J. Pershing.

Most of the money from the Apple Tag sale will be given to veterans' hospitals in Michigan.

Sept. 8 was the first meeting of the group's fall activities. The meeting was in the Springfield Township Hall, with members and guests enjoying the music by George Bour at the piano and a carry-in dinner at noon.

Vern Ridgeway, of the Barracks, passed on information that the Clarkston American Legion is inviting our Barracks and Auxiliary to a special dinner. The time and date will be announced later.

Lucille Gries, department treasurer and local secretary and treasurer, gave her report about National Convention, which was held in Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 26-30. She also informed the Barracks and Auxiliary that she was asked "to serve as secretary to the National Ladies Auxiliary of World War I Veterans."

Let us not forget, it is the duty of all able members to be of service to those in need, and service to the disabled. Did you send a card to cheer a friend or visit a shut-in, go to a hospital or nursing home to visit? You do these things for the good of others.

The next meeting of the local Barracks will be Oct. 13 at the Springfield Township Hall. All World War I veterans and their relatives are welcome.

—Jannetta Pierce

The gazebo in Depot Road Park in the Village of Clarkston was the stage of the wedding between Shari Renee Cagle and Robert Dale Jenkins. The couple chose the spot because of his love of the outdoors, and the weather cooperated with sunshine.

Do you take this man . . .

Robert Jenkins loves the outdoors, so what better spot to get married than on the Gazebo in Clarkston's Depot Road Park?

Jenkins and Shari Renee Cagle exchanged their vows Sept. 15 in a short ceremony performed by the Rev. Al Streling, the bridegroom's grandfather from Lakeland, Fla.

Close to 40 people attended the outdoor service.

The bridegroom's parents, Clyde and Bonnie Jenkins of Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, as well as the former Ms. Cagle's mother, Joyce DeBeau of Saginaw, were in attendance.

The newlyweds will live in Pontiac. Jenkins is employed at the General Motors Lake Orion Plant.

A crowd of about 40 people gathered at the park in Village of Clarkston on Saturday to share in the happy occasion of the wedding of Shari Cagle and Robert Jenkins.

Dear Cat Paw:
Someone I know takes drugs once in a while, knows what could happen to them, but does it anyway.

Concerned

Dear Concerned:
When someone takes drugs once in a while, even though they know it's wrong, they usually are unhappy. What is it you or your friend are unhappy about?

Dear Cat Paw:
How do you think I could make more money—selling drugs or becoming a hooker?

Need Fast Money

Dear Need:
There is a possibility of making money in both.

There is also the possibility of going to jail as well as death with both. The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., Sept. 19, 1984 31

Dear Cat Paw:
My parents think all rock stars are selling sex, violence and drugs in their music. How do I deal with this?

Depressed

Dear Depressed:
Your parents are partially right. Hopefully you could point out to your parents some rock stars who do not emphasize drugs, such as Michael Jackson.

Dear Cat Paw:
If someone is on drugs and skipping school what can you do to help?

Help Wanted

Dear Help Wanted:
Use your teen Helpcard and call the hotline any time: 1-800-552-1183.

Dear Cat Paw:
My boyfriend was stoned last weekend. I told him taking drugs was stupid, especially when he has to drive home stoned.

But then on Tuesday night I went ahead and did the same thing he did: I feel really bad, because he had promised not to do it again, but I did. What can I do to cure my problem?

In a Heap

Dear In a Heap:
Remember, you have to face your own problems and your boyfriend his. By doing this you are not letting him or a substance control your life.

Take village historic tour

Free walking tours in the Village of Clarkston are a highlight of the 10th annual Crafts and Cider Festival this weekend.

Conducted by volunteers from the festival sponsors, the Clarkston Community Historical Society, tours are scheduled every half-hour from 1 to 4 p.m. on two of the festival's three dates, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 22 and 23.

"We talked about it a long time and decided it might be a good way to promote interest in preservation and point out some of the architectural details that go unnoticed in your own hometown," said Marilyn Rosner, historical society president.

"I took the tour and I learned from it, and I'm sure the people that are fortunate enough to take this tour are really going to enjoy it."

The walks begin at a home on Buffalo Street and include 12 other structures. Each of the 14 scheduled tours has a maximum of 15 participants, including chaperoned children. A limited supply of the tour booklet "Clarkston: a Michigan Legacy Preserved" will be available for purchase.

People will assemble for the tour at a location adjoining the main tent used by the historical society at the festival site. To sign up, look for a the sign advertising the event.

While waiting for tours to begin, participants can view slide shows offered by the society. Among the selection are "Remuddlings," a look at remodeling versus restoring older homes; and "Clarkston: a Legacy Preserved," the work of historical society members Susan Basinger and Betty Duris.

Marilyn Rosner, president of the Clarkston Community Historical Society, poses with an array of items to be sold at the society's Crafts and Cider Festival booth.

70 artisans at Craft & Cider

The transformation of the Clarkston Village Park to a bustling marketplace takes place this weekend as the Crafts and Cider Festival marks its 10th year, Sept. 21, 22 and 23.

Over 70 artisans are expected to sell their wares at the park on Depot Road, just west of Main Street, including potters, weavers, photographers, creators of soft sculptures and needlework, woodworkers, makers of stained glass and watercolor artists.

There'll be honey, herbal teas, hot and cold sandwiches, baked goods and apple products for sale.

For fresh apple cider and donuts, the place to go is the pavilion of the festival's sponsors, the Clarkston Community Historical Society.

The society will also sell pen and ink notecards of historic structures in the village, children's books,

"Heritage" books, woodcut prints by local artist Donella Vogel, stenciled trays and apple mirrors, and—new this year—a series of three books called "Country Inns of America."

Three items have been selected for the society's annual drawing, with the first prize a weekend trip to Ben Miller Inn, Goderich, Ontario, Canada.

"It comes highly recommended. I've seen a brochure on it and it looks absolutely wonderful," said historical society president Marilyn Rosner. "The food is excellent. It's going to be a nice weekend for somebody."

Second prize is a small quilt by the Amish donated by Jane Kennedy, and third prize is a Clarkston poster with framing donated by Aura Fine Art of Clarkston.

Next week.

As summer winds down in Michigan, we talk about storm windows and furnaces and that surely it will be winter soon.

For us at Consumers Power, winter is always the grand test of the promise we first made almost one hundred years ago.

A promise to warm and light Michigan's homes and schools and stores and offices and factories and hospitals and libraries and churches.

A promise kept every day by the thousands of people at Consumers Power.

You see these people in the blue and white trucks.

You see them stringing electrical wires atop utility poles.

You see them digging gas pipe trenches.

And there are times you don't see them, but you know they're there.

Times when you're indoors, and know that the people of Consumers Power are challenging the storm and the wind and the darkness and anything else in order to keep your lights on and your heat on.

And there are thousands more you don't see: the people at our plants and offices; the engineers, designers, planners; the people who answer the phone when you call in the middle of the night.

The people of Consumers Power.

Something you can be sure of. Perhaps you've wondered about that.

Perhaps you've wondered about that in these days since

Consumers was forced by financing requirements to stop building the Midland plant.

Without the Midland plant, you might have wondered, will there be power for the future? Will there be power for next week?

Without the Midland plant, Consumers will have to find new answers to the questions about future energy needs.

For next week, for next month, for this coming winter, we're now arranging for the energy supplies you'll need.

The people of Consumers Power will generate the electricity you'll need this winter.

The people of Consumers Power will buy, store, and pump the natural gas you'll need this winter.

Something you can be sure of.

You see, one of the things we've learned best over our ninety-eight years of tomorrows is that you expect us to be there.

You expect the lights to go on when you touch the switch.

You expect the stove to glow when you want to cook dinner.

You expect the blue and white truck to come when you need special help.

You expect the people of Consumers Power to be there.

Tomorrow. Next week. Next month. All the tomorrows.

We intend to be there.

Our ninety-eighth year of looking at tomorrow.

Free blood pressure check in Clarkston

Take advantage of the "Fall Body Tune-Up" Saturday, Sept. 22, and have your blood pressure taken—free.

The service for all ages is to be available from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in front of the Pontiac State Bank branch on Main Street in downtown Clarkston.

Sponsored by the Clarkston Consortium for Human Development, the blood pressure readings are to be taken by students of Oakland Community College professor of science Dave Wenzel.

The Consortium will also provide brochures detailing their services that include counseling for families and individuals, and a new senior citizen program.

The posters will sell for $10 each. A limited edition of 250 printed on better quality paper, and signed by the artist, will sell for $45. Following Crafts and Cider, they'll be available at Aura Fine Art on Main Street, Clarkston.

Russell laughs he's told he needs a business manager so he'll realize profits from his work. The Panther logo is another case in point, for he created it as part of his job—he receives no residuals for its use.

But if the sale of the Clarkston poster goes well, Russell said he may create another poster of Clarkston, which he will sell himself. And he has no regrets.

"This was a perfect opportunity, being backed by the historical society," he said, "and I guess I have to admit I work better under direction and deadlines."

SCHOOL PRIDE: They've been weeding, planting hardy mums and watering them, and the members of the Clarkston High School Student Government are proud of their work. "We want to really put an effort into this because this is the first thing the community sees, or visitors, anybody coming to the school," says Beth Greiger, chairperson of the beautification committee. They've also cleaned up the courtyards and they're planning to put down wood chips. So far, materials for the project have been purchased with student government funds. "We're looking for donations of more flowers, wood chips, bushes, shrubs. Even large discounts are welcome," says committee member Liz Darby. On Friday, several of the workers gathered in front of CHS for a photo. Standing, from left, are Dana Hocking, Melissa Wilkinson, Sue Colwell, Lori Neff, Jill Johnston, Heather Laurie, Liz Darby and Beth Greiger. Kneeling are Tracy Smallwood [left] and Dawnaree DeBoer.

Bee-ware!

Stings can mean death for allergy sufferers

By Marilyn Trumper

Wrestling in a field of white clover a 16-year-old boy rolls on a bee and grabs his back, wincing in short-lived pain.

His opponent is stung, too, and slaps at his bare foot.

Almost immediately the boy's leg begins to enlarge, the skin stretches tautly against the swelling tissue.

Breathing becomes difficult.

He's rushed to a hospital where emergency room physicians inject him with adrenalin, designed to constrict the patient's blood vessels and prevent venom from entering the tissues where the itching, swelling reaction manifests.

The first boy brushed off the bee sting as a simple discomfort.

The second's life hung in jeopardy.

That's the unpredictability of chance, the risk that a person will have a severe allergic reaction, according to allergist Leonard Schreier, M.D., who's been practicing medicine in the City of Pontiac since 1968.

"It's the luck of the draw," Schreier said. "A local swelling reaction is not that severe, it's just uncomfortable for a while. It's the severe swelling, the anaphylactic, where you break out, your throat closes shut, you may suffocate, and perhaps go into shock, it's this that can kill you if not treated properly.

"And it can happen in minutes."

Persons with a history of severe reactions can be tested, and receive injections of venom every four to six weeks, slowly making making their body immune to the bee's poison, he said.

Others carry adrenalin with them at all times, and knowing of their severe reaction to venom immediately administer an injection if stung.

According to Schreier, 50 people die annually from bee stings, predominantly those of the yellow jacket, a bee he says will sting without provocation.

"They can sting more than once, and are the ones you see flying around picnic sites and garbage cans," he said.

As a precaution against bee stings Schreier offers the following suggestions:

- Never go barefoot.

- Never wear perfume or cologne—it attracts bees.

- Don't dig in unknown earth. Yellow jackets live in the earth and rotten stumps.

- Wear light colored clothes. Bees are attracted to dark colors and flowered prints.

- If a bee approaches, stand still and wait until it flies away.

Autumn: A time for repotting house plants

After a summer of vigorous growth, house plants may have outgrown their containers. Fall is a good time to check plants and repot those that need it.

Lee Taylor, extension horticulturist at Michigan State University, says house plants may need repotting if the soil dries out very quickly, and plants are growing poorly. The only way to be sure a plant is potbound, however is to turn it out of the pot and look at the roots.

Water first, so the soil is moist. Let excess moisture drain out, then turn the pot upside-down and tap the rim vertically against a table top or bench to loosen the soil ball. If the soil is covered by a thick, tightly matted mass of roots, the plant is overcrowded and needs more room.

(If overcrowding isn't the problem, repotting isn't the solution. In fact, it may do more harm than good by further stressing an already stressed and ailing plant.)

Choose a container 1 or 2 inches larger in diameter than the previous pot. Place a layer of clean pebbles, pieces of broken clay pot or other drainage material in the bottom of the pot, then add a little potting soil. Tip the plant from its old pot, set it in the new container and fill in around the root ball with new soil.

Water then add more soil, if necessary, to bring the soil surface up to about a half-inch from the rim of the pot.

Place recently repotted plants in a spot out of direct sun for a few days. Then move them to a brightly lighted spot and care for them as usual.

As you repot, check plants for signs of insects or diseases, Taylor suggests. Plants that spent the summer outdoors are especially likely to have brought hitchhiking insects indoors with them. There, with no natural enemies to control them, their numbers can increase rapidly and an infestation can spread through your other plants.

Isolate infested plants and use insecticides or insecticidal soaps to control pests. If you can't readily control insects or diseases, discard plants rather than let the problem spread.

Who you gonna call? Soot buster!

By Robert Waters
Special to the Clarkston News

His top hat and tails are a mortician's hand-me-downs.

At least that's the legend Oxford chimney sweep Bob Godkin would like us believe.

According to Godkin, the chimney sweep's attire is a tradition dating back to 18th century England, when formality was status quo for most professions and even laborers toiled in top hat and tails.

"Back in London the government used to license morticians and chimney sweeps and required both of them to wear dressy clothes," says Godkin from his home on Lakeville Road.

"It seems the sweeps couldn't afford to buy their clothes new, so they usually bought them from the local mortician after they were worn out and too crummy for him to wear."

Regardless of how the tradition began, Godkin religiously adheres, and sports his formal garb on every job.

And although he's quick with a joke, he takes his sweeping seriously and has the credentials to prove it.

He has attended five days of professional chimney workshops in Chicago and holds a solid fuel safety technician certificate.

These credentials aren't required, but Godkin feels they help him do a better job.

"Anyone off the street can call themselves a chimney sweep," says Godkin, "but there's more to cleaning a chimney than running a brush down a flue."

"The first thing I do is put down my tarps and set up the soot sweeper," a powerful vacuum that sucks up loose soot, keeping it off the living room rug.

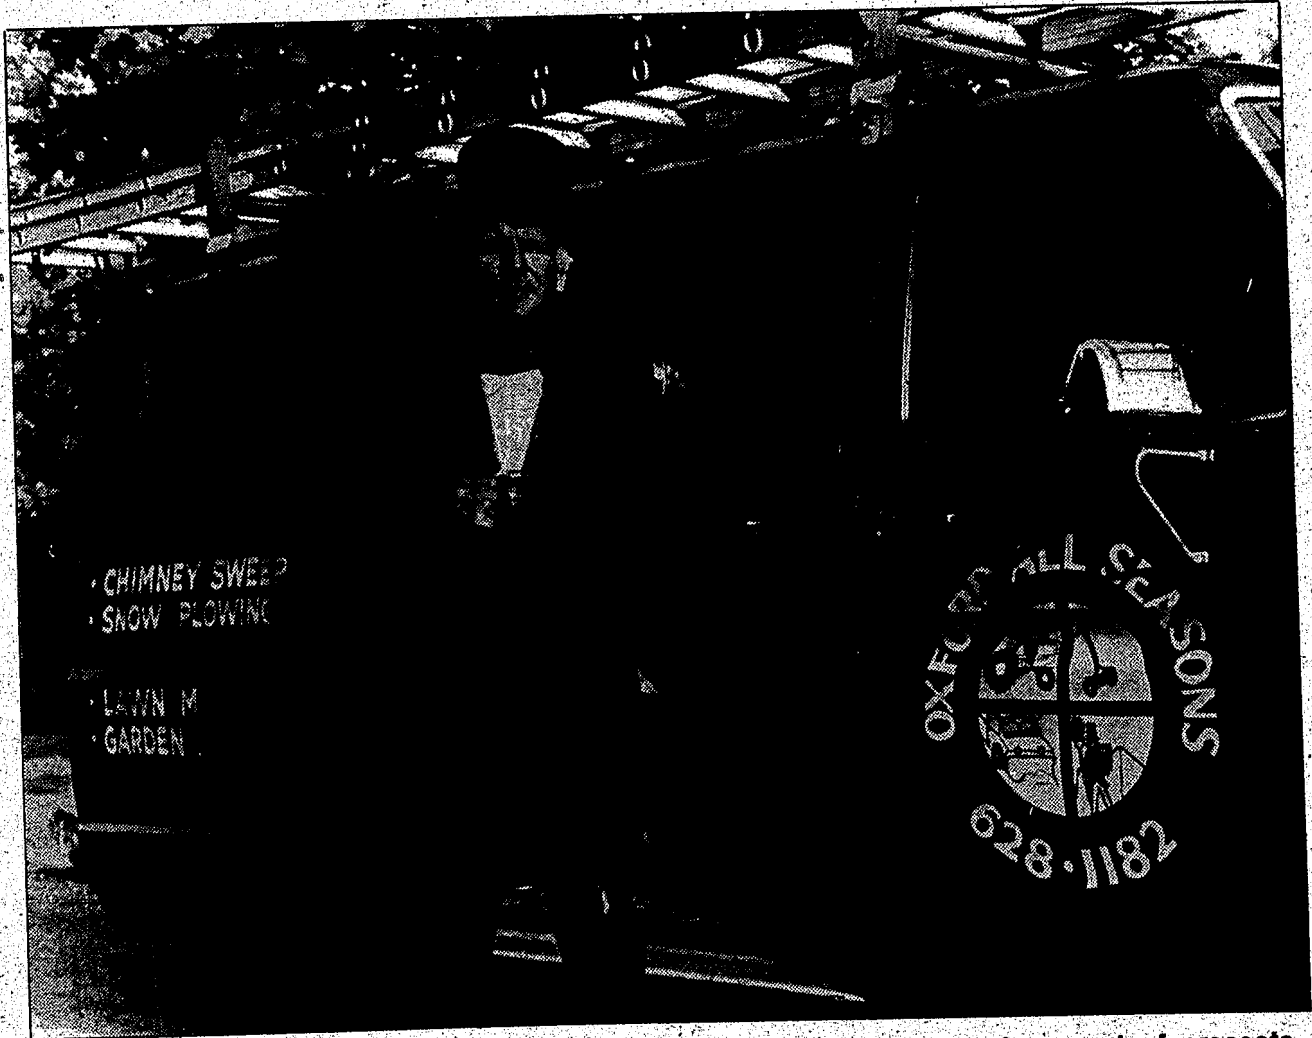

"Then I scrub down the inside, including the smoke chamber, which funnels the smoke into the flue. Then I scrub the smoke shelf, that flat surface at the back of the fireplace, and then last, I clean out the firebox," he says, taking a deep breath.

"I also always check for loose bricks and fire and water damage while I'm cleaning to make sure the chimney is 100 percent."

Godkin says chimneys should be cleaned at least once, and possibly twice, a heating season to avoid the build up of creosote, a deposit left by wood smoke on chimney walls.

To minimize creosote deposits, which cause dangerous chimney fires, Godkin advises homeowners to burn seasoned hardwood that has been cut and stacked for at least one year.

Green wood, which contains up to 50 percent

Bob Godkin dons the traditional chimney sweep garb when answering calls. He recommends that chimneys be swept of creosote buildup at least once a season.

water, is a major cause of creosote buildup.

"Any hardwoods, such as the oaks, maples and hickories, are excellent," he says, "but my favorite is white ash."

Woods to avoid, according to Godkin, are the soft woods, like pines and spruce.

"Poplar burns all right, but it burns too fast," he says. "It's what you call 'gofer wood'—you're always going for more."

Godkin advises his customers to cover their chimney tops with flue caps to keep out heat-seeking invaders.

"It's nice and warm in there," he says, "and it's not uncommon to find dead birds, or mice, or even families of raccoons."

"One lady had nine dead birds clogging her chimney, and I've been attacked by wasps a couple of times."

Godkin says a smoke bomb through the damper usually clears the critters out pretty quickly.

He says he charges $45 to clean a chimney. The extermination services are free.

Choosing the best carpet cleaning techniques

Rugs and carpeting are popular floor coverings in Michigan, where winters can be very long and very cold. What to do when your rug or carpeting gets stained or soiled can often be confusing. Here are some guidelines for choosing the best cleaning method for your need from home economist Elaine Glasser of the Cooperative Extension Service of Oakland County.

PROFESSIONAL RUG CLEANING

Professional rug cleaning is a dying art. There will be some shrinkage when your rug is professionally cleaned. Plan on 1 percent shrinkage on a 10 square foot rug. The rug will stretch back to its original size as it is walked on. If your rug was cut to fit wall-to-wall, it will be best to have the professional rug cleaners come out and clean on location. Rug cleaning should generally cost 20 cents per square foot, with a 9 by 12 foot rug costing about $20.

HOME CLEANING

Of all the home cleaning methods, truck-mounted steam cleaners, operated by professionals, will produce the best results. This method of cleaning can be used on all types of rugs and carpeting, including 100 percent wool.

A chemical designed to break down the dirt particles is added to the steam, which is then forced into the carpeting. The moisture is sucked back up, taking the dirt with it.

Truck-mounted steam cleaners are able to remove about 90% of the moisture, so the rug or carpeting dries quickly. Steam cleaning should cost about 15¢ per square yard.

If you prefer to rent equipment and do the job yourself, there is a wide variety of rug cleaning machines

"No one has ever worn out a rug by cleaning it" available. Some of the rental machines will do a good job. They are often expensive and some companies will try to sell you more liquids and cleaners than you really need.

Classes perfect for do-it-yourselfers

Want to learn more about do-it-yourself repairs around the house?

Three classes offered by the Community Education Department of the Clarkston school district begin this week—and it's not too late to sign up.

All classes are free for persons under age 20 or anyone who has not graduated from high school and is working toward a degree. The fee for high school graduates age 20 or over is $40.

Each class meets for 15 weeks at Clarkston's Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center, 8211 Big Lake Rd., Springfield Township.

Appliance Repair begins Sept. 20. It meets Thursdays from 6 to 10 p.m.

Basic Electricity deals with household electricity. It meets Tuesdays, beginning Sept. 18, from 6 to 10 p.m.

Heating and Furnace Repair meets Mondays, beginning Sept. 17, from 6 to 10 p.m.

For registration information call 673-7756.

7—the magic caning number

By Dan Vandenhemel

Seven easy steps is all it takes to transform a seatless wooden chair into an attractive antique.

Caning, the weaving of thin fibers into a set pattern for the seat or the back of a chair, isn't very hard to learn says Barbara Bentley, but it is time consuming.

Bentley is teaching a course in chair caning through Clarkston Community Education at the high school this fall.

"I've been involved with crafts for a long time," said the Eastlawn Road, Independence Township, resident. "This is a good do-it-yourself project that isn't very expensive."

Chairs can be purchased at garage sales or from stores and remodeled for caning. A hank of cane costs about $10. Bentley said two or three chairs can be done from one hank.

The cane comes from the palm rattan plant found mostly in the Far East.

"You have to work with it wet so it's pliable," Bentley said. "If it's dry, it becomes brittle and breaks. Once the chair is done, it's fairly sturdy. You can't really stand or kneel on it but it's strong."

A hole, covering most of the seat of the chair, is lined with tiny holes so the cane can be threaded through and tied on the other side. The steps are the seven directions the strands of cane must go to create the checked pattern.

Now that the 44-year-old Bentley has been caning chairs for 10 years, she can finish one with about six hours of continuous work. She does the chairs at her home.

"The way you determine the labor cost is so much per hole. When I started it was 10 cents a hole, now it's up to 50 cents," Bentley said. "You don't make a lot of money doing this but it's fun to see the chair once you're done with it."

Not many people work with caning. So when the need arises, people come to Bentley for a quality job.

"It seems that people want chairs done around the holidays," she said. "They want their house to look nice. These types of chairs go so well with the atmosphere of Clarkston, the antique, older look."

The back of the chair must also look good, so learning how to make neat knots is a necessary skill.

The finished product.

Barbara Bentley demonstrates the weaving process essential to chair caning. The look goes well with the atmosphere of historic towns, providing the antique, older look, she says. She'll teach the skill beginning this month in a class offered through the Clarkston Community Education Department.

As summer ends . . .

Questions, answers for the green thumb set

Gardening and plant care questions don't stop as the outdoor growing season ends. Michigan State University Extension specialists answer timely queries on house plants, lawns, ornamentals and related topics.

Q. Every rainy fall my lawn develops a lot of mushrooms in the same places. They're gone now—the frost got them—but I suspect they'll be back next year. Is there anything I can do to get rid of them?

A. Mushrooms are the fruiting bodies of fungi growing on decaying wood or other organic matter. Raking off the mushrooms will give some control, in that it will reduce the number of spores that will be liberated. But the only good way to get rid of the underground parts is to remove the rotting stump or whatever the fungi are growing on. Fumigating with soil sterilants like methyl bromide may kill the fungi, but it will also kill lawn grass and desirable insects and earthworms. Soil fumigants are dangerous to handle and must be applied by people who know what they're doing. Digging out the material the fungi are growing on is your best course of action.

Q. Can I plant my potted mums outdoors. Will it bloom again next year?

A. You can plant it outdoors, but don't count on its surviving the winter. Many of the mum varieties grown for use as flowering pot plants are not winter hardy in Michigan.

Q. When do I mulch my strawberries?

A. Apply mulch in November when the temperature drops to about 20 degrees F. If you mulch too soon, before the plants stop growing, you'll smother them.

Q. I have a couple of kinds of pesticide and some fertilizer left from this year's garden. What sort of storage place will keep them in good condition so I can use the remainder next year?

A. Store pesticides and other garden chemicals where temperatures don't fall below freezing or go above 90 degrees F. Heating or freezing generally causes undesirable changes in liquid formulations. Dampness generally spoils dry formulations, so store powders and granules so they'll stay dry. Store any and all garden chemicals in their original containers. Their labels are loaded with important information, including the identity of the product, directions for its use, any special hazards it presents and what to do in case of accidental poisoning. Never transfer pesticides or other toxic materials into food or beverage containers. Store hazardous substances where children, pets, wildlife or irresponsible adults cannot get into them—a locked cabinet is best.

Q. My house plants seemed to enjoy their summer outdoors, but now that they've been inside again for some weeks, several of them are dropping leaves like crazy. I've checked them for insects and signs of disease and can't find anything. What's likely to be the problem?

A. Low light, probably. Moving plants inside drastically cut the light reaching them. Since then, the days have gotten shorter, reducing available light still more. Leaf drop is a common response to reductions in light. It should stop when plants get adjusted to their new environment.

Q. What sort of planting site do I need for spring flowering bulbs?

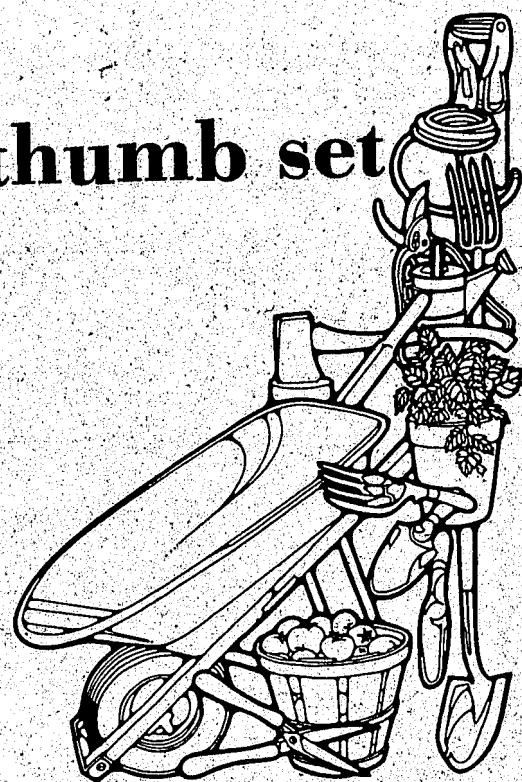

A. If you intend to leave bulbs in the ground year after year, choose a well drained planting spot that receives 8 to 10 hours of direct sunlight a day. In poorly drained soil, bulbs tend to rot. Insufficient light reduces flowering. Avoid planting bulbs where they'll be exposed to heat from a nearby building. Bulbs need a winter cold period to flower.

Q. How deep should I plant tulip bulbs?

A. Plant tulip bulbs about 6 inches deep (an inch or two deeper in sandy soil) in a well drained spot that has been worked to a depth of about 18 inches. Daffodils, hyacinths, flowering onions (allium) and other large bulbs should also be planted about 6 inches deep. Smaller bulbs—such as crocus, scilla, galanthus and grape hyacinth—should be planted about 3 inches deep. Space hyacinths and daffodils 5 to 6 inches apart, tulips 5 inches apart and the smaller bulbs 1 to 2 inches apart.

Q. I dug some geraniums from my garden last fall to grow indoors during the winter, but the soil set up like cement and the plants all turned yellow and died. I lost some nice geraniums this year because I wasn't sure how to save them successfully. What could I do next year to keep them and grow them indoors?

A. Dig them from the garden and gently hose off as much of the garden soil as you can remove without damaging the roots. Then pot the plants in a well drained house plant soil mix. As you found out, garden soil drains poorly and tends to get very hard when it's used in a container. Potting in a loose, fertile house plant soil should give you better results.

Q. I want to turn part of my lawn into vegetable garden next year. Is there anything I can do now to prepare the new site?

A. You can get a head start on spring by removing the sod from the proposed garden spot and rough plowing or spading the soil. Winter freezing and thawing will break up large clumps. Fall plowing of a new or established garden will also give a certain amount of weed control. If you want, you can incorporate compost or other organic matter now, as well as lime and slow-release fertilizer. Before adding lime have your soil tested. Fall is a slow time for soil test laboratories, so now is a good time to have yours tested.

Giving home the right touch—yours

A handwoven basket, a freshly caned chair, a bouquet of silk flowers, or an original artwork can add just the right touch to your home's decor.

The skills needed to do all of the above are offered through the Clarkston Community Education Department.

Basketweaving, a six-week course, begins Sept. 25. It meets Tuesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and costs $14.

Chair caning meets Tuesdays beginning Sept. 25 from 7 to 9 p.m. The fee is $19 and students should bring an item that needs to be caned.

Oil painting for beginners through experienced artists begins Saturday, Sept. 29. The six-week course meets from 9:30 a.m. to noon. The fee is $20.

Silk and dried flower arranging covers the process of drying weeds and flowers. The class, which costs $20, meets for six weeks on Mondays beginning Sept. 24.

Wood carving includes instructions for paperweights, ornaments and conversation pieces. The eight-week class costs $20. It meets Thursdays from 7 to 9 p.m., beginning Sept. 27.

Other classes related to the home include quilting, knitting, crocheting and ceramics.

For registration information call the community education department at 673-7756.
