Lowest voter turnout in many years

By Kathy Greenfield

In a very quiet election Monday, incumbents Carolyn A. Place and Stephen E. Werner were re-elected to four-year terms on the Clarkston Community Schools Board of Education.

Only 2 percent, or 216, of the about 12,000 registered voters turned out for the election. Place and Werner were the only names on the ballot, and there were no tax questions.

"We can say positively for the last 13 years, there's never been this low of a turnout," said Independence Township Clerk Richard Holman.

The township is hired by the school district to run its elections.

The cost was $6,600 including the $4,995 fee paid the township for precinct workers' salaries, setting up the booths and supervisory pay; about $1,000 for paper supplies; and the remainder for the school board attorney's fee and other fees required, said William Jackson, business manager for the Clarkston School District.

The expenses were high considering the low turnout and lack of a race for the board seats, Jackson said, but he emphasized that the election is required by state law.

"The election itself is important even though it did cost us $30 a vote," he said. "In our case, we had two positions and two candidates and that doesn't exclude anyone else from being elected by a write-in. You do have that right."

Jackson noted that this election could have been won by a write-in candidate with only 180 votes.

He also pointed out that nearly one-quarter of the people who voted were the 48 precinct workers—four assigned to each of the 12 precincts in the school district which includes most of Independence Township, about half of Springfield Township and small portions of Waterford, White Lake and Orion townships.

Place received 179 votes and Werner 187 votes. There was one write-in candidate, Don Ernst, who had four votes.

Place, of 5615 Chickadee, Independence Township, has served on the board 12 years. She is a special education teacher with the Holly school district.

Werner, of 7901 Holcomb, Independence Township, has served four years on the school board. A medical doctor, his practice is limited to surgery of the hand.

One arrested in pipebombing

By Carolyn Walker

A 17-year-old Ortonville man has been arrested and arraigned in a pipe bomb explosion which shook the nerves of village residents June 1.

Police are continuing their search for a second suspect, and anticipate an arrest within the next two weeks, said arson investigator Donald Pebbles of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

On the Saturday evening, the 6-inch pipe bomb exploded at about 9:21 p.m. in a cloud of smoke outside the former Cookery restaurant at the Clarkston Mills Mall.

It traveled approximately 70 feet over the mall and came to rest on a resident's porch, Pebbles said, adding there were no known injuries.

Following the blast, fragments of the bomb were studied in a lab at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, but portions are still missing, Pebbles said.

There are no indications of other pipe bombs located in the village, he added.

The 17-year-old was arraigned before 52nd District Court Judge Gerald McNally on Friday, with a preliminary examination scheduled June 14.

Scholarships, grants awarded students

Scholarships, awards and grants totaling $51,231 belong to 1985 graduates of Clarkston High School.

At the awards night for seniors June 4, local scholarships totaled $16,000, college awards $17,800 and state scholarships and tuition grants $17,431.

It's probable the amount will increase before colleges, universities and business schools begin classes in the fall, said CHS Assistant Principal Jan Gabier. She also noted the figure is high.

"It says a lot for our kids," she said.

Study clears Clarkston

No asbestos problems in schools

By Kathy Greenfield

While many school districts across the United States are busy replacing ceilings and walls to remove asbestos, Clarkston Community Schools got lucky.

"I really feel fortunate we didn't find a serious problem," said Superintendent Milford Mason.

Asbestos was widely used in the construction and remodeling industries in the 1950s and 1960s, he said. It was frequently part of material sprayed on walls and ceilings. The method, however, was never used in any Clarkston school district building.

The district began a preventive maintenance program in 1981 when the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) required all school buildings be inspected for friable material. Friable refers to the possibility that particles could become airborne.

At that time, all such material found was encapsulated, said William Dennis, administrative assistant for the Clarkston district.

In 1983, all buildings were reinspected and some ceiling tiles and air samples were tested for asbestos. Nothing was found to have enough fibers to warrant further testing, Dennis said.

"It's my opinion, going through and inspecting the buildings, that Clarkston does not have a problem with asbestos," he said.

Two of the district's buildings are not known to have any asbestos—North Sashabaw Elementary and the Special Services Building.

In the others, the most common use of asbestos was to wrap pipes and boilers for insulation. All have been inspected to make sure particles cannot become airborne, Dennis said, and ongoing inspections are planned.

"The asbestos in the buildings in the form that it is, is not creating a health hazard to anyone who comes into the buildings, that is the public, parents, students or employees," he said.

A file on the findings is available in each school building. It contains a map showing where samples, if any, were taken; the results of tests if they were conducted; and who the testing was done by.

"We made a very thorough and exhaustive study of the issue and feel that we are within the intended compliance of the (EPA) program, and are very pleased that we don't have a large, expensive program required of us that we would have to undertake," said Mason. "We'll continue to monitor as new information arises."

Payment conditionally OK'd

The Independence Township Board has agreed to pay consulting firm Bendzinski and Co. $16,000 plus a portion of a second unexpected bill if the firm agrees to delete other charges.

Bendzinski and Co. undertook a study of the township water and sewer system last year at an agreed price of $15,000.

That sum was approved during a 4-1-2 vote of the board of trustees in April 1984.

Bendzinski subsequently billed the township for approximately $22,000 last month.

The board agreed to pay $18,222.76 providing Bendzinski and Co. agrees to make that sum the total charge, said Supervisor Frank Ronk.

At a meeting last month, the board agreed to pay one of two bills totaling approximately $16,600, pending an itemized statement from the firm. The itemized statement was received but that payment was never sent, Ronk said.

The unanimously approved motion to pay the $18,000 sum is contingent upon Bendzinski and Co. revising the bill to reflect this payment, Clerk Richard Holman said.

In the itemized statement provided the township, Robert C. Bendzinski attributed the increase in costs to the company's development of schedules and employee attendance at additional meetings.

"...we ended up with a total time spent on the development of the water and sewer studies of 361.5 hours, well in excess of the estimated 200 hours which was the basis of our fee of not to exceed $15,000," Bendzinski said in a letter sent with the statement.

Four new officers in store for fire department

By Carolyn Walker

After 17 years without any promotions, the Independence Township Fire Department has received permission to establish four new officer positions.

On June 4, the Independence Township board unanimously authorized Chief Dale Bailey's request for four promotions within the department and the hiring of three new firefighters.

Bailey asked the board to approve one fire marshal and three shift captain positions.

The new-hires will bring the total full-time firefighters to 14.

There have been no promotions since 1968, Bailey said after the meeting.

"There's only one officer and that is me," he said.

The promotions are compatible with recommendations made during the Public Administration Service study last year, Bailey added.

The study was conducted by the consulting firm to determine the necessity of changes within the department, said Supervisor Frank Ronk, when contacted by phone.

Ronk added that he sought promotions, which were denied by the board, during his tenure as chief.

The board told Bailey he must post the positions within the department, as required by union contract, so interested firefighters can apply for the jobs.

The contract stipulates that job candidates be evaluated on experience, ability and seniority.

Thus far, only Gar Wilson has indicated an interest in the fire marshal position, but five men have applied for the shift captain positions, Bailey said.

The jobs will be posted until June 12 and the applicants will be given written and oral tests before promotions take place.

Bailey said the men would be tested by fire chiefs from other municipalities to ensure impartiality.

The fire marshal will be responsible for fire prevention activities, fire investigations, pre-fire planning for commercial and public buildings, and setting up fire prevention programs within the school system.

He will work a 40-hour week and will act in a supervisory capacity in the absence of the fire chief.

The top responsibility of the 56-hour shift captains will be availability for responding to emergencies with drivers/engineers, thus increasing the number of initial responders to two.

The shift captains will be responsible for training on their shift and covering sick, personal and vacation days as well.

Of the three shift captains, one will be responsible for each shift and will alternate work in each of the three fire stations.

Last December the board authorized two new firefighters. Bailey asked for three to cover the positions of those promoted to shift captain.

Bailey was appointed fire chief last April following former Fire Chief Frank Ronk's election to township supervisor.

Board opts for one more meeting

By Carolyn Walker

Deer Lake Road at Dixie Highway may be closed if residents, highway officials and the school transportation department can reach a meeting of the minds.

Approximately 17 Deer Lake Road residents asked the Independence Township board for its blessing in closing the road at a public hearing June 4.

Led by Bud Volberding, who spearheaded a petition drive for the closing, they told the board they want the road closed when the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) widens Dixie Highway in 1986-87.

Approximately four residents were opposed to the closing because of potential bus route problems.

The MDOT has proposed relocating the intersection by several hundred feet. But MDOT also indicated in a May 6 letter to Supervisor Frank Ronk they have no objection to closing the road entirely.

They requested the board hold a public hearing and make a recommendation, Ronk said.

The board delayed action on the issue pending a June 18 meeting with MDOT, Clarkston schools and the residents.

A school district representative was not at the meeting, but after the meeting transportation supervisor Gary Bliss indicated closing the road would require major changes in bus routes, which might force students to walk along heavily traveled Dixie Highway or White Lake Road.

"It isn't the safest spot for a bus stop," Bliss said referring to a new stop students would have to use on the White Lake Road curve.

The rerouting of buses could affect students from Deer Lake Road, Simler Drive and Sagamore Road.

In addition, Bob Lalone owner of the Deer Lake Inn, indicated closing the road could force him to close an exit at his establishment, which in turn would require traffic to make left turns onto Dixie Highway.

Volberding told the board most residents favor the closing and cited heavy or speeding traffic and increased dust as problems.

He said some drivers exceed speeds of 50 miles-per-hour in the 25-mile-per-hour zone and that "buses are some of the worse offenders."

"I'm very fearful of the speed and increase in traffic," said resident George Jantzen. "Now is the time to do something about the situation."

Don Porter, a resident of adjoining Sagamore Road, agreed. "It's a disaster waiting to happen," he said. "I'm in favor of any way of decreasing traffic."

A show of hands in the audience indicated 10 people in favor of closing the road and four in favor of keeping it open.

Board members plan to make a recommendation to the state following the June 18 meeting.

Still no clues

Police still have no clues in the May 23 disappearance of Cindy L. Moore of Independence Township.

But they suspect she met with foul play, said Lt. Glenn Watson of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Moore disappeared after leaving her evening-shift job at the United States Postal annex in Troy.

She was last seen by a co-worker as she exited the parking lot in her 1984 Ford Tempo.

The car was found May 30 near the Abbey Theater in Madison Heights.

It contained no clues to her disappearance, Watson said.

Moore, 28, was last seen wearing a black sweat shirt and blue jeans.

Anyone with information regarding her whereabouts is asked to contact the sheriff's department at 858-4911 or 858-4960.

Helping funds

Independence Township has received $20,000 in assistance funds for expenses resulting from the New Year's Day ice storm.

The money will be used to pay overtime costs to those township employees who worked extra hours as a result of the storm, said Clerk Richard Holman.

"We received full reimbursement," Holman told the board June 4, adding that the township received a maximum sum allotted by the state.

The money was distributed through the Michigan State Police emergency division, Holman said.

Residents push to close Deer Lake Road

Man with knife robs party store

A knife-wielding man pretending to be a customer robbed the Liquor Cabinet Inc. party store on Dixie Highway at 11:08 p.m. Saturday.

The thief made off with $203 after forcing a lone clerk to empty the cash register at the Independence Township store adjacent to the Elias Brothers Restaurant.

The robber pretended to make a purchase, and when asked to show his identification, grabbed the clerk and showed a knife before demanding the money, said a report at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

After obtaining the cash, he ordered the clerk to lie face down on the floor and fled.

Officers from the sheriff's department tracked the suspect with a dog following the robbery without success.

The robber is described as a white male in his early 20s, approximately 5 feet 9 inches tall, with short brown hair and a stocky build. He was wearing a hat and glasses.

Get into swim at Deer Lake Beach

There's still time to sign up for swimming lessons at Deer Lake Beach off White Lake Road.

Deer Lake employees will be taking swimming registrations at the beach hut until June 16.

The lessons, which include classes for tiny tots through Advanced Life Saving, will be given at the beach and at various private pools.

The cost-per-session for the first child is $20, with the cost for the second child $12, and $40 for a family.

Most classes will be offered between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. with some afternoon classes at the beach on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays or Tuesdays and Thursdays with two Saturdays.

Each session will include 10, 50-minute classes beginning June 17 and July 22.

There will also be adult swims at the beach at 11 a.m. or 7 p.m.

Anniversary party for ex-marines

The first anniversary celebration of the North Oakland County Detachment of the Marine Corps League is planned Thursday, June 13.

Chartered last June, the detachment has spent the past year building membership and raising funds to launch several charitable and veterans' assistance programs. The group is working toward establishing a Young Marines unit for area youth.

The special Anniversary Night meeting-program is to begin at 8 p.m. at the V.F.W. Post No. 1008, 1690 Airport Rd., Waterford Township.

Former Marines with honorable discharges or separations may attend and consider membership. For more information, call Paymaster John Kevorkian at 666-1024 or Judge Advocate Gene Pool at 625-1433.

BY A NOSE: All of the 24 pupils in Pat Andrus' second-grade class at Andersonville Elementary had a part in the production of "Elephant's Child" by Rudyard Kipling. The play told the story of how the elephants got their trunks. After the play, the class sang "We are the World," the song produced to help feed Ethiopia. The class raised $104 for the cause by selling baked goods. [Photo by Dan Vandenhemel]

All good writers sing this song: Do dot, Do dot

Where would we writers be, for instance, without this perfectly round little spot? It's the stop sign at the end of a sentence. It adds the oomf to the ah in the exclamation point. It puts the cap on the i and the j and the apostrophe. It puts the shoe on the comma and the colon and the ?

It even indicates the passage of time . . . a halting speech . . . an unfinished thought . . . the omission of words in the middle . . . or at the end of a sentence. . .

Have you ever thought about what writing would look like without periods commas exclamation points ellipses or other punctuation marks to break it up worse yet can you imagine what it would sound like without any of these symbols to keep you from reading or talking or listening ad infinitum without giving you a chance to come up for air or let your mind comprehend the meaning behind the words it would be pretty bland not to mention totally chaotic communication!

On the other hand . . . many writers - especially advertising copywriters . . . have found numerous irritating, (agitating, maddening!) ways to use, abuse and confuse us with their dots . . . their dashes . . . and their other misplaced punctuation.

Of course, lawyers, insurance agents and government officials could stand to use a little more punctuation. Have you ever tried to read an insurance policy or a Senate bill? In a single sentence, it can take all your fingers and toes just to count the commas. Simple periods might work better.

The other day, I suggested to someone that he use a dingbat for typographic effect. He looked at me like he was Archie Bunker and I was Meathead.

"Do you mean a bullet?" he asked.

Obviously, we come from different schools of editing and typography. My notion of a bullet is something that can be dangerous to your health. When I think of a dingbat, I think of a symbol first, and Edith Bunker second. I guess that says something about my frame of reference.

A meteorologist friend of mine used to doodle with periods and commas. At least I thought they were periods and commas. I knew him a long time before I finally discovered that • is the standard symbol for rain or a completely overcast sky. And , is a symbol for drizzle. He was a gloomy sort of fellow by nature, anyway. So much for his frame of reference.

It's amazing, really. How one simple little symbol can mean so many things.

And you thought it was just a dot. . .

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

One should never have a single plan. One must not get locked into one course of action. One must have alternate plans, such as B and C.

Particularly, is this true when it's an outdoor event, such as picknicking, golf, or fishing.

The case in point is fishing. If planning is half the fun, we should have had a hilarious time.

My friend, Francis 'Pansy' Baldwin and I have been planning a walleye fishing, fly-in trip to Canada for years. This year we went so far as to make reservations for 4 at two different lakes at the same time in Canada.

When it turned out we couldn't find two other friends to fill the camp requirements, we cancelled them both. No problem, switch sites to Drummond Island, where, in Potagannissing Bay, it always takes at least two strong men to launch a boat . . . one to beat back the walleyes and perch to make room for the boat, and the other to actually put the boat in the water.

The usual 6-hour trip took us 8.5 hours, but we made many friends in Standish, Onaway, Atlanta, and Mullett Lake.

The evening was bright and the water gentle Thursday evening, as we forced our boat into the bay. A hundred yards from shore the motor quit, never to start again.

Thursday night the storm came up that went on to do such damage near Toronto, and it continued all day Friday. A fishing camp can be a dreadful place in rainy weather . . . thus the need for an alternate plan.

Why not tour Sugar Island? Never been there. I learned that a person can doodle away a lot of time just waiting for car ferries. And, it's $4.05 one way off Drummond and about $1.65 at Sugar, unless you charge for your time in line.

A fisherman can't leave Sugar Island without stopping at the Hilltop Bar, the only saloon on the island. It's worth a stop just to read such signs as: Happiness is a warm gun.

Or, "This property is protected by a .44 magnum 3 nights a week. You guess which 3."

It doesn't take long to get acquainted at the Hilltop. In just a few minutes the owner, with his stories of 'catch'n big'uns' - often . . . made us want to get back to Potagannissing Bay, quick.

However, while the sun was out on Sugar, the high winds and rain continued at Drummond. Friday was shot.

Saturday was again bright, but the water heavy with white caps and debris. With rented motor, and necessary equipment for a long, dry spell on the water, we headed for a protected bay, only to have the wind shift right after anchoring.

Understand, none of the above are considered set-backs by Pansy and I. We've been shutout without a strike in isolated Canadian waters, and not been discouraged. We even expect it.

That's why we know all about having to have alternate plans, and why we recommend them so highly.

Never, however, do any of our plans include not going.

Snack crisis

Kathy Greenfield

While dieting, a woman I know decided she needed a reward stash. She climbed on a chair to reach the highest kitchen cupboard and hid a box of cookies behind a never-used coffee pot.

She told herself that if she faithfully followed the diet, she would allow herself one cookie a week.

After seven days of starvation, she put the chair back in place and pulled down the box. It was empty.

***

Some people I know keep food locked in a drawer in their bedroom.

Anything in their kitchen is fair game for the roving teens in their home, but the contents of the locked drawer are off-limits.

Adults' reactions are varied when they hear about the locked up food.

On one side sit the incredulous. All their children are young enough to monitor constantly.

On the other side are parents of older children. They turn to each other and say, "What a great idea!"

Their experiences include mixing together the flour, sugar and shortening, and then discovering the chocolate chips evaporated; getting ready to prepare a snack of cheese and crackers, and then finding crumbs in the cracker box; and preparing to frost the cake, and then flipping the lid off a scraped-clean can of frosting.

***

The woman who found the empty cookie box in her cupboard has a son who readily admitted he'd eaten the box of cookies. He was hungry.

Her husband wanted to know what all the commotion was about. He wasn't hungry.

Everyone apparently came out of the incident alive, but it reminds me of a cartoon I read recently. The punch line here is a bit different, but the idea is the same.

A lawyer answers the telephone in his office and says, "No, an empty cookie box is not grounds for divorce."

Moral: Better locked than lost.

SCAMP thanks

On behalf of the Home Tour III Committee and the many youngsters who will benefit from SCAMP, I would like to express our sincere appreciation to the 95 community volunteers who helped us put on the very successful weekend event.

Special thanks go to Joseph Cook Greenhouses, Buick Club of America, Sadows Galleries, The Greenhouse, Country Greens, Willowpointe, Flower Adventure, Keepsake Flowers, Gayanne's Floral and, of course, the Clarkston Cafe.

A warm thank you to the six homeowners who so graciously opened their homes for the tour, making the entire fund-raising event possible.

SCAMP starts June 24, and all proceeds of the tour go toward the operation of the five-week summer day camp. Without the support of the community residents, the program could not exist.

Thank you for attending and thereby supporting SCAMP!

Betty Haran
Coordinator of Development
North Oakland SCAMP Funding Corp.

'If it Fitz . . .'

Not just bus shelters

Jim Fitzgerald

Downtown Detroit bus shelters are on my mind again. On Kennedy square, near the busy Michigan-Griswold corner, a woman has been living in a shelter for well over a month.

In another shelter at the same intersection, just across Griswold, a large glass panel was shattered at least a week ago. At this writing, the broken glass is still on the shelter floor, threatening feet, and dangerous fragments of glass are still sticking out of the shelter frame.

Along with hundreds of other people, I walk by these two shelters at least twice every weekday, so it has been simple to confirm the dismaying facts. I've also driven by on weekends, and after midnight, to make sure the woman is indeed there all the time, even on near-freezing nights. She is.

It's not unusual to see downtown nomads in the shelters, sometimes sleeping. The wooden bench is long enough for the tallest of them to lie down, and the glass walls keep the winds out on three sides.

But it is unusual to see the same person in the same shelter every day for several weeks. She is middle-aged and equipped with a makeshift pillow and scruffy blanket for sleeping. Sometimes she lies down, and sometimes she sits. I've seen her drinking pop and eating candy bars.

Apparently she never talks to anyone. When I approached her, she got a frightened look in her eyes. The last thing I wanted was to frighten her; perhaps scare her away from her home. Where would she go? I retreated.

I really don't know what I want to do about her. I wonder where she came from. I wonder if she has any relatives who care about her. I wonder what she does when a bathroom is needed. I even wonder if I should be writing about her.

When I first moved into downtown Detroit, almost 10 years ago, I was shocked by the sight of Greektown's screaming Stella in her Detroit police jacket, sleeping on hallway floors in the police station, hanging her wash on median bushes. But when I wrote about the "sad plight" of Stella, her family in the suburbs assured me they wanted her home, but she wouldn't stay there. She was happiest wandering Greektown, they said, where kind merchants make sure she is unharmed and harmless.

Maybe similar circumstances apply to the woman living in the bus shelter. I don't know. I do know she might be better off there than in a state warehouse such as Northville, where it is possible for an innocent patient to be murdered while attendants are busy eating or guiding visitors.

The last time I wrote about a downtown bus shelter, it was to complain about the housekeeping—the same discarded underwear was in the Monroe-Farmer shelter for over two weeks. I contrasted that eyesore with the nearby billboard, erected by the Central Business District Association, saying "The Image of Our Town Begins With Me."

And I mentioned being an expert on bus shelters because I sit around in them a lot with my three-year-old granddaughter. She likes to pretend a shelter is her very own home. It is sobering to realize that, for some people, it isn't pretending.

Maybe it is too much to expect bus officials, police or other city employees to see the same things I see every day in bus shelters. Maybe it is too much to expect them to care that a human being has no other place to live.

Maybe the most I can ask is that the damn broken glass be removed from shelters quicker than dirty underwear, so the people living there won't cut themselves. The image of our town begins with caring.

Pages from the past

Carolyn Walker

There is something fundamentally appealing about other people's old junk. Stale odors coax. Dusty curios lure. The potential for secreted treasure excites.

I found treasure lost among piles of discarded adventures at a 1981 used book sale.

The daughter of a long-forgotten Oakland County pioneer had squeezed a bit of herself between the pages of Scott's School History of the United States, circa 1879.

I ran my hand over the book's faded purple binding and opened it to the cover page. There, in the fancy script of yesteryear, were the words, "Miss Eunice Uptegraff, Groveland, Michigan, November, 1880."

Intrigued, I looked further. Eunice played a trick on me first thing.

On the opening page of chapter one she had written, "If my name you wish to see, look on page 103."

Forgetting that I already knew her name, I hurried to 103, only to be disappointed by a large print of William Penn's arrival at New Castle.

She teased me with another clue. Just above Penn's picture were the words, "If my name you want to find, look on page 209."

I turned quickly to the designated page, where it said, "If my name you cannot find, shut up the book and never mind."

Sheepishly, I closed the book. I had fallen for a country schoolgirl's 100-year-old practical joke.

I bought the book.

Born in 1868, Eunice Uptegraff was 12 years old when she first penned her name amid America's history.

The book's brittle, yellowed pages gave off the smell of old basement. And, tucked between them were comments, poems, and news clippings, which Eunice had saved and dated as late as 1918.

For some unknown reason, perhaps for the sheer pleasure of reading and learning, Eunice used the schoolbook for 38 years, until she was 50. I decided no one had opened it since her hand last closed it.

Eunice betrayed her school-girl indifference in the form of "day after day" comments and a tiny newsclipping which reads, "Dear me!" She wrote them in response to the review questions which followed Scott's chapters on Indians and wars.

At some point, however, she must have realized that history and knowledge equaled more than book facts. Her life became intertwined with what she was learning.

At the end of Scott's list of American presidents, she very carefully penciled the name and death-date of President James Abram Garfield, who was assassinated.

Other clippings stored in the book attest to her love of romance, history, people and literature; including articles which encouraged Americans to save burlap bags, a story about Alexander Hamilton's "ride for love" during the Revolutionary War, and an article about a railroad worker and his broom.

Old family papers at the Oakland County Pioneer and Historical Society, written in Eunice's hand, indicate she was the daughter of a New Yorker who settled in Groveland in 1839; two years after Michigan became a state.

Her family lived in a one-room house with a cow, and had assorted adventures as they ushered in modern conveniences such as electricity and washing machines.

Letters from her mother tell of their friendship with Butler Holcomb; and explain that his wife died of consumption, during which time it took three days to find Butler.

She also tells of the three-day trip, by foot, from Groveland to the Clarkston grist mill, where they had their wheat ground for food.

I envision Eunice as a romantic, a teacher, a lover of life.

Perhaps she thought to share an education she cherished and nurtured as she recorded the details of her life. On the last page of Scott's history, she wrote a poem to a friend she would never meet. That friend was me. It reads:

"If thou art borrowed by a friend,
Right welcome shall he be.
To read, to study, not to lend,
But to return to me.
Not that imparted knowledge
Doth diminish learning's store;

But books I find, if often lent
Return to me no more.
Read carefully. Pause frequently. Don't turn down the corners of the leaves."

Eunice died in 1941, at the age of 73, nine years before I was born.

Ours is a friendship she couldn't have anticipated. And one I wouldn't have missed.

Wolves reach state's final four

By Dan Vandenhemel

For the second time in three years, the Clarkston Wolves' softball team is going to the state finals.

Not only did they have to beat Waterford Mott and Flint Powers for the Regional title, June 8, but the Wolves had to overcome the weather and the rule book.

In the seventh inning against Mott in the morning game, umpires first ruled Clarkston had to forfeit the game because of an illegal substitution. After 30 minutes of debate, the tournament officials ruled that only the batter should be called out.

Under high school rules, a starting player may leave the game and re-enter once. The incident started in the fifth inning when Joanie Leightnam went in to run for designated hitter Kristin Tiaht. In the seventh inning, Tiaht went back in to bat but coach Carla Teare forgot to have her report back in to the scorekeeper.

"All year when we've done this we made all the announcements at once," Teare said. "In the state tournaments, you have to do it one at a time. It wasn't a cause for forfeiture, but the umpires found the right rule.

"I'm really impressed with the attitude of the girls," Teare said. "They were crying. I think I was crying. They stuck together and just talked about what was going on instead of splitting up and complaining to everyone."

The half-hour delay didn't slow the Wolves' momentum that had tied the score at 4-4 in the sixth inning. When the game resumed in the seventh, two outfield errors by Mott and a single by Jill Griffis drove in Laura Hurren with what turned out to be the winning run.

"I think returning to the game gave the kids a little boost, but not any more than the momentum we had in tying the score," Teare said.

In the championship game with Flint Powers, the

Sports

The Clarkston Wolves' softball team would like to repeat this mob scene Saturday in East Lansing. Laura Hurren scored the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning against Flint

Powers to give the Wolves the regional title and a shot at the state championship.

Final four countdown

Dan Vandenhemel

The state final four is beckoning the Wolves of Clarkston High School.

This the second time in three years the softball team is in the running for the state Class A championship.

The Wolves knocked of a tough Waterford Mott team with the help of lots of batting practice. Mott's strength rested on the arm of pitcher Laura Bieri.

Because of the speed of her pitches, Wolves coach Carla Teare got some help from Dave McDonald and Russ Arthur. Both are former fast pitch softball pitchers and threw batting practice to the Wolves all week.

"It was really nice to have people like that in the area and have them ask if they can help," Teare said after the Wolves wrapped up the regional title. They head to Michigan State University for the finals.

Only two victories away from the state championship isn't bad for the team with the worst record of any spring sports team at Clarkston High School this year except for the first year girls' soccer team.

The baseball team, girls' track team and boys' tennis all won league titles while the boys' track team was second. The softball team finished with a 3-5 league mark, good for third place behind Waterford Mott and Kettering.

Now the softball Wolves are 23-10—and the state finals are up next.

Hard work pays off

By Dan Vandenhemel

Purdue University is on the agenda for Kelly Craig—but not before a trip to California.

Craig is a graduating senior at Clarkston High School and is headed to Purdue in Lafayette, Ind., on a full tennis scholarship. The trip to California is for the National Hard Court Championship.

Persistence paid off for Craig with the scholarship that will cover tuition and room and board.

After beating a 50th national ranked player in a Florida tournament, Purdue noticed the 18-year-old who was making noise on the tennis courts, especially after they received a letter from her.

"I checked out all the big schools and I was offered scholarships from three or four other schools," Craig said. "Purdue is excellent academically and I'd like to maybe get into law school."

Last year Craig was ranked 128th nationally and 30th in the Western Region that includes Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin. That is one of the first things a college representative asks tennis players.

"It's really hard to get a national ranking," said Craig. "I should have a higher national ranking this year because I beat the girl ranked 50th. You have to play in two national tournaments before you can get a ranking or five tournaments for a regional ranking."

The event in California is a sampling of the 15 players in each of the five regions with the best records. Craig is currently 13th in the region.

The country-wide tournament is one of the most important things to college recruiters, said Craig, who did not play on the Clarkston High School team this year.

"They don't even look at your high school record. They just ask for your national ranking," Craig said. "I wouldn't have had much time for tournaments if I played for Clarkston. I feel bad about not playing this year."

Six days a week of tennis practice paid off for Kelly Craig. She's received a full scholarship to Purdue University and is heading to California for a national tournament.

JV softballers finish year with a flourish

By Dan Vandenhemel

The junior varsity softball team at Clarkston High School finished the season with a flourish, winning eight of the last nine games.

The last game victory over Romeo gave the Wolves a 14-7 mark plus a little revenge from an earlier loss to Romeo.

The Bulldogs beat the Wolves in the finals of the Clarkston Invitational Tournament. It was the first time the host school didn't win the event.

"We beat some good teams in the final stretch," coach Don Peters said. "We beat (Waterford) Mott and Romeo. They were something like 18 or 19 and one."

Peters, always the optimist, felt the final record could have been more attractive."

"I always expect to do better than we do," he said. "We have a lot of potential. We've got good hitters. I think they'll grow into some good players."

Most valuable player honors were split between Missy O'Dell and Beth Tilley. O'Dell was the leading pitcher with a 9-5 record, including two no-hitters. She also caught and played first, shortstop and the outfield.

Tilley was the most productive hitter with a .587 mark. The second baseman had 31 RBI's, scored 37 runs and had 10 extra-base-hits. Along with her offensive power, she didn't commit an error at second and also put time in as catcher and at third base.

Two other players with impressive statistics were Jessica Shoup and Maggie Gdula. Shoup hit .532 with 22 RBI's, the second most on the team. Gdula hit .438 while putting in most of her time as catcher.

"She did just about everything," Peters said of Gdula. "I think catching is one of the toughest positions to play and she did a great job."

Wolves grab regional title

Wolves put themselves behind 5-0 in the first three innings on errors of their own. It stayed that way until the fifth when Flint's pitchers had a little trouble finding the strike zone.

"I think we were too relaxed," Teare said of the early errors. "But when we scored four runs in the fifth, there was no doubt in my mind we'd win it."

Hurren scored the winning run in this game, too, this time on a single by Sue Lovelady.

Terri Sherman and Jody Law pitched for the Wolves. Sherman threw against Mott, then started against Powers before Law came in.

"Terri pitched a really strong game and I wanted to keep the same line-up in," Teare said. "Jody pitched the best I think I've ever seen her pitch. The weather was really draining out there. I don't know if it took a lot out of the kids, but I know it took a lot out of me."

The Wolves move on to the state semifinals at Michigan State University, June 14, at 5:30 p.m. against Mt. Clemens L-Anse Creuse North. The winner moves on to the finals Saturday, again at 5:30.

Andersonville Elementary School third-grader Ryan Eaton is all eyes as nurses from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital (POH) tell him and his classmates how to revive a stricken infant. The nurses are presenting "Kids Add Life" to 1,350 Clarkston elementary-age children so they will be able to help during an emergency. The program was designed by POH nurse Margaret Franckowiak, R.N., and her husband, Charles, an osteopathic physician and director of emergency medicine at Lapeer County General Hospital. Launched in Clarkston, it is part of the first national program to establish CPR in elementary and secondary schools. [Photos by Carolyn Walker]

Clarkston Junior High awards top 3 pupils

By Carolyn Walker

Three outstanding ninth-graders at Clarkston Junior High School received top awards at a school ceremony June 5.

Two of the students, Douglas Bronson and Jane Selent, were selected from 18 recommendations for the Principal's Award by Duane Lewis, principal of the school.

The third student, Kara Kurz, received the McGrath award for spirit and citizenship. The McGrath award has been given in memory of educator Harry "Bud" McGrath since 1983.

The principal's award has been in existence since 1973 and is given to students who demonstrate achievement in leadership, scholarship, extra-curricular activities and attendance, Lewis said.

After nominations are submitted by teachers, the principal then adds names of his own and spends several weeks determining a boy and girl winner.

There is never a tie, a choice must always be made, Lewis said.

"It's really hard because there is always more than one excellent choice," he said.

This year's winners were humble about their achievements, but all agreed their parents were extremely proud.

"I like it. I'm happy that I won it," said Douglas Bronson, the son of Beverly and Denny Bronson.

Jane Selent concurred but admitted her surprise: "I didn't think I was going to get it." Jane is the daughter of Pat and John Selent.

Kara Kurz, daughter of Peggy and Bill Kurz, was likewise surprised: "I had no idea. (My parents) were really happy."

Other winners of Clarkston Junior High School awards are:

Instrumental Music: Staci Cool and Rachel Young, ninth grade; Nichole Chiavare and David Saffron, eighth grade; Brian Doyle and Karen Lowe, seventh grade.

Vocal Music: Staci Cool and Allan Watson, ninth grade; Carrie Slade, eighth grade; Mark Young, seventh grade.

Mathematics: Douglas Bronson, ninth grade; Steven Cook, eighth grade; Matt Cook, seventh grade.

Art: Jim Hotary, ninth grade; Jason Smithers, eighth grade; Sarah Taylor, seventh grade.

Science: Rachel Young, ninth grade; Chris Houston, eighth grade; Benjamin O'Rourke, seventh grade.

Jane Selent (left) and Douglas Bronson are the proud winners of The Principal's Awards given annually to a male and a female ninth-grader for outstanding academic and extra-curricular performances at Clarkston Junior High. Kara Kurz (center) is the recipient of the McGrath Award, given in memory of educator Bud McGrath for spirit and citizenship.

Social Studies: Douglas Bronson, ninth grade; Kristine Fromm, eighth grade; Matt Cook, seventh grade.

Physical Education: Jane Selent and Jeff Tungate, ninth grade; Jennifer Davis and Dean Moscovic, eighth grade; Kellie O'Neil and Celeste Steinhelper, seventh grade.

Home economics: Julie Stark, ninth grade; Susan Szasz, eighth grade; Kerri Brudnak, seventh grade.

English: Jane Selent and Ashley Adams, ninth grade; Nichole Chinavare, eighth grade; Leanne Stevens, seventh grade.

Industrial Arts: Martin Brown, ninth grade; Gary Jackman, eighth grade; John Terpstra, seventh grade.

Spanish: Mark Fry, ninth grade.

Sibling solders return

The Luettkes brothers are coming home on leave together this month—and their parents, Dale and Barbara, are celebrating with an open house in their honor.

The brothers joined the United States Army in 1984.

Kirk, a 1982 Clarkston High School graduate, is stationed at Fort Ord, Calif., with his light infantry unit.

Brian, a 1984 CHS graduate, is a paratrooper with the 82nd Airborne Division stationed at Fort Bragg, N.C.

"The last time they saw each other was in July of '84 when we went to Georgia for Kirk's graduation from basic, so they're really excited," said Mrs. Luettkes. "They have a lot to talk about."

The open house is planned for the afternoon of Sunday, June 30, at the Luettkes', 4651 Maybee, Independence Township.

"They want to see a lot of people, but it's really hard to see everyone," she said. "This way, their friends can stop by and see them."

College notes

Degree helped by European studies

Mark Reene is in Europe this summer working toward a bachelor's degree in business management from the University of Michigan-Flint.

A senior at the university, Reene is in the honors program which includes an off-campus study program.

"He's looking at management techniques and talking to middle management in Europe, and he has to write a thesis during his senior year," said his mother, Bonnie Reene.

Mark is living in Esslingen, a town just outside Stuttgart, Germany. Many of the townspeople do not speak much English, Mrs. Reene said.

"He is enjoying the country. He's enjoying the people," she said. "He's had a couple years of German. In his last letter, he said he has four friends he's met and it's funny, their conversation, part English and part German."

Mark has been in Germany since May 5 and he plans to return home Aug. 25.

A 1981 Clarkston High School graduate, his parents are Don and Bonnie Reene of South Eston Road, Independence Township.

Students get hands-on high tech

With high tech becoming more common, students are getting a chance to get ahold of robots. Tom O'Brien's two advanced woods classes at Sashabaw Junior High used the last few weeks of school to study robotics.

The 48 students learned the basic uses of robot arms and what powers them.

"I started the program a couple of years ago," said O'Brien. "The kids like it because they get hands-on experience with the robots. It's more than a game. They have to think about how the arm works."

STATE OF MICHIGAN COUNTY OF OAKLAND TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE RESOLUTION OF INTENT TO INCORPORATE AS CHARTER TOWNSHIP

RECITALS:

The Township Clerk of the Township of Independence has been notified by the Secretary of State of the State of Michigan that the unincorporated portion of Independence Township has a population of 5,000 or more inhabitants, notice of which was duly published in the Clarkston News.

The Township Board thereafter, at a regular Township Board meeting, deliberated upon the question of incorporating as a Charter Township, and determined that it would be in the interest of the Township to seek incorporation as a Charter Township.

The Township Board further deliberated with respect to whether to seek incorporation as a Charter Township by way of Board Resolution, subject to voter referendum, or by way of submission of the question to the electors in the first instance. The Township Board determined to proceed by way of Board Resolution, subject to referendum, for the reason that the Board did not wish to seek the right to increase taxes as an inseparable part of seeking incorporation as a Charter Township, which tax increase right would be granted incorporation as a Charter Township were achieved way of election in the first instance.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that, in consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to Act 359 of the Public Acts of Michigan of 1947, as amended, the Township Board intends to approve incorporation of the Township of Independence as a Charter Township, subject to adoption of a Resolution of Intent to incorporate in not less than 60 days following publication of this Resolution in a newspaper of general circulation in the Township.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that, regardless of the passage by the Township Board of the final resolution to approve incorporation, if, within 60 days before final passage of the resolution to approve incorporation, petition seeking a referendum on the incorporation question is submitted to the Township Clerk, signed by not less than ten (10%) percent of the number of electors of the Township voting for Township Supervisor at the last election in which the Supervisor was elected, then the proposition to incorporate as a Charter Township shall be decided by the electors at the following general or special election at which the proposition is placed on the ballot.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that the foregoing is a true and accurate copy of a Resolution duly adopted by the Township Board of the Township of Independence, Oakland County, Michigan, at a regular Board meeting held on Tuesday, the 21st day of May, 1985.

VOTE: 6 yea; 1 nay; 0 absent.
RESOLUTION ADOPTED.

RICHARD A. HOLMAN,

Moving ahead

Monica Miles

With the school year coming to a close, I've been asked by my teacher to write about the participants' feelings on the Sashabaw Junior High Mentorship Program.

The mentorship program is made up of ninth-grade students from Sashabaw's gifted and academically talented education (GATE) class.

They go to various businesses around the community to learn about what's involved in the career.

For example, I have learned that journalism is not the easiest job.

I think I can speak for my classmates and myself by saying that we feel the program has been a success.

We enjoy learning about something we are interested in.

This is the first year the program has been in existence and it still has a few rough spots that need to be ironed out.

The toughest area is keeping up on schoolwork. Because the program is active during school hours, we miss our last four classes and get stuck with loads of homework.

But we got used to the pattern and didn't have too much difficulty doing the homework.

The good points have outweighed the bad points. Now that we have had a small taste of the working world, we can make a more accurate decision on what career we'd like to take up.

The program has proved to be a positive learning experience for everyone who took part.

Monica Miles, a ninth-grader at Sashabaw Junior High School, is working with The Clarkston News this school year as part of the SJHS Mentorship Program.

Dear Cat Paw:

Recently Clarkston Senior High had David Toma come to Clarkston. He really had an effect on the students, but no real effect on the parents.

Why?

Dear Why:

I know of several parents who were greatly affected by Toma. Some parents, however, want to believe they had absolutely nothing to do with their children's drug involvement or that their children are involved with drugs.

Some parents turn the job of parenting over to the school or community. And some parents feel threatened because of their own drug involvement. It is difficult to reach people who don't want to hear or see.

The problem is real—every student at the high school knows that, and that's important in itself because of our future.

As Toma said, it is easier to wear blinders than to have to do something. No one seems to do anything about drugs until there is a real family crisis and then they can't get help fast enough.

Dear Cat Paw:

What is the worst drug problem in the United States today?

Joe

Dear Joe:

The most abused drug in the U.S. is alcohol. About 10 million are addicted to alcohol. And I wouldn't be surprised if the figure is even higher.

Dear Cat Paw:

Do drugs affect your sexual relations with the opposite sex?

Sexually Concerned

Dear Concerned:

Yes! You didn't mention a particular drug so I cannot be specific as to sexual reactions to a specific drug. Why not write back?

Dear Cat Paw:

How many students have gone to drug treatment programs since Toma was here?

Unsigned

Dear Unsigned:

Since all drug treatment is anonymous, it is impossible for me to know. I do know personally of four students who have entered treatment. I feel confident there are more.

Dear Cat Paw:

Someone I know has been smoking for about 15 years and has just recently quit. Are this person's lungs permanently damaged or is there still hope that lung cancer won't develop?

Concerned Daughter

Dear Concerned Daughter:

Only a doctor would be able to tell definitely if there is any permanent lung damage to this person's lungs.

The good news is the lungs start to clean themselves out the moment a person stops smoking. The body goes to work to repair the damage. The heart and lungs have a new chance to defend themselves.

The effort is worthwhile.

Mother of three turns graduate

By Carolyn Walker

Tonight, June Gadberry will walk to center stage, extend her hand, and receive the high school diploma she has coveted for 35 years.

Her three adult children and husband will cheer her on before rewarding her with a graduation open-house.

It may be the best birthday present she ever receives.

The 51-year-old graduate, who celebrates her birthday the same evening, says "Finally!" to her accomplishment of achieving high school graduation.

She is one of 27 graduates scheduled to receive their diplomas through the Clarkston Adult Education program.

In 1950, at the age of 16, dejected at her peers' social demands, she decided to quit Pontiac High to go to work.

She didn't return to her education until last September; just a few months after seeing her youngest child graduate from Clarkston High School.

It was then that her children learned she had never received a diploma. "That's when I told them," she says. "They were really surprised."

June reflects over her decision to quit school with a touch of bitterness in her voice, attributing her decision to school and home pressures.

"If you weren't a member of these (school) cliques, you just didn't belong," she says. "It takes away your incentive."

"When I was 18 all I could think about was becoming a hairdresser. My dad said I had to work."

"All these years it was in the back of my mind (to return)," she says, even though she had obtained her Graduation Equivalency Degree. "I wanted the real thing."

Her lack of a diploma definitely affected her employability, she says.

She never obtained the training required to be a hairdresser, and found herself employed at waitress, clerical and dishwashing jobs.

Currently a part-time employee at Christine's Deli, she has big dreams.

After receiving her diploma, she intends to study "something along the accounting line," she says, adding that she may be eligible for a scholarship to the Detroit Business College.

If she doesn't receive the scholarship, she says she will pursue accounting classes at Oakland University.

She recalls the last few months of study with happiness.

"It was kind of scary at first," she says, of her 12 credit hours in subjects such as history, government and consumer economics. "But I was determined. I learned a lot of things I had never given a thought about before. It's been fun. I think I'm going to kind of miss it."

June Gadberry is one of 27 adult education students who plan to obtain their high school diplomas Wednesday night. She has lived in Independence Township since 1963.

Music, dancing and dialogue make up "The Poppy Seed Cakes," a lively play presented last week to parents and schoolmates by the second- and third-graders of teacher Debbie Luczyn at Pine Knob Elementary School. In this scene, Auntie Katushka, played by Angela Schaefer, discusses the baking of poppy seed cakes with Andrewshek, played by Jim Simonson. After the play was over, parents snacked on an appropriate treat—homemade poppy seed cakes baked by parent volunteers.
