New courthouse closer to reality

By Kathy Greenfield

The first step toward approval of a new 52nd District Courthouse in Independence Township has been received by the Rademacher Group.

The nine-member Oakland County Building and Planning Committee unanimously recommended approval of the proposal Tuesday morning.

"Our group is very pleased," said Rudy Lozano, a member of the Rademacher Group. "We surely feel the building we're going to be putting up is going to be a tremendous asset to Clarkston."

The Rademacher Group is composed of Thomas Rademacher, the former owner of Rademacher Chevy; Richard Ayers, owner of Mr. G's; Lozano and Ken Rogers, co-owners of Evans and Associates real estate; and Charles Bowles, owner of C&B Custom Builders.

The courthouse is proposed for two acres on M-15 north of Dixie Highway. The road leading to the site is adjacent to the True Value Hardware store and almost directly across M-15 from the First Federal Savings Bank and Trust office.

The courthouse plan takes up two of 14 lots on the property zoned for office buildings, Lozano said.

The 11,000-square-foot building would contain about 6,000 square feet for the courthouse, with the additional space available if the court expands to two judges, Lozano said.

"That's why we're building the building that

Athena waits

Tiger's fate up to judge

By Carolyn Walker

Like many curious township residents and media watchers, Athena the tiger is waiting for news about her fate.

A decision on her right to live in Independence Township is expected from Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Frederick Mester on Aug. 7.

Mester had originally scheduled his decision for last Friday, but postponed it for unknown reasons, according to a court spokesperson.

On July 31, Mester heard oral arguments from Gerald Fisher, attorney for the township, and Frances Avadenka, attorney for Athena's owner, Douglas Murdoch.

Avadenka was appealing a township zoning board of appeals' decision to deny a variance which would allow the cat. Fisher was defending the township's stance against the animal.

Athena, a 300-pound Siberian tiger, resides on a 20-acre Allen Road farm with Douglas, an adult, and his parents William and Wanda.

Her presence in Independence has been a source of controversy since 1984 when the township filed for an injunction against the tiger and a bobcat, Cassandra, also owned by the Murdochs.

Township officials have said they consider the animals potentially dangerous, while the Murdochs contend they are domesticated.

In January, during a court-sanctioned hearing, the zoning board of appeals determined the tiger does

Council appeals surgery center

By Carolyn Walker

The Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan (CHPC-SEM) plans to appeal the certificate of need (C.O.N.) issued to Dr. James O'Neill and the Clarkston Surgical Center last month.

A certificate of need is mandated by the state for any hospital-type facility dealing with third party insurance.

CHPC-SEM, a board which typically reviews such requests and makes recommendations to the state public health department, recommended denial of the surgery center's certificate of need last December.

Following CHPC-SEM's advice, on April 3 the state denied O'Neill's bid for a certificate of need, only to reverse its decision and grant it in July.

large," he said. "In the interim, we will be leasing that (extra space) out on a short-term basis."
The 52nd District Court handles cases from Independence, Springfield, Brandon, Holly and Groveland townships.

Because the county planning committee's recommendation to approve the Rademacher Group's proposal was unanimous, it is likely the board of commissioners will approve the plan, said an Oakland County official who asked not to be named.
The same county official said the Rademacher

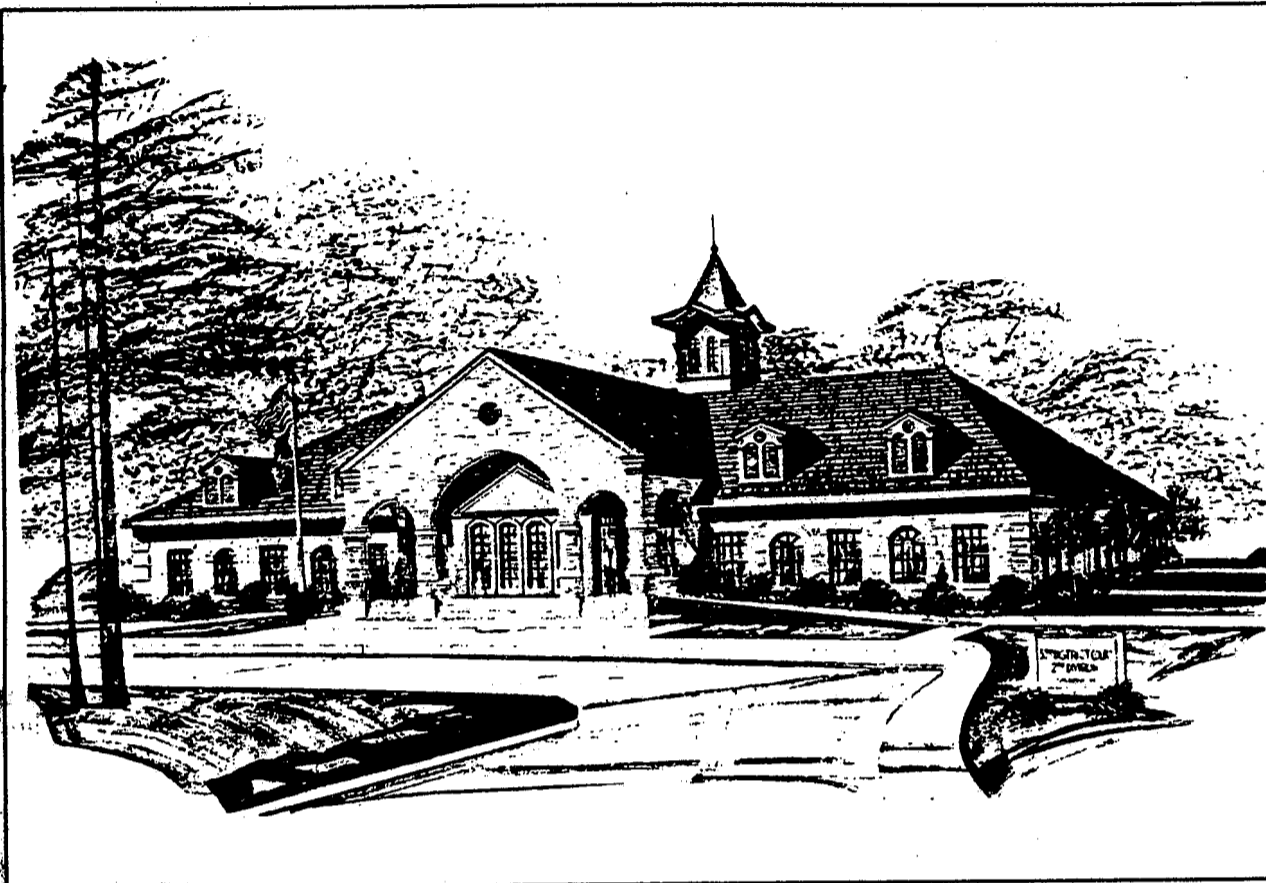

Group's plan was recommended for approval because it met all the specifications and because it was about $27,000 lower than the closest bid for rental over the 10-year course of the lease agreement.

Six courthouse proposals were submitted to the county for consideration, including renovation plans for the present building on Dixie Highway north of Andersonville Road, at the southern border of Independence Township.

Before the plan receives final approval from the Oakland County Board of Commissioners, detailed plans must be presented to the county finance committee, which in turn makes its recommendation to the board of commissioners. Final action on the proposal is expected at the Aug. 22 board of commissioners meeting.

Following final county approval, the courthouse plans will require approval by the township planning commission.

Lozano said the Rademacher Group's plan is to complete construction by Dec. 31 when the lease on the present courthouse expires.

This is an architect's rendering of the 52nd District Courthouse proposed by the Rademacher Group. The plans include parking spaces for 100 vehicles.

Traffic is stopped periodically so the five-car construction equipment can make its way through intersections. Michigan Bell is burying telephone cables along the Grand Trunk

Western Railroad tracks and repairing the roads the crew must cross on the way to Flint.

Poles to cables

By Dan Vandenhemel

Telephone poles may be on the way out while underground cables become more commonplace in rural communities.

Michigan Bell is installing underground lines along the Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks from Pontiac to Flint. The 23-mile route takes the cable through a small part of Independence Township and cuts through the heart of Springfield Township.

While following the tracks, workers must cut through part of the road to lay the optic fiber cable. Bell purchased part of the easement from Grand Trunk.

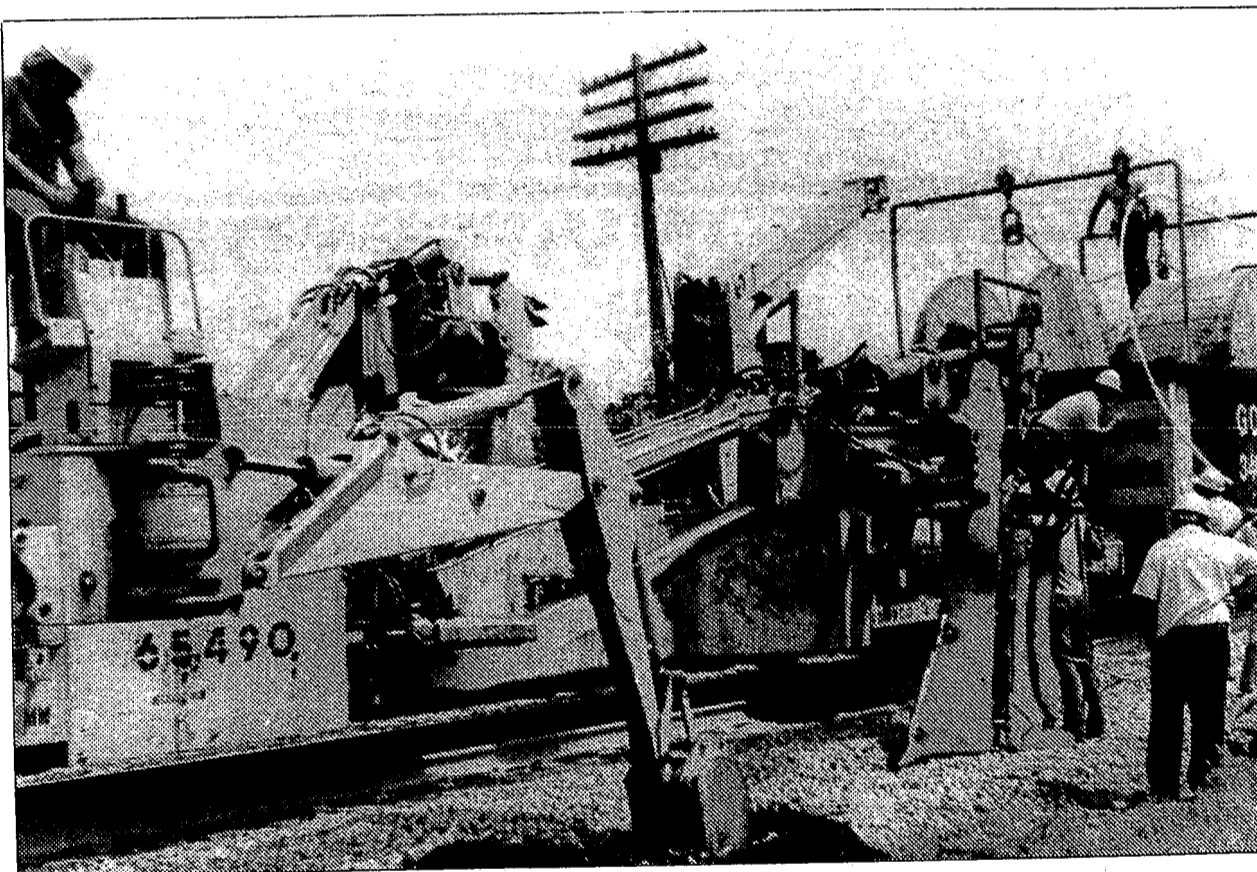

"This is a new trend," Bell engineer Leroy Cockerton said. "This is the first time we've done it in this district. This is going all over the state. It's terribly expensive to splice the cable together but it'll save in the long run."

The railroad tracks cross White Lake Road in Independence Township and criss-cross Andersonville Road and Davisburg Road in Springfield Township.

Cockerton said there hasn't been any backup of traffic other than the few minutes the five-rail car construction equipment takes to go through an intersection.

"We're repairing all the intersections we go through," he said. "Along the tracks is the most direct and safest way to go."

Work started in Pontiac July 29, and Cockerton expects the project to be completed in two weeks.

Wall not supported by lakeside dwellers

By Carolyn Walker

As plans for widening Dixie Highway continue, several residents near Dollar Lake in Independence Township find themselves faced with a potential problem.

The earth surrounding their homes is soft and representatives of the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) have proposed suctioning out the muck and building an 11-foot retaining wall before widening begins, according to Sandy Gdula, a resident.

The construction of such a wall would temporarily limit access to the homes and cause the removal of trees, Gdula said, adding that MDOT currently owns the easement.

On July 26, representatives of MDOT listened to Gdula and some 39 other residents voice their concerns at a meeting in the township annex.

Also in attendance at the meeting was United States Congressman Bob Carr (D-6th District).

Following a citizen petition in 1984, Carr successfully lobbied to obtain $12 million in federal funds for the Dixie widening.

Construction is scheduled to begin in 1986.

At the meeting, the residents proposed widening Dixie only on the southerly (or commercial) side of the road, opposite from their homes.

The proposal would include an estimated one-mile stretch of Dixie from M-15 in Independence to Foster Road, Gdula said.

"My house sits on a floating slab," Gdula said after the meeting. The Dollar Lake area is full of artesian springs, she added. "There isn't suitable soil conditions for a wall."

Suggestions that the muck be removed and the water table changed were also panned by Gdula.

"If they do that, they're going to shift my house," she said.

Jack Morgan, a representative of the MDOT, said after the meeting that the state would weigh the citizens' concerns before making a determination.

Doing all the widening on one side of Dixie would require the department to purchase further easements, he said.

Such an effort would also affect the already steep driveways of some of the businesses, he added.

Morgan said residents will receive a response to their concerns in the mail during the next two weeks.

New owners buy plaza

Pine Knob Pharmacy to relocate

By Carolyn Walker

After over 20 years of service at its Maybee-Sashabaw roads location, the Pine Knob Pharmacy is moving.

Clark Easley, owner of the Pine Knob Plaza shopping center which houses the pharmacy, sold the property to LaKritz and Weber and Co., and their partners Equitable Manufacturing of Southfield early this year.

The new owners plan to bring in a different drug store, according to pharmacist James Lowery.

The new pharmacy is to be called M&R Drugs, according to William LaKritz, and is a part of a chain of stores.

The new owners sent an eviction notice to Lowery and Fred Baumgartner, Pine Knob Pharmacy's co-owners and druggists, in June. Their previous lease expired on May 31.

The druggists were told to be out by July 12, but were able to extend the date into August after contacting their lawyers, Lowery said.

Lowery and Baumgartner have purchased the former Ross Pharmacy at Walton and Sashabaw roads and plan to move in by Aug. 25.

News of their eviction came as a painful surprise, according to Lowery.

"I had no idea when I got that notice in the mail. I just figured it was a ploy of the new landowner to get a larger rent," Lowery said. "He already had a signed lease from someone else, somebody that has a store in one of his other centers."

Lowery said the move may affect over 3,000 of his customers.

"We've been here 21 years. There's some people that have been coming in here since day one," he said. "I really felt bad the first couple of weeks. I cried. I honestly thought I'd retire on this corner."

"Everything that I had here was paid for. All of a sudden I have to go and buy another store. I'm losing a minimum of a quarter of a million dollars."

Lowery and Baumgartner became partners in October 1964, shortly after Lowery graduated from pharmacy school at the University of Michigan.

After establishing their partnership in Union Lake, they brought their pharmacy to Independence Township when they saw an ad for the then new Pine Knob Plaza.

The plaza was owned by Easley, a boyhood friend of Lowery.

Easley, 75, elected to sell the center and retire, Lowery said. The new owners took over Jan. 1.

At the new location, the pharmacists will maintain their 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. hours and will add a new service of home delivery, Lowery said.

In addition, Pine Knob Pharmacy will continue to operate a drug store at the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center.

According to LaKritz, plans are to knock out a wall between the current pharmacy and the former Dee's Boutique and to expand for M&R Drugs.

Of their reason for bringing in a new pharmacy LaKritz said, "His lease was up and we wanted more aggressive merchants."

He does not yet know when M&R will occupy the building.

According to LaKritz, the Food Town, which is also in the center, will remain.

Pharmacist James Lowery is a graduate of the University of Michigan school of pharmacology.

The plot

Kathy Greenfield

Surprise parties always make me nervous. I have no argument with the idea of such gatherings. The problem is I'm always afraid that somehow I'll be the one who gives away the secret.

My fear turned from paranoia into a too-close-for-comfort situation a couple of weeks ago when we showed up a week early for a surprise birthday party.

While in the midst of packing for a three-day campout, the call came about the party. Somehow, the date remembered was off by precisely seven days.

We didn't realize that, of course, when we started the drive.

The trouble began when we passed the road we were supposed to turn on, stopped on the highway and realized the fast approaching figure on the bicycle was the party person.

The bluffing began.

We told soon-to-be-30 Pat that my husband was on his way to Flint to meet Russ for bicycling and I was along for the drive. We asked him if he wanted to come along.

He said yes! We agreed to follow him home, thinking everything would be fine when everyone else yelled, "Surprise!"

Pat was greeted by silence when he ran into the house to grab a banana and an apple for the trip to Flint. The surprise was on us.

We had a quick meeting of the minds. After deciding we had the wrong date, we briefly fell apart. Then we decided we had to keep on bluffing.

Not only did we not know precisely where Russ lives, but he wasn't expecting us.

The story changed. We were supposed to meet Russ in Holly, and wasn't the road to the Holly Recreation Area nearby? What, we missed it by five miles? You're kidding!

Besides, we told Russ to go on without us if we weren't there on time. We're so late now, we may as well forget it. We'll never catch him. Let's ride around here.

Pat didn't want to. He knew he could catch up with any biker. He really wanted to get in some distance biking.

We told him we hadn't had dinner. There was only time for a short bike ride near his house—and did he have any suggestions for a good place to eat?

Incredibly, Pat didn't ask if we were crazy.

They rode their bikes. I waited on the porch. My husband and I went out to dinner.

Unfortunately, two days later we saw Pat again. He had called Russ who knew nothing about the missed meeting in Flint or Holly.

We just grinned like idiots. What could we say? The real surprise party was still five days off.

I told my husband the worst part of the whole ordeal was that our convoluted story was sort of accepted.

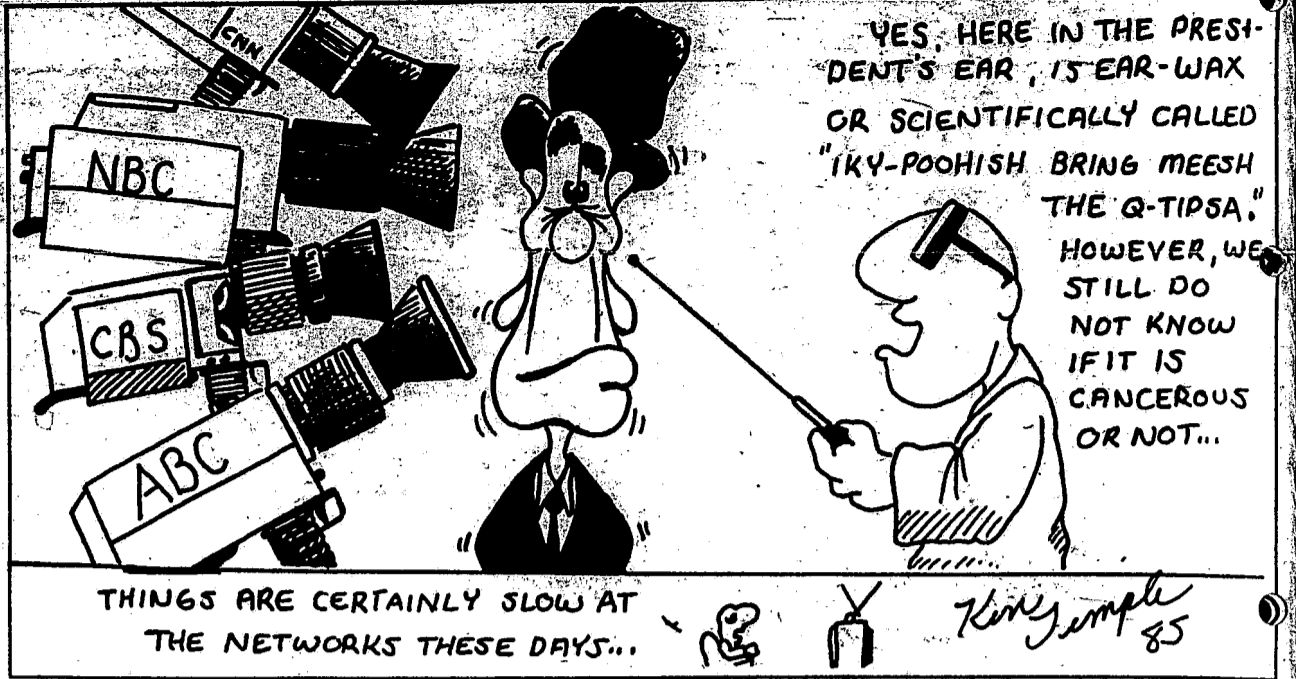

EPILOGUE

Pat, thank goodness, was truly surprised at his party. He roared when he found out what we had done.

Then Russ put in his two-cents worth about how they reacted when Pat called him: "It just confirmed everything we thought about you two."

Oh, my.

If it's a major fire or a minor oddity, we want a call at The Clarkston News. 625-3370.

Beautifying ways

Because the appearance of our freeways is so important to the way both visitors and local residents view Greater Detroit, Ford Division has become the first local organization to join Gov. Blanchard's Youth Corps in an extended beautification effort.

Our division's launch of the "Detroit Pride" program several weeks ago means six to eight weeks of summer employment for approximately 300 area young people, ages 18-21, who otherwise might be out of work.

Equally important, through Labor Day, these people will clean more than 600 miles of freeway—an impressive 2½ times the number of miles cleaned in previous years.

Joining Ford Division in this unique "Detroit Pride" program are 32 metropolitan area Ford dealers, who will be participating in individual beautification programs in their own communities.

This division will match the dealer donation up to a given amount, so that a number of communities can participate and benefit from their own efforts.

These dealers are backing "Detroit Pride" with an extensive advertising campaign with one purpose: to create more awareness that we all should step up to giving Greater Detroit more "eye appeal."

On Aug. 12 our Ford Division employees will be taking steps, when we "clean out our building to clean out Detroit." You'll see us at Belle Isle and in downtown Detroit, picking up all the litter we can get our hands on.

Ford Division's "home office" is in the Renaissance Center. Our employees work here and they live in this area.

Won't you join us in instilling "Detroit Pride" by doing your part?

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

Daughter Susan isn't sure she ever wants to write anything else the rest of her life, let alone getting her to write another Suzjots. But, I love her for trying it at least once.

Ever been to a professional boxing match? Neither had I until last week when those of cauliflower ears and twisted noses took to the ring in Birmingham... of all places.

Fight Night in city of the rich was sponsored by 'Uptown Thursday Night, The Event' at the Ice Arena.

I wasn't skeptical about going to a fight in Birmingham when IGA'er Charlie Drumheller asked me to go. But, when nothing appeared in the daily newspapers or on the electronic media about who was on the card, I figured I was in for a kidnapping to some foreign country, like being forced to go to Jason's in Windsor.

However, a call to the Birmingham Eccentric newspaper confirmed the date, time and card.

Those who say ringsiders at pro fights are different, know from which they speak. The tuxes, the beautiful ladies, the swarthy, the accented, they're all there.

No problem, of course. And, these students of boxing are different just like those who frequent golf courses, tennis courts, horse races, and newspaper conventions are different.

It's just that there was so much more gold showing on fingers and necks than a person sees on the first tee.

I do want it known right now that Oakland county prosecuting attorney L. Brooks Patterson was not among the glittering, unless you consider just his presence adding glitter.

Except in a couple matches that ended within two minutes of the first round, the boxers appeared to this novice watcher to be more wrestlers. Swing and clinch. Jab and grab. Bob, weave and hug.

Not to be too critical, though. I did not and am not offering to take any of their places in the ring.

Drumheller, in pitching the ticket, said it was a celebrity night and former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali would be there. Charlie didn't lie. I even got his autograph, and former Oxford photographer Doug Ashley took my picture with the champ.

What a gracious hero. He spent practically a night signing programs. He only rested when security kept fans back.

Ashley had been hired to be with Ali all day. That included five hours at Children's Hospital... a visit that was set to include seeing three terminally ill children in 15 minutes.

Then, Ashley said, when Ali left the hospital at least 200 people were outside to greet him.

Ali, who lost only 4 of his 64 fights, has slowed a lot since his ring days, but his popularity has slowed very little.

The three adventures of Rip the Cat

Carolyn Walker

This is the true, bittersweet saga of Rip (Rip-n-Tear) Walker, who had three adventures in his short life.

He did a slow burn. He got tarred and pebbled (not feathered). And he got high.

Rip was one of a litter of six black kittens fathered by my parents' cat, Archie, a ne'er-do-well of dubious heritage.

He came to live with us after we hauled him from the inside of a player piano at a neighbor's house, an "I-double-dare-ya" look on his face.

Rip had personality, the only trait we sought in a cat.

He was given his name because he ran, literally everywhere, with his claws out. Carpeting, furniture, laps, no matter. Scratch, scratch, scratch.

Rip had an uncontrollable curiosity and zest for life.

His first adventure took place when he was only a few months old.

Unbeknownst to me, Rip had sought the meaning of life in our oven, entering from an open space in the rear which served to circulate air during cooking.

With visions of a roast beef dinner in my head, I struck a match to ignite the pilot light.

Instead of getting the one-half-inch flame I expected, I got a full-fledged fire.

The oven heaved back and forth and I shut the gas off, convinced it was about to explode.

At that same moment, much to my horror, out came Rip in a fury of speed. Eyes aglow with fear. Ears laid back in flight. Whiskers singed into little balls.

He did three rip-n-tear laps around the kitchen before I caught up with him.

After his slow burn, Rip maintained a safe distance from the oven. His natural zeal for life, however, was not abated.

He turned to athletics; inventing a game which I called Paw Ball.

Paw Ball is played much like Hand Ball. It involves banking a small ball, preferably one with a bell inside, off the walls of a bathtub.

Rip spent hours and hours in the tub perfecting his game, and on occasion would interest our other cat, Thomas, in a match.

One Saturday afternoon my husband, whom I sometimes call The Perfectionist, was laying new tile in the bathroom.

He had spent days meticulously removing the old tile and was at the stage where the tar goes down in nice even strokes.

The Perfectionist was very careful not to get the tar on anything other than the floor.

That Saturday, I was in the kitchen doing dishes when I heard the following sounds: Scratch, scratch, scratch. Ring-a-ding. Aaaaargh! And, blaspheme.

I knew what had happened without looking.

Rip had batted his ball into the bathroom en route to the bathtub; and had gone in after it, oblivious to my husband's work.

He slid in the tar from the door, past the sink, to the tub, where he planted his paw prints on the white porcelain.

The Perfectionist, in his wisdom, picked Rip up (freshly tarred) and tossed him out the back door onto the gravel driveway, where tiny pebbles adhered to his paws.

For weeks following the tar and rock incident, he did not scratch, scratch, scratch about the house. He tapped, tapped, tapped instead the tiny pebbles upon the linoleum.

Rip's last memorable adventure was one common to cats. He met up with a dog.

It was a Sunday morning, and we were awakened from our sleep by barking in our backyard.

From the window, we could see Thomas on top of the garage.

Scanning the yard, and then the heavens, for a sign of Rip, we eventually found him perched high in a tree, quivering out on a limb at least 40 feet in the air. He got high, all right.

At first, it was hard to pick him out from the blackbirds that surrounded him, but the sagging branch gave his presence away.

When I was a child and my parents couldn't bear to tell my sister and I that one of our pets had died, they simply told us it went to Arizona, a land of great allure.

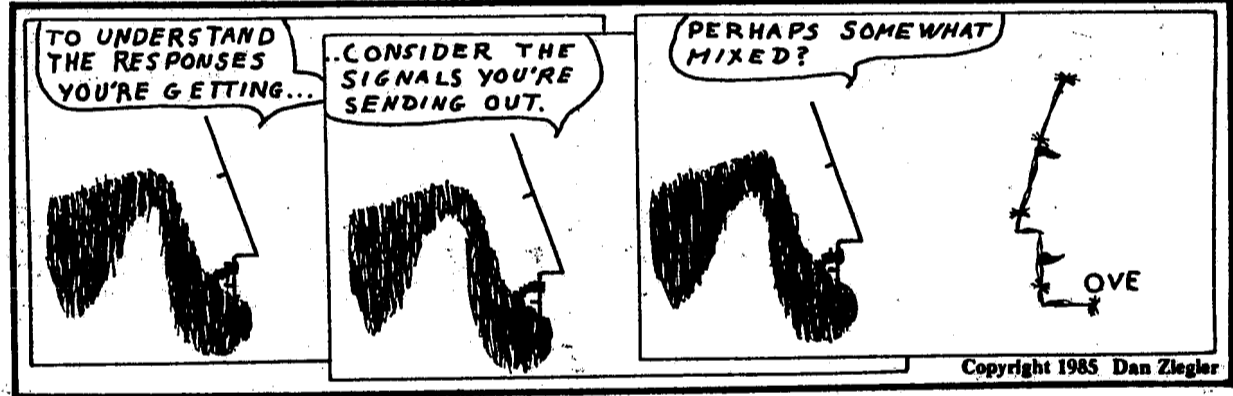

As children will do, we grasped hold of the notion that a better life awaited our pets in that far off land.

Rip went to Arizona, courtesy of a spiteful neighbor.

I wonder now, however, if Arizona was really ready for Rip, son of Archie, that ne'er-do-well.

'If it Fitz . . .'

Standing room only

Jim Fitzgerald

In two days I attended four cocktail parties. For each one I wore my new off-white sport jacket that cost almost $300. I couldn't sit down at the parties and, although my hands were full, I couldn't put anything in the jacket pockets.

There were a few chairs at the parties, but no one sat in them. Instead, everyone remained standing for as long as two hours. My wife explained that the reason for this strange phenomenon was that there were 40 times more guests than chairs, creating an acute chair shortage, and no one wanted to be rude enough to take a chair during the shortage.

"It would be impolite, like taking the last piece of cake on the platter," she said.

At the fourth party, I sat down anyway, on an empty couch, but for just a few minutes. "People will think you're too old to stand up," my wife said. She said it while standing over me, and I had to look straight up in the air to see her lips curl.

"It is a pain in the neck to converse in this manner," I said. "Why don't you sit down beside me?"

"I like to stand up, it's healthy," she said. She meant she didn't want anyone to think she was as old and rude as her husband. At home, if she stood up for more than 30 seconds at a time, I'd think she was a floor lamp with a missing shade.

One reason I like to sit down at cocktail parties is to create a lap to use for a table. I can hold a glass of booze and a plate of hors d'oeuvres while standing, and manage to drink a little, but I can't figure out how to eat without getting shrimp sauce on my nose.

For several years, when I was younger, I went to cocktail parties wearing a glass hanging from a chain around my neck, thus freeing two hands for plate and fork. I discarded the chained glass when my wife said it would hurt my career because no one takes a man who sloshes seriously.

A more dignified standing ploy when two hands are required for eating is to sneakily slip the glass into a side pocket of your jacket. This can be done dryly if the glass isn't too full and you stand very still. But it can't be done in my almost-$300 jacket because the pockets aren't large enough to put anything in.

I can't even put my eyeglass case in those stupid pockets, or my skinny cigar case. What good are pockets if you can't put anything in them?

"Well-dressed men never put things in their pockets," my wife explained. "It ruins the shape of the clothes."

So why did they bother putting completely useless pockets in my jacket? Why didn't they simply fake it the same way they draw fake neckties on stylish T-shirts? I know why.

So I would pay almost $300 for the jacket and take it home before I discovered the pockets were worthless, that's why. When men try on jackets in a store, they don't take their eyeglass and cigar cases out of their old pockets to see if they fit in their new pockets.

I threatened to take the almost-$300 jacket back to the store and demand one with a real pocket I could slip a glass into at cocktail parties. My wife said she didn't want to be seen with a sloshy man in a lumpy jacket.

She also doesn't want to be seen with a man rude enough to sit down at cocktail parties during an acute chair shortage so he'll have a lap and won't need to put a glass in his pocket.

I wouldn't leave the fourth cocktail party until it was possible for me to take the last piece of food off every platter on the buffet table.

Area woman headed for Saturn

By Carolyn Walker

Laurie Kay finds herself caught up in the hub-bub of the Saturn project these days.

The Davisburg resident, married to Clarkston postman Dave Kay, is the manager of community and media relations for the Saturn Corp.

The corporation recently decided to build its proposed 2,000-acre facility in Spring Hill, Tenn., after receiving bids from 28 governors, including Michigan's James Blanchard, who were interested in having the facility in their state.

Saturn officials looked at over 60 criteria, including climate, land, transportation facilities and human resources, before selecting Spring Hill, Kay says.

"Saturn is very unique. It's a front-runner," Kay says. "It's more than just a plant. The people end of the business is just as important. We are very, very interested in working with the residents in maintaining their life-style."

Spring Hill, she says, won't become a GM town. People working at the facility will have choices of metropolitan or rural life-styles.

Kay has been manager of Saturn community relations, officially, since Aug. 1. Prior to her appointment to the position, she was community staff assistant for the General Motors Orion plant.

"It's very interesting because you get to get into different areas of the business," she says. "I'm really excited. Orion was a progressive plant. Saturn is the next phase."

The Saturn plant is going to be one of the largest facilities ever built at one time, Kay says, adding it will be more than just an assembly plant.

"It was a hard decision for us. We both recognize it as a tremendous opportunity for me"

—Laurie Kay

It is planned to house a stamping facility, engine and transmission production, body shop and paint shop, among others, she says. "It's going to be quite a complex."

Kay, a 1973 graduate of Adrian College, has worked for GM for nine years.

She credits her husband with being very supportive in their move to Tennessee.

"It was a hard decision for us," she says. "We both recognize it was a tremendous opportunity for me."

Kay's job in Tennessee will involve sharing information with media representatives and making herself available to Spring Hill residents who have questions.

She says she hopes to set up an information center once she has established herself in Tennessee.

The residents of Spring Hill and nearby Tennessee communities have been tremendously receptive, according to Kay.

"Southern hospitality lives," she says. "It's going to be a lot of fun, I think."

Laurie Kay, a Springfield Township resident, was recently named manager of community and media relations for the Saturn project in Tennessee.

Judge plans to decide Athena's fate soon

not fall under township ordinances governing livestock.

They then refused to grant a variance which would permit the animals.

Avadenka told the judge, who visited the tiger in May, the ordinance's language is not clear because it mentions (and permits) "other animals in excess of 75 pounds, and not otherwise specifically classified (as livestock)...."

Avadenka contends the tiger falls into the "other animal" category.

"The language is so imprecise that no person could have determined that the animals in question were prohibited under the R1R zoning ordinance," Avadenka told the judge. "In order to give some meaning to that catch-all phrase...then it has to evolve that animals other than livestock come in.

"Why put the language in, if it wasn't supposed to mean something?" she asked.

"What the township is really saying is, 'We're frightened.'

"If the ordinance clearly precluded the animals, then we wouldn't be standing here today."

Avadenka went on to question the previous testimony of "expert witnesses" Richard Carlisle, township planner, and Steve Graham, director of the Detroit Zoo, who defended the township's position at the zoning board of appeals.

Graham, Avadenka contended, has "no first-hand knowledge" of Athena or her living quarters.

Carlisle, she said, wasn't present when township officials drew up the ordinances governing animals, and could not know what they intended in their definition of "other animals."

After listening to Avadenka, Mester directed a question to Fisher. "If this ordinance is so clear...what other animals could it have included that are in excess of 75 pounds?" he asked Fisher, alluding to the fact that the ordinance specifically permits horses, cows, goats and pigs.

"I'm not a farmer nor is the township board," Fisher replied. "I can't give the court any other answer. I don't know.

"The intent of that language was not to open the door...to other animals. They were allowing other livestock that maybe they hadn't thought of at that time," Fisher said.

Including tigers in the interpretation is "straining it to the breaking point," he added.

Mester then asked Fisher, "We both saw the very fine home they provided for Athena as well as the bobcat. What's the danger to the people of Independence Township?"

"The basic element of human error enters into the picture," Fisher replied. "The human error factor.

"It's merely a responsibility for upholding its ordinances which the township is compelled to do on a day-to-day basis."

Questions raised by group over state's OK of center

professionals and lay people, continues to maintain there is not a sufficient need for new outpatient surgery facilities in north Oakland County and is citing that as its reason for appeal.

"For some inexplicable reasons that are not fully apparent to us, they (the state) reversed their position and issued the C.O.N.," said Terence Carroll, executive director of CHPC-SEM.

The state cited the proposed center as a pilot project for studying outpatient surgery as its reason for the reversal, he added.

"We felt that the initial staff analysis that was done...had better substantiation, rationale and logic," he said of CHPC-SEM's original recommendation. "In fact, there are quite a number of ambulatory services being operated which the department could study."

O'Neill said he is not alarmed at CHPC-SEM's decision.

"I really don't feel very threatened about it," he said. "What they're doing now is just an administrative appeal. They're advisory only. The facts will rise in our favor."

The Clarkston Surgical Center is planned for six acres behind O'Neill's current pediatric practice on M-15. Its services are to include outpatient surgery, psychiatric day care, and such testing procedures as cystoscopies and biopsies, according to O'Neill.

A hearing officer will preside over the appeal and the information obtained will then be reviewed by a five-member panel appointed by Gov. James Blanchard, according to Carroll.

It is not yet known when the hearing will take place.

According to Carroll, CHPC-SEM reviews an estimated 300 proposals per year. Ninety-eight percent of the time CHPC-SEM and the state are in agreement, he said.

"While this is not a frequent occurrence, it's not unusual," he added.

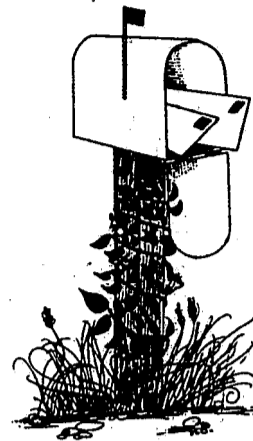

Meanwhile, O'Neill has begun clearing the six-acre site in anticipation of beginning construction of the Clarkston Surgical Center by October.

Dear Customers and Friends,

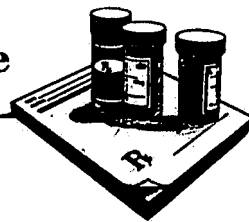

Through no fault of our own and certainly not in line with our wishes our lease has been terminated by the new owners of Pine Knob Plaza. We had no advance knowledge of the landlord's intention not to renew our lease. We have lived and worked in this community for over twenty years and have made many friends. A loss of a lease is always difficult but because of the shortness of time and particularly our replacement by another pharmacy it is devastating.

All of your prescriptions and your computerized records will be at this store. They will also be available at our Pine Knob Pharmacy #2 located in the Village Clinic (5905 M-15 between Dr. O'Neill's office and Wint's Funeral Home. Our phone number there is 625-1215). We are also adding one feature which will make it easier to serve you. We will deliver prescriptions free of charge.

Recreational vehicles behind charges, deaths

By Carolyn Walker

Growing concern over the use of mopeds and recreational vehicles in Independence Township has led to the prosecution of at least one minor.

According to Oakland County Sheriff's Department Deputy Thomas Quisenberry, neighbors recently brought charges against a 15-year-old girl when she allegedly drove recklessly along a bike path near Eston Road.

The township is currently in the process of obtaining signs to prohibit the use of motorized vehicles on bike paths. Current plans are to paint the signs right on the paths' surfaces, according to township Treasurer John Lutz.

The girl, according to Quisenberry, was driving on the path with a "wanton disregard" for people walking along it. No one was injured in the incident, he added.

"Those bike paths are specifically designed for pedestrians or bicycles," Quisenberry said.

Charges against the youth were reduced from reckless driving, which could appear on her record, to driving carelessly on a bike path, Quisenberry said.

The youth appeared in juvenile court with her father and pleaded guilty to the lesser charge, he added.

She was sentenced to six months' probation.

According to Quisenberry, the riding of recreational vehicles in the township has become a serious problem. One which has increased in the past year.

People are coming in droves from other areas to Independence Township to use their recreational machines, says sheriff's department Deputy Thomas Quisenberry

Seventy-seven trespass tickets were issued in the last year for the illegal use of such vehicles, he said, and only two of those were for Independence residents.

People are coming in droves from other areas to Independence to use their machines, he said, with the former Double D riding stable property off Clintonville Road the most popular site.

During the past year there have been two deaths on that property related to recreational vehicle use, according to Quisenberry.

One accident resulted in the death of a 2-year-old, the other in the death of a 20-year-old, Quisenberry said.

According to state law, mopeds must be registered at the Secretary of State office and the driver must be at least 15.

Recreational vehicles are to be ridden only on the property of the owners or where permission has been obtained from an owner.

Spaces available

A few spaces are still available for artists and craftspersons to sell their wares at the Crafts and Cider Festival.

The event, planned Sept. 20-22 in the Clarkston Depot Park, is sponsored by the Clarkston Community Historical Society.

All arts and crafts should be handmade by the exhibitor. Those interested in participating should send slides or photographs of their work to the Clarkston Community Historical Society, P.O. Box 261, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Civic groups are also encouraged to participate by selling a service such as food or entertainment. The society will furnish ideas.

Teenagers teach T-ball team the game

By Dan Vandenhemel

"Some of them have never played before. Some didn't even know how to wear a mitt."

While describing his first exposure to coaching baseball, Mike Wells can't help but give a little chuckle.

Wells with the help of Eric Hutchins held the reins of Dandy 76, a boys' T-ball team in the Independence Township Parks and Recreation League.

Coaching 6-, 7-, and 8-year-olds can be challenging. But what helped Wells and Hutchins were their own ages. Both are 15-year-olds and will be sophomores at Clarkston High School in September.

"I think it's a lot different coaching the little kids because you can't tell them, you have to show them," Wells said. "Every time is the first time for these kids. We wanted to be their friends, not their coaches."

Wells compared his role to being a big brother of the players. The technique seemed to work for the coaches. Dandy 76 finished second in the league with an 11-1 record.

Since Wells also plays baseball, soccer and football, he's had a lot of experience with coaches.

"I just try to come across with what I've learned from other coaches," Wells said. "My brother (Greg) even coached me once and that helped."

Coaching baseball this summer wasn't planned by Wells, it just happened.

He saw a posted notice at Clarkston Junior High in the spring and went up to teacher Dave Smith asking about it. Smith is also the coordinator for the township youth leagues.

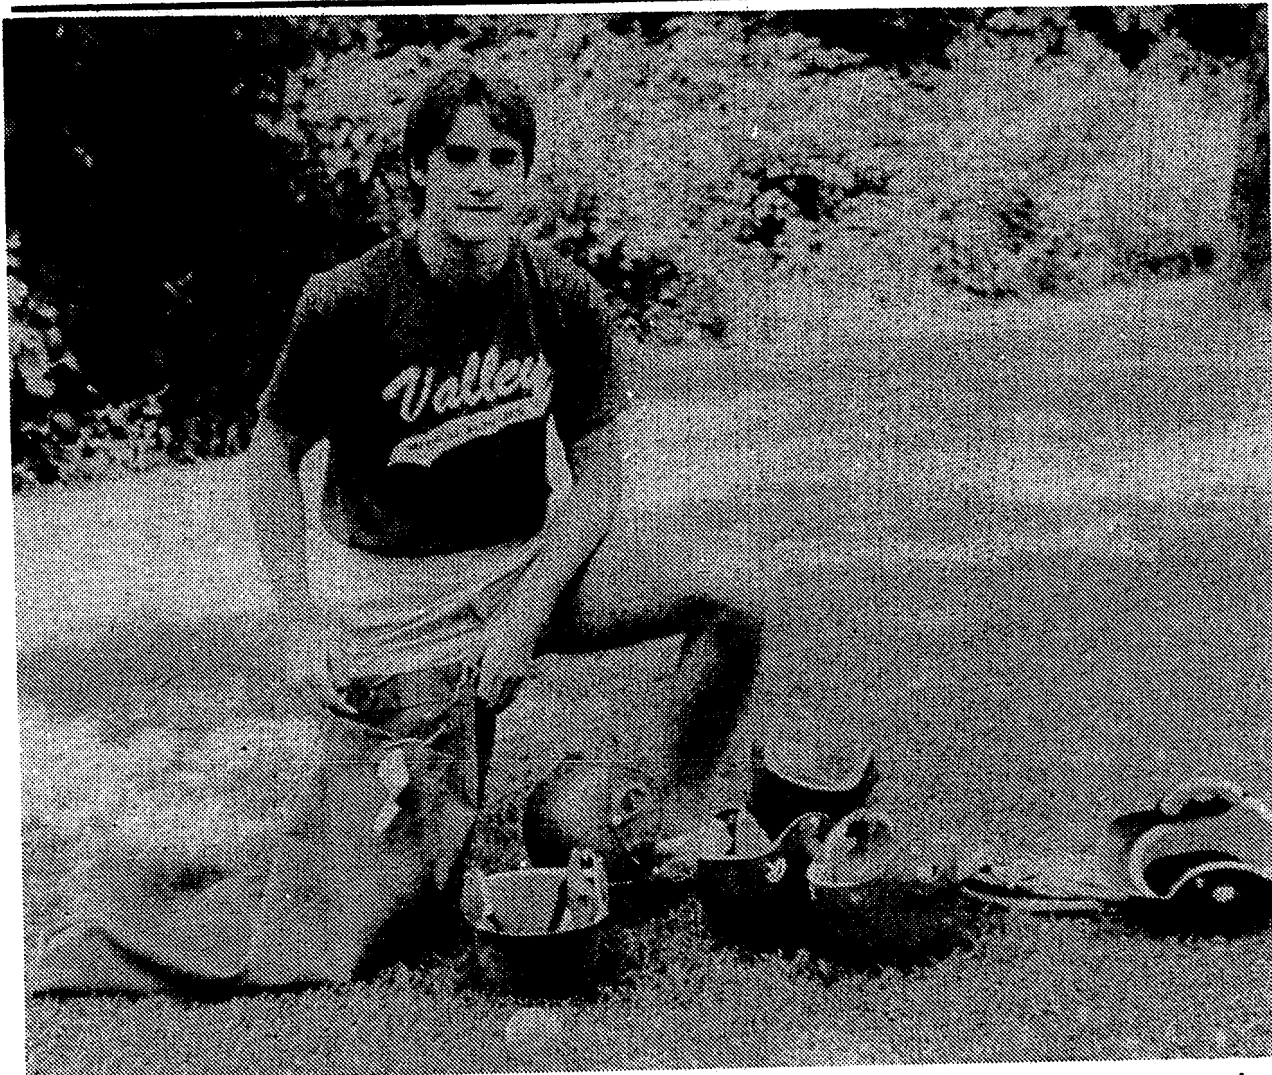

"I wanted to be an ump or coach football but I was too late for the umpire class and you have to be older to be a football coach, and I thought this would be fun," Wells said. "Mr. Smith said if I could find someone to help, I could do it."

Along with the coaching responsibilities, Wells played for the pony league champions, Prescription Fitness. Adding another activity to the already busy list, he is taking driver's training classes in Pontiac.

"I'm helping this dentist clean up the shop and around his house, too," Wells said. "The one that's getting the worst of this is my mom. She has to drive me everywhere."

"I'll be coming back again next year. I want to coach these kids in the peewee league. I had a lot of fun and want to do it again next year."

"Every time is the first time for these kids."

Mike Wells sorts out some of the equipment from his first season as coach of the Dandy 76

T-ball team. The 15-year-old Wells says he hopes to be at the helm again next year.

Softball pair going to all-star game

The best high school softball players in the state are converging in East Lansing this week.

The athletes voted to the All-State teams in all four classes by state coaches will play in all-star games at Raney Park in East Lansing, Aug. 10.

Laura Hurren, a second team All-State selection from Clarkston High School will be in attendance as will her coach, Carla Teare.

The Class C and D game is set for 1 p.m. and the Class A and B game is at 3 p.m. An awards ceremony is scheduled after the second game for the girls to receive their All-State honors.

Hurren and Teare will be on the West team.

"They sometimes have to move people around so the teams are about even," Teare said. "When they found out I was coaching for the West, they moved Laura over. It should be a lot of fun."

Teams needed for grid league

Fall is fast approaching and football season is getting closer by the day.

A touch football league in Pontiac is looking for more teams for this coming season.

The league is open to anyone over 18 years old and games are played at JayCee Park in Pontiac at the corner of Joslyn and Walton.

The 14-game season begins in September and runs through October. After the league playoffs, the winner goes on for a chance at the national title in St. Louis. The games consist of two, 20-minute halves of running time except for the final two minutes of each.

The cost to join the league is $250 a team plus $20 for each individual.

For more information, call Rod Honaker at 334-9018 or Chuck Mitchell at 857-7780.

Sports

Loss ends dominating year

By Dan Vandenhemel

The league was no contest for Key's Tax Service, but the boys' midget team from Independence Township met their match at the district playoffs in East Detroit.

They lost, 10-4, to a team from Lake Orion on Aug. 4 at Kennedy Park.

Key's jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first inning but three errors in the second turned the game around.

Roundball tryouts

The basketball season is fast approaching and it's time for tryouts at Clarkston High School.

High school girls in grades 10 through 12 can try out for the varsity and junior varsity teams starting Aug. 12.

The practices start at 9 a.m. and last until noon in the high school gym.

Medical physicals are mandatory to begin the practices. The forms can be picked up at the CHS main office from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. weekdays.

Lake Orion scored seven times and was able to coast to victory.

The team of 13- and 14-year-olds was coached by Dean Callison and Bill Mackson.

"Anything after the league championship is just icing on the cake," Mackson said. "But it was still disappointing because of the errors. They were a good team, but not 10 runs better than us."

"We couldn't get anything together after the second inning. I think our kids let down a little, too. We played pretty well, other than that one inning."

To get into the tournament, Key's had to win the league playoff the week before.

Dominant would be a good word to describe how Key's handled league opponents during the year. They averaged 13 runs scored and allowed only four while posting a 10-1 record.

They were even better in the three-game playoff, scoring 15 runs a game and giving up just three per game.

The only regular season game the team lost was early in the schedule. Cracker Barrel beat them, 5-4. Key's made up for that with a 15-3 trouncing in the league championship game.

5 wrestlers compete in Jr. Olympics

Clarkston was well represented at the National Junior Olympics at Indianapolis, Ind. Over 1,500 wrestlers from 42 states were at the event organized by the Amateur Athletes Union on July 10-14.

The Clarkston Freestyle Wrestling Club sent five grapplers and two came home with medals.

Jeff DeRoseau of Brandon Township, won a national championship in the 9-10-year-old division. Brett Walters of Independence Township won a medal for a sixth-place finish in the same division.

Those two along with Todd George of Oxford, Rubin DelosRios of Independence Township and Mike DeRoseau of Brandon Township competed in the matches.

To get to the national finals, the five participated at the Michigan State Finals, June 12, at Eastern Michigan University. Jeff DeRoseau, DelosRios, Walter and George were state champions.

Because of points the wrestlers earned during the year, AAU sponsored DeRoseau, DelosRios and George at the national finals.

Netter sign-up

Aug. 19 is the starting date for the Clarkston High School girls' tennis team.

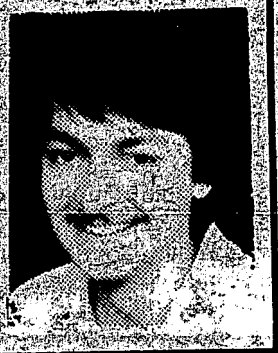

Coach Dick Swartout is holding a meeting that day at Clintonwood Park from 10 to 11:30 a.m., rain or shine.

There will also be a practice after the meeting for girls who have had physicals. Those needing forms can pick them up at the high school office.

Up My Alley

Have you heard?

Dan Vandenhemel

Have you seen The News? Or maybe Huey Lewis? Or maybe both? Huey Lewis and The News voiced their opinions at Pine Knob last week—and I had a good time.

I've heard the group's songs on the radio and seen videos on the tube. But I had no idea these guys had a sense of humor, and a good one.

You've got to figure most musical performers are outgoing and creative. For some reason, humor just doesn't seem to fit in.

Huey, we're on a first name basis now, actually talked to the audience. Some acts try to incite riots; not Huey. Some of the generic questions that come from the stage are "How do you feel?" or "Did you like that song?"

Not Huey's. "Have you ever seen a drum machine?" or "Do you mind if we sing a cappella?"

Of course, a rousing roar of approval filtered in from the Hill on everything Huey said. That is, except on the question if the crowd would rather hear the drum machine or the real thing.

The drum machine made its appearance midway through the act on a little red wagon. Who would have thought a group of guys from San Francisco would bring a wagon to cart a drum machine on stage?

From just one viewing of a Huey concert, I could tell these guys have fun on tour. While not even close to a microphone, Huey was still talking with people down in the front row.

After Huey and The News finished the first set, they came back at the encouragement from the crowd. With a shrug of his shoulders, Huey said of the first of three encores, "OK, if you insist." It was hard to tell who was having more fun, Huey or the crowd.

THE FACT THAT MIDAS STOCKS 1025 DIFFERENT GOLD MUFFLERS IS SOMETHING THE COMPETITION WOULD LIKE TO KEEP QUIET.

Midas manufactures and stocks more different mufflers than any other muffler chain.

And when you have that many mufflers, it's no wonder our competitors would rather we keep quiet.

Because unlike Midas, they can't assure you they'll have the muffler that's made to the exact specifications of your car.

Nor can any other muffler chain back its mufflers with a guarantee that's good in as many locations as Midas.

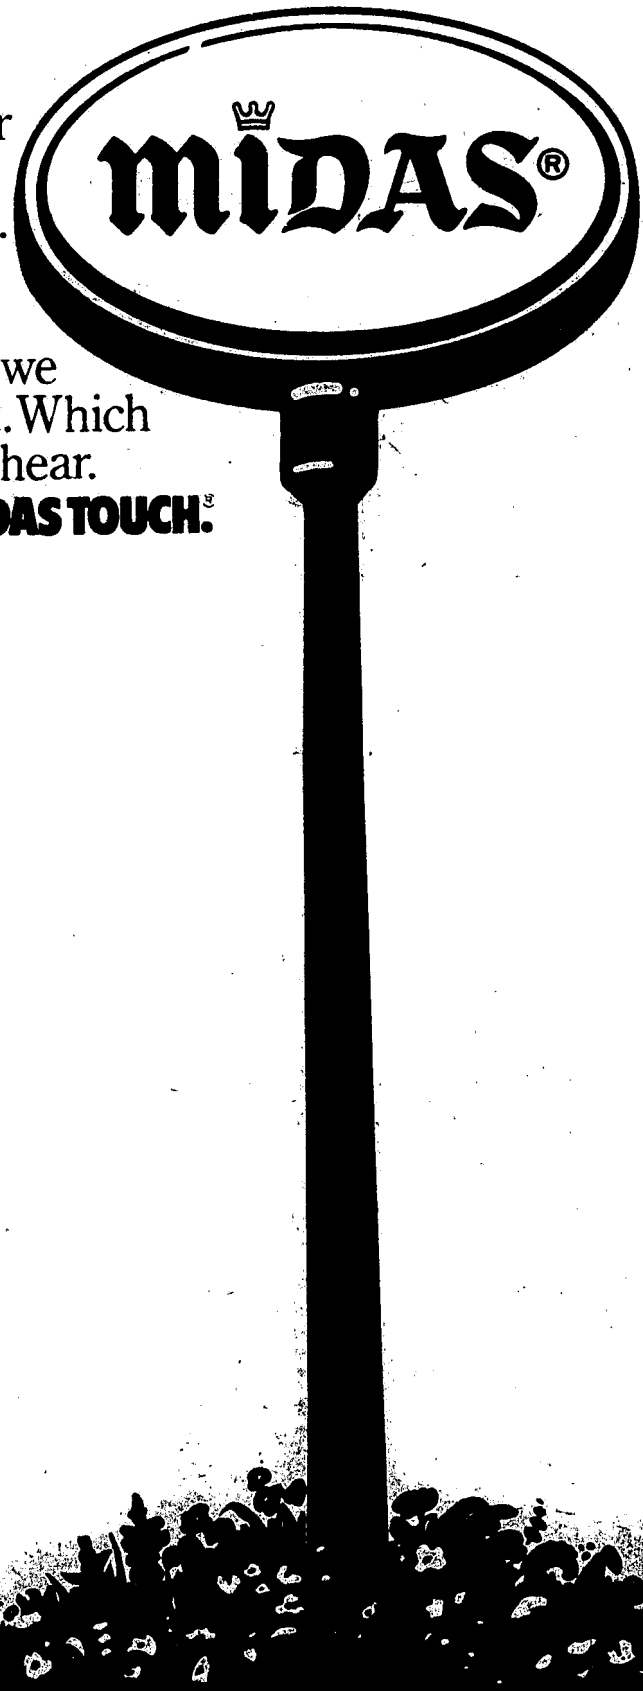

If anything should ever go wrong with your Gold Muffler, Midas will replace it free for as long as you own your car.

At over 1400 locations. In all 50 states.

So if you want the right muffler for your car, come to Midas.

With 1025 different mufflers in stock, we should have no problem keeping your car quiet. Which is something our competition would rather not hear.

Balzarini is recuperating

By Carolyn Walker

After 24 days in the hospital following an automobile accident, Andrew Balzarini returned home July 28.

Andrew is the 19-year-old son of Independence Township Trustee Carol Balzarini and her husband Donald. He was involved in a Clarkston Road auto accident on July 4, during which he broke an arm, leg and collarbone and received a concussion.

Andrew was injured when his 1982 Chevette was struck by another car, driven by a Keego Harbor man. Andrew's passenger, John Robenault, also 19, was not injured.

"I'm better now that I got home," Andrew said, during a recent phone interview. "I'm back to normal."

He still has a cast on his arm, as well as a brace for his collarbone, and he faces rehabilitative therapy.

A skier, Andrew was a member of the Clarkston High School ski team and was rated fifth in the state in the giant slalom event during his senior year.

After graduating from high school, he attended Michigan Technological University in Houghton, where he was also a member of the ski team and hockey team.

Because of his injuries, his doctor has advised him not to ski this year, Andrew said, adding that he should be able to participate in the sport in future years.

Employed at the General Motors Tech Center prior to his accident, Andrew said he intends to take the remainder of the summer off, before transferring to Michigan State University, East Lansing, where he plans to major in marketing and sales.

A courtship to remember

By Kathy Greenfield

During their overseas courtship, Ann Glover lived in France and Scott Hill called Egypt home.

Engaged to be married since January, the couple met while students at Michigan State University, East Lansing. He graduated in 1982 and moved to Cairo, Egypt, to teach school a year later. She graduated in 1983, moved to Paris in January 1984 to work as an au pair.

While overseas, they wrote many letters, shared a few telephone calls and met four times.

Now back in the United States, they talked about their adventures while visiting Ann's mother, Barbara Glover, in Independence Township before moving on to Milwaukee, Wisc., Scott's home town. They plan to be married in about a year.

Their overseas life-styles were a study in contrasts, but their goals were similar. Both wanted to experience another way of life and become proficient in another language.

Ann's French studies began in Clarkston High School under the instruction of Carol Arend whom she calls "an excellent teacher." In college, she majored in French and business.

"I couldn't give it up," she said. "I wanted to be really fluent and the only way to do it is to spend time in a country, so that's why I went over there."

She found her job through an agency after arriving in Paris. As an au pair, she exchanged domestic duties for room and board plus a small salary.

Ann cared for two boys, ages 3 and 5 when she started. She worked five days, about 25 hours a week, beginning usually at 4:30 p.m. when she picked the boys up from school.

Her duties included cleaning the boys' bedrooms, ironing their clothes including their underwear and their Osh Kosh B'Gosh blue jeans, and shining their shoes.

She read them American stories, ate dinner with them and prepared them for bed, speaking English all the while. During the day, she took classes at the Sorbonne, the liberal arts college at the University of Paris.

Scott had planned to spend time in another country since his junior year in college.

As a volunteer for the Presbyterian church, he traveled to Cairo, spending one year teaching science, English and special education science to junior and senior high school girls.

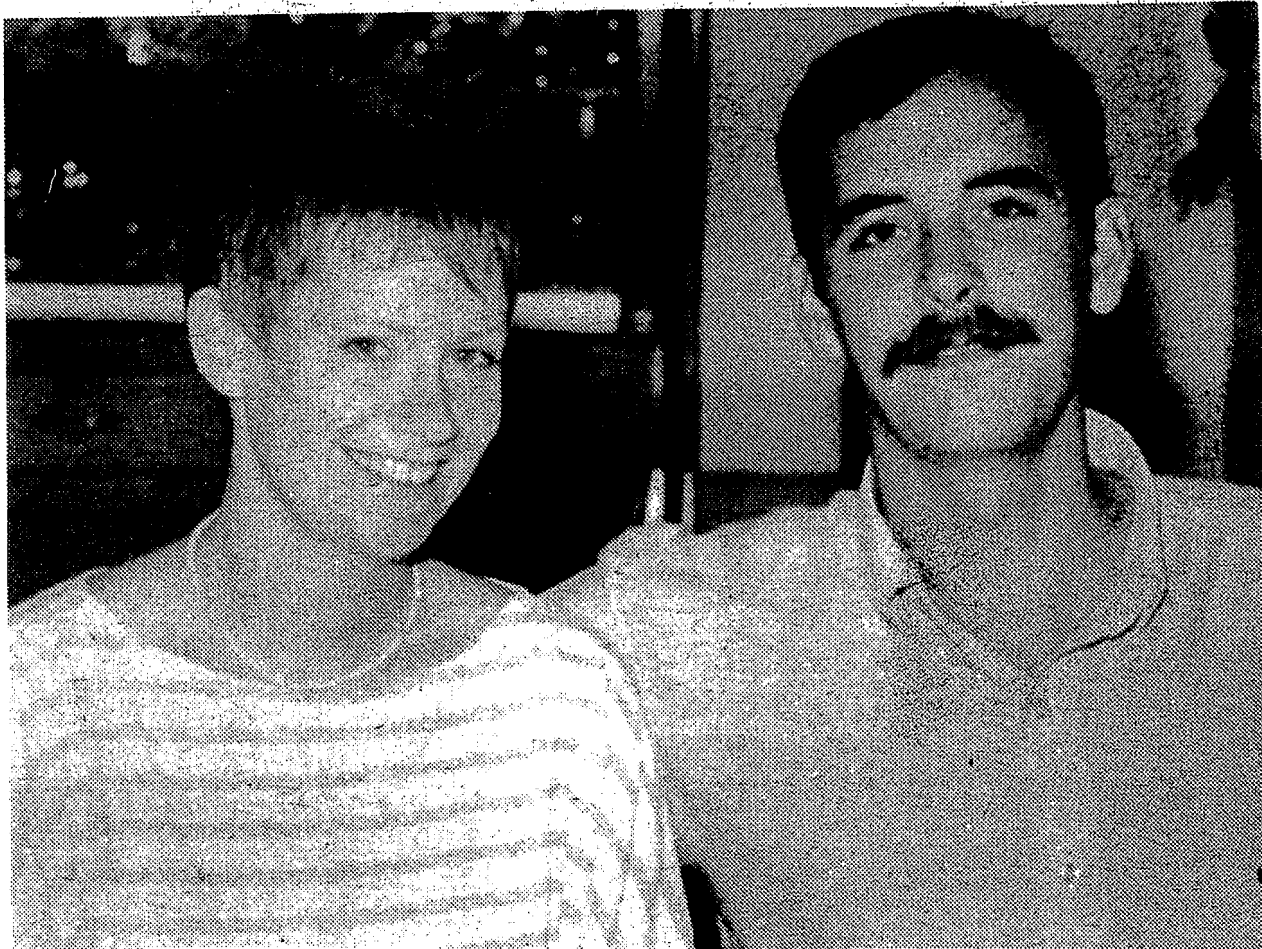

The next year, he moved to Assiout, a city about 200 miles south of Cairo, where he taught elementary school.

"I wanted to do some kind of service work and go abroad and help people," he said, "and also have some kind of international experience—to see another way of life, especially in the Third World."

He also taught English to Ethiopian refugees in Cairo, coached basketball in the school, and, during school vacation, he and Ann worked with a group of students from Germany, Jerusalem and Egypt.

The four times Ann and Scott met while overseas emphasized the differences in their experiences.

"You could say Egypt is a very conservative country in certain ways because of the strong Moslem influence," Ann said. "In Egypt, the women don't even

Other differences included their day-to-day life-styles.

At dinner time, Ann sat down with the two children at a table set with china and silver. They were served a meal prepared by the family's Algerian cook. "The food we ate was really wonderful because of the life-style of the people," Ann said.

took turns cooking. In Assiout, Scott lived with another American teacher and they also prepared their own meals.

"You'd buy lentils or rice and you had to pick out all the stones," he said. "Sometimes it took hours to prepare a meal."

Ann's apartment was provided by the family. Located in an exclusive section of Paris, it was different than adjacent apartment buildings because it had been built in a U-shape to preserve a tree planted by French poet, novelist and playwright Victor Hugo (1802-1885).

From 2 to 8 p.m., her apartment was used as a doctor's office, a common practice in Paris, she said. Ann shared the residence with a 20-year-old relative of the family, who helped care for the two boys on the weekends.

Scott's apartments in Cairo and Assiout were located on the school grounds. He described the decor in both settings as "functional."

Scott was paid about $30 a month. Ann's stipend increased from $175 to $200 month. Both found they could get by because their room and board expenses were covered.

Cemetery observations from the cities of Paris and Cairo add to their story of contrasts.

Cairo's population of 12 million grows by 1 million annually, and the growth has created some unusual living quarters. In one large cemetery, there is a community called "The City of the Dead." People have built shacks on the property and some live in the cemetery buildings.

In Paris, they were impressed by a dog cemetery complete with large monuments and fresh flower tributes to pets that had died.

Ann and Scott agree that it's good to be home.

"It's just nice to hear everyone speaking English," Scott said. "It's amazing to see, again, what a wealthy country the United States is, which is hard to realize unless you go somewhere else."

Both also agree their experiences were worth the time spent abroad.

"The Egyptian people are really, really friendly and open and hospitable," said Scott, "and really eager to meet foreigners, particularly Americans."

"It's really ironic these days when all you hear is how Arabs hate the United States...to go to an Arabic state and people treat you very well, buying you tea all the time and inviting you into their houses."

"Sometimes," said Ann, "it was difficult being a college graduate and being treated like a servant. I really didn't have any problem with it, living in Paris in a way I never would otherwise."

They have their memories of an unusual courtship—and Ann has a diamond from Egypt.

Buehrigs wed in Perry, Ga.

Beverly Ann Hopper and Dana Buehrig were united in marriage June 15 at the Crossroads United Methodist Church of Perry, Ga.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Ernest Hopper Jr. of Centerville, Ga. The bridegroom's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Robert Buehrig of Independence Township.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Grable Page before an altar decorated with ferns and palms.

After Dell Norris sang "Nobody Loves Me Like You Do," unity candles were lit by the couple's mothers.

The traditional "Wedding March" was played by Connie Black, who accompanied for the other songs. Dell Norris and John Brigmond sang a duet to "Author of Love." The bride and groom knelt at a profile altar while John Brigmond sang the "Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin. The long-sleeved lace bodice was encrusted with seed pearls and featured a stand-up lace collar. Her fingertip illusion veil was framed by a satin braided headpiece with pearl loops around large pearl teardrops.

She carried a lace-trimmed handkerchief in a silk organza purse trimmed with lace and pearls, made by her grandmother.

Her bouquet was a cascading arrangement of white and pink silk mums, pale pink roses and baby's breath. Her accessories were pearl earrings and necklace, wedding gifts from the bridegroom.

Rhonda Aultman served as maid of honor. The bridegroom's sister Bobbette Coulter, the bride's sister Christy Hopper, and Sandra Foster served as bridesmaids.

They wore matching gowns of pink chiffon with a sheer overlay of tiered ruffles and fitted bodice with off-the-shoulder ruffles. Their accessories were wide-brim pink nylon hats and white lace fans with pink flowers. They wore matching pearl necklaces, gifts from the bride.

Flower girl Heather Buehrig, niece of the bridegroom, wore a long pink satin dress and carried a basket of mixed pink flowers.

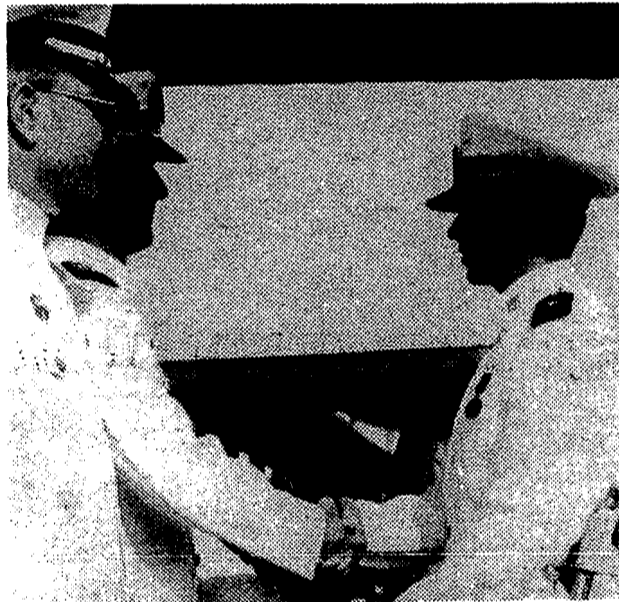

Ring bearer Todd Buehrig, twin to Heather, was dressed in a knee-length suit and carried a pillow with a cross-stitched bride and bridegroom, a gift from the Chris Buehrigs.

The bridegroom's brother Chris Buehrig served as best man. Groomsmen were the bride's brothers James and John Hopper, and the bridegroom's nephew Jason Bass. They wore black coats with black and gray striped trousers and gray vests, with an ascot for the bridegroom, and pink boutonnieres.

Servers at the reception were Rochelle Greer and Lisa Brewer.

The bride chose, for going away, a pink crepe dress with shirring across the shoulders and short cape sleeves.

After a honeymoon trip to Montego Bay, Jamaica, the couple are making their home in Perry, Ga., where the bridegroom is employed as a manager at Quincys.

New look

This is an artist's rendering of the planned new look for Calvary Lutheran Church located on Bluegrass near M-15 in Independence Township. On July 25, the church received preliminary approval from the Independence Township Planning Commission for a proposed $460,000 addition to the church, which is to house offices, classrooms and a fellowship hall. The church currently has 512 active members. The parishoners hope to be using the addition by winter, according to the Rev. Robert Walters.

Going for it!

The pros could learn a few lessons from 2-year-old dribbler Ryan Kaul.

Aiming for the basket, he puts the ball up with an enthusiastic thrust.

And in it goes, much to the youngster's delight. Eat your heart out, Tim McCormick. Ryan is a resident of Fox Chase Lane in Independence Township, where he practices his shooting with a vigor. His parents are Tim and Linda Kaul. Tim is a mathematics teacher at Sashabaw Junior High School and an athletic coach for the Clarkston school district.

When should parents talk to their children about drugs?

Dear Cat Paw:

We nearly lost our child to drugs by waiting too long to get help. I'm writing because maybe I can help another parent out there who is now wearing the shoes I wore not very long ago.

Those of us whose children have been involved with drugs recognize the signs. After spending thousands of dollars on counselors, we learned that a person on drugs needs a DRUG counselor.

I'd like to urge parents to learn as much about drugs as they can. Every day you wait will put your child in greater danger.

We must all care for each other if we are to do battle with the 'drug culture' and put an end to the agony it is causing so many victims and their families. Please share this letter with your readers. I feel better already.

Been There in Clarkston

Dear Been There:

Thank you for sharing your experience with us. I'm happy to print your letter in the hopes that it will help someone else.

Dear Cat Paw:

I have a friend who smokes pot and drives all the time. What can I tell him to get him to stop?

Friend

Dear Friend:

Driving and pot don't mix well at all.

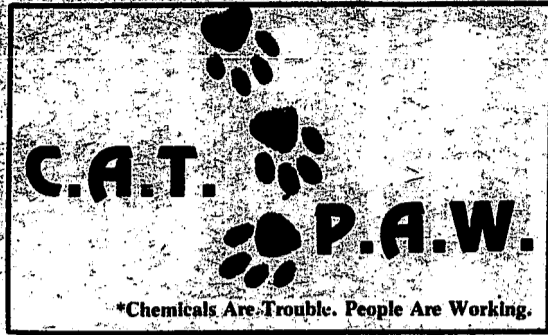

Motor skills, such as those needed for driving, suffer reduced reaction time by 41 percent after smoking just one joint and by 63 percent after smoking two joints.

No matter what kids or anyone else thinks, pot is dangerous!

Dear Cat Paw:

When should parents begin to talk to their children about drugs? I say junior high and my husband says high school. Who is right?

Want to Do the Right Thing

Copyright 1985 Jeanette Sanders

Dear Want:

Neither of you is right. These days drugs make their first appearance in elementary school.

Kindergarten is none too soon to begin talking with them about smoking, alcohol and prescriptions—sharing factual information and letting them know your feelings.

If you have not talked about drugs, do it today. You and your child will be better for it.

Dear Cat Paw:

What can I say to my friends when they see my mom drunk? She drinks all the time!

Disgusted Daughter

Dear Daughter:

Another person's addiction to alcohol is no reason for you to be ashamed or embarrassed.

It might help to explain to your friends what you have learned about the sickness of alcoholism and that there is help for it.

Go to an Alateen or Al-Anon meeting. The people there share your concerns and are able to help you. Good luck.

Dear Cat Paw:

What is the address of the treatment program at Henry Ford Hospital?

Help

Dear Help:

Henry Ford Hospital, 6773 W. Maple Rd., Bloomfield, MI; 661-6100.

Dear Cat Paw:

What happens to your body when you drink a large extent of alcohol?

In Trouble

Dear In Trouble:

Alcohol in large quantities taken over a long period of time can damage the liver, heart and can cause permanent brain damage.

You don't ask for any advice, yet I would like to suggest you attend an AA meeting and talk to some of its members to learn the consequences of drinking. They are in your phone book.

Letters to C.A.T. P.A.W., which need not be signed, should be sent to The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

C.A.T. P.A.W. author Jeanette Sanders, a Springfield Township resident, is a member of the Clarkston Area Chemical People, an organization devoted to the prevention of alcohol abuse among the community's young people.

Jessica Doty, the youngster at the right of this line of three, wins the merit award as the best cheerleader-to-be among the 45 who par-

Proceeds from the clinic will help pay the CHS varsity squad's expenses for a trip to a national cheerleading contest in Florida in December.

'A nice little human touch'

Sandy Jennings talks about Clarkston clinic's philosophy

By Carolyn Walker

Sandy Jennings is a nurse poised for action.

Be it a patient with an embedded fishhook or a cardiac arrest, she brings 12 years of emergency room experience to her job as director of nursing at the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center.

She says she is excited about her role at the facility, which blends the talents of medical doctors with those of osteopathic doctors for after-hours patient care.

"We're the only one of its kind," she says, calling the center the "Quik-Pik of health care" with an appreciative laugh.

"Those guys (the doctors) put this thing together without competing. There's nothing like this in the area."

"It's a little more personal. I don't feel so lost in the humdrum of the emergency room. You get to know the people and they know you."

The Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center was founded in December 1983 by James O'Neill, M.D.,

"It's a little more personal. I don't feel so lost in the humdrum of the emergency room. You get to know the people and they know you."

and approximately 20 area physicians.

Staffed by a physician and at least one registered nurse at all times, it provides medical care to patients on weekends and between the hours of 7 p.m. and 8 a.m.

Located on M-15 in Independence Township, the center is one of a planned network of facilities, scheduled to include outpatient surgery, psychiatric day care and senior citizen services.

Jennings describes the center as a "new and coming thing" in medicine, as it bridges the gap between doctors' offices and hospitalization.

"I knew I wanted that job. He (O'Neill) is contagious," she says of their shared enthusiasm for the facility. "Working here... I am not a paper nurse. I like the patient contact."

O'Neill praises Jennings highly for her dedication to the center. "It's a work of love," he says. "This is her baby. It's amazing. She's done an incredible job."

A resident of Milford, Jennings drew from her experiences at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital to make innovative contributions to the center.

Among her efforts were the development of instruction booklets, which are handed out to patients following their care, the design of the patient charts, and the creation of the center's "crash cart" with a life pack donated by Fleet Ambulance Service.

struments, medicines, tubes and defibrillators for cardiac arrest patients.

The center is staffed by six registered nurses, trained medical assistants and two X-ray technicians, who are responsible for assessing a patient's vital signs upon arrival.

"Everybody that works here had better be versatile," she says, as employees are also expected to work the front desk, clean equipment and answer the phone.

Although the doctors do not encourage patients in life-threatening situations to come to the center, they are equipped to handle most emergencies including heart attacks and the delivery of babies, Jennings says.

Following initial treatment, patients with serious conditions are transported by ambulance to a hospital.

Those who do not require hospitalization are told to obtain follow-up care from their family physicians. Sometimes, patients are advised to return to the center the following day for a checkup, she says.

According to Jennings, the facility has been well received by the community. On its busiest day, the center's physicians treated approximately 120 patients.

"The need is here," she says, adding that the center tries to meet all the demands of patients seeking help, including prompt attention from a physician, a doctor referral system and a pharmacy.

Antibiotics and similar medicines are stocked by the Pine Knob Pharmacy so medicine can be dispensed to patients in need, she says.

"They're (the patients) charged our charges. We make no money on it (medicine)...but it's still available to that person. You don't have to go home and try to hunt up a pharmacy."

In addition to physician and pharmacy services, the center can provide X-rays and urine or throat cultures.

Since the facility opened, 4,000 throat cultures and 3,000 X-rays have been taken, according to Jennings.

Those with positive cultures are later notified by the center or their family doctor, who receives a report, she says.

She describes the center as a "new and coming thing" in medicine, as it bridges the gap between doctors' offices and hospitalization.

In addition, EKGs are read by an internist and X-rays are re-read the following day by a radiologist to make sure no fractures were overlooked by the attending physician.

Patients "are not just a number to us," she says. "There's always follow-up."

The care-givers at the center are dedicated to the well-being of people. Jennings says, labeling their efforts, "A nice little human touch."

Cancer Answers

by Paul G. Dymont, M.D.
Cleveland Clinic Foundation
Cancer Center

What are the signs of cancer in children?
Although there are only 3,000 new cases of childhood cancer in the United States each year, it is the number one fatal disease between the ages of 3-14.

The human tongue has four types of taste buds... differing between sweet, sour, salty and bitter. Cats cannot taste sweetness.

The year 1934 saw the production of an immensely strong synthetic fiber later patented under the name nylon. It was first used as bristles for toothbrushes.

Unfortunately, many of the symptoms of childhood cancer are similar to those of routine minor illnesses.

The persistence of any of the following "warning signals" should result in a trip to your child's physician for a checkup:

- Continual, unexplained weight loss
- Headaches with vomiting in the morning
- Increased swelling or persistent pain in bones or joints
- Lump or mass in abdomen, neck or elsewhere
- Development of a whitish appearance in the pupil of the eye
- Recurrent fevers not due to infections
- Excessive bruising or bleeding
- Noticeable paleness or prolonged tiredness

Should I be worried about food additives as a cause of cancer?

Not really, since studies associate the typical American diet—rather than food additives or contaminants—with cancer.

There appears to be a strong link between eating a lot of fat—such as that found in fatty meats—and developing cancer of the breast and colon.

On the other hand, there is a decreased incidence of cancer of the esophagus, stomach and colon in people consuming a high-fiber diet that includes large amounts of grains, vegetables and fruit.

Scientists estimate that dietary habits are responsible for far more cases of cancer than are food additives or environmental pollutants.

Medical profession suffers effects of lawsuits

Doctors don't want to be at risk anymore' —Dr. John Naz

By Carolyn Walker

"It's a frightful tragedy," says John Naz, M.D., of the recent deluge of malpractice suits against physicians. "It's an unbelievable problem."

Many doctors, Naz says, are responding to the pressures of increased medical insurance and malpractice suits by cutting back their services, leaving medicine entirely, or, at the very least, carrying their insurance costs over to the patient.

Especially hard-hit are obstetrician/gynecologists (OB/Gyn) and neurosurgeons, he says, adding that such fields involve more high-risk situations than others.

According to Naz, seven Clarkston-area physicians, mostly OB/Gyn doctors, have quit medicine to take teaching jobs or other positions during the past few years. He attributes the exodus to malpractice suits and insurance rates.

"Doctors don't want to be at risk anymore," he says.

Naz, an Independence Township gynecologist who has delivered over 10,000 babies and never lost a mother, quit delivering babies two years ago because of the risk factor.

Medicine, he says, involves both art and science, but no absolutes. "No one can predict the genetics of abnormality or the chance occurrences," he says.

In addition, some patients don't follow physician instructions or return for follow-up care. In the case of pregnancies, there are the added risks of smoking, drugs and alcohol to contend with, he says.

Three out of 100 deliveries involve complications, according to Naz.

"You're on the spot to call a judgment right now," he says. "If you give me a perfect body, I'll guarantee the results."

"Some doctors have decided to go bare," Naz adds, meaning that they carry no insurance and place all their possessions in their wives' names.

Dr. John Naz has practiced gynecology, and formerly obstetrics, in Independence Township since 1951. He quit delivering babies two years ago.

"That has left hospitals on the hook, because attorneys always go where the money is," he says.

As a result, hospitals are requiring malpractice insurance of physicians before granting staff privileges.

In turn, the costs of insurance are being charged in patient bills, Naz says, citing the following example: For $1 million in insurance coverage, the yearly payment is $24,800. Based on 48 working weeks per year, insurance will cost $750 a week. If a doctor sees 60 patients a week (the average for an OB/Gyn doctor) the cost will come to $12.50 a visit for each patient, he says.

Naz attributes the increase in lawsuits to a litigation-obsessed society and says the suits will only decline when a limit has been placed on the amount of money a patient can be awarded.

"Where does personal accountability come in?" he asks. "Who is responsible for himself? Are we our brother's keeper in every area?"

Physical fitness aids need not be expensive

Starting a home exercise program can be as easy and inexpensive as picking up the telephone or stretching a rubber band while watching TV.

Those items are the key to "Fitness Five '85," an exercise program developed for home or office by the Auto Club Life Insurance Co.

"Keeping up with the latest exercise trends can be expensive, especially if it includes installing a home gym," said Jim Zwick, Auto Club Life Insurance general manager. "However, you can have it all—fun, exercise, equipment and cost effectiveness—by looking closely at the items in your home and office.

"You will be surprised how easily you can create exercise machines and routines out of what seem to be passive objects."

To design a cost-effective gym from components available at home or office, Auto Club Life suggests the following:

- A telephone receiver can help build shoulder and back muscles. Isometrics are the key to this home "machine."

Grasp the receiver at each end with elbows bent in front of you. Compress inward. Hold for six seconds and relax. Repeat.

For variation, instead of pushing inward, try pulling the receiver apart in a single action. Hold for six seconds and relax. Repeat.

Varying exercise positions from side-to-side and overhead affect different upper body muscle groups.

Cost: Nothing.

- A large or number 107 rubber band (7 inches long and 5/8 inch wide) can add resistance and increased muscle development.

Add it to a leg lift/kick routine by placing the legs into one or more bands and lift/kick against them.

Upper body muscles can be strengthened by taking the rubber band in the hands and pulling it in the opposite direction. Be careful about the rubber band breaking.

Cost: A box of 10 number 107 rubber bands costs less than $1 at office supply stores.

- A clothesline jump rope can improve a person's strength and stamina when used for jumping for 10 minutes or more three to four times a week.

Variations include running and jumping, a two-step (two hops for every revolution of the rope) or twisting and jumping.

Cost: $3 or less for 100 feet of heavy clothesline. Professional jump ropes are available at sporting goods stores for under $20.

- A regular bicycle can be converted into a stationary bike for year-round indoor use by adding a conversion stand, available at sporting goods or exercise equipment stores.

A multi-speed bike can develop leg muscles and increase cardio-pulmonary capacity by creating resistance by shifting to higher gears.

Cost: The stand sells for approximately $30. An odometer to measure mileage sells for less than $20 at a bike shop.

- A family member or friend can help create a human rowing machine.

Start with partners sitting on the floor, facing each other with legs widespread, shorter legs inside and touching the longer.

One person rolls back while the other rolls forward. Continue action as if rowing a boat. Varying speed to faster rates will increase cardio-pulmonary capacity.

Cost: Nothing.

Other suggestions for home or office gym equipment include running or walking up and down stairs (begin slowly at first); using door jambs for shoulder and calf development and using books as weight substitutes.

Whatever components make up a home gym, the location should be appealing enough to draw family members to it.

"Make sure it is light, airy and has plenty of ventilation," Zwick said. "In warm weather, most of the exercises can be done in the backyard or patio."

Before beginning any strenuous exercise program, a person should check with a physician.

"While the home fitness program is good for general conditioning, it is not designed to replace such activities as walking and running," Zwick said. "Individuals also should participate in golf, tennis, softball, swimming and cycling for all around fitness and fun."

Physicals required

Area pediatricians are bracing themselves for a rush, according to Marge Hood, secretary to Dr. James O'Neill.

Parents have delayed scheduling physicals, as required by the school district, for their children entering kindergarten, she says.

Hood reminds parents to book appointments promptly as the new school year is quickly approaching. In the Clarkston school district, classes begin Sept. 3.

Convention leader

Dr. Rom Szymanowski was the moderator for the medical section of the National Medical and Dental Society in Williamsburg, Va., on Aug. 3, 4 and 5.

Szymanowski, an ear, nose and throat specialist (otolaryngologist) in Clarkston, also presented papers on "Hoarseness" and "Otitis Media" (fluid in the ears), a particular problem of children.

He has been practicing medicine in Clarkston five years. Prior to that, he was on the teaching staff for several years at Henry Ford Hospital, the institution where he completed his residency training.

Breakfast booster

All the hotcakes you can eat plus two sausage links, orange juice and milk or coffee for $1.50 await at the "Sunrise Special" Pancake Breakfast.

The Aug. 10 event is sponsored by the Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital Boosters Club.

Breakfast is planned from 7 a.m. to noon at the Betty Stodgill Pancake Shelter at Mill and Water streets behind the library in downtown Pontiac.

Festivities include a flea market, wishing well, fresh produce and plants, and local arts and crafts.

Soothe muscles with baking soda

Trying to shape up can literally put a cramp in your style. Whether you have suddenly become a long-distance runner, a marathon bicycle rider or the next Jane Fonda, your new active life-style demands some rewards.

After a hard workout, what better way to relax than a nice cool soak in a bath with baking soda? This low-cost beauty product, which is 100 percent natural and has no added perfumes or dyes, can be a valued addition to your exercise routine.

The following are some helpful hints to help you look good naturally:

1. Just sprinkle 1/2 cup or more of pure baking soda into the tub and let yourself relax. Your skin will feel naturally smooth, soft and clean.

2. While you soak, use baking soda to smooth away rough skin and ground-in dirt on your knees and elbows by mixing three parts baking soda with one part water to make a paste. Brush away rough heels and calluses with a brush and the baking soda paste.

3. After you dry off with a nice fluffy towel, keep that beautiful clean feeling throughout the day by dusting all over with baking soda. Its ingredients help reduce wetness and act as a natural deodorant.

Family shares story of their newest arrival

By Dan Vandenhemel

Most mothers will tell you natural childbirth is a great experience.

Bill and Amy Jackson are coming up to the two-month birthday of their second daughter, Elizabeth. Their first, Victoria, will be four in January.

There are no noticeable differences between the two children except for their ages. Both are very healthy. The main thing about the sisters is the oldest was born Caesarian and the youngest naturally.

That doesn't happen often but there is an increasing awareness that it can be done, says the Almond Lane, Independence Township, family.

"I knew after having a Caesarian section, a lot of times having a natural birth isn't possible," said Bill, the business manager for the Clarkston school district. "Doctors have told me because of the cuts in malpractice insurance, they don't want to risk it."

"I know six other people that have had Caesarian births and only one has had a natural birth after that," Amy said. "There are a lot of old-fashioned ideas about the walls of the uterus not being able to withstand the pressure of natural childbirth."

Bill, 36, and Amy, 33, said their doctors Michael Salesin and Alan Goldsmith are very progressive, as is their hospital, Sinai Hospital of Detroit.

"They (the doctors) said they could treat my second pregnancy as natural but I'd be labeled a high risk," Amy said. "If there were any difficulties, they'd have to do a 'C' section. But I never had any high blood pressure or any swelling."

The nurses seemed excited about the natural birth and kept asking Amy questions about what she did differently. The only thing she could think of were the light exercises she did up until birth.

Although the second pregnancy went easier than the first, it wasn't without complications.

The embryonic membrane that holds the baby until the birthing process didn't burst, but rather "leaked."

"It must have happened while I was sleeping one night," Amy said. "I went to the doctor for my normal check-up and he asked when it happened. I said it must have leaked out. I couldn't feel any contractions. I didn't know I was in labor."

"He thinks it happened about 44 hours before Elizabeth was born. Usually 24 hours is the most. They were afraid the baby would get infected, but everything turned out great."

Labor lasted only about 90 minutes and the only discomfort was a backache.

"While I was in labor, they kept saying it's time for pictures," Amy said with a laugh. "I didn't want any pictures, I just wanted to get it over with. After it was over, I must have shook and trembled for five minutes. My whole body was shaking."

Elizabeth and her mother spent three days in the hospital. When Victoria was born, Amy was in the hospital eight days.

The couple had wanted to give birth to Victoria naturally. Bill and Amy had just started taking classes for the Lamaze method. Bill was going to be in the delivery room helping Amy through labor with breathing and relaxing exercises.

Two weeks into the classes and a month before Victoria was due, Amy came down with toxemia, a condition that sends poisonous substances through the bloodstream.

"It's pretty common in pregnancies," Amy said. "There's a lot of water retention and your blood pressure goes way up. Sometimes it can be fatal."

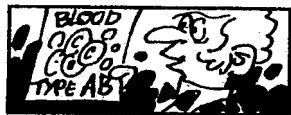

The doctor tried to induce labor but ended up giving Amy the Caesarian section.

A small scar is the only evidence of a Caesarian birth. That, and the Jacksons' two daughters.

Trying to wake up the youngest Jackson can be difficult at times. While mother Amy holds Elizabeth, father Bill and sister Victoria try to wake her up for a family portrait.

The four different blood types were distinguisher by an Austrian pathologist, Karl Landersteiner.
