Teacher fights with teen; is suspended

By Kathy Greenfield

A physical confrontation between a student and teacher at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center resulted in a five-day suspension, with pay, for the teacher and a written reprimand in his file, according to Clarkston schools' Superintendent Milford Mason.

Mason would not release the name of the teacher or of the Holly High School student. The decision was made to protect the student and teacher's rights, he said, following consultation with the school district attorney.

The 17-year-old Holly High School junior's mother, Pauline Kenner, said she was surprised at the decision not to release the names.

Her son, Kevin Papuga, had been out of school with severe headaches and a temperature since the Nov. 2 incident, she said six days later.

On Monday, Kevin was back in school. Results from a CAT scan had not been received.

"He's still having headaches, but he has to go back to school. They only allow him 10 days to miss," she said. "I'm very upset over this, but I don't know

Early deadline

There are early deadlines for the Thanksgiving edition of The Clarkston News, which will be mailed to 15,000 homes in Brandon, Independence, Springfield and north Waterford townships.

All those who normally receive the Penny Stretcher in their mail will receive The Clarkston News instead on Wednesday, Nov. 21, the day before Thanksgiving.

Clarkston News subscribers who receive newspapers with "sample" stamped alongside their address should ignore it. The "sample" label is needed to give total circulation to The Clarkston News.

The deadline for news items is Friday, Nov. 16, at 3 p.m.

The advertising deadline is Thursday, Nov. 15, at 5 p.m.

Classified ads must be placed by 10 a.m. Friday, Nov. 16.

The Clarkston News office is located at 5 S. Main, Clarkston. We're open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. (625-3370)

We'll be closed Thanksgiving Day.

Record number of voters turned out in 1984

By Marilyn Trumper

More people than in the history of Independence Township elections voted at the polls last week, with 80 percent, or 10,370 of the 12,888 registered voters casting ballots.

It was almost 2 a.m. before workers at Independence Township Hall made final tabulations in

Ritter says he'll be back

Carr elected to second term

By Marilyn Trumper

Tom Ritter's 13-month battle to unseat U.S. Congressman Bob Carr ended in defeat last week, capping one of this area's most heated races, one punctuated with mudslinging and charges of dirty politics.

But Ritter, 41, says he'll be back in '86.

The former owner of Ritter's Farm Market in Independence Township couldn't hold onto President Ronald Reagan's Republican coattail sweep and lost to Democrat Carr, 94,673 to 106,530, in an up-and-down battle that still had supporters guessing in the early morning hours following the election.

In fact, so close was the race, Associated Press reported Ritter's victory when the candidates tied with 50 percent of the vote at 9:29 a.m. the next day after 259 of the district's 321 precincts reported.

An hour later, the wire service retracted its story blaming the mistake on a mathematical error.

Carr says the election's over.

"I know someone will run against me in 1986, but I've got work to do in the interim," he said. "I was the only Democrat incumbent in the state to go up in percentages from the previous year."

"I'm very grateful to all my supporters and my staff."

Weeks before the election, national headlines reported Ritter's platform to implement a tough system of enforcing child support payments, then admitting he was behind in child support payments to his first wife.

Ritter charged Carr leaked the story to discredit his campaign.

Carr denied it, saying his office routinely investigated Ritter's background, but did not leak the child support story.

"That didn't help me. And it didn't help to have two brothers working against me, either," Ritter said referring to his two Democratic brothers, Frederick and Dennis Ritter, running for re-election to the treasurers' seats in Independence and Waterford townships.

an election that recorded GOP landslide victories and the unseating of two-term Treasurer Frederick Ritter, a Democrat.

"It was a phenomenal turnout," Clerk Richard Holman said. "And it was interesting to note that no Republican who ran lost in Independence Township. They may have lost district-wide, Levin beat Lousma

"But we know what we'll do differently 18 months from now. I have no regrets. We ran a good, stiff campaign that got very personal at times."

According to Ritter, campaign workers didn't underestimate Pontiac's Democratic stronghold.

"We got 36- to 38-percent of the vote there, just as we predicted," Ritter said. "But they had 3,800 more turnout than in '82, and that's what did it."

"We'll be ready next time."

-Corrections-

There was some incorrect information in last week's Clarkston News about the annual car drawing sponsored by the Clarkston Rotary Club.

In fact, the car was sold to the club at a reduced price by Dreisbach Buick; and there are still tickets available for the drawing and dinner planned Saturday, Nov. 24, at Deer Lake Racquet Club.

The tickets cost $100 apiece and may be purchased from any Clarkston Rotary Club member or by calling 625-5332 or 625-1146.

There are five elementaries in the Clarkston school district and each one is in the process of having a multipurpose room addition.

Information under a photograph in last week's Clarkston News did not include North Sashabaw Elementary.

In last week's Clarkston News, information was incorrect about those to be honored at the Community Service Dinner planned by Independence Township firefighters Nov. 23.

In addition to Chief Frank Ronk as he leaves after 40 years of service to become the new township supervisor, those who served the department at least 10 years and then retired will also be honored.

The dinner is open to the public, but tickets must be purchased in advance. (625-1924) and Carr beat Ritter, but here at home they carried the day."

Ritter lost to Republican John Lutz, an independent businessman.

Holman beat his challenger, Democrat Floyd (Whitey) Tower, almost two to one. Tower, a former Independence Township supervisor, lost his office in the 1980 election.

Three incumbent Republican trustees were re-elected, William Vandermark, Daniel Travis and Dale Stuart. Newcomer Carol Balzarini, also a Republican, joined the ranks of township government.

She's the first woman on the board since 1978.

"I'd like to think so," said Balzarini, when asked if a woman on the board would give it new dimension. "Each individual presents a different perspective. I think there are some plusses to having a woman on the board. If I had to put it into words I'd say it's a different point of view we offer."

"Women tend to be more involved in community life."

The supervisor race was decided in the August primary when three Republicans, Fire Chief Frank Ronk, incumbent James B. Smith and George Vitineros battled at the polls.

Ronk won, and last week had 6,959 supporters vote in his favor, although he had no opposition on the ballot.

For the sixth time since 1976 township voters defeated a proposed .5 mill for police.

In the township's non-partisan race for 52nd District judge, 16-year veteran of the bench Gerald E. McNally beat his challenger, Larence Kozma, an eight-year member of the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office.

Independence Township's Tom Ritter lost a heated race to Democrat incumbent Bob Carr for the U.S. Congress. The morning after the election ballot-counting was so close that Associated Press reported Ritter's victory, and later retracted it.

In the presidential race, local voters followed national trends and re-elected President Ronald Reagan to his second four-year term.

'Joking' incident ends with 5-day suspension exactly what steps we're going to take yet."

Following the incident, a report was made at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, she said, but no decision had been made whether to press charges.

Kevin is on the Holly football team and the teacher formerly lived in Fenton. Apparently there is a fierce rivalry between Holly and Fenton high schools.

"This teacher is not his teacher," she said. "Every now and then they kibitz back and forth. My son came into school. He called my son over and they started talking about the game."

According to Mrs. Kenner, the discussion became heated after the teacher began shaking his finger in her son's face and touching his nose, which had been broken early in the football season and was tender.

After her son asked the teacher to stop touching his nose several times, Kevin took the teacher's hand and put it down, she said, and the teacher then pushed Kevin against a locker and he fell, momentarily losing consciousness. The teacher then lifted him up by the neck, she said, and threw him into the hallway.

Mason's description of the incident was similar. "It started in the hallway and went into the edge of the classroom," he said. "Apparently there had been some discussion that went on over several days over some matter, and I'm not sure what that was."

"It was just joking, and then got serious and got to the point where the student and teacher put hands on each other. The student then tried to get away, immediately did break loose and then went immediately to the office."

"We have no evidence in our hands of injury at this point," he added.

Administrators interviewed the student, his parents, the teacher and two witnesses before the penalty for the teacher was decided, Mason said.

"To me it's a serious penalty," he said. "This is the first time I've had to come to this resolution in the nine years I've been (superintendent)."

Mrs. Kenner also expressed dismay over the decision to suspend the teacher with pay, calling it a vacation rather than disciplinary action.

She also said there were other such incidents on the teacher's record.

Vocational school Principal Dan Manthei confirmed that two other incidences have been noted in the teacher's file. One occurred in 1980, the other in 1983.

"(The teacher) has never struck a student. He has, as is true in the most recent incident, probably grabbed students by the lapels and sat them down rather firmly," said Manthei.

"There's a lot more to this story than the accounts have told. We're dealing with one-tenth of 1 percent of what a teacher does," he added. "The intensity that (the teacher) shows at times is also reflected in the program involved and the placement of students."

At a time when there are fewer students enrolling in vocational classes, there's a waiting list for the class of the teacher involved because he's good, Manthei said. Students don't drop out of the class, and many are placed in jobs following completion of the course.

"I think this last incident has created a large enough impact on (the teacher) that it won't be repeated," he said.

Dixie work to start this spring

By Marilyn Trumper

With $12 million he lobbied for and won to finance the widening of Dixie Highway, U.S. Congressman Bob Carr predicts engineering will begin immediately and the actual construction this spring.

"I hope that citizens of this community will continue to express their views to me about Dixie," said Carr (D-6th District, which includes Independence and Springfield townships). "It's the people of this area who alerted me to the need for improvements and you can also let me know your specific ideas for what needs to be done. It's a matter of working together, all of us, to make sure the job is done right so that no more lives are lost on Dixie Highway."

The Michigan Department of Transportation proposes a widening to five-lanes from Telegraph Road in Pontiac to the I-75 overpass in Springfield Township.

According to Carr, easements from M-15 to I-75 have been obtained, and will most likely be the first area to undergo construction.

New supervisor weighs police tax dilemma

Chief Ronk says he won't dip into other township coffers to pay OCSD bill

By Marilyn Trumper

Voters' sound defeat of proposed .5 mill for police is one of the first funding snarls the new Independence Township Board will tackle when it takes office Nov. 20.

But supervisor-to-be, now fire chief, Frank Ronk says he won't rob Peter to pay Paul.

If dipping into revenue sharing, parks and recreation, the library or senior center will help the police fund but hurt those programs, Ronk says he'll vote to buy only what police the township can afford until the public comes through with a millage increase.

"But first I think there are going to be changes when (Sheriff John) Nichols starts working with (county Chief Executive Daniel) Murphy. I'd like to see what's going to happen there first before we decide anything," he said, referring to the end of former Sheriff Johannes F. Spreen's stormy history with contracting townships.

Ronk speculates the millage failed, first, because the public never knew how the township would spend the money and, second, because it wants police funding to come from the township's $681,238 general fund surplus.

"In the past we've threatened the people by saying either give us this millage, or we're going to make cuts," Ronk said. "And we've always found the money from somewhere. I think that's what their message was this time. Find the money somewhere else, which I'm not opposed to."

"But if other programs are going to be jeopardized, then I'm not in favor of it. Every program we have is too valuable to be robbed from."

Sgt. Robert Wark, a 10-year veteran of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, says he's disgusted with the millage defeat and says Independence voters' consistent turn-down of a police tax increase forced him to move to neighboring Springfield Township, which according to him, has better police protection.

"Independence Township is so understaffed the officers only have time to write reports. They can't do investigative work," he said. "They can't do crime prevention. They're out there running their butts off."

When the township board hired a part-time deputy to work the last four months of the year, officials agreed he'd be laid-off if the millage failed.

"Now we're going to lose the additional officers and we'll have only one officer on afternoons," Wark said. There's no way one officer can handle all those calls in the township, especially one as big as Independence.

Wark criticizes the electorate.

"For the price of a 12-pack of beer and a carton of cigarettes, they could have had more police protection for a whole year," he said. "I don't understand it. The citizens of Independence Township are getting what they want."

Wark says he'd favor dipping into the general fund or eliminating services at the senior center, parks and recreation and the library, if that's what it takes to get more police.

"It's nice to have a big library and a good senior citizens' program, but not while the rest of the citizens are being ripped-off," he said. "Somebody has got to step in and say we're suffering. And that should be the township board's responsibility."

In last week's general election, voters defeated a proposed .5 mill for police, 3,935 to 3,288. It was the sixth time since 1976 voters said "no" to an increase in taxes for police protection.

The .5 mill for 15 years would have generated an additional $130,000 a year the first year and cost the average taxpayer with an $80,000 home $20 more a year. (One mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.)

Currently the township levies 1 mill for police, which generates $261,000 to pay its $350,000 bill. That buys seven deputies, the seventh working only four of the 12 months, their cars, uniforms, equipment and salaries.

The $131,000 difference is made up from the Village of Clarkston's police contracting fee, $24,000 in federal revenue sharing and earned interest on investments.

Voting pride

Independence Township voters have reason for pride.

With an 80-percent voter turnout on election day, Nov. 6, they topped their surrounding communities and the state and county averages.

To our south, 65 percent of Waterford's registered voters cast ballots. To our north, the figure was 58 percent for Brandon and 70 percent for Oxford. To the east, Lake Orion tallied 68 percent; and to the west, Springfield's voter turnout was 68 percent.

The Oakland County average was 67 percent, the state 65 percent.

We gave our vote of confidence to President Ronald Reagan with 7,7560 votes to his challenger Walter Mondale's 2,268.

Some of our votes were overcome by other voters. We supported Republican Tom Ritter for United States Congress, but he lost in the 6th District to incumbent Democrat Bob Carr; we said "yes" to Proposal C, 4,703 to 3,991; but voters across Michigan defeated the tax-cut proposition.

We also defeated the local request for a .5-mill increase for police protection. Combined with the Proposal C support, we're sending a signal to our township government that we're looking for proof that tax increases are needed—and that we're serious about keeping taxes down.

Early letters

Because we're printing the Thanksgiving edition of The Clarkston News early, there is an early deadline this week for Letters to the Editor.

In order to be considered for publication, letters must be received by Friday, Nov. 16, at 3 p.m. Letters must be signed and include an address and a telephone number. Addresses and telephone numbers are not printed.

If you have questions, feel free to give us a call at 625-3370. Our office, at 5 S. Main, Clarkston, is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. We'll be closed Thanksgiving Day.

Jim's Jottings

You can't judge a book . . .

Kathy Greenfield

Someone pushed the man dressed as a clown into the swimming pool.

"I can't swim," he said.

Everyone laughed.

But when he landed in the deep water, he acted like someone who couldn't swim. A few minutes later, some of the partiers jumped in and saved him.

I was angry that people didn't listen to the man in the first place—clown face or no.

The incident, that happened almost 10 years ago, upset me so that I still think of it from time to time.

I've never experienced a better example of how appearances influence decisions.

I'm not alone in my conclusion, of course.

There are other graphic examples of our tendency as a society to make judgments based on appearances.

Have you noticed that every commercial for a certain brand of beer features a man with a beard?

No one could have missed the message when discussions about the presidential debates included lengthy comments on appearances. We all read about Walter Mondale's bags under his eyes versus Ronald Reagan's healthy glow.

The book "Dress for Success" has made its author a very wealthy man.

Cosmetic surgery thrives.

We have all spent time in our lives adoring the beautiful people among us. We even have a president who was once a movie star. But that, of course, doesn't mean we didn't look beyond his handsome exterior to find a golden essence.

Right now, I'm watching with interest the idols of our young that include Boy George and Prince. I remember all of my favorite stars having exceptional good looks—and, looking back, many had minor talent.

It will be fascinating to see what happens 20 years from now...

Almanac wisdom

Jim Sherman

There are parts of the Farmers' Almanac I picked up at the Gambles Store in Davison that delight me. The weather prediction for winter does not.

The Almanac's Caleb Weatherbee says the winter of 1984-85 will be a "rather rough one from the far West right across to the Atlantic Coast, where there will be heavier precipitation and more severe cold spells than during the past winter."

Caleb says "Rain and snow in the Great Lakes Dec. 1-3. More storms and cold 8th to 11th; heavy snow Great Lakes 12th to 15th, etc." However, he says it'll still be worse in the East.

The "thought of the year" in the Almanac is good... "If God seems far away, who moved?"

It's the short notes in the Almanac that I enjoy most. Things like how the Mars candy makers get the M&M on each piece. The M is printed on in a process similar to offset printing... it prints without crushing.

At the end of a 3-year period, an average hen has eaten 170 pounds of feed, laid 42 dozen eggs, provided four and one-half pounds of meat, and half an ounce of feathers.

A woman was taking care of a neighbor's little boy along with her own brood and she took them to the local hamburger restaurant for lunch. "Tommy," she asked the little guest, "how many hamburgers can you eat?" "I don't know," Tommy shrugged, "Mommy always stops me."

One basic difference between poisonous and non-poisonous snakes—the shape of the eyeball. A harmless snake has a round pupil, a poisonous snake has an elliptical pupil.

"Your Honor," the sailor told the judge, "the whole fight started when I was in the phone booth, talking to my girl, and along came this fellow who wanted to use the phone. He jerked open the door, grabbed me by the collar, and threw me out on the street."

"Then you got angry?" the judge asked.

"No," said the sailor. "I didn't get angry until he grabbed my girl and threw her out too."

Don't wear a shirt or blouse whiter than your teeth. Your smile will seem less attractive by comparison.

One advantage of traveling the straight and narrow path is that no one is trying to pass you.

Finally, don't underestimate the importance of love at first sight. Many of us might not pass a second inspection.

Letters to editor

Radcliff praise

Americans have a reputation at home and abroad as being the world's leading demolition experts.

While in Europe people cherish their older buildings, we seem to tear them down and build new ones. The new ones we build often resemble monstrous plastic and black cubes—all looking alike—totally devoid of any character. To say nothing of the cost involved!

All too often the lovely old homes with their craftsmanship and workmanship are routinely lost to the wrecking ball.

That is what delights me and hopefully all of the village when we are able to save a wonderful Italianate home which will add to the charm and quaintness of our village.

A few years ago the entire downtown section of Fenton, a charming old town, was demolished in the name of urban renewal. Lovely old Queen Anne, Stick Style and Greek Revival homes with decorative detailing and expert craftsmanship vanished almost before our eyes.

All of us lose tangible links with our past when such buildings are destroyed.

This is the reason I am appreciative to all in our community who put forth the effort to save the Ritter house. Despite its age, the building is very attractive and sound.

The Radcliffs are to be commended for their efforts in restoration. When it is finished, I am sure we will find it a showplace and a great addition to our community.

Clarkston is fortunate that so many of its buildings are being lovingly taken care of and used every day.

If we continue to work together to support restoration and preservation efforts, our village will retain its charm. The treasure which was passed to us can, in turn, be passed to our children and grandchildren.

Marilyn Rosner, President
Clarkston Community Historical Society

It was a group effort

To the people of the Clarkston community:

We want to say thank you to all of you who supported our efforts to save the Ritter house from destruction, and to increase the strength of our National Historic District by adding such a worthy structure.

You have shown that you care deeply about the uniqueness of our community, and that you have the vision to recognize the need to pull together to protect it.

In the months ahead, as we continue to restore the house to its original beauty, we will be sharing our success with all of you.

We couldn't have done it without you!

Jennifer and Hank Radcliff

Commission apology

I wish to express some thoughts with regard to the recent Clarkston Village Planning Commission meeting of Monday, Nov. 5.

It is our feeling that the planning commission members sincerely listened to what we had to say at the meeting.

I also wish to publicly apologize to the planning commission for statements that I made during the last

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., Nov. 14, 1984 7

Clarkston Village Council meeting. I was very frustrated at the time and felt no one had really ever tried to understand our development and what it will bring to the community.

We feel at this time that whatever way the planning commission votes on this issue it will be based on their careful review of our development, and we will have been given a fair hearing.

We also invite Clarkston residents to stop by our office in the Clarkston Mills Mall to look at our Edgehill development.

We welcome the opportunity to answer questions and hope in this way we might "slay the dragons" that arise out of not understanding what a condominium is.

C.A.T.P.A.W. hosts Drink-out

BY JUDY LABASH

Can any of us, even if we choose or have chosen not to drink alcohol, honestly say that alcohol has not affected our lives?

Have we been spared the hang-over grumps, lost weekends or "flu" stomachs? Have we been spared the heartache of a lost loved one because of alcoholism, or an alcohol-related highway death?

If any of us can honestly say that we have in no way ever been affected by alcohol, we are rare, indeed, and very, very fortunate.

C.A.T.P.A.W. of Clarkston, also known as The Chemical People of Clarkston, is sponsoring a 24-hour Drink-Out on Nov. 30, beginning at 8 a.m. Nov. 30 and ending at 8 a.m. Dec. 1.

A drink-out is a 24-hour period when you voluntarily refrain from taking any alcohol and/or chemicals taking complete charge of your life.

The following quiz begins a three-stage, 26-question drinking test. The middle and final stages will appear the next two weeks in The Clarkston News. The questions were developed by the National Council on Alcoholism and are intended to raise our own awareness of our drinking habits.

Please join in the Clarkston Drink-Out. The life you save may be your own.

EARLY STAGE

1. Do you occasionally drink heavily after a disappointment, a quarrel or when the boss gives you a hard time?
2. When you have trouble or feel under pressure, do you always drink more heavily than usual?
3. Have you noticed that you are able to handle more liquor than you did when you were first drinking?
4. Did you ever wake up on the "morning after" and discover that you could not remember part of the evening before, even though your friends tell you that you did not "pass out"?
5. When drinking with other people, do you try to have a few extra drinks when others will not know it?
6. Are there certain occasions when you feel uncomfortable if alcohol is not available?
7. Have you recently noticed that when you begin drinking you are in more of a hurry to get the first drink than you used to be?
8. Do you sometimes feel a little guilty about your drinking?

Jim is speechless at Terrible Jean bash

Jim Fitzgerald

Last Thursday I was invited to a birthday party for Terrible Jean, my much older sister. Because her age is nearing triple digits, it was deemed a special occasion (how many birthdays can one person have?), and attendance by family members was declared imperative. But I couldn't make it.

"What do you mean you can't be there?" asked Terrible Jean, who had declared the imperative. When I said I had to make a speech to the Dearborn Rotary Club, Terrible Jean's querulous reaction wasn't surprising. Because I'm so shy and humble, I usually don't make speeches.

I explained I was substituting for Neal Shine, who usually gives the speeches made in southeastern Michigan. After promising to speak in Dearborn on Nov. 1, he remembered he'd also promised to speak in Royal Oak on the same evening. And it was only natural that I would swallow my shyness and rush to the aid of my dear friend Shine because he is the Free Press executive who OKs my expense account.

TERRIBLE JEAN was only somewhat mollified. I would be missed, she explained, because her party was to be rather small, attended by only the relatives and intimate friends who, through the years, have most enjoyed watching her abuse me. I told Shine he was damaging Terrible Jean's birthday celebration, and he came up with a suggestion that made her feel better.

On the night after Terrible Jean's birthday party, there was to be a Free Press employees' party at Jacoby's saloon to mark the retirement of book editor Barbara Holliday. Terrible Jean always enjoys meeting people who might put her name in the newspaper, and she always yearns for a wider audience before which to abuse me. So why not bring her to the Free Press party? She thought that was a grand idea.

How do you like this story so far? Except for the part about Terrible Jean's intimate little birthday party on Thursday, it's all a lie. I didn't make a speech in Dearborn, and Shine didn't make one in Royal Oak. The Free Press party for Barbara Holliday was a week earlier, and it was at the University Club.

WHEN TERRIBLE JEAN, trailed by her lying little brother, entered the upstairs bar at Jacoby's, she was greeted by nearly 100 friends, some from as far away as St. Louis. There were people she'd grown up with in Port Huron, classmates from Marygrove College, former and present neighbors, and even a long-lost sister who was kidnapped and transported to Cincinnati by blimp many years ago.

The surprise party was hosted by Terrible Jean's husband, Bill. I contributed nothing except a talent for fabrication. The Red Garter band played for dancing, and everyone sang for the joy of it. And Bob Brazell, a Dearborn educator, provided an original poem. The first 17 stanzas gushed embarrassingly about the honored guest's questionable past, and the final two stanzas said:

*Looking back we just don't find
Jean's ignominious past
To support the awful image
Her brother Jim has cast
So fess up "young" Jim,
Why not come clean?
Just what is so terrible
About Terrible Jean?*

That was my cue to stand up and make a long, impassioned speech on the side of truth, but I couldn't. I'd tell you why I couldn't, except I just ran out of room.

Village Players begin theater renovations

By Kathy Greenfield

As volunteers hammered away in the background, Clarkston Village Players' president Marlene Sewick beamed.

"It's so exciting, it really is, after all these years," she said between snapping step-by-step photographs of the dozen workers' progress Saturday on the addition to the Depot Theatre on White Lake Road.

Dennis Colwell and crew have been working since Sept. 1 on the project.

"I'm almost at a loss for words," she added. "I don't believe it's happening."

The crew led by Dennis Colwell and Bruce Taylor worked to put up the walls and get the roof on before the big freeze, so they can continue with inside work this winter on the lobby and restrooms.

They've just about used up the $10,500 building fund.

"It'll probably take us about another $10,000 to really renovate the place with the existing building," said Colwell. "We are looking for a fairy godmother or father to help us complete this project."

Also working and watching the progress was Russ Inman, who designed the addition and led the lengthy process through the red tape of township approvals, building permits and inspections.

"I'm just thrilled to death," he said. "I wish they'd done this 10 years ago."

The Players have put on shows at the former train station for about 25 years. During performances and practices, they've had to use outdoor, temporary portable toilets.

Sewick lists the fund raisers the Players conducted over the past eight or nine years: coffee and flag sales at parades, goat votes that resulted in a live goat presented to the "winner" of the drawings, sales of stationery and toilet paper, and the big auction in April that doubled the building fund and allowed the project to move forward.

"I think the community has always been good to us," she said.

Volunteer construction workers for the Clarkston Village Players keep at it despite the rain. Here, Bob Arend pounds a few nails before the wall's put into place.

Police seek armed robber

Police from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department are looking for a suspected gunman who robbed Sunshine Food Store, 10759 Dixie Highway, of an unknown amount of money Friday, Nov. 9.

According to reports, the store manager was alone counting the day's receipts when the man, his hand hidden in his pocket indicating he had a gun, ordered him to "...give me your money, or you're gone."

The alleged gunman fled after putting the money in a brown paper bag, and drove a rusted pick-up truck north on Dixie Highway.

No one was injured.

Police are looking for a man wearing a green army jacket, jeans and work boots with a week's worth of unshaved beard.

Persons with information are asked to call the OCSO at 858-5095.

On my soapbox

Clarkston, it's been my pleasure

Marilyn Trumper

For the first time in years, Sunday morning's Detroit News arrived and I ignored the want ads' HELP WANTED section.

Instead, I poured cup of coffee, shook out the colored funnies, and smiled.

When the Michigan Press Association newsletter was placed on my desk last week, I bypassed the classified ads, took a phone call on line one, and smiled.

And with relish I've dismissed Editor & Publisher's nationally advertised job section.

Instead of scouring the columns I handed the magazine to a colleague.

And I smiled.

After more than four and a half years reporting for the The Clarkston News, I've accepted a copy editor's job with the Mt. Pleasant Morning Sun. I'll be in charge of night operations for the morning, 12,000 circulation six-day daily newspaper serving Isabella and Gratiot counties.

No more late-night board meetings.

A new face will be sitting front-and-center at Clarkston Village Council meetings.

I won't have to find a fresh angle for any more raisin bread bazaars and salad luncheons, cover any more Sunday school parades, junior high plays or foreign exchange students.

Someone else will listen to the planning commission talk about berms for two hours.

Instead, I'll edit those stories and sympathize with the reporters writing them.

I'll write headlines for the Morning Sun.

Dummy her pages.

Master a new computer system.

And discover management from a boss' point of view.

It may mean hanging up my knit tie and corduroy jacket with suede elbows, part of every reporter's wardrobe.

But I'll never give up my beer.

I won't have to be crusty and two-fisted anymore.

I can finally deliver my opinions and not hesitate to get on a soapbox.

There'll be no more morning fan mail in my name, or afternoon phone calls criticizing my stories.

No one will stop me on the street, shove a finger in my face and read me the riot act.

Or thank me for writing a keepsake on their 90-year-old grandmother, one that's been placed with the family tree.

And I'm looking forward to it.

I'll enjoy the anonymity.

I've always been proud of my profession and the role newspapers have in this free society.

And I've always been proud of The Clarkston News.

We routinely beat our daily competition.

We run circles around them in fact.

We blow by our weekly competition, a publication that should give us a run for our money.

Our small staff of three saturates sports, local government and the schools.

We pick up on the features you like to read.

Where else will brides get a six-inch wedding story?

What other paper writes about promotions, aspiring poets, kids selling lemonade and men who cut their grass in a checkerboard pattern, all with the same intensity?

Clarkston's been good training ground for me.

My work's run the gamut.

It's made me a well-rounded journalist.

And that helped land the job in Mt. Pleasant.

Four years ago editor Kathy Greenfield gambled and hired a college senior who needed to fill an internship requirement.

The job served as my internship, and my bread-and-butter.

I've always appreciated the chance and hope I gave to the job all it gave to me.

Clarkston, it's been my pleasure.

Reins pulled on rumors

Planning commission resents secret meeting charges

By Marilyn Trumper

Virginia Walters, secretary of the nine-member Clarkston Village Planning Commission, resents a comment by developer Frank Walker alleging the commission met secretly to discuss his proposed $2.2 million condominiums, then publicly denied his plan.

And she challenges his report that the commission "did nothing" in its second review of the plan.

Walker, who made the comments Oct. 30 before the village council, has since retracted his statements publicly before the planning commission.

"We didn't opt to do nothing" as was reported in the paper," Walters said. "We said we'd review it when we reviewed the zoning ordinance, and we will."

"In fact, we've not so much as discussed the plan with other members when we met on the street. That would be illegal."

According to Walters, morale on the commission is low with one member resigning because of the workload, and she herself considering it.

"When it came out in the papers that we were holding private meetings, it didn't help. It added fuel to the fire," she said.

Asked by the village council to review Walker's proposal a second time, from a Planned Unit Development (PUD) concept instead of a rezoning, the commission Nov. 5 voted to ask the more experienced Independence Township Planning Commission for help. The township commission, last summer, drafted its own 12-page PUD law.

"When Frank (Walker) came before us first, we recommended his project be approved," Walters said.

"It comes back to us again because the council didn't want it and we said we'd review it when we reviewed the zoning ordinance. We didn't opt to do nothing as was reported in the paper. We were told by the council to also review the zoning ordinance."

In its third request, the village council asked the planning commission to review Walker's proposal again, specifically addressing condominiums in an R-2 district with a change in density.

"Each time we've done what we've been asked," Walters said. "We've been open to this review."

Football stars show off skills

Rainy and muddy weather conditions didn't keep the future football stars from participating in the annual pass, punt and kick contest sponsored by the Clarkston Jaycees.

The contest, Nov. 10, drew 47 boys and girls to the Clarkston High School football field and filled the six age divisions from eight to 13.

The top three finishers went home with trophies. They were determined by the total number of feet accumulated by throwing or kicking the ball along the straight line. The farthest and the straightest attempts came out winners.

Winners in the 8-year-old division are Corbin Muschinski, 145 feet; Brian Bovee, 108 feet; and Jake Vaughn, 90 feet.

For the 9-year-olds, the top three are Danny Scheib, 146 feet; Jeff Harrison, 139 feet; and Mark May, 127 feet.

In the 10-year-old group, the winners are Devon

DuPree, 218 feet; Jeremy Delone, 203 feet; and Paul Shull, 169.

The winners in the 11-year-old division are Steve Kithil, 181 feet; Alan Brown, 160 feet; and Arron Councilman, 115 feet.

For the 12-year-olds the top three are Brian Harrison, 227 feet; Bill Knight, 201 feet; and Danny Jackson, 198 feet.

In the 13-year-old division, the winners are Gary Jackman, 295 feet; Matthew Spring, 216 feet; and Dennis Trombly, 210 feet.

The Jaycees have sponsored the event the last five years by themselves. The 15 years prior to that, they worked in conjunction with the Ford Motor Co.

"Ford discontinued sponsoring in 1979 because of economics," said Bruce Shull, an ex-Jaycee member who helped run the event with Bruce Harley, Joel Griffiths and Brian Bissell. "There used to be a regional, district and a national contest after the local event. Now it just stops here."

Wolves handle Avondale

By Dan Vandenhemel

Playing in the Pontiac Silverdome didn't seem to bother the Clarkston Wolves' girls basketball team. In fact, the opponents didn't bother them either.

The varsity Wolves had little problem disposing of Avondale, 57-35, Nov. 10.

Playing in the Silverdome, prior to the Detroit Piston-Milwaukee Bucks National Basketball Association game, the Wolves didn't look nervous at all.

To help his team get over any jitters about the game, coach Dave McDonald wanted his players there early enough to watch most of the first high school game in the Dome between Lakeville and Burton Atherton.

"This can be an awesome place. It's huge."

—Dave McDonald

"I wanted them to get over the awesomeness of playing in the Silverdome," he said. "This can be an awesome place. It's huge."

The strategy looked like it worked as several Wolves tried three-point shots from the 35 feet the NBA uses during pre-game warmups.

The game started slowly for both teams with Clarkston leading, 2-0, with three minutes gone from the contest. The Wolves built on that and led, 10-2, at the end of the first quarter and 26-12 at halftime.

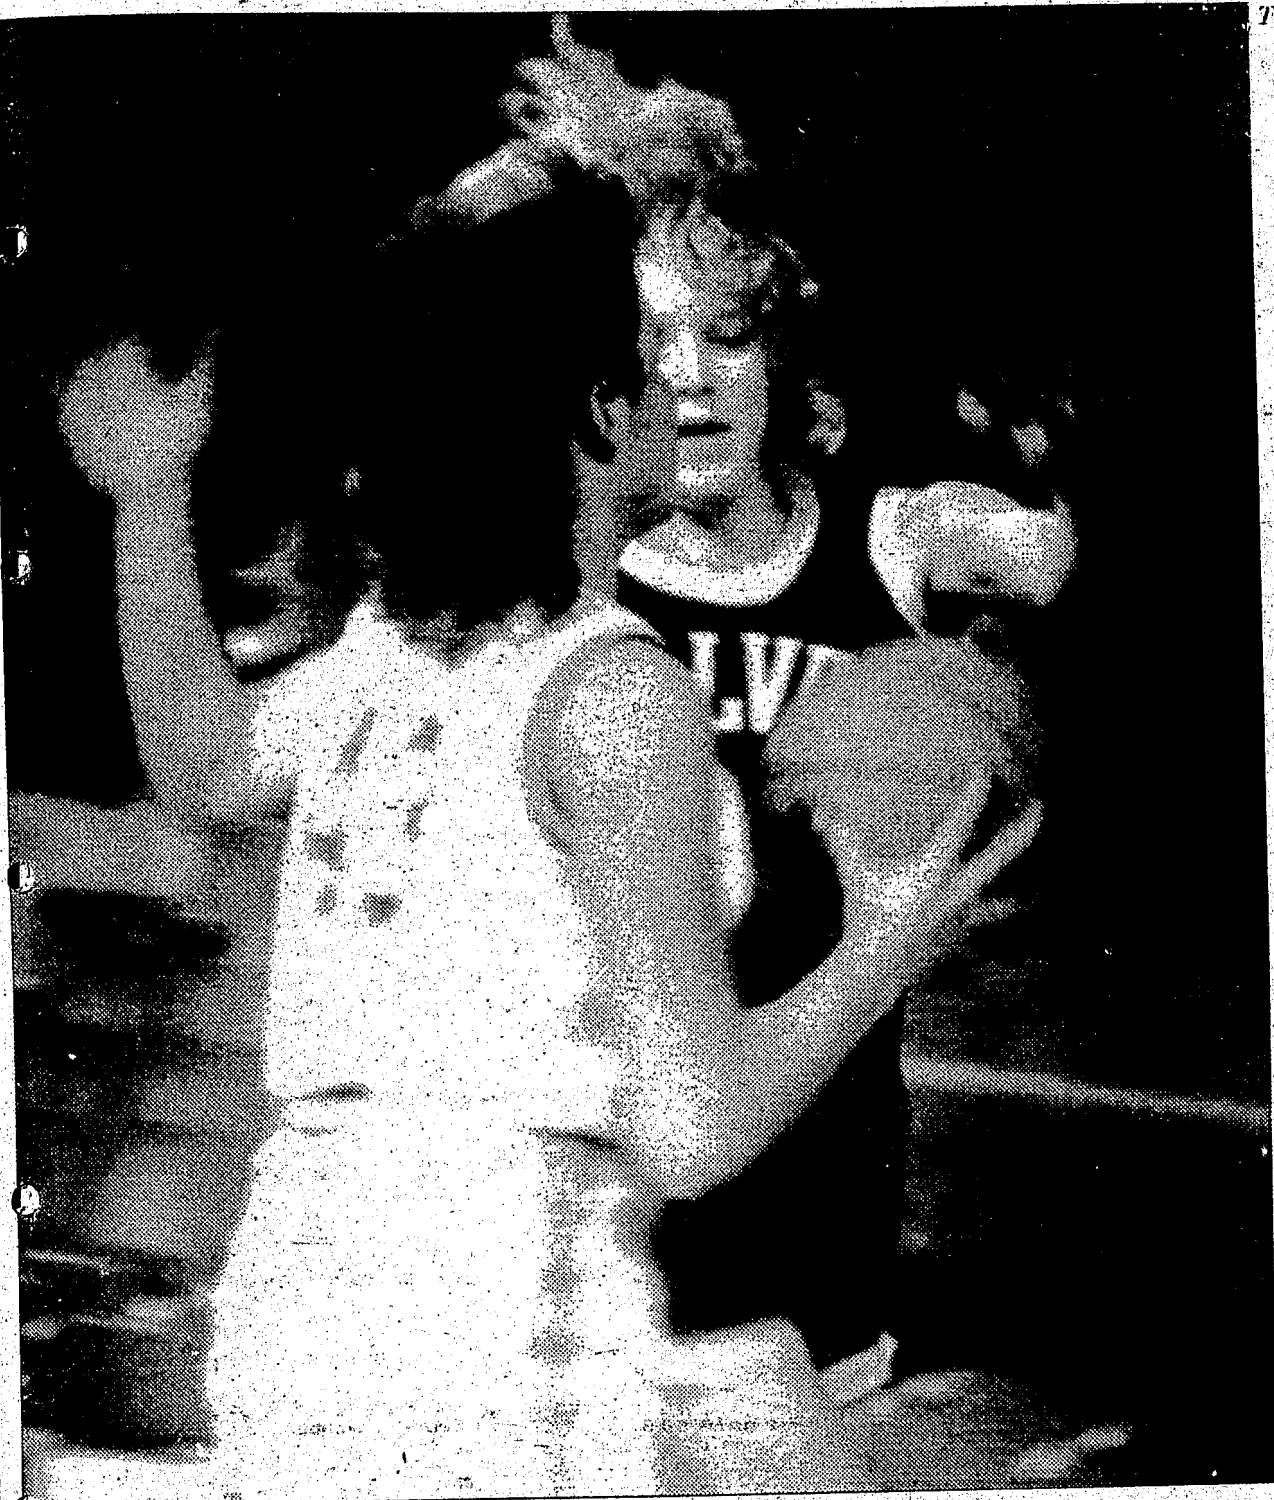

The second half was nothing like the first. Both teams were running the ball and scoring in bunches.

When the Wolves start the fast break and it works, few teams can keep up with them. The victory raised their season record to 10-6.

Balanced scoring helped bring the score to 42-28 in the Wolves' favor after three quarters then they stayed even with the Yellow Jackets the rest of the game.

Kim Ottman led the attack with 10 points and five steals. She was followed by Sue Lovelady with nine points coming off the bench. Missy O'Dell filled in with eight points, as did Michelle Taulbee, who also pulled in 15 rebounds.

"It's exciting to play here," said Wolves' coach Dave McDonald. "It's great experience for them. It looked like they had fun out there. This game is supposed to be fun."

Good defense helps the Wolves down Avondale, 57-35, in the Silverdome. Here, Laura Hurren cuts off a Yellow Jacket player on a trip to the basket. Kim Ottman leads the scoring for the Wolves with 10 points, while not playing much of the fourth quarter.

Rewards roll in for runner

By Dan Vandenhemel

After driving home from work in Birmingham, Pat Portenga pounds the pavement.

In the early evening hours, Portenga jogs the streets near her home on Balmoral Terrace, Independence Township. The 46-year-old secretary logs between 30 and 50 miles each week.

In the long run, the work is paying off for Portenga. She came in seventh in her age group in the Detroit Free Press International Marathon, Oct. 14.

"It's the first time I've finished in the top 10," a very happy Portenga said. "It was the fourth marathon I've finished."

During the spring, Portenga trailed only two other women in the Bay Shore Marathon in Traverse City.

For only seriously running the last four years, the trophies and awards are building up in the Portenga home.

"I tried to race a 10k (kilometer) every other weekend," she said. "This summer is the most I've won. You could find a race every weekend if you wanted to."

For Pat Portenga, running is more fun than tennis. So now she runs competitively in marathons.

On the non-race weekend, she and husband Dick run with a local group called W.G.A.S., short for We Go All Speeds. Saturday mornings, the 25-member group takes off for a long-distance run of 20 miles.

Dick Portenga also ran in the International Marathon starting in Windsor, crossing the Ambassador Bridge and finishing on Bell Isle. But with back problems, his goal was just to finish—and he did.

The Portengas are a running family. Besides Dick and Pat, their children Leah, 20, and Matt, 14, rack up the mileage.

Running has taken the place of tennis as recreation for the Portengas.

"I like it because it's relaxing," Pat said of running. "We used to be in tennis pretty competitively. I used to run to get in shape for tennis. Now we don't play tennis anymore because we like running more."

With no thoughts of quitting competitive running, Portenga goes out in each race trying to improve on her previous time.

"That's why I like running," she said. "I'm competing with myself instead of another tennis player."

Up My Alley

Best rewards

By Dan Vandenhemel

It sure feels good doing something nice. No rewards, no special thanks were needed, it just felt good.

Last week at Oakland University, I was headed to the library for some much needed homework when a side trip the school newspaper office slowed me down.

A woman in the office had been separated from her friend and little daughter. None of the three people knew their way around the campus and the woman in the office (Kath) was visiting from Australia. All this made bringing the two parties together a little more difficult.

It was 1 p.m. and they had been apart for almost an hour. Kath told her friend Peggy to meet her at the English department. But neither knew where it was.

Once finding the department, Kath came looking for her friend because she never showed up and the search was on.

Quick checks of the three buildings Peggy might have been in produced nothing. Kath decided to go back and wait at the English department and by a phone because we called public safety to help with the search.

Being from Australia, Kath couldn't name the type of car they came in because. "They're quite different from ours." The general description of "cream-colored, rusty and two-door" fit about half the cars sitting in the parking lot.

It was approaching 2 p.m. and Kath was getting worried.

"I hope nothing has happened to them. It's daylight and there's a lot of people around," she said.

A couple words of reassurance helped her but we still didn't know where they were.

Just as public safety came around I decided to take a second look in the parking lot. Maybe they were waiting in the car.

Sure enough, Peggy and her daughter were waiting patiently in their car. Peggy thought Kath was going to meet them there, at the car. I told her where Kath was waiting because it was a longer car ride than walking distance.

When I got back and told Kath I found them she gave me the best reward possible, a smile and a big hug.

Olympian coming to Clarkston

By Dan Vandenhemel

Olympic Gold Medal winner Steve Fraser is coming to Clarkston High School Nov. 17 to give a wrestling clinic.

The 29-year-old Washtenaw County Sheriff's Deputy won his medal in the recent Olympics held in Los Angeles and is a former state high school wrestling champion from Hazel Park.

The clinic runs from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. with tickets for $2 a person. New Clarkston High School wrestling coach Greg Gwisdalla said 25 area schools have been invited to the clinic but it's open to anyone.

"Being a new coach, I thought this would be a good way to kick off the season," Gwisdalla said. "With the Olympics just completed and the high school wrestling season just beginning, I thought this would be a good way to start."

For more information on the wrestling clinic, call the high school at 625-0900.

'Overworked' body is floundering

One planning commission member resigns, another's yet to decide

By Marilyn Trumper

The Village of Clarkston's Planning Commission is taking it on the chin for the way it's handling reviews, and while one member weighs resignation, a second has resigned.

At its Nov. 12 meeting, Clarkston's village council unanimously accepted Robert Sanderson's letter of resignation from the planning commission after an eight-year term.

Sanderson cited his work and family as major reasons for leaving, then added, "...the pressures of progress Clarkston is experiencing are going to require much more time of village planning commission members."

Secretary of the nine-member commission, Virginia Walters, says she's considered resigning but hasn't made up her mind.

"Maybe we didn't review the (Planned Unit Development) in September as told," she said. "And no, we haven't made the zoning ordinance revision every three years as we're supposed to. But we do make many changes all the time. The ordinance is always being changed. And we do have a heavy workload. There's always something before us."

"Then when the paper comes out and says we're holding illegal meetings, well, that didn't help. It just added fuel to the fire," Walters said.

Village council President Carol Eberhardt says she sympathizes with the commission's belief it's overworked.

"For years, the planning commission's workload was very light," Eberhardt said. "Nothing happened for a long time except for the sign ordinance and clean-up work. It seemed to come all at once in April with Century 21's proposed rezoning, the Hawke rezoning request, the Radliff house. And because by law the council has to refer requests by citizens to the planning commission, it seemed at every meeting we had something else for them."

"I can understand their frustration. I think they see the ordinance needs changing. And the fact (Chairman) James McArthur was sick didn't help. They didn't have their leader."

Eberhardt regrets the resignation, and any that might come.

"I like the commission the way it is," she said. "And if someone were going to resign I'd hope it wasn't because they were disgruntled. If it is, I want to talk to them and maybe we can work something out."

"Review of the zoning ordinance is a monumental job, but it's not one that can't be done with some time and planning if it's organized correctly."

For the first time in the commission's history, members are receiving minutes from the village council meetings that reflect what direction the council wants the commission to take.

"I don't know what else I can do," Eberhardt said. "I don't feel I should sit in on their meetings and hold them by the hand. We're all adults."

Snow wreaks havoc here

15 accidents in 72 hours

By Marilyn Trumper

This weekend's ice and snow covered roads wreaked havoc for Independence Township drivers testing winter road skills.

In the three-day stretch, there were 15 fender-benders on area streets, according to Deputy Mark Gallo, accident investigator for the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

No one was seriously injured, and cars suffered minor damage.

"A great number of accidents are caused by the driver not slowing down on icy roads," Gallo said. "You have to allow more stopping distance than on a dry road. Your ability to stop is cut down by half."

To also avoid accidents, he also suggests drivers not accelerate as quickly on icy roads, keep their car's glass clean, and the car's taillights free of snow.

11 Minute Regeneration
9 Gallons of Water
1 Pound of Salt

Here is the first of a new generation of water conditioners built around a technological discovery in the ion-exchange process. It combines super reaction speeds, a pressure-packed bed (patent pending) and clean water regeneration to achieve remarkable process efficiency.

Moreover, it uses no electricity. The unit provides clean, soft water around the clock and regenerates only on demand.

Camp bound

By Members of the Clarkston
Junior High Journalism Class

From Nov. 12-16, the ninth-graders at CJHS will be going to Camp Tamarack in Ortonville for a week of fun and learning.

Many activities are planned, including flag football, capture the flag, fire and pies, card and table games, climbing tower, photography and hiking, Christmas crafts, aerobics and soccer. Students get to choose any three of these activities.

Required activities include a first-aid course; the laws and you; an owls, etc., program; and what it was like in an old school house.

Ninth-graders will be in a pioneers' skills program, where they will learn how to make simple things like the pioneers used to.

One of the most fun things to do at camp is play the survival game. This is where students become animals and learn how to survive without being caught by other animals.

There will be movies, learning more about snakes, a gong show and the annual Olympics.

In the Olympics, students are on two teams, green and white. Green goes against white in various events, like the marathon, relays and free-throw shooting, soccer and many more.

Ninth-graders stay in cabins of about 12 with one teacher per cabin. A total of about 200 students are going this year.

On Nov. 7 and 8, the drama department put on a mime show for the school and the parents.

There were many skits, and judging from the audience's reaction, they liked the performance.

Some of the skits were: Hide and Fall, At the Movies, Heartbeat, The Tricksters, Dr. Melvin and Mr. Muscle, Shopping Mall and The Womanizer.

This week's contributors were Jeff Tungate and Kris Scislowicz.

Family angered over trap

Yellow Labrador retriever injured in trap meant for coon; recovers in office of Independence veterinarian

By Kathy Greenfield

Honey's eyes are sad, her left paw limp. But the 3-year-old yellow Labrador retriever owned by David and Lorna Kithil is safe. She's awaiting treatment at the office of veterinarian Bruce Harlton after spending hours with her paw in the vise-like grip of a small animal trap near her home in the Lake Maria Woods subdivision west of Dixie Highway and north of Foster Road in Independence Township.

The next day, a conservation officer from the State Department of Natural Resources removes two more traps from the area. The officer tells the Kithils the trapper was probably after foxes or racoons.

While such trapping is legal, there are rules to be followed and, in this case, they weren't.

It's a common problem, according to a DNR spokesperson. In order to trap, a person must have a trapping license and work in an open area or have permission of the property owner. The traps must carry identification and trapping must be done in season.

The first trap was found the day before the muskrat, mink and racoon season opened. There was no identification.

The story of Honey's rescue from the trap began early the morning of Friday, Nov. 9.

"We heard her crying," said Lorna Kithil. "As David was shaving, he heard her and opened the door and called her and she didn't come."

At about 7:30 a.m., Kithil began her search. She could hear honey whimpering every once in a while. It sounded like her voice was coming from a swampy area on the lake's edge.

At about 9 a.m., Lorna's friend Barb Zabel joined the search. The women set out on the lake in a row boat, shouting out the dog's name.

"Honey wouldn't bark," said Kithil. "Finally we were quiet and she'd cry."

Sounds echo in the marshy area, and they finally found Honey in the opposite direction of where they began hunting.

The rusty trap was in a wild raspberry thicket. It was attached to a tree with a piece of new wire.

The women couldn't release the trap, so they removed it from the tree and picked up Honey with the trap still clamped on her paw.

They put her in the boat and paddled to shore. From there, Honey was placed in a small trailer behind a tractor and pulled up the hill. They transferred her to the car and took her to the vet's.

"This thing is bad news, because everyone goes back there," said Zabel.

"My cat could have been killed in that thing," said Kithil. "Sure, my dog got hurt, but it was illegal. They have some things down there which might hurt my kids."

Veterinarian Harlton said he treats about two pets a year after they're caught in such traps.

"I'd say it's too common," he said. "If I see one a year, it's too common."

Usually the dog has to have its leg amputated, because it cannot survive with less than three toes and the pads that cushion walking.

"Honey, I think, is going to be very, very lucky," he said. "It looks at this point she's not going to lose her toe. That trap, it comes together like a guillotine, it just crushes... What usually happens is it will begin an irreversible process whereby the blood supply is lost to the extremity past where the trap is clamped on—in very simple terms, the foot dies."

"It's the first time a dog was trapped for any length of time where I didn't have to remove some tissue or a whole leg," he said. "A leg amputation is a horrible thing for a vet to have to do, to remove all that healthy tissue just because of toes."

Harlton said he's opposed to such traps, even for hunting wild animals.

"It's not like someone taking a rifle and shooting a deer," he said. "A trap like this doesn't kill them, it traps them."

Lorna Kithil holds up Honey's paw that was locked in the small animal trap in the foreground. Honey, who has been sedated, is awaiting examination by veterinarian Bruce Harlton.

Break-dancing

Class by Motor City Express

The Motor City Express brings its expertise to Clarkston with a series of four break-dancing classes beginning Wednesday, Nov. 28.

Offered through the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department, the classes are to meet Wednesdays from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. in Independence Township Hall. The fee is $25.

The Express is a professional dance group with over seven years of performing experience. They are best known for their "street" dance choreography and their renditions of Michael Jackson.

The group performed for "Good Afternoon Detroit" in January 1984 and were nominated for an Emmy in the Video Award Competition.

Students in the class will be introduced to popping, locking, robot, water waving, moon walking, the Michael Jackson and the Electric Boogie.

Registrations are limited. For more information, call the parks and recreation department at 625-8223.

See wildlife artist

An open house at Frames by Marilyn in Ortonville features wildlife artist Robert Gwynn.

On Saturday, Nov. 17, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., Gwynn is to exhibit editions of his recent works.

The 34-year-old artist resides in Metamora, where he devotes his time to painting wildlife.

His awards include "Best of Show" and first place in the Michigan outdoors Wildlife Artist of the Year competition and fourth place, out of 100 professional artists, in the Michigan United Conservation Club's wildlife competition.

Frames by Marilyn is located at 437 Mill St. (627-4006)

Wood crafts for Christmas

What would a Christmas craft show be without Christmas Trees? Here Sara Spiece puts the finishing touches on the wooden pine trees that will be sold at the Country Bazaar.

Trying to get more brown stain on the wooden bears than herself is the goal of Jan Weber. She's one of the members of the Clarkston United Methodist Church Women preparing for the annual Country Bazaar planned Saturday, Nov. 17, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Besides craft items, booths of food and Christmas decorations will fill the church located at 6600 Waldon, Independence Township.

Emmalyn Balfour works on cross stitching for the Clarkston United Methodist Country Bazaar.

POW candle at St. Daniel's Church

The "Candle of Hope" is making the rounds in four Clarkston-area churches during its travels throughout the state as a symbol of the goals of the Prisoner of War Committee of Michigan.

The group continues to be concerned about the plight of the 2,500 men, including 77 from Michigan, who remain unaccounted for in Southeast Asia 11 years after the end of the Vietnamese conflict.

They are working to persuade the government to investigate reports of prisoners still alive, to obtain the fullest possible accounting for the MIAs and to press for the return of remains of those who died.

Grad

Carol Sartor, who graduated from Central Michigan University in August, has accepted the position of head director in recreational therapy in an extended care facility in a Cleveland, Ohio, suburb.

During her last semester at CMU, Sartor maintained an all-A grade point average.

A 1978 graduate of Clarkston High School, she's the daughter of Barbara and Evalino Sartor of Oakhill Road, Independence Township.

New arrival

It's a girl for Larry and Debbie Anderson of Northview Road, Independence Township.

Brooke Marie weighed in at 8 pounds, 7½ ounces and measured 21 inches long.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Molter of Clarkston, and Mr. and Mrs. Mearle Jacobs of Traverse City.

Great-grandparents are Madeline Molter of Pontiac, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rebei of Florida.

In service

Cadet Dawn Eschker recently entered the General Military Course of the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps at Michigan Technological University, Houghton.

She was also awarded a four-year Air Force ROTC scholarship worth over $10,000.

Eschker, a graduate of Clarkston High School, is a full-time student pursuing a bachelor's degree at Michigan Tech. After graduation, she is to be commissioned as a second lieutenant in the air force.

She is the daughter of Louis and Barbara Eschker.

Multicolored with the POW emblem, the candle stands about two feet tall and weighs about 30 pounds.

"It is lit during Sunday services. The minister says something to enlighten the people about the problem," said POW/MIA member Janice Ledogar of Springfield Township, whose brother was killed in Vietnam.

Ledogar made the arrangements for the local churches to participate.

On Sunday, Nov. 4, the candle glowed at the Church of God on Clarkston Road. On Nov. 11, it was at the Calvary Lutheran Church. On the 18th, it is to be at St. Daniel Catholic Church and on Nov. 25, at the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

Turkey alternative

By Lorna Bickerstaff

A way to prepare a turkey dinner for six the day before Thanksgiving comes our way from Lee and Pat McNew, two of the co-owners of the Clarkston Cafe.

A recipe from the Gold-Medal-winning American team at the 1980 Culinary Olympics, it's a favorite at the McNews' restaurant and home. The Cafe, incidentally, is not open Thanksgiving Day.

TURKEY OKLAHOMA

¾ pound raw turkey dark meat, ground

¼ pound ground pork fat

Salt and pepper, to taste

Poultry seasoning, to taste

1 egg

¾ cup heavy cream

Grind turkey meat and pork fat with salt. Keep very cold. Mix egg and heavy cream; slowly add to meat until fully absorbed. Sprinkle with seasonings and spread ½-inch thick onto plastic wrap, to dimensions of about 8-by-10 inches.

Spread stuffing (recipe below) on top, jelly-roll fashion. Roll. Can be refrigerated and cooked later.

Roast at 375 degrees for about 45 minutes, until internal temperature reaches 155 degrees. Let rest 20 minutes before carving. Serve with sauce (recipe below). Makes six servings.

STUFFING

6 tablespoons minced onions

3 tablespoons garlic cloves, mashed

6 tablespoons carrots, minced

2 tablespoons celery, minced

2 tablespoons parsley, chopped

2 tablespoons butter

¼ pound mushrooms, quartered

½ pound white turkey meat, julienned

4 tablespoons chopped ham

1 turkey liver, cooked and chopped

1 turkey giblet, cooked and chopped

1 egg yolk

1 cup croutons, toasted

Salt, pepper and poultry seasoning, to taste

Saute onions, garlic, carrots, celery and parsley in butter until onions are translucent. Add mushrooms and turkey meat and cook several minutes. Remove from heat. Add remaining ingredients and chill.

SAUCE

¼ cup clarified butter

2 tablespoons shallots

½ cup flour

1 cup turkey stock

2 tablespoons dry sherry

½ cup heavy cream

Saute shallots in butter. Add flour to make a roux (do not brown). Add turkey stock and simmer. Boil sherry to reduce by one-half, then add heavy cream. Add to mixture.

Can be refrigerated and reheated, but should be strained.

SJHS's Mime Troupe takes its talents outside

By Monica Miles

Clarkston News Special Writer

They have done a workshop in the new Brandon High School.

They are in the process of practicing their second performance for the Brandon Middle School.

Who are they? Why, they're the Sashabaw Junior High Mime Troupe.

There are 12 people in the group right now and they plan to expand.

"The interest of the mime has spread to my Drama I students so we have decided to let them try out," said Jan Inman, teacher of Drama I and II.

To be in the mime troupe, students must have at least one year of drama, but if they are extremely good Drama I students, then they may try out in front of the troupe.

Two members talked about their feelings for the mime troupe.

"I think it's a special honor to be in the mime troupe. We have lots of talent. It's a very interesting time we spend working together. We also have a super teacher!" said member Tabi Wilson.

"The mime troupe offers us an hour of talent. We can express our opinions as long as they are not critical. Those of us lucky enough and privileged enough to be in Drama II have a very big advantage. We can widen our horizons and be creative," said another mime troupe student, Sharon Hawley.

Their teacher also expressed positive feelings toward the troupe.

"Last year's mime troupe was a success and the interest carried over to the new '84-85 Mime Troupe," said Mrs. Inman. "I hope we will have a successful year once again."

Author Monica Miles is a ninth-grader at Sashabaw Junior High School. She's working with The Clarkston News every other week during this school year.

The SJHS Mime Troupe gathers to portray a silent train. In the lead are [front to back] Tracy Thornberry, Pam Squires and Jeremy Roberts. Because it's an impromptu practice, they're not wearing the usual black-and-white mime makeup. Other troupe members are Jody Bouck, Jenny Danielson, Quinten Geyer, Sharon Hawley, Maria Rovere and Tabi Wilson. Lisa Thousand and Andrea Tassen are in charge of makeup. [Photo by Kathy Greenfield]

125- CARD OF THANKS

ADDISON TOWNSHIP Voters Thank you for electing me trustee. Barbara D. Stafford. 111CX45-1

I WOULD Like to thank everyone who voted for me in the recent election. I appreciate it very much. If I can be of any help to you please feel free to contact me anytime. Thank you again, Sincerely Ray E. Terry Addison Township Treasurer. 111CX45-1

WE WOULD LIKE to thank all our good friends for their cards, calls and visits during my recent accident and convalescence. A special thanks to the Reverends Harold Pailthorp and Richard Peacock. Tom and Olive Arthur. 111RX-45-1

130-IN MEMORIAM

IN LOVING MEMORY of my husband Donald M. Julien who died November 19, 1973. He is gone but will never be forgotten, also leaving 3 sons Harry A., Donald B. and David L., 13 grandchildren and 3 great-grandchildren. Mrs. Donald M. Julien. 111RX45-1

IN MEMORY OF Mike Allen who passed away Nov. 19, 1976. Beyond the rainbow's farthest end there lies a land that's always filled with love and light. Where shadows never fall and dim the skies. For in this lovely land there is no night. In this celestial place of joy and peace. There is no time or space, no doubt or fear. For those who come to it all troubles cease, and worldly difficulties disappear. Mom, Dad, brothers & sisters, Grandma. 111CX45-1

Clarkston my neighborhood.

For the past 8 years, I've been helping my neighbors here in Clarkston protect the things they value with State Farm insurance. I'm proud of this community and grateful for my many friends here.

Thanks to all of you in Clarkston, for being my "Good Neighbors."

Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there.

Gathered in a circle for songs and discussion, Fedon Pitsonis provides a secure seat for his daughter, Julie, during Dads' Day at the Clarkston Co-op Nursery School that meets at the Clarkston United Methodist Church. The special session was held Saturday morning "just so the dads can see what we're doing here," says teacher Pennie Barnes.

Stephanie carries on a lively conversation with her dad, Brian Bissell, during snack time, then pauses for a hug.

Kaitlin and her dad, Jim Russell, sit comfortably when the group gathers for circle time.

Tom Parrott and sons, Jeremy [left] and Russell, wear matching sweaters for the special session. They were knit by the twins' grandmother. "She made one for each of them and she made one for me-so we'd all look alike," he says.
