Republicans sweep Independence

Lutz captures treasurer's seat from incumbent Ritter

By Marilyn Trumper

Independence Township voters followed national trends last night and sent local government rolling in the wake of Republican victories.

Incumbent Treasurer Frederick Ritter, a Democrat, was unseated after two terms while local GOP candidates captured landslide victories.

"It was a bad year to be a Democrat," Ritter said, surrounded by supporters in his home near the midnight hour. "I think the results were clear. I've worked hard for this community the last 10 years. I'm young, I'm looking forward to my future. I have no bitterness."

Then he quoted former New York Mayor Ed Koch, defeated in that city's last election.

"If God wanted me to have life tenure, he would have made me a federal judge."

John Lutz, Ritter's Republican opponent, celebrated with supporters at the Deer Lake Racquet Club.

"I'm speechless," Lutz said. "It looks like I creamed him. I'm dumbfounded. I thought things would have been a lot closer. I put a lot of time and effort into this. I'm a hard worker and I'm sure I'll do a good job."

Lutz received 5,027 votes to Ritter's 4,072.

In what Clerk Richard Holman termed "record voter turnout," 80-percent, or 10,370, of the township's 12,888 registered voters cast ballots, and had campaign workers counting totals until almost 2 a.m.

On the township board level, incumbent Holman, a Republican, beat Democratic opponent Floyd (Whitey) Tower, 5,841 to 2,834.

"I want to thank the voters of Independence for their vote of confidence," Holman said. "I pledge them my very best efforts over the next four years."

The lone Democratic candidate for trustee, Charles Smalley, suffered a sound defeat, capturing only 3,104 votes.

Victorious Republicans for trustee, incumbents William Vandermark, Dale Stuart and Daniel Travis received 6,280, 6,393 and 6,407 votes respectively.

Republican trustee candidate Carol Balzarini, the only woman on the board and the first since 1978, garnered 6,089 votes.

There was no race for the township supervisor's seat, won by Frank (Tink) Ronk in the primary election when he defeated two Republican opponents. Ronk received 6,959 votes last night.

Reagan landslide

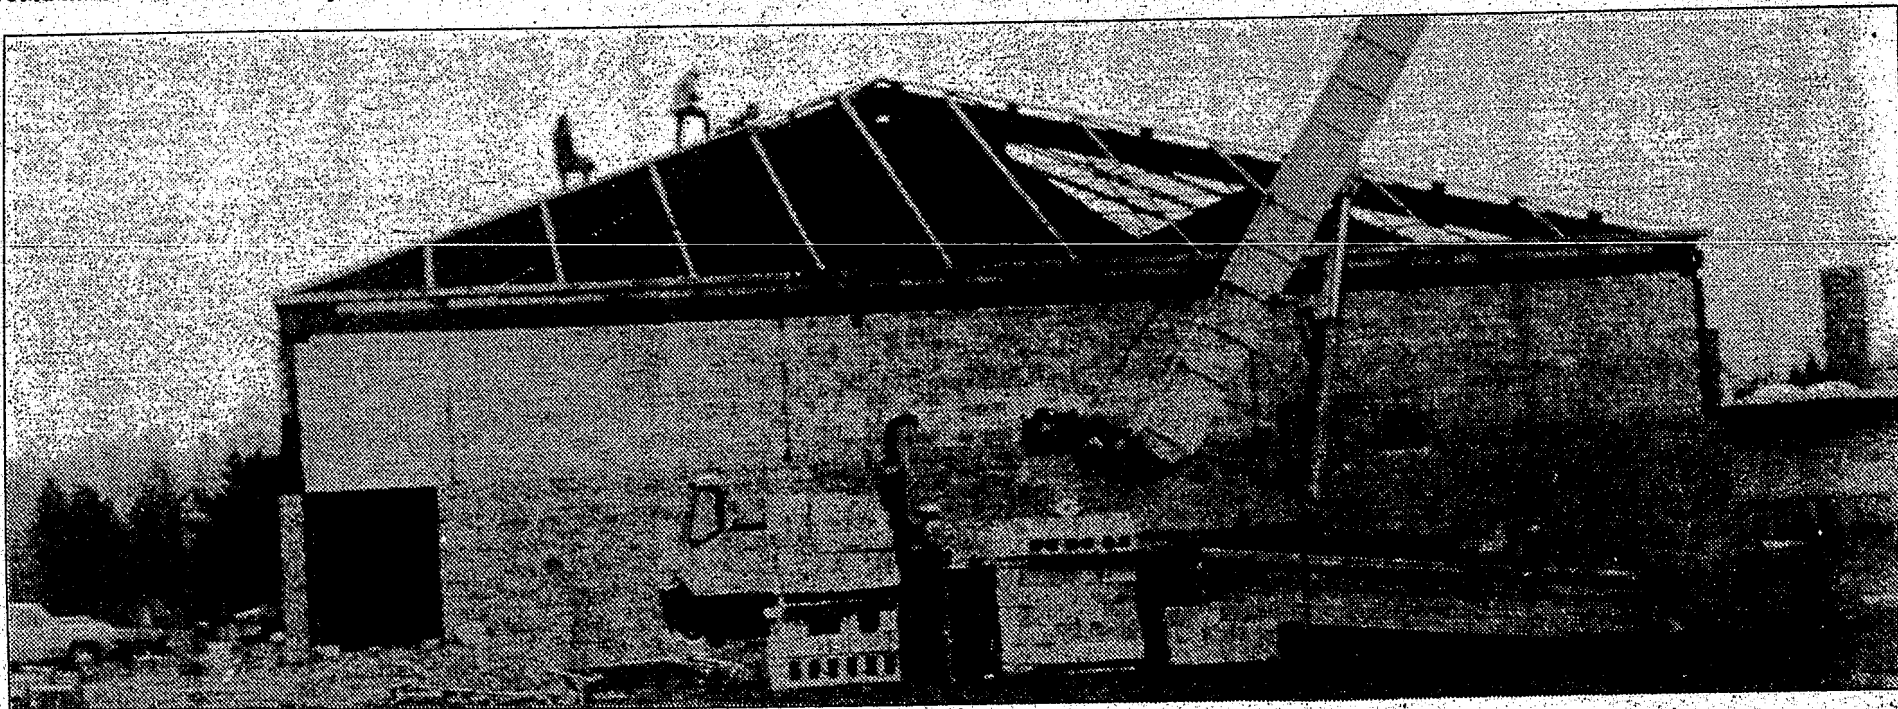

By Dan Vandenhemel

Springfield Township voters turned out in large numbers to help decide the presidential election.

Over 68 percent of the registered voters in the township went to the polls and overwhelmingly backed President Ronald Reagan. He received 2,567 votes to Democratic challenger Walter Mondale's 865.

The incumbents on the township board faced no opposition and were re-elected easily. Supervisor Colin Walls, Clerk Calvin Walters, Treasurer Patricia Kramer and trustees William Whitley and Glen Vermilye will all continue on the board for four-year terms.

In the nonpartisan 52nd District Court judge race, Gerald McNally out-tabulated Larence Kozma 1,509 to 943.

MULTIPURPOSE ROOM UPDATE: Work continues on Clarkston's four elementary school gymnasiums, and so far the only delays have been due to the rain, said Superintendent Milford Mason. Barring any unforeseen events, the gyms should be ready for gatherings long before the new physical education program begins in the fall of 1985. "...By April 1, or before, most of the rooms, if not all of them, will be available for use," said Mason. The Andersonville gym is the farthest along, then Clarkston Elementary, Pine Knob and Bailey Lake. The metal on the roof visible here on the Clarkston Elementary addition is a metal deck. Next comes insulation, then the final metal roof that will extend over the the sides to the finish-brick line. The goal is to complete the exteriors before extremely cold weather sets in, allowing interior work to follow. Grading, seeding and blacktopping is to be done in the spring. In June, school district voters approved construction of the four identical additions, for a total of $1.79 million. [Photo by Kathy Greenfield]

PAS study brings mixed reactions

By Marilyn Trumper

Reactions are mixed over the $10,000 study of Independence Township's Fire Department by Public Administration Services.

The McLean, Va., firm was hired last spring to review the department's three stations, its manpower and chain of command, vehicles, proposed capital expenditures and investment practices.

The 61-page report was discussed for two hours at a special Oct. 30 meeting of the Independence Township Board, where firefighters repeatedly challenged its findings.

Chief Frank Ronk disagrees with a proposal that the department have a full-time chief, captain and lieutenant, preferring instead a chief, two captains or an assistant chief and a captain, and three platoon lieutenants, one for each station.

And he challenges the study's recommendation to give lieutenant status to on-call volunteers who will then take charge of a scene before full-time firefighters arrive.

"I think the administrative personnel should be in a position to totally take charge of a scene," Ronk said, referring to full-time firefighters. "I think there's nothing wrong with on-call being able to do that, if full-time haven't arrived yet."

But he shies from creating problems between full-time and part-time firefighters.

"They've got to function and get along together. We're going to be working this way for a long time. For me to say things that would jeopardize that is wrong."

He also disagreed with the study's recommendation that the fire department use Fleet Ambulance service as its dispatcher.

"I wouldn't have a problem with that," Ronk said, "but I don't think they gave it enough of a study to make that recommendation. There's a question of cost, $10 a call, and a question of overlapping stations. There wasn't enough of a follow-up to make a decision on it."

Finally, Ronk disputes the study's findings on custom rigs versus commercial rigs.

"We do buy all commercial, we have no custom rigs, and (the study's writers) know that now," Ronk said, referring to the debate over definitions for custom versus commercial.

"Other than that, I thought it was a good study. They answered my questions. And like they said, it's only a recommendation, it's not etched in stone."

Supervisor James B. Smith says the study was worth the $10,000 investment.

"I still contend it's a very, very good report, and that we'll receive more than the full value for the money," he said.

"But there are some details that have to be worked out. I think their recommendations on dispatch are excellent and that the concept of two or three (firefighters) at each station makes good sense for the day when they have greater response. I don't know we need to go beyond that at night."

The board did not formally adopt the report, and instead directed the Fire Committee comprised of pediatrician James O'Neill, Roy Haeusler and Andrew Creamer to study it and make a recommendation at the Dec. 4 meeting.

The study has four pages of recommendations that range from who should be responsible for fire hydrant maintenance to relocating and building a new Station 2, a $525,000 project.

Outstanding educator

Springfield woman honored

By Marilyn Trumper

At 33, Peni Aldrich has been named Outstanding Career Educator of Oakland County, recognition the Springfield Township resident says is quite an honor.

A teacher/consultant for the Waterford School District, Peni's spent the last four years in career education, coordinating students with special needs in the vocational education program.

MACE, the Michigan Association of Career Education, surprised Peni with the award at its conference Sept. 24 and 25.

"I was very excited, and very honored," Peni said. "I've done a lot of work in career education and it's nice to know the people of Oakland County are aware of that."

MACE is a professional association for career education in Michigan, and gives awards in each district it oversees, districts that typically follow county lines, according to Peni.

Her main objective is to help students succeed in vocational programs. To encourage that, she's implemented the Sex-equity Program.

Once a month for the past two years, men and women working non-traditional jobs have spoken before both Waterford Township high schools. Speakers like female physicians, female truck drivers and male nurses draw a crowd of up to 200 each time they appear.

It's a popular program, according to Peni.

She's also centered in on expanding career options for 10th-graders, letting them know about options.

"It's sad, because so many of these kids have a tunnel vision about what's available to them," she said. "I want them to know they have many choices."

Peni Aldrich, a teacher/consultant in the Waterford School District, was named "Outstanding Career Educator of Oakland County." The Springfield Township resident lives on Ellis Road.

Chorus to sing

As a grand finale for the Clarkston Conservatory of Music's Silver Jubilee, the Wayne State University Chorus appears in concert at the Colombiere Chapel on Sunday, Nov. 11.

The concert is to begin at 4 p.m. There is no admission charge, but a free-will offering will be taken.

"They're superb," said Ivan Rouse, conservatory director. "They often appear with the Detroit Symphony."

The over 20-member chorus, conducted by Dennis Tini, performs music of all periods with emphasis on the 20th century.

Colombiere is located at 9075 Big Lake Rd., Springfield Township. For further information, call the conservatory at 625-3640.

Girl escapes injury from tainted candy

By Marilyn Trumper

A 5-year-old trick-or-treater on Mustang Drive found a straight pin in a piece of Bubble Yum Bubble Gum Halloween night, the only reported case in Independence Township.

Police from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department confiscated the gum, reports said, and notified the manufacturer.

Meagan Combs was not hurt when she bit into the gum, according to her mother Gloria.

"But she was real upset," Gloria said. "She wouldn't eat her candy. She was really quiet and just left her candy and watched TV. So we took it to McDonald's and they checked the rest of it. After that she was fine."

"It's good they harp on these kids with McGruff (the crime dog) in the schools and tell them to be careful. They need to know. But sometimes it may be too much. She was scared."

According to Combs, neighborhood parents and their children went trick-or-treating together in the subdivision off White Lake Road, south of Dixie Highway. Her daughter's treat was the only one tainted.

Volunteers at the Independence Township Fire Department checking candy with a metal detector reportedly inspected 50 bags of treats. No foreign objects were found.

At the Independence Township McDonald's restaurants, on Sashabaw Road and on Dixie Highway, over 100 bags of candy were checked Halloween night without incident, according to a company spokesperson.

Firm may deed township pit

By Marilyn Trumper

The Stolaruk Corp., owners of the abandoned 23-acre Stickey Gravel Pit on Stickney Road, have offered to deed the land to Independence Township and officials are weighing the proposal.

Stolaruk failed to meet a reclamation timetable set in 1982 and forfeited a $20,000 performance bond in June of this year, which will not cover the cost of reclamation.

As a result they've offered to deed the land to the township, which could then be sold, and the money used to pay for reclamation, according to Independence Township attorney Gerald Fisher.

"But we have other options, anything that's open to the creative mind," Fisher said.

The land could be sold as is for an extremely low price, for example the cost of reclamation, assuming the buyer would reclaim the land.

Or the township could use its own equipment to level and grade the site and turn it into a public park, Fisher suggested.

The Independence Township Board is expected to discuss its options at the Nov. 13 meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

News ad reunites girl and her cat Morris was missing for eight weeks

By Marilyn Trumper

Brigitte Brown's reunited with her three-legged cat Morris after his eight-week wander because of an ad a sharp-eyed Good Samaritan spotted in The Clarkston News.

"A couple of nights ago I heard a loud meow outside the doorwall of the family room, and I thought it was the neighbor's cat. But I didn't recognize him and he wouldn't go away, so I thought he was lost and hungry," said Natalie Kovacs, the person responsible for getting Morris back to the Brown home, just down the road from her home on Maybee Road, Independence Township.

Natalie, who says she has a "soft heart when it comes to animals" deferred to her husband's wishes and left the cat outside, but fed him anyway.

The next morning, Morris returned.

"He ate ravenously, and had a thick coat of fur. I noticed then he was missing his front leg and that he looked like TV's Morris. He had white paws, white chin and white tummy," she said. "I used to have a cat that looked like that, a cat I lost, and I get all misty whenever I think about him."

She fed him again.

"It was really bothering me," she said. "But I didn't let him in and then I thought maybe a vet would remember a three-legged cat. Then I thought, 'Boy, that sounds familiar.'"

"I always read The Clarkston News, but I rarely read the want ads. I just by chance happened to read everything in the paper, including the want ads, a few weeks before. And I remembered seeing a want ad for a three-legged cat."

Natalie made the call.

Staff at The Clarkston News looked up the number.

Natalie made the second call.

"I got the owner on the phone, she's a little girl,

"I'm just so happy" and she'd gotten some prank phone calls from the ad. I don't think she believed me. I said, 'Does your cat have its front right leg missing?'"

"Yes."

"Does he have gold eyes?"

"Yes."

"Is he an older cat?"

"Yes."

"Is he missing a front tooth in the front that's kind of worn?"

"Yes."

Brigitte knew she was getting Morris back.

Natalie drove the cat to the Brown home two and a half miles away.

Morris ran into the house.

Brigitte ran out.

"We were both almost crying," remembered Natalie. "It felt so good. It made my whole day."

According to Brigitte, the Browns just moved to the area from Warren, Ohio, and Morris was an outside cat there.

He meowed.

And bumped into them.

And ran to the door.

And meowed.

They refused to let Morris out until he mastered the lay of the land.

But his persistence paid off and when the family could take no more, Morris was let outside.

He escaped.

"I looked for him everywhere," Brigitte said.

"We were all upset. I cried and cried. I looked every day. I'm happy he's home. I'm just so happy."

Morris lost his front leg to an animal trap last year in Warren.

"It may be," said Natalie, "with that and his adventure, he's used a few of his nine lives."

Brigitte Brown gives her cat Morris a squeeze. After eight weeks of wandering, Morris was returned to the Brown family by a sharp-eyed Good Samaritan who spotted the lost cat ad in The Clarkston News.

Bus drivers go back to work

Clarkston schools settle field trip dispute

By Kathy Greenfield

A dispute between the Clarkston school district and its bus drivers has been settled—for the time being—and field trips are again underway in district buses.

Both sides said there was a need to take a stand, although their reasons were different.

About a week ago, the bus drivers refused to drive for any special trips, and later filed a grievance.

Because field trips had been planned, the district hired charter buses. By last Thursday, $1,200 had been spent on rentals, although only about half that amount was above what it would have cost for school bus drivers' salaries, fuel and other expenses.

On Thursday, the school board agreed withholding services was a violation of the contract, and voted 7-0 to file a lawsuit if the matter could not be settled quickly.

By Tuesday night, both sides said they believed a settlement had been reached. A limit of 14 students transported in the new school district van—with a coach, teacher or sponsor driving instead of a certified bus driver—was OK'd by negotiators from both sides.

"They told me they guaranteed this would be approved by the membership (the next morning)," said Conrad Bruce, chief negotiator for the school district.

"I think (the bus drivers) did do what they set out to do, in a way; maybe not entirely what they had in mind," said Margaret Western, chief negotiator for the bus drivers. "The trips are a big issue with the drivers because many are sole supporters of families."

The problem festered after the board purchased a 16-passenger van this year. Teachers, coaches and sponsors used it transport small athletic teams or groups of students on field trips.

The district said it was no different than using the two nine-passenger station wagons used previously. One of the station wagons is still used for field trips, and the other is in ill repair and expected to be retired soon.

The bus drivers said there were 15 small-group trips in the van so far this year versus five trips taken in station wagons all last year.

Bruce and Western said they expect the issue to surface again when negotiations on the next contract begin. The present bus drivers' contract expires June 30, 1985.

Pet tiger on board agenda

By Marilyn Trumper

William Murdock's not giving up his son's 100-pound pet Siberian Tiger, Athena, or the family's bobcat, and his attorney has asked for a formal hearing before the Independence Township Board.

In September, the township board agreed the zoning ordinance allows exotic animals only in recreational zoning like zoos, and that the tiger is illegal because it isn't specifically listed in the ordinance as an allowed animal.

Murdock, whose son has the federal permits needed to have both animals in their northwest township home, has said the tiger was raised in captivity from birth and is caged.

Federal law allows endangered species to be domesticated if they're raised in captivity from birth.

In addition, the animal's been declawed and couldn't live in a zoo with other tigers.

In an earlier interview, Murdock said Athena wrestles with his son like a dog and rides in the cab of his son's pick-up truck.

A hearing on the issues been scheduled at the Nov. 13 meeting of the Independence Township Board at 7:30 p.m. in the Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Cancellation

The Clarkston Community Historical Society program for Nov. 13 featuring James G. Genco, author of "To the Sound of Musketry and Tap of the Drum" has been postponed.

Tentatively it has been rescheduled for mid-March. Genco was recently profiled in the Clarkston News for his collection of letters from a Clarkston civil war soldier.

3 bucks down

By Kathy Greenfield

Three Oakland County Sheriff's Department deputies got their bucks, but none of them went hunting to do it.

Instead, the trio were involved in separate car-deer crashes spread over the last five weeks in Independence and Springfield townships.

"You talk about a lot of guys who go up north and don't even see a deer," said Deputy Ed Stout. "There's a lot of deer around here, more than people realize."

Five weeks ago, Stout was off-duty when he was driving home and struck a six-point buck on Dixie Highway about one-quarter mile south of Big Lake Road.

"I gave mine to a firefighter who cleaned it and gave me a couple roasts," he said. "It was a nice six-pointer. They both got eight-pointers."

The other two crashes occurred when the deputies were on duty, resulting in damages to police cars.

About three weeks ago, Deputy Mike Johnson of the traffic division hit a deer in almost the same location as Stout's crash. Sunday night, Deputy Sue Tobin's deer collision happened at about 10:53 p.m. on northbound I-75 about one-tenth mile west of M-15.

"There's a lot of humor to it," said Stout, "but if you talk about expenses, there's a lot of property damage."

New post OK'd

By Marilyn Trumper

The Independence Township Board has sanctioned creation of a new union position, apprentice inspector, to ultimately groom for takeover of director of building and planning.

Current Director Kenneth Delbridge is still negotiating for union approval, and says the $18,000-a-year job will have the title of electrical inspector trainee.

Interviews for the in-house publicized job begin next week, Delbridge said.

"We're offering it first to in-house personnel. We're not advertising it in the paper," Delbridge said. "The person could eventually takeover my job. We have to have some kind of training program set up and this is it."

At its special meeting Oct. 30, the Independence Township Board authorized the new post with one dissenting vote, from Trustee Dale Stuart.

"I think it needs to be well thought out before it's implemented, not that I don't think it's a good idea, or that we need it," Stuart said. "The salary that is going to be paid hasn't been carefully thought out. It's just another example of doing something at the last minute and jamming it down our throats."

Election results

For the sixth time since 1976, voters defeated a proposed 1/2 mill for police, 3,935 to 3,288.

And in the township's nonpartisan race for 52nd District Court, voters supported 16-year veteran of the bench Judge Gerald E. McNally over challenger Lawrence Kozma, 3,745 to 3,304 to. At the time The Clarkston News went to bed, results were not available from the townships of Brandon, Holly and Groveland, also voting in the judicial race. Springfield supported McNally, 1,509 to 943.

"Tonight we're tired, but we're also relieved and elated," McNally said from his home. "It was a thorough and complete campaign on both our parts. It's the will of the people; the supreme law of the land. The laws are what we choose to live by."

Kozma was reached at his Independence Township home.

"We knew it was going to be difficult running against an incumbent, but we're not ashamed of what we tried to accomplish," he said. "We knew we were right, and it's something that had to be done."

Independence Township resident Tom Ritter did well at home. The Republican challenger for Democrat Bob Carr's seat in the U.S. Congress, he garnered 5,154 votes to Carr's 4,291.

In the presidential race, President Ronald Regan captured 7,560 Independence Township votes to his Democratic challenger Walter Mondale's 2,268.

Hooray!

Kathy
Greenfield

When the Ritter house rolled into downtown Clarkston Thursday, the only things missing were the balloons.

People brought their babes in strollers and they brought their dogs—and almost everyone brought a camera.

Classes of children from Clarkston Elementary School lined Main Street.

Some watched intently while their teacher pointed out related events, like the removal of tree branches hanging out far enough to damage the historic home.

Another lively group of pupils chanted "Give me an 'R', give me an 'I', give me a 'T'," and so on, until they got to: "What does it spell? Ritter, Ritter, Ritter!"

The main people in the drama added bits of humor.

Tom Ritter, in the midst of running a campaign for the 6th District Congressional seat, joked that it was the most exciting thing that's happened all year. His "Ritter for Congress" signs on the sides and back of the house added political hoopla to the parade atmosphere.

Hank Radcliff was smiling and giving the "thumbs up" sign. Also obviously pleased was his wife, Jennifer, who kept her camera snapping to record the event. Their son, Miles, manned a video camera for possible cable-TV posterity (if he ever got the battery problem straightened out). The Radcliffs purchased the home from the Ritters and their lot next to the village parking lot is now its new home.

The rain held off until the house was approaching downtown Clarkston, but many people were prepared with umbrellas—and many more clustered under overhangs to watch every moment.

The crowd didn't thin out despite the chill of the cold drops. They watched intently until the home was moved on the lot.

I'm told the house is an excellent example of the Italian cube-style of architecture.

But the important thing is the beautiful 120-year-old home that didn't fall victim to the wrecking ball because its original Dixie Highway site became a perfect place for a fast-food restaurant.

Hooray to Clarkston for showing it cares!

On my soapbox

This job from my perspective

Marilyn Trumper

Like police, physicians and attorneys, newspaper reporters are comfortable confidants.

We see the best, and the worst of life.

And people know it.

They tell us their secrets, their dreams, their fantasies and horror stories, without a thought to how it affects us.

They know we can take it.

Or believe we can.

And because we have to take it to do our job, we grow tough. Sometimes insensitive, indifferent, cold.

We're there when a 17-year-old girl is killed in a head-on car accident. We talk to the father with tear-stained cheeks who hands over his daughter's recent high school graduation picture and talks about how wonderful she was.

We listen to a husband mourn the loss of his wife who died after suffering third-degree burns in a fire that destroyed the family house.

We talk to parents who struggle to understand a freak motorcycle accident that took the life of their two-year-old son.

We see a woman who falls asleep behind the wheel on I-75 and arrive as firefighters cover her broken body after it's gone through the windshield.

Because we see so much tragedy, people feel comfortable telling us their black secrets.

They let us into their private lives.

They'll discuss their husband's drinking problem.

Their years in analysis.

The family's finances.

The fact their last child was unplanned.

Or their daughter's marrying a Catholic, and they don't approve.

They tell us things they tell no others.

And trust in the fact off-the-record means the conversation will go no further.

Hollywood and Lou Grant immortalized the tight-lipped reporter who'll sit in jail under contempt of court citation rather than reveal a source.

And all that is true.

And all of what we do, all of what we write and how we write it affects lives.

From a simple baby announcement that's clipped for posterity, to a bankrupt multi-million-dollar complex sold on the federal court's auction block.

We print their names.

We write the headlines.

It's printed in thousands of copies mailed to thousands of homes and on dozens of newstands.

Often what we write seriously impacts people's lives.

Reporters tend to get lost in their work, in the deadlines, in the routine, and forget that.

A year ago a 26-year-old man walked into my office and asked to see the person who wrote this. He pointed to a two-inch blurb on a back page that reported his second conviction for indecent exposure.

Why had we written it?

And why had we printed his name?

His girlfriend was upset, knew nothing of his past, and planned to dump him.

People pointed to him on the street.

His job was in jeopardy.

Didn't we know that what we print affects other people's lives?

Then he buried his face in his hands and began sobbing.

In this case, despite the burning in my belly, I'd done my job.

In this instance it was obvious the man had a problem, a history of repeat arrests and convictions of exposing himself to store clerks.

The public had a right to know he exhibited this type of behavior.

In the least store clerks had a right to know.

I explained that court documents are public record.

That what we printed was the truth, the details of a crime and a conviction.

I was sorry for the way it had and might affect his life, and suggested he seek professional help to alter his behavior.

I wasn't sorry for doing my job.

And I didn't lose any sleep.

But it wasn't an easy encounter.

And it served as a vivid reminder that what newspapers write significantly impacts people's lives.

Jim's Jottings

Forget me not

Jim Sherman

This is being written the Thursday preceding the election. I have some things to say that won't be remembered five minutes after they are read. That's the way politicians speak. They know the memory of the public is three days at most.

The politicians tell us anything they think we want to hear at the time, which may be different when next you meet.

I have never met a politician who wasn't for everything and against the same things. They talk so much, covering every subject known to man, then when the need arises they can say, "I was a co-sponsor of that bill."

In this current election, have you heard anyone say they supported any tax increase, ever? Yet, somebody did cause our taxes, licenses, and fees to go up.

Everyone of them voted to decrease deficits, yet debts continue to rise.

Everyone in Washington voted against increases in defense spending, yet it goes up annually. I learned one thing about defense spending in this election. Politicians do not call spending an increase if it goes up, say three percent. Spending more money this year than last is not an increase.

Only when spending is more than the rate of inflation is it an increase. Of course, every politician singularly brought inflation down, and none of them caused it to go up in the first place.

Another thing every politician is, whether in office or seeking it, is a leader. "Elect me; elect a leader," they shout.

Well, if those in Lansing and Washington are such great leaders, why can't they get their colleagues to do what our boys say is right. Carl Levin, in one interview I heard, said how many tax increases he opposed. He was asked, "Then how did we get the increases?" The other guys did it. So where's the home state leadership?

Then there's Walter Mondale in the last two weeks of the presidential campaign shouting, "Polls don't vote, people do."

"Everywhere I go I find a great enthusiasm. There's an excitement that doesn't show up in the polls," he said.

Mondale doesn't exactly hang out at Republican sponsored rallies. It would be quite shocking if he didn't find crowds cheering and stomping where he has an appearance planned.

Oh, well, on to 2-4 and 6 more years, depending on the office, of more wasteful and unnecessary federal spending, give-aways to other states, and increases to the deficits . . . all of which will not be voted on by any incumbent seeking to be returned to office.

Letters to editor

Cost corrections

Your October 24 issue refers to a total cost for the proposed widening of M-15 from Dixie to Paramus at $650,000, with the township's share to be $300,000. I don't know where you obtained such figures.

The state's latest written estimate to the township indicates a total cost of $897,000 for a five-lane configuration, with a total cost to the township of $148,000.

With a three-lane configuration, requiring deceleration and acceleration lanes and a reduction in the number of accesses and ingresses to the highway, the total cost projected by the state is $958,000, with a total township share of $151,000.

Under the present funding plans, the state and federal government will pick up 100 percent of the paving cost and drainage sufficient to serve the highway and one lot to the east and one lot to the west.

The drainage portion of the total cost is estimated at $423,000 for the five-lane configuration and $432,000 for the three-lane configuration.

Under a formula agreed upon six years ago, the state would pay 40 percent of the total drainage cost, the Oakland County Road Commission 35 percent, and Independence Township 25 percent.

These costs reflect the added expense of increasing the drainage sufficiently to accommodate runoff from the area east of M-15 up to the high school, down the highway, and off to the disposal area west of the highway near Dixie.

They all told us the same thing—the dealership was under no obligation to do anything.

Then we called the dealership and explained our situation. They didn't hesitate. The service manager himself drove a tow truck to Onaway and brought the car back to their garage and they replaced the transmission at no charge.

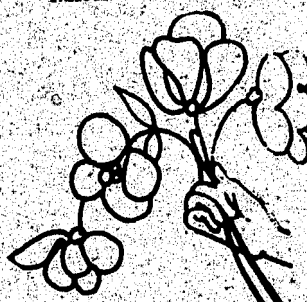

I don't know any other dealer who would go to that much trouble and expense to maintain good relations with a customer.

Too often the public has been presented a dishonest image of used car dealers. This dealership obviously intends to change that image. Thank you, Robin and Randy.

Coaches thanked

We would like to take this opportunity to express our thanks and appreciation to Mr. John Craven and Mr. Dave Smith, football coaches at Clarkston Junior High.

Their willingness to accept, teach and play over 50 boys this year provided many of those youngsters with the once-in-a-lifetime thrill of playing organized football; an experience most of them will not likely soon forget.

Ours was one of those boys and we know he won't—neither will his parents.

Thank you, both, again.

Ron and Trish Call

Cheers for dealer

Hooray—used car dealers are honest and human after all—contrary to their negative public image.

Friday afternoon of the Labor Day weekend, we purchased an inexpensive used car from our local Pontiac dealer in Clarkston. Although we were given a very limited warranty, we weren't concerned because the car looked and sounded great.

We drove the car 220 miles north to Onaway and parked it for the weekend. Imagine our surprise Monday morning when we started home and the transmission went out.

We were stranded 220 miles from home with quotes of $1,000 and a week to fix the car. We called the state department, the loan company and an attorney, fully expecting no cooperation from the dealership.

We welcome our readers' opinions. Letters to the Editor must arrive at The Clarkston News office by noon Monday to be considered for publication in Wednesday's paper. *Chemicals Are Trouble. People Are Working.

Dear Readers:

I would like to clarify and elaborate on an answer regarding "Angel Dust" that appeared in a recent column.

"Angel Dust," which originally was a nickname for the very desirable and very expensive combination of heroin and cocaine in the early '60s, has now changed in content since dealers found it much more economical to substitute PCP for one or both drugs, thus making today's nickname of "Angel Dust" refer to PCP.

PCP is a tranquilizer for animals, also known as "hog." It produces a feeling of numbness in arms and legs, and hallucinations.

When sprinkled on tobacco or marijuana cigarettes, or taken in capsules, PCP can create temporary psychosis very much like acute schizophrenia. It often leads to paranoia and has been linked to serious violence. (Information source: "Do It Now Foundation.")

Dear Cat Paw:

I know someone who takes diet pills like they are going out of style, but still eats a lot of junk food. Is she hooked on them?

Caring Person

Dear Caring:

Probably, since people with a history of sustained low-dose use quite often become dependent and feel they need the drug to get by.

The fact that your friend eats a lot of junk food only indicates that she is not using good judgment nutritiously—but then, people who use diet pills without the supervision of a doctor are not too concerned about their physical health or they wouldn't be taking the pills.

Dear Cat Paw:

What are some stimulants?

Remote attempt

Jim Fitzgerald

Since the great breakup of AT&T, people keep asking me if I understand my monthly phone bill. That is embarrassing. For fear of what I might see, I haven't looked at a phone bill in 25 years.

I even shield my eyes on those rare occasions when I use the family checkbook, because I'm afraid to see how much money my wife sent Michigan Bell. She talks on the phone so much that recently I was chagrined to find myself unconsciously doing the weirdest thing I've ever done, no contest.

I was watching TV and she was sitting across the living room, halfway through a typical 90-minute phone conversation. I couldn't help hearing that she was telling someone an outrageous exaggeration of something innocent I'd done at a party the night before.

So, without even thinking about it, I picked up the TV remote-control device, pointed it at her and pressed the mute button.

IT DIDN'T work. But shades of Rod Serling—what if it had? What if it were possible to tune out people the same as TV commercials? I wouldn't mind paying taxes if the government would quit launching hardware into space and start working on the technology that this nation really needs.

Anyway, because I'm afraid to read phone bills, I had no idea what "intralata" meant. That word was brought to my attention by a Birmingham resident, Norman Weston, whose story is fairly typical of those I hear from people driven bonkers by multipaged, mystery-coded phone bills.

"The other day, I received my Michigan Bell Telephone bill. This used to be a fairly routine matter, especially since the children left home and most of the calls are known to me or my wife. But now this is an exciting document," Weston said. "On page 3 of my Sept. 25 bill it says:

"THE MICHIGAN PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION HAS NOT AUTHORIZED AT&T COMMUNICATIONS TO PROVIDE INTRALATA TELEPHONE SERVICES."

Intralata sounds musical to me. I might have guessed that AT&T wasn't authorized to syncopate my dial tone. But Norman Weston wasn't content to guess. He looked it up.

"I guess I will have to get a new dictionary since intralata does not appear in mine. The closest word is 'intralamellar.' This has to do with a lamella or lamellae, of the trama in agarics. Not really helpful," Weston said. "I do find that lamella is, among other things, one of the bony concentric layers surrounding the Haversian canals. (Clopton Havers, as everybody knows, was a physician in 17th Century England—before telephones were in general use).

WESTON FINALLY called the number that people with questions about their phone bills are told to call. "A very nice lady told me that intralata meant that Michigan Bell couldn't handle my calls beyond the 313 area. And she added: 'I don't know why they didn't just say so.'

"It has occurred to me that this may relate back to some bony concentric layers in the communicators in our vast telephone system," Weston said.

I asked my wife if intralata showed up on our phone bills. She told me where the bills are kept and suggested I look for myself. I broke out in a cold sweat. I said I was afraid I might inadvertently discover the amount of the bill and have a heart attack and die.

I wanted to say several other things—but I was stopped in midsentence. Without even thinking about it, my wife discovered that a TV remote-control device works better on people if, instead of pointing, you throw it at them.

alertness and activity. They include caffeine, cocaine and amphetamines.

Dear Cat Paw:

How does cocaine get you high?

Joe Noseless

Dear Joe:

Coke that is taken through the nostrils gets into the bloodstream through the mucous membranes. It constricts the blood vessels and reduces the blood supply, thus drying up the nose.

It is also worth noting that if coke is snorted, the coke will expose cartilage, perforate the septum, and eventually eat a hole right through to your brain. ☹

Dear Cat Paw:

What determines how intoxicated a person can get?

Not Signed

Dear Not Signed:

It depends on the level of alcohol in your blood. There are variables which affect the impact of the alcohol.

These include the size of the drinker. A 100-pound drinker will have a higher blood alcohol level than a 180-pound drinker consuming the same amount of alcohol in a given period of time.

If you are tired or tense, or taking medication—even a cold pill—one drink may hit you surprisingly hard. Even your mood can affect the level of alcohol on you. ☹

To ask questions about drugs or alcohol, write C.A.T. P.A.W. in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016. Letters need not be signed.

Editor's note: The authors of C.A.T. P.A.W. are Jeanette Sanders and Sue Ludwig. Sanders is co-chairperson of The Chemical People of Clarkston, a group devoted to the prevention of drug and alcohol abuse among youth in the community. Ludwig is a member of the group's education committee.

The next meeting of The Chemical People of Clarkston is Thursday, Nov. 29, at 7:30 p.m. at the Clarkston school district administration office, 6389 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township. (Fred Baumann, 625-9600)

Eagle scout

By Dan Vandenhemel

White water canoeing, hiking and camping through mountains are just part of what a Boy Scout does. The other part is hitting the books and working toward the ultimate goal, the Eagle Award.

Mike Morrissey has done all of the above in Troop 49 in Clarkston.

But the 16-year-old junior at Clarkston High School got started a little late in scouting. He didn't join until he was 13 years old. Most join when they are 11.

"I started as a Cub Scout when I was eight, but when I graduated from that I never signed up with the Boy Scouts," said the Sagamore Drive, Independence Township, resident. "I had an older cousin that was in scouting and got me back into it."

It's paid off for Mike and his troop. He's acquired 41 merit badges. Only 21 are required for the Eagle Award, the highest honor a scout under 18 years old can receive.

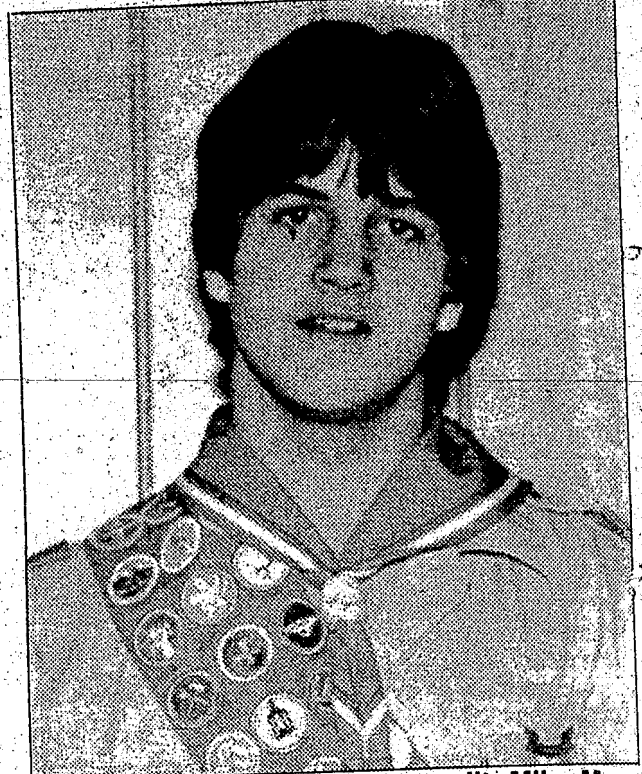

For the troop based out of St. Daniel's Church in Clarkston, the rewards have been piling up.

Mike helped troop master Don Bookie get donations so the troop could buy a used school bus. With some extras like two donated air-conditioning units, the group of 42 boys have transportation to their activities.

Bookie said they needed the bus badly, because with that many boys it was hard to find enough parents willing to help drive them around.

"I don't think we would have had a troop without Mike's help," Bookie said. "He noticed I needed some help with the boys and stepped in. He's got all the troop records on his computer."

"Getting the Eagle Award is not common," he added. "There are 20,000 scouts in the Clinton Valley Council and in one calendar year maybe 100 qualify for the award. That says something about the Eagle Award."

With 41 merit badges to his credit, Mike Morrissey received the Eagle Award from the Boy Scouts of America.

Tracy and Julie Chin aren't your everyday students at CJHS. They and their parents recently came to America from China.

Julie and Tracy both attend CJHS with the help of Mrs. Jessie Hirt, who has been doing a super job teaching them. She is the English as a Second Language aide and was hired by the school district.

The girls have been here since Sept. 22 and are learning a lot of English.

Julie is 13 and Tracy is 11. They both have a hard day. First, they have Mrs. Hirt for four hours. Then they go to regular classes with other students. Both Tracy and Julie like to learn and they feel it's a privilege to learn.

Julie doesn't like to eat American food. She doesn't like to eat U.S. candy. But Tracy likes to go to McDonald's and loves potato chips and orange juice.

So the next time you see them, say hello to them. It will help a lot.

Staci Cool, Erin Wollesen and Alison Hubbs have been named to the MSVA State Honors Choir.

The honors choir is composed of students from all over the state. They meet on Saturdays at various locations throughout the state to rehearse.

Their activities will be capped in January with a performance at Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor for choral directors from the entire state.

Laura Sutton, Ann McClellan and Rachel Young also auditioned for the choir.

This school year 40 people joined the intramural soccer program. This soccer program was open to all seventh- and eighth-graders, boys and girls. It was coached by Mr. Tom Smith and Mr. Ray Cooper.

They played practice games once a week and played actual games twice a week.

Team Three, which was coached by Dana Austin, the only girl on the team, won the season games and the playoffs.

"She led her team on to victory," Mr. Cooper said.

This week's contributors were Chris Watson, Tracy Hallett and Stacy Roy.

Runner reaps awards at finals

By Dan Vandenhemel

Cold and windy conditions, and being buried in the middle of 89 other cross country runners didn't keep Kathleen McNinnis from running the best time of her life.

The sophomore at Clarkston High School became the first girl performer to make the All-State team for cross country with her fifth place finish in the state finals.

Strong winds and temperatures dipping into the 40s in Howell on Nov. 3 didn't affect the 15-year-old, neither did nervousness about the big race.

"The start of the race came so fast I didn't have time to get nervous," McNinnis said. "I was happy with my time. I was close to fourth place, just a fraction away. There was a lot of competition there."

Her finish wasn't a surprise to either one of the Wolves' coaches, Mike Kaul or Mike Taylor.

Taylor said their goal for McNinnis was to finish seventh. The top seven runners were placed on the All-State team.

"We thought she had a chance for All-State," he said. "She might have had third place if she ran real well. She missed fourth by a couple of steps and that's because she started her kick too late."

McNinnis ran the 5-kilometer course in 19:09, her fastest time of the season.

"She moved up all race," Taylor said. "She started slow, then caught fire. She accelerated the whole race. The farther she ran the faster she got. She probably would've been third but she ran out of distance. The two runners in front of her were dying."

Throughout the year, she was undefeated in league meets, finished second in the Oakland County meet and ran third in the regionals that qualified her for the state finals.

McNinnis, along with Jeff Toretta, were voted the most valuable on the Wolves' team this year by their teammates. Toretta, like McNinnis, was never challenged by other members of the teams for the top spot in the lineup.

A little warm-up in the rain must have helped Kathleen McNinnis prepare for the state finals.

The sophomore cross country runner finished fifth in the state.

Wolves win by one, 45-44

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Clarkston Wolves made a dramatic comeback to edge Pontiac Northern, 45-44, in girls' basketball, but the night belonged to Kim Ottman.

The senior guard owned the basketball court at Pontiac Northern, scoring 27 points including the two victory-clinching free throws with 35 seconds left in the contest.

Coach Dave McDonald said it's the highest point total anyone has had for him since he began coaching at Clarkston six years ago.

"I'm still shaking," said Ottman about an hour after the game. "I may never play that well ever again."

The Wolves weren't playing very well for the first three quarters of the game and trailed, 32-25. Ottman scored 12 points in the final eight minutes and Michelle Taulbee added all her six points for 18 of the 20 Wolves' points in the final frame.

"That was the finest game I've seen," McDonald said. "It was her night. Some days you need that to lift the team."

The Wolves had lost two straight, to Waterford Kettering and Mott, before entering the gym at Northern. Earlier in the season, the Wolves handled the Huskies with ease in Clarkston, but on their home court, the Huskies can be tough.

"It's not easy playing there," McDonald said. "Northern played well the whole game. We switched offenses and were able to open it up. That's when you hope your scorers come through."

One problem the Wolves had in the beginning of the game was rebounding, or the lack of it. The Huskies dominated the boards while the Wolves couldn't put the ball through the hoop. Bridget Kilcline came off the bench and hauled in 12 rebounds to slow the trouble.

McDonald is thankful for Ottman and Taulbee doing the scoring most of the time, and he also has praise for Laura Hurren.

"Laura doesn't get the credit she deserves," he said. "She brings the ball up the court. She gets it to Kim and Michelle. She always is looking at the best defensive player on the floor. Without her, I don't think we'd be 8-6. She's a tough girl."

The Seer

Found in the Clarkston News mailslot Monday morning.

Seer here. What a nice start for my career in Clarkston. You hosers did everything I thought you would. For the six games I forecast for Clarkston, all six were right. A small round of applause would be nice.

Granted that last game with West Bloomfield wasn't the toughest to predict. The Lakers were finishing off a bad season and Clarkston wanted to go out like they started, winning.

I'll give some credit to the Wolves, though. You could've pitched the last game in and not cared about it. For that, I'll give you a small standing ovation.

But just because the football season is over, don't think I'm going to disappear. I'll be taking a small vacation before putting my perfect record on the line with the boys' varsity basketball games. See you in December!

Cougars even score with Wolverines, 8-6

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Sashabaw Cougars got even with the Clarkston Wolverines last Wednesday.

The Cougars had lost three straight football games to their cross-town rivals before coming up with the 8-6 victory, Oct. 31.

The last two games, the Wolverines came out on top by identical 22-20 scores.

"It was a typical Clarkston-Sashabaw football game," said Wolverine coach John Craven. "I thought Sashabaw played a good game. It was a dogfight all the way."

The Cougars scored first with less than a minute to go in the opening half. Keenan Powell took off around the left side and scored from 5 yards away. He also caught the 2-point conversion toss from Mark Galan to go ahead, 8-0.

The Wolverines put their points on the board the same way they have all year, on a Stacey Turner touchdown. Just before time ran out in the third quarter, he bulled over from the 2-yard line to give him a school record of 18 touchdowns. He also owns the record for most points in a season, 118.

"He's not big but has lightning speed," Craven said.

Turner gained 948 yards on the ground in just eight games. He failed to gain 100 yards in three games, two were against Sashabaw.

"I think the defense was the key to the game," Cougars' coach Steve Pearson said. "Mike Gilbert played his first game since his back injury in the first game of the season and played a great game. We stopped their outside game, but they still ran the ball very well. It was a tough, tough football game."

The contest ends the season for both teams. Clarkston stands at 6-3 and the Cougars are 4-4-1.

"You can throw the records out when we meet," Craven said. "We're so evenly matched. I'm disappointed with the loss but not with the season, not at all. I don't think we were gypped or Sashabaw was lucky. They really earned the win."

In a separate phone interview following the game, Pearson echoed Craven's thoughts about the season.

Wolves finish 5-4

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Clarkston Wolves' football team rode the elevator all year, and after their final game, the doors opened on the top floor.

The Wolves dominated West Bloomfield in the season finale, 13-0, to lift their record to 5-4. The Lakers emptied out at 2-7.

With the victory, the Wolves salvaged a winning mark after starting with a 4-1 record, then dropping three before the West Bloomfield game.

This is the third straight year the Wolves have beaten the Lakers in the closing game of the season. This time Erik Kline led the charge.

The senior started his first game at quarterback after spending the entire year as a receiver and captained the Wolves to over 200 yards on offense. He also intercepted two passes, stopping Laker drives.

The Wolves' first touchdown came on a 21-yard run by Kline with 37 seconds left in the opening quarter. Mike Galley split the uprights for the extra point.

Both teams wasted scoring possibilities with turnovers and penalties. Two of Kline's throws were intercepted and the Wolves picked off four thrown by the Lakers.

"I've got to give this team a lot of credit," he said. "They never gave up. It would have been easy to say, 'Hey, we're 2-4-1, let's wait for basketball season.' They didn't say that. It took a lot to stay in the season and come back and win the last two games."

Whitewash closes season

"The seniors really wanted this one."

—Walt Wyniemko

Kline was one of the many seniors for the Wolves playing their last game for Clarkston. Wyniemko said that was one of the big reasons for the victory.

"This is a good feeling," he said after the game. "The seniors really wanted this one. They've never had a winning season until now. The seniors, the whole team just played a good game."

The defense kept the Wolves in the game, while the offense struggled, and notched their second shutout of the season. The first was a 7-0 blanking of Romeo in the opening game.

"The defense has been a big part of the success," Wyniemko said. "Like I've said, we've got a young team, and at times we've sputtered, but overall I'm very pleased with the season."

Rivals split season series

Basketball battle goes to Wolverines

By Dan Vandenhemel

Low scoring and high intensity. That's what the Clarkston-Sashabaw girls' basketball game was like.

When the two junior highs meet, the emotions run high. The game on Nov. 1 ended in Clarkston's favor, 30-22.

With the Wolverines' win, the teams split the two-game season series. Sashabaw won the opener, 39-34, on Oct. 13.

Wolverine coach Denny Bronson said the difference in the game was his team's defense and the Cougars' inability to put the ball in the basket.

"They shot the ball enough," Bronson said after the game. "We played better defense in this game. Our defense kept them from getting the free shots."

Shooting the ball wasn't a strong point for either team. Clarkston got off 56 shots and made seven. Sashabaw was eight for 68.

The key to the victory for the Wolverines came from the free-throw line. They made 16 out of 32 shots. The Cougars made only six from the charity stripe.

"We took a ton of shots," Cougar coach Nancy Foster said in a separate interview. "We knew we had to shoot more than Clarkston, but the ball just didn't go in the hoop. It was like there was a lid on the basket."

Michelle Baker took control of the scoring for the Wolverines with 12 points and Stacey Shurtz pushed in seven for the Cougars.

The score wasn't close for much of the contest and that hurt Sashabaw's comeback. In the first meeting between the schools, the largest margin in the score, five points, was at the final buzzer.

"I sort of thought we were out of it when we were down by seven in the fourth quarter," Foster said. "Then we came within three and I thought we were back in it. The free throws really hurt us, but I guess it evens out. We won that way the first time."

Mostly what the Clarkston-Sashabaw junior high basketball game looked like was a track meet with both teams running up and down the court. The Wolverines came out on top, 30-22.

2 elementaries, high school support Reagan

Students vote Republican in mock elections

By Marilyn Trumper

Traditionally, mock elections held by students in the Clarkston school district are an indication of how their parents will be voting at Independence Township polls.

Last week it was a Republican landslide at Pine Knob Elementary School where 380 cast votes for incumbent Republican President Ronald Reagan to Democratic challenger Walter Mondale's 90.

At Bailey Lake Elementary, it was Reagan 224 and Mondale 41.

And in government classes at Clarkston High School where students voted on all the issues and candidates, Reagan was the favorite 203 to Mondale's 38.

Students supported the proposed half-mill increase for police 80 to 67, and favored incumbent Democrat for U.S. Congress Bob Carr to his challenger Republican Tom Ritter, an Independence Township resident. The vote, a close 123 to 120.

In the race between incumbent U.S. Senator Democrat Carl Levin, students favored Republican challenger Jack Lousma 148 to 82.

They approved Proposal A, 82 to 73, which would ensure elected officials make the final decision on lawmaking, rather than non-elected officials.

Students approved the land trust law, 121 to 37, and soundly defeated Proposal C, 121 to 46, which would rollback taxes to 1981 levels.

Independence Township Clerk Richard Holman shows Pine Knob Elementary School pupils how to work the voting machine as they line-up to practice. Because all grades, K-6, voted, the machines included pictures of the presidential candidates, Ronald Reagan and Walter Mondale. Reagan won in a landslide, 360-90.

As the mixture of "Nuts and Bolts" cooks in the oven, its scent fills the air in the church hall where members of the "Bakery Deli" committee work on packaging homemade goodies. Carolyn Rice pulls out a large pan of the traditional holiday treat and smiles as she stirs.

Margaret Stewart places packages of homemade cheese-flavored almonds and jars of spiced tea in a basket for display.

Dorothy Fancher, chairperson of the cookbook committee, scans the 230 recipes inside "Our Kitchen Sampler."

Handiwork art

Last year's His Handiwork Arts and Crafts Show was such a success, the holiday event is making a repeat Friday and Saturday, Nov. 9 and 10, at the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection.

Hours of the sale are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. both dates. Over 40 crafters are expected, said chairperson Susan Augur.

"We close categories of who can come in, so it's a well-rounded show," she said.

Members of the Episcopal Church Women have been working on items they'll sell at the show as well. A new recipe book, "Our Kitchen Sampler" arrived just in time for the sale. It's jam-packed with about 230 recipes, favorites submitted by members of the congregation, their families and friends.

The Men's Club participates with hot lunch items including sandwiches and chili.

"I kind of like to say they'll man the kitchen," said Susan.

The church is located at 6490 Clarkston Rd., across from the Independence Township Library.

Clarkston High under scrutiny

North Central team takes close look at school's self-evaluation

By Kathy Greenfield

Clarkston High School came under close scrutiny Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 when visited by 24 administrators and teachers from other school districts.

The North Central Association visitation team observed classes and talked with teachers, students and administrators.

They worked with a self-evaluation prepared by the CHS staff that included goals and objectives for the school and opinions from students and the community.

—Dale Collier
Team chairperson

The team "basically looks at materials that have been developed through this self-study to determine if they've really looked at themselves objectively," said Dale Collier, chairperson for the team and principal of Livonia Stevenson High School.

"The most important part is the staff, community and kids have sat down and looked at themselves—hopefully that will result in some improvement."

The process involves three steps. The first, the written self-evaluation from CHS was completed after one-and-one-half years of work. The second step is the evaluation from the North Central team. Finally, steps are expected to be made to implement changes stated as desirable in the original report.

The visitation team's report on the high school's self-evaluation is expected to be completed by January.

"It's generally about 45 to 50 pages long, and it will contain a statement of strengths, a statement of Team member Dan Grant's portion of the report involves student activities. Grant is assistant principal at Hazel Park High School for athletics and activities. Leaving no stone unturned, he meets here with CHS student government and class officers, while students who write the CHS "underground newspaper" wait in the hallway for their turn.

areas of concern or weaknesses, and a series of recommendations from each one of the 23 evaluators," said Collier. "Then I'll try to summarize it in more global strengths, weaknesses and evaluations."

Collier has been active in North Central since 1966 and he's made 17 or 18 visitations to schools. This is the seventh or eighth time he's served as chairperson, he said.

The evaluators volunteer for duty as part of membership in the North Central Association. Collier said the visitations are part of his professional obligation as a member.

"I also find it's a good learning experience for the evaluators," he said. "If we don't take back some good ideas, we're not very observant people."

Collier said he could not make comments regarding opinions on the high school's self-evaluation, but he could comment on the atmosphere.

"The team has expressed they have really enjoyed the warmth and hospitality of the students and staff," he said. "I've been here less than 24 hours and you may have noticed kids I've talked to before have gone by and waved. It's really a very friendly school. But no school I've been to has not been friendly."

The North Central Association grants accreditation to schools, and the self-evaluation required every seven years is only part of the process.

It has been eight years since CHS did its last self-evaluation, said Principal Don Mauti. An extension was granted after a lengthy teachers' contract dispute. The next self-evaluation, therefore, is due in six years.

"The staff, in a way, they've worked on it so long they're going to be happy when Thursday (the last day of the visitation) rolls along," he said. "It's a tremendous job. They have to put everything down they do in class and the philosophy of every class. It's good they have to do it only once every seven years."

There are 5,000 schools and 900 colleges within the 19-state North Central Association region. Each year Mauti submits a report on staff qualifications, classes offered and facilities available, and the accreditation is based on that information, he said.

At one time, students could be admitted to colleges without taking entrance exams if they graduated from an accredited high school, said Collier, but now college admission is granted by looking at a student's grades and test scores.

North Central is "a voluntary association that school districts want to be involved in because it attempts to establish some quality standards of education that, I think, most school districts like to use as guidelines," he said.

Some of the North Central team's visitation time is spent talking to staff members about their programs. Here, Ivan Kemp of Livonia Stevenson High School and CHS librarian Maryellen Hanson discuss about the high school's media center.

Reward time

Scouts head for pizza

The Cub Scouts in Troop 341 sold their candy—and now comes the reward.

About 70 of the 7- to 10-year-olds who meet at Sashabaw Junior High School have an outing planned Thursday, Nov. 8, to Chuck E. Cheese's.

In order to join the party, each boy had to sell at least 144 chocolate bars, and they all did it, said committee chairperson Chuck Mallett.

They made about $2,400 with the sale, their only fund raiser of the year.

"That has to be stretched quite a ways," said Mallett. "At the beginning of the year we had $214."

The money is spent on dues for ongoing members, a subscription to "Boys' Life" for each Cub Scout and awards.

"It gets put to good use," he said.

Free OU recital

Oakland University music composition major Anthony Becker will perform in a free recital at 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 11, in Varner Recital Hall on the Rochester campus.

A 1977 graduate of Clarkston High School, Becker is a programmer analyst in the OU Office of Computer Services. Active in the music ministry at Christ the Redeemer Church in Lake Orion, he resides in Roseville.

Performing on the harpsichord, guitar and dulcimer, Becker will be joined on stage by several other musicians.

Costumes on parade

A gaggle of little trick-or-treaters, their moms and teacher link hands for their march across Main Street, Clarkston, on Halloween day. The mini-parade of pre-schoolers in the Clarkston

Co-op Nursery School included a visit to the Kammer Insurance office on Main Street for glasses of cider compliments of Kelly Kammer, the father of costumed Erin.

Popping success

Students at Pine Knob Elementary sold $27,000 worth of gourmet popcorn and spices during their week-long fund raiser sale, which means more than $10,000 to the school, according to Principal George White.

The total is a school record, he said.

The money goes to the school's Parent Teacher Organization. They'll use it to buy equipment for the school's gym, now under construction.

Airman Dennis Lankton has graduated from the United States Air Force electronic computer switching systems course at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss.

Bullen, Maier exchange their vows

Julia K. Bullen and Christopher J. Maier were united in marriage in a traditional ceremony at the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

The Rev. James Balfour performed the evening rites from an altar decorated with two candelabras and floral arrangements. White bows adorned the communion rail and the church pews.

For her Oct. 6 wedding, the bride's gown was fashioned of white embroidered net. Tulips of satin appliques adorned the high neck bodice and the cuffs of long, tapered sleeves. The romantic look was further enhanced by a silk floral wreath and long veil with scattered pearls.

She carried a cascade of orchids, roses, stephanotis, and purple and peach silk gypsophila.

The bride's sisters served as maid and matron of honor. Maid was Sandra Bullen of Clarkston. Matron was Linda Bullen Downs of Garland, Texas. They wore peach gowns with circle floral headpieces and carried semi-cascades of miniature carnations, purple statice, roses and snowdrift mums.

Bridesmaids were Lori Maier Bryant, the bridegroom's sister, of Illinois; Annette Stowe of Clarkston; and Megan Stageman of Jackson. They wore shrimp-colored gowns and floral headpieces, and carried semi-cascade bouquets.

Best man was Daniel Miceli. Groomsmen were Todd and Peter Maier, the bridegroom's brothers; and John and Ben Bullen, the bride's brothers. Ushers were Tobe Husmann and Bob Lane.

Their 250 guests attended a reception at the

Newlyweds: Julia and Christopher Maier dianwood Country Club in Lake Orion.

The bride's parents are Tom and Sally Bullen of Kingfisher Lane, Independence Township. A 1979 graduate of Clarkston High School, she is employed as an office manager by Health Central of Jackson.

The bridegroom's parents are Bill and Joy Maier of Flossmoor, Ill. He is an assistant engineering manager for Kustom Fit of Ohio.

The couple plan a wedding trip to Florida over the Christmas holidays.

They are residing in Hillsdale.

Educational masquerade

Most of the staff at the Clarkston Community Learning Center lines up for a remembrance of the day they came to work dressed for Halloween. At right is a close-up of Kathleen O'Donnell, director of Clarkston schools' Community Education Department. She came dressed as the woman on the back of the "Boredom Busters" brochure that lists the classes offered through community education. [Photos by Monica Miles]

Citrus sale

Orders are now being taken for the annual Citrus Sale sponsored by the Clarkston Band Boosters.

The deadline is Nov. 20 for ordering navel oranges, pink grapefruit, white grapefruit and tangelos.

The cost is $16 for a full case and $8 for a half-case. An assorted case—one-third each of navel oranges, pink grapefruit and tangelos—is $18 and a half-case is $9.

To place an order, call Judy Kerns at 673-8802 or Coreen Ingalls at 625-5588.

Heavy traffic predicted for hunters

The Michigan firearm deer season opens on Thursday (Nov. 15) and except for scattered areas of I-75 and U.S. 23 migrating hunters should find few traffic problems.

The initial wave of 750,000 hunters should start about 3 p.m. Nov. 14 and remain heavy on major northbound arteries through midnight.

Heaviest southbound traffic should occur late Sunday afternoon and evening (Nov. 18). The 16-day season ends Nov. 30.

The State Department of Natural Resources expects hunters to bag 100,000 bucks compared to 88,200 buck kills last fall. Some 25,000 antlerless deer also should be taken.

For the second consecutive year, fewer antlerless deer permits were issued. The 115,890 permits allowed in 1984 is 7 percent below the 1983 total.

Some areas have their largest deer population ever, including a record number of older bucks in the western Upper Peninsula.

Large prize bucks are reported in Emmet, Cheboygan and Charlevoix counties while the rest of the upper half of the Lower Peninsula should have generally better hunting prospects than last year.

The 120-year-old Ritter house makes the turn into the lot in downtown Clarkston it will call home—and the umbrella-toting crowd follows.

Formerly a residence, the building is to house offices on its first floor and two apartments on the second floor. The aluminum siding will be removed, said owner Hank Radcliff, but that probably won't be done until the weather warms again next spring.

An old-fashioned homecoming

120-year-old Italianate cube comes to rest on Main Street

By Marilyn Trumper

After seven months of lobbying, Hank and Jennifer Radcliff have saved the 120-year-old Ritter home from the wrecking ball, and last week saw the majestic Italianate cube set to rest in Clarkston's historic Main Street row.

"It feels like having a baby," said an ecstatic Jennifer after the move was over. "It's been seven months from beginning to end and that's almost like having a baby."

"I was pleased that not only did everything go well, but so many people had a chance to see it. I think it's quite an addition to the village. I'm high as a kite."

The move from the Dixie Highway and Maybee site next to Ritter's Farm market, north on M-15 to the Village of Clarkston took a little over three hours. The Radcliffs are tight-lipped on the cost.

Radcliff hired the century-old Flint firm of C.L. Davis and Son Housemoving for the job.

Carl Davis wouldn't guess at the house's weight, but said he's moved larger homes, traditionally in more rural areas.

"This was a challenge," Davis said. "A tight fit. But we've never lost a one."

Shortly after 9 a.m. Nov. 1, curiosity seekers began lining Clarkston's downtown business section. Teachers brought the classes to witness the historic event. Dogs tugged on the ends of leashes. People peered out of their downtown apartment windows. And Hallman's Apothecary reportedly sold record numbers of film for this time of year.

It began raining.

And nobody moved.

They stood on tiptoe under umbrellas and watched as the peak of the hip roof cleared the hill at Waldon Road. The tops of the second-floor windows appeared, then the all of the windows, then the first-floor windows and finally, with engines chugging, the big white square house rolled down Main Street and came to rest in the vacant lot north of the municipal parking lot.

The kids were cheering.

"It's the first time we've ever had a cheering section," mover Davis laughed. "And it's the first time we've ever had that many people come out to see us move a house. And in the rain yet!"

Most of the utility lines had been removed or raised before the house reached them, according to Davis.

The biggest hold-up at the Waldon hill was waiting for tree branches to be cut.

With the eight-foot basement already dug, Davis said he'd line the opening with soaped timbers, raise the house up on blocks and use wenchers to pull the house across the timbers. Once it's stationed, masons will build the foundation, the timbers will be pulled out and the house will come to rest.

Work's expected to be complete in two weeks, according to Davis.

"I enjoy helping to save these old houses," he said. "That's what keeps us going."

The historic home was on the future site of a Burger King restaurant, which had the option to level the home 30 days after signing its purchase agreement.

The deadline had passed, but Burger King authorities cooperated until the house could be moved.

Just a few more feet and the house will have a home. About 20 people gathered in the village parking lot to watch the house move over the hole that will eventually be the basement.

Taking good care of Tyler

Diabetes: A threat to you?

Although diabetes affects more than 10 million Americans, some two out of every five diabetics don't know they have the disease or are ignoring it and not receiving proper medical attention.

If you are excessively thirsty, suffer from frequent urination and have a craving for sweets, you could be a diabetic.

If you have frequent infections, blurred vision, pains in legs, feet and fingers, you could be a diabetic.

If you're overweight, you could be a diabetic.

If diabetes runs in your family, you could be a diabetic.

If you're a woman, your chances of being diabetic are higher than a man's.

In spite of all this, the diabetic picture is steadily brightening. Self-management has always played an important role in treatment and control of diabetes. That requires motivation and knowledge about the condition and reliable tools for the jobs.

In the late 1970s, home blood glucose monitoring was introduced. It was part of a move to increasingly involve patients in management of their disease.

By doing their own monitoring, whether at home, in the office, or while traveling, diabetics can maintain their own blood sugar levels safely and play an active role in managing their own good health.

Following the doctor's advice, the patient can alter diet, drugs or exercise to bring readings to normal levels.

You may be a potential candidate for diabetes. If you think so, see your doctor and find out the latest methods for treating the problem.

Experts say many people don't know they have diabetes.

Get yourself checked for diabetes—free

Free tests for diabetes will be available Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 14 and 15, at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, P.O.H. Milford Health Care Center and P.O.H. Community Health Care Center in Oxford.

The hospital and centers are host locations for the statewide American Diabetes Program during Diabetes Detection Week.

The test is to be available from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. both days.

Individuals who wish to participate should eat a meal (breakfast or lunch) two hours before testing to ensure accurate results.

For more information on the testing and sample meal menus, call the P.O.H. Laboratory at 338-5346, the Milford center at 685-0921 or the Oxford center at 628-3000.

Take a 24-hour break from smoking cigarettes

Take a day off from smoking by joining the Great American Smokeout on Thursday, Nov. 15.

The eighth annual smokeout, held the Thursday before Thanksgiving each year, is sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

Greeting cards help Cancer Society

A selection of 12 holiday greeting card styles are available from the American Cancer Society.

The styles range from a light-hearted message from Santa for $8 to a more serious sentiment with an elegant rendition of an oriental bird for $16. All come in boxes of 25.

The society's programs include research, public education, professional education and patient services.

For a free brochure, call 557-5353.

To participate, smokers must simply agree to try not to smoke for 24 hours—from midnight to midnight. Those who don't smoke are encouraged to adopt a smoker for the day and promise to help that friend make it through the day without a cigarette.

Here are a few "quit tips" offered by the society:

- Hide all ashtrays, matches, etc.
- Lay in a supply of sugarless gum, carrot sticks, etc.
- Drink lots of liquids, but pass up coffee and alcohol.
- Tell everyone you're quitting for the day.
- When the urge to smoke hits, take a deep breath, hold it for 10 seconds, and release it slowly.
- Exercise to relieve the tension.
- Try the buddy system, and ask a friend to quit too.

To burn up the calories in one slice of cheese pizza, you would have to either run for 9 minutes, swim for 16 minutes or walk for 35 minutes.

Taking good care of Tyler

Because the 9-month-old has Down's Syndrome, his needs are special

By Marilyn Trumper

Nancy Riddle discovered she was pregnant three months into her three-year stint with the United States Army.

After eight weeks of grueling basic training with long, physically demanding days, short nights and 15-mile marches in full gear, all the women's menstrual cycles were off.

"I didn't think anything of it," she smiles, remembering. "But when everyone started having regular periods, and I didn't, and I developed a paunch, I knew, I was a week pregnant when I joined the Army. It didn't show up in any of the blood tests I took before joining. In basic, I was tired and hungry all the time, but I thought it was the training."

The army allows a 45-day pregnancy leave, but mothers must place their child in someone's custody during their tour of duty.

Or, they have the option of taking an honorable discharge.

Nancy took the discharge.

Nine months ago as a single mother she gave birth to Tyler at Andrews Air Force Base in Washington, D.C. Five days later, after notifying family and friends of the birth of her healthy baby boy, Tyler was diagnosed with Down's Syndrome, a form of mental retardation that runs from normal to severe.

Victims of Down's can do everything that a normal child does, but more slowly, and they are more like normal children than not.

"The doctor came in flanked by two other doctors and he was holding my baby. The air was so thick you could have cut it with a knife. I thought immediately, 'Something's wrong, something major like a liver transplant.'" Nancy said.

"He said he'd taken blood tests that would prove it, but they would take three to five days. He said, 'I am 87 percent sure he does have Down's.' And I immediately thought of the two girls up the street. The ones that we teased as kids. The ones kids did all those terrible things to."

"RETARDED... RETARDED... RETARDED" stuck in my mind.

"Then the next words out of (the doctor's) mouth were, 'It's not your fault. It's nothing you did or didn't do that caused this.'"

Nancy said she needed to hear that, to know that Down's Syndrome is caused by a genetic chromosomal abnormality. Instead of having 46 chromosomes in each of his cells, Tyler has 47. The extra chromosome is a small Number 21 chromosome which comes from "The air was so thick you could cut it with a knife. I thought immediately, 'Something's wrong...'" the egg or the sperm. During the cell division of a sperm or an egg in the parent, it's believed the two Number 21 chromosomes do not separate properly. One cell has an extra Number 21 chromosome, which later, if united with a normal germ cell, may lead to Trisomy 21. Whether a child will be normal or have Down's Syndrome is determined at the moment of conception.

"I needed to know that because immediately I thought, 'Oh God, I smoked cigarettes. Oh God, it's all the shots I had. Oh God, I drank beer.' It happened with the first cell division. It had already been decided before basic training," she said.

"I'm proud of this little guy. He's doing very well, but I wouldn't care if he was 9 months old and did nothing but lie there. He's still my little guy."

When doctors at Andrews Air Force Base asked if she had any questions, Nancy said she cried.

"I don't remember anything they said after that. I was numb. He kept talking and I don't remember anything he said."

"For the next three hours I was by myself and I prayed to God not to take (Tyler) away from me. I'd already had him five days. He was already in my life and had been there forever."

Nancy Riddle feeds her impatient, hungry son Tyler strained carrots and pears. The 9-month-old was born with Down's Syndrome and is

"Then the next words out of the doctor's mouth were, 'It's not your fault...'"

Today, Nancy, 28, lives with her parents on Tappon Drive in Independence Township, and looks forward to a November move to her own apartment above Clarkston's Main Street.

She's raising Tyler alone.

And she has come to depend on doctors, stacks of books and pamphlets, and a 22-member support group, Down's Syndrome Parents' Group, for information and insight.

"The questions I had for the doctors weren't questions they could answer. They weren't clinical. I wanted to know if kids were going to tease him. And if they did, what would I do? Do I tell him he's retarded? Will he know he is? Those were things only another parent could answer," she said.

When Tyler was born, Nancy phoned family and friends across the U.S. announcing, "I've got a beautiful, healthy baby boy."

Then she had to make the second phone call.

"I called my mom and got my brother. I said, 'I just got some bad news. They told me they thought Tyler has Down's Syndrome. You could hear the pain in his voice. He said, 'I'm so sorry.' My mom came right away."

Nancy faults the doctors for not waiting until she had someone with her for support before delivering the bad news.

"Somebody could have been right beside me, my brother, my mother, someone," she said. "You need to have that support from a family member. I wouldn't have changed anything, but it would have helped."

One of Nancy's first visitors was a woman, the mother of a Down's Syndrome child, active in the local support group at the base.

"I'm glad she came, because if they'd given me a number to call, God knows when I would have gotten up the courage," she said. "I would gladly be available to talk to people. If someone knows of someone who has a Down's child, I'd gladly call them."

"But that can be tricky. You don't know if the person has accepted it, refuses to accept it, is freaked out or if they don't want anything to do with the child. And everytime you initially face someone as they're already enrolled in class with an occupational therapist to begin constructive work that will make his life easier.

telling what they feel, you relive your feelings.

"It's pretty difficult to do."

Members of Nancy's Down's Syndrome Parents Group are from all over Oakland County. Their children range in age from 6 weeks to 6 years and do not come to the meetings, although if that's the only way their parents can make the meeting, children are allowed, she said.

They meet monthly, on an irregular basis at different locations. There's a $5 membership fee that covers the monthly newsletter and refreshments.

"We've been trying to make people aware of the group through pediatricians and obstetricians. We do feel our children are special," Nancy said. "Their needs are different than other handicaps. They will lead productive lives. We stress our children can go into life. They like music. They can read, they can drive cars, they can have apartments, they can get married."

"And that's the main thing about the support group. If you have a baby with a diaper rash and call a friend saying this is wrong and that is wrong, they'll say, 'do this,' or 'don't worry about it.' If I called them and said my son's 3 years old and he isn't walking, they'll say, 'That's not normal.' If you call the mother of a Down's child, she'll say, 'That's no big deal. Don't panic. Mine didn't walk until he was 3 1/2 and he's still stumbling along.'"

The support group serves as an information clearing house, and steers parents to where they can apply for medical aid, what schooling is available and the rights of the retarded.

Tyler sits on his mom's lap in his grandparents' home and chews on the cool corner of the kitchen table, drooling like any teething infant.

His blue eyes follow the person who's talking.

He smiles when grandma enters the room.

When strained carrots and pears aren't spooned into his mouth fast enough, he doesn't hesitate to let mom know it.

One hour a week, he works with an occupational therapist in the Clarkston school district's SPICE program, infant stimulation and preschool special education.

Don't forget to brush your tongue!
The tongue's surface is not smooth, but is covered with tiny flexible projections. This surface can trap food particles and become a breeding ground for bacteria contributing to bad breath and the build up of plaque in the mouth.

You can eliminate these problems by brushing your tongue every time you brush your teeth. Gently stroke the whole surface of the tongue from back to front. In addition to brushing and flossing, brushing your tongue will keep you kissing sweet.

Lupus sufferers are warned to avoid sunshine

Very few people know about Lupus, even though it affects some 500,000 Americans—mostly women in their 20s and 30s.

The medical term is systemic lupus erythematosus (SLE).

According to the Michigan Lupus Foundation, the cause of SLE is unknown, although evidence suggests a disorder among the production of antibodies in the system. The disease may be hereditary.

Symptoms often include weakness, low energy, appetite and weight loss. More noticeably, a rash may spread across the bridge of the nose and cheeks.

SLE victims may develop anemia and a low white blood cell count. In severe cases, the kidneys and heart are affected.

SLE is more common among women ages 20-40, but it can strike men and has been discovered in persons of all ages.

Unfortunately, because of a lack of public and professional awareness, SLE has been misdiagnosed as sunstroke, poison ivy, arthritis, anemia and syphilis.

Often SLE affects the skin, which breaks out in a rash that is "photosensitive," or aggravated by the sun. Hair loss and ulcers in the mouth and nose can also occur.

Nearly all SLE patients suffer arthritic discomfort in the joints. Blood vessels in the fingertips and toes may turn white when victims become very emotional or are exposed to the cold. This is called Raynaud's phenomenon.

Syphilis tests may appear falsely positive because of low white blood cell and platelet counts.

SLE can originate in any body organ, and may spread to one or more areas. It can be arrested by therapy in some instances.

Because the cause is unconfirmed, treatment varies according to the symptoms.

During active episodes, patients should avoid the sun as much as possible and use sunscreens if the skin is affected.

Lupus patients are advised to maintain good nutrition and get plenty of rest.

Kits offered to aid choking children

Holidays are a time for family gatherings, parties and celebrations. All too often, however, these joyous occasions are marred by tragic accidents, such as choking.

Choking is the leading cause of accidental death in the home among children under six. Occurring most often between the Halloween and Christmas holidays, choking claims the lives of almost 200 children each year. It has been estimated that 87% of these cases are a result of carelessness.

To help prevent these heartbreaking and needless accidents, the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan is offering its annual fall Aspiration Program to area nursery, pre-school and day-care teachers. Individual brochures and worksheets are available to parents for home use.

Specially designed kits, consisting of posters, work sheets, cutouts and a teaching guide, will be sent to teachers to help them educate children on the importance of proper eating habits and safe play.

A brochure with guidelines for parents will be included in the kit to reinforce the lesson and offer tips on how to guard against choking at home.

"The concept behind the program," states Carol Cohen, program coordinator of Child Lung Health at the Lung Association, "is for the pre-school child to receive the information from someone he/she has an established rapport with, in hopes that the lesson will have a more lasting impact."

If you'd like more information on the Aspiration Program and its "Keep Our Children From Choking" teaching kit or any one of the Lung Association's more than 40 free community services, call 961-1697.

Water pollution topic of free program

Pollution found in drinking water in Michigan and how individual households contribute to the problem is the topic of an upcoming free program sponsored by the Independence Township Library.

"Groundwater Pollution: Has It Affected Your Drinking Water?" is planned on Tuesday, Nov. 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, 6490 Clarkston Rd., across from the library.

Helen Willis, a former member of the Michigan Water Resources Commission is to speak.

A videotape, "Water... A Clear and Present Danger," produced by ABC News Closeup will provide an overview of groundwater contamination issues nationwide and how citizens and government are dealing with the problem.

To register, call the library at 625-2212.

The English of the 15th to 17th centuries believed that the color red was helpful to the sick. Patients were dressed in red nightgowns and surrounded with red objects.

TREAT SCREENING: On Halloween night, Pontiac General Hospital's Department of Radiology conducted a free X-ray screening of children's treats. Among children participating were Kellie and Kristen Dolzynski, 3-year-old twin daughters of Clarkston area residents Don and Rebecca Dolzynski. Also pictured are the girls' mother, a PGH staff nurse, and Edward Lake, X-ray technician and acting supervisor.

57-point checklist identifies symptoms

There, the therapist works with his muscle control and reaction, his balance and reflexes.

Unlike a normal infant who fears falling and throws out an arm automatically to stop from hitting the floor, Tyler must be taught.

Where normal children typically sit up between five and seven months, many sufferers of Down's Syndrome sit up between six and 10 months.

Where normal children typically hold a cup or bottle at mealtime, children with Down's don't.

And their chewing instincts aren't as well developed as those of normal children.

Typically, sufferers of Down's have congenital heart defects and smaller hearing canals, which inhibit hearing and usually lead to upper respiratory problems, according to Nancy.

In fact, doctors use a 57-point checklist when diagnosing Down's Syndrome.

An observant nurse who'd just completed a class on Down's Syndrome first recognized Tyler had many of the characteristics.

"I'd had a Caesarean and Tyler had jaundice, so we were still both in the hospital," Nancy said. "His muscle tone wasn't real good and we attributed his lethargy to jaundice. The nurse kept looking at him. His eyes were slightly up at the corners, the bridge of the nose is flattened, there were other things."

She's philosophical about her son.

"When I was a kid I wanted dozens and dozens of babies," she smiled. "When I was in my 20s I didn't want any, I didn't want the responsibility. All my friends said, 'Nancy, you should have children. You're so good with them.' I was good with them because I knew I could walk away and leave them."

"When I found out I was pregnant I thought, 'After basic training, this little guy was meant to be there.' I wouldn't give this little guy up for anything in the world... The Lord blessed me with this little boy."
