Crowd ro-o-oars over tiger

By Carolyn Walker

A roar went up at the Jan. 16 meeting of the zoning board of appeals; but it didn't come from Athena the tiger.

It came collectively from the majority of over 30 of Athena's neighbors who attended the meeting in support of the 300-pound Siberian tiger and a 15-pound bobcat.

Athena's right to live in Independence Township has been a source of contention between officials and Douglas Murdoch, the owner, since April 1984.

Athena lives on a 20-acre farm on Allen Road owned by Murdoch's parents, William and Wanda.

The meeting was ordered by Circuit Court Judge Frederick Mester, who presided over a show-cause hearing regarding the animal in November. Mester directed the zoning board of appeals to determine the intent of two Independence Township ordinances which control the keeping of large animals.

Board of appeals members listened to over three hours of testimony before postponing their decision to Jan. 23.

The ordinances in question provide for common farm animals and "other animals weighing in excess of 75 pounds, and not otherwise specifically classified herein." The Murdochs contend this includes Athena.

They say the bobcat should be permitted under an ordinance which says in part, "domesticated house pet weighing less than 150 pounds."

Township officials believe the ordinances do not include what they call "exotic animals."

The losing party will probably appeal the decision, said Gerald Fisher, attorney for Independence Township.

At the zoning board of appeals meeting, five of the Murdochs' neighbors spoke in favor of the animal after hearing the opinions of Steve Graham, director of the Detroit Zoo, and Richard Carlisle, Independence Township planner.

Carlisle spoke first, saying, "It is my opinion (the ordinances) do not include a Siberian tiger or bobcat."

They are not considered domestic household pets, are not generally accustomed to home life, and are not normally part of livestock, he said, adding

Lotto fever strikes here too

By Dan Vandenhemel

With the Michigan State Lotto drawing at a record high $13.3 million, ticket sales also reached new marks.

Long lines and increased sales were seen at two Independence Township Lotto ticket agents, Hallman Apothecary and Wonder Drugs.

Jerry Keener, the pharmacist at Wonder Drugs on M-15, said the store was much busier than normal.

"We were swamped during the weekend," he said. "Those are our busiest days. We had a line down one aisle, about 30 feet. I think it would have been busier if the weather was better."

Bob Bennett of Hallman's on Main Street in Clarkston said they, too, saw an increase in business but he expects ticket sales to return to normal.

"This week we'll be down to average," he said.

"This thing doesn't reach its peak until it goes a couple of weeks."

Ticket buyers at Hallman's Saturday afternoon voiced a variety of methods for coming up with the winning numbers.

"I use words and phrases that are important to me and change them into numbers," said Barb Yocum of Clarkston.

For others, it was their first time at trying the game. Mary Muscat and her daughter Kathy of Clarkston decided to play for the "fun of it."

Lottery officials announced that six players across the state selected the winning numbers of 2, 9, 14, 18, 30, 36. They'll receive $2.2 million each, with payments until the year 2004. Close to 12 million tickets were purchased last week.

Neighbors rally to defend Athena

that the animals do not fit the "overall spirit" of the ordinances.

"If usage isn't authorized (by the ordinances) it's prohibited," Carlisle said.

Graham spoke next.

Tamed wild animals have lost their fear of man, making them more dangerous, he said, because they have an instinct which protects them and can be brought out by sudden movements, sounds or even aromas.

According to Graham, a tiger's teeth are its primary source of defense and a full-grown tiger is capable of exerting 1,000 pounds per inch of force with its jaws, and the blow of a paw is enough to break an ox's neck.

"(A tiger's) more dangerous than a loaded gun," said Graham, who lives at the Detroit Zoo with his family. "I don't believe I would want to live within five miles of someone with a tiger. A wild animal remains a wild animal.

"We would never take an animal like that out of an exhibit unless it was anesthetized or in a (shipping) crate," he added.

The Murdochs said they transport Athena on a leash in the back of a Blazer truck.

Graham also indicated the bobcat could pose a threat to children.

"A bobcat would be particularly dangerous to small children. You never know what signals they are receiving," he said.

His comments prompted groans and whispers among the audience.

Kenneth Delbridge, director of Independence Building and Planning, testified he first became aware of the tiger when he received phone calls from concerned neighbors.

Delbridge said he visited the Murdochs last April and viewed the tiger's living arrangements, and did not feel threatened by the animal.

One of his comments, however, prompted a reaction from the Murdochs, who were in the audience.

The Murdochs' attorney Frances Avadenka reminded her clients they would have a turn to speak after they shouted, "You know that's not true" to Delbridge's allegation that the cat was out of her cage when he visited.

Two neighbors of the Murdochs did not support the animal.

Sandra Gay of Ortonville Road and Christine Lamberton of Hubbard Road said they were afraid of the tiger.

"Since I've known it's there, it's really bothered me," said Gay, who read a petition signed by 10 of her neighbors.

"What happens if it finds a child?" added Lamberton.

Douglas Murdoch said having the animals taken away from him would cause tremendous emotional and financial hardships.

He said he has invested at least $10,000 in the 20-month-old tiger, which eats raw steak daily by hand.

Murdoch has obtained licenses authorizing the cat from the federal and state agencies. Federal law permits private citizens owning endangered species, he said, and he did not realize he needed permission from the township.

"It doesn't seem logical that you wouldn't check with somebody," said Chairman John Dunlop, referring to a letter from the government saying local approval should be received if necessary.

Murdoch said he has owned Athena since she was 10 days old, and she has never been in contact with any wild animals.

"The mother has to teach the cub to kill," he said, adding that it was a two-year process. "They are not necessarily born a killer."

He said he studied tigers extensively, though privately, does not consider the Athena dangerous, and could guarantee in all circumstances that the animal could never become dangerous.

Murdoch's father agreed with his son. "I figured it's a farm area and animals are allowed," he said.

Among neighbors speaking on behalf of the tiger were Jack Cruikshank of Allen Road and Gary Stonerock of M-15.

"I am a jogger. There's a springer spaniel that is more dangerous to me than these animals," Cruikshank said.

Stonerock, a former township supervisor, agreed. "I bottle fed the tiger. I went over there and I wrestled that tiger. My neck was in its mouth. It was one of the greatest thrills I've had since I got out of politics," he said, causing a round of laughter among the observers.

Alice Hodgson of Allen Road also spoke on behalf of the Murdochs. "People can turn on you too," she said.

After hearing all the testimony, board of appeals members unanimously agreed to postpone their decision one week in order to review the ordinances and comments.

7-year payback

Independence OK's $92,594 for computer

By Carolyn Walker

Computers are coming to Independence Township Hall.

After a lengthy debate on the pros and cons of computerized bookkeeping and its related expenses, board members voted 5-1 to purchase a new, $83,356 IBM 36 for township use at the Jan. 15 board meeting.

They will also purchase $6,238 in software.

The issue was first raised in December when a representative of Doeren, Mayhew and Co. detailed the specifics of IBM computers to the township board.

Independence Township currently contracts with Doeren and Mayhew for data processing at an estimated cost of $36,000 a year.

The township will pay the firm $3,000 to convert their software over to the new machine, bringing total expenditures for the system to $92,594.

The new system will compute payroll checks, sewer and water bills and general ledger billing, according to Clerk Richard Holman, who brought the topic before the board.

He estimates the computer will "pay for itself" in seven years.

"This is a reasonable purchase," he said. "I think that functionally, this system will serve the township for the next 20 years."

The township has been using a Phillips ledger machine for township book work since 1974. At that time, the Phillips machine cost $30,000.

Trustee Dale Stuart found fault with Holman's request.

Comparing the computer system to a camel with its nose in the tent, Stuart said, "Once it starts, it's going to come right on in."

"We need a much more detailed description of how we got to the point we're at now," he said, indicating he would like to see more comparative costs.

"I believe that we are in a position where we must act," Holman responded. "I think it is time for us to move forward."

Stuart was the lone board member to vote against the purchase. Trustee Daniel Travis was absent.

The computer is to be purchased Jan. 21 directly from IBM in Southfield and it should arrive in March, Holman said.

Proposed fire station move upsets council

By Carolyn Walker

A plan to move the downtown Clarkston fire station concerns Clarkston Village Council members.

On Jan. 14, the council discussed a plan proposed by Dr. James O'Neill to replace the existing fire hall with a new one on property near his proposed M-15 medical center.

"It will definitely be vacated. And they're going to move," said President Carol Eberhardt.

Station 1 on Church Street is considered potentially hazardous by the Independence Township Fire Committee, which has reported on fire department conditions at previous township board meetings.

The closeness of village buildings and high population density create increased fire hazards in the village, said Eberhardt, who indicated she has been in contact with Supervisor Frank Ronk.

Ronk concurred with Eberhardt. "It should be in or awful near the village," he said when contacted after the meeting.

At the meeting, council member Sharron Cataló noted the security factor of having emergency care closeby.

"You could run and get them (firefighters) if you had to," she said.

Council members suggested three alternate sites for the new station, which they plan to present to the fire committee: available land near Randy Hosler's Pontiac Dealership, the corner of Waldon Road and M-15, and behind the Sunoco Station on Clarkston Road at M-15.

Roy Haeusler, a member of the township fire committee which also includes Andrew Creamer and O'Neill, was present at the meeting.

Some of the M-15 land may be available as a donation, Haeusler said, indicating there would be competition with village site proposals.

When contacted after the meeting, O'Neill stated his reasons for proposing the move.

"I think if we put the fire department here or near here (the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center), it will become an emergency center for the township," he said.

The proposed outpatient surgical center is currently under review by the State Department of Health for a certificate of need. Pending its approval, O'Neill plans to open the facility in 1986.

Volunteer and full-time firefighters would be hired to work in a paramedic capacity at the center, O'Neill said, and the hands-on experience would increase proficiency and provide an extra person for medical runs.

O'Neill conceded, however, that the site near Hosler's is a good one for the fire station because of its proximity to M-15, I-75 and Clarkston Road.

It will be three to four years before a move is made, O'Neill said.

SLIPPING AWAY: Strong winds and icy road conditions prove treacherous for drivers from Friday through Sunday. Police and firefighters check out an accident Jan. 18 at the M-15 over-pass to I-75. The driver, Mary Sweat of Clarkston, was uninjured when her car hit an icy patch on the overpass and jumped a guard rail before landing in a gully.

Fire commission expands by two

The Independence Township fire commission has expanded to five members.

Harold Goyette, owner of Goyette Funeral Home, and Cecelia Yarber, an Independence Township housewife married to a Waterford Township firefighter, were appointed to the commission by the township board Jan. 15.

They join existing members Andrew Creamer, Roy Haeusler and James O'Neill, M.D.

Supervisor Frank Ronk, who recommended the two, said an increasing workload forces the expansion of the commission.

The fire commission stems from a 1980 public safety task force.

Members are currently seeking applicants for the position of Independence Township fire chief.

Capt. Dale Bailey has been acting fire chief since former chief Frank Ronk vacated the position to assume his post as township supervisor in November 1984.

McCormick to play in Silverdome

Tim McCormick is coming home.

The 1980 graduate of Clarkston High School is a member of the Seattle Supersonics of the National Basketball Association and they're coming to Pontiac to take on the Detroit Pistons.

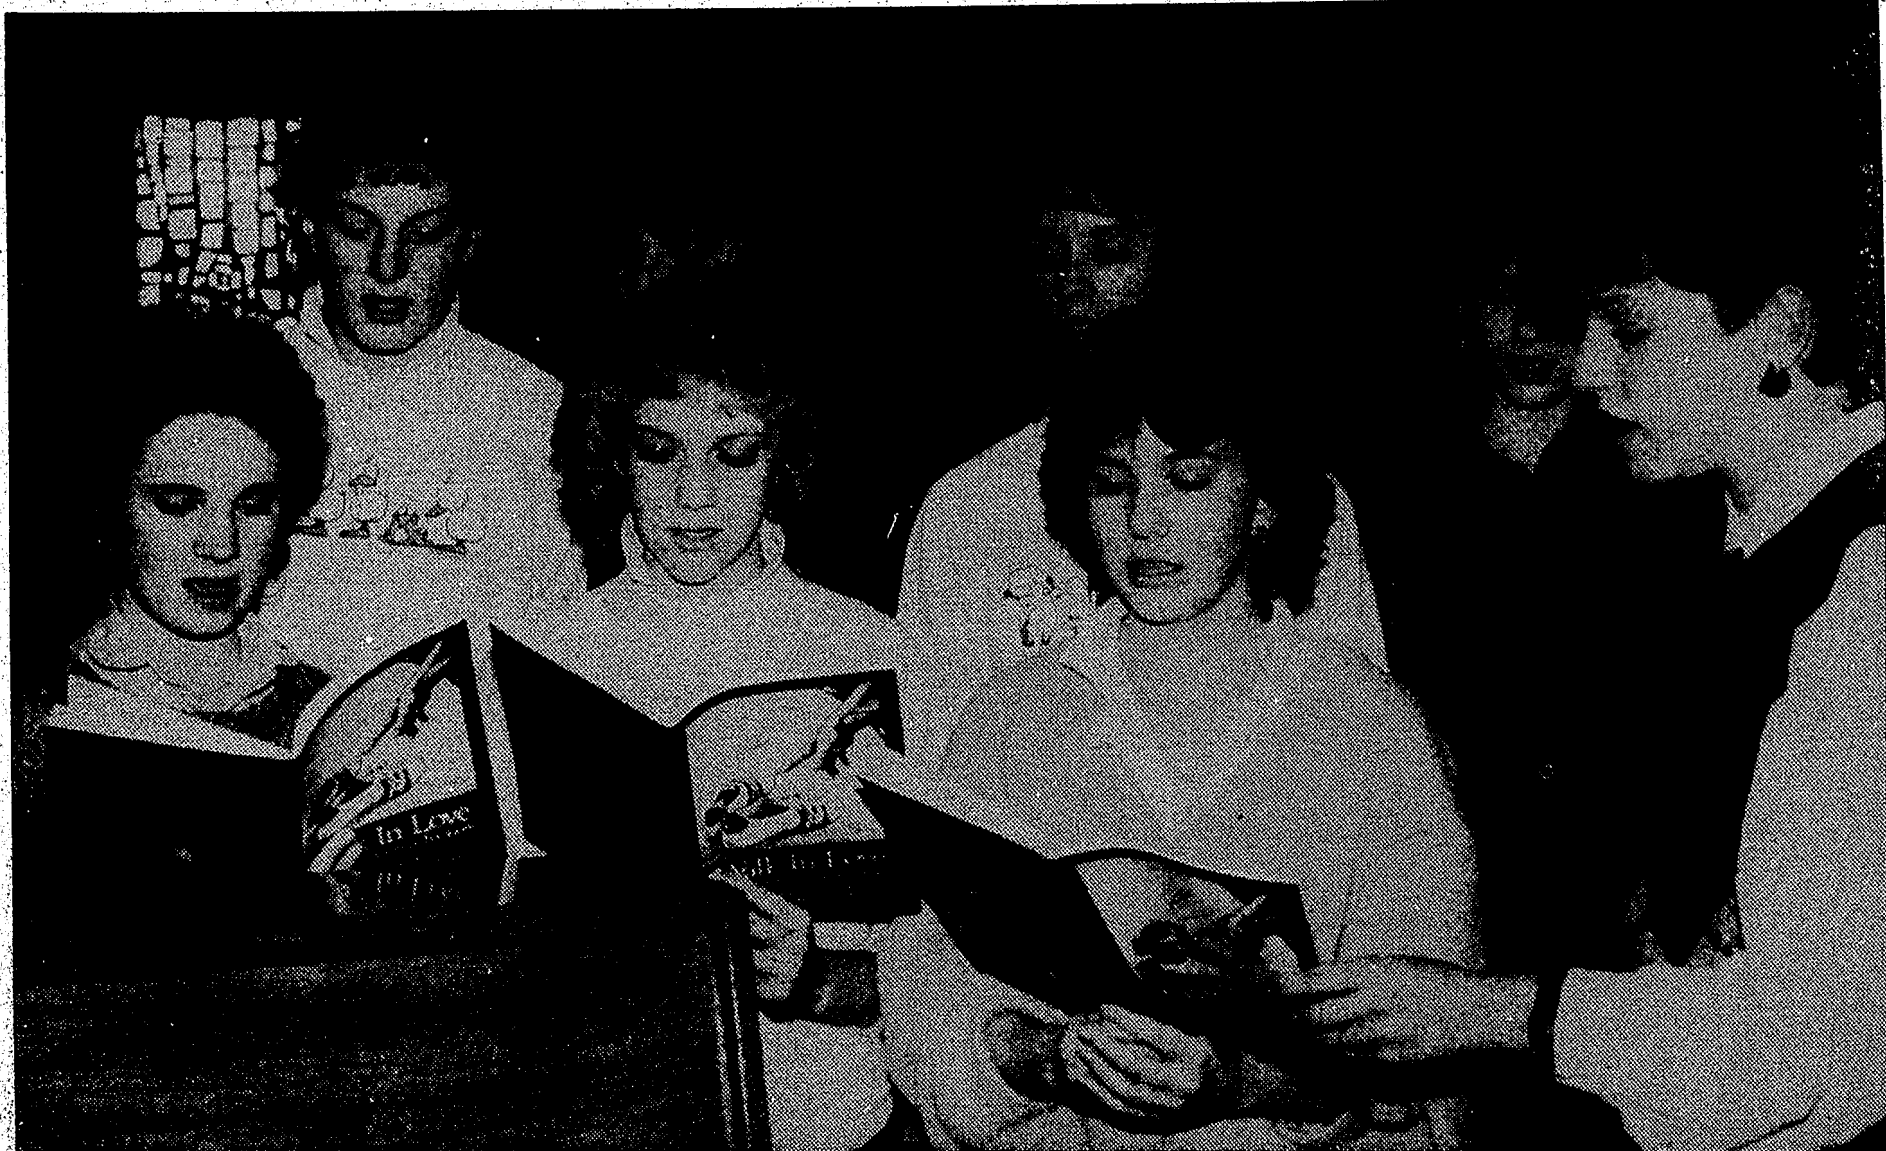

This is McCormick's first year in the NBA, and his team's only trip to Pontiac. The game with the Pistons is Saturday, Jan. 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the Pontiac Silverdome.

Last year, McCormick led the University of Michigan Wolverines to the National Invitational Tournament championship. He scored a career high 28 points in the tournament finals against Notre Dame and averaged 12 points a game during his final year.

So far in the NBA, the Clarkston native is scoring five points and four rebounds a game while seeing an average of 12 minutes of action.

A discount coupon for game tickets is on Page 9 of The Clarkston News. Present it at the Silverdome and receive $4 off the lower arena ticket price and $3 off club level tickets.

$69,000 grant nearly abandoned

By Carolyn Walker

Frustrated township officials discussed internally not accepting any Community Development Block Grant funds in the wake of increased federal restrictions.

But rather than abandon the approximately $69,000 earmarked for low income, handicapped or senior citizens, they have voted to establish specific areas to which interested parties may apply.

At a special board meeting Monday night, the board established percentages of the $69,000 to be available in six categories.

The six are: special assessments-30 percent, home repairs-25 percent, barrier free township buildings-20 percent, public service-15 percent, administrative expenses-5 percent, and contingency-5 percent.

The public service, administrative and contingency funds are "capped" by government-regulated percentages, said Treasurer John Lutz, using the example that only 15 percent of the $69,000 can be used in public service.

Board members determined what percentages of the funds to provide the other three groups, Lutz said.

CDBG funds were primarily used for road repairs and park improvements in previous years.

Under the new federal government regulations, money may only be given when people who will be benefitting meet one of three criteria; urgent need, slum and blight prevention, and low to moderate income ($26,000 annually for a family of four).

Clerk Richard Holman, at the second public hearing Jan. 15, called the new changes "increasingly restrictive."

Township officials were told by representatives of the Oakland County Development Division that they must devise one-year and three-year plans.

At the public hearing, they were further told they can not use the funds for the same projects more than one year unless they can document an increased need.

"You mean we can't maintain a good idea over three years?" said Trustee Carol Balzarini, who asked if they had to create new ideas annually.

"We must demonstrate an increased need, not a continuing need?" asked Holman.

"You have to have some sort of program design," responded Betsy Reich of the Oakland County Development Division.

"I find it incredible," said Trustee William Vandermark.

Board members voted unanimously to accept the six categories, and to keep the same programs for the next three years, subject to re-evaluation.

Under the new plan, groups such as Chemical

People of Clarkston or Meals on Wheels could apply to public service for funding.

Or, people meeting low income guidelines could apply to minor repairs for money to install a furnace, for example, Lutz said.

Officials plan to use the barrier-free category to make handicap improvements, such as ramps or an elevator, in township buildings.

Employees doing the paper work for CDBG will be paid from the administrative fund, Lutz said.

Officials will draw from the contingency fund to cover any excesses incurred by the other five categories.

Citizens with projects for CDBG funds may apply at township hall, Lutz said.

He anticipates the money will be available sometime in the spring, after the paperwork has been completed.

Village ponders spending $7,500

Approximately $7,500 in Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds are available to the Village of Clarkston.

But because of increased federal restrictions gearing the money to senior citizens, handicappers, and low to moderate income families, only one area in Clarkston (Holcomb between Miller and Deer Lake on the west side of the street) qualifies for funding, according to council member David Raup.

It was easier to distribute funds before the restrictions, said Raup, addressing the village council at the Jan. 14 public hearing.

Over the past three years, CDBG funds were used for historic preservation, completing park improvements, landscaping, bike paths, and playground equipment, he said.

Members agreed to pursue improvements to drainage on Holcomb Road, as well as sidewalk repair, and the possible planting of new trees in the wake of the New Year's Day storm.

President Carol Eberhardt said final decisions on where to use the money would be made at the Jan. 28 meeting.

No village residents requested funding at the public hearing.

Winter worries

Kathy Greenfield

During this weekend of ungodly weather, I ventured out into the minus-zillion-degree wind chill factor only when necessary.

I wore wool sweaters, knee socks, fur-lined boots and practical hats.

The only thing left to worry about was my family. Where were they? Up north in places in Michigan that get even colder than this.

In one diesel car were father and son. They went skiing and stayed in a cabin deep in the snow-filled woods.

In the other diesel car was our daughter. She visited a friend in Mt. Pleasant.

The male duo checked in with reports of digging the car out the snow-filled driveway, adding fuel thinners to the tank and finding a way to plug in the fuel-line heater. All these things are necessary with diesels when the temperature dips to sub-zero levels.

At home, I misplaced two hats and had to dig to the depths of the winter-rejects trunk to find something warm. My gloves screamed for mercy and threatened to self-destruct if forced to remove any more snow.

Father and son arrived home Sunday, had a great time skiing and discounted reports of awful driving conditions with: "It wasn't so bad."

All was quiet from the Mt. Pleasant front. It was not a case of "no news is good news."

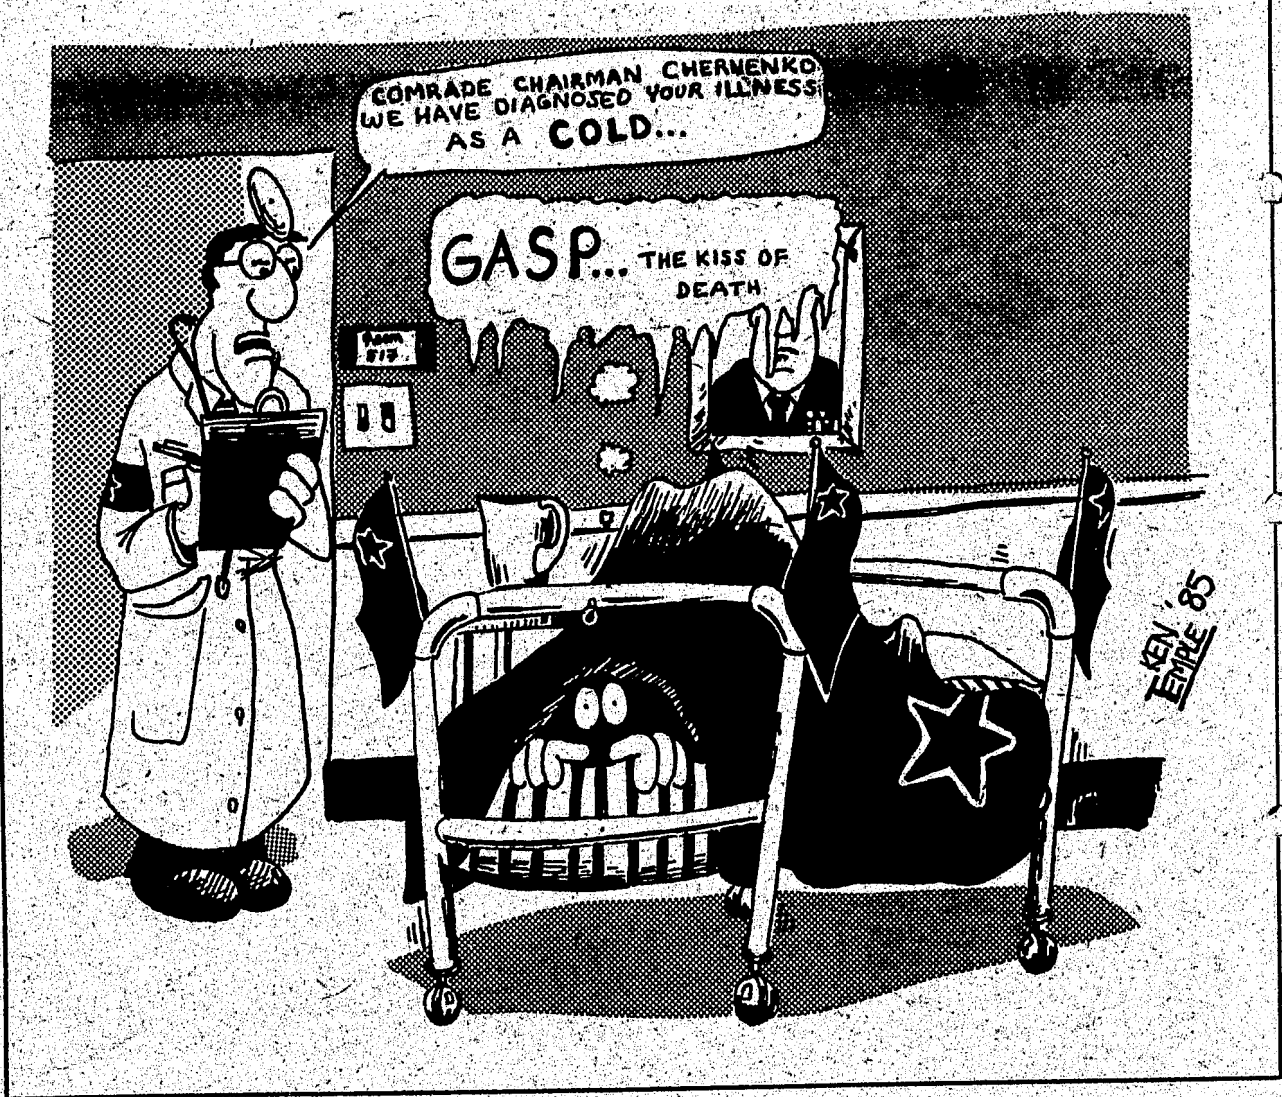

The first call came Sunday afternoon. The diesel had turned to mush in the fuel line—and our daughter was marooned, but safe, in the college dormitory.

After enough phone calls to create visions of Ma Bell rubbing her hands with glee, we decided to wait a day for a rescue mission.

On Monday, after many more telephone communications, the car decided to respond to the relative warmth of temperatures in the teens and our daughter was homeward bound.

She arrived a couple of hours later and discounted reports of terrible driving conditions with: "It wasn't so bad."

This morning I found another gray hair.

Fisherman talk

H. Ross Perot didn't get to be one of the 10 richest men in the United States by accident. He went from rags to riches ($2.5 billion) because he's smarter than the average bear.

So, when he says something, pay attention. What he says is that despite all the rhetoric about soaking the rich, the tax burden will be paid by the middle class. The working masses.

He says his total wealth would run the Federal government about 10 minutes. All of the wealth of the nation's multi-millionaires would keep Uncle Sam going about 120 days.

When you look at the numbers this way, it's easy to see that every political candidate who tells you that he will change the system so that the rich pay and we don't, is either too dumb to be elected or too slippery to be trusted.

Saying that soaking the rich will solve our tax problems is hogwash. But, even knowing that taxing the rich will not solve our fiscal problems, wouldn't it be wonderful if they were made to pay anyway?

Most of us don't know how much a billion bucks is. Certainly, it is so much that Perot and his counterparts long since stopped counting.

There's no complaint here about a guy making a reasonable amount of big bucks because he is a successful entrepreneur. The argument is over piling up the billions at age 54 while millions are struggling to make ends meet.

It's simply too much of a good thing. You say that without the incentive of great wealth, guys like Perot would back off from the activities that made them rich and spurred industrial progress?

Maybe so. But, it would seem to me when a person gets to the point of having $2.5 billion the lure of money is gone . . . replaced by the lure of power and prestige.

Do we want to win?

Governor Blanchard says he'll top anyone's offer to General Motors for the Saturn project. That's said to be a new concept in auto making.

The governors of Ohio and Illinois are likely making the same promise. These will be followed by even more generous offers from each of the other 47 states. That will close the bidding, because GM said they are going to build Saturn in the U.S.

And, we all know GM can be trusted. They are the great hope of America, as long as they get tax abatement.

Going after a new General Motors' facility is a lot like what goes through one's mind when buying a lottery ticket worth millions . . . winning sounds great, but is it what we really want?

Does a community, even Michigan, want something that so dictates its future? When GM comes in with a major plant, they determine zoning for miles around. They determine the economy for even more miles around.

Labor-management differences, fuel shortages, national economy and other influences in the auto industry make Alps skylines of progress charts.

The communities in southeast Michigan are already considerably influenced, indeed governed, by what auto needs dictate. Do we really need Saturn?

We think not. Other areas of Michigan that are economically squeezed, like the Upper Peninsula, maybe.

You may win lottery's eleven million dollars, but you will lose all your friends, who can no longer afford you, you'll take incentive away from your children and grandchildren, and you'll probably come to believe money and GM don't buy happiness.

Gov. Blanchard, of course, has to go after Saturn. It's expected of him. And, GM isn't going to locate on Riverbend Drive, Lansing.

But, we'd like to see him go for an industry that has less hills and valleys, a company not tied to autos. We got that, and we have three recessions a decade, at least. JAS

... Exercising restraint ...

'Cat Paw' will return

Dear Cat Paw Readers:

It has come to my attention that many of you miss the weekly C.A.T. P.A.W. question-and-answer column on substance abuse in The Clarkston News.

I would like to explain that my paws have been and still are very busy with the up and coming "Toma Experience."

Our committee has been working to prepare for the visit of David Toma on Feb. 19 and 20 to Clarkston High School. We are organizing activities prior to his arrival and preparing recommended activities after his departure.

All of Clarkston will "Experience Toma"! I know you will all want to be a part of this excitement that is already stirring throughout Clarkston.

I will be back to answer your letters very soon, so please continue to send in your questions to The Clarkston News.

Ice storm tips

At first light, New Year's Day was a "day of infamy" but not for the same reason as of olden times.

Our first thought was for water to flush the stools. As it was still raining and freezing, my husband got out buckets to catch the roof run-off, dumping them as the filled into larger containers in the garage or the basement, and then kept two pails-full ready in the bathroom.

He always keeps two 5 gallon pails of water in his basement plant room so being prepared was no big deal.

Being already so old-fashioned, we burn wood all the time. Consequently, we had plenty of heat.

We cooked New Year's dinner by boiling the duck, intended to be roasted, on top of our flat-topped wood-burning stove. We ate it by candlelight.

I had spent the rest of the day watching the vast

Saturn should sell for less

Jim Fitzgerald

Recently you've heard a lot about all the taxpayers' money and property that state and local government officials are eager to give General Motors in return for a Saturn factory. But nothing has been said about how much GM will give taxpayers in return for buying the Saturn subcompact cars, once they are on the market.

Saturn Corp. President Joseph Sanchez said GM wants all the usual things — and more. Tax breaks are the most usual thing extracted from communities by industries that won't locate where the residents don't want them badly enough to pay their property taxes forever. GM also wants a "pleasing environment" for executives who are transferred to the new Saturn plants, according to Sanchez.

It is expected that, in the spirit of reciprocity, GM will offer similar enticements to taxpayers to influence them to purchase Saturns instead of Toyotas or Fords.

TO BEGIN WITH, for the convenience of customers, all Saturn dealerships will be open 24 hours every day. Except in Detroit where, in an astonishing marketing aberration, car salesmen claim that the more hours dealerships remain closed, the less cars cost. So, to assure customers the lowest price possible, Detroit dealerships will be open only 30 minutes a week and hidden behind billboards.

Actually, dealership hours will be of minor importance because GM Chairman Roger Smith will take a cue from Michigan Gov. James Blanchard and Illinois Gov. James Thompson, who didn't wait for GM to come to them with its hand out, asking for tax breaks. The governors went to GM with taxpayers' pockets open and said help yourself. So Smith may call personally at the homes of prospective customers and offer to pay half their property taxes for five years if they'll buy a Saturn.

Because Blanchard and Thompson can't give away anything that doesn't belong to taxpayers, it is believed that Chairman Smith will show GM's appreciation by offering taxpayers a better deal on a Saturn than they can get from Toyota or anyone else.

THERE IS, of course, a limit to how low GM can set Saturn prices and still afford to pay million-dollar bonuses to top executives every week. So GM may also offer something else — a pleasing environment in which to buy Saturns. For instance, customers seeking repair service will not be required to stand around in the back rooms of dealerships for any more than two days before a mechanic asks them what they want.

GM claims the Saturn, efficiently produced in the Japanese manner, will benefit the entire U.S. auto industry. But some critics insist GM is mostly interested in benefiting itself by using the lean Saturn concept to persuade government officials to fight for the honor of spending the most public money to lure a factory to town — and enable tax-subsidized GM to sell cheaper than the competition.

It may be true that GM will get more from government officials for building the Saturn somewhere than taxpayers will get from GM for buying the Saturn anywhere. But that's hardly GM's fault.

It must be remembered that GM can't lure Saturn buyers by paying their property taxes forever because GM must make a profit to survive. But government officials spend tax money and, if they can lure jobs to town and look good doing it, they don't worry about the cost-per-job or whether taxpayers will survive.

Independence follows national drug trends

By Carolyn Walker

Organizers agree that drug problems in Independence Township follow national trends, but they expect good things to come from appearances by substance abuse crusader David Toma.

Sponsored by the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee and the Chemical People of Clarkston, Toma plans to speak Feb. 19 and 20 to Clarkston students in grades 7-12 on the pitfalls of substance abuse.

"I think we are no different than other communities," said Jeanette Sanders, chairperson of the event, referring to the number of area students who have used drugs.

Nationally, 90 percent of the student population have tried or continue to use drugs, she said.

Local pediatrician James O'Neill, M.D., agreed with that statistic, adding 19 percent of Independence Township's youth "get into problems" with drugs, primarily alcohol abuse.

That compares with 14 percent of Independence's adult population who abuse alcohol and prescription or nonprescription drugs, O'Neill added.

Boost for Toma

Organizers for the David Toma visit to Clarkston High School received an unexpected boost last week when the board of education agreed to donate $500 to the cause.

When the meeting began, Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara gave the board an update on the plans for the Toma's two-day visit, which includes two-hour talks on substance abuse to high school students, counseling with small groups, a session for parents in the evening and a two-hour talk the next day for junior high pupils.

He told the board Toma's fee is $6,000 plus expenses including overnight lodging and transportation. Toma's appearance is a joint effort of the Chemical People of Clarkston, a group devoted to curbing drug and alcohol abuse among school-age children, and the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee, a group devoted to the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

"I give the Chemical People a lot of pats on the back for going into this large endeavor," Vaara said.

About an hour later, after all the items on the agenda were covered, Toma's name came up again.

Board member David Kithil suggested a donation would be in order and said a decision to help would be timely now rather than at a later date.

"It occurred to me this is a valuable thing for the kids and the community," he said.

The board unanimously agreed.

Sanders said she hopes Toma's visit will create drug awareness in the community and inform children of the dangers inherent in substance abuse.

"He is extremely successful," she said, adding that other communities he has visited have noticed tremendous declines in drug abuse and juvenile delinquency.

"I think it's an excellent idea," said Mel Vaara, assistant superintendent of Clarkston Schools. "He has quite an effect on kids." Toma, who was a Newark, N.J., police officer for almost 20 years, speaks to students from his own experience with substance abuse, as well as from information he obtained in his work.

He plans to address students in assemblies and in smaller groups throughout his two-day stay.

During the evening of the 19th, he plans to speak to interested parents.

Toma encourages parents to bring their younger children to the evening meetings, said Sanders.

Toma, who began his lectures in 1961, is asking $6,000 plus expenses for his appearances.

Clarkston Area Youth Assistance and the Chemical People of Clarkston encourage area residents, businesses and churches to donate funds for the event.

Teen encourages Toma talks

By Carolyn Walker

A crusader against substance abuse is Clarkston bound; and that is due, at least in part, to the efforts of a local teenager.

Marnie Meehan, 16, saw speaker David Toma present his Oak Park message on television in 1983. Two weeks later a pamphlet about his work appeared on the student government bulletin board.

She took on the project and presented it to the Chemical People of Clarkston when the student government couldn't handle Toma's expenses, she said.

Chemical people shared Marnie's interest. They, along with Clarkston Youth Assistance, have booked Toma for two engagements in February.

A junior at Clarkston High School and a former vice president of the sophomore class, Marnie says other speakers have addressed the student body about drug abuse.

"They don't hold a candle to him," she says adding that Toma, who is known for his street talk, doesn't arrive in a three-piece suit carrying a list of statistics.

Marnie maintains a mature, non-judgmental attitude toward drug use in Clarkston schools.

"It's a problem everywhere," she says. "We're not the exception or the worst."

"I guess you have to be kind of open-minded about it. I have to accept people (who drink or use drugs) just as they accept me. They aren't bad people."

Drugs aren't pushed at her in school, she says. And, because her friends aren't users, Marnie is hard-pressed to say how bad the problem at Clarkston High School really is.

Students discuss drinking because it is socially acceptable and closely related to parental expectations, she says. Kids do what their parents do.

Marnie Meehan first suggested bringing David Toma to Clarkston High School.

Other drugs, however, are not openly discussed.

Some adults have shown concern over Toma's street-wise, tough-talking presentation, Marnie admits. But she's certain his stay in Clarkston will be beneficial.

"People will be affected, not offended," she says.

Condo ordinance confusion spurs rewrite

Project needs planning commission approval

By Carolyn Walker

Confusion over the intent of a motion to rezone property for Frank Walker's proposed condominiums was resolved when Clarkston Village Council members approved a rewritten version Jan. 14.

Fontie ApMadoc's original motion, approved at the Dec. 10 meeting, requested that a condominium ordinance be established in the village, and that the property adjacent to Deer Lake Beach be rezoned for condominiums.

The problem arose when council member Jon Gaskell, who was not at the Dec. 10 meeting, questioned whether or not the property had actually been rezoned.

President Carol Eberhardt responded by saying the property could not be rezoned until it had been reviewed by the planning commission and presented at a public hearing.

"I thought we were specifically talking about lot 107 (Walker's property)," said ApMadoc, referring to her original motion.

Norma Goyette, village clerk, reread the motion several times at the request of council members trying to decipher its exact meaning.

Members finally agreed the motion should be rewritten.

"Get it done. Get it going," ApMadoc said.

The new motion asks that village attorney John Steckling consult with township planner Richard Carlisle and write a proposed condominium ordinance.

Council members David Raup and James Schultz voted against the ammended motion; Eberhardt, Sharron Catallo, Ethel Sinclair, and ApMadoc voted for approval. Gaskell, who left the meeting early, was absent.

Eberhardt concluded the discussion with this admonishment, "We in no way or form have a condominium classification. This gives intent to our attorney. It requires a public hearing and notices (before final approval)."

treed landscape bend down even more, hour by hour, until so many were broken.

Even though we got the power back that evening, my husband buzzed more pole wood with his buzz saw. He keeps a half face cord supply on hand at all times.

My daughter-in-law's folks had just moved into Independence Township in November to a house with a fireplace and tree-filled yard with beautiful shade trees—but no firewood ready.

That eventful morning, they had a yard full of downed trees. My son took seasoned wood from here to try to heat that house up to the 60s. The fireplace kept one side of each person warm but the other side was shivering.

Fireplaces, fuel, insulation, circulation of air currents are an education on how our ancestors lived.

My husband and I both grew up where roof water was caught and stored in cisterns. Neither of us had electricity or running water as kids.

We had old-fashioned oil lamps but had not gotten a supply of kerosene! We hadn't gotten batteries for our radio.

One son used his brother's generator to run the blower on their house to keep the kids warm. That generator would pump water, too.

One daughter's family did buy a kerosene heater on Wednesday. They could block off all rooms and hallways to keep some semblance of comfort.

The other daughter, in California, listened via long-distance telephone of what it was like "back home in cold country." Her husband is a native of California and has a vague idea of what it is like.

I, and many others, spent money in taking Polaroid pictures of the sparkling crystalized landscape.

With each issue, I marveled at those taken by professionals to preserve the Ice Storm of 1985, probably to be portrayed in movies someday in the future as the "Good Olden Days."

Priest writes by day and by night

By Carolyn Walker

Poet, priest, patriarch . . . gentle spirit. The words define Joseph Gillespie, who at 90, is the oldest of the resident priests at Colombiere. He calls himself "the patriarch."

His eyes are failing, his step slowed. Time has reduced his once robust countenance to frailty. But, God has given him the gift of words and the poet's vision.

He sits alone in his small room, surrounded by boxes of his work. There is a bed, a chair and a desk. He works there late at night, when ideas come to him, he says. And again during the long days—when there is too much time and little to do.

He has been writing poems over 40 years; since his days as a teacher, a magician and a hypnotist.

Gillespie pulls a large envelope from his night stand as if to prove his memories were once real events.

News clippings recount his days as a prison chaplain in Grafton, Ohio. Prisoners who wanted to see his magic show had to attend catechism, he says.

Photographs show a fedora-topped Gillespie at magician conventions. He stands by Dell O'Dell in one, and Harry Blackstone Sr. in another. There are pictures of Houdini and his brother Theo. Houdeen, also a magician.

Yellowed headlines proclaim the antics of the "poet priest."

Several photos show a handsome Gillespie doing card tricks for the boys of Cleveland's St. Ignasius High School in 1945.

Students who broke school rules had to memorize one of his poems and recite it before the class, Gillespie says.

He remembers those days with fondness. "I was the only one who got through high school," he says of his 12 brothers and sisters.

Born in Detroit, Gillespie grew to be a "jack of all trades." He was a newsboy, shoe-shiner and railroad worker.

Forced out of his job as a bartender at 18, Gillespie turned to education.

"I went back to high school," he says. "Kids were graduating, and I was just beginning."

High school led to college and then to seminary school, which he entered at 21.

After 14 years of schooling in theology and philosophy, and time spent as a teacher, Gillespie was ordained in the Society of Jesus in June 1928.

He went on to teach in Michigan, Ohio, Missouri and Illinois.

He became a practicing magician when he was 50, putting on shows for the Knights of Columbus and his students.

TRAIL BLAZERS: Kevin Vernagus and Matt Steffen of Lake Orion hit the cross country skiing trails at Independence Oaks County Park last Saturday. The park on Sashabaw Road was the site of a Blue Cross-Blue Shield Ski Race. Close to 60 people participated in events that ranged from a 15 kilometers race for the expert skiers and 4 kilometers for the beginners. This is an annual contest open to all ages.

Waterford Mott scars Wolves

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Waterford Mott High School gym was a welcome sight for Clarkston's Ed Whitaker. As the Wolves were downing the Corsairs 58-47, Jan. 18, the junior guard played a solid game to lead his team to victory.

Whitaker spent the first part of last season with the Corsairs, then transferred to Clarkston High School in January.

During the introduction at the Waterford Mott gym, Whitaker got a bigger response than some of the home players. Whitaker came through with a game-

"It's tough to come into a game with three starters being hurt."

—Dan Fife

the game and might be out for the rest of the season with a stress fracture in his right leg.

The injuries are beginning to mount for Clarkston. Besides Kline, David Ladd sat out the Kettering game, Jan. 11, with a sprained ankle, Matt Riddle hurt his knee against Mott late in the game after racking up 13 points, and Dan Jokisch, playing on a bad ankle, tallied 16 points.

"It's tough to come into a game with three starters being hurt and exams coming up," Fife said. "With all that's going on, it wouldn't be tough for the kids to overlook Mott a little."

Mott did give the Wolves quite a bit to think about. They led, 13-11, after the first eight minutes, then Clarkston came back and held a 27-20 advantage at halftime.

The second half put a scare into Fife and the Wolves as the Corsairs scored the first eight points to grab the lead again before Clarkston took over.

"Mott played a great game," Fife said. "I've got to give them a lot of credit; they played us hard."

high 18 points to lead the Wolves to their seventh straight win.

The Wolves are 7-1 overall and 2-0 in the Greater Oakland Activities League. Mott is 1-9 and 0-3.

"Eddie played a great game tonight," coach Dan Fife said after the triumph. "He's got a chance to be one of the better players to come out of Clarkston."

The Wolves needed the lift they got from Whitaker. Their leading scorer, Erik Kline, sat out

The Seer

Found in the Clarkston News mailslot Monday morning . . .

Seer here. Tried to pull another one on me didn't you? Against a weak opponent like Waterford Mott, you barely hung on to win. It didn't help that your best player, Erik Kline, didn't dress for the game. You hosers will do anything to try to prove me wrong.

With the powderpuff part of the schedule out of the way, you hoseheads are going to play some real basketball teams with real players. Still the GOAL isn't very tough other than Clarkston and Pontiac Northern. The other three teams in the league might as well set back and watch the Wolves and Huskies battle for the title. The first confrontation is next week. Read on . . .

Pontiac Northern at Clarkston (Jan. 25): The winner of this game can almost count on having the league title or at least part of it. No other team in the GOAL can stand up to these two. Lake Orion is a distant third with a 2-1 record and even farther away from beating the Wolves or Huskies.

The Huskies are led by Amos Brown who can pump up the home crowd or crunch a comeback by the opposition. The Wolves depend a lot on Erik Kline, who missed the Waterford Mott game with a leg injury. Clarkston's other players can pick up for Kline but his return to form will be needed for a win against the Huskies. Clarkston by one.

Perfect and still going.

So far the junior varsity basketball team at Clarkston High School has racked up an 8-0 record with a couple of big victories along the way.

But the biggest test is coming up very soon, said coach Tim Kaul.

"We're playing Rochester Adams, Pontiac Northern and Milford Lakeland our next three games. They should be our toughest opponents this season," he said.

So far this year, the Wolves' record is close to what he thought it would be.

"I'd say we were underdogs against Pontiac Central and Detroit Catholic Central. All the rest I thought we could win," he said.

In their latest triumph, the Wolves quietly disposed of Waterford Mott, 41-32, on Jan. 18. And that was despite having a sub-par offensive effort, says Kaul.

JV Wolves stay undefeated

"I think our defense is making the difference right now," he said. "We didn't play very well offensively, but Mott only made four field goals in the second half. Our defense is doing it."

The Wolves spread the points through the lineup with eight players scoring. They were led by Craig Chamberlain with 10 points and Jeff Billig with nine.

Balanced scoring is a feature in every one of the Wolves' victories. Chamberlain recorded the highest total with 18 against Avondale and 17 against West Bloomfield.

"A lot of kids are doing the job for us," Kaul said. "No one has scored 20 points and I think we've had four or five different high scorers so far."

"Different guys pick us up each night. Keith Mercier is doing a good job at point guard. Chamberlain has been consistent on both offense and defense. Jim Hall is a force inside. He'll get his eight to 10 points and eight to 10 rebounds a game. Steve Secatch has come through, so has Dave Baran. Just a lot of kids are doing the job."

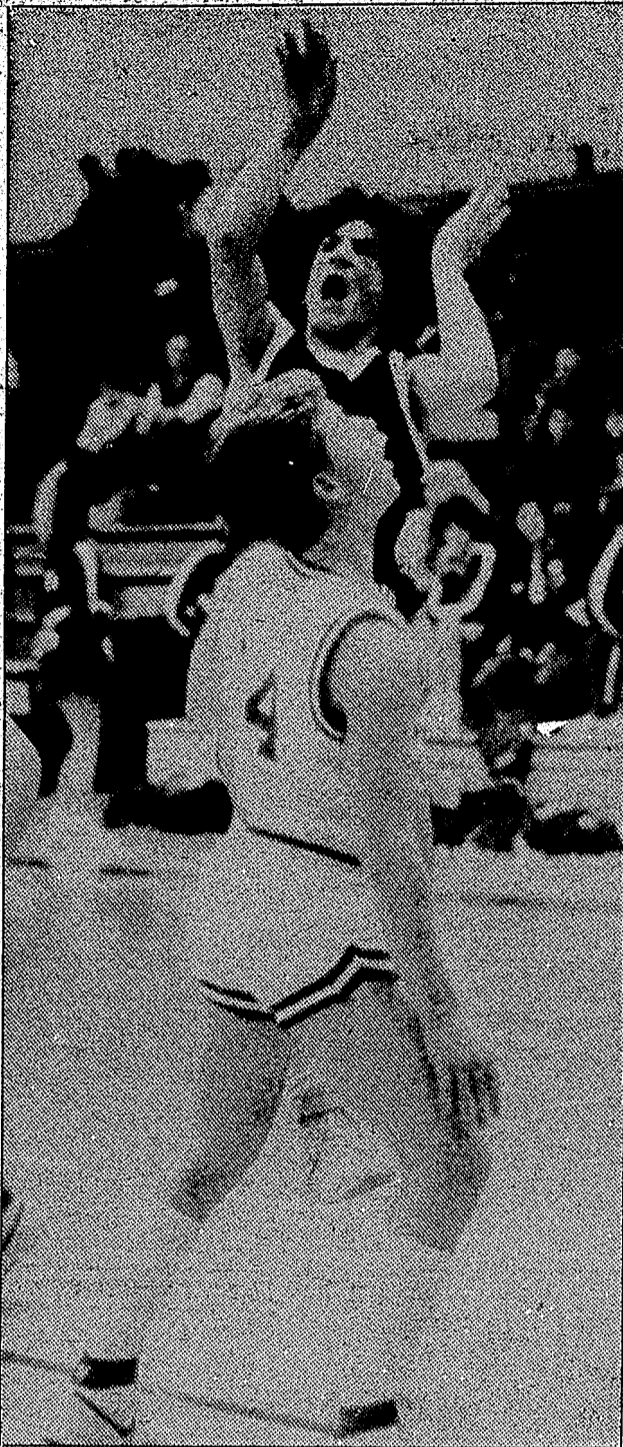

Pure loonacy

Dan Vandenhemel

America, there's nothing like it. Where else can an entire country go berserk over a football game? Where else can a state go into a frenzy over a lottery? Where else can a county go crazy over a dog being on trial for murder? America, land of loonies. The Super Bowl was played last Sunday. Hurrah. I was so excited I had to write about it, so this is being typed prior to the game. Everything is going up against everything else. It's San Francisco against Miami; the 49ers versus the Dolphins; West against East; quarterback to quarterback; coach against coach; trainer versus trainer; water boy against water boy. The list could just keep going. I didn't wait to find out the final score because pre-game predictions have 12 zillion people watching the game. The only people not interested must live in Siberia. Who knows, maybe by the time this is on the newsstands, I could be a millionaire. Yes, I got caught up in the $12 million Lotto fever as well as the original $1 million drawing. Lines were forming at stores selling the tickets for last Saturday's drawing. I happened to be in one of the fast ones. The whole state of Michigan is trying to win an instant fortune. But what would you do with that much money? I, for one, would like to find out. Another crazy story is the murder trial of a championship sheep dog, King Boots. The dog is on trial for allegedly killing the mother of his owner. Reports say the woman had a heart attack, then fell on the dog prompting the bite. The question in court is, "Should the dog be put to sleep?" Can you believe all this stuff? A dog is on trial for murder. This has to be a first. It'll make a great trivia question someday. Granted, the family feels bad about the death of the woman. Granted, the dog is champion quality and cost around $6,000. But why should this whole thing get blown out of proportion? The family is hurting enough. The dog is probably confused. The only thing that might come out of this whole ordeal is a movie script.

It was simply height over speed. The Clarkston Junior High Wolverines used their height advantage to control rival Sashabaw Junior High, 67-49, in the Jan. 17 basketball game. The low turnout of fans in the stands at Clarkston High School saw 6-foot-4 Kevin Baert lead the Wolverines with 20 points and 10 rebounds and 6-foot-3 teammate Rob Sanderson come off the bench for 11 rebounds and eight points. The duo stopped Sashabaw from getting many second and third shots. "Our height let us control the boards at both ends," Wolverine coach Dave Smith said. "I don't think either team played overall well. Both of us worked hard out there." Besides towering over the Cougars, the Wolverines set a school record for free throw percentage by hitting 15 of 18 shots. "The Sashabaw kids played hard," Smith said. "The score won't be that wide the next time we meet. We know a little more about each other now." The Wolverines upped their record to 4-2 while the Cougars dropped to 3-5. First year Cougar coach John Zittle liked the way his team played—except for shooting the ball. "We just couldn't shoot," he said. "If we'd hit our shots, we would've been right in there. I wasn't disappointed with the way we played." The Cougars made only 18 of 82 shots from the field. Keenan Powell had a game high 21 points. He was followed by Josh Newblatt with 10. Admittedly the Cougars had a few jitters playing at the high school, said Zittle. "I'm sure we were nervous and it was a big factor in our shooting," he said. "But from the first part of the year, we're playing much better."

Officials seek storm options

A state of emergency has been declared in 13 Michigan counties, including Oakland, as a result of damages during the New Year's Day ice storm.

But local officials are at a loss as to how this status will help area citizens.

Members of the Clarkston Village Council have agreed not to ask for funds, stressing that assistance is geared mainly at damaged buildings.

In the village, most of the damage was to trees, said council member David Raup.

Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk anticipates a wait of several weeks before any solid information is available.

Oakland County officials agree with Ronk. Final assessments of damages are still weeks off, according to a spokesperson at Oakland County Disaster Control.

Some low interest loans are currently available at banks. Interested people may call 1-256-2860 or 1-517-373-8017 for information regarding the loans, the spokesperson said.

In addition, State Rep. Mat Dunaskiss (R-Lake Orion) urges area residents to share any thoughts or problems they may have regarding the ice storm. (The State Capitol, Lansing, MI 48909; phone, 517-373-1798.)

Dunaskiss has asked for a legislative investigation on how the utility companies handled the storm.

And he stressed the importance of insurance policy holders realizing disaster-related claims are not counted by the insurance companies that routinely cancel policies after three claims.

Dunaskiss estimates county relief centers will be set up within 90 days, pending federal approval of the emergency status declared by Gov. James Blanchard.

Reading philosophy goes national

Thanks to Dennis Wagester, 'guided instruction' appears in text

By Kathy Greenfield

When reading support teacher Dennis Wagester reads a novel, he takes a somewhat unorthodox approach, but it's all in keeping with his philosophy of what readers should do.

"I basically read the last chapter first, even in mystery novels," he said. "Isn't that awful?"

Vigorous debates over this practice have ensued with his wife, Kathie, he said, because she likes to read—and she always begins at the beginning.

But when Wagester is ready to read the first chapter he usually knows the names of key characters and the author's purpose.

That's one of his "strategies of learning"—something he says every person needs to have.

Wagester's taught in the Clarkston school district 18 years and since 1975 he's been a reading support teacher.

A Holly resident, he's the father of two, Melissa, 12, and Stevie, 10. He has a bachelor's degree from Western Michigan University and a master's degree from Eastern Michigan University.

He works at Bailey Lake Elementary three days a week and at Clarkston Elementary the other two with fourth-, fifth- and sixth-graders who need extra help in reading.

"I personally believe you have to present some sort of guided instruction before children read any material, something to think about as they read," he said. "You have to make the invisible visible."

As a classroom consultant for "States and Regions," a social studies textbook for fourth-graders recently published by Harcourt Brace Jovanovich Inc., Wagester moved this concept beyond the 67 students he sees each week.

About two years ago, he accepted the consultant work and suggested the publishers include a list of questions at the beginning of the chapters in addition to editing the existing questions at each chapter's end.

"I went through and mentioned they should set it up for this (reading) guide. I did some examples," he said. "I spent a long time on it. It was over the course of the summer—many, many hours."

The consulting work was a first for Wagester. He's not sure how he got the job, but it's possible he was selected because he was a member of the Clarkston school district reading textbook selection committee, he said.

While the $150 fee he received didn't come close to covering his time, Wagester had a purpose.

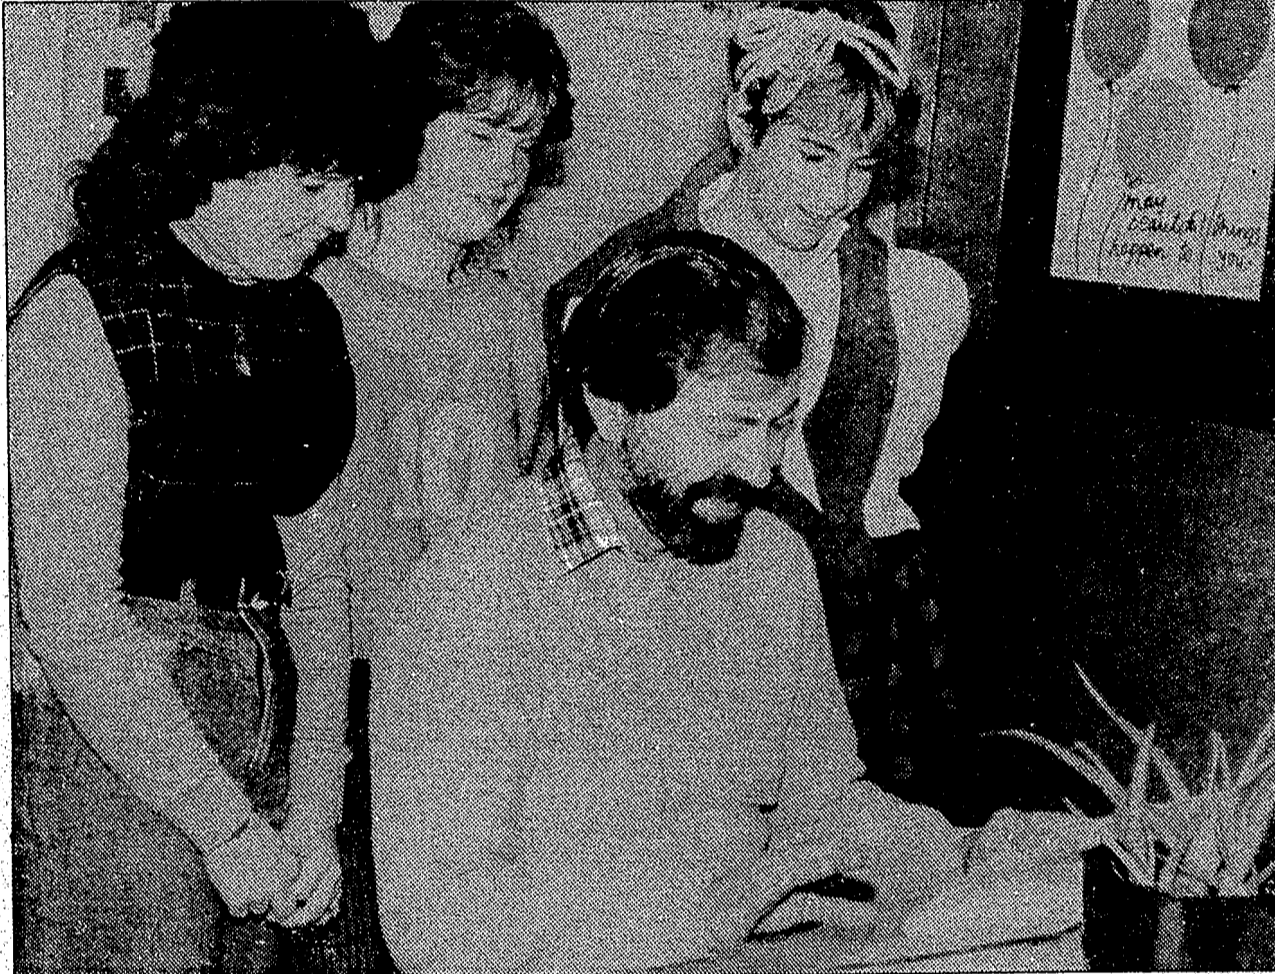

"When you're teaching a lesson, there are certain steps you need to take, and I felt very strongly this was one step," he said. "It was so important to me because it would get national exposure."

He didn't know the publishers had decided to use his proposal until he received the finished product, but he's glad they did.

Each chapter begins with vocabulary words and questions labeled "To Guide Your Reading" inside a box outlined with bright colors.

"It was very exciting. I really felt great," he said. "In fact, I showed all the students in my classes and they were kind of overwhelmed with it."

For there, on Page IV of the preface under the heading of Classroom Consultants, is their teacher's name in print: Dennis E. Wagester, Clarkston Community Schools, Bailey Lake Elementary, Clarkston, MI.

Kammer rehired by school district

By Kathy Greenfield

Former state senator Kerry Kammer will continue lobbying for the Clarkston school district in Lansing.

The $6,800 annual contract to Kammer/Michigan Consultants Inc. was renewed for the third consecutive year in a 6-1 vote Jan. 14 by the Clarkston board of education.

Superintendent Milford Mason recommended renewing the contract.

He cited the disparity between dollars available for in-formula school districts including Clarkston and out-of-formula districts with tax bases large enough to avoid state aid.

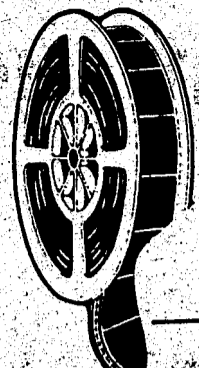

Kammer earns the fee by representing the district's interests in Lansing, presenting grant applications and meeting every-other-month with the superintendents of the districts he represents, which include Clarkston, Ferndale, Pontiac, Waterford and Oakland Community College, Mason said.

Board member Carolyn Place cast the lone vote against renewing the contract.

"Although Mr. Mason assures us he receives reports, whatever (Kammer's) doing is private between the two of (them)," she said. "I feel (Kammer) owes us a better reporting system."

"I think the money is well-spent because there's no one else speaking for in-formula school districts," countered board member David Kithil.

Members of the school board asked that Mason request regular written reports from Kammer, which would be passed on to them.

CLINT DENN IN PERSON
THE DUTCH WEST INDIES
Aruba, Bonaire and Curacao

Often referred to as the Netherlands Antilles, the islands of ARUBA, BONAIRE AND CURACAO have experienced a turbulent history. Pirates, Indians, and military conquests swept over the area since the earliest days of the Spanish explorers. In one nine year period control changed hands seven times. Held by the Dutch at the time of the American Revolution, they served as a supply base, assisting the colonist. Today the islands are models of peace and serenity beneath the warm tropical sun.
Few cities of the world can rival Kralendyke as a living historical museum. Aruba's miles of white sand beaches are legendary as are the unique underwater coral gardens of Bonaire. With an attitude of 'do what pleases you' it is easy to find secluded beaches or busy, plush hotels.
Clint's film journey to the story book ABC Islands is a fun look at a warm and friendly people. He joins their dances and merrymaking; travels the land to a Dutch windmill, land bridges, historical lighthouses, salt works, underwater wonders, flamingos, and the beauty of a land blessed by a warm climate and soft breezes.

Independence may join fight against gravel mining rights suit

Independence Township may join Highland Township in its fight against a mining rights lawsuit filed by American Aggregates Corp. of Oxford.

Township board members are considering a letter of support, but unanimously agreed at their Jan. 15 meeting that Supervisor Frank Ronk should consult with township attorney Gerald Fisher.

They want a provision that Independence will not be legally liable nor incur any fees.

Independence Township will forward the letter, contingent upon Fisher's approval, Ronk said after the meeting.

Highland has been involved in a lawsuit with the mining company since 1977 when officials refused to rezone 600 acres near Clyde Road and Hickory Ridge for mining.

Circuit Court Judge Frederick Ziem ruled in favor of the township, and American Aggregates is challenging the ruling in the Michigan Court of Appeals.

"The judge ruled on the case using the standards set forth in Silva vs. Ada Township," said a letter from JoAnn Van Tassel, Supervisor of Orion Township to Supervisor Frank Ronk.

"Those standards are that the resource must be a very valuable resource and it must not cause very serious consequences."

According to Van Tassel, Highland was able to prove "very serious consequences."

Ronk, Van Tassel and Highland Township Supervisor Thomas Dunleavy are members of the Oakland County Association of Township Supervisors, which has also granted support without money.

Nineteen townships have been asked to join in the effort, but only two or three have responded, said Dunleavy.

Pay is OK'd for wetlands board

Wetlands board members are joining the ranks of paid appointees.

The Independence Township Board unanimously approved paying them $25 per meeting, the rate currently paid to members of the zoning board of appeals and the planning commission.

In existence for about one-and-one-half years, the wetlands board consists of Independence Township residents, William Vandermark, Holly

Stephens, Janet McCord, Harry Mosher and Ruth Basinger.

They monitor established wetlands against encroachment, construction and drainage changes, said Supervisor Frank Ronk.

The township board voted 5-0 to approve the payments. Vandermark abstained from voting because he sits on the wetlands board and Trustee Daniel Travis was absent.

He began writing poetry when he wanted to incorporate verse into his rope and card tricks.

His work was subsequently publicized in Jesuit magazines and on Christmas cards.

After watching a professor at Cleveland University demonstrate hypnotism, Gillespie perfected the technique for his magic show—until a bishop made him stop.

He notes that people used to think of hypnotism as a sin.

"I wasn't going to use anybody to commit a sin," he says with surprise. "I'm against that."

Though he eventually gave up hypnotism and magic, his poetry never left him. He published a book of poetry called "Reflections in Rhyme and Time" in 1984, available for $5 at the Colombiere Center, 9075 Big Lake Rd.

Gillespie says it takes about six hours to write a single poem. He has done over 200.

"I don't write it all (at one sitting)," he says, adding that he writes his poetry in phases. "Longfellow could do that."

He left his position as assistant pastor of Detroit's St. Peter and Paul's Catholic Church in 1977 to retire to Colombiere Center.

He refers to the Springfield Township retreat as a "vestibule of heaven" because of its worldly comforts.

But, time and solitude hang heavily in the halls of Colombiere.

A pensive Gillespie reflects on days long past. He touches his typewriter, and contemplates writing a second book.

Simplicity

Introducing the 555.

The new Simplicity 555 is built for power. In fact, it's the most powerful two-stage snowthrower in its weight class. And it has all the features of our larger models. Except one. Its compact price.

Efficient design puts controls at your fingertips.

Tecumseh Snow King™ 5h.p. engine with bulb primer and compression release designed for fast cold-weather starts.

High capacity discharge chute with adjustable deflector.

4 speeds: 3 forward, 1 reverse, to match your speed to snow conditions.

Extra large pneumatic turf tread tires for deep biting traction.

12" ribbon type auger with reinforced steel blades.

Most efficient and positive power transfer for a two-stage in this weight class.

Snow-hungry 22" clearing width.

Dance and dine

The 19th annual Rathskeller Dinner Dance at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Saturday, Jan. 26, is something Marie Schlautmann looks forward to.

She's participated in food preparation and in the party for at least 15 years.

"It's a big affair and there's always a big crowd," she said. "If you like German food, it's good—and we're German."

The doors open at 7:30 p.m. and the donation is $25 a couple, which includes a complete German menu, beer and setups.

The dishes on the menu are prepared by the food committee: cabbage rolls, sauerkraut and knockwurst, meatballs, German noodles, German potato salad, assorted breads and lemon cake.

Music is by the Internationals, the same band that played at St. Daniel's parish festival in July.

The Knights of Columbus Hall is located at 5660 Maybee, Independence Township. Call 625-3772 or 623-0116 for more information.

Fortin-Duplissis

Leslie Jeanne Fortin, a 1978 Clarkston High School graduate, is engaged to be married to David Duplissis of Lewiston, Maine. The bride-to-be, a 1981 honor graduate of Oakland University, is presently residing in Colorado. Her fiancé is a specialist in strategic satellite telecommunications. Both have served in the United States Army. The couple plans to be married in March in Oahu, Hawaii, where they also plan to reside.

Honors

David Taulbee is on the dean's list for the term recently ended at Lake Superior State College, Sault Ste. Marie.

Sheri Rowland is on the dean's list at Northern Michigan University, Marquette.

A 1983 graduate of Clarkston High School, she's a sophomore at NMU, majoring in languages.

Her parents are Steve and Nancy Rowland of Caberfae Trail, Independence Township.

Karen Thomas is on the dean's list for achieving a perfect 4.0 grade point average during the fall semester at Mercy College, Detroit.

A junior at Mercy, she's working toward a bachelor's degree in nursing. She graduated from Clarkston High School in 1982.

Her parents are Arthur and Esther Thomas of Hillside Drive, Independence Township.

Jane Acton and Gary Seelbinder are on the dean's list at Alma College for outstanding academic performance during the fall term.

Acton, a senior business administration major at Alma, graduated from Clarkston High School in 1981. Her parents are John and Paula Acton of Sashabaw Road.

Seelbinder is the son of Roy and Carolyn Seelbinder of Scenic Ridge. A 1982 graduate of Lutheran High School North, Mt. Clemens, he is a sophomore at Alma, majoring in business administration.

workshop is offered by the community education department of Clarkston schools.

Students will practice some skills during the class which is also recommended for parents returning to school who need a refresher course on study skill techniques.

Topics to be covered include: how to outline, how to write reports, how to take notes, ways to review, how to remember important material, how to fight fear and panic on tests, how to write essay questions and ways to study.

Registrations are now being taken at the Clarkston Community Learning Center, 5275 Maybee, Independence Township. The deadline is Feb. 1.

Winter classes open

Registrations for winter activities are currently underway at the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department.

There are still openings in the Aerobic Slim-nastics class at Sashabaw Junior High School on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 6:30 p.m., starting Jan. 22.

Cost of the 10-week course is $35.

For more information on additional activities or registration information, call the parks and recreation office at 625-8223.

Club notes

Leonard H. Williams of Independence Township is a Flag Officer of the Clinton River Boat Club.

Williams holds the office of vice commodore for the year 1985.

The club is a Michigan corporation organized in 1940 by a group of boaters interested in cruising, good fellowship and boating safety. Its "Club Island" is located just off Lake St. Clair between the Middle Channel waterway and Muscamoot Bay.

The club is also a member of the Inter-Lake Yachting Association and Anchor Bay Yachting Association.

Due to the success of the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance second Bowlathon, held in March at Howe's Lanes, $5,000 was raised and 84 children were sent to camp—the most ever.

The organization also receives a $1,500 yearly donation from the Springfield Township Board, which designates this amount for the camp fund.

There were approximately 100 referrals for camp from teachers in the five Clarkston elementary schools. Every student contacted who expressed an interest in camp was able to attend.

Sixty students attended Camp Oakland in Oxford, 20 went to Michigan Christian Camp in Attica, and four teenage boys went to North Star Adventures, a week of camping and canoeing on the Rifle River.

Youth Assistance recently donated $150 to each elementary school in the Clarkston district to provide scholarships for the sixth-grade camping program.

The group also sent nine teenagers from the two junior highs to Camp Oakland for a Winter Adventure Program which includes cross-country skiing, map and compass reading, ice fishing, sledding and skating.

of Wellesley Terrace, Independence Township.

Navy Seaman Recruit Kevin Cabadas has completed eight weeks of recruit training at Navy Recruit Training Command Naval Training Center, Orlando, Fla. A 1983 graduate of Waterford Kettering High School, he joined the Navy in September 1984. His parents are Eugene and Josephine Cabadas.

Ashmore ties in with school administration

By Kathy Greenfield

Jim Ashmore's going away party gift is a pile of garage-sale-reject ties—the kind that inspire awe that anyone could have ever worn them.

The new computing coordinator for the Clarkston school district goes along with the joke. He's wearing one of the ties, an iridescent too-wide variety, on his last day as a mathematics-computer teacher at Clarkston Junior High School.

Ashmore describes himself as a flannel and corduroy kind of person, and says he's going to have to dress up for the newly created administrative position. His appointment was unanimously approved by the Clarkston board of education Jan. 14.

When it comes to how he feels about the opportunity and his plans, he becomes serious.

He talks about the "enormity of the impact" computers will have on people's lives and the "great power that needs to be harnessed."

"It's critical that staff, students and teachers really understand this tool," he says. "It's important that they understand that there's so much power there because it's going to affect their lives."

Ashmore joined the CJHS teaching staff 16 years ago, following graduation from Oakland University with a bachelor's degree in mathematics and social science. He and his wife, Carol Lynn, live in Hadley. They have four children, Tad, 19; Joshua, 14; Jamie, 9; and Erin, 2½.

His computer knowledge is almost entirely self-taught. Back in 1964, he took the first computer course offered at Oakland University.

The one-credit course covered two computer languages, BASIC and FORTRAN.

"I did more work on that one-credit course than I did for my four-credit courses," he says. "It was just a tease that long ago. I loved it, but I didn't follow it up."

Later he began reading everything he could on the topic, teaching himself with computer magazines (he subscribes to a half-dozen) and through memberships in "three or four" computer clubs.

When he decided to take another college-level computer course, it was a disappointment. He ended up helping the professor teach—and decided he could learn more from other sources.

The first computer was put into use at CJHS about five years ago. Now there's a room full, attached with swinging doors to Ashmore's CJHS mathematics classroom.

"That's the only part I don't like about this job," he says. "I enjoy the classroom. I enjoy the school here. I enjoy the staff, and I love teaching."

As the computing coordinator, he'll work half-time for the K-12 portion of the district and half-time for the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center, with his office at the vocational center. If the vocational school hires a full-time coordinator of its own next year, Ashmore will return to the classroom half-time.

There has never been a computing coordinator in the district before, and he'll begin the job by cataloging and evaluating the equipment district-wide.

His first curriculum goals include a new class in the two junior high schools and the introduction of keyboarding skills on the elementary school level.

"I'm extremely excited about the job," he says. "It will give me a chance to communicate my feelings of the usefulness of the computer. We are in the Model T era of computing still. When we look back about 10 years from now at this, it will be a good laugh."

Adult education classes grow

Twenty-six classes now make up the list of adult high school credit courses offered by the Clarkston school district's Community Education Department.

"We had about 209 students enrolled in classes in the fall semester of 1983. In the fall of 1984, we had 408 students enrolled in adult vocational classes. So we've, in effect, doubled our enrollment," said James Bleau, adult vocational education supervisor.

"What it amounts to is we are now providing vocational education programs for individuals who are taking classes for training or retraining, a special interest, or those who are working for (high school) credit."

On Jan. 14, the Clarkston board of education unanimously approved adding five new classes: EKG training, legal secretary, occupational internships, schematics reading and basic lettering.

Other choices include medical office assisting, computer classes, electronics and auto mechanics.

The 60-hour courses are free for adult students working toward high school diplomas. For all other students, each costs $50 plus a book deposit.

Classes begin Feb. 4. For more information, call 673-7756.

Woman wanted

The search is on for the Outstanding Woman for 1984-85 by the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Club.

The annual award is made on the basis of leadership and services rendered in the interest of community betterment.

Nominations may be made by individuals or organizations. Any woman living or working in the Waterford-Clarkston area is eligible. There is no age limit and nominees need not be members of BPW or affiliated with any other club or organization.

A panel of three judges will select the winner based on the woman's contribution to the Waterford-Clarkston general community welfare, evidence of leadership ability, ability to get along with others, evidence of upholding a wholesome family life and progress in personal or business achievements.

The deadline for nominations is April 1, and forms are available from Joan Kopietz at Tierra Arts & Design, 64 S. Main, Clarkston.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON
SYNOPSIS

Regular meeting of Clarkston Village Council, January 14, 1985.

Meeting called to order by President Eberhardt at 7:34 p.m. followed by the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Roll-Present: Schultz, Raup, Sinclair, Gaskell, Ap-Madoc, Catallo and Eberhardt.
Absent: None.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The bills were paid, totalling $11,328.19.

The Mill Pond problem was discussed. The holes the fishermen make could cause a skater to fall into the pond. The D.N.R. says they do not have to mark a hole but must do out of courtesy to skaters.

Motion to have the Village Attorney consult with Dick Carlisle (Twp. Planner) and write a condominium ordinance using the PUD ordinance as a guide. Vote: Yes-4, No-2. Motion carried.

The fire station location was discussed. Motion to let Lisa Johnson use the Village Park for her wedding. Motion to adjourn at 9:23 p.m.

All votes unanimous unless otherwise indicated.

Norma Goyette
Village Clerk

4 praised for school job excellence

Four Clarkston school district staff members received applause last week for work above and beyond their normal job duties.

Receiving Employee Recognition Awards at the Jan. 14 school board meeting were Mary Ellen Hanson, Jan Kirchgessner, Patricia MacArthur and Dennis Wagester.

"It's going to get to be my favorite part of the meeting," said board President Janet Thomas following the presentations to each of certificates and engraved Cross pens.

Hanson is media coordinator at Clarkston High School. In the nomination form prepared by CHS Principal Dom Mauti, Hanson was praised for keeping up with the needs of 70-plus staff members and 1,600 students, serving as co-chairperson of the North Central Self Evaluation Team and participating in Oakland Schools media presentations.

Mauti also nominated MacArthur, an English teacher at CHS. She was praised for piloting the Instrumental Enrichment program, at CHS, keeping pace with cable TV and computers in her classroom, and serving as co-chairperson of the North Central Self Evaluation Team.

Clarkston Elementary speech pathologist Kirchgessner's contribution toward teaching English to two Chinese pupils and easing their entrance into a school situation was cited by Principal William Potvin in his nomination.

Wagester, a reading support teacher at Bailey Lake and Clarkston elementaries, was nominated by teacher Peggy Lazenby. She cited his contributions to the Bailey Lake playground equipment committee, book and spelling bees, SCAMP and a lobbying group for education in Lansing. In addition, she noted that he served as a classroom consultant for a fourth-grade social studies textbook.

The Employee Recognition Award program began in October. The winners are nominated by fellow employees and selected by a committee chaired by Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara.

It's dog tag time

It's time to get your four-legged friend a 1985 license tag, and get the dog's vital statistics hooked in to a central computer.

Oakland County is now operating with a computerized dog licensing program. If your licensed canine is found by a police officer, the dog will be returned to your front door.

The gold rectangular-shaped licenses with round edges are available at Independence and Springfield township halls, the county treasurer's office or the Oakland County Animal Control Shelter.

A license for a spayed or neutered dog is $5. It costs $7.50 for all others. Licenses must be renewed annually and the deadline is March 1.

To purchase a license, dog owners must show proof of recent rabies vaccination and proof the dog has been neutered or spayed for the lower rate.

When the dog is licensed, the owner's name, address and telephone number are fed into a central computer. If the dog is found wandering around, it will be returned if the owner is at home. A $20 ticket, payable at the district court office, will be issued for allowing the dog to go free without a leash.

Otherwise, dogs are taken to the animal shelter and owners must pay a $20 fee for the pickup and $7.50 a day for room and board.

For volunteers-to-be Interested in hospital volunteer work?

A special recruitment tea is planned Thursday, Jan. 31, at 2 p.m. in the cafeteria at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

For more information, call St. Joseph's volunteer services office at 858-3035.

Yeast

Two different types of yeast are:
BREWERS YEAST- (from hops, a by product of beer) also called nutritional yeast.
TORULA YEAST- grown on wood pulp used in the manufacture of paper or from black-strap molasses.

Yeast is an excellent source of protein & B complex vitamins. It is one of the richest sources of organic iron & has 14 or more minerals, trace minerals, 16 amino acids and 17 vitamins.

It has been known to help lower cholesterol when combined with lecithin, help reverse gout, and ease the aches and pains of neuritis.

Because yeast, like other protein foods, is high in phosphorus its advisable when taking it to add extra calcium to the diet. B-complex vitamins can be taken along with yeast to be more effective-together they work like a powerhouse.

Yeast also gives a lot of energy. Do not take baking yeast, live baking yeast depletes the body of B Vitamins & all other vitamins.

PRAYER TO The Holy spirit. Holy spirit, you who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my ideal, you who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialog, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you, no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Wish granted. S.D. ILLX2-2

Obituaries

Norman Caverly

Norman Sylvester Caverly, 96, died Jan. 20 in Pontiac. A former resident of Kingstons in Tuscola County, he was born Oct. 6, 1888.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Mary Thompson Caverly, in 1971 and by his father, Redford Caverly, a pioneer of the thumb area who succumbed at 100 years old in 1940.

Surviving are his sons, Norman Lee Caverly of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Alvin Leroy Caverly of Clarkston; daughter, Gladys Caverly Paer of Cookeville, Tenn.; many grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren; and sister-in-law, Dahlia Caverly Cummings of Kingston.

His children who preceded him in death were Cecil Arthur, William of Cass City, Archibald of Pontiac, Helen Kelley of Caro, George of Pontiac, Jessie Morse of Clio and Clayton of Frederic.

Services are pending from the Baird-Newton Funeral Home, Lapeer.

Helen E. Christensen

Helen E. Christensen, 65, of Clarkston died Jan. 20. A housewife, she was a member of Trinity Methodist Church, Waterford.

Surviving are her husband, Richard; children, Larry of Drayton Plains, Mrs. Kevin (Lynn) Anderson of Jordan, Minn., Mrs. Vernon (Cindy) Howley of Grand Rapids; seven grandchildren; brothers, Richard Wagner of Keatington, Daniel Wagner of Lewiston and Roger Wagner of Albany, N.Y.; and sisters, Elenor Cosselman of Waterford and Roberta Ann Gerstenbecker of Clio.

The funeral service is to be held Thursday, Jan. 24, at 1 p.m. at the Trinity Methodist Church with the Rev. T.K. Foo officiating. Burial is to follow in Ottawa Park Cemetery. Arrangements were made by the Goyette Funeral Home, Clarkston.

Memorial tributes may be made to the Kidney Foundation.

Ester Voorhees

Ester Voorhees, 78, of Presbyterian Village, Detroit, died Dec. 27. A former employee of Lawyers Title, Pontiac, she grew up in Independence Township.

Surviving are her sisters, Irene Poole of Florida and Isabelle Bibbins of Detroit; and her twin brother, Seymour Voorhees of Romeo.

Cremation took place at Roth Funeral Home, Detroit. A memorial service is planned in the spring at the Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church in Independence Township.

Mildred Walter

Mildred Corless Walter, 85, of St. Augustine, Fla., died Jan. 12.

Born June 23, 1899 in Branch County, she was married to Wesley Walter on Aug. 15, 1958 in Coldwater, and lived in Clarkston from 1958 to 1963. Her husband preceded her in death in 1983.

Surviving are her twin daughters, Mrs. Ed (Joyce) Szafranski of Coldwater and Mrs. Dean (Jeanette) Murphy of St. Augustine, Fla.; sons, Richard Corless of Oklahoma City, Okla., Robert Corless of Coldwater, Max Corless of Morton, Ill., and Rex Corless of Roseville; 20 grandchildren; 15 great-grandchildren; a step-son, John Walter of Newcasttle, Ohio; and a sister, Harriet Bossard of Grant.

The funeral service was Jan. 15 at the Oak Grove Cemetery. Arrangements were made by the Putnam Funeral Home, Coldwater.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Branch County Historical Society.

Kindergartners Marissa Parrott (left) and Kelly Novak team up as Kelly shows her prowess on cross country skis. The weather cooperates with plans to include the skill in the Cedar Crest Academy school day. "Our kids are really excited about cross country skiing as part of the curriculum," says administrative director Dolores Imbrunone. "The philosophy is to take into consideration the entire environment and teach children problem solving and communication skills and to get along with each other. Part of physical education is use of land for recreational purposes as well as taking care of the environment."

'S no fun like snow fun

There's plenty of snow in the field outside Calvary Lutheran Church where the private school for kindergarten through sixth grade holds classes while awaiting construction of a building at its Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, address. Among the 20 pupils enrolled is kindergartner Tyson Baker, whose determination to master cross country skis shows in his expression.

Fifth-grader Jennifer Doeringer assists kindergartner Raya Ferns over a snowbank as they head toward the open field.
