BEACH PATCHING CREW: Saturday's heavy rains created gulleys in the sandy beach at Deer Lake and lifeguards were called in Sunday to haul sand from the lake to the shore. About 26 truckloads of sand were added to the beach this year, says head lifeguard John Schultz, and some of it was expected to flow into the sandy bottomed swimming area. But the storm created more erosion than planned. "That was the worst storm, I think, in the seven years I've been here," he said. "The lake was higher than I've ever seen it, even in the springtime." Independence takes charter status

By Carolyn Walker

Independence will now be known as a charter township. And that means greater protection from annexation with more authority for the supervisor, according to Clerk Richard Holman.

"This was an issue whose time had come," Holman said, citing his reason for pursuing the change to charter status.

Following very little discussion, in a 6-1 vote, board members approved the change from general law to charter township at their Aug. 20 meeting. Trustee Dale Stuart dissented.

The new status becomes effective Sept. 20.
The charter title will provide the township with supervisor including making him the purchasing the first of the control of the second several benefits, said Holman.

The new status delineates 15 functions for the agent for the township and an ex-officio member of all board sub-committees.

"He becomes in essence, the chief purchasing and personnel director," Holman said. "I think his hand as supervisor is a little stronger."

Under general law, the supervisor has only one main duty and that is submitting an annual budget, Holman said.

In addition, the township will no longer be required to hold annual meetings, where voters typically decided officials' pay raises.

Pay raises will now be voted on by board members or an appointed five-member committee, as provided by law.

The concept of converting to charter township was first presented to the board in February, according to Holman.

Application of the second second

On May 16, the board passed a resolution of intent to go charter and waited 60 days, as mandated by law, for citizens to present petitions of opposition.

No petitions were circulated against the change, said Holman.

Prior to the vote, Trustee Dale Stuart expressed disagreement with the change.

"I don't think the township is gaining anything of any substance," he said. "We're not in any danger of annexation. I'm opposed to the creation of a charter township."

Stuart cited increased costs as one of his reasons for opposition. Expenses will be incurred making budget amendments, accounting changes and stationery and document changes, and in attorney fees, he said.

Crossing guard approved for Lake Oakland Woods

By Carolyn Walker

For the first time since Lake Oakland Woods was established eight years ago, a crossing guard will escort the subdivision's children across Maybee Road to elementary school.

The decision to hire a crossing guard for approximately $2,700 was approved in a 5-2 vote by the Independence Township Board on Aug. 20.

The speed limit on Maybee Road, which the children must cross to reach a safety path, is 45 miles an hour.

The board's decision came following the recommendation of Supervisor Frank Ronk, who had been contacted by concerned parents.

Board members intend to ask the Clarkston school district to split the cost of the guard.

"For the $2,700, we can afford to bear this, even if the school (district) decides not to participate," Ronk said, adding that he wants the guard in place by the time school starts Sept. 3.

"What I'm trying to do at this crossing is get someone there (every day)," he said.

The guard is to be hired for 180 days of work and is to be on site for morning and afternoon traffic.

Currently, a guard paid by the village crosses children on M-15 in the village limits.

Children crossing Waldon Road between Clarkston Elementary and Clarkston Junior High School are aided by school custodians, according to Mel Vaara, assistant superintendant of schools.

Voting against a motion to advertise for and hire a guard for the Oakland Woods subdivision were trustees Dale Stuart and William Vandermark.

After the meeting, Stuart said he voted against the motion because specifics, such as the cost of a guard, how the expenses would be split and who would carry insurance, were not adequately presented. He also contended that hiring a guard could set a precedent for other such requests.

The issue, he said, does not merit emergency status, and should have been delayed for a more intensive presentation at later meeting.

"I don't believe in emergencies that are selfcreated," Stuart said, adding that the decision on the crossing guard should have been based on more criteria than "the want" for a guard.

Trustee William Vandermark was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Ronk, Clerk Richard Holman, Treasurer John Lutz and trustees Carol Balzarini and Daniel Travis voted for the motion.

Early deadlines

Due to the Labor Day holiday, there are early deadlines for news items, display advertising and want ads for next week's Clarkston News.

News items must be received by 4:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 30. The deadline for display advertising is 5 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 29.

Classified ads placed at The Clarkston News office, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, must be received by 4:30 p.m. Friday. (625-3370)

Classified advertisers may also place ads Tuesday, Sept. 3, from 8 to 10 a.m. by calling the Oxford office at 628-4801.

The Clarkston News office will be closed Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 2.

Clerk supports charter status

"Those kinds of things don't do anything for us," he said, adding that a lack of petitions on the part of the public did not mean that people were for the change.

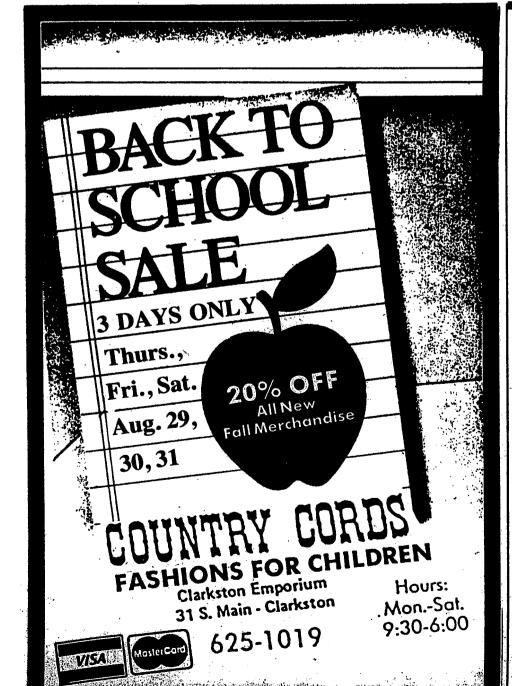

Holman disagreed, saying that the cost of changing the stationery was minor considering the benefits of going charter township.

Neither Holman nor Stuart, when contacted after the meeting, could specify just how high the costs for changing might be. If the township had received petitions of opposition, the issue would have been placed on a ballot for a public vote.

Had the change been authorized by a vote of the electorate, officials would have had the option of levying a 5-mill tax against property owners.

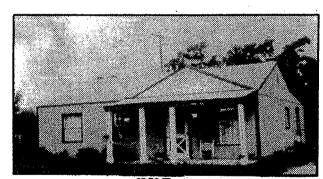

Since the change was made by a vote of the board only, no tax can be instituted.

Voting for the change were Supervisor Frank Ronk, Treasurer John Lutz, Holman and trustees Carol Balzarini, Daniel Travis and William Vander-

Labor Day events

Water fights

Firefighters take careful aim with their water hoses, try to guide a ball along a wire to the goal-and everyone gets wet.

On Sunday, Sept. 1, the annual Independence Township Firefighters Association waterball competition promises to provide a lively start to holiday festivities.

The fun begins at noon in Clarkston's Depot Park and the battle could continue as long as three hours before the wet winners claim their trophies. About a dozen fire departments have been invited to participate.

The water show is free.

Pancake breakfast

Rather than pancakes at the fire station, breakfast will be served from 7 to 10 a.m. this year in Clarkston's Depot Park.

The annual Labor Day feast sponsored by the Independence Township Fire Department features all-you-can-eat pancakes, sausages, milk, coffee and juice. The cost is $3 for adults and $2 for children.

A large tent will assure rain-or-shine service. The fire department donates the profits to the Muscular Dystrophy Association along with money firefighters collect at the Pine Knob Music Theatre. Over the years, they've contributed from $500 to $8,000 annually to the cause.

Parade

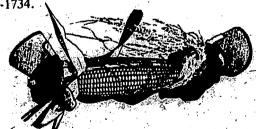

A summer holiday without a parade? Not in Clarkston! This year's Labor Day Parade, sponsored by the Clarkston Rotary Club, begins at 10 a.m. on Monday, Sept. 2. It begins at Clarkston Junior High School, and travels west on Church Street and north on Main Street to Clarkston Road.

There'll be music with the Clarkston High School Marching Band and the 74th Argyles of Royal

Oak, a group of Scottish bagpipers. Also featured on their trusty steeds are the Oakland County Parade participants should meet at the junior high school at 9 a.m. for judging for the awards. The Rotary club requires all parade participants to register in advance. Call Gerald McNally at 623-1734.

Day-long corn roast

Fresh sweet corn, roasted in the husk, then dipped in butter is next on the Labor Day agenda.

Following the parade, the annual Labor Day Corn Roast begins around noon at the Campbell Richmond Post 63 of the American Legion. The event is a tradition nearly a quarter-century old.

Also on the menu are hot dogs, chili dogs, sloppy joes, beer, wine and soft drinks—and more—all at reasonable family prices.

The post is located on M-15 just north of I-75 in Independence Township.

Windows rather than shutters will be found in the second-story dormers of the new 52nd District Courthouse to be under construction soon in the 14-lot Clarkston Office Center. The building was designed by Aipha Design of Dixle Highway, Independence Township.

Courthouse approved

Ground breaking next week

By Kathy Greenfield

It's full speed ahead for the new 52nd District Courthouse off M-15 in Independence Township.

The Rademacher Group's proposal won unanimous approval by the Oakland County Planning Commission Aug. 21, the Independence Township Planning Commission granted final site plan approval Aug. 22 in a 5-0 vote and a 10-year lease agreement was signed with the county Aug. 23.

"It's been a long haul. We're very happy about it, extremely happy." said Richard Ayers, member of the Rademacher Group.

The courthouse is to be built on two lots, about 21/2 acres, of the 15-acre, 14-lot Clarkston Office Center developed by Ayers, the owner of Mr. G's, and Thomas Rademacher, the former owner of Rademacher Chevy. The office complex is located on the east side of M-15 behind the True Value Hardware and almost directly across the street from the First Federal Savings Bank and Trust branch.

Construction is underway on Citation Drive, the road that will lead to the courthouse, and Lorac Drive, the road in front of the courthouse.

Ground breaking for the 18,000-square-foot brick, two-story building is expected next week, Ayers said, with an occupancy date of Dec. 31. While estimates are yet to be finalized, the cost projection is about $700,000.

Ayers compares the building's size to Dr. Charles Munk's Clarkston Professional Plaza on M-15.

Of the 18,000 square feet of rentable space inside, the court portion is to take up 7,500 square feet, with 5,900 square feet for the courtroom area, 1,000 square feet for storage and the remainder for restrooms and the corridor.

Oakland County has agreed to a 10-year fixed lease of $61,950 for each of the first five years and $75,815 for each of the remaining five.

"The thing we want to stress is the size (of the building)," Ayers said. "We're not looking for that court to be there 10 years, we're looking at 20 years, 30 years. We have room in that building to expand to three courtrooms."

The Rademacher Group's courthouse proposal was one of six submitted to the county. It was chosen, Ayers said, for four reasons: price, parking (123 spaces), location and room for expansion.

"We were tops on all of them, thank God," he

In addition to Ayers and Rademacher, the Rademacher Group is comprised of Rudy Lozano and Ken Rogers, the owners of Evans and Associates real estate; and Charles Bowles, the owner of C&B Custom Builders.

Landscaping concerns voiced

Concerns over landscaping for the proposed 52nd District Courthouse dominated the discussion Aug. 22 that led to final site plan approval by the Independence Township Planning Commission.

In addition to comments and questions by the commission members, a resident of the Birdland subdivision voiced concern about the 123-space parking lot to be located behind her home.

The courthouse is to be constructed on two lots at the rear of the 14-lot Clarkston Office Center off M-15.

Ken Rogers, co-owner of Evans and Associates real estate and one of the five-member Rademacher Group, made the presentation at the planning commission meeting.

He said the plan is to leave the 30- to 13.5-foot area between the courthouse and residential subdivision in its natural state and augment existing greenery with fast-growing, 6-foot white pine trees.

My main concern, even though it's a beautiful building, the people in the back are going to look at the building. . . . I just hope that area you're leaving will be sufficient. It will probably be sufficient in the summertime but in the winter it won't," said commission member Joseph Figa.

Rogers countered, that the elevation, vegetation and brush would provide sufficient winter cover-

Sharon Hahn of Hummingbird Lane was the only resident at the meeting. Development was inevitable on the commercially zoned property, she said, but the courthouse would change the natural view she has en-

"We just put on a $20,000, all-glass addition. It's going to be a big, wide open bowl," she said. "What (the courthouse is) going to do to our property value is a real crime. We're going to lose a lot of money.'

The commission requested temporary fencing for the natural area protect it when buildozing is done at the site, and the developers agreed.

'It's a reasonable point. Our intentions are to do exactly what we've set out to do (in providing the buffer zone)," said Rogers.

Commission members Carol Balzarini, Robert Dieball, Figa, Holly Stephens and Neil Wallace voted to approve the final site plan with stipulations including:

Parking lot lighting adjustments could be required by the township planner.

• Four landscape islands will be enlarged from 4 to 8 feet to allow better conditions for trees.

Bumper strips or curbs, to be approved by the township planner, will be added in the parking lot. Adequate screening will be provided at the rear, east end, of the site by existing regetation augmented by plantings as directed by the township planner. Parking space adjustments and adequate directional signs will be approved by the township planner. • Wooden or railroad tie structures will be placed between the parking area and the landscape screening area along the east end of the property.

 The developers will take such extraordinary steps as are reasonably necessary to protect the existing vegetation designated to temain on the site.

Springfield balks at signal crossing

By Dan Vandenhemel

There are more important projects than the installation of a railroad crossing signal on a slightly used road, say Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls and the township board.

At a public hearing for the Oakland County Road Commission, Aug. 19, Walls told the commission the township board was not interested in paying $35,000 of the $140,000 Grand Trunk signal crossing on Edgar Road.

The Michigan Department of Transportation issued an order that a signal should be constructed because of the low visibility.

Road commission spokesman Dennis Pajot said the amount of traffic is not the only reason for such a project. MDT cited the low visibility at the intersection for the signal crossing.

The road commission has not done a traffic count for Edgar Road, he added.

Half of the cost of the signal would be paid by Grand Trunk and the remainder by the road commis-

The cost-sharing proposal was a request, said Brian Blaesing, supervisor of programing for the road commission. By law, Springfield is not required to pay

"We're taking all the comments at the public hearing and analyzing them to see what can be done," Blaesing said. "Either we're going to do it without their help or some other alternative.

In a separate phone interview, Walls said he provided a couple of suggestions. He mentioned installation of a stoplight at Davisburg Road and Dixie Highway, calling it a long-time concern of residents; work on White Lake Road; and setting the money aside to match local government funds for road repairs. "The board thinks that $140,000 for a signal crossing doesn't seem necessary, based on other critical needs in the township," Walls said. "To give an example of what could be done, we just approved $20,000 for drainage, ditching and graveling of 1,800 feet of Hillsboro Road. $35,000 for a railroad crossing doesn't seem right.'

Three hired as driver/engineers for department

By Carolyn Walker

From 28 letters and 13 applicants, three men were selected as new driver/engineers for the Independence Township Fire Department.

The hiring of Keith Bailey, David Stover and Larry Wormnest is contingent upon the men passing intensive physical examinations.

The physicals are to include pulmonary function tests, back X-rays, stress electrocardiograms and any other tests recommended by Dr. James O'Neill, M.D., of the fire commission.

The three were unanimously approved by the township board Aug. 20 to replace the men promoted to shift captain positions earlier this month.

They will bring the total number of driver/engineers to nine.

Assistant Fire Chief Gar Wilson submitted the names to the board. Six applicants underwent interviews and tests administered by three lieutenants from outside fire departments on Aug. 24, he said, and Bailey was hired based on his "good standing" scores from a previous test.

The three new firefighters were previously volunteers with the township fire department.

Any applicants from Independence were given 10 extra points toward their testing in tribute to their dedication to the department, Wilson said.

As it turned out, Bailey, Stover and Wormnest surpassed the other applicants with scores in excess of the 10 free points, Wilson added.

"That's a little pat on the back of our guys," he said. "Everything went smooth."

The three were to officially begin their jobs Aug. 25.

The names of unhired top applicants are to be held for emergency purposes in case any firefighter positions open, said Wilson.

Speaking of TV ads

Kathy Greenfield

"The bathroom is the easiest room in a house to redecorate."

That profundity flashed through my mind after I watched clips of award-winning TV commercials on Good Morning America. One of the commentators asked, rhetorically, if there was any reason TV shows weren't as good as the commercials.

The top award winner cited was the Pepsi commercial where an archeology professor and his students go through a just-dug-up home from the 20th century.

One of the students is sipping a can of Pepsi. When someone finds a crud-covered bottle, the professor is asked to identify it. He slips it into a magic machine that melts away the mud, sees the Coke logo and says, "I have no idea."

The night before I was reminded of this clever commercial, I sat in a restaurant that had a TV set glowing from behind the bar. I couldn't hear it, but every once in a while my eyes were drawn to the screen.

In each case but one, what I wanted to see was a commercial. I tried to remember what the pacing shadow in the window was pacing about. I watched until I saw the hamburger.

The only non-commercial image I watched for a few moments happened at the beginning of a movie when this huge shark leaped out of the water with its mouth open.

A couple of weeks earlier, I viewed a documentary about commercials.

What I remember most, aside from the hundreds of thousands of dollars spent on seconds, is that most of the successful TV commercials say nothing about the materials or ingredients that go into a product. Instead, they create an intense image of what we want to be.

On the surface, this may appear unrelated to redecorating bathrooms. What I had in mind was the relationship between space and time. If you have a little room... to redo with no furniture necessities other than built-ins, it's pretty easy to put together something spectacular.

Think about it the next time you're using the smallest room in your house.

A different perspective

To the lady stranger with the empty hand:

We were bound for a ship called HOPE. A hydroplane, the HOPE was anchored off a dock in Mackinaw City awaiting its cargo of eager tourists. Overhead, the sun looked down from a brilliant blue sky. Waves bobbed soothingly, inviting passengers to sail away with their come along, come along rhythm. Smiles and seagulls enhanced the view as we stood in line, anticipating our turn to board ship. Camera, jackets, and kids in tow, we were ready.

All but the youngest, the little one, who was as afraid this time as she was the previous five times we boated to Mackinac Island.

She stood on the dock, shuddering in her shorts, hopping anxiously from foot to foot, pulling at her lip, struggling not to cry.

A boat, or a plane, we told her, was the only way to get to the island where fulfilled fantasies and wondrous things awaited her.

Despite our reassurances that she would be safe and have fun, despite the fact that she was with family she trusted, she didn't want to go.

Who can know why a thing causes fear in one mortal and not another?

Listening to her pleas to return to the car, her dad and I grasped the little one's hands and escorted her aboard ship, attempting to comfort her as we went.

On board, the little one anxiously surveyed her surroundings, her dread mounting.

Daddy let go of her hand to search for the tickets and the little one quickly reached for the next safe-looking thing she saw: a stranger's empty hand.

The hand welcomed hers.

To the man stranger who took me flying: Thanks.

Mother, like all mothers, always said don't go in cars with strangers. Airplanes, those are different, I joked, and I got in.

The sky was full of clouds that day and I had my doubts, my fears you might say, especially since I had never been in a small plane before.

But, I had fantasies I wanted fulfilled as well.

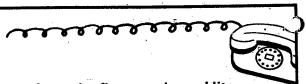

I longed to see wondrous things: To view life from a different perspective.

It was a thrill to float along with the clouds; to look down at the patchwork farms, the tiny cars, the lakes, the little ones.

I sense, however, that I got my first glimpse of the different perspective I sought when I got on the HOPE with my daughter that day.

The two people reinforced my initial reaction: There are times when it is right to trust strangers.

It is possible.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

A man took the time to come into my office and complain that a friend of mine flies the American flag 24-hours a day, without it being illuminated.

He said, "And, that's against the law."

As I searched for my folder "The flag of the United States of America", I remarked that I, too, fly the flag around the clock. "Shame on you," he said.

Shame it may be, but illegal it's not. It may be disrespectful, as pointed out in my folder, but it's not ticketable.

It is also disrespectful to not "hoist the flag kly and lower it ceremoniously". Bet the guy who wrote the rules never took a flag down with a storm coming up. Ceremony is cast to the wind, so to

Of course, we're not supposed to fly our flag in inclement weather "because exposure may damage" it.

At least my visitor didn't even hint at my lacking patriotism, which isn't mentioned in the folder as being necessary, desired, or basis for flag flying.

I should have mentioned this before summer vacations. I meant to have listed some of the radio station numbers that keep me awake driving up 1-75. Beautiful 102 in Saginaw (these are all fm numbers) is gentle music, Gaylord (106.7) and St. Ignace The state of the s Salespeople, take note. When you come into my office don't rearrange the furniture before you sit down. I put the two chairs where they are to best serve me. They are just far enough away that I can't smell bad breath, but close enough so I can be handed something.

They were selected because they are hard and uncomfortable and not conducive to long conversations.

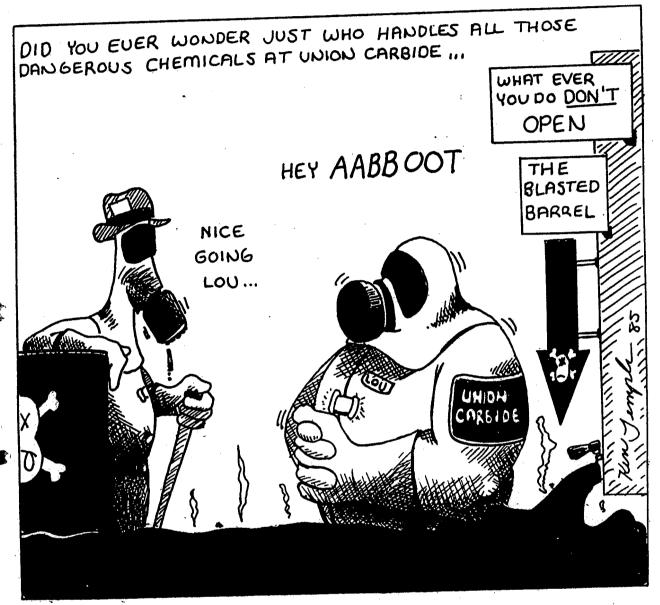

Some of you salespeople feel you have to get closer to me. You pull the chair behind you as you approach my desk, always with a flip-chart or 3-ring notebook full of persuasive charts, testimonials, and pretty pictures clutched in the other hand.

When you do that you better be sure that material is really persuasive and what you're pushing is free.

Because you have just lost a sale.

You have shown me you're overly aggressive, domineering, think you're smarter than me, egocentric, pushy, arrogant and that your memory is failing because you forgot to brush your teeth that morning.

I've drawn all these conclusions, and I didn't even take Psychology 1 in college. One doesn't need school learning when you've got prejudice, stubborness, and the pocketbook on your side.

Bailey better

Chief Dale Bailey, of the Independence Township Fire Department, is on the mend and gearing up to return to work.

Bailey, who underwent surgery to remove a kidney in July, says he will be back on the job Sept.

"I'm climbing the walls," Bailey said, expressing his eagerness to return to work during a phone interview Tuesday.

Bailey said his doctors advised him to take the past month off to recuperate from the surgery, but have placed no restrictions on him for the future.

Assistant Chief Gar Wilson is conducting fire department business in Bailey's absence.

Director James Hibler waded through 47 applications and conducted nine interviews before selecting Susan Aho to fill an aide position at the Independence Township Library.

Hibler's announcement that 47 had applied for the position brought a collective gasp and several jokes from the township board, which unanimously approved the hiring.

Aho, Hibler said, was a good selection for the job because of her college education and previous experience as a preschool and substitute teacher.

A township resident, she was to begin the fulltime, 35-hour-a-week job Aug. 28 and be paid $6.10 an hour plus benefits, Hibler said.

Help for seniors

Several services are available for persons age 60 and over who live in northwest Oakland County.

The Outreach program of the Oakland Livingston Human Services Agency offers assistance in the following areas: energy, social security, counseling, legal aid, telephone reassurance, homebound meals, package of life, friendly visiting, personal care, transportation, nutrition and employment.

Sue Moshier is the Outreach Worker in eight townships including Independence and Springfield.

Appointments may be made by calling Moshier from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays at 858-5125 or the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. weekdays at 625-8231.

A donation-based program for which no fees are charged, Outreach is federally funded.

`If it Fitz . . .

No one asked, but. . .

There are a few things you should know. . .

Recently I questioned the sincerity of Fred A. Williams, executive vice-president of the JCPenney Life Insurance Company. He knows my exact age and sends warm birthday greetings every year. But also every year, he admits he doesn't know if I'm married and/or a father.

I figure if Williams really cares as much about me as his messages indicate, he would use the vast resources of the JCPenney empire to determine my marital-parental status and program his birthday computer to ask about the wife and kids, who have the most to gain from his annual friendly reminder that I am getting old enough to die.

Now comes Ruth Ellis, of Westland, whose husband, John, has received birthday greetings from the JCPenney Life Insurance Company the last three years.

"If Mr. Williams was not embarrassed at not knowing or caring whether you are single, married or had a fàmily, why should I expect him to know or care that John and I had first-hand knowledge of death, dying and insurance?" Ruth Ellis wrote.

"I wish Mr. Williams and JCPenney would do their homework. They know all about John Ellis, except one important thing—he doesn't need any more life insurance... My husband died three years ago.

Recently, in my never-ending quest to solve life's really important problems, I complained about cocktail parties at which there is one chair for every 40 guests. How is a standing person, holding a glass in one hand and a plate of food in the other, supposed to eat that food with a fork? The answer came from Deborah and Michael Washburn, chief officers of Social Ware, Inc. of Wyan-

The Washburns have patented a plastic plate with a hole in it. Put your glass in the hole and you have a free hand for forking or meaningful gestures. The plate is called the Socializer and works fine. I tried it and didn't spill a drop or crumb. And there's a special, football-shaped Socializer for tailgate parties.

ped Socializer for tallgate parties.

Now, about that problem in Central America...

My qualifications as a TV critic are probably suspect—for instance, I think the much-honored "Miami Vice" is just another dumb brake-screecher—but holy Moses! Did Channel 4 (WDIV-TV) really fire political reporter Tom Greene? Because he didn't fit in with some sort of "new look" the station is trying to present?

Lately, every time I've tuned in the evening news on Channel 4, I've gotten a gardener or a chef or a movie critic who looks like the crazy uncle who was never invited to family parties. Is that the new look?

I've always toughed out Channel 4's froth in the hope of being rewarded by a switch to Lansing for Greene's pungent reports. He is the best Capitol reporter in Detroit TV history, and I'll switch to whichever channel is smart enough to grab him.

The Soup Kitchen Saloon, one of the nicest things about downtown Detroit's warehouse district, has chili called "Capital Punishment" on the menu. This brought complaints from two opponents of electric-chair type capital punishment.

I think "Capital Punishment" is a harmless, amusing way to describe a hot, spicy flavor that might be too much for some palates. But I also think the objectors deserve equal time on the menu. How about a really indigestible, stomach-churning soup called L. Brooks Patterson"?

Neighbors speak out on mine reclamation

By Carolyn Walker

Neighbors of the Stolaruk mine and members of the Independence Township board took a firm stance on reclamation of the mine at a public hearing Aug. 20.

At issue was whether to enforce the 5-1 slope restrictions mandated by a consent judgment or to leave the grade at a steeper 3-1 slant and plant trees to prevent erosion.

In 1982 the township adopted an amended consent judgment, a court-sanctioned agreement between the two parties, which outlined a reclamation timetable.

After hearing comments from several residents, the board unanimously voted to enforce the 5-1 restriction

The alternative, to plant 1.500 seedlings as suggested by court-appointed receiver Del Lohff, was rejected. Lohff, of Kieft Engineering, was appointed to oversee the matter in 1982 and had told township officials at previous meetings that improving the grade to 5-1 could be cost prohibitive.

In 1984, Stolaruk failed to reclaim the 23-acre site off Stickney Road and forfeited a $20,000 performance bond to the township.

The money was used to reclaim the pit to the present 3-1 slope.

At the hearing, Supervisor Frank Ronk asked residents whether or not to leave the 3-1 slope and plant 1,500 pines, or to enforce the 5-1 slope regulations.

"It's been hydroseeded and is holding." Ronk said. "Do we want to allow the 3 to 1 in hopes the property will be sold?"

The judgment permits the township to sell the land and use the money for reclamation, estimated at a potential cost of $60,000. Officials have said the 5-1 expenses could exceed the sale price.

Approximately five of 15 residents in attendance voiced their concerns, including Neil Wallace, chairman of the township's planning commission.

"You should see the property," Wallace said. "It was mined inappropriately in the first place. It's repulsive to me... that we would let him (Stolaruk) out... just because he doesn't want to do it. It's not safe.

"We're taking the noose off Stolaruk's neck to the tune of $60,000 just because he wants it off.

"We ought to proceed some way through the courts to get money out of Stolaruk. If we don't stick to our guns . . . there's no point in having (a mining ordinance).

"It seems to me that we're not at an absolute im-

Wallace's remarks drew applause from the audience, many of whom made similar statements.

"I'd like to state that I've been flooded out at least three times," said James Morris, a Sally Road resident, "They're trying to make water run up hill "

Neighbor Jack Bradley concurred: "All the water lays in the northwest end of the property and the retention basin is in the southwest."

Saying that her property had been undermined by Stolaruk. Janet McCord advised the board. "There's an awful lot of what if's."

Following the hour-long hearing, board members unanimously agreed to make no alterations in the consent judgment.

"That site's essentially unusable. If we have any other options at all, I'm not in favor of just letting Stolaruk walk away," said Trustee William Vandermark, who used strong language in criticizing Stolaruk

"He has behaved so badly our there," Vander mark said. "He has essentially outright lied. Essentially they're crooks."

Trustee Carol Balzarini said the consent judgment should be upheld. "By enforcing the 5 on 1, we're enforcing the consent judgment... and enforcing the wishes of the neighborhood."

"This was a negotiated settlement," added Trustee Dale Stuart.

Stolaruk could not be reached for comment.

Bids awarded for safety path

A 1.350-foot safety path is soon to be installed along Pine Knob Road.

A bid for the path, scheduled to be constructed by Sept. 15, was awarded to the Italia Construction Co., of Sterling Heights, at the Aug. 20 board meeting.

At $32,362.84. Italia submitted the lowest of four bids, according to Clerk Richard Holman.

On July 16, the board authorized the construction of the 1,350-foot path connecting Bailey Lake Elementary School to the Pine Knob Subdivision 2 on Clarkston Road.

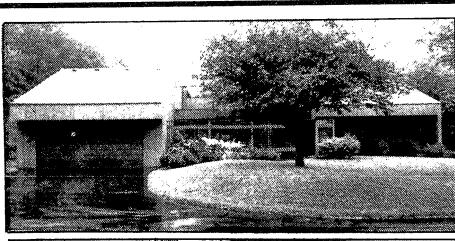

The approval comes in the wake of requests made by parents, who were concerned about their children walking to and from school in the road.

The money required for the project is to be borrowed from the general fund and repaid from the safety path fund when taxes are collected in December, since the safety path fund is currently depleted.

In 1980, township voters approved one-half mill for 10 years for the construction of safety paths. One half mill is 50 cents for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation. One-half mill provides about $114,000 annually, according to Holman.

New safety paths are also scheduled for construction on Sashabaw Road near Waldon, when improvements are made at the intersection this year.

Calls for tickets jam telephone lines

By Carolyn Walker

Did you pick up your phone to place a call to granny last week and have trouble getting a dial tone, or worse yet, a busy signal with every attempt?

If you did, blame it on the boss.

Boss Bruce Springsteen, that is.

Springsteen, a popular troubador who specializes in songs about the working man, is enroute to the Pontiac Silverdome on Sept. 4.

Tickets went on sale for his performance Aug. 21 and swithboards were flooded with calls to the dome and to CTC ticket outlets regarding ticket sales, according to Phil Jones, of the media relations department of Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

The phone-out affected all of southeastern Michigan and parts of Canada, he said. Most customers, he added, experienced delayed dial tones and busy signals, or reached a recording which said all circuits were in use.

On a normal busy day, during their busiest hour, the switching equipment in Pontiac handles an estimated 250,000 calls.

On the 21st, the switching equipment handled some 1 million calls between 10:30 and 11:30 a.m.

A phone jam of such proportions has not occurred locally "in anybody's recent memory," Jones said.

Maybe it'll be easier to reach out and touch somebody in the traffic jam that's sure to come.

Board accepts road petition

An 80-yard portion of Meadowlawn Road in Independence Township may soon be paved.

On Aug. 20, the township board accepted a petition from resident Tom Ford asking for the conversion of the road to public from private status.

Ford submitted the petition, with 51 percent of the signatures belonging to property owners along the road, as required by law.

"The assessing department has confirmed that there are sufficient signatures to accept the petition," said a memo to the board.

In order to be made public, the road must be accepted into the Oakland County road system.

Ford told the board that half of his subdivision currently has private roads, while the other half has

public roads

The residents on Meadowlawn want their road to be public so the county will be resposible for maintenance and snow shoveling, he said.

Ford said he has been working on the change for two years.

Following acceptance of the petition, board members must submit it to the Oakland County Road Commission for approval.

The commission typically OK's such submissions, according to Dennis Pajot of the road commission.

The township must then turn the issue over to the Oakland County Circuit Court, which makes the final decision to make a road public, Pajot added.

Beneath seven layers of clothes and slightly chilled skin beat the heart of rock 'n' roller Susan Kithil.

Susan, along with her friend Sandy Bentley, both of Independence Township, braved the cool weather Aug. 21 to stand 14 hours in line for Bruce Springsteen concert tickets.

The popular singer, who specializes in songs about Vietnam and the working man, is scheduled to perform at the Pontiac Silverdome on Sept. 4 at 7

Susan and Sandy, who began their vigil at 9 p.m., wiled away the hours talking, playing cards and watching a television brought by other Springsteen fans.

Chilly weather presented the only problem, according to Sandy, 17.

"I had seven layers of clothes on and a blanker and a pillow," she said. "I like Bruce a lot. I know the concert's going to be great."

"The Rock" has been the trademark for the Clarkston High School cross country runners as long as the coaches can remember. It marks the start and finish line of the course and serves as a stretching post for athletes like Brian Baert. Coach Mike Kaul looks on.

Runners push selves, rock in pre-season

By Dan Vandenhemel

It's theirs, they own it, they claim it.

The Clarkston High School cross country team

Many miles go into preparing for a cross country season. Jim Hotary gets some time in at the Clarkston High School track as he tries to strengthen his injured ankle.

has its own pet rock. It's about 6 feet long, 3 feet wide and 4 feet high.

Since the school was build 25 years ago, the Rock has held down the corner of the school property near Middle Lake Road.

"We feel like it's ours," said Mike Kaul, one of the coaches. "We're the only activity in that corner of the property and our start and finish line is right there."

Team members use the rock to stretch their muscles. People sit on it and lean against it as they pass time between miles of roadwork.

There are 18 people out for the girls and boys' teams and they each put in about 130 miles of running before the first meet. According to coaches Mike Taylor and Kaul, that's not nearly enough.

"They need a lot of mileage."

-Mike Kaul

"Before you can start teaching them techniques, they have to have several miles in," Kaul said. "They need a lot of mileage. Most kids don't run that much in the summer."

Kaul mentioned three Wolves who do put in extra work during the summer, Jeff Toretta, Kathleen McInnis and Melissa Elfes.

They proved the extra work pays off. McInnis finished sixth in the state finals last year as a sophomore. Toretta, in the regular season meets, consistently finished in the top three, while Elfes has improved her performance from last season.

Because a number of the athletes work, the coaches have set up two practices each day. The runners have a choice of working out at 9 a.m. or 6 p.m.

"We recommend they come to both of them," Kaul said. "We try to make sure they get to a practice."

Hunter's safety classes stressed

As the fall hunting season approaches, the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club is stressing hunter safety.

The club on Waterford Road in Independence Township offers a three-session hunter's safety course in September for anyone over 11 years of age.

A registration meeting is planned Sept. 5 at 6:30 p.m. for all students and their parents. The course is limited to the first 100 people.

The classes meet on Sept. 8 from 10 a.m. to 5:33 p.m.; Sept. 14 from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.; and Sept. 15 from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The course costs $2 and a hunter safety patch is

Team falls 2 games short of world title

By Dan Vandenbemel

Glenn Funck took his baseball team a long way—to Louisville, Ky., and the national finals to be

The Pontiac Class A team sponsored by Coach's Corner finished third in the National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) Senior World Series.

"The tournament went really good. The kids did a pretty good job," said Funck, an Independence Township resident.

Coach's Corner won the first two games of the eight-team world series with an 8-1 victory over a team from Youngstown, Ohio, and a 9-6 win over Cincinnati. Then came a strong team frow Louisville, and Funck's team lost, 14-4 and 9-4.

"We ran into a buzz saw in Louisville," Funck said. "They looked real good to me. It was an unlucky draw to get them twice in a row. I think the kids were a little down after the first game."

Coach's Corner qualified for the world series by winning the NABF Michigan Major Regionals, Aug. 15-18. The team went five straight games in sweeping past the opponents.

One of the season's bright spots for Coach's Corner was Clarkston native Mark Piazza. The Michigan State University student was the team's top pitcher. He went eight innings in the victory over Cincinnati in the world series. In his victory in the regionals over Detroit ITM, Piazza struck out 15 in nine innings.

For the season, he tallied a 3.84 ERA and 53 strike outs in 43 innings. Funck said his record was only 4-3 because he usually went up against the tougher teams. Coach's Corner finished the regular season with a 17-10-2 mark.

"I always thought we were a good team," Funck said. "We played errorless ball at the world series. We had one error in four games. The kids really did a pretty good job."

Flying in an airplane is safer than driving a car. Come fly the friendly skies.

The skies could be on the easy going side—but watch out for those sudden stops.

Dallas, Japan, England; three locations, three cases of mass hysteria. Hundreds of people have died in separate plane crashs in the last two months.

More than one editorial cartoon has brought a more humorous light to the subject. It's not very funny to hear of a plane loaded with living, breathing people crash and have four survivers.

"Try and sit in the back," some will say.

"With the smoking section in the back of the plane, it's the first time smoking is good for you."

"Don't get in any DC-10's." This is all fine and dandy. Just in time for me to take my first trip through the friendly skies. In October, I'll be skipping over to New York for a wed-

I've never been in a plane, helicopter, hot-air b. loon, glider, nothing. It's not that I never wanted to, it's just that the opportunity never came up. Now that it has, horror stories start floating in.

I'm still looking torward to flying. I'm also looking forward to landing, softly.

There's more high flying mass hysteria with The Boss coming to town. Sept. 4 marks the concert of Bruce Springsteen at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Thousands of hopeful ticket buyers jammed the parking lot the day before tickets went on sale.

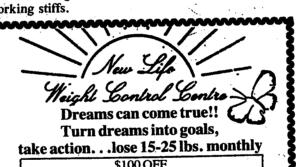

More thousands couldn't get in one of the lines (I'm one) and were shut out. Why, oh, why would anyone want to stand outside for 14 hours to buy concert tickets at $17.50 apiece. Because, that's why, just

When the Michael Jackson show came to town, tickets were $30 a shot.

For Bruuuucce, it's a different crowd, a working class crowd that will be in attendance. By watching good old Bruce on his videos, he doesn't think he needs flashy costumes or elaborate light shows. Just a plain pair of jeans and a T-shirt and he's ready to rock.

It's a good thing the original ticket prices are low because the scalpers are going to make a mint.

The day after the show was sold out, one ticket could be bought for $50. That's a little steep for us working stiffs.

Midas manufactures and stocks more different mufflers than any other muffler chain.

And when you have that many mufflers, it's no wonder our competitors would rather we keep quiet.

Because unlike Midas, they can't assure you they'll have the muffler that's made to the exact specifications of your car.

Nor can any other muffler chain back its mufflers with a guarantee that's good in as many locations as Midas.

If anything should ever go wrong with your Gold Muffler, Midas will replace it free for as long as you own your car.

At over 1400 locations. In all 50 states. So if you want the right muffler for your car, come to Midas.

With 1025 different mufflers in stock, we should have no problem keeping your car quiet. Which is something our competition would rather not hear.

Cable appointments

A new member was appointed and an old member reappointed to the Independence Township Cablecasting Board Aug. 20.

Acting upon the recommendation of Supervisor Frank Ronk, the board unanimously approved the appointment of Gary Tressel and the reappointment of Tressel will take over the spot previously occupied by Chairman Bob Hurlbert, whose term expired this month and who requested to be replaced.

Tressel, a township resident and employee with. township engineering firm Hubble Roth and Clark, will not automatically be made chairman, Ronk said.

Santala, whose term also had expired, asked to be reappointed, Ronk said. Santala is a real estate developer.

The cablecasting board is an advisory board which oversees the township's agreement with Tribune/United Cable Communications.

Its seven members are charged with making recommendations concerning cable-TV policies to the township board, according to Clerk Richard Holman.

Assessing applicants

The applications are in and September interviews are anticipated for a new Independence Township assessor.

Fourteen people applied for the job, which was vacated in July, when David Sherrill left to move out

According to Clerk Richard Holman, an assessor search committee made up of Holman, Terry Haran and John Lutz is conducting interviews with seven of the applicants.

"All seven candidates are very, very fine," Holman told the board Aug. 20.

The board agreed with Holman's request to waive a previous decision to extend the deadline beyond Aug. 15 if fewer than 25 applied.

Cancer Myth

"Cancer is contagious."

people Some beliéve you can "catch" cancer from another person. That's a myth. It's not true. "Well, good afternoon sir. Are ye enjoying the

In her best practiced but polished English accent, Leslie Parrish is one of many performers at this year's Michigan Renaissance Festival.

Dressed elegantly in the 16th century style, Parrish is known as a street character. She classifies her job as a mingler

She walks around the site at Colombiere Center in Springfield Township, talking and joking with visitors.

This is the Independence Township resident's fourth year as a performer. The elaborate program lists Parrish under Townsfolk and Revelers. Her festival name is Carissa De Salinas Willoughby.

"The first year I was really shy. I thought I'd never be able to do something like this," Parrish said in a soft, quiet voice. "My mother set up the audition the first year. Now this time, they asked if I wanted to come back. I didn't even audition."

Parrish, 17, is a senior at Clarkston High School this year. She says once a person gets tied in with the Renaissance Festival, it's hard for them to leave it.

"People have told me that once you start, you just keep it up," she said. "The festival is not strictly authentic, it's authentic and enjoyable. The atmosphere is really neat. You step into a different world."

Her festival world lasts seven weekends until Sept. 29. Each day of the festival, Parrish has to be at the site in costume by 9:30 a.m., a half hour before the public arrives. Performers warm-up, practice their accents and get a master grid of where they are scheduled to be during the day.

"I usually get home about 8:30. You have to stay in character all day," she said. "It's not just physically tiring, but mentally tiring. You really don't get any breaks."

Asked if she'd try to work at the new festival site next year near Mt. Holly, Parrish couldn't say for sure.

"I might work at Disney World. I'm going to try for that," she said. "I don't know, you get attuned to a site, it's scary. But I think it'll be better in Holly. They'll own the property and they can do what they want to."

Perched high above the crowd, Leslie Parrish adds her talkative touch to the Michigan

Renaissance Festival on Big Lake Road in Springfield Township.

Teen longs to be fighter pilot

By Kathy Greenfield

While his specific future is still uncertain, Richard Migrants knows one thing for sure.

The Clarkston High School senior wants to serve his country as a military officer. His first choice is to attend the Air Force Academy.

"It looks kind of glamorous. I like the military. I was in the Civil Air Patrol three years and I liked it," he said

Plus, once accepted to a military academy, becoming an officer is something you can count on, he added. "That's what my goal is, to become a pilot who can fly fighter jets."

Toward that purpose, he altended the Michigan Freedom Academy July 27 through Aug. 3 at Phelps Collins Air National Guard Base, Alpena.

Richard was one of 72 male and 14 female delegates at the freedom academy, all expenses paid, because he had applied to a military academy.

"It was a short week, but I made a lot of friends," he said, adding that it was nice to be with young people with similar goals.

Freedom was the topic of 12 of the 30 speakers. They ranged from a former Vietnam prisoner of war to the lieutenant governor of Michigan and included a minister and a newspaper reporter.

The man who had been a prisoner of war in Vietnam five years spoke about individual freedom and gave an example of how the men maintained their sanity.

Another prisoner, knew, the exact length of his foot and using that as a guide, the men measured the distance of a large square they drew in the dirt.

"The three years he was in that certain camp. he said he walked the exact mileage to his hometown in Ohio—it was 10,800 miles or so. He said he walked the distance all around that box," Richard said.

All was not serious, however.

One of the freedom academy delegates told each speaker he did not believe the press should release military secrets and asked for an opinion.

It was interesting, Richard said, that all speakers defended freedom of the press with two exceptions, the newspaper reporter and Michigan's lieutenant governor.

The latter, Martha Griffiths, was someone who surprised Richard and the other delegates.

"We thought we could get the lieutenant governor (with tricky questions) but, boy, she really bombed us," he said. "She was so smart. She really impressed me."

Pondering freedom wasn't Richard's main purpose for attending the academy.

"I'm like every other American, I just take freedom for granted, so the military part was what attracted me," he said.

Richard said he's always had an interest in military service because his father served in the Army as a paratrooper. His interest turned into a career goal during his years as a cadet in the Civil Air Patrol.

It began in the eighth grade when speakers from [Continued on Page 22]

There was a fun side to the week-long Michigan Freedom Academy attended by Richard Migrants this summer. "My favorite part of the whole week was the raft race," he says. "I guess I liked it so much because our team won."

Clarkston teen is (handi)capable

By Kathy Greenfield

There was a time when doctors predicted Barb Kevern wouldn't walk-or graduate from high school—because of cerebral palsy.

Now a senior at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, majoring in Spanish and minoring in political science, Barb returned Aug. 8 from Cambridge University, England, where she won a scholarship for summer study.

"It's nice surprising people," she says.

Among her other achievements are playing the piano ("not good, but I have a lot of fun") and typing, two more things she wasn't supposed to be able to do because of eye-hand coordination.

Back in the beginning of her schooling, she graduated from the Crippled Children's Society facility and attended special education classes in Pontiac.

At first she wore leg braces and used a wheelchair, then surgery at age 6 led to being able to walk with crutches.

In the fourth grade, she began attending regular classes in the Clarkston school district.

"I was so happy," she says. "I hated school in Pontiac. You could tell, because I always missed school. Except for two years (in Clarkston), I had perfect attendance.'

Barb graduated from Clarkston High School and enrolled at CMU. In addition to her studies, she works as a receptionist in a dormitory.

She doesn't take her achievements for granted.

"It just seems amazing to me," she says. "There's some doctors I'd like to punch in the nose right now and say, 'Look!' Actually, I just take it in stride and figure I'll do it if I want it enough. If I need some help, then I'm not afraid to ask for that either."

Barb's positive attitude is reflected in the events that led her to England this summer for six weeks.

She decided to apply for the scholarship through the encouragement of friends, but when she inquired about the program she was given little hope.

Her grade point average was one-tenth below the required 3.0. Nevertheless, Barb filled out an application and submitted an essay.

"According to everything I heard, there were 200 people who applied," she says. "Since there were only six scholarships, they took the top 25 essays and had the organization came to Clarkston Junior High School. Richard stayed afterward "to get out of class' and ended up joining the group.

For three years he attended weekly meetings dressed in an Air Force uniform, learned how to march and how to rappel, and went to weekend encampments about every other month with the fellow members.

He rose in rank to sergeant, then to an officer. He especially liked leading meetings and the respect afforded his rank.

Last year, Richard opted for running track at CHS instead of membership in the Civil Air Patrol. He's looking forward to his senior year, and plans to again run track, to work on the school newspaper and to apply for membership in the National Honor Society—and keep pushing toward his goal of attending a military academy.

He won't know until April if he's been nominated by his congressman or senator for a position in the Air Force Academy or West Point.

His backup plan is to attend General Motors Institute and work toward becoming an officer while there or to wait a year an reapply, meanwhile attending a military prep school.

"If I don't get accepted to any of them, I'll probably enlist in one of the services," Richard said.

A few days later, the letter came announcing that she won the scholarship, which covered tuition, room and board.

"Very scared" is how she describes the feeling. "I'd been away from home at college but I hadn't been overseas (alone)," she says.

She shouldn't have worried, for her memories are good with the exception of the food ("I never thought I'd appreciate Central's dorm food") and the weather.

weeks it rained every day," she says. "We all ran around in our newly purchased Cambridge sweatshirts. Some of the people from California even went out and purchased mittens."

Her fellow students hailed from all over the world and she brought back the addresses of new friends from Norway, Pakistan, West Germany and Switzerland.

At Cambridge, she took a four-credit "Introduction to the British Legal System" class and a twocredit "Shakespeare's Contemporarys in Drama" class.

"The classes were hard, but the things I remember most were the friends I made," she says. "It didn't matter you were working your buns off. You got to meet a lot of people and were learning about different cultures."

Adult classes set to start

Classes are now being scheduled by the Clarkston Community Education Department.

Adults who never graduated, yet desire a high school diploma, may return to school by enrolling in the Clarkston Community Education Winners Circle for completion of credits necessary for graduation.

In addition, classes are planned for adults interested in vocational and technical training beginning in September.

Courses to be offered include word processing, dental and medical assisting, electronics, auto body repair, CNC machining, computer accounting and industrial mathematics.

The training and vocational classes are free to adults without a high school diploma or high school graduates under the age of 20 by Sept. 1, 1985. A fee is charged for other students.

For further information on the Winners Circle or vocational and training classes, call 674-0993.

Non-reading adults, or adults with poor reading skills and adults for whom English is a second language may attend classes being scheduled.

Reading help will be offered in day and evening hours in the newly designed reading laboratory at the Clarkston Community Learning Center beginning Sent. 16.

Instruction will be given using a variety of methods in a small group and individualized setting.

Classes for foreign-born adults, desiring to improve their English comprehension, writing, reading and speaking skills will also be offered beginning Sept. 16.

In addition, assistance will be given to those students needing instruction for the United States citizenship test.

Classes are arranged to fit the scheduling needs of the student.

For further information on the reading and English classes, contact Marilyn Allyn at 674-3141.

Philosophy's his teaching tool

by Linda Palace

Tom Lamm has taught at Clarkston Junior High School for 25 years. He is currently teaching metals and electricity.

Tom teaches tool skills but he also teaches a philosophy that he hopes his students will someday apply when they are consumers.

His philosophy is, "You can do it. Don't give up. Keep trying until you work it out."

He hopes this will someday help them when doing their own repair projects and even extend to other areas of their lives.

During his 25 years in Clarkston, Tom has seen many changes. The area has changed from a rural to commuter type suburb. The students seem more sophisticated but unsure about how to handle their knowledge.

Tom was born and raised in Grayling. He and his family still enjoy a cottage there that he helped his father build in 1951.

He received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Michigan State University, East Lansing. Not many people know he owned and operated a gas station in Grayling while attending college.

He also worked for 15 years part time at Beach Fuel and Supply in Clarkston, repairing trucks and other equipment and delivering fuel oil. That was when teachers could not live solely on teaching salaries.

Tom and his family have lived on Robertson Court in Clarkston for 20 years. His wife, Sally, teaches reading to elementary school pupils in Hamtramck. His daughter, Janet, is a sophomore at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant. Son Fritz, an eighth-grader at Clarkston Junior High School, enjoys most indoor and outdoor sports and motorcycling.

Besides belonging to the teacher organizations. Tom also is a member of the Michigan Industrial Education Society. His hobbies center on the same kind of work as in his teaching, woodworking and metalworking.

Tom laughs when he says he has never seen a shop teacher whose work and hobbies didn't overlap.

It is obvious Tom is a family man. The family owned a motor home until a year ago and traveled to over 40 states together. On Sunday, you will find him and his family at the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

Walk-Run for Fun

Walk, jog of run to help the Springfield Township sesquicentennial.

The Walk-Run for Fun marks the beginning of the township's 150th anniversary celebration, to be in full-swing in 1986.

The entry fee is $7 in advance or $8 at the gate. Proceeds go to Neighbor for Neighbor Inc., which the sesquicentennial committee is working under, and Leader Dogs for the Blind.

A five-kilometer course at Indian Springs Metropark has been set up for the Sept. 28 event that starts at 10 a.m..

Sponsor sheets are available for participants. There are seven age classes ranging from 12 years old and under to over 61 years old.

For more information, call Helen Vergin at Springfield Township Hall at 625-4802 or 634-3111.

Microwave-plus

Lucky time for microwave cooks

Betty Wagner

When harvest time arrives in Michigan and fresh vegetable stands dot country roads, the luckiest people are microwave oven owners.

Studies indicate that fresh vegetables cooked in the microwave retain more vitamins than vegetables cooked by other methods.

Heat-sensitive vitamins are retained due to the short cooking time. Water soluble vitamins are preserved because little or no water is required for cooking.

Vegetables cook quickly, retain a vibrant color, a tender but firm texture and are probably one of the easiest foods for new microwave owners to master.

Another plus is that vegetables can be cooked and served in the same container or dish, thus saving clean up time and energy.

A fleeting favorite this time of year is corn on the cob. Some of us cannot get enough of this tender and delicious vegetable that reaches the ultimate taste when dripping with butter, sprinkled with salt and eaten from the cob.

Here are two different ways to cook fresh ears. Corn on the Cob-The Lazy Dazy Way Pull off a few outer layers of husk. Rinse of any dirt that is on the remaining husk. If the husk is not dirty, then no water is necessary. Place ears on the bottom of the microwave oven, leaving a space between each.

Cook from one to four ears at a time. One ear takes approximately 4 minutes at high power. Turn after 2 minutes. Add about 50 percent more time for each additional ear. Remember to rotate and turn the ears halfway through.

Let stand to finish cooking for 2 to 5 minutes. Peel husk and remove silk.

Corn Sans Husks-Pamper the Family Way

Remove the husk and silk. Cut a piece of plastic wrap large enough to cover corn. Drizzle melted butter or squeeze margarine down the center of the plastic wrap. Place corn on butter and turn to coat.

Wrap plastic around ear and twist ends to close. Cook following the directions for corn with husk.

After cooking, take care when unwrapping corn not to burn yourself from the steam. Open husk or plastic wrap away from you. The corn will also be very hot.

Winter Squash

Baskets at roadside stands are brimming with colorful and very nutritious winter squash. Unlike fresh corn on the cob, whole winter squash-is not very perishable and keeps well in a cool, dry place (not the refrigerator) for three to six months.

Wash the squash and pierce through the thick rind in at least three places with a long tined fork. Place the whole squash in the center of the microwave

To help soften the rind, place a 4-ounce juice glass filled with water in the back of the oven. Microwave at high power for about 4 minutes for a 1-pound squash.

Remove squash and water from oven. Cut the squash in half. This will be much easier now that the rind has softened. Remove the seeds and fibers.

Place cut sides up in a Pyrex serving dish. Cover with plastic wrap and microwave at high power until squash is cooked and is fork tender, about 3 to 4 more minutes.

Sprinkle with brown sugar, cinnamon-sugar or freshly grated nutmeg and butter. Let stand about 5 minutes. Butter and sugar will melt from the heat of the squash.

General Guidelines for Cooking Fresh Vegetables

1. Cook at high for full power for 6 to 8 minutes per pound.

2. Vegetables cook more evenly if the pieces are similar in size.

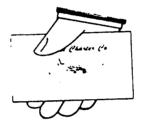

3. Cook them covered with a tight-fitting lid or plastic wrap that is vented about an inch at one edge. If nature has provided a covering in form of a rind or thick skin, then pierce with a long tined fork to allow steam to escape and prevent the vegetable from exploding.

4. It is not necessary to add more than 2 tablespoons of water to most fresh vegetables.

5. Stir or rearrange vegetables after half the cooking time.

6. Dense vegetables such as baking potatoes and squash require 3 to 5 minutes of standing time to finish cooking. Keep vegetables covered during the standing time. Less dense vegetables like broccen, beans and vegetable slices are usually ready to eat immediately after cooking.

The legacy of Shantan Simper lives on.

A photo exhibit recounting the events of 11-yearold Shantan's heart-lung transplant to a 14-year-old in Pennsylvania is on display at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac through Sept. 20.

Shantan, an Independence Township youth, died of a ruptured cerebral aneurysm on June 11. His family donated his heart and lungs in what is believed to be the first such transplant between children.

His kidneys were also donated to two Michigan residents.

St. Joseph Mercy Hospital photographer Denny Berels captured the drama surrounding the surgery on film. The display can be viewed in the hospital lobby between the hours of 9 a.m. and 8 p.m., Monday through Sunday.

St. Joseph Mercy is located at 900 Woodward, just north of Square Lake Road.

Community cable guide.

Three shows comprise the lineup on cable-TV Channel 11 this week. The programs are broadcast from the Clarkston studio of Tribune/United Cable Communications.

This Week, through Aug. 30 7pm—"The Visitation" tells the story of a Las Vegas pastor who discovers the power of the Gospel after a visit by a mysterious "Bishop Smith from headquarters." The "This is the Life" series is sponsored by St. Trinity Lutheran Church of Independence Township. It includes an introduction and conclusion by the Rev. Michael Klafehn, pastor of St. Trinity.

7:30pm-Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department presents "Mobile Recreation."

8pm-"The Amazing Grace Show." a Bible story presented by the Rev. Clarence Bell of the First Baptist Church of Clarkston.

Next Week, Monday through Friday
7pm—"Beyond the Stars," the next episode in the
"This is the Life" series, is the story of a young boy who learns that parents, even foster parents, can make God's love so real it can be felt and heard and tasted.

Programs on cable Channel 11 begin at 7 p.m. weekdays only. Other times, the station features a billboard with community announcements and the schedule of the evening programs, updated daily at

Dear Readers: I have received several letters all asking the same question. I decided to group them together and answer all three at once

Dear Cat Paw:

Someone I know is trying to stop smoking, but he tried it once before and he got mean and gained weight. Needless to say, he started smoking again. I am worried about his health. What can I do to help? Or what should I tell him?

Hope for Help

Dear Cat Paw:

My mother has been smoking for years and she won't stop, but she says she can if she wants to! What can I do to make her stop?

Dear Cat Paw:

A friend of mine smokes cigarettes a lot, and I would like to know a way to get her to cut down, or even stop the habit.

Unsigned

Dear Unsigned, Puzzled and Hope:

Any smoker is not going to stop smoking until he or she wants to. You or anyone else cannot make another person quit. You can only be supportive and positive in their attempts.

Call the American Lung Association and get some literature you could just leave around for your smoking friends to find and hopefully read.

Also look into the highly successful Five-Day stop smoking plan offered by the Seventh-Day Adventist Church. (Clarkston pediatrician James O'Neill's oflice or the church has information.)

In the meantime, stay out of their smoke. When a nonsmoker is forced to breathe cigarette polluted air, the heart beat speeds up, blood pressure rises and carbon monoxide seeps into the blood.

Respiratory illnesses happen twice as often to young children whose parents smoke at home as compared to kids with nonsmoking parents.

Parents who smoke at home can aggravate symptoms in some asthmatic children and even trigger symptoms. 24

Dear Cat Paw:

What are the effects on the body while taking drugs and drinking at the same time? Curious George

Dear George:

When alcohol is used with other sedativehypnotic drugs (barbiturates, anti-depressants, antianxiety drugs, muscle relaxants), the other drugs are metablized only after the slow process of alcohol metabolism is completed.

Sedative-hypnotics depress the brain centers that control the body systems, the most important of which is breathing. A large enough dose can depress breathing to the point of death.

A cross tolerance and cross dependence can occur among alcohol, barbiturates, barbiturate-like drugs and anti-anxiety drugs.

As more and more of the drug is needed to get the desired effect, a dose that can stop the user's breathing is approached, a very dangerous situation.

Many other physical symptoms and psychological effects are present in the sedative-hypnotic user but it would take a book to list them all.

Letters to C.A.T. P.A.W., which need not be signed, should be sent to The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

· Hobby reflects retired vet's career

By Carolyn Walker

Gentle hands that once stroked and calmed frightened animals have a new task.

They take chisel and hammer and release from rock the creatures so loved by Dr. Earl Davis.

After 25 years in veterinary medicine, the 57-year-old has traded in his stethoscope and thermometer for the tools of an artist.

He now spends his time sculpting and carving birds and other animals from stone, occasionally reminiscing about his years as an Independence Township veterinarian.

"It's been a nice career," he says of his former practice located on Dixie Highway. "I'm glad I did it. It's probably been a lot more rewarding than I thought it would be."

Among the things he most enjoyed as a veterinarian, Davis says, were his contact with people and the pets they loved.

Saying his patients became like family, he maintains a philosophy that those who appreciate animals have a more tender-hearted approach to life.

"People who care enough about their animals to take them to a veterinarian are very compassionate people," he says.

Davis' own desire to work with animals began after he was discharged from the service in the mid-1950s.

A 1958 graduate of Michigan State University, Davis turned to veterinary medicine after completing several credits toward a zoology degree.

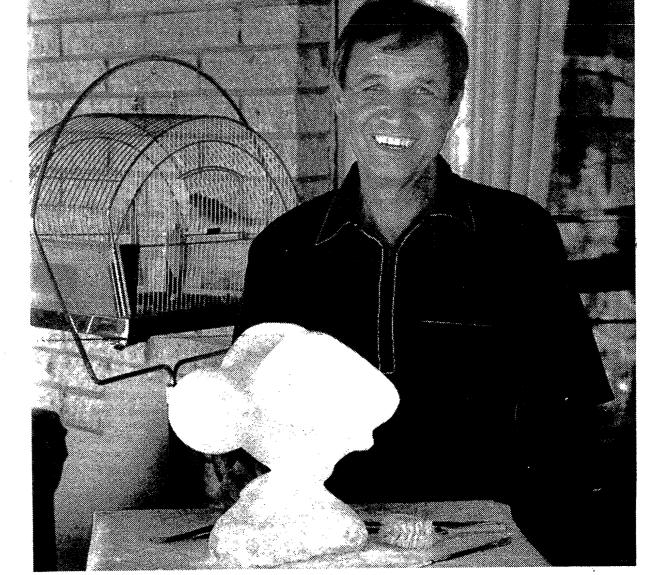

Fresh from college, he began working as a veterinarian in Detroit before coming to Independence Township in the early 1960s.

Ironically, he began his Independence practice in the old Powell building fish and poultry market, where he was surrounded by six gas stations, he says.

In 1976 he built a new building on the site, employing several innovative ideas, including separate waiting rooms for dogs and cats.

"It worked out real well. The cats are so much happier in their little space," he says.

animals. He poses at home with one of his creations carved from rock, an owl.

Carol adds her name to grill

Clarkston eatery's new owner makes some menu changes, too

By Carolyn Walker

Anticipating good things, Carol Borngesser is rushing headlong into her first business venture as restaurant owner.

On Aug. 13, Carol purchased the building housing the Village Grill on Main Street in Clarkston.

A former employee of the Village Bakeshop, she will manage the restaurant, to be renamed Carol's Village Grill.

Husband Don will work as secretary and allaround helper, she says.

She has extended the restaurant's hours from 7 a.m. until 9 p.m. on weekdays and Saturdays and from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. on Sundays.

Carol plans to offer take-out ice cream, including cones and sundaes, beginning this week, along with a few menu changes.

New additions are cinnamon-raisin toast and fresh hamburger from Rudy's Market and Sons of Clarkston.

"The basic change, is the fact that we're there,"

she says. "We're real pleased.

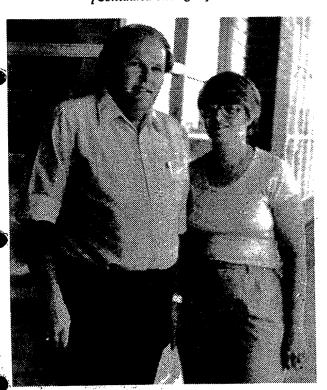

"We are brand new at this," she says, adding that her enthusiasm for the project has not been dampened by the recent exodus of businesses from the village.

"It's scary. (But) I think down the line that this is a good investment for us," she says. "The response to this has been absolutely fantastic. There's a definite need for it.

"My husband is very excited and I'm very nervous."

Don, manager of the 21st Century Bowling Center on M-59, and Carol, Clarkston residents, made their decision to purchase the restaurant in May.

They plan to keep the current eatery employees, Carol says. "Everybody there has been very supportive."

Carol and Don Borngesser pose in front of the former Village Grill, now home to Carol's Village Grill.

The state wants and we

No one is ready to buy farm

Whenever I want good, down-to-earth comments, I call up my long-time friend, Bob Taylor of Lapeer, Michigan.

Bob is the dean of Michigan country lawyers, a director of several corporations, retired president of an insurance company, and has the enviable background of having been reared on a farm.

So if I want some down-to-earth comments, views on the state of agriculture, what better source than a dirt

"Do you think, Bob, the government ought to bail out these hard-up farmers?" I asked him.

"I'll tell you how a lot of those farmers got that way," he said. "They had a $150,000 farm a few years ago. They had seen it triple in price in 20 years, so they bought another farm from the neighbor and then mortgaged the old one and the new one for the $150,000 the

"The trouble was, those two farms today are worth only $150,000 - not $300,000. One way of looking at it, they're making payments on a dead horse.

"I'm talking about the big corn and wheat farms of Iowa and Illinois. It's a little different around Michigan, because farming isn't limited to those two crops. But even here, the $1200-per-acre farms now go for $800 an acre.'

"Are there many really going for $800 an acre?" I

"Well, no. But that's what they're asking."

"But there's a big hue and cry, Bob, for saving the family farm. What about that?'

What about the family grocery? I didn't see any marches on Washington when the little grocers couldn't make it and went out of business.'

It was 10 years ago that an agriculture expert from the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis talked to a group of us investors at a seminar in Rockford, Ill. He said then that midwest farmers were making maybe 2 or 3 percent on the value of their farms.

Not their cost, because many farms had been inherited, but 2 or 3 percent on what they could have sold the farms for. At that time, they could have taken the proceeds and gotten 10 percent in government bonds.

Any man in his right mind would find it more pleasant to clip coupons than shovel manure. So I say the farmers were foolish not to have cashed in when the market was good for what was obviously a lousy invest-

Recent years have made the farmers' lot even worse. as my friend Bob Taylor pointed out.

"Wheat used to be $4 a bushel. Now it's under $3.50. You adjust for inflation from the days of $4 wheat and it ought to be $10. Fertilizer costs four times as much as it did in the old days of $4 wheat. A hired man you used to pay $100 a week 10 years ago, now you pay $400."

The lesson farmers are learning could well be applied to any venture. If the store, or whatever business it is, isn't returning you 15 percent (plus your salary) on what the place will sell for, then get out. Interest rates are still high and you can get 12 percent on government-backed bonds. No risk, no sweat. Pass up the supposed glories of having your own business, get a job and let someone else do the

Real estate agent by summer, university student by winter

By Dan Vandenhemel

By summer, David Lohmeier is a licensed real estate agent. By winter, he's a student at Oakland University, Rochester. And until July 4, 1986, he's the national president of the Explorers.

The 19-year-old Groveland Township resident is working for The Durbin Company REALTORS-ERA in Clarkston. He became licensed last summer.

'There's not a lot of 18- or 19-year-olds that I know of that have a license," Lohmeier said. "I team up with my mother (Wanda). We cover for each other if we have to."

Lohmeier said he took the job for two reasons. One, it's a job and, two, the experience of working in a business will help in the long run.

The junior at Oakland University is very business and career minded. That comes from his background with the Explorers. The Exploring Division is a career oriented, co-ed program of the Boy Scouts of America for people 14 through 21 years old.

At a national training seminar convention in Fort Collins, Colo., July 4, Lohmeier was elected president by a large margin. He's the 15th president and the first from Michigan to hold the post.

"I only decided about three months before the election that I'd like to do it," said Lohmeier. "There's about 900,000 youths that I represent now."

Involved with the Explorers five years, Lohmeier said he wanted to keep involved.

"I think this will be my last major activity," he said.

Part of what the new president wants to do is let more people know about the Explorers.

'We are part of the Boy Scouts but separate," said the 1983 graduate of Brandon High School "We're very career orientated. My post, at the Oakland-Pontiac Airport is for aviation. This is a big commitment. I'm looking forward to it."

Clarkston Motors: new owner, name

By Dan Vandenhemel

Chuck Fortenberry is living his lifelong dream. As of July 2, he's the new owner of the Clarkston Motors car dealership.

For as long as Fortenberry can remember, that's what he wanted to do.

"I was brought up with the automobile industry," the 29-year-old said. "My father (Glen) was in advertising and he worked closely with the automobile industry. We're a automobile family."

Fortenberry and his father are partners in the Chrysler, AMC Jeep and Renault dealership on Dixie Highway and Maybee Road.

Before purchasing the business, Fortenberry worked for the Chrysler Corp.

"For four years, I was a district sales manager," he said. 'I called on about 200 dealerships. With my Chrysler background, it was a natural choice for a dealership."

In the last two months, Fortenberry has seen two big changes in his life. In addition to owning a business, on Aug. 17 he and Dana VonWeber were married.

"I'm working about 70 to 80 hours a week right now," Fortenberry said. "Dana helps adds a stabling effect. We're planning to move to the Clarkston area.

"There's a potential for growth here," he said of Independence Township. "There's always a risk in doing anything until you get acustomed to it. We're not to cramped in this building, but we plan on growing."

Blues promote Bullen to senior vice president

Thomas K. Bullen has been named senior executive vice president and treasurer of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan (BCBSM).

The Independence Township resident had been executive vice president executive vice president of financial affairs and treasurer at BCBSM.

Before joining the corporation in 1972, he was with Arthur Young and Co., working at the firm's Milwaukee, Toledo and Detroit offices as a financial auditor, tax adviser, management consultant and principal.

A certified public accountant, Bullen holds a law degree from Wayne State University, Detroit.

He completed his undergraduate work in business administration at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

He is a member of the Michigan Bar Association, the American Bar Association, the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, the Michigan Association of CPAs and the Financial Executives In-

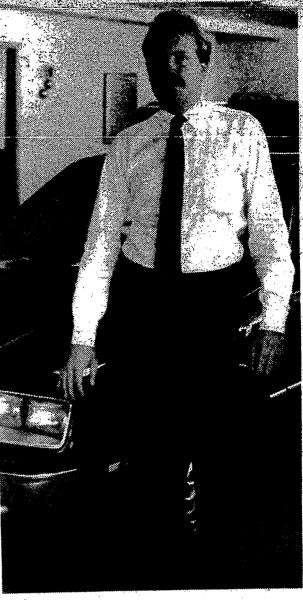

He and his wife, Sally, have five children.

Hallman joins firm

Mark Hallman has joined the technical operations staff of Oakland Management Systems, a software consulting firm in Troy.

A lifelong resident of Clarkston, Hallman contributes to the firm's expertise with two years' technical computer experience and an education from Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo.

Hallman is an officer of the Clarkston Area Jaycees and a member of the Clarkston Recreational Men's Softball League.

Owning a dealership is something Chuck Fortenberry has always wanted to do, and on July 2, he and his father Glen bought Clarkston Motors on Dixie Highway.

Some highlights of the tax simplification plan

All of us have heard, "They are at it again," If you believe in unicorns, nursery thymes and that it doesn't snow in Clarkston in winter, then you believe they are going to make it simpler and more understandable.

Of course, you know I must be referring to the President's Tax Proposals to Congress for Fairness; Growth and SIMPLICITY.

Here are some of the highlights.

PERSONAL TAX RATE REDUCTION. The President's proposal would eliminate the present system of 14 brackets of tax rates ranging from 11 percent to 50 percent. In its place would be a three-bracket system with tax rates of 15 percent, 25 percent and 35 percent.

For example, for joint returns the tax rates would be: zero percent up to $4,000 in taxable income; 15 percent on the amount from $4,000 to $29,000; 25 percent on amounts from $29,000 to $70,000; and 35 percent on taxable income over $70,000.

CHANGES TO ITEMIZED DEDUCTION. Various itemized deductions would be eliminated. For example, the deductibility of state and local taxes would be eliminated and business deductions for educational seminars and various entertainment expenses would be eliminated.

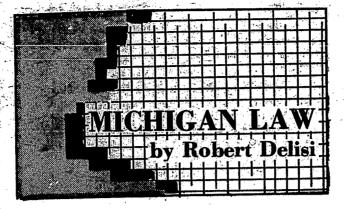

PERSONAL EXEMPTION CHANGE. The President's proposals would increase the personal exemption to $2,000 as of Jan. 1, 1986, for each tax-payer and dependent and would index this amount to protect against inflation.

EXPANSION OF IRA AVAILABILITY. The ability for private savings through Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) now available to all wage earners would be expanded to include spouses working in the home.

RETURN-FREE FILING. If the President's proposals are adopted, the number of taxpayers likely to itemize will be reduced.

It will be theoretically possible to administer a return-free filing system that would permit more than half of all taxpayers to receive an appropriate tax bill or refund without even having to file a return.

This system would be voluntary and at the taxpayer's discretion. This may sound good, but its practicality is uncertain.

DIVIDEND DEDUCTION FOR CORPORA-TIONS. To reduce the double taxation of dividends, the proposals include the principal of corporate dividend deductibility to the extent that 10 percent of dividends paid could be deducted by a corporation.

CAPITAL GAIN DEDUCTION CHANGE. The exclusion rate for net capital gain of individuals and non-corporate taxpayers would be reduced from 60 to 50 percent.

The administration feels that with the reduction in the maximum marginal tax rate for individuals from 50 percent to 35 percent, a reduction in the exclusion rate applied to the net capital gains is appropriate.

REPEAL OF DIVIDEND EXCLUSION. Currently dividend income received by an individual generally is subject to federal income taxation.

There is, however, exclusion from gross income for the first $100 of dividend income received by an individual from domestic corporations.

In the case of a husband and wife filing a joint return, the first $200 of dividend income is excluded regardless of whether the dividend income is received by one or both spouses. The President's proposals would repeal this exclusion entirely.

TWO WAGE EARNER DEDUCTION ELIMINATED. In the past, it was felt that the progressive tax rate structure of the current law often resulted in higher tax rates for couples whose incomes are combined as a result of marriage.

This result contributes to the so-called "marriage penalty." Because the proposed change to reduce the maximum tax rate to 35 percent and thereby eliminate the severity of the progressive tax rate structure, the President's proposals call for the elimination of the marriage penalty deduction.

What changes in the tax law will finally result from the above proposals is uncertain but if the past is an indication of the future, it is virtually certain that whatever change comes about, it is not likely to SIMPLIFY the tax law.

She stresses importance of constructive toys

By Carolyn Walker

A child's play is a child's work, goes the old saying. And Gerri Smith, who sells Discovery Toys, is determined that children will get the most for their efforts.

Smith, a former substitute teacher is a local manager of Discovery Toys and an advocate of promoting well-educated well-rounded children through constructive play.

The colorful toys she sells are designed to help children develop their learning skills and their five senses while enjoying themselves. Smith says.

Many are especially appropriate for handicapped children or children with learning disabilities, she adds: A list is available to tell potential customers the benefits of particular toys and what handicap they might be especially appropriate for.

There are also toys designed with the gifted or talented child in mind.

Sold by consultants from their homes or at gatherings, over 100 toys are available through the Discovery Toys catalog. Fifty percent of the toys are from European manufacturers while the rest are American-made.

Featured are books, puzzles, things to build with and games. Many are designed to help with mathematics, reading and motor skills and include rattles through microscopes, she says.

Seventy-five percent of the items are priced at under $10.

According to the Independence Township resident, the toys are grouped by age-appropriateness from birth through adult.

When purchasing toys, parents should know the skill level of the child the toy is intended for, Smith says. Discovery Toys "go right through development. Just about any skill you can pick."

In addition, parents should look for toys that are durable, have more than one or two educational aspects, promote a lot of developmental skills and span age groups, Smith says.

Compound interest -eighth wonder

We're pleased to note the Wall Street Journal as discovered compound interest. In a recent issue, the Journal included a handy table showing what money invested at different rates for different periods would amount to when collected. Here are excerpts:

Value of $1,000 invested at 8 percent and 12 percent for a Certain number of years:

Years	8%	12%
5	$ 1 ,46 9	$ 1,762
10	2,158	3,105
20	4,661	9,646
40	21,742	93,051

The figures are for annual compounding. Since even bonds pay interest twice a year, and some savings accounts compound daily, the results would be somewhat sweeter for more frequent compounding.

Note the amazing difference between a 12 percent return and an 8 percent return over the 40 year period -$93,051 vs. $21,724. Four and a half times as much, and yet 12 percent rates are only half again as much as the 8

Note, too, what that last 20 years does: The investment of $1,000 at 12 percent jumps from $9,646 to $93,051 — nearly 10 times.

One of the Rothschilds proclaimed compound interest the eighth wonder of the world.

large and small animals, including house calls for farm animals.

In the 60s, when dairy herds began to dwindle in the Clarkston area, Davis began phasing out the farm animal aspect of his business.

At the same time, he became somewhat of a specialist in treating birds.

"It always amazed me some of the birds who came in . . . the vocabularies they had," he says.

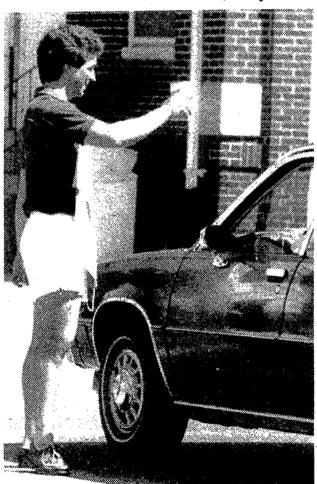

In May, he sold his practice to veterinarian Howard Schwartz.

Davis' wife Margaret, who worked with him. joined him in retirement so they could enjoy themselves traveling, playing tennis and roller

He plans on keeping his hand in medicine by maintaining a consultation-type relationship with Schwartz.

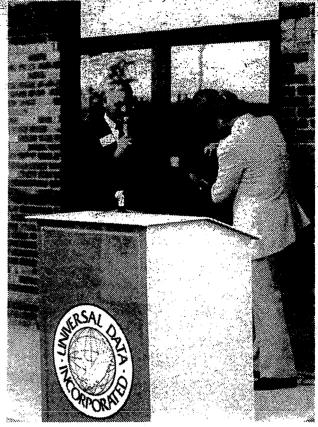

In the meantime, he will continue to carve animals in stone.

The 52nd District Courthouse proposed by the Rademacher Group has been approved. The Oakland County Board of Commissions unanimously approved the plan and a 10-year lease last week, and the Independence Township Planning Commission followed suit with final site plan approval.

The 11,000 square foot building with 6,000 square feet for the courthouse is to be located off M-15, adjacent to the True Value Hardware Store.

The courthouse is to be built on two of 14 lots zoned for office buildings.

A lawsuit and an appeal by a state board involve the proposed Clarkston Surgical Center.

Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital filed the lawsuit against the surgical center and the director of the state department of health. The suit seeks to restrain the health department from issuing a certificate of need for the surgical center, which it approved in July. The certificate of need is required by state law before a hospital-type facility can be

Also disagreeing with the decision to issue a certificate of need is the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan. The council claims there is not sufficient need for new outpatient surgery facilities in northern Oakland County.

Dr. James O'Neill, the Clarkston pediatrician proposing the surgical center off M-15 behind his medical office building, says he intends to fight the encounters-and win.

The Edward C. Levy Co. may own a gravel mining operation in Independence Township after all. The Detroit firm is in the process of negotiating with the Alabama-based Blount Materials Corp. for its Michigan holdings, including the Salem mine off Oakhill Road.

Medical Practice and Chiropractic Practice ...

THE STRIKING DIFFERE

- A Frank and Forthright Discussion, In 1974 the University of Utah College of Medicine surveyed 232 patients who had been treated for back or spinal problems. About half had been treated by chiropractors and half by medical doctors. The researchers, all with medical bias, concluded that the chiropractors generally had been as effective as medical doctors and in some areas had gotten even se better results. Specifically, the study revealed that chiropractors "generated more patient satisfaction than did the physicians, particularly in regard to the patient's response to the personality of the practitioner and his ability to explain the problem and his treatment". On the basis of their studies and the findings of three other investigations, the Utah researchers said, "It appears that the chiropractor may be more attuned to the total needs of the patient than his medical counterpart".
- STRIKING DIFFERENCES. The most striking difference between the medical practitioner and the doctor of chiropractic is that the MD's popularly prescribe drugs in an effort to alter the body chemistry. On the other hand, the chiropractors never prescribe drugs and do not perform surgery. Instead, the chiropractic approach to healing is holistic and natural. Both groups readily admit in most instances that the ailing patient is suffering from a "self-limiting illness". That is to say, twothirds of those afflicted with illness get better regardless of treatment.
- DRUG OVERUSE AND ABUSE. The Fond du Lac study of Wisconsin showed that medical doctors receive most of their information regarding prescription drugs from the advertisement literature offered by the manufacturers. Hence, the patient is too often treated by a well meaning medical doctor who prescribed the "medicine" on the basis of advertisements designed to "sell" the physician rather than to educate him. The truth of this finding has been recently affirmed by Dr. Paul D. Stolley, Professor of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine and a world expert on the epidemiology of adverse drug reactions. In the preface to the book entitled Pills That Don't Work, Dr. Stolley stated:
- "An often-neglected aspect of a physician's training and continued education concerns the rational use of drugs. The task of updating physicians on drug prescribing after graduation has been largely assumed by the drug manufacturers themselves through conferences, journals, promotional materials and visits to physicians by drug company sales representatives. The information provided by drug manufacturers, while subject to Food and Drug Administration scrutiny and regulation, does not necessarily convey the attitudes of skepticism, objectivity, concern with consumer costs and choice of alternatives, including no drug therapy."

The book, Pills That Don't Work (Copyright 1980 by Public Citizen's Health Research Group), list 610 commonly prescribed medications which have no proven theraputic value! The authors of the text make this startling indictment, to-wit: Neither you nor, in some instances, even your family doctor realize that one out of every eight prescriptions filled - 169 million prescriptions costing over $1.1 billion in 1979 - is for a drug not considered effective by the government's own standards. Since all drugs involve risks, this lack of effectiveness means you are exposing vourself to densors without gaining compensating benefits in other words, balancing the benefits versus the risks. these drugs are not safe. At present, there are approximately 7,000 varieties of prescription drugs available to the medical practice. Furthermore, there are more than 100,000 "over-the-counter" medications available without a prescription. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) which licenses all drugs has never insisted that these be specially tested to determine the proven/dosages for

Peace of Mind through proper Health Care

the elderly or for the young. Moreover, it is known that older people require lower dosages of most drugs and larger dosages of certain other drugs. A 1976 study reported that 30,000 elderly Americans die each year from "drug misadventures." Each and every month one or more of the leading national magazines publishes documented articles pertaining to the wholesale abuse of prescription medication (drugs). These articles constantly point to the medical profession and its proclivity to medicate any and all symptoms. Nearly as often, the public is warned of the alarming increase in unwarranted surgery.

THE CHIROPRACTIC APPROACH. The chiropractic approach offers a stimulating challenge to people interested in an alternative to the medical philosophy. Rather than treating illnesses with chemicals and/or surgery, doctors of chiropractic seek the area of the body (tissue or organs) which is receiving an improper nerve supply. By manipulation and adjustment, the structural derangements of the spine which cause neurological irritation and/or blockage are corrected. When the nervous system is functioning normally, the body's natural defense mechanisms are restored. In most instances, healing is the predicted and natural result!!

WORK RELATED BACK INJURIES

WORK-RELATED BACK INJURIES MAY CAUSE A LIFETIME OF SUFFERING

It's a fact of life that the occurrences which have long lasting consequences are often overlooked at the time. So it is with many work-related injuries. Broken bones, cuts and other traumatic accidents receive immediate attention, and the worker usually has a swift recovery and a brief period of disability. On the other hand, spinal injuries which may produce years of pain, disease and disability are usually disregarded at the time. In many instances, the worker may not even realize that an injury has resulted.

In the course of a work year, the average person sustains a variety of muscle "pulls," strains and sprains. All of these are traumatic to a greater or lesser degree, and "insult" the spinal vertebrae. These insults may range from slipping on an oily floor to the "whiplash" reaction caused by a sudden push from behind. The worker's posture while sitting or standing at his work station for many hours may also contribute to a spinal misalignment or "trauma." In many instances, stress and tension of the work environment cause the muscles of the neck and back to become tense and rigid. This, in turn, places a considerable amount of stress on the spinal vertebrae. Furthermore, this stress, if prolonged, may result in a spinal subluxation (misalignment).

Unnoticed back injuries creat DOUBLE JEOPARDY

In order for an employee to receive worker's compensation and/or medical benefits, he must immediately report the injury to the employer. However, as already noted, the person is often not appraised of the back injury. The injury may not result in pain localized in the back or in the neck. Rather, the spinal misalignment will frequently produce pain in the arms, legs or shoulders. In some instances, the person with misaligned neck vertebrae would experience tension headaches, dizziness and stomach upset. He or she will usually not associate these symptoms with a problem in the cervical spine.

The employee who has developed a spinal subluxation is in double jeopardy. To begin with, despite a good work history, he may eventually become known as a malingerer. In many instances, the employee's work effort or production will decline. The person may request a job change, and in some instances he or she will begin to lose time. Because the "symptoms" are subjective in nature and also due to the fact that the pain is in an area. Which appears to be "normal," the employer often becomes frustrated and unsympathetic. No worker's disability or medical treatment is provided unless the person can demonstrate a work-related injury or disease.

The other jeopardy of a back misalignment is the pain and suffering. In the U.S. alone, seven million new victims of back disorder emerge annually. Two million of these people become work disabled. It is estimated that 93 million work days are lost each year due to back problems. Five billion dollars are spent each year in search of relief. The medical community has offered little help for the problem. The most striking permanent result of their program is the alarming increase in drug addiction. Reports suggest that 50% of the medical back patients are becoming dependent on painkillers and muscle relaxants such as Seconal, Demerol, Darvon, Valium, Codeine and Dalmaine.

Chiropractic diagnosis and treatment of work-related back injuries.

Back injuries are compensable under workmen's compensation if properly diagnosed and properly reported. Doctors of Chiropractic receive years of schooling and are trained specialists in the area of spinal disorders. A chiropractic examination will often reveal a spinal abnormality or misalignment if one exists. The results of the examination plus the person's work history will be considered in determining the probable cause of the disability. If the back injury is work connected, the written report of a Doctor of Chiropractic will usually result in the immediate granting of workmen's compensation benefits.

X-rays tell the story. Unfortunately, the longer the misalignment has existed, the greater the damage and also the longer will be the course of treatment. The chiropractic patient is always shown his or her x-rays. These are primarily used by the doctor to define the extent of the problem. However, they also help the patient and the doctor to monitor the progress toward recovery. It is unfortunate, but spinal misalignment and nerve root irritations are rarely corrected in two or three treatments. In those instances where the subluxation (misalignment) has existed for a number of years, the corresponding muscles and connective tissues have stretched in order to "accommodate the injury." Chiropractic adjustments are the most reliable and successful approach to correcting most work-related back injuries. However; the treatment takes time and the cooperation of the worker.

In our "quick fix-instant relief" society, the patient suffering from a long standing back injury will occasionally become "impatient" or even suspect that the doctor is bilking him. However, armed with the x-rays, the Doctor of Chiropractic is able to demonstrate the "before and after" as well as the ongoing progress.

A recent survey of some 500 back sufferers nationwide shows that Chiropractors outperformed medical back specialists in relieving many kinds of back pain. "Backache Relief," Times Books, 1985.

Retirement Years can be Miserable and Expensive ... with WORK RELATED Disabilities

Those on the verge of retirement require a thorough physical examination. All job related injuries and/or disabilities should be confirmed upon retirement. This confirmation should be made in writing by a licensed health care specialist. Once properly documented, the retired worker is entitled to ongoing disability and health care benefits.

Tens of thousands of American workers retire each year and enter the "golden years" with one or more occupational diseases or disabilities. The hopes and aspirations of many retirees and their families are frustrated by unexpected medical expenses and post-retirement disabilities. Very few workers retire without some type of disability or without having acquired some type of work related disease. Dusty and smoky environments give rise to lung conditions. It is a documented fact that most people who retire from foundries and/or paint shops will have lung conditions such as emphysema, silicosis or pneumoconiosis. Those workers who have sustained bone fractures will usually develop "traumatic arthritis" in their later Unnoticed and unreported back injuries create double jeopardy. In order for a retired employee to receive workmen's compensation and/or health care benefits, he must immediately report the injury to his employer. However, a person will often retire without obtaining a physical examination, and therefore not be appraised of a misaligned vertebrae...the results of an old "back injury." To make matters worse, the injury may not result in pain localized in the back or neck. Rather, the spinal misalignment may frequently produce pains in the arms, legs or shoulders. In some instances, the person with a misaligned neck vertebrae will experience tension headaches, dizziness and stomach upset. In such cases, these symptoms are not usually recognized as a problem in the cervical spine.

Throughout the vears of employment, the average person sustains a variety of muscle pulls, strains and sprains. All of these traumas affect the spinal vertebrae. A retiree who has had a spinal subluxation (fundamental misalignment of the vertebrae) may never realize that his subsequent diseases and disabling pain are the result of a back injury which he has "learned to live with."

If properly diagnosed and properly reported, the retiree is entitled to workmen's compensation benefits for job related injuries or diseases. misalignments, these should be treated and immediately reported to the employer. The results of the examination together with the retiree's work history will be determined in considering the probable cause of the disability. If the injury is work related, a written report of a Doctor of Chiropractic will usually result in the immediate granting of workmen's compensation benefits. Best of all, these benefits will continue for as long as the chiropractic examination should be obtained by retiree requires treatment or is thereafter further disabled.

Study Concludes:

"Doctors of Chiropractic Generate More Patient Satisfaction"

A 1974 study conducted by the University of Utah College of Medicine surveyed 232 patients who had been treated for back or spinal problems. Approximately half of the group had been treated by Chiropractors and half by medical doctors. The researchers, all hired by and responsible to medical personnel, concluded that Chiropractors generally had been as effective as M.D.'s and in several areas had gotten even better results. The researchers concluded that the Doctors of Chiropractic "generated more patient satisfaction" than did their medical counterparts. The study report also gave the Chiropractors a superior rating in the area of doctor-patient rapport. Doctors of Chiropractic on the average were more aware and sensitive "particularly in regard to the patient's response to the personality of the practitioner, and his ability to explain the problem and its treatment." The report further stated, "It appears that the Chiropractor may be more attuned to the total needs of the patient than is his medical counterpart."

ARTHRITIS: The Crippler of Young and Old

*Approximately 55 million persons in the United States suffer from some form of arthritis

*As people grow older...past the age of 50, they will probably develop arthritis

*Children may also suffer the excruciating pain and deformity of arthritis

- *Rheumatoid arthritis, often called the "great crippler" has no cure, but more than one-half of the patients eventually recover
 - *Chiropractic treatment offers relief to arthritis sufferers...most forms of arthritis respond favorably to chiropractic intervention

URALLY!

The dictionary describes arthritis as "an inflammation of the joints of the body." However, the term applies to several different types of disease which cause stiffness, swelling, soreness or pain in the joints. Some forms of arthritis appear to be caused by infection, some by injury, some by aging, and many others have no known cause. Rheumatoid arthritis is its worst form. Arthritis is most often "chronic," that is, it continues for a long time. The three main forms of arthritis are osteoarthritis, rheumatoid arthritis, and the gout.

Osteoarthritis, often called ''old-age rheumatism,' apparently results from wear and tear on the joints. Most people past the age of 50 develop osteoarthritis to some degree. This form of the disease is seldom crippling. However, it causes painful knees, backs and fingers. Chiropractic treatment of osteoarthritis involves the use of heat, muscle massage, and spinal adjustment. Evidence suggests that the restoration and maintenance of normal nerve energy through the spinal cord and out to the joints and bone tissue promotes healing for those who are suffering from osteoarthritis.

The "great crippler," rheumatoid arthritis, can develop in persons of any age. However, it is most common among middle-aged persons. The disease is progressive and usually involves many joints. The joints become swollen and painful. In the latter stages of the disease process, the joints may become rigid and the connected bone and joints may become deformed. The victim frequently experiences fever, muscle weakness, and the loss of weight.

Treatment of this type of arthritis is difficult and prolonged. Nevertheless, in most cases deformity can be prevented. Standard therapy for rheumatoid arthritis includes a well-balanced diet, adequate rest, together with enough physical exercise to prevent stiffness or rigidity within the joints. Heat as well as chiropractic massage and periodic spinal adjustments also offer relief. The cause and cure of this form of arthritis is not known to science.

Gout, often called "gouty arthritis" is caused by the consumption of foods rich in protein. A diet consisting of significant amounts of beef together with a lack of exercise will often result in gout...especially among middle-aged men. Crystals of uric acid become deposited in the tissues around the joints. These deposits lead to sudden swelling, particularly in the feet. Gout, as with most forms of disease, responds favorably to chiropractic treatment. The treatment consists primarily of moderating use of certain high protein foods, exercise, and spinal adjustment.

Gouty arthritis, as with other forms of the disease, results when the body's natural functioning is impaired. Specifically in the case of gout, a defect arises in the body's natural ability to break down certain protein elements in foods. This, in turn, results in the production of too much uric acid which then accumulates in the tissues around the joints.

THE CHIROPRACTIC DIFFERENCE

As noted above, little is actually known about the cause and/or the cure for chronic arthritis. Medical practice primarily deals with the symptoms of the disease by prescribing drugs. Unfortunately, the vast majority of prescriptions have side effects. Moreover, LITTLE IS KNOWN REGARDING THE FAR REACHING IMPACT OF DRUGS UPON THE HUMAN BODY. Most drugs are not selective, that is, they influence all areas of the body and often do more damage than good.

Chiropractic is a natural, drugless health care science. Beyond that, chiropractic assists the body in developing (recovering) its own defense against the various forms of disease. The chiropractic approach looks to the restoration of the flow of VITAL NERVE ENERGY to the organs and tissues of the body. A spinal misalignment in the mid-back region can adversely affect the nerve roots which, in turn, supply essential nerve energy to the stomach and the organs which aid digestion. A normally functioning digestive system will properly metabolize protein-rich foods. As noted above, gout is the "dis-ease" which is felt in the joints but which has its orgin in the stomach and digestive system of the body

In summary, chiropractic health maintenance is founded upon a totality of factors which naturally relate to the mental and physical wellness of the human being. These include nutrition, exercise, diet, weight control and the proper alignment and functioning of the spinal vertebrae and the nervous system. The chiropractic approach to good health is not singular, but total. It is based upon the concept of health maintenance as opposed to merely "treating diseases." Common sense tells us that being well is much more than not having pain or the symptoms of disease.

If you or one of your loved ones suffer from the symptoms of arthritis, consult a Doctor of Chiropractic. In doing so, you will not only avoid the uncertainty of deleterious drugs, but you will be giving yourself or your loved one the best chance to recover health NAT-
