$10,000 raised for toddler

By Carolyn Walker

Good fortune seems to be smiling on Bryan Weightman.

The 21-month-old Independence Township toddler, a victim of congenital acute lymphocytic leukemia, is recovering as expected from a bone marrow transplant in Seattle, Wash., according to George White, principal of Pine Knob Elementary School where Bryan's mother Nancy is a teacher.

Efforts to raise funds for the family's expenses have been successful with approximately $10,000 in donations arriving in the Hope for the Future Fund, White said.

The fund was established in Bryan's name to help with family medical and housing expenses during their four-month stay in Washington.

Last week, a raffle sponsored by the fund netted nearly $5,000 for Bryan.

Two prizes, a weekend trip to Toronto and a video cassette recorder, were awarded to Tina Smith of Detroit and Sue Koslosky, a Sashabaw Junior High School teacher, respectively, during a drawing Friday.

Bryan received bone marrow from his father, Michael, during a surgical procedure Jan. 28 at the Swedish Hospital in Washington.

The operation was a last hope for Bryan, whose disease is often fatal.

As a result of the operation, recent tests show

Bryan is beginning to produce early forms of white and red blood cells and platelets on his own, White said.

"It was very positive and the doctors were encouraged," he said, adding that Bryan's blood showed no malignant cells after the test. "They are quite encouraged."

Schools won't sponsor trips

By Julie Lepere

Foreign travel will not be sponsored by the Clarkston school district due to the danger of terrorism, says Superintendent Milford Mason.

Mason made the announcement at the Feb. 10 board of education meeting.

After the meeting, he said that, to the best of his knowledge, the district has never sponsored foreign travel, although parents often think so.

The occasional overseas trips organized by teachers are not school sponsored, he said.

Mason's main concern is the potential for terrorist activity.

"The Haslett school choir narrowly missed being involved in the shootings at the Rome Airport," he

Adults will be blamed if minors drink

By Carolyn Walker

Adults are the focus of a new ordinance aimed at controlling drinking and drug abuse among minors in Independence Township.

The ordinance, adopted Feb. 11 by the township board, makes adults responsible for liquor or drugs served to minors at house parties.

Under the ordinance, youths 17 years old and older can be held responsible as adults if they serve liquor or drugs to minors in the absence of the home's owners.

Parents could also be held responsible if they were in the home when the substance was served.

The ordinance is based on a similar decree instituted successfully in Farmington Hills and pushed in Independence and the Village of Clarkston by the Clarkston Area Chemical People.

"We decided we'd like to look at it," said Rev. William Schram, vice-chairperson of Chemical People. "Any community that doesn't admit there's a problem, whatever site it might be, is ignoring it."

With the ordinance "there's something to refer to. It works as a preventive," Schram said. "This tightens it up in terms of how responsible people are."

Over the past year, the Chemical People have been involved in helping students and parents through substance abuse programs in the community and at the SEARCH program at Clarkston High School, Schram said.

Adults violating the ordinance could face a maximum misdemeanor sentence of 90 days in jail and/or a $500 fine.

said. "We just can't, as a district, afford taking on that liability."

Foreign language classes sometimes take trips to France or Spain over spring break or in the summer, he said.

"If teachers organize a trip on their own time, we have no authority to tell them not to," he said. "What we're saying is that parents have to be aware of the potential difficulty and make their own judgments."

Mason further indicated the strength of the district's stance by saying, "We would even try to go so far as to restrict fund-raising activities, school accounts holding the money and any deposits and refunds" the school handles in order to curtail foreign travel.

Will Johnny graduate? Schools plan tests

By Julie Lepore

General education students will be required to pass competency tests for graduation and promotion if the Clarkston board of education accepts a recommended proposal.

Superintendent Milford Mason recommended approval of the plan at the board of education meeting Feb. 10.

The proposal was first discussed in June 1985 but was set aside due to a cost deemed too high by the board, he said.

Mason again recommended that the board accept the proposal, this time with several revisions for a lower cost. The board voted unanimously to accept the revisions and will vote March 10 on whether or not to accept the proposal.

"The recommendation has been made that the district accept this proposal," said Mason after the meeting.

A committee, appointed by the school board and headed by Clarkston Junior High Principal Duane Lewis, researched the problems and recommended a proposal for a new promotion, placement and retention policy for all general education students.

"The testing will be for all fourth, all seventh and all 10th-graders," said Mason.

"A youngster who passes it the first time will only hit (further testing) at (the next scheduled) point," he said. "If youngsters were to fail at any of the points, they would have to enter remediation and then be tested at the end of fourth grade (or whichever grade the testing took place)."

The tests will be designed to measure the minimum level of competency accepted by the school district.

"All students should be at the minimum level of competency," said Mason. "Youngsters would have to meet the minimum level of competency to move from ninth to 10th grade, and they would have to meet the minimum level of competency to graduate with a regular diploma."

The policy would provide the extra help to those students who need it, and the goal is for all general education students to meet 75-percent of the test objectives.

"The largest number of students do meet minimum competency levels," said Mason.

To provide the remedial help necessary, the district would have to hire two math support people initially for remedial math, he said. Remedial reading teachers are currently available, and the plan is to be phased in over a three-year period beginning in 1987.

The board unanimously approved revisions to the original recommendation including elimination from the policy of grades kindergarten through third, special education and adult education, all of which would require alternative methods of testing, according to Mason.

The original plan also called for phasing in the program over a one-year period instead of three years.

Clarkston may be one of the few school districts in the county to adopt such a plan, Mason said.

Parking laws to be enforced

Violations concern council

People violating Village of Clarkston parking ordinances are creating concerns for the village council.

On Feb. 10, members of the council agreed to "get tough" on parkers who break the rules. They agreed to ask people to heed the rules and ask Village Marshall Charles Smalley to enforce them more vigorously.

Parking on village streets is not allowed between 2 and 6 a.m. This ordinance was enacted to facilitate snow removal, according to Smalley.

Signs addressing the law are posted at both ends of the village, he said.

A civil violation, the offense can result in a ticket and an appearance before 52nd District Court Judge

Gerald McNally, Smalley said.

Also, people parking in the business district during business hours for longer than the two-hour limit are creating problems for business people who need parking spaces for their customers, said Trustee Jon Gaskell.

A large percentage of the offenders appear to be employees of village businesses, he said.

Two-hour parking signs are posted throughout the business district.

People parking longer than the allotted time can be cited and fined $15, said Smalley.

"I will be cracking down," he said.

Raises OK'd for full-time officials

By Carolyn Walker

A pay increase of nearly $3,500 was approved for Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk by the board of trustees Feb. 11.

In a 3-1-1 vote, the supervisor's salary was increased from its current $36,590 to $40,000, effective Feb. 17. Ronk abstained from the vote and Trustee Dale Stuart voted no. Trustee Daniel Travis and Treasurer John Lutz were absent.

In addition, the clerk and treasurer positions, currently held by Richard Holman and Lutz, received raises of just under $1,000 each in a 3-1-1 vote. Holman abstained and Trustee William Vandermark voted no.

Beginning Feb. 17 the clerk and treasurer will be paid $34,500 annually.

A unanimous vote was cast to keep the trustees' pay status quo. Trustees currently are paid $4,857 a year.

The raises come in the wake of seven recommendations made by a five-member salary recommending committee in January.

The pay increases are the first to be made by the board since the township assumed charter status last year. Since Independence is now a charter township, its officials can, by law, set their own pay rates.

Ronk's raise is $1,500 higher than the committee suggested, while the clerk and treasurer adjustments match the recommendations.

The push to raise the supervisor's salary to $40,000 was led by Vandermark, who said the head of the township should be paid on a par with business executives.

"I don't think it's reasonable to pay our elected official less than is paid in business and industry."

—Trustee William Vandermark

"I don't think it's reasonable to pay our elected official less than is paid in business and industry," Vandermark said, citing pay scales of $42,000 to $62,000 for engineering supervisors and foremen as an example.

Stuart opposed Vandermark's suggestion, saying such a raise should not be implemented so soon after the change to charter status.

Township voters declined officials' raises last year at the annual meeting while the township was still under general law. Prior to becoming a charter township, officials' salaries were always approved by residents at the annual meeting.

Among the recommendations made by the committee was a suggestion to make the trustees independent contractors as well as a suggestion that 2-percent raises be instituted for those full-time officials obtaining an advanced degree.

Both recommendations were discussed and rejected by the board.

A motion by Trustee Carol Balzarini to discontinue the trustees' fringe benefits in 1988 (with the next election) was defeated, with only Balzarini voting in favor of the motion.

The board agreed to consider the committee's other recommendations at a later, unspecified time.

Pills pulled in wake of Tylenol poisoning scare

By Carolyn Walker

The recent cyanide poisoning of a New York woman who took tainted Tylenol capsules is causing repercussions in Independence Township.

Although authorities believe the woman's poisoning last week was an isolated case and no poisonings have been reported in Michigan, area pharmacists have pulled Tylenol capsules from their shelves as a precaution.

Druggists at the Pine Knob Pharmacy, Hallman's Apothecary, Wonder Drugs, Perry Drugs and Clarkston Medical Pharmacy said they have removed Tylenol capsules from their shelves pending official word that it is safe to re-stock.

The situation has caused some inconvenience for customers, but many are willing to buy generic equivalents recommended by a druggist, said Ernie Koch, pharmacist for Perry Drugs on Dixie Highway.

"There's a lot of concern, but not much fear," he said. "The people are unhappy that this has occurred."

Koch, like the others, removed the product from sale voluntarily because it made common sense in light of the problem and similar cyanide-laced Tylenol poisonings in Chicago in 1982. Seven people died during that incident.

The Federal Drug Administration has not banned the capsules, said Fred Baumgartner, of Pine Knob Pharmacy.

Andy Tarpinian, of Wonder Drugs, agreed. "It was our choice at the time," he said, referring to the removal of the drug from shelves. He has received numerous calls on the matter, he added. Tylenol, he said, constitutes 35 percent of the market for pain relievers.

Pharmacist Ron Chrovian of Clarkston Medical Pharmacy expressed similar convictions. Tylenol sales at his store outmeasure the sales of other pain relievers, he said, adding that many parents don't buy aspirin products for their children because of its possible link to Reye's Syndrome.

"I've still been getting calls for Tylenol," he said. "I pulled off everything until I'm given an official notice (to resume sales)."

Springfield goes to charter

New status becomes effective April 1

By Dan Vandenhemel

As of April 1, Springfield Township will be a charter township.

The township board voted unanimously to approve the change at its Feb. 12 meeting.

The move affects the township in a number of ways. Two more trustees will be added to the board during this November's election, bringing the total to four part-time elected board members plus the three full-time elected officials.

"The trustees voted in in 1986 will run for two years," Supervisor Collin Walls said. "Then in 1988, all seven board positions will run for four-year terms."

Other changes in going from a general law township to a charter township are:

- Protection from annexation by a bordering city.

- Changing the fiscal year to match the calendar year.

- Elected officials can set their own salaries.

- Elimination of the necessity for an annual township meeting.

Since the township board voted to approve the charter status, there will be no increase in taxes. If a petition of disagreement to change had been filed with the township, forcing the issue to appear on the August primary election ballot, the township could have raised the millage rate.

Currently, the millage rate stands at 2 mills for police, 1 mill for fire and 1.41 mills for the general fund.

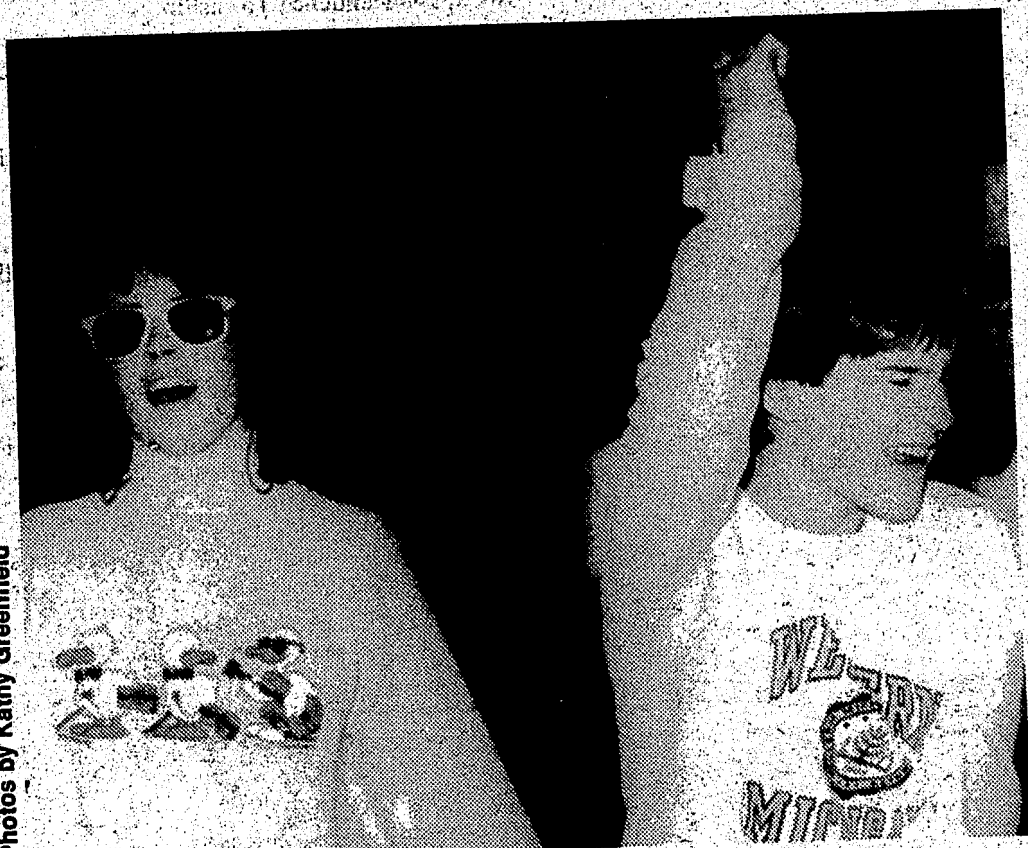

"A few people asked me about it on the street," Walls said. "I didn't hear of any rumblings."

Temporary sign plan tabled

By Carolyn Walker

Trustee Carol Balzarini may have hit the nail on the head when she asked in jest, "Is this what you call a permanent discussion of temporary signs?"

Balzarini's comment came after an hour of discussion on the issue of temporary signs at the Independence Township Board meeting Feb. 11. It was a reference to the board's repeated tabling of a proposal that would regulate temporary signs.

The proposed ordinance amendment would eliminate all temporary signs except real estate signs, which would be permitted for 90 days.

It has been bounced back and forth from the planning commission to the board at least three times and was tabled again Tuesday night when board members voted to have attorney Gerald Fisher reconsider the proposal's language.

Fisher has repeatedly maintained that such an ordinance, as first drafted, would be unenforceable in court. He says it could be in violation of the United States Constitution's First Amendment, which guarantees freedom of speech.

Recently, Fisher and township planning consultant Richard Carlisle met to review the amendment. They suggested that it allow temporary signs but limit their size to 10 square feet, and that the size be incorporated into the total sign footage allowed businesses, Fisher said.

A recent Michigan Court of Appeals decision held that ordinances limiting the period of time a sign can be used is unconstitutional, he added.

Building and planning department director Kenneth Delbridge, who would enforce the ordinance, maintained a different point of view at the meeting.

"To h--- with them," he said, referring to the courts. "Temporary signs are a mess. All they do is clutter. Most of this community doesn't want temporary signs."

Delbridge added that most complaints against such ordinances came from vendors who rent temporary signs to businesses and not from business owners.

"Temporary signs are a mess. All they do is clutter. Most of this community doesn't want temporary signs."

—Kenneth Delbridge

Former planning commission member David Katz was also at the meeting to explain why the commission first began considering an amendment.

Frequently, the signs are in disrepair or are distracting to drivers, he says, especially if they follow one right after the other. They also pose a visibility problem if they are placed too near a road, Katz said.

"(The amendment) can be conformed to," said Katz, adding that businesses have other options for displaying their identity. "I don't see it as a hardship to any business."

In voting to table the matter, Clerk Richard Holman and Balzarini dissented without comment.

Wonderful bird

Kathy Greenfield

I was in a lineup of cars zooming along on Clarkston Road when I saw the pheasant.

He was regal. Even at 45 mph, I could see his tan and brown feathers and the bright red feathers at his neck. His tailfeathers were straight and long.

Every so often, I see birds and animals that remind me that, for now, there's plenty of country left around Clarkston.

This particular bird, however, brought back childhood memories about our picture windows.

The ranch house I grew up in was built in the '50s. Large windows grace the living room and dining room walls, and if you are outside, standing in the right place, you can see all the way through the house.

When you are inside, you can see the entire front yard and back, all five acres except for where trees block the view.

From my younger years, I remember the oak tree that turned crimson each fall, the birds that gathered around the pond in back, cloud formations in the sky when tornado warnings were issued and the big black dog.

Many times, all seven members of my family would gather together at a window.

There were some humorous moments. When my brother was a toddler, we would meet at a window whenever someone said, "Look, there's the big black dog." We never knew whose dog he was—he could have lived miles away—but we knew when he made the rounds.

We never realized what a fuss we were making until the day someone asked my brother what he wanted to be when he grew up. He thought a few minutes and came up with something the family obviously admired: "A big black dog."

Now in his 30s, my brother designs computer programs. We've never let him forget, however, his early childhood career goal.

Another memory involves dating. Once, after my escort met my parents, we got into his car and drove down our long driveway. We turned on the road and for some reason, I glanced back at the house.

There, lined up neatly in the picture window, were several members of my family watching us drive off. I almost died.

There is but one unpleasant memory I have involving the picture windows. Several times over the years, birds would crash into them. Often, they did not survive.

A few times, those birds were pheasants. It made us all sad that our wonderful picture windows fooled the birds into thinking they could fly through our house.

Those were also the times when I could get close enough to pheasants to admire what works of art they are—each feather is magnificent alone and in combination with the others.

When I saw the pheasant sitting alongside Clarkston Road and the hurtling masses of metal, I offered this silent message: "Go back to the fields where you're safe from the inventions of mankind."

Opinions

What's new to TV often isn't

Surveys continue to show more and more people are relying on television as their main news source. Not a majority, just lots of people, particularly the young, upwardly mobile.

We who grew up with radio, to stick with electronic media, know nothing is more immediate than radio and that it allows our imagination to create pictures more perfect than any camera can see.

Radio newscasts follow the newspaper format. The lead story is at the top of the broadcast, the less earth-shattering events further down the page, and entertainment, human events, sports and weather still further back.

A radio news reader will cover maybe 3 or 4 stories before breaking for advertising. A newspaper gives readers a half dozen stories on page one, and starts the ads on page 2.

Television, on the other hand, and we're talking locally produced programs, start newscasts with fires and crashes, drug raids, and/or other second-half-of-the-news-program stories (page 3). Then break for a commercial after the lead-in story.

There was a perfect example Tuesday night on the 11 o'clock news on channel 2. The opening film-story, the biggy for the whole day, was a political fundraiser where some Democrats showed up for a Bill Lucas party.

Wow! That'll sure show channel 4 and 7 what makes news. Do the non-radio listeners for news, and non-newspaper readers really believe a political party is the biggest happening of the day?

Just to remind you, last Tuesday was the day Anatoly Shcharansky was released after nearly nine years in a Russian prison.

It was also the day poison was found in Tylenol capsules in New York, investigators learned more on the Challenger Shuttle explosion, and thousands of Haitians were pleading to leave the US for Haiti.

Even the cold weather forecast, Dow Jones setting a new record, and the election in the Philippines were more newsworthy than a political party in the RenCen.

We have no fault with tv cameras reporting the party, but as the lead story? Are George Sells and Kathy Adams really going to make ch 2 number one with stuff like that?

The answer is, maybe. Maybe that's the kind of stuff the young upwardly mobile want to see. Of course, and also maybe, if they are never exposed to what really is news, they will go on believing nothing happened in the world today.

They will go on never being concerned when a TV program is interrupted with the announcement: Did you buy some kerosene today? You may be in deep trouble. More at six.

And, listeners to that channel had to watch three more hours to learn the kerosene they bought could be gasoline.

We won't change anyone's listening, watching, and reading habits with this editorial, but at least we know those who read it are interested in something besides a party in Detroit. JAS

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

Schools were closed in Alcona and Alpena counties last week, just as they were in other parts of the state due to icy roads.

Good decision. We could hardly stay between the ditches on snowmobiles; no way school buses could have made some of those hills.

The area around Hubbard Lake, Curran, and Barton City is not familiar to me. In fact, I've spent practically no time in that corner of Michigan's mitten.

So, when Red Rewold, the man who keeps Rochester looking good (he owns Village Dry Cleaners), asked Pansy Baldwin of Oxford and I to a snowmobiling weekend we loaded up and headed out.

Red has been weekendending and vacationing at the north end of Hubbard Lake for many moons, and knows the countryside with and without snow.

Pansy and I, along with Rochesterites Ken Lowe, Harold Allen and Leon Dunlop, followed Red many miles (about 50) along the narrow gravel roads, slowing only when our host's machine did a 360 degree turn in the middle of the road. I said it was icy.

Thankfully, there were oases at Curran (The Buck Stop), and Barton City (BC's), and Hubbard Lake (Pirate's Cove), to break the monotony and help us avoid snow blindness.

The truly great treat of the day was eating Ken Lowe's hamburgers. Eating hamburgers cooked in a bonfire was a first for me. Lowe had made patties at the cottage and wrapped them in aluminum foil. For lunch he just dropped them in the fire and turned them a couple times.

They were delicious, as were the hot dogs. Some people can't understand how anyone can enjoy a picnic in a snowbank with temperatures in the low 20's. Believe me, when you're dressed for it, it's great.

We had a new snowmobile leader the second day, Hubbard Lake barber and real estate salesman, happy Lloyd Liske. He's spent all his 40-plus years learning all the roads, trails, paths, and holes in fences.

In over 3 hours we never saw a road, and snowmobiling couldn't be much better. Good snow, good weather, good fellowship and smooth running machines.

Liske, and another Hubbard Lake man who was with us, Stu Sherwood, stopped long enough by one cabin and barn to feed the deer. They do it twice a week. They said the animals and birds are having it really tough right now. Foraging is nearly impossible because of ice covered snow.

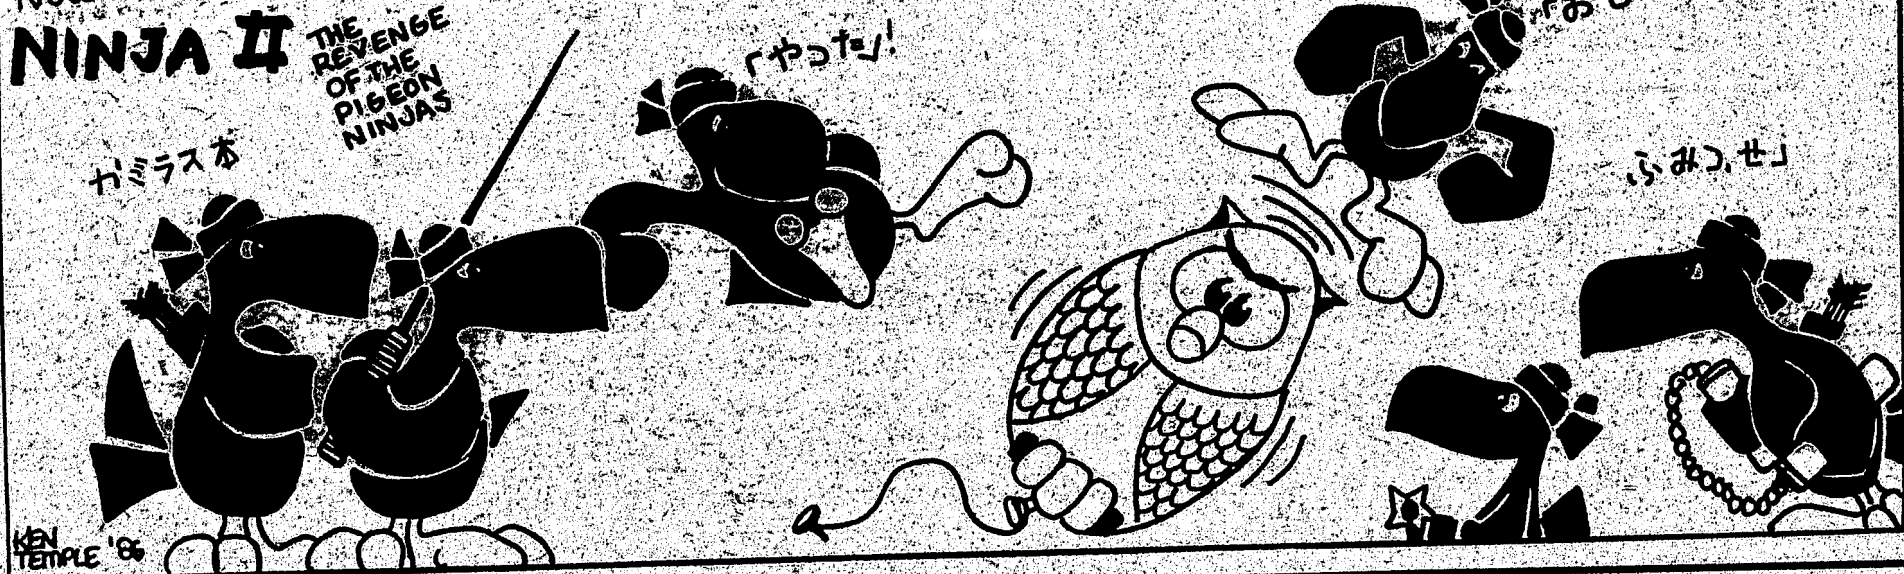

We went through and by many deer hunting camps with many, many deer blinds, and saw quite a few deer, but they weren't far from feeders. It's great how many sportsmen spend so much time and money keeping deer, turkey, etc. going through the winter.

It's also a great, relaxing feeling to ride over the snow between the frosty pines, and looking over the quiet lands of the north.

Readers oppose state regulation of Christian schools

May I add my support to your recent guest editorial on the subject of religious freedom for church-related schools?

As a teacher in a Christian school, I attempt to use the Bible as my final authority. All academic subjects are taught from the perspective that God is the Creator and Sustainer of the world, and the One who reveals knowledge to man.

Christian values are emphasized, with the teachings of the Bible used in guiding and correcting the children's behavior.

Under the First Amendment, I have the right to teach in this manner. However, the state of Michigan would regulate Christian schools and the teachers in them by requiring certification.

In order to meet this requirement, I would have to attend a college which teaches God must be left out of the classrooms.

On the contrary, I believe that the teaching of Christian values will make better students and better citizens for our state.

Our forefathers received such training, resulting in a higher level of morality and decency in our nation than we now enjoy.

Why not let the quality of training received by students in Christian schools demonstrate that their teachers are well-qualified for the job? Compare our students with those in public schools, where all teachers are certified.

I encourage the legislators of Michigan to allow church-related schools their constitutional right to operate freely without state regulation.

Our effort to once again bring America back to "one nation under God" should be applauded by our government and every patriotic citizen.

Debbie Cary

I'm replying with great concern to the guest editorial by Dr. Paul Vanaman.

I strongly agree with him and believe that my personal religious freedom and beliefs are in jeopardy and, more importantly, my children's rights.

I think the majority of the people are subtly deceived into thinking state control is OK and the real issues are being overlooked.

William Keller

I have read with interest the guest editorial by Dr. Paul Vanaman. I would like to express my agreement with his position.

The state has no right to infringe upon the religious rights of the people to have their children educated by someone who does not agree with their religious position.

Robert McCall

I firmly agree with the editorial in the Jan. 22 edition of The Clarkston News, because the Constitution guarantees the separation of church and state.

I had the opportunity to go to both public and Christian schools (Springfield). What I was taught in the public school about evolution, as Dr. Vanaman said, was nowhere is there room for God.

Whereas, in the Christian school, I was taught both those principles of evolution and creation to show us how fallible evolution is.

The public school refused to face the fact there was even a God who did create this world. Again, as Dr. Vanaman has said, humanism has definitely filled the void.

Mrs. Don Lanpher

I am in approval with the editorial by Paul Vanaman. I feel the state has no right to say anything about the certification of teachers in our Christian schools.

We the parents have every right over our children, not the state.

'If it Fitz ...'

When it comes to dumb ideas...

Jim Fitzgerald

Since Hudson's closed its downtown Detroit store, my wife often shops at the Fairlane mall in Dearborn. This week I told her to stop.

"You shouldn't shop in Dearborn until Dearborn officials sign an agreement promising that a shopping mall will be built in downtown Detroit, within easy walking distance of our home," I said.

"What kind of sense does that make?" she asked. "If there were a mall near our home, I wouldn't have to shop in Dearborn or any other suburban mall."

I explained to her about the coalition of community leaders that says Detroiters should boycott Dearborn businesses because Dearborn doesn't want Detroiters using most of its parks.

"I don't want to use Dearborn's parks," she said. "There is a park right next to our home, but the nearest decent shopping mall is in another town."

She was missing the point, of course. The Rev. Charles Adams, spokesman for the coalition, says the park restrictions are aimed at keeping blacks out of Dearborn, and the people opposed to racism should stop shopping in Dearborn until there is a decent place to shop in Detroit, at which point they can resume shopping in Dearborn, and Dearborn store owners will again be able to earn a decent living.

I look upon this idea as a first step toward solving more important problems, such as the alarming dropout rate in Detroit schools.

After the boycott pressures Dearborn into pressuring big-time developers into developing a mall in Detroit, the strategy will be proved valid and we can begin using it on the Detroit school system.

We will order school officials to build a better school system. Until they do it, we will boycott the present system. We will keep our children home, or on street corners, where they will be safe from dropping out.

Once the better school system is in place, and students don't drop out of it, we will resume sending our children to the old system, so its teachers will again be able to earn a decent living.

"Why should we resume using the old system if the new system is better?" my wife asked.

She was just trying to confuse me by changing the subject, so I ignored her.

Two more important problems bedeviling Detroit are the soaring rate of teenage pregnancies and kids shooting each other. A variation of Mr. Adams' strategy could be applied in these cases, too.

A coalition of community leaders should pressure parents to teach their children how to have fun without sex, or at least sex without babies.

In cases where parents aren't much older than their children, the aid of churches should be enlisted. Male and female teenagers should be segregated and locked inside church buildings until they're 21.

Once the pregnancy rate drops, parents will stop harassing their children, and boys and girls will resume dating. This will allow employees of the welfare system to again earn a decent living.

As for kids shooting each other, community leaders should demand that all guns in Detroit be confiscated. Once the shooting stops, the guns will be returned, which will allow bullet salespeople to again make a decent living.

"I didn't think there could be anything dumber than suggesting that Dearborn should support the idea of building a mall in Detroit so Detroiters will stop boycotting Dearborn and resume shopping there," my wife said. "But you have somehow come up with even dumber suggestions."

Yes. But it wasn't easy.

-More letters-

I have read the "Letter to the editor" column in The Clarkston News and would like to voice my approval in favor of Dr. Paul Vanaman's article concerning the licensing of teachers.

I do not feel the state has the right to step into the boundary of religious freedom.

Ken McClusky

In response to Dr. Vanaman's guest editorial regarding state interference to Christian schools, I would like to comment as a teacher and parent.

As an education graduate of Bob Jones University, I can attest to my qualifications in a teaching capacity. My studies included all pre-requisites for an education major.

All education majors were required to take the National Teachers' Exam and, as regularly, BJU scores were among the highest in the country. As you may or may not know, Bob Jones is not accredited but turns out the best products in all areas including education.

As a mother of three children attending Springfield Christian Academy, I resent the point the state is trying to make in certification. They only wish to control our children, ultimately, and requiring their approval of teachers is the means to this end.

It isn't to give children the quality of education. Our Christian school, as others, stresses that religion and education go hand in hand.

God has set up the precepts of life and we stress them throughout our academics. It is discriminating to try to force us to comply with jurisdiction involving our religious freedom.

Judy McCall

I am in agreement with Dr. Paul Vanaman's editorial in The Clarkston News. I do not feel that state certified teachers are a fool-proof way to a good education.

Also, as a Christian, I don't feel the state has the right to dictate to me what I should be taught. My God has already set my standards for living.

Paul Thompson

I am in agreement with Dr. Paul Vanaman about the "religious freedom being threatened."

Being a graduate of a public school, I find that students of a Christian one have a better grade point average and the teachers are everything to do with it.

The teachers are qualified, where certification has nothing to do with the way they teach. These teachers work with the students and that is what every student needs.

Laryl O'Dell

I appreciate the guest editorial written by Dr. Paul Vanaman. It is appalling to consider how ignorant the general public is regarding the "Bridgeport Case."

The issue involved is not quality education but state control. Thank you for printing the article informing more people about this case.

Donna M. Davis

I'm writing concerning the "Guest Editorial" of Jan. 22. I agree with Dr. Vanaman when he says our religious freedom is being threatened.

I believe that the state wants to have complete control of our children so they can train them without parental intervention.

There are many cases where degrees have been awarded to people that have not earned them. These same people could become certified teachers in our state schools and not even be qualified.

It is certainly a sad situation when the quality of a teacher is judged according to whether or not he or she is certified.

In other words, being a certified teacher does not necessarily mean he or she is a qualified teacher. The public schools are proof of that.

Laws that have been made prohibiting the free exercise of religion are unconstitutional, since: "The Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

God puts the responsibility of teaching and training our children into the hands of the parents.

Nancy Banks

I am writing to you in approval of a guest article by Dr. Paul Vanaman.

I am voicing my support for all Christian schools that are standing up for their beliefs.

The state of Michigan should not interfere with the Christian schools' desires to employ only Christians and not necessarily trained and certified by the state.

Is there life after junior high?

Carolyn Walker

Last week, Jim Tuman paced the gymnasium floor of Clarkston Junior High School posing to the students some serious questions.

He asked them: "Are you going to quit criticizing one-another? And when are you going to learn to think for yourselves?"

The 600 students listened attentively, with occasional giggles when the questions hit too close to home.

After he was done speaking, Tuman invited the students to step up to the microphone, one by one, and share their concerns and hopes with each other.

The things they said were enough to moderately shock the adults watching from the sidelines.

"I am not a burnout," said one boy, who must have been all of 14 years old. "I don't do drugs."

"I do not get around," said a tearful girl. "I know the things you say about me."

Then the tears came. All, it seems, had spent their years worrying about the opinions of others. Few spoke of their dreams.

On and on it went for a full day.

It was enough to make you wonder what causes all that pain. Are you only successful when the next guy says you are? Is there life after junior high school?

It's hard to teach youngsters to stand alone. To dare to be different. To think for themselves. It seems to be a lesson that can only be learned by experience.

The fact that it can be learned, however, was driven home for me when I met Art Sampson last week.

Sampson is a 79-year-old inventor. And he is banking his future on his patent of the Roll-A-Wheel.

The Roll-A-Wheel is simple in concept and based on a stick and wheel toy of Sampson's youth. If it sells, it may provide a once-in-a-lifetime vacation to Hawaii for Sampson and his wife, Marguerite.

If it doesn't sell, Sampson says he figures he has lost nothing by trying.

Trying.

There's the secret.

After all, the inventor of the pet rock dared to try. So did the inventor of the Frisbee and the Hula Hoop.

I hope Sampson's invention takes off in the same manner that those items did. I hope it because a person should experience success and realize the fulfillment of his dreams.

Mostly, though, I hope he's successful because he would be local living proof that it pays to think for one's self.

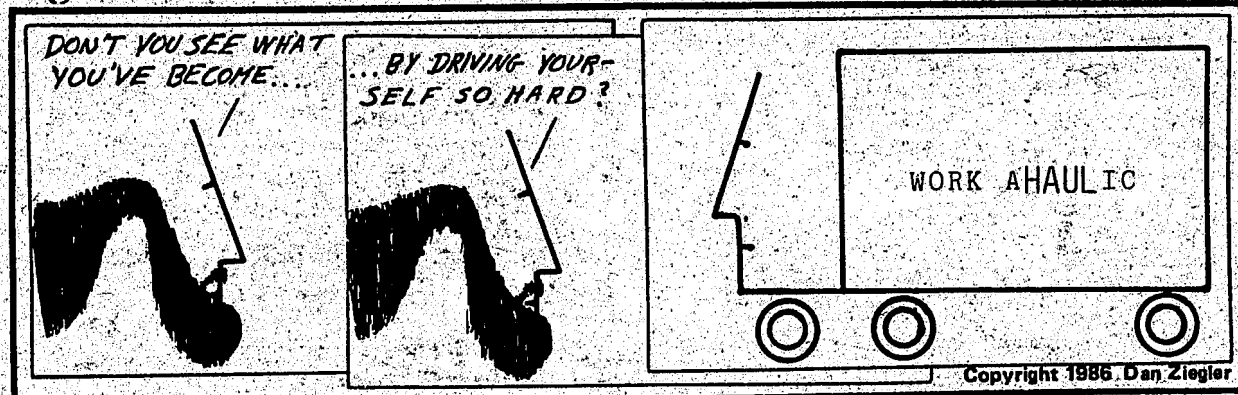

He'd be proof that there is life, and hope, after junior high school.

If only we could make the students see.

Suggestion garners $20,000

By Dan Vandenhemel

Al Yenglin is $20,000 richer.

The employee at the General Motors Orion Assembly Plant received the money through the GM suggestion program.

Yenglin found a problem with the electronic sunroof mechanism being developed by GM. The suggestion program is based on one-fifth the net savings to the company, with a maximum of $20,000.

Yenglin, a LaVon Road, Springfield Township, resident said at his plant alone the savings will be about $5 million.

"They were ready to scrap the project until the problem was found," he said. "We could never get a complete seal on the sunroof. Now there are no leaks. I spent hours and hours in water tests, there are no leaks."

Two years ago, Yenglin was asked to work on the prototype for the new sunroof system. He was a utility repairman in the plant. Now he only installs the sunroofs.

"I run the store now," he said. "I helped design the first, which is used throughout the corporation. I don't want this to sound like bragging, but I put a lot of hard work into it. I did something the engineers weren't able to do."

The award money is going toward a new house

Al Yenglin plans to use the $20,000 award toward a new home.

for Yenglin, his wife Laura and 4-year-old daughter Katie. They own a lot in Springfield Township and plan to build the home sometime this year.

"We're going to enjoy this money," Yenglin said.

Guidebook moves ahead

Helps builders know township workings

The proposed developers' guidebook to Independence Township is moving ahead amid disagreement on how much it is needed.

The book, proposed by the planning commission, is geared at helping builders better understand what the commission wants in terms of construction materials, site plans, lighting and landscaping.

Under consideration since 1983, it was born of frustration on the part of commissioners who grew weary at seeing poorly drafted plans and saw this as an opportunity to help, said Chairman Neil Wallace.

Wallace appeared before the board of trustees Feb. 11 with former commissioner David Katz, who was instrumental in the guidebook's design. The two attended the meeting to explain the need for the book and its current status.

Last month, the spending of $3,364.55 from the 1983 Community Development Block Grant fund was approved by the board over the objections of Trustee Dale Stuart. Stuart expressed dissatisfaction again last week.

Developers have not been presenting plans in keeping with the township's standards, Katz said.

"(The book) sets forth standards of quality," he said. "These are the standards of quality which we feel should be maintained in this community."

Trustee Dale Stuart, however, disagreed with the need for the book, saying that "several thousand dollars" for publication was not warranted.

"I don't think it's (the book) going to be used," Stuart said.

Instead, the building and planning department should provide graphics and standards to developers, Stuart said.

"Can Ken (Delbridge, building and planning department director) and Dick (Carlisle, planning consultant) teach skills to people? They cannot," Katz said in response.

"To me this is a very, very helpful tool to Ken," Katz said, adding that the books could be sold to developers or lent through the library. "We are asserting ourselves."

Following the discussion, the board approved a motion to publish the guidebook after asking to see an outline of the project.

The many uses of a bag

Five hundred Valentine's Day customers at Food Town at Sashabaw and Maybee roads took their groceries home in decorated bags. The greetings were the work of the 430 pupils at North Sashabaw Elementary School including second-graders Courtney Perna and Joey Diliegghio. Their teacher, Norma Stallons, found the idea in a teachers' newsletter. "It's something that didn't take a whole lot of time and the kids really did enjoy it," she said. North Sashabaw Principal Jack Hayden, who picked up the carton of bags from Food Town and delivered the finished products, called the project their "greetings to the community from the school."

Tim Birtsas makes himself at home just prior to leaving for spring training with the Oakland A's.

Birtsas is entering his second year as a pitcher for the major league baseball team. The baseball card, reproduced above, was sent by a fan for his autograph.

Clarkston: Birtsas' home base

By Dan Vandenhemel

The nickel tour of the brown split-level home in Clarkston consisted of the mini-games room, family room and even the bathroom.

Decorations consisted of pictures, pillows, lamps and newspaper clippings, giving a definite sporting atmosphere to Tim Birtsas' new home.

The 25-year-old pitcher for the Oakland A's was getting the house ready for his sister and a friend to move into while he is gone for the season.

"The place is a mess, but this is a great house," Birtsas said. "You know, I've really got a lot of stuff for not having a lot of stuff. This is going to be fixed up nice."

Buying a home in Clarkston was a natural for Birtsas. He graduated from Clarkston High School in 1978 and attended Michigan State University.

"I love it here," he said. "No matter where I'll be playing, during the off-season I'll be here. This is my home base."

Besides getting used to the new house, Birtsas is becoming more comfortable with the idea of being a major league baseball player.

As a rookie last year for Oakland, Birtsas tallied a very respectable 10-6 record and a 4.01 earned run average. He is hoping his 94 strike outs in 141 innings and a fastball clocked consistently over 90 mph will keep him in the major leagues.

"This is everything I've dreamed of and more," the personable pitcher said. "I hope I'm doing this for a long time to come. I thrive on the competition."

Birtsas' professional baseball career started in 1982 when he signed with the New York Yankees. He was traded to Oakland after the 1984 season in a package deal that included Rickey Henderson.

"You never forget when you get called up to the majors," he said. "Even though I was drafted No. 1, you never really know if you're going to make it."

The day the big southpaw was called up, he was scheduled to pitch for his Tacoma, Wash., Triple A team in Arizona. There was a Beach Boy concert set to follow the game and Birtsas was ready to pitch in front of the big crowd.

"The manager called me into his office," Birtsas said. "When you hear that, you think you're in trouble. But he asked me to do a favor for him and it was to go to the majors. I told him, 'Sure, I'll make it.' He said he wanted me to go now."

"I was a nervous wreck. I got no sleep that night," he said. "The day I arrived, Jackie (Moore, Oakland A's manager) put me in a game. I was nervous, man-oh-man was I nervous."

It took awhile for the 6-foot-7, 235 pounder to realize he was pitching in the major leagues. The year before, he had been pitching for Fort Lauderdale in the A level of minor leagues. After jumping AA and having only four starts at the AAA level, he was in the big leagues.

"It's funny. I was called up to replace an injured pitcher and would be there only couple of weeks, and ended up staying the rest of the year," Birtsas said. "I had a friend drive my car up to Oakland. When Jackie asked why I had it, I told him I planned on staying."

Moore's response was that if Birtsas wanted to stay, he would have to learn how to pitch.

"As the season went on, I improved. I made less mistakes," Birtsas said. "I have to keep getting better. But who knows, I could win 20 games this year or hurt my arm and be out of baseball. It's really hard work."

During this off-season, Birtsas is working hard to keep that spot on the roster. He left last Sunday for Phoenix and spring training with the A's. This winter, he has done more than sit back and feel grateful to be a major league.

He spent a month in Florida getting in shape. While in Michigan, he did a lot of work at Vic Tanny's in Waterford working with Ken Callicutt, the former Detroit Lion. Weight training and a flexibility program were set up and Birtsas was able to drop some of the extra weight he put on.

"During the end of the season I was overweight," he said. "I was between 240 and 248. I wanted to play about 230. Oakland wanted me to report to spring training at 235, right now I'm at 237 and won't have any trouble getting down to that. Going to Florida was the best thing for me. I lost the weight but don't feel weak. I feel strong."

"I think I'll have a real good year," Birtsas said. "I'm mentally ready for it. I can't wait to start."

Karate classes

Clarkston Community Education is offering martial arts classes this spring for children and adults. Beginners' classes in Karate for boys and girls, ages 7-11, begin March 4.

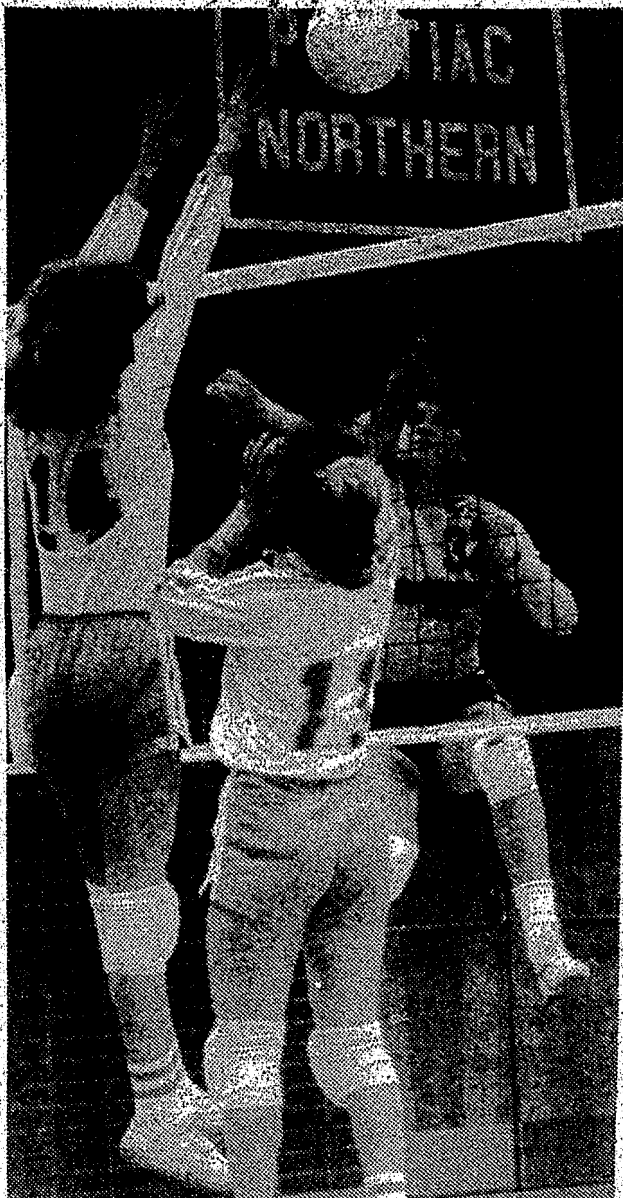

The four-week program meets Tuesday and Wednesday from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Pine Knob Elementary School.

Registration is open until Feb. 28 and the cost is $20 per person.

The adult classes in Karate begin March 3. This four-week program meets at Pine Knob Elementary School on Monday and Thursday from 6 to 7:30 p.m. for beginners and from 7:30 to 9 p.m. for advanced. There is also a Saturday session from 10 a.m. to noon for both groups.

The fees for the adult classes are $28 for the first family member, $50 for two family members and $65 for three family members. The deadline for registering is Feb. 28.

Kecia Powell connects for the Wolves in a recent match for the Clarkston varsity team.

Wolves douse Dragons' fire

By Dan Vandenhemel

The morning after Clarkston beat Lake Orion in volleyball, Wolves' coach Nancy Foster was doing a double-take.

She was watching the video of the match that had her varsity team dominate the visiting Dragons. By winning, 15-7, 15-10, the Wolves all but erased their earlier loss at Lake Orion.

"It's just as exciting the second time around," she said, adding that it was like "we just won the first game again. I'm getting all pumped up again."

Foster and her team had been looking toward the Feb. 12 match since they lost to the Dragons on Jan. 15. That defeat was the Wolves' first in the league in three years.

This year, Clarkston holds a 19-3 overall record and 5-1 in the league. Clarkston and Lake Orion are tied for the top spot in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

The Wolves had to control their energy for an additional hour because the Lake Orion bus was an hour late due to confusion in starting times. Foster said she didn't want to let that bother her team.

"Actually, I think it helped," she said. "The varsity team just sits around during the JV match and they can get a little tight. I just let them goof around a little and loosen up."

The Wolves netted 10 points in the first game before the Dragons had an opportunity to serve. Sue Kithil was server during 10 points in the 15-7 victory.

The second game was a lot closer, with Lake Orion holding the lead for most of the early part of the game. The Wolves eventually won when Michelle Taulbee took over the net.

"She had total control of the game," Foster said. "She had eight kills in the second game and three in the first. She was just putting the ball to the floor."

The biggest crowd ever to watch a volleyball match in Clarkston witnessed the Wolves' victory. An estimated 300 people cheered, jeered and clapped during the match.

"We were pumped going in," said Foster. "I know the crowd had a lot to do with that. That was the biggest crowd at a volleyball match I've seen since I played in college."

"The kids put signs up all over the school, there were announcements, they told friends about it. The parents were even wearing the kids' sweats," Foster said. "It was loud in there."

Spikers calmly take care of Lake Orion

By Dan Vandenhemel

Usually a volleyball team warms up during the half hour prior to a match. But not so for the Feb. 12 junior varsity match between Clarkston and Lake Orion.

The visiting Dragons arrived an hour late in Clarkston because of a mistake in starting times. Wolves' coach Gordy Richardson didn't want his team to burn up all their energy, so they sat in a circle.

"We were so pumped up, I was worried we'd sap our energy," Richardson said. "We just sat and relaxed."

The Wolves had good reason to be excited about playing the Dragons. Lake Orion handed Clarkston its only defeat in the league this season.

The Wolves used the home-court advantage and the biggest crowd ever to beat the Dragons in three games, 9-15, 16-14, 15-11.

After the Dragons won the first game pretty handily, the Wolves took the next two in dramatic fashion.

They led most of the second game until Lake Orion took a 14-12 lead. The Wolves' Laurie Clements came in and calmly served the next four points to give the home team the momentum it needed.

"It doesn't hurt to have your best server coming in, in that situation," Richardson said. "Laurie is a very consistent server. She may not be flashy, but she gets the job done."

Richardson said he never thought the Wolves would lose, but he wondered if they could win.

"The kids showed that they were tough," he said.

"They never let down. It's one thing to come back and get into the game, but it's another to come back and win."

The deciding game went back and forth with Jessica Shoup and Jane Selent keeping the Wolves in the match with their serving and spiking.

When Selent slammed the ball to the floor for the final point, both the Wolves' varsity and junior varsity teams converged in the center of the court for congratulations.

"There was a lot of feedback in that gym," Richardson said. "All the people and the noise was something. At no other time did these kids play before a crowd this big. I think it helped both teams."

CHS falls in semi-finals

Long match ends tourney

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Clarkston spikers made a long comeback but fell short of winning the tournament they hosted.

The Wolves lost in three games to Warren Woods Tower in the semi-finals. The eighth annual Clarkston Invitational on Feb. 15 was won by Sterling Heights Stevenson, one of the top-rated teams in the state.

It took an hour and a half for Clarkston to fall to Warren, 17-15, 6-15, 15-17.

"It was a fantastic match," Wolves' coach Nancy Foster said. "It was exciting. The rallies were really long with good hits and good saves. The kids played their hearts out."

In the third game against Warren, the Titans jumped out to a big 8-0 lead before Clarkston could score. Warren eventually held a 13-3 advantage when the Wolves started to come back.

"We just took it one point at a time," Foster said. "We'd get two points here, another here. We had a chance to win it, we led 15-14."

The Wolves placed first in their pool by beating Utica Eisenhower, Southfield-Lathrup and Flint Northern and splitting with Ferndale.

The Wolves had a number of players turn in good performances during the tournament. Maggie Gdula, Missy Odell, Wendy Cohoon, Michelle Taulbee and Kecia Powell all played well, Foster said.

"There were a lot of blocked shots," the coach said. "The better teams were at the tournament, so there was a lot of hitting and a lot of nice sets."

Wolves' wrestler moves on to regionals

By Dan Vandenhemel

Brent Gwisdalla moved a step closer to a state championship in wrestling.

The Clarkston High School senior came away with the 126-pound title at the district meet at Walled Lake Western, Feb. 15.

His next time on the mat will be Feb. 22 at the regional tournament at Flint Northern.

The last Wolves' wrestler to win a district championship was Greg Ellis in 1983.

"He's coming on at the right time," said Greg Gwisdalla, the Wolves' coach and Brent's father. "He's been battling a cold. Maybe he should stay sick, he's done pretty well."

As a team, the Wolves did not fare very well. The coach said the team finished about 16 out of 19 teams.

All the points the Wolves received came from Brent Gwisdalla.

"Everyone else was knocked out in the first round," the coach said. "No way did I expect that. It was just a question of getting some tough draws."

"He's coming on at the right time."

Coach Gwisdalla did point to some of the wrestlers who turned in good performances despite losing and ended their seasons. Mark Ice, Don Spring, John Knibbs, Scott Emery, Mike Norman and Dan Souheaver received the his praises.

Grapplers grap 13 awards

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Clarkston Wrestling Club came home with 13 medals when the club hosted a tournament Feb. 16.

The event at Sashabaw Junior High featured 13 teams and over 250 free-style wrestlers.

Clarkston club president and tournament director Dave Endreszl said about 600 people filled the school's gymnasium.

"It really went smooth," he said. "We had good cooperation between the parents and the coaches. We had a good turnout considering the weather. We expected about 300 wrestlers."

In the team standings, Clarkston finished just behind Roseville for second place.

Placing for Clarkston in the novice, 8-years-old-and-under division were Jason Tiefenback, 45 pounds, first; Matt Tiefenback, 55 pounds, first; and Jeremy Jones, 55 pounds, third.

In the experienced 8-and-under division, Ryan Mick, 45 pounds, took second place.

In the 9-10-year-old class, Brett Walter took first at 55 pounds; Corey Grant was second at 65 pounds; and Bryan Ladd was second at 80 pounds.

In the 11-12-year-old division, taking first places were Rueben DeLosRios at 100 pounds and Jacob Schell at 108 pounds; Eric Carlson was third at 100 pounds.

In the 13-14-year-old class, John Anderson at 100 pounds took first place, while Damon Michelson at 112 pounds and Jamie Young at 119 pounds each took a third place.

The tournament started with a weigh-in at 7:30 a.m. and finished about 5 p.m.

"It's really tough on these younger kids," Endreszl said. "With the weigh-in so early and wrestling, it makes for a long day."

"They were there and tried their hardest," he said. "You can't ask anything more of them."

Brent Gwisdalla has a 28-7 record this year. Besides the district title, he also won the Greater Oakland Activities League championship on Feb. 7.

Other highlights of the season for the wrestler are a second-place finish in the Royal Oak Kimball and the Grand Blanc tournaments and a third-place finish in the Oakland County tournament. Gwisdalla also recorded the fastest pin of the season for the Wolves with a 13-second victory over an opponent from Orchard Lake St. Mary's on Feb. 11.

"Brent is just having a fantastic senior year," said the coach.

Both CHS ski teams headed to finals

By Dan Vandenhemel

Nubs Nob is the next stop for girls' and boys' ski teams for Clarkston High School.

Both teams qualified for the state finals set for the ski resort near Petoskey on Feb. 24.

The Regional Tournament race at Pine Knob on Feb. 13 gave the Wolves the fast track to the finals. Both teams finished second. Only the top two finishers qualified for the finals.

The girls' standings had Andover in first with 87 points followed by Clarkston with 106 and Grand Blanc with 134. There were 13 teams in the competition.

The boys' race was won by Bloomfield Hills Lahser with 91 points with Clarkston in second with Brown was 14th in both events; Laura Howse was 20th and 28th; Suzy Learmont was 35th in the slalom; Kelly Ford was 31st in the giant slalom; and Beth Southby was 40th in the giant slalom.

For the boys, Steve Zoss was ninth in the slalom and first in the giant slalom. Mike May was fifth in the slalom; Mike Foyteck was 22nd and 25th; Jeff Roeser was 24th and 19th; Matt Ritter was 11 in the giant slalom; and Todd Roeser was 35 in the giant slalom.

"The key to doing well was standing up," Balzarini said. "Only one girl fell and only one boy fell. I think they realized what they have to do. They weren't racing each other but the other team. They push themselves against each other and they fall. They raced the other team and did pretty well."

Cougars sweep season series from Wolverines

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Sashabaw Cougars topped their undefeated season by squashing the Clarkston Wolverines in the final meet.

The Cougars won, 57-14, at home Feb. 13. When the two schools met the first time this year on Dec. 13, the Cougars came out on top, 59-27.

"I expected the score to be a lot closer this time," Cougar coach Jim Banes said. "It was a surprise to me, too. The score doesn't reflect how close the matches were. A lot of them could have gone either way. Fortunately, they went our way."

Winning for Sashabaw were Tom Buday at 79 pounds; Eric Wall at 87; Mike Statton at 94; John Anderson at 101; Dave London at 108; Jerry Lawrence at 122; Jamie Flanigan at 129; Chris Blimka at 141; Rich DeCiantis at 148; Lyster Ladd at 181; and Chris Parker at heavyweight.

Winning for Clarkston were Chris Luzi at 112 pounds; Eric Mackson at 132; Joel Martinez at 155; and Jason Campbell at 167.

This is not the first undefeated season for Banes at Sashabaw.

"I think we surprised some people out there."

—Don Balzarini

116 and Rochester Adams in third with 125 points. There were 15 teams in the boys' event.

"I think we surprised some people out there," Wolves' coach Don Balzarini said. "After the poor showing we had at the divisional, they didn't expect us to come back like we did."

"The Grand Blanc girls' team was undefeated coming in to the regionals. I think they kind of expected to go the finals. And the Adams boys' team beat us earlier in the year. I think they expected to beat us again, too."

Individually for the girls' team, Jennifer Farough was sixth in the slalom and seventh in the giant slalom; Lori Walker placed eighth and ninth; Serena

"I can't remember the last time," he said. "But it's been years and years, at least eight or 10 years anyway."

Wolverine coach Dick Moscovic was a gracious loser.

"They got a really nice team," he said. "We've got a relatively young team and I guess that was going to happen."

Henry Ford's Clarkston connection

Second installment: A special friendship results in a special car

Automotive giant Henry Ford left his mark not only on the car industry and Detroit, but on several small Michigan communities as well during the 1930s.

Fanny Flower Irish was befriended by auto magnate Henry Ford when he purchased the old Clarkston High School formerly owned by her father, Washington. As their friendship grew, Ford had a special Model A built for Fanny. She was born in 1888 and died in 1960. [Photo courtesy of James Bradford, Fanny's nephew.]

One of those communities was Clarkston, where Ford pursued plans to run a factory with water power from the Mill Pond.

While in Clarkston, Ford established a strong friendship with Fanny Flower Irish, daughter of former township supervisor Washington Irish. Ford admired her so much, that he had a one-of-a-kind Model A built for her from scratch.

Forty years after his death, and 25 years after hers, Clarkston residents recall with relish the unusual relationship the two shared.

Here is their story, gleaned from the minds of those who knew them.

It is the second in a series of three stories based on Ford's years in Clarkston.

By Carolyn Walker

The fierce independence of Miss Fanny Irish appealed to Henry Ford, or so the stories go.

In what may have been an unprecedented gesture for the auto magnate, Ford went the distance for his friendship with the Clarkston woman, ordering for her the creation of a one-of-a-kind car.

The car is now owned by Robert Beattie, son of Robert Beattie Sr., who owned a Ford dealership in town during Ford's years in Clarkston.

Beattie recalls those days when he was a youth. And with a twinkle in his eye, tells the tale of how he came to buy the car—and of his secret pact with Fanny.

Fanny was the daughter of Washington Irish, who had been supervisor of Independence Township for 26 years when he died in 1939.

At the time of his death, Washington was the owner of the former Clarkston High School, now known as Independence Township Hall.

Daughter Fanny lived in a building adjacent to the school. Her former home now houses the Oakland County Sheriff's Department sub-station.

After Washington's death, the buildings were purchased by Ford, who didn't want to move Fanny from the adjacent house, says Beattie.

He allowed her to stay on as an overseer of the property.

"She was on the payroll in Ford Motor Company and did nothing but stay at the house," Beattie says.

One day, Beattie says, Ford came to town and found Fanny painting the building. "Ford was so impressed that here was a lady (painting the house) with no financial interest in this," Beattie says, adding, "Her story was, 'I was so embarrassed.'"

Ford took a strong liking to Fanny and as their

"She called me and I immediately went up there, as we didn't know where the car was because it hadn't been seen for 10 years."

—Robert Beattie

friendship grew, asked her if she would drive if she had a car, Beattie says. Fanny replied that she could only drive a 1930 Model A.

Thus inspired, Ford returned to his plant, got in touch with his people and said, "We're going to build one more Model A," Beattie says.

One of Ford's employees, Mike Berling, was given the task of scouring the country for parts to build an authentic 1930 Model A. The year was 1942.

Berling was able to obtain the necessary parts and the '30s car was built 12 years after the fact with two deviations from the originals, according to Beattie.

It was given balloon tires in the fashion of cars built between 1935 and 1938 and the starter button was moved from the floor to the dash.

After completion, the car was delivered, unannounced, to the Beattie dealership.

It was delivered with a letter "telling my father to get the car ready, cleaned up, serviced and delivered to Fanny Irish," Beattie says. "It was a one-of-a-kind thing. She used to drive it around and around the circle at township hall to get the battery charged."

"She was very, very impressed with Mr. Ford and I think he was just as impressed with her."

Fanny drove the black coupe from 1942 until 1949, when she put it up on blocks for 10 years.

Beattie purchased the car from Fanny in 1959.

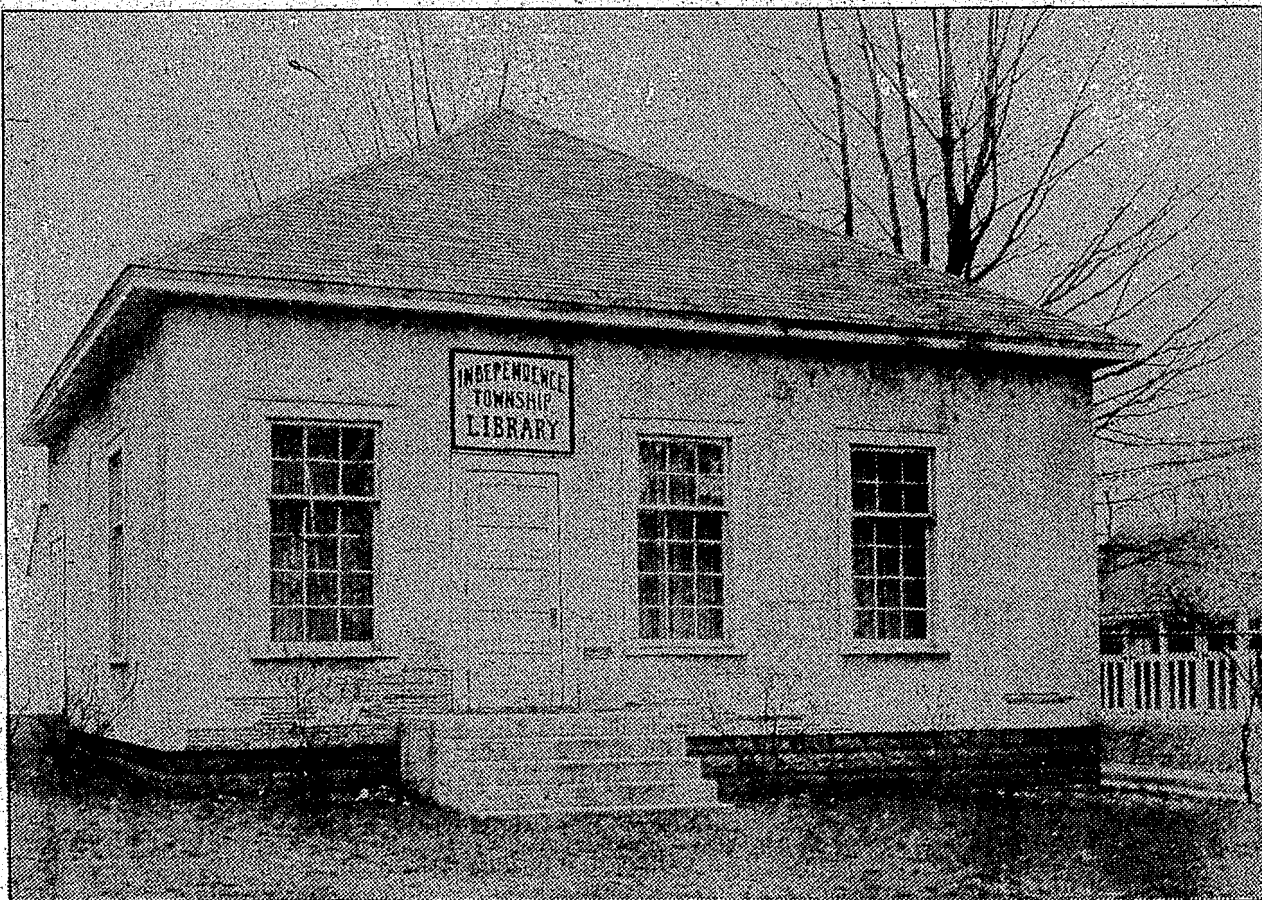

"She called me and I immediately went up there, as we didn't know where the car was because it hadn't been seen for 10 years," he says.

He offered to write Fanny a check for the car, but she wouldn't allow it because she knew the check would be cashed in Clarkston and word would spread about the price he paid for it, Beattie says.

He quotes Fanny, "I don't want, ever, for anyone to know what you paid for the car," she said.

"I don't think anybody has any idea in the world what I paid for the car," Beattie adds, refusing to

Wheel of fortune? Inventor hopes

By Carolyn Walker

Is the world ready for the Roll-A-Wheel?

Arthur Sampson and his wife Marguerite think so, though it all depends on the whim of the unpredictable public, they admit.

Arthur, an Independence Township resident, is the 79-year-old inventor of the Roll-A-Wheel toy which features a T-shaped driving stick and a wheel for pushing.

divulge the secret he has kept. "The car still runs beautifully today."

According to Beattie, and others who knew Fanny or Ford, it was common knowledge throughout Clarkston that Ford had given Fanny the car.

Rumor had it, at the time, that their relationship involved more than just friendship. Though the notion that they were lovers is vigorously denied by those who remember them.

According to Virginia Walter, who lived across the street from Fanny and whose husband Ron was the attorney for the Irish estate, Ford admired her "because she was a little independent." "That (rumor) couldn't have been farther from the truth," she says. "Anything beyond that, I just laugh."

Husband and wife Dorothy and Howard Huttenlocher, who knew the two, also remember the rumors.

"She was a character," says Dorothy, "a photographic artist. A charming person if you could break through."

"Henry took a liking to her and saw to it that she had a car."

"She was a nice person. I liked her very much," she says. "I considered her my friend."

It is based on the stick-and-hoop homemade toys of his youth and was inspired approximately seven years ago as he sat on his porch observing neighborhood children, he says.

"It hit me just like that!" he says, snapping his fingers for emphasis as he recalls getting the idea.

"Different ones (were) telling me, 'Why don't you get that on the market?'" Arthur added, speaking of his friends.

The notion appealed to him and he recently obtained the patent on his invention from the United States patent office in Washington, D.C.

In explaining the patent process, he displays drawings for similar toys dating back to the 1800s. None, however, are just like his.

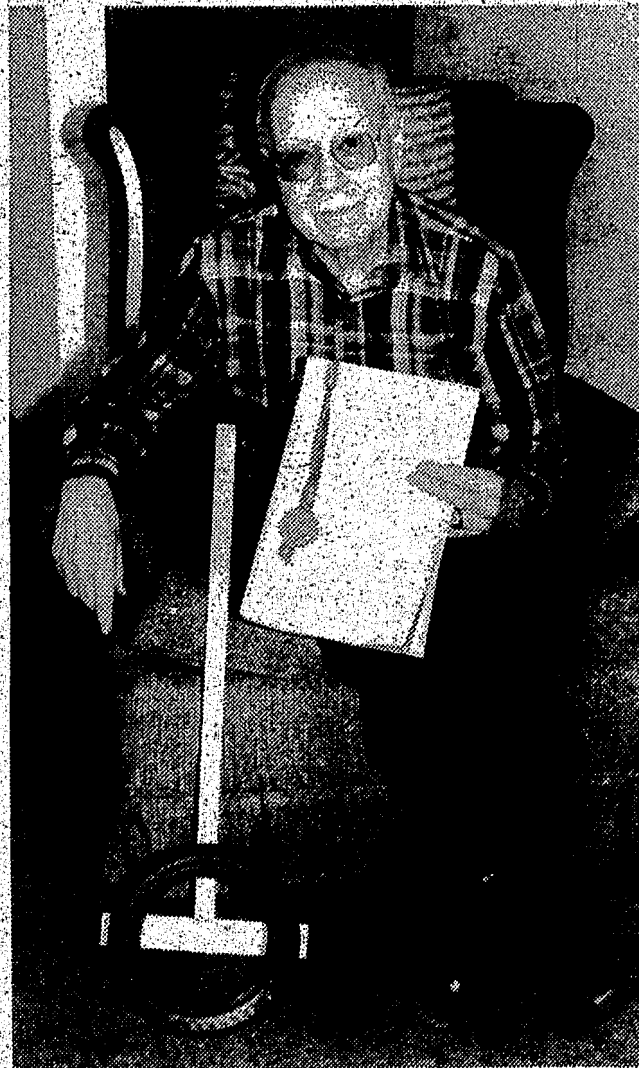

The next trick will be getting it marketed, Arthur says, adding that he is looking for someone to build and produce the toys. The patent allows for them to be made of a variety of materials.

Arthur compares the toy to the Frisbee or Hula-hoop, saying that the time must be right for it to catch on with the public. "Look at the money they make off them," he says.

"You never know how things are going to move," he says. "I think this will."

If his invention is successful, Marguerite says they will use the money to take a dream trip to Hawaii, where they have never been.

If it is not, "what have I lost?" Arthur adds, looking to the future with hope and a gleam in his eye.

At home in his Independence Township residence, Arthur Sampson poses with his Roll-A-Wheel and a copy of his United States patent for the invention.

RIPLEY'S MATERIAL: "It's kind of a 'believe it or not' thing," says Avon Lynn about these signs found 2,350 miles away in California. The Lynns' daughter, Gaye Harrison, took the snapshot of the street signpost near Los Angeles that bears the first names of her parents, Avon and Clark. "It was very strange," says Mrs. Lynn. "She was on her way to work when she came to the intersection and noticed there were both our names on the thing." The Lynns have lived on Holcomb Street in Clarkston 38½ years.

Valentine contest winners announced

Bags of silver half-dollars and art posters now belong to the winners of the make-a-valentine contest for junior high school students sponsored by the Independence Township Library.

The prizes were awarded in three categories: poetry, art and design, and wit and humor.

For poetry, Janice Pelath won first prize for her entry, and Jennifer Councilman took second prize.

In the art and design category, Jill Valuet's design of unicorns, rainbows and lovers received the top award. Pauline Roy's entry was the second-prize winner.

Top honors for wit and humor went to Leigh Bruggerman, and Ed Curry's creativity won the second place prize.

The entries will continue to be on display at the library at 6495 Clarkston Rd.

In service

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class David Garland is currently participating in a seven-month deployment to the Western Pacific and Indian oceans.

Garland will visit several ports while carrying out routine operations to test the readiness of the ship.

He is stationed aboard the aircraft carrier USS Enterprise, homeported in Alameda, Calif., with a crew of 5,400 officers and men.

A 1982 graduate of Clarkston High School, Garland joined the Navy in March 1983. He is the son of Donna Olafsson of Andersonville Road.

Awards for artists

A pair of Clarkston area artists are among the 54 award winners in "Art Visions '86," the 24th annual Oakland County Art Show.

Ronald Copes won a second-place award in the acrylic painting category.

Connie Lundy's watercolor won a third-place prize.

The awards were presented Feb. 14 in a ceremony at the Summit Place mall in Waterford Township.

Accolades for CHS band students

Clarkston High School students put their musical talents to the test Feb. 8 and won praise from their band director, Clifford Chapman.

"I feel the kids that performed did an outstanding job. They represented our school district very well," Chapman said.

He also praised the students for preparing during outside school time for the Michigan School Band Association District 4 Solo and Ensemble Festival.

The festival was held at Birmingham Seaholm High School. Each event was performed before a judge for ratings and qualification to enter the state festival on March 22.

Students were awarded ratings from first to fifth division, with those winning first division ratings qualifying for the state festival.

CHS students who won first division ratings include:

Solos: Kerri Bartlett, senior, clarinet; Vicki Geyer, junior, violin and vibraphone; Rachel Young, sophomore, piano and horn; Julie Monroe, senior, trumpet; Betsy Pfahler, senior, horn; Matt Hargett, senior, baritone; Erin Dupree, senior, clarinet; and Kim Millard, senior, piccolo.

Duets: Tammi Topous and Shari Coleman on flute; and Christy Hardy and Kim Millard on tuba and piccolo.

Clarinet quartet: Christy Bas, Kristin Reid, Ruth Webb and Michelle Sexton.

Percussion septet: Beth Hunn, Rod Swanson, Brendan McMullen, Jim Kiser, Jeremy Roberts, Dan Dobson and Vicki Geyer.

Second division ratings were won by:

Horn duet: Betsy Pfahler and Jennifer Karr.

New arrival

Mike and Lori Chatterton welcomed their third child into the world Jan. 6.

Shane Michael was born at Pontiac General Hospital. He weighed 8 pounds 5 ounces and measured 20 inches long.

Waiting for Shane at the family's Kropf Avenue, Springfield Township, home were Andrea, 7, and Melissa, 2.

Grandparents are Jack and Dee Cooper of Middle Lake Road, Clarkston, and Bud and Kay Chatterton of Trotter Lane, Springfield Township.

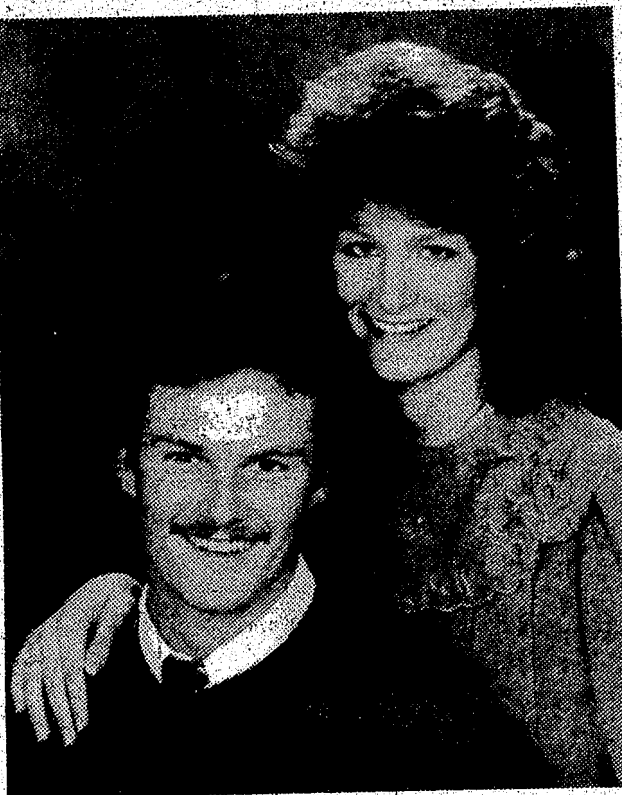

Great-grandparents are Ann Campbell of California, Leona Loveland of Springfield Circle, Springfield Township, Marie Cooper of Holly and Vivian Radenbaugh of Middle Lake, Clarkston.

Roberts, Carlile wed

David Roberts and Karon Carea Carlile were married Dec. 31 in Las Vegas, Nev.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bobbie Carlile of College Station, Texas. An airman first class in the United States Air Force, she works as a therapist at March Regional Hospital Air Force Base, Calif.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Roberts Sr. of Red Bud Lane, Brandon Township. He graduated from Brandon High School in 1982. An airman in the Air Force, he works as a therapist at Grant Medical Center, Travis Air Force Base, Calif.

Werner-Tatu

Kimberly Jo Werner and Gerald William Tatu are planning their wedding in May. The bride-elect is the daughter of Jeff Werner of West Bloomfield and Joanne Romano of Springfield Township. A graduate of Clarkston High School and Oakland Community College, she is employed by Total Insurance. Her fiancé is the son of Ronald and Thelma Tatu of Allen Road, Independence Township. A graduate of CHS and the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center, he is employed by Energy Shield Inc.

At college

Kristin Tiaht is on the dean's list for the fall semester at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo.

She resides on Twilight Court in Independence Township.

Arthur James Binard Jr. received the dean's award for academic excellence during the fall term at Colgate University, Hamilton, N.Y.

A former Independence Township resident, Binard graduated in 1985 from Ottawa Hills High School, Toledo, Ohio.

A freshman at Colgate, he is majoring in liberal arts.

He is the son of Sally Binard and the late Arthur James Binard.

Pfeiffer-Dennis

Mr. and Mrs. William Pfeiffer of Bridge Lake Road, Springfield Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sheri Lee, to Richard D. Dennis, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dell Dennis of Pontiac. The bride-to-be graduated from Springfield Christian High School and from Maranatha Baptist Bible College in Wisconsin. Her fiancé is a student at the Midwestern Bible College in Pontiac. They plan to be married in August.

From typewriter to backhoe

Linda Richardson takes over as Lakeview Cemetery superintendent

By Carolyn Walker

The question is: Will a feminine touch change Lakeview Cemetery?

For the first time in its 150-year history, Independence Township is sporting a female cemetery superintendent, Linda Richardson.

Richardson, former treasurer's assistant for the township, was promoted to the position last September. She replaces Bud Parker, who retired in December after 28 years of work.

"I guess it's the woman in me," says Richardson, 36, of her approach to the new job. "The first thing I wanted to do was redecorate."

She laughs at the thought, then says she is one of only "a few" women Head Sextons in the nation. However, she says, that's a title to which she will not answer.

"It was scary at first. When you've always worked with a typewriter . . . going to a backhoe," she says.

Richardson took the job because she was ready for a challenge and eager to work in the great outdoors.

"The hardest part was going from dressy clothes to uniforms," she says. "I'm adjusting to the situation."

"When I first decided to get this job my husband says, 'You're crazy.'"

"I like this. You get outside. You learn a lot of new things."

Her 11- and 13-year-old sons reacted with horror when they learned of her promotion, she says, especially at her wearing a work uniform and leather boots.

"My son says (shaking his head over his cereal), 'Oh, Mom, you've got to quit that job. You can't go around looking like that.'"

"Their friends kind of think it's neat. Since their friends think it's neat, it's all right," Richardson says, adding that her sons have mellowed their opinions as of late.

Richardson's responsibilities on the full-time job include grave digging, maintaining records, burials, pouring headstone foundations and ground maintenance.

She also oversees two male employees from the department of public works who assist her. She does not have a regular full-time staff, she says.

Although she has tolerated a few sexist remarks, her employees have been great, says Richardson.

"Their big thing was, 'You have to learn the backhoe,'" she says. "Everybody's real cooperative. Really, it's good because most of them know what they're doing anyway."

She laughs about making the change into a male-dominated world. "For this job, you do need muscles. My goal is to lift a 92-pound bag of cement," she says.

Richardson, a resident of Oxford, has other goals as well.

They include beautifying the grounds with flowers and plants, and possibly moving the baby burial site to a more peaceful area.

Her plans are born of compassion for the grieving and geared at making their loss more tolerable. "Try to get a little more sensitive," is how she puts it.

Linda Richardson, superintendent of Lakeview Cemetery, poses on the backhoe. Operating the machinery is part of a day's work for the enthusiastic township employee.

What's the real story on marijuana?

Dear Cat Paw:

I have a friend who drinks an awful lot and all the time. I've tried to help him. I've done his homework for him and given him some money and things like that. He still drinks and now I've got all his work to do. What should I do? He needs me.

A Friend

Dear Friend:

Don't cover up for problems caused by drinking. As long as problem drinkers do not have to face up to the consequences of drinking, there will be no desire on their part to do anything about their drinking problem.

The problem drinker must suffer pain before there is any desire to get help. You can help him best by allowing your friend to suffer the consequences of his behavior.

Learn all about alcoholism. This is a must! The more you know, the more you can help; and the more you know, the less frustrated you will be.

Dear Cat Paw:

What's the real story on marijuana? I can't believe that story on 400 drugs in a joint. I can control it and so can everyone else.

Tell Me

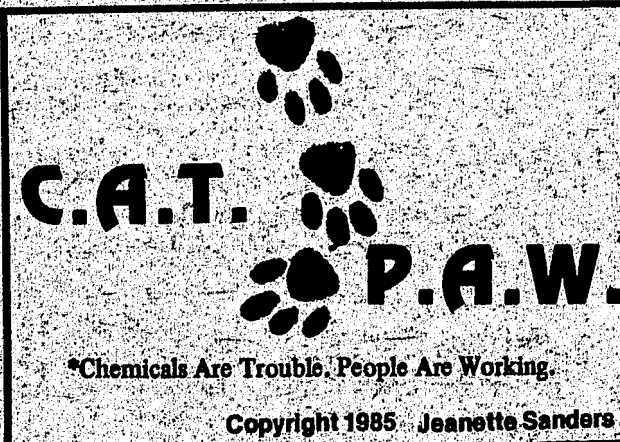

Dear Tell Me:

I'm glad you asked that question!

I just read a new book by Dr. Robert DuPont. In this book, DuPont says, "Marijuana, in its unburned state, contains over 400 separate chemicals.

"As the dried plant is burned to make smoke, it produces more than 2,000 chemicals which, with every puff, are brought into the smoker's body and distributed to every cell.

"Pause and think for a moment about what 2,000 uniquely different chemicals may possibly do to the human body. Imagine, if you can, the prodigious research task required to identify and understand the far-reaching effects of such an intake.

"Think especially about the problem of understanding the long-term effects of prolonged use of this multichemical drug."

As research progresses, marijuana is emerging in a new light. The benign image of marijuana and its use is outdated and irrelevant to today's marijuana problem.

The old data and old attitudes are not only wrong, they are dangerous.

Dear Cat Paw:

Dear No Name:

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE NOTICE OF PROPOSED ZONING ORDINANCE AMENDMENTS

At a special meeting on February 11, 1986, the Township Board of the Charter Township of Independence introduced amendments to Section 5.13 of the Township Zoning Ordinance, as amended.

The proposed zoning ordinance amendments pertain to the landscape requirements of the zoning ordinance.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS REGARDING LANDSCAPE ORDINANCE SECTION 5.13 LANDSCAPING

INTENT: The intent of this section is to promote the public's health, safety and general welfare by minimizing noise, air, and visual pollution and improving the appearance of off-street parking and other vehicular use areas thereby reducing conditions which lead to blighting influences. This is to be accomplished by:

1. Requiring buffering between non-compatible land uses.
2. Regulating the appearance of property abutting public rights-of-way.
3. Protecting and preserving the appearance, character, and value of residential neighborhood areas.
4. Preventing soil erosion and soil depletion.
5. Promoting soil water retention, thereby helping to prevent flooding.

APPLICATION: This section shall apply to all uses and developments to which site plan review is required under Section 5.12 and also to all subdivision and condominium developments.

1. DEFINITIONS

The words and phrases used in this section shall be defined as follows:

A. Conflicting Land Use: Any situation which results in a residential use abutting any office, commercial, industrial, research, parking, or any non-residential use shall be deemed a conflicting land use.

B. Enforcement Official: The Township's representative(s) authorized to enforce this ordinance.

C. Off-Street Parking/Storage: An area not in the public right-of-way having capacity for more than four (4) motor vehicles.

D. Opacity: The state of being impervious to sight. This state will be measured by observation of any two square yard area of landscape screen between one (1) foot above the established grade of the area to be concealed and the top or the highest point of the required screen. The plantings must meet this standard based upon reasonably anticipated growth over a period of three (3) years. (See subsection II 2. e. of Section 5.13.)

E. Parking Space: An area set aside and designated for parking and storage of a motor vehicle.

F. Plant Material: A collection of living evergreen and/or deciduous woody stemmed trees, shrubs, vines, and ground cover.

1. Large Tree: A self-supporting deciduous and/or evergreen woody species with a well-defined central stem, normally growing to a minimum height of thirty-five (35) feet at maturity.

2. Small Tree: A self-supporting deciduous and/or evergreen woody species with well-defined stem, or multi-stems, normally growing to a maximum height of thirty-five (35) feet at maturity.

3. Large Shrub: A self-supporting, deciduous and/or evergreen woody species, normally branched near the base, bushy, and not more than fifteen (15) feet in height at maturity.

4. Small Shrub: A self-supporting deciduous and/or evergreen woody species, normally branched near the base, bushy, and not more than six (6) feet in height at maturity.

5. Vine: A type of woody stemmed plant chosen for its habit of climbing, creeping, twining around supports and flat surfaces.

6. Ground Cover: A low-growing deciduous and/or evergreen species chosen for a very low, spreading green cover, usually dense and rapid growing, reaching a height of three (3) feet or less at maturity.

Note: All plant material must be hardy to Oakland County and Independence Township.

G. Greenbelt: An open landscaped area intended to act as a transition between a right-of-way and/or thoroughfare and an existing or proposed development.

H. Buffer: A landscaped area composed of living plant material, a wall or berm, or a combination thereof for the purpose of visual screening and/or noise reduction between conflicting land uses and/or between a thoroughfare and an existing land use.

I. Berm: A landscaped earthen undulation which gently blends into surrounding terrain, with slopes not to exceed a 1:5 gradient. The Planning Commission may allow a gradient no steeper than 1:3 if it appears that there shall be no erosion, maintenance, or related problems.

II. LANDSCAPE ELEMENTS

This section is devoted to development, installation, and maintenance of those areas designated for landscaping and/or greenbelts. This will include greenbelts, parking lots, buffers, site landscaping, and any other area designated for landscape treatment.

A. Plant Material Elements

1. Quality: Plant material and grasses shall be of generally acceptable varieties and species, free of insects, and diseases, hardy to Oakland County, conform to the current minimum standard of the American Association of Nurserymen, and shall have proof of any required governmental regulations and/or inspections.

2. Composition: A mixture of plant material (evergreen and deciduous trees and shrubs) is recommended as a protective measure against insect and disease infestation. A limited mixture of hardy species is recommended rather than a large quantity of different species to produce a more aesthetic, cohesive design and avoid a disorderly appearing arrangement.

3. Major Plant Types: The following lists represent plant and landscape materials approved for usage in Independence Township subject to compliance with applicable size and spacing requirements.

TYPE (SPECIES) COMMON NAME	MINIMUM SIZE ALLOWABLE	MAXIMUM ON-CENTER SPACING

Plaques awarded to four for time

Three resigning members of the Independence Township Planning Commission and Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) were rewarded with plaques.

David Katz and Lou Hewko, both members of the commission who left their posts this year, and Roy Haeusler, who is stepping down from the ZBA, were given the awards by Supervisor Frank Ronk to commemorate their years of service to the township.

The plaques were presented at the Feb. 11 township board meeting.

David Kithil, who recently moved from the state and left his post on the Clarkston school board, is to receive an award as well for serving on the cable casting board.

At time of planting, small deciduous shrubs shall not be less than 24-30" in spread if they have a spreading form or 24" in height if they have an upright form.

I. GROUND COVER

Periwinkle	2" peat pot	2 plants/sq. ft.
Baltic Ivy	2" peat pot	2 plants/sq. ft.
Euonymus varieties	2" peat pot	2 plants/sq. ft.
Hall Honeysuckle	2" peat pot	2 plants/sq. ft.
Pachysandra	2" peat pot	2 plants/sq. ft.

Ground cover may be planted bare root by flats at appropriate planting time or in two gallon containers.

J. VINES

Euonymus varieties	2 gal. container	1 plant/5 sq. ft.
Virginia Creeper	2 gal. container	1 plant/5 sq. ft.
Baltic Ivy	2" peat pot	1 plant/5 sq. ft.
Wisteria	2 gal. container	1 plant/5 sq. ft.

Vines may be planted in intervals of four (4) feet on center for wall surfaces or to obtain 80% opacity within three years of planting.

Note 1. Caliper readings on main stem twelve (12) inches above the ground on trees only.

Note 2. Plant material (excluding grasses) shall not be located within four (4) feet of the property line, or as approved by the Independence Township Planning Commission.

Note 3. Where plants are placed in two (2) or more rows, plantings may be staggered in rows.

Note 4. Trees not suggested for use: Box Elder, Catalpa, Soft Maples (red & silver), Poplar, Elm, Horse Chestnut (nut-bearing), Jack Pine, Willow, Tree of Heaven.

B. Parking Lot Landscaping - Each separate landscaped area within a parking lot shall be adequately planted and maintained and shall be located in such a manner as to promote the following: divide and break up the expanse of pavement; define parking areas; designate vehicular circulation; and, separate parking lots from off-street parking. The minimum landscaped space within a designated parking area shall be fifty (50) square feet or a minimum of three (3) feet from the backside of the curb or planting edge to the center of the truck of the proposed tree or shrub, whichever is the greater area. In addition, there shall be one (1) tree for every eight (8) parking spaces in all commercial, industrial, and residential (multiple and institutional) land uses.

C. Greenbelt/Buffer Landscaping Requirements

1. Greenbelt: A strip of land, minimum width determined by the frontyard setback of its zoning classification, located between the abutting right-of-way of a public street, freeway, or major thoroughfare, shall be landscaped with a minimum of one (1) tree not less than twelve (12) feet in height or a minimum caliper of 2-1/2 inches (whichever is greater at the time of planting) for each thirty (30) lineal feet, or major portion thereof, of frontage abutting said right-of-way. The remainder of the greenbelt shall be landscaped in grass, ground cover, shrubs, and/or other living plant material.

Access ways from public rights-of-way through required landscape strips shall be permitted, but such access ways shall not be subtracted from the lineal dimension used to determine the minimum number of trees required unless such calculation would result in a violation of the spacing requirement set forth in this section.

2. Landscape Buffer: Where conflicting land uses occur, there shall be a landscape buffer as follows:

a. A strip of land a minimum of fifteen (15) feet in depth located between the residential use and the conflicting land use/s.

b. One (1) tree for each thirty (30) feet lineal, or fraction thereof, located between the residential use and adjacent conflicting land use/s, located so as not to create a vehicular sight-distance obstruction.

c. A hedge or other plant material barrier, wall, berm, or any combination of these landscape elements forming a continuous screen at least four (4) feet in height at all points. If a non-living barrier is used, living plant material for each ten (10) feet lineal will be required on both sides of the screen. The screen shall be located so as not to create a vehicular sight-distance obstruction.

d. Grass or ground cover shall be planted and maintained on all portions of the required landscape strip not occupied by any other landscape material.

e. The landscape buffer shall be planted in such a manner as to provide a minimum opacity of 80 percent in summer and 60 percent in winter.

D. Site Landscaping - In addition to any landscape greenbelt and/or parking lot required by this section, twelve (12) percent of the site area (excluding existing and/or proposed thoroughfare right-of-way) shall be developed as landscaped open space.

Landscaping used for storm drainage purposes, such as drain course or retention areas in front or side yards, may be included as a portion of the required landscaped area not to exceed five (5) percent of the site area subject to the following conditions:

1. Areas having slopes in excess of 1:5 shall not be included in the required five (5) percent.

2. Areas within fenced drain courses or retention ponds shall not be included in the required five (5) percent.

3. Drain courses or stream bottoms shall not be included in the required five (5) percent. Storm drainage areas included in the required five (5) percent shall be landscaped with material which will not be damaged by the intermittent water conditions, and shall be maintained in a healthy, growing, and maintainable condition.

Landscaped areas shall be countable only when such are 200 square feet or more in area, and when typically 5 feet or more in width.

E. Existing Trees - If existing plant material is labeled "To Remain" on site plans by the applicant or required by the Planning Commission, protective techniques, such as, but not limited to, fencing or barriers placed at the dripline around the perimeter of the plant material shall be installed during construction. No vehicle or other construction equipment shall be parked or stored within the dripline of any plant material intended to be saved. Other protective techniques may be used provided such techniques are approved by the Enforcement Official.

In the event that healthy trees which are used to meet the minimum requirements of this ordinance or those labeled to remain are cut down, destroyed, damaged, or excavated at the dripline, as determined by the Enforcement Official, the contractor shall replace them or place in escrow with the Township an amount equal to the value of the trees. This amount shall be determined from the Michigan Shade Tree Evaluation chart, or other acceptable comparable publication, maintained by the Building Department, for the material destroyed as a result of construction damage. The escrow may be used by the Township to replace the trees or released when the owner or developer replaces the trees.

F. Installation, Maintenance, and Completion - All landscaping required by this ordinance shall be planted prior to obtaining a Certificate of Occupancy (C. of O.) or a surety bond, letter of credit, and/or certified check shall be placed in escrow in the amount of the cost of landscaping to be released only after landscaping is completed, unless specific time requirements are stated in the approval of the site plan.

All landscaping and landscape elements shall be planted, and earth moving or grading performed, in a sound workman-like manner and according to accepted good planting and grading procedures.

The owner of property required to be landscaped by this ordinance shall maintain such landscaping in a reasonably healthy condition, free from refuse and debris. All unhealthy and dead material shall be replaced within one year or the next appropriate planting period, whichever comes first. All landscaped areas shall be provided with a readily available and acceptable water supply.

III. LANDSCAPE SITE PLANS

A detailed landscape plan shall be required for review and approval by the Planning Commission prior to issuance of a building permit. The planting plan shall include, but not necessarily be limited to, the following items:

A. Location, spacing, size and root type (bare root (BR) or balled and burlapped (BB)) and descriptions for each plant type proposed for use within the required landscape area.

B. Minimum scale 1" = 30'

C. Existing and proposed contours at intervals not to exceed two (2) feet.

D. Typical straight cross section including slope, height and width of berms and type of ground cover, or height and type of construction of wall, including footings.

E. Significant construction details to resolve specific site conditions, such as tree wells to preserve existing trees or culverts to maintain natural drainage patterns.

F. Planting and staking details in either text or drawing form to ensure proper installation and establishment of proposed plant materials.

All planting and site plans of commercial, industrial or institutional use of more than one (1) acre shall be sealed by a registered landscape architect.

It is recommended that all landscape plans to be prepared by a registered landscape architect or similar professional for all other uses.

Single family residences of one primary structure per lot shall not be included in Section 5.13, LANDSCAPING.

The proposed zoning ordinance amendments will be voted on March 4, 1986, at the Township Hall Annex, 90 North Main, Clarkston, MI 48016. A complete copy of the proposed text amendments is available at the Clerk's Office, 90 North Main, Clarkston, Michigan, 48016, Monday through Friday, from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Respectfully Submitted

Soprano concert

The music department of the Clarkston United Methodist Church presents Connie Grubaugh, soprano, in a recital Sunday, Feb. 23.

The performance is the second in a series of musical presentations to be offered at the church this season.

Grubaugh has performed as a soloist with the Warren, West Bloomfield and Pontiac-Oakland symphonies, and she has appeared with the Michigan Light Opera Company.

Baseball fans will remember her renditions of the national anthem at Tiger Stadium during the 1984-85 season.

Connie Grubaugh.

Pianist Barbara Steele will accompany Grubaugh during her Clarkston performance.

Proceeds from the concert will be used to purchase additional handbells and robes for the church's choirs.

The donation is $5, which includes tea and dessert. The church is located at 6600 Waldon Rd., Independence Township. Call 625-2192 for more information.

Bartenders blend contest, good deed

Several bartenders in Clarkston area eateries are vying for the title of Bartender of the Year.

The list includes Mike Applegate of the Back Court Restaurant in the Deer Lake Racquet Club, Dawn Johnson of the Clarkston Cafe, Steve Gabriel of the Nickelodeon Restaurant and Norris Miller of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club.

The state-wide contest, which involves 50 establishments in Oakland County, is sponsored by the Oakland County American Cancer Society, WWW Radio and Stroh's Brewery. It began Feb. 3 and continues through Saturday, Feb. 22.

The goal is to raise money for the American Cancer Society by having bar patrons cast a "$1-one vote" donation at the establishments.

Go meatless for Lent

Betty Wagner

Some religious denominations encourage their members to eat meatless meals on certain days during Lent.

Others following dietary guidelines to reduce fat consumption choose to eat red meat only once or twice a week. And then there are vegetarians.

Meatless meals needn't be uninteresting nor unfilling. Daily protein requirements can easily be met with meatless meals.

Complete protein sources are meat, fish, dairy products and eggs. Plant foods provide incomplete protein, but when eaten in certain combinations, they can provide complete usable protein and no cholesterol.

Generally, nutritionists are unconcerned about Americans developing protein deficiency; most of us eat much more than we need. Any daily excess cannot be stored as protein, but it can be stored as fat.

Lenten meals are efficiently prepared and served using the microwave. Macaroni and Cheese can be prepared and served in the same dish, saving clean-up time and energy.

Tuna Shortcake is quick and convenient with the vegetable cooked in its box and the egg quickly hard-cooked in a custard cup.

Vegetable Quiche cooks in one-quarter to one-third the time in the microwave. And Split Pea Soup, even though it requires the same amount of time to rehydrate the dried beans, keeps the cook from being a pot watcher and may be prepared and served in the same container.

Macaroni and Cheese

Developed by Fran Culver and reprinted with permission.

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 1/2 cups uncooked elbow macaroni
- 1 cup milk
- 1 1/4 cup water
- 1 cup shredded sharp cheese

- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- Buttered crumbs

Place butter in a 3-quart Pyrex dish. Microwave at high power for 20 to 30 seconds. Add flour and microwave at high for 20 to 30 seconds or until bubbly.

Stir in milk, water and macaroni. Cover. Cook at high power for 7 minutes, stirring once. Let stand, covered, for 5 minutes.

Add the cheese and cook at high power for 4 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes. Top with buttered crumbs or wheat germ.

Tuna Shortcake

From "Cooking with Confidence in Your Microwave" published by Campbell Soup Co., 1980, Page 91.

- 1/2 can Campbell's cream of mushroom soup and enough milk to make 7 ounces
- 1 3-ounce can tuna, drained and flaked
- 1 package frozen peas, broccoli or cauliflower
- 1 hard-cooked egg
- Seasonings to taste
- Hot biscuits or patty shells

Pierce frozen vegetable package. Place on paper towel lined paper plate. (Check manufacturer's information for usability of both in the microwave oven.) Microwave for 2 minutes.

Separate egg and place each portion in a custard cup. Pierce yolk with a toothpick. Cover both with plastic wrap. Place both in oven and microwave at high power 45 seconds to 1 minute.

Remove yolk when cooked. Continue cooking white if necessary. Yolk usually cooks faster than the white. Chop.

Combine soup, milk, vegetable, chopped egg and seasonings in a 1-quart round Pyrex casserole. Microwave at high power for 3 to 4 minutes or until desired serving temperature. Serve over hot biscuits or patty shells.

Split Pea Soup

- 1-pound package split peas
- 2 bay leaves
- 3 to 4 peppercorns

- 1 cup chopped carrots
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 6 to 7 cups hot water

Rinse, sort and drain split peas. Place in a 5-quart Pyrex dish or microwave soup tureen. Add hot water, spices and vegetables. Cover.

Microwave at high power 9 to 10 minutes. Reduce to 50 percent power, or medium, and cook 90 minutes or until tender. Stir at least three times and add more water if needed.

Serve with corn muffins for a complete protein meal.

Rice and Broccoli Quiche

Developed by Carol Parker and reprinted with permission.

- 1 cup cooked rice
- 4 ounces grated cheddar or swiss cheese
- 3 eggs
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup onion, chopped
- 1/4 cup chopped leftover broccoli
- 1/2 cup evaporated milk
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 baked pie shell
- Paprika

Precook onions for 30 seconds to prevent quiche from weeping. Layer rice, broccoli, cheese and onions in pre-baked shell.

Beat eggs, evaporated milk and seasonings together and pour over top of mixture.

Microwave at 80 percent power or medium heat for 12 minutes. To reduce fat content of quiche, eliminate pie shell.

Home economist Betty Wagner, an Independence Township resident, is a graduate of West Virginia University. She teaches microwave cooking classes at Sears at the Oakland Mall and through the Clarkston Community Education Department.

PRAYER TO THE Holy Spirit. Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my ideal, you who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me, I, in this short dialog, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you, no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank You for You Love toward me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day your wish will be granted; no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Wish granted. K.E. IILX28-1p open water, where they will practice cold water rescue techniques.

After stomping on thin ice, fire department Capt. Neil Ashley plunges into the frigid water.

To the rescue

If someone goes through the ice, call the Independence Township Fire Department.

They're ready to take action in their brand new, bright orange cold water-rescue suits.

"You can't make a rescue when you're soaking wet and freezing cold, and with these suits, you don't have to worry about that," said fire department Capt. Steve Ronk, who led the first training session last week in Clarkston's Mill Pond.

The fire department purchased three suits, at $289 apiece. One size fits all. They were selected after four firefighters worked with the Coast Guard in Toledo, Ohio.

Ronk compares the suits to large life preservers.

The only other fire department in Oakland County with similar protective suits is West Bloomfield, he said.

Once in the water, the cold water rescue suit keeps rescuers warm and dry—and floatable.

Ashley demonstrates by splashing about while doing the backstroke.

Firefighters Mike Fahrner and Larry Wormnest [in water] practice a rescue mission on the north end of the Mill Pond off Miller Road. The fire department purchased three suits after four firefighters met with the Coast Guard for instruction and advice.
