Ice cripples Clarkston Five-day crisis

By Carolyn Walker

The worst ice storm to hit southeastern Michigan in nine years sent Independence and Springfield residents reeling from the effects of multiple fire, electrical, water and health problems.

Fallen trees and power shortages forced public servants into uncounted hours and days of overtime work, according to local government officials.

Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk, who is still totaling figures, was uncertain how many businesses and residences were disabled by the storm. He did, however, estimate that at least 90 percent were affected at a potential cost of $9 million.

Collin Walls, supervisor of Springfield Township, was also unsure. "I have no idea at all," he said when asked how many residences and businesses were affected in his community.

Detroit Edison spokesperson Carla Gribbs, who said the New Year's Day storm was the worst since 1976, did not have specific figures for the Independence-Springfield area.

Oakland County was the area hardest hit, she

Ice—a sure bet Share your survival tips

As the days—and cold nights—wore on last week, many of us became wiser on ways to handle life without heat, lights or other needs impossible without electricity.

If nothing else, we learned how to survive under crisis.

A reader of The Clarkston News called and suggested our readers share the survival techniques they discovered.

We know there are some creative thinkers out there, and we'd like to share your tips for future reference. As Benjamin Franklin said, "... in this world nothing is certain but death and taxes" and we're adding "and ice storms in Michigan."

So write down what worked and mail your survival tips to The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016; or give us a call between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays at 625-3370.

House fires rage after storm

By Carolyn Walker

Two houses were completely destroyed and two others were damaged during storm-related fires in Independence Township, according to Dale Bailey, acting fire chief of the Independence Township Fire Department.

Firefighters' efforts to extinguish a Saturday morning fire at a residence on Edgewood, Independence Township, were hampered by an error in reporting the fire, confusion regarding the location of the house and a lack of water, Bailey said.

Neighbors erroneously reported the fire to the Waterford Township Fire Department, which in turn contacted the Independence Township Fire Department.

Firefighters faced further problems when they turned down the wrong road and when their trucks were blocked by fallen trees, Bailey said.

"It (the house) was gone when we got there," he said, adding that firefighters had to pump water from a nearby lake after tankers were emptied.

According to Bailey, Nishon Muradian and his wife, owners of the house, had gone to stay at the Kingsley Inn after they lost their electrical power.

Damage to the house, which contained an indoor pool, was estimated at $300,000 with an additional $150,000 in content damages, Bailey said.

The cause of the blaze is unknown, according to Bailey, who said the fire is under investigation by the Oakland County Arson Division.

Similarly, a house on Lakeview near Walters Lake was completely gutted during an electrical fire New Year's Day.

According to firefighter Steve Ronk, Lynn Siddal, owner of the home, heard the smoke alarm and upon investigation saw flames coming from a basement window.

Siddal was forced to go to four neighboring houses before finding someone home to notify the fire department.

The blaze, which caused $48,000 in damages, started when a falling tree pulled a wire lead away from the house, Ronk said.

While fighting the fire, firefighter Darl Hess received a cut on his arm requiring four stitches.

A house owned by Wendell Banks on Boyne Highland Trail sustained $20,000 in damages Jan. 2 said, with power shortages affecting over 96,000 residents.

Over 1,000 line crews plus support staff and trucks were dispatched to the tri-county area, and seven crews were brought in from Toledo Edison, she said.

Dale Bailey, acting chief of the Independence Township Fire Department, said firefighters responded to over 225 calls, four of which were house fires.

Bailey said firefighters also responded to several reports of carbon monoxide poisoning, although he was unsure of the number.

Firefighters worked untold hours of overtime clearing trees from roads and setting up generators to heat high priority residences, such as nursing and foster care homes where residents were on life support machines, he said.

They also dispensed dry ice and water to needy consumers.

Firefighters at Stations 2 and 3 worked without power and were forced to rely on generators to keep their trucks from freezing, Bailey added.

Officials from the Springfield Township Fire Department were unavailable for comment.

However, Supervisor Walls said firefighters responded to several calls including one for asphyxia (which was not fatal) and one for a chimney fire which caused approximately $3,000 in damages.

Like the firefighters, employees for the department of public works worked many hours overtime.

George Anderson, director of the Independence Township Department of Public Works, said his staff of five worked 18-hour shifts after the storm.

They took three large generators to pump houses and sewer lift stations around the township to help keep basements from flooding, he said.

They also helped restore power to the township hall, according to Anderson, who said the men did so much work he couldn't measure it all.

Dr. James O'Neill, medical director for the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center, said physicians at the center treated many storm-related illnesses during the week.

"We saw over 100 people Sunday," he said. "I think that may be a record day. It was like a zoo."

O'Neill said the weather was extremely hard on senior citizens and infants who had difficulty coping with the cold.

He said doctors treated many people with respiratory and flu symptoms as well as two possible food poisonings, two cases of hypothermia (lowered body temperature) and over six possible cases of asphyxia.

In addition, many people were treated for burns caused by touching generators and injuries from lifting, he said.

According to Supervisor Ronk, two to three people used a rescue center established at the township hall annex over a three-night period.

Oakland County Executive Daniel Murphy has requested that Gov. James Blanchard declare a state of emergency in Oakland County, according to Paul Phelps, director of the Emergency Medical Services and Disease Control Division of Oakland County.

Should Blanchard enact the emergency request, small business loans, low interest insurance loans, and grants may become available to local residents.

Phelps praised Independence township firefighters for their cooperation with the county. "They did a fantastic job," he said.

Phelps, Ronk, and Gribbs all said it would be several weeks before total damage figures and cost estimates would be complete.

when a fireplace fire traveled down a crack in the floor, gutting the basement and causing extensive smoke damage, Ronk said.

A chimney fire at a house on Oak Park, Independence Township, was reported at 10 a.m. Jan. 1.

The house sustained minimal smoke damage, according to a fire department spokesperson.

Dedicated employees brave ice

By Carolyn Walker

Mother Nature welcomed the new year with a chip on her shoulder... an ice chip.

And while her Jan. 1 ice storm put much of Oakland County on hold, a few die-hard citizens worked to keep Independence functioning despite the weather conditions.

Unphased by the lack of power, Fred and Doreen Schwarze, son and daughter-in-law of market owner Rudy Schwarze, opened Rudy's Market and Sons on Main Street, Clarkston, for those in need of groceries.

Customers shopped with the aid of flashlights, and meats were weighed on the vegetable scale at the front of the store, according to Doreen, who totaled expenses on a calculator.

"The customers loved it," she said.

Across the street at the Village Bakeshop, owner Susan Montgomery called in extra workers to serve the standing-room-only crowd.

"It was a great day," she said, explaining that they saw more people than on a parade day.

Although they were unable to run the big mixer which makes fritters, bakeshop workers kept pace with the demand by making fried cakes and extra coffee in the back of the shop.

Many area residents came to the bakeshop to fill thermos bottles with hot coffee, Montgomery said.

Carolyn Harned, an employee at Little Ceasars Pizza Treat on M-15, described the new year's day situation at the restaurant as "swamped."

Open from 11 a.m. until 11 p.m., workers filled over 350 orders, double the normal amount, she said.

The pizzeria was forced to ship in food from Fenton and Holly, according to Harned.

While there were people waiting for service lined up outside the door, several customers filled thermoses with water from the bathrooms, she said.

"Lots, lots, lots," was how an employee, who wished to remain anonymous, described business at Harvey's Colonial House on Dixie.

The restaurant did unprecedented business, despite flickering lights, she said.

The Clarkston Sunoco on Main Street, like many other businesses, was the only one of its kind open, said employee Ken Johnson.

"It was ridiculous," he said, adding that the service station had shipped in a load of gasoline the night before.

Johnson said they did almost double their normal amount of trade.

Doctors at the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center, which was closed much of New Year's Day because of the power failure, serviced their patients over the phone, according to Dr. James O'Neill, M.D.

"You can burn your X-ray machines in no time at all," O'Neill said, explaining why they didn't resort to auxiliary power.

Employees at the Dixie Highway Pacesetter Bank which was also closed New Year's Day opened the bank and worked in their coats Thursday because of the demand, according to branch manager Betty Simmons.

"We were cold," she said. "We were taking deposits until we couldn't see anymore."

"We were surprised how busy we were."

A large oak tree uprooted during the ice storm sits on wires outside Terry and Janet Scheib's home on Williamson Road, Independence Township. The tree damaged eave troughs, put a small hole in the roof and downed the TV antenna—and when it was removed Sunday, the chimney came with it. [Photo by Kathy Greenfield]

Gary and Lois Sanders of Robertson Court, Clarkston, find their car under a large, icy tree branch New Year's Day. The car escaped with minor scratches. "We're lucky," he said. "If the whole thing would have fallen, it would have been crushed."

Betty Clem, of the Pine Knob Pharmacy on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, works with coat on and power off during the electrical shortage brought about by the Jan. 1 ice storm.

Lotto winner shuns publicity

His Clarkston address remains a mystery

A month after he won $2.36 million in the Lotto jackpot, William P. Walker of Clarkston claimed his prize.

Walker told officials of the Bureau of State Lottery he delayed claiming his prize while he discussed plans with his family, attorney and financial adviser.

Attorney Bruce Sage said Walker wanted to avoid the publicity.

"He's a very shy, humble man," Sage said. "He just doesn't want to meet with the press right now."

Sage would not say precisely where Walker lives, only that he resides in the Clarkston area.

Walker's name does not appear on the voter registration list at Independence Township Hall and he does not have children registered in the Clarkston school district.

Lottery officials said Walker is married with two children and he purchased the winning ticket for the Dec. 1 drawing at the Mound Delicatessen in Sterling Heights.

The winning numbers—2, 7, 10, 17, 34, 38—had some significance to Walker at the time he selected them, but Walker said he couldn't remember the reason, according to lottery officials.

Walker picked up his first payment of $118,598 Jan. 4 in Lansing and will receive annual installments of $118,100 until 2004.

Couple overcome by motor fumes

Independence Township residents Howard and Lillian Schurtz were overcome by carbon monoxide fumes at their Clarkston Road home Jan. 4, according to a report at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

The couple was found on the floor by their daughter, Terri Armstrong, who became suspicious when she was unable to reach them by phone.

The Schurtzes had been running a 1,500 watt generator in their unventilated garage after losing power, the report said.

The overhead garage door was found closed and a door connecting the kitchen to the garage was open.

The Schurtzes, who were admitted to Pontiac General Hospital, were discharged Sunday, according to a hospital spokesperson.

Local psychic makes predictions for 1985

By Carolyn Walker

Condominiums, a retirement village, and a half-way house for prisoners are in the future for the Independence-Springfield area, according to psychic Shirley Lynch.

They are but a few of the changes Lynch predicts for 1985.

Condominiums proposed for property along Deer Lake will be built, she said, when contacted at her Springfield Township home.

There will be adjustments made on the number of units and the property will be sold again, she added.

Similarly, she predicts Dr. James O'Neill's proposed senior citizens complex will face delays.

"The timing is off," she said, emphasizing that the project will be built in phases because of problems with the weather, work strikes and financing.

When asked about the group home issue, Lynch said, "They won't be able to get rid of them."

They'll change the names and the concepts, she said, adding that authorities will require more supervision.

Lynch envisions half-way houses for convicted prisoners being proposed in Springfield or Independence near White Lake Township.

"When they find out about that, they'll leave the other (group) homes alone," she said. "They'll count their blessings."

"I see it starting this year, possibly on the borderline," she added.

Lynch anticipates good things for local government.

The township boards will do well in Springfield and Independence, she said.

"It's going to be a typical board," Lynch said of the new Ronk administration, though she predicts that one of the trustees will move away.

She also predicts that the new fire chief will be hired from outside the department.

"Too many egos are involved," she said.

Along with changes in the fire department, police protection will be a big issue, she said, citing frustration on the part of police toward the township.

On the village level, Lynch predicts that the state of Michigan will try to prohibit parking on M-15.

She also forecasts that two business in the village will close.

Likewise, three businesses in Springfield will close, one because of the death of someone important, she said.

Lynch says she is usually 90 percent accurate with her predictions over a long term.

Time will tell.

Thanks for help

We want to thank several people who made living through the recent power outage more bearable: Lil and Bill Jawlick, who let us hook our furnace up to their house for three days, to Ruth and Ron Joyce who ran their generator at our house for a couple hours to warm us up before we could get our furnace running, to Dave and Natalie Kovacs who invited us to share hot meals with them on their Coleman stove, and to John and Peggy Schorsh whose generator pumped fresh water for our family and several others.

From talking to other friends, the friendship we experienced was just a small example of people opening their homes and hearts to one another.

It is true that "Kindness is the golden chain by which society is bound together." (Johann Wolfgang von Goethe)

With sincere thanks,
Bob, Christine, Jillian and John Wyatt

We were able to fill and deliver 40 large baskets for the needy of our area. The baskets contained turkey, fresh fruit, bread and canned goods.

Without their help, it would have been impossible for us to help so many. Again, thanks a lot and God Bless You All.

Jim's Jottings

Testing the senses

Jim Sherman

On one of the few times I was able to get a phone call through to Detroit Edison Jan. 2-3-4, I was told, "Thank you for your patience".

At the time I was numb of mind, the way one gets when in a bad situation and have no control. It's the step beyond rage.

Many motorists during the ice crisis of 1985 (and, just about everyone was driving somewhere) hadn't reached the numb stage.

The horrible "me" generation became plural, covering 90 percent of the people we saw demanding right-of-ways where stop lights were out.

Otherwise, the great ice storm proved to be a great tester of senses.

Smell is tested often. Is that the candles or the fireplace I smell? Or, is it the carpet in front of the fireplace? My leather gloves are so filled with the smell of gasoline, inside and out, they're going to be trashed. Can't stand the smell.

Being out of electricity also sharpens eyes. There's a constant, hoping, lookout for Detroit Edison trucks on your street.

We look for street lights, stop lights, store lights, or anything that glows. Mostly we look for a glimmer of hope.

Ears, too, get tested. If you have a generator, you listen for that sound. If you don't, you listen to your neighbors.

You talk to an Edison spokesman and hear them repeat: Detroit Edison is working as fast as it can to restore power.

You listen for melting, for cracking water pipes, for breaking branches, and to Edison promises on radio that went from, "We expect power to be restored Wednesday" to "We expect power to be restored Saturday or Monday" without even giving a mention to Thursday and Friday.

We put all our senses to the test trying to hear, see, smell or even feel electricity.

Then, one day, the miracle happens. North Oakland began to light up . . . across the road . . . in another town . . . in another quadrant. Someplace else.

You talk a little more, I think, during crises. And, when you do you find others are doing more suffering, and longer. One told of being out of power 14 days after the March 2, 1976 ice storm.

Our papers carried stories of storm-related fires. That's suffering doubly.

Groceries lost thousands in spoiled foods, retailers lost the after-holiday trade, and the rest of us lost days of living.

Those who didn't lose include some services, electrical, plumbing, heating, some hardwares, and Detroit Edison. Wonder if they ever thought of putting those monster lines underground? We users are paying anyway.

Public servants pass test

What a way to begin the new year!

If there ever was a test devised to check the dedication of our public servants in the Independence Township Fire Department and Department of Public Works, it couldn't be better than the ice storm of 1985.

We believe they passed the test with flying colors—and we want to say thanks.

Twenty-one Independence Township firefighters kept all three stations covered around the clock when the storm damage was at its worst. Additional on-call members of the department helped when they could.

During the four worst days, the fire department responded to about 200 calls, up from the normal 12 they'd receive during a normal four-day time span.

They worked without sleep, and in many cases left families at home to cope alone with their own power outages.

They fought four fires, covered medical emergencies, checked on downed wires, hauled water to cattle, ran generators and pumped-out flooded basements.

"Excellent" was the word acting fire chief Dale Bailey chose to describe the work of his crew.

"That's all I can say, excellent," he said. "They've given a lot."

For those who think nothing worse could have happened, did you ever wonder why the sewers didn't back up?

The answer lies with the DPW staff members who stayed busy night and day from Tuesday through Friday running generators at the sewer lift stations.

The crew also rotated generators between subdivisions with central water systems. Pipes with moving water usually don't burst.

Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk summed up his reactions to the efforts of township employees with this:

"Anybody that we had work DPW or firewise did a commendable job, just outstanding." "Excellent" and "outstanding"—we share their sentiments, and we're thankful we can begin 1985 knowing there are so many good people working for us.

Cold questions

Thoughts on a cold, powerless night.

The lights, heat, and water have been cut off for a couple days, and it's temper-testing time.

Dammit, I want answers and I want 'em now. No promises from Edison by phone or airwaves. "By Monday", is not encouraging.

Aggravation builds toward Detroit Edison, where are they?

Surely, when I wake up, the heat will be on.

Surely, before I go to bed the lights will be on.

Where are they? Call the police, Edison will have told the emergency people when to expect power.

"We haven't even heard the county sheriff's cars talking about Edison trucks in the area." Another dispatcher said she couldn't even get a call through to Edison on their special fire number.

Finally she did and was given a 4-day time frame.

Where are they? Listen to the car radio. "A Detroit Edison spokesman said they are calling in crews from Toledo. They will join the 100 crews presently in the field."

Where are they? Holy Toledo! An Edison man in a restaurant told us Edison crews were coming from Indiana. Holy Indiana, where are they?

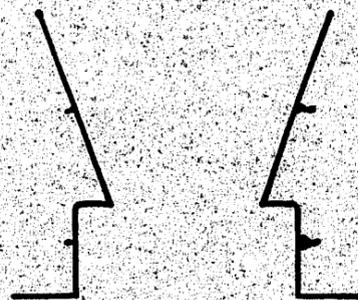

Head out of town to find a heater to keep pipes from bursting. None available in North Oakland county, so head for Genesee. More driving, more gasoline, kerosene, water. Everyone is out driving, if only to get warm.

At the Oxford newspaper office, workers called

Zigmund Freed by Dan Ziegler

Changed it? Sounds to me like you've exchanged it.

Copyright 1985 Dan Ziegler

in to phones without lights or bells. We kept picking them up, and when one of the crew was on the other end the conversation went: Any power? No. When do you expect it? Edison won't say. Call tomorrow.

Rumors start. West Bloomfield got power back first. That figures. Hear Oxford, Orion, Clarkston worst hit and saving till last. That figures, too, from the stand point of the suffering-storytellers.

Where are they? Call Edison. Busy, busy, busy. Then a call gets answered. "Should have power by tonight, but can't promise. We have four crews in your area and they won't leave until they're through. But, they will be called off at 10 and return at 7:00."

Ah, hope. Maybe the Oxford Leader and Lake Orion Review will be printed only two days late.

Then, nothing!

Where are they? We know it took 5 days in 1976 to get the majority back on line. Surely, some changes have been made in eight years to improve line repair.

Where are they? There they are!

The lights are on. Hooray for Edison!

Where were they? JAS

'If it Fitz . . .'

It's not what—it's where

Jim Fitzgerald

If the South African Embassy were in Oakland County, several congressmen might be in jail for life, or until they promised to never protest apartheid again, or until Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson had them electrocuted for conspiring against racism.

But the embassy is in Washington, which is fortunate for the many celebrities arrested there for trespassing while demonstrating against the South African government's policy of treating black people like vermin.

The demonstrators were locked up for only a few hours, and were freed without having to swear to some wrong-headed judge that they'd never picket the embassy again. And no publicity-chasing, candidate-forever prosecutor wants to jail them for a year because, before demonstrating, they talked about it in an allegedly conspiratorial tone of voice.

THE EMBASSY demonstrators accomplished their goal. By getting arrested on purpose, they called attention to oppression in South Africa, and to what the United States is and isn't doing to help its victims. Those congressmen—two from Detroit—and other anti-apartheid protesters broke the law the same way Dr. Martin Luther King broke it. And they willingly accepted punishment that fit the severity—not to mention the nobility—of their crime.

Many people who hate racism don't agree that the embassy demonstrations are the best way to fight it in South Africa. But they don't want the demonstrators hung. They want anti-apartheid trespassers to receive the same justice dispensed to less-publicized trespassers—deer hunters, for instance. And that's the way it works in Washington.

IN OAKLAND COUNTY, it's different. When anti-nuke demonstrators purposely get arrested for trespassing at the Williams missile engine plant, Circuit Judges Francis O'Brien and James Thorburn sentence them to stay in jail until they promise to never return to the Williams plant—an apparent attempt to stifle dissent, rather than to fairly punish trespassers. And Prosecutor Patterson isn't satisfied with 30-day sentences for trespassing; he wants conspiracy convictions that could bring a year in prison.

Thorburn and Patterson are doozies. Thorburn suggested the Williams protesters—many of them nuns and ministers—are all participants in a communist conspiracy, possibly the most outrageous statement ever made by a judge in a state not recently renowned for the judiciousness of its judiciary.

Patterson is the ultra-anti-crime prosecutor who is death on welfare cheats. But he refused to prosecute a woman and her wealthy husband who admittedly hired eight people to kidnap her two adult daughters and hold them prisoner for four days. Instead, he prosecuted the hirelings, who were found innocent by a jury that stated its "opposition to selective prosecution."

And Patterson is currently suing a TV reporter for having the gall to imply an alleged connection between campaign contributions Patterson received from car dealers and his failure to prosecute the dealers on energy-theft charges that were much more disturbing to law agencies outside Oakland County.

The motives of the Williams demonstrators are as noble as those of the apartheid protesters. It is possible to disagree with their methods and still hate nuclear weapons and racism, of course.

But it is impossible to understand why anti-nuclear demonstrating in Oakland County is a much greater crime than anti-racism demonstrating in Washington. I also state my opposition to selective prosecution. It must be a fascist conspiracy.

Third restaurant closes its doors at Mills Mall

By Dan Vandenhemel

For the third time since 1981, a restaurant has closed inside the Clarkston Mills Mall.

The Cookery, owned by Ned Barker, shut down operations Dec. 26. Prior to The Cookery, Foxys and Jacob Petty's occupied the lower level of the Mills Mall.

Barker was unavailable for comment, but the mall's landlord Ed Adler said he thought the restaurant might have priced itself out of the market. It opened in June 1983.

"They might have been a little too expensive for the area," he said. "I think he (Barker) gave it a pretty good try. I just think the prices were a little too high for Clarkston. I don't really know; I'm not in the restaurant business."

Since the closing, Adler said he has talked to several people about moving in another restaurant.

While Adler said there were no indications The Cookery would close when it did, he was aware it might happen.

"It wasn't a shock to me," he said. "He mentioned to me that they might close by the first of the year. He told me that about three months ago."

The closing was unexpected for some employees. Troy Wilmot, a waiter, was scheduled to work Dec. 26.

"Barker had a meeting with the employees about three weeks before Christmas," Wilmot said. "He said the business slows down every year toward the end of the year, but he wouldn't shut down. But he did. I was a little mad. I was supposed to work. They paid us half what they owe us and are supposed to pay the rest when the place is sold."

I prefer snow

Kathy Greenfield

Memories of the ice storm of '85:
Walt Disney or Steven Spielberg couldn't have done it better.

When the sun hit the ice all over everything last week, my senses reacted: "This looks so real, but it couldn't be."

But, alas; it was.

All of us native Michiganders have memories of ice-coated trees. My reactions have always been mixed. It's so beautiful, but so devastating when the ice gets too heavy.

Long ago I decided the only time I can really let myself like ice on trees is when the sun and warm temperatures melt it early the next morning.

Some people who had power were taking good-natured jabs at those without by asking the unfortunates what they did wrong—the old "God must be punishing you" school of thought.

Whenever anyone tossed that at me, I told them whatever it was it must not have been too bad, because the power was on across the street and our good neighbors let us run a line to our house and keep the furnace going.

Whenever one of us flipped a switch in our house, the person not only had to endure the darkness of reality but also the teasing.

That cooled down after we all estimated that we'd all made the mistake too many times to count.

A rotation system was developed at our house to keep everything going now and then as such necessities as the refrigerator, furnace and water pump were plugged and unplugged.

As our numbers grew with friends of our children whose houses had no heat, one necessity took me by surprise.

One of our son's friends asked if he could plug in his contact lens cleaner overnight.

We watched members of a Detroit Edison crew work on the lines in front of our house late Wednesday night.

The man in the basket must have nerves of steel. With a spotlight shining on some pine branches, he bounced up to the treetop and trimmed branches away from a wire.

It made me wonder if he's the sort who likes roller coasters.

All this winter, I've been glad when it rained instead of snowed—until it became freezing rain. I've decided I prefer snow.

More 1984

Dan Vandenhommel

1984 had its moments of glory and it had its gloomy depths.

Sportswise, it was even more topsy-turvy. On the state level, the high note was, of course, the Detroit Tigers going berserk and running away with the World Series. Few people doubted it at the beginning of the season and fewer as the year progressed.

From the no-hitter by Jack Morris in the first week of the season to Kirk Gibson's two homeruns in the final World Series game, the season belonged to the Tigers.

On the sad side of the scale are the Lions. The team was supposed to win the division but finished with a solid 4-11-1 record. They started with contract hassles and players holding out.

Things got worse when Billy Sims was injured and out for the rest of the season.

The quarterback situation didn't help matters when Monte Clark flipped a coin and changed the man taking the snap. Either it was a coin or a call from the front office that made the switches seem ridiculous.

The Red Wings started 1984 with an 0-for-January or something close to that. Not many people paid very close attention to the hockey team.

It's a shame, too, because they're on the move this season and playing great hockey at home. Unfortunately they're still waiting for the bus on the away games.

The Pistons of last year reminded everyone that basketball could be entertaining, at least in the final four minutes of the game.

They won, and won often. Made the playoffs, before losing to the Bernard King Knicks.

This season, the interest is there from the fans but the Pistons aren't the same.

Give them time and maybe they'll finish like they did last year.

Say so long to the Panthers. After two seasons in the USFL, the team is now on the prowl in California.

Now that the sports of 1984 have been but to rest, let's try not to get too down on the Lions or high and mighty on the Tigers. Everything is subject to change, so be flexible.

Blues hold healthy races

Independence Oaks County Park is one site for the Ski For Your Health cross county ski races.

Sponsored by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan, the race is set for Jan. 19 at the park on Sashabaw Road. Another race is scheduled Jan. 27 at the Glen Oaks Golf Course in Farmington Hills.

Starting time for the Jan. 19 event is 9 a.m. for experienced skiers and noon for beginners.

Racers will be divided into eight age categories with awards going to the top three finishers in each. All participants will receive an award. Free refreshments will be available.

The cost is $4 in advance or $6 the day of the race with proceeds to benefit recreation activities.

Helping the Kent State hoop cause

The winning has started for the Kent State University, Ohio, basketball team. Coming off the bench to help the cause are Mike McCormick and Ray Kubani.

The 1983 graduates of Clarkston High School are seeing plenty of playing time as sophomores with the Golden Flashes.

Both came through at key moments in Kent State's 80-66 victory over Bowling Green on Jan. 2, said Assistant Sports Information Director Tom Bochenek.

McCormick scored seven points and had three rebounds, while Kubani had a career-high eight rebounds, four points and two steals.

"The important thing with Mike is he went five for six from the free-throw line," Bochenek said. "He came up with a big free throw just as our lead was wilting. We led, 43-30, at halftime. It wilted down to seven a couple of times and he picked us up. Ray came in and got some key rebounds."

With only four tall players on the team in Kubani, 6-7, McCormick, 6-5, and starters Terry Wearsch, 6-8, and Russ Kotalac, 6-5, Bochenek said the Clarkston duo are going to see more court time.

"We're getting a lot of mileage out of those two," he said. "Against Bowling Green, we ran into foul trouble in the first half and two of our starters eventually fouled out. Mike and Ray came through with 11 points and 11 rebounds between them."

The Flashes are now 6-3 overall and 1-0 in the Mid American Conference.

Patterson slams press

Bloomfield Hills attorney George Googasian has been appointed to serve as a special prosecutor in a case involving Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson's 17-year-old stepson.

Patterson, an Independence Township resident, declined comment on the situation, but expressed displeasure over media coverage.

"Unfortunately, because his stepfather is prosecutor, this boy has had his name in the headlines of Channel 4 TV, the Royal Oak Tribune and the Detroit Free Press," Patterson said.

The case stems from an Oakland County Sheriff's Department Dec. 28 investigation of an abandoned car in Independence Township.

Sheriff's deputies found a wallet containing the youth's driver's license, the license of a Waterford man, and a credit card which had been reported stolen by Independence Township resident Dr. David Swayze, according to an Oakland County Sheriff's Department report.

Googasian, who was contacted at his office, said he did not know if charges will be brought against the youth.

"I have met with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department," he said. "I have in my possession their investigation, and I expect to have a determination within one week."

According to the police report, the car in which the wallet was found is registered to Patterson's wife, Kathleen.

Mountain adventures

From fierce grizzly bears to kidnapers to panoramic views

By Dan Vandenhemel

"Standing on top of mountain, looking over a couple thousand acres of real estate, it's nice."

That's how Jim Muscat describes part of his job as a big game guide near Big Sky, Mont.

But the other part of the occupation deals with grizzly bears, mountain lions, elk and deer.

From October until May, the 25-year-old Muscat can be found on horseback, deep in the woods of Montana.

People from around the country travel to the southeastern part of the state for hunting trips, and Muscat welcomes them.

The 1977 graduate of Our Lady of the Lakes High School left Michigan soon after graduation. Every Christmas he returns to visit his parents, Frank and Mary Muscat of Robertson Court, Clarkston.

"I really enjoy the life-style," Muscat said of his new home. "I had to give up some of the things I'm used to, but it's all a matter of personal preference."

Always a hunter and trapper while living in Clarkston, Muscat took a job as a ranch worker after graduation. During hunting season, he helped with a hunting camp and in the off-season, did construction work to help pay the bills.

Last year was the first time he offered his own guide service. A week-long hunting trip with two hunters and one guide, cooks and helpers costs $1,400. With only one hunter, the price is $1,790.

Since 1977, Muscat has yet to run into Big Foot but has had a few experiences that were a tad frightening.

"One time I sat down and watched a mountain lion for about an hour and 10 minutes," he said. "He was about 40 yards below me on a cliff taking a little nap. He was about 190, 210 pounds. I had some powerful binoculars—I could see his eyelashes move."

Another time featured a hunting group and a hungry grizzly bear.

After one of the hunters shot and wounded an elk, they tracked the animal. As they were getting closer to it, they spotted the grizzly.

"When we saw it, we started to yell and holler at it," Muscat said. "When you do that, the bear tends to run away. This started to run right toward us. We started to dig in but then it stopped, looked at us, and took off the other way. He must have been confused and ran toward us by mistake."

Big Sky made the national headlines earlier this year with the kidnapping of an Olympic athlete and her abduction into the Montana wilderness. Muscat was one of the guides who helped search for the missing athlete, Kari Swenson.

"We were looking for her the day she disappeared. Everyone thought a grizzly got her, but it turned out Don and Dan Nichols had her. We were scouting the area when we heard shots. We didn't know what to think, so we just laid low until we found out."

The Nichols were eventually captured and Swenson was let go, but one of Muscat's fellow guides, Alan Goldstien, was killed.

Not all occurrences in Montana are action-packed and that's one reason the area is so appealing to Muscat.

"There's a new ski area going up there, but most of it's remote wilderness," he said. "It's an outdoors, healthy, slow life. I love it. I intend to stay awhile."

Sports

Jim Muscat looks comfortable standing behind his parents' home in Clarkston. He's a hunting guide in Big Sky, Montana. Trees and snow are normal background for the 25-year-old.

Weather, cast halt ski event

The lack of snow didn't keep Olympic medalist Steve Mahre away from the Pine Knob Ski Resort last weekend, a cast on his leg did.

Mahre was scheduled to appear for dinner on Jan. 4 and a full day of skiing the following day. But before the event was postponed by the weather, surgery put a stop to it completely.

"He had some corrective surgery done in December, but his agent said he could still come," said Rosemary Murray, assistant manager of the ski area. "We called him after I talked to the agent and his wife said there was no way he could make it. His leg had to be elevated for three weeks."

Steve's twin brother Phil, also an Olympic medalist, has been trying to fulfill his brother's commitments.

"We were going to try and reschedule the appearance, but Steve is out for the season and Phil is trying to fill in but can't make all of them," said Murray. "We'll try to offer it again next year."

With Mahre's appearance halted, and no snow and warm weather, the ski season for Pine Knob has been at a standstill.

"We've lost almost the whole holiday season," Murray said. "And the ice storm knocked power out and we still don't have power in the pump houses to make snow. As soon as the power's back and it's cold enough, we'll make some snow."

The Seer

Found in the Clarkston News mailslot Monday morning.

Seer here: Well, the Lake Orion Dragons figured out a way not to lose to the Clarkston Wolves. Have Mother Nature step into the act.

The Wolves and the Dragons will meet eventually, and it will still be a hard-fought game. If both teams stay on the same course, when they do meet Clarkston should come out on top. But that's a long way away.

The Wolves haven't played a real game since before Christmas and they could be slow in getting back into the swing of things. Preceded only by a warm-up game against Avondale last Tuesday, the match with Waterford Kettering Friday could prove to be exciting.

Waterford Kettering at Clarkston (Jan. 11): The Captains played a tough game against Pontiac Northern Jan. 4 and could be pumped up more than the Wolves.

This early in the season, nothing is for certain. And the big hole in the Wolves' schedule is going to hurt them in this one. Kettering by five.

Ice cools athletic contests

By Dan Vandenhemel

Students in the Clarkston school district got a couple extra days for their Christmas break because of the ice storm that hit most of Oakland County on New Year's Day.

Most students didn't mind a bit. The ones that did probably had a sporting event canceled. Only the Clarkston High School basketball and wrestling teams had contests wiped out by the weather.

Athletic Director Paul Tungate said rescheduling the sports wasn't too hard this time. The varsity and junior varsity basketball teams were set to play at Lake Orion Jan. 4, but that was switched to Feb. 19. The wrestling squad was invited to the Plymouth Salem wrestling tournament but withdrew because of the lack of practice time.

"If it was mid-January or February, it would have been a mess to reschedule them," Tungate said. "Since it was early in the season, it wasn't too much trouble. The later it is the less time you have to fit it in. It was a league game (Lake Orion), so we had to fit it in."

Basketball coach Dan Fife said filling in the February date leaves the team without a day off.

"We'll have to play every Tuesday and Friday the rest of the season now, but that might be good for them," he said.

"Right now we might be a little stale because we haven't played since the Davison game (Dec. 18) and the scrimmage we had during Christmas break. It's almost like we're starting over. The kids wanted to play, but I don't think it'll hurt us."

Wrestling coach Greg Gwisdalla said they didn't go to the invitational tournament because the squad wasn't ready.

"We haven't been able to practice and it wouldn't have been fair to the guys to send them out there," he said. "We couldn't prepare for it, and it would have done more harm than good."

Varsity volleyball coach Nancy Foster didn't lose a match, but did miss some valuable practice time.

"We were off a couple of days, but we went to Sashabaw Junior High for some practice," she said. "It was tough because there were two teams (varsity and junior varsity) on one court. At least we got some court time; we weren't sitting around."

The basketball and volleyball teams from the high school were able to practice at Sashabaw.

"That put a load on Sashabaw. They had our teams plus their own," Tungate said. "Clarkston Junior High was able to practice at their own building."

Things I learned during the powerless week

By Barbara Deegan

1. Lists take less energy: I will make a list.
2. Contrary to the belief of the Readers Digest word list, "powerless" does not equal "impotent." There was lots we could do about the situation dealt us by the New Year's Ice Storm.
3. Some people are survivors who enjoy a challenge; some people stick it out, but buy a generator; some people go live with relatives right away and ask you to telephone them when the power comes back on.
4. Even giant trees are fragile beings; hearing them crack and fall and groan in the wind made it difficult to appreciate the icy beauty this time.
5. I find I am egocentric: When I hear J.P. McCarthy announce the winners of the day on Jan. 7, our sixth day without power, I am warm with expectation, then hot with indignation.
How could he choose two football teams instead of families and businesses which finally have heat and light and water again or the many crews who are still working late into the nights around wires while the rest of us know better than to touch?
And when the Detroit radio station (we listen on Keirsten's Pekinese dog radio—it came with batteries!) announces that the weather isn't bad, that the temperatures will be in the mid-20s and only light snow will fall, I wonder at the complacency in their voices.
The ice-coated trees suffering overhead will not melt again today; snow, any snow at all will break more branches; more neighbors will have to deal with broken windows or holes in our roofs.
6. When a neighborhood shares trouble, the warmth and cooperation increase. Of course, our troubles have lasted only a week and we know that soon we will be warm again.
7. It is easy to see why people in cold dwellings or without convenient water supplies, don't meet our cleanliness standards.

"It takes only four gallons of water to flush a toilet"

8. I am really proud of our house: It lost heat slowly despite very cold weather and the big window we moved to the south side of the house warmed our bedroom just as we'd hoped.
9. You have to be neater in the dark. It matters that the flashlight stay next to the door and the matches next to the oil light.
10. Oops! I was complaining to my husband about the woodcutters who were cutting up and taking away firewood-size trunks while leaving all the branches that were blocking the road. Then I realized that I hadn't once stopped my car to pull them away either.
11. Little things: The shape of the chimney makes all the difference in the way an oil lamp burns. It takes only four gallons of water to flush a toilet.
It costs more money to be without electricity and gas, especially when you consider the cost of driving for water, propane, kerosene, batteries, lamp oil, Coleman stove fuel, and so on.
You don't drink enough when it is a nuisance to get the water, juice or whatever—and the bathroom is icy.

We are going to keep a box of emergency supplies handy for the next time, and a list of sources for the Coleman fuel and kerosene, which aren't good when they are old.

Exercise is the best antidote to both cold and boredom. And getting together to yank broken branches off your house and lawn or to slide down an ice hill is fun!

12. I thought that life should be calmer, simpler. Ha! It is only more basic. I spent hours searching for all the various fuels we suddenly needed and fetching water from faraway sources and just making trips to the garage instead of refrigerator for food.

13. We have changed some of the rankings on our Want List: A TV that has more colors than green is no longer on top.

In fact, we are going to have a night without electricity every month from now on. We will turn down the furnace, cook on the kerosene heater, play games, go to bed early, read stories under the oil lamps. Knowing what is basic is an important lesson.
We won't do without water.

Barbara Deegan lives in the Thendara Park subdivision in Independence Township. On Monday, the electricity was still off in her home, but she expected it to come back on any moment.

Trim Tone
You never need to diet again
Trim tone is a mixture of the three amino acids, Lornithine, Larginine and L-Lysine. Amino acids occur naturally in all foods, they are the building blocks of proteins.
The argenine & ornithine are important for the release of human growth hormone, which is the pituitary hormone that controls the burning of fat and the building of muscle.
Studies have shown that the combination of these amino acids taken daily can stimulate the release of these fat burning hormones without dieting and get rid of cellulite. It is taken at bedtime on an empty stomach, (no food for 2 hours before).
People are coming back for more with good results.
As we reach 30 years and beyond, the pituitary gland releases less and less of this hormone. This results in a tendency to put on fat and to decrease muscle tone.
Research has uncovered the fact that many overweight people have a lower level of this hormone.
This explains the see-saw effect of conventional dieting; losing weight on a diet & gaining it all back after.

Oakland County Parks

Leisure Pursuits

For Jim Meloche, director of the Independence Oaks County Park Nordic Ski Patrol, one of the finest pleasures of cross country skiing is the "winter experience."

He describes this experience as the ability to seek out breathtaking hilltop views in the near-eclectic silence of a snow-capped woodland.

Meloche, who has been Nordic skiing for five years, says that transportation provided by cross country skis opens a totally new environment not accessible by foot or snowmobile.

But for those whose idea of searching for pristine winter vistas on skis means cold hands, frostbitten feet and falling down, Meloche attempts to clear up the misconceptions.

If you're too cold, it's probably because you're wearing four pairs of socks making your boots too tight, he says. And it's likely your hands are wet because you're wearing cotton gloves that absorb rather than shed water.

He adds that you don't have to be an Olympic athlete to cross country ski; you can proceed at your own pace. While it's inevitable that you'll take a few spills, instruction can show you how to fall properly with less chance of injury.

Meloche also points out that by selecting an area where the trails are planned and marked, the facilities are supervised, rental equipment is available and a trained ski patrol is on hand, the winter experience is greatly enhanced.

Independence Oaks County Park located on Sashabaw Road is one such cross country ski facility.

Meloche directs the 35-member cross country patrol which provides trail assistance and first aid when needed. More than 16 kilometers of marked and groomed trails for beginners through experts wind through the 830-acre park.

"Racers can race, armchair athletes can put on their Christmas skis and feel confident, and families can enjoy being outdoors together," he says.

Cross country skiing makes people more physically fit, helps keep weight under control, and is relatively inexpensive and less expensive than downhill skiing.

"It will cost an Oakland County family of four about $48 for a day of Alpine skiing, while that same family can cross country ski at Independence Oaks all day for $2.50," Meloche says.

For more information on cross country skiing at Independence Oaks or the Nordic Ski Patrol, call 625-0877.

Deputy injured in car accident

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Larry Sage was injured at 5:12 a.m. New Year's Day when his patrol car was struck on I-75 at the M-15 exit in Independence Township during the recent ice storm.

Sage's car, which was surrounded by flares and had its overhead lights and headlights on, was struck by a 34-year-old Flint resident who apparently didn't attempt to stop, said Oakland County traffic Deputy Mark Gallo.

Sage had been called to the scene because of fallen power lines, and was shining his headlights on the exit when his car was hit, Gallo said.

Sage was treated and released at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

According to Gallo, the Flint resident is to be charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Meet the artist, see his paintings

The contemporary paintings of Independence Township artist Lawrence Keech are on display in the Oakland County Galleria from Jan. 9 through Feb. 13.

A reception for the artist, open to the public, is planned Wednesday, Jan. 9, from 5 to 8 p.m.

Keech, 37, is an instructor of advertising design at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center.

His acrylic paintings are large abstracts. "I use an awful lot of really bright colors," he said. "It's very bright, very airy; a lot of soft cloud stuff with hard edges and rectangles floating around in the soft cloud areas.

"Most people usually see sky and clouds and really wild shapes floating around."

Keech's work was recently on display in a one-man show at the University of Michigan-Flint in the University Center gallery.

The Oakland County Galleria is located at 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac, in the Oakland County Executive Building. (858-0415)

Recipe file

Popeye would love this treat

By Lorna Bickerstaff

While enjoying our recent vacation in Fort Myers, Fla., my Aunt Jean Bell served these Spinach Balls and fresh shrimp as hors d'oeuvres. The recipe originally came from her daughter, Barbara Burke of Ypsilanti.

SPINACH BALLS

- 2 10-ounce pkgs. frozen chopped spinach
- 1 6-ounce pkg. chicken flavored Stove Top Stuffing
- 1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 6 eggs, lightly beaten
- 3/4 cup melted butter
- salt and pepper to taste

Do not add water to stuffing mix. Cook spinach according to package directions and drain in sieve, pressing out as much moisture with back of spoon as possible.

Combine all ingredients in medium bowl. Salt and pepper to taste. Mix thoroughly and roll into balls about 1 1/2 inches in diameter.

Place on cookie sheet and freeze. After completely frozen, remove and store in plastic bag in freezer.

To serve: Place frozen balls on cookie sheet and bake at 350 degrees 10 to 15 minutes, until lightly browned. Serve hot. May be cooked in microwave oven approximately 4 minutes.

Help keep the Recipe File going! Send your favorite recipe to Lorna Bickerstaff, in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016; or stop by the office. We're open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. Be sure to include your telephone number in case we have questions.

'Duke of Hazzard'? apprehended

By Therese Becker
Oxford Leader Staff Writer

A high-speed chase that began in Oxford was stopped in Independence Township by an Oakland County Sheriff's Department roadblock before the car entered I-75 going the wrong way.

Kurt Rams, the 19-year-old driver, seemed proud of the escapade as he bragged to police, "It took six police cars to catch me."

"Actually, there probably were more like 10 cars in pursuit, and he thought it was all quite funny," said Sheriff's Deputy Thomas Poulin, one of the arresting officers.

"He seemed proud of himself. He was passing cars on hills going in excess of 80 miles per hour. He could have so easily killed somebody. He told us his favorite TV show was 'The Dukes of Hazzard.'"

The high-speed chase began at 8:55 New Year's Eve when Rams' stepfather reported seeing the car he had reported stolen four hours earlier riding through Oxford's Red Barn subdivision.

Officers Tony Martin and Jeffrey Siarto of the Oxford Police Department responded to the call. When Martin attempted to pull the 1972 Dodge Challenger over, it accelerated on Red Barn Drive, pulling onto westbound Draher Road. Three youths were in the car.

The chase proceeded to Coats Road and onto Seymour Lake Road. There it struck a patrol car used as a roadblock. Oxford Officer Stephen Burnham, who was out of his car, was almost struck by the speeding vehicle.

The chase ended when Rams tried to enter I-75, going the wrong way on an exit ramp from Sashabaw Road. An Oakland County Sheriff's patrol car blocking the entrance to the freeway was rammed during an attempt to force Rams' car against the guard rail.

A 16-year-old passenger in the car was released, but 17-year-old Dee Dee O'Conner was jailed along with Rams and charged with drunk and disorderly conduct.

Rams was arraigned on four counts, according to OCSO Detective James Manning: assault with intent to commit murder, two felonious assault counts for damaging two police patrol cars, and fleeing and eluding a traffic arrest.

How to recognize a kindergarten teacher

by Sharon Thomas

There is a standard joke among kindergarten teachers in Clarkston on how to spot a kindergarten teacher in a crowd.

They are always the ones wearing green paint on their shirts, sensible shoes and paste in their hair. Around holiday time you're likely to see glitter in their teeth.

Cindy Omans is no exception. She has been on the kindergarten scene at Bailey Lake for the past 14 years.

Cindy grew up in Pontiac. She taught there for a few years before coming to Clarkston. She has taught kindergarten through third grade.

The education of young children is extremely important to Cindy. She completed a bachelor's degree in education at Oakland University and a master's degree in elementary education at Michigan State University. She is presently close to completing an education specialist degree in early childhood at Oakland University.

Cindy is actively involved in many professional areas.

She is a charter member of Clarkston Schools' Professional Development Policy Board. She has been very much a part of the kindergarten screening process. She has been recently appointed as a delegate on the curriculum committee in the area of math. She is also a member of the Michigan Association for the Education of Young Children.

One of her greatest concerns has been in the area of the implementation of Developmental Kindergarten in Clarkston. She has been instrumental in its growth and success.

She has been a real advocate for age-appropriate curriculum for all young children and has spent much time and energy speaking on its behalf. In fact, Cindy is an eloquent spokesperson on many issues.

Known as "Cynthia" to family and close friends, she and her husband Andy are parents of two daughters: Tara is 13 and Nikki, an adopted Korean youngster, is 7.

Cindy is a very busy person in all aspects of her life. The family is closely knit and they devote much time and energy to their church.

Cindy is a very dedicated and caring teacher who has plenty of smiles and hugs for all. It never really seems to bother her that the green paint is on her best shirt!

Editor's note: An Apple for the Teacher is provided through a committee of the Clarkston Education Association.

This week's author is Sharon Thomas, a kindergarten teacher at Bailey Lake Elementary School.

PRAY TO THE Holy spirit. Holy spirit, you who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my ideal, you who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialog, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you, no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory, Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Wish granted. J.G. IILX1-2

PRAY TO THE Holy spirit. Holy spirit, you who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my ideal, you who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialog, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you, no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory, Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Wish granted. J.G. IILX1-2
