Purchase may stop prison plans.

By Carolyn Walker

The threat of a prison going onto 39 acres of property off Maybee Road is decreasing.

On Tuesday, Dr. James O'Neill initiated an option to buy the parcel from the Clarkston School District.

Pending the signing of an agreement on Wednesday, the school board will review the purchase May 28 to give final approval, according to school Superintendent Milford Mason.

"At this point it's a meeting of the minds," Mason said.

O'Neill said he is buying the property for approximately $5,000 an acre.

He proposes to build a senior citizen housing facility at the location. A date for construction has not been determined.

Over the last month, the Maybee Road parcel was considered for a 550-bed, multi-security prison by subcommittees of the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

The site was included on a list of four recommended by the Prison Site Selection Committee last week. The others include one each in Lake Orion, Auburn Hills and Pontiac/Waterford.

Those sites were scheduled to be reviewed by the commissioners' Public Service subcommittee Tuesday for recommendation to the board of commissioners. The board is expected to make a recommendation to the state May 23.

The issue first came to light in mid-April when Superintendent of Schools Milford Mason received a letter of inquiry from the Prison Site Committee.

They sought the status of the Maybee Road property along with two other parcels owned by the school district. The others, on Reese Road near Rattalee Lake Road and Holcomb Road near Bridge Lake Road, were eliminated during a meeting of the Prison Site Committee last month.

Mason responded to the letter saying that a developer was interested in the Maybee property.

Call out for cars

Old cars are needed by the Clarkston school district for the annual drivers' education program.

While the district uses new cars only for the on-the-road portion of instruction, older cars are wanted for the driving range in the Clarkston High School parking lot.

The only requirement for the tax-deductible donations are "that the cars are in reasonable running condition," said Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara.

"If we have to fix it up with batteries, spark plugs or minor repairs, we'll do that," he said.

Persons interested in donating a vehicle can call Vaara at 625-4402.

Cleanup coming

Got no place for that beat up clunker? That fragrant pile of trash? That broken down couch?

Independence Township will relieve you of those burdens at its annual Spring Cleanup May 18 and 19, scheduled for 8 a.m. until 8 p.m.

People wishing to drop off unusable items can bring them to the Department of Public Works building on Flemings Lake Road.

The cleanup is for Independence Township residents only.

Hosler gets OK for car dealership

By Carolyn Walker

Voices were lowered and tempers quieted as the Independence Township Planning Commission gave Randy Hosler approval for a Pontiac dealership on Dixie Highway.

The May 9 action came over the objections of Chairman Neil Wallace, who expressed concern over setting a precedent by granting conceptual and final site plan approvals at the same meeting.

Hosler and his builder Joseph Noll first approached the commission April 25 for conceptual site plan approval. But repeated criticism of the proposal's landscaping and building facade resulted in a shouting match and a recommendation that Hosler revise his plans.

The move of Hosler Pontiac from M-15 to Dixie Highway is planned before 1986 cars are released for sale, Hosler said.

The dealership is proposed for 5½ acres of a 50-acre site formerly proposed for a K mart which was never built.

At the April meeting, commissioners asked Hosler to add landscaping to the car display area along the front of the property.

They also called the building "industrial" looking and asked that it be modified to fit the Clarkston environment.

Hosler complied by designing islands of landscaping which jut into the parking area. The changes resulted in a decrease of four display parking spots.

"I think it's greatly improved," said commissioner Joseph Figa.

Commissioner David Katz agreed. "The landscaping is quite generous. It's an excellent plan, I think."

Wallace expressed concern about the aesthetics of the building, as he had in the past. And as a result, vowed to appoint a sub-committee to review the aesthetics of Independence Township for the purpose of making an amendment to the zoning ordinances.

"I think it's important to this community," he said.

When Noll requested conceptual and final site plan approval at the same meeting, Wallace argued that such a move had never been made during his time on the commission. He said he did not want the commission to set a new precedent.

"I think it would be extraordinary to grant conceptual and final site plan approval in one night," he said.

He was overruled by a vote of the commissioners. Conceptual and final site plan approval were granted in a 4-3-1 vote.

Voting for the approval were Figa, Katz, Robert Dieball and Carol Balzarini. Voting against the motion were Lou Hewko, Wallace and Holly Stephens. Commissioner John Gray abstained. Charles Robertson was absent.

Invoice raises $7,000 question

By Carolyn Walker

A sewer and water study recently completed by Bendzinski and Co. may cost Independence Township over $7,000 more than expected.

In January 1984, the township board authorized the Detroit firm to perform the study at a cost not to exceed $15,000 after a 4-1-2 vote.

On April 9, Clerk Richard Holman received two bills totaling $22,805.26.

On May 7, board members unanimously voted to pay the larger bill of $16,600 and to ask Bendzinski and Co. why the costs exceeded expectations.

"There's a very good chance the second bill won't be paid at all," Holman said after the meeting.

Robert C. Bendzinski declined comment on the situation, other than to say the reviewing procedure took longer than anticipated.

"We don't make any policy of discussing our billing," he said during a phone interview. "That's a matter between us and the township."

Boating safety is the topic of a six-hour class presented by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Open to persons ages 12 to adult, the two-session class meets Tuesday, May 21, and Thursday, May 23, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Pontiac General Hospital Ambulatory Care Center of Waterford, 1305 North Oakland Blvd.

Fire equipment bids accepted

By Carolyn Walker

Bids totaling $15,642.61 for fire equipment were unanimously accepted at the Independence Township board meeting May 7.

The approvals came after Fire Chief Dale Bailey requested authorization to purchase three sets of turnout gear, one jaws-of-life, three sets of anti-shock pants and three airway management systems for two new rescue vehicles and one old vehicle.

The new vehicles arrived in the township during early May.

Bailey had sought bids on the items from several firms. The lowest bids, which were accepted, included:

- Three airway management systems from Marry Respiratory Service of Somerset Center for $2,387.61. Airway management systems are used to increase the oxygen flow to patients' hearts to nearly 100 percent, according to Bailey.

- One rescue tool from R.D.B. Enterprises of Fraser for $8,068. The tool is used to cut metal away from trapped victims after vehicle accidents.

- Three sets of anti-shock pants for $1,317 from Dixie Inc. of Houston, Texas. Anti-shock pants are inflatable pants placed on patients to increase the flow of blood from the legs to the heart.

- Three sets of turnout gear from Apollo Fire Equipment of Utica, Michigan for $3,870. Turnout gear consists of woolen clothing articles, such as pants, jackets and padding worn for protection by firefighters.

Letters recalled by U.S. veteran

By Kathy Greenfield

During World War II, Master Sgt. Stanley White wrote letters home to Martha, his wife, in Clarkston.

She saved those letters, and they provided an avenue for honoring the 40th anniversary of V-E Day with memories of life as a United States Army soldier stationed in Germany.

"I was curious about what I was doing 40 years ago, and I came across this," White said, offering a palm-of-your-hand-size letter.

Labeled V-Mail, it combined comments about hometown events and about the war.

White said he wrote the letter on an 8½-by-11-inch form that was reduced to 4-by-5 inches for mailing. An ink stamp said it was "passed by U.S. Army examiner."

A portion of the letter, dated March 28, 1945, said this:

"Your wandering hero crossed the Rhine yesterday. It was an interesting experience. The address above is only temporary but I believe I'll be here for a while yet. Being with corps is all right and I'm getting around a lot.

"Two copies of the Clarkston News arrived. I was tickled to read of (custodian) Fred Stewart Day at the school.

"Today, we've seen many German prisoners being moved back. They must be amazed when they see our stuff rolling up."

As White looks back, he clearly remembers his feelings on May 8, 1945, the official date of Germany's surrender ending the European phase of World War II.

"V-E Day—one of the happiest days of anyone's life," he said. "You're young and you're alive."

Among White's memories is a bit of history about his hometown newspaper.

"At that time, Bill Stamp (publisher) sent the Clarkston News to everyone that was in the service," he said, noting that he has remained a subscriber all the years since.

White, now age 67, was discharged from the Army in July 1945. He returned to the Clarkston area, where the Whites' sons George and John were born and raised.

After the war, "I started to work at GMC Truck & Coach and lived happily ever after," he said.

Two-year-old Athena weighs over 300 pounds. Her master, Douglas Murdoch, who used to feed her milk with a baby bottle, now feeds her raw steak daily by hand.

Judge visits Athena

By Carolyn Walker

Athena the tiger put on a good show.

Things were well under control at the Murdochs', according to Circuit Court Judge Frederick Mester, who made a trip to see the family's pet tiger May 8.

Athena's right to live in Independence Township has been a source of contention between her owner and township officials since April 1984.

She resides on the 20-acre Allen Road farm of William and Wanda Murdoch with their adult son, Douglas, her master.

The Murdochs, who have raised the cat from a 10-day old kitten, contend the animal is domesticated.

But township officials perceive her as a dangerous threat and have asked the courts to order the cat removed from her home.

Her township fate will ultimately be decided by Mester at a court hearing in June.

Last January, the township zoning board of appeals denied the Murdochs' request for a variance to allow them to house Athena and the bobcat.

The Murdochs subsequently appealed the case to circuit court, where Mester said they could keep the tiger pending the outcome.

Mester's Wednesday visit was to determine if the Murdochs were complying with his orders to reinforce Athena's cage while she awaits her trial.

What he saw pleased him, he said. "It went very nice," said Mester, who petted the cat. "The Murdochs were most hospitable. I didn't feel there was any threat by that animal."

Mester said the cat's compound seemed well constructed. "It was quite secure," he said. "Both animals look very nice. I didn't feel any fear."

Mester was quick to add, however, that Athena's fate must be decided strictly from a legal standpoint without any prejudice on his part.

Township attorney Gerald Fisher attended the meeting along with the judge and Murdoch's attorney Frances Avadenka.

Fisher said all went well during the visit, but that fear of the tiger drove him from the room when the tiger was brought out on a leash.

The Murdochs declined comment on the visit.

Cassandra, the 15-pound bobcat, is about the size of an average-size house cat.

Arson suspected

Arson is suspected in the burning of a car at Clarkston High School.

The smashed car on display as a visual testimony against drunk driving during the week of the high school prom, according to a report at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

The blaze was reported to the Independence Township Fire Department at 3:34 a.m. after the prom, according to firefighter Greg Olrich.

Student found guilty

An 18-year-old Clarkston High School student, who had been charged with felonious assault, was found guilty of a misdemeanor May 9.

She appeared before 52nd District Court Judge Gerald McNally, who reduced the charges to assault and battery.

The charges stemmed from an April fight at CHS between the accused and another student.

While she was originally charged with scratching the student with a nail-studded leather wristband, the wristband was never used as a weapon, McNally said.

"Even though she had the weapon on her, she didn't use it," he said. "There was no connection between the weapon and the assault."

The 18-year-old pled guilty to the misdemeanor charges and was placed on probation for one year.

If she demonstrates good conduct over the year the charges could be dismissed, according to a court spokesperson.

If not, she could be sentenced to 90 days in jail and/or a $100 fine.

Frog party

Kathy Greenfield

I had changed from clothes for work to suitable attire for a frog party.

"Are you and dad going somewhere tonight?" asked my oldest.

"We're going to listen to the frogs," I responded.

"Sure you are."

"No, seriously. We're going to a nature program at Independence Oaks. You know how I've always liked frogs."

"No, mother, I don't think you're weird."

And we were off!

This whole adventure started when a friend saw an item on "Chorus Line," the park program featuring the voices of the eight species of amphibians found there.

He knew I'd like it, he said, because I had gone on the tour of the nine pieces of property donated to the Independence Land Conservancy. He refused to be more specific.

But no matter, he was right.

Frogs are linked to my growing up years. We lived out in the country in Rochester, Mich., and there were frog voices everywhere each springtime.

I can remember great debates with my city cousins about the sounds. The frogs and other night creatures kept them awake when they visited me. When I slept over at their house, the traffic noises kept me awake. We all decided you can get used to anything—but our definitions of anything were vastly different.

To me, there's never been any comparison. Frogs herald springtime like nothing else. Their sounds are soothing and pleasant.

The park program offered to do something else that was appealing. While I've always enjoyed frog sounds, I've never been able to decide which frog makes which sound.

The presentation included slides of each singing frog—and toad—and a recording of its voice.

It was fascinating.

The bullfrog, American toad, and wood leopard, gray tree, chorus, cricket and spring peeper frogs at Independence Oaks have distinctly different voices. Some of them sing all summer; most sing for a short time, then save their voices for the next year.

It reminded me of listening to an orchestra as a whole, then trying to identify each contributing instrument separately.

At home that night, I pondered the traffic noises that only allow nature's sounds to come through when there's a lull.

"I can identify trucks, motorcycles and cars," I thought. "And I think I can recognize the sound of diesel engines. But there's no chance of identifying species—Fordus Motorus? Can't tell."

Bring back the frogs.

Editorial

Some words of caution

Editor's note: The following message was distributed to parents in the Oxford School District. We believe it deserves wider readership.

Graduation from high school is a significant milestone in the lives of our students. As seniors realize the achievement of this important and long-awaited goal, they and their families wish to mark the event with appropriate celebration and ceremony.

Each year at this time, however, inappropriate celebrations create concerns, problems, and sometimes tragedies in our community and throughout the country.

Most often, illegal alcohol consumption among youth, and the subsequent potential for careless driving are the cause of tragedy or misfortune.

In some cases, alcohol related disorderly behavior has disrupted neighborhoods, resulted in personal injury and needless property damage, and caused neighborhood disharmony which often results in long-term resentment.

It must be pointed out initially that it is contrary to law to sell or provide alcoholic beverages to those who are under the legal drinking age. Second, it should also be recognized that furnishing alcoholic beverages to underage persons in their home or at a party may create a serious civil liability potential for hosts in the event an intoxicated person later becomes involved in an accident or other mishap.

Third, alcohol consumption by graduating high school seniors is unnecessary for a significant and enjoyable celebration. For these reasons, parents are urged to do everything possible to discourage the use of alcoholic beverages at parties and other similar activities.

All parents are vitally concerned with the well-being of their children. So are we, and in that spirit we offer the attached information for your consideration in this final quarter of your student's senior year. Our best wishes to you and your Senior for a bright future.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

The media sure gets carried away with anniversaries. Ten years after the fall of Saigon took all the networks to the far East for a week.

I think ABC, NBC, and CBS made us relive those days because that war was their first on-the-scene, every day experience in death and destruction.

Since then the networks have had lots of wars to cover, besides being able to bring considerable footage of death and destructions on highways of south-east Michigan.

Then came the 40th anniversary of the end of the war in Europe during WWII. The where-were-you May 8, 1945 questions got considerable air time.

However, with the President visiting controversial (to those who have time for such things) places, the tv networks were too busy keeping things stirred up to allow much time for that anniversary.

I asked myself where I was 40 years ago and for the life of me I don't know. I know I was aboard AKA 86 in the Pacific and not liking the direction we were going. Someone was intent on finding an island for that amphibious cargo assault ship to land on.

But, at 19, I cared very little about anything happening a half a world away. However, when the media turns it's attention to the 40th anniversary of V-J day, I have vivid recall.

I also have a vivid recall of what happened 30 years ago today. May 15, 1955 Hazel and I committed ourselves to a lifetime of obligation by buying the weekly newspaper in Oxford, Michigan.

Goodness, gracious, two weeks before that I hadn't even heard of Oxford. Like the quote of a printer . . . Two weeks ago I cudn't evn spel printer, now I ar one.

How simple it was to become instant publisher, instant printer, instant editor, and having five days to meet payroll. Small as that payroll seems now, it was big in our eyes.

After three weeks, we started making physical changes and we have never stopped. It's been add on, build anew, buy The Clarkston News and Lake Orion Review, start a shopper or two, quit a shopper or two, and it hasn't ended yet. In a few weeks we're going to start another weekly newspaper, this one in Auburn Hills.

Why not? No use slowing down after only 30 years. Wow, have I changed. Thirty years ago I couldn't wait to quit. Now I hope I don't ever have to.

Give or take a few things, like the recessions of 1957, 1972 and that real blinger 1979-83, it hasn't been too bad.

Maybe it isn't worth trying for another 30 years, but it hasn't been too bad.

Letters to editor

Reunion shared

We've had a Clarkston High School class reunion, too. And we had a wonderful time. We gathered at the Hyatt House in Sarasota, Fla., recently for lunch.

We were not large in numbers, but our numbers were large. You understand?

If you only could have heard us reminisce: Mary reminded us of those wintry days when we slid down the big hill behind her house. Coming into her folks' great, comfortable kitchen to thaw out.

Her mother was a tiny woman with a large family, and I can only remember her in the kitchen. The pantry off the kitchen was filled to the brim with cookies, cakes and pies. I just thought all those goodies grew there.

But no matter how many of us, we were given a delicious molasses cookie with a gob of strawberry jam in the center, and a glass of warm milk, fresh from the 5 o'clock milking.

Virginia's story was next. It was our third grade, we all decided (our memories have shortened) that we went to school in the Town Hall downtown.

Recesses were spent playing hopscotch out in front or who's-got-the-button on the front steps. Our bathroom facilities were out in back, down a narrow path to a little lean-to with a crescent on the door.

Virginia had a tin cup, the envy of all of us, that neatly accorded into a flat surface. She kept it secretly in the back of her desk until time for her drink. Then she disdained the dipper, and would pull that cup up to its full height and daintily drink from that.

Ralph's father kept the Grand Trunk trains from bumping into each other, so he told us, and we believed him. Anyone who could sit at a counter in the bay window of the depot and clickity-clack out messages and make those heaving black monsters do his bidding was never doubted.

Now it is my turn. The day the wooden slats were taken up and real cement poured for sidewalks was a very important day in Clarkston, and my life.

Now we could roller skate, no more getting our wheels caught. I slipped out from under my mother's watchful eye, and took a stick and printed P.K. in the wet cement. For posterity, I didn't know it then.

Mary Miller Haines lived on the farm where now stands the Catholic church on Holcomb Street.

Virginia Clark Owens is a direct descendant of the founders of Clarkston.

Ralph Marshall's father was the Grand Trunk Station Master.

Yes, four of us had a happy 55th Clarkston High School reunion in April 1985.

Thanks for coverage

On behalf of the Youth Enrichment program at Clarkston Elementary, I would like to thank The Clarkston News for the wonderful coverage of the mime class in the April 24 edition of the paper.

Although Clarkston Community Education hires instructors of various ages, all are considered experts in their field.

This past year, we have employed numerous high school clubs to "enrich" and expose the elementary students to all areas of interest.

The CHS Mime club has created an excellent environment for the children to work and explore the art of mime. It was wonderful to see the children and mime club receive the recognition they deserve.

All of the youth enrichment programs throughout the district are looking forward to next fall with anticipation of involving our elementary students in after-school interests.

'If it Fitz ...'

Hollering at the game

Jim Fitzgerald

On this evening at the baseball park, there was no obscene chanting in the bleachers. As he swung, a batter yelled loudly enough to be heard across town, but the words were unintelligible. The purpose of his unusual noise was to summon strength and focus intensity, in the fashion of a karate competitor. There was no need for anyone, not even Tiger President Jim Campbell, to be offended.

TWO NIGHTS earlier, it was different. I sat in the bleachers at Tiger Stadium and listened to creatures use the dreaded f-word in a boisterous chant. Almost invariably, these creatures are white males, ages 17 to 28, who wear T-shirts and travel in asininity-loves-company packs.

The loudspeaker pleaded for a stop to the profanity, but to no avail. Tiger Stadium has weakened its beer and stopped sales during late innings. And, on this night, I was particularly impressed with the thoroughness of the bottle-beach ball search each customer had to endure before entering.

The security man patted my front and instructed me to turn around so he could do the same to my rear. Sure, it is necessary, but that doesn't make it any less demeaning. Perhaps a bleacher customer should be required to show a notarized letter from his minister attesting to the bearer's clean mouth, or at least a note from his mother.

MODERN LIFE-STYLES are tough on good manners. I know dirty words, but use them quietly when I know they'll offend no one. That is the old-fashioned code: Never swear in front of women or children. Today, in their quest for equal footing, many women display foul mouths. That is OK with me, as long as they don't do it in front of my grandchildren. Thus the code has been weakened. The ultimate restriction will be never to swear in front of the pope.

Anyway, I didn't have much fun my most recent night in the bleachers, a few days before Jim Campbell closed them. It wasn't only the dirty chanting, but also the fear that some reckless moralist might tell the jerks to shut up and get punched in return, starting a brawl that could bruise my precious skin. Besides, the Tigers lost, 11 to 2.

TWO EVENINGS later the baseball scene shifted to the diamond at the Free Press printing plant for a long-ball contest between reporters Glen Macnow and Peter Gavrilovich. In honor of being the only person present old enough to be President Reagan, I threw out the first ball.

It was the classic struggle between a young, well-trained, superbly equipped hotdog who plays ball every weekend, and an older, long-retired sandlotter, trained on coffee and cigarets, who hopes he has one good swing left.

Macnow the younger is a 1984 graduate of the Tiger Fantasy Camp, where he got a hit off Mickey Lolich. Before coming to bat, he dramatically removed his sweat suit to reveal a gleaming white Tiger uniform. Gavrilovich wore soiled trousers and an old Hawaiian shirt.

Macnow unsheathed a bat signed by all the Tigers. Gavrilovich's small children ran onto the field and upset their father's timing. Also, Gavrilovich's batting coach, Jim Crutchfield, kept telling him to hit the ball. In his regular job as city editor, Crutchfield tells reporters to write words.

Each man got 20 swings. On his last try, Macnow let loose a terrible yell and smashed a pop fly just beyond Gavrilovich's best effort, turning a humiliating defeat into a fluke victory.

The betting was spirited and the Police Athletic League dragged the pot, $42.50 worth. I lost $5 and chanted obscenely under my breath. It was more fun than the Tiger bleachers.

In response to MORC spokesperson . . .

This guest editorial is intended to address the remarks by John Toronne, public affairs director of the Macomb Oakland Regional Center (MORC).

His remarks in the May 8 edition of The Clarkston News concerned the proposed amendment to the Michigan Adult Foster Care Facility Act of 1979. If approved by the state legislature, the amendment will limit adult foster care facility resident concentration to 0.4 percent of the community population.

Mr. Toronne's comment: "The bottom line is discrimination."

Response: Yes! It is discrimination by MORC and the Department of Social Services (DSS) against communities and the normal residents to further MORC's needs, i.e. maximize facility placement. No! It is not discrimination against the mentally impaired. The proposed bill does not eliminate any existing adult foster care facilities, even though they may be creating excessive concentration currently, and it encourages additional placement in proportion to the natural occurrence of the mentally impaired in a given community.

Mr. Toronne's comment: "If you use the quota system, (0.4 percent), they (mentally impaired) won't be able to live in their own community."

Response: Mr. Toronne obviously doesn't understand the proposed bill since it will actually achieve the opposite; that is, encourage the mentally impaired placement in their community. Note that the natural occurrence in humanity of mentally impaired persons requiring placement is less than 0.4 percent when compared to the population. By limiting placement to 0.4 percent, it will prevent "excessive concentration" in some communities, unless the community specifically wants to exceed the proposed limit, and will encourage more normal distribution in all communities.

Mr. Toronne's comment: "It's nothing new. It's a political issue."

Response: True! It is a political issue, since MORC

Guest commentary

By Sam Cataldo

and the DSS have abused their responsibility and not considered the rights of all citizens. False! It is also a legal issue since for six years, MORC and the DSS have ignored the "excessive concentration" provision in facility placement. Ask why DSS has been directed by the attorney general to begin considering the law and develop a standard only after the United Neighbors of Independence Township (UNIT) exposed the issue in Lansing. Of course, if we left the setting of a standard to the DSS or MORC, it would be "leaving the fox to watch the chicken coop" since they didn't recognize the existing law until directed to do so.

Mr. Toronne's comment: "Communities are cooperating. As long as it's reasonable on both sides, we're agreeable. We give them opportunity for input."

Response: Communities have cooperated until the abuse by MORC and the DSS became excessive. Also, as long as the communities agreed with these agencies, it was "reasonable." As soon as the same communities objected to the excessive concentration, they were "discriminating." This means the state agencies are their own judge and jury as to what's "reasonable."

Mr. Toronne's comment: "People don't understand the process."

Response: True! We didn't understand the process until MORC and the DSS abused it. Now that we understand the process very well, we have found that it has resulted in arbitrary and capricious placement of facilities leading to "excessive concentration" in several communities.

Mr. Toronne's comment: "Mentally retarded people can learn."

Response: True! They can learn, they can hold competitive jobs, they can be married and have children. In fact, of the 3 percent of the mentally impaired people in the nation, less than 0.4 percent require facilities such as those being placed by MORC and the DSS. That is specifically why UNIT has supported the bill being introduced in Lansing, to limit the concentration of mentally impaired to that which occurs naturally, i.e. a maximum of 0.4 percent.

In closing, we'd like to add the following: Every time UNIT has supplied facts, well supported by experts, MORC and the DSS have supplied emotion and accusations that we are discriminating or worse.

When UNIT exposed our data in detail to MORC, they did not refute the data. This is reasonable, since much of the data showing "excessive concentration" in Independence Township was MORC's data, that they chose to ignore.

If UNIT's data and position is unjust or unfounded, we challenge MORC and the DSS to a public debate and review of the facts to let the public determine whether UNIT or the state agencies are providing a more just solution for all citizens.

We further challenge Mr. Toronne of MORC to substantiate his statements that either UNIT or the proposed amendment to the existing law is discriminatory.

We continue to find it incredible that, as private

Promotions OK'd

Two job promotions were approved at the May 7 meeting of the Independence Township Board in a 6-1 vote. And one job reclassification was approved, 4-3.

Sandra McDonald, a file clerk at the township building department, was promoted to the position of Clerk I following the recommendation of department supervisor Kenneth Delbridge. She will receive a pay raise of $1.30 per hour bringing her hourly wage to $7.40.

Similarly, Craig Richardson, a utility laborer for the department of public works, was promoted to the position of Laborer I, following the recommendation of department supervisor George Anderson. He will now earn $8.60 per hour as opposed to his previous pay of $7.65.

Voting against the changes was Clerk Richard Holman, who said the two have less than one year's experience on their respective jobs.

McDonald and Richardson were recommended for promotions because Delbridge and Anderson said they contribute more work than their job descriptions require, according to Holman.

Finally, Hodgie Seit was reclassified from Secretary 1 to Secretary 2 and given a 20-cent raise, bringing her pay to $8.60 per hour.

UNIT protests state's approach

citizens, we have to defend ourselves against state agencies which ignore the very law they pretend to uphold; that we are called discriminators when we are discriminated against.

That when we present facts, the agencies present emotional dribble which defies the facts; that we have to expose this abuse and lead the fight when we have paid people to do this.

Thank goodness for some visionaries, such as State Sen. Richard Fessler and our local officials.

We urge all citizens to show their support for Senator Fessler and this proposed bill by contacting their representatives in Lansing this week.

We also urge MORC and the DSS to examine the facts, stop the emotionalism, and support this bill since it is a fair and reasonable approach to resolve the long-standing confrontation between the agencies and the communities, for the benefit of all citizens.

Temporary signs may be removed

By Carolyn Walker

Most temporary signs will evaporate from the Independence Township landscape if the planning commission has its way.

Following a public hearing May 9, the commission unanimously recommended township board approval of an amendment to the temporary sign ordinance which would place a 90-day restriction on real estate signs and outlaw all other temporary signs.

Before becoming part of the law, the township board must approve the amendment.

The township has had trouble enforcing the current standards, with rolling, lighted signs being the worst offenders, said commission chairman Neil Wallace.

"We're not trying to hurt businesses by our conduct here tonight. We just feel that we have no other way to attack this problem," Wallace said in reaction to complaints by two members of the audience.

Iva Sommers Caverly and Robert Watson voiced concerns about how the amendment would affect their businesses.

Caverly, who sells bittersweet from her Waldon Road home, asked the commission what constituted a temporary sign.

She was told by township planner Richard Carlisle that any signs without permanent foundations, such as garage sale and political signs, were considered temporary.

"How do you decide which of these are slightly to you or to somebody else?" she asked. "They (bittersweet signs) always advertise Clarkston."

"The enforcement people of this township are unlikely to go up against you, and certainly not more than once," Wallace responded. "We know and recognize that in passing this ordinance things are going to fall through the cracks."

"Our preliminary concern has been...we have a blight in this community...up and down Dixie...up and down M-15."

Watson, a representative of Alice Condon, owner of Leo's Pizza on Sashabaw Road, agreed with Caverly.

"You know that a lot of businesses have paid a lot of money for these signs," he said. "You should make these things look tidy. A lot of businesses rely on these signs."

The planning commission began studying the temporary sign issue in early 1985, after a request from the building department, said building department director Kenneth Delbridge.

People can obtain permission for temporary signs for special events from the zoning board of appeals, he added.

Delbridge further explained that the issue had been presented to the Business Association of Independence Township in an effort to alert businesses to the situation.

Wallace said passing an amendment seemed to offer the only solution.

"We're just not getting the kind of compliance we need," he said.

No date has been set for consideration of the proposed amendment by the township board.

Township aesthetics studied

The beauty of Independence Township is the topic.

Spurred on by a desire to protect the looks of the area, planning commission Chairman Neil Wallace appointed a sub-committee to study the community's aesthetics May 9.

Wallace took action during the commission meeting after approving the final site plan for Randy Hosler's proposed Dixie Highway car dealership.

"I think that the Hosler proposal is the prime example of the need in the community to have some say about what buildings look like," said Wallace after the meeting.

Commission members asked Hosler to make his proposed building more "Clarkston looking" at a previous meeting.

Hosler subsequently made changes in his landscaping design, but none on the building.

At the May 9 meeting, township planner Richard

Carlisle told the commission it was inappropriate to discuss the aesthetics of a building.

Wallace disagreed and to support his stance on the issue, cited two legal cases which set precedents for aesthetics in 1981 and 1984.

"Aesthetics is a proper concern of local government," Wallace said. "It's new stuff."

The sub-committee, made up of commission members David Katz, Joseph Figa and John Gray, will be chaired by Gray.

Its purpose will be to "come up with an ordinance provision that will set standards for aesthetics in the community," said Wallace.

The ordinance revisions should address building materials and general style, Wallace said, and they will apply to commercial buildings and possibly mobile homes, but not residences.

The township currently has provisions which dictate the size of berms used for screening and the types and sizes of plants used in landscaping.

Safety path plans

Safety paths are going to grow in Independence Township.

New additions are part of improvements scheduled for the Waldon-Sashabaw intersection to begin this fall, according to Independence Township Clerk Richard Holman.

On May 7, the township board agreed to appropriate up to $15,000 for the construction of a section from the I-75 bridge at Sashabaw to the front of the Cowan Chiropractic building.

Independence Township will pay for the actual paving of 1,000 feet of safety path, Holman said.

The Michigan Department of Transportation has agreed to pay an additional estimated $15,000 for the construction of curbs, sewers, signals and embankments on Sashabaw Road near the intersection.

The intersection has been the site of several serious accidents.

Construction is scheduled for the fall of 1985, according to Holman.

Catherine Hogue celebrates her 101st birthday with a letter from Gov. James Blanchard. "It makes me feel big," she says of the note.

She's 101!

By Carolyn Walker

The simplicities of farm life and a dedication to the church paid off in years for Catherine Hogue.

The Independence Township resident celebrated her 101st birthday amid family and friends Sunday at Pontiac General Hospital, where she is a patient.

Hogue moved to Independence 13 years ago after a fall at work at age 88 forced her into retirement.

Previous to that time, she had worked as an altar maid at St. Elizabeth Church in her home state of Pennsylvania.

She speaks fondly of that time; and of her years as a farm girl, where she milked cows, gathered eggs and even rode horseback for a midwife during her twin brothers' births.

"It was pretty tough," she says, of the midnight ride for help, adding that she rode, "a good long piece."

Widowed in 1958, Hogue lives with her grandson Michael Mousse and his family.

Wolves net 1st title

Lake Orion is a distant second

By Dan Vandenhemel

For the first time, the Clarkston Wolves are league champions in tennis.

The Wolves dominated the league tournament at Waterford Oaks County Park and Waterford Mott High School, May 10.

By winning five matches, the Wolves came out with 18½ points. Lake Orion was second with 9 followed by Mott with 7½, Waterford Kettering with 4 and Pontiac Northern with 3.

Wolves' victories in singles were posted by John Reading at No. 2, Grant Reading at No. 3 and Ron Hammond at No. 4. Winning on the doubles courts were the No. 1 team of Matt Hargett and Dan Travis, and No. 2 Dan Martin and Steve Weidemann.

Consolation triumphs by No. 1 singles Bob Adams and No. 3 doubles Ron Morlock and Allain Draguet helped widen the victory margin.

The tournament was expected to be closer between Clarkston and Lake Orion. The two teams split dual meets earlier in the season.

"I guess it was 50-50 of who was going to win," Wolves' coach Dick Swartout said. "They had two players suspended, but I think we still would have won."

Winning the Greater Oakland Activities League accomplished half of Swartout's goal at the start of the year.

"I wanted to win the league and win 10 dual matches," he said. "We've got one more dual with Lakeland and we're 9-4, so we could do it."

The next step for the Wolves is the state regional meet. Swartout isn't setting his sights too high for this one, though. Also in the regional are Bloomfield Hills Lahser, West Bloomfield and Rochester.

"They should be in the top four with Holly pretty close, too," Swartout said. "I'd like to finish in the top half, which would put us eighth or ninth."

League coaches also voted on all-league selections and three from Clarkston made the list, Bob Adams, Grant Reading and John Reading.

Birtsas makes last leap to major leagues

By Dan Vandenhemel

Instead of pitching in Phoenix in front of a large minor league crowd, Tim Birtsas was on the mound for the Oakland A's.

The 1978 graduate of Clarkston High School made the trip to Oakland to replace injured pitcher Curt Young. The major league club didn't waste any time getting Birtsas into a game.

On his first day with the parent ball club, the A's were losing, 10-0, to Boston and the 24-year-old Birtsas came in to pitch in the 8th inning.

He walked the first batter, then gave up a single and a force out. After another walk, he struck out the next two batters to retire the side.

The next inning Birtsas walked three, got two ground outs and another strike out and didn't allow a run.

"He was a little wild in his first outing. He didn't get much sleep that night," said Tim's father, Gus Birtsas, principal at Sashabaw Junior High School. "Those three strike outs were the only ones against Boston all night."

The next trip to the mound was also in relief and with the A's losing badly, this time to Toronto, 10-1.

"He says this is where he wants to be the rest of his life."

—Gus Birtsas

In two innings of work, he allowed one hit, one walk and struck out three.

"He wasn't as shaky this time," the elder Birtsas said. "They (the A's) are breaking him in when the game is over. Eventually they want him to be a started, but they're breaking him in slow."

Birtsas was drafted and signed by the New York Yankees in 1982 and was traded to the A's this winter.

"Tim's called home after every game," said his father. "He says this is where he wants to be the rest of his life. The veterans on the team are treating him wonderfully. They've bought him dinner and breakfast because they know the rookies don't have a lot of money. Everyone is being marvelous to him."

The A's will be in Detroit to play the Tigers on May 29 and 30 but it's not known if Birtsas will still be with the team.

"It depends on what the A's do when Young comes off the disabled list. Tim could go back to the minors," Birtsas said.

Anchors away

Crooked Lake is getting set for boaters of all sizes to hit the shores.

The 68-acre lake in Independence Oaks County Park on Sashabaw Road in Independence Township will be open to the public May 18.

The park is offering rowboats, canoes and pedal boats for rent. Rowboats cost $3 an hour or $10 for the day. Canoes are $3 an hour and the pedal boats are $3 per half-hour.

Visitors to the park can fish for northern pike, bass, panfish and crappie in Crooked Lake.

For more information, call 858-0906.

Todd Olsen delivers the ball to home plate as an Avondale runner sprints for second on a steal attempt. Olsen pitches the Wolves to a 8-0 shutout victory. He strikes out nine and gives up only three hits. The Wolves raise their record to 9-3 with the win.

Best record within reach for CHS Wolves

By Dan Vandenhemel

There's no mistaking the excitement track coach Walt Wynnemko feels about this year's team at Clarkston High School.

The boys' team is sporting a clean 6-0 record and the Wolves have a chance to finish with the best record in years.

"Two years ago we were 6-2," the coach said. "I'm very optimistic about this year. The kids are working very hard."

Part of the Wolves' success can be attributed to the number of athletes on the team. With 35 still on the squad, Wynnemko has enough to be competitive. "The one thing we have is depth, particularly in the field events," Wynnemko said.

The Wolves won all five events at the home meet against Avondale and took the meet, 96-41.

Chad Snover led the way by winning the discus and shot put. The Wolves swept the top three places in each of those events. Kevin and Keith Krupp were second and third in the discus, while in the shot put Steve Morris was second and Brian Campbell was third.

The pole vault winner was Matt Scharl and Norman Carmichael was third. More depth came in the long jump as Shawn MacCartey won the event with teammate Pablo Rebufello coming in third. The high jump went to Chris Poulas.

"No question, the field events are carrying us," Wynnemko said.

Other first-place winners for the Wolves against Avondale were Matt Beamer in the 1-mile run; the 440-yard relay team; Jim Hall in 440-yard dash; Mark Foyteck in the 330-yard low hurdles; Bill Bastuba in the 880-yard run; MacCartey in the 220-yard dash; and Jeff Toretta in the 2-mile run.

Track championship in sight

By Dan Vandenhemel

If the Clarkston girls' track team stays healthy, coach Gordy Richardson believes they can win the state regionals.

The event at West Bloomfield High School, May 18, could place the Wolves in the state finals.

"I think we've got a pretty good chance of winning it," Richardson said. "I'm hoping for at least the top five. Our chances are pretty good."

But having a healthy team is a must for the Wolves, especially when there are only 14 on the team.

"We just go through week by week," Richardson said. "It's the little injuries that hurt. We've had three stress fractures and assorted other problems."

The lack of people doesn't mean there's a lack of talent. Of the 16 events in each dual meet, the Wolves take firsts in about 12. In the two most recent, Avondale and Milford, the Wolves had 29 firsts.

"We have very good talent in each event," the coach said. "The other team may get the seconds and thirds, but we're getting the firsts most of the time."

"I'm certain some of the opposing coaches wonder how we keep winning with so few people," he continued. "We're just so well balanced."

Richardson says he can almost count on seniors

"I think we've got a pretty good chance. . . I'm hoping for at least the top five."

—Gordy Richardson

Kim Ottman and Bridget Kilcline to take their events, as well as juniors Jennifer Farough, Shivonne DeBoer and Kecia Powell, and sophomores Kathleen McInnis and Lisa Ladd.

Winning is becoming a regular occurrence. Over the past four seasons, Richardson estimates the team has tallied a 28-4 record. So far this year, they are undefeated at 6-0. The boys' squad has the same record.

"It's never happened before," Richardson said of both teams finishing with undefeated marks. "But it could happen."

Laura Hurren gets the signal from coach Carla Teare to finish her home run.

Wolves lag at season's end

By Dan Vandenhemel

The gears on the Wolves' winning softball machine are slipping.

With some of the state's best softball teams at the annual Royal Oak Dondero tournament, the Clarkston varsity softball team made a quick exit from the weekend event.

After opening with a 3-0 whitewash of Flint Kearsley, the Wolves lost, 5-4, to Chelsea and, 8-6, to Regina Harper Woods.

Waterford Mott won the two-day tournament as they defeated Chelsea in the finals.

The downfall at the powerful tournament followed a close, 4-3, defeat to Lake Orion the day before. But the week was not all bad: The Wolves beat Flint Carman twice by identical 4-2 scores on May 8.

"We're just not playing well right now," coach Carla Teare said. "What's happening is we're getting in trouble with too many people on base. We're giving up a lot of walks and errors."

The Wolves still have a very respectable 11-5 record but the current losing spell is a concern to Teare. With the pre-district qualifier against Lake Orion on May 16, Teare is trying to get the team on track.

"I'm going to switch some people around to see what will happen," the coach said. "We've got good talent. We've got a good ball club. We're just going to try some different things."

The errors aren't as troubling to Teare as they could be.

"It's not like they're not trying," she said. "They are physical errors and you can't do much about those. If they were mental errors, you could do something. You know, it's not like they're trying to make errors; it just happens."

Dome half sewed

This aerial of the Pontiac Silverdome was taken Thursday, May 9 by Oxford Leader photographer Kevin Batchelder. Officials stated that as of Tuesday the roof, torn apart in an ice-wind storm earlier this year, is 50 percent complete. Target date for completion is June 15.

Predicts end

Work on the Valentine Industrial Park will be finished by the end of 1985, says owner Al Valentine.

Valentine made the prediction at the Springfield Township Board's meeting May 8, and the board voted to take steps to assure completion of the project.

The four-year-old complex has been the focus of the township board throughout 1985, and there have been complaints by residents, said Supervisor Collin Walls.

"I've talked to Mr. Valentine for a couple of years about finishing it," said Walls. "We've talked seriously the last year, not that it wasn't serious before."

Board members expressed concern over completion of grading, paving, drainage and a berm between the complex and a residential area.

In a unanimous vote, they directed Walls to seek information about their options and report back at the next meeting, June 12.

Clerk to trip

A three-day trip to the Government Finance Officers Association (GFOA) conference in Chicago, Ill., is in store for Independence Township Clerk Richard Holman.

On May 7, the township board unanimously authorized Holman's trip at an approximate cost of $900 to the township.

The money will cover the $235 registration fee and his motel and eating expenses while in Chicago.

The national conference, sponsored by the GFOA, includes finance professionals from the United States and Canada.

Conference topics include health care cost containment and evaluating banks and financial institutions.

Holman will deliver a speech on fixed asset accounting while at the conference, which begins May 27.

Commission OK's expansion

By Carolyn Walker

Success was sweet for a smiling Charles Bowles as he left the Independence Township planning commission meeting May 9.

After three trips before the commission and several renovations on his plans, the new Ritter's owner received final approval to expand his facility.

When he obtained conceptual site plan approval in April, Bowles was asked to decrease asphalt usage, obtain a wetlands permit for property at the rear of the site and receive approval for a 1-foot setback variance from the zoning board of appeal.

According to the commissioners, Bowles met their stipulations.

"I like the project now," said commissioner Lou Hewko.

Commissioner David Katz agreed. "I think that Mr. Bowles has done virtually everything that we asked him to do."

Bowles proposes expanding the current facility to 8,800 feet. It will house offices and a meat and fish market.

The final site plan approval was issued with four restrictions. They are:

- Proof of ownership of property behind the market, which Bowles is currently purchasing from the Ritter family. Bowles said he expects to close on the purchase in two weeks.

- An agreement not to extend an alley behind the market beyond the Ritter property to the west.

- An agreement to address the matter of landscaping between Ritter's and the Burger King Restaurant.

- A meeting with the township engineers regarding a wetlands permit. A letter notifying neighboring residents of proposed changes must be sent; and if there are no objections within 30 days the permit will be issued.

TEACHER DAY USA: A special lunch for the 291 teachers in the Clarkston school district marked Teacher Day USA on May 8. The celebration included a meal of cold cuts and salads served during the regular lunch hours at each of the district's eight schools and at the vocational school. "It's the first time this has happened to my knowledge and it created a lot of goodwill," said Conrad Bruce, administrative assistant to the superintendent. "It was very positive. (The lunches) were received very well by the staff. The kitchens did a very nice job." Pictured here are the teachers at Clarkston High School who dined in the library during the first of three lunch hours.

40 acres secured by board

By Carolyn Walker

After five years of negotiating with property owner Edward C. Levy Mining Co., Independence Township has purchased 40 acres along Sashabaw Road.

The land, adjacent to Independence Oaks County Park, was formerly part of a proposed mining site.

The purchase agreement was executed on April 25, when the township made its first payment of $33,554.23 toward the property's $99,454.80 cost.

The remainder of the bill will be paid in installments on the next three anniversaries of the purchase.

Independence Township voters approved the purchase at the annual meeting March 30.

At the time of the purchase, a deed restriction was placed on the 40 acres, and 20 acres across Sashabaw Road, which will prevent mining for at least 50 years.

Township officials have not yet determined how the land will be used. They have considered deeding a 20-acre portion of the property to Oakland County Parks and Recreation for addition to Independence Oaks.

They have also considered re-selling the property with the deed restrictions remaining intact.

The 40-acre purchase was the second for the township, which bought 80 acres from Levy in 1983.

That property was annexed to Clintonwood Park, increasing its size to 120 acres.

In March, Oakland County purchased 184 acres from Levy to add to Independence Oaks for $435,000.

Mowers bought

Two new tractor mowers should ease lawn maintenance at Lakeview Cemetery.

At last week's meeting, the Independence Township Board agreed to purchase the Excel Hustler mowers for $10,900 from W. F. Miller Co. Turf Equipment of Birmingham.

Pontiac State Bank offers low cost, variable rate loans on new cars. The rate during May is 10.75% Annual Percentage Rate.

This low rate gives you a lower monthly payment when compared to standard bank loans. Once you take out a loan the rate may change every three months. This causes the term to change, but your monthly payment always stays the same throughout the entire length of the loan.

If you'd like a lower monthly payment, come to any PSB office and check out all details.

Mauti: 'some very good years'

Clarkston High School's principal retires

By Kathy Greenfield

After nine years at the helm of Clarkston High School and 33 years as an educator, CHS Principal Dominic Mauti is retiring.

Mauti, who celebrates his 57th birthday May 16, made the announcement to the teachers at CHS May 8.

Later that day, he talked about his decision, comparing it to when he decided to stop coaching CHS varsity basketball after 12 years.

"I feel that it's better to pull out when you're going strongly than to pull out when you're having a downhill," he said. "I've had some very good years with Clarkston and I want to keep it that way."

His plans for the future are uncertain, although he talked about job offers outside the education field and about the possibility of starting his own business.

"I'll be working in another area, and I don't know what that area will be," he said. "I'm wide open. I'm going to be very selective in what I take."

He and his wife, Louise, plan to stay in the Clarkston area, where they raised their three children, all of whom attended Clarkston schools "K through 12," Mauti said with pride in his voice.

He plans to garden, work on their house, visit with their three grandchildren and possibly pursue a furniture-making hobby.

Louise, a secretary at the Clarkston Community Learning Center, plans to keep her job for at least another year.

When Mauti first joined the staff at Clarkston High School in 1952, he taught drafting and physical education and coached basketball, track and football.

"My first year was something I'll never forget because I got out of college and came right here and won the Class C District Basketball Championship—the first one the school won," he said.

Mauti spent 26 of the next 33 years at CHS including 12 as a teacher, one as athletic director and counselor, and four as assistant principal. From 1969 to 1976 he was assistant principal at Rochester Adams High School. He returned to CHS as principal in 1976.

While assistant principal at CHS, he served under then-principal Milford Mason, who is now superintendent of Clarkston schools.

"He's both a personal friend and a professional friend," said Mason. "It's been a pleasure to work with him... He's been a very true, loyal person. Loyal to the school district and to the people who have worked for him and to me, and that quality is something that I very much prize."

Mauti is taking advantage of the school district retirement plan offered for employees over age 55 who have worked at least 30 years.

He retires June 28, shortly after the June 16 graduation date of the CHS Class of 1985.

"Working with the seniors toward graduation is always exciting," he said. "You see the kids going through the ranks—that's something I'm going to miss."

"I've had a lot of great memories from the high school and there will be more memories. Just because I'm going to leave does not mean I will not be participating in some of the events here."

Visions aloft

THEIR IMAGINATIONS SOARING, some 60 kindergartners at North Sashabaw Elementary School let go of helium-filled balloons. That afternoon, their balloons were joined by the rest of the school population's, for a total of about 452. "I wish I could fly!" and "It's going to England!" were among the kindergartner's remarks as they watched the blue balloons quickly become dots in the sky. Last year, about 20 people sent notes saying balloons were found as far away as Massachusetts and Canada. During the first PTO-sponsored balloon liftoff, they floated to the south, but this year the winds carried them east, said Linda Sutton, PTO co-president with Pat Summers. The May 10th event was a kickoff for the next-day school fair and the multipurpose room dedication. "North Sashabaw Wildcats" was printed on each balloon and a label carried the school's address and the name of the pupil who cast it to the wind. In a vote this year, the pupils selected "Wildcats" as their school nickname.

She gives 100 percent

Carolyn Young is herself the product of educators dating back to her paternal grandfather, the principal of a small community school with charges ranging from first-graders to high school seniors.

Her father was a secondary school teacher and she has two teacher siblings.

Carolyn believes that each person has a special calling and gift. Hers is a love for children.

"To instill in each child a feeling of self-worth and pride of accomplishment" is important to Carolyn. And especially rewarding, she feels, is the "unlocking to each child of the written word and all that it has to offer."

Carolyn was born and raised in Jackson, Miss. In 1957 she received a bachelor's of religious education degree from Southwestern Baptist Seminary. Five years and three children later, she received her bachelor's degree in education from Mississippi College.

More recently she has studied learning disabilities, reading diagnosis and various techniques of remediation at Michigan State University, Western Michigan University and Nazareth College.

She has had experience as a first, second and sixth grade teacher. She worked for seven years as a Title I teacher and reading consultant for the Van Buren County Intermediate School District. She was the director of the summer Head Start program there for two years.

For 11 years she has worked as a Title I reading teacher for the Clarkston system at Andersonville, Pine Knob and Sashabaw schools. She has also tutored privately.

Carolyn's husband, Dwight, is a minister and Carolyn has shared in his ministry in many ways, most importantly by serving as a preschool consultant for the Oakland County Southern Baptist Association.

There are four daughters. Carolyn states that it was quite a challenge to return to pursuing professional goals after having started her family.

Carolyn Young believes that each person has a special calling and gift. Hers is a love for children.

Not surprisingly, Carolyn's first daughter, Brenda, is a teacher at a Texas university. Peggy, presently an accountant, is married and the mother of two delightful boys. Sharon is married, is an executive assistant for a chain of South Carolina department stores, and wants to become a teacher. Sandy is a college freshman interested in majoring in psychology.

Music, camping, reading and travel are ties that bind the Young family together. Carolyn, presently a Waterford resident, has lived in the southern and western United States as well as the Canadian provinces of Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

She feels she has a particular understanding of Canada and Canadian culture.

Her travel experience includes England, France and Africa when Brenda was serving there as a missionary.

Carol is a modest, caring person about whom a colleague has remarked that "she gives 100 percent." And Clarkston children are the lucky beneficiaries.

Editor's note: An Apple for the Teacher is provided through a committee of the Clarkston Education Association.

This week's author is Dorothy Leaming, a school social worker.

Author to speak at society meeting

A special program has been planned for the Clarkston Community Historical Society's annual meeting May 22.

Author James Genco, assistant United States attorney, has been invited to review his "To the Sound of Musketry and Tap of the Drum."

The book is a collection of nearly 100 letters from a young Clarkston soldier, Harold J. Bartlett, owner of a local harness shop and saddler of Battery D. He wrote the letters to his wife and family over a three-year separation.

Genco is the great-great-grandson of Bartlett. During his presentation, he'll share his research on Civil War history as well as the story of his search for the letters that led to the book.

The meeting is open to members of the society and the general public. It is to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot, Clarkston.

Judges sing praises of 'Encores'

Verbal honors came the way of the Sashabaw Junior High School "Encores" at the Northern Region Show Choir Festival at Macomb Community College.

The select group of 18 eighth- and ninth-graders performed a 10-minute show before four judges, then had a 20-minute critique and worked with a professional choreographer.

As the only junior high school show choir participating among all high school groups, the Encores were not considered for the trophies presented at the end of the day.

"Even so, the judges were highly impressed with their stage presence and poise, and the caliber of their presentation," said their teacher Jan Merz.

"They were particularly praised for their vocal sound, and in retrospect, some judges felt the Encores would have placed higher than some of the high school groups, if allowed to compete."

2,500-YEAR-OLD FIND: Timothy Higgins holds a piece of an American Indian ceramic jar he and other Western Illinois University archeological field students found near the Mississippi River south of Warsaw, Ill. A senior archeology major at Michigan State University, Higgins took the course at WIU during the spring semester. "We were surveying along (in a farmer's field) and we found part of the pottery," says Higgins. "We found the pottery in about umpteen million pieces." The find was very important for archeologists who study North American Indians, he says. "This type of vessel, the method, was when the Indians were just beginning to make pottery. It was 2,500 years old." After restoration, the vessel will be about two feet high and have a capacity of four to five gallons. Higgins plans to pursue a career in archeology in the Americas. He resides on Bluegrass Drive in Independence Township.

Dear Cat Paw:
Can you get high on rubber cement?

Student

Dear Student:
Glue is an inhalant. Inhalants are extremely dangerous! A number of fatalities related indirectly to the actions of sniffers have been reported.

Inhalants in the system may lead to permanent damage to the brain, bone marrow and the liver and kidneys. "Sudden sniffing death," related to heart failure, has also been reported.

Tolerance to these substances can develop after a few weeks of continuous use. Inhalants are dangerous—stay away from them!

Dear Cat Paw:
Are there drugs going around in the Clarkston area? If so, are there any in the junior high?

Sixth-grader

Dear Sixth-grader:
You are fortunate to have gotten to the sixth grade without any exposure to drugs! Clarkston is no different than any city, town or village.

Kids are beginning to use drugs on the national average in fifth grade, and 93 percent of the kids try drugs.

I have personally spoken with students who confessed to beginning drug use in the second grade in Clarkston.

Dear Cat Paw:
What should you do if you think someone you know is a drug dealer?

Concerned

Dear Concerned:
I would make an anonymous phone call or write an anonymous letter to the proper authorities.

Dear Cat Paw:
Do you refer to beer as a drug? Can a person get addicted to beer?

Wondering

Dear Wondering:
Yes to both questions! Beer contains ethyl alcohol, which is in wine, beer and whiskey. Ethyl alcohol is a drug. It is just as easy to become addicted to beer as it is to wine or whiskey—ask any alcoholic.

Dear Cat Paw:
Can you get drunk from non-alcoholic beer?

Curious

Dear Curious:
If the beer does not contain ethyl alcohol, you can not become addicted.

Cat Paw author Jeanette Sanders, a Springfield Township resident, is a member of the Chemical People of Clarkston, an organization devoted to the prevention of drug abuse by young people.

The total millage rate for 1985 Village taxes will remain at 9.4 mills, 7.4 mills for the General Fund and 2 mills for the debt retirement fund for sewer construction.

The Village Council is authorized a maximum millage rate of 12.5 mills for General Fund purposes.

By maintaining the 2 mill rate for the debt retirement fund, the increased revenues amount to 1.48 per cent in the amount of $389.80.

Hearst Castle

"Pleasure is worth what you can afford to pay for it."

William Randolph Hearst

Archectural achievement for art fancier's dream

Three guests houses, A, B, and C they were called, in Mediterranean village fashion, around the Castle. Left is the outdoor pool.

By Jim Sherman, publisher

On the 50th anniversary of Hearst Castle in 1969 the commemorative book said it is the "most spectacular private residence ever imagined by a human being."

And, "It is the most costly and unusual private residence ever erected for an uncrowned mortal".

Take your pick: It is gross, it is magnificent, it's excessive, it's awesome. But, if you get a chance, go see Hearst Castle.

I found it cold and museum-like inside. At no time, however, did I wish I hadn't spent $8 for the tour. Outside the grounds are groomed to perfection, with flowers, bushes and trees blooming and growing in organized profusion.

Since we started planning to visit Hearst Castle in San Simeon, California I increasingly wondered how one person could accumulate so much money as to be able to spend $50 million on a home.

It has four floors and mezzanine covering 73,510 sq. ft.

Another thought was why would a man start such a project so late in life?

You learn the answers to these questions early in the tour. By the way, the tours are really professional. Our guide, Kirby Shaw, was very thorough.

William Randolph Hearst, called Willie by his parents, and from now on referred to as WRH, was born the only child of very rich parents. That helps.

And, he built the place for his girl friend, with whom, we were told, he started living with in 1925, two years before they moved into La Casa Grande, Spanish for The Big House.

Now let's go back to the starting gate. San Simeon is about 250 miles south of San Francisco and 210 miles north of Los Angeles on narrow, scenic, curving, Highway 1.

WRH's father, George Hearst, bought his first 40,000 acres in this area in 1865, two years after WRH was born. He paid 75 cents an acre. At the time the senior Hearst had made bundles of money in mining, owning among many other things, the Anaconda Mine in Montana, the fifth largest copper, gold and silver mine at the time.

Mr Hearst was so good at what he did, once he was paid $50,000 just to look at some land for it's mining potential.

The 40,000 acres grew by 200,000 in a few years, covering 24 miles of Pacific ocean shoreline. A modest home was built on the property, and as a youth WRH and his parents would "camp" there.

Today the family still owns 85,000 acres around the Castle, the State has the 137 acre Castle site, and 22 acres at the bottom of the hill where visitors are received. The balance was sold to the government for an Army training base.

Visitors park their car and take a bus up the 5-mile, 1600-ft climb to the Castle. On the way a recording tells of various zoo animals that once roamed the hills or were caged on the property.

At one time WRH had one of the world's largest zoos. For his polar bears, the bus driver said, 3,000 tons of ice were brought from San Luis Obispo (40 miles) every day. The only animals we saw were a native deer and cattle from the living Hearst's ranch.

Nearing the drop-off area at the top of the hill, the recording points out a one and a half mile long pergola, through or under which, guests of WRH could ride their horses.

The pergola, or bridal path, has pilars on each side, about 50 feet apart. Across the top are beams with facial carvings on the ends. At each pilar, base grapevines were planted and they grew to cover the path.

The recording said the pergola was to keep the sun off the riders. The bus driver said it was to keep guests from getting lost.

I mention the polar bear ice and the pergola to help give readers the picture of the extent WRH and his

More on the "Castle" next page

The twin towers really are twins. Each is like the other, as are the wings. Initially intended as a 2-story home, WRH kept adding up and out. His study is the dark area (that's teak wood) in the upper center of the picture between the towers. Hearst ran his business empire from there for three years. A visiting president said WRH's communication system was better than the White House.

Ceilings in every room are special. This one in the dining room is carved from wood and came from Spain. Most of Hearst's "pieces" came from Italy, France and Spain, much from 17th century.

Castle for an empire

architect, Julia Morgan, went to in building this extremely detailed Castle.

WRH started his planning in 1919, the year his father died. He had become editor of the San Francisco Examiner at age 24 and gone on to own other newspapers, numerous magazines, and become involved in movies. (He built a theater in the Castle and first run movies were shown.)

He was also very involved in the Democratic party and tried to run for President of the United States a few times. WRH even tried to start his own political party.

Initially the plan for San Simeon was to build a home and some bungalows on the hill. Then he met Marian Davies, a movie actress with whom he was to spend the rest of his life (he died in 1951). WRH's wife, a Catholic, would not give him a divorce, and they remained friends, even to the extent of her being a guest at La Casa Grande.

A writer in the March 1985 Travel and Leisure magazine said, "San Simeon is a millionaire's Disneyland, unique in size and setting". Even a non-art person like myself would never draw that conclusion.

It is 150 rooms of culture. It's a millionaire's showplace, where now a million visitors a year pay $4 for children, $8 for adults to see.

It's a study in planning, such as the ceiling in the assembly hall, which was bought 10 years prior to it's need, and WRH built a room for it.

It's a museum with the largest collection of ancient Greek urns in the world, one dating 300 years before Christ. While we were in California a tapestry similar to one of the many hanging in the Castle was auctioned for over $9 million. Mason Roe writes a weekly column for the Paso Robles, CA Daily Press and did an entire column on one rug. It is just one of the over 5,000 pieces of art on display.

It's a reflection of the man, who, though living with an unmarried woman, would not allow such an arrangement for his guests . . . who permitted drinking (limit of two) in only the assembly and dining rooms . . . who had ranch-house table settings with catsup and mustard bottles, paper napkins, and no linens, in a dining room where the wall tapestry is 300 years old.

I asked the guide if the recent made-for-tv movie of WRH, starring Robert Mitchem gave a good description of the man. Not exactly, he said.

Kirby Shaw said WRH was not the stern, only-think-of-money man on tv. He said WRH had a great sense of humor and had fun.

He probably did have fun designing, re-designing and developing La Casa Grande. It was still being added to when he suffered a heart attack at age 84 in 1947. That's when Marian Davies took him to Los Angeles and they never returned to the Castle. He died four years later.

In 1958 The Hearst Estate, there are five children, one of whom is 75 and at the Examiner, gave the Castle to the state. The stipulations are that it must remain as it is and must always be open to the public.

Tickets are available through Ticketron, Box 26430, San Francisco, CA 94126.

Hopefully, you'll love it. There are four tours, each $8, but number 1 is the 'must'.

WRH's Gothic Study was the nerve center of his communication system. There are 7,500 books in this study and 1,000's more in the library.

One guest bedroom. It's not pretty or even comfortable looking by our standards.

Wolves' corner

Shorts debate

Julie Kiser

The warm weather is finally here, and that means it's time to put away those wool sweaters and corduroys and pull out the summer wardrobe.

This means, however, that as the temperature rises, so do the pant lengths the students are wearing.

The issue of whether it's proper to wear shorts at school or not sparked the Clarkston High School Student Council to request some changes in the dress code.

Now, one has to agree that the shorts in style today are much longer than styles in previous years. Most come to mid-thigh or longer. We felt this was a proper item to be worn to school.

The administration, on the other hand, argued that these shorts disrupted class.

Because of this belief, many kids who were seen were asked to go home and change or they would not be allowed back to school. This policy resulted in many trips to our principal's office for discussion on what could be done.

We argued that some kids got away with wearing shorts because they were not seen by any of the administrators. Then, the problem with mini-skirts, allowed under the dress code, came to view. Some of them are shorter than the walking shorts.

Finally, a bulletin was put out stating that shorts could be worn only if they came to the top of the knee.

Who's to say if they're long enough? Must teacher's resort to using rulers to measure the length of students' shorts?

I don't believe it's too much to ask students to wear sensible shorts to school in hot weather. Hopefully, a clear resolution will someday come of this.

In the meantime, fellow students, start letting your hems down.

Julie Kiser, a Clarkston High School senior, is a member of student government.

Walking for Health

By Tanya Luchkovitz-Weeder

Dr. Paul Dudley White, Cardiologist, said "a vigorous five mile walk will do more good for an unhappy but otherwise healthy adult than all the medicine and psychology in the world." Dr. White continues "walking is the perfect exercise because it can be done in almost any terrain and weather, without special equipment, and into very old age."

Dr. Joseph Beninson adds that "only walking will satisfactorily promote blood circulation. Exercised bones don't demineralize but stay dense and strong and are far less likely to break."

Gaylor Hauser, in his book, Look Younger, Live Longer, writes: "If you want a quick pick-up in energy when going for a walk, make your diet extremely rich in the B vitamins. Take 3 or more heaping tablespoons, daily, of powdered brewers yeast in milk, vegetable or fruit juice."

The President's Council on physical fitness and sports recommends, "walk every chance you get. Walking is actually one of the best all-around physical activities."

Every part of your body performs naturally when you walk. Adominal muscles are strengthened, you can walk off middle age spread, look & feel better & feel better about yourself.

Talk on gifted

The parents of pupils attending the gifted programs in Clarkston schools have invited Dr. Beverly Park of Wayne State University to speak.

The program is open to the public. It is planned Thursday, May 23, at 7:30 p.m. at Sashabaw Junior High School on Maybee Road.

A question-and-answer session is to follow Park's talk on "Counseling the Gifted Child." Questions that will be addressed in her speech include:

- How is raising a gifted child different from and also the same as raising other children?

- What does it mean to have a gifted child? To whom—parents, grandchildren, siblings, friends of gifted and/or less gifted children?

- What does it do to the parent-children relationship when a child is more knowledgeable than his/her parents in certain areas?

- How much choice can we comfortably allow? Which are choice situations and which are no-choice situations?

- When is a child showing "giftedness" or demonstrating "rudeness"?

'Woman of the Year'

Martha Wheeler wins club's top honor

Martha Wheeler received a plaque and pin commemorating the honor on May 9.

By Kathy Greenfield

There's a lump in her throat, says Martha Wheeler as she talks about being named Woman of the Year by the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Club.

"It really was a surprise, a great honor, but really a surprise," she says. "I think they kind of pulled one over on me. What a nice group of people."

Wheeler, bank vice president and Clarkston branch manager of Pontiac State Bank, received the award May 9.

A former president of the organization, she had been asked to perform the installation ceremony. "That was an honor in itself, so it was a double honor," says Wheeler.

When the time came for the "Woman of the Year" award, Wheeler realized she was the recipient only after the introduction linked "mother of four" with "works at Pontiac State Bank."

"It isn't often I'm speechless, but I had little to say," she says. "I thanked all of them, and (said) without a staff like this I couldn't be involved in all this."

That's where the lump in the throat comes in "because of an achievement that everybody else helped you get," she says. "How do you honor one person when everyone's involved? I should give this (plaque) out every week. It's really touching and very much appreciated."

Wheeler joined the Pontiac State Bank staff in 1945 as a mail girl. In 1952 when she began a 12-year break to raise a family, she was a member of the book-keeping department.

In 1964, she rejoined the PSB staff as a teller. Three years later, she began management training. She became a branch manager in 1970 and took over as manager of the Clarkston branch in 1975.

"And that's when the fun began," says Wheeler. "To work in a community such as this, and I've worked in others, it's unique."

"I've been in four other branches and managed two others. To work where you live and to be involved in your own community, that's the fun part of the job."

Wheeler and her husband, Charles, have lived in Independence Township over 20 years. Their four children are Clarkston High School graduates.

Her membership in the business women's club spans 10 years. She served as its president from 1981-83. On the club's district level, she served as assistant director from 1984-85.

Wheeler is president of the SCAMP Funding Corp., which oversees money donated to Clarkston SCAMP, a summer camp program for handicapped children. In her nine-year membership, she also served as treasurer and vice president.

She is on the advisory board for the Salvation Army, a position she's held since 1983; and is on the computer accounting advisory board at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center.

In addition, she's worked with the Clarkston Area Chemical People, an organization devoted to the prevention of substance abuse among young people; and is a member of the Independence Township Economic Development Corp.

She has been a member of the Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church for over 20 years.

Noreen Compagnoni, the outgoing president of the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Club, sums up the award and the person who received it:

"It's an outstanding recognition for an outstanding woman who is devoted to helping others."

Sexuality and handicappers

Coping with changing bodies and new emotions is not always easy for adolescents. The experience is often compounded when the person experiencing the change is physically or mentally handicapped. Members of Helping Hands for the Handicapped offer a discussion of sexuality and the disabled at their May 23 meeting. Sponsored by the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center, the meeting will feature guest speaker Martha Hooper, a special education teacher in Pontiac.

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed. May 15, 1985 37
 Hooper has developed a special curriculum for teaching the developmentally disabled about their bodies and sexuality. She will provide printed material and information for parents as well. Helping Hands for the Handicapped is a support group for families and friends of the handicapped. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the offices of Drs. O'Neill, Kernis and Yee, 5885 M-15, Clarkston. For further information, call 625-CARE.

Find your roots

Got a yearning for learning about the past? The Pontiac Area Historical and Genealogical Society will be sponsoring a "Tracing Your Roots" program on May 18 from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

The program at the YWCA, 269 W. Huron St., Pontiac, features information on a beginners' workshop, how to use the library, and computers in genealogy.

Pre-registration is $10. Tickets will be available at the door for $12.

For further information, call Sandy Davis at 682-3055.

Weekly holy hour

Each Tuesday evening from 7:30 to 8:30 is Holy Hour in the main chapel at the Colombiere Center in Springfield Township.

The prayer time began recently through the efforts of a group of men and women, said Margaret Robertson.

"If anybody would like to join us, we're perfectly happy to have them join us," she said. "They're general prayers to Our Lord, the Blessed Mother and the stations of the cross."

Colombiere is located at 9075 Big Lake Rd. Call 625-7571 for more information.

St. Rita's celebrates Fatima statue arrival

The arrival of a wooden statue sculpted in Portugal is cause for celebration by members of St. Rita Catholic Church in Holly.

The 4-foot-3 Fatima statue arrived in Detroit by plane from Lisbon last week. On Tuesday, May 21, a special procession and mass are planned at the church, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

"It's just a gorgeous statue, beautiful," said Judy Brooks, a Springfield Township resident and member of the church's worship committee.

Private donations of $700 paid for the artwork, which arrived two months after the order was placed. A similar statue in a Detroit church inspired members of St. Rita's to work toward obtaining one of their own.

The special service May 21 includes the carrying of the statue by members of the Knights of Columbus to its appointed place on the altar, where it will remain during May, the month dedicated to the Blessed Virgin.

A permanent place for the statue is in the planning stages.

St. Rita's is located at 302 E. Maple, Holly. For more information, call 634-4841.

Memories and hopes

Wedding dresses and flower girl gowns came out of the closets May 5 for another fling at the Sashabaw United Presbyterian mother-daughter tea. Modeling them are [clockwise from above] Suzanne Campbell in a dress from the 1970s; Lorna Hall wearing a 1950s' bridal gown; Rachel Harrison, 4; and Samantha Dolsen, who modeled the handmade gown she wore at her own wedding.
