Maybee Road prison? Maybe

Local site on list of 9

By Carolyn Walker

A parcel of over 30 acres owned by the Clarkston School District off Maybee Road is being considered as a potential prison site by the state.

The Maybee Road property was narrowed from three Independence-Springfield sites and one Clarkston Village site, according to Dorothy Webb of the Region Prison Site Selection Committee.

It is one of nine publicly owned sites being considered throughout Oakland County.

According to Webb, Oakland County has been asked by the state to help locate potential locations for a 550-bed, maximum to minimum security facility within the county.

The projected date of occupancy is 1988.

The state has established 12 guidelines to govern their selection, she said. Among them are:

- •A location within one-half-hour of the populaion centers being served.
  - •A location with no excess air pollution.

•A location with access to utilities.

- •Proximity to a hospital.
- •Proximity to fire protection.
- •A location where staff would have a short distance to drive to and from work.

Webb said she expects the county commission to make the final site recommendation on May 7.

"The aim of the state is to have the prisoners go back into the community," she said. "It is something we have to have. We want to make a fair decision."

Clarkston schools' Superintendent Milford Mason and Clarkston Village President Carol Eberhardt received letters from Webb seeking an in

Singing the anthem

The Clarkston High School Madrigal Singers will appear on the nationally televised Detroit Tiger vs. Chicago baseball game Sunday at 1:30 p.m.

The 16-member singing troupe will be performing the national anthem at Tiger Stadium for the fourth year in a row, according to Grayce Warren, director of vocal music at Clarkston High School.

"I'm very pleased in the fact they've been invited back so many years in a row," said Warren. "Normally they only invite them once. This is quite nice. I think it speaks well of the students."

Coma victim rebounds with all A's

By Dan Vandenhemel

A little more than 19 months ago, Jim Bohl lapsed into a coma after a soccer injury. A month later he awoke and began rehabilition.

Earlier this month, his report card from Clarkston High School contained only one kind of mark—"A." In all his seven classes, he received the top grade.

Straight A's for Jim.

"He's worked very hard for those grades, he's proud of making straight A's. We're proud of him," said his mother, Rosalie Bohl. "He had to take all seven classes to graduate with his class."

The injury happened Sept. 22, 1983, while Jim was playing on the CHS junior varsity soccer team. He and a player from Birmingham Brother Rice went up to head the ball and collided. The opposing player wasn't hurt but Jim required emergency surgery about five hours later to remove a blood clot from his brain.

The coma was drug-induced by doctors so Jim's brain wouldn't swell and cause more complications.

Rehabilitation was needed for normal muscle movement as well as speech and memory.

"He's probably about 95 percent of what he used to be," Mrs. Bohl said. "He still can't run fast, but he can jog and plays backyard basketball with his brother Tommy. He tires quickly too. That's because he was on a breath ventilator and has a smaller lung capacity."

After graduation, Jim, 17, plans to attend Oakland Community College and then Walsh Business College. His career goal is to become a certified public accountant or a business manager.

"He's working for Dan Fife at Spring Lake Country Club as a cart boy and asked if he could help with the payroll," Rosalie said. "Mr. Fife said he'd do what he can to help out. Jimmy just wants some experience. He'll work 40 hours after he graduates."

Jim's an avid golfer and is playing two or three times a week. His scores are inching back down to the low 40s. That's what he averaged before the injury.

Returning to school after the accident bothered Jim at first but he adjusted, his mother said.

"He use to feel bad about not being to keep up walking with other students," she said. "But now he doesn't feel different at all. All the kids have been very supportive. People who see me at the store or bank still ask me how Jimmy's doing. We're really thankful for all the support. It's like a fairy tale with a happy ending."

ventory of publicly owned, unused areas during the middle of April.

At that time a total of four local locations were being considered. They included school-owned land at the corner of Holcomb and Bridge Lake roads in Springfield Township; school-owned land at the corner of Rattalee Lake and Reese roads, Independence Township; the Maybee Road site; and property owned by the Village of Clarkston on White Lake Road near Depot Park.

According to Mason, Dr. James O'Neill has expressed interest in the Maybee Road site for the building of his proposed senior citizen complex.

During a phone interview, O'Neill said he has the first option on the site and is still planning to purchase it.

Mason said he thought the likelihood of a facility being built in Independence Township was remote,

Voices raised over dealer's plans

By Carolyn Walker

A bid by Randy Hosler to relocate his car dealership from M-15 to Dixie Highway resulted in a shouting match at the Independence Township Planning Commission meeting April 25.

Hosler, who had applied for conceptual site plan approval, was told his proposal would be tabled until he modified the look of the dealership building and improved the landscaping, which commissioner Holly Stephens termed "a sea of cars."

Thanks to $53,000 windfall

May spring cleanup OK'd

An unexpected windfall of $53,270 to Independence Township means that a spring cleanup will be available to residents this month.

According to Clerk Richard Holman, the money has been made available to the township from the state through a revised "relative tax effort" (RTE).

A RTE occurs when the State of Michigan rebates money to municipalities from state collections of income tax, sales tax and other funds, Holman

Ironically, communities which have higher millage rates receive larger rebates from the state, he said, adding "There is an incentive there to tax."

The $53,270 is "above and beyond" the approved budget, Holman said.

At a special meeting of the Independence Township Board April 25, members unanimously voted to appropriate $35,000 of the money for the spr-

Previously, the cleanups have cost approximately $22,750. But the board agreed to budget more because of an expected increase in activity resulting from the New Year's Day ice storm.

The cleanup is scheduled from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. May 18 and 19 at the Department of Public Works Building on Flemings Lake Road.

There will be no drop-off sites throughout the township, as there were two years ago.

Prior to the cleanup, the DPW will accept brush from the ice storm until May 15, said Supervisor Frank Ronk.

The cleanup is for Independence Township residents only.

Village budget

The proposed 1985-86 Clarkston village budget of $614,953.47 was unanimously approved by members of the village council April 22.

Treasurer Artemus Pappas told the council the only potentially significant budget change from last year was the anticipated cutback of Federal Revenue Sharing funds.

President Reagan has proposed doing away with Federal Revenue Sharing in October.

The village uses federal revenue money to pay for Oakland County Sheriff Department deputy services contracted through Independence Township.

Approved were the following projected budgets:

General fund, $190,887.Street funds, $40,985.32.

•Sewer operation and maintenance fund, $53,300.

•Sewer bond and interest redemption fund, $323,900.18.

•Federal Revenue Sharing, $5,880.97.

Commission chairman Neil Wallace, Hosler, and Hosler's representative, Joe Noll, found themselves in disagreement over the commission's decision.

Noll said he wanted specific recommendations, and Wallace responded that the commission had expressed its concerns and would not design the plans for the petitioners.

Several commission members indicated displeasure with Hosler's proposal to display 34 cars along the front of the building and suggested more attention to landscaping.

They also asked for changes in the building which commissioner Lou Hewko termed "industrial" looking.

"You have a personal dislike for the building," said Noll.

"It's not our responsibility to draw your building for you," replied Wallace. "It looks to me to be just a standard sort of thing. Clarkston deserves better."

"If the thing is going to get tabled, can we get a little more specific about what you mean by 'break it up (with landscaping)'?" asked Hosler. "Give us something to go on. Can we get a concensus here on what is acceptable?"

"Everybody is entitled to their opinion," said Noll, leaving the meeting. Both he and Hosler refused further comment.

Hosler has proposed relocating his Pontiac dealership onto 5½ acres between Clarkston Glass Service and the House of Maple and Pine on Dixie Highway.

The property, which totals approximately 50 acres, was once the site of a proposed K mart.

Noll said there were currently no plans for the additional acreage, but in the future it might be used for expansion.

At the April 2 township board meeting, trustees approved a motion, 5-1, to allow car sales on the proposed 5½ acres.

During Hosler's appearance before the planning commission, several commissioners expressed concerns about the appearance of Dixie Highway.

"I really don't want Dixie Highway to look like Livernois... It's our front door," said Stephens. "We're trying to make Dixie Highway presentable. We're trying to clean these places up one at a time," adding that displaying 34 cars together would not necessarily be good for sales.

"You're going to see cars and asphalt," she said.
"I have a big problem with this (Hosler's) sea of asphalt. Is there any way we can be a little bit innovative? Land is very sparse across the front."

Hosler took exception to Stephens' remarks.
"Our business is to sell cars," he said. "I guess you've got a conflict there of what you'd like aesthetically and what the purpose (selling cars) is. If I pull everything off here, I'm buried back there."

Commissioner Robert Dieball agreed with Stephens. "If you look at 34 cars with no break, you don't see anything except a blur."

Noll responded by saying they were following the recommendations of General Motors.

Following a vote of 5-1 to disapprove the conceptual site plans, the board recommended that Hosler revise his plans to conform more with the nature of the community and return.

Commissioners Wallace, Stephens, Hewko, David Katz and Joseph Figa voted to deny approval. Robert Dieball voted against the motion. John Gray abstained. Carol Balzarini and Charles Robertson were absent.

Rescue radio bid

Two new rescue trucks, costing an estimated total of $47,000, are expected to be delivered to the Independence Township Fire Department this week.

On April 25, at a special board meeting in anticipation of the delivery, members of the township board approved a Motorola bid of $3,521.80 for two new radios to equip the vehicles.

It will take approximately six weeks for delivery of the radios, said Supervisor Frank Ronk.

Purchase of the vehicles was approved by the board one-and-one-half years ago.

In April, anti-shock pants and air management systems totaling over $3,800 were also approved for the new vehicles.

Proposed subdivision irks township residents

By Carolyn Walker

The thought of having a new subdivision built near Waldon Road doesn't appeal to 30 neighbors who live on Snowapple, Cramlane and Eastlawn roads near the proposed site.

The 30 turned out in force at the April 25 meeting of the Independence Township Planning Commission where approximately eight expressed their views to commissioners, developer Mike Hofer and engineer Ray McCoy.

Their comments about drainage problems and traffic prompted the commission to table the tentative preliminary plat a third time, pending a special meeting of the commission at the site, where they would "walk" the parcel.

Hofer and McCoy first proposed building houses on 38 lots behind Clarkston Elementary School last September.

Their petition for a tentative preliminary plat was tabled by the commission at that time because of similar concerns about drainage problems and traffic.

McCoy told the commission there would be no entrances or exits to the subdivision on Waldon Road because of a visibility factor from Waldon. Instead the traffic would be routed onto "stubs" of Cramlane and Fastlawn

Since their last appearance before the board, the developer and engineer attempted to address many of the concerns, in addition to adding one lot to the development.

McCoy said the proposed homes would not necessarily include garages, and that "scrubby trees" at the north end of the plat would be removed.

"The trees are not worth a darn," he said. "We plan on wiping (them) out anyway."

The commission agreed that the long, narrow plat presented many unique topography problems and would require extensive grading, which would make building difficult.

But, commission Chairman Neil Wallace told the audience that development of the parcel was inevitable

Several residents expressed their views about the situation before a unanimous vote to table the issue was taken.

"If this subdivision is opened, it will open into our subdivision and create even more of a (traffic) hazard...," said Joy Verhey, a Cramlane resident. "It's going to be a disaster and we already have a disaster."

Her husband, Paul, agreed. "My neighbor now takes his mail box in, in the morning and puts it out at night"

A suggestion by McCoy that they install a "nothru-traffic" sign drew laughter from the crowd.

Approximately six other neighbors expressed concern about standing water on the property, possible future drainage problems and the wildlife.

Dennis Storr, of Eastlawn, termed the property a "beautiful wetland" and asked that as many trees as possible be saved.

After hearing the views of the residents, Hofer attempted to address their concerns.

"We've spent four months with the township engineers (Hubble, Roth and Clark) to answer questions," he said. "We're going to want to save all the trees we can. But, it's really not a point...we own the property."

Hofer purchased the property for development last August.

In addition, Hofer said nothing could be done about routing traffic directly onto Waldon. "They

(the Oakland County Road Commission) will not allow us to go out onto Waldon Road (because of the visibility problem)," he said, adding that the road commission requires 500 feet of visibility and only 200 feet are available.

After approximately one hour of debate on the topic, the commissioners agreed to view the property before making a recommendation for approval or denial to the township board.

"We're all tying to be responsible adults here," said Chairman Neil Wallace. "It's a difficult situation, certainly, because it is a difficult piece of property."

Robots. said the radio ad, will fluff your pillows and run your baths ...

The message was about the future, but my mind wandered off too soon to catch the product or company being advertised.

I had good reason.

The idea of a robot fluffing my pillows wasn't appealing. But a robot to run my bath? It had definite possibilities.

That morning the tub had run over. I was sleeping.

The practice in our house-with-one-bathtub is for the person who showers before me to turn on the bath water.

Our house-with-low-water-pressure makes that action practical as we follow the established routine to get everyone everywhere they're supposed to be on weekday mornings.

I awoke to threats of my bath water never being run again. I understood when I saw the bathroom floor.

The rug released a flood of its own when I lifted it up. The inch-deep water took many minutes of moping and toweling to finally disap-

Then there was the kitchen below. The drips went on for some time. That pretty well cleaned up, I left a mop and towels to soak up the continuing puddles and went back upstairs.

Needless to say, my better half couldn't conjur up good humor over the scene. The good news is the kitchen ceiling didn't cave in as predicted.

I wonder if a robot would take human error in stride...

Cleanup commended

We're fortunate!

Our family has always felt fortunate that we chose Clarkston as our home because of its friendly residents and atmosphere.

We are constantly reminded of this fact and Saturday, April 20, was no exception.

As we drove past the Village Park on the way to pick up our daughter and a friend, who had completed a canoe adventure on Deer Lake, we observed a marvelous cleanup being accomplished in the park.

It was being supervised and implemented by Eagle Scout candidate Jimmy Huttenlocher, his father, Jim, and other fine young men all working

They were cleaning up a tremendous amount of debris left by the ice storm, and a winter's accumulation of litter.

"It's not what I'm doing to you," Stomach growled in reply, "it's what you're doing to me. Are you insane?" "Pasties and diet pop aren't insane," the man said.

"Oh no," answered Stomach. "We aren't going to go through this discussion again. I refuse to tolerate even a discussion of what I can tolerate. We have been through this too many times. "I have heard that song before," said Stomach. "What is it this time?"

"It's all because of cholesterol," the man explained. "I have to get my level down and keep it down, and to do that I have to completely readjust my dietary habits.

"You can call it readjustment if you like," Stomach complained. "I call it suicide. Whatever happened to plain old meat and potatoes?"

"Plain old meat and potatoes require gravy," the

Flower power

The tulips burst into bloom this week-and downtown Clarkston and the Village Park are sparkling with springtime color.

We watched the project unfold last fall as students in the landscaping program at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center planted the array of bulbs in the brown earth around the parking lot at Washington and Main streets in the village.

Meanwhile, they were at work putting bulbs in place in the planters that now line Main Street and at the park.

They also put in hours working on the grounds at the vocational school on Big Lake Road in Springfield Township.

Special thanks for brightening our days go to the students, their instructor Donna McCall-Papatheodoropoulos, Bordine's Better Blooms of Clarkston, Clarkston Village Council Beautifcation Committee chairperson Fontie Ap-Madoc, the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club, the Clarkston Community Women's Club and persons who made private donations to fund the project.

If you haven't seen the impressive outcome of their efforts, plan to visit the town, the park on Depot Road and the vocational school.

Like us, you'll be dazzled by the flower power.

Letters to editor

Editorial opinions lack in judgment

Dear Kathy Greenfield,

In response to your question of April 24th—yes, good old boys do exist.

They exist in Clarkston, Brandon, Holly, Detroit, Chicago, the Senate, the House, in both political parties, etc.

If ignorance were bliss, you must be in a state of euphoria. Good old boys are the entrenched, "we were here first," conservative, take care of their own, core of leadership in most organizations, communities, political groups—you name it.

Where have you been?

They usually mean well and think they know what's best. Their primary motive, typically, is power-control.

The phenomenon reveals itself in a transitional community, like Clarkston, between the older (original) residents and the new crowd.

You must be kidding when you deny the existence of "good old boys" in Clarkston. Aren't you??

Mr. Carver was badly treated by some persons, although your editorial seemed to brush that off.

When you deny the possibility that Clarkston kids would harrass Mr. Carver's son, you lose more credibility. Some would. Particularly those kids whose families or who themselves might have participated in the intimidation by phone and letter of Mr. Carver.

You would appear more open-minded, editorially, if you not only chastised those who give your community a black eye but also apologized to Mr. Carver for their behavior. I believe your personal opinions, voiced editorially the past two weeks, reveal you to be lacking in charity and judgment.

Yours Very Truly, Harold Fineman Springfield Township

Nerd's off to Frisco safely

Last month, for the umpteenth time in his 26 years, erd did something that made me angry. He quit his job to take a completely unearned vacation in San Francisco: And I asked myself how I could be unfortunate enough to have such a wandering bum for an offspring. My daughters give me splendid grandchildren; my son gives me major-league headaches.

Nerd believes in working only long enough to save sufficient money to finance a getaway. The only thing remarkable about the San Francisco trip is he got there. A few years ago he left for Los Angeles and returned home weeks later with several interesting snapshots, all taken in a Chicago motel. Most of his travels reflect this wild-and-crazy-guy attitude. Once he toured Europe with a Chinese friend, probably because he didn't have a Jewish friend to show him around Lebanon: From Germany he mailed home a pair of hiking boots because they were falling apart. The postage was $60, and the boots were probably worth $1.25

One winter, when most burns wandered south; he set up housekeeping in a Minneapolis igloo. At first he parked cars at a restaurant but then switched to working from 11 to 7 in a Seven-Eleven store because he liked the

It may be something in the genes on my side of the family. I thought the F1-7, stand forever as the weirdest-sounding job description in the Fitzgerald clan. But I learned what Nerd's cousin-the daughter of Terrible Jean, my much older sister—is currently doing for a living. Sheila Fitzgerald is plucking chickens on an Israeli kibbutz.

Anyway; while Nerd was in San Francisco, I received a phone call from my friend Chuck who lives in Chicago Tm not quite old enough to be Chuck's father, but I've often thought he is the type of hardworking, career-minded son who would make a father proud.

T first met Chuck in the 1950s, when he was a high school student and I was sports editor of the local newspaper? He said he wanted to be a journalist like me. I was impressed by his earnestness, if not his judgment, so I hired him. For the next few years, whenever he could spare time from his studies, he did all sorts of reporting and also sold advertising:

That was the beginning. Chuck subsequently graduated from the journalism school at Michigan State University, worked for a couple of newspapers, and then, while marrying and fathering three children, he moved on to richer fields. Currently he is an executive of a well-known advertising agency in Chicago. And, to this day, he gives me more credit than I deserve for nudging him in the right

THAT'S WHY Chuck phoned last month. He'd heard that my son was jobless and wondered if he could help Nerd find a job in Chicago, just in case he wanted to revisit that infamous motel room. Chuck said he'd like to help my son the way I helped him.

When Nerd returns from the West Coast, I will tell him about Chuck's kindness. I will also have to tell him about another phone call I received, last Saturday. It was from Chuck's brother He said Chuck's 19-year-old son had suddenly dropped dead of an unsuspected heart

Last month my son took a completely uncarned vacation. And I am asking myself how I could be fortunate enough to have such a wandering burn for an offspring. He delights me, partly because he does the things I didn't have enough gumption to do when I was his age. But mostly because he is alive and healthy.

And I should never forget it.

'It's great!' sums up American experience

By Carolyn Walker

To hear Pablo Agustin Rebufello Hernandez tell it. Clarkston is a nice place to be.
"It's great!" he says.

Pablo, who uses his father's last name Rebufello. arrived in Independence Township last January from his hometown of Pando, Uruguay, a city of 20,000

The 18-year-old was one of 25 foreign exchange students sent to the United States through Students for Understanding.

My first day here, it was so surprising because everybody knows me;" he says. "It was very great. I thought the people were friendly."

Pablo graduated from high school in his own country last December, but will stay to graduate with his friends from Clarkston High School this June.

Residing with Gary and Barbara Zabel and their three sons, Pablo says, "I feel a part of the community here."

And he's glad he came.

The Zabels agree. "He's fit in so well, even with the dog," Barb says.

Pablo, who seems goal oriented and earnest about his education, says he decided to become an exchange student to further his learning.

"I wanted to know the way of living of this country," he says. "I want to improve my English."

In his few months here, Pablo has drawn some conclusions about the similarities and differences in teenagers and social customs from the two hemispheres.

The young people of Uruguay are more reserved, he says, and their schooling system is more rigid.

'There is harder than here," he says. "Here the school is more funny, warmer. The teachers are more friendly with the students. It isn't so formal.'

In Uruguay the students are required to wear uniforms to school. And they attend school "just to study." There are no inter-school sports.

During his final year in high school. Pablo studied chemistry; physics, philosophy, English and three math programs.

Prior to his graduation he spent two months. eight hours every day, preparing for final exams and doing nothing else.

But, I did it," he says, proudly. "It was great." Here, Pablo runs track as a member of the CHS team and he's taking classes in American history, government, literature and computers.

Pablo was at Clarkston High School for David Toma's presentation about substance abuse, and says such an event would never take place in his country.

"We don't have a problem with drinking. We don't have drugs there. We hate the drugs," he says.

There is no age limit for obtaining liquor in Uruguay, students grow up with it, Pablo says, adding that fact probably accounts for the students' lack of interest in drinking.

"Here, teenagers are waiting for 21 for buying beer," he says. "In Uruguay all the teenagers want to be 18 for driving.

The differences pretty much end there, for tastes are similar in clothes and music, he says.

Like many American youth, Pablo intends to seek a career working with computers.

When he returns to Uruguay in July, he will spend approximately nine months working with his father, who is a pharmacist, before entering college.

In college he plans to major in computer science and mathematics. Pablo says he will be qualified to teach at the university level because of his experience and intensive studies of the two subjects.

When he goes home, he intends to share his knowlege about America with his friends and family.

"I will tell them the way of living here," he says. "This is the most important thing I can bring with me. I understand more than when I came."

Pablo Rebufello plays soccer, swims and runs at clubs in his hometown of Pando, Uruguay, because competitive sports are not offered at his high school. While in Clarkston, he is a member of the Clarkston High School track

Tracksters win again

West Bloomfield Invitational champions

By Dan Vandenhemel

For the second time to two weekends, the Clarkston Wolves girls' track team has come out on top in prestigious track meets.

The latest title for the team came at the West Bloomfield Invitational Track Meet, April 27.

With 76 points, the Wolves easily outscored second-place Flint Beecher with 45 points. The week before, a combined Clarkston High School girls' and boys' track team won the Andover Relays.

Because the small team has only 17 athletes. Wolves' coach Gordy Richardson said he hasn't really thought about what he expects from them.

"I'm a little bit surprised," he said of their first ever win at West Bloomfield. "The kids ran some great times. They work hard and hate to lose. If they see someone in front of them, they'll go out and eatch them."

This year's event had 27 girls' teams. Previously the highest finish for the Wolves was fourth, two years ago. Last year they were sixth.

The Wolves took three first places and set two school records in doing so. Kathleen Melnnis won the 2-mile run in a record 11:50.7. The sprint medley relay team of Bridget Kilchne, Lisa Ladd, Kim Ottman and Wendy Cohoon won their event with a record time of 4:22.7, Jennifer Farough captured the Wolves' other first-place finish in the 330-low hurdles.

"We did a great job and that's with not knowing how healthy two of our people were going to be," Richardson said. Runners Ladd and Ottman didn't practice earlier in the week because of leg injuries.

"They went to the trainer, got taped and ran very well," the coach said. "You've got to give a lot of credit to the trainer, Colleen Bauer. She did a great job."

Richardson also passed some credit on to Mike Kaul who is helping coach the distance events and Nick Colos, a janitor at CHS who is helping with the discus and shot put.

"I've had teams with better talent but not as much balance." Richardson said. "We're well spaced in the events. We may take a lot of firsts and not many seconds and thirds because of the lack of depth."

Richardson said the track teams are beginning to become more and more successful.

"The people in Clarkston are not used to seeing the track team doing well," he said. "There are some talented kids out here. Walt's (CHS boys' coach Wyneimko) got some people out this year that are willing to work hard, too."

Senior Daisy Red takes time out from practice to straighten a hurdle.

High jumper Dave Baren clears the bar during practice earlier this season. While the boys' track team placed sixth at the West Bloomfield Invitational meet, the girls' squad came home champions. The girls' were 30 points ahead of second place Flint Beecher.

Wolves fall short of grabbing tourney

By Dan Vandenhemel

After winning two games by a total of 21 runs, the Clarkston Junior Varsity softball team got buried. The Wolves lost the championship game of the tournament they hosted to Romeo Powell, 14-5, April 27. The Wolves trounced Anchor Bay, 21-10, and West Bloomfield, 15-5, to reach the finals. This is the third year of the tournament and the first time

Clarkston has not won it.

"They had good control, solid defense. We would have had to play our best game to beat them.' Wolves' coach Don Peters said of Romeo Powell.

In the final, Jessica Shoup had three hits and three stolen bases while Beth Tilley collected two hits and two RBI's. Peters said the defensive star of the game was center fielder Laurie Brandt.

She made a good running catch in the second inning and threw out a runner at the plate in the fifth," he said.

Peters gave the Yogurt Award for the best preformance during the day to Shoup, who also had three hits, three RBI's and three runs against Anchor Bay.

The name Yogurt Award comes from when Peters started coaching at Clarkston and offered an alternative to junk food.

"I kind of stressed physical fitness when I started and told the kids to have a yogurt instead of a candy bar if they were hungry." he said. "It kind of stuck."

Stars of the opening game with Anchor Bay were Shoup and three-hitters Tilley, Paula Gulian, Cindy Hewitt and pitcher Lorette Ulasich.

Against West Bloomfield, Amy Morris was the winning pitcher as the Wolves collected only four hits but were issued 11 walks.

The Clarkston Invitational is the only junior varsity tournament Peters is aware of. One reason for participation is to give the players more experience.

"At the varsity level, the players could play in three, four, five tournaments a year," Peters said. "This gives them extra time for techniques. Junior varsity level is for winning but also for advancing of their skills. The bottom line of a tournament like this is fun-but also an opportunity to learn."

Trip tidbits:

Car rides always seems longer at the end of the vacation than at the start.

Only 13 hours to Alabama but 14 coming home. And that's not counting the time changes.

The only good thing about driving through Ohio is the driving through it. The countryside along I-75 has to be one of the dullest in America. But remember, Ohio also has a city called Toledo.

Ohio has to get a little credit, though. The expressway is the best kept of five states we went through. Even the authorized-cars-only turnarounds were paved.

Michigan, by the way, is the worst.

Everything is so green heading south. The trees, the grass, the hills, even the billboards were green.

Get a load of these names in Ohio: Uniopolis County, the city of Wapakoneta, and Bellefontine Street.

The mountains of Kentucky alone were worth the trip.

It seemed the entire state of Kentucky was under construction. One sign on I-71 cautioned travelers radwork would be going on for the next 86 miles.

Every other mile were signs for blasting, falling rocks, stopped traffic, and a speed limit of 35 mph.

Strange with all the signs and warnings, we never saw anyone working.

Louisville gets my vote for the prettiest skyline. With towns like Lebanon, Warsaw, Sparta and North Baltimore, we were wondering if we took a wrong turn somewhere.

The tape deck is a wonderful invention. While driving south, if your taste in music doesn't include country, you're in trouble.

Along the expressways, neighbors are scarce. The most hypocritical people on the roads are the ones zipping past you and have a bumper sticker praising the 55 mph speed limit.

Thirteen hours in a car does wonders for your

It was no easy task carving roads out of the mountains.

Animal highlights include the thoroughbred horses and bison grazing in Kentucky.

It's quite a shock having a 7-percent sales tax added on in Alabama.

A common sight was 20 trucks lined up for the weight scales along the expressways.

People sure enough talk funny down south. Yo' can bet yo' sweet pea-pickin' heart they do.

Commission wants more

Parking variance granted

By Carolyn Walker

Charles Bowles, new owner of the Ritter property on Dixie Highway, is moving closer to his goal of adding on to Ritter's Market.

He has added landscaping and obtained a variance from the Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) to reduce the required parking area by eight spaces, as requested by the planning commission March 28.

The ZBA, however, failed to address his request for a one-foot variance in the front-yard-setback for parking, so the planning commission has directed him back to the ZBA with that problem.

"All the improvements that were made make it acceptable," said Lou Hewko, a member of the planning commission and the ZBA. "One variance (the setback) got lost in the crack.".

'Whether it's an inch or a foot or two feet, there has to be a line drawn," said Chairman Neil Wallace.

Bowles said he is negotiating with the former owners to purchase property along an alley at the rear of the parcel. He anticipates that purchase will go through in the next few weeks.

The purchase will increase the overall size of the parcel, which commission members have previously said was being overused or as Wallace put it "shoehorned onto."

Bowles told the commissioners that 12 percent of his property is used in landscaping.

Bowles, of C.B. Custom Builders, first proposed adding on to the store last March.

He has been granted conceptual site plan approval to increase the store to a two-story, 8,800-square-foot building which will house offices and a fish market.

CJH places 23rd

The five-member Clarkston Junior High School problem solving team placed 23rd out of 42 teams at the Future Problem Solving competition in Ann Arbor held April 21 and 22.

Given the task of determining how to cope with the "greenhouse effect," the students suggested hydro-farming as a solution, according to their instructor, Marilyn Kettler.

Hydro-farming would include using the excess water created by the greenhouse effect to farm, would create jobs, and would increase food to flooded victims, she said.

is over, students can take advantage of breakfast and a bus ride to Cedar Point.

The alternative activies are provided through the efforts of the Clarkston Area Chemical People, an organization-devoted_to_the prevention of substance abuse among young people.

Defails, including location, have yet to be finalized for the breakfast after the dinner-dance at Roma's of Bloomfield, but a minimal fee of $1 or $2 is expected with the remainder to be paid by the Chemical People.

The Cedar Point trip will cost $25 a person for the air-conditioned bus ride and admission to the amusement park. The bus is to leave CHS at 7 a.m.

After the May 10th Clarkston High School prom May LL Snacks will be provided by the Chemical Peo

"The hope is, one people will take advantage of it and two, if will catch on and we'll do an even better joh next year?" said the Rev. William Schram, vice chairperson of the Chemical People. "We'd like to see it become an ongoing thing in Clarkston."

Students can sign up for the after-prom activities

The purpose is to provide some positive alternative to going on and having your own party after the prom, because that always has the possibility of drinking and driving," said Schram, "The burden isn't totally on them to be good and you don't have anyone saying. You'd better not drink and drive, or else.

WHODUNIT? In the ongoing tradition of mysteries, the suspects and supporting cast provide food for speculation in the Clarkston Village Players' spring production, "The Burning Man" by Tim Kelly. Pictured are the butler and baroness [played by Pete Rose and Marty Johnson]. Or was it the TV star? The director of the girls' academy? And where do the private investigator, police inspector and attorney fit into the plot? Playgoers will find the answers on Fridays and Saturdays, May 10, 11, 17 and 18 inside the Depot Theatre, 4861 White Lake Rd., Independence Township. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Tickets are $4. They may be purchased at Tierra Arts, 64 S. Main, Clarkston, or by calling 363-0188 after 5 p.m. Refreshments will be sold during intermission.

Needs of elderly bring Grovecrest to Clarkston

By Carolyn Walker

A noble cause, compassion for the elderly and the infirm, is guiding Frances and Paul VerLee to Independence Township.

"There's so many needs," says Frances, who coowns Grovecrest Convalescent Center in Pontiac with her sons Paul, a Grovecrest administrator, and Ronald, who lives out of state.

The mother-and-sons team plans to begin constructing a Grovecrest of Clarkston satellite near Clintonville and Maybee roads this August.

Their facility will house 120 beds and service the needs of patients who require long-term nursing care.

"We saw Independence as being a community that did not have...long term care," says Paul of their reasons for choosing the area, adding that many of their current patients come from the greater-Independence locale.

The nursing center concept evolved, in part, from some of Frances' personal experience.

In 1965, while a nursing administrator at Pontiac General Hospital, she lost the use of her right hand following an automobile accident.

That accident and two years of therapy led to a pledge. "If I ever got well enough to work again, I'd work for people...not more money." she says of a vow she made to herself. "I saw it (senior care) as a segment of our society that needed the same expertise of care as hospital patients. (It's) the biggest mission

Senior care "is the biggest mission field in the United States today."

-Frances VerLee

field in the United States today."

Following the accident and after some serious coaxing from Dr. Howard McNeil, who built the Pontiac center in 1956, she joined the work force at Grovecrest in 1969.

Frances "bought into" Grovecrest in 1972, and in 1975 took over the facility.

Son Paul joined her after working as an assistant administrator at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital from 1978 to 1983.

"I saw the definite need for quality, long-term care. I could better affect patient care," he says of his reasons for making the switch to Grovecrest.

The VerLees also own two residential care facilities which house a total of 12 senior citizens in Independence Township. They believe a "proper environment" can have a tremendous effect on a patient's well-being and eventual discharge from a nursing facility.

Providing quality care, according to the VerLees, means addressing a patient's physical, mental, social and spiritual needs.

The VerLees say they must frequently confront stereotypes and prejudices about nursing homes as they struggle to rehabilitate patients so they can go During a patient's nursing home stay, the

The proposed Grovecrest of Clarkston center will offer a chapel, library, nature trails and outdoor VerLees attempt to deal with relatives' preconceived notions and guilt over placing a loved one in a facility by involving them in the patient's care.

"We strongly encourage patients and families to be involved with the planning of a patient's care and the setting of goals," says Paul. "The key is communication.

Family members, and patients who are able, are invited to discuss plans with multi-disciplinary teams which include doctors, dietitians, nurses, a social worker and others, according to Paul.

A surprising number of patients, says Frances, eventually recover from strokes or similar illnesses to return to their families.

For those whose loved ones are terminally ill, the Grovecrest center will offer classes to help cope with death and dying.

And the VerLees say they are gratified when they are able to help. "Sometimes just a short prayer, a short reassurance with a patient..." Frances voice trails off. "If you can give understanding and care to the terminally ill, you've done a lot."

"A moral victory" is what Frances calls it.

Construction is to begin this summer

First proposed in 1983, the Grovecrest of Clarkston nursing facility is scheduled for construction this August.

Frances and Paul VerLee, who co-own Grovecrest Convalescent Center in Pontiac; have met few obstacles in their efforts to get the project off the ground, they say.

Their certificate of need was granted by the State of Michigan in August 1984 and township officials gave the project final approval at a public hearing April 2.

The $3.5 million, 43,000-square-foot facility on 19 acres off Clintonville Road is scheduled to be completed in October 1986.

Paul VerLee has compared the shape of the onestory building to a "spoke."

At the center of the building will be nursing stas with patient rooms, and dining facilities going out into halls.

There will be 64 rooms providing 120 in-patient beds, according to Paul VerLee.

The plans, designed by the architectural firm of Smith and Schurman Associates of Bloomfield Hills, call for a library, nature trails, outdoor courts, small dining areas and a chapel.

The exterior of the building will be brick and wood, done in "earth tones," VerLee said, adding that many trees would be left to enhance the landscap-

The facility will provide long-term, skilled nursing care to residents and employ approximately 95 full-time people.

Though Clarkston area residents will not have "first priority" access to the facility, Paul VerLee says he expects many of the patients will come from Independence and other northern Oakland County com-

Old Kent replaces Pacesetter name

Pacesetter Bank-Southeast will soon carry the name Old Kent Bank, along with about 400 other bank buildings in the state.

The name change is effective May 6, and a new sign is expected by then at the bank's Clarkston branch at 6500 Dixie Highway, said Betty Simmons, assistant vice president and Clarkston branch manager.

Ed Thorman, a retired farmer from Romeo, takes a look at some of the foods on display in his brand new store in downtown Clarkston. He opened E.H. Thorman Bulk Foods last month.

Bulk food shop comes to Clarkston

Dealing with food has been a way of life for Ed Thorman. For most of his 69 years, he was a farmer in Romeo. Now he is running a bulk food store in Clarkston.

E.H. Thorman Bulk Foods opened April 4 in the Clarkston Corners mall at Main and Church streets.

The shop holds bins chock-full of cereals, nuts, candies and noodles-and the customers weigh out what they need.

'Saving money, that's the idea of bulk food," he said. "You come in and you can get what you want. People don't take what they don't need."

The reason Thorman opened the store is easy. He didn't want to just sit around anymore.

"I needed something to do with my life," he said. "It's similar to farming. You have to have what the people want.

"People are coming in and saying this is what they needed and that they really like it.'

One of the reasons Thorman opened the store in Clarkston was because of its similarity to Romeo.

"I thought this was an ideal spot for a store like this," said Thorman. "It'll take awhile to catch on, but I think it will.

"I've seen different places and have checked others and I really like this little village."

"We've been part of Old Kent Financial Corp. over two years now," she said. "We have the same staff, same services, same hours. Nothing will change, just the name."

Customers can continue to use their existing checks, deposit and withdrawal tickets, and loan payment coupons, she said.

The Grand Rapids-based Old Kent Financial Corp. currently owns 20 banks, said Bruce Johnson, president and chief executive of Pacesetter Bank-Southeast.

'Old Kent has been around for over 100 years, so it's an old, very established holding company," he

Durbin marches in May for MDA

A door-to-door drive for the Muscular Dystrophy Association is planned Saturday, May 4, by staff members of The Durbin Co. Clarkston Realtors—ERA.

About 18 volunteers are expected to seek donations from homes in and around the Village of Clarkston from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., said Wanda Lohmeier, realtor associate.

Under the auspices of ERA, the nation-wide "Day in May" program to collect money for MDA began four or five years ago, she said.

This is the first year the Durbin Co., which became part of ERA in 1984, has participated.

Although not part of the Jerry Lewis Telethon for MDA in September, the "Day in May" is linked to that effort in spirit, Lohmeir said.

"ERA has chosen this particular way to at least start the people thinking about MDA," she said.

"People have to care to get the accomplishments," she added. "Even if people just give a small amount, it all adds up.'

Chiropractor

opens Dixie office

Just down the road from where he grew up, Dr. Greg Hamilton is in business for himself.

The 25-year-old Hamilton recently opened the Hamilton Chiropractic Clinic on Dixie Highway near White Lake Road. He grew up in Holly and now lives in Fenton.

Hamilton hasn't run into any problems about his age.

"I just try to assure the patients that I've gone through the program and that I've got experience," he said

The program he went through is 4,800 hours at the National College of Chiropractic in Lombard, Ill. He graduated in 1984.

"It was a five-year program that I doubled up on," he said. "I feel I got an excellent education out of it. I worked for it. I do feel I'm fortunate at this point to be out on my own."

In looking for a location to set up his practice, Hamilton wanted to return to the area he grew up in.

"I really liked this area and Clarkston is one of the faster growing areas," he said. "There's plenty of traffic here, which helps."

Being a chiropractic patient himself when he was younger, Hamilton was interested in the field from his early dealings with the practice.

"I was a patient, my grandmother was a patient and a friend of the family was a chiropractor in Flint. That's were I started to get interested," he said.

Hamilton realizes starting a business from the bottom isn't going to be easy.

"I had the idea there would be a lot of dead time in the beginning," he said. "When your business is service orientated, you have to build up clientele. You have to set goals for yourself, and right now it's much better than I expected."

Dr. Greg Hamilton recently opened a chiropractic clinic on Dixie Highway in Independence Township.

New owner at Riggio's

Riggio's Pizza has a new owner.

David Turner purchased the 24-seat restaurant and carry-out business in the Waterfall Plaza on Dixie Highway, Waterford Township, on April 16.

He plans some menu changes.

"We dropped our prices, almost in half," said Turner. "We're introducing homemade subs with whole wheat and regular buns and we're starting a Pizza Smorg, short for smorgasbord, that's all you can eat and drink for $2.69 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m."

Menu selections will also expand, with items including barbecued ribs.

A Waterford resident, Turner has worked in food service in this area 14 years. Although he's leased businesses, this is the first time he has owned a business, he said.

Positive reactions greet change to Hop-in

Gone are the barn-with-silo logo and the name Richardson Farm Dairy. Now, a rabbit and the name Hop-in identify the two Clarkston branches of the convenience food store.

The same change has taken place across Michigan, but the owners are the same, said Jean Owenby, executive secretary at the main Hop-in office in Milford.

"The managers seem pleased because we're redoing everything and painting," she said. "The response has been very good. I think people were getting tired of Richardson Farm Dairy. We just got a face lift, that's all."

The chain is owned by the Silk Corp. of Canada, and the name came from 170 stores in Virginia purchased by the firm three years ago, Owenby said.

There are presently 36 Hop-ins in Michigan and the company recently purchased 21 Pump-N-Pantry stores, with gasoline and grocery items, which will also carry the new name.

In Canada, the chain's 800 stores are named Mac's, and the firm also owns convenience stores in North Carolina, Owenby said.

"We've grown so much, just in the last six months," she said. "The last six months, we've opened four stores and bought all these stores. I think we're even going to get bigger."

Reaction at the Clarkston branches has been positive, said Rose Zubalik, manager of the store on Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, and Betty McClesky, assistant manager of the store at Clarkston and Eston roads, Independence Township.

"It's really been good for our business," said Mc-Clesky, adding that changes there included new paint, floors, ceiling, counters and an ice cream tank.

"Even our regular customers have come in and complimented us on how great the store is, so that makes you feel good," she said. "They like the new name and I say, 'That's just to let you know we keep hoppin' for you."

incorporation of your business worth it?

Editor's note: This is one in a series of articles by attorney Robert Delisi on personal tax and estate planning topics to appear monthly in the Business & Finance section of The Clarkston News.

The objective is to offer the legal fundamentals of topics discussed. This series is not intended, nor should it be construed, to comprehensively cover all the factors that must be considered when addressing a particular individual's circumstances. For further information, one should consult with his or her at-

If you are thinking of incorporating your family business and you want to know if it is worth it, the answer is a clear and concise PROBABLY.

A corporation is an artificially created "legal person" authorized to act as an employer. The corporation offers certain advantages through the creation of fringe benefit programs, not otherwise available, which save the taxpayer tax dollars. ADVANTAGES

1. Limited Liability. Generally, the liability of a corporation for debts and legal claims will be limited to its net worth and not that of its shareholders, unless the shareholders have personally obligated themselves. Under other forms of doing business, any legal claim can be satisfied by any or all of your personal assets including your house, bank accounts and

2. Tax Rate Savings. A corporation is a legal person for tax purposes and it pays tax on a graduated scale just as an individual does. In a closely held corporation, however, tax advantages can be realized by regulating the amount of income retained in the corporation for tax purposes and the amount of compensation received by the individual. This action places the corporation and the individual in low marginal tax rates, and thereby minimizes the overall tax.

3. Accumulation of Earnings. Generally, if a corporation accumulates and retains income, it will pay less tax than if the business was owned by a partnership or an individual. This is important if the corporation needs capital for expansion, desires to provide various employee benefits or seeks to minimize tax to the shareholders of the corporation.

4. Insurance Benefits. Under cetain conditions. the following insurance cost can be deducted by the corporation and, at the same time, not be considered income to the employee: life insurance (in a pension or profit sharing plan), disability insurance, hospitalization insurance, group-term life insurance (up to $50,000 per employee).

5. Medical Expense Reimbursement Program. A corporation may reimburse employees for personal medical expenses not covered by insurance. These reimbursements are fully deductible by the corporation and tax free to the employee if certain legal requirements are met.

6. Tax Free Death Benefit. A corporation can pass $5,000 income tax free to the surviving spouse of a shareholder under certain circumstances.

7. Other Fringe Benefits. Tax deductions for other fringe benefits such as clubs, cars and travel are frequently more accessible to corporations than partnerships or individuals.

8. Loans to Employees. A corporation may loan money to an employee under certain guidelines, and corporations and the employees may have no adverse tax consequences as a result of this transaction.

9. Shift Income. One can control distribution of profits by determining in which year dividends will be paid. There is no comparable control in an unincorporated business.

10. Fiscal Tax Year. A corporation can have a fiscal tax year other than a calendar year. The resulting benefit is flexibility and sometimes a delay in the payment of taxes by more than one year by selecting the most desirable due dates for income tax

11. Continuation of the Business. In a partnership, of one of the partners retires or dies, the partnership may be terminated. This can create great problems. In a corporation, however, the retirement, death or withdrawal of a shareholder does not dissolve or terminate the corporation. In a corporation, change of ownership occurs by stock transfer, which is relatively simple.

12. Gifts. It is possible to give away a portion of corporate ownership to reduce one's estate and simultaneously retain control. This is a potentially effective device in estate planning.

13. "S" Corporation. If the business is running at a loss, it is smart to be able to take these losses as a deduction on your personal tax return. The corporate level of taxation may be eliminated by having the corporation elect to be taxed as an "S" corporation. DISADVANTAGES

1. Administrative Costs. Since the corporation is a separate legal entity, a separate bookkeeping system and filing of appropriate tax returns are required.

2. Workers' Compensation Coverage. A corporation must obtain required coverage under workers' disability compensation and Michigan unemployment

3. Double Taxation. A corporation's income my be subject to taxation to both the corporation and the shareholders upon withdrawal of the accumulated earnings. This may, however, be frequently avoided by withdrawal of the earnings on a tax-deductible basis, such as salaries to shareholders or rent for use of property.

4. Accumulated Earnings Tax. The corporation. if it accumulates too much earnings, may be subject to an accumulated earnings tax. This tax is imposed for accumulations of surplus in excess of $250,000 ($150,000 for service corporations).

5. Michigan Franchise Tax. A corporation must file an annual report and pay franchise tax, a tax on the license to do business in the State of Michigan.

6. Excessive Compensation. A corporation can be subject to the risk that compensation increases may be challenged as excessive and, therefore, disallowed as deductions at the corporate level.

As with many things in life, with the benefits come the burdens. Corporation status offers definite advantages over other forms of doing business but in general, an increase in administrative burdens should be expected.

Next month, the new divorce tax law and how to prevent your ex from doing you in will be discussed.

Readers are encouraged to forward to the Editor of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016, any questions they may have concerning the topics discussed.

The author will attempt to respond in writing directly to the questioner. If an abundance of questions arise concerning a particular area of the law, he will address this area in a subsequent article.

The state rejects a certificate of need for the proposed Clarkston Surgical Center, leaving the future of the center in limbo. The plan for the $3.4 million project was proposed by Clarkston pediatrician James O'Neill for six acres behind his M-15 office.

The facility, described by O'Neill as a "hospital without walls," would provide services including outpatient surgery and mental health day care treatment.

O'Neill plans to pursue the certificate of need through channels of appeal at the state level. "I will continue doing all the things I have planned," he said. "I will not be subdued."

Officials pave the way for new- and usedcar sales on Dixle Highway with approval of an amendment to a 1974 consent judgment governing the property.

The Independence Township Board voted 5-1 to approve the amendment to specifically allow vehicle sales on the property, which abuts the House of Maple and Pine. The consent judgment was initiated after a lawsuit prohibited building a K mart on the property.

Plans are to relocate the existing Randy Hosler Pontiac dealership from its current location on M-15 north of the Village of Clarkston to a 5½-acre site.

Specific site plans must be approved by the township planning commission before building can be initiated.

Expansion of Ritter's Market wins conceptual site plan approval by the Independence Township Planning Commission.

Property owner Charles Bowles intends to add a fish and meat store, and offices to the existing building.

The approval includes several stipulations involving parking and landscaping, which must be met before final approval is granted.

Universal Data Inc., a computer research and development, repair and marketing firm, plans to move to Independence Township from Brandon Township.

The company's new site is the former People's Furniture located at the corner of M-15 and Bluegrass Drive. Renovations are expected to begin in mid-April with occupancy planned by June, said co-owner Charles Phyle.

Owners of the Kayo gas station on Dixle Highway receive the go-ahead to remodel their station.

Convenience items are now sold at the store, but the plans include remodeling and expansion, said Kayo engineer Alan Brevitz, following approval for the project by the Independence Township Planning Commission.

Construction is expected to begin this month.

The liquor license for LaPiazza restaurant is upgraded from beer and wine to include hard liquor.

Following support by neighbors who praised owner Allie Assad for help during the January ice storm, the Independence Township Board voted 6-1 to approve the change.

A 50-seat restaurant and bakery, LaPiazza is located at the corner of Clarkston and Eston roads.

Hooters spotlights Top 40s music

What started out as space for a sign painting business turned into a whole new avenue of work for Marty McCarrick.

McCarrick was looking in Ortonville for a location for his sign painting business last July and stumbled across what is now the bar called Hooters.

"We thought this was too nice a place to paint signs so we went into the bar business," the 32-yearold McCarrick said. "We came up here because other buildings we were looking at for the other business fell through. We're fired up about it."

McCarrick and partner Al McDonald decided on the name Hooters because of a nickname.

"We've lived in Lake Orion all our lives and Ortonville was always known as Hooterville," McCarrick said. "It's not meant to be derogatory to the town at all. We haven't heard any negative responses from it yet. We're just trying to run a nice club."

Drink and food specials along with live bands are featured at Hooters.

"We started out with country bands but now we're using Top 40 dance bands. Right now we've got live music on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday and soon we'll pick up Thursday too. The bands are pretty good now, I remember one band that lasted two nights.

"Running a bar is tough, very tough," McCarrick said. "We're still new. Everyday is a new experience."

AST Inc. of Clarkston has been named to Michigan's Tech 50, the state's 50 largest manufacturers of high technology products.

The firm, now located in Brandon Township, plans to move south on Ortonville Road to Independence Township within the next two months.

AST Inc. specializes in research and development, repair and final quality control on hand-held data terminals named UDI-100. The self-contained, battery operated computers are marketed by Universal Data Inc.

Owners of AST Inc. are Charles Phyle, Frank Desrochers and Kathy Korzetz, all of Independence Township.

AST Inc. has been in business five years, the first year in Flint and since 1980 in Brandon Township.

Michigan's Tech 50 companies were recognized for their accomplishments by Arthur Andersen & Co., the Detroit Free Press and the Michigan High Technology Task Force at a special luncheon April 24 at the Edsel and Eleanor Ford House in Grosse Pointe Shores.

Three main criteria were used to choose Michigan's Tech 50:

•Have headquarters in Michigan.

•Derive at least 50 percent of total revenue from high-tech related activities.

•Develop and manufacture a high tech product. Each of the Tech 50 companies received a limited edition, original glass sculpture created by Michigan artist Albert Young.

Marty McCarrick and partner Al McDonald opened Hooters in Ortonville July 4 last year.
