Concession

DSS 'amends ways'

By Carolyn Walker

Having attained what they call a "breakthrough," Independence Township officials plan to file for a re-hearing on the issue of group home concentration in the Michigan Court of Appeals.

In January, the Michigan Court of Appeals "threw out" a lawsuit filed against the Michigan Department of Social Services (DSS) by Independence Township, according to township attorney Gerald Fisher.

The hearing looked at the entire scheme of group homes with respect to excessive concentration, said Fisher at the Feb. 5 board meeting.

In response to the lawsuit, however, the DSS agreed to consider the concentration issue for the first time.

On Dec. 14 the DSS "amended its ways" to include a consideration of excessive concentration when placing group homes in community settings, according to Fisher.

"They made what I consider to be a concession," he said after the meeting. "They've never said anything like that before."

The DSS memorandum reads in part, "Review the specific circumstances on a case-by-case basis to determine if the issuance of a license would substantially contribute to 'excessive concentration'—i.e. substantially contribute to the deterioration of normal residential surroundings."

Previously, DSS regulations mandated only that group homes not be placed within 1,500 feet of each other.

"I think we've accomplished something," said Trustee Daniel Travis. "I think this is a real breakthrough."

Fisher was quick to add that Independence is not trying to force out group homes for the mentally retarded.

Speed falls 5mph

State officials want to lower the speed limit on Dixie Highway between M-15 and White Lake Road as preliminary work begins on widening the highway.

In a letter to township board members, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) requested the board's OK for a five-mile-an-hour reduction from 50 miles per hour to 45.

The board unanimously agreed Feb. 5 to notify the MDOT of their support of the change.

The MDOT plans to begin widening Dixie Highway from Telegraph Road in in Waterford Township to I-75 in Springfield Township in 1986.

They must secure "right of ways" from property owners and environmental approvals regarding possible archeological sites before construction begins.

Decision coming Feb. 19

M-15 widening would use up $199,000 funds

By Carolyn Walker

If the decision to widen M-15 is made this year, Independence Township officials may have to "gracefully" back out of other commitments for $199,000 in federal revenue sharing funds, said Supervisor Frank Ronk.

The township board's only firm commitment at the Feb. 5 public hearing was a $1,000 contribution to bring substance abuse speaker David Toma to Clarkston High School.

The final decision on how the funds will be spent is expected at the Feb. 19 board meeting.

The hearing before the township board covered proposed uses of the federal funds designated for community improvements.

The township would have to have the money "up front" if plans are made to widen M-15 between Dixie Highway and Paramus, Ronk said.

Clerk Richard Holman outlined several alternate projects for the money before saying the expansion of M-15 would require a "reappropriation of funds to proceed."

If the township does not seek a widening of M-15, Holman suggested the shares go to: police fund-$15,000, dust control-$23,000, tri-party (road improvement costs are split equally between the county, road commission and township)-$22,750, library books-$21,000, community promotion (CAYA, SCAMP, Chemical People)-$10,000, spring cleanup-$25,000, park improvements-$55,000, other road improvements-$22,250 and miscellaneous-$5,000.

In addition, four area residents representing SCAMP, Clarkston Area Youth Assistance (CAYA), Latchkey, and the Chemical People of Clarkston solicited funds.

At the suggestion of Trustee Dale Stuart, board members unanimously agreed to reallocate $1,000 from last year's dust control fund to the Chemical People for bringing Toma to Clarkston.

Toma's $6,000 fee must be paid in February, and the 1985 federal revenue funds will not become available until the fiscal year begins in April.

Gordon Richardson, who spoke for the Chemical People, said they had raised about $3,500 at the time of the meeting.

Ronk said he hopes to get a "feel" for the M-15 project at meetings with state transportation representatives this week.

Group home concentration issue continues

Independence plans to seek re-hearing in state court of appeals

"We're not fighting the policy or trying to wipe them out of the township," he said. "We're just making sure that we take the fair share."

Fisher supported his statement by presenting a map which showed as many as six homes on a single street in Detroit.

Too many homes in a concentrated area could lead to an institutional environment defeating the department of social services own plans, he said.

"It's clear the DSS is not interested in keeping the residential environment," he said.

The township adopted its own standards (which are not recognized by the state) regarding excessive concentration on Oct. 2.

The resolutions say group home requests will be denied if:

- The number of beds exceeds .4 percent of the population of the entire township or in any of the four census tracts used in the United States Census: (1980 census figures put the township population at 21,572, making the acceptable number of beds 86.3. Currently, there are 103 beds.)

- If the number of beds in one quadrant of the township exceeds another by more than one bed. (The concentration in the township's northwest quadrant is considerably higher than the others.)

- If the number of group homes in the entire township or in each census tract exceeds .2 percent of the total homes. (In 1980, there were 6,160 residences in the township, making the acceptable number of group homes 12. There are 16 existing group homes.)

Fisher said he hopes the re-hearing will force the court to examine any areas they may have overlooked during the January hearing.

"Now we can attempt to get the court of appeals to take a second look," he said, adding that the court would now have to look at the notion of "residential deterioration."

He said he plans to file for the re-hearing on Nov. 7.

Citizen attacks zoning monitoring

By Carolyn Walker

Civic awareness was instilled in Mike Clark when he was a child toddling behind his grandfather, R. J. Clark.

Thirty years ago the elder Clark took the boy with him to learn about government and to meet the men and women of township hall.

When he died in the late 1970s, R. J. Clark bequeathed his 1929 Clintonville Road house along with community pride to his grandson.

Clark, who has become a community activist, addressed the township board at the Feb. 5 meeting on the pitfalls of unmonitored zoning ordinances.

"I'm deeply concerned about the direction the township is going where zoning enforcement is concerned," he said, accusing the board of selective enforcement.

Clark, who says he is a spokesperson for business people and residents in the area, is especially worried about conditions along the Sashabaw corridor near 60 acres of property he owns.

He told board members several businesses on Sashabaw do not conform to fire regulations, temporary sign ordinances, or landscaping requirements.

"Either they (zoning ordinances) should be enforced or taken off the books, or we don't have an effective zoning ordinance," he said.

Clark, a part-time law student, is convinced the Independence area appeals to many potential businesses and residents.

"People like the quality of life we have," he said after the meeting. "People will be coming in and doing exactly what they want."

Clark has plans to develop his parcel into a nature conservancy surrounded by suitable residences on the periphery of the property.

He believes single family housing and the environment can co-exist.

"You don't have to destroy nature to make a profit," he said.

Clark said he plans to pursue the issue of monitoring the ordinances in court, if need be.

"If it's not handled by the township, we will go to court and seek to have the township zoning ordinances made invalid," he said.

These birds of a feather can't flock together

By Kathy Greenfield

Come springtime, Rudy can't feed the pigeons anymore.

A cease and desist order from the Oakland County Health Division to stop feeding the birds was received Feb. 8 by Rudy Schwarze, 75, the owner of Rudy's Market in downtown Clarkston.

Three days later, permission was granted to continue feeding the flock of 250 until April 15.

Sitting in a chair in the storage room at the back of the market Friday, Rudy expressed his displeasure.

"It's really stupid," he said. "I've been feeding them for 55 years. I like them."

The order, sent by certified mail, cited the presence of "an excessive number of pigeons in a localized area."

It referred to the Public Health Code and the power of the health department to issue an order to "correct a condition which is believed to be a nuisance, unsanitary condition or cause of illness."

And it threatened legal action if the cease and desist order was ignored.

Rudy's son, Bob Schwarze, 43, has taken over the duty of feeding the flock as Rudy has become less active.

"Most of these birds, they were all born in the bank building (next door). They won't know what to do. They're not wild things," he said. "I'm angry about the timing. I like animals. I can't see them all dieing in this kind of cold."

About two months ago, the health department asked Bob Schwarze to cut down on the feedings.

He said he complied and is now feeding the birds about 350 pounds of food a month, down from 650 pounds.

He said he'd be willing to stop completely in the springtime.

"I just don't want them to die," he said. "They say they start diseases. Maybe they do. People start diseases, too. Maybe we should wipe them out. So are cigarettes a health hazard, so are cars. Ban all that stuff."

Schwarze is upset, too, about the end of a tradition that goes back to when his father first opened a market in the village.

The pigeon flock has existed for so many years, it's part of the town's atmosphere, he said, and children shout with glee when they see them.

On Monday, following contact with the health department by the Schwarzes' attorney, Neil Wallace, permission was granted to feed the birds until springtime with the understanding that the feedings will never resume.

Village President Carol Eberhardt said she knew the order to stop feeding the pigeons would be controversial.

The matter first came before the Clarkston Village Council last summer when a resident issued a complaint. More recently, Eberhardt said, a hospital report indicated pigeon droppings caused the illness of a man who lives in the area and works in the village.

"There was a strong possibility he could have contracted (the disease) here," she said. "The whole point is if there is any chance at all that someone has gotten sick because of the pigeons here in town, I can't in clear conscience let it continue."

The illness has flu-like symptoms and is difficult to diagnose, but it can be treated, she said, and it's most likely to be contracted during hot, dry weather.

"I know people are going to be real upset because they empathize with Rudy a lot, but you have to realize somebody can become very, very ill," Eberhardt said. "I can't jeopardize the health of the people here."

"If someone was to get sick again and found out the village knew there was a problem and chose not to do something about it—I can hear the judge saying, 'Carol, you knew something was wrong and you chose not to do something about it?' and I'd say, 'Well, Rudy's a nice man...'"

David Shadley of the county Environmental Health Services signed the cease and desist order.

While he would not release the name of the man who became ill, he said the name of the disease is Histoplasmosis, a virus that grows in large amounts of fecal materials, such as bird droppings.

"Pigeons are a reservoir. They can pick it up and carry it," he said, and a long list of other diseases are also linked to large flocks of birds and bats.

Shadley said during the two years he's covered Clarkston, there were several complaints about the pigeons so the possibility of a health problem was investigated.

The order to stop feeding the flock was issued because it had not decreased in size following the request to cut down on feedings, he said.

"The public health hazard is still there. The birds are still there, so we're just asking him to quit totally," he said.

Once the feeding stops, Shadley said, the birds will disperse into smaller groups and no longer pose a health threat.

"The pigeons won't die. They're survivors," he said. "They'll go someplace."

DNR biologist Douglas Wagner agreed the birds may pose a health problem.

"It's unfortunate, but it isn't a healthy situation to have a flock of 250 birds," he said. "I would suspect the bigger problem that's eventually going to pop up here is they're going to seek food in other places, which is probably people's bird feeders all over town."

As the pigeons flock around Bob Schwarze, Rudy appears at the alley door of Rudy's Market to greet the birds. On Friday, the health department ordered Rudy to stop feeding the pigeons, but on Monday the order was delayed until April 15 and warmer weather.

'Peer connection' to aid substance abusers

By Carolyn Walker

A support group for substance abusers is in the works.

Patrick Johns, 24, a Clarkston High School graduate, plans to launch the "Peer Connection" Thursday, Feb. 21, with weekly meetings at the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

It will serve as a follow-up program to substance abuse speaker David Toma's Feb. 19 and 20 lectures.

The peer group will be open to those who are willing to admit their addiction; and who need or are willing to offer help, Johns said.

"The only requirement is a desire to stop using substances," according to Johns, a recovered substance abuser since July 1980.

Drug abuse has reached "epidemic proportions," said Johns. "I don't think the solution is condemnation. The best remedy is early intervention. It's sad we have to wait until addiction is in a chronic state before we take notice."

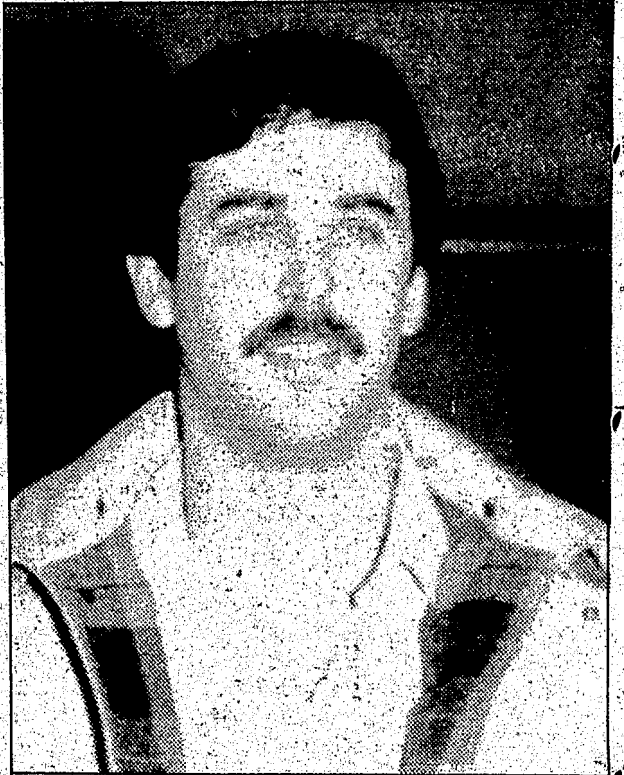

Johns has previously lectured at area high schools, and is currently studying for an associate's degree in mental health.

He has also had 500 hours of internship in Colomiere's Insight substance abuse program.

The meetings, to be held weekly on Thursday nights at 7:30, will be "totally anonymous," Johns said, adding that the church is not affiliated with the group.

People will be addressed on a first-name basis only, and there are no age restrictions or dues, he added.

Patrick Johns plans to launch the Peer Connection for substance abusers on Feb. 21.

ATTENTION PARENTS

HOW I AM DRAWN TO THE KIDS.

This country is in trouble. There's an epidemic raging across this land and we can't pretend it isn't happening: we can't dig a hole and hide from it either.

There is hardly a family that will escape its poison if we don't wake up to the danger, and begin to fight it.

While the adults in this country have been obsessed with improving their lot in life, climbing the financial and social ladder, enhancing their lifestyle—the kids have been sucked into the most insidious drug culture that has ever existed on the face of this earth. And let me tell you something, it's costing us dearly. Drugs—mostly marijuana—are warping their values, crippling their bodies, killing their minds. They will be incapable of managing their own lives.

HOW TO KNOW IF YOUR KIDS ARE DOWNING DRUGS AND HOW TO HELP THEM STOP.

A few of the kids who tell me about their drug experiences say their parents know about it, but don't care.

Some say their parents had been suspicious and questioned them, but were satisfied with their denial. Some say their parents know about it but can't do anything to stop them. But most of these kids honestly believe that their parents have no idea that they are doing drugs. They think their parents are stupid.

If there was an epidemic of chicken pox in your child's school, you'd be on the lookout for symptoms. If there was a single case of spinal meningitis, you'd have your child under careful scrutiny. Well, you better believe that drugs can have as serious consequences as any disease you can think of, and you have to believe that your child has been exposed. No child is immune. If you think that your kid is too young and innocent, too immature to be playing around with drugs, think again.

HOW DO YOU GET YOUR PARENTS AT- TENTION? NO MATTER WHAT PROBLEMS I HAVE, THEY SAY "WORK IT OUT".

"My parents never would even dream that I smoked pot. So after the parents night I got them both together and spilled everything. They said that they were glad that Toma came and that they respected me for telling them. I feel a whole lot better now that it's all behind me."

WHAT STUDENTS SAY ABOUT TOMA.

All of the following quotes are excerpts from the hundreds of thousands of letters people have sent to David Toma.

"When I first heard you were coming I laughed. I wasn't going to let some know-it-all cop change my life. When you walked onto the stage I laughed and said 'Who in the hell does he think he is?' When I walked out of the gym, I wasn't laughing. I was crying. I went right to the bathroom. My drugs and rolling papers went down the toilet. Why did I respond to you when no one else could reach me? I think I know. You know what you're talking about, first hand. I know you believe every word you say, and I believe you. And most of all, I honestly believe you when you say that you love us kids. And I hope you know that we love you too."

Bye-bye birdies

Kathy Greenfield

On a recent crisp winter morning with sky of blue, the pigeons made their customary swoop over Clarkston's Main Street and back to their perches in the alley next to Rudy's Market.

It was beautiful.

The sight inspired a chain of flashing thoughts—a wish I, too, could soar above the buildings; curiosity about what it would look like; an understanding of why people have always wanted to fly; hope that the flights would continue forever for others to appreciate; the knowledge that nothing is forever.

Little did I know something was going on that would effectively put an end to the soaring of the flock.

Too many people, too many birds and the danger of disease, ruled the Oakland County Health Division, and it ordered 75-year-old Rudy Schwarze to quit feeding the pigeons last Friday.

There was much anguish over the fate of the birds born in the gutters of the adjacent bank building and always, all seasons, for 55 years fed by Rudy and sons.

And, apparently, there were others who thought, like me, that the dirty birds at the health department could have waited to stop the feedings until the weather warmed and the pigeons would have a better chance to fend for themselves.

Happily, on Monday the decision was made to hold off on the stop feeding order until April 15. The agreement carries the stipulation that the pigeons may never again be fed by Rudy.

I understand that large flocks of birds can carry disease. I understand that someone really did become ill and it may have been caused by the pigeons. I understand that the village could be sued if it ignored the hospital lab report and someone else became ill.

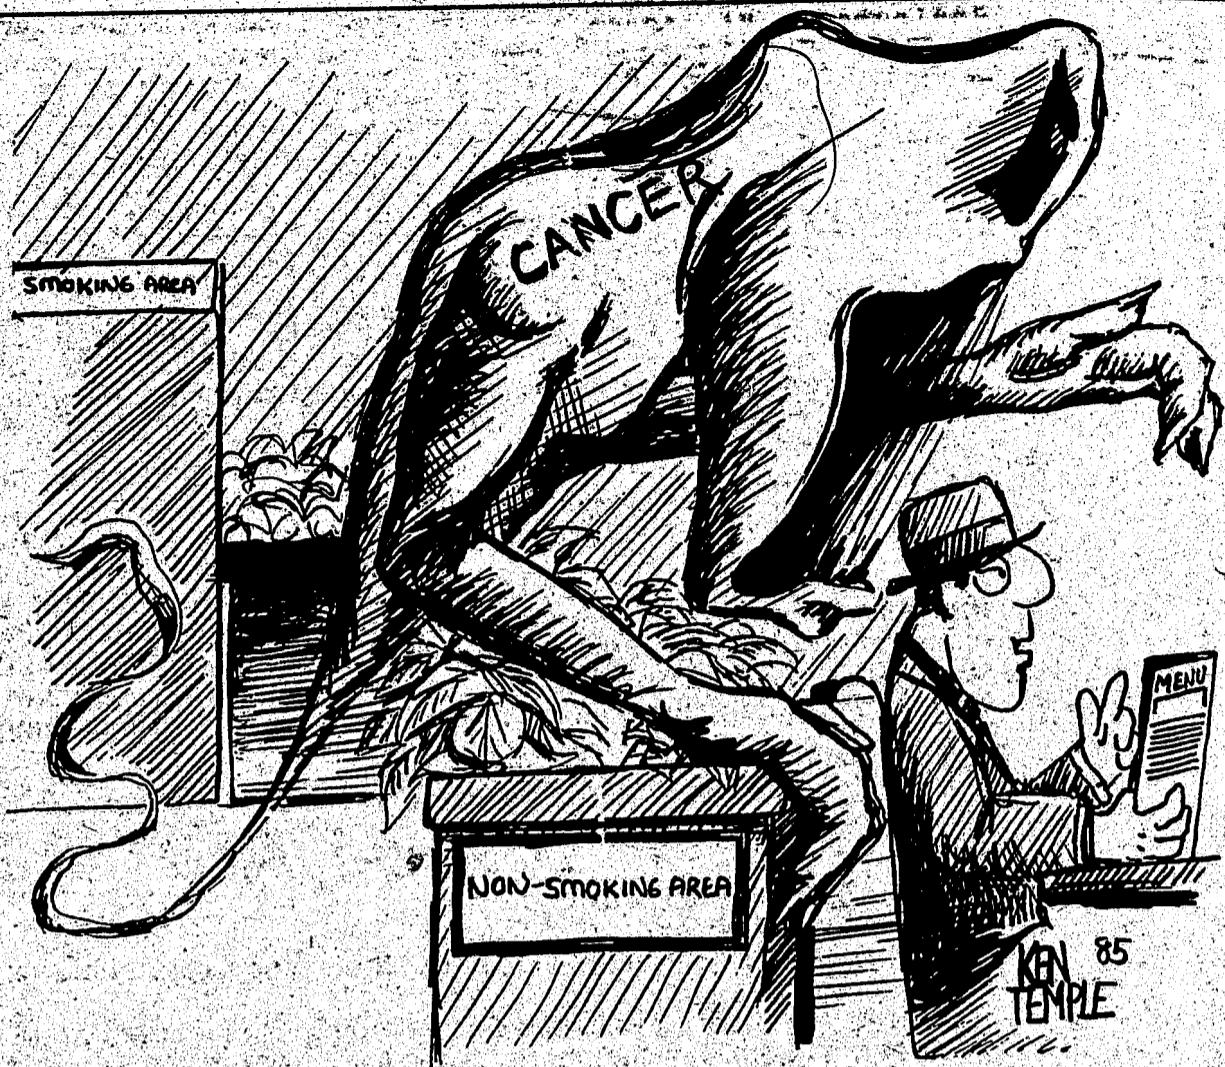

But I don't have to like it.

Here's what happened Monday: Rudy told me he was upset by the ruling that he must stop something he'd enjoyed most of his life.

I went into the alley to take a photograph of the pigeons with Rudy's son Bob.

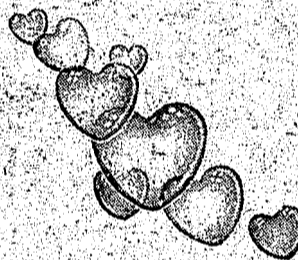

Then the market's green alley door opened. Out popped Rudy. The pigeons were cooing and Rudy was making this "hello, friends" clicking sound.

It made me sad.

Time to Love Me

Editor's note: Poet J. Johnson is a man with romance in his soul. His wife brought us his poem about love—and said he made copies of it and put them all over their Independence Township home so she'd be sure to find it. He's our pick for the perfect Valentine.

By J. Johnson

You pack a lunch and write a note
You wash the clothes and dust
You still have time to love me

You feed the cat and pet the dogs
You give them and us so much
You still take time to love me

You work all day, and then at night
You work while I relax
You still make time to love me

You balance the checkbook and pay the bills
You figure out our tax
You still find time to love me

You care for us when we are sick
You give us hope and love
You comfort us with strength
You must get from God above
Thank you for your time to love me

Possible day-off policy

Jim Sherman

Merle Whittaker either understands me, or he's been listening to some of our employees. He gave me some suggestions on what to say when a worker asks for a day off.

Merle says I should tell the employee there are 365 days per year available for work, and there are 52 weeks per year in which you already have two days off per week, leaving 261 available for work.

Then I should say, "Since you spend 16 hours each day away from work you have used up 170 days, leaving only 91 days available."

"You spend 30 minutes a day on coffee break, that accounts for 23 days each year, leaving only 68 days available."

"With a one hour lunch period each day, you have used up another 46 days, leaving only 22 days available for work."

"You normally spend two days per year on sick leave, this leaves you only 20 days available for work, and you were off for five holidays per year, so your available working time is down to 15 days.

"We generously give you 14 days vacation per year, which leaves only 1 day available for work, and I'll be darned if you're going to take that day off!"

Merle, I appreciate your bringing this to me, but I doubt if it will fly.

Another contributor this week is Bill Myers, former owner of the Lapeer County Press, and now a financial consultant in Florida.

He tells about a story in the Boca Raton paper of some dire predictions a half century out. One in particular, he said, is intriguing: By 2035, every hour of the day, one species would become extinct.

With that, Bill gave his 'hope' list for the first half day:

1. Mosquitos
2. Sand fleas
3. No see-ums

4. Flies
5. Little red ants
6. Big red ants
7. Crab-grass
8. Snail darters
9. Gung-ho environmentalists.

No reason to not include Nick Treinen's comment concerning county road commission reasoning this week.

The attorney said if you ask a road commissioner who owns a road, you'll likely be told the road department controls a 60-ft right-of-way.

And, if you ask the road commission to do anything to the road in question, you'll be told the property owner owns to the center of the road.

I want to thank the above contributors. Next week I may do Jottings myself.

Letters to editor

Zigmund Freed by Dan Ziegler

Capital punishment supporter

In 1983 there were 823 reported murders in Michigan and approximately 21,000 murders nationwide.

The mental anguish, pain and suffering of families who lost their loved ones in these senseless killings are incalculable. However, in Michigan the convicted murderer lives on to brag of his deeds while looking forward to the inevitable parole.

It is time that murderers receive a just punishment—a punishment that is commensurate with the crime. And in the case of first degree murder, capital punishment is the only punishment that fits the crime.

As a point of clarification, first degree murder is the deliberate, willful premeditated killing of another with malice. Second degree murder is the deliberate, willful and malicious killing of another, but without premeditation. Capital punishment does not apply to second degree murder.

Thirty-nine states have recognized capital punishment as the just punishment for committing first degree murder. And it's time that the citizens of Michigan work together to stop senseless killings by murderers who have no fear for their own lives.

If you agree that the penalty for first degree murder must be in proportion to the gravity of the offense, then join the Citizens for Capital Punishment in the second drive to reinstate capital punishment in Michigan.

Thanks for comments

I want to thank you (Jim's Jottings) for your recent comments regarding our Dinner Theatre Production Company. I'm just sorry I wasn't in the theatre that night to meet you.

Your article expressed very well our intentions and processes involved in each of our theatres. Somerset is now celebrating 10 years and the Hyatt is celebrating 2 1/2 years operation. Our plans call for a third location soon; as the business seems to mushroom for us.

Thank you again for your kind comments regarding the Dinner Theatres and for those comments pertaining to my WJR programs.

My boss now takes delight in quoting you as regards me being fresh "with only 2 hours of work each day." In my own defense, let me say: It takes a lot of preparation to appear casual.

Please let us know when you come again so that we can make plans to shake your hand.

'If it Fitz ...'

Mr. Patterson: This is to inform you about ...

Jim Fitzgerald

According to a newspaper report, Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, while giving a speech in Lapeer last month, said: "I don't read the Detroit Free Press because I would rather be uninformed than misinformed."

I couldn't believe it. It's true that Free Press editorial writers and columnists sometimes disagree with Patterson when he advocates capital punishment for welfare cheats who don't contribute to his political campaigns. And our news articles might sometimes reflect a political viewpoint opposed to Patterson's, especially those articles written after 1800.

But it's also true that the Free Press has generously allowed Patterson to contribute many pungent letters and guest columns to its opinion pages. And his name has been spelled correctly in so many hundreds of news stories — he was even a cover boy for the Sunday magazine — that the Free Press must shoulder some responsibility for making Patterson well known enough to be a viable candidate in every statewide election held during the past dozen years.

So could it be possible that Patterson never reads the Free Press even when he's the biggest news in it? I phoned and asked him.

Patterson conceded that, in his speeches favoring law and order, he often says: "I don't read the Detroit Free Press because I would rather be uninformed than misinformed." But he's just kidding, he said.

ACTUALLY, he does read the Free Press. The fib is a regular part of his act. Patterson holds up a Free Press clipping to make a point and then can't help telling his beguiled audience that the Free Press isn't reliable reading. Just for laughs.

Patterson was in Lapeer, 65 miles north of Detroit, to speak against the state's plan to build a prison there. I told him that seemed like an unusual stance for a man so dedicated to keeping criminals locked up forever. He explained that, first, prisons should be built in communities that want them, such as Ionia and Marquette. There are already prisons in those towns, and residents apparently realize they're not so awful, especially on the guards' payday.

Secondly, Patterson said, prisons should be built on property already owned by the state, to save the taxpayers' money.

That's strange. I lived in Lapeer for 25 years, and I, along with many other residents, always thought a prison would be welcome there. That's because there's been a state home for the mentally retarded there — a short walk from downtown — for 90 years, and residents long ago became convinced that the jobs and income it generated were more than worth the minimal danger of having less than "normal" people locked up nearby.

IN FACT, the state home population has dropped dramatically in recent years, as changes were made in the treatment of the mentally retarded, and many residents have worried about the city losing its largest employer. Now it is proposed that a prison be built on the state home property.

Lapeer sounds a lot like the type of prison site favored by Patterson, doesn't it?

But now some Lapeer residents are fighting the prison, and they invited Patterson to speak to them, perhaps because they knew how good he is at saying what his audience wants to hear. Patterson said no prison should be built in Lapeer, and he got a standing ovation.

I am tempted to say people should skip Patterson's speeches because it's better to be uninformed than stroked for votes.

But maybe he was just kidding.

The last semester is a busy time for seniors. There are a number of tasks to be completed before June rolls around, and with it graduation. Seniors are involved in many projects now.

Senior shirts have been ordered. These are white sweatshirts that have Clarkston and '85 on them. Every senior's name is also printed across the front. The shirts should be delivered in about six weeks.

Another important project underway is the senior trip to Daytona. Rooms at hotels in Daytona have been reserved for seniors over spring break. Bus transportation is being provided for those who want it.

In addition to the senior trip, a day at either Cedar Point or King's Island is being planned for late May.

This year's graduating class would like to present the school with a senior gift.

A special activities sign will be placed at the high school entrance on Waldon Road to inform people of the various school activities. The sign is expected to be in place when school resumes after spring break.

This year, the seniors plan to make graduation more special by having students design the program, giving every girl a flower and releasing balloons at the close of the ceremony.

A slide presentation of seniors will also be shown. This will later be used at class reunions.

By becoming involved and completing these projects, the last semester for the Class of 1985 promises to be a special one.

Susan Colwell, a senior at Clarkston High School, is a member of student government.

Nursing home gets board OK

By Carolyn Walker

The proposed Grovecrest nursing facility continues to move forward.

Township board members gave Paul and Frances Ver Lee their nod of approval in the form of an Economic Development Corporation (EDC) "resolution of inducement" at the Feb. 5 board meeting.

The resolution approves the site of the project and authorizes the Ver Lees to pursue financing through the township's EDC.

The EDC serves three purposes: to increase the tax base (by building taxable projects), put people to work, and bring services to the community (such as a nursing home), according to EDC chairman Frederick Ritter.

It also allows lending institutions to loan money for worthy projects at a "preferred" interest rate, said Martha Wheeler, a member of Independence Township EDC committee.

Projects such as the Grovecrest nursing facility would be cost prohibitive otherwise because of the current interest rates, Wheeler said.

The Ver Lees plan to finance the facility with bonds.

In addition, the EDC act helps create a better tax base by encouraging the development of facilities on empty land, Wheeler said.

At the recommendation of Supervisor Frank Ronk, the board asked local residents Charles Smalley and J. David Mick to serve on the EDC committee.

The EDC committee has nine regular members in addition to Smalley and Mick, who were chosen because of their proximity to the project.

EDC regulations encourage at least two members of the committee to live near the project or to be connected by having some medical knowledge.

Mick lives adjacent to the Ver Lee owned site on Clintonville, and Smalley lives on Sashabaw Road.

They will remain on the committee only for the duration of the Grovecrest project.

"I believe this project will be a real boost to the township," said Paul Ver Lee after the meeting. "There is a significant need."

The proposed Grovecrest facility will provide skilled nursing care to long-term patients, Ver Lee said.

Ver Lee has used the word "sputnik" to describe the spoke shaped, one-story building, which will house 120 beds, as well as a library, chapel, outdoor courts and nature walk.

The Ver Lees plan to begin construction in August 1985.

Auto parts store hangs in limbo over zoning

By Carolyn Walker

Their zoning change request was denied by the planning commission in August, so Rudy Mazza and Thomas Toteff appealed the decision to the township board.

They asked board members to consider rezoning 2.71 acres of their 10-acre parcel from C-2 (planned shopping center) to C-1 (local commercial zone) at the Feb. 5 meeting.

Board members tabled their decision until the Jan. 19 meeting after agreeing they should further investigate the planning commission's reasons for denial.

Toteff and Mazza plan to build a 5,000-square-foot auto parts store on property fronting Maybee Road near Sashabaw in the spring.

Planning commission members had cited the potential for "strip zoning" as their reason for denial, according to township planner Richard Carlisle. And township board members expressed similar concerns.

Strip zoning could result in several small stores with individual driveways on property currently zoned for one large shopping center, Carlisle said.

Trustee William Vandermark asked Toteff and Mazza to present detailed plans for the store and a proposal for how the remaining acreage would be used.

"Why not show us what you've got in mind," said Trustee William Vandermark. "You're asking for the whole shebang, and not telling us what you want to do with it. A bunch of chopped up little store fronts is not good development."

"Our intentions are not to chop up land," responded Toteff. "We intend to build a big store there. We're going to come in and do a good job."

The interaction between board members and the petitioners inspired Michael Clark, a member of the audience and a property owner in the vicinity of Sashabaw and Maybee, to address the issue.

"They can build in C-2 what they propose to build in C-1," he said, adding that he had attended the planning commission's August meeting.

Clark told board members he did not feel they were properly monitoring zoning rules.

"I don't want my property values reduced (because of improper monitoring)," he said.

Board members unanimously agreed to table the issue until the Feb. 19 meeting to further study the planning commission's recommendations.

SCAMP says thanks to walkers

Nearly half of the $18,000 raised in the 1984 Walk for SCAMP came from efforts of pupils at Clarkston High School and Clarkston Elementary School.

They were honored last week with the presentation of the traveling trophy to CHS and a plaque to Clarkston Elementary.

SCAMP is a five-week summer camp program for handicapped and learning disabled young persons.

In October, the walkers obtained monetary pledges and chose a three- or 10-mile route through Clarkston and Independence Township.

CHS teachers Carol Arend and Carole Hicks accepted the trophy on behalf of the 115 students and faculty members who raised $4,203.

SCAMP staff member and classroom aide Linda Irwin accepted the plaque recognizing the efforts of Clarkston Elementary pupils who raised $4,161.

Also recognized was the Howard, Diane and Suzanne Petter family, who raised nearly $600 in the 10-mile walk.

Donations from the Walk for SCAMP help defray costs of salaries, fees, supplies and transportation for the program held in the Clarkston area.

The camp serves residents of northern Oakland County by providing educational, therapeutic and recreational activities for youngsters unable to participate in conventional summer recreation programs.

Vegetarian cookery

Classes in vegetarian food preparation, demonstrating practical ways to decrease cholesterol and fat in the diet, begin Thursday, Feb. 28, in the Clarkston High School home economics room. Sponsored by the Youth for Better Living Club at Adelphian Academy of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church, the four-session course costs $5 and includes recipes, samples and nutritional information handouts. Instructor Kathy Webster, graduate nutritionist, plans to demonstrate food preparation and lecture on current nutritional information. The class meets Thursdays at 7 p.m. The theme for the first class "Protein: How Much Do We Need and Where Can We Obtain It?" For more information, call 627-2177 or 666-1597.

Wage decided

The wage for the new position of township recording secretary was established by the township board at the Jan. 5 meeting. The secretary will be paid $25 for two hours of work at board meetings plus $8 for each additional hour (or part thereof) spent at meetings. As it stands now, she will not be paid to transcribe the minutes, said Clerk Richard Holman, who was contacted after the meeting. At Holman's urging, board members at the Jan. 8 meeting agreed unanimously to hire a recording secretary for a three-month trial period. Holman told board members he had difficulty concentrating on issues as he took meeting minutes, and that processing the minutes required as much as 12 hours additional work. Holman will maintain ultimate responsibility for the minutes.

Wolves douse Dragons' fire

By Dan Vandenhemel

The high school basketball game between Clarkston and Lake Orion has always been a tough-fought contest. Both teams go at it hard for 48 minutes before a winner is decided.

But in Friday's event, the victor was apparent about 30 minutes early. The Wolves trounced the Dragons, 64-45, Feb. 8.

"This was the largest victory margin since I've been here," coach Dan Fife said. "Usually it's three or five points."

The Wolves found themselves behind most of the first quarter before taking control. By the four-minute mark of the second quarter, Clarkston had a 10-point lead and started to coast. The Wolves came around before the final buzzer for the 19-point victory.

The coasting is what caused a 30-minute meeting in the Wolves' locker room after the game. Coach Dan Fife wasn't very pleased with his team's performance.

"After the game, I looked at the clock and couldn't believe the margin of victory," he said. "We were up by 18 with about four minutes left, then they're 10 down with 1:41 left and at the foul line. We seemed to get nonchalant toward the end, just like the Rochester game."

Fife was commenting on the Feb. 5 game with Rochester High School where the Wolves led by 13 at halftime and by 10 going into the final quarter before winning, 68-66, in overtime.

The Dragons hurt themselves at the free-throw line. They made only 11 of 23, most in one-and-one bonus situations. The Wolves hit 18 of 24.

The victory moved the Wolves to 12-2 overall and 3-1 in the Greater Oakland Activities League. The Dragons fell to 8-7 and 3-2 in the league.

Ed Whitaker scored 21 points for a game high. Mike Walters and Dan Jokisch each added 11 points.

Fife cited the defense of guards Doug Colling and David Ladd as the turning point in the game. "Those little guys (Colling and Ladd) shut their guards down. They (Lake Orion) were still able to get inside and that hurt us. We're going to have to improve on the inside."

One thing that brought a smile to Fife's face was seeing Erik Kline back on the court. The senior shot maker has been out for three weeks with a stress fracture. With limited playing time against the Dragons, he came up with eight points.

Wolve wrestlers moving up

By Dan Vandenhemel

Wolves' wrestling coach Greg Gwisdalla is already looking into the future.

The Clarkston High School team placed third in the Greater Oakland Activities League Meet and Gwisdalla sees better things ahead.

"This was better than last year and we've got some young guys on the team," he said. "With all the sophomores we've got and a couple of good wrestlers from the junior high teams, we're going to be all right the next couple of years."

At the league meet, the third-place finish matched last year's standing, but the Wolves collected 131.5 points as compared to 109 last season.

Marc Morales took top honors in the 119-pound weight class. That gave him an All-league selection and the wrestler of the week, voted on by the team.

The Wolves had a number of second-place finishes at the meet: Jeff Funck at 105, Rocky Tucker at 112, Brent Gwisdalla at 126 and Ken Stuk at 155. Placing third were Jack Basham at 145 and Jerry Alley at 198.

"We had a lot of guys in the finals and with a couple more wins, we could have been a whole lot higher," said the coach.

Lake Orion won the meet with 228.5 points. Pontiac Northern was second with 167 followed by Clarkston at 131.5, Waterford Kettering with 110 and Waterford Mott with 28 points.

"I thought we had a real good shot at second. We don't have that one dominant wrestler that we can count on to win," said Gwisdalla. "We don't have the depth but we've got 17 sophomores still on the team. Last year they only had three."

With only the state tournament left on the schedule, the Wolves have a few wrestlers with solid won-loss records.

Jack Basham leads with 25-13, and Brent Gwisdalla stands at 24-11. At 21-16, Ken Stuk also has over 20 victories this year. Morales is moving in on that mark with an 18-7 record, and so is Rob Lund at 15-12.

Wolverines reverse results

By Dan Vandenhemel

It was over in a hurry.

The Clarkston Wolverines won three and tied two of the first six matches Feb. 7 before the Sashabaw Cougars notched a mat victory. And when the meet was done, the Wolverines posted a 48-24 triumph.

This was the second meeting of the two junior high schools. The first time, Sashabaw had the honor of winning.

"I think our kids have improved tremendously since then," said Clarkston coach Dick Moscovic. "They're young and have come a long way. They were really up for Sashabaw."

Being mentally ready for the meet helped the Wolverines. After voiding the first weight class at 76 pounds, they got victories from Dennis Miller at 84 pounds, John Terpstra at 91 and Chris Luzi at 107. Jason Valenzuela at 98 pounds tied Jerry Lawrence and Scott Stuk at 112 tied Dan McDermott.

After the Cougars' Tom Benedict pinned his opponent at 119 pounds, the Wolverines won the next three. Eric Mackson at 126, Dean Moscovic at 132 and Jason Campbell at 138 all recorded pins.

Brian Faucett of Sashabaw won the 145-pound division with a pin, followed by two voids by the Cougars and a Wolverine win by John Mahler in the 167 class. Cougar heavyweight Jeff McDonald ended the meet with a pin.

"We lost the first time, and I think we've shown a lot," Moscovic said. "We put in a lot of hard work and it seems to have paid off."

A cheerleader doesn't like what she sees during this wrestling match between Clarkston

Junior High's John Terpstra and Sashabaw's David London. Terpstra eventually wins the match as the Wolverines triumph in the meet over their cross-town rivals, 48-24.

Family skiers ready for regional races

By Dan Vandenhemel

Downhill skiing is a sport for the whole family, just ask the MacAlpine clan. Doug, Karen and their children Amy and Doug

Jr. raced in The Equitable Family Ski Challenge at the Pine Knob Ski Resort during January. Not only did they race, but the Independence Township family won three classes and advanced to the regionals Feb. 16 at Mt. LaCrosse, Wis. This is the ninth year Equitable has sponsored the event teaming families together. Their best combined total of three races are pitted against others in the class. The winners advance to the regionals where the top finishers receive an all-expense-paid trip to Vail, Colo., for the finals.

The MacAlpines won in the husband-wife, mother-daughter and father-daughter divisions. They placed third in mother-son.

"We just did it to have fun," Doug Sr. said. "In very few sports can you compete by yourself and with your family."

The fact that 9-year-old Amy, 8-year-old Doug and 37-year-old Karen have very little racing experience with downhill gates made their results that much more surprising.

"I haven't raced in 25 years," Doug said. "I've enjoyed skiing for 38 years because Pine Knob has always been close."

"We went to Colorado last year for a vacation and that's where the kids got interested," Karen said. "That was the first time they raced. We were just doing it for fun."

Karen and Doug MacAlpine and their children Doug Jr. and Amy are armed and ready for the slopes at Mt. LaCrosse, Wis., and the regionals of the Equitable Family Ski Challenge.

Fun in the sun for Tiger fans

By Dan Vandenhemel

Rick Huttenlocher played golf and Darrell Cooper gave out autographed baseballs.

It was fun in the sun for the two Independence Township residents as they spent a week with the 1968 Detroit Tigers at Fantasy Camp II.

Four days of workouts and batting practice led up to a doubleheader on Saturday against the retired World Champions.

But not all the time was spent on the baseball diamond. Morning workouts were followed by lounging around the pool or talking with the Tigers.

Huttenlocher, given the trip by his wife for Christmas, found enough time to play 72 holes of golf.

"We just had a super time down there," Huttenlocher said. "The Tigers were just super to us. We listened to their tall tales. They were always available to talk to us."

Part of the Fantasy Camp was play the part of a major leaguer. Cooper thought autographs are part of it and took 24 baseballs to Lakeland, signed them and tossed them into the crowd of about 2,500 on Saturday.

at the camp were Willie Horton, John Hiller, Jim Price, Pat Dobson, Hank Aguirre, Dick Tracewski, Jim Northrup, Don Wert, Dick McAuliffe and Mickey Stanley.

The 78 campers, from all walks of life, sizes and ages, were split into two teams for the doubleheader. Cooper's team lost 13-5 and Huttenlocher's team lost 15-5.

Both managed to collect a base hit in their only at-bats, Cooper's came off Pat Dobson and was a shot down the third-base line. Huttenlocher lined a shot up the middle off John Hiller.

The games were supposed to be fun. And they were, until Cooper uncorked a wild pitch that hit Jim Price.

"My fast ball was clocked at 38 miles per hour and it hit Price. He charged the mound and I tackled him," Cooper said. "It was all in fun and the local paper ran a picture of it the next day. I brought home a couple extra copies."

Darrell Cooper looks at home in his Detroit Tiger uniform. He and Rick Huttenlocher attended the Fantasy Camp in Lakeland, Fla., to play baseball against the 1968 Tigers.

"We just had a super time down there. The Tigers were just super to us."

—Rick Huttenlocher

"Between games a little kid came up to me and asked for my autograph," said a smiling Cooper. "I looked at the piece of paper and he had Al Kaline and Gates Brown names on it. I thought I'd really screw up this kid's autograph book if I signed it. But he probably didn't know who he had on it anyway."

Along with Kaline and Brown, other 1968 Tigers

Maxidopholis

Maxidopholis is a good bacteria like acidopholis only much more potent. Maxidopholis is guaranteed 2.5 billion organisms (good bacterias) per gram. It is good for a variety of problems such as infections, diarrhea, digestive disorders, heartburn, gas, constipation, cancer, well being, etc. Maxidopholis actually replaces good bacteria in your body that has been destroyed when taking antibiotics. The antibiotics kill the good & bad bacteria so it is good to replace the good bacteria to help your body fight the infection.

What maxidopholis does is replaces the proper bacteria to your digestive tract that the antibiotics & hormones kill that is found in meat products, eggs, milk, cheeses. These antibiotics & hormones cause an imbalance to your intestinal flora causing candida albicans, which is a yeast (like a fungus) that messes up your digestive process. Also reduces your ability to break down protein, calcium, and your ability to produce enzymes, it also impairs B Vitamin absorption.

Candida albicans feed on high carbohydrate foods so eating alot of high carbed foods would make this yeast worse.

Maxidopholis comes in a powder form - suggested usage 1/4 teaspoon daily on an empty stomach.

CJHS hosts mat event

Junior High wrestling teams are going to pack the Clarkston High School gym this Friday for the first Clarkston Junior High Wrestling Tournament.

Besides the host school, Sashabaw Junior High will be there. Invitations were sent out to nine schools in the area. Starting time is 5 p.m.

Clarkston coach Dick Moscovic said the idea for the tournament is to give the teams an event to wrap up the season.

Snowy softball

Softball was never intended to be a mid-winter sport, but that doesn't matter to the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department.

The fourth annual Slip and Slide Softball Classic is set for March 9 at the Spring Lake Country Club golf course on Maybee Road.

Last year, the event was canceled due to good weather.

The cost is $60 a team with a March 4 registration deadline. The tournament is limited to 30 teams. No team roster is required.

For more information, telephone the parks and recreation department at 625-8223.

JV spikers place third in own tourney

By Dan Vandenhemel

Over 14 hours of volleyball kept the electricity burning at Clarkston High School as the Junior Varsity Wolves hosted their annual tournament.

The Wolves finished third out of the 12 teams at the event Feb. 9. They lost in the semifinals to Lansing Waverly, 15-7, 6-15, 11-15.

In the last game with Waverly, Clarkston trailed, 12-0, before getting started.

"I really can't tell you what happened in that game," said coach Gordy Richardson. "We just couldn't get going. Truthfully, when we started to come back, we were only a couple of serves away of keeping that momentum going but just lost it."

The serving hurt the team the most, said Richardson, and the Waverly match typified the whole tournament.

"We were inconsistent all day. Against Waverly we played well the first game, struggled in the second, and just didn't get our act together in the third game," he said. "We were up and down, never playing extremely well or really, really bad."

"At some point everyone played well or played badly. Missy O'Dell was on the court most of the day and did pretty well, so did Maggie Gdula and Gina Houck."

The 14-hour day was the result of a couple extra teams at the tournament. The same number are scheduled for the varsity tournament, Feb. 16. Usually 10 teams compete instead of 14.

The date this year was switched because of winter break at Clarkston High School, so many teams didn't know if they could make it when contacted last year.

"We sent out invitations to 14 schools," Richardson said. "We're not sure if it's too many teams or too long to play. I like to let the kids get as much playing time as possible. We're going to kick the idea around for a while."

Up My Alley

Winter blahs

Dan Vandenhemel

The Seer

Found in the Clarkston News mailslot Monday morning.

Seer here. OK. OK. I know how great I am. Simple applause will suffice. That almost perfect percentage of mine keeps going up.

Since showing up during the football season, the all-mighty Seer is a nifty 11-2. Not bad but it could be better, and after this week I'll have yet another plus notch. You know, sometimes it's almost boring being right all the time. But with Kettering next, I'll be right again.

Clarkston at Waterford Kettering, (Feb. 15): Clarkston is 3-1 in the league and 12-2 overall. Kettering is 1-5 and 3-12. The Wolves are again at full-strength with Erik Kline's return. No need to say more—except even at half-strength, the Wolves would handle the Captains. Clarkston by 15.

Ever get a case of the blahs?
I mean a REAL bad case.

Like when you get up in the morning and the floor is uncomfortable; or when you open the refrigerator for lunch and the only things that are appetizing are the plastic fruit magnets on the door.

It's not easy to get through one of those days. Just kind of muddle through it, not get in anyone's way and above all, don't do anything.

One of my days off last week was like that. Being a college student and working full time, I have to organize my time off for homework. No such luck this day.

With tests coming up and homework due, I was going to chain myself in my room all day.

Weeeellll, after a couple of hours of work and a big lunch, I started to get a closer look at the textbooks, real close. Ancient Chinese history doesn't exactly stimulate the mind.

But being the good student I pretend to be, I tried to get some work done.

After two phone calls had interrupted my intense studying, I finally gave up around 4 p.m. To the couch I went to glance at the newspaper; seconds later I was staring at the inside of my eyelids.

That did it; I was done for the day. I became a couch potato the rest of the evening. After dinner, it was back to the couch for more studying.

Later in the evening I moved to the rocker. The movie on the tube made me laugh, but it didn't stimulate me to do any homework.

I even tried some instant cures. A glass of orange juice didn't do it, neither did the candy bar. Exercising just made me more tired and reading yet another Ziggy comic strip book didn't either.

I wish I knew what causes the blahs. Maybe it's the weather, maybe it's the homework, maybe it's both or something different.

I'm just glad it lasts only one day.

Groups meet Toma goal

Thanks to community support, Clarkston Area Youth Assistance and the Chemical People of Clarkston have passed their goal of raising $6,000 for David Toma's visit, said Gail Winship of the Toma task force.

The money raised includes $1,000 from federal revenue sharing donated by Independence Township, $500 from the Clarkston school district and $300 from the sale of Big Macs at the two Independence Township McDonald's.

Many private citizens also donated money.

Substance abuse speaker David Toma is asking payment of $6,000 plus expenses of around $1,000 for lodging, meals during his two-day stay and air fare, she said.

Money collected over that amount is to be used for follow-up programs to fight substance abuse.

Toma will address ninth through 12th-grade students and their parents on the pitfalls of substance abuse during meetings scheduled Feb. 19 and 20.

Free tickets for the Feb. 20 evening talk for parents are available at Clarkston High School, 6595 Middle Lake Rd., and the Independence Township Library, 6495 Clarkston Rd.

When the bug bites

Monica Miles

People have a time in their lives when they get the organization bug.

It's like spring fever, only different.

Just today I had an urge to clean my bedroom, my desk, my drawers, and even my closet. Then after summing up how much work that would take, I had second thoughts about the whole thing.

That's the difference between the bug and the fever. The bug doesn't stick around as long as the fever.

People who catch the bug would rather clean house mentally than physically. In other words, they would rather think about cleaning house than actually doing it.

The bug hits more than the fever, but the fever hits harder and stays longer.

I myself have only caught spring fever a couple of times, but I've had the bug several times a year.

Occasionally the bug hits at odd moments, such as in late afternoon. By evening the cleaning is halfway done, and you plan to finish the job in the morning.

But when morning rolls around the bug is gone. That's the worst kind of bug, especially if you clean the way I do.

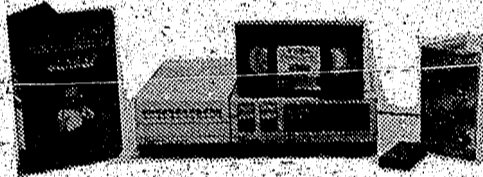

I try to drop little hints, for my mom, as to when I expect to be done cleaning my room. Such as, "If I'm not back in a week, don't bother looking for me, I'll still be cleaning my room."

Monica Miles, a ninth-grader at Sashabaw Junior High School, is working with The Clarkston News this school year as part of the mentorship program.

William Lucas comes to Clarkston

By Carolyn Walker

Looking like a "who's who" of north Oakland County, approximately 50 area community leaders and Republican Party supporters turned out in the cold Friday morning to hear man-of-the-hour William Lucas express his thoughts on the future.

Lucas, a Democrat who is considered a gubernatorial hopeful by many, was the breakfast guest of State Rep. Mat Dunaskiss (R-Lake Orion) at The Nickelodeon restaurant in Independence Township.

Lucas mingled with such well-wishers as Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk, School Superintendent Milford Mason and businessman Lewis Wint before taking the floor to give a speech on the "expectations of excellence."

Since the onset of his term as Wayne County Executive, Lucas, 57, has accomplished much including substantially lowering the county deficit, said Dunaskiss as he introduced Lucas to the crowd.

"Wayne County was hopelessly out of control with debts and unemployment," he said. "He took firm control of the county."

"What's his next mission impossible?" asked Dunaskiss, alluding to rumors that Lucas might switch to the Republican Party for the 1986 governor's race.

"I don't know what to do when people say switch...turn on the lights?" responded Lucas with a laugh.

During a 15-minute speech on his rise to power Lucas said he was accused of being, "anti-poor, anti-black, anti-labor and anti-city" when he assumed his office in January 1983.

Wayne County was $330 million in debt at that time, he said, adding he was able to help cut the deficit and reduce unemployment by 20 percent.

"There was no cohesiveness," said Lucas.

Lucas credited several members of his team, including former Independence Township resident Eric Reickel (formerly manager of the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department) for help in improving conditions in Wayne County.

Reickel left his post with Oakland County to assume the task of developing parks and recreation for Wayne County.

Lucas explained his reasoning for surrounding himself with competent employees.

"One of the things I like is practicality," he said. "You must challenge the right people."

People too often accept the wrong things because they think nothing can be done about them, he said.

"More and more people are looking to better themselves. There is a spirit of optimism," he added.

After his speech Lucas took questions from the audience.

Bernie Brown of White Lake Township hit him with the question that's on everybody's mind, "Are you ready to do the same (good work) for the state?"

"Of course I'm prepared," responded Lucas. "Common sense dictates that I explore all possibilities."

Personal and professional experiences helped pave the way, he said.

Lucas served as Wayne County Sheriff for 14 years and is the father of six children, three of whom are physicians, he said.

He briefly addressed the issues of crime and economic development before encouraging the attentive crowd to support the politicians of their choice.

"People will live up to your expectations," he said.

William Lucas turns on the charm for a bevy of enthusiastic supporters at the recent Mat Dunaskiss Breakfast Club breakfast at the Nickelodeon restaurant.

Cookery fire was deliberate

The Jan. 24 fire in a storeroom of the former Cookery restaurant in the Clarkston Mills Mall was caused by an arsonist using combustible materials, according to Sgt. David Pement of the Oakland County Sheriff's Arson Division.

"(It) looked like they did it with cardboard and papers," Pement said, adding they do not have a suspect in custody.

Confined to a storeroom, the fire did $500 in building damages and $2,000 damages to contents, according to acting chief Dale Bailey of the Independence Township Fire Department.

The Michigan Arson Control Commission is offering a $2,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the person or persons responsible for the fire, Pement said.

Anyone with information should call 858-4960.

Modesitt wins popularity contest

Teacher tops with CHS students

By Dan Vandenhemel

Jan Modesitt doesn't think she is any different from the other teachers at Clarkston High School, but the students sure do.

The math teacher was voted Teacher of the Semester by the CHS National Honor Society. The vote is a popularity ballot that garnered about 350 voters.

Honor society president Wendy Learnmont said they switched the award from Teacher of the Month to once a semester to give it more prestige.

"She's really willing to help the students in her classes and she's a fair tester," the senior said. "We gave her a framed certificate and a $30 gift certificate from the Clarkston Cafe.

Modesitt has taught at Clarkston High School for 20 years. It was her first job after graduating from Lawrence University in Appleton, Wis.

Modesitt, 42, said she's the same as every other teacher in the school.

"I'm not doing anything different than the other teachers, at least from my standpoint," she said. "I think I let the students know I'm human and that I enjoy teaching. I respect them, and I feel that helps. I'm not an ogre but have a firm hand."

The Snowapple Drive, Independence Township, resident also said the students make the teacher. Her classes of algebra, trigonometry and geometry are elective courses.

"My students are there because they want to be. I think that helps," she said. "Good kids make the teacher look good. But today there are more things pulling at the students like sports and jobs. They should have motivation to do well. I get positive feedback from them and it works for me."

Her spare time is spent outside in the summer with golf and sailing, if she can find a boat. During the school year, Modesitt spends at least an extra hour through the week and part of Sundays going over papers.

"Some teachers can get done with grading the papers by the end of the day, but I can't leave the job here," she said.

The fact that she's been in the same school for 20 years has never bothered Modesitt.

"I don't have teacher burnout, which happens," she said. "I think the students have a lot to do with that. I still enjoy coming to work—but I'm not a morning person."

In the CHS library, teacher Jan Modesitt talks about the school's toga dance later that night

Honors

Two Clarkston High School graduates received the William J. Branstrom Award for outstanding academic achievement during their first semesters at the University of Michigan-Flint.

The freshmen's grade point averages place them in the top 5 percent of their class.

Nell Nelson resides on Green Haven Drive, Independence Township.

Steven Smith resides on Andersonville Road, Springfield Township.

Paul Biondi is on the dean's list at Oakland University, Rochester, for the fall semester.

A junior majoring in journalism and minoring in chemistry and computer science, he also writes sports articles for the Oakland Sail, the university newspaper, and works in the Security Group at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, Pontiac.

His parents are Homer and Violet Biondi of Cramlane Drive, Independence Township.

Recipe file

Citrus sweet

By Lorna Bickerstaff

Janet Trarop sent in the recipe for Fresh Orange Meringue Pie. She says the pie is delicious, different and very rich.

FRESH ORANGE MERINGUE PIE

1 1/2 cups sugar
1/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons fresh grated orange peel
3 cups fresh-squeezed orange juice
4 egg yolks, well beaten
1/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons fresh squeezed lemon juice
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
Meringue

1 baked 9-inch pastry shell

Method for filling: Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt together, using a wire whisk. Still using whisk, gradually blend in orange and lemon juice until smooth. Add beaten egg yolks, blending thoroughly. Add butter or margarine. Gradually bring mixture to full boil, stirring gently and constantly with spatula over medium to high heat. Reduce heat slightly as mixture begins to thicken. Boil slowly for 1 minute. Remove from heat and stir in grated orange peel. Pour hot filling into baked pastry shell.

Keep the recipe file growing! Share your favorites by sending them to: Lorna Bickerstaff, in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016; or stop by the office. We're open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. (625-3370)

Most awards ever for CHS voices

Students in the Clarkston High School music department put their voices to the test Feb. 2 and came out with more awards than ever before.

At the District No. 4, MSVA District Festival at Andover High School in Bloomfield Hills, the students participated in 25 events, the most that have ever participated through the music department, said CHS music department director Grayce Warren.

All 25 events were prepared by the students outside their regular class time.

Their 11 I-Ratings and 11 II-Ratings represent the best results for the CHS music program in vocal music, and this is the eighth time in 10 years that the Madrigal Singers have received a I Rating.

All performers with I Ratings go on to the state level of competition on March 30 at the University of Michigan-Flint Campus.

Serving as accompanists for the day's events were students Inger Nelson, Steve Murphy and Margaret McInnis and parent Judy White.

A list of the participants and their ratings follows:

II Rating in solos: sophomore Jennifer Kuzma, senior Kim May, senior Margaret McInnis, senior Inger Nelson, senior Sonja Ritter, senior Steve Sample, senior Shawn Smith, junior Ingrid Vaara and senior Kevin White.

II Rating in duet: sophomore Amy Travis/senior Amy Zeleznik.

II Rating in treble quartet: Wendy Jones, Carrie Roselli, Amy Travis and Amy Zeleznik.

III Rating in solos: senior Barry Collins and junior Julie Pescor.

III Rating in duet: senior Margaret McInnis/junior Julie Pescor.

At college

Billee Hampshire has returned to Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, following completion of her fall semester at Disney World, Florida, in the Magic Kingdom College Program.

While there, she worked as a cashier at Mickey's Mart in Tomorrow Land, MKCPs, as they're called, attend 11 seminars pertaining to every phase of Disney World's operation.

For her college credits, she was required to write a term paper for each course taken.

Billee had the added thrill of being in Disney World's Christmas Parade, which was televised nationally, to American Armed Forces overseas and in Disney World's 1984 Christmas Spectacular.

FLORIDA BOUND: The Clarkston Elias Brothers Restaurant was the scene of much excitement Feb. 3 as Clarkston area residents Steve and Pam Poniatowski won round-trip airline tickets for two to Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and hotel accommodations at a Marriott Hotel. The "Taste of Florida" promotion continues during February at selected Elias Brothers Home of the Big Boy Restaurants throughout Michigan. Pictured, from left, are restaurant manager Mike Bogle, Clarkston Village President Carol Eberhardt, the Poniatowskis, Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk and restaurant manager Don Scully.

Clarkston High School scholars

The following Clarkston High School students have compiled a straight-A average for the first semester of the 1984-85 school year.

"They have accomplished what very few have been able to do, as we had many students that just missed all A's due to one or two B-pluses," said Principal Dom Mauti.

Charity memorial prompted by 2 tragedies

The Kim and Todd Block Memorial planned Saturday, March 12, at the Keatington Racquet Club was prompted by two occurrences.

After searching for a worthwhile charity, Michael Block had decided to offer his services to help Haven of Pontiac, the only Oakland County facility that offers help and refuge for physically and sexually abused women and children.

Then Kim, his 15-year-old daughter from his first marriage, was killed in a pedestrian-automobile accident in Arizona on Oct. 31, 1984.

Many of Block's acquaintances didn't learn of his daughter's death until later, and many hadn't heard that Block and his wife Lorraine's 3-day-old son, Todd, had died.

"Many people said they wanted to do something, so they said, 'Why don't you have a memorial fund raiser?'" said Block, who has a financial planning business in Lake Orion and is a resident of Independence Township.

He's pleased about the opportunity to help Haven, and said it's appropriate to the memory of his children.

"It wasn't easy (to select a charity)," he said. "I wanted to focus on just children. The more professional people I talked to, everyone recommended Haven. They take care of both children and mothers, so obviously if you help mothers, you help children."

Donations for the Kim and Todd Block Memorial are $15 single and $25 double for an evening of racquetball, volleyball, basketball, whirlpools, dancing, and refreshments.

The Keatington Racquet Club, 1755 Waldon, Lake Orion, has donated use of the building March 2 from 7:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. for the cause.

Tax-deductible checks payable to Haven will be accepted at the door, or they can be mailed to Mike and Lorraine Block, 4421 Dora Lane, Pontiac, MI 48055.

For more information, call 391-1370, 391-0002 or the racquet club at 391-3334.

Sign up for CPR class

CPR classes are offered the third and fourth Thursdays of every month from 6:30-9:30 p.m. at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

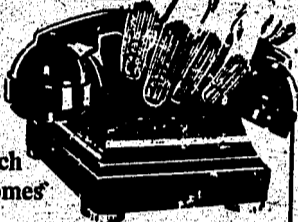

Class size is limited and pre-registration is required. To register, call St. Joseph Mercy's department of outreach at 858-3155.

If it's a major fire or a minor oddity, we want a call at The Clarkston News drink D.O. 151 proof. How can I stop?

Joe

Dear Joe:

Don't take another drink! Take it one step at a time and one day at a time.

You can go to AA for support and help, or now there is a new group in Clarkston called the "Youth Peer Connection" (look in this paper for meeting place and time). This group is strictly teens helping teens. It is anonymous!

Dear Cat Paw:

If a girl took drugs a couple of months before she became pregnant, could it hurt her baby?

Tina

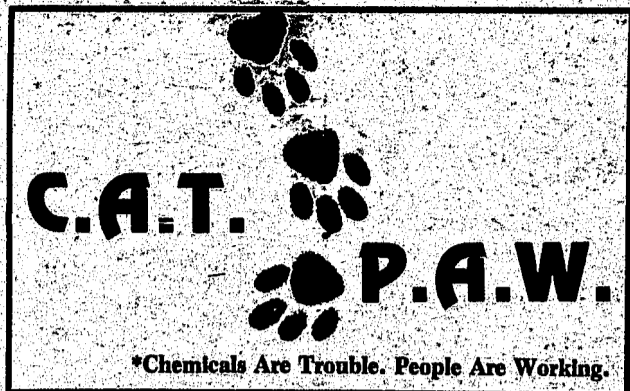

Dear Tina:

It is difficult for me to give you a definite answer since I don't know which drugs were taken, the length of time drugs were used, or the physical condition of the user.

See your doctor immediately and tell him or her all. Good luck!

C.A.T. P.A.W. author Jeanette Sanders, a Springfield Township resident, is a member of the Chemical People of Clarkston, a group devoted to the prevention of drug and alcohol abuse among the community's young people.

To submit questions about drugs, including alcohol, write to C.A.T. P.A.W., in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Dear Cat Paw:

My friend drinks and smokes too much pot. What should I do?

Stony

Dear Stony:

There are several options open to you. You can call the Teen Helpline at 1-800-552-1183 to get free help information. You could also join Al-Anon and

Child protection

The prevention of child molestation is the topic of a general membership meeting of the Bailey Lake Elementary School PTO on Monday, Feb. 18.

Jane Flarity and Betty Clark of Haven are the guest speakers. The program is to be presented first to the parents and then to the children of Bailey Lake.

It teaches children through doll-skits, a film and discussion that they have a right to say no to adults or people in authority, the importance of getting away and the importance of telling someone.

This program is scheduled for presentation to the district principals on Feb. 19 with the hope of training and implementing a volunteer in the Clarkston area for future presentations to the children.

Haven is a non-profit organization in Pontiac for the victims of domestic violence.

For more information, call Bailey Lake at 625-2812.

Church TV shows

Religious programs sponsored by Independence Township's Trinity Lutheran Church air each week-day on cable TV Channel 11 at 7 p.m.

Through Feb. 15—"Project Compassion" explores fear, guilt and aging. A young woman panics when she confronts a woman whose personality changes dramatically as the result of a stroke.

Feb. 18-22—"A Gift of Sight" explores love and miracles. A young man, blind from birth, is convinced he must give up the woman he loves when she has her sight restored through a miracle.

The programs are introduced and concluded by the Rev. Michael Clafehn, pastor of the Sashabaw Road church.

learn how to handle alcoholism.

Most of all, it sounds like your friend could use a straight friend—be one!

Dear Cat Paw:

How many drinks can you have per evening without getting drunk?

Sue

Dear Sue:

I have answered this before but will again. It depends on the level of alcohol in your blood.

There are variables which affect the impact of alcohol. These include the size of the drinker. A 100-pound drinker will have a higher blood-alcohol level than a 180-pound drinker drinking the same amount of alcohol in a given period of time.

If you are tired or tense, or taking medication, even a cold pill, one drink may hit you surprisingly hard. Even your mood can affect the effect of alcohol on you.

The human body burns alcohol at a fairly constant rate of about 0.015 percent per hour. It can destroy about three-quarters ounce of whiskey, or a little more than a pint of beer, in an hour.

Thus, the present alcohol concentration in the blood will depend not only on how much has been consumed, but on how rapidly it was consumed, and how long ago it was consumed.

Dear Cat Paw:

I don't drink all the time. When I drink I usually

Computer match-a-dance

By Kathy Greenfield

No need to whisper, "Save a dance for me." No need to worry if that certain mysterious someone will share common interests.

For 135 adventuresome Sashabaw Junior High School students, all that is being taken care of by a computer—at least for one spin around the gymnasium floor.

The computer twist for the school's Feb. 15 Valentine's Day dance dubbed "The Love Match" was decided after student government adviser Chris Krueger received a pamphlet offering the service.

"When we saw the thing, we thought it would be cute and we thought we could do something different with the dance, and then we thought for Valentine's Day..." said ninth-grader Angela DeLaRosa, student government president.

The idea generated more talk than action.

Only about one-third of the school's 856 students took advantage of the $1.50 ticket bargain rate—a savings of 50 cents—if they participated.

A few more girls than boys signed up, and the majority of participants were seventh-graders.

"It's not as good as we thought it would be," Angela said.

But it has been interesting.

Much laughter accompanied the filling out of computer questionnaires as the students tackled 30 multiple choice questions including "Where would you rather live? A beach in Florida, the Colorado mountains or New York City" and "Which kind of restaurant do you prefer? Fast and greasy, cosy and intimate, or fine and fancy."

For $1-a-person fee, the computer firm is to provide 10 possible matches for each. From there it will be determined, probably by members of student government, who gets that one dance with whom.

"A lot of them were worried about which one they're going to be matched up with," said Angela. "Some people think it will be fun and some think it will be funny."

Regardless, it will be very 1980s.
