• Eyebrows raised over fire study

By Marilyn Trumper

Independence Township Fire Chief Frank Ronk has a lot of questions about the 61-page study of his fire department by Public Administration Service of McLean, Va., a report township officials have been studying for the past month.

Authorized by the board last July, the $10,000 study was hotly contested by firefighters and higher-ranking fire department officers who felt the fee should be paid from the general fund, not fire department coffers.

Scheduled for discussion at a special meeting of the board Oct. 30 where PAS associates will be on hand to answer questions, the study has four pages of recommendations that range from who should be involved with fire hydrant maintenance to the construction and relocation of Station Two, a project with a $525,000 pricetag.

Chief Frank Ronk, one of the four-man fire committee that recommended the study last summer to ease friction between his department and the township board, recalls he approved hiring PAS to "...get talks off dead center."

Ronk says he's not reacting to the study until he asks those who prepared it some questions.

"Why they made the recommendations they did. And why their recommendations don't cover all the deficiencies they listed," he said. "I need to know if what they recommended has happened in other areas, such as the scheduling proposal and manpower."

The study proposes the fire department hire two firefighters in 1985 at a cost of $31,500 each.

"We've been saying that for a long time," Ronk said.

But the report falls short in discussing things Ronk wants addressed.

"The township's water supply, for one thing," he said. "If we want them to look at that it's going to cost us another $2,000 or $3,000. I'd like to see how they might suggest things can be done for that. There virtually is no water supply in this township. But it's going to cost more to study the water system. We should have gone into more depth on a few specific issues, too, like capital outlay.

"Those things are going to have to be addressed by us, the board, the fire department or someone. We just can't address the issues in the study and then go with what they recommend."

Ronk speculates the study's effects could be far-reaching.

"Maybe it will bring some things to the surface that we have been pushing for, for five or six years," he said. "...because it's in the study, it may become a reality."

Supervisor James B. Smith wants to reserve comments until the study is discussed publicly, but did say PAS eliminated what would have been an administrative stalemate between the board and fire department.

No Jaycee haunted house

By Dan Vandenhemel

Halloween means two things, candy and haunted houses. In Clarkston this year, it'll only be the candy.

The annual Haunted House put on by the Clarkston Area Jaycees will not open its creepy doors this October.

Jaycee President Brian Bissell said the former site, Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church on Maybee Road was not available to the group.

"We tried to scramble to find another place but couldn't find one," he said.

Club member Bob Vollbach said he thought the reason the church was unavailable was because new members didn't think it was a good idea to have kids running around a historic church.

"We took good care of it (the church)," he said. "We've been there four or five years. What surprised me was that no one got fired up to try and find another place."

The original idea of the haunted house was to provide a community service and raise money for the group.

"There are other haunted houses in the area to fill the void of us not having one," Bissell said. "This is the best year we've had financially. We didn't need it as a fund raiser."

He added that the Easter Egg Hunt the Jaycees put on every year in Independence Township's Clintonwood Park is in no danger of being canceled.

Falling back

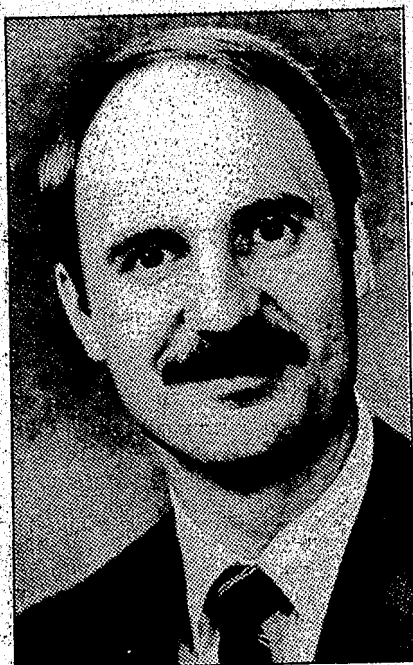

It's time to fall back in time. Officially, at 2 a.m. Sunday we lose one hour on our clocks. We get it back next spring.

Candidates for 52nd District judge state their cases

For the past three weeks The Clarkston News has featured candidates for the Independence Township Board. This week we feature the 52nd District Court judicial race, and the two non-partisan candidates vying for the bench. We ask them why they're running and what they think the issues are. The judge's salary is $60,000 a year. The 52nd District covers Independence and Springfield township, and the townships of Holly, Brandon and Groveland.

Larence Kozma

By Marilyn Trumper

With almost eight years in the Oakland County Prosecutor's office, Larence Kozma is battling to unseat the incumbent judge at 52nd District Court.

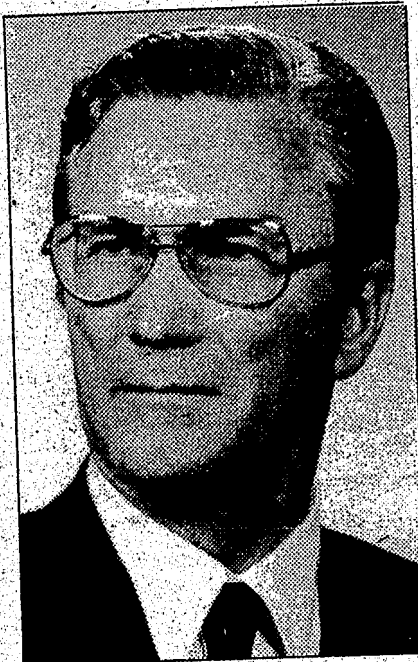

The race is one of the hottest in Oakland County, and one the 35-year-old Kozma's been campaigning for since last spring.

A graduate of Detroit College of Law, Kozma was a police officer for the City of Detroit and served almost three years as court clerk for two district court judges.

He lives in Independence Township.

"The issues," said Kozma, "are one in the same with the reason I'm running. [Continued on Page 16]

Gerald McNally

Judge Gerald E. McNally is seeking his fourth term on the 52nd District Court bench, an office he won 16 years ago.

McNally, 52, is an Independence Township resident. He received his law degree from the University of Michigan, and worked two years in private practice, a year in the Oakland County Prosecutor's office and a year for the City of Dearborn before seeking public office.

"I like the work," McNally said, when asked why he's seeking re-election. "One thing about law, it combines a lot of other fields: It's work, and a continuing education. It's like being an investigative [Continued on Page 17]

Voters face police millage

Levy means $20 more to average taxpayer

By Marilyn Trumper

For the fifth time since 1976, Independence Township voters are being asked to approve a police millage increase to bail out the financially strapped budget from the red.

In the November general election, voters will decide the request of .5 mill for police protection to be levied over the next 15 years.

If approved, the increase will generate an additional $130,000 a year. Currently the township levies 1 mill which generates $261,000 to pay the Oakland County Sheriff Department's bill for seven deputies, the seventh working only four of the 12 months; including their salaries, cars, uniforms and equipment.

The $131,000 difference is made up from the Village of Clarkston's police contracting fee, $24,000 in federal revenue sharing and earned interest on investments.

One-half mill equals 50 cents for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation. A home assessed at $40,000, or half the market value, would pay approximately $20 more a year for police if the millage is approved.

Supervisor James B. Smith stresses the important impact the millage approval would have on the police budget.

"Number one, is the problem we're experiencing with vandalism, B&E's, drugs and arson. Even the (part-time) seventh man will not be able to address those problems," he said, referring to the additional deputy hired to fill the remaining four months of '84.

"Secondly, even with the seventh man we're suffering a financial shortfall because of the escalating cost of deputies under the contract."

M-15 widening plans to wait until November

By Marilyn Trumper

In his final three weeks of office, Supervisor James B. Smith wants the Independence Township Board to act on the issue of widening M-15 and to determine a course of action.

But he hit a wall at the Oct. 16 meeting when the board agreed to stay any decision on the controversial widening until the new administration takes office after the November election.

"I think it's pre-election blues," he said after the meeting. "No one wanted to take a stand. Maybe I would feel the same way under the same circumstances."

"But I don't think we should dump all the problems onto a new board."

For years, the Michigan Highway Department's proposed a three- or five-lane widening of M-15 south of Paramus to eliminate flooding and traffic congestion, favoring the five-lane plan.

Village of Clarkston officials have fought widening north of Paramus, intent on keeping Main Street parking. And part of the strategy to block any widening threat involved the inclusion of Clarkston's Main Street on the National Historic Register in 1980.

In September 1981, BRW of Minneapolis was paid $20,000 to study and recommend a solution to the M-15 plan. It proposed a three-lane widening and condensing driveways.

The Michigan Highway Department favors a five-lane widening at a shared cost of $650,000, with the township's share at $300,000.

Key to the plan is obtaining business driveway easements to condense entrances and exits for right-turn lanes, which has not been done.

"I don't think we're going to see any softening from the state," Smith told the board, urging them to determine a course of action.

"Yes, I think they prefer five lanes, but will go to three lanes, but it will be expensive to condense the driveways and obtain deed restrictions from the businesses. The longer we wait, the more the cost is going to go up. Now is the time to decide if we are going to use a higher percentage of our federal revenue sharing over the next three years."

"The disadvantage of not going forward is that the state shows no sign of going forward. It's the state's intent to sit and let us rot like they did three years ago when they relegated (the project) to the dump and we could go to h---," he said, referring to the state putting the widening project on the back burner when faced with budget cuts.

But Smith warned, "...We'll get more from them with sugar than defiance."

Jennifer Radcliff, a key figure in the village's inclusion on the National Register and a Main Street resident, argued the need to get in writing the state's proposal.

"As long as those decisions are made circa 1981 and now followed, whatever's said in 1986 doesn't mean anything," Radcliff told the board. "The only way I'll feel good is if whatever plan goes in south of the village, that we not accept it as a promise, not as a something that was told to someone during a meeting, is if our village has protection. And that will mean decisions are not left to change by a change in the state board membership."

"A promise made to John Doe in 1984 means nothing to his successor in 1986. It is nothing to promise now, and then relax. We want to see some meat on the board," Radcliff said.

After discussion, the board agreed to table the issue until the new administration takes office in November.

Special meeting

The Independence Township Board is hosting a special meeting to discuss the Public Administration Service's 61-page report on the fire department.

It's scheduled Tuesday, Oct. 30, at 7:30 p.m. in the Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

The $10,000 study was approved by the board earlier this year, and recommends the department's projects and purchases, some through the year 2005, including new stations, new trucks and a new string of command.

New fire chief need on hold

By Marilyn Trumper

Pending a successful write-in candidate in the November election, Independence Township Fire Chief Frank Ronk will take the supervisor's seat he won in the August primary. At the Oct. 16 meeting the current administration weighed his replacement.

But only briefly.

"My attitude is a vacancy doesn't currently exist and I don't think we should take any action until it does," said Treasurer Frederick Ritter, referring to Supervisor James B. Smith's proposal to name a committee to recommend hiring practices.

"...The new board will be working with (the new chief) and I think they should be setting the criteria as well as doing the hiring."

"I'm just as interested, too, in getting the ball rolling so we'll have leadership on an early basis," Ritter said.

Trustee Larence Kozma said he favored getting started, but agreed with Ritter the new board should make the hiring decision.

"It's going to be the new board's chief, not this board's chief," he said.

Clerk Richard Holman, favored "moving prudently," but said he also wanted to wait until the new board is seated to select a chief.

"But I'm sympathetic to their manpower shortage and we may have to look at hiring an interim chief at a lower scale," Holman said, referring to firefighter Dave Johnson who's been on disability a year after sustaining damaged lungs from smoke inhalation in a house fire.

After discussion, it was agreed not to consider the issue again until the new board is seated Nov. 20.

parents, O.D. and Kay Livermore, on Big Lake Road in Springfield Township—and they grew a whopper. They gather round the largest of their harvest of five, a 120-pounder. Becky holds the littlest pumpkin from their prodigious patch.

Beggars' hours

Costumed beggars in Independence Township and the Village of Clarkston have an hour this Halloween for the annual door-to-door excursion. Both municipalities have set Wednesday, Oct. 31, from 6 to 7 p.m. as official begging hours.

PAS study eyed

"I don't think, under the conditions, we would have had it," Smith said, referring to the study's results. "The fire department wants to spend the ultimate in service and the board wants to ensure what's done is cost-effective in terms of public safety. 'We've had no real master plan.'"

Of the study, Smith says the township got its money's worth.

"I thought it was a very thorough job and I think we received more than the full value for the money," he said.

UNICEF collection planned Oct. 28

Sunday, Oct. 28, is the date for the annual UNICEF collection sponsored by the Independence Township Ministers Association and conducted by youth groups from area churches.

Hours of the fund raiser are 2 to 5 p.m. The starting point, where participants will receive materials before the collection begins, is the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

Carr lands $12 million for Dixie

By Marilyn Trumper

After a year of lobbying through the office of U.S. Congressman Bob Carr, (D-6th District covering Independence and Springfield townships), Sheila Denne's seen $12 million allocated to widen Dixie Highway.

President Reagan signed the bill into law last week.

Denne, of Independence Township, could not be reached for comment.

Carr began the fight for Dixie Highway improvements early this year when more than 2,000 local citizens sent petitions urging action after repeated deaths and accidents on the heavily traveled road.

After two community meetings attended by citizens and the Michigan Department of Transportation, the first step was a new traffic light installed near the dangerous stretch of Dixie between K mart and the Harvard Plaza.

Carr, a member of the Transportation Subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee which has a hand in highway policy-making, used his influence to land the $12 million.

"I think it's terrific," Carr said. "Not only is it creating jobs, but it's making the highway safe. Sheila Denne should be proud of the contribution she made.

"It shows Bob Carr is an efficient congressman. That when he says he'll do something, he gets it done."

For a safe Halloween

McDonald's restaurants of Independence Township have three ways to make sure your Halloween is safe and fun.

To ensure your trick-or-treating candy is safe, members of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department Explorer Post will be at both township McDonald's inspecting candy visually and with a metal detector Halloween evening from 7 to 9 p.m., at 6695 Dixie Highway and 5625 Sashabaw.

In addition, the Sashabaw McDonald's is hosting its third annual free Haunted Playland Tuesday, Oct. 30, from 7 to 9 p.m. for children 12 and under. There are free surprises for every child.

On Monday, Oct. 29, from 7 to 9 p.m., the Dixie Highway McDonald's is hosting a free Halloween Happening for children 12 and under. Costumes are welcome.

Truth unfolds on hardluck family

Churches, several service groups say they've helped many years

By Marilyn Trumper

A story in the Oct. 17 edition of The Clarkston News told of the hard luck suffered by the Raymond and Jo Anne Davison family of Independence Township, a couple fighting to have their heat and power restored after six months in arrears of their bills.

But it didn't tell the whole story.

Since the paper hit the stand the news office has had almost a dozen inquiries. Inquiries not disputing Jo Anne's story, but charging she'd received ongoing help from at least a half-dozen churches and organizations from as far back as a decade.

The 45-year-old Independence Township woman phoned our office and announced her heat and electricity had been cut off for six months' non-payment, and she needed them turned back on.

Three of her six children, between 6 and 26, were suffering from bronchitis and two more exhibited symptoms. The family slept on mattresses pushed around an open fireplace for warmth.

She cooked dinner over the open flames. Out of work on disability a year and a half from her job as a Silverdome guard, the woman's family existed on her husband's monthly retirement check of $739.

He has cancer and a bad heart.

Yes, some area churches had helped, but wasn't there something the newspaper could do?

"...I could use some food for my children," said

Jo Anne Davison.

The Department of Social Services was working to restore the family's utilities and, last spring, had turned on heat and lights gratis.

That was a quick-fix one-time aid given to all eligible candidates.

DSS put the family on a budget and established a payment policy with the utility companies.

Again, the family didn't pay the bill.

Again the power was cut off.

A spokesperson from the utility company said it's rare when circumstances reach those proportions, and that companies need to know a customer's in distress before they can offer alternative payment plans and suggestions.

In the week between writing and printing the story, Jo Anne Davison's heat and power were restored.

The afternoon the paper hit the stands an area pastor came to The Clarkston News office.

"I think the wool's been pulled over your eyes," he said. "Our church has helped this family with food and clothing. We're an outlet for FISH, and they've helped too. In fact, Neighbor for Neighbor's helped them too. Everyone has, for a long time."

A check with the federally funded nonprofit service organization Neighbor for Neighbor shows the Davisons received a food allocation every two weeks from February to April of this year, and records indicate the family was part of the program in the grant's first period, also receiving food then. According to a FISH spokesperson, it's not known why the Davison family stopped coming. But it did.

"Maybe they found someplace they could get more food," she said.

FISH of Pontiac, a privately funded international service organization first helped the Davisons in January 1983. They've since refused them aid because of abuse of the system, according to a FISH spokesperson who would not elaborate.

Nancy Ward, chairperson of Christian Service for St. Daniel's Catholic Church in Independence Township is another who's refused the Davison family more aid.

For two years St. Daniel's periodically provided the Davison family with food, clothing, and money toward utility payments.

"It always was a different story," Ward said. "First her wallet was stolen, then all the windows had been shot out, then it was a blood clot in her leg."

"After so many years in this, I know people who are down have a tendency to get soured on those who have more. But you have to pull yourself up by your own bootstraps, too," Ward said.

"I don't want people to think we're judging them when they call for help. We don't. We care for our brothers. But we also have to be good stewards of our money. For every double-dipper, for each one that takes us, there are 10 who actually need it."

During the summer, St. Daniel's fed an indigent man in a local Dixie Highway motel.

It provided a young hitchhiking couple bed and

Letters to editor

B&E rebuttal

Last week's edition of The Clarkston News included a letter from Mr. and Mrs. White critical of this court's handling of the case of the men who attempted to break and enter their home.

Mr. and Mrs. White did not speak the whole truth. The whole truth is that this court bound the two men over to Oakland County Circuit Court after a preliminary examination was conducted on Jan. 28, 1983.

The two men pleaded guilty as charged in circuit court on Aug. 23, 1983.

One defendant had to pay $870.65 in court costs, and $129.35 restitution or 90 days in the Oakland County Jail.

The other defendant was sentenced to three to five years in the state prison in southern Michigan.

My thorough and fair preliminary examination gave the defendants no choice but to plead guilty as charged in circuit court.

Food heaven

On one side of us sat a homemade apple pie, on the other a plate heaping with chocolate brownies.

Just steps away were cakes unsuited for dieters and one, bragged the man next to me, that had no sugar or shortening. It, too, was wonderful.

Unfortunately, or fortunately depending on how you view these kinds of things, we had just finished a dinner of spaghetti that was so good the sauce was gone. A pot large enough to feed twice the number there was scraped clean.

Also noteworthy were the loaves of homemade bread. Almost everyone ate two pieces. Me, too.

Most of the people there were planning to run a marathon Sunday. I wasn't, but that didn't keep me from eating—they call it carbohydrate loading—fool that I am.

When you run a marathon you lose massive amounts of weight. It's the only thing about running that's ever tempted me.

You know all those articles you read about runners being anorexic? It's not true. Almost every runner I've known (and I've known many) has loved to eat.

It's just that they've found a way to get rid of all those calories. They burn them off running miles and miles and miles.

My husband is a member of the Clarkston club that runs in the Detroit Free Press marathon every year. They share their enthusiasm for the sport with non-running spouses at parties a few times a year.

But back to the desserts. As we were standing there eating, the man next to me noted that we could spend the rest of the party right there simply enjoying the wonderful goodies.

I laughed, thinking that I wouldn't be able to walk, let alone run, if I continued to dine with this group.

The scene brought back a memory. Years ago our family went to a restaurant that featured fried chicken and video games, neither of which are my favorites.

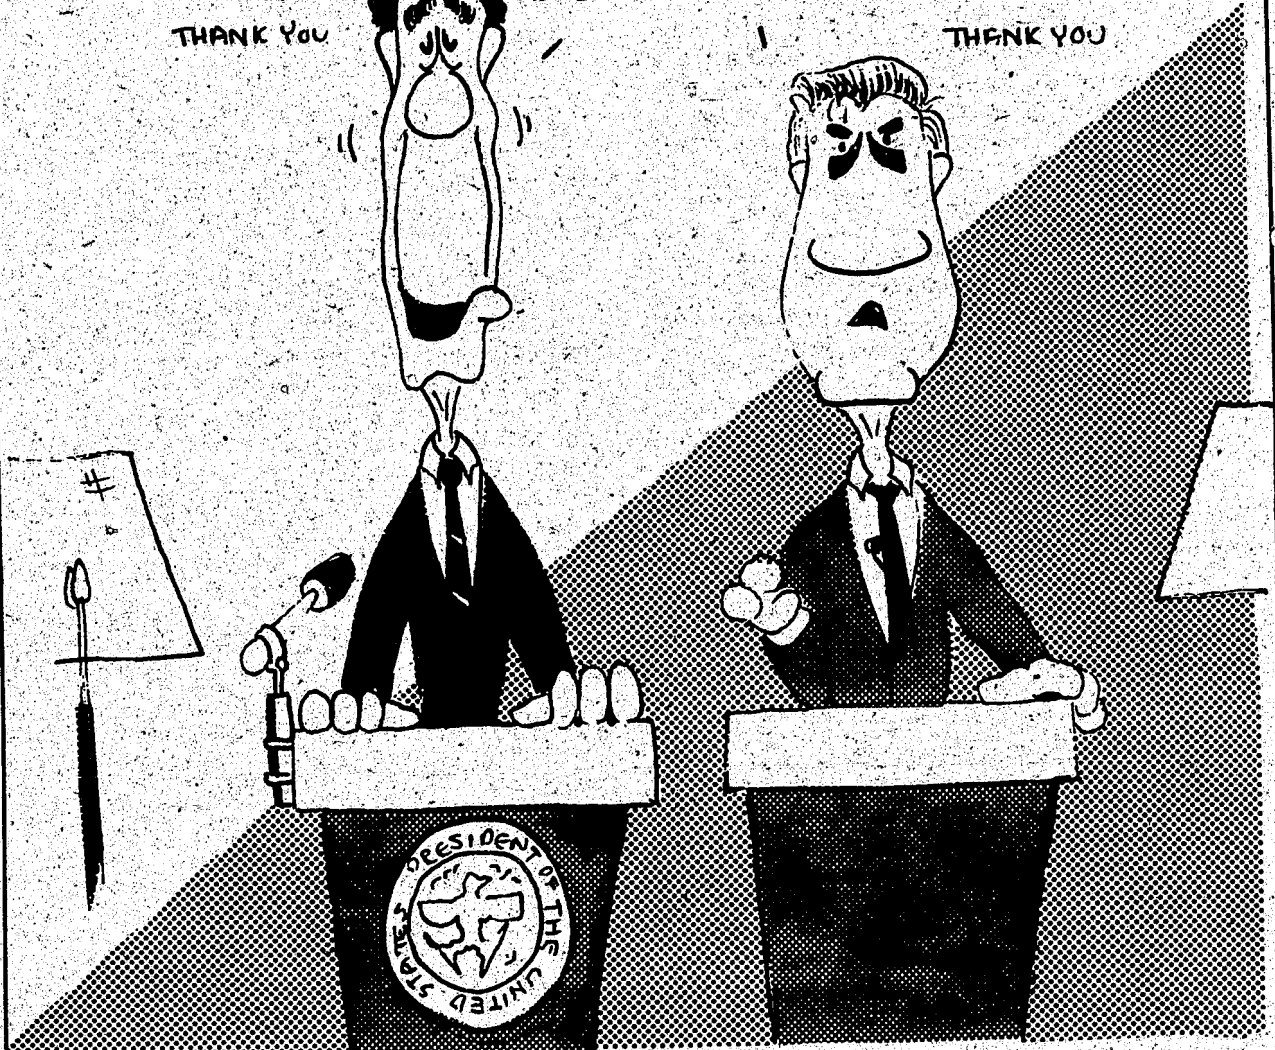

Our son, however, was having a wonderful time and he made it good for all of us. During the course of the evening he put his enthusiasm into words by saying he'd like to live there.

Jim's Jottings

Gone nutty

Jim Sherman

Like nut meats?

I mean REAL nut meats. Hickory, walnut and butternut. Forget the hazels, almond, and beech. I want to talk about the fruit from that single tree standing in the farmer's fence row, along side the road, or in the back yard.

My dad was great on walnut meats. Our driveway would be stained year round. He's spread the walnuts out, then drive over them with the car to break the thick, green outer shell.

The next process, the picking up and completing the shelling, also kept his and his family's fingers stained year round. Drying was something else. It seemed to take months for the nuts to be ready to crack.

Once they were, we'd get a pan and pick up a piece of railroad iron and hammer. Nowadays I wear gloves to crack walnuts, but in my dumb youth, I had another routine. I'd hold the nut between thumb and first finger on the iron, hit the nut with the hammer, and immediately put the thumb and finger in my mouth to suck away the stinging.

Hickory nuts were easy. Peeling off the outer shell was actually fun. Cracking them didn't sting. There was real joy when a nut would crack just right to expose two halves intact. We were always faced with the decision to eat the meats right away, or save enough for half a mouthful. Like today, we didn't learn to save.

It's hard to beat the taste of black walnut meats and hickory nuts. But, the butternut comes close. They apparently are about extinct. I see very few of them.

I remember the taste, though, and how to crack them. Several years ago I paid the outrageous price of $2 for a peck of butternuts. I'd pay it willingly today.

The trick to cracking a butternut is to hold it up on one point and hit it solidly on the other point. When you do it right the thin meats come out easily, and the taste buds are rewarded.

Dad was still 'doing' walnuts in his mid-eighties. He knew every beside-the-road walnut tree in Shiawassee county. Others might get to some of them first, but never all of them.

He'd have a pan of cracked nuts with a pick handy quite often.

Much as I like walnuts and hickory nuts, I'm too occupied or too lazy to harvest them these days. My neighbor has a hickory nut tree, a large portion of which sheds on my lawn. He could care less if I took them all before the squirrels.

By golly, next year I'm going to get those hickory nuts. Sure I am.

Board falls short

Keeping it on record a must

The Independence Township Board has become sloppy and lax in its process to publicly determine a hiring timetable and hiring procedures for department heads.

At its Oct. 2 meeting, the board discussed replacement of Fire Chief Frank Ronk who won the August primary election, and pending a victorious write-in candidate will become the township's new supervisor in November.

The replacement of Ronk was not listed as an agenda item for that meeting.

Nor was it added as an agenda item.

And, in fact, it does not appear as a point of discussion in minutes of the Oct. 2 meeting.

Sometime after the room was emptied of the public to discuss labor negotiations in private as allowed by the Michigan Open Meetings Act, some members of the board discussed replacement of Ronk and gave direction to add the issue to the next meeting's agenda, Oct. 16.

In the clerk's briefing to the board for the Oct. 16 meeting, item 2 under New Business read: "...Discussion re: Fire Chief Replacement—This item was placed on the agenda at the direction of the township board at our last meeting" Oct. 2.

The closed meeting of Oct. 2 to discuss labor negotiations was reopened and the regular meeting adjourned, allowing a time to discuss the matter in public. But that was not the case.

Supervisor James B. Smith and Clerk Richard Holman say the question of replacing Ronk came as board members were packing up and going out the door.

Smith says he raised the question.

No official motion was ever made and, therefore, it was never entered into the minutes.

The issue of replacing Ronk was not on the Oct. 16 agenda at board direction, because no board decision was ever made two weeks earlier.

According to Holman, it was on the agenda at Smith's request.

And it was discussed, with three of the five members present agreeing to let the new administration dictate hiring procedures and a hiring timetable after it takes office.

Trustees William Vandermark and Daniel Travis were absent.

We believe the public has a right to know if and when the board is weighing replacement of Ronk no matter how passing the remark may be.

The hiring of a township department head is an important decision.

It is rare the township board has the opportunity to fill a position of leadership and it is a significant decision that will affect the future of the township, perhaps for years to come.

No facet of any hiring should be made as board members are packing up to go out the door. A decision to discuss such an important issue should be made with members of the public and possible job candidates present.

In 1982 Kenneth Delbridge replaced building director Timothy Palulian. There was a routine interview and investigation of Delbridge, a former building director for the township who had trained and groomed his predecessor for the job.

There was little fanfare in that hiring decision.

Delbridge was known.

But all facets of the review were advertised.

The public knew when it was up for discussion.

It knew the board was weighing the hiring a new department head.

And Delbridge asked for a public interview when he had the right to request a private interview.

Three years earlier library director Sushil Lahiri left in a highly publicized resignation. Six months later James Hibler was hired to fill that job.

The public followed both appointments.

The fire chief is paid a salary of $31,000-a-year and is responsible for the richest budget in the township, $375,000.

Any decision regarding the establishment of hiring procedure, job requirements or experience should be discussed publicly, not tagged on the end of a legally sanctioned meeting as a passing remark between fellow board members.

No Devil's Night

Every child looks forward to Halloween—the fun of dressing up and going door to door in the quest for treats.

But as children get older, some turn that excitement to the day before Halloween—the day appropriately tagged from some misdeeds "Devil's Night."

Most people don't object to a little toilet paper draped from trees. If it would stop there, it's likely no one would object at all.

But, in the words of a person who called The Clarkston News, "it seems so many kids get into trouble when they go out. What starts as a prank turns into something where people's property is damaged."

Eggs tossed on aluminum siding and cars destroy finishes. Wax imbedded in screens can't be removed. Messes are made no one should have to clean up but those responsible.

Proposal C strategy

Jim Fitzgerald

How many miles over the speed limit can I drive before a State Police trooper stops me to say he will lose his job if I vote for Proposal C?

State Police Director Gerald Hough has armed his cops with anti-C information and ordered them to "share it" with the public "at every appropriate opportunity," including when on duty. But he didn't say whether the proposal's evils are so vile that they should even be shared with a truck driver going 90 m.p.h. on a freeway ramp.

Proposal C, often called Voter's Choice, will be on the Nov. 6 ballot. It would reduce all state and non-voted local property taxes to their December 1981 levels, unless people voted otherwise at special elections. Hough claims passage of Proposal C will require severe cutbacks in his kingdom, including the elimination of 447 jobs.

Hough not only wants his officers to spread the word against their unemployment, he wants weekly reports showing which officers talked to groups or made "personal contact" with individuals about Proposal C. That sounds suspiciously like a quota system. State Police brass have always denied that troopers are required to meet a speeding-ticket quota, but apparently quotas are OK when it comes to passing out shares of intimidation.

THE OTHER afternoon I was driving 80 m.p.h. on I-75 to keep from being run over by a mammoth tractor-trailer. It used to be that cops stopped motorists for going 65 in a 55 zone. Now they're not stopped until they've retracted their landing gear and asked the flight attendant for a pillow.

"What do you have to do to get pulled over by the police?" my wife asked.

"You have to wear a bumper sticker saying 'Vote for Proposal C,'" I explained.

In view of the indisputable fact that a nationwide 55 m.p.h. speed limit has saved thousands of lives and tons of finite fuel, it's unfortunate that police have grown increasingly reluctant to enforce it. It's just as easy to stop a 65 speeder as an 85 speeder, and a motorist ticketed for going 65 will probably never go 85. Or put it this way: If cops ignore petty thieves because they aren't bank robbers, they'll soon start robbing banks.

The only valid conclusion is that government officials don't have the guts to order cops to enforce a speed limit that is terribly unpopular with thousands of voting motorists who are always hurrying to get somewhere, either because they're too stupid to leave on time or because they're idiotic enough to get thrills from going VROOM! on the highway.

But now there is new hope for Michigan motorists who think the 55 limit makes good sense. State troopers who stop drivers to tell them to vote against Proposal C might also tell them to slow down.

OF COURSE, according to the state Attorney General's Office, it is illegal for a state employee to come right out and tell Joe Citizen how to vote. But it is legal for a state trooper to say he will lose his job, his family will starve and the highways will be unsafe for human motoring if Proposal C passes. If Joe, with one eye on the trooper's ticket book and the other eye on his gun, still wants to vote for Proposal C, he can simply tell the trooper to go bag it.

I know what I'll say if a trooper pulls me over to make his personal-contact quota for the day and says his children will starve if Proposal C is approved. I'll say if he has 90 kids, I'll vote against the proposal, but if he has only 65, I'll vote for it.

On my soapbox

Keeping it straight for the record

Marilyn Trumper

Newspaper reporters can be duped. Although it doesn't happen often because we quickly learn to doubt.

Through the years this profession tends to sour bleeding hearts.

It doesn't take long to toughen greenhorns.

Most of us become cynics.

Everybody wants a piece of the action.

A space in the paper.

A piece of us.

As reporters and editors, people seek our approval, and our endorsement.

Because we balance that fine line and fight to keep our objectivity, we tend to raise eyebrows over the most insignificant story.

It's a built-in protection unconsciously developed.

But it doesn't always work.

Despite an honest attempt to get to the bottom of a story, to contact all persons involved and present the facts fairly and accurately, we can be hoaxed.

It happened in this paper two weeks ago.

It happened to me.

A 45-year-old Independence Township woman phoned our office, announced her heat and electricity had been cut off for six months of non-payment, and said she needed them turned back on.

Three of her six children were suffering from bronchitis and two more exhibited symptoms. The family slept on mattresses pushed around an open fireplace for warmth.

She cooked dinner over the open flames.

Out of work on disability a year and a half from her job as a Silverdome guard, the woman's family existed on her husband's monthly retirement check of $739.

He has cancer and a bad heart.

Yes, some area churches had helped, but wasn't there something the newspaper could do?

"...I could use some food for my children," I quoted the woman.

I checked it out for the other half of the story.

The Department of Social Services was working to restore the family's utilities, and in fact last spring had turned on heat and lights gratis.

That was a quick-fix one-time aid given to all eligible candidates.

DSS put the family on a budget and established a payment policy with the utility companies.

Again, the family didn't pay their bills.

Again the power was cut off.

A spokesperson from the utility company said it's rare when circumstances reach those proportions and that companies need to know a customer's in distress before they can offer alternative payment plans and suggestions.

In the week between writing and printing the story, the woman's heat and power were restored.

End of story?

Wrong.

While the woman never outright lied to me, she never told the whole truth.

It turns out she's received ongoing help from as far back as a decade by churches and charitable organizations, and while she mentioned that in the interview and it was printed, she didn't reveal the full extent of that help.

Hundreds of dollars in food, clothing and money have been given to the eight-member family over the years.

Given.

Gratis.

No questions asked.

And while some of the organizations are refusing further help, at least two say they will continue to provide the family with food, clothing and funding to meet utility bills.

Indications are the abuses will continue.

It's unfortunate when a newspaper can be used as a tool for private gain.

When reporters are manipulated into believing they've done their job, only to discover they only scraped the surface.

And missed the truth.

A newspaper is not a sounding board for private gain.

That's an abuse of what we're all about.

I can't ignore what happened, and feel our readers deserve more than a superficial story.

They deserve the truth, especially when a trail of phone calls and people in this office indicated a real problem existed.

When my anger diminished, cynicism set in.

I want to say I will never be duped again.

I can't make that promise.

But the next time someone calls with a crying towel in hand and asks for help, I'll know to check more than utility companies and social services.

If their plight is legitimate, they'll have their story.

If not, they might have a story they didn't count on.

Kozma endorsement

I support Larence R. Kozma for District Judge. There is a majority of citizens who know a change is needed. Larry Kozma is the change we need. Never before have we had a better candidate for our local judge.

Larry Kozma understands that following the rules means everyone's rights will be protected, both victims and defendants.

By voting Larry Kozma for District Judge, we will be renewing respect for the rules of law. Larry Kozma has the experience, courage and common sense to restore the balance to our local court.

There aren't many lawyers on the bench that have represented the victims of crime. You have the opportunity to change that.

I urge you to vote for the best, and join with me on Nov. 6 to make it District Judge Larence R. Kozma.

L. Brooks Patterson
Prosecuting Attorney

This man for judge

With election day so near and so many choices to make, we feel it's important to say something about an elected position that can make a big difference in our community.

That position is district judge, and we feel Larry Kozma is an excellent choice because:

1. As assistant prosecutor for Oakland County, he knows the law and, having worked with victims, he is sensitive to their feelings.

2. Larry is a man with strong convictions who will not hesitate in letting repeat offenders know that their behavior will not be tolerated in this community.

3. Larry will be fair in handling first-time offenders, such as in the case of a boy he was prosecuting who was caught damaging mail boxes. He asked the court to have the boy personally meet the owners of the mail boxes while repairing or replacing those boxes.

4. Larry Kozma plans to use community services and the probation department. If, for example, someone is found guilty of drunken driving, he may be assigned to spend some time working in a hospital emergency ward.

Larry Kozma would be a positive influence in our community, and we urge you to make it: "District Judge Larence Kozma."

Clarifying the job

This letter is in response to an article in last week's paper entitled "Changes in store for Clarkston volunteers."

The State Board of Education sent a news release on the Project Outreach Academy to The Clarkston News and some of the statements from that press release were incorrect for our school district.

The Academy asked the district to send a five-member team including the superintendent, school board member, principal, teacher and a citizen designated as a District Volunteer Coordinator.

Since our district does not have a District Volunteer Coordinator, they chose to send Barbara Banker and myself because of our experience in being school volunteer coordinators.

A plan to establish a district-wide school volunteer program was developed at the Academy by our team and it will be presented to the board of education at the December board meeting.

If at some point in time the board of education should decide to adopt the plan, which includes establishing a position of District Volunteer Coordinator, I said I might consider applying for the position.

Jeanne Molzon

He gets high sign

I am a resident of Clarkston and also happen to be a member of the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office.

After having read Mrs. White's letter regarding her experience in the District Court, I feel compelled to comment since I was involved in the decision to appeal the judge's initial ruling if he did not reverse himself.

The prosecutor's office presented testimony which clearly established that a man was tearing off the screen to the bedroom window, the telephone and electric lines had been cut, the back door was gouged from an attempted forced entry and that the defendants were arrested at the scene.

Anyone with common sense would have realized that the defendants were caught before they completed their act of larceny. However, the judge after hearing all this evidence dismissed the attempted burglary charge because he indicated that the defendants did not have boxes or sacks to carry away the goods once they had gotten in and that the men may have only been trying to get out of the cold.

In many instances, as in the case here, the prosecutor's office files a motion for reconsideration to settle the record before the actual appeal is filed.

The judge was aware of our intention to appeal his decision in this case and reversed himself without further testimony on the prosecutor's motion for reconsideration.

This type of action by the court is not an isolated incident. Too often this court goes beyond the bounds of legal precedence to find in favor of defendants.

That is why I support the election of assistant prosecutor Larry Kozma for District Court judge. He will restore a fair balance between the rights of defendants and the rights of victims of crime.

board for the night.

And even bought gas for stranded travelers on the I-75 corridor.

"We're here for those people. If there is a given need, we'll bend over backwards," Ward said.

Two weeks before The Clarkston News ran the Davisons' story, Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church donated food to the family in conjunction with United Way of Pontiac.

"At that point I recognized some of the family," said the Rev. Bill Schram. "They had been by our free vegetable stand in the summer."

Another pastor who asked to remain anonymous said his church has helped the Davison family the past four years with "regular" gifts of food and clothing and money for utilities "more than once."

"We do help a lot of people, but we don't do it permanently. We don't want people to become dependent on us," he said. "There are many people who have a great need. We never turn them down and we don't want to make a judgment. We give out of the generosity of our hearts."

Asked if he would deny aid to the family, the pastor said no.

"There are people who will use you. I'd rather be caught helping the wrong people than failing to help someone who needed help," he said.

Finally, Independence Township Fire Chief Frank Ronk says the Goodfellows, comprised of the fire department and Clarkston Rotary, have been helping the Davisons 10 years.

"We always gave them food at Christmas and Thanksgiving up until the last couple of years. We've paid their electric and heat bills a few years ago. We've directed clothing and toys to them around the holidays. We've been instrumental in their survival of the bad times those years," Ronk said.

"I thought the story in the paper reflected that of a family in need. But the family isn't doing anything to help themselves. We offered to put them on a budget, and show them how to do it, but they were not receptive to that."

"The committee then decided not to do for them any more during the last holiday season. There are able-bodied people who can work in that family and there are jobs available."

Jo Anne Davison disputes none of these stories. She gets quiet when confronted with them.

"I thought I put it bluntly by saying churches helped me," she said, referring to one line in the Oct. 17 story that indicated $311 had been donated by area churches.

"They helped me on and off on things now and then," she said. "Christmas and Thanksgiving."

Asked if she did receive allotments every two weeks from Neighbor for Neighbor for more than three months, she answered yes.

"It's been for the last year I had to have help now and then really bad," she said.

And she disputes Fire Chief Frank Ronk's memory that the family's received Christmas and Thanksgiving turkeys for 10 years.

"It's more like two or three," she said.

shouldn't be, it makes me angry," the person said.

"What astounds me is that when I've heard parents talk...they think it's tradition."

We're repeating the conversation here, because it's worth thinking about. Parents who say "no" when their children want to roam on Devil's Night are doing everyone a favor—including the kids.

Dancing OK'd at PK

The Pine Knob Ski Lodge has a new dance permit, although the owner's attorney Tracy Allen has indicated there will be no dancing in the lodge.

The permit, she says, is needed in case the Nederlander Corp. wants dancing, and it's less expensive to apply now as part of the state Liquor Control Commission's overall review, than later.

On Oct. 16 after brief discussion, the Independence Township Board approved Allen's request.

In addition, Allen must apply to the state for two additional bar permits and a food permit.

GOAL title slips past Wolves

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Greater Oakland Activities League title wasn't the only thing to slip through the hands of the Clarkston Wolves against Lake Orion. The other was Dragon running back Chris Vogelmeier.

Vogelmeier paced the Dragons with three touchdowns in the 30-14 championship game against the Clarkston varsity squad, Oct. 19.

For most of the game, Lake Orion dominated. But soon after the opening kickoff, Clarkston looked in control. On the second play of the game, Jeff Davis took the handoff and rambled 67 yards to put the Wolves quickly on top.

The tide of the contest ebbed back to the Dragons when Vogelmeier took off on a 67-yard run of his own seven minutes later. With the extra point conversion, Orion led, 7-6.

"I thought we were set after we jumped out in front," Wolves' coach Walt Wyniemko said. "The big plays hurt us."

Besides the 67-yard run by the junior Vogelmeier, he scored on a 44-yard screen pass and a 7-yard run. Lake Orion's other scoring was on a 27-yard run by Ed Broughner and a 1-yard run by Matt Even.

Clarkston wasn't without its own big plays. Davis ran another 67 yards for the Wolves' other touchdown late in the fourth quarter. He piled up 165 of the 185 yards rushing for the Wolves.

This is the second straight year that the Wolves lost to Lake Orion and fell short of the league title. The last time Wolves won the GOAL was 1980, when they were 8-1 and 5-0 in the league.

The first half was closer than the 16-6 score showed. There were no penalties or turnovers, but the Dragons had better field position. The Wolves ran on 14 offensive plays to the Dragons' 37 in the opening half.

"We tried to move the ball but couldn't," Wyniemko said. "Hey, we're still a young ball club. Now we hope the best for Orion because they're representing our league."

The Wolves have two games remaining, Avondale and West Bloomfield. Both games are at home and each has an event surrounding it to help the players' intensity. The Oct. 26 game with Avondale is Clarkston's homecoming and the Nov. 2 contest with West Bloomfield is Parents' Night.

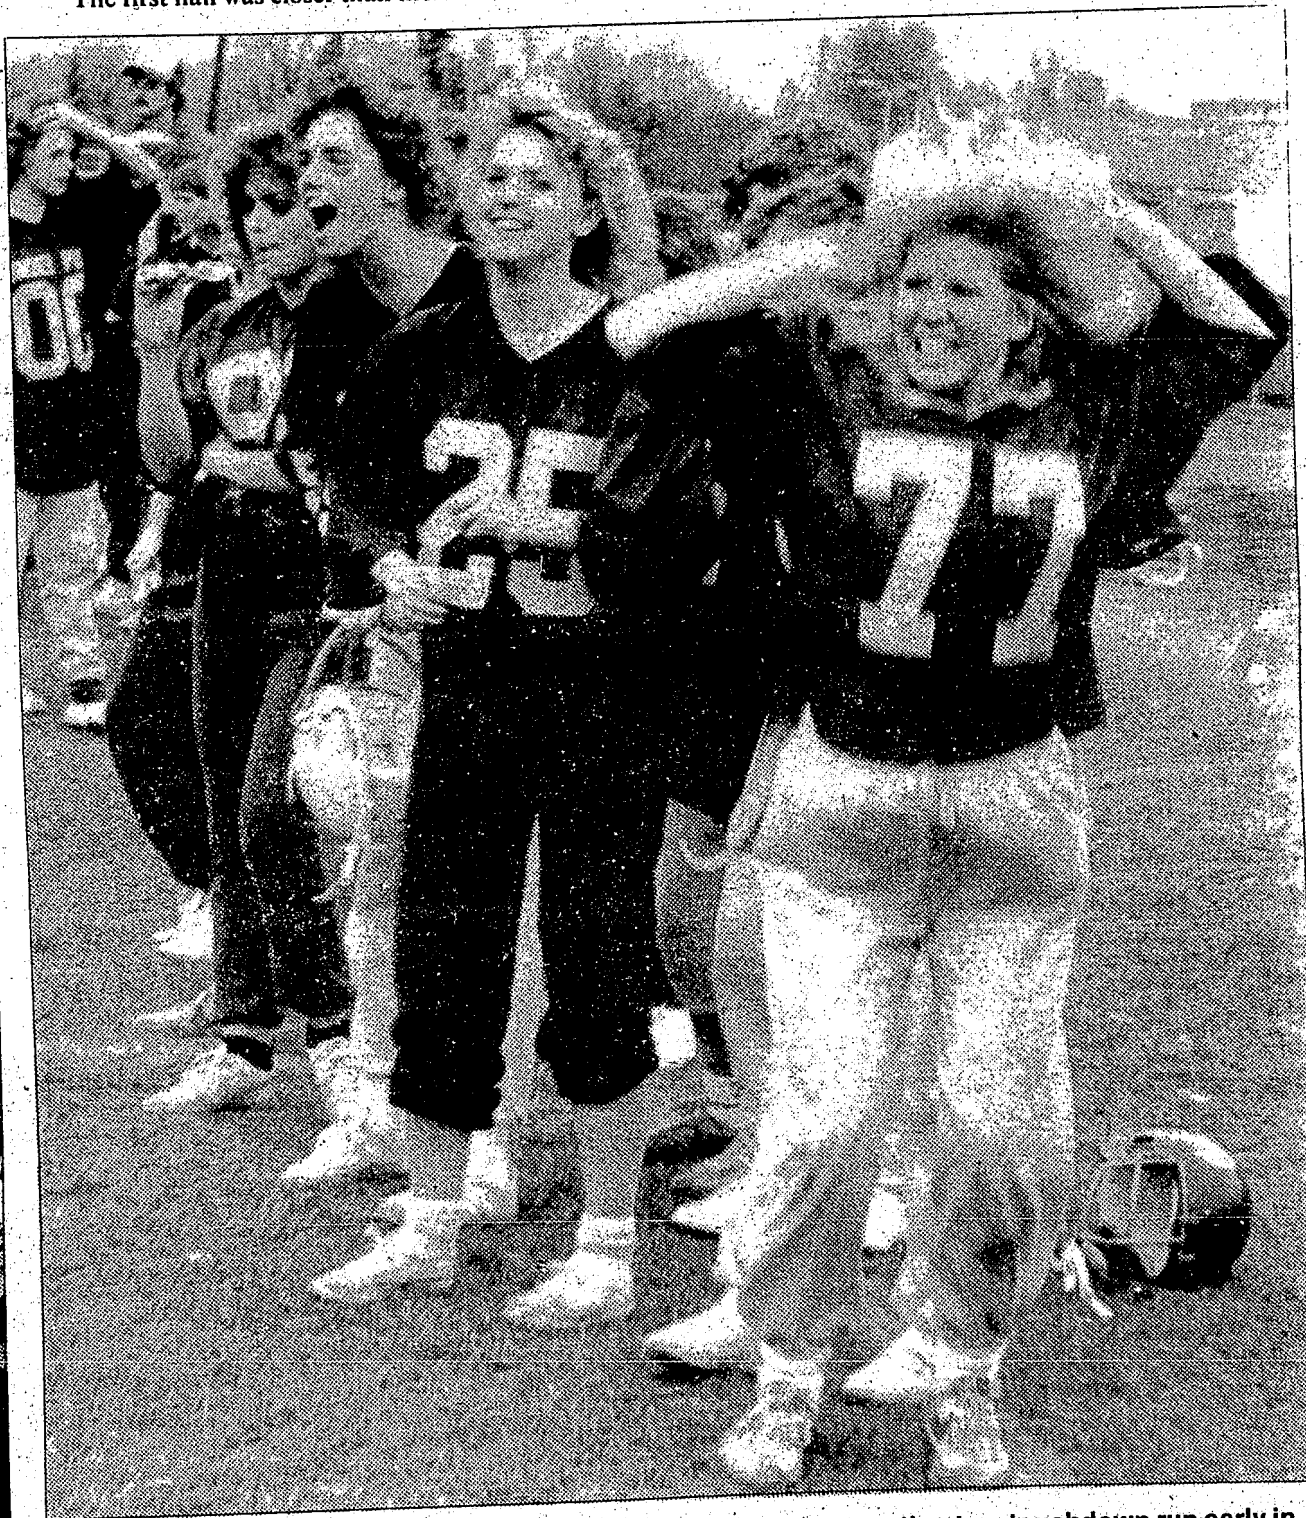

"We want to go out champions," Wyniemko said. "We've got our hands full in those two games, but we want to go out champions."

Senior Jill Griffis tries to dodge junior Andrea Vaughn on this play with little luck.

The enthusiasm of the junior class girls doesn't last long in the annual Powder Puff football game the week before Homecoming at Clarkston High School. The seniors won, 19-13.

Favoritism at its best comes out during the Powder Puff football game, Oct. 20. These seniors are reacting to a touchdown run early in the game that lasted almost two hours.

Powerful Powder Puff

Enthusiasm, excitement and sometimes a little rough is the best way to describe the annual Powder Puff football game between girls from the senior and junior classes at Clarkston High School. The seniors won this game, 19-12, as boys in the respective classes dressed as female cheerleaders to have some good hearty fun. But despite the light nature of the event, two girls were hurt in the flag football game. Senior Connie Head dislocated her knee while running, but that is a recurring injury for the ice figure skater. Junior Amy Eiden sprained her neck in the game. This was not a serious injury, but senior coach Kevin Williams didn't know how she got hurt. "There was a lot of enthusiasm out there and at times it got a little out of hand," he said. The injuries put a damper on the game but not the excitement about the rest of the Homecoming activities.

Kickers improve in 2nd year

By Dan Vandenhemel

The soccer ball didn't bounce in the Clarkston Wolves' favor very often throughout the season but at least they were able to put a foot to it.

This is the second year for the soccer program at Clarkston High School and the varsity team came out with a 4-12-1 record, a second-place finish in the Springfield Christian Academy Tournament and a victory in the state playoff preliminary contest. Last year, the Wolves finished with a 0-14-1 record.

"I've always hoped we'd move ahead faster than this," coach Neil Granlund said. "But from all the coaches I've talked to, they've said we'll have to wait a couple years.

"We still lacked some of the skills. It'll be nice to enter a year without athletes new to soccer."

Granlund said the youth leagues will help the program but they are still two or three years away from the high school level.

"We've spotted them in the eighth grade," he said. "Hana Olsen (soccer youth director for Independence Township Parks and Recreation) is doing a great job. Each year there is less and less inexperience in the high school."

Some of the more experienced players on the

"We still lack some of the skills."

Wolves' varsity squad were goalie Tom Purves, John Reading, Dean O'Neil, Steve Zoss, J.R. Keelin, Mark Southby and Ron Forbes.

Reading was the leading scorer this season, was selected the Most Valuable Player of the Springfield tournament and received a trophy.

The tournament started Sept. 24 with the Wolves defeating Springfield Christian Academy and advancing to the finals the following day, but the rains came and washed out the contest to Oct. 20. The Wolves lost to Bethesda Christian, 2-0, in a shootout.

The game was tied 0-0 at the end of regulation and the overtime period. In a shootout, five players from each team have one opportunity to score on a penalty kick. The team with the most points wins.

The coach compares the result to the game itself.

"We had 37 shots on goal to their 17," Granlund said. "That's been one of the problems we've had all year."

Self-defense classes offered

The five-week programs begin Nov. 13. Junior Karate costs $8 a person and meets from 5-6 p.m. Open Karate costs $12 and meets from 7-9 p.m.

The Seer

Found in the Clarkston News mailslot Monday morning...

Seer here. I think a nice round of applause is in order. The almighty Seer is still perfect in pigskin predictions in Clarkston. But I do have to eat a little crow. I thought the Clarkston-Lake Orion game was going to be a lot closer, not the near blowout that it was—but the Dragons still won.

I'll give you hosers a little credit, though, you did play better than the 30-14 score indicated.

Your next opponent, Avondale, is coming off a big victory against Oak Park. They'll be pumped up and you'll have your work cut out for you. Read on for details.

Avondale at Clarkston (Oct. 19): Avondale has a running back in Chris Hudson like Lake Orion has in Chris Vogelmeier, outstanding. The defense has to limit Hudson and the offense needs a big game from its key running back, Jeff Davis.

What the Wolves have going for them is it's their homecoming game. Emotions will be up—but not as high as the GOAL title game with Lake Orion. That might hurt the Wolves in this one. It'll be close all the way. Avondale by two.

State finals finish season for CHS golfers

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Wolves' first appearance at the state golf tournament in 10 years won't be soon forgotten.

Whatever the case may be, nerves, the different course or the weather, the Wolves finished 21st out of 25 teams at the finals held at Michigan State University in East Lansing, Oct. 20.

The Wolves shot 349, well behind the winners, Birmingham Brother Rice at 316.

Players for Clarkston were Steve Willis and Gunnar Karlstrom with 86, John Stapleton with 87, Rich Lay at 90 and Chris Hunter with 95.

"I don't know what was the problem," said Wolves' coach Jim Chamberlain. "This was the first time that any of them played in anything that big."

Despite the disappointing showing in the finals, Chamberlain said that couldn't take away from Clarkston's outstanding season. The team finished fourth in the regional meet to qualify for the finals; placed eighth in the county meet; won the Greater Oakland Activities League meet and title; and were 12-1 in dual meets and 8-0 in the league.

"We met all our goals from the beginning of the year," Chamberlain said. "Just getting to the state finals capped off the year. We didn't play well but tried to do our best."

"We went out there on Friday and got a practice round in, so the kids knew the course. It was windier on Friday than Saturday but that shouldn't have been a factor. After one or two shots, you should be able to adjust to that."

Up My Alley

October fun

By Dan Vandenhemel

Hoop sign-up

With the coming of cooler weather it's time to move indoors. The Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring four basketball leagues this winter.

Men's Class C and Men's Open begin Dec. 9, while the Men's 30-and-Over starts Jan. 9. The Pony league hits the courts Jan. 6.

The Class C and the Open leagues have a $100 sponsor's fee for each team and an individual cost of $13 for residents and $18 for non-residents.

For the 30-and-over and the Pony (for 15- to 18-year-olds), the sponsor's fee is $75 with $12 for residents and $16 for non-residents.

There is also a $60 security deposit per team and a $10 cost for officials.

Deadlines for registration are Nov. 23 for the Class C and Open leagues; and Dec. 19 for the 30-and-over league; and Dec. 28 for the Pony league.

For more information on the leagues, call the parks and recreation department at 625-8223.

October has always been a special month for me. When I was younger, it was Halloween and all the candy my stomach and teeth could hold. October meant ghosts and goblins, running from door to door and the trading of sweets in school the next day.

Now October is not only for spooks but for sports.

October is the month of the "Great Sports Overlap." Professional baseball, football, hockey and basketball are either crowning a champion or building hopes for a new one.

Probably few people realized that while the Tigers and the fans in Detroit were celebrating the World Series Championship, a few Lion loyalists were whooping it up in the Silverdome following their football victory over Tampa Bay. Plus the night before, the Red Wings won their first hockey game of the season against New Jersey.

That's three hometown triumphs out of three teams in one weekend. The Detroit Pistons are in training camp but would have loved to get in on the winning fun.

Not often do Detroit sports teams show a success rate. The Tigers have been improving gradually over the past five years and are now the best baseball team this side of Mars.

The Pistons made the playoffs and just missed winning the divisional title, and they are still moving up.

The Red Wings made the playoffs, but still have a long way to go. At least the management is putting forth a good effort.

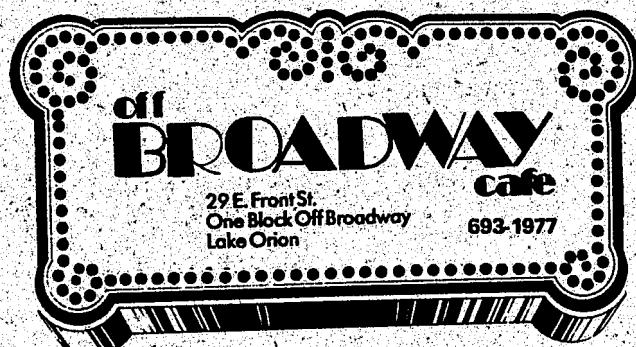

The Lions won their division last season with a solid 8-8 record. Parody is the rule in the NFL and despite a poor start this year, the Lions are still in the running for the title.

Every major sports team in Detroit, including the USFL Michigan Panthers, are enjoying at least minimal success.

As strange as it seems, Detroit is turning into a city of champions instead of a city of chumps.

Kozma: Promising commitment to the bench

"As an attorney I have personally been in the 52nd District Court and have heard from many individuals who have been exposed to the problem there.

"As a prosecutor, I have seen the lax and lenient handling of serious crimes as well as repeat offenders. As a township trustee, I have seen our valid local laws not enforced, or thrown out by the judge. I've seen total frustration of civic leaders (caused) by that court. As a member of the (township) Zoning Board of Appeals, I've been able to make the difficult decisions."

Kozma says he means two things with his campaign slogan, "It's Time to Get Tough."

"First and foremost, the courts have avoided tough decisions by being overly lenient or by avoiding making decisions altogether. As the second, the court is so extreme in its leniency, time to get tough means bringing it back into balance.

"As a citizen, I have seen the threat of it. If the judge is going to follow the law, he must be watched by citizens' groups and elections must be close at hand," Kozma said.

Next he points to sentencing.

"...in the present district court, sentencing is inconsistent and serves no legitimate purpose," he said. "The only thing a first-offender learns from a sentence is that nothing of substance will come from his violation of the law. A repeat-offender quickly learns he has nothing to fear when appearing before the present judge.

"This must be changed by imposing meaningful and thoughtful sentencing in each individual case. A court must use the resources available, such as the probation department gathering information about the crime, the victim and the defendant before sentencing should be imposed.

"This is not being done."

According to Kozma, there are four judicially recognized factors to imposing a meaningful sentence: rehabilitation; deterrence; retribution and isolation.

"Rather than giving a small fine and telling a first-offender, '...don't do it again,' the sentence should emphasize rehabilitation and deterrence," he said. "A useful tool used successfully in other courts is community service, where the young offender gives back to the community. At the same time, he learns he is responsible for his actions as well as respect for other individuals and responsibility."

According to Kozma, this type of sentencing requires time and effort on the part of the judge.

"I am willing to make such a commitment because it is a meaningful way to handle the young offender," he said.

Kozma next points to the sentencing of drunk drivers.

"The convicted drunk driver is a potential killer," he said. "For many years the present judge has failed to recognize this fact. His attitude has been reflected by his extremely lax and lenient handling of these cases, such as a $50 fine for repeat drinking and driving offenses.

"This conduct has resulted in citizens' groups, MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Driving), monitoring his court. It is too late to wait until the drunk driver kills someone before treating these offenses as serious," Kozma said.

"This is the time, before there is a fatality. A meaningful sentence must be imposed to change and deter the drunk driver's conduct.

"Not until MADD monitored the present judge's court, and the legislature passed a tough drunk drivers' law with a minimum sentence, and not until an election has the present judge been forced to increase his drunk driving sentences," he said.

Next, Kozma points to the 52nd District Court's record of enforcing local laws.

"Cases are brought to that court where no action is taken," he said. "Or worse yet, valid local laws are thrown out which must be appealed by the local community at great expense, to have a circuit court judge reverse.

"The elected township boards and village councils pass local laws reflecting the wishes of citizens as to how they want the community to develop. Examples are junk vehicles and zoning ordinances," Kozma said. "The local community is unable to take these cases before the district court which was established and designed to handle these cases. But because of no action on the part of the present judge, if anything is to be accomplished the community must go to the circuit court for a decision.

"This increases the cost to the taxpayer and defeats the purpose of having a district court," Kozma said.

In civil cases, the court is not following the law, he said.

"Rather than making the difficult decision of determining who is right and who is wrong, the present judge habitually divides the amount of the dispute (awarding only half the damages requested). How does the consumer and businessman know in which manner to conduct himself if the court will now follow the rules?"

"It's not fair," said Kozma. "It's an easy way out. It creates injustice by giving one person something he doesn't deserve and forcing the other person to lose something he's entitled to.

"The parties can compromise and settle their dispute before the trial. But the judge cannot compromise the law."

Finally, said Kozma, "...I can and will make a responsible change in our district court by following the law and making firm, but fair decisions. I will protect everyone's rights, both the victims and the defendants, and impose fair and meaningful sentences."

Kozma responds to McNally's charges that by adopting a "get tough" stance, he's lost his objectivity to be a judge, or that L. Brooks Patterson's endorsement makes him a policeman in judge's robes.

"Obviously the incumbent doesn't understand or realize the role a prosecutor plays," Kozma said. "The prosecutor must see that justice gets done. If I know I have evidence favorable to the defense I must turn the evidence over to them. My job is to see justice is served. Brooks' endorsement of support is like any other person's, just as McNally is endorsed. I owe Brooks Patterson nothing. He knows that, and doesn't expect anything from that. He expects a fair judge on the bench who will hear all the evidence and make a decision. It's incredible that someone would stoop to that kind of personal attack."

Kozma defends McNally's charge he hasn't the experience to hear civil law cases.

"There's approximately an eight-to-one ratio of criminal to civil cases in that court. That means 90 percent of the cases are criminal. That's my expertise," he said. "Secondly, the present judge knows the trial is held the same way in civil and criminal. They have the same rules.

"I've had special assignments as prosecutor that include civil cases and a large number of criminal cases parallel civil cases. Manslaughter and negligent homicide parallel automobile and personal injury. Embezzlement and fraud cases closely parallel civil disputes with those issues.

"I'm an attorney. I'm a good attorney and I'm trained," said Kozma. "I'll find the answers to the questions. If I don't know them, I can look them up."

Finally, he defends his get-tough stance.

"That doesn't mean, and it will never mean, that I will make a decision before hearing the case," he said. "That's a mistake of the incumbent. I will still be a fair, firm and strong judge. When I say it's time to take charge and time to get tough, it means the present judge by his lax and leniency, does not make tough decisions or escapes by making no decisions."

The Independence Township Fire Department has responded to 872 calls to date.

Equipment update costs $126,000

In four to six months, the Independence Township Fire Department will have two new medical rescue units, and in 60 days, two repaired and operable tankers.

For two years Fire Chief Frank Ronk's been lobbying for purchase of the rescue units which will allow victims to be treated inside the vehicles while waiting for an ambulance to arrive, instead of "in a snowbank," as some firefighters have described.

"It is going to be a really big contribution to this department's operations," said Ronk, after the Oct. 16 meeting when the board unanimously authorized the orders. Trustees William Vandermark and Daniel Travis were absent.

The $84,000 bids for the two rescue units went to Halt Fire of Northville.

In addition, the board unanimously approved repair of the two leaking 1,000-gallon tankers to Horton Rescue of Columbus, Ohio, for $42,153.

Christopher Winslow's so proud of his carved creation that he holds on possessively. That's his sister, Cindy, with the pumpkin she carved with expressive eyes.

Anticipation

Their pumpkins were carved and ready for the judging, so the children gathered behind their creations and waited. Funniest? Ugliest? Happiest? Most scary? Of the 11 carved, all were deemed winners in one of the categories by Jim Flemming, the prudent volunteer pumpkin judge. The contest held Saturday was sponsored by the Independence Township Library.

Some Halloween safety tips

For a safe Halloween, the Independence Township Fire Department suggests beggars and their parents follow these tips from the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

- Children should not eat treats before they get home, and parents should examine all treats carefully before allowing them to be eaten.

- Only wear costumes, beards, masks and wigs labeled "FLAME RESISTANT." Costumes with baggy sleeves or billowing skirts should be avoided to minimize the risk of contact with candles or other flames.

- Wear light-colored costumes for better visibility, and decorate them with reflective tape available in hardware, bicycle and sporting goods stores. Children should carry a flashlight to see, and be seen.

- Beggars should wear flat shoes, and costumes short enough to prevent them from tripping and falling.

- Hats and scarves should be tied securely to prevent them from falling over a child's eyes.

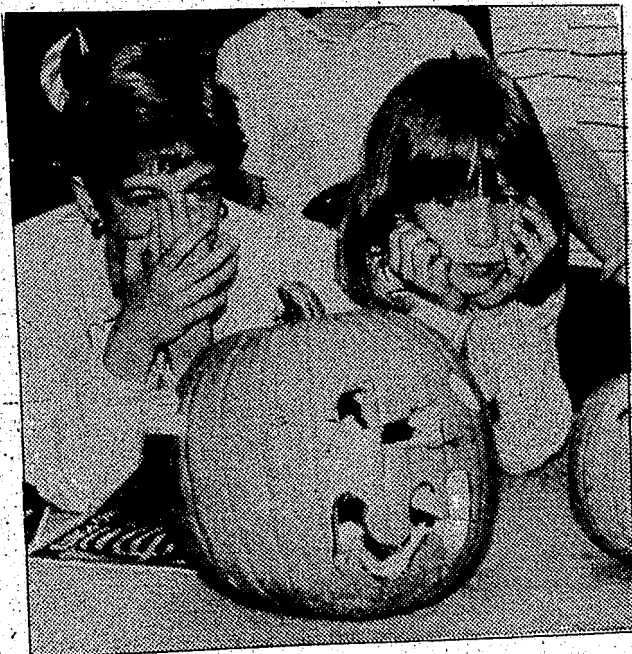

- Wear a mask of cosmetics rather than a loose-fitting mask which can restrict breathing and obscure vision.

- Swords, knives and similar costume accessories should be of soft, or flexible material.

- Smaller children should be accompanied by an older, responsible child or adult. Children should use the sidewalk, not the street, and walk—not run—from house to house.

- Children should go only to homes where residents have outside lights on and never enter homes or apartments unless accompanied by an adult.

- Finally, those receiving trick-or-treaters should remove anything that could be an obstacle from steps, lawns and porches. Keep lit jack-o-lanterns away from curtains, decorations and costumed trick-or-treaters to prevent fires.

New re-election head

Frank Millard has been appointed Clarkston City Director for the re-election campaign of Daniel Murphy, Oakland County executive.

As a volunteer, Millard plans to organize a group of residents dedicated to Murphy's re-election, manage literature drops, distribute car-top signs and participate in a Get-Out-the-Vote effort.

A Clarkston resident two years, Millard is an attorney whose law practice is in Keego Harbor. He and his wife, Linda, who works in the office of Clarkston dentist Gary Symons, have two children.

To contact Millard, leave a message at the Murphy Campaign Headquarters at 335-7736.

Inn opens

NWOVEC's eatery boasts fresh-made-daily breads

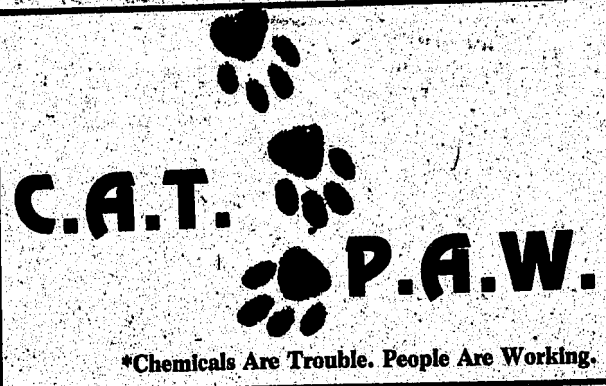

The Northwest Inn, a restaurant operated by food service students enrolled in the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center, opens for customers beginning Tuesday, Oct. 30, at 11:45 a.m.

Operation will continue Tuesday through Friday weekly during the school year at 8211 Big Lake Rd, Springfield Township. (625-5202)

On the menu are a variety of sandwiches, assorted salads, soups, homemade bread and rolls—all made fresh daily. Also featured daily is a hot entree served with salad and bread. New items include croissant sandwiches and low-cholesterol food choices.

For the past eight weeks, food service students from Clarkston, Brandon, Holly and Waterford have been working toward the goal of serving delicious and delectable lunches to the public. Classroom instruction has centered on the "whys" of food service.

Now a new phase of the learning is ready to take place; that of putting new skills to use and that of meeting and serving the public.

Dear Cat Paw:

A friend of mine looks real funny when she gets to school. Her eyes are red and she can't remember what class she should go to. Do you think she could be using something?

Wondering

Dear Wondering:

What you describe are two symptoms of marijuana use. Other symptoms are diminished motivation, impaired judgment and decreased physical coordination. ☹

Dear Cat Paw:

A friend of mine says she uses "blues"...what is that?

Please Answer

Dear Please Answer:

"Blues" is a street name for barbituates, which are a sedative. ☹

Dear Cat Paw:

What is the legal fine for heroin use?

Scared

Dear Scared:

The fine for heroin use is up to one year in jail and/or up to a $2,000 fine. If you know someone using heroin, encourage him or her to talk to a school counselor. ☹

Dear Cat Paw:

My dad seems to be drinking more. He says he needs it. Why?

Questioning

Dear Questioning:

Regular alcohol use creates a condition called tolerance, in which larger doses are needed to achieve desired effects. Increased doses, in turn, increase the risk of drug overdose. ☹

Dear Cat Paw:

I've read of Angel Dust. What is it?

Don't Know

Dear Don't Know:

Angel Dust was originally a nickname for the combination of heroin and cocaine. ☹

Dear Cat Paw:

Does a person get withdrawal symptoms from marijuana similar to alcohol?

Worried

Dear Worried:

If you are smoking marijuana you should be worried. Yes, withdrawal is similar but not exactly the same. Some symptoms of withdrawal are headache, restlessness, sleeplessness and some kinds of gastrointestinal disturbances. ☹

Sommers, Grams exchange vows

Lynn Daneen Sommers and Eugene Leroy Grams Jr. were wed Aug. 11 in a candlelight ceremony at the First Baptist Church of Davisburg.

Lynn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Sommers of Springfield Township. Eugene is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene L. Grams Sr. of Avon Township.

Pastor Robert R. Hazen officiated before 180 guests.

The bride wore a white tafetta gown featuring a high sheer neckline with an off-the-shoulder look. The sheer bodice was embroidered with Belgian lace and the elbow-length puffed sleeves had ruffled cuffs trimmed in ribbon and lace. The fitted waistline was trimmed with Venice lace. The bottom of her gown was Chantilly lace ruffles ending in layered ruffles forming a chapel train.

Her bouquet was white carnations in shape of a cross with baby's breath and yellow sweetheart roses.

Maid of honor, Donna Hines of Independence Township, wore a floor-length gown of mint green dotted swiss. Bridesmaids were Glenda Baker, sister of the bride; Francine Grams, sister of the bridegroom; Melinda Marks, the bride's cousin from Maryland; and Christine Davies. They wore gowns of yellow dotted swiss.

Deanna Baker, the bride's niece, wore yellow and dropped rose petals from her white basket.

The bridegroom's best man was his brother-in-law Melvin Sharp. He was accompanied by four groomsmen, Quincy Beutler and Danny Hubbard, brothers-in-law of the bridegroom; and Bruce and Mark Sommers, brothers of the bride.

The bridegroom's nephew, Melvin Sharp Jr., served as ring bearer.

James Clark, soloist for the ceremony, was accompanied by his wife Kathy as he sang "Oh Lord

Newlyweds: Lynn and Eugene Grams Jr.

Most Holy," "Oh Promise Me" and "The Wedding Prayer." Mrs. John Pierce of Davisburg was organist.

The reception followed at Springfield Oaks Activities Center in Springfield Township.

Classical and romantic music provided the background for the buffet dinner.

The wedding cake, made by the bride's mother, was two three-tiered divided cakes joined by stairways, featuring statues of the attendants with a bride and bridegroom ornament on a center bridge overlooking a fountain topped with lovebirds.

The couple honeymooned in Kentucky where they toured Mammoth Cave, and in Sea World, Ohio, on their way home.

They reside in Springfield Township.

With Halloween coming up and a fingerprinting program recently completed at Pine Knob Elementary School, McGruff the Crime Dog and Deputies Marc Cooper and Bill Lizenby of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department make a timely visit. The deputies and a robot version of McGruff put on a 30-minute presentation for the entire school body last week with a film and safety tips on dealing with strangers, locking windows and doors, and walking with a buddy while trick-or-treating. As a special treat for the kindergartners, McGruff in soft costume appeared later—proving he's not gruff at all. He's flanked by the Coy twins, Jennifer and Monica.

Safety tips a la McGruff

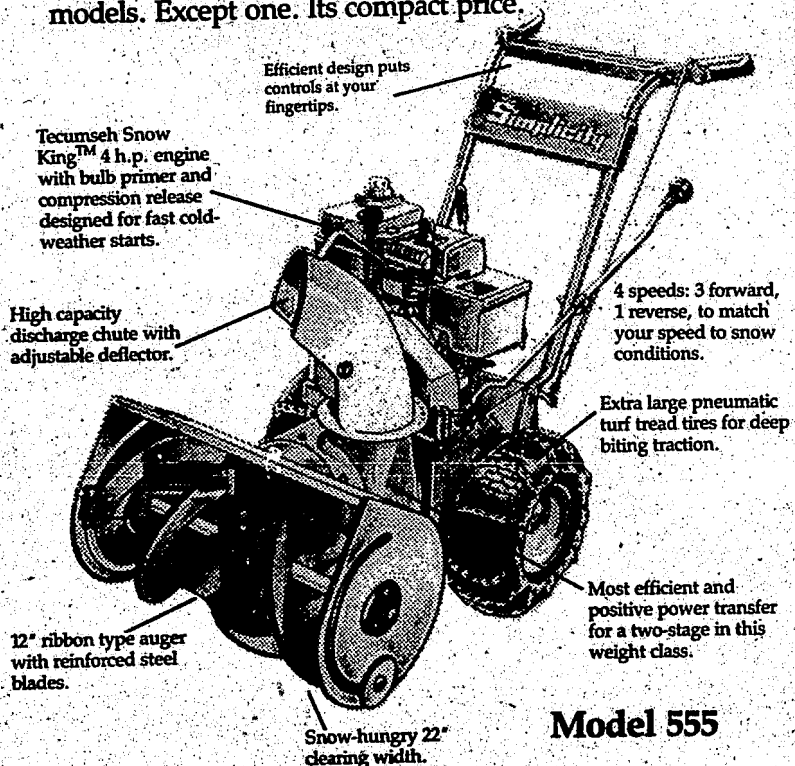

As his fellow kindergartners line up for a personal visit with McGruff, Chris Tunningley gets a big hug. McGruff is the symbolic leader of the Enroll in the Sheriff's Crime and Accident Prevention Program, otherwise known as E.S.C.A.P.E.

Wolverine howls New books and more

By Members of the Clarkston
Junior High Journalism Class

One hundred and twelve new paperbacks and hardcover books were added to our Clarkston Junior High library.

Most of these books are for pleasure reading, but some are for reference. The total cost of all these new books was $450. Most of the money came from the selling of books at the book fair last spring.

The library has also bought a new computer, an Apple II. The cost of this was approximately $1,200. It will mostly be used for library reference, overdues, bibliographies, equipment and repairs on the binding of books.

And, finally, the library got a new cable TV system. It is used to tape educational programs for classrooms. There are two cable lines to the school hook-up. However, this did not cost the school any money because the cable company has a deal with the township to provide the schools with free cable TV for educational uses.

The honors English and drama classes went on a field trip to Clio High School to see a Shakespearian play performed by the National Theatre of Performing Arts.

The students saw an adaptation of "A Comedy of Errors." The play was a success. When they were asked how they liked it, the majority of students responded with a positive answer.

The play lasted about an hour.

On Oct. 25, the home economics foods classes will go on a field trip to Tally Hall.

The cost is $2 for bus fare and about $5 to $10 to spend at the many restaurants.

Enough students to fill two buses will be going.

The chaperones will be Mrs. Granlund, Miss Lindeman and some parent volunteers.

Mrs. Colwell and Mrs. Griggs are teaching the seventh- and eighth-graders of CJHS how to play basketball in the intramural program. They started playing practice games in mid-September.

Now those practice games have led up to the playoffs. Playoff dates are Oct. 16, 18, 22, 23, 25, 29, 30 and Nov. 1, 5 and 8.

Two weeks ago Clarkston Junior High School had its first conferences of the school year. Mr. Licata said that at least 350 parents showed up.

He also indicated that the conferences went very well and that he was very excited that it went so well for the first one.

Math Counts started Monday, Oct. 8. It meets every Monday after school from 2:45 to 3:45 and ends sometime in February.

Math Counts is an after-school math class for students who want to compete with other math students.

The teacher of Math Counts is Mrs. Kettler. She says anyone can attend. She will pick groups out after Christmas vacation for Math Counts competition, and after that no one new can attend.

After groups are picked, there will be studying and then a competition. Whoever wins the first competition goes on to the second competition and whoever wins that goes to Washington for the national competition.

Contributors to this week's column were Chris Watson, Melissa Fugitt, Mindy Shady, Katie Laursen, Stacy Roy and Kris Scislowicz.

Spook delight

Children 12 and under who are wearing costumes and accompanied by an adult will be admitted free to the Oct. 28 tour of Meadow Brook Hall.

The 100-room mansion at Oakland University, Rochester, is open Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. for the Halloween tour.

While there will be no special decorations, some spooky treats are in store:

•This Sunday only, climb the secret massive stone staircase that spirals four floors between the walls.

•No one is sitting at the keyboard of the huge pipe organ, but the keys are moving and the music fills the mansion.

•Count the gargoyles in the Great Hall.

•Maggie, the Goodwitch of Meadow Brook Hall, greets visitors as they enter. Touch her magic broom and the spell will ward off evil spirits.

Food with a Halloween theme served by waitresses in costume will be available without reservations in the Christopher Wren Dining Room.

Admission is $4 for adults, $3 for seniors age 65 and over, and $2 for children under 13 without costume.

From Clarkston, take I-75 south to the Oakland University exit. Follow the signs from the university entrance. (377-3140)

Cheerleading clinics

Cheers, stunts, spirit and fun await boys and girls in grades K-6 at the annual Cheerleading Clinics sponsored by the Clarkston High School Varsity Cheerleaders.

The clinics are planned Saturdays, Nov. 10 and 17, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Clarkston Junior High School gymnasium.

The cost is $3 for each clinic. No registration is needed.

Children should dress in shorts and tennis shoes and bring a sack lunch.

Capturing today

Imagine. One hundred years from now. Some strange people are standing next to a gaping hole in the ground before them. An oddly shaped object is lifted up to them.

"Well? What is it?" one asks the other.

"It appears to be an odd form of a time capsule," is the reply.

How right they are. A time capsule put together by Sashabaw Junior High School ninth-grade students. It's a recent project that the 14-member Sashabaw Junior High G.A.T.E. class, otherwise known as Gifted and Talented Education, has been working on.

A few things we are placing in the time capsule to represent foods are recipes, including pizza, and popular food advertisements. ("Where's the Beef?")

Under the art category we have paint brushes used for painting, and information on various artists, for example, Mozart and Bach.

There are many more categories with many more objects for the capsule.

The time capsule, to be buried in an unknown location, will hopefully be found ages from now.

Who knows what people will be like then? And hopefully the time capsule will be a real learning experience for them.

As you can see, the Sashabaw G.A.T.E. class has high hopes for our project, and we put a lot of work into it.

Working on the time capsule is a lot of fun. It really makes you stop and think about where our country is today, where it has been, and where it's going.

Maybe everybody should work on a time capsule.

Author Monica Miles is a ninth-grader at Sashabaw Junior High School.

Parents, too

Kids can hone study skills

Clarkston's Youth Enrichment Program has the answer for parents who want to help their children in grades seven through nine establish good study skills.

The Parent & Kids Evening Workshop is offering study skills and test taking tips designed for parents and students to attend together.

Taught by Karen Davison, it explores how to outline, writing reports, taking notes, ways to review and study, how to remember important material, fighting fear and panic on tests, and answering essay questions.

The class is also designed to be beneficial to parents returning to school who need refreshers in study skill techniques.

The class is scheduled Nov. 12 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Sashabaw Junior High School, 5565 Pine Knob, Independence Township. It costs $8 for students only. Parents are free.

OCSD offers trick-or-treat tips

Personal safety for children, with a Halloween theme, is the topic of a presentation by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department and the Brandon Township Fire Department on Saturday, Oct. 27.

The free program is to begin at 10 a.m. at Movieland, 1780 M-15, Brandon Township.

In addition, Movieland offers the free overnight loan of the video cassette "Strong Kids, Safe Kids" hosted by Henry Winkler.

"I think it's important to protect our children," said owner Mary Kociuba. "They're our greatest asset. If we at Movieland can do whatever we can, if we can save one child, it's well worth the investment."

PRAYER TO THE Holy Spirit-Holy Spirit who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the Divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you, no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish; after the third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Wish granted. T & S. ILLX42-1

Too good to resist

Bazaar candy-makers prepare for sale of array of sweets

Lola Herbert carefully places sticks in the soft chocolate of suckers-to-be.

Many of the recipes used for candies of all kinds come from the kitchen of Shirley Minjoe, who's at work pouring chocolate into molds in St. Daniel's kitchen.

Marion Linenger mixes melting pastel shades of chocolate with care. The women on the candy committee for St. Daniel's annual Holiday Bazaar are making a mouth-watering array of goodies: chocolate suckers; cream-filled chocolates; chocolate-covered caramels and peanuts; hard candy; peanut brittle; chocolate syrup; homemade jellies; and fruit cakes. The bazaar is planned Nov. 16 and 17, with a luncheon available on Friday.

On the other side of the ski slopes General manager of Pine Knob restaurants, golf welcomes neighbors

There's much to see and admire on the other side of Pine Knob's ski slopes, says Italo Rovere, new general manager of the Mansion and La Veranda restaurants and the Pine Knob Golf Course. Here, he stands in the patio behind the Mansion.

By Kathy Greenfield

Most days Italo Rovere parks his car and hops on a golf cart to travel between the Mansion, La Veranda and the Pine Knob Golf Course.

As the new general manager of the businesses located in the portion of Pine Knob now owned by Borg-Warner Equities of Chicago, Ill., he's found that's the most practical form of transportation.

As he drives his cart through Pine Knob's neatly manicured and flower-filled roadways on the other side of the ski slopes, Rovere's pride shows.

"This is a beautiful place," he said.

This year 55,000 flowering plants brought color in abundance to the grounds, the mums are still in bloom and 20,000 bulbs have been planted to greet next spring.

Rovere is not a new face at Pine Knob. He's worked there 10 years, the same number he's lived in Independence Township with his wife, Pamela, and their daughters, Angela, 11, and Maria, 14.

He remembers that first drive from Detroit to Pine Knob for a job interview and stopping along the way to ask directions only to find that people didn't know where Clarkston—or Pine Knob—were located.

Now, for those who don't live in the community, using Pine Knob to describe Clarkston's location usually works. But Rovere believes there are many Clarkston area residents who have never been on his side of the slopes.

"We're offering a beautiful facility for dinners and leisure-time activities. We offer them to the people who live here first," he said. "A lot of people drive for hours to get here, but people who live nearby can take advantage of it."

"I think there has to be some kind of marriage between the complex and the township. You can't live in a place and be a stranger and feel like a stranger. I think it's important to live with your neighbor, to get to know each other and what we can do for each

Sashabaw corridor addition

Shader building reflects its owner's life-style

By Kathy Greenfield

There's a large hickory tree outside the windows in front of the three dental chairs in Dr. John Shader's new office.

Now the leaves are changing colors, providing a view of the coming season. In winter, bird feeders will provide a close-up view of nature. And in spring, the buds and the fresh green leaves will be on view.

Bringing the outdoors indoors is no mistake, for that was all part of the design Shader and his wife, Judy, chose for one of the newest buildings on the Sashabaw corridor. The trees all around the lot were left intact, creating a view suited for nature lovers.

"That was really a major concern," said Shader. "I didn't want bulldozers to come in and tear everything down. I wanted to save as much as I could."

While the word "corridor" conjures up images of strip development, Shader's office serves to illustrate what could be as building continues on Sashabaw Road between Waldon and Maybee roads.

Shader talks about other corridor developments that please the eye—the Cowan Chiropractic Clinic and the new Mario's delicatessen across the street.

"I like the Sashabaw corridor," he said. "I think Clarkston is going to grow and do well, and we're hoping this Sashabaw corridor will become a new center for commerce."

"I think Clarkston is the Bloomfield Hills now of northern Oakland County," he added. "It's a real nice place to live."

The portion of the corridor surrounding Shader's office should maintain the country look, said Neil Wallace, chairman of the Independence Township Planning Commission, for there is only one more lot between Shader's office and the elementary school.

"Certainly we won't get into the intense Dixie Highway (type of) development there," he said.

Wallace also mentioned the pride everyone connected with Shader's building is talking about.

"All of us (on the planning commission) are pleased with that addition to the community," he said. "It's a little bit of a pat on the back to us because we had some input on what the front view was going to be. The members of the planning commission had several comments regarding the front of the building, the landscaping and the parking."

Beyond the planning, several members of the community have reason to share in the pride. The builder was Independence Township resident Joe Noll, and most of the subcontractors are patients in Shader's dental practice.

A 1975 graduate of the University of Michigan Dental School, Shader came to Independence Township in 1977 when he purchased the practice of Dr. John Dirks. His office was located in the shopping center on the corner of Sashabaw and Maybee roads.

"It was kind of cramped. I didn't have any windows," he said. "A hurricane could come by and you wouldn't know it."

Then he laughs as he surveys the expanse of windows in his new office. "Maybe it's a bit overdone, because I didn't have any windows in my former place," he said.

But Shader couldn't be more pleased. His wife, Judy, is responsible for choosing the outside finish, and for the interior design of his office; he worked

Who will receive your property when you die?

Editor's note: This is the first in a series of articles by attorney Robert Delisi on personal tax and estate planning topics to appear monthly in the Business & Finance section of The Clarkston News.

The objective is to offer the legal fundamentals of the topics discussed. This series is not intended, nor should it be construed, to comprehensively cover all the factors that must be considered when addressing a particular individual's circumstances. For further information, one should consult with his or her attorney.

It is distressing for most of us to consider the prospect of death.

Yet, if one can look for a moment beyond this harsh reality and consider what will happen to his or her lifetime savings after death, intelligent and meaningful distribution of property to surviving loved ones can result.

This article will discuss two of the primary vehicles of property distribution, a Last Will and Testament and intestate succession.

It has been said everyone dies leaving a Last Will and Testament but the question is, "Who wrote it?"

Unless an individual writes a Last will and Testament and thereby directs distribution of individually owned property, the intestate laws of Michigan, which some view as a will for all state residents, will determine how this property will be distributed to the surviving heirs.

Intestate property is all property individually owned at the time of death for which a governing Last Will and Testament is not in effect. Before intestate law is discussed, a brief explanation of the document known as the Last Will and Testament is appropriate.

Under general property law it is widely accepted that a benefit of property ownership is the ability to dispose of it as one wishes. Within limits, a Last Will and Testament primarily performs this task upon the property owner's death.

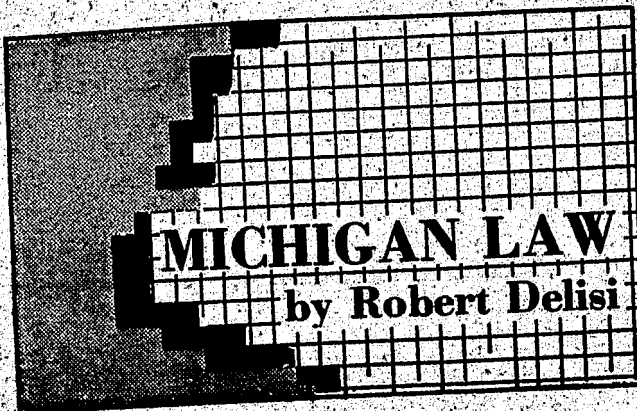

A formal document, it requires adherence to certain formalities (for example, in Michigan it must be in writing and witnessed by at least two disinterested competent individuals) in order to be valid.

An exception of this formality requirement is a Holographic Will with provisions prepared in the decedent's handwriting. Nevertheless, it also has certain requirements under Michigan law (for example, it must be dated and signed at the end).

There are limits to an individual's ability to effectuate his or her dispositive wishes under a Last Will and Testament and the nature of these limitations further highlight the importance of understanding Michigan's laws.

By law, certain individuals (i.e. spouses) are protected from being disinherited.

For example, in certain cases a spouse, who was married to the decedent at the time the will was executed and who was unprovided for in the will, may elect to take one-half of a share he or she would have received if the decedent did not leave a valid will (and, therefore, died intestate), reduced by one-half of the gifts received from the decedent during life.

Also, a spouse who becomes married to an individual with a pre-existing will may in some cases upon the death of the individual elect against the provisions of the will and take a spouse's share provided for under the intestate laws of the State of Michigan.

Below are the essential provisions of Michigan intestate law which govern the distribution of individually owned property not disposed of by a valid will.

A. If when a person dies he or she is survived by a spouse, such spouse shall receive the following applicable amount.

1. If there is no surviving issue (children, grandchildren or lineal descendants) or parent of the decedent, the entire intestate property shall go to the surviving spouse;

2. If there is no surviving issue but the decedent is survived by at least one parent, the first $60,000, reduced by any amount given to the spouse under the will, plus one-half of the balance of the intestate property will be distributed to the spouse;

3. If there are surviving issue, all of whom are issue of the surviving spouse also, the first $60,000 plus one-half of the balance of the intestate property will be distributed to the spouse;

4. If there are surviving issue, one or more of whom are not the issue of the surviving spouse, one-half of the intestate property will be distributed to the spouse.

B. The balance of the intestate property (or the entire intestate property if there is no surviving spouse) shall be distributed based on the following applicable situation:

1. If there is one or more surviving issue, each will receive a portion of the intestate property based on the degree of kinship to the decedent. If the issue are all the same degree of kinship, they will receive the property equally. If there are also issue of a more remote degree, they will take their proportionate share of their parent's applicable portion of the intestate property;

2. If there is no surviving issue, the decedent's parents shall receive the property equally;

3. If there is no issue or parents of the decedent, then the decedent's brothers and sisters will take equally, and the living issue of any predeceased brother and sister will receive property by representation in a manner similar to example 2 above;

4. If the above provisions do not apply, more remote relatives are the beneficiaries. Intestate property is transferred to the State of Michigan if there is no surviving spouse, issue, parent, brother or sister, issue of a deceased brother or sister, grandparent or issue of a grandparent.

Michigan's intestate law can be very instrumental in determining who will receive an individual's property upon death.

Notwithstanding the influence of this law, an individual who does not like the manner in which his or her property will be distributed under the will provided for by the State of Michigan can substantially alter this outcome by the execution of a Last Will and Testament.

Next month I will discuss the purpose and elements of estate planning.

Readers are encouraged to forward to the editor of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016 any questions they may have concerning the topics discussed.

The author will attempt to respond in writing directly to the questioner. If an abundance of questions arise concerning a particular area of the law, he will address this area in a subsequent article.

Author Robert Delisi, an attorney with Herzberg, Jacob & Weingarten of Detroit, is an Independence Township resident.

other."

Unlike the seasonal businesses—music in summer and skiing in winter—the Mansion and La Veranda are open year-round. The golf course is still open and will remain so, weather permitting, until mid-November.

Rovere's first job at Pine Knob was chef in the ski lodge. From there, he became manager of the food concessions on the music theater and ski lodge side. Then he became manager of the Mansion and, later, of La Veranda. About a month ago, he became general manager of the Borg-Warner businesses.

"I've watched a lot of kids grow up," he said.

That's one thing Pine Knob has to offer its neighbors—jobs, and lots of them, he says.

Now that the golf season is winding down, there are about 160 employees in his area of the complex alone, down from about 200 at the peak of the season.

Rovere's experience in management goes back to his home country of Italy. There, he studied mechanical engineering in a college in Trieste and worked part-time with his brother in the hotel and restaurant business.

After serving in the army, he returned to the restaurant business.

"I sold my place. My wife was a native of New York State, so we came down for a vacation, and ended up staying," he said.

He met his wife in Denmark and they were married in Italy, where their first child was born.

His first job at Pine Knob brought them to Clarkston, and it has become home.

"I like the place very much," he said. "Of course being here so long, I like the people that work here. The reason I've stayed in Clarkston so long is because I like the village. I'm happy with the schools. It's a good place to raise a family."

MONTH IN REVIEW

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department warns merchants to beware of thieves passing $1 bills as twenties. Two men attempted to pay for merchandise at Ashton's Orchard on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, with a bogus $20 bill.

Michigan Renaissance Festival has a record crowd the last day of its seven-weekend run when 12,000 pass through its gates at Colombiere Center, Springfield Township. During its run, 80,000 tickets were sold.

The Clarkston News wins five awards in the Michigan Press Association's 1984 competition including first place in the Lifestyle/Family section category.

Tribune/United passes its targeted Sept. 17 deadline to complete the township's $2.5 million cable TV system, and asks the board to waive a $2,000-a-week penalty payment because delays were caused by problems outside the Chicago-based firm's control. The board referred the issue to its Cable Casting Board.

Springfield Township recommends the state OK a liquor license for a new restaurant near I-75 owned by Russ and Dorothy Elkins. A major stumbling block could be two billboards on the property where the eatery is under construction.

Independence Oaks County Park's new $400,000 nature center is preparing for its opening in two or three months. Construction of the 4,000-square-foot building began last December.

The Union 76 Service Station at Sashabaw and Maybee roads in Independence Township is remodeling to a convenience food store. More than gas, the store will sell bread, milk, pop, toiletries and a few canned goods.

with the landscaper; and they both agreed on the stone walls that blend with the wooden exterior.

They are avid backpackers, cross-country skiers and hikers; and the finished product reflects their interests.

Shader points to the skylights in the waiting room, the beige tones used throughout that let the outdoor views dominate, and the pictures on the walls, mostly photographs he took while hiking. They're of scenes in Utah, South Dakota, Wyoming and Canada.

In the room with his desk there's a wall of diplomas and awards—and a photograph of Shader holding a huge pike he caught in Canada and one of Judy with their 3-year-old golden Labrador retriever Bannock, who hikes with them and is named after a type of bread made over a camp fire.

"People want to know their doctor is a human being. They want to know more than he can fix my toothache," he said.

His family dental practice, too, reflects his quest for good health, Shader said.

His X-ray machine gives 70 percent less radiation than conventional machines, he said, and he points out one of the latest advances in dental tools, which includes attached fiberoptic lights to allow better visibility.

Among the services he offers are dentures, braces and surgery; although Shader said he makes referrals to specialists when necessary. He puts in 50 to 100 hours each year taking continuing education courses in dentistry.

Because his building is new, the costs are known and Shader said he has been able to lock in a reasonable fee structure. He hasn't raised fees this year, and won't next year.

He bought the property where his new building stands about three years ago, but the state of the economy forced him to wait to build.

He owns 51 percent of the interest in the new building that houses four offices. The other owners are Janet Thomas and Robert Wiar, of Thomas and Wiar Accounting, who have moved their business there from Troy. Vocson and Montgomery Advertising, formerly of Troy, have also moved in, and the fourth suite is available for rent.

Shader, 34, grew up in Royal Oak, the son of school teachers. His father was the principal of Dondero High School, his mother a counselor in a junior high school.

He found Clarkston quite by accident, and only because there was a dental practice for sale here.

"Heck, I didn't know Clarkston from Charlevoix at that time," he said, but when he saw it he was sold. "I didn't think twice. I came right here and I've never been sorry."

Large windows facing the dental chairs are designed to bring the outdoors inside for Dr. Jack Shader's patients. Here, Shader [left] and dental assistant Candy Campbell are at work on Jim Kaminski.

Dr. Jack Shader stands outside his new building that houses his dental practice and the office of co-owners Janet Thomas and Robert Wiar. Also located within is Vocson & Montgomery, an advertising agency. Another office suite is presently unoccupied.

North Oaks EXTENDED COVERAGE

DON'T use a home fire extinguisher until you have gotten everyone else out of the house, checked your own escape route, and called the fire department. THEN, if the fire is small enough to be put out or slowed down by your extinguisher, use it.

What kind should you get? They are classified by the type of fire they fight. Class A fires involve paper, wood, cloth, and some types of plastic.

Class B fires come from flammable liquids and gases, such as gasoline in the garage and frying pan grease in the kitchen. Class C fires involve electric equipment: a short in a home appliance, perhaps.

For general use at home, choose an ABC extinguisher that can fight all the most common household fires. Look for the UL label that shows the unit has been tested and approved.

Keep your extinguisher accessible in fire-hazard locations such as the kitchen, workshop, or garage—but away from children. Most types should be tested periodically; check instructions to see how.

Fire protection: a good extinguisher, and adequate insurance. Talk to us at...

Inside: Two firms make move to Clarkston from Troy and find the change a plus

Thomas and Wiar

Locating their business in Independence Township has meant fewer miles to drive for Janet Thomas and Robert Wiar, the owners of Thomas and Wiar, an accounting and consulting firm.

They made the move from Troy to the building they own with Dr. Jack Shader at 6300 Sashabaw about two months ago.

"Clarkston is so well-located, off the expressway and centrally located in the northwest Oakland County area," said Wiar. "We're finding places like Livonia and Ann Arbor, which we go every week, are easier to get to than from the Birmingham area."

They serve most of their clients by driving to their places of business.

Before "we'd have a drive into the office, then a drive to the client," said Thomas. "Now it's just a drive to the client."

The businesses they serve are those without their own accounting departments. They offer tax and financial consultations, and the necessary accounting services. And they provide personal financial services for the owners of businesses they serve and for individuals.

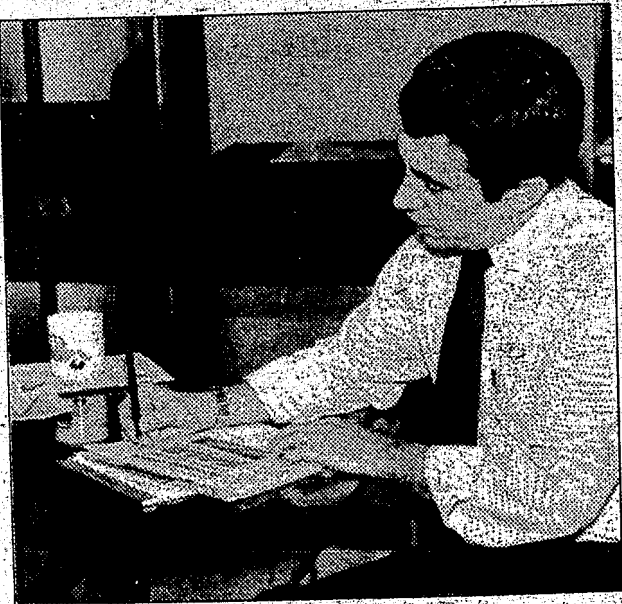

"The major accounting firms have offered that service to the large corporation client for years," said Wiar. "The small firm has never been able to afford that package of service. So what we saw was a spot in that market."

The kinds of services they offer led to joining Shader in his building. As the dentist's accounting firm, their service of finding financial sources for the

Robert Wiar (left) and Janet Thomas moved their accounting firm from Troy to Independence Township about two months ago, and they're pleased with the change.

Dennis Vocson, co-owner of the Vocson & Montgomery, sits in the conference room that's part of the advertising agency's new office in the Shader building.

Vocson & Montgomery

The move north for the advertising agency Vocson & Montgomery required some thought, but after two months inside the Shader building on the Sashabaw corridor, co-owner Dennis Vocson says he knows the decision was correct.

The two-year-old firm, also owned by Archie Montgomery, was formerly located in Troy.

"What happened was that the agency started to grow. With additional people on staff, we just ran out of space in Troy," said Vocson.

Their accountant Robert Wiar mentioned the possibility of moving the agency to Independence Township. Wiar is a principle in Thomas and Wiar, co-owners of the Shader building. His accounting firm also made the move from Troy to locate there.

"At first I was a little reluctant," said Vocson. "I envisioned hours and hours of travel time."

The search for a new location led to Birmingham, Southfield, Troy and elsewhere.

"The developers (here) were so accomodating about space and our particular needs. I was impressed with that. We were important to them. That was a nice feeling," he said. "And, quite frankly, it's nice out here."

"The scene in the back with the changing leaves is quite nice. It lends itself to the creative process."

The agency serves customers by first determining a budget, then offering a complete package on how and where to meet advertising needs.

"We're different because there isn't anybody like us right now," said Vocson. "We're an advertising agency, working with the retailer, that will do these kinds of things for the small guy, the one-, two-, three-store operation."

"We don't run in, drop off (an advertising package) and take off. Both my partner and I believe we should be offering more, and the (client's) business will grow as a result of it—and so far, it's worked."

Before their partnership, Vocson worked 17 years in the advertising business and Montgomery sold advertising for The Detroit News and owned an agency.

Vocson, his wife Judy and their two children live in Commerce Township. Montgomery, his wife Barb and their two children are Sterling Heights residents.

The firm has clients in Ohio, Indiana, and Kentucky and is presently opening a New York office. For its Michigan clients, the move to Clarkston is working well.

"We've had no problems at all. None whatsoever," said Vocson. "Our clients enjoy coming out here. With access to I-75 and points east, west, north and south, it's no problem."

new building led to the decision to join him in the venture.

"We had outgrown the space we had in Troy," said Thomas. "We never could have built this building in Bloomfield Hills, nor rented a building this nice."

They designed the office to include strips of stained glass windows just below ceiling level to carry the light from the large windows into the central reception area.

"This particular building is turning into a pleasant place to work," she said. "It's just light and nice to work in."

VIEWPOINT

New tax law hits business owners

by Jim Sherman

Clarkston News Publisher

Those who criticize the administration in Washington for always taxing the lower incomes and not the higher haven't seen the newest tax structure.

It is aimed strictly at the higher incomes. It hits cars, country clubs, and entertainment.

Luxury cars, those costing more than $16,000 are out. All money spent for a company car over $16,000 is considered personal income and will be so taxed.

Those driving company cars will have to keep logs of each mile driven. The government says, "If it's a company car, it stays with the company, you don't drive it home." So, all to-and-from home trips are personal use of the car, as is every other mile not specifically logged as business.

This log has to be signed by the company car driver. In fact, it must be signed or the accountant cannot file the income tax return. The law holds CPA's liable if the log isn't signed when it's sent in with the return.

Said company car has to be driven over 51 percent of the time on company business or it is considered all personal and is taxable as income. Leased cars have the same restrictions.

The loophole-closer-tax does allow an employee to own a car and the company to pay him 20.5 cents a mile.

Country club dues are not out as a business expense, but the businessman-member had better be taking a client to lunch and talk business before playing golf. If that is done, it's creditable. The business talk should be written in the log, or on the check, with topic named.

If this routine isn't followed the expense becomes personal income and is so taxed.

The luxury car portion of the new tax took effect June 30. There are 15 other tax starting dates in the law. Consult your accountant for a specific starting time for particular portions of the tax.

Right now CPA's all over are attending seminars right and left to become fully aware of this new tax law. The 40-hour study per year required by CPA's is coming easy this year.
