Village to fine parents if kids drink

By Carolyn Walker

The Village of Clarkston has joined Independence Township in its quest to limit drug and alcohol abuse by minors.

On Monday night, members of the village council voted unanimously to adopt an ordinance that will hold adults responsible for liquor served to minors in their homes.

In the absence of parents, the ordinance could be applied against persons 16 years old or older who supply the substances.

Council members contend the ordinance would act as a deterrent to such behavior, especially at graduation parties.

Before passing the ordinance, several board members discussed lowering the responsible-age limit to 14 years.

But audience member Frank Millard, an attorney and former police officer, cautioned the council that they would have difficulty ticketing and enforcing a citation against a youth that young.

A motion to raise the responsible-age limit to 17 died for lack of a majority vote.

Adults violating the ordinance could face 90 days in jail and/or a $500 fine in 52nd District Court.

A similar ordinance was passed by the Independence Township Board of Trustees on Feb. 11. That ordinance holds persons 17 years old and older responsible.

Flu worse than usual

But ready to abate

By Julie LePere

The influenza season should be just about finished, said area physicians and school authorities.

This winter season brought what is considered by some to be the worst flu season ever.

Pediatrician James O'Neill first reported two weeks ago that the flu was diminishing. However, he is still seeing many cases in his Clarkston practice and at the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center.

"This has probably been the worst winter (flu season) we've ever seen," said O'Neill. "It's never-ending. It hits all age groups."

Ages 20 to 30 may be the hardest group hit, he

We're 150

All are invited to party

Independence Township is going to party down.

With the advent of the township's 150th birthday this year, plans are in the works to sponsor several sesquicentennial activities including a birthday party at the Clarkston Milk Mart.

The activities are being organized by a sesquicentennial board and three-member advisory committee comprised of Carol Balzarini, Carol Lickman and Rita Burdick.

According to Balzarini, the party will be kicked off with the birthday party to be held from 5-9 p.m. on March 24—the same day the township was created into the state archives in 1836.

The party is open to the public and tickets for the event will be $1. Balzarini said cake, balloons, coffee and punch will be provided.

"What we want is a party that everyone can come to," Balzarini said. "It's got to be neat."

In conjunction with the party, the sesquicentennial board is seeking the township's oldest living resident to serve as honorary chairperson. Balzarini said.

Plans are to have the resident make his/her debut during the birthday party.

Other activities are being planned including a marathon, but have not been confirmed, she said.

Springfield's celebration begins

By Kathy Greenfield

There's plenty of pride involved in the Birthday Kick-Off Sesqui-Celebration for Springfield Township's 150th anniversary.

The party is planned Sunday, March 2, at the Springfield Oaks Activities Center on Andersonville at Hall roads. Admission and parking are free.

Included in activities planned from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. are a fine art, collectibles, antiques and pictorial cancellation show and sale; musical programs at 2, 3 and 4 p.m.; demonstrations by quilters, and food.

"We have a fabulous amount of talent. We want to show off what Springfield has to offer," says Helen Vergin, sesqui-coordinator. "Clay pottery, watercolors, every kind of fine art you can think of will be on display and for sale, in most cases."

On display will be collections of Jadette glassware; Reamers used for making citrus fruit juice and made of wood, metal and glass; Floblue glassware; oil lamps; and miniatures.

Party-goers will also be able to purchase special pictorial cancellations marking the township's 150th birthday for $1.

"It's taken us over a year to get this special pictorial envelope ready," said Vergin.

The Mt. Clemens Stamp Club assisted in designing the collector's envelope. Each will be hand-canceled on the spot at a temporary philatelic station.

"The wagon makes it special," said Vergin, referring to the design of the cancellation mark. The stamp is "canceled" just at the tip of the stamp. A collector doesn't want that stamp hardly touched.

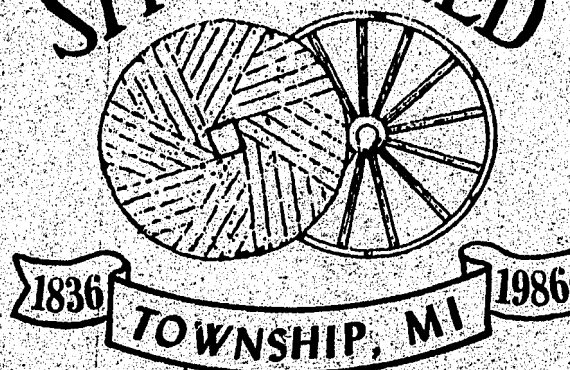

Vergin also encourages those planning to attend the sesquicentennial kick-off party to begin the day at a pancake breakfast at the nearby Davisburg Masonic Temple at 12800 Andersonville Rd., across from the Davisburg Baptist Church.

The all-you-can-eat pancake feast begins at 8 a.m. and continues until people stop coming. The cost is $3 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12.

The Birthday Kick-Off begins a string of celebrations.

Also on the list are a business and garden show in April, walkathon in May, road rally in July, reunion of Davisburg's namesake Davis family in August, four-evening history pageant in September, parade and quilting show in October, open house at Hillside Farm in November, and Christmas Craft Fest and banquet in December.

Sesquicentennial SPRINGFIELD

"Neighbor For Neighbor, Inc."

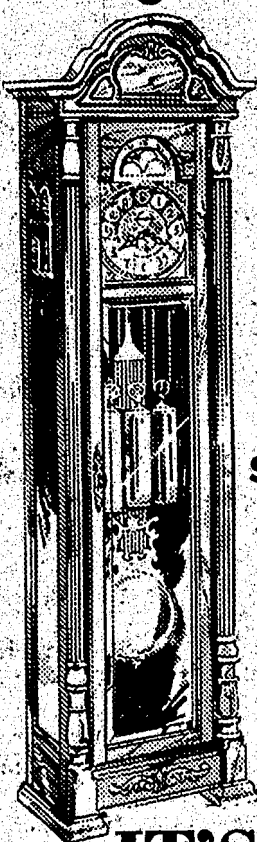

A special pictorial envelope, reproduced here in its actual size, has been designed for Springfield Township's 150th birthday celebration. Those who attend the township's Birthday Kick-Off party on Sunday, March 2, can have the collector's item hand-canceled at a temporary philatelic station. Each will include one of four horse stamp designs.

Who gets the interest?

Schools, township try to settle tax question

By Carolyn Walker

A recent lawsuit over interest money earned on school taxes has local officials just a little bit worried. They are attempting to avert such a happening in Clarkston.

In the lawsuit, the Michigan Court of Appeals told the Grand Rapids government to return to its school district years-worth of interest money generated from school taxes before the tax revenue was turned over to the schools.

Similarly, taxes for portions of Lake Orion, Waterford and Clarkston school districts are collected by Independence Township, said Treasurer John Lutz.

Any interest money is then kept and banked by the township, while the principle is returned to the districts after up to 14 to 28 days.

The local school districts have not indicated that they will sue Independence for return of the interest money, Lutz said, adding that efforts are being made to avoid that possibility.

School and governmental leaders have been meeting privately on the matter, he said, adding that the keeping of interest money is not illegal.

"Oakland County treasurers have been following the letter of the law," he said.

Clarkston School Superintendent Milford Mason agreed. "We certainly are aware of the court case that brought this all about in Grand Rapids," he said. "I have to say . . . the township officials asked to meet with us to see if some resolution of the matter can be found."

"What it will be is very difficult to say."

"Frankly, I'm pleased that our township officials are willing to talk about it. I realize at the same time, they've been able to utilize that (money)."

Mason went on to agree that demanding the return of the money could be devastating for the township's general fund, even though the school district could use it.

Last year, $75,000 in interest was generated, according to Lutz, who added if the money was taken from the general fund, it would eventually have to be made up by the taxpayers to keep the fund going.

In a related matter, members of the Independence Township Board on Feb. 18 adopted a resolution agreeing with a house bill that would allow municipalities to keep the interest money and deposit in their general funds.

The bill was proposed by Rep. Willis Bullard (R-Milford).

Canine license cost goes up

Now's the time to make your pooch legal, as dog licensing time is here once again.

Oakland County 1986 dog licenses, required by law, are now available from local municipalities; at the Oakland County Animal Care Center at 1700 Brown Rd., Auburn Hills; or at a rabies vaccination clinic in March.

In Independence Township, the bell-shaped licenses can be purchased at the township hall on Main Street between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

In Springfield Township, licenses can be purchased between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the township hall on Broadway Street.

Priced at $5 for spayed or neutered animals and $7.50 for other dogs, licensing costs are scheduled to increase to $15 on March 1.

To secure a license, any owner in Michigan must produce a certificate that his or her dog, aged 6 months or older, has been vaccinated with an approved rabies vaccine.

Rabies vaccinations and valid certificates can be obtained from veterinarians or at a rabies vaccination clinic at the Waterford Township Operations Building, 5170 Tubbs Rd., on Saturday, March 22, from noon to 4 p.m.

The clinic is open to all Oakland County residents.

In addition, according to information supplied by the county, the animal control unit can help reunite lost dogs with their owners if they have been properly licensed.

Once a dog is licensed, owner information and the dog's description is placed in a central computer, where the information is available to all police agencies.

The licenses are valid until Dec. 31, 1986.

In addition, the fees for collecting stray dogs are scheduled to increase from the current $20 to $25 to a maximum cost of $50.

Looks to be ruled

The look of Independence Township may be modified if a new landscape amendment is approved by the Independence Township Board.

Hoping to minimize the noise, air and visual pollution throughout Independence, the planning commission proposed the amendment to the township board Feb. 11.

It is geared at improving the appearance of off-street parking areas and business properties along public right-of-ways and the prevention of soil erosion, according to Kenneth Delbridge, director of the building and planning department.

The proposal was researched and prepared by a subcommittee of the planning commission consisting of David Katz, Joseph Figa and Carol Balzarini.

The three reviewed approximately seven similar ordinances in other communities for suggestions, said Balzarini, who is also a trustee on the township board.

Having had its first reading last week as required under Independence's charter township status, the proposal must be published before it can be acted upon at a future meeting.

Gloria Bellairs offers a supplemental feeding to one of the newborn quadruplet lambs. Born early Friday morning, the quads include three males and one female.

After two days, the sheep and their newborns are moved to a fenced-off area in the barn before joining the flock. It's not uncommon to see a lamb nestled on its mother's back for warmth and comfort, Gloria says.

It's quads for Romney lamb

First quadruplets at farm

By Kathy Greenfield

A Romney ewe produced a pleasant surprise Feb. 21 at Hillside Farm in Springfield Township.

The sheep's four lambs weighed in at 8 pounds apiece.

"It's really unusual to have quadruplets. Two are fairly common. Triplets arrive once in 400 or 500 births," said Gloria Bellairs, owner of the farm with her husband George.

In the 15 years Romney sheep have been bred at the farm, this is their first set of quads. Raising sheep at the farm began with 4-H projects.

"The kids started all this, and then the kids grew up and left home—by then, mother was hooked," said Gloria.

George retired two years ago and now he's an active sheep farmer as well, she said. They now maintain a flock of about 150 Romneys.

The couple share lambing duties during a period that covers two solid months beginning in mid-February. They work in 12-hour shifts to maintain an around-the-clock watch over the expectant moms.

As of Sunday, 12 mothers had produced 21 lambs—and there were 46 pregnant ewes to go.

Unity needed on roads before board action

By Carolyn Walker

The future of the roads in the Merrie Oaks subdivision may be dependent on the residents' abilities to cooperate.

After their third appearance before the Independence Township Board Feb. 18, the disagreeing residents were told they must present a united front to the board before the township will take action on their requests to pave or maintain Oakgrove and Hillcrest roads.

"Before you bring it back to us, I would suggest that you have a unified direction that you want to go," said Supervisor Frank Ronk.

For several months, half the residents have been petitioning township officials to dedicate the roads to public status, while half have been asking that the roads remain private.

In appearing before the board previously, the residents have engaged in heated debates about the efficiency of the subdivision's association and the validity of petitions regarding changes in the roads' status.

On the advice of Ronk, the board agreed to take no action on the issue, but rather to send the matter back to the subdivision's association for consideration.

According to township attorney Gerald Fisher, the roads are owned by the association, to which they were deeded via a quit-claim deed in 1967.

Fisher suggested three alternatives to the board: leaving the roads status quo; maintaining the roads and maintaining the private status; and upgrading the roads and converting them to public ownership via Oakland County.

Several residents were in attendance at the meeting, but did not speak on the issue at Ronk's request.

In making their decision, the board members considered the results of a recent township survey of subdivision residents.

Sent to all 39 property owners, 25 responded to the survey, with a majority expressing a desire that the roads remain private.

In order to convert roads to public status, petitions with signatures representing 51 percent of the property owners, and 51 percent of the property owners who about the roads, must be presented to the township.

Upon acceptance, improvements are made to the roads and they are dedicated to the county for ownership and maintenance.

In the past, some residents have expressed concern that making the roads public will create intense traffic in their neighborhoods.

Secretaries settle after 8 months

By Julie LePere

The Clarkston school district secretaries and clerks have reached a contract agreement.

The agreement gives the secretaries a 6 percent wage increase in the first year and a 5.9 percent increase in the second and third years, said Conrad Bruce, administrative assistant in charge of personnel services.

The contract expired June 30, 1985, said Bruce, "so they've been working under their old agreement since last summer."

Negotiations had to wait pending a petition outcome to join a union.

The 25 secretaries and clerks, part of the district's 138 non-instructional staff, voted unanimously Nov. 12 to join the Michigan Educational Association, National Educational Association.

The secretaries and clerks reached an agreement Feb. 3 with the help of state mediator Leon Cornfield.

The agreement was ratified by the Clarkston board of education on Feb. 17.

"We paid them a little bit more this year," said Bruce. "We were one of the lowest (districts in the northern county) in secretarial pay."

The contract settlement "was difficult in the fact that it took a really long time. It was after they joined the union, so it was like starting all over again. That makes it a time-consuming project," said Bruce.

"None of them are easy. This is only one of nine different employee groups. Most of them are unionized," he said.

"We are constantly bargaining," he added. "It's almost a 12-month job. Contracts are always expiring."

It takes three or four months to negotiate a new agreement, he said. All contracts expired last summer with the exception of the teachers.

"The only (contract) up this summer is the teachers," said Bruce.

Caverly's petition drive nears end

By Carolyn Walker

Iva Sommers Caverly has equaled her feat of last year, at least as far as collecting petition signatures goes.

With the aid of friends and local businesses, she has currently obtained 3,617 signatures on petitions requesting a full traffic signal at Waldon Road and M-15 and for the completion of the I-75 cloverleafs.

That figure surpasses her 3,364 signatures collected last year for the light at Waldon and Sashabaw roads.

Three petitions requesting the new signal are still circulating with uncounted signatures, she said Monday night at the Clarkston Village Council meeting.

"We really do this at a grassroots level. It's really amazing how people are signing," she said as she updated the council on the petitions' status.

"I said, 'our future got here 10 years ago for Sashabaw and I-75,'" she said, referring to recent Oakland County Road Commission predictions that there will be an increase in traffic volume over the next 10 years.

Caverly said she hopes the petitions will impress the Michigan Department of Transportation to take action on the cloverleafs and light.

She also intends to send copies to the county road commission, although they have no control over the state's decision, she said.

The petition drive began six weeks ago, according to Caverly, and petitions were displayed in over 90 area businesses.

Last year, following her petition drive for a light at Waldon and Sashabaw roads, it took only 13 months for the state to install the light she said, complimenting them on their efficiency.

$12,000 cable purchase OK'd

Over $12,000 in new cable casting equipment should lead to improved local video productions, according to Bruce Harlton, chairman of the Independence Township Cablecasting Board.

Harlton appeared at the Feb. 18 meeting of the township board of trustees where he explained a recent request for new equipment to stock the Tribune United public access studio on Waldon Road.

The proposed purchases, which would include editing equipment, lamps and safety cables among several other items, would lead to more sophisticated effects, Harlton said.

After listening to Harlton's explanation, the board agreed to allow the spending of $12,954 from the cablecasting budget.

They had tabled the same request one week before, when Trustee Dale Stuart requested more information about the equipment and asked whether or not Tribune United was responsible for making the purchases.

According to Harlton, Tribune United had outfitted the studio in the beginning with $120,000 in equipment as agreed, but had purchased only the minimal equipment needed. It is up to the township to make improvements, he said.

"It was outfitted properly in the first place," Harlton said. "The cablecasting board feels that it's (the new equipment) a justifiable expense."

The public access studio is open to community groups and individuals who complete courses in the use of the equipment.

Harlton presented memos from the Clarkston Community Historical Society and Clarkston United Methodist Church supporting the purchases. Both groups have used the studio to film videos.

The motion to purchase the equipment was unanimously passed by the board. Trustee Dale Stuart was absent.

Flu bug ready to succumb

said. "They've had dizziness . . . nine days when they can't get off the bed or they'll fall over."

O'Neill did have some good news.

"I think we're getting toward the tail-end of it," he said.

Physician Theodore Engelmann, who works at the Clarkston Village Clinic and the Ambulatory Care Center, agreed that the number of flu victims is tapering off.

"I can't recall when it's been this bad. It's been three or four years (since anything like this happened)," he said.

The main problem is the flu has been lasting a long time, said Engelmann.

"It's been three to four weeks in many people," he said. "It has its ups and downs. It's been a difficult thing to treat. It's responding to rest, fluids, antibiotics and decongestants."

William Neff, director of elementary education and principal of Andersonville Elementary, said the schools haven't been affected.

"I don't think we've been to epidemic conditions," said Neff.

"Absenteeism has been pretty near normal. It really hasn't created a problem for us at this point," said Neff.

John Kirchgessner, principal of Clarkston High School, agreed.

"There was certainly a lot more discussion of students and staff feeling ill, more than the usual run of the mill illnesses, but we really did not have a great increase in absenteeism," he said.

Thoughts on a snowy Friday:

The wet snow that's clinging to every branch is beautiful. Christmas card material.

If I could get myself motivated, I'd be out snapping photos and preparing for the 1986 holiday season.

But this kind of weather is wonderful in November and stinky in February.

I'm ready for the crocus and the tulips and the daffodils—and anything green. When spring comes this year, I'll be ready. I'm practicing my ooohs and ahhs now in an attempt to cheer up.

This is the time of year when my drawers, closets and what-have-you begin to get out of control.

My favorite winter clothes are beginning to have that worn-out look. I can't get the salt marks out of my leather boots. There are some sweaters I would be happy never to see again.

Yesterday, I decided the last time I was organized was in 1967.

We lived in a one-bedroom apartment.

There was no basement. There was no garage. The washer and dryer were in the kitchen. Our furniture inventory was limited.

We only had one pet, a dog named Flea.

I didn't work outside our home. I read a lot. Newsweek from cover to cover. Books from classics to best-sellers. I could talk about anything.

I planned dinner menus for each month. I shopped newspaper ads for the bargains and I stopped at several stores in pursuit of good deals.

The only really horrible mistake I made was serving homemade gingerbread to my neighbor with a bachelor's degree in home economics.

The recipe called for ground cloves and all I had on hand were whole ones, so I threw those in thinking they would dissolve somehow. They didn't.

***
Do you ever wonder how many people you've run across in your lifetime who remember you for one incident, as in, "You remember, she's the one who put whole cloves in the gingerbread."

I can recall being confronted personally with something I didn't necessarily want to remember only once.

"Aren't you the one who used to eat the dessert from the school lunches first, and then the rest of the meal?" said a woman.

I denied it, of course. "You must be thinking of someone else," I said. ("Why would she think I'd do something that silly?" I thought.)

And then I thought some more and remembered doing just that all during junior high school. That's where I learned to love apple crisp and cobbler.

Outa my mind every moanin'

Carolyn Walker

This week I introduced The Muse to Mr. Flu (a.k.a. Mr. Pneumonia).

As a result, The Muse got a serious case of writer's block. And I, to borrow a phrase from columnist Bob Talbert of the Detroit Free Press, went outa my mind every moanin'.

While The Muse was recovering, I drifted in and out of a feverish delirium to pop antibiotics and consider the following phenomena:

Did you ever notice that out of an equal supply of spoons, forks and knives, more spoons get caught in the electric garbage disposal than any of the other utensils? And hardly any knives ever do?

Did you ever wonder how so many books make it to the best seller lists before their official publication date?

Did you ever wonder why the average mail carrier can't get his/her truck through a little pile of snow to reach your mailbox when the United States pony express managed to deliver mail across miles and miles of wilderness besieged by bandits and vengeful Indians? And lived to brag about it?

Did you ever notice when you were driving that a street will be free of cars until you try to pull out onto it, and then the traffic is everywhere?

Does anyone out there besides me think that actor Roy Scheider would be a perfect choice to star in the life story of actor George C. Scott? Or am I the only one to notice the resemblance?

Does it seem to you that when you're playing pinochle you get jacks or 10s around more often than you get aces around, even though there are an equal number of jacks, 10s and aces in a pinochle deck?

Did you ever notice that some names, like Elvis or Fess, sound funny on anyone besides the people you've come to associate them with such as Elvis Presley or Fess Parker?

Do you ever wonder what happens to all the hangers, paper clips, pins and pencils in your household? Do you seem to run short of them more often than say, nails or toothbrushes?

What do you suppose Roy Rogers, Pat Boone and Dick Clark are doing that the rest of us aren't to maintain their youthful appearances?

Did you ever notice that you can get a busy signal when you place a call to a phone being answered by a recording? Only it doesn't seem to happen as often as when the person is home and answering for him/herself?

Did you ever wonder why some girls have boys' names but very few boys have girls' names?

Did you ever really care about any of the above?

Maybe Mr. Flu is about to visit you, too.

Won't we all be glad when spring is here?

The Clarkston News "Bouquet" column is designed to let you publicly praise good deeds and other nice things. To be considered for Wednesday's paper, bouquets must be submitted by noon Monday. They must be signed. Include your telephone number in case we have questions. There is, of course, no charge.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

When is it child neglect, and when is it kidnapping? First time parents and first time grandparents have to learn when to accuse the other, justifiably.

Hazel and I learned the line is very thin, and sort of in the eyes of the accuser.

It started very innocently. Daughter Luan brought her son, Danny, for a visit Saturday afternoon. While there, Danny fell asleep.

Knowing Luan had things to do, grandma suggested she let the lad sleep. When our daughter finished her errands, she came by to pick up her son. By then grandma had fed Danny and put him back to sleep.

Again Luan left minus son. Shortly after, the way I understand it, grandma went to work on Danny. While his parents went out to dinner, grandma played hard with grandson, tiring him. She, too, fed him much, also tiring him.

And, she washed him and put him to bed.

Once more when the parents arrived, grandma said, "He's sleeping. You might as well leave him here overnight."

Being away most of this time, I undoubtedly missed much of the exact happenings. But it looked to me like child neglect, and I so mentioned it to Luan.

Luan's husband, Bob, didn't take lightly to this charge. He exclaimed, "Child neglect? What about kidnapping?"

That's where it stands. Will someone with more experience on either side of the problem please help. Address your response to "No one cares but grandpa", Box 108, Oxford, 48051.

I don't need you help making up my mind on this one. When it comes to strolling minstrels during my dinner, I'm against it.

Not too long ago we were one of four couples at a dinner-theater in Sterling Heights. As we settled into the first course, two swarthy violinists stopped at the corner of the table.

First off, I never have a request for a violin, unless it's 'Nola,' and I'm too embarrassed to ask them to play that fast.

Secondly, I hate tipping them, never knowing how much to give, especially when I think the whole thing is an intrusion in the first place. And, I don't tip them. I also never look at them, thus assuming they shouldn't expect a tip.

But, they made-out well without me. Two of the men at our table folded up something and slipped it, maybe slithered it, to them.

No way do either of these two enjoy a violin. When either one looks at the musical instrument they are reminded of a girl they knew in their youth. Of course, the same is true when either sees the bow... or the sky, or a frozen lake, or an anchovy, or a hubcap.

In memory of Christa McAuliffe

On Jan. 28, the nation mourned the death of the seven Challenger crew members.

For the National Education Association and teachers throughout the country, there was a special sadness for Christa McAuliffe, one of our colleagues.

Christa symbolized what is best for education: dedication to students, love for education, and courage.

To commemorate Christa's pioneering spirit, NEA has developed a fund—the Christa McAuliffe American Education Fund—to enable practicing teachers to explore their subject matter in new and innovative ways.

The fund will also help high school and college students fulfill their dreams of becoming teachers.

By reaching teachers we will be reaching out to our children—our students—to help each of them develop a better understanding of the world around them.

As teachers, we want to honor Christa, who gave so much to all of us. It is our hope that others will join in giving generously to the fund for a future full of Christa McAuliffes.

Contributions may be made to the Christa McAuliffe American Education Fund, American Security Band, P.O. Box 0149, Washington, DC 20055.

Credit due two

Thank you for the mention and credit given to the Clarkston Area Chemical People on the front page story regarding the home party ordinance.

We want this community to know that we have continued to work on the problem of substance abuse since the visit of David Toma, albeit in a quieter way.

While I personally get a kick out of seeing myself quoted in print, I would like to give credit where it is due. (Humility must come with my job and title.)

It was a Chemical People committee chaired by Char Cowdin that first raised the issue of the ordinance.

And it was Mary Beth Huttenlocher who brought to the group both a speaker from Farmington Hills and a copy of their ordinance.

It was also Mary Beth who then took the information to the Village of Clarkston and Independence Township and requested that each pursue it.

To the credit of both the village and township, we did not so much need to push the ordinance as to get the ball rolling. The Chemical People appreciate the support both official and unofficial that has been expressed for this ordinance.

Thank you for the opportunity to add this information to the coverage you provided.

Rev. Bill Schram

Wildlife worry

I have read Mrs. Greenfield's article about a wonderful bird. I am 13 years old and I live across the street from Spring Lake Country Club.

I often take my dog for a walk on the side of the clubhouse. I see pheasants there all the time and I often wonder if there is still going to be a place for pheasants to live in a few years.

I see houses going up where there are pheasants living and I do not like it.

One of my dreams is to live far up north where there are deer, pheasants, rabbits, squirrels and other wild animals.

I really enjoy watching the pheasants and other wild animals lead a normal life instead of worrying about cars, buildings and people.

Derek Black

Don't park there

We read Dan Vandenhemel's "Up my alley" column in the Feb. 12 edition of The Clarkston News and we agree with what he said.

When we see people that are non-handicappers park in the handicapped spaces, we ask them if they have a handicap tag. Some say they don't and pull out and park somewhere else, while others just glare back.

'If it Fitz ...'

Taken for a loop, together

Jim Fitzgerald

"I think we need a third opinion," I told my wife. I'd never seen her more depressed.

I was sitting close to her in the semidarkness of our living room as the late afternoon faded into evening.

"How long have we been a team?" I asked.

"I saw that commercial," she said.

That commercial is a WDIV-TV (Channel 4) promotion starring news anchors Carmen Harlan and Mort Crim. They sit in the semidarkness and agree "it shows" that they've been a team for a long time and are good friends off camera as well as on. Every time I see this commercial I feel so warm and cozy all over I have to turn down the thermostat.

"It shows that we've been married over 30 years," I told her. "Otherwise I wouldn't be home from work yet. I would be younger and friskier, and would have stopped at the saloon, and we wouldn't be having this depressing conversation as the late afternoon fades into evening."

The depressing conversation concerned our kitchen, which was recently remodeled for around $5,000.

"I don't know why plumbers can't be like doctors,"

she said. "Doctors never criticize each other's work."

An hour earlier, a maintenance man employed by our apartment building had gotten his first look at our new kitchen. My wife pointed out the stainless steel sink, saying our contractor said it was worth $200 but he got it for us wholesale—only $150.

"Boy, you really got took. That sink is worth around $90," the maintenance man said.

He then looked at the plumbing beneath the new sink. "Whoever installed this is no plumber," he snorted.

When my wife relayed this opinion to me, I asked what he said was wrong with our plumbing.

"He said our loop was really no loop at all. He laughed at our loop," she said.

If there's one thing I can't stand, it's someone laughing at the loop in my plumbing. And if there's one thing I can't understand, it is what a plumbing loop is for.

The maintenance man also said there should be an overflow valve on our new sink. Originally there was, my wife said. And the first time she used the dishwasher in our new $5,000 kitchen, water spouted out the valve and soaked her face.

So she complained to the man who installed the sink and he removed the overflow valve, saying it wasn't really needed.

"Who am I supposed to believe?" she asked.

She shouldn't have asked her teammate of over 30 years. I am at the complete mercy of plumbers, mechanics and other build-and-fix practitioners. If the man with the wrench says I need a bigger loop in my plumbing, I tell him to stretch my loop and send me the bill.

But if a second man with a wrench says my loop is already big enough, I am confounded.

If a difference of opinion concerns the texture of pie crust, I can taste for myself and make my own informed decision. But what do I know about plumbing loops? Just the thought of looking under a sink makes my head throb and my palms sweat.

Or we could simply sit close together, as the late afternoon faded into evening, and aggressively forget that we ever got a second opinion.

This is called giving up—or the hell with it.

—More letters—

and say, "So what?" or "I don't care."

Some also say they didn't see the signs. We say that they are more handicapped than we are because they can't see or read.

Don't get me wrong, some of the people that can't actually read know the signs and don't park there unless they have their permits.

I was the person who got the handicapped signs put up at the A&P-Wonder-Drugs shopping center.

I think that we have enough handicapped parking spaces there now if the non-handicapped wouldn't use them.

There is another store that needs more handicap parking spaces, and that is K mart. They only have six spaces for the handicapped now. They used to have space for four before I put up a holler about it.

I believe the only way we can get more parking spaces for handicappers is to write to the K mart headquarters in Troy, Mich., and suggest the first two rows in front of the store be reserved as handicapped parking.

We have seen people who are handicapped but don't have the blue tag or license plate pull into handicapped spaces.

We ask them if they have the tags and they say, "No, because we're handicapped and can park here." I tell them they can get a ticket just like the others if they don't, and they say, "We'll see about it."

Signs misplaced

Has anyone ever seen a pedestrian cross the street at the corner of Waldon and Sashabaw?

I drive by the intersection daily and have yet to see a pedestrian in the area. There is a pedestrian signal at the intersection, however—just in case!

This past weekend as I was crossing M-15 in downtown Clarkston with several other shoppers, I began to instruct my two young children on how to observe the "WALK" signal when I realized there was none.

Meanwhile, at Sashabaw and Waldon the signal is still waiting for its first pedestrian.

Wondering why,

Town-to-library safety path under debate

By Carolyn Walker

The safety of a safety path along Clarkston Road is being hotly debated by the Independence Township Board and members of the community.

On Feb. 18, the board took public comment from approximately five citizens who would like to see a path installed from the Village of Clarkston to the township library.

Although the board tabled action on whether or not to construct a path at the site, they voted to have a design review done by township engineers Hubble, Roth and Clark.

The proposed path would cost approximately $22,500, said Supervisor Frank Ronk.

Residents Dominic Mauti and Mel Vaara told the board there is a great need for a safety path along Clarkston Road because many joggers and pedestrians are forced to walk in the street. Even a safety path close to the road would be safer than current conditions, Mauti said.

But members of the board expressed concern that an 8-foot-wide safety path, by necessity, would run too close to the road to be safe.

It's a question of "how dangerous is it?" said Clerk Richard Holman, after the meeting.

The former administration voted 5-2 against installing a safety path along that route, which has a sharp S curve, because of the safety factor, said Holman.

The board plans to address the issue at a future meeting, although a date is unscheduled pending the results of Hubble, Roth and Clark's survey.

At the board's direction, the engineering firm is to consider both sides of the road for the safety path, its potential widths and other safety factors.

Trustee Daniel Travis voted against the motion to schedule an engineering review without comment.

In the interim, the board welcomes comment from the public, Holman said.

Subdivision paves way for cul-de-sac rule

By Carolyn Walker

Pine Tree Valley subdivision is to move full-speed ahead toward final plat approval following a board decision to modify the Independence Township cul-de-sac 600-foot rule.

The board voted 6-0 to adopt an interim interpretation of the rule with three new standards, following the advice of township attorney Gerald Fisher.

In approving the interpretation, they paved the way to grant preliminary plat approval for the 18-lot subdivision off Waldon Road, which has one cul-de-sac longer than the 600 feet currently allowed. The cul-de-sac in question also has a stub road for future access.

Last month, the board tabled the plat approval when another builder challenged the township to enforce the 600-foot rule in a non-biased fashion or modify it.

The 600-foot rule was put in place to ensure the prompt, safe entry of rescue vehicles, according to Clerk Richard Holman.

The township currently abides by restrictions imposed by the Oakland County Road Commission, said Fisher.

They were agreeable to modification of the rules when the local municipality felt it was warranted, he said.

As a result, Fisher proposed the following three guidelines, which the board adopted.

- The 600-foot rule should be waived only when there are no reasonable alternative means for developing a proposed plat.

- The township should take into consideration the number of people to be housed on the cul-de-sac and the volume of traffic to be generated.

- All reasonable precautions, such as stub roads, should be designed into plats to minimize the dangers.

Before the board took action to modify the rules, two members, Trustee Daniel Travis and Treasurer John Lutz, expressed concerns.

"I think that you have to look at each case individually and on the merits," Lutz said, with Travis agreeing.

Other board members said the developers have no other way of developing the site, which is considered difficult.

"There's no way this piece is going to be developed without relief," said Supervisor Frank Ronk. "The way it stands right now, I would be in favor of preliminary."

Trustee Carol Balzarini agreed. "This is Mr. (Jerry) Anderson's only means of developing this property."

The motion to approve the preliminary plat was conditional upon a review of the water system and the possibility of establishing a special assessment district to pay for it as the houses are sold.

Tim McCormick is dazed after butting heads with teammate Xavier McDaniel.

Courtside

A few stitches later, McCormick is greeted by McDaniel as he re-enters the game.

Giving back in return

Tim McCormick is giving something back to the community he grew up in.

The member of the Seattle Supersonics of the National Basketball Association has set up a $1,000 scholarship in his name at Clarkston High School. He is also setting up a basketball clinic for the summer.

Former coach and teacher Larry Mahrle has stayed in contact with McCormick since he graduated from CHS in 1980.

"The whole idea behind these things is he wanted to give something back to the community," Mahrle said. "The scholarship isn't just for basketball players or boys. Anyone in any sport is eligible."

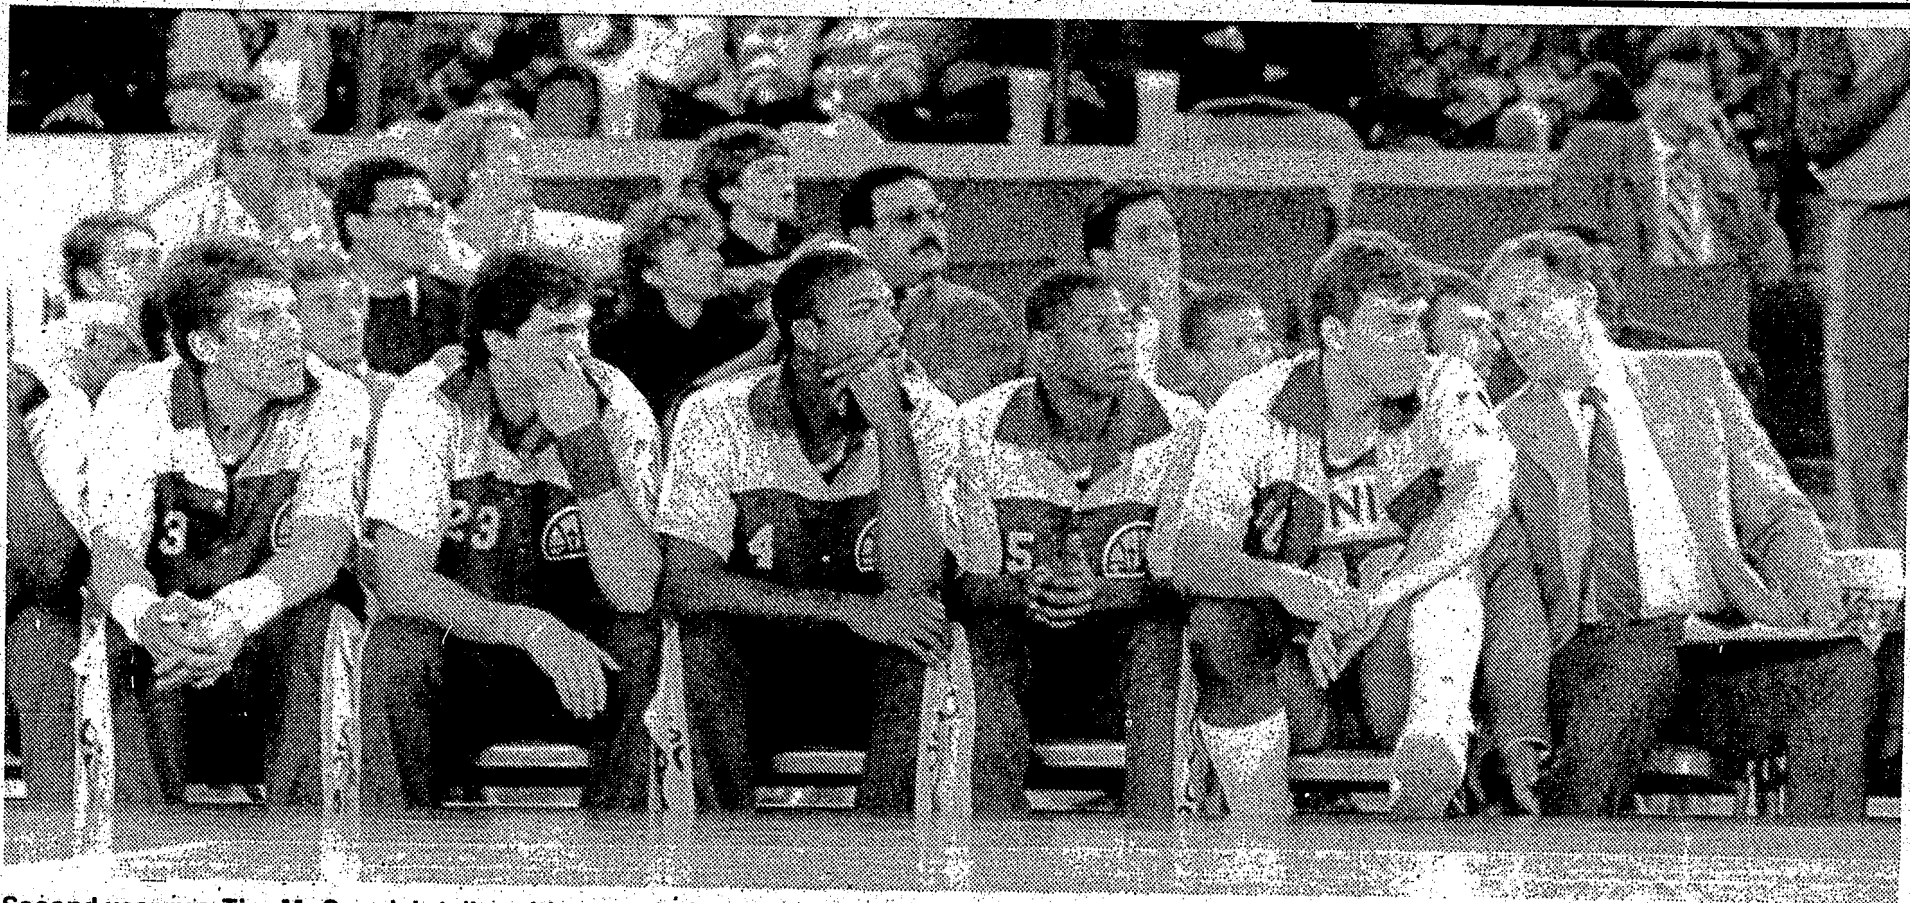

The scholarship is open to any senior athlete who has a 3.0 grade point average and has played the same sport three straight years.

Scholarship forms will be in the high school counseling offices in March.

Mahrle said some of the details for the basketball clinic are set.

It will be held June 23 through 27 at Clarkston High School, with a morning session from 9 to noon for boys and girls in grades 3 through 6. An afternoon session from 1 to 4 is for boys and girls in grades 7 through 9.

"Tim is going to go around to all the elementary schools before they get out to pass out fliers," Mahrle said.

Second-year pro Tim McCormick talks with an assistant coach for the Seattle Supersonics during the first quarter of the game against the Detroit Pistons. The crowd of 10,205 at the Silverdome watched the only visit this season to Pontiac by the Sonics and McCormick.

Sports

Battle scars of pro basketball

The blood trickles down McCormick's cheek from above his right eye as he hustles down the court during the Piston-Supersonic basketball game at the Pontiac Superdome.

Parents also feel pressure

The pressures of playing in the National Basketball Association fall on more than just the player.

When Tim McCormick and his Seattle Supersonics came to Pontiac to play the Detroit Pistons, Feb. 19, his parents, Tom and Terri, were among the large contingent from Clarkston in the stands of the Pontiac Silverdome.

"We still enjoy watching him," his father said. "Now there is more on the line, now there's more pressure to do well. It was more enjoyable watching him in high school. I never allow myself to get caught in the pressure."

The McCormicks had court-side seats for the contest. When the younger McCormick suffered a cut in a collision during the second quarter, the parents couldn't tell what happened.

"When he was laying there, you start thinking of everything," Tom McCormick said. "After he was hurt, I'd just as soon he not play anymore."

This was the Supersonics only visit to Michigan this season, but the McCormicks travel to games at nearby NBA cities like Indianapolis, Cleveland and Chicago.

"Sometimes we go east and watch him in Boston, New York," Tom McCormick said. "We've got a satellite dish and we see a number of games, maybe 64 of the 82."

The elder McCormick really didn't know how many people were in attendance at the game the Pistons won, 118-113.

"Everybody was there," he said. "It's tremendous that Clarkston still comes out to see him. It's been six years since he's been there. It gives me a good feeling."

By Dan Vandenhemel

Tim McCormick's homecoming to Michigan featured all the sights, his parents' home and a trip to the hospital.

The Clarkston High School and University of Michigan graduate and his Seattle Supersonics traveled to Pontiac to play the Detroit Pistons in a National Basketball Association game Feb. 19.

The Pistons came out on top, 118-113, and McCormick came out with 16 stitches over his right eye.

Early in the second quarter of the contest at the Pontiac Silverdome, McCormick and teammate Xavier McDaniel scrambled for a loose ball and butted heads.

McDaniel bounced back up after the collision and continued down the court. McCormick, on the other hand, laid stunned on his back.

"I wasn't knocked out or anything," he said. "I was a little dazed. That's why I just stayed there."

The amiable 6-11-footer went to the lockerroom after the incident and was stitched up enough to come back to the game late in the third quarter. He played a few minutes that quarter and most of the fourth.

"I didn't want to waste any minutes."

—Tim McCormick

Each trip he made up and down the court, a trickle of blood made its way toward his jaw. The cut drew the attention of the crowd, the players and the press.

In the lockerroom after the game, McCormick was first surrounded by trainers and then by reporters.

"I only get one chance each year to play here," the second-year pro said. "I didn't want to waste any minutes."

After the contest and the questions, McCormick and his parents, Tom and Terri of Springfield Township, made the trip to the hospital.

This minor injury shouldn't keep McCormick out of the lineup, unlike the knee injury he suffered in the Sonics' first exhibition game in October. The torn cartilage in the right knee took six weeks to mend.

"You completely have to start over," McCormick said before the game. "You lose your shooting touch. Injuries are part of the job. It's not easy, it's tough. It's great."

His playing time is up to 20 to 25 minutes and he's averaging over eight points a game. McCormick netted a season high 19 points against Utah on Feb. 11.

"I'm playing well now," the 23-year-old said. "We've been playing better recently as a team. If we keep playing the way we're going, hopefully we'll make the playoffs."

Not all the aspects of being a professional athlete are on the positive side. The traveling from city to city begins to become a little routine after a while.

"It's a nice opportunity to see the country," McCormick said. "I have friends in just about every NBA city. It's fun having friends come out to Seattle to see me."

Though McCormick said he loves the Seattle area, Clarkston is still home to the basketball player.

"I still live here in the summer," he said. "It's great playing here. We bought 30 tickets to take care of the family and the really close friends."

Summer sign-up

Registration for Jr. Baseball, M&M Softball, and Youth Soccer will run March 3 through March 14 at the Independence Township Hall.

The parks and recreation department office is open Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

On Saturday, March 15, the last day to register with a late fee, the office will be open from 9 a.m. to noon. Call 625-8223 for more information.

Little success at finals

By Dan Vandenhemel

The weekend of state finals for high school ski teams won't be soon forgotten by Clarkston coach Don Balzarini.

Neither the girls' nor the boys' teams fared well in the overall standings at the finals at Nubs Nob, Feb. 24. What's worse, two people came away injured.

Junior Suzy Learmont suffered possible ligament damage to her knee and Balzarini broke two ribs.

"Suzy is going to a specialist to see if she'll need an operation," the coach said. "She had a good first run and somehow fell in the second run."

Balzarini broke his ribs after a practice session the Saturday before the finals. He was skiing to the bottom of the hill when someone ran into him.

"It's not too bad except when I breath, laugh or talk," he said. "The kids thought they would be unchaperoned for a while, but we had a lot of support. A lot of parents were up there with us."

Lori Walker turned in the best performance for the girls' team. She placed 14 in the slalom and 17 in the giant slalom (GS).

Other finishers were Shelly Purdy, 25 in the slalom; Laura Howse, 28 in the GS; Serena Brown, 34 in the GS; Kelly Ford, 35 in the GS; Beth Southby, 48 in the GS; and Jennifer Farough, 52 in the GS. The girls finished ninth out of 10 teams.

For the boys, Steve Zoss led the pack with an eighth-place finish in the GS and 11 in the slalom.

Others were Mike May, 56 in the GS and 17 in the slalom; Mike Foyteck, 44 in the GS and 40 in the slalom; Jeff Roeser, 43 in the GS and 44 in the slalom;

"Individually, we had some good runs."

—Don Balzarini

Shaun McCrachen, 51 in the slalom; Matt Ritter, 50 in the GS; and Gunnar Karlstrom, 55 in the GS. They placed 10th out of 10 teams.

"Individually, we had some good runs," Balzarini said. "We were not really out of it. If one more girl had stood up, we would have jumped up about four places."

"It was a nice weekend. It just was not as successful as I had hoped for."

Wolves slip by Mott, look to Huskies

By Dan Vandenhemel

It doesn't matter what night it is, the Clarkston Wolves keep rolling along.

The Wolves beat Waterford Mott, 48-33, in a rare Thursday night game at Mott on Feb. 20.

The victory pushes the Wolves' basketball record to 17-1, and 7-0 in the Greater Oakland Activities League. The Corsairs drop to 9-8 and 2-5 in the league.

Wolves' coach Dan Fife expected a low-scoring contest, but he is never sure what a team will do against his troops.

"I knew they would slow things down, to try and keep the score down," he said. "Most teams try something special against us. We just have to be able to adjust to it."

The Corsairs were successful in keeping points off the board. The half-time score was 21-14 with the Wolves on top. The 21 points would have been a good quarter for Clarkston, because they are averaging close to 70 points a game.

Problems cropped up right away for the Wolves as Mike Walters and Dan Jokisch got into early foul trouble and didn't play their normal games, Fife said.

Ed Whitaker, with 23 points, was the only Clarkston player to score in double figures.

"They were a little hesitant," the coach said. "They were afraid of doing anything or they would get called for a foul. Going into the game, we knew it would be tough. I'm not upset. I'm just happy with the win."

Fife said a game like the kind the Wolves had against Mott shouldn't bother them going into the showdown at Pontiac Northern on Feb. 28.

"It doesn't really make a difference," he said. "A lot of times, you just have to adjust to the situation. You do what you have to to win."

The 7:30 p.m. game in the Huskies' gym will decide the winner of the GOAL. The Wolves trimmed the Huskies by five points in their first meeting. The teams are one and two in the league.

"It's going to be loud in their gym," Fife said. "Hopefully, we can take the crowd out of the game. At this point in the season, there is not a lot you can do. You just go out and make the little adjustments."

District hoop game

The brackets are set and the Clarkston Wolves are headed into varsity basketball district tournament play.

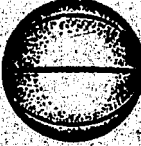

All games of the tournament are scheduled at Waterford Mott High School. The Wolves (16-1) will play Holly (7-10) in the opening game at 7 p.m. March 3.

If the Wolves win that game, they will advance to the second round against Waterford Kettering, (4-13) at 7 p.m. on March 5. The winner goes on to the finals set for 7 p.m. on March 8.

The other bracket at the finals pits Pontiac Northern (14-5) against Mott (8-10) on March 4 at 6 p.m. Lake Orion (2-15) plays Pontiac Central (11-6), also on March 4 at 8 p.m.

The winners of those two games meet March 6 at 7 p.m. to determine who goes to the finals on Saturday.

Tickets for all games are $2 and are available at Mott High School and the Clarkston High School office.

The Seer

After a week's vacation, The Seer slipped this prediction through The Clarkston News' mailslot on Monday morning.

Feb. 28, Clarkston at Pontiac Northern—The Seer puts his unblemished record on the line this Friday night. Earlier this year, The Seer predicted Clarkston would win the GOAL with a perfect 8-0 record. Clarkston is 7-0 and Northern is 6-1.

That prediction was made when rumor had it that Northern's star guard, Tony Howard, would not play this season. Howard is playing and he will be the difference this Friday.

The Huskies gave away a game to the Wolves earlier this year and have vowed it will not happen again. Northern's home court, loud band and coach Sy Green's emotions will be the difference. Clarkston will share the title: Northern by five.

Tournament trophy time for spikers

By Dan Vandenhemel

Bragging rights belong to Clarkston's volleyball team.

For the third time this season, the Wolves met league-rivals Lake Orion at the net. The two teams split the first two and the third meeting belonged to the Wolves.

Missy Odell leads the Wolves varsity volleyball team in blocked shots.

They both reached the finals of the Delta Community College Tournament on Feb. 22 in Saginaw. The Wolves came out on top to win the tournament, 17-15 and 15-8.

"That was fun," Wolves' coach Nancy Foster said of playing the Dragons again. "It didn't count for the league but for bragging rights."

The first game went back and was tied at 13 apiece when a delay of game penalty against the Wolves gave Lake Orion a one-point lead. When Clarkston came back to win that game, they took the enthusiasm out of the Dragons in the second game.

There is a strong but friendly rivalry growing between the two varsity volleyball squads.

The Wolves stood behind the Dragons' bench and cheered them on during the semi-finals against the No. 1 Class C Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port.

"We were done with our semi-final before they were and cheered for them," Foster said. "We wanted to play them again. We were cheering for each other all day. It was a fun match."

The competition at the 15-team tournament featured some highly rated Class B and C teams along with a number of solid Class A squads.

The Wolves won their five-team pool play by beating Unionville-Sebewaing and Swan Valley and splitting with Garber and Traverse City. In the quarter-finals, the Wolves breezed past Nouvel, 15-6 and 15-2. In the semi-finals, Hemlock fell, 15-5 and 15-11.

The Wolves raised their record to 29-4 with the championship.

Helping the cause all day were Michelle Taulbee with 30 kill spikes, Missy Odell with 18 kills and 50 blocked spikes, and Sue Kithil who had a nearly perfect serving day with 58 out of 59.

"Really there was nothing outstanding," Foster said. "They all pitched in to get the job done."

Wrestling club places second

The Clarkston Wrestling Club, in its most successful season ever, placed second for the second straight week.

At the Roseville Tournament, featuring 15 teams, the Clarkston club had 12 wrestlers place in the top three.

In the novice division, Elvis Jones at 55 pounds was third in the 8-and-under class.

The rest of the winners were in the experienced level.

In the 8-and-under division, Matt Tiefenbach at 55 pounds was second, Kevin Barnes at 50 pounds was third and Mark Endrezi at 55 pounds was third.

For the 9-10-year-olds, Brett Walter at 55 pounds was second and Jayme Mutter at 60 pounds was third.

In the 11-12-year-old class, Jeff DeRoseau at 60 pounds, Jerry Anderson at 75 pounds and Ruben DeLosRios at 108 all placed first.

The 13-14-year-old division had Jerry Lawrence at 126 take first, and John Anderson at 100 pounds place second.

In the 15-16-year-old bracket, Todd George at 160 pounds was first.

Henry Ford's Clarkston connection

Third installment: The experimental farm out on Holcomb Road

During his years in Clarkston, automotive great Henry Ford brought many innovative ideas to the area.

As he expanded his horizons, Ford purchased a farm off Holcomb Road, where his employees instructed Ford officials in the use of the then new Ford tractor.

The farm was known as an "experimental farm" at that time. And soybeans, as well as other foods, were reportedly raised there.

The property owned by Ford, and later the Ford-run Tractor Division of Dearborn Motor Co., angles from north of the current I-75 line to Deer Lake.

Ninety-odd acres of Ford's original property, including the house and its accompanying outbuildings, are now owned by Dr. James O'Neill and his family.

This, the final in a series of three articles based on Ford, is an account of the soy-bean-loving Ford and his "experimental" farm.

In addition to the six who agreed to share their memories at the series' start, a seventh, Agnes Richardson, has come forth to add to the wealth of tales.

Agnes was in charge of domestic services at the farm for nearly 10 years. She lovingly remembers that time in her life.

By Carolyn Walker

With the kidnapping of Charles Lindbergh's son hanging over his head like an ominous threat, old Henry Ford purchased a farm off Holcomb Road for the protection and seclusion of his family.

Though it was never destined to really be a home to the Fords, the site was used like a summer cabin before becoming an "experimental" farm.

Purchased by Ford about 1935, the farm remained under Ford family ownership until Henry Ford II turned it over to Dearborn Motors.

The farm was subsequently purchased by Dr. and Mrs. James O'Neill in 1962.

At that time, the senior Ford had been dead some 14 years and a decision had been made to relocate the tractor division to Georgia because of Michigan's cold winters.

"I know I cried the day I left there. It had been such a lovely place."

—Agnes Richardson

Relaxing in their den on the farm, Jim and Mikel O'Neill recall stories they have heard about the house; joking about the old red and gray painted interior which they have since redecorated. Ironically, those are the colors of Ohio State University.

Mikel hails from Ohio, and according to Jim, espouses a loyalty to the school; though she recoils at Jim's suggestion that she would have left the paint intact out of loyalty to the university.

Jim turns to the matter at hand, Ford. "He bought it for his own kids. It was in response to the Lindbergh kidnapping, I was told, that he bought it.

"And believe me, they had security around this place," he adds, referring to three caretaker-security buildings that adorned the site.

"It was remodeled for (grandchildren) young Henry and Ann. Henry loved Clarkston. He really did."

In addition to the caretaker houses on the site, there were a large barn and a chicken coop, which Ford converted to a schoolhouse.

During the 1940s and '50s, the schoolhouse held classes in the use of the new tractors, farm principles, the rotation of crops, and repair and tractor maintenance, Jim says.

Men brought to study the tractors from all over the world were housed in a large white residence near the front of the property.

A garage and one caretaker's house that stood on the site during Ford's time no longer exist, Jim says.

Agnes Richardson, 81, who oversaw the cooking of meals, other domestic chores and approximately eight employees on the farm for 10 years, remembers her employment with Ford as the best she ever had.

Those were days when people came from the world over to learn about the new tractors, she says, as she recalls them from the Independence Township house she was buying when the company made the move to Georgia, leaving her behind.

The visitors, mostly men, came by bus from Detroit on Sundays and stayed through until the

When Ford's tractors were new

following Saturday.

Huge tent parties were given in a field near the house whenever new implements were being introduced.

"The tractors were really something," she says, looking back fondly. Employees were busied painting everything there to match the gray and red tractors, she adds.

"I met people from all over the United States and Europe. It was an experience. But it was a nice experience."

"You met so many lovely people that appreciated the fact that you did what you did," she says.

As she recalls the era, Agnes remembers one man from India who wore a huge diamond in his turban and who symbolized for her the wealth of many visitors. "Oh, God, what a diamond that was," she says.

"I know I cried the day I left there. It had been such a lovely place."

Such was her affection for the farm and the good times that she shared. Agnes has never been back down Holcomb Road since the day she last drove away.

Agnes Richardson, as she looked in the 1940s, waits on a visitor to the Ford farm on Holcomb Road.

Tractors holding various implements are lined up along the fence surrounding Ford's Holcomb Road farm. They await students, who will learn about them and carry their knowledge back to dealerships. The Ford house can be seen in the background.

Soybean soup is not so appetizing

Several area residents whose tenure in Clarkston pre-dates the O'Neills' recall that Henry Ford loved soybeans and planned to grow them not only on his farm, but in the marsh he bought behind the park on Depot Road.

Howard Huttenlocher, who was president of the Clarkston Village Council during Ford's stay here, helped Ford locate property in Clarkston and spent time with him in Dearborn, where he endured dining on soybean soup.

After a tour of the Dearborn plant, Howard was told he had to have soybean soup for lunch in the factory dining room, he says.

But upon being served the soup didn't measure up to Ford's expectations.

"He said 'it doesn't look right' and demanded its return to the kitchen, much to the dismay of the harried busboy, according to Howard.

"When you were down there, he was pretty exacting," Howard says, calling Ford a "fanatic" on protein foods. "He insisted you eat soybeans because they were a great health-builder. Everybody needed it."

At this point, Howard's wife, Dorothy, interjects: "Howard used to come home and be impressed but also amused at the rigid unbending."

Local businessman Robert Beattie, who was a boy when Ford was in Clarkston, recalls the soybean era much as the Huttenlochers do.

"He got into a big soybean thing during the war," Robert says. "He had a whole group of things he had put together with soybeans."

Is it true drugs affect your memory?

Dear Cat Paw:

Is mescaline rat poison?

Don't Know

Dear Don't Know:

Mescaline is the psychoactive ingredient found naturally in the Mexican cactus, peyote. The sheriff's department tells me that mescaline is rarely found on the street today.

Most drug dealers, who are unscrupulous, often mix substances like LSD, PCP, amphetamines or STP with ground plant material and sell it to unsuspecting drug buyers as mescaline.

Rat poison has been found mixed with illegal drugs. I do not know whether or not you have purchased a drug containing rat poison.

Dear Cat Paw:

Are diet pills considered speed?

Wondering

Dear Wondering:

Yes, diet pills are included in the category of drugs which act by stimulating the central nervous system.

They include among others amphetamine, benzedrine, caffeine, methamphetamine, cocaine and the so-called legal stimulants. Stimulants are used medically on occasion as appetite depressants.

Dear Cat Paw:

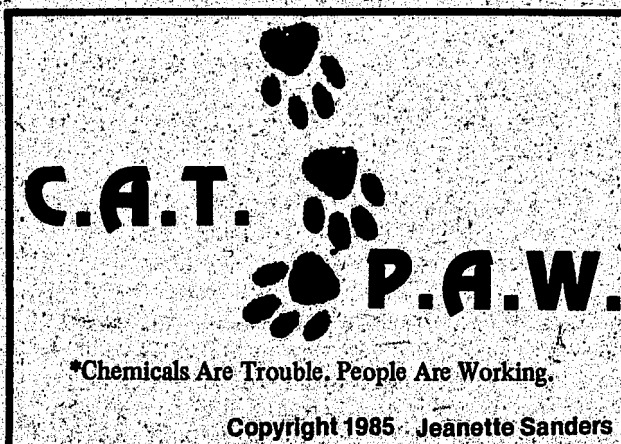

How does drinking affect the mind?

Student

Dear Student:

Chronic drinking can kill brain cells, change brain structure and reduce the supply of blood to the brain. Alcohol also robs the body of thiamine and other vitamins critical to brain functioning.

Alcohol's central nervous system damage also includes problems with coordination, movement and perception, confused and disorganized thinking, and significant loss of memory functioning.

Dear Cat Paw:

Is it true drugs affect your memory?

Confused

Dear Confused:

You'd better believe it!

Dear Cat Paw:

What is Crank made of?

Wondering Student

Dear Wondering:

Crank is amphetamine (speed).

Letters to Cat Paw may be sent in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Cat Paw author Jeanette Sanders, a Springfield Township resident, is a member of the Clarkston Area Chemical People, an organization devoted to the prevention of substance abuse among the community's young people.

Sick of school

It seems at this time of year, people are becoming really sick of winter and school.

Even though Valentine's Day passed just a couple of weeks ago, many students were not thrilled about it.

Many of them wish it was summer and they could do what they want without having to worry about school and all the homework the teachers are piling on.

People are becoming very anxious for summer and to get rid of this dull winter weather.

They are ready to get out their bikinis and go to the beach, or to a rock concert or to blast their stereos.

Even though for teenagers summer is usually the best time of the year, they are usually upset on the last day of school because they are afraid of not being able to see friends as much.

It is especially upsetting at junior high schools because they know they are leaving that school forever and will be in high school, and may not see as many of their friends as often.

We still have almost four months of school to struggle through before we can party all summer.

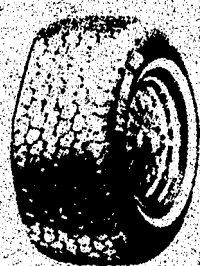

Rachel Gianakos, a ninth-grader at Sushabaw Junior High School, is working at The Clarkston News this school year through the SIHS mentorship program.

Homecoming spirit

A basketball game is the homecoming game instead of a football game? What is going on here?

The University of Detroit has no football team but has a well-known basketball team. So, in this case, you have a homecoming basketball game in February instead of a homecoming football game in October.

On Feb. 8, our homecoming game was a battle for the conference lead between U of D and Xavier of Ohio.

As part of the university, members of the student body at U of D's Clarkston campus decided to go down to Calihan Hall and join in the fun. About 20 of us gathered together to form our own cheering section.

We even had front-row bleacher seats that were behind one of the baskets. There were a lot of people to keep us company.

In the bleachers next to us was the Phi Kappa Theta fraternity in red and white striped polo shirts. In the bleachers on our left was the Kappa Beta Gamma sorority in white sweat shirts.

These two groups were competing during the whole game. There was a lot of shouting going on from them and us.

The first half started out with Xavier at our end and the two teams battling for every point. U of D started out ahead, fell behind and ended up tied with Xavier at the half.

The second half was also a nail-biter. U of D fell behind at the beginning and then pulled out in front to stay. The final score was U of D-80, Xavier-71.

We were an enthusiastic support group that was a jumble of arms and pompons every time U of D scored. For a homecoming basketball game, it was a stupendous event.

Nominees wanted for youth awards

Do you know a young person who deserves recognition for outstanding volunteer work for an individual or organization?

The Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee is looking for such youngsters to honor at their Youth Recognition Banquet planned April 17.

Names can be submitted by calling 625-9007.

The volunteer service might be personal acts of heroism, hospital or nursing home service, ecology and beautification activities, preparing meals and baby-sitting for ill neighbors, helping the elderly, tutoring, fund raisers for SCAMP, March of Dimes, Special Olympics or Muscular Dystrophy; or church youth projects.

Nominees are selected on the basis of special volunteer services. Paid services are not eligible.

Music is her high note

by Pat Evans

Julie Matthews has been teaching students at Clarkston Junior High School to read and enjoy music for the past six years.

Since joining our staff, her students have a consistent five-year record of good ratings in competitions.

She has also strongly encouraged them to participate in Solo and Ensemble. As many as 65 have simultaneously competed with children from other schools.

Julie was born and raised in Casnovia, Mich. She was a first-grader when she began 12 years of formal training in piano. Julie feels her solid grounding in this instrument was extremely beneficial and helped her to be versatile later on.

She was a trombone player in the elementary school band and continued her love for music throughout her school life.

While she may have been limited in terms of the variety of outlets for her musicality at Kent City High School, she credits the band teacher there with developing her talent.

The choice of teaching as a profession was influenced by her mother, a third-grade teacher, and by her father, a school board member. Her two younger sisters, one of whom is a high school student, are also musical.

As a high school student, she received many plaudits. While a member of the Honors Band, she was selected to attend Interlochen as a player in the All-State Band through the University of Michigan.

Upon high school graduation, she received the

Julie Matthews inspires many children when she tells them she is able to play every instrument in the band except the flute and piccolo.

John Phillip Sousa Award as the outstanding senior band member, received the Chorus Award and was a scholarship recipient.

At Western Michigan University, she majored in music education and continued to garner recognition for her musicianship and scholarship. Her summers are occupied with work toward a master's degree in music education.

Recently, she was selected by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association to be an adjudicator for solo and ensemble competitions.

Clarkston residents might find Julie playing in the Community Band, singing the alto part in the Methodist church choir, or playing the trombone in the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra.

She enjoys family camping in our state parks in the summer. She also enjoys hooking rugs and has a collection of Precious Moments figurines.

When time permits, Julie foresees travel for herself, especially in the western United States. She enjoyed a trip to Chicago recently where she attended a performance of the musical "Cats."

Julie inspires many children when she tells them she is able to play every instrument in the band except the flute and piccolo. Everyone agrees this is a marvelous accomplishment and one of which to be proud!

"I try to encourage my students to be able to have this knowledge and interest in music their entire lives," she said. "I want them to be able to understand and appreciate different types of music and keep these life-long skills."

She is a fine example of the words she preaches.

An Apple for the Teacher is provided through a committee of the Clarkston Education Association.

This week's feature was written by Pat Evans, a special education teacher at Clarkston Junior High School.

This trio dons masks and goggles as a group of sixth-graders prepares to experience spray painting in the auto body repair shop on Feb. 13. [Photos by Kathy Greenfield]

Bill Holmes, the instructor in machine trades, explains the finer points of a piece of computerized machinery. Watching, from left, are Andersonville pupil Lonnie Ward and North Sashabaw pupils Shelley Campbell and Brenda Nancarrow.

Hands-on outing

Jeff Gray, a North Sashabaw pupil, holds onto the spray gun. He's assisted by Todd Fante, a Clarkston High School senior and auto body repair student at the vocational school.

Hands-on experience in vocational education possibilities now belong to sixth-graders from the Clarkston, Holly and Brandon school districts.

Visits to the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center in Springfield Township were made in the past two weeks. Each pupil had the opportunity to visit two of the school's 17 vocational education programs.

"We hope to have about 400 goodwill ambassadors running around the schools," said NWOVEC Principal Dan Manthei.

The visits were a pilot project that worked out very well, said Doug Pierson, assistant principal.

"Many of the younger kids didn't even know what we had out here," he said, and he quoted a youngster from Holly: "When I heard we were going on a field trip to another school, I thought it would be boring. I want to come back. When can I come back?"

The answer is, during the pupil's high school years.

Meanwhile, Pierson said he hoped the children would talk about their positive experiences.

"If you want to get the word out, tell a sixth-grader," he said.

The large snowfall Thursday creates a perfect day for playing in the snow. Brian Oppmann, David Brown, Katie Colosino and Renee VanKlaveren are among the children at Clarkston Elementary trying out the teeter-totters during middle recess Friday.

Recess is for kids

Becky Moore, Jill Cascone, Arica Cooper and Katie McArthur practice cheerleading during their lunch recess. They are among the many on the playground having fun in the snow.
