Athena must go within 120 days

Judge Frederick Mester: 'I tell you, I liked that tiger'

By Carolyn Walker

It would appear that Athena the 300-pound tiger's days in Independence Township are numbered.

According to a court decision, her master Douglas Murdoch, has 120 days to relocate the tiger and a bobcat, Cassandra, from his parents' 20-acre Allen Road farm.

Athena's presence in the township has been a source of contention for over a year. Township officials contend she is dangerous and have asked for her removal, while her owner says she is domesticated and poses no threat to residents.

The decision on her fate was issued Aug. 7 by Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Frederick Mester, who listened to oral arguments on the issue the previous week.

Mester told Murdoch the animals must be confined to their cages prior to the time of their removal.

According to Mester, the task before him was to determine whether or not the township zoning board of appeals (ZBA) had acted within the law when they determined Athena was not included in a township ordinance.

The ordinance outlines permitted livestock

Athena, the 2-year-old tiger looks at home in her cage on the 20-acre farm of William and Wanda Murdoch. Adjacent to her cage, though separated from Athena's, is the cage housing Cassandra, the 15-pound bobcat. Both cats must be removed from the farm in 120 days.

POH sues over surgical center

By Carolyn Walker

Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital (POH) has filed a lawsuit against the Clarkston Surgical Center and Gloria Smith, Ph.D., director of the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Smith was instrumental in issuing a state mandated certificate of need (C.O.N.) for the surgical center last July to Dr. James O'Neill, developer of the project.

A certificate of need must be issued to any hospital-type facility dealing in third-party insurance before such a facility can be built.

POH, which proposes transferring inpatient beds from its Pontiac-based hospital to Independence Township, did not receive a requested C.O.N. last year.

The POH facility, proposed for property at Dixie Highway and White Lake Road, has been the subject of an appeal at the state level, along with six other hospitals, for several months.

The seven hospitals were part of a comprehensive review, from which the state excluded the proposed

Beer ban upheld for township park

Even a United States congressman can't have beer at Independence Township's Clintonwood Park.

On Aug. 6, the township board denied a request by representatives of Congressman Bob Carr (D-6th District) to waive rules prohibiting the consumption of alcoholic beverages at the park.

The Friends of Bob Carr sought permission to bring beer to a picnic at Clintonwood Park on Aug. 29. Park rules prohibit such action.

In choosing to deny the request, board members said they did not want to waive a rule for the congressman that they would not waive for ordinary citizens.

"We are all Republicans up here," joked Treasurer John Lutz as an afterthought.

Residents object: Dixie Highway wall falls

By Carolyn Walker

There will be no wall to support Dixie Highway near Dollar Lake.

A decision to widen Dixie by 20 feet, on the south side only between M-15 and White Lake Road, has been made by the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT).

The decision comes in the wake of public outcry at a meeting held in Independence Township on July 26.

Originally, the department had proposed widening Dixie symmetrically on both sides, according to Jack Morgan of the MDOT. Such a widening would have required an 11-foot-tall support wall for the area near Dollar Lake.

"A review of the issues indicates that the symmetrical widening has more significant negative impacts than the 20-foot widening," said a letter from the MDOT to the residents. "The department will, therefore, proceed to design the roadway with all widening along the south side and begin the right-of-way acquisition process."

Approximately 39 lakeside residents attended the meeting held at the township hall annex. It was sponsored by United States Congressman Bob Carr (D-6th District), who successfully lobbied for $12 million in federal funds for the widening last year.

Sandy Gdula, a spokesperson for the residents, praised the department for their willingness to change their plans and for their speed in reaching a decision.

"I'm really very pleased and I'm also particularly pleased with the people on the other side of the road," she said, referring to the owners of property on the southern side of Dixie who cooperated in protecting the environment of the lake.

"I think it was pretty clear the impact it (the wall) was going to have over here.

"It kind of restored my faith that they could do something (so fast)."

The Dixie Highway improvements are scheduled to begin in 1986.

Zoning ordinance blamed

Judge says Athena must go

animals and includes "other animals in excess of 75 pounds."

Murdoch's attorney, Frances Avadenka, told the judge Athena came under the "other animal" category, while township attorney Gerald Fisher contended she did not.

In January, the ZBA found Murdoch, and his parents William and Wanda, in violation of the ordinance and refused to grant them a variance permitting the two cats.

Following the judge's decision, Murdoch declined any comment on the issue, other than to shrug his shoulders and say he didn't know what he could do about it.

According to Murdoch and his attorney, they do not yet know whether they will appeal the ruling to a higher court.

Under the law, they can appeal the case to the Michigan Court of Appeals or the Michigan Supreme Court, Mester said during a phone interview.

Gerald Fisher, attorney for the township, said he was content with the judge's decision.

"I'm satisfied with it," he said, adding that he had no problem with the tiger remaining 120 days. "I understand the judge was just trying to balance interests.

"The Murdochs appear to be good people. What they were doing just happened to be contrary to the zoning ordinance."

Mester said the decision was difficult to make, in part, because the ordinance "was poorly drafted."

He found that the ZBA acted properly and that the township had done everything it could "within the parameters of the law," he said.

"I had to analyze. I had to think about it. There were some major questions," Mester said of the ordinance. "I was perplexed somewhat by the wording of the ordinance."

"I'm not about to interfere with the township's chosen representatives on the ZBA. It's not my business to usurp that decision."

Mester, who visited Athena last May, said he did not determine the animals to be dangerous.

"The animals, perhaps, are better cared for than most of our domestic pets," he said. "I tell you, I liked that tiger. If you can get them to change their mind down there (at the ZBA), fine."

'If it Fitz ...'

Talk to me, stomach

Jim Fitzgerald

A front-page headline in my favorite newspaper said: "Reagan's nose had skin cancer."

I love the disassociation—the space put between the president and illness. Reagan was OK but his nose was sick. I was reminded of a cartoon character talking to his stomach.

"Quit aching, stomach, or I won't feed you any more pizza."

"Quit scabbing, nose, or I won't bring you to the Oval Office anymore."

Doctors suffering the malpractice blues could benefit from disassociated afflictions. If a football player's knee responds poorly to treatment, too bad for the knee, but the player is OK. Let's see the knee hire a lawyer and sue the doctor for $25 million in damages plus another $15 million for the shin for loss of consortium.

But let's get serious. My favorite obstetrician recently reminded me of something splendid that happened in 1964, when his home, the same as mine, was across the street from the local hospital.

The doctor was home having lunch when a phone call announced an emergency. "I got to the delivery room in about two minutes and another doctor was in trouble in a delivery. The baby was in bad shape and so was the mother," he recalled. "It took me two minutes to get the baby out and the baby was born dead. I did a cardiac resuscitation and, just as I was about to quit, the baby developed a heartbeat and he survived. That was my first successful cardiac resuscitation."

I remember how excited and awed the doctor was about bringing that infant back to life. I wrote something about it in the newspaper in 1964. And I would have scoffed and said don't be crazy if someone had told me then that the infant would grow up to sue the doctor for malpractice.

The doctor was subpoenaed in December 1984, and the lawsuit is pending. (The statute of limitations is practically unlimited for alleged malpractice during childbirth.) "He is now 20 years old and has normal mentality," the doctor said. "His complaint is that his left arm is a little shorter, weaker and not as useful as his right arm."

The doctor's reaction to this incredible lawsuit was terminal. He will stop delivering babies, and he won't help other doctors deliver.

The last three times I've been sued for malpractice it was because I went in and helped when somebody else was having trouble with a delivery," he said. "I still have the skills to save lives of mothers and babies, but I cannot understand a patient who will sue me in this instance. I cannot understand a lawyer who will take a case and name me in that suit. I cannot understand a judge who will let that suit stand. I cannot understand a legislature that allows the laws that let me get sued in such a case!"

The doctors clinic was notified that its malpractice insurance bill will go up $90,000 this year. If he continued his obstetric practice, the bill would go up $112,000.

I've never been well known for writing nice things about doctors. In fact, my favorite obstetrician once threatened to quit treating my family because of something flip I wrote about doctors operating cash-and-carry drugstores but not soda fountains in their examination rooms.

But a doctor has a perfect right to be angered by a legal system that allows him to be sued 20 years later by someone whose life he restored. It is an outrage worthy of disassociation.

Or, as the lawyer said to his conscience: "Quit hurting, conscience, or I won't bring you to court anymore."

Praise for courthouse

By Carolyn Walker

The proposed new 52nd District Court House, as presented by the Rademacher Group is a "very, very fine structure," says Neil Wallace.

Wallace, chairman of the Independence Township Planning Commission, joined his fellow commissioners Aug. 8 in unanimously granting conceptual site plan approval for the project.

"These people know what we're trying to teach other people," Wallace says, of Thomas Rademacher and his representatives.

The five-member Rademacher Group has proposed building an 11,000-square-foot building on two acres off M-15 north of Dixie Highway. It is to use approximately 6,000 feet for the courthouse.

Last Tuesday, the plans received the blessings of the nine-member Oakland County Building and Planning Committee. Their proposal must still be reviewed by the Oakland County Board of Commissioner's financial committee and finally by the board of commissioners, says Rademacher.

According to Wallace, the group is acting under a tight time schedule, as the lease at the current courthouse on Dixie Highway expires Dec. 31.

The 52nd District Court handles cases from Independence, Springfield, Brandon, Holly and Groveland townships.

The Rademacher Group expects to appear before the township planning commission in two weeks to request final site plan approval.

Conceptual site plan approval for the building was granted "subject to parking, landscaping and internal layout (modifications)," Wallace says.

The Rademacher Group will be the first petitioners to take advantage of a new informal preview committee offered by the commission, Wallace adds.

Three members of the commission will alternate turns on the committee, designed to help petitioners better understand the desires of the planning commission and their plans for Independence Township.

That way, "everybody has the benefits and the burden," Wallace says.

"They don't want to come into final site plan and find out they've done something wrong," Wallace says of the Rademacher Group.

Rademacher says he is happy with the progress the group is making.

"I think it will be a very nice addition for the area," he says.

Members of the Rademacher Group are Thomas Rademacher, former owner of Rademacher's Chevy; Richard Ayers, owner of Mr. G's; Rudy Lozano and Ken Rogers, owners of Evans and Associates real estate; and Charles Bowles, owner of C&B Custom Builders.

The architectural firm handling the courthouse plan is Alpha Design, of Independence Township.

This is an architectural rendering by Alpha Design of the proposed new 52nd District Court building planned for M-15.

doing, I believe, is suing the department of public health to restrain them from issuing me a C.O.N.

"I have no grievance with either one of them."

Of his proposed surgical center and the POH project, he says, "They're not comparable projects."

"The important thing, that I think, is the state has issued it (the C.O.N.). I'm not going to be dissuaded. I am not going to sit back on this project and be a doormat."

O'Neill says he will ask to have the suit dismissed or to have POH post a bond for any damages he may incur because of the suit.

"The court system works both ways," he says. "Come after me and I'm not going to play nice guy. It's for the whole community."

O'Neill's proposed surgical center would offer outpatient surgery, psychiatric day care and would supplement the services of the already established Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center.

It is planned for six acres behind the building which houses O'Neill's pediatric practice on M-15 north of Dixie Highway. O'Neill plans to begin construction by October.

Smith could not be reached for comment.

The lawsuit is scheduled to be heard before Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Thomas L. Brown on Sept. 6. It is being held in Ingham County because a portion of the suit is against Smith, of the department of public health, which is based in Lansing. surgical center, says Kenneth Frankland of East Lansing, attorney for POH.

A comprehensive review investigates and compares the merits of similar hospital projects.

POH views the Clarkston Surgical Center as a potential competitor to its established outpatient surgical facilities in Pontiac, says Frankland, who adds that the facilities are not used to full capacity, which negates the need for more.

"Part of our argument is the Clarkston project should have been in with the Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital proposal. We were being reviewed and the (health) department made a unilateral decision not to comprehensively review (the Clarkston Surgical Center)," he says.

"There's no other way we can challenge the decision (to issue a C.O.N.) of the department of public health."

The issuance of a C.O.N. to the Clarkston Surgical Center "violates the rights of Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital," Frankland says. "The department never should have granted (the C.O.N.). It's complicated."

O'Neill says he was surprised by the lawsuit and that he is frustrated but will not be bullied.

"They're damning me for everything that's happened in Michigan in the last 200 years," he says. "POH is suing the state of Michigan. What they're

Race track meeting cut short

By Carolyn Walker

An outburst from a frustrated neighbor cut short a meeting between representatives of the Waterford Hill Race Track, its neighbors and Independence Township officials Aug. 5.

The standing room only crowd was some 25 minutes into a meeting when Supervisor Frank Ronk warned Rob Vargo to calm down, according to Vargo's wife, Debbie.

Vargo has been the spokesperson for the neighbors approximately four years, she said.

When Vargo protested, the meeting was called to a halt, she added.

"Nothing was resolved," she said. "We thought we were going to get somewhere."

At issue is the frequency of racing at the track and the volume of noise produced by racing cars.

The Vargos have lived in their house, which abuts the race track, for seven years. They were among an estimated 30 residents who attended the meeting.

The race track has been at its site off Dixie Highway for over 25 years.

"They're so loud, you can't even talk on the telephone," Vargo said of the racers, adding that the track is in use seven days a week. "Their practice sessions are louder than their races."

"In order to keep your sanity, you've got to turn fans on in the house. We can't sell our homes."

Following the meeting, Ronk said he was sympathetic to the complaints of the citizens, but that the township is bound by the restraints of a consent judgment.

"We just can't do it overnight," he said, adding that township officials have attempted to regulate the noise by establishing an acceptable volume level.

He plans to continue meeting with residents on an individual basis, he said. "Hopefully we'll be able to keep both parties happy."

Roadwork to smooth 2 Clarkston Rd. curves

By Carolyn Walker

The Oakland County Road Commission plans to begin improvements and related drainage on Clarkston Road this week, providing they receive the blessings of the state Department of Natural Resources.

The modification of two curves will slow traffic but will not require the closing of the road, according to Charles Patterson, road commission design leader.

The commission authorized the modifying of the curves on Clarkston Road between North Eston and Clintonville roads. The estimated construction cost of $500,000 is to be funded by the commission.

While making the modifications, the commission also plans to make improvements to a drainage section which begins in the Sunny Beach Subdivision and runs to Walter's Lake, Patterson says.

The existing storm drain, which includes two 12-inch pipes, has been a source of contention with lake area residents because it contributes to silt in the lake.

Says Independence Township Treasurer John Lutz, who lives near the lake, "I've seen whole heads of cabbage (from people's gardens), beer bottles. . . everything come out down to the lake."

Patterson agrees: "The erosion (from the 40-acre subdivision) is ending up in the lake."

In an effort to remedy the problem, the commission plans to replace the 12-inch pipes with a 30-inch concrete pipe to allow freer drainage, he says.

Walter's Lake has experienced weed and silt related problems for several years.

In 1983, the Walter's Lake Improvement Board was created to investigate cleaning the lake.

Although the drainage improvements will not solve the entire clean-up problem, it will help, Lutz says.

DPW converts to gas

An estimated $600 a year may be saved when the township converts the department of public works building to natural gas usage from liquid propane, according to George Anderson, director.

The Independence Township board unanimously agreed to the conversion, following a request by Anderson, at the Aug. 6 meeting.

The cost is estimated at about $1,680 by Consumers Power Co.

The work will involve laying a new gas line and installing a meter, Anderson said.

Installation could take as much as six weeks, according to a letter from Consumers Power.

Sign laws may be more strict

By Carolyn Walker

Tighter regulations governing ground and temporary signs could cause an uproar among local businesses, says Independence Township attorney Gerald Fisher.

The planning commission has recommended to the board of trustees that ground signs be limited to five feet in height, and that temporary signs be prohibited, except for real estate signs, which would be restricted to three months of use.

Board members were scheduled to either approve or deny the commission's recommendations Aug. 6, but chose to follow Fisher's suggestion that they contact business owners first.

Calling the proposed restrictions "very significant" Fisher said, "Signage is a very touchy issue, close to the heart of the business community."

He then told the board that litigation would likely follow such restrictions. "It just seems a court would not take kindly to a ban of temporary signs," he said.

Trustee Dale Stuart seemed inclined to agree with Fisher. "I would like to have the planning commission tell the board the meaning behind that (the five-foot limit)," he said, adding that he was unaware of any other community which had such a restriction.

Trustee Carol Balzarini, who is the board's representative to the planning commission, compared temporary signs to temporary employees.

"They just sort of come and stay forever," she said. "We (the commission) gave a public hearing and nobody came. The only time they (businesses) want to complain is after we've done something."

Though no one attended the height-restriction public hearing, two people spoke out against the elimination of temporary signs at a public hearing May 9.

The elimination of temporary signs could hurt their businesses, said Iva Sommers Caverly, who sells bittersweet from her home, and Robert Watson, a representative of Leo's Pizza.

At that time commission Chairman Neil Wallace called temporary signs a "blight" and said the township has had trouble enforcing current standards. Rolling and lighted signs are the worst offenders, he said.

Following the recommendations of Fisher, board members voted 4-1 to solicit comments from business owners before acting on the proposals for temporary signs and height restrictions.

Voting to approve the motion were Stuart, Supervisor Frank Ronk, Treasurer John Lutz and Clerk Richard Holman. Balzarini voted against the motion. Trustees William Vandermark and Daniel Travis were absent.

Mine fate awaits

By Carolyn Walker

Unreclaimed mining property off Stickney Road, owned by the Stolaruk Corp., is creating a problem for Independence Township officials.

In 1982, the township signed a consent judgment amendment specifying that if the 23-acre site were not reclaimed according to specifications agreed upon by Stolaruk and the township, a receiver would be appointed to enforce the reclamation.

According to the specifications of the amendment, the land's slope was to be reclaimed at an angle of 5 to 1. It is currently at an angle of 3 to 1.

Stolaruk did not complete the work as specified in 1982, said township attorney Gerald Fisher, and Del Lohff, co-owner of Kieft Engineering, was appointed receiver.

Stolaruk's $20,000 performance bond guaranteeing reclamation was forfeited to the township in 1984.

Township officials are now faced with the decision of whether or not to leave the 3 to 1 angle as recommended by Lohff, who advocates planting pine trees to prevent erosion, or to reclaim the land to 5 to 1 at a greater expense.

In either case, the site will have to be sold to pay expenses beyond the $20,000, which has already been spent on the site, Fisher said.

Anticipating reaction from the mine's neighbors, who have been vocal in the past, the board voted to hold a public hearing before making a decision.

The hearing is scheduled Aug. 20 in the township hall annex.

"A number of them (residents) have very strong feelings," said Trustee Dale Stuart, who made the motion for a public hearing.

Board members, voting 4-1, tabled any action until after the hearing.

Trustee Carol Balzarini voted against the motion without comment.

Supervisor Frank Ronk, Clerk Richard Holman, Treasurer John Lutz and Trustee Dale Stuart voted for the motion.

Trustees Daniel Travis and William Vandermark were absent.

Photo disaster

My dog smiles, I swear it's true. He only gets this one particular open-mouthed grin when he's happy.

Actually, Brandy is probably one of the world's happiest dogs.

Someone's always talking to him, or inviting him to join them sitting on the couch, or taking him for a swim, or feeding him something from a plate.

He also loves to travel, and his favorite vehicle appears to be the van where he can stretch out on the couch-like seat in the rear.

That's where he was when our son and his friend plopped a hat on his head took a photograph of Brandy smiling.

The photo would have been award-winning—if it hadn't been for the double exposure.

Let me back up.

The day after I took pictures at my daughter's graduation from high school, I found out the camera was broken. The partially used roll of film was removed.

After the camera was fixed, the film was re-fed into the camera, supposedly moved to a point beyond the graduation photos, and used during a weekend outing.

Several double exposures followed.

My son's friend's face fell on top of hands holding a graduation rose. My daughter's image in cap-and-gown appeared in the back window of the van. And Brandy's smile was superimposed on the graduates tossing their caps into the air.

We knew the graduation photos were gone forever. You just can't ask an entire high school class to gather again so you can have another shot at it.

But we figured we could probably get Brandy to do a rerun. We plopped a hat on his head and said, "OK, Brandy, smile!"

Brandy also raises his eyebrows when he thinks we've gone over the deep end.

Athena

Carolyn Walker

On a sunny Thursday last week, I entered Athena's world.

I made the long walk from Allen Road past the Murdochs' sprawling residence, past their barn, past their garden, to Athena's compound.

The tiger lay passively, yet radiantly, in the August heat; panting only slightly so as not to damage her lady-like image.

She looked at me as if to say, "Where did you get that hairdo?"

And I looked back, thinking about freedom.

I have always felt a certain sadness when looking at a caged animal.

In my mind, I try to picture such animals roaming freely in their natural surroundings, masters of their world.

Unlike those oftentimes pathetic creatures at the zoo, Athena did not evoke pity.

She was strong and healthy and beautiful.

She brought out a sense of wonderment as she lounged under a small tree in her cage, a hint of playfulness in her eyes.

"I'd like to touch her," I said to Wanda Murdoch.

Athena calmly preened herself before being tempted by the cool water running into her bathtub.

She eased herself into the tub, her front paws holding the tub's edge while her tail draped loosely over its end.

When she arose to get out of the tub, her fur absorbed half the water and Wanda made some remark about her getting me wet.

I didn't care. What was a little water, when the opportunity to pet a Siberian tiger presented itself?

Keeping a locked fence and gate between the tiger and her visitor, Athena's master, Douglas, said I could touch her if I held my hand flat against the fencing.

I put my hand up and Athena brushed her face along the fence. Her soft fur met my hand, her eyes my gaze.

Wanda and I talked about people being afraid of what they don't understand.

We talked about how often people let fear or misunderstanding override life's opportunities for pleasure. About how often people short-change themselves, and others, for all the wrong reasons. About ignorance, prejudice and jealousy.

As I left the Murdochs' I thought about freedom again and I hummed a song: Bless the beasts and the children. They have no voice. They have no choice.

Letters to editor

Parking solutions

In downtown Clarkston, there are 10 marked parking spaces on each side of Main Street between Washington and Church streets.

I have never yet seen a driver park his or her car and then look to see if they were properly parked within the marked space.

Some time ago, a man became very upset with me when I parked in a marked space leaving half an empty space both in front of and behind my car.

The cars in front of and behind mine were both halfway into the next respective spaces. The man was furious because I would not continue the pattern.

I believe there are at least three ways to get the people to park properly.

1. Vigorous enforcement by having Officer Smalley write tickets at every opportunity.
2. Install parking meters at each space.
3. Distribute printed warning cards on offenders' cars pointing out a violation and the fact that if a ticket is issued, the fine is $8.

If none of these suggestions are adopted, my fourth suggestion would be to save the cost of repainting the spaces because nine out of 10 people will ignore them.

Protest legally outside Williams company gates if you want.

Parade legally with banners waving objecting to nuclear warfare if you want.

Write letters to the editor, give speeches on capital steps, and shout from the rooftops against atomic bombs if you want.

You can even try to convince me that dropping the atom bomb on Japan in August 1945 was wrong, but you will never make me believe it.

Every American over 55 and all their children should be thankful President Harry Truman ordered the attacks that ended World War II.

I'm convinced, and have been since early September, 1945, that I would have been killed had we had to invade Sasebo, Japan as we were scheduled.

Our ship's last stop before returning home was in Sasebo.

The fortifications were awesome, and when that is coupled with the willingness of the Japanese to sacrifice themselves in the defense of their country, the killings of many more thousands of Americans was guaranteed.

This is no war story, and certainly not written by a war hero. I was sailorboy (19) aboard a ship full of bombs headed toward a rendezvous off the Philippines when Japan surrendered.

After the surrender our ship was sent to each of Japan's three major islands. One stop was Nagasaki. Our bombers had left the dock area and neighboring warehouses standing.

They were like a false front in an old western movie. Everything beyond the wharf was level. Friends brought aboard what they said was molten sand, a result of atom bomb. There was nothing but devastation they said.

Undoubtedly there was some sympathy, but we remember no one expressing any thoughts that conventional, hand-to-hand war would have been a better way.

On the 40th anniversary of dropping the atom bomb on Hiroshima death shadows were painted on sidewalks in various U.S. cities supposedly depicting vaporized people.

Churches tolled their bells, lots of candles were lit, dozens protested at plants making nuclear weapon components, and some were arrested at bomb test sites.

Also, the Russians Tuesday again reminded us all how barbarian we are, and Japan's prime minister angrily denounced the act 40 years ago as inhumane, and a violation of the Geneva Convention.

It's ludicrous, ridiculous, and poppycock. They didn't have the bomb first. Does anyone doubt the USSR would have used the atom bomb against Germany had they had the chance after what they did to Russians?

Same for Japan. Though I haven't read the Geneva Convention laws, I doubt if attacking Pearl Harbor was permitted.

So, all of us over 55 and our heirs be thankful The Bomb was dropped. Without it many of us wouldn't be here.

Independent view - Tall prediction

Business owners restricted to five-foot-high signs might resort to 15-foot berms for increased exposure, said Township Treasurer John Lutz, in response to a proposed planning commission sign restriction.

"But then the giant berm hides the building," responded Carol Balzarini, who said the planning commission had addressed that possibility.

Lutz looked off in space.

"We could call it Independence Hills," he said, picturing a giant berm-filled township.

Tiger pun

As their meeting began Aug. 6, board members anxiously asked Independence Township attorney Gerald Fisher if Judge Frederick Mester had handed down a decision on Athena the tiger's fate.

No, Fisher replied, Mester had delayed his decision from Friday to Monday to Wednesday.

"Is that what's known as an ongoing opinion?" quipped Supervisor Frank Ronk.

A gas line

George Anderson, director of the Independence Township Department of Public Works, approached the board for permission to attend a conference.

He also asked the board to authorize a switch from propane gas to natural gas at the DPW building on Flemings Lake Road.

The board members paused, pensively.

"I was going to ask if he's willing to trade the gas for the conference," said Trustee Carol Balzarini, in jest.

"There'll probably be a lot of gas at the conference anyway," retorted Clerk Richard Holman.

3 firefighters named officers

By Carolyn Walker

Three new fire department shift captains were appointed by the Independence Township Board Aug. 6.

Approved for the newly created positions were Neil Ashley, Gordon Mason and Steve Ronk, all veteran firefighters with the department.

The three successfully completed oral and written examinations and were selected from a field of five township, driver/engineer applicants, according to Assistant Chief Gar Wilson.

The appointments came following a request by Fire Chief Dale Bailey, who proposed the positions in June.

Bailey's proposal came in the wake of similar recommendations by the fire commission who studied the department last year and found a need for increased officer positions.

The department is currently in the process of testing applicants to replace the three firefighters who were promoted, thus keeping the number of full-time firefighters at nine plus the three shift captains.

According to Wilson, who has been acting in Bailey's stead since he underwent surgery several weeks ago, all five candidates were interviewed for the positions by three outside fire chiefs.

The 56-hour-per-week shift captains are to be paid $25,200 annually. There is to be one shift captain on each of the three shifts and they will be housed in Fire Station 2 at Clarkston and Sashabaw roads, Wilson said.

The pay rate constitutes a $1,200 raise for each of the men, Wilson said, adding that their on-the-job hours remain the same.

The top responsibility of the shift captains will be availability for responding to emergencies with driver/engineers, thus increasing the number of initial responders to two.

They will also be responsible for training on their shift and covering sick, personal and vacation days.

Board members voted unanimously to appoint the men.

"The scores were very close," said Trustee Dale Stuart. "That obviously shows there were a number of people within the fire department who have qualifications and experience. I think it speaks well of the department."

Kindergartners can sign up next week

Kindergarten screening and registration is scheduled Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 20 and 21.

The dates are for youngsters eligible to start school this fall who have not previously gone through screening in the Clarkston school district.

Hours are 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m. at Sashabaw Junior High School.

Parents should bring their children's birth certificates.

Oakland County softball team wins title

Campers and hikers association crowns a winner

By Dan Vandenberg

The shock of winning a national tournament had yet to wear off for Dan Bailey.

The 16-year-old Independence Township resident helped his softball team capture the national honors in Nebraska, July 12-19.

While talking about the championship, Bailey couldn't hide his excitement as he rarely stopped smiling.

The softball tournament was part of the weeklong activities for the National Campers and Hikers Association (NCHA). The team from Oakland County, coached by Terry Farmer and Jerry Runyan, skipped through the tournament with ease. Bailey was co-MVP along with teammate Bryon King.

Besides pitching the final five-inning game, Bailey also stroked a three-run homer in the second inning.

"It was great playing there."

"It was great playing there," Bailey said. "I was just praying the ball would get over the plate."

Runyan said this was the first championship for the team in 14-year history of the tournament.

"The kids knew what they had to do," he said. "They worked hard at practice."

The Oakland County team won the state tournament in May. Just nine teams qualified for the finals. Oakland started by beating Virginia, 18-0. Then they beat Ohio, 9-5, before taking care of last year's winner, Pennsylvania, 11-8.

NCHA is a non-profit family camping organization founded in New York in 1949.

"We try to stress sportsmanship to the kids," Runyan said. "They get to meet a lot of other kids from around the country."

Dan Bailey and coach Jerry Runyan reflect on what it was like to be national champions. Their softball team for the National Campers and Hikers Association was crowned the champs.

'Doers' could make hoop team a winner

By Dan Vandenhemel

Wanted: A handful of athletes that can be classified as "Doers."

Those are the types of girls Clarkston High School basketball coach Dave McDonald wants for his team. People who hustle and have a solid sense of the game can move to the front of the line.

"I look a lot for how much they know the game," McDonald said during the first day of practice. "If they know how to play the game and are good athletes, they'll be fine."

McDonald also looks for what he calls "a doer." Someone who gets the job done, no matter what it takes. Someone who gives a little extra.

"Bridget (Kilcline, a senior on last year's team) was a doer," the coach said. "She knew her role and got the job done. She scored and was probably the best defensive player I've had."

McDonald hopes to find a few of those players in this year's tryout. There are 19 girls vying for a spot on the varsity squad. McDonald has three days of practice before trimming the roster to around 12 players.

"A lot goes into the final cuts," he said. "You have to look at the JV squad, you have to look at who is impressive and hustles. I figure in a three-day tryout, I can tell."

Making the decision is never an easy one for McDonald. This year is no exception. He always worries that he may have left out a good player.

"The ninth through 18th players are all about the same," he said. "When I get all done with the cuts, they're probably not right anyway."

A summer basketball league at Oakland Community College and a camp at Michigan State University help show what potential team members can do.

"Sometimes the camps can work against a player," McDonald said. "They may go to it and not do very well. But on the other hand, if they go and do well, they may move up on the list."

The starters on the team haven't been set yet, but the coach has a good idea of who they'll be. McDonald said the scrimmage game Aug. 26 in Lapeer East could be the clincher.

"We play running quarters and erase the score," he said. "We just keep playing until we die."

"I look a lot for how much they know the game."

Varsity basketball hopefuls work to perfect their passing skills during tryouts for the Clarkston High School Wolves. There are 19 girls seeking positions on the 12-member team.

Up My Alley

A sad day

Dan Vandenhemel

This is our world and welcome to it. It was 40 years ago that two cities in Japan were vaporized.

It was 40 years ago that World War II unofficially came to an end.

It was 40 years ago that the world found out about nuclear weapons.

The media has swamped the population with news about the survivors, the victims, the military, Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and nuclear weapons in general.

Protesters around the country have been arrested in droves.

People have said the media bombardment was as bad as the actual atomic bomb.

Others have said the bombing of Japan was needed to save countless American lives.

Still others point to what Japan did at Pearl Harbor.

Reports push the still growing death count of the Aug. 6 and Aug. 9, 1945, bombings of Japan to hundreds of thousands.

Everyone has a different opinion about it, either justifying it or lambasting it.

The bottom line is people died. Lots of people. And for what?

It stopped a war. Helped establish world peace.

Oh boy. A world that is petrified over nuclear weapons is in sad shape.

I have no convictions about nuclear power or nuclear energy as long as it's done right.

Three Mile Island and the plant in Midland were mistakes. Attempts to use a new source of energy have worked on occasion.

Movies like "The China Syndrome" or books like the "Prometheus Crisis" glorify and horrify the nuclear situation.

Granted, mistakes are usually made when attempting something new. The bugs have to be worked out, wrinkles straightened.

Back during World War II, tests had to be done to see if a nuclear bomb could be made and if it would do what it was supposed to do: Stop the war.

That it did. For the people of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, they live everyday with the nightmare of what happened 40 years ago.

For most of the rest of the world's population, we think about the events that ended World War II usually once a year.

What a sad anniversary.

Senior softball

Photos by Kathy Greenfield

Bob Field catches the toss from the outfield, but the runner from the Golden Beavers team is safe at third.

"Our mind gets us to first base in half the time our feet get there."

—Bob Field

Mario Hernandez winds up for the pitch during last week's Coach's Corner Roadrunners vs.

Pontiac Golden Beavers softball game at Clintonwood Park.

"I enjoy it whether we win or lose. I'll play as long as I'm able to, as long as I can move around."

—Mario Hernandez

It wasn't so much whether they won or lost, although the Coach's Corner Roadrunners did lose their match Aug. 7 against the Pontiac Golden Beavers, 8-0.

The highlight was the way they played the Wednesday morning game at Clintonwood Park: cheering each other on, clapping for good fielding maneuvers, shouting encouragement from the bench.

The score didn't even reflect the 15-member co-ed team's season record, which was 5-3 going into the game and good enough for second place in the league for seniors ages 55 and up.

The loss would probably put them in third place in the five-team league, said their coach, Rina Chemin, director of the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center.

After the game ended and both teams met to shake hands, one of the Pontiac players shouted out this softball equivalent to an Irish blessing: "Better luck against everybody but us—win 'em all!"

"This is my first year (playing softball). I'm the catcher. I love it!"

—Carlene Constable

Catcher Gert Smith huris one back to the pitcher. With one game left to go in the season, the Roadrunners' record is 5-4. They're one of three teams of players age 55 and over from the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center.

PAGINATION ERROR

Clarkston High School's football team lines up for another season. With the opener on Sept. 5 against Lakeland at home, the Wolves are meeting to practice five hours a day. The over 40 players on the varsity squad are running plays and vying for starting spots.

Getting the offense moving could be the job of quarterback Bob LaPorte. Here, he pitches the ball to a running back as the Wolves get in full swing.

All-star representatives guard third base

By Dan Vandenehemel

It wasn't who's on first at the annual All-State, All-Star game at Michigan State University. It was more like who were those two at third base?

The West squad of the Aug. 10 game was well represented by Clarkston High School. The starting third basemen was Laura Hurren, a senior on this spring's team. The third base coach was the CHS varsity coach, Carla Teare. Unfortunately for CHS, the West team lost, 13-2.

"It was really exciting out there," Hurren said. "You get to meet a lot of different people and some of them are so good. Everyone on the team is really good."

To qualify for the game, a player had to be selected to the All-State list by state coaches and had to be a senior. Hurren made the 2nd All-State team. Last year, she was selected to the 3rd team.

"Going to something like this is good exposure for the school."

—Carla Teare

"People told me it's too bad I don't have one more year to play. I could make the 1st team," Hurren said. She is headed to Wayne State University, Detroit, on a softball scholarship.

"I was a little nervous at first," she said. "When you went up at bat, they announced everything you did during the year. I had confidence in my ability, but I was really nervous."

Teare was surprised to named to the team. The coaches for the East-West game usually come from the state champions.

"I guess a couple of them couldn't make it. I was not going to ask why they picked me. I was just going to enjoy it," Teare said. "It was an honor, just like the players."

Last year, the Wolves lost in the semi-finals to eventual Class A champions L'Anse Creuse North. It was the third time Clarkston High School appeared in the finals.

"Going to something like this is good exposure for the school," Teare said. "It's something to give a little recognition to people that had great high school careers. It's a lot of fun, that's all it is."

Youths work to better community

By Kathy Greenfield

A crew of 31 young people have quietly gone about their summer jobs while making contributions to the community—and to their futures.

Hired through the Summer Youth Employment Training Program of the federally funded Job Training Partnership Act, most of the 15- to 21-year-olds worked eight weeks through mid-August. Some have had their jobs extended through the beginning of September.

Their work was physically demanding, their wages at the $3.35 minimum and all were required to spend time in class, for which they were not paid. The program was designed to provide work experience and, in some cases, career exploration.

The end result a sense of pride.

"You learn a lot of skills that you just don't learn sitting at home," said Gregg Cadd, who worked on grounds maintenance at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center.

Cadd was one of six youth who continued the landscaping project started by students at NWOVEC during the school year. They weeded, trimmed hedges, watered and fertilized.

The end result is an uncommon landscaping showcase at a public school.

"It's our own pride," said worker Richard Robinson. "On our break, it's nice to walk around the building and say, 'Hey, this is beautiful.'"

Joseph Wiechec supervised the six-member crew's work at NWOVEC.

"A lot of these guys never worked a job," he said. "They learn a little bit of respect for safety, an attitude and behavior, and I think they learn about dealing with people. That's the biggy, to get along with each other in the workplace."

Plans are to continue the program next summer if funding is available, said NWOVEC Principal Dan Manthei.

"Our grounds are in better condition than they've ever been since I've been here, 11 or 12 years," he said.

Mike Insenverg of Waterford uses the edger to neatly trim along the sidewalk at NWOVEC.

Another phase of the program at NWOVEC involves six students working on auto body repair skills under the direction of Scott Irwin.

They rebuilt the body of an out-of-service truck with a snowplow, which "we'll finish up (during the school year) before the snow flies this year," Irwin said.

"I feel we at least put it to good use," he said.

Richard Robinson [left] and Greg Cadd, both of Waterford, put a sparkling shine on the side entrance to the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center.

"The programs we're doing (at NWOVEC) are going to benefit this school."

Irwin added that he's seen an increased amount of enthusiasm by students he's had in the regular classroom.

"They're working eight hours a day, four days a week and it really lets them get into it," he said.

Said employee Mike Lotan, "It's something I

Where elk did roam

Bill Maier and Cha-Cha the Chihuahua pose with an elk head discovered by Bill's son and daughter-in-law, Kurt and Tracey, after a quiet afternoon Sunday on Deer Lake. Kurt found the elk head at the end of the boat's anchor after struggling to bring up the 50-foot line in the middle of the no-wake area on the north end of the lake. It was no easy task, says Kurt's mom, Marie, who points out that Kurt's a weight lifter who can lift over 400 pounds. Because something broke away before he lifted the elk head out of the water, they believe the elk's carcass bones fell back into the lake. The Maiers surmise that the elk broke through the ice hundreds of years ago and drowned. "My daughter-in-law, who has studied anthropology, thought it was very old," Marie said. Bill was moving the sprinkler in front of the Maier's Langle Road home when Kurt and Tracey drove up with the boat. The Maiers have lived in Independence Township 22 years and their two sons grew up on the lake. But Bill says he never would have guessed the answer when Kurt greeted him with, "You'll never believe what we caught!"

A 1983 graduate of Clarkston High School, he joined the Marine Corps in 1984. His parents are Daniel and Linda Chupa of Griggs Drive, Independence Township.

Reunion in Germany

Clarkston area residents Sophie Halabicky and Dolores Alonzi recently returned from a trip to Zwiebrucken, West Germany, where they visited with Ken and Sonia Foster and baby Monica Hope. The Fosters' mastery of the German language provided their visitors with the opportunity to explore surrounding areas and appreciate first-hand contact with the culture of the southern region of Germany. Pictured are four mother-daughter generations beginning with great-grandmother Sophie Halabicky, Dolores Alonzi, Sonia Foster and her daughter, Monica Hope.

61 youngsters rewarded for reading

Prodigious readers received their rewards Aug. 7 at the Grand Finale of the Independence Township Library's summer reading program.

Sixty-one of the children enrolled in the program were presented certificates for reading at least eight books.

Special mention was won by Heidi McFalda and Shay Kammer, who read 113 and 92 books respectively.

Each time a book was read during the eight-week reading program, the reward was a ticket in the read-a-lottery. Names were drawn for the grand prizes.

Brian Bovee took home a backpack, Kristine

Millard won a gift certificate from the Village Bookstore, Sarah Antonazzo's prize was a gift certificate from Coach's Corner, and Elizabeth Moeller and Brady Galan collected solar calculators.

All children present at the Grand Finale received prizes, gifts and coupons for hamburgers and pizza.

Sheryl McLeod received a bachelor's degree from Northern Michigan University, Marquette, Aug. 3.

The Deerhill Road, Independence Township, resident majored in nursing.

Hollie Luter received her bachelor's degree in interior design, magna cum laude, from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, in June.

A Clarkston High School honors graduate in 1981, she is the daughter of Robert and Sondra Luter, former Independence Township residents.

Jill A. Koch recently graduated from Kalamazoo College.

A Clarkston area resident, she is the daughter of Karen Teberian.

Lamb-Haskins

Dr. Robert and Anne Lamb of Anaheim, Calif., announce the engagement of their daughter, Sara, to Chris Haskins, son of Charles and Dawn Haskins of Allen Road, Independence Township. Chris attended Michigan State University in East Lansing, followed by active service in the United States Marine Corps. The couple plan to be married in the fall.

Derys celebrate 50th

Joseph and Elizabeth Dery of Brandon Township celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Saturday by renewing their marriage vows at a special mass at St. Daniel Catholic Church of Clarkston. Following the mass, their children hosted a reception for about 70 guests in the church hall. The Derys have five children, Edmund of Washington, Mich., Joseph of Utica, Patrick of Deerfield, Mass., William of Fort Lauderdale, Calif., and Donna Cayuela of Independence Township. They were all at the party with their families including the Derys' 17 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. The Derys are the fifth couple among their brothers and sisters to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary.

New student orientation

Clarkston and Sashabaw junior high schools will be holding an orientation for all new students, Thursday, Aug. 22.

Students and parents can attend the program that includes distribution of schedules, student handbooks and lockers.

The programs start at 7:30 p.m. in the gymnasium of each school.

Library enters parade

Young library patrons: Prepare to march!

This year's Clarkston Labor Day Parade will include a group of children who sign up at the Independence Township Library. The parade begins at 10 a.m. on Monday, Sept. 2.

All pirates and sea creatures from the summer reading club's Buccaneers costume party are requested to share their costumes by joining in the parade. All other marching bookworms in any costume they choose are also invited to take part.

The library is located at 6495 Clarkston Rd. For more information, call 625-2212.

Microwave-plus

More microwave recipes to take on vacation

Betty Wagner

The camaraderie of other nature lovers contributes to the enjoyment and fun of boating, camping and cottaging.

And planning in advance is necessary to provide tasty and quick appetizers when old and new-found friends gather to exchange fishing reports, sea yarns and other pleasantries.

It is essential to maintain the quality of the ingredients for cocktail or social hour snacks.

If they require refrigeration, you should be able to store the ingredients for at least one week in an ice box or refrigerator. The temperature should be between 34 and 40 degrees. Keep a small refrigerator thermometer in the ice box for easy reference.

The following recipes may be cooked according to whatever mode the vacationing chef chooses, but the person who packs a microwave will have less time in the cooking area and more time to enjoy the great outdoors.

MARY'S POTATOES WITH CURRY-DILL SAUCE

1 pound of the smallest new potatoes
*1/2 cup mayonnaise or sour cream or a combination of both

3/4 to 1 teaspoon curry powder

Pinch of dill

Round wooden toothpicks

Wash potatoes and pierce each with a toothpick. Place in a one-quart microsafe container that can also be used for serving. Cover with a tight-fitting lid or with plastic wrap that has been vented to allow steam to escape.

Microwave at high power until just tender, about 4 to 5 minutes. Let the potatoes stand for 5 minutes to finish cooking.

Mix together the mayonnaise, curry powder and dill. Taste and adjust seasonings. Serve as a dipping sauce for potatoes. Provide toothpicks for spearing potatoes.

Variation: Wash 1/2 pound fresh green beans. Place in small zip-top freezer bag with seal closed except for 1 inch to allow steam to escape. Microwave at high power for 2 minutes or until slightly cooked, but still crisp. Serve with potatoes for dipping into curry-dill mayonnaise.

Tips: Keep the new potatoes in a brown paper bag in a cool dry place. Commercial sour cream, covered, will keep two weeks in the refrigerator, while an opened jar of mayonnaise should keep three weeks. Use dips made from these ingredients within two to three days.

EVERYBODY'S FAVORITE ARTICHOKE SPREAD

Here is an old favorite that artichoke lovers always welcome. It's a natural for the vacationer, because cream cheese will keep for at least two weeks in a refrigerator if tightly wrapped in moisture-resistant material. Parmesan cheese in a paper container may be kept on the shelf until opened, then in the refrigerator two weeks.

1 can artichoke hearts

1 package cream of Neufchatel cheese

*1 cup mayonnaise

1 cup grated Parmesan cheese or a combination of Parmesan cheese and another grated cheese to equal 1 cup

Drain artichoke hearts and chop. Remove cream cheese from package and place in 1 quart Pyrex casserole dish. To soften, microwave at 70 percent power for 30 to 45 seconds.

Mix remaining ingredients into softened cream cheese. Microwave at 70 percent power for about 5 minutes or until heated through.

A temperature probe works very well for heating this spread to serving temperature. Set temperature probe control to 118-120 degrees and the power level to 70 percent.

Tips: If your microwave cannot be set at 70 percent power, but can be set at 50 percent or medium power, choose that rather than high power. High power tends to dry and separate delicate ingredients such as cheese and mayonnaise. Also, when using high power with a temperature probe, a burned ring may occur around where the probe is inserted.

JOANIE'S SWEET RUMAKI

*1/4 cup mayonnaise

1/4 cup chili sauce

1/4 cup brown sugar

10 slices bacon--opened package stored in coldest part of refrigerator will keep one week

1 can whole water chestnuts

20 toothpicks

Drain water chestnuts. Cut bacon slices in half crosswise and wrap around water chestnuts. Secure with toothpick. Place in a circle on microwave bacon rack. Microwave at high power for about 8-10 minutes, or until bacon begins to crisp.

Mix mayonnaise, chili sauce and brown sugar together. Microwave at high power for 3 to 5 minutes, or until mixture begins to caramelize. Stir after every minute. Add water chestnuts to sauce and heat at 80 percent power for 1 to 2 minutes.

*I use reduced calorie mayonnaise because it provides less than half the fat grams without sacrificing taste.

Home economist Betty Wagner, an Independence Township resident, is a graduate of West Virginia University. She teaches microwave cooking classes at Sears at the Oakland Mall and through the Clarkston Community Education Department.

'My sister smokes pot a lot and I get worried...'

Dear Cat Paw:

I was wondering if you drink one fifth, will it ruin your insides?

Worried Sick

Dear Worried:

It all depends on the time you take to drink that fifth.

One fifth over a period of a year or more wouldn't do too much harm physically, but that same fifth consumed in a matter of moments could cause brain damage or possibly kill you if your blood alcohol concentration reached above .45.

Dear Cat Paw:

My sister smokes pot a lot and I get worried 'cause I think she's addicted to it. She says she's not. I told her to prove it but she says she doesn't have to. Do you think this is addiction?

Unsigned

Dear Unsigned:

It is difficult for me to say since I don't know what you mean by "a lot." But it does sound like she could be physically addicted and in a state of denial. Why not write back and give me some more details?

Dear Cat Paw:

Can you overdose on marijuana?

Wasted

Dear Wasted:

Yes! An overdose of marijuana, usually from hashish or hashish oil, results in confusion, delirium and panic. The person falls into a deep sleep lasting as long as 18 hours.

It must be remembered that there is no way of knowing if the drug has been contaminated with a more dangerous substance or misrepresented entirely.

Obtain emergency medical assistance immediately if an overdose is suspected.

Dear Cat Paw:

In the future, I'm going to apply to be a police officer. Some of my relatives smoke pot and I feel that I couldn't see them smoke pot while I'm working as a cop. What should I do, arrest the whole family or let it go like almost everyone else does?

Copyright 1985 Jeanette Sanders

Future Cop

Dear Future Cop:

Today society is saying it has had enough. We are paying every day in crime statistics and death for looking the other way.

Once you are supporting yourself and living alone, you can be selective about who your friends are. Make your stand on drugs loud and clear, and stick to it!

People who are your real friends will comply with your wishes and respect your for your views without endangering your position as a police officer.

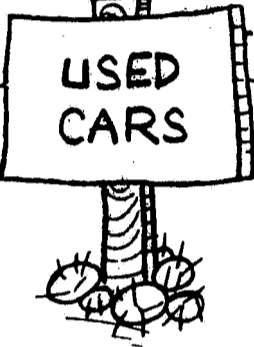

It is always surprising and painful to discover that parents and other family members are using illegal drugs. Most of society doesn't realize how large a problem this really is.

But illegal drug use is illegal and should not be tolerated, especially by a person sworn to uphold the law.

Letters to C.A.T. P.A.W. should be sent to The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016. They need not be signed.

C.A.T. P.A.W. author Jeanette Sanders, a Springfield Township resident, is a member of the Clarkston Area Chemical People, an organization devoted to the prevention of substance abuse among the community's young people.

Almost 25 years in Clarkston schools

by Jackie Holsington

Education is a major part of Gayle Swanson's life.

She has taught for almost 25 years in Clarkston schools; first as a fourth-grade teacher, then as a remedial reading teacher, and presently as a second-grade teacher.

She has taught at Andersonville, Pine Knob, South Sashabaw and Bailey Lake. Gayle has been a Girl Scout leader, Cub Scout den mother, and Sunday school and vacation school teacher.

Her husband, Bud, taught in Clarkston and now is a principal at Belle Anne in Brandon. Her four children have attended Clarkston Elementary, Clarkston Junior High and are now attending or have graduated from Clarkston High School.

Gayle is from Republic, a small town in the Upper Peninsula. She graduated from Northern Michigan University, Marquette, and later received her bachelor's degree from Oakland University, Rochester.

While working on her M.A., she traveled to England visiting schools and staying in the homes of teachers. She became good friends with a family from Scarborough, and three years ago they came to Michigan to vacation with the Swansons.

Gayle and her husband have instilled in their children the value of a good education.

Reed, the oldest, is married and working as a legal clerk and pursuing his studies while in the army at Fort Bragg, N.C. Dayna, a special education teacher, lives in Tempe, Ariz. Kristi is a music therapy major at Michigan State University. Rod is a sophomore at Clarkston High School.

Gayle and her husband give high praise to Clarkston teachers for preparing their children for college.

Being in the unique position of both a parent and a teacher in the Clarkston school system and, at the same time, the wife of a principal, gives Gayle a well-rounded viewpoint. She understands the concerns of parents, teachers and principals.

Past and present parents of students give high praise for the structured classroom Gayle Swanson maintains.

It isn't always easy to fulfill the obligations of home, school and family. One evening she had two band concerts to attend—one at Clarkston High School and one at Michigan State. . . .

As far as classroom obligations, her love of teaching is evident. Past and present parents give high praise for the structured classroom Gayle maintains.

To help keep on top of the situation, she is usually one of the first teachers at school every morning, often stays late on Friday afternoons and occasionally returns during vacations.

The teachers, parents and students at Bailey Lake are glad Gayle Swanson is on the staff.

Editor's note: An Apple for the Teacher is provided through a committee of the Clarkston Education Association.

This week's author is Jackie Holsington, a sixth-grade teacher at Bailey Lake Elementary School.

Community cable guide

Three programs are scheduled this week on cable-TV Channel 11, broadcast from the Clarkston studio of Tribune/United Cable Communications.

Wednesday through Friday
Aug. 14-16

7pm—"A Man Called Don." A young lay minister in an inner city halfway house is murdered while trying to help an addict, but his witness lives on to bear fruit. The "This is the Life" series program, sponsored by St. Trinity Lutheran Church of Independence Township, includes an introduction and conclusion by the Rev. Michael Klafehn, pastor of St. Trinity.

7:30pm—"Oaklowns." The Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department presentation features Homer Biondi of Independence Township.

8pm—"The Amazing Grace Show." A Bible story is presented by the Rev. Clarence Bell of the First Baptist Church of Clarkston.

Next Week, Monday through Friday

7pm—"If No Birds Sang." The "This is the Life" series episode tells the story of a jumping frog that helps a little girl learn that God cares about her as a person.

Programs on cable Channel 11 begin at 7 p.m. weekdays only. Other times, the station features a billboard with community service announcements and the schedule of the evening's programs, updated daily at 2 p.m.

On to Kalamazoo

The Independence Township Board voted Aug. 6 to send George Anderson, the director of public works, to a Kalamazoo conference in September.

Board members authorized $500 for Anderson's expenses. The money will be taken out of his department budget.

The conference is to be sponsored by the American Water Works Association and is to be held Sept. 24-27.

Leaks prompt repairs

Roof repairs are in store for the Independence Township Library.

Following a petition from James Hibler, director of the library, the township board unanimously approved the repairs at the Aug. 6 board meeting.

At a previous meeting, Hibler cited leaks as a major problem requiring a new 5,200-square-foot roof.

The board voted to award the project to All Roofing Co. Inc. of Hazel Park, who presented the lowest of four bids to Hibler.

The estimated cost of the work is $18,256.

Practically lost in the weeds overtaking a planter at Clarkston High School, Mark Cooper ignores the heat and humidity and keeps on working. "It's pretty good," he says about his job through the federally funded Summer Youth Employment Training Program.

They're proud of their work

would like to do for a long time. I like working on cars."

The workers at NWOVEC also included two on interior building maintenance. All 14 received one hour of high school credit. They spent three hours a week studying employability skills including resume writing and interviewing techniques.

Other youths working through the Summer Youth Employment Training Program were hired through a proposal written by the Clarkston Community Education Department.

They included six at the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department, two at the township's Department of Public Works and nine on a roving work crew for the Clarkston school district.

"It's a little something to brag about. I feel very pleased about the program, the way it worked," said Richard Ernst, the project supervisor for community education.

Ernst's enthusiasm was echoed by Larry Saville, supervisor of the roving crew's activities that included washing desk tops, painting playground equipment, prep work for painting classrooms, hedge clipping and weeding—and washing windows.

They worked about 30 hours a week and they were required to attend two half-day workshops on employability skills. There was no high school credit involved.

"The kids have just been really super to work with," Saville said. "There isn't one of them I wouldn't rehire back."

Saville's admiration is returned by his crew.

"It's fun work and I enjoy doing it, and I enjoy making things look nice here," said Jim Gravilla. "Our boss is nice, but firm sometimes. I do what has to be done."

"I learned a lot from this job," he added. "Before I didn't know how to clip hedges the right way. I never really was a painter—until I was discovered by Larry."

Jim Gravilla pushes a paintbrush outside Pine Knob Elementary School.

Lesley Seddon tackles an overgrown hedge at Clarkston High School. A CHS senior, Lesley says she's pleased to be able to contribute to improving her school's appearance.
