Plane crash kills CHS principal

John Kirchgessner was appointed principal of Clarkston High School last July.

By Dan Vandenhemel

Clarkston High School principal John Kirchgessner died March 2 at 1:15 p.m. in Pontiac General Hospital from injuries he suffered in a plane crash the day before.

The crash occurred at 4:13 p.m. Saturday near the Oakland-Pontiac Airport in Waterford.

A report filed by the Waterford Township Police stated that a single-engine plane piloted by Patrick Gorrie and a similar plane flown by Kirchgessner, with passenger Anthony Palazzola aboard, apparently collided about 300 feet above the ground as they approached the airport.

John McLain of the police force said officer Robert Johnson witnessed the collision and filed the report.

The report states Gorrie's plane appeared to catch up to Kirchgessner's aircraft, strike the tail, fly on top of it, then crash to the ground on a lot on Tubbs Road in Waterford Township.

As of Tuesday morning, Gorrie, 19, of Ortonville was in serious condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac.

Palazzola, 24, of Independence Township was in serious condition at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak. Palazzola is a 1980 graduate of Clarkston High School.

Officials of the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) are investigating the incident to determine its cause.

An unidentified official in the Chicago office of the NTSB said representatives are in Pontiac investigating.

Gorrie reportedly was making his first solo flight, which the official said he heard but could not confirm. Kirchgessner had been flying for the past six years.

Kirchgessner was appointed principal of the high school last July to replace the retiring Dom Mauti.

The 39-year-old Springfield Township resident worked in the Clarkston School District for 17 years.

Teachers, students mourn a friend

By Dan Vandenhemel

Monday morning at Clarkston High School was unusually quiet.

The faculty and students were stunned by the news that their principal and friend, John Kirchgessner, was killed in a plane crash over the weekend.

The morning announcements, read by teacher Jim Wenger, told the school population about the accident and asked them to share a moment of silence.

CHS secretary Dotti Allen said you could hear a pin drop during the first couple of hours of the school day.

Assistant principal, Jan Gabier, said the entire building was quiet.

"Everybody is visibly shaken," she said from her office. "He fit right into the job. He cared so much about the kids, the faculty."

Gabier and Kirchgessner were assistant principals together at CHS for 10 years before. Kirchgessner was promoted to principal last July.

"I've known him for 11 years," she said. "He was one of my best friends."

Kirchgessner worked in the Clarkston School District since 1969. He started as a science teacher at Sashabaw Junior High School then became an assistant principal of that school three years later.

He was assistant principal at SJHS for three years before he took a similar position at the high school.

He is a native of Ohio and received a bachelor's degree from Bowling Green State University in Ohio.

He earned a master's degree from Michigan State University and an education specialist degree from Eastern Michigan University.

Kirchgessner lived in Springfield Township with his wife Jan and sons John, 11, and Jerrod, 9.

Gabier said one of Kirchgessner's many good qualities was his sense of humor.

In November, at the time of the annual Michigan-Ohio State football rivalry, the jokes and pranks filled the CHS offices.

"His wife Jan always baked cookies in the shape of Ohio and during the week we'd all mysteriously find the cookies on our desks," Gabier said. "Of course, we all knew where they came from. He was always up for a good joke."

"He was one of my best friends"

—Jan Gabier

School superintendent, Milford Mason, said there are no plans for closing the school or cancelling any functions.

"Mrs. Kirchgessner's words were to have business go on as normal," Mason said. "John would want to have school in session."

"We had a staff meeting to explain what happened. Jim Butzine, the district's social worker, is in to help people deal with the situation. Everyone has to support everyone else."

Kirchgessner's funeral was held March 5, at 3:30 p.m. at St. Daniel Church. He was buried in Davisburg Cemetery.

Mason said Mrs. Kirchgessner wanted the service as late in the day as possible so those in the school who wanted to could attend.

Memorials can be made to St. Daniel Church and to the John J. Kirchgessner Living Memorial Fund. Envelopes for the memorials are available at the Lewis E. Wint and Son Funeral Home.

Village election March 10

By Carolyn Walker

Five Village of Clarkston Republicans are seeking two-year terms in the village council in a general election to be held March 10. All are running unopposed. Running for the position of president is Sharon Catallo, a Buffalo Street resident. Catallo has served as a trustee and her term expires this month.

In addition, Norma Givens and Artemus Pappas are seeking reelection to their posts as clerk and treasurer, respectively.

Eric Haverd and Robert L. Smith and Frank H. Millard of Holman Street are seeking positions as trustees.

A third trustee vacancy may be filled by a write-in vote.

President Carol L. Bernhardt is also seeking reelection. Her six trustees are Jack Carter and Peter Smith, who serve until next year.

Voters may cast their ballots at the Village Hall on Deerpark Road between the 100th and 110th streets, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on March 10.

Things look good for village

By Julie LePere

In the past year, approximately a dozen businesses have left the village of Clarkston.

They left for many reasons.

Their owners moved to other locations or gave up their businesses because they tired of their "hobby," according to Village Council President Carol Eberhardt.

However, Eberhardt predicts stability for the future.

"I think all the businesses here are very stable," she said. "I don't foresee any mass exodus like last summer and last fall. The businesses that are here are here to stay."

Business has been good for the stores remaining in Clarkston, said Eberhardt.

"Businesses have seen substantial increases month by month," she said. "The economy certainly has helped."

In addition, the village is planning improvements to make Clarkston a more attractive business location.

"Right now, the village council is looking for a Downtown Development Authority (DDA), which is one of the ways which we could facilitate the restoration of the (street and village)," said Eberhardt.

"I think all the businesses here are very stable"

—Carol Eberhardt

"It's a way of improving the downtown. It's a way of keeping tax money in the downtown district. We've been trying for years to find a way to finance streetscape here."

The funds would be used for benches, planter boxes and pedestrian crosswalks.

"Road problems are generated because township planning increases traffic but doesn't generate more funds," said Eberhardt. "This is just one way to look at improvements without a general tax increase to all the residents."

Carol Eberhardt, village council president, predicts a good year for village businesses. Last year, about 12 businesses left town leaving vacant stores.

Car chase leads to charges

By Carolyn Walker

Two Flint men were recently charged with possession of a stolen auto and felonious assault in 52nd District Court following a car chase that ended in Independence Township, according to a court spokesperson.

Randi Washington, 23, faced a preliminary examination before 52nd District Court Judge Gerald McNally on Feb. 21.

His alleged accomplice, Robert Weaver Jr., 22, was to face a preliminary examination on Feb. 28.

The charges against the two stem from an incident in which they allegedly stole a car in Bloomfield

Township during the night hours of Feb. 18.

After obtaining the car, the two were pursued at speeds as high as 105 miles-per-hour by Bloomfield police and later officers of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department who joined the chase in Pontiac.

They fled along I-75 before ramming a police car driven by Oakland County Sheriff's Dept. James Pelquin, who was attempting to drive ahead of them and block their car.

The men were apprehended at the I-75/M-15 exit in Independence, said Det. Sgt. R. Manning, of the sheriff's department.

There were no injuries in the incident, he added.

Ronk anticipates needs of Independence

By Carolyn Walker

It's no secret that businesses and developments are booming in Independence Township, says Supervisor Frank Ronk.

As Ronk enters his second year of public office, he says he foresees continued township growth and hopes it will be orderly.

After all, Independence is his boyhood home and though he retains pleasant memories of the way things used to be, he says expansion cannot be avoided.

"I think we're going to be a growing community both residentially and commercially," he says, attributing the current trend to Independence's location along the I-75 corridor.

"I don't think there's any way that we in the community can stand in the way of progress."

Ronk also predicts major commercial or office developments along the Sashabaw corridor over the next 10 years.

"We definitely need some multiple housing"

—Frank Ronk

That area, because of its proximity to I-75 and Pine Knob Music Theater, is unlikely to remain residential, he contends.

As he oversees the community's situation from his office in Main Street's township hall, Ronk explains some of the things he would like to see encouraged in Independence.

"We definitely need some multiple housing," he says, adding that it should be geared at senior citizens as well as young people and newcomers.

In addition, the community needs to increase its tax base with more commercial and light industrial developments while maintaining the character of Clarkston, he says.

The township Economic Development Corporation and a proposed Downtown Development Authority for the intersection of M-15 and Dixie Highway may help encourage appropriate businesses, he says.

"That's the route that we're working in. (Trying) to make it attractive to those type things that fit into the community."

Ronk says he would like to see research office units that would support large developments in places like Rochester or Auburn Hills, or that would complement the auto industry, thus providing job opportunities without requiring high-rise structures.

Improvements in police protection are also high on his list of priorities.

"We're setting up a committee right now to study the police needs," he says, adding that the committee should take about six weeks to determine if it is necessary to place the police millage issue back on the ballot.

"We've got to do something about our police here," he says.

According to Ronk, it is cost prohibitive to try and re-establish a township police force. "The next best thing is our contract. We've got to figure out a way to increase our officers' numbers."

Police services are currently contracted through the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

In addition, Ronk says he would like to see a community center constructed in the township, though he says he doesn't anticipate action on that matter in the near future.

The concept of a community center has been debated unsuccessfully throughout the township for several years.

To be successful, a community center must be implemented through the cooperation of the people, according to Ronk. "If we're going to do it, we've got to do it as a community.

"We have to make a commitment as a community to fund the thing; not only to build it, but to make it function," he says.

Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk sees good things in the township's future. He predicts steady increases in residences, businesses and commerce.

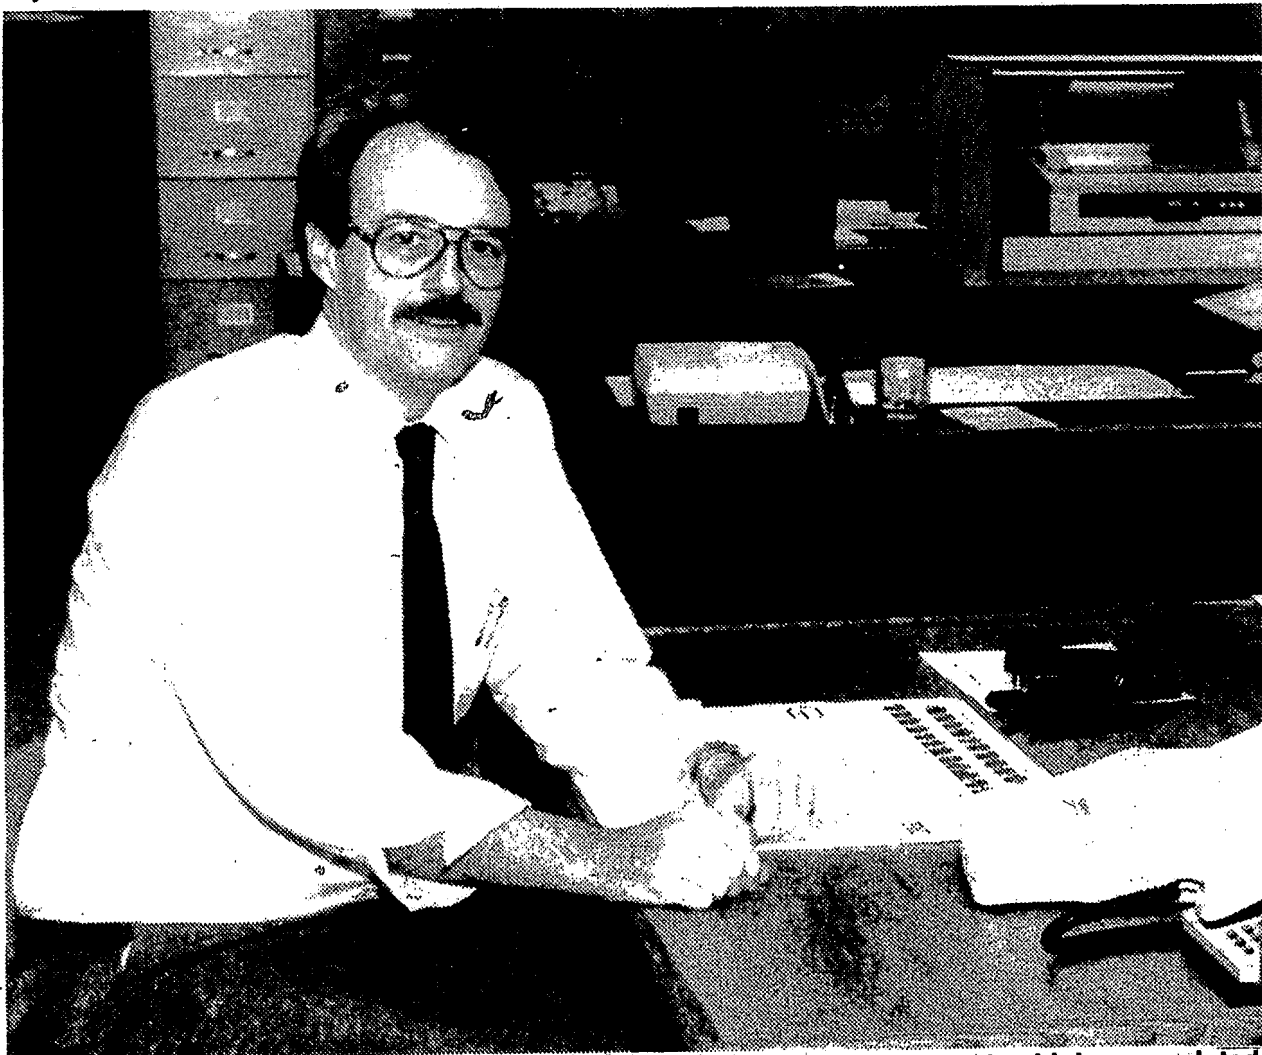

Study to help Springfield area businesses

By Dan Vandenhemel

Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls has lived in the township all his 43 years and he has kept the same stance about the area. He'd like to see it stay the same.

"I said it every year, Springfield Township is the best place to live," he said. "I really believe that."

There are improvements in the township going on annually but it is basically a small rural community, and Walls likes it that way.

Supervisor Collin Walls said the economical revitalization study going on in the township to help local businesses should be completed sometime around May.

One of the projects going on in the township is a way of improving area businesses, both existing and new ones.

An economic revitalization study is underway in the township. Walls said it started about three months ago and is scheduled to wrap up its findings around May.

The study isn't just for the industrial-type companies but also the small party store, the service station or family owned flower shop.

"Part of the information we hope to get from the study is have some actual market research on the type of business an area can support," Walls said. "If someone comes to us and wants to put a party store in "Springfield Township is the best place to live" on Dixie Highway near Bridge Lake Road for example, we can show them that that spot probably wouldn't sustain another party store."

—Collin Walls

For new businesses, the study will provide the market research plus the governmental regulations concerning them.

The major thrust is to take care of existing businesses, Walls said.

Last year only three or four new businesses moved into the township bringing the total close to 90, Walls said.

"This study is not to go out and get new businesses," Walls said. "It's to help the existing ones right now. Businesses are in business to make money. We'd like them to get the most out of their business."

The Davisburg Rotary is assisting with the study. From the township's standpoint, said Walls, the study is to help reach a certain goal.

"The study can show business owners what they can do in way of improvements, what kind of assistance they can get, and what programs are available they may benefit from," Walls said.

Public hearings

The public is welcome at four public hearings scheduled to be held March 13 by the Independence Township Planning Commission.

On the agenda are two requests for zoning changes and two proposed amendments to the township ordinance.

Requesting one zoning change is the Waterford Baptist Church.

The petitioners seek to change five acres of property off Maybee Road east of Sashabaw Road from planned shopping center to rural residential zoning.

If granted, the new zoning status would pave the way for the construction of a church.

Also seeking a zoning change following the hearing is Frederick Ritter, who wishes to build a car wash facility on Dixie Highway between Lingor and Parview roads.

Ritter is requesting that a one-acre zoning change be made from highway commercial to planned unit development (PUD).

In addition, the commission is conducting two public hearings regarding an ordinance amendment to clarify junk car rules and accessory buildings in residential districts.

The hearings are to be held at a regularly scheduled meeting of the commission, in the Independence Township hall annex off Main Street at 7:30 p.m.

Garbage can wildlife

Kathy Greenfield

We have a possum living, we think, under our back porch.

One day last winter, we saw it sauntering across our driveway. One recent afternoon, it spent an hour eating birdseed at our feeder.

We also found it in an unexpected place a month or so ago.

Not wanting to give away the surprise, my husband provided a clue.

"Go look in the garbage can," he said. "There's something there you'll want to see."

"Are you crazy?" said I. "There's nothing I want to see in the garbage can—ever."

Still, he knew I would be hooked with such an unusual request.

The possum looked worried, so I talked to it: "What are you doing in there? I'll bet you're thinking about Brandy."

Our trusty Irish setter was meandering around, more interested in trying to get somebody to play Frisbee or catch than in one of nature's creations nestled in a can.

Everyone eventually went inside. The possum disappeared, but we've seen it since. I'm glad.

The possum reminds me of the raccoon we knew when I was growing up, but it was much friendlier than the worried possum.

In fact, it used to cuddle up with our dog on the back porch. We even have photographs of it sitting in comfort with Buttons, the part-collie.

We, the children in our family, were all instructed not to touch the raccoon because it was a wild animal. But we liked it and looked forward to the times it would come out of the woods for a visit.

We figured it may have been kept by a family until it got too old to be happy in captivity. A stray raccoon? A possibility, I suppose.

To the best of my memory, the raccoon was around for a couple of years. Then it disappeared for good.

At that time, the property around our house was rural enough for hunters to visit on occasion. Some of them asked permission to hunt. And some told my father they were hunting 'coons.

We never found out what happened to the raccoon, but we all hoped it was smart enough to distinguish safe people from the dangerous kind.

Letter to editor

A tree for Linda at CMU

In living and loving memory of Linda J. Masak, friends, colleagues and co-workers are working together to have a tree planted at Central Michigan University.

The tree will thrive and grow as our memories of Linda will.

As a senior at CMU, Linda spent a great deal of time in Grawn Hall for her major study in finance and accounting. Through the "CMU Beautification" project, this tree and plaque will be planted outside of Grawn Hall.

I have personally tried to contact the friends and people who were close to Linda for their cooperation in this project.

Unfortunately, I am aware that I have not been able to contact everyone. Therefore, I am writing this letter with the hope that I will be able to reach those that I have not yet contacted.

I do not want to overlook anyone who wants to be a part of this project for Linda.

Donations for the plaque and tree may be sent to:

Please enclose a return address to ensure that you receive a map of the tree's location and the date that it is planted in the spring.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

It's not that I'm picking on Jim Whittington. It's just that he keeps writing me letters. The president of Fountain of Life, in Greenville, NC writes about once a month and quotes the Bible frequently.

His most recent letter said "We are living in the last days." And, "God is going to anoint you with a supernatural anointing for your soul, mind and body."

Whittington says Psalms says "God anointed David with holy oil". With that, Whittington put a fingerprint on my letter and asked me to do the same. He suggested I could use cooking oil to anoint his fingerprint.

He also asked "in the name of Jesus to sacrifice a special offering of $21.00." Then if the Lord deals with me in a special way, I should send $42.00.

This is all fine. No problem, once I get one thing settled. Is a 'special way' good or bad? Do I only send the $42 if what happens seems good to me, or is someone else the judge of what's good?

And, if the special is good, and something happens that is bad, do I get the whole $42 back, or do I sacrifice the $21 or does the Fountain of Life owe me $21?

I read some place, maybe the Bible, that St. Luke, the physician said, "As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise."

So, Jim Whittington, if I send you a letter asking you to dip your finger into the Wesson oil and touch it to my letter and return it with $21 or $42, will you do it?

If I followed Jim Whittington's suggestions all the way I can "expect miracles" he said. It would be a miracle if I followed his suggestions at all.

SHORT TAKES

Among the things I hate to do is wear advertisements for things on my clothes or car bumper. If a car dealer wants to advertise his name, put it in the paper, not on my car.

Same way with Coca Cola, Forenza, Miami, Budweiser, and Vlasic's pickles.

But, to show my inconsistency, I don't mind wearing hats and sweaters from various golf courses.

—O—

Received a politician's survey in December. Didn't fill it out. It's a little troubling to see a question worded to get the response that agrees with a stand already taken by that officeholder.

—O—

In a long letter to George Weeks of the Detroit News, Richard Headlee, unsuccessful GOP candidate for Governor in 1982, said of the race, "Losing to a wimp who couldn't tell the truth about taxes and spending was a little embarrassing."

The next Republican candidate may want to use the same quote after he's sacrificed in November.

Purr-r-r-fect vengeance

Carolyn Walker

The Perfectionist tells me I'm paranoid whenever I mention Tulipan.

But I know I speak the truth when I say she didn't like me.

And that she hated to relinquish her role as lady-of-the-house when The Perfectionist and I got married and I moved into his home.

Hers was an unadulterated case of female jealousy, at best. Feminine instincts from deep within me tell me it was so.

Tulipan (a cat named by The Perfectionist's mother for a kitten in a book she read as a youngster several decades ago) had a lot of things going against her. She was old. And she was ugly, ugly, ugly.

Her long, slender tail looked like a rat's, her sparse fur was unpettable and she hobbled on crooked legs.

Tulipan didn't sit, she hunched. Tulipan didn't watch, she glared. And Tulipan didn't purr, she growled.

My friends called her, appropriately enough, arthritic kitty.

In her jealousy, she did a lot of things just to make me mad. Things that always worked.

When I would be bounding from room to room doing housework in my newly-married enthusiasm, she would lurk in a corner, wait until I was most unsuspecting, then take a swipe at my leg—claws out.

Zigmund Freed

She loved it (I could tell by the expression on her face) when I recoiled in pain and anger.

The simplest solution, I thought, was to assert my authority and throw her outside where she could wreak havoc on traffic and such. I did it with relish.

One steaming summer night when I was sleeping peacefully and The Perfectionist was snoring as usual, Tulipan decided to Get Even.

She knew it was hot. She knew I wanted the bedroom window open for air. And she knew that I was, well . . . modestly clad.

I'm convinced she sat out in the yard watching for the lights to go off. Even now, I can picture her waiting patiently for the stillness that accompanies a sleeping household.

When the time was right and she knew that I was fast asleep, she crept onto an outdoor roof that adjoined our bedroom window.

She walked to the screen, and without so much as an anticipatory meow, began the repetitious twang, twang, twang of cat claws on vibrating metal.

It worked. I was up.

In response, I hobbled to the window to cuss at her under my breath. But by the time I arrived, she was six feet away on the roof's end, washing her paws innocently.

She looked at me as if to say, "Yes?" And I went back to bed.

by Dan Ziegler

I had just drifted off to sleep when the twang, twang began again.

Frustrated, I got up once more, preparing to yell. Again, by the time I arrived at the window, I found her sitting contentedly, paw-washing.

When the entire episode happened a third time there was nothing left for me to do but go out in the yard, modestly clad, and arm myself with a garden hose.

Re-asserting my authority, I charged around the house, spraying water everywhere in the wee hours of night as Tulipan pranced and enticed—exhibiting more energy than I had ever known her to possess.

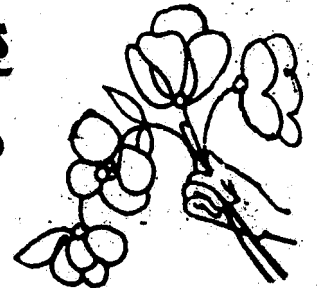

At last, my ploy worked. She quit, her spirits and fur dampened.

I returned to bed to get, oh, 30 minutes sleep before the alarm went off.

I felt victorious. But looking back now, I'm not sure who had the last laugh . . . er, purr.

'If it Fitz ...'

There are good signs and bad

Jim Fitzgerald

Looking ahead at the future, which is where it usually is, I see a good sign and a bad sign for Dick Chrysler, who wants to be governor of Michigan.

An example of a bad sign is "No Right Turn on Red Light."

A few years ago, when Michigan finally began allowing a right turn on red, as most other states have been doing forever, I was jubilant. But my joy has been severely curtailed by local governments that won't go along with the state law. They pick out the corners where most of us want to turn right and put up signs saying we can't do it on red. They do this to curry favor with influential but pessimistic citizens who delight in seeing bad signs everywhere, even in the best curry.

An example of a good sign is "Breakfast Anytime."

Often, when I eat in a restaurant, it is my first meal of the day, even if it's 2 o'clock in the afternoon, because I like to sleep late. So I want breakfast -- two eggs up and toast. Many restaurants stop serving breakfast at 10 in the morning, but there is never a sign outside saying "No Breakfast After 10 a.m.," which is a bad sign.

I have to go inside and mess up a table setting before I learn, from a hardworking waitress, that I'm three hours late for breakfast. I can't get up and leave without offending the waitress, and I'm afraid to do that. I'm intimidated by everyone in uniform. When a bus driver misses my stop, I never complain. I just keep riding because I know the world is round.

So I order a sandwich, even though I don't want it; I want breakfast. Most of all, I want the security of entering a restaurant with a sign saying "Breakfast Anytime" in the window. That's a good sign.

The next best thing would be avoiding a restaurant displaying a sign saying "No Breakfast After 10 a.m." That's a bad sign, similar to "No Right turn on Red Light," but also a sign indicating the management doesn't intimidate customers into eating sandwiches they don't want, which is a good sign.

But let's talk about political signs. I keep reading that gubernatorial candidate Dick Chrysler is spending millions on broadcast advertising to "make his name as familiar" as the names of his best-known GOP primary opponents -- a couple of guys named Lucas and Murphy.

Holy cow. I couldn't be more familiar with Dick Chrysler's name if he were Dick Oldsmobile. It appears obvious that his name gives him a big advantage in the recognition race. I never had any fun in the backseat of a Lucas or Murphy.

Dick Chrysler is even in the auto business -- he customizes them. TV commercials show him striding purposefully around a car assembly operation, the same way Lee Iacocca does. Iacocca is probably the most electable person in Michigan, and his name is tightly associated with Chrysler.

It is a bad sign that Dick Chrysler isn't smart enough to realize that, before he spent a cent on advertising, he already had the best name in the gubernatorial contest. Many informed citizens will vote for Chrysler thinking they're applying for a job working on Iacocca's production line.

But it is a good sign that Chrysler is so exceedingly rich he can afford to reject the opportunity to spend public money on his campaign. Accepting it would limit Chrysler to spending only $1.2 million each on the primary and general elections, and he apparently wants to spend lots more than that.

What this state needs is a governor so independently wealthy that he won't have to curry favor from influential people who don't want to turn right on a red light or eat breakfast at 2 p.m.

New fire hall gets conceptual approval

By Carolyn Walker

A new fire station is in the works for Independence Township.

Some $500,000 has been budgeted for the project which is scheduled to replace the existing station 2 at Clarkston and Sashabaw roads.

The proposed building received conceptual site plan approval from the planning commission Feb. 27.

The vote for approval was 6-1, with commissioner John Gray dissenting.

According to Fire Chief Dale Bailey, the new 71,000-square-foot building will be constructed while the existing building still stands.

After completion of the new building, the old one will be torn down. It is necessary to maintain a building at all times to house men and equipment, Bailey said.

Last year, station 2 was deemed antiquated by the township's fire commission, which had studied the department's needs. A new building was recommended.

Before granting conceptual approval, some commissioners expressed concern that the facility would be constructed of masonry blocks and thus not fit into the Independence atmosphere.

"We pick on other developers about the flavor of the township and not building these ultra-modern buildings then we turn around and do it ourselves," said commissioner Holly Stephens.

Joseph Figa agreed, saying he was concerned the building would resemble a gas station.

The architect's site plans currently call for red scored block or brick, a gray roof and aluminum trim.

Bailey said he was unsure what materials would be used, but added, "We've got to have something that's waterproof on the inside (for the cleaning of equipment)."

He agreed to have a colonial design for the building investigated before the final site plans are considered.

The commission also requested improved landscaping for the project.

An informal review between the township and the architect is to be held prior to final site plan approval.

Before voting on the matter Stephens and Gray voiced complaints about the last-minute presentation of the site plans, which were received the night of the meeting.

The commissioners recently adopted a policy to not review conceptual site plans that are late because it does not give them enough time for consideration.

The plans, which should have been submitted the previous Friday, were tardy because of a late printing schedule.

Gray said he could not support conceptual approval of the site plans because of this policy and voted no.

After the meeting Chairman Neil Wallace explained why the commission went ahead with approval.

Springfield library has tax aids

The Springfield Township Library is carrying a variety of materials to help taxpayers prepare their federal income tax forms.

Video tape instructions and a number of state forms are available at the library.

The library is on Andersonville Road in Springfield Township and is open during the week from noon to 8 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

For more information, call the library at 625-0595.

"I wanted to give the township and the fire department some idea that they were going to go forward," he said. "I think it's important that the community get these kinds of facilities in place when they're needed. It was a very well done plan."

Wallace said that unlike petitioners who are starting from scratch, the location, look and traffic hazards for the station are already known.

Voting to grant conceptual approval were Chairman Neil Wallace and commissioners Robert Dieball, Brent Bair, Carol Balzarini, Stephens and Figa.

Teen pleads guilty

Jackie Basham, the teenage driver of a car that went out of control last June causing the death of a passenger, has been sentenced to serve one year in the Oakland County Jail.

His passenger Chad Stern, a 14-year-old Independence Township youth, was killed when Basham's car rolled over on Dixie Highway near Davisburg Road in Springfield Township.

Basham, who was 17 at the time of the accident, was sentenced by Oakland County Circuit Court Judge David Breck on Feb. 27.

He pleaded guilty to charges of negligent homicide on Feb. 18, according to Charles Spiekerman, assistant Oakland County prosecutor.

In addition to the jail sentence, Basham received two year's probation and court fees, Spiekerman said. Basham may become eligible for a work release program, he added.

Basham, an Independence Township resident, was not injured during the accident. A second passenger, William Lythgoe, also of Independence, was treated for injuries at an area hospital.

Two sentenced

Brian Williams, 18, and former Food Town employee Craig Pearce, 17, recently pleaded guilty to armed robbery in Oakland County Circuit Court.

They also pleaded guilty to assault with intent to rob while armed, according to Det. Sgt. R. Manning, of the county sheriff's department.

The charges against the two stem from an October incident in which the men allegedly robbed two Food Town employees while they were making a night deposit at the nearby Pontiac State Bank on Sashabaw Road.

Williams was sentenced by circuit court Judge Hilda Gage to 3-20 years in prison on Feb. 18.

Pearce is awaiting sentencing.

The men were arrested by sheriff's deputies on Oct. 29 after the robbery as one suspect was preparing to leave the state.

During the incident, the two allegedly stole cash and checks after hitting Food Town employee Chester Jeffrey on the head with a crow bar and knocking his co-worker Robert Saul against a wall.

Jeffrey sustained a concussion during the robbery.

Over assessed? There's help

By Carolyn Walker

Now's the time to look at your assessment statement and determine if you need an appeal.

An Independence Township Board of Review is available to citizens who wish to protest their state equalized valuations (SEV), commonly called assessments.

Assessment notices were due to be mailed Friday to residents who have a change in their valuations, said township assessor David Kramer.

The board of review is comprised of three tax-paying township residents appointed to two-year terms by the board of trustees, Kramer said.

This year's board of review consists of Daniel Ellsworth, Thomas Brecht and Leslie Greene.

The purpose of the board of review is to examine complaints of property valuations and situations of hardship where the owner would be unduly burdened by his/her taxes, Kramer said.

"If a person has a problem with the value that's assigned . . . it behooves them to talk to the assessing office (first)," Kramer said. "The board is not a sounding board for everybody's ills (against) the township."

Residents who wish to appeal their assessed values before the board must call the assessor's office for an appointment with the board. The number is 625-8114.

They must also bring documentation supporting their disagreement with their assessments or proof that they have an inability to pay their taxes.

Summer and winter taxes are based on the SEVs. Forms are available in the assessor's office in Main Street's township hall that must be filled out by those making appeals, Kramer added.

Lengthy forms for documenting hardship must also be filled out and are available in the assessor's office.

Citizens wishing to protest their valuations must do so before the close of the board of review's hearings.

The hearings are scheduled for March 10 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and March 11 from 1-9 p.m.

There will be days added if necessary, Kramer said. If those days are not needed, the hearings and appeals process will be closed.

Summer taxes are due to be mailed in July.

Those owning houses with SEVs of $20,000 can expect to pay some $991 in taxes, Kramer said, citing an example.

Problem between governments

By Carolyn Walker

A clash over a decision by former assessor David Sherrill is straining the relationship between the Village of Clarkston and Independence Township.

The problem stems from Sherrill's decision to grant a sidwell number to a piece of property to which the village had previously denied a lot split.

In doing so, he effectively created a lot split on paper despite the village's stance, says village attorney John Steckling.

A sidwell number is a number assigned to property for assessing and tax purposes.

The property in question is now part of the Clarkston Corners' parking lot.

It formerly belonged to the former Hursfall house behind Clarkston Corners on Church Street and was purchased by owners of the Clarkston Corners.

Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk says Sherrill acted legally when he granted the sidwell number.

But, members of the village council say they feel the township usurped their authority.

At recent meetings, village council members have considered filing a lawsuit against the township, though no such action has been taken.

Village President Carol Eberhardt, Ronk, new assessor David Kramer and their attorneys are preparing a hearing to try and resolve the situation.

A date has not been set.

New village planner

Donald Borngesser, a resident of Buffalo Street and co-owner of Carol's Village Grill, has been appointed to the Clarkston Planning Commission.

He was appointed Feb. 10 in a 5-0 vote of the village council, following the recommendation of council President Carol Eberhardt.

"We do not have a downtown business person on the planning commission and I think that's necessary," Eberhardt said.

Borngesser replaces Lorry Mahler, who resigned her position on the commission because of business obligations.

Wolves lose, tie for title

By Dan Vandenhemel

The Clarkston Wolves own only part of the league title, not all of it as they had hoped.

They lost to Pontiac Northern in Pontiac, 72-66, Feb. 28.

The Huskies were able to pull into a tie for the Greater Oakland Activities League basketball championship with the Wolves with the victory. Each club finishes the regular season with 7-1 league marks. Clarkston is 18-2 overall while Northern is 14-6.

The Wolves beat the Huskies in Clarkston earlier in the season. Northern needed a win on its noisy home court and got it in a hard-fought game.

Wolves' coach Dan Fife, on the quiet side after the defeat, said he could explain why his team lost.

"It just didn't go our way," Fife said in the locker room as Northern players were congratulating him on a good game. "We're co-champions, that's not so bad. Maybe this will make us a little hungrier."

The last three years, the top team in the GOAL was decided in the final game between Clarkston and Pontiac Northern. The Huskies won the title outright the previous two seasons before sharing the crown this year.

The Huskies led the majority of the game as the margin stayed within five points most of the time. They had leads of six points in the opening quarter and eight points in the final eight minutes.

The Wolves fought back and stayed with the Huskies with their own brand of race horse basketball.

Ed Whitaker moved the ball up the floor against Northern with many court-length passes.

At the receiving end of the bombs was Mike Walters who hit a game high 25 points including five, three-point shots. Whitaker tallied 20 points and Craig Chamberlain came through with 10.

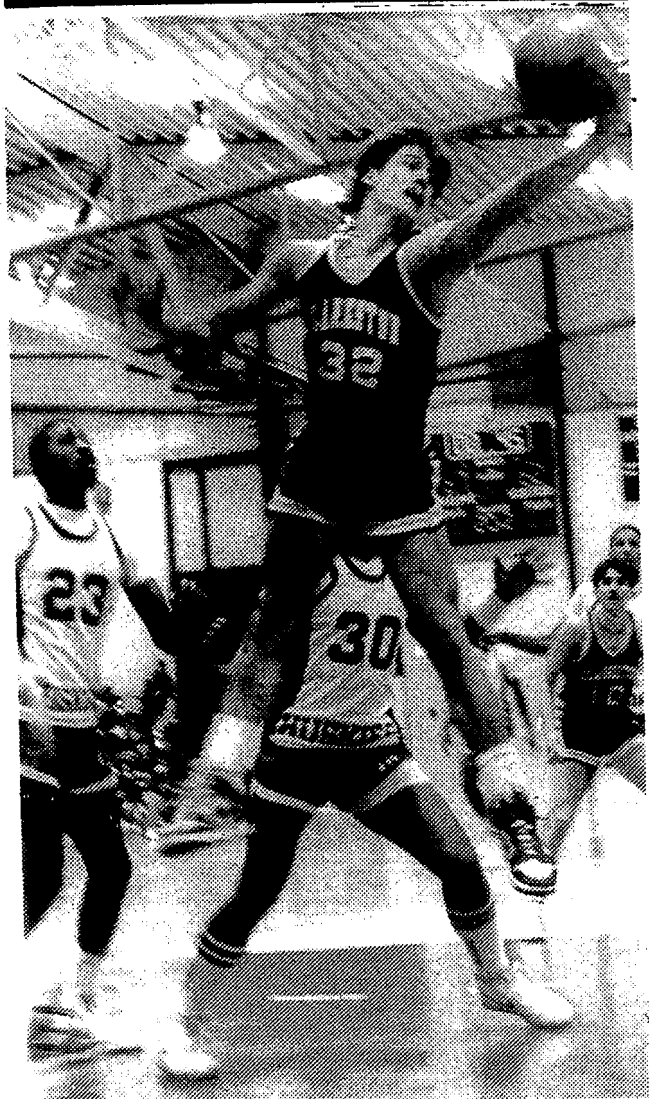

With the outside game working well in the opening half, the Wolves came out and tried to establish an inside game in the second half. They were able to stay with the quicker Huskies and trailed by two, 51-49 after three quarters.

The Wolves have to regroup and get ready for the district tournament this week at Waterford Mott.

With the Wolves playing Holly and Waterford Kettering, there is a good possibility they could reach the finals March 8.

Northern is in the same bracket as Pontiac Central, the only other team to defeat Clarkston this year.

"We'll have to bounce back. If we don't, we don't deserve to be district champions," Fife said.

The play of Ed Whitaker helped but the Wolves still lost to the Huskies.

Spikers drop from tourney

By Dan Vandenhemel

One team, one player ended the Wolves volleyball season at the district tournament.

Clarkston fell in the district finals to Jill Krumm and her West Bloomfield Lakers, 10-15, 15-8 and 12-15 in Lakeland on March 1.

Wolves coach Nancy Foster said they couldn't contain Krumm who has a full scholarship to Michigan State University.

"They got most of their points when she was in the front row and we got most of ours when she was in the back," Foster said. "I'm disappointed that we lost but we played well. We didn't give up."

The big crowd helped create excitement surrounding the finals. The Lakers were rated No. 1 in the county while the Wolves were just a few notches lower. Clarkston exits the season with a 33-5 record. West Bloomfield continues on to the regionals in Flint this week.

To reach the finals, the Wolves had to get past Waterford Kettering, 15-11 and 15-9; and Lakeland 15-12 and 15-6.

Kecia Powell led the Wolves with 18 kill spikes for the day. Maggie Gdula played a strong game from the back row and Sue Kithil kept pace with her serving.

Though the Wolves advanced to the finals, Foster said they weren't their normal selves.

"We played well but it wasn't smooth," she said. "We hit well but we didn't block well. We played well but we didn't. It's hard to explain."

Ending the season with a loss comes as a jolt, especially when the team is normally on the victorious side of the net.

"I don't think any of us are ready to have the season over," Foster said. "The kids didn't think they'd get beat. With as well as we've done in tournaments, the kids get used to winning."

Josh Newblatt drives in for two points for the junior varsity Wolves. They ended their season with a loss to Pontiac Northern by one point, 52-51.

JV cagers fall one short

By Dan Vandenhemel

Playing basketball at Pontiac Northern is an experience. Clarkston Wolves' junior varsity coach Tim Kaul said taking on the Huskies on their home court is one of the hardest tests a team can have during the season.

The Wolves lost their final game of the season against the Huskies, 52-51, Feb. 28.

"It's really a difficult place to play," Kaul said. "We had an incredible fan turnout. But the gym is so noisy. The players are not used to the noise level."

Kaul said he doesn't like to talk about the officials. He said there were a couple of questionable calls that could have determined the final outcome.

"It seems that the officiating is also inconsistent down there," he said. "I don't know. It's such a different place to play. It's got to be a difficult place to officiate."

The defeat gave the Wolves a 14-6 record including a 4-4 slate in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

The Wolves end with a split in the season series with the Huskies. Clarkston won the first encounter 43-37 in Clarkston.

Jeff Tungate scored a game high and a season high 30 points for the Wolves including four three-point bombs.

"He had an exceptional game," Kaul said. "No one else was in double figures but no one played a bad game. When Northern went to the zone defense, Jeff's scoring was imperative."

PROTECT YOUR CHILDREN BY TEACHING THEM TO PROTECT THEMSELVES

The key to child safety is effective communication with your children. Children who are not listened to or who do not have their needs met in their homes are the most vulnerable to exploitation or abduction.

- Establish an atmosphere in the home where your children feel comfortable in discussing sensitive matters with you openly. They should never feel too confused or afraid to approach you with any problems they may have.
- In some ways, treat your children the way you would treat an adult friend. Talk to them in a calm and reasonable manner. Make sure that they understand the importance of any safety guidelines you give them.

Ball bounces Wolverines' way

By Dan Vandenhemel

Even, tied, one match apiece.

That's how the season series in volleyball finished between Clarkston Junior High and Sashabaw Junior High.

The Wolverines took it to the Cougars at home 15-3 and 15-11 on Feb. 25.

Sashabaw won the earlier match on Jan. 10, 15-1 and 15-8.

Clarkston coach Jeannie Odell said the home court advantage hurt the visiting Cougars more than it helped her Wolverines. The CJH gym has one of the lowest ceilings in the area and has no room for out of bounds, Odell said.

"Sashabaw had trouble with the ceiling," she said. "We hit it too but we're just used to its nooks and crannies. Once the ball hits the ceiling, it comes back down in a hurry. They couldn't react to it."

The coach said a number of her team members played well during the match.

Some were Kari Abbott, Deanna Green, Jenny Grohs, Coy Carlson, and Dana Austin.

Clarkston finished the season with a 6-9 mark. Sashabaw finished at 13-7.

"I guess we improved over the season," Odell said. "The kids wanted this one really bad. They didn't like losing the first time."

Sashabaw coach Sue Koslosky said she couldn't use the Clarkston gym as an excuse for losing.

"... we're just used to its nooks and crannies."

—Jeannie Odell

"Clarkston was consistent and we weren't," she said. "We served well, 25 out of 30 but we passed poorly. We couldn't receive the serve."

Koslosky pointed to Kelly Avenall and Tammy Jeans as playing well against the Wolverines.

As for playing in that gym, she said she doesn't know how to handle it.

"There's not a lot you can do to prepare for it," she said. "It's a poor facility at best and when we weren't playing well, it just compounds the problem."

Health News Ginseng

Ginseng is the root of the species Panax Ginseng (panax comes from the Greek meaning "All Healing.")

The plant is extremely slow growing; it takes several years to produce an effective root. The older the root, the better the quality. Roots from wild plants seem to be more effective than domesticated roots. Ginseng affects the function of the blood system, increases intestinal contraction and muscle tone, and stabilizes the metabolism of carbohydrates.

Ginseng improves physical endurance and heightens energy levels. Professor V. Petkov has been conducting research on Ginseng for 20 years. His conclusions are it stimulates the adrenal cortex, improves the memory and "accelerates learning."

It does not disturb the equilibrium in the brain process, and even regulates the brain activity, placing it at a higher level.

Also increases mental efficiency, improves accuracy of work, contributes to concentration and prevents over fatigue. Ginseng does not cause emotional disturbance, agitation or difficulty in sleeping.

Ginseng has a long term beneficial effect, causing an improvement in health appetite and mental condition.

State contest calls CHS homecoming queen

Jackie Roberts, CHS homecoming queen, is going to a state competition to determine the Michigan homecoming queen winner.

By Julie LePere

Clarkston's Homecoming Queen will participate in at least one more competition.

Jackie Roberts, a senior at Clarkston High School, has been chosen as a state finalist in Michigan's Sixth Annual Homecoming Queen Selection.

After Jackie became homecoming queen for CHS, she was sent an application for the state competition. She was chosen as a finalist on the basis of that application, she said.

"They were looking for the all-American girl who wants a career," said Jackie.

Jackie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Roberts, is involved in many activities. In school, she's a member of the wind ensemble, jazz band, marching band, drama club and thespians. She is also a Madrigal Singer.

Outside of school, she teaches trumpet to younger students, among other things.

"I cross country ski with my family on weekends, and I downhill every once in a while. I model. That's one of my big things. I was down at the auto show, so I missed a lot of school," she said. "I narrate for Toyota."

Jackie is waiting to begin her career.

"I've pretty much got that all planned out. Next year, I'll be going to Western (Michigan University). I will be majoring in vocal music and possibly a double major in music theater. I'll be minoring in communications."

Ultimately, Jackie would like to act and sing "and possibly modeling on the side. I'll be going to Chicago every once in a while to see what I can get."

The state homecoming queen selection will be held April 12 and 13 at the Clarion Hotel and Conference Center in Lansing.

Michigan's winner will receive a cash scholarship plus an all expense paid trip to Honolulu, Hawaii, to compete with queens from the other states for America's homecoming queen in July.

Jackie is happy to be a part of the contest.

"I'm really excited. I can't wait. My mom and I went out and picked out the dress for the pageant," said Jackie. "I have to find sponsors. That's what I'm doing right now."

Father Schmitt returns to Colombiere Center

By Julie LePere

Father Denis Schmitt has accomplished much in his 36 years of priesthood.

Not only did he perform all the regular duties that befall a Jesuit priest, but he represented the Society of Jesus in the construction of many buildings.

Born in Decatur, Indiana Jan. 10, 1917, Schmitt now lives at the Colombiere Center in Springfield Township.

He moved to the center last year after being diagnosed as having Parkinson's disease.

He became a Jesuit in 1935 and a priest in 1948. Schmitt became involved in construction because, "I have a capacity for detail," he said.

He has supervised the construction of many buildings, including the Colombiere Center.

"My first building was Colombiere College here in 1956," he said.

"I lived out here on the hill and stayed for a year and a half until they finished."

Although Schmitt has built many buildings, some of which have won national awards, he can choose a favorite.

"My favorite building is this one, my first one," he said. "My next favorite one is my last one."

His last building was the Crown Center for the Humanities at Loyola University of Chicago.

Built on the coast of Lake Michigan, the Crown Center was designed primarily with function in mind.

It was one of his buildings which received a national award.

"It's very functional. The university loves it," he said.

Schmitt spent 11 years at Loyola and built several buildings, including a chemistry building, a sports center, and a law school.

"I was the intermediary between the university and the Society of Jesus and the architect," he said.

Schmitt knows the importance of his work.

"My philosophy is in order to do good work, you need proper facilities. If you don't have good facilities, you don't do good work," he said.

Schmitt says he has seen many changes in the country regarding religion, but nothing major.

"Since Vatican II, nothing in the essentials has changed," he said.

"There have been a lot of changes in the adaptation in the doctrines to the modern times. The changes came in the way of presenting the doctrines, not changes in the doctrines themselves.

"Most of them have been good (changes). Some people have been taking the good things and taking them to the excess, but the good far outweighs the excesses," he said, before citing negative developments in recent times.

"The sexual revolution has lead to excess beyond the realm of Christian morality.

"Commercialism, consumerism have gotten out of hand. Domestic virtues have suffered, the virtues of love and fidelity," he said.

"Justice has taken a bad beating; both domestic justice and international justice."

However, Schmitt sees positive changes in all levels of society.

"I think the growth in the Christian community is simply phenomenal—unity, love, love of man for others.

"I think it will get better, a great deal better," said Schmitt.

Father Denis Schmitt was the intermediary between the Society of Jesus and the architect. He supervised the construction of Colombiere Center 30 years ago.

Microwave-plus

St. Patrick's Day Dinner

Betty Wagner

Most everyone seems to claim a little bit of green blood on St. Patrick's Day. It's such fun to celebrate this day with shamrocks, green attire, green beer and Irish music and coffee.

The main-dish foods that we usually associate with Irish celebrations are not necessarily served in Ireland, but have become traditional as Irish-American families prepared them in this country for their St. Patrick's Day meal.

My dear friend, Carol McCarrick, serves the following foods at her traditional St. Patrick's Day party. Carol recently purchased a microwave oven, so I have converted her recipes from conventional cooking to microwave. Now she will save cooking and clean-up time.

Corned Beef Brisket

Adapted from Microwaving Meats, Microwave Cooking Library, Publication Arts, Inc.

2 to 3 pound corned beef brisket
2 cups hot water

Place corned beef and hot water in a 2 to 3 quart casserole dish. Cover tightly with lid. If using plastic wrap, vent one edge.

Microwave at high power for 7 to 9 minutes, or until water boils. Microwave at 50 percent or medium power for 45 minutes to 1 hour and 5 minutes, (22 minutes per pound) or until tender.

Turn meat over and around three times during the cooking time. Allow the meat to stand in the liquid, covered, for 15 minutes before slicing and serving.

If you have a clay cooking pot, this is a good time to use it. Remember to follow the manufacturer's instructions for soaking the pot.

Fried Cabbage

1/2 head cabbage, shredded

1 large onion, chopped
Seasoning salt to taste

1 thick slice Canadian bacon, cut into 8 pieces

Spray browning dish with non-stick vegetable spray. Preheat browning dish at high power for 3 to 4 minutes. Add pieces of Canadian bacon and chopped onion.

Microwave at high power for 1 minute. Stir. Microwave another minute at high. Add cabbage and saute until limp, about 4 minutes at high. Stir after 2 minutes. Season to taste with seasoning salt, if desired.

Serve hot or cold; it is delicious either way.

You don't have a browning dish? Follow the directions and use a Pyrex casserole dish.

Trifle is a dessert that is served in Ireland and England. It consists of liqueur or wine soaked sponge cake that is layered with pudding, fruit, and/or whipped cream.

Trifle

Best when made a day ahead so flavors can blend.

2 packages vanilla pudding
2 dozen presliced lady fingers*
Strawberry or raspberry jam
Cream sherry
1/2 pint heavy cream, whipped
Green maraschino cherries

Add pudding to 4 cups of milk. Microwave at high power for 9 to 12 minutes, or until pudding begins to thicken. Stir every 3 minutes. Cover surface of pudding with wax paper to prevent skin from forming. Set aside.

Spread jam between layers of lady fingers. Place one layer in a spiral pattern in the bottom of a 10-inch-wide and 8-inch-high bowl that has a flat bottom. Sprinkle with sherry to moisten.

Pour half the custard over the lady fingers.

Place another layer of lady fingers on top of the custard. Sprinkle with sherry.

Pour remaining custard over lady fingers.

Top with whipped cream.

Place cherries on a paper towel to drain. Make a shamrock design on the top with whipped cream with the green cherries.

*Lady fingers may be difficult to find. Check the frozen food case in the grocery store. Sponge cake may be substituted. Cut cake into 24 strips approximately 3 inches by 1 inch by 3/8 inch. Spread the jam between two strips of cake.

Irish coffee, reportedly, was first concocted in San Francisco.

Irish coffee

Coffee may be brewed earlier, refrigerated and reheated in the microwave just before serving for a fresh-brewed taste. Use strong coffee for the best tasting Irish coffee.

Place a lump of sugar in an Irish Coffee glass. Add 1 tablespoon Irish Whiskey on top of the sugar cube.

Fill the glass to within one inch of the top with strong, hot coffee.

Top with whipped cream. Enjoy.

Home economist Betty Wagner, an Independence Township resident, is a graduate of West Virginia University. She teaches microwave cooking classes at Sears at the Oakland Mall and through the Clarkston Community Education Department.

WONDER DRUGS
US-10 and M-15

Could someone become mentally ill on drugs, speed?

Dear Cat Paw:

Some people believe that "jocks" and "preps" that drink and sometimes smoke pot secretly are better than "burnouts" who drink and smoke pot openly.

And most jocks and preps think that burnouts are the bad ones and are the only people who can be addicts or alcoholics.

Who do you believe is worse off—the burnouts who use openly or the jocks and preps who hide it?
CHS Burnout

Dear Burnout:

I am not here to judge anyone. Toma showed us that a high percentage of students, jocks, preps and burnouts, were abusing drugs at CHS. I personally feel that anyone who abuses drugs needs help.

Dear Cat Paw:

Could someone become mentally ill hooked on drugs and speed?
Wondering

Dear Wondering:

Yes! I've said it before and I'll say it again. Check the mental hospitals, they are full of people who thought it would never happen to them.

Dear Cat Paw:

How long does it take for one hit of pot to get out of your body?
Smoker

Chemicals Are Trouble. People Are Working.

Copyright 1985 Jeanette Sanders

Dear Smoker:

In the past, most professionals have said that it takes approximately one month to clean the body of marijuana.

Recently, I have read reports stating that it takes six months or even more.

Dear Cat Paw:

Could drugs make you set your house on fire?
Curious

Dear Curious:

Bizarre behavior is common to people on drugs. Under the influence, people have done many strange and harmful things. Setting a house on fire could certainly be a possibility.

Dear Cat Paw:

What does LSD stand for?

Wondering

Dear Wondering:

LSD stands for Lysergic acid diethylamide.

Wolverine howls School news

The student council held a fund raiser and helped purchase many things for the school.

One item was a $945 laminating machine that puts a protective plastic coating over a piece of paper by using a heat source.

The machine is available to teachers and students for projects, but not for rock posters, personal pictures, etc.

The cost to have something laminated is 10 cents a foot. Mrs. Hogan would like to stress the fact that the machine is primarily for student use.

The Quiz Bowl is something like Family Fued. There are two teams in this game.

Each team tries to answer questions asked by an announcer-type person. The question is read and whichever team presses its buzzer first tries to answer it.

If the team that pressed the buzzer answers correctly, it gets 10 points. If they answer incorrectly, the question goes to the other side to be answered.

The bowl is open to all seventh- and eighth-graders. There will be six competitions throughout the entire bowl.

The first meeting was Tuesday, Jan. 28. They will continue every other Tuesday. The location of the meetings will be held on a rotating basis.

Readers of the Eccentric noticed the school newspaper got a new look in its January edition.

In recent months, the school received a donation of some used computer hardware.

The journalism class got a new printer. The printer is a high-speed letter quality printer that works with the word processing system in the classroom.

Not only did we get a new printer, we also got an acoustical cover to muffle the noise of the printer. If we hadn't bought the cover, the noise would be unbearable.

We bought the cover with the profits from the Christmas dance. In future fund raisers, we hope to raise enough money to buy more equipment so the Eccentric can be a better paper.

This week's column was written by Jenny Pitoniak, Jenny Futrell and Bonnie Whetstone.

Babysitting classes offered

Junior high school students who want to be good baby-sitters can attend a free, two-session workshop at the Independence Township Library.

The Baby-sitting Program is planned at 2 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, April 1 and 3. Enrollment is limited to 15.

"This is a way they can get ready for summer baby-sitting during spring vacation," said Anne Rose, children's librarian.

The workshop includes some first-aid tips from a township firefighter, a discussion on entertaining young children and child development by Rose, and a session on childcare by another professional.

The program was designed by the Young Adults services of the Wayne Oakland Library Federation and free take-home materials will be provided.

Participants must attend both sessions in order to receive a certificate.

This will be the third time a baby-sitting workshop has been held at the library, Rose said, and each session has been full.

Participants are accepted on a first-come basis. Registrations are being taken at the library, 6495 Clarkston Rd., or by calling 625-2212.

Toutant heads mythical Clarkston committee

His duties? To screen other OU employees who would dare move into his neighborhood

By Jay Jackson

Special to The Clarkston News

He's not quite the equivalent of a court jester, but he comes close.

Anyone who knows Bernie Toutant—and probably few at Oakland University, Rochester, do not—recognizes him as a free spirit whose home base is Kresge Library.

In 25 years of comforting the afflicted and the afflicting the comfortable in his inimitable style, the Independence Township resident has established quite a reputation for himself.

He impishly questions such a suggestion of local fame, however, while concurring he has a fondness for frivolity.

"It's always been with me," he says. "There has to be a little levity. I don't purposely do things to be funny. I just do the unexpected on the spur of the moment. Nothing is ever planned. I didn't even know I had a reputation."

Like a boy caught with his hand in the cookie jar—more than once—Toutant breaks into a sly grin when asked of his exploits.

His many friends around the campus can recount his practical jokes and misadventures designed to catch people off-guard.

Toutant came to OU in 1960 from General Motors Fisher Body Division. He started as curator for the department of chemistry.

Other stops along the Toutant trail have included cashier for three years, and then assistant to the manager and box office manager of the Meadow Brook Music Festival from 1966-71.

"For the first few years, it was great. I met the artists and had lots of contact with the public, but working 60-70 hours a week got to be a drag. My summers were completely shot," he says. "I never missed a concert. I was at every single performance while I worked there."

For the next nine years, he worked in University Services, handling duties in the print shop and in supplies. He moved to the library in 1980 and is now assistant to the dean, taking care of many of the administrative duties.

Toutant's life is not completely focused on the university.

In his spare time, he relaxes by making stained-glass windows, but not for churches.

"I haven't got to that magnitude yet. My card hasn't reached the Vatican," he says.

One of his self-proclaimed civic duties is to serve on a mythical committee in Clarkston. His duties? To screen other OU employees who would dare move into his neighborhood.

As one would expect, Toutant says having a good time comes naturally to him.

"I enjoy parts of every day—but a lot of times it's after 5 o'clock," he says.

Toutant and his wife of 32 years, Audrey, spend their summer weekends at their cottage in "beautiful downtown Port Austin." Even Lake Huron does not bring out a sportsman in Toutant.

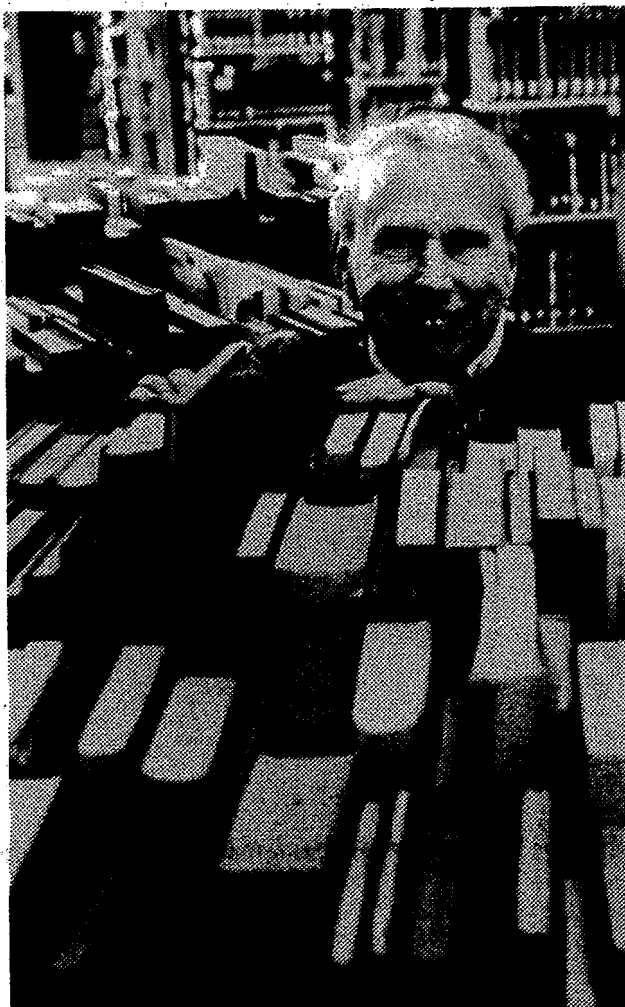

"I ride in a boat with some friends and they fish," he says. "That's about it. I steer the boat and I'm getting better at it. Going one-half mile per hour is difficult with waves six-feet high."

When not conquering the outdoors, the Toutants visit with their children, Pam, 31, and Paula, 25.

Even when serious about something, Toutant doesn't stop poking fun at himself.

"I've met a lot of very nice people at the university," he says. After a pause, he adds, "It's surprising that I've lasted 25 years."

The above story was reprinted with permission from the Oakland University News, the campus newspaper for faculty and staff.

Bernie Toutant poses among tomes in Oakland University's Kresge Library where he serves as assistant to the dean.

Concert memorializes Mr. Grinnell

The memory of Russell Grinnell will be brought litlingly to life during a concert at Sadows Art Gallery March 9.

Scheduled for 3:30 p.m. in the gallery at the Clarkston Mills Mall on Washington Street, the concert will feature the Great Lakes Chamber Trio with Detroit Symphony musicians Geoffrey Applegate, violin; Hayden McKay, cello; and Wesley Fishwick, international concert pianist.

Arrangements for the concert have been made by Ivan Rouse, owner and director of the Clarkston Conservatory of Music.

Friends of the Grinnells may call Mrs. Grinnell at 666-3248 for tickets as long as they are available.

The general public may purchase tickets from Rouse or the conservatory in advance and at the door, if still available.

All proceeds are to go to the conservatory.

Grinnell, who died Jan. 1, 1976 was a Waterford Township trustee. He was a civil engineer with the City of Birmingham and Oakland County.

He was also interested in human rights, international relations and community affairs.

Originals wanted

Maybe you're 60 or 70 years old. Or maybe you're 80.

Maybe you're even pushing 100.

If you're an older living in Independence Township and were born here, the sesquicentennial committee wants to hear from you.

The committee is conducting a search for the oldest living resident who was born here and who still lives in Independence to reign over this year's sesquicentennial celebrations.

The township celebrates its first 150 years as a bonified municipality beginning this month.

Festivities are planned to continue throughout 1986 with a kick-off township birthday party planned for March 23 at the Clarkston Mills Mall. The party is open to the public.

The reigning senior is to make his/her debut at the party.

People who think they might qualify for the honor should contact Rita Burdick at the township hall (625-5111) or Connie Lektzian at the township library (625-2212).

Members of the rock band Infinity pose with the musical instruments they bring to life during performances at parties, dances and what-have-you. All Clarkston High School students,

Infinity's dream: Silverdome show

"This is a group of remarkable kids in that they have achieved a great deal together in a short time, and they have done it all on their own."

"Their collective musical talent reflects a maturity in their style. The groups which they have modeled themselves after have wide appeal, and their choice of music reflects their good taste."

—Clifford Chapman, Band Director
Clarkston High School

By Ruth Gruber

The rock band "Infinity" was born in January 1985 when four Clarkston High School students combined their talents.

Jim Kiser plays the drums and sings lead vocals; Scott Orth, guitar and vocals; Greg Hall, bass; and Kevin Heber, keyboards and vocals.

Jim, a CHS senior and the son of Dave and Sue Kiser, began playing the drums at 13. He has played in the Clarkston Junior High School band and the CHS jazz, symphony and marching bands.

He is one of the few drummers who also sings the lead vocals in a group. He plans to pursue music-related areas when he attends Michigan State University in the fall.

Scott, a CHS junior and the son of Jack and Ruth Orth, started playing the guitar when he was 7 years old.

"I started taking music seriously when I was about 11 years old," says Scott.

Greg Hall, a CHS junior and son of Don and Julie Hall, has played bass and guitar about three years. His future plans include music as a hobby and attending college to study mechanical engineering.

Kevin, a CHS junior and the son of Mitchell and Christine Heber, first played the piano at age 7 and began playing synthesized music and keyboard when he was 14.

Kevin's mother, Christine, is the organist at St. Daniel Catholic Church in Clarkston. Kevin would like to study music or physics in college.

Encouraged by the CHS band director, Clifford Chapman, Infinity has practiced twice a week for the past year, quickly improving their style and meshing their instrumental talents to a modern, top 40, pop-rock sound.

The band members have only praise for the amount of work contributed by their high school band director and say Chapman should be given some of the credit for their accomplishments.

The groups they have patterned themselves after include rock styles, pop and a little bit of Reggae Pop Rock—groups such as Police, Cars, The Fixx, Rush, Journey, Power Station, Duran Duran, The Beatles, Sting, Ah-Ha and Dire Straits.

Infinity has performed as the jazz rhythm section of the CHS band for the past two years.

"We have now come together as a group, because each of us has matured mentally and instrumentally," says Jim. "This has made it possible for each of us to make a bigger contribution to the group."

Infinity has played in a school musical, at sports banquets and at the Music in the Park summer concert series in the Clarkston village park.

The group is willing to play for any occasion—weddings, dances, large or small parties—in order to gain more exposure. They can be contacted by calling Scott at 623-1855 or Jim at 625-1521 after 2:30 p.m. weekdays or on weekends.

In the future, Infinity would like to perform in clubs.

"Our dream," says Jim, "is to perform in front of 20,000 people at the Silverdome."

Jim Kiser jams on the drums, getting ready for upcoming concerts.

Kevin Heber takes care of the keyboard.

Scott Orth prepares for a half-time performance for a basketball game.

Greg Hall plays the bass for the band.

Let's get down to Business!

Re: Theme '86

The theme of this year's Progress Edition, "Let's Get Down to Business," is a reflection of the improving economy—and more.

The businesses in our community provide our base. They set the friendly tone we're all so proud of and provide the services we need to keep our lives running smoothly.

As you read about the many and varied businesses in our area, we think you'll be pleasantly surprised at how many services are available so close by.

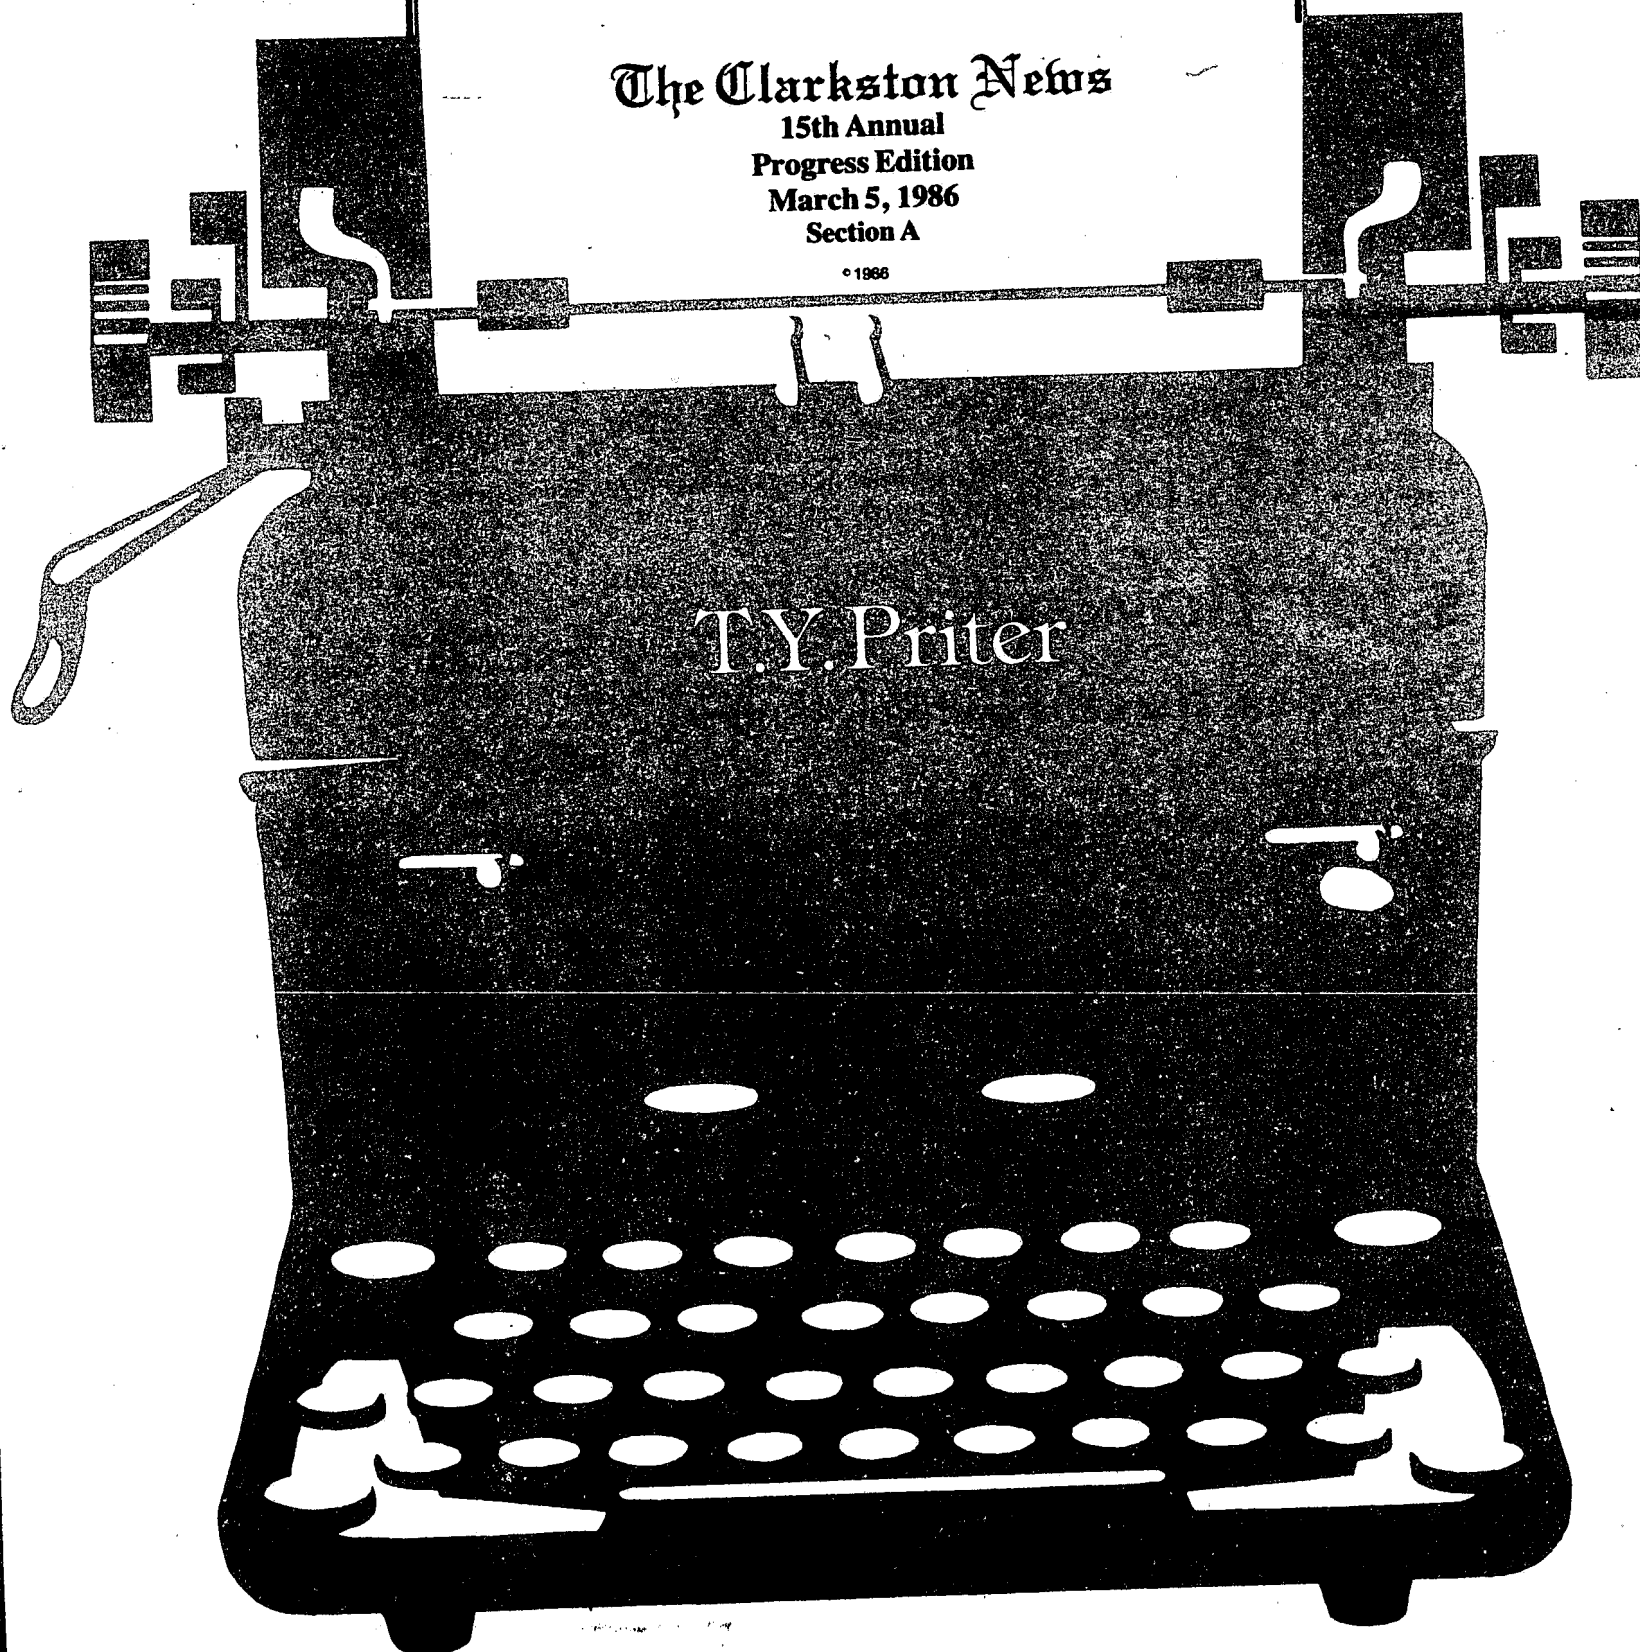

And we know you'll enjoy getting to know the people who own and run the businesses that purchased advertisements in our 1986 Progress Edition.

Jerry Wright, manager of Computer Contact, works at a new computer in his store. A goal of Wright and his staff is to put customers at ease.

'User friendly' shop

Taking the mystery out of computer operations is the goal of Jerry Wright.

Wright, the manager of Dixie Highway's Computer Contact, says computers are not fearsome machines but, rather, handy instruments to have in the workplace or home.

Computer Contact offers a full line of Apple and IBM computers as well as service and accessories for home use, schools and businesses.

They are an authorized service dealer for Epson computers as well, Wright says.

"We find people are very nervous when they come in here. We try to provide kind of a warm, friendly atmosphere," says Wright.

"We try to talk in a language that they can understand and try to help them understand that computers are not a threatening kind of thing."

Computers are ideally suited for home, Wright says.

They can be used for recipes, income taxes, inventory records and investments—whatever the imagination can dream up. In addition, several educational programs are available for children.

Following a purchase, a staff member will set up the computer and give an hour-long lesson about its functions, Wright says.

By viewing the computer in the store, the purchaser has the advantage of seeing it operate before taking it home, he says.

Computer Contact has been at its Waterford Township location since June 1984. It is one of the three stores in an independently owned system of stores. The others are in Grand Blanc and Mt. Pleasant.

"I think one thing of note is that we were the first independent Apple and IBM dealer in the state," Wright says, adding that they are now the largest.

Basic computer systems begin in the $1,000 range and can go as high as $10,000 in cost, according to Wright.

Although their functional capacities have increased dramatically, their operations have simplified over the years, Wright says.

He calls modern computers "user friendly."

Dr. Harvey Rose puts the care of feet first

When not fly fishing and camping, Dr. Harvey Rose is taking care of the feet of Independence Township.

The avid fisherman says he has trouble finding time to go fishing—but there are plenty of ankles and feet to take care of.

Since October, Rose's podiatry practice has been located at 6825 Dixie Highway. Previously, his office was located on M-15 near Dixie Highway.

Originally from Detroit, Rose spent some time in California before returning to Michigan.

"I practiced in Warren for about eight years and then I went to California for three years," he said. "I just didn't like California. I like the small-town atmosphere, and that's why I came to Clarkston when I moved back from California.

"It sits in the center of everything. It has a huge draw from all over," he said.

Rose takes care of the major surgery his patients require at Wheelock Memorial Hospital in Goodrich. For the minor operations, he says his office is well equipped.

Foot problems for children and adults such as warts, bunions and congenital deformities fall under the care of Rose.

"We've got a laser that can treat soft tissue problems like warts or ingrown toe nails," he said. "I think the laser is better than acid because with a laser there is less pain and you can be more precise in the cells you're destroying. You can go cell by cell."

Rose said podiatry is no different than any other specialty in the amount of work needed to become a doctor.

"There are 26 separate bones in the foot, about 25 percent of the total number of bones in the body," he said. "The foot is a very complex mechanism for moving."

"Not to knock emergency rooms, but some can't see a fracture in one of the bones so they diagnose a lot of sprained ankles," Rose said. "I want people to know they can use us for a type of emergency room."

"They can call me 24 hours. I'll get the call from the answering service within five minutes. Sometimes a broken foot is not a priority case in an emergency room and the person is left there waiting."

The office is open during the week from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. with late hours until 6 p.m. on Monday and Thursday.

Gayanne's for flowers—plus

List includes balloons, baskets, candles and knickknacks

Gayanne Wood holds a cluster of fresh flowers in her shop in the Independence Commons shopping center in Independence Township.

Colors, textures, rich aromas and the tweeting of finches greet the visitors who enter Gayanne's.

'Gayanne's is a Dixie Highway floral shop that features a mixture of dried and silk flowers, real flowers and gifts.

It is the brainchild of Gayanne Wood, who opened the shop with her parents Art and Ruth Mansfield to meet the need for independence in her life.

"It was time to do it," she says of opening the shop some two years ago. Gayanne had previous experience working in a Birmingham floral shop and is the holder of a 1968 associate's degree in floriculture.

Her parents joined in the venture because they wanted to dabble in business again, she says.

Gayanne and her three employees, Debbie Gibbs, September Racine and Cricket Bishop, emphasize individualized, quality attention to their customers, Gayanne says.

"My big thing that I really stress is quality," she says. "Nothing leaves this store that isn't top notch."

Gayanne's features an array of fresh flowers, balloons, dried flowers, baskets, candles and knickknacks for those who enjoy doing their own arrangements as well.

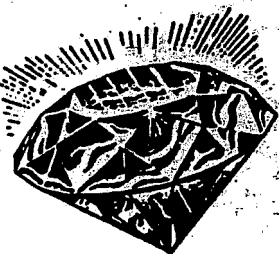

"If you're an artsy-craftsy type person, you can make it flow," Gayanne says of the work involved in making arrangements. "It's kind of fun for (customers). . . . We'll help them in any way we can."

In the past, Gayanne has given lessons on arranging to women's groups and has taught bow-making in the Clarkston Community Education program.

Gayanne's specializes in weddings, but floral arrangements and houseplants can also be obtained for hospitals and other settings, she says.

Dr. Harvey Rose opened this building on Dixie Highway last October. He's been practicing podiatry 15 years, the last five in Independence Township.

Valley Lincoln's his niche

Dennis Potulsky is finally working in the business he loves: automobiles.

He is the general sales manager of Valley Lincoln Mercury at 1250 Oakland Avenue (Dixie Highway) on the Waterford-Pontiac border.

His grandfather first influenced him in his love of automobiles and ever since, cars have always been one of his hobbies.

"I'm restoring a couple of old Cadillacs," he said.

In addition to cars, Dennis said, "I enjoy travel mostly. Mackinac Island and Florida are two of my favorite places."

"This winter I learned how to ski," he added.

Most of all, though, Dennis loves automobiles.

"I'm happy right here where I am," he said.

"Every day there's something new. I like the challenge best."

Dennis grew up in Clarkston, graduated from Clarkston High School, and currently lives in Independence Township. He has owned several businesses in the Clarkston area, and hopes to invest there again.

Of all the businesses he's been involved with, Dennis likes this one the most.

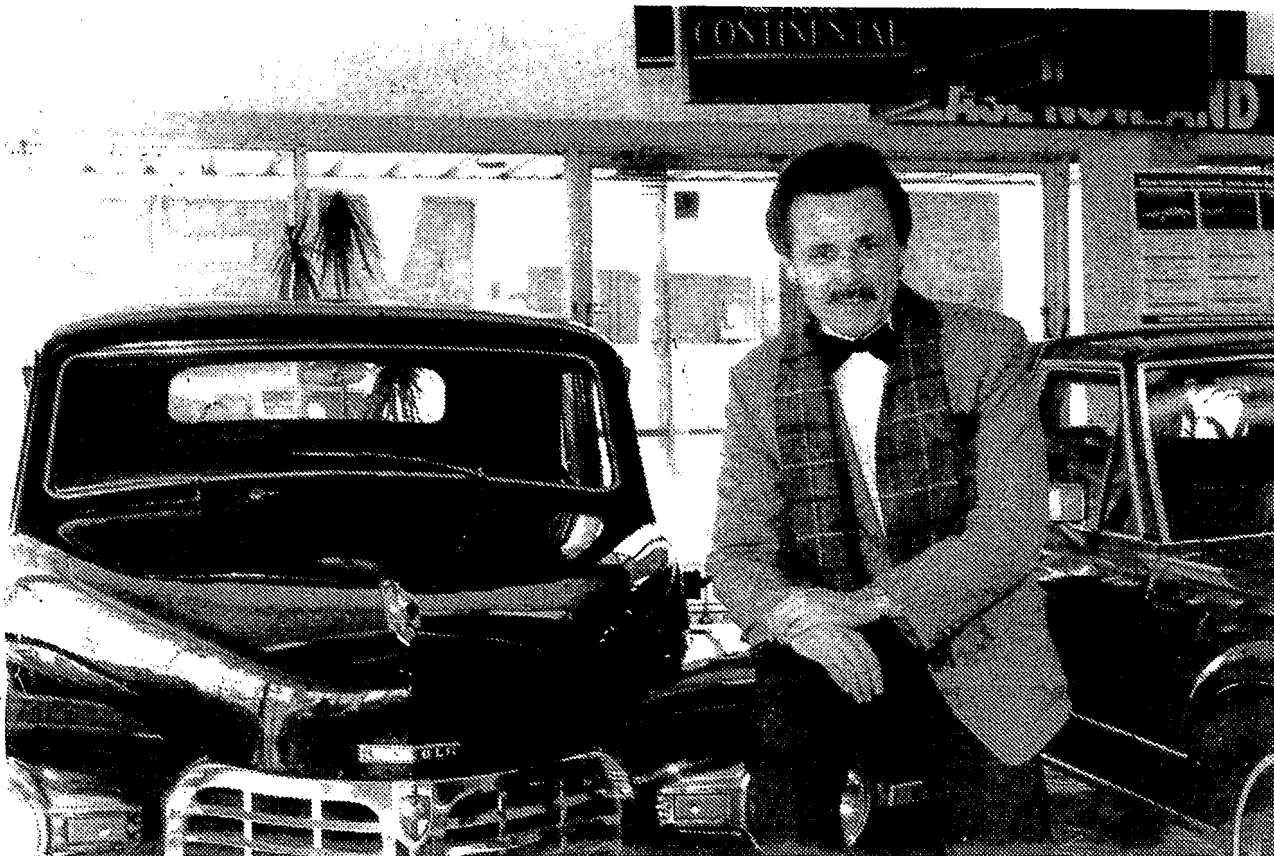

"The wide selection of everyday occurrences under one roof is a challenge in itself," he said.

"I feel like I'm helping make a business work properly and grow," he said. "The end result is the smile on the customer's face."

"I'm considering getting married again . . . settling down and having a family," he said.

In the meantime, Dennis is working hard and enjoying himself.

"This is the most awesome thing I've tackled," he said.

"Automobiles are my hobby," says Dennis R. Potulsky, general sales manager of Valley Lincoln Mercury on Dixie Highway. He enjoys the challenge that comes with his job.

Rosenfeld, Gerber treat feet

The fine art of making house calls is not lost on Drs. Shay Rosenfeld and Michael Gerber of North Oaks Foot Care Group Inc.

The two, doctors of podiatric medicine, include calling on home-bound patients among the many services they provide from their M-15, Independence Township, office.

"It's fun," Rosenfeld says of service. "It's something that needs to be done, particularly in a rural area. I think it's a service that needs to be performed."

Graduates of the Ohio College of Podiatric Medicine, the doctors bought their local office from Dr. Mark Warren in 1984. The purchase brought to three the number of offices the men maintain. They also work out of Warren and Troy, Rosenfeld said.

The two believe in making foot care as convenient, painless and inexpensive as possible, according to Rosenfeld. "We like to treat patients the way we or our family members like to be treated."

As often as medically possible, the doctors perform medical treatments or surgeries in their offices. But for those patients who face complicated surgeries or who have high risk factors, the doctors are affiliated with Kern Hospital in Warren, Madison Community Hospital in Madison Heights and Wheelock Memorial Hospital in Goodrich.

"We do anything, period, from the lower one-third of the leg down," said Rosenfeld.

Among the diseases they treat are athlete's foot, heel spurs, ingrown toenails and fractures.

Rosenfeld brought to his practice experience as a paramedic. "I enjoy podiatry because it's a profession in which I can do surgery, help people and make them feel better," Rosenfeld says.

The doctors have office hours in Independence every day of the week, with late office hours on Mondays and Thursdays.

The New Life Weight Control Centre philosophy stresses the positive aspects of losing weight. "Think thin" is what Mary Douglas (left) and Paula Gucwa tell their clients.

New Life takes healthy approach

The two nurses who run the New Life Weight Control Centre at 5770 M-15 in Independence Township work well together. They even take turns owning the business.

Paula Gucwa, a licensed practical nurse, established the center in 1982. Mary Douglas, a registered nurse, purchased it from Paula in May 1985.

Paula, an Ortonville resident, has six children and three grandchildren and keeps busy with her family when not working.

She and her husband also enjoy traveling. They went on a houseboat trip last year in the Cumberland Gap in Kentucky, and they're planning a trip to Europe. She's also involved with her church, St. Anne's.

She likes her work, she said, and important part of the program is teaching good, sound nutrition.

"Good nutrition is good preventive medicine," she said.

Mary agreed. "We're trying to change bad eating habits into good eating habits. Dieting is difficult. It's not easy to give up those good things."

Mary lives in Clarkston and spends her free time with her five children and two grandchildren. She and her husband also own Frames-N-Art in Waterford. Plus, she also works part time at Botsford Hospital in Farmington, but she plans on devoting her time full time to the center soon.

"I really like people," Mary said. "We both really enjoy work. It's really satisfying."

The weight loss center's program is extensive. It includes weight loss, stabilization, maintenance, one-to-one counseling and vitamins, if necessary.

"We fit the program to the person," Paula said.

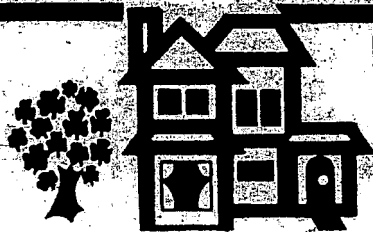

"We don't give diet pills or powders. . . . We may supplement with vitamins," Mary said. "We take a health history and if we see a problem, we get a physician's approval first."

They also encourage exercise several weeks into the program.

"Anyone who thinks they don't (have to exercise) are kidding themselves," Mary said.

"We see our clients three times a week, and we help with menu planning and recipes for good nutrition," said Mary.

The New Life Weight Control Centre is open Monday through Friday 9-6.

Regal Feed blends country charm, experience

Regal Feed has good old, down home, country atmosphere, even though it's located along busy Dixie Highway.

Its walls and floor are lined with bins full of dog bones and seeds. Its walls and ceiling are lined with bird feeders. In a corner, a mother cat and her kitten oversee the shop.

Regal Feed operates under the guidance of owner Pete Hamilton, who began working there as a 12-year-old stock boy, 32 years ago.

When he joined the business, his father, Ernie, was an employee. Pete bought the business 10 years ago. And now, his 10-year-old son, James, carries on the family tradition by helping out.

James can ring a mean cash register and he's got big plans for the place when he takes over in the future.

"... in another 40 years," as he puts it.

In the interim, however, Pete continues to operate business as he has all along. He shoulders 50-pound bags for customers and loads them into their cars, gives tours of the stockroom to visiting preschoolers, hand dips vegetable seeds for enthusiastic gardeners and offers free advice.

Pete regularly fields questions about weeds, lawn diseases, tree diseases and planting.

"If you have a problem, or want something done, come in and ask," he says.

Pete learned his trade through experience. He says he keeps himself up-to-date by attending seminars and maintaining his own garden at home.

"Can't give people advice, if you don't know what's going on," he says. "They're always coming out with new things, or new bugs," he says, adding, "Mostly it's just 10 hours a day, six days a week for most of my life."

In addition to advice and garden and bird seed, which can be purchased by the bag or by the bulk, ("two ounces of grass or two tons, whatever you need"), Regal Feed offers customers a wide array of fertilizers, animal food, dog tags, collars and leashes.

Regal Feed proprietor Pete Hamilton poses with his son James, proprietor-to-be, and their unnamed kitten, cat-to-be. The shop is located on Dixie Highway in Waterford Township.

Love for animals leads to veterinarian career

Veterinarian Gloria Williams is one of many emerging women in a traditionally male dominated field. She is a veterinarian, owner of the Drayton Plains Veterinary Clinic on Walton Boulevard.

She knew she wanted to be veterinarian when she was 5 years old. "There was just no ifs, ands or buts about it," she says.

Her career choice was based on her love for animals. And she says she is thoroughly contented with her decision. "I always had a way with animals," she says.

Williams specializes in the treatment of small animals such as dogs, cats, rats, domesticated skunks and some birds.

In an effort to provide quality pet care to her customers, Williams offers educational booklets about pets, rabies clinics in the spring, and house calls. She also performs animal surgery in her office.

House calls are done by appointment on her lunch hour, she says. She originally developed the idea to help home-bound senior citizens.

She has found the service meets the needs of many of her customers, especially those who have more than one animal, those who have vicious animals (such as guard dogs) and those who have animals terrified of riding in cars.

Williams is a member of the veterinary-organized Humane Society of Southeastern Michigan. The society helps place puppies and kittens with families.

As the only member in the immediate area, Williams helps screen families and place kittens, she says, adding that she currently does not have the facilities to keep puppies for adoption.

A 1979 graduate of the Michigan State College of Veterinary Medicine, she has owned the clinic just over four years. She says her "number one stipulation" is educating pet owners about disease symptoms and vaccinations.

"The pet can't tell you when they're not feeling well," she says. "(I) have to work with people for explanations and understanding."

Veterinarian Gloria Williams stands with her staff in one of the Drayton Plains Veterinary Clinic examining rooms. Pet cat, Motor, thinks he owns the place, she says.

Cracker Barrel's customer count is growing

During the winter, an estimated 500 people a day walk through the doors of the Cracker Barrel.

Manager Alleshia Walker says the trailer park behind the full-line grocery store on the corner of Sashabaw and Oak Hill roads provides many of the customers.

"Hopefully it's the prices that keep the people coming in," Alleshia says. "I'd like to think that we're in a good location for people to come from Clarkston and Brandon."

Quality Lawn moves south

The move of Quality Lawn Equipment and Feed Center was a positive one, says owner Ron Nehring.

The business relocated from its Waterford Township address in September to 5395 Dixie Highway, less than 300 feet south.

"We have a much better visibility here, much better parking and have more road accessibility," Ron says. "We have some people coming in now saying they never knew we were here."

The 5,600-square-foot building is larger and the land allows for expansion.

Ron says since the business opened in Waterford Township three years ago, the number of customers has risen considerably.

"The people have been good to us," he says. "We've grown substantially since we've opened. If we continue to grow like we are, we have the room to expand now."

When Quality Lawn Equipment made the move, they bought the former Harvey's Steak and Eggs restaurant. It took a lot of work to change the eatery into a showroom and service department.

"We did all the work ourselves," Ron said. "All the workers plus some neighbors helped out. We must have increased our service facility three times."

Being able to service what he sells is very important, Ron says.

The showroom is lined with lawn mowers of every size and many other types of power equipment. The business carries products from a number of manufacturers including Honda. Equipment can be purchased for residential or commercial projects.

"Honda came to us to see if we'd carry their line. We didn't go out looking for them. They asked us," Ron said. "We carry the top line equipment. It may be for a little more money but people know they get what they pay for. We treat the customer like they want to be treated."

Business hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. every day but Sunday, with late hours on Monday and Thursday until 7 p.m. In the spring and summer, the store is open seven days until 8 p.m.

Owner Ron Nehring says the Honda brand of power equipment in stock at Quality Lawn Equipment and Feed Center is one of the larger lines of products in the store.

"We were here before the park was started and now that it's completed, hopefully the customers will keep coming in."

If business keeps growing, so may the building, says Alleshia.

"It's a possibility but not a certainty," she says. "As long as the customer count keeps going up like it is, we might do it."

The building addition could house another business like a drug store to complement the grocery store, said Alleshia, the daughter of owner Jim Humphrey.

The name of the business is changing in the spring.

Lynn Wyszynski and Karen McDonald are a couple of the employees waiting to help out at the Cracker Barrel, a full-line grocery store at Sashabaw and Oak Hill roads.

Family style service at Gott's

There are three Gotts at Gott's Auto Service.

Bob Gott and two of his sons, Bob and Kevin, run the business at 5709 Maybee in Independence Township with a family style.

Gott's offers such services as driving customers home after they've dropped off their cars to be fixed and picking them up when the car is ready.

The family team handles such auto work as wheel alignment, brake service, air conditioning, tune-ups, computer control, automatic transmission and clutch.

"Every year we all update ourselves in the new areas by going to school," Gott said. "Bob just loves the computer cars."

All three are certified mechanics, and the sons have been working with their dad since they were 14 years old.

Gott has many interests outside of his auto business. He is a licensed pilot and he built a restaurant and operated it until one and a half years ago, when he devoted his energy full time to his auto service. He has 23 years of auto experience, and he has some electrical experience as well.

Gott has also begun Auto Exhaust Testing (AET), a Clean Air Act requirement of car owners that came into effect Jan. 1.

People are very worried about the test, he said, but "since I've gotten it (the AET machine), our failure rate here is next to nothing."

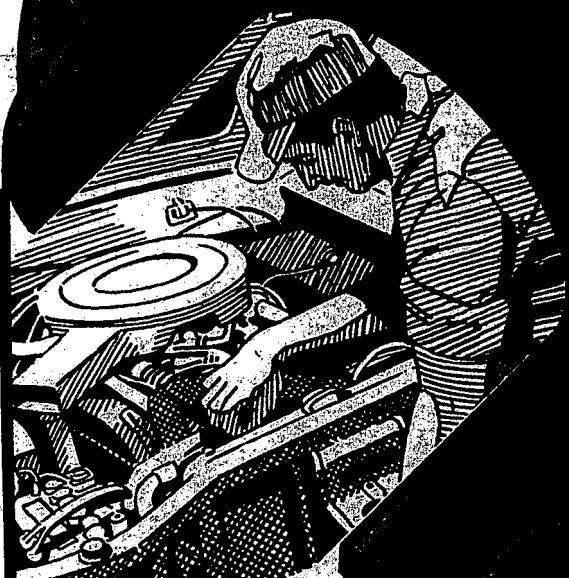

Gott enjoys his working relationship with his sons. "We all sit down and discuss problems, and we work together in solving (them)," he said.

His future plans are within his auto business. Gott said he hopes to expand the building and add storage facilities.

Members of the Gott family work together in their Independence Township auto service business located on Maybee Road. From left are Robert, Kevin and their father, Bob.

Mr. T's Jewelry boasts link to two 'Mr. T's'

Jerry Thompson, owner of Mr. T's Diamond Elegance Jewelry at 5883 Dixie in Waterford, knows the value of hard work.

Thompson first began working at age 11, setting up pins in a bowling alley. He's been working hard ever since.

"I've always worked two or three jobs," he said.

He began his jewelry business 12 years ago while still working for Children's Village. He worked at the Village for 15 years before quitting to devote 14 hours a day to his jewelry business.

Mr. T's does 99 percent of its settings, custom work and design.

"Anything in the jewelry industry that can be done, we do it here," he said.

"I do 90 percent of my own buying. Over one-half of what is bought are good buys," he said, explaining why he offers such low prices.

Thompson also owns one-third of another jewelry store in Colony Square in Pontiac.

"I love this kind of business," he said.

"I first got enthused in 1979 when the price of gold started fluctuating so much. I like the excitement of it."

"I have the three finest people possible working for me, and that's more important than anything else," he said. "That's the best thing about it."

Thompson attended the Gemological Institute of America as did his employee, Cheryl Johnson.

"Cheryl does 90 percent of the bench work—stone setting, repairs. Angie Burlison takes care of sales, bookkeeping, and ordering. Michael Barber does the odds and ends that nobody else wants to do, plus sales and bench work," Thompson said.

All three have been in the jewelry business eight years.

"I also am a custom designer for Detroit's own Mr. T, Robb Rickman," Thompson said. Rickman was Mr. Ironman in 1983 and is "probably the best Mr. T impersonator in the country."

Bordine's: for budding, blooming gardeners

"We're like a horticultural supermarket," says Robert Theisen general manager of Bordine's Better Blooms of Clarkston.

The Bordine's store at 8600 Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, features acres of plants, potted flowers and flats, trees and gardening supplies—everything for the budding, or accomplished, enthusiast.

ding greenhouse, currently under construction at Bordine's Better Blooms.

"It was started in Rochester in 1939," says Theisen, who is also vice president of Bordine's. "This is the second location."

In addition to a variety of plants and cacti, the 40-acre Bordine's offers skilled landscapers, certified horticulturists, and a floral shop among its many services.

In the floral shop, the do-it-yourselfer can find all that he or she needs for making dried-flower arrangements, Theisen says.

In addition, the floral shop will supply weddings, funerals, hospitals and offers a worldwide wiring service.

Landscape designers are available to visit the home, develop plans and offer suggestions about plants, said Theisen.

For those who prefer to do the work themselves, a staff of Michigan Certified Nurserymen horticulturists are available to answer questions about planting, diseases and proper conditions.

"If anybody has a question, they can come in and ask for MCN (employees) and they'll get the right answer," Theisen says.

During the winter season, Bordine's features Christmas trees and decorations, along with bird feeders.

"We go into the Christmas business at Christmas time," Theisen says, adding that they specialize in poinsettias.

Since last year, workers have been busy expanding the business, which includes garden tools, Theisen says.

A potting greenhouse was constructed in 1985 and a one-acre bedding greenhouse is currently being built.

"We're expanding the business. We'll have a lot more plants to sell this year," says Theisen, stressing the store's philosophy: "We want to have good quality plants and good service at a fair price."

Showroom space doubles in new home of Hosler Pontiac

The search for a new location started a long time ago for Randy Hosler Pontiac. And as of Dec. 31, that new location is 6585 Dixie Highway.

Owner Randy Hosler said he purchased the land about a year ago and construction began in June.

"We decided we had to do it," Hosler said.

The car dealership had been located just north of the village of Clarkston on M-15 near I-75. Hosler bought the business in 1980 and the volume of sales has increased every year.

"It used to be a big business in the early 70s," Hosler said. "When we bought it, only about 500 cars were being sold. The recession hit and it was tough. In '83 it was good, '84 was better, '85 we did about 1,200. In '86 I'm expecting to do about 1,500."

Hosler owns seven acres on Dixie Highway and five of that is under blacktop. Although it looks like there are more cars parked around the building, actually there are less.

"We've got about 195 vehicles here," Hosler said. "At the other place we had about 235 cars. They were parked everywhere, across the street, behind the building, everywhere."

"The factories are still a little down from the holidays. We should be about full by the spring."

The square footage for the new and old buildings are both around 10,000, but the new one is better organized, said Hosler.

"What space we had in the other building was all chopped up," he said. "It's basically three additions. In the service department, they were just tripping over everybody. They just couldn't operate."

The showroom now holds eight cars as opposed four in the old location. Another change is the addition of a new phone system that has 12 lines compared to five before.

"I think it's better for everyone here," Hosler said. "We're more efficient to better serve our customers."

Pontiac dealership owner Randy Hosler shows off the larger showroom at the business' new location on Dixie Highway. An additional four cars can be on display in the showroom.

manager Terri Douglas-Ronk, Polly Gallagher-Herd and Sandy Christensen.

Goal: pictures perfect

Styles of frames, prints and paintings fill the front room of Frames-N-Art Inc., but it's the back room where the activity goes on.

Manager Terri Douglas-Ronk and employees Polly Gallagher-Herd and Sandy Christensen do all the custom framing in the workroom.

Terry estimates the trio spend about five or six hours a day working on framing and matting.

"Working here, you have to learn to eat fast," said Sandy, the newest employee.

The business stocks its own moldings and cuts metal frames to size.

"It takes about a week to do a job," Terri said. "We double-mat things and try to match the colors of what is being framed. We're always trying out new ideas."

"What makes this job good is when you open the package and see the look on the customer's face," Terri said. "We make sure the customer likes the work. If they don't, we'll redo it."

We've only had to redo three in four years. I think our track record is real good."

The store, located in Independence Commons, is carrying more artwork this year. Sculptures, wall hangings, lithographs and signed limited edition prints are on display.

Sandy is one of the artists featured along with Connie Lundy of Ortonville, Jo Ann Pursell of Clarkston and Sally Bedrosian of Waterford.

Sandy, of Union Lake, is a graduate of Siena Heights College, Adrian, with a bachelor's degree in fine arts.

"Sometime in the spring, we're going to feature airbrush work by Sandy," Terri said. "She can put it on a shirt or anything. We're going to have some different samples in the store."

The business, owned by Robert and Mary Douglas of Clarkston, has been in Waterford six years, the last two in the present location. The store is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays.

Mall location offers benefits for patients

Visiting the dental offices of Glen Marsack and Kurt Heuerman brings many benefits.

They share the office, at 5695 Dixie in Waterfall Plaza in Waterford, with another dentist, Ronald Miaklinin.

"We're right in the Plaza," said Marsack.

"(The office) is easy to find and there's a lot of parking," said Heuerman.

"Parents can drop their kids off and go shopping," Marsack said. "Rooms are bigger, so people don't feel as crowded. People feel more comfortable because they don't see any of the instruments."

"It works out real well," Heuerman said. "Our staff is good."

Employee Kathy Tewilliger said, "I think it's neat when people come in and need a lot of work and we make their smile better. It's not as bad as people think."

"Patient education is an important part of my job," said Darlene Smith, a dental hygienist. She teaches the importance of "oral hygiene, flossing, teeth brushing and checking the mouth for oral cancer."

Smith also uses the cavitron, a tool using ultrasonic vibrations to knock off the stains from teeth instead of scraping.

The dentists offer another convenience as well. Both Marsack and Heuerman hold office hours, along with Richard Tack, D.D.S., at 3803 Elizabeth Lake

Rd. in Pontiac.

"The other office is just six miles away, so if this office is busy, the other might be able to fit them in," said Marsack. This is also helpful in the event of an emergency.

Evening and Saturday appointments are also available.

When not working, Heuerman enjoys basketball, skiing and tennis. And he likes to spend time with his wife.

Marsack said, "I stay home and baby-sit." His children are ages 3, 1½ and 6 months.

The office has been open since 1984, said Heuerman, so "we're in the growing phase right now."

The dental office staff at the Waterfall Plaza includes, from left, Heidi Hass, Brooke Bass, Dr. Kurt Heuerman, Kathy Tewilliger, Dr. Glen Marsack and Darlene Smith.

Dr. Susan Klemmer poses in her office with employee Kathy Hiding [left].

Susan Klemmer, M.D., is a dermatologist who goes just a little bit farther than some for her patients.

She not only treats common and unusual medical diseases of the skin, she offers her patients cosmetic procedures as well—procedures that will enhance the patient's looks and sense of confidence.

Included in the cosmetic procedures she performs are vein sclerosing, the treating of varicose veins; collagen injections for the reducing of scars and lines in the face; and the applying of permanent eyeliner, for those who have difficulty applying theirs from a pencil.

While Klemmer is interested in these areas, she also cares deeply for her patients and is concerned about helping people, she says.

"I get lots of satisfaction out of making people better," says Klemmer.

As a medical doctor, Klemmer treats skin conditions such as allergic rashes, acne and warts as well as patients with lesser known problems related to the skin, hair or nails.

Some diseases such as lupus, lymphoma, scleroderma and AIDS can manifest themselves with skin involvement, Klemmer says. Sometimes, the diagnosis of a serious disease begins with a check of the skin, she adds.

Klemmer turned to medicine after working for several years for General Motors following the completion of a master's degree in computer science and mathematics.

"I got married and had two kids when I decided I wanted to be a doctor," says the Springfield Township resident. She's glad now that she did.

A 1979 graduate of the Michigan State University College of Human Medicine, Klemmer opened her practice on M-15 in Independence Township last November.

She did her residency at Ford Hospital in Detroit and an internship at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

Klemmer also maintains office hours in Birmingham.

Pamper face, fingers and toes at Sandy-e's

The owners and employees at Sandy-e's Nail File want to make you feel good inside and out.

They're poised at their stations with files, glue, makeup and scissors to do their darndest to pretty up your nails, soften your callouses and beautify your faces.

While they work, they banter good-naturedly about pedicures, manicures and hair removals.

You can smile and look good at the same time, they contend, as they discuss eyebrow waxings and facials.

Sandy-e's Nail File is co-owned by Sandye Wood and Sandy Lamson, both graduates of the Oakland Institute of Cosmetology. They have owned the shop on Dixie Highway in Waterford almost two years.

"We just kind of fell into it," says Sandye of their partnership. Also on staff are a cosmetologist and three employees.

Color analysis is available for customers who want to know which colors accent their natural beauty, Sandye says. Included with a color analysis is a complimentary makeup application.

Makeup and nail polish can also be purchased, along with jewelry.

A flair for artwork is evident in the many nail paintings offered at the shop. "You pick it up as you go to classes," says Sandy. Nail paintings can be purchased for $2 to $5, depending on the degree of difficulty involved.

The employees of Sandy-e's Nail File try hard to accommodate their patrons, Sandy says.

Sandye agrees. "Most people feel real comfortable here."

Sandye watches while Sandy does a manicure on customer Catrona Eavenson. The shop also provides pedicures, eyebrow waxing, facials, makeup and color analysis and a line of jewelry.

Farmers Insurance Group is all-lines carrier

They are the agents of Farmers Insurance Group at 5641 Sashabaw in Independence Township.

"We're going into our fourth year," said Plautz.

"We're very pleased to be here at Sashabaw," said Lee. They have been at the Sashabaw location just over a year.

Because of the computers, both have been able to do more business, more accurately, in less time.

"The computer is definitely the wave of the future," said Lee. "It sure saves time."

By using the computer, estimating, quoting, billing and letter writing can all be done instantly.

A process that took two weeks when done the old-fashioned way (by hand with pen and paper and mail), takes only an instant when a computer is used, said Lee.

They insure auto, home, boat, commercial, fire and life.

"We're an all-lines carrier," said Plautz, and in order to cover so much, it's necessary to have a computer.

"What it comes down to is better client service," he said. "It's providing a much better agent-client relationship. The one thing I really like it for is the accuracy of the quote that comes out."

Lee likes the close relationship with her customers.

"Clients send baby pictures, graduation announcements, wedding invitations. . . . That's the kind of relationship we have," she said.

Both Lee and Plautz brought their families in the business to help out.

Plautz's wife, Patty, works as his secretary; and Lee's daughter, Tammie, and sister, Jeanne Woodard, help her.

"We both believe that we work for the best company in the industry," said Lee, "and we love our work."

Margaret Lee [left] and John Plautz give accurate quotes over the phone with the help of a new computer system. They insure home, auto, boat, fire, commercial and life.

Brinker's plans remodeling

Burt Fangel, owner of Brinker Plumbing and Heating, plans to expand and remodel portions of his building on Dixie Highway in Waterford Township.

The plumbing and heating business on Dixie Highway will always be called Brinker's.

Co-owner Howard Brinker retired earlier in 1985 and Burt Fangel, the other co-owner, said he wouldn't have it any other way.

George Brinker went into the plumbing and heating business in 1927 and opened this store in 1944.

Fangel, the brother-in-law of Howard and the son-in-law of George, is a licensed master plumber and has been with the company 31 years.

The Brinker building is scheduled for a face-lift in 1986. Fangel plans to use the extra space for more supplies.

"We'd like to cater to the do-it-yourselfers. We want to specialize in that," he said. "The plans for the building are being drawn up now. When they start depends on how much the green stuff keeps coming in."

The addition will go on the back of the building and the front display area will be remodeled so more can be shown.

"There are a lot of fixtures available and people have no place to see them," Fangel said. "We only carry the better grades of materials, the same thing we've done for the last 50 years."

One item on display now is Fangel's Etend-a-flange. Fangel invented the flange to stop water from leaking in bathrooms.

"The flange is doing well," Fangel said. "It's being marketed nationwide and is starting to take off."

Brinker's also offers installation and repair service to customers who would rather not do the work themselves.

"We've got four trucks on the road most of the day now," Fangel said.

Fill leisure time at Camera Bug

Customers are drawn to the Camera Bug and Video store by the green and white lettered sign perched atop its Waterfall Plaza location.

Once inside, they have a choice of going to the left and into the camera department or to the right and browsing through the video cassettes.

The video side has almost 1,500 movies and shows in stock ready to rent.

Owner Jeri LaDue said they have all the equipment needed to go with the cassettes.

"We can special order televisions," she said. "We have video cameras and VCRs, too."

Coupons and special prices and the large selection of movies keep the customers coming in, says Jeri.

"We transfer your home movies to video cassettes," Jeri said. "That's pretty popular."

On the camera side of the Dixie Highway business, a photography enthusiast can take care of any need that may arise.

Along with selling film and cameras made by Nikon, Canon and Minolta, Camera Bug and Video also provides overnight developing services through Kodak and Hite.

There are gadget bags, tripods, frames and darkroom equipment for sale in the store.

"We offer service on the cameras," Jeri said. "We've got the 35mm and video cameras here."

Jeri said the business started in Union Lake on Valentine's Day in 1975. It moved to Waterford Township about six years ago.

Less than two years ago, the business moved into a bigger store within the plaza so the video portion could be added.

Rick LaDue, the 9-year-old son of owner Jeri LaDue, stands inside the video half of Camera Bug and Video in the Waterfall Plaza on Dixie Highway in Waterford Township.

Lisa Sturdevant stands in front of the new conveyor at Harvard Plaza Cleaners. The conveyor puts to use more of the space available in the building.

Clothing care at Harvard Cleaners

By pushing a button, owner Bev Sturdevant has access to 1,000 clothing items at her Harvard Plaza Cleaners.

At the end of January, the dry cleaning business added a new conveyor that reaches toward the ceiling and runs to the back of the building off Dixie Highway. The equipment lets the owner and employees run a more organized operation, Bev said.

"I had this growing concern about utilizing the ceiling space here," she said. "We went from 60 feet of conveyor to 98 feet. We use the lower one for sorting."

About 500 customers a week dropping off items to be dry cleaned and a couple of business contracts have helped pay for the $6,000 conveyor.

"The conveyor can go from 1 to 1,000 in a minute and 20 seconds," Bev said. "It doesn't take long at all. We've got a nice index system to keep track of where everyone's order is."

The conveyor isn't the only thing new about the business. Bev said within the next three months, the entire storefront will be remodeled.

"We're going to have new counters, wallpaper, carpeting," she said. "My husband John is going to build all the cabinets."

The family owned and operated business also employs Bev's daughter Lisa. Bev has been the owner for over three years and was manager for over seven years before that.

Bev said many of her days fall in the 12-13 hour range.

"I'm here about 6:30 every morning because I've got work to do," she said. "I want everything under control before the customers come in. I want the customers to feel relaxed when they come in. That's very important to me."

Lowrie's Landscaping provides plans, labor

The clean-cut, trim look can be found in the finished products of Lowrie Landscaping and in its employees.

"That's what we're trying to strive for . . . to keep the high image," says owner Tom Lowrie, who gears his summer hiring policy to well-groomed college students.

Lowrie Landscaping, located off Dixie Highway in Waterford Township, offers customers a full line of landscape services including designing plans, construction of decks and retaining walls, gazebos, boulders and the planting of trees, plants and perennial gardens.

Their specialty is Japanese gardens.

"We're like a landscape and design building firm," Lowrie says.

Ten percent of the average homeowner's expenses come from landscaping, according to Lowrie.

"I really, strongly emphasize that you have to come up with a plan," he says.

Customers doing business with Lowrie Landscaping may have a plan designed by one of Lowrie's designers and then go on to contract with Lowrie for its implementation, or they may purchase the plan alone.

"Every job is different," he says. "We want to provide everything that goes for exterior construction and landscaping. I just try and treat people more than fair. We like to be competitive."

Lowrie brought his business to Waterford after graduating with a degree in landscape architecture from Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, in 1977.

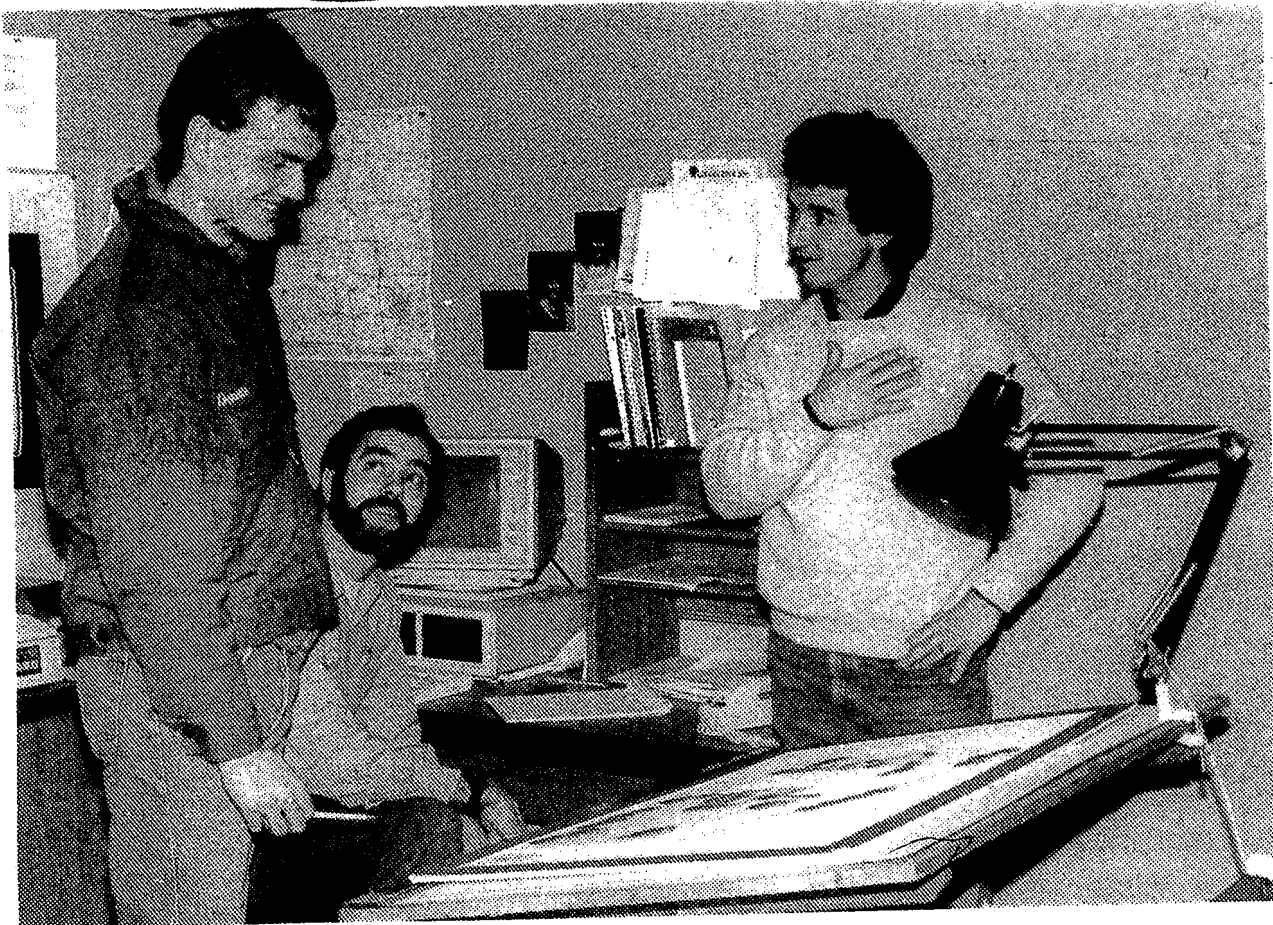

Previous company projects have included the new 52nd District Courthouse and Northcrest Condominiums.

Lowrie is currently engaged in creating a landscape plan for Dr. James O'Neill's proposed Clarkston Health Center. He envisions, along with the developers, that the project include a softball field and a nature/health walk.

Such things are the trend in business, he says.

Lowrie estimates that the average job takes two to three weeks to complete once the plans have been agreed upon.

Landscaping can be done in phases, however, when a customer is short of funding, Lowrie says.

drawing board in the Lowrie Landscaping office in Waterford Township.

Carla's expands to handle business upswing

A lot of hair has fallen to the floor inside Carla's Hair Salon this past year—enough so the business could grow.

The shop opened another room in the Springfield Place complex in Springfield Township. Owner Carla Dutcher has been at the 8500 Dixie Highway address two years.

"We expanded in June," Carla said. "We could have expanded even more if there was enough room. A lot of the business comes from word of mouth."

Carla and the other hair stylists Sue Todd, Ann Bixby-Vliet, Lissa Cooper and Laurie Webb and nail technician Robin Smith keep the customers happy and in coffee. A pot of the brew is always ready for those waiting, although Carla says they don't have to wait long.

"We keep pretty close to our schedule. We don't want to make the people wait," she says.

The clientele centers around the family and about 40 percent of the business comes from men.

"We're just close enough to Clarkston and other communities," Carla says. "We're in between all the communities. We get people from Bloomfield and from up north."

Carla has been in the hair business for 15 years and has owned her own shop for the past eight.

"Eight years ago, I just thought it was time to open my own business," she said. "I had enough confidence to go out on my own and have been open ever since. We just kept growing."

Carla's Hair Salon does all types of styles including shampoos and sets needed for some of the more established styles.

"Some women come in saying some places don't do simple shampoos and sets," Carla said. "We try to keep well educated. We're going to Chicago for the Midwest Hair Show in March."

Carla's is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the week with late hours until 8 p.m. on Wednesday. The shop is also open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday.

A CONSUMER SHOPPING TIP

When waterproofing your basement, make sure your contractor's reputable. Read your contract carefully before signing. Question all language you don't understand. Be prepared to remove your own interior basement walls if contract so states. And don't let a salesman tell you soil conditions and water table are irrelevant. They're important.

Business blooms at Waterford Hill Florist

Neighborliness goes a long way for businesswomen Belinda Seal and Theresa Petherbridge.

The two, who have lived across from one another in Independence Township for some nine years, are co-owners of the Waterford Hill Florist and Greenhouse.

They pooled their resources and bought the shop at 5992 Dixie in Independence three years ago and their business and friendship have bloomed ever since, they say.

"We just sort of decided we'd give it a try," says Belinda. "I guess we've got the advantage. We're friends first."

"It's like gambling. The more you do, the more you want to do," adds Theresa.

The women brought to their venture a set of four green thumbs, individual preferences for plant and flower work and strong desires to learn by doing.

Theresa calls their experiences at cultivating plants and making flower arrangements "hands-on training."

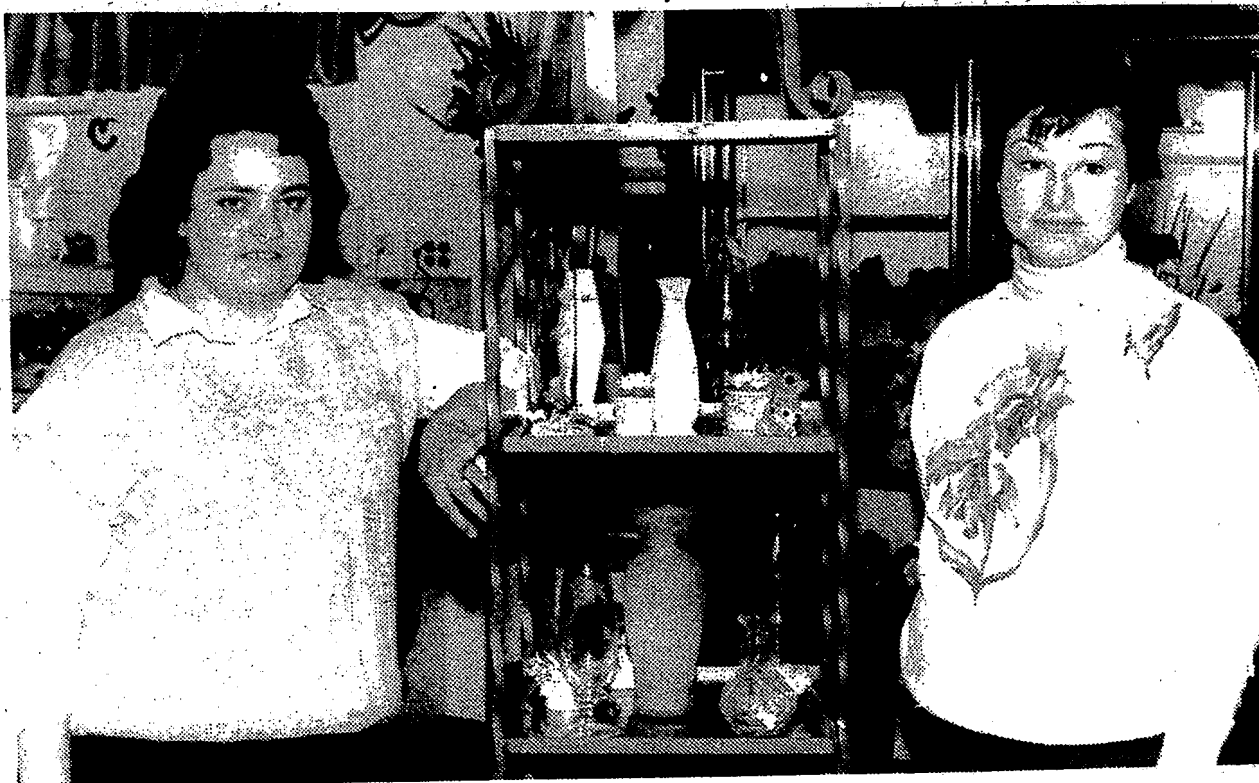

"You go through one major holiday, you perfect any skill you ever had," says Belinda with a laugh.

During October of last year, the women expanded their wares and services after opening an additional room in the former house, which has served as a florist shop since 1932.

They have been able to increase their stock in silk flowers by-the-stem, baskets, helium balloons and fresh flowers, according to Belinda. "Everything for the do-it-yourselfer," as she puts it.

Last Christmas, following the expansion of their building, they offered a bow-making class to a standing-room-only crowd, says Belinda. With that success behind them, more classes are tentatively planned to meet the ever-increasing demands of their customers.

The women also offer full-service arrangements in funeral, wedding and party needs as well as Telefloral and FTD wiring services. They have wired flowers as far away as Germany and Hawaii, according to Theresa.

Confidentiality is always closely guarded, says Belinda.

During the summer, bulbs and flats of flowers featuring marigolds and impatiens can be purchased at the store. Full-time designer Mary Butcher assists the store owners along with two part-time employees.

Dr. Bruce Mercado and Dr. Jack Shader share dental office space and staff in Shader's building on Sashabaw Road in Independence Township.

Dentists' office brings outdoors to the inside

Dentists Jack Shader and Bruce Mercado were first brought together by their mutual accountant, Robert Wiar.

The two family dentists have separate practices but share the same office and the same assistant. They even share the building with Wiar.

Their building, at 6300 Sashabaw in Independence Township, and was built by Shader in September 1984. Mercado joined him in 1985.

The office is equipped with all of the modern conveniences. The waiting room has wide skylights that support tall, healthy plants. A vase of fresh cut flowers sits on a table.

In fact, a vase of fresh cut flowers sits on a table in every room.

All the records are kept on a computer. All book-keeping, billing, insurance, and treatment and diagnosis are kept on record, so the information is at the fingertips of the doctors during any emergency or regular visit.

In the treatment area, each of the chairs faces the same wall, a wall of windows. Just outside of the windows, a tree stands covered with half a dozen bird feeders. The tree and feeders host birds and squirrels and provide instant entertainment for patients.

The walls are covered with photographs of waterfalls, sunsets, forests and animals.

"Jack's wife is the decorator of the office," Mercado explained.

The dentists do all routine work, and they strive to use the latest technology.

"We both believe in continuing our education," Shader said. "I've taken up to 200 hours every year."

"We use ultrasonics for root canal therapy. It makes for a more pleasurable experience for the patient—quicker, more complete—in addition to hand tools," Mercado said.

They also have nitrous oxide (relaxing gas) available if patients prefer, Shader said. "We have a turntable if patients like to bring in their own records or tapes. It's a better atmosphere."

"It's just kind of fun," Shader said.

Both dentists enjoy sports and their families in their free time.

"I both downhill and cross country (ski)," Shader said. "I'm going to be looking forward to changing diapers soon."

"I like to go up north. I enjoy the upper and lower peninsulas," Mercado said. "In the summer, I like to swim. I like any outdoor activities. I play wallyball, that's pretty much my winter activity."

The dentists offer full service in their office. They not only do general practice, but also provide orthodontics. Hours are by appointment; days, evenings and Saturdays are available.

Carol's dishes up friendliness

Carol's Village Grill serves coneys and milkshakes and conversation.

It's a "homey" restaurant where many of the customers and the owners know each other's names.

Don and Carol Borngesser live in downtown Clarkston and have owned the restaurant since August 1985.

"It's working out pleasantly," Carol said.

"I love it," Don said. "We share the workload."

Don has always wanted to own his own business, while Carol was content to work for someone else. Before this, Carol worked in the Village Bakeshop and Don managed a bowling alley.

"I've always worked long hours," Don said. "I finally decided to do it for myself."

"I have just as much fun meeting the people as I do anything else," he added, as customers greeted him.

Don and Carol changed the format slightly when they bought the store. They extended the hours and added ice cream.

"We buy our hamburger fresh from Rudy's and make our own patties," Don said, adding that his father occasionally works for them and is the "official hamburger maker."

The help "really pitched in and got us going" and made a smooth transition from owner to owner, he said.

Don and Carol have a 15-year-old daughter, Lisa, who attends Clarkston schools, and they enjoy bowling on a mixed league. Don still plays in the Alumni Band at Central Michigan University every homecoming.

Their plans for the restaurant include expanding the dinner menu and redecorating the interior.

Carol and Don Borngesser enjoy living and working in Clarkston. They have added ice cream and extended hours to Carol's Village Grill since buying it last year.

New name for Joy's salon

When Joy Morrison moved her hair salon, she also changed its name to Joy's Hair Salon.

It only took a couple of hours Nov. 22 to move the equipment from the shop's address behind the racquet club, where it was called Joy's Hair Racquet, to the new 6678 Dixie Highway spot next to Ritter's Market.

Besides Joy, who has owned the business for five years, the other hair stylists are Lisa Strehle, Kris Austin and Dee Bomar. Jayne Watkins is the manicurist.

Workshops and shows around the state keep the staff informed about the ever-changing hair styles for men and women. About 50 percent of the customers are men.

"We're a modern salon," says Dee, a former salon owner. "We take care of all the latest hair styles and permanents. It takes about half hour or 45 minutes to give a basic hair cut."

The salon hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday, mostly by appointment.

Since the move two months ago, the salon has already seen an increase in customers.

"We get a lot of walk-ins," says Jayne. "We should get more walk-ins here. It's a better location and more traffic comes by here."

Staff members call themselves a congenial bunch at Joy's Hair Salon. Counterclockwise from the back row are Kris Austin, Joy Morrison, Lisa Strehle, Dee Bomar and Jayne Watkins.

Video Express films double

Video Express I and II have doubled the number of movies they carry in the one and a half years they've been open.

"We keep on top of all the new movies," said

Jan Jolley of Ortonville works at Video Express II. The stores will rent to non-members as well as rent out video cassette recorders. On Tuesdays, rentals are $1 off.

Jean Pierre Gourand, owner of stores.

Video Express I is on the corner of Clarkston and Sashabaw roads, next to Pierre's Market. Video Express II is on the corner of M-15 and Dixie Highway, next to A&P and Wonder Drugs.

Gourand has a pre-order movie contract, he said. "Everything that's new, we (automatically) get."

"They've been releasing movies early, which is great," he said. "People don't have to wait too long for a good movie anymore. That's nice."

Video Express I has approximately 900 VHS tapes, while Video Express II has about 900 VHS as well as 950 beta.

The added benefits Gourand offers include one free movie for: 10 paid rentals, each family member's birthday and each student's honor roll report card.

Gourand decided to go into the movie rental business, he said, because "I'm a video freak, I guess you could call it. I love videos."

Gourand spends most of his time at his stores, but "I do watch a lot of movies," he said.

Gourand couldn't pick a single favorite movie. "I like a nice mixture (of movies), as long as it has a plot," he said. "I think the 'Killing Fields' was very, very well done. I think that new one called 'My Science Project' for the kids is very, very well done."

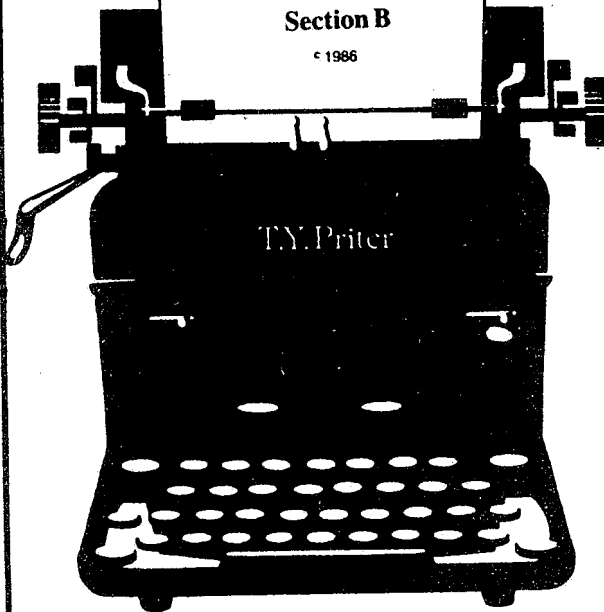

Gourand plans on increasing his inventory. "Of course, I'm not going to disappear because I've been here since 1955," he said.

"I want to thank all my members for all their understanding throughout the years. I would like to keep bringing new movies, and we'll do everything we can to make our customers happy."

Bike shop moves to Main Street, Clarkston

Kinetic Systems generates much of its business by wheel—bicycle wheel.

People from all over the state have heard about the store, said owners Louise Kasl and Jeff Nofitz, because bicycle racers have spread the word throughout Michigan and even in parts of Ohio and Illinois.

"That's helped with our recognition," said Louise.

The two opened the bicycle store six years ago because "I couldn't find a store where I could find exactly what I was looking for," said Jeff.

"We didn't realize when we opened that we opened right at the beginning of the interest in biking," Louise said. "Previously, the material was available only through mail order."

People now can buy bicycles, clothing and all the accessories at the store's new location at 60 S. Main in downtown Clarkston. The store was previously located on Dixie Highway in Groveland Township.

"The bicycles are performance oriented, not necessarily for racers or triathlons but for people who train," said Jeff.

They carry a wide variety of bicycles, said Louise, with prices starting at $250; and service is an important part of their job.

"It's critical to (our customers') enjoyment of bicycling that they be fitted correctly," she said.

Also included in their stock is clothing designed for bikers. The styles are popular with cross country skiers and for use in weight training and aerobics, Louise said.

"We choose our clothing for its quality. We research its performance," she said.

Kinetic Systems sponsors a team, and they have a store club with 60 members. The Flying Rhineros Cycling Club rides on weekend excursions and participates in other activities.

The club is associated with the United States Cycling Federation, "the Olympic arm of cycling," said Jeff.

Jeff and Louise are involved in many other activities in addition to their business.

Jeff is going to Colorado Springs to help work with the national bicycling team as a coach in a three-week training camp.

This will be their second year teaching an adult cycle repair class in through Clarkston Community Education.

They also plan to help with the Independence

Louise Kasl and Jeff Nofitz own Kinetic Systems at 60 S. Main, Clarkston. "We like the Township Sesquicentennial triathlon; to host the state time trial championship; and to help the American Youth Hostel Association by again offering their store as one of the stops in the July 4 Firecracker 100 cycling ride.

"We also have weekly rides on Sunday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday morning," said Louise. "We better visibility and the better accessibility," says Kasl of the new location.

do want to try to develop a group of more casual riders if there's an interest."

Jeff and Louise both live in Clarkston and enjoy weight lifting, skiing and training. They're conservationists and members of the Audubon Society.

"We sell bird seed here, and the proceeds go to the Audubon Society," Jeff said.

Maria Baylis, wife of Dr. Shelby Baylis, is the founder of North Oakland Home Health Care. She was previously a registered medical technician with St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Service offers health care in patients' homes

Compassion for elderly men and women who find themselves ill and alone drives Maria Baylis.

Baylis is the founder of North Oakland Home Health Care, an agency that provides nurses, dietitians and therapists to home-bound patients, most of whom are over 65 years of age.

Certified in 1983, the agency at 7736 Ortonville Rd., Independence Township, provides medical help to patients who require skilled nursing care and who cannot get to their physicians' offices, Baylis said.

"They really can use the help, especially if they're alone," Baylis says, emphasizing that new regulations force recovering patients to leave hospitals sooner than they did in the past. "We deliver health care to the home. Most of our patients are Medicare patients. We do around 1,200 visits a month."

Patients with Blue Cross and Medicaid are also accepted, she says.

Patient referrals are made by physicians, hospitals, relatives and sometimes the patients themselves, according to Baylis. All services are provided under the watchful eye of the patient's doctor, who devises a plan of treatment.

Nurses work with patients giving instructions about the proper use of medications and nutrition as well as making patient assessments, drawing blood, changing dressings, and other medical tasks, Baylis says. The nurses also act as mediator between patients and their physicians.

In addition, nurses aides are available to assist with grooming, bathing, some cleaning and other needs.

Some 40 employees are affiliated with the agency, which services Oakland County north of 13 mile road.

The growing trend to treat seriously ill patients in their homes, rather than in hospitals has advantages and drawbacks, says Baylis.

Being at home enables many patients to have increased interaction with loving family members and gets them away from the sterile, lonely atmosphere of hospitals, she says.

Too many, however, lack supportive families, she says, adding that is where North Oakland Home Health Care finds its purpose.

"I like the idea of helping people," Baylis says. "That's something I really enjoy. There's a lot of gratification."

Drayton Heating can help

Bernie Torr, owner of Drayton Heating and Cooling on Hatchery Road, has the do-it-yourselfer in mind.

His store is geared at making the installation of home heating and cooling systems easy for those who enjoy doing their own work.

"There's a big demand for it," he says. "It's proved to be very successful. That's probably my primary goal now . . . to expand that more."

"Some people have lots of time and they can save themselves lots of money," Torr says referring to the advantages of do-it-yourself for the customer and himself. "It's a challenge. That's why I like the do-it-yourselfer."

For the shopper who is not content to do his own work, Torr provides installation of furnaces, duct work, air conditioners and humidifiers as well as repairs. He also draws plans for such work.

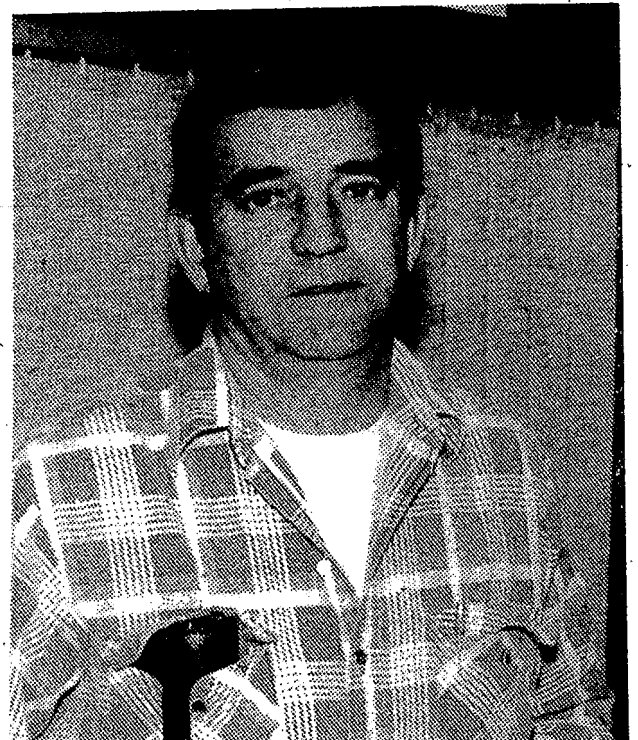

"We design systems and furnish blueprints," he says.

In addition, Drayton Heating and Cooling offers a service that is relatively hard to come by, Torr says—the fabrication of metals.

In the past, Torr has fabricated hoods for grills, a custom-made cab top for a tractor and liners for flower bins, but the options are unlimited, he says.

He is willing to do "just about anything," he says, adding, "Those are the kind of things, that when you get a little bored with what you do, kind of change your attitude."

Drayton Heating and Cooling was begun by Torr's father Bernard and was co-owned by his parents for several years. Torr assumed control of the business approximately 10 years ago and he has carried on his father's work industriously.

"I try to stock all the things that people normally need, plus special items," he says.

Jane Fedrigo (left) and Lynn Chaldekis along with Bruce Solsburg will be kept busy with the expansion of Palm Beach Patio Furniture this spring.

At Palm Beach Patio

Furniture inventory grows

Palm Beach Patio Furniture is expanding its showroom. By the time April rolls around, the business at 7350 Highland Rd., will have more room to show their wares.

Owner Jane Fedrigo said they are increasing the display space by 1,500 square feet.

"I get carried away when I go buying," Jane said. "We're going back into the warehouse area a little. We can have a larger selection. We're a little cramped now."

Jane's buying trips take her to places like Chicago, New York and Dallas.

"Basically I go to the shows for ideas," she says. With over 17,000 square feet of building space, Jane said there is a lot of room in the warehouse for storage.

"People can cash and carry what they want," she said.

Displays of wicker and rattan fill the showroom.

Dining rooms, living rooms sets and outdoor furniture greet the customers as they enter the store.

The store is also getting a new ceiling to accommodate some of the taller displays.

Now, "we have to shorten the umbrellas because they don't fit," Jane said. "We're really going to fix this place up."

Furniture for the a garden room or patio isn't the only thing Palm Beach Patio deals with. Rockers, baskets, plastic dinnerware, lamps and custom cushions are available.

"We've got the replacement cushions for the odd-shaped furniture," Jane said. "You know, like the benches husbands make but don't think about being able find cushions to fit."

This is the slow season for the patio furniture business. For next year, Jane has the solution.

"We're going to have artificial Christmas trees on display," she said. "We won't have any trouble keeping busy."

Thompson RV Sales—motorhoming along

In June of 1983, there were three motor homes on the lot. Now, there are 100 homes, travel trailers and 5th-wheels.

Needless to say, business is booming.

"In 1985, we doubled our sales. We're one of the top five dealers in the state," said Gary Mathews, sales manager of Thompson RV Sales and Service, 533 S. Lapeer Rd., Oxford.

Sales from the homes have been almost staggering.

"We've done over $2 million better than in 1984. By the end of September (1985), we had sold $4.9 million," Mathews said. "We're growing."

The company is the smaller portion of a business owned by Phyllis and Ernest Thompson. The Thompsons' number one business is oil, home heating oil.

"They know their business. They've been in oil for about 35 years, and they've built a reputation of quality. It carries over to our business," Mathews said.

"We give the customer more than they bargain for. Used vehicles are thoroughly reconditioned, and a new unit takes a few days to be checked."

Thompson RV carries a full line of Champion homes, models from Barth, Rockwood and Bay Port, to name a few.

According to Mathews, there are a couple of reasons sales are growing.

"The economy, in general, is just great; gas prices are falling, while the mileage on the motor homes is going up and interest rates are falling," he said.

He also expects business in 1986 to grow 25 to 30 percent.

Dr. Susan Coleman stresses preventive health care with her patients. Her internal medicine practice is located on M-15 in Independence Township.

Prevention is doctor's goal

As the state of modern medicine becomes more specialized, Susan Coleman, M.D., finds herself both learning and teaching as a physician.

Coleman, who has an internal medicine practice at 5825 M-15, Independence Township, shares time and knowledge with patients as a part of her ever-growing efforts to practice preventive medicine and health maintenance.

She helps to inform patients about the risks of high cholesterol, smoking and being overweight, says Della Evans, Coleman's office manager.

"People are becoming more involved in their own health," Coleman says, adding that patients are generally very receptive to advice that will improve their lives.

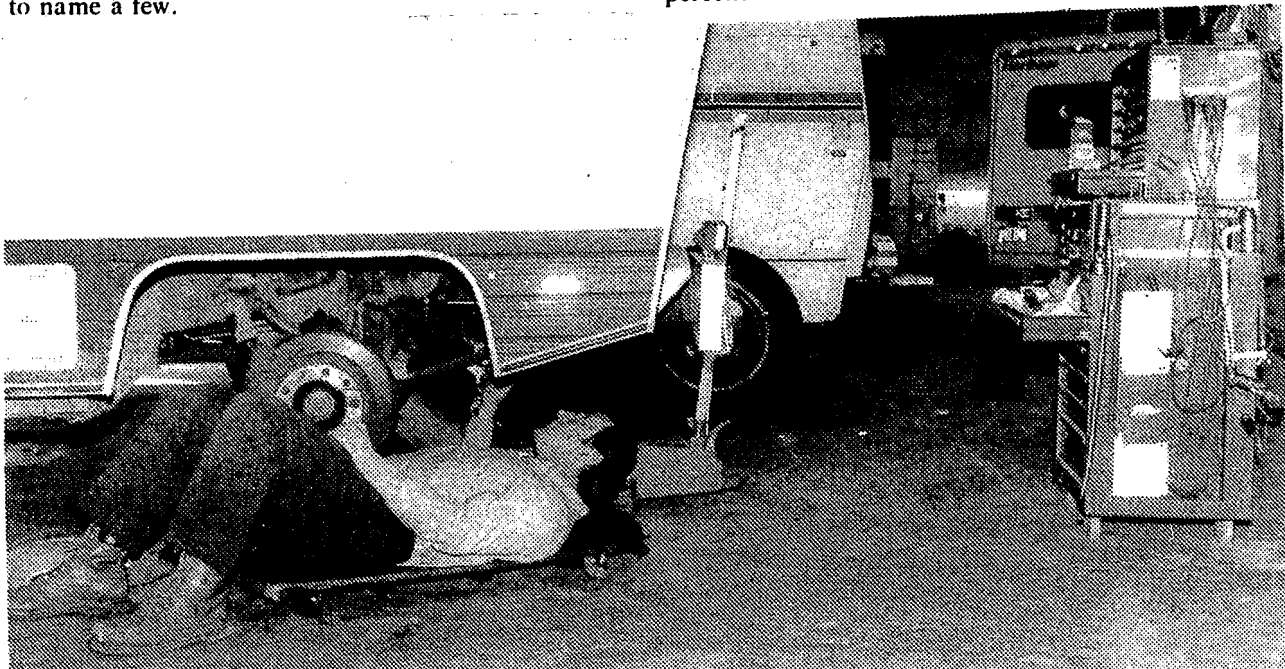

Coleman, a graduate of the Wayne State University School of Medicine, says she has been especially successful in encouraging people to quit smoking by directing them to stop-smoking clinics, helping them as they "go cold turkey" or suggesting other aids as the patient requires.

Tailoring her practice to meet the needs of her patients is important, Coleman says. She calls her method "convenience for the patients."

She recently expanded her office hours and increased medical procedures to include colon cancer screenings, an emphasis on treating osteoporosis and same-day service for sick patients.

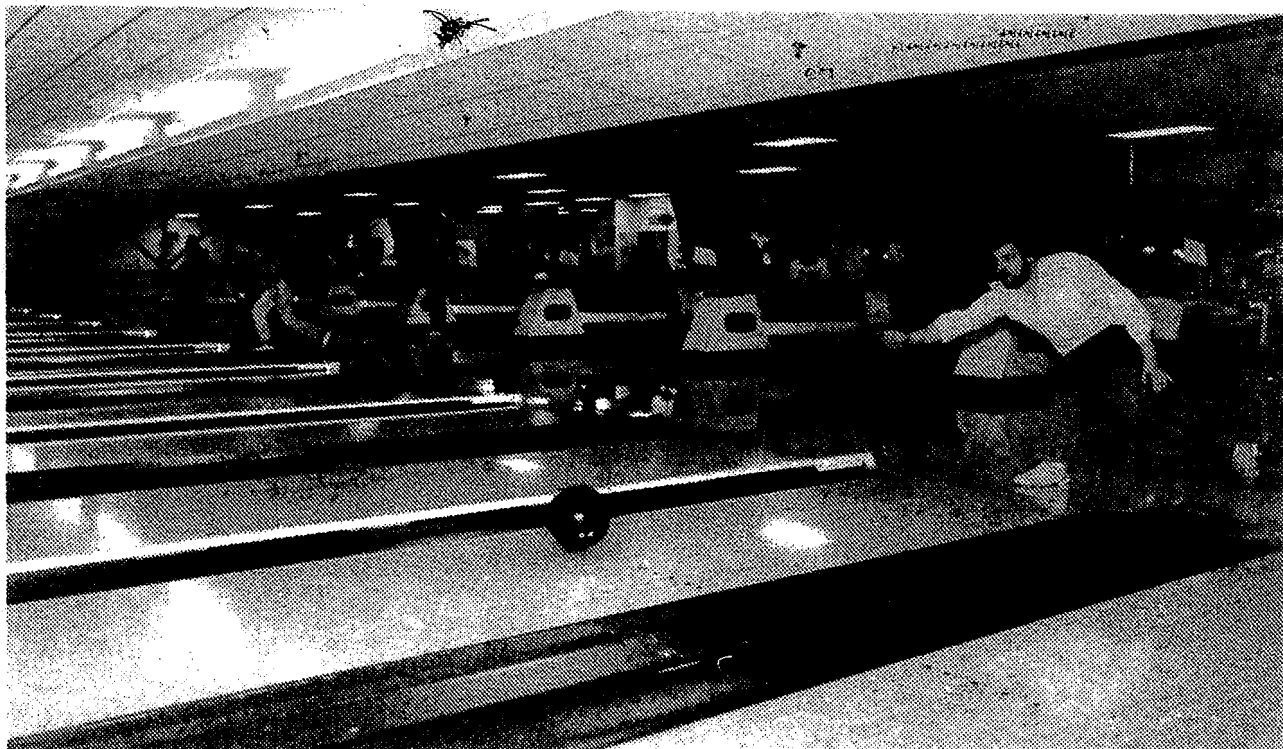

"Dr. Coleman spends a lot of time with her patients. A lot of time," says Evans.

Office hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Thursday; 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday; 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday; and 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday.

Mechanic George Pfieauf works on repairing a recreation vehicle's brake system in the 2,900-square-foot garage at Thompson RV Sales and Service in Oxford.

Bowling lessons and an after-school bowling program are among the recreational opportunities at Zim's Bowling Center in Lake Orion. The center includes 24 bowling lanes.

Family fun at Zim's Bowling

Owner Joe Zimmer enjoys Zim's Bowling Center almost as much as the patrons.

Zimmer had insisted a bowling center was needed in Orion. He diligently pursued obtaining the property and building the 24-lane center.

Zimmer says he visited more than 100 bowling centers around the country, learning and selecting the best of the ideas he saw.

The center opened in November last year, and its success proves Zimmer's point.

The bowling center contains a lounge, pro shop and video room.

Entertainment is offered in the lounge three nights weekly. The pro shop offers shoes, bags, bowling balls and shirts.

"There are 20 games in the video room," says Zimmer. "These are very popular with the younger teens."

Zim's Bowling Center also offers bowling lessons and an after-school bowling program.

Currently, a mixed youth and adult league is being established. Zimmer says the new league will provide fun for the entire family.

But, that's what Zim's center is all about. Zimmer says, he enjoys hearing the shrieks of a family as they enjoy the center's offerings.

"It's fun to watch parents praise the kids when they do well, and vice versa," he says.

Zimmer's own family—wife, Sue and daughters Jody, 14; Jennifer, 11 and Jamie, 7—often come the center, enjoying the atmosphere as well as special family time.

The center is beginning to accept registration for the summer leagues, says Zimmer. At Zim's those leagues run from May through July.

A nursery is available, so very young children can play while the parents bowl.

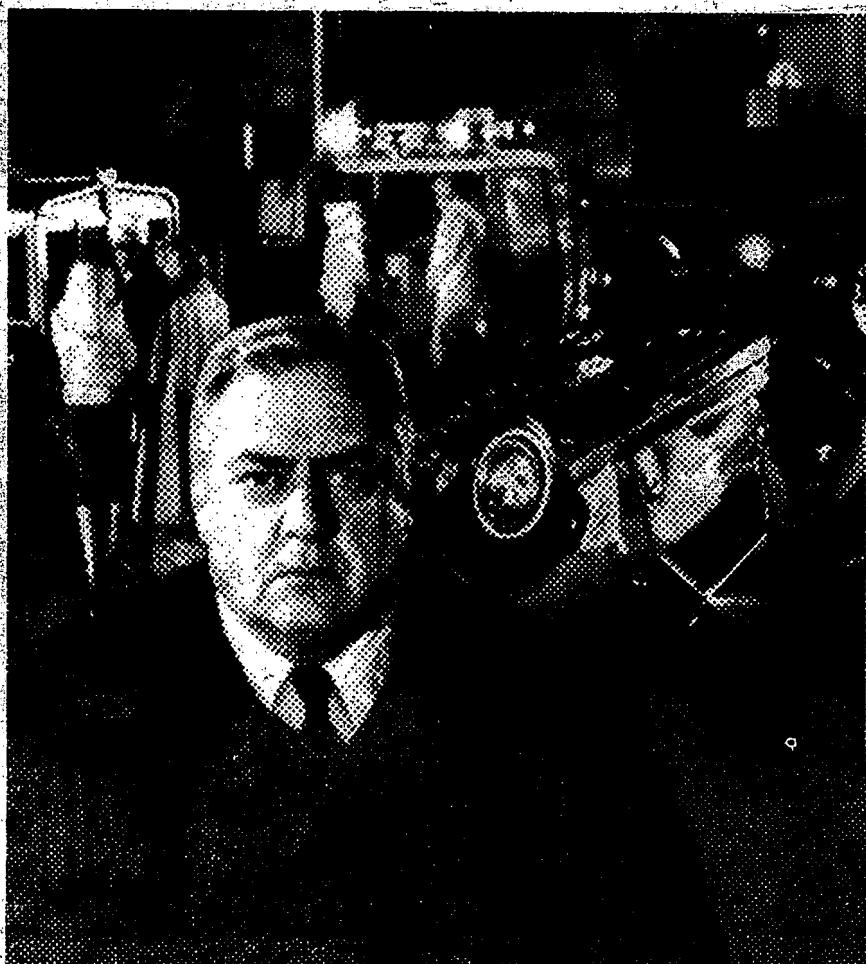

Because of the success of the center, Zimmer is planning to add 16 more lanes within the next two years.

The center is attached to Zim's Spirits and Eatery, so bowlers can go from a game to dinner or a snack and beverage without leaving the building.

The concept is proving successful, say Zimmer. But he credits his staff with making the success possible.

"Without the great employees working here, I couldn't do this," Zimmer says.

because they have more display space for kitchen, bathroom and wet bar cabinets.

Working at Bud Grant Insurance Agency are Pamela Hotary [sitting] Helen Floyd and Bud

Grant. Grant's wife Shirley, not pictured, also works in the business.

30-year career for Bud Grant

Bud Grant is proud of his 30 years in the insurance business. He represents State Farm in his office at 6798 Dixie Highway in the Clarkston Cinema building.

"State Farm is the world's largest auto insurance company and has been since 1941," Grant said. "Since 1964, they've been the world's largest homeowner (insurance) company. Currently, they're the 10th largest health (insurance company) in Michigan."

A lot has changed in the industry since Grant first began.

"It's the only constant thing in our business—it's going to change," Grant said, and he provided some examples.

"When you rate an automobile, you must have 1,000 categories. When I first started, there were nine," he said. "When I came in, it was only male agents. We have schools for agents; the school in Marshall has only one male student this year."

In the beginning, Grant used to rate and estimate for customers by hand, with pen and paper. Now, his office is equipped with computers.

"State Farm automatically updates our computer twice a week," he said.

Grant calls the machine an "echo."

"It doesn't think. It can only reflect what you put in," he said. "To my knowledge, State Farm is the largest user of computers in the country. Eighty-seven percent (of State Farm agents) use computers."

Grant's office has been using computers four years.

Other topics concern Grant, as well.

"The industry lost more money last year than in the history of the industry," he said. "As a result of the claims and thefts, last year there were 88,000 cars stolen and 12 people went to jail (for auto theft)."

"To my knowledge, every insurance company in this area has either raised rates or are planning to."

Grant also has some predictions.

"We're looking for a very good 1986," he said. "The economic forecasts are good. We're looking for an increase in building trades."

Grant spends much of his free time with his grandchildren. Also, he is a member of the Pontiac Elks Club and a member of the National Association of Underwriters.

"My wife and I are just getting into cross country skiing," he said. "We enjoy boating and we enjoy traveling."

Foot specialists treat all ages

Drs. Mayer Salama and David Hunter treat a wide variety of problems at their Clarkston Foot Specialist office.

"I enjoy the practice," Salama said. "It varies from minor problems to complex situations. There's a wide spectrum in the practice itself, from pediatrics to geriatrics."

Their office is located in the Pine Ridge Place at 7650 Dixie Highway between I-75 and White Lake Road. They're adjoined by Dr. Daniel Bielak's office and a physical therapy office, which complements their practice.

"In the past three months that we've been in practice (in Independence Township), we've developed a sports-oriented type of practice," Salama said.

They treat other problems as well.

"We're both residency trained for podiatric surgery," he said.

They treat any problems with the ankle or foot ranging from fractures and dislocations to ingrown toenails.

They also perform the new technique of ankle arthroscopy, which is similar to knee scoping—looking for cartilage and ligament damage. Also, they are pioneers in laser surgery, Salama said.

Salama likes the Clarkston area.

"It's a community that's young and forthcoming," he said. "The people I've treated are very nice; it's a reflection of the community."

The office is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and every other Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon. Late hours are available on Mondays and Thursdays.

Kitchen Suppliers offers host of home cabinets

Don't expect to find rubber gloves and dish drains at Kitchen Suppliers Inc.

What customers will find is a large variety of cabinet displays for the kitchen and the bathroom.

Managers Teri Stahl and Judy Ware and receptionist Mary Fogg operate the business at 5101 Dixie Highway in Waterford.

The Waterfall Plaza is a new location for the business. They moved there in June from the corner of Dixie Highway and White Lake Road in Independence Township.

Teri said business has increased since the relocation.

"It's a better spot, better traffic area, a better location," she said.

The displays are not limited to kitchens. There are also bath counters and wet bars, and a large selection of major kitchen appliances.

The choices are unlimited, says Teri, because of the different layout possibilities and the room sizes. Cabinets come in wood, metal or Formica.

Cost range also varies, but a full room can start at about $1,800.

Don Fisher and Don Ziegler opened the business in 1971 in Brighton and it has grown with branches in Waterford and Ann Arbor. This branch has been in the area four years.

"We get all sorts of people in here," Judy says. "We get a lot of retail and builders in here. We don't have any installers working here. Sometimes people just come in to get ideas."

Part of Teri and Judy's job is to help customers with the selection of cabinet design. This free service helps people decide what is workable and practical as well as attractive, says Judy.

Teri is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University in interior design. Judy's forte is computers, but she works at Kitchen Suppliers "because it's fun and I enjoy it," she says.

The store hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the week and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday. They are open until 8 p.m. on Thursday.

Podiatrists David Hunter and Mayer Salama are very much involved with sports medicine," said Salama. "We will be working with trainers in the high school." Dawn Bowles (sitting), Jill Keener and Hunter pause between appointments. Salama is not pictured.

Beverly Short, owner of Beverly's of Clarkston, displays one of the many gift items for sale in her shop in addition to silk flowers and floral arrangements.

Find floral magic at Beverly's

Wall-to-wall flowers, literally, greet the shoppers at Beverly's of Clarkston.

In the shop off Dixie Highway in Independence Township, Beverly Short works her magic with dried flowers and handmade baskets.

Wooden ducks, silk animals and stuffed teddy bears oversee her efforts as she arranges flowers then bustles about her shop making sure that everything is in order.

"It's like they're coming into the past," says Beverly of the customers who walk into her quaint shop. "If you get lonely in here, you can take and hug a bear."

"I like a lot of the old-fashioned things," she adds, motioning at her display of Victorian-style pillows and dolls.

Beverly has a background in interior decorating classes and a flair for the artistic.

She says she came by the skill of flower arranging naturally.

"I know my colors pretty well. If you have a knack for this, I don't think you can be taught this. It has to be natural," she says. "It's unique."

In addition to completed dried-flower arrangements, Beverly's of Clarkston offers handmade baskets, handmade cloth animals, birds, pillows, sachets and dried flowers for those who would create their own arrangements or who are looking for gifts.

"I have all the things to make your own," Beverly says.

The shop also prepares arrangements for weddings, funerals and hospitals.

Beverly opened the shop on Mother's Day in the building that adjoins her husband Don's Clarkston Glass store.

Don makes the majority of the vine wreaths, which adorn her walls in a variety of colors and which she fills with flowers.

"If it wasn't for him . . . I don't know," she says, expressing her appreciation for his work.

J&J answers calls any time

J & J Refrigeration company provides 24-hour service to their customers.

"We do have 24-hour service," said Greg DiPietro, vice president. "The phone rings directly into the home; there's no answering service."

The office hours are Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday 8 a.m. to noon. However, service is available anytime by calling 625-2974.

The family owned business at 7170 Dixie Highway (next to the Secretary of State's office in Independence Township) sells, services and installs heating, cooling and refrigeration systems.

They also began selling generators in January 1985.

Greg is proud of his business and of his family who runs it.

"My dad founded (the business)," Greg said. "He's semi-retired now, but you can still find him here in the office answering the phone."

"My brother John took over the operation and expanded into heating. I took over after that. I took over all of the office procedures," he said.

Greg has been taking classes to help him with the office work.

"I've been furthering my education in a lot of different areas, business law, bookkeeping and accounting," he said.

Also, he plans to bring a computer into the business to run office procedures.

"My dad won a computer through a local contest at the same time I was looking for one," Greg said, and he plans to put the new IBM to work.

John J. DiPietro, Greg's father, is a World War I veteran and a fourth degree Knight of Columbus as well as an usher at St. Daniel's Church in Independence Township.

The business services all of Oakland County and will be expanding farther south this year with the help of their radio-dispatched trucks.

A-C Tire keeps those cars rolling

The condition of the economy has a trickle-down effect in the auto industry. A-C Tire and Service Center owner Mike Clancy said right now, everything is on an upswing.

"When times are good, people take care of their cars. They get check-ups and tune-ups," Clancy said. "When the economy is bad, people drive their cars until the tires are flat. They drive the cars until they die."

Clancy's business at 5440 Dixie Highway has seen both the good and the bad.

"I've been in this business for 23 years," he said. "I built this place 13 years ago. Small businesses learned a very valuable lesson during the slow times. When the slow times come back, and they will, we'll be ready next time."

The letters at front of the shop's name didn't come from the well-known automotive parts but from the initials of the owners. Clancy now is sole owner of the business, but his original partner was Art Dennis.

"We used A-C because it put us in the front of the phone book," Clancy said. "Everybody calls me Clancy, they think it's my first name. So we just used our first initials."

One element helping business now is the mandatory auto emission testing.

"We're doing about 10 to 15 tests a day here," Clancy said.

The 10 service bays and nine employees keep busy with all types of auto repairs except transmissions. They also have all major brands of tires available.

Clancy said he expects work at the shop to be done correctly the first time.

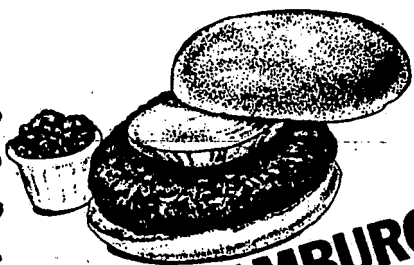

"We only buy quality parts. We try to stress quality at fair prices," he said. "If you get some work done here and break down on the road, you expect us to come and get you—and we will."

Tires are only half the business owned by Mike Clancy. He helped build A-C Tire and Service Center 13 years ago at its Dixie Highway, Waterford Township, location.

Missing from the picture is Greg's brother John C. DiPietro, president of the company.

Downey's fries five kinds of potato chips

The smell of cooking potatoes meets the customer when the door is first opened.

Once inside, the aroma is overwhelming, and the bowls of free samples greet the customers. On the counter, the bowls are filled with regular, barbecue, vinegar and salt, sour cream, and no-salt potato chips.

Downey's Potato Chips at the Waterfall Plaza, 5633 Dixie Highway, Waterford Township, offers this treat.

Every bag of chips is made and packaged in the store and then sold to customers directly or sold wholesale to grocery stores such as Rudy's Market, Felice's Quality Market, Atlas and Food Town.

"There's a lot of small places that come in here to pick up their own chips," said owner Rosemary Hogarth.

Downey is her maiden name, and she and her husband Donald opened the business 14 months ago with the help of Rosemary's brother Richard.

"Rosemary's brother has been in the potato chip business for over 30 years," said Donald. "He has big plants in southeastern Ohio."

"He's the one who gets all our potatoes for us," said Rosemary. "He's really the moving force behind Downey's."

In this short period of time, Downey's has expanded to several locations. Each store is as small as the original Downey's, and each only services the local area. Their daughter Rebecca runs the store in Troy and their nephew Kevin runs the store in Jackson. Another store in Westland will soon be opened.

Their daughter Beth has also helped in the business. At the present, she is home with her new baby, Emily Rose, the Hogarths' first grandchild.

"She (Emily) is the nicest thing that's happened to us," said Rosemary.

Sue Rigoulot "has been a nice addition here at Downey's," says owner Rosemary Hogarth, and Mark Williamson "is so dependable and good."

Donald Hogarth is retired from Burroughs and Rosemary is retired from the Cherry Hill school district. They both work full time at Downey's.

Mark starts making chips at 7 a.m. every day but Sunday.

"In the last one and a half years, I don't think I did anything but Downey's," said Donald.

"I don't feel I'm burned out," said Rosemary.

"I feel great," said Donald.

Variety is the spice of business at Tierra

cat. Tierra sells office, art, party and hobby supplies as well as jewelry.

Tierra at 64 S. Main in Clarkston offers such a variety of items that it's impossible to list them all.

Office manager Fiona Brown began with the office supply department.

"We sell all types of things," she said. "We sell school supplies for nursery schools and preschools. . . . Cherie (Hartwick), our crafts specialist, suggests crafts for the schools and others—Brownie leaders, teachers."

"We supply office products," she said. "We cover a wide area. We ship out to Detroit and . . . we do business with a lot of the offices in town."

Tierra lists and pictures its office supplies in a 478-page catalog, and does much of that business through phone orders.

Tierra is also well known for its jewelry department, Brown said.

"The jewelry department is a big part of the business. We sell, manufacture and repair jewelry," she said. "We've expanded the jewelry department just prior to Christmas."

Their full-time jeweler is Bob Long.

"(He) designs and makes original jewelry, and does all of the repairs. It's not traditional jewelry, per se," she said.

"We carry a large line of pearls, which is traditional, but we also get into Laurel Burch, porcelain earrings, titanium bronze and silver. The jewelry selection varies enough that we carry all price ranges."

Joan and Buck Kopietz have owned the store for 12 years and have been at the present location two years.

Their nephew, Richard Malfitano, has recently joined them from Colorado.

Another employee, Gerry Kar, "is bringing some new ideas into the gift department," said Brown.

They employ two other employees as well. Stacie Brown, Fiona's daughter, and Becky Kar, Gerry's daughter, work part time.

Other items include: portfolios for artists, desks, lamps, children's toys, musical instruments, masks, felt, frames, ribbons, paper products, party supplies, kitchen supplies, baby gifts, wrapping supplies, games, dictionaries, crayons, markers, artists' supplies, hobby supplies, rocket supplies, cards and stationery, and typewriters.

"We also keep the theater tickets for the Clarkston Village Players," Brown said.

New owners, new name at Cherry Hill

The new owners of Howe's Lanes have changed the name to Cherry Hill Lanes North. The owners are members of a family that has been in the bowling business since 1949.

The family has overcome several hardships on their way to owning and operating three bowling alleys.

"Our father (Ted Hochstein) started the bowling business," said Beverlee Gumtow, part owner. "He passed away last fall."

"We started negotiating for this place in March of last year," said Beverlee's sister and part owner Sue

Kulha. "Bev's husband, Ralph, was going to be the one to run the house, but he died suddenly in August, so we miss him terribly."

"We all decided we'd go through with it anyway," said Sue.

Now, the family juggles time and schedules to run their business. Their nephew Kenny manages this bowling alley, said Beverlee. She manages Mercury Lanes in Dearborn, and her brother Ted Hochstein Jr. manages Cherry Hill in Dearborn Heights.

Everyone helps in all the locations, she said. The owners of the business at 6697 Dixie in Independence Township are: Beverlee Gumtow, Sue and Frank Kulha, Ted and Jane Hochstein, and their mother, Helen Hochstein.

"We've been keeping busy getting organized," said Beverlee.

They have added new automatic scoreboards. "I think that people like them. They're modern and up to date. They're computerized with the counter," she said. "If a scoreboard isn't being used, you can put the TV channel on."

When they're not working, the family enjoys the same hobby, bowling.

"All of our families bowl," Sue said. "Ted has two pro-bowlers in his family."

Right now, the family is concentrating a great deal of time on their newest bowling business.

"We still have a lot to do," said Sue. "We still haven't settled ourselves in completely."

"We have a really good group of employees who worked here (previous to the new ownership) and stayed," said Beverlee.

"They've helped us a lot," said Sue. "They were very helpful in the transition."

Cherry Hill offers a banquet room with seating for 125 people, the Cellar lounge with a band or disc jockey on the weekends and "we have a couple of good cooks in the snack bar," said Sue. "They make some good lunches."

They're planning a grand opening April 25, 26 and 27 with pro-bowlers and a "party-type atmosphere," she said.

"We'd like to say to the community to come out and give us a try," said Sue Kulha [left], part owner of Cherry Hill Lanes North. Her sister

Beverlee Gumtow, also part owner, and her nephew Kevin Hochstein, manager, stand between the lanes at the former Howe's Lanes.

Evans and Associates: proud professionals

A boyhood friendship is behind the working relationship of business partners Rudy Lozano and Ken Rogers.

The two met as youngsters and went their separate ways in the working world before joining forces to buy Evans and Associates Inc. in 1973.

The privately owned real estate firm, located at 3756 Sashabaw, Drayton Plains, accommodates its customers in a variety of ways, said Rogers, and includes a nationwide transferee service which helps home buyers relocating to other states.

The firm deals in the sales of vacant land, used houses, new houses, businesses and subdivision dwellings.

Lozano and Rogers are also partners in the development of the new building which houses the 52nd District Court off M-15.

In the past, Evans and Associates has been responsible for the sale of Ritter's Farm Market, the Clarkston Dairy Queen and the site of the Burger King Restaurant.

Lozano and Rogers encourage professionalism, positive attitudes, good market knowledge and updated skills among their employees, according to Rogers.

Ongoing seminars, lectures and educational opportunities are provided to help keep them abreast of the latest developments in the business.

"I think the amount of exposure (to educational opportunities) we do is very unusual," Rogers said. "(There's a) high degree of professionalism. High standards."

"We try to couple all of those things with good, old-fashioned hard work," he said.

The owners of Evans and Associates believe they have a responsibility to the community and that attitude is reflected among the 23 who work there, Rogers said. Their employees have held a wide variety of public offices and received many awards.

Five of their sales associates have been "salesperson of the year" for the North Oakland Board of

In the past, various staff members have received the Citizen of the Year award from the Michigan Association of Realtor, served as past-president of the Oakland County Chamber of Commerce and as chairman of the United Way Campaign, among other titles.

"We should be involved in our industries, take an active role in them," Rogers said. "We should be involved in the communities that we serve."

At Waterfall Jewelers, the family touch

Chris Strong of Waterfall Jewelers said the past year has been "fantastic."

The family jewelry business at 5649 Dixie in Waterford Township has done over 5,000 free ear piercings in the year in addition to the usual business of selling gold, pearls, diamonds, watches, clocks and "just about everything."

"We have a very large repair department," Chris added.

The family has been in the area since Chris' dad Tom Brown opened a jewelry store almost 40 years ago.

"My dad has been in the jewelry business all his life," Chris said. "He gave the family the love of the business."

"I love jewelry," she said, "and I love selling jewelry, but the one phase I really like are the people who come in here."

Family members who work at the store with Chris are her father Tom, brother Tom, sister Sue, husband Joe and about a dozen others who "help around Christmas and other busy times."

They also employ two non-family members, "but Al's been here so long, he seems just like family," she said.

The family offers an "Earring Club" for people who take advantage of their free ear piercing service. Club members receive a discount on earrings purchased at the store.

Not only does the family work together, but it also plays together. Several members bowl on a mixed league in addition to the sports each individual plays. Golf, softball and exercising at Vic Tanny's are some of the activities.

Their sister Judy Ettinger works part time at the store and hosts the local cable program, "Speaking in Waterford."

Since the family grew up in the area and now live and work in it, they know many of their customers and agree that the people are the best part of the business.

"Our whole family is people-oriented," Chris said.

Imagination Plus plans to add petite line

When the first anniversary of Imagination Plus rolls around in June, only half of the sister combination now running the women's clothing store will be there.

Dawn and Wendy Cortese currently manage the Waterfall Plaza store, on Dixie Highway in Waterford Township, owned by their parents Dori and Wally Cortese.

Wendy, 23, is moving on to other adventures while Dawn, 25, is staying to handle the store.

"Wendy taught me the ropes about the business," Dawn said. "She built the business up. I was in back with the books while she was in front with sales and advertising."

Buying the styles of clothing in the store is becoming the responsibility of Dawn. Shows in Atlanta and St. Louis and phone calls to companies are avenues the sisters used to stock the display racks.

The store boasts styles to fit many personalities. Imagination Plus is also moving toward different sizes.

Petites are the latest line available in the store.

"We're expanding to petites starting in the spring, sometime in March," Dawn said. "A lot of the customers coming in here now ask about petites. Petite doesn't necessarily mean real short. I'm 5-4 1/2 and I wear petites. It's just a little shorter size and style."

Special promotions during the holidays kept the customers moving through the door to Imagination Plus.

"This spring we're going to try and do something special every four months or so," Dawn said. "Halloween we had balloons around and the customers could pop them for a discount coupon (inside). Christmas we had gift wrapping. The men really liked that. They could buy something nice and have it wrapped, too."

In the less than a year the store has been open, the busy seasons have provided an optimistic look to the future.

"We really had a good Christmas and back-to-school period," Dawn said. "We could consider expanding. Maybe within a year, we could look to Rochester or Troy for another store."

Health center serves needs

"Our whole thrust is to be a part of the community," said Dr. Stephen Friedman, Community Health Care Center physician coordinator.

The center, at 385 Lapeer Rd. in Oxford, is a division of Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital. The center opened its doors to the public in 1980 after a feasibility study showed the area was in need of such a facility.

"We have a plan. When we started, we needed to look at where we were at and where we wanted to go. We want to be a 24-hour, full service, community oriented, life-saving center. We're still in the planning stages right now, but we're getting closer," Friedman said.

In working toward its goal of being involved with the community, the center has set up classes and discussions with topics for teenagers, parents, senior citizens, overweight people, diabetics—and the list goes on.

"All these things are done by the staff after they leave for the day. These people aren't on an eight-hour day. And it's all volunteer work—for free. They are dedicating time from their families due to the love of community," Friedman said.

He also stressed that the people working at the health care facility were hired from the community.

"They know the people they work with. They live here and know the community. More importantly, they care about the community," he said.

The health care center offers first aid for nicks and bruises or minor emergencies, physicals, physical therapy, stress tests, one-day physician reports, in-house X-rays, laboratory testing and a pharmacy.

And, being a satellite facility of Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, the center can tap into the hospital's specialties, equipment or laboratory.

The people at the health care center believe in being innovative.

"There's a little bit of pride here. We were one of the first such facilities in the state when we opened in 1980. Now they are popping up all over," said Judy Gardner, occupational therapist and professional service coordinator.

In the future, the health care center plans to have counseling for all ages, work with the community's industrial facilities, add more spots on the public access cable-TV channel, stage a mock disaster with the police and fire departments and start a women's clinic.

"It's a team effort here. And the ultimate we can do is prevent diseases, cure sickness and save lives," Friedman said.

McDonald's announces breakfast biscuits

Anne Hoyt, community relations representative for McDonald's, announced the entry of a new breakfast sandwich.

"We bake the biscuits fresh every morning," she said.

They make three types of breakfast sandwiches from the biscuit, she said, "bacon, egg and cheese; sausage and bacon; and sausage."

Each McDonald's employs one biscuit maker who has only one job: to make biscuits.

Independence Township has two McDonald's stores, at 6695 Dixie Highway and at 5625 Sashabaw.

Hoyt had other news as well.

"The McDonald's All-American basketball game will be played in Detroit this year," she said.

The game is scheduled April 11 at Joe Louis Arena, Hoyt said. "A selection of 25 players from around the country will make the cuts."

"One of the 1,000 nominees is from Clarkston," she said. Edward Whitaker, who attends Clarkston High School and plays on the basketball team was nominated, she said.

"A former Clarkston nominee was Tim McCormick," she said. McCormick made the All-American team that year and later played for the University of Michigan and then pro in Washington.

McDonald's plans on being involved with Independence Township's sesquicentennial celebration this year, Hoyt said. They were involved in Davisburg's last year.

"We employ a number of high school kids," she said. "We have a lot of moms with kids in school and we also have retired people working part time."

ing for the arrival of new biscuit sandwiches for breakfast.

Country French is one of the new Ethan Allen collections offered by Concord Manor in Grand Blanc. The family owned business also has a complete drapery department.

Concord Manor

Just a short drive away

Concord Manor and Ethan Allen at 10809 South Saginaw (Dixie Highway) in Grand Blanc is not too far from Clarkston.

It's just about 20 minutes from Clarkston, said Donna Foran, who's in charge of public relations for the furniture store. Going north on Dixie Highway, it's three quarters of a mile north of Grand Blanc.

Many reasons justify making the drive, said Donna. "We've just done our biggest remodeling that we've ever had in 17 years. We've done 75 percent of the store."

The reasons for this drastic change are three new collections by Ethan Allen. Country French, Canova and Canterbury Oak have made their way into the store.

"They're such different looks that we had to remodel to show them off," said Donna.

Other reasons may attract customers as well.

Concord Manor offers a decorating class series with an audio-visual presentation prepared by Ethan Allen. It's called a decorator house tour and lasts about 30 minutes.

"They (Ethan Allen) take you to an old house and completely redo it," said Donna.

"At Christmas every year, we get a different one," she said. "This year was Christmas in Quebec City. We try to serve desserts that go along with the city."

They served maple treats at the past showing.

Concord Manor also offers their furniture displays for different functions.

"Clubs come, and they can have catered lunch or dinner, and they can use our facilities, and we have a presentation for them," Donna said.

"We do welcome clubs to give us a call if they would like to hold their meeting here. We really prefer dinner meetings because they're after hours."

Concord Manor offers free delivery and free in-home designer calls.

"Designers always want to make sure that the style fits the personality of the homeowner," said Donna.

They will sell a total look or a single piece at a time, she said. "That's a real plus in Ethan Allen. Things stay in stock. We don't have a lot of things that discontinue."

The business, at this location for 17 years, is owned by Opal Foran and her son Mike. The hours are 10-5 Monday through Thursday and Saturday, and 10-8 on Friday. The store is open Sunday from 12-4 for browsing only.

Sandy Marion's Dance World dresses dancers

According to Sandy Marion, the evolution of a lady and her dance wear goes thus: The lady arrives for her first jazz lesson in a sweat suit, unwilling to look in a mirror.

Graduating to tights and a sweatshirt at her second lesson, said lady will dance for a while before succumbing to the heat and an urge to wear tights and a cropped shirt.

Before long, it's "what the heck," she says, as the lady finally dons a leotard and dance belt.

Sandy enthusiastically copes with such shy dancers and more.

The owner of Sandy Marion's Dance World on Walton Boulevard since 1980, she has been about the business of dance most of her life.

She began taking lessons when she was 4 years old and has been teaching 28 years—since she was a teenager.

For a time during her youth, Sandy considered becoming a professional dancer. As a teenager, she danced with the Royal Ballet of England in Detroit before changing her mind and pursuing a teaching career.

Just over a year ago, she expanded her horizons by purchasing Center Stage Dance Wear, a Dixie Highway shop featuring dance clothing, shoes, head bands and other paraphernalia.

She bought the store to provide her customers with convenience and the necessities for dancing, she says.

The items are geared at toddlers through adults, male and female, and come in an array of colors and sizes.

The trim Sandy exudes energy. "I don't sleep a lot. I don't eat a lot. Too many things to do and not enough time for those activities," she says.

Although she says she loves all aspects of her business, her greatest satisfaction comes from teaching children, watching them master their bodies and acquire poise.

"It's (dance) my therapy and my escape from a lot of negativism in this world," she says. "Being with those children is like a dose of spring. They're wonderful to be with."

Sandy currently has some 300 students, including adults, in her jazz, ballet and tap classes. The classes, some of which are private and semi-private, are taught by Marion and a staff of three.

Sandy Marion holds one of her dancing Cabbage Patch dolls. The ballerina and a jazz-dancing Cabbage Patcher assist Sandy behind the desk of her Center Stage Dance Wear shop.

showroom of Dreisbach Buick on Dixie Highway near Telegraph in Waterford.

1985 best ever at Dreisbach

The auto industry is a life-long career of Bill Anderson.

Anderson is coming up to his fifth anniversary as the general manager of Dreisbach Buick in Waterford Township. His interest began when he was a young teenager at his father's dealership.

"I started washing cars when I was 13," Anderson said. "I've been in it ever since."

With all his background and experience, the Lake Orion Township resident can see only good things coming in the year ahead.

"1985 was the very best year so far," he said. "Everyone has done better. There's a broader owner base. Sales will increase by sheer weight in numbers. But it's a combination of many things."

One of those things is the service department. If a dealership has a small one or it doesn't do quality work, people are not going to buy a car there, he said.

In the five years at the 2225 Dixie Highway location, the number of employees has grown from 22 to 53.

"Customers will take a car to a body shop they know that does a good job," Anderson said. "We've got a good reputation."

Anderson said the service department and body shop had an increase of nearly $10,000 last year from the previous year. Car sales for 1985 produced about 1,000 new and 500 used cars.

Even though Detroit is the car capital of the country, the Michigan weather plays a part in the sale of the cars.

"It's not uncommon to have a bad January," Anderson said. "It's usually slow for a couple of months. It's frightening that we have to depend on the weather. If it's good weather, people will come out and buy cars. No one wants to be outside when it's miserable."

Church's

A do-it-yourselfer's haven

"I'm excited about the rise of employment in the area. We're seeing more new construction that we didn't see in the past," says Duane Anderson, manager of Church's Lumber, 160 S. Lapeer Rd.

He cited the general rise of the economy and the Auburn Hills Tech park as positive influences on his business. There was a bout a 20 percent increase from 1984 to '85, he said.

To keep up with the expected increase in business, Anderson said his store is in the process of modernization of its facilities.

Work planned includes black-topping the parking lot, adding new racks in the storage yard and putting a roof over some of the existing racks.

According to Anderson, about 80 percent of Church's customers are do-it-yourselfers.

"They're still the core of our business," he said. Shoppers can find all that is needed to build a house: lumber, concrete, plumbing and electrical supplies, and cabinets.

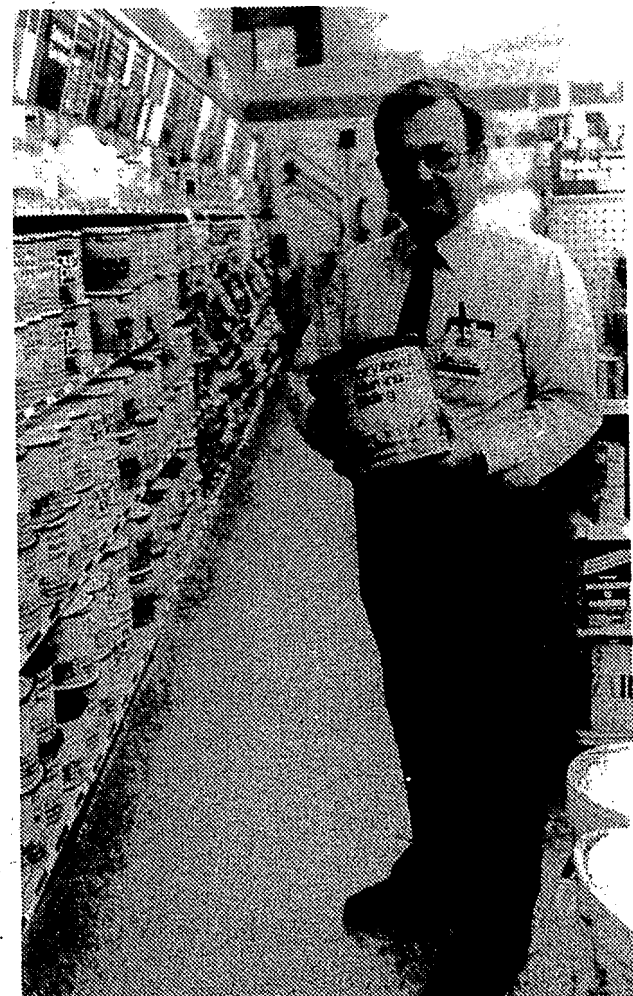

"Anything they need, and if it's new on the line, we try to stock it," he said.

Anderson is proud of his salespeople.

"They're professionals. Our salespeople—well, right now they are attending classes weekly so they can stay on top of everything in the business," he said.

Church's Lumber is nearing the century mark, having first opened in 1890.

The Oxford store opened in 1976. The company operates 15 stores and is planning a new Church's for Waterford to be opened in the spring.

Supervisor to keep improvements coming

"It's been a heckuva year," says Brandon Township Supervisor Edwin Pierson, who took office 15 months ago.

Pierson lists the overall tax situation and the start on cleaning up M-15 among the accomplishments.

"It's the gateway to town," he says while driving along M-15. "If you don't come again until Memorial Day or the 4th of July, it will have a completely different look to it."

Pierson says there'll be plantings of "flowers and trees and greenery" and he's especially pleased that the Plaza Mall has been purchased by Auto-Fab Inc.

Using identical models of the Pontiac Grand Prix, the firm makes duplicates of the Indianapolis 500 pace car.

"This is going to be beautiful," says Pierson about the building, with repainting and the addition of an earth berm with pine trees and the planting of pine trees around the fence.

The economic impact is another factor, with the expected employment of 100-200 people.

"Ortonville-Brandon Township is just a neat place to live and a good place to raise your family."

—Edwin Pierson, Township Supervisor

"The township has already profited by it," he says, because the firm's employees are doing business locally at restaurants and stores.

Pierson is particularly proud of his role in getting approval for a traffic light at M-15 and the long driveway leading to the new Brandon High School.

"When school breaks, it's just a horrendous type thing," he says.

Efforts for to have a light installed were dragging, so Pierson pulled all the aces.

He appeared on TV-Channel 2 news, organized a meeting with local and state government and highway department officials, and ended with success.

The improvement in the tax department involved a mass reassessment of township property.

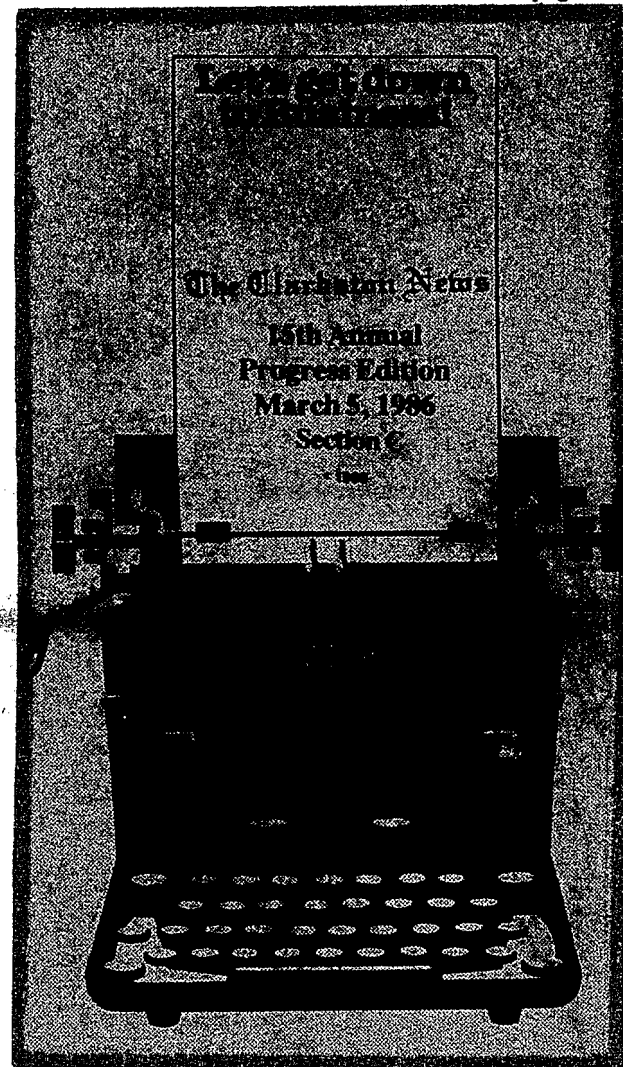

"All I heard was taxes, taxes, taxes," says Pierson. "Our taxes are too high, this guy is paying less." I said, "We're going to find out." We did a complete reassessment of the township, at a cost of $75,000 to hire the team. The main thing is . . . it's going to be equal.

"My philosophy of taxes is I hate them as much as anyone else and I'll fight to keep them as low as possible," he adds. "If I had my druthers, I'd be out trying to make the township a pretty township and a nice place to live rather than worry about taxes."

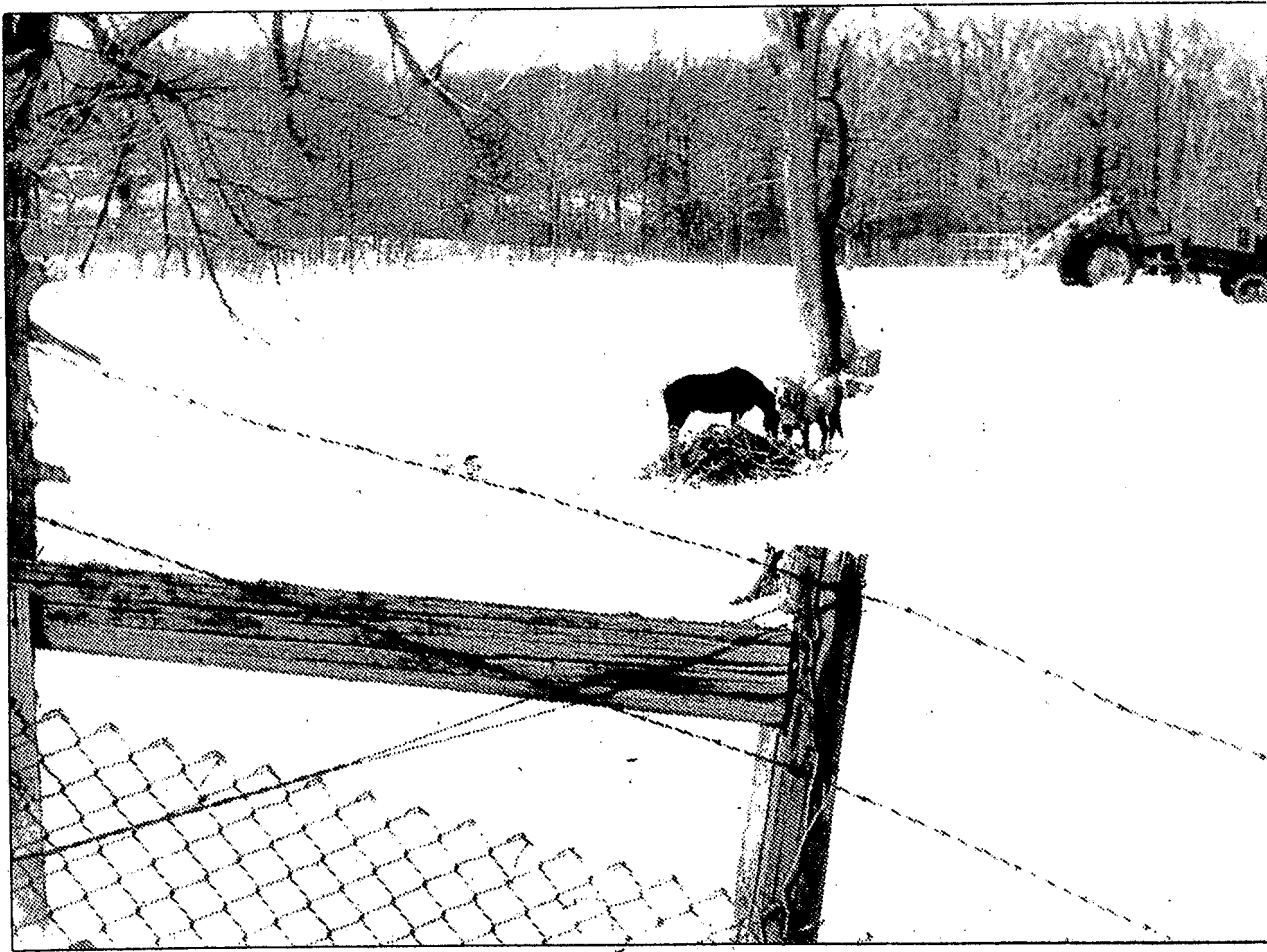

Roads are another concern of Pierson's.

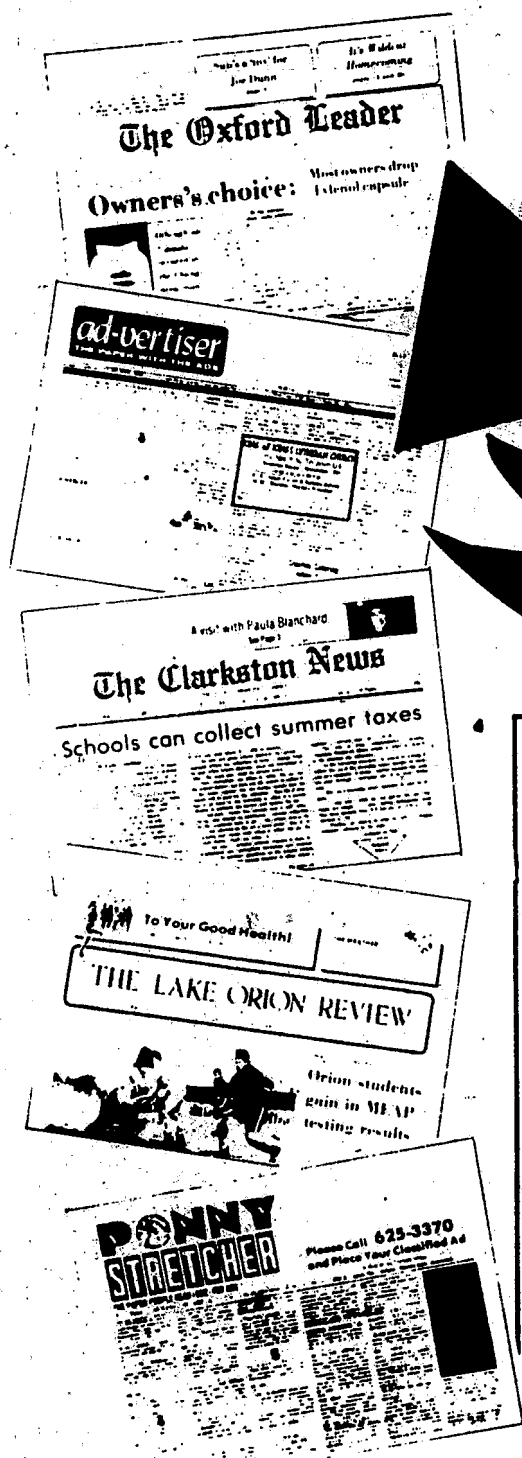

The majority of the Brandon's roads are dirt. "I've been told by my constituents the roads in regard to grading, chloriding and smoothness have been as

Flath is the man behind the camera

Portraits take top priority at The Village Photographer, says owner Bob Flath.

He calls them his "bread and butter," then reveals that they're much more.

He talks about the challenge of taking photos of high school seniors: "They all come in a nervous wreck, thinking they have to be a model."

He talks about the challenge of taking children's pictures: "It's a game, a heck of a game, and we like to win when we can—and we're successful 98 percent of the time."

His methods vary according to age. With teens, Bob spends time talking before he begins to photograph. "I look for natural expressions—and tell them there's nothing terrifying in that room."

Bob knows what his goal is.

"Some of these teenagers don't see the potential they have," he says. "There's something beautiful about everyone and it's my job to capture that on film."

With tiny children, almost anything goes. "We've had parents lie on a table and put a blanket over them, let the child sit on a stomach—and take a head and shoulders photograph."

For Bob, who takes all the photographs himself, there are rewards beyond the number of prints ordered.

He tells of times when mothers have cried because they were so happy with results of single and family portraits.

"It makes me feel good," he says. "I can't think of any other profession that I want to be in, other than photography."

In addition to portraits and wedding photography, Bob does some commercial and public relations photography.

"The commercial aspect of the business has increased dramatically," he says.

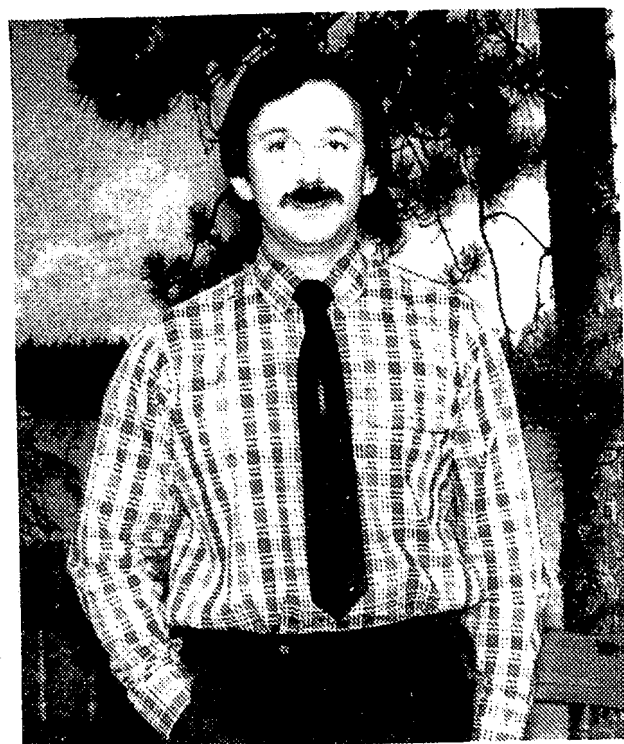

A recent assignment involved a promotion party at the Cranbrook Museum of Science by Discovery Magazine. He's covered similar events for Money Magazine, Fortune, People and Time.

"Any time they need a public relations photographer in this area, this state, we do it," he says.

He also does product photography and recently traveled to Georgia to take photos for an AT&T brochure.

And he is the official photographer for the Aircraft Club of Detroit, which has 3,500 members. Ninety-five percent of the photos in the club's annual publication are Bob's.

As he says, The Village Photographer at 385 Mill St., Ortonville, is "very diversified."

Dr. David Regiani stands in his waiting room before his day begins. His hours are Monday and Tuesday 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Wednesday 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Thursday 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Stresses holistic family dentistry

David Regiani does more than treat teeth at his dental office at 101 S. Street, Ortonville.

He treats the patient with complementary tools to fight oral diseases.

He begins with a relaxed atmosphere in the waiting room.

One wall is covered with a cool blue and green outdoor scene. Children's tables and toys are placed against another wall, and a television is placed high in the corner next to the ceiling.

The tables are covered with the usual magazines, but he also offers cookbooks and recipe cards for waiting patients.

In addition, he has a lending library for his patients, mainly books on nutrition and dentistry.

Mostly, though, Regiani stresses holistic family dentistry. This means he will do a dietary analysis, blood analysis, hair analysis and urinalysis to assess the nutritional factors involved in dentistry.

"As a holistic dentist, I'm not looking at it just from the mouth," Regiani said.

He is also involved with another company in researching X-ray analysis. They are trying to predict the risk factor of periodontal disease, which is related to osteoporosis.

"Twenty-five million Americans have lost their teeth," said Regiani. He said a primary reason for this is periodontal disease.

Regiani also uses a white quartz material for filling cavities. He does not use silver fillings because of the recent research suggesting that the mercury used with the silver may cause health problems.

"We also use, as part of our complementary therapy, a microscope," Regiani said. "It's a tool to help us assess the other factors in gum disease."

Regiani spends time with his wife, Sherry, and his two sons when he's not working. Another baby is expected soon.

He also enjoys golf and racketball, and he still plays the trumpet occasionally, even though he retired from professional playing at age 22.

Bob Flath has high praise for his staff members at The Village Photographer, Barbara Miller and Mary Kassuba [right]. "They're my right hands," he says.

Jewelry-Bonner's career-hobby

Dave Bonner, owner of D.L. Bonner Jewelers, 431 Mill in Ortonville, considers his business more than a career.

"I've always enjoyed (jewelry)," he said. "It's a hobby."

Bonner is currently attending the Gemological Institute of America. "It's the highest rated jewelry school in the world," he said.

Bonner spends most of his time with his business, and since he does his own buying, he travels frequently to New York and Chicago.

"We try to stick to quality," he said. "We buy all 14 karat gold. Different golds come from different countries." He buys most of his gold from Milano, Italy.

Although he doesn't live in Ortonville, Bonner likes having his business there.

"I like the area. I'd like to move out here," he said.

The business sells diamonds, gold, watches, and a lot of rings, chains and bracelets.

"We've been very, very successful. . . . We'd like to expand our merchandise," Bonner said.

He enjoys all aspects of the business, he said, "taking care of customers, the back room, the whole thing."

The future looks rural for Brandon

Horses, farms and homes on acreage are there to stay, says Palulian

What's nice about Brandon Township is the rural character will be maintained, says Timothy Palulian, director of the planning and building department.

"We just don't have the pressures from public utilities, like sewers, to break down further," he says.

From his position as the building and planning department director in Brandon Township, Timothy Palulian can foresee the community's future.

Unlike Independence Township, its neighbor to the south, Brandon is not expecting a dramatic increase in population. Recent estimates by the Oakland County Road Commission predicted a doubling of Independence's population, from about 21,000 to 42,000, in the next 10 years.

For Brandon, a population increase of 2,000 to 3,000 is expected, Palulian says. Currently, there are about 10,000 residents in the township including the village of Ortonville.

Comparisons between Brandon and Independence are easy for Palulian. Formerly the director of planning and building in Independence, he worked there eight years.

Following a two-year gap, when he managed a racquetball-health club, Palulian joined the Brandon staff, where he's been for one and one-half years.

"It was a good opportunity," he says. "One of the primary considerations I had before even applying for the job was having some idea what the township wanted to do. They had a clear commitment that they wanted to change things."

When Palulian took over, there was no formal building and planning department.

Now there are three part-time building inspectors and the township has hired a planning consultant.

Because of the township board's commitment, says Palulian, his department now provides established procedures including a fee schedule for permits and required performance bonds for commercial developments.

In addition, much attention has been paid to cleaning up the M-15 corridor, he says, and he expects major improvements along the main highway to begin this spring.

Brandon Township's 36 square miles are comprised of a modest commercial base, mostly along M-15, and about 90 percent rural estates, a zoning term for single residential houses on 2½ acres or more.

"There are a lot of hills and gullies out here, which make for great building sites," he says.

The township has seen an increase in building permits for homes in the last year—from 26 in 1984 to 45 in 1985.

"We anticipate that figure will either be the same for the coming year or will increase," Palulian says. "There are still going to be people who strive for the rural area."

Many residents keep horses and farming is still a vital part of the community.

Included in the township are two major dairy farms and "two or three substantial horse stables," he says. "That's one of the big calling cards for us, too, and will be for the future."

Another thing that's different about Brandon from Independence involves home construction. In Brandon, more than half the new homes are built by the homeowners.

"And then they move out to an area where they want to spend the rest of their lives," Palulian says.

The average cost of new homes under construction is about $80,000, with about one-third at $100,000 and up.

Palulian describes Brandon Township as a friendly community. He talks about people he hadn't met waving to him on the street when he first began his job.

"There's no pretense. It's just a good home community," he says. "I think that's primarily because it's a rural area. You still have people who are actually farmers. It's just a completely different attitude."

That could well be the key to Brandon's tomorrow.

"It's beautiful rural country. You can go out on any number of roads and you can see houses far apart . . . and that's the big draw here and will continue to be the draw," Palulian says.

A former real estate broker, Brandon Township Supervisor Edwin Pierson has lived in the township 29 years. About his first 15 months in office, he says, "Obviously one of the things that makes me successful is a good (township) board. It's a great working board and I have been very, very pleased with the way meetings go and the things we have accomplished."

good as it's ever been," he says.

"I have to give the road commission a plug. They've been fantastically cooperative with me. Let the record show we've got a long way to go, too.

"I'm not saying I'm good," he adds. "I'm just lucky. I'm lucky because I get up in the morning and I drive a different way to work every day."

Pierson describes his constituents as having a wide range of jobs ("You have doctors, lawyers and Indian chiefs.") and calls Brandon a bedroom community with about 75 percent of the residents employed in the Flint area and about 25 percent working south of the township.

"Ortonville-Brandon Township is just a neat place to live and a good place to raise your family," he says. "It's just a nice community. My goal would be to make it even nicer."

Willow Pointe fills 8 rooms with gifts, flowers

Willow Pointe Flowers and Gifts just keeps growing.

The 14-year-old shop at 425 M-15 in Ortonville began as a flower shop and carried just a few gifts. Now, Willow Pointe is an FTD florist shop as well as a full-line gift shop.

"To be a member of FTD, you have to meet certain requirements," said owner Grace Geisler.

The flower shop offers cut flowers, such as roses, mums and carnations, and will deliver them to just about anywhere in the world with FTD. In addition, they carry violets and house plants which are displayed among the gifts.

Grace's husband, Herb, has been in the flower business for 25 years. His crew makes terrariums and planters and will customize any order. Their son Greg works for them as a delivery boy.

They are located in an historical building which only adds to the gift displays.

"This is one of a series of buildings on this street that were all trimmed in natural fieldstone," said Grace.

Eight rooms are filled with gifts. Each room has a different theme and nearly everything is for sale.

The shelves holding china dolls, the furniture supporting country kitchenware and tables holding bolts of wedding lace are all for sale. Only the glass display shelves for the jewelry are permanent fixtures.

Carriage Light Antique Shop in Ortonville supplies Willow Pointe with the antiques used for displays and sold to customers.

"We separate (rooms) for the customers' ease in color sections," said Grace.

Willow Pointe has a religious section, a wedding room, a kitchen area, a room for horses, cats and dance.

They have a baby section and a bathroom section with the building's original claw foot tub as the main display piece. They sell ribbon, silk flowers, greeting cards, wedding supplies and wicker baskets. They have over 100 music boxes for sale.

materials in the wedding room at Willow Pointe Flowers and Gifts.

They also carry Clarkston resident Russell Cobane's prints, plus Norman Rockwell prints and other artists' works.

"One of the things we're getting to be more well known for are Precious Moments, a collector's item," said Grace.

In their 12 years at this location, the Geislers have added additional space a little at a time. The latest addition is a bay window on the top floor, which allows natural sunlight into the wedding room.

Cook's ice cream popularity sparks addition

Their milk comes in bags, and their ice cream is all natural and packaged in square cartons.

Everything at Cook's Farm Dairy is homemade. The juices, the meats and the cheeses are made by hand. The ice cream has become popular enough for an expansion of the building for its production.

Clark Cook said an addition of 20-by-40 feet is set to built by spring.

"It's going to be strictly for two walk-in freezers for ice cream. After you make the ice cream, it has to harden. That's what the freezers are for."

Cook's makes 17 flavors of ice cream featuring their most popular, Goo Goo Cluster and Oreo Cookie.

"That Oreo Cookie ice cream is made with real Oreos," Clark said. "We only use all natural stuff like butter, black cherries, strawberries. Around Christmas and Easter, we have egg nog ice cream."

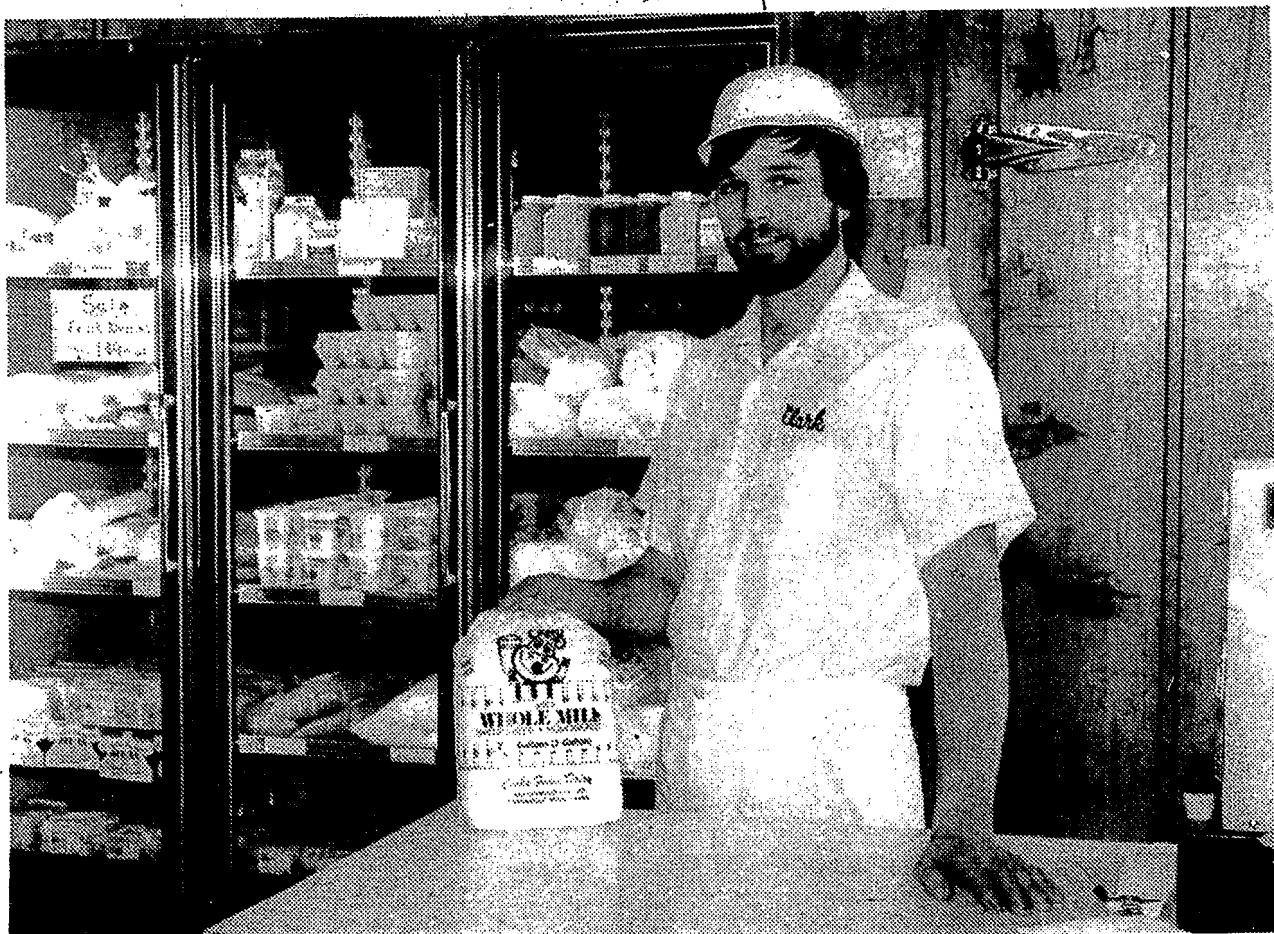

All the work on the farm is done by Clark, his father John and a few employees. Clark said they work about 14 hours a day.

The farm has been in the Cook family since 1933. The dairy was built in 1982. They would like to have the addition completed by their fourth anniversary in March. There is an open house planned March 14-16 to celebrate the occasion.

"We built the dairy ourselves," Clark said. "We're doing the carpentry work on the addition, too. The footings were poured on Dec. 31. The next couple months are slow, so we're doing inside stuff. We planned to do something last year, but after you get done with your chores, you're pretty tired."

Cook's is only one of five pasteurizing dairies in the state, says Clark, and they give a number of tours. He estimated close to 3,000 people went through the farm on Seymour Lake Road near Perry Lake Road last year. The tours are by appointment and cost $1 a person.

"The kids come in and see how the milk goes from the cow to the consumer," he said.

The gallon of milk in a plastic bag is one of many dairy items for sale at Cook's Farm Dairy on Seymour Lake Road near Perry Lake Road in Brandon Township.

Carmen's Restaurant: good food, good price

The management-owner team of Carmen's Restaurant and Lounge is what ensures the success of the business.

Dick Curran was one of the original owners in 1976 before he left to try other restaurants. He rejoined the restaurant at 650 S. Ortonville Rd., Brandon Township, and currently owns it with Dave Tersigni, who has been with Carmen's since 1980.

Curran runs the lounge and seating area, and Tersigni takes care of the kitchen area.

"That's why we're such a successful team," Curran said. "We have a back man and a front man."

Besides work, Curran likes to cross country ski, and "I watch my children grow up."

"I watch my two new puppies grow up," Tersigni said, and "I enjoy experimenting with different foods."

Both belong to the Ortonville Lion's Club, but spend most of their time at work.

"This is a 12, 16, or 18 hour a day job," Tersigni said. "I live, eat, breathe Carmen's."

"We enjoy it," said Curran. "We like what we're doing."

Curran mentions pride in their "famous hot breadsticks" and talks about the eatery's philosophy.

"The restaurant is established on a basic idea—good food at a reasonable price," he said.

The menu at Carmen's offers everything from pizza to sirloin steak to soup and salad.

"If you can't find anything to eat on Carmen's menu that looks appealing, then you're not hungry," Tersigni said.

"Last year was a good year," Curran said. "This year will be a better one."

and Lounge at 650 S. Ortonville Rd. in Brandon Township.

Wheelock Hospital addition to open in June

Hospital administrator Norma Murphy says a hard hat for her was included in the construction company's contract for the Wheelock Memorial Hospital addition.

January breezes keep the cinder block walls cool along a newly built corridor. Construction is moving along on the $750,000 addition at Wheelock Memorial Hospital in Goodrich.

Expansion of the emergency room and records department of the community hospital in Genesee County is expected to be completed by the end of March.

Inspections by the fire marshal and by the board of health could delay the opening date a few weeks, but hospital administrator Norma Murphy is confident it will open by the summer.

"The latest it will be is June," she said. "Any later than that and we're in trouble. I think May first is more realistic."

Murphy said the 4,000-square-foot addition has been in the works for quite some time.

"The planning started back in 1980-81," she said. "We received some outside advice on the hospital and the emergency room was one of the primary areas."

Currently, the emergency room can treat two patients at the same time. The new room will provide space for four treatment areas, an addition of over 600 square feet.

"Any patient that has been treated here is behind the expansion 100 percent," Murphy said.

Joe Kyle, laboratory supervisor and member of the management committee, said the hospital employees also look forward to the addition.

"The medical staff is very supportive," he said. "They're donating some money to go toward auxiliary equipment like stretchers."

Most of the money for the addition has come from donations from individuals and corporations, said Murphy.

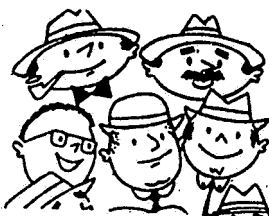

Wheelock Memorial Hospital was built in 1964. It was constructed to replace Goodrich General Hospital, which opened in 1916.

The non-profit hospital was named after Dr. Amos Wheelock, one of the original doctors of Goodrich General.

"We're a pretty unique hospital," Murphy said. "We were built on private donations. We tried to keep the state's money out of it as much as possible."

Kyle said the new emergency room is something that has been dreamed about for a long time.

"The nurses can't wait to get into the new space," he said. "We're limited in size but we have top-quality care."

Mill Street Decor moves to larger building

Nervousness is a common reaction to the homeowner's task of selecting wallpaper, floor coverings and window treatments, says Ruth Ann Couture, the owner of Mill Street Decor.

In her 22 years of owning and operating a business, she's learned techniques to help.

"Most people don't really know what they're looking for when they come in," she says. "What I do is ask a lot of questions: How they live, how many kids in the family, if they are on a dirt road or paved road."

"These are the kinds of questions I ask, especially if they're looking for a floor covering."

Her shop at 12 South St. in Ortonville holds thousands of carpet samples from firms including Armstrong, Mohawk, Pepperell and Galaxy; about 400 wallpaper books; and numerous samples of vinyl and hardwood floors, and window blinds.

Her business, formerly located in Independence Township, has been in Ortonville three years, but she moved around the corner to the new location between Christmas and New Year's Day.

"I didn't know the first year how it was going to work, but I got a lot of my old customers from Clarkston, a lot of new customers from Ortonville and I service a few builders," she says. "It's been good."

The new location is about twice as large as before, allowing a greater inventory of samples and an attached warehouse.

Ruth Ann, who works in the shop virtually every hour it is open, is assisted by salesperson Mary Alumbaugh, a Clarkston area resident.

Because of her devotion to the business, Ruth Ann knows the stock well.

"Probably one of the biggest complaints people have for wallpaper is they go into a wallpaper store and they can't get any help," she says. "I try to guide them to which wallpaper book they should look at."

In addition, she can offer tips to do-it-yourselfers, who comprise about half the wallpaper customers, on which paste to use, how to hang the paper and how to hang borders.

She can also recommend wallpaper hangers for hire, a woman who sews slipcovers and another who

Mill Street Decor moved to 12 South St. the first of the year. With the increased space, owner makes custom draperies, bedspreads, chair pads, placements and what-have-you from fabric ordered from the wallpaper books.

Ruth Ann Couture says she has been able to add many more samples.

The shop employs its own vinyl floor, carpeting and hardwood floor installers.

For people who enjoy country living, Ruth Ann mentions a new option offered exclusively by the Armstrong carpeting company—a 10-year warranty that includes replacement if carpeting wears more than 10 percent in 10 years.

Dinner's a nibble away

Ice fishing on the numerous private lakes dotting Brandon Township is a popular sport during winter months. This cluster of fishing huts sit on Huff Lake off M-15.

Jim Ware (left) and Roger Piddington own and operate their Brandon Township real estate office. They sell houses and land in Oakland County and north of the county.

Ware, Piddington say real estate is booming

Roger Piddington said the past year was "good, the best of the 15 (years we've been in business)."

Piddington and James Ware own the Ware Piddington real estate office at 630 M-15 in Ortonville.

The two owners, along with 10 full-time sales people, offer full service realty.

"We also build new homes," said Ware.

They are happy with their business.

"I think that's everybody's dream—owning your own business, being your own boss," said Piddington.

"It's an interesting business," said Ware. "You help people find the right home. It's strictly service. . . . We like to see (our community) develop and grow."

"My father sold real estate at one time," said Ware. "but that didn't really influence me."

"I blame it all on him (Ware)," said Piddington on his decision to try real estate.

Both live in the Ortonville and enjoy outside activities in addition to their work.

"I like golfing, skiing—downhill," said Piddington.

"I golf and fish," said Ware, adding that he even ice-fishes. "I fish for trout."

The business covers parts of Oakland and Genesee counties, but does a good deal of business in the communities of Groveland and Brandon townships, Ware said.

There are many directions business in real estate can go, said Ware. "There's a lot of areas we haven't touched yet."

Solley's carries a full line of major appliances

Alan Solley has had no problem keeping pace with the appliance industry.

His store at 3779 M-15 just north of Independence Township sold many satellite systems and video recorders last year.

Alan's father, also named Alan, established the business in 1947, and the family has run it ever since.

Alan Jr.'s brother Errol once taught and coached at Clarkston High School but now works full time with the business.

Their sister Allyn works in the office, and her husband Tom Thurlby works the service area.

"My parents still work most of the time," Alan said.

"For now we still have enough family to handle the business," he said, and he prefers it that way.

"You can make your own success, if you're willing to work for it," he said. "I like details, I like having everything done right, so I might as well be on my own."

Solley's sells all major appliances as well as serving the merchandise they sell.

"We service it even if they didn't buy it from us," he said.

"If we don't have a part—even for something we don't even sell—we can get it in. It saves people a lot of trouble," he said. "People appreciate what you do for them."

One people-helping practice involves those who need to purchase appliances for new homes.

"We offer special discounts to people who are building a new home and are buying a number of appliances," he said.

Alan is proud of the selection available at Solley's.

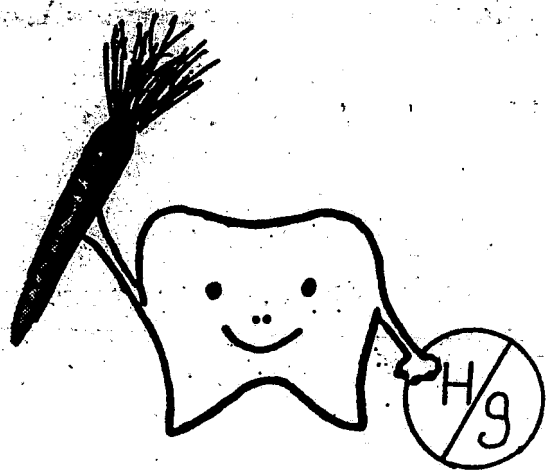

"It's a lot bigger store than most people think," he said. "People are pleasantly surprised by the prices."

When not working, Alan spends time with his family.

"I have a little girl 2-years-old and a little boy 6-months-old," he said. "That keeps me pretty busy."

Alan Solley, owner of Solley's appliance store, sells all major appliances including refrigerators, wood-burning stoves, satellite dishes, video recorders and ovens.

Dine home-style to gourmet

Lee McNew, part owner of the Clarkston Cafe, first heard of the restaurant from her grandparents. They used to stop to eat on their way up north when the cafe was only a sandwich shop.

The cafe first opened in the 1920s, and now, in the 1980s, it still serves sandwiches. It also serves a variety of other items.

The head chef, Gary Grzywack, studied under Milos, a gold medal winner in culinary arts.

Grzywack and his staff serve gourmet food as well as "home-cooked" food, Lee said.

Since he cuts all of his own meat, he's able to serve a rack of lamb as well as a pot roast. He serves frog legs and hot pastrami sandwiches. He makes chicken and pork and serves it with homemade raspberry sauce.

And the desserts are made from scratch. Grzywack orders blackberries and raspberries from New Zealand for fresh berry pies. He orders mushrooms from Oregon because they're the freshest, said Lee.

"We don't want people to be intimidated because we do serve the basics, and we serve them at a reasonable price," she said.

The Clarkston Cafe, at 18 S. Main Street, is open Monday through Thursday 11 a.m. to midnight and Friday and Saturday 11 a.m. to 1 a.m.

The cafe hosts a new pianist, Jim Banjok, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. He plays mostly easy listening music.

Lee and her family have owned the cafe 10 years. Other family members are her father, Don Hayes; her husband, Patrick McNew; her sister, Lynda Stumpf; and her father-in-law, Leon McNew.

Leon used to be an anchorman with TV-Channel 7, and when he retired from that, he agreed to help manage the Clarkston Cafe.

24-hour banking at Old Kent

Old Kent Bank of Grand Blanc has recently installed a 24-hour automatic teller machine.

The bank, formerly called Pacesetter, added the ActionBank machine in the first lane of the drive-through at their 6500 Dixie Highway location in Independence Township.

Customers may also use their card at nationwide automatic teller locations.

"The convenience is really nice for retired people or people who are traveling and don't want to carry a lot of cash," said Betty Simmons, assistant vice president and manager of the Clarkston office.

Betty has been with the bank at the Independence location since it first opened in a trailer in 1979. They used the trailer until the building construction was finished.

Old Kent acquired the bank three years ago, she said.

"We had our name changed in June to give us state-wide recognition with Old Kent and to position ourselves for state-wide branching," said Betty.

Old Kent originated on the west side of Michigan and acquired Pacesetter in order to cover the east side of the state.

"They are a fine financial organization within the banking industry," said Betty. "We are very proud to be a part of them."

Betty likes Michigan, and she likes Clarkston in particular.

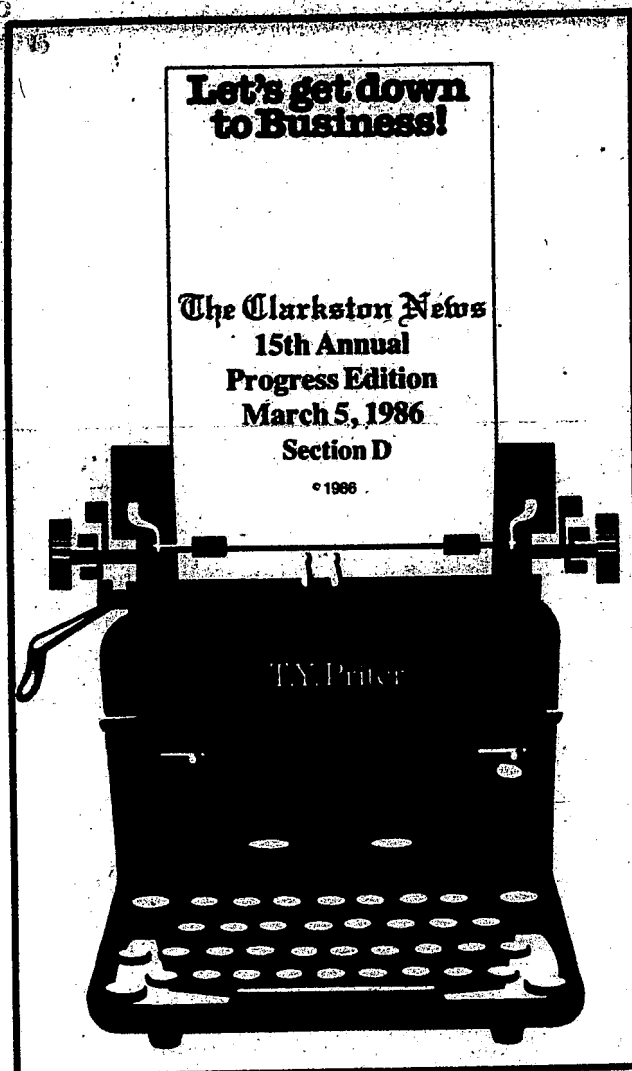

"I love Michigan. I love the change of seasons," she said. "Clarkston is a very beautiful community with all of the hills and lakes. It's very similar to Grand Blanc in size and (type of) community."

That similarity is one reason why Clarkston was chosen as a branch location in the first place, she said.

Betty's management style is consistent with the style of the entire Old Kent financial corporation. They all follow Tom Peter's advice in "In Search of Excellence."

Betty practices management by "wandering around and tuning into your staff and their needs and, in turn, giving better service to the customers."

"It's fun. It's enjoyable," she said. "(I like) dealing with the public and seeing them satisfied and happy. I think I'd be stifled if I sat in an office and saw only the same faces every day."

Betty Simmons, assistant vice president and office manager of the Clarkston Old Kent office, shows the new ActionBank automatic teller machine in the first drive-up lane.

Carpet Crafters owner installs what he sells

Keith Dutcher is just as comfortable out of his store as in it.

The owner of The Carpet Crafters Shop on Dixie Highway near Davisburg Road in Springfield Township said he likes to deal with people and get out into the world.

"I don't ever want to lose touch," Keith said of his customers. "I enjoy going out to people's homes and installing. That's why I didn't go to work for General Motors when I got out of high school."

For 16 of his 32 years, Keith has worked in a carpeting shop. The last 10 have been as an owner.

"I got a part-time job when I was 16 and then started to help installing when I was 18," he said. "A few years later, I opened my own place."

The Carpet Crafters Shop displays a number of brand names in floor coverings, wallpaper and paint. Besides the carpeting, the shop has hardwood floors and linoleum.

"We do everything but ceramic," Keith said, referring to himself and salesperson Edie Chambers.

While Keith is out installing, Edie stays in the shop and takes care of the customers. The limited work force appeals to the owner.

"I enjoy it like it is," Keith said. "I don't want to get super big. I don't want to lose the personal touch. I don't want to expand because I'd have to hire a crew and it's hard to find good workers."

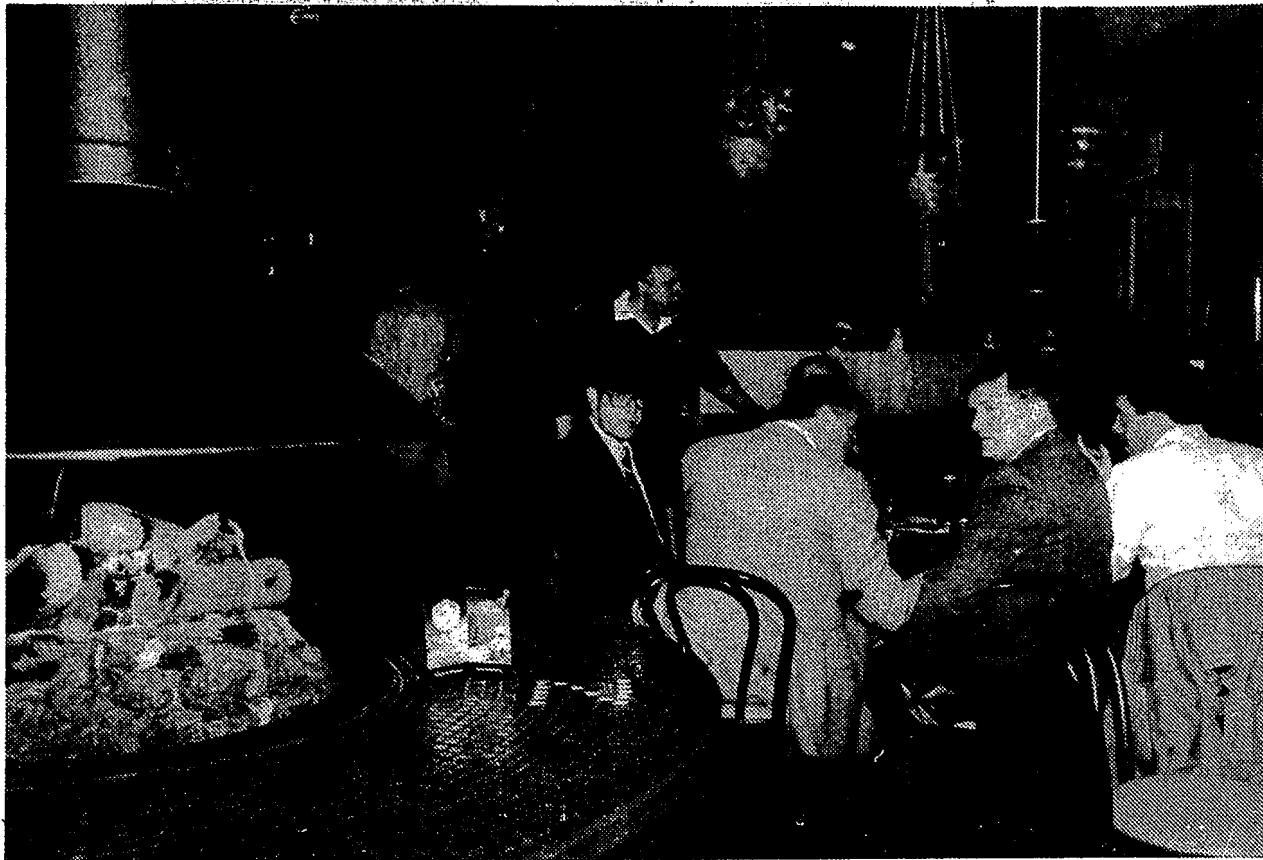

Keith lives with his wife Linda and children, Julia, 10, and Kelly, 9, in Springfield Township. Working in the community you live in can cause a little trouble if you're a volunteer fireman like Keith.

"I've left in the middle of jobs before, but I've never heard anyone complain about it," he said. "I'm sure they would want me to come if it was their house on fire. Springfield is like any other volunteer fire department. During the day, we're limited in numbers."

Edie Chambers and owner Keith Dutcher keep Springfield Township. They get a little help from Twinkle the cat.

Owner Joe Zimmer [standing] chats with customers in the cocktail lounge at Zim's Eatery. The restaurant is located on Baldwin Road in Orion Township.

Food, fun offered at Zim's Spirits and Eatery

Every corner, nook or cranny of Zim's Spirits and Eatery is filled with fun.

Teddy bears and other stuffed toys nestle among trophies and plaques advertising various brands of beer and liquor.

A look around the room tells one that Zim's offers something for everyone—regardless of age.

Located on Baldwin Road in Orion Township, proprietor Joe Zimmer has made a circular fire pit the focal point of the large bar area. There, friends can chat in a casual, relaxed atmosphere.

The booths surrounding the conversation pit are decorated with wooden plaques expounding the value of friendship.

Behind the booths is a dance floor. Zimmer says a disc jockey spins records each night. But that's not all that's offered from that area.

Periodically, the "Zim Wheel" is spun. Depending upon the color the needle points to, patrons receive cents off on drinks or free beer for a certain length of time. In addition, there is a trivia game played during the evening hours.

A spacious family dining room is located at the right of the bar, and a loft that overlooks the dining area is available for parties. A piano bar at the rear of the dining room offers an intimate feeling.

There, a pianist plays five nights each week.

Throughout the establishment, a full-service menu is available. Zimmer says a soup and sandwich lunch special is available daily for $3.49.

Other items include taco salad, build your own hamburgers, ribs, shish kebab, tenderloin, steaks, lobster and the seafood "catch of the day."

The appetizer list includes chicken fingers and fresh bread sticks.

Zim's banquet room will be ready soon. Full banquet menus ranging from baked chicken to surf and turf (lobster tail and filet mignon) are available for parties of 10 to 300, depending upon which room the host selects. Liquor provisions can also be made, and free champagne is given to the head table at wedding receptions.

Zimmer said the fun begins daily at 10 a.m. and doesn't let up until 2 a.m.

Century 21 adds resource center

To better serve the needs of clients, Century 21, Oxford, is adding a resource center.

The center will contain 2 computers, one with access to multi-listing services (zoning maps, building codes, plat maps) and the other with access to in-house needs such as the VIP national referral program.

The center will also provide sales associates with marketing analysis, financing and mortgage rates from various lending institutions.

Glenn Bianchini, owner, is also expanding the present sales staff of 20 to 36 persons, and facilities are also being remodeled.

The reception room, sales associates offices and conference rooms are among the facilities presently being remodeled.

Real estate properties that were affected by the recession 2 years ago are now taking a mighty turn for the better.

"Now everything's been on the upswing the last year or so," said Bianchini.

Lake front properties are extremely 'hot' as is anything that is priced reasonably.

Century 21 handles commercial, residential and industrial properties and homes. "We sell everything."

There's good news for all property owners in the area; the growth and purchases are to the north of the industrial growth of such cities as Auburn Hills.

Century 21, an international company recently purchased by Metropolitan Life—2nd largest insurance company in the U.S., is also anticipated to start handling insurance policies sometime in 1986.

"Even with our changes in growth, we still have our company philosophies," which includes the best possible service to customers.

Bianchini keeps a copy of the 3 philosophies near his desk.

The Oxford Century 21 is located at 1120 N Lapeer Rd.

Hours are 9 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 9 to 7 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and 10 to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Fixtures, advice at Pine Tree

Pine Tree Lighting owner Ken Latchaw has been in the lighting business over 10 years.

If you're planning to build a home, or redecorating your current location, lighting can make a difference.

Today's fixtures do more than "simply light up a room." They can be elaborate and ornate, or they can be tucked away, practically unseen, yet affecting surroundings.

Pine Tree Lighting at 1347 S. Lapeer Road, not only sells the fixtures, lamps and accessories, but their qualified staff can instruct customers on different layouts of lighting to make a home's decor more interesting.

"If a customer has no idea, in building a home, where or how to light their home, we have qualified people who can show them where to place lights, or how much light you will get from what is installed," says the store's general manager Dennis Latchaw.

Recessed lighting is very popular this year, as is track lighting, Latchaw says. New on the market, "halogen" lighting is also very popular, he says.

The halogen bulb, which works much like a car's headlamp, is very bright, incandescent, but has a lower voltage, thus it costs less to run, he explained.

Their store also repairs lights, he added.

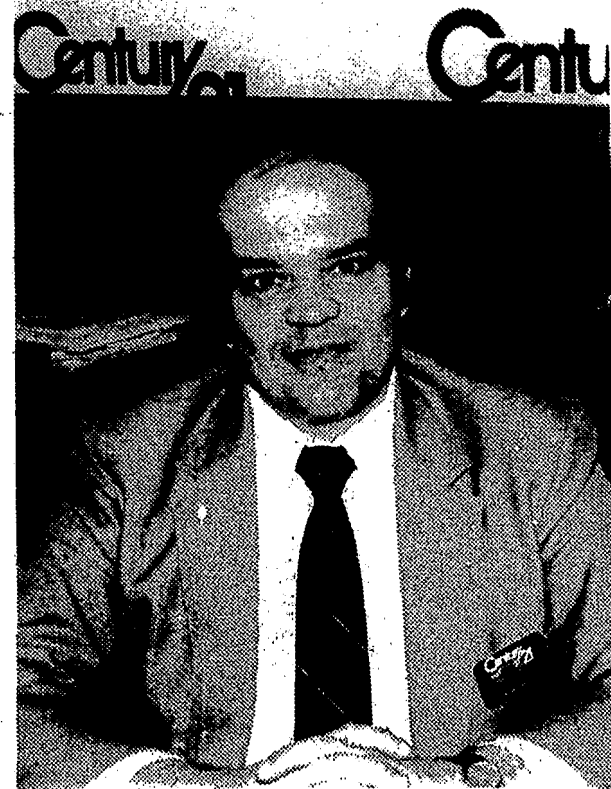

While the Lake Orion location is the original store, two others are located in Clarkston and in Utica.

The shop draws the residential buyer, the builder and the commercial establishments. Anyone in need of lighting, whether it be for office use or a change in kitchen fixtures, Latchaw says.

Browsers are welcome, he adds, and selections can be made from 170 different catalogs.

The store deals primarily in lighting, but some furniture is available, such as game table sets and curio cabinets.

Ken Latchaw, the store's owner, has been in the lighting business for over a decade.

Sneak preview from Cinema

The theatre industry as a whole dropped 12 to 15 percent in 1985 because major blockbuster hit movies were missing.

'Rambo: First Blood Part II' grossed more than $100 million, but was one of the few movies with a 1985 theatre release to obtain such a status.

A February convention of theatre owners provided Arnold Simmons, owner of Oxford Twin Cinema, an indication of what to expect for 1986 and early 1987.

He said most major production companies show promise with 1 or more upcoming movies, most of which are sequels.

Columbia will release 'Karate Kid II' in late summer, while a fall release of a Jon Voight vehicle, 'Desert Bloom' is also promising, Simmons said.

Warner Bros., the top grossing film company of 1985 and holder of that distinction for the last 3 years, will release 'Police Academy 3: Back in Training,' 'Cobra' with Sylvester Stallone, 'The Little Shop of Horrors,' a comedy starring Steve Martin, and 'The Mission' starring Robert DeNiro.

Two Christmas releases, Clint Eastwood's 'Heartbreak Ridge' and Sylvester Stallone's 'Survivalist,' are also expected to be hits, Simmons said.

Universal will release 'Psycho III' with Anthony Perkins and 'Fletch II' with Chevy Chase.

Paramount's showings look somewhat bleaker, Simmons said. The company will release 'Friday the 13th, Part 6'—the prior sequel did poorly at box offices.

'Star Trek 4,' another Universal picture, will again star William Shatner and Leonard Nimoy and should appeal to trekkie lovers.

Disney pictures will re-release several classics including 'Sleeping Beauty,' 'Lady and the Tramp,' and 'The Aristocats.'

Touchtone Films, a Disney offspring, will release 'Splash 2.'

Afternoon matinees at the Twin Cinema will continue with showings at 1, 3 and 5 p.m. All movies shown before 6 p.m. are only $2.

Tuesday bargain night, $1.50, will also continue, and Simmons foresees no increase in regular admission prices of $4 for adults and $2 for children.

Several theaters in major cities will increase admission costs to $7.50, Simmons learned at the Las Vegas convention of theatre owners in Feb.

New plans for the Twin Cinema for 1986 include the installation of floor lights ("It will look like a runway") to replace overhead lighting in Cinema 2.

Simmons said he also plans to use a portable pop and popcorn station inside the theatre areas, such concessions would only be available until showtime.

The outside concession area would still be available.

Monthly Saturday Lions Club movies and monthly Sunday Oxford Rotary Travel Adventure series will also continue.

Phone 628-7100.

Oxford Twin Cinemas shows several newly released movies each year, and owner Arnold Simmons is ready to provide movie-goers with fresh popcorn, pop and other concession items.

Ben Hazelton makes sure customers at Ben's Bull Pen feel welcome. Customers are often met at the door by his wife, Betty. Their son Bernie runs the bar.

At Ben's Bull Pen

Country dining

Genteel, country dining is offered at Ben's Bull Pen.

Part of the old Scripps estate, Ben's is housed in the enormous barn at Joslyn and Greenfield roads in Keatington Antique Village. Both the elegant food and country atmosphere attract customers.

Ben's bar is located at the foot of a stairway that would have fit well in the set of "Gone With the Wind."

Many come to lunch or dinner and to "shoot the bull" with Betty and Ben Hazelton, Lake Orion residents for over 40 years.

Ben has many stories to tell. Some are about the history of his restaurant, which once housed prize-winning bulls for the Scripps family. Others are of stars he met when he built sets for parties and movies.

The Hazeltons had sold the restaurant twice in the past, but it reverted back to their ownership both times. Ben said a fire destroyed portions of the building and the original white tile along the bottom of the dining room walls. When remodeled, Ben was the designer.

Exposed rafters and barn beams are visible, but the feeling is homey and cozy.

The restaurant will seat 150, and Ben says he can handle up to 50 for private parties.

The specialty of the house, of course, is prime beef, with king crab running a close second.

The restaurant is open from 11:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday; Friday and Saturday 11:30 to 2 a.m., and closed Sunday and Monday.

Keatington Health Club offers healthy fun

A lounge and snack bar are new additions to The Keatington Racquetball Club and Health Spa near the corner of Waldon and Joslyn roads.

Members can share cocktails after a game of racquetball on the club's four courts, or a game of wall-ball which was offered for the first time this year. Perhaps even more popular than the traditional cocktails are a variety of fruit drinks, including special protein beverages.

Big-screen TV can also be enjoyed by groups or couples in the lounge area.

Other features include a whirlpool, showers and lockers. The two work-out areas for body building and exercising offer separate facilities for men and women.

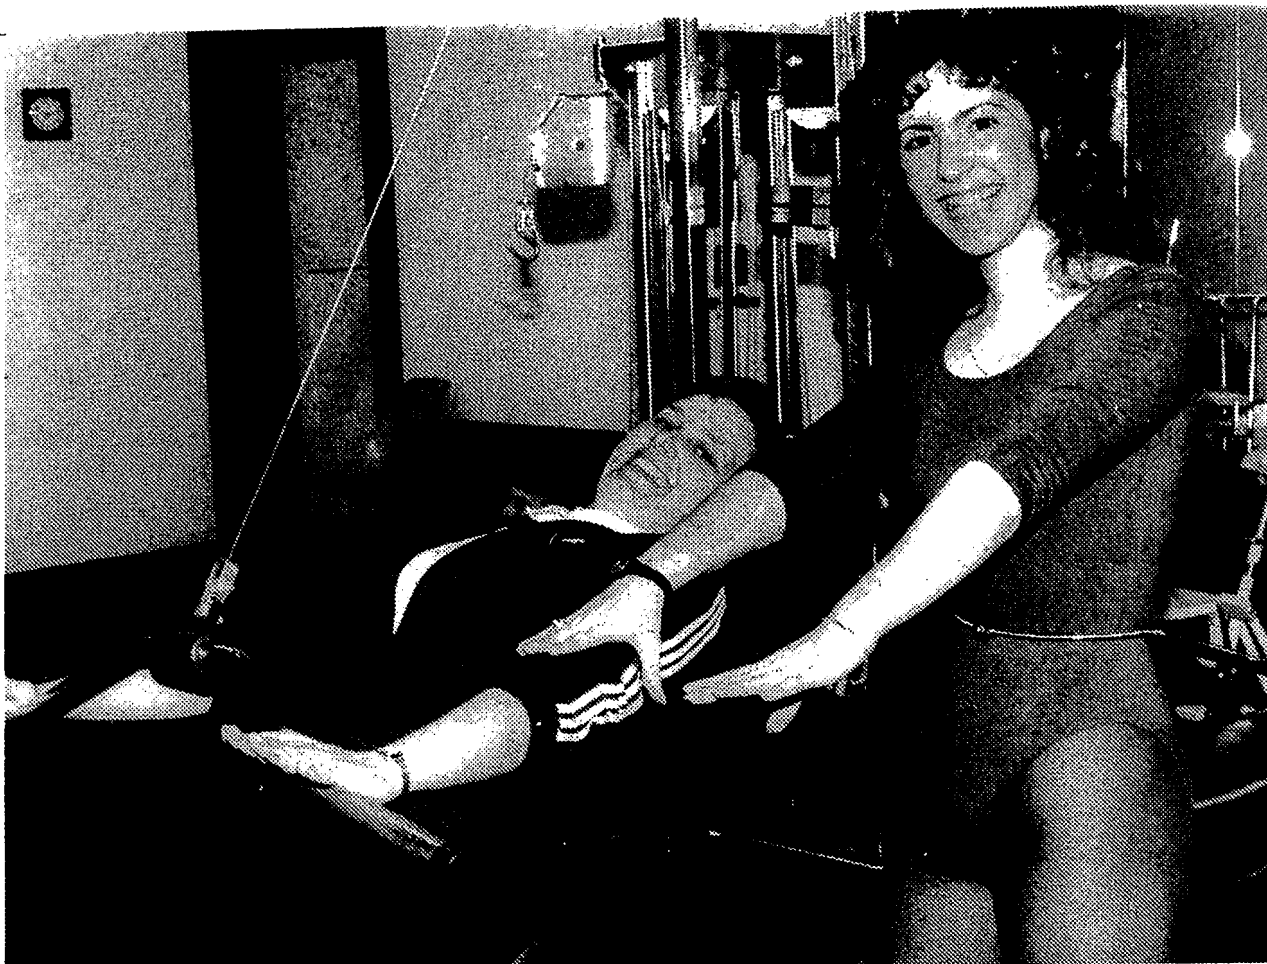

The aerobic classes have gained popularity, with more participating this year than ever before, says the club's manager Kim Murphy.

The gain in popularity could be the advent of more gentlemen in the classes. "It's a co-ed club," she says, "people get to know each other better."

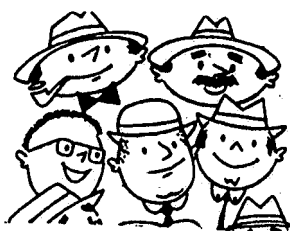

Couples can participate in the classes. Kim says it's the dancing, the beat of the music. "It keeps them moving, and they like that."

Racquetball, played off four walls, is enjoyed by many businessmen. They travel from as far as Warren to the Orion location, Kim says. Most play doubles. On Saturday, a challenge court is offered, where men who play during the week compete against one another.

The club's membership is $19 per month for use of equipment and aerobics classes, however, there are special racquetball memberships available.

Assistant Manager Stephanie Hilla and Pam Walmsley demonstrate one of the many exercise machines. There are separate quarters for men's and women's equipment.

Ten shops make up Grand Blanc's Coach Stop

The Coach Stop began when Kristine Higgins bought the original building in the complex to prevent it from being demolished by a developer.

The Switzerland-born Kristine said, "I felt that way too many (historical) buildings were being torn down."

"In Europe, you leave the old building. You tear down the inside, but you leave the outside alone," she said.

Kristine bought the property in 1975 and opened a children's shop.

The Coach Stop, at 12237 Dixie Highway in Grand Blanc, grew a little at a time from there.

The name came from the original group of buildings, which used to comprise a real coach stop.

"The barn, the oldest building in Grand Blanc, was the original coach stop between Detroit and Saginaw," she said.

People and their horses would stop there and spend the night before traveling to Detroit, she said.

Ten stores now make up the complex. All the shops offer free gift wrapping and will take special orders if needed. Also, since the buildings are situated in a "U" shape, all of the parking is in front of the shop doors.

The hours for most of the stores are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily and Thursday 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Gloria's, LTD. is a full-line gift shop carrying brass, crystal, china, jewelry and boutique clothing. Also, all wedding invitations and all stationery are always 20 percent off. They carry paper products ranging from stationery to party supplies.

The Book Stall of Grand Blanc stocks a large children's section as well as sections in self-help, cooking, medicine and family. They also have gift books in fine arts and other areas.

Elegance in Diamonds specializes in the design and the manufacture of jewelry, and they also do repair work. All the work is done on the premises by a GIA certified diamond grader in the latest Euro-American fashions and designs.

Pappagallo sells traditional women's clothing by manufacturers such as Barry Bricken, Berek, Jason Younger and Ginnie Johansen. They sell sweaters, skirts, blouses, shoes and jewelry. In addition, they carry the Pappagallo line of shoes, boots and accessories.

Handcrafted ornaments, wreaths and home accessories may be found at Creations Unlimited. Wooden gifts, toys, stained glass, decorated straw hats and appliqued sweatshirts are created by the owner and staff. Also, they will create customized items for home or business on request.

Katherine Stevens Shops are located in Flint and Midland in addition to the Grand Blanc location. They sell lingerie, robes, loungewear, hospital and nursing gowns and various travel items. Plus they offer prosthesis fittings for mastectomy patients at the Flint store.

Flowers and herbs and dried everlasting are sold at Capture the Essence. They teach various herb-related classes, and in the spring, they sell over 170 varieties of herb plants which they've grown on their farm in Davison. They also supply herbal arrangements for weddings.

The 1206 Shop carries gentlemen's clothing ranging from sweaters, suits and slacks to belts, ties and socks. They have two "trunk shows" per year. At this time, men may choose their own fabrics and designs.

The Chestnut Tree offers many branches of children's clothing. For girls, they carry sizes infant through pre-teen and junior sizes. For boys, they carry infant to prep size 20. They also carry baby bedding, quilts, stuffed toys and children's accessories such as jewelry and handbags.

The Stork Club carries traditional maternity wear, but they specialize in clothing for the working woman. They have a complete selection of dresses, skirts, jumpers, blouses and maternity lingerie. They also stock nursing bras and nightgowns.

The Coach Stop is 20 minutes north of Clarkston on Dixie Highway across from Grand Blanc High School.

Filling transportation needs

Chuck Fortinberry has been in the auto business all of his life.

He began by tinkering with cars as a teenager and then buying and selling cars in high school. He worked as a mechanic in college.

"I didn't have any problems deciding what I wanted to do with my life when I graduated," said Chuck. "I knew I wanted to work in the automobile industry."

He worked two years as a service, parts and custom relations manager for Chrysler. Then he spent four years as a district sales manager. Next he opened his own Chrysler dealership called Clarkston Motors.

He sells new and used Chrysler, Plymouth, AMC, Jeep, and Renault automobiles at his dealership on Dixie Highway in Independence Township.

"We lease cars; we rent cars; we fix cars," said Chuck.

"We can pretty much suit the transportation needs of the average person, whether it's new, used, leasing, purchasing—you name it, we can do it," he said.

An estimated 80 million American homes have at least one TV.

Chuck has recently purchased a computer to analyze the performance of new cars.

"You can program the specifications of any car," he said. "You can hook a car up to it. You can do 28 different tests on a car in a matter of one-half hour. It also does my exhaust emissions testing."

"It saves guesswork," said Chuck. "What this machine does is isolates the problems."

Chuck plans continue his business in the same manner.

"Right now, I think I'm in pretty good shape to handle the business I'm generating," he said. "In the future, I'm going to have to expand."

The Chrysler Tech Center in Auburn Hills and all of the business expansion headed in this direction are some of Chuck's guidelines for expansion.

"I remember as a kid (in Troy) all that area was farmland. Now all of that is office buildings," he said.

Charles L. Fortinberry and his staff at Clarkston Motors are available Monday and Thursdays 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Wally Edgar is excited about a future move of the dealership. The larger quarters will allow better customer service, he says.

Looking forward to new quarters for dealership

"It's been a good year for us," says Wally Edgar of Wally Edgar Buick-Chevrolet-Chevrolet Trucks.

Just one year ago, Edgar purchased the M-24 dealership from Bill Fuller. Since, both sales and service have been on the upswing.

"There has been a 23 percent increase in sales," says Edgar. "But, the big increase has been in the service end of the business."

Edgar says there were 24 employees when he purchased the dealership. Today, there are 36 employees, and the newly hired personnel are basically in the service department.

"We have made many strides in improving customer satisfaction," says Edgar.

In addition to improving sales and service, Edgar has improved the look of the building. But, he says, despite those improvement, a new facility is planned.

He hopes to break ground sometime in April, and his target date for completing the new dealership is October. The New Edgar facility will be situated on the corner of M-24 and Morgan Hill, near Silver Bell Road, south of the current village location.

He says the new building will be about 32,000 square feet, and will provide "excellent" service capabilities.

Edgar's building plans extend beyond the dealership to a new home. He and his wife are building a house on Park Island in the village. He says they both enjoy the area, and are looking forward to lake-living.

Recently, he heard that the Orion Township General Motors plant will begin constructing Buick Electras.

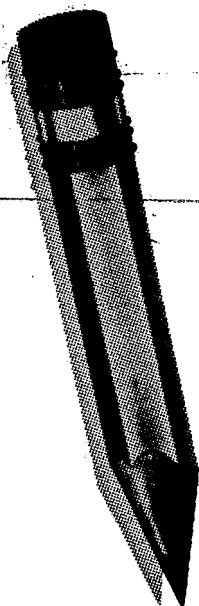

"That's good news for us as a Buick dealer," says Edgar. "Quality products come from that plant. Orion people will be able to purchase a car that was built right in their own backyard."

Edgar says he enjoys the people of the Orion area, both those that work in the dealership and those that become customers.

"We are very fortunate to have the kind of people we have working for us," he says. "They are what I call good citizens—honest, good employees."

The customers are always friendly, even when they have a complaint, he says. They will come in and state the need, then allow the dealership to do what it can about the concern.

"Everyone has been so kind since we came here. The neighbors around the dealership put up with a lot—parking problems, moving of vehicles—yet one wrote to thank me for the improvements made to the building," says Edgar. "That's what I've found here, it's just great!"

Tasty foods await at Main Street Deli

All of Carol Bradley's expectations of having her own business are coming true.

She has owned Main Street Deli since September 1984. One of the pluses, Carol said, are the people she deals with.

"The customers are happy with the deli; I'm happy with the deli," she said. "Ninety-nine point-nine percent of the customers are truly wonderful. I like getting to know them on a first-name basis. They help make the deli special."

Carol puts her trust in the shop's manager, Donna Paulson, and the rest of her eight employees.

"Donna has been here for 14 years and does a great job," Carol said. "The girls I have working here are here to serve the customers and have a good time."

The deli in the A&P shopping center at M-15 and Dixie Highway has all the usual ingredients—plus. Meats and cheeses fill one counter, while salads and more meat occupy another. The shop carries several lines of dessert treats, candy and imported and domestic crackers and cookies.

Sitting atop yet another counter is a sign proclaiming broasted chicken, the latest addition to the store.

"We marinate the chicken overnight and then deep fry it under pressure," Carol said. "It's catching on."

All the salads are made in the store and on weekends, there is a special gourmet salad. Main Street Deli also offers a catering service.

"I like the catering," Carol said. "We get to do a lot of special things. That's the fun part of the business. I like a party."

The outside of the business has taken on a new look since Carol bought the deli. Last fall, a new awning was installed across the storefront.

"We had to get it special-made because of the name on it," Carol said. "It's a nice touch."

Owner Carol Bradley (left) and manager Donna Paulson keep the customers and themselves happy at the Main Street Deli at M-15 and Dixie Highway.

Nancy Higgins, employee, inside The Livery tack shop in Metamora.

Trotting a visit at The Livery

New merchandise is being added to a full horse tack shop at The Livery, 70 E High Street in Metamora.

"We have expanded our store, and have quite a selection of clothing for English riding apparel," said owner Connie Bowman.

The tack shop handles items for all horse breeds.

Semi-custom boots are available (especially important for persons with hard-to-fit calves), and most orders are ready in 2 or 3 weeks.

The Livery has been at its present location for 2 1/2 years, and each year brings an increase in inventory.

Recently, an equestrian video library was added. Videos include how-tos and tape of the summer Olympic equestrian team.

Lifetime membership is $10, and rental tapes are $5 a day ($7 a day for non-members) with every 11th rental free for persons with a membership.

Video tapes are also available for purchase.

Another new tack item is the endurance pad with a pouch.

The Livery specializes in blade sharpening, saddle and leather repair, clipper repair, and blanket repair (blankets must be laundered).

Clothing for children includes jackets, britches, boots and hats.

Men's britches sizes are available in regular and long from size 28 to 42.

Women's britches are available in regular and long sizes 24 to 34.

"We may be small, but we're mighty," said owner Connie.

Hours are Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and either Connie, Nancy Higgins or Sandy Elwood are available to serve a customer's needs. Phone 678-3461.

Trim with University Lawn

Close-out sales on new equipment—including riders, push and self propelled mowers—at University Lawn Equipment in Pontiac are now while supply lasts.

For people wishing to shape up their garden or bring the green back to life in their lawns, the store has a full range of equipment.

Recently Snapper tractors and string trimmers were added to the store's huge inventory.

Main equipment lines are Deutz-Allis (formerly Allis-Chalmers), Homelite, Jacobsen and Snappers.

Kerosene is also available.

All brands of equipment are serviced, and all repairs are under warranty.

"We try to have a more personalized approach with customers," Joel Wicker, president said.

"Service what we sell. We do want to keep people happy," he added.

The store is open year-round and features walk mowers, roto tillers, riding lawn mowers, chain saws and snow blowers.

Service includes installation of new engines, sharpening of blades, and various part replacements.

Service repairs may be brought in or equipment can be picked up and delivered.

Most repairs are completed within a week, but the busy spring and summer season may require a longer stay.

The store has been at the same location, 945 University Drive, for 40 years. It has been University Lawn Equipment for 3 years.

The staff includes 4 full time people, plus additional staff in the summer.

"We're kinda of like a family group here," Wicker said.

Store hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and Saturday 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Summer hours are later. "If the customers keep coming, we stay open," he said.

Phone 373-7220.

Get the Midas touch

Gerald Filmore, owner of Midas Muffler in Lake Orion, is even more excited about his business than usual.

Filmore recently returned from San Francisco where he attended a national Midas seminar. Midas incorporates a dealers' association in the company structure. Filmore says, that ensures that franchise owners feel their business venture is a true partnership—50 percent the corporation and 50 percent the franchisee.

Every aspect of the business was explored at the seminar, including increased insurance costs.

"We explored methods of decreasing those costs through an employee safety program that would cut the number of on-the-job injuries," Filmore says.

He feels the ideas and information he garners at these meetings are necessary segments of operating the business, now consisting of eight shops in the Detroit area.

"It's not only doing business, but how you run the business that determines whether you are financially successful," says Filmore. "It the old story—if you watch the pennies, the dollars will take care of themselves."

Part of watching the pennies entails keeping the customer satisfied.

"Before becoming a Midas franchisee, I was employed by Hudson's for 30 years. I was a buyer and fashion director," says Filmore. "At Hudson's, they believe that the customer is always right. I brought that same philosophy to this business."

At Midas, the customer will find friendly service—mechanics who are ready to help. "Let's face it, people really don't want to need us," smiles Filmore. "So when they do, it is important that we treat them well."

Midas mechanics are well-versed at repairing exhaust systems and brakes. Recently, the shops added front end work to the service line.

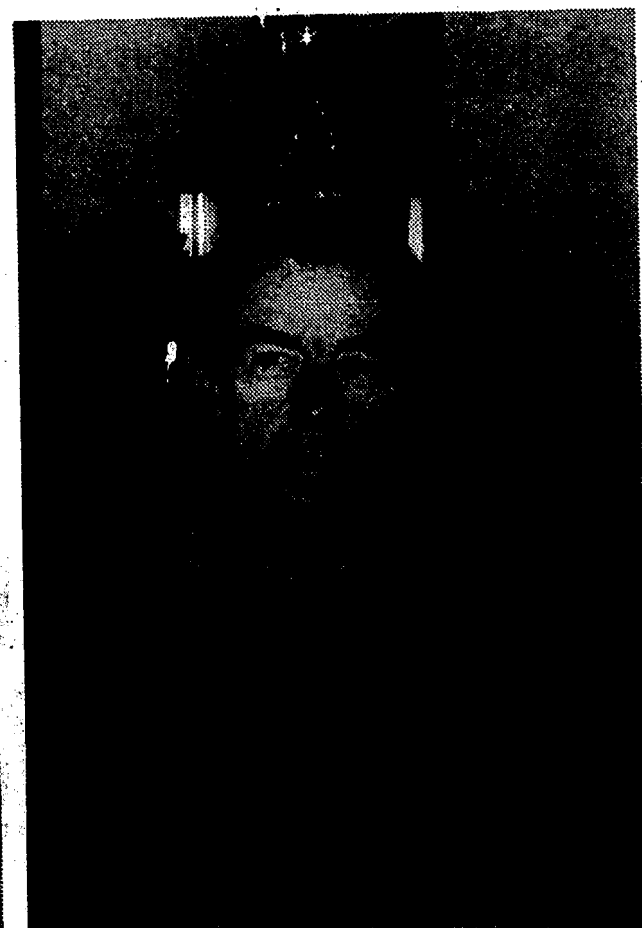

Problems in the steering and suspension mechanisms can be repaired at Midas.

Midas offers a national guarantee on all work, says Filmore.

"It's the only company that does offer such a guarantee," he adds. "That means that if you have work done at the shop in Lake Orion, then went on vacation in California, had trouble with the repair, the guarantee would be good at any Midas shop there."

The Filmore stores are family owned and operated. His son, Christopher, and daughter, Leslie Davison, also work in the franchises.

All the Filmore family members make their homes in the Oxford-Metamora area, so making the Orion branch their headquarters seemed a natural move.

Jerry Filmore approaches his Midas businesses from the customer's point of view.

Versatility thrives at Mr. G's hair center

Dick Ayers doesn't hesitate to credit his staff for the success of Mr. G's Hair Care Center on Dixie Highway in Independence Township.

"The reason we've grown so much is definitely the staff," he says. "The key to this business is the people. I just know I have the best staff around. They look best, they dress best and they cut hair best—there's no doubt about it."

Sixteen years ago, Ayers began his career in Independence Township as a barber-stylist. Now he owns the business that has expanded to cover more than the traditional services.

At Mr. G's, clients can get a suntan in 15 minutes while standing in a booth, have a facial done in the European technique by hand and with machines, and have their nails polished in traditional fashion or with designs.

The shop carries three major lines of skin care and hair care products plus its own line.

Ayers, who stopped cutting hair about 10 years ago, is a hair replacement specialist. He fits and styles custom hairpieces and chemotherapy wigs and oversees hair transplants and hair treatments.

The transplants are done by three licensed physicians and their work has been recently featured on Kelly and Company, PM Magazine and in the Oakland Press, Ayers said.

He describes his work with hair replacement as "extremely rewarding."

"You're seeing something that's very personal with an individual," he said. "It affects their attitude about life and about themselves, and you're able to help that."

Regarding the range of services at Mr. G's, "there are probably four places in the state that do the kind of work we do," he said. "We're the farthest one north."

Ayers has a staff of 13, which will increase soon when two styling chairs are added in the hair salon.

"What's different about Mr. G's is it's roomy, it's very private, it's more exclusive," he said. "It's for the person who wants individualized attention... someone who is very concerned about the way they look."

The stylists at Mr. G's stay in touch with the latest hairstyles for men, women and children by attending continuing education workshops and seminars on a regular basis, Ayers said.

"No matter what comes down the line, they can handle it," he said. "We get the punkers and the elderly ladies who are more conservative. We get a lot of teenagers and younger kids. It's part of being versatile."

Rick McCotter and Dan Billgren of L & R Tire in Auburn Hills.

Unexpected expenses are always a burden, but the expense to replace a badly worn tire can be lessened at L & R Tire in Auburn Hills.

Since not all people can afford to replace a bad tire with a new tire, a good used tire can serve the same purpose and be less costly.

"The best buy is to buy a used tire that looks like new. You'll save the most money," said co-owner Rick McCotter.

L & R Tire has 5,000 used tires in stock, or about a 90 to 1 ratio of used to new tires available.

Every 2 weeks recapped tires are re-stocked, so L & R Tire usually has 200 in stock at any 1 time.

Prices vary according to tires, but generally the used radial tires are 40 to 60 percent lower than new radials.

Now entering its 5th year in business, L & R Tire's work is quick and guaranteed.

"If you need 4 tires, usually out in 30 minutes," McCotter said.

Mounting and balancing is provided, and no appointment is necessary.

The shop also does vulcanizing (a permanent way to repair a tire injury).

"It's quite an art; I learned from a man who had been doing (vulcanizing) for 35 years," McCotter said.

L & R Tire accepts trade-in tires, and also tires that may just be cluttering up a person's garage.

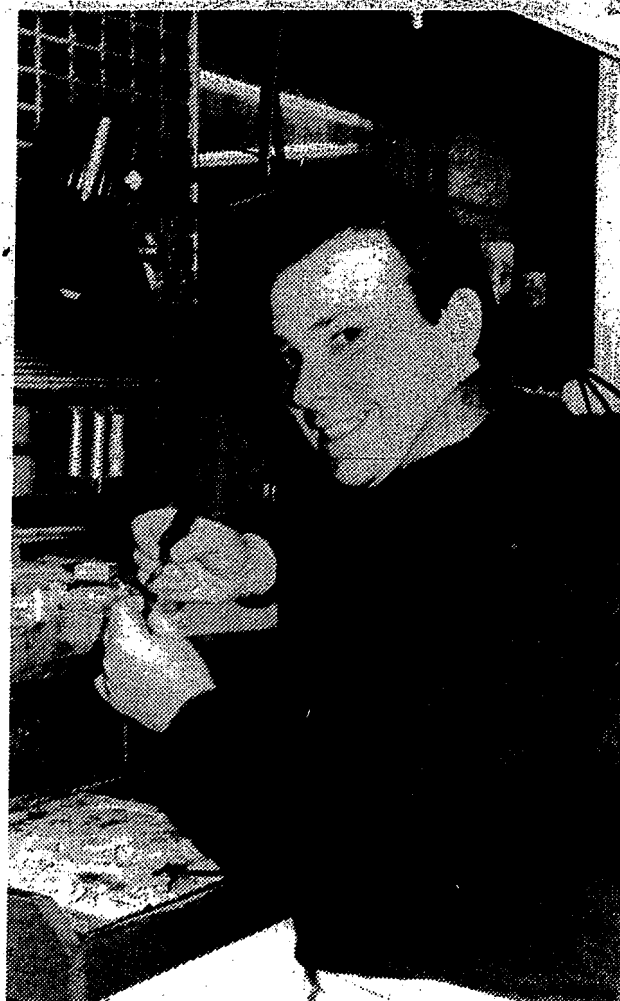

Customers travel quite a distance to the shop, just off of I-75, and McCotter said he'd like to see the store either expanded or the addition of a new location.

Tires available include car, tractor, passenger and trailer.

"If it's a tire, I sell it," he said.

Located at 3630 Lapeer Rd, L & R Tire is open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

David Schurman displays a favorite jewelry item, a necklace of emeralds set in gold. Diamond Dave's will soon move to a new location, Lake Plaza, a new shopping strip on Lapeer Road next to Perry Drugs.

Custom jewelry designs at Diamond Dave's

Between the three partners at Diamond Dave's Custom Jewelry, more than 50 years experience is offered the customer.

The family-owned business has been located in Kensington Antique Village for eight years. David Schurman, cousin Darren Schurman, and David's sister, Terese Proctor, have all been in the jewelry business since they were children, says "Diamond" Dave.

Soon, they plan to relocate to "Lake Plaza," a new shopping center next door to Perry Drug on M-24.

The move will allow greater public exposure, says Dave.

A complete line of gold chains will be offered in the new location, as will giftware items.

Now, all the merchandise sold at Diamond Dave's is manufactured on the premises from a small shop adjacent to the retail store.

Custom work for clients includes resetting stones—those purchased at the store, or those belonging to the customer—jewelry repair of any kind, engravings, and bead restringing.

The jewelry is designed, using wax for a model. The model is then cast in gold, and precious stones are set in the finished mounting. Most of the mountings are in gold, and not silver, Dave says.

Jewelry made in the shop is sold all over the country, he adds.

Dave says prices for his custom-designed merchandise are competitive with the retail trade.

He first served as a jeweler's apprentice, repairing jewelry, then mounting stones. He was 12 years old at that time. Since, he, Terese, and Darren, have worked together in several jewelry stores.

Dave says he learned the art of setting diamonds while employed by Orange Blossom, a leading company in diamond setting. He now teaches the skill to others in the trade.

Al Dittrich sells, services Olds

Al Dittrich Oldsmobile offers several departments for their customers.

The departments include parts, body shop, service, and sales of new and used cars. They also lease cars.

Each department is a separate entity "that has to stand on its own two feet," said owner Al Dittrich.

The store, at 1170 Oakland Ave. in Pontiac, has grown a lot in the seven and a half years at this location.

"We're planning to move to new larger quarters and hope to be moved by Sept. 1," said Al.

The new location will be on M-59, east of Airport Road.

"We're going to build a new building, bigger than what we have here. We'll have more land. It should be a very nice modern facility," he said.

Al not only spends a lot of time with his business, but he also is involved in several outside activities.

He was the past chairman of the Oakland County American Cancer Society, but he recently stepped down from that post to serve on the state committee.

He's on the Pontiac Police Athletic League (PAL) Board of Directors as well.

"We're working feverishly right now as we are going to host the National PAL basketball tournament," he said.

He also sponsors the March of Dimes NFL players' association golf tournament held each year at Indianwood in Lake Orion.

Al, who has been in the car business for 32 years, enjoys his work, although the past year was not very consistent in sales.

"We've been busy. We've had a lot of business relating to the various incentive plans that the factory came up with," he said. "Sales were very good, but sporadic. It was hard to regulate your personnel."

Al Dittrich will be selling the new 1986 1/2 Cutlass Ciera by Oldsmobile this spring. The Ciera has a roof line with sloping rear window and will be available in March.

You can save energy by turning off the oven or range a minute or two before the cooking is finished. There will usually be enough heat left to finish the job.

Kammer provides complete insurance array

K. W. Kammer is a family run insurance business.

Ken, Kerry, Kelly and Kip all work at the 30-year-old business at 5 S. Main Street in Clarkston. The business has been at this location four years.

"We provide any kind of insurance you need," said Ken.

They provide home, auto, fire, life and commercial insurance.

"We're a different type of insurance company than most companies," said Kelly. "We're a family business. We do a complete array, but we also self-insure."

"We also do health insurance," said Ken. "We have several clients that we provide group health insurance for."

That's not all.

"Four years ago, we designed a workmen's compensation package for an employer," said Ken.

It has worked out very well, he said.

"We've been able to take some large accounts and let them self-insure themselves," he said.

"He (Ken) was involved in getting one of the first self-insured health plans," said Kelly.

Kelly told about the spider web effect that has helped their business grow.

"We're involved in statewide associations," he said.

Since Kammer has successfully insured many large companies, the same companies stay with them when they expand, either across the state or across the nation. Also, individuals from within the companies come to Kammer, he said.

Kammer handles many types of coverage that most companies can't or won't cover, such as property casualty, fire, extended coverage and liability policies.

The Kammers seem to enjoy their work.

"Our job is to provide insurance for whoever needs it, whether it's an apartment dweller or a 10-state company," said Ken.

The office is equipped with computer terminals so they can provide speedy estimates for policies on auto and other items.

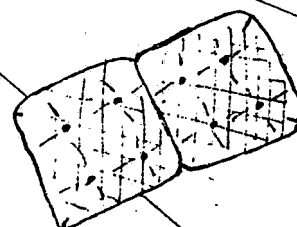

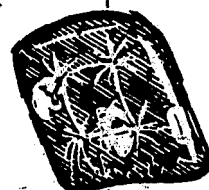

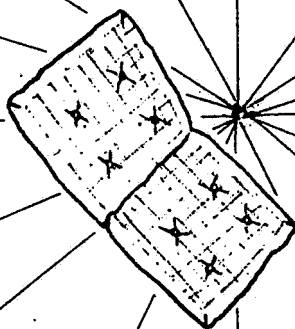

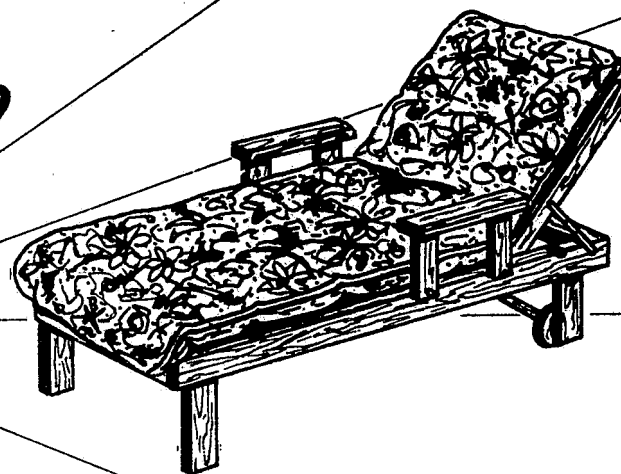

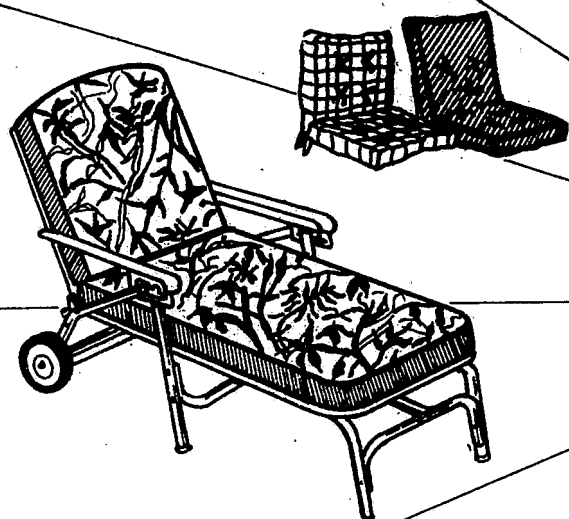

Ken Kammer and his son Kelly (left) are two of the Kammers who run the family insurance business. Kerry and Kip also work at the business at 5 S. Main in Clarkston.

The Village Place Family Restaurant is open 24 hours every day of the year except Christmas.

The restaurant, at 5724 Dixie Highway in the Waterfall Plaza, Waterford Township, serves "a little bit of everything," said part-owner Chris Clark.

"We had one new menu in the past year," said Chris. "We sell Mexican food and seafood, and we have a weight watchers' menu. We sell quite a few omelettes. We're known pretty well for our omelettes."

The restaurant has a full breakfast menu, and they'll serve breakfast any time, day or night. They also serve a variety of salads and a lot of sandwiches. They serve both specialty sandwiches and pocket sandwiches (made with pita bread).

Chris and his partner Dale Willett have owned the restaurant three years.

"I've been in (the restaurant business) since I was 15; I'm 24 now," Chris said. "I like the responsibility and the challenge."

They've done so well in the Waterfall Plaza location, that they've opened a new restaurant in Waterford at Cooley Lake and Elizabeth Lake roads.

Chris spends most of his time at the restaurant or with business-related things, he said.

"I spend time with my family, my wife, Sheri, and my 5-year-old daughter, Liz," he said. "There's one (child) on the way."

Most of all, Chris appreciates his employees.

"I base the success of the business mostly on the employees. I don't have a big turnover. Most of (the employees) have been here awhile," he said.

The Village Place always uses quality foods, he said.

"All of our products, food, everything is top quality name brand," he said.

As an example, he said, "We use Oscar Meyer bacon."

Bethany Scharf (left) lives in Waterford and is a hostess at The Village Place. Linda Elkins, from Independence Township, is a waitress. She also prepares carry-out items.

Earl Keim doubles sales in '85

Let's just say it was a good year for the realty world in 1985.

Let's say it was a real good year.

"We were busy last year. We had $20 million worth of transactions last year. I'm very pleased to say that 6 of our sales people did over $2 million a piece in sales volume. We also had one sales person sell over $1 million," said Louise Herrgott, owner and broker at Earl Keim Realty in Oxford.

The office on 776 S. Lapeer Rd. sports 9 full time sales persons and 5 part-timers.

Herrgott has owned the office since September of 1981. The Earl Keim office was started 10 years ago.

Earl Keim deals mainly with residential sales, but does make a few commercial transactions, she said.

One of the reason business is up, she believes, is the improved economy, the other is interest rates.

"The 15-year fixed rate has become very popular. It is available at 10 to 10.5 percent," she said.

The 30-year fixed rate is available at 10.5 to 11 percent. The adjustable rate is at 8.75 percent.

"We seem to keep doing better and better. Already this year we have been very busy. I'm looking for 1986 to be a very good year, if not better than 1985.

"In this area there are a lot of re-sales. That seems to say a lot about this area," she said.

As for the history of Earl Keim, it was founded in 1958. In that time period, the company has been responsible for $5.5 billion worth of sold real estate. "Every 8.8 minutes of the working day Earl Keim sells a home," Herrgott said.

Earl Keim Realty, Oxford-Orion is a member of the North Oakland County Board of Realtors, and uses its multiple listing services.

Free booklets of home for sale in this area are available at the office. The office is located on the west side of M-24 south of the village of Oxford. The phone number is 628-4869.

Arnold Simmons stands before a wide selection of video tapes at Oxford Video Rent-All.

Videos galore

Video Rental-All, inside the Oxford Twin Cinema, has opened additional locations in Michigan this past year.

The newest location, October 1985, opened in the Tenuta's Foodland Supermarket at Sashabaw and Walton Blvd in Drayton Plains.

"This new location has worked out very well, and the owners of Tenuta's Foodland are extremely pleased with our way of renting movies and VCRs," said Arnold Simmons, owner of Video Rent-All.

The owner of Tenuta's has told Simmons he is pleased with the additional customers the video store has brought to the supermarket.

In May 1985 a Video Rent-All was opened in Albion, next to the Bohm Theatre.

"Rentals at that location has surpassed our expectations by more than 300 percent," Simmons said.

Additional Video Rent-All locations are being considered for 1986 in high traffic supermarkets in the northern Oakland County area, Simmons said.

Satellite locations of Video Rent-All are opened with 500 to 600 hit movies.

Simmons said when a major hit picture is released on video, there are more than 1 or 2 copies purchased by Video Rent-All.

More than 30 copies will be purchased. For example, 100 copies of 'Ghostbusters', 36 copies of 'Rambo' and 50 copies of 'Return of the Jedi' were purchased at release time.

"If a movie breaks on a Thursday, UPS picks it up on Thursday. But you may not get it until a Monday, so we pick them up in Detroit on release date," Simmons said.

Video Rent-All may have new releases 2 to 10 days before other video stores receive the release.

After movies have been rented out for a specified number of times, Video Rent-All sells the extra copies at 50 percent or more off the list price.

More than 3,500 titles, mainly feature films, are available.

Simmons, who buys tapes for each location, expects to add an additional 300 to 500 new titles every 6 months.

Video Rent-All is a member of the nationwide Association of Video Software Dealers Association. Simmons is active in the local chapter as well.

Only VHS tapes are stocked, and rental prices vary at each store.

Video rentals range from 99 cents to $3.50. VCRs rent for $5 Monday through Thursday, and $8 on weekends.

There is no membership fee to belong to the club. Persons only need a valid Michigan driver's license to rent and a $150 security deposit is needed if renting a VCR.

A check, VISA or MasterCard is accepted.

A preferred customer card may be obtained at no cost; the card speeds the transaction when renting tapes.

Presently, preferred customers number more than 3,000, and another 200 or more are added monthly.

A fresh bag of popcorn is given to persons renting a tape.

Some of the new movies Simmons anticipates will be released on video in 1986 or early '87 are 'ET,' 'Rocky IV,' 'Witness,' 'Out of Africa,' 'Back to the Future,' and 'Jagged Edge.'

Small classes, individual attention at U of D

University of Detroit is the largest private university in Michigan, said Bruce Broby, director of the Clarkston extension.

The Clarkston extension, at the Colombiere Center at 9075 Big Lake Rd., is surrounded by 400 acres of wooded hills. The school opened for classes in September 1983. The first class will graduate in 1987.

"Basically, the campus is being developed on a one year at a time basis," said Broby.

"The whole purpose of the University of Detroit establishing this particular campus was to make Jesuit education available to this area."

The extension offers business majors in accounting, management and information systems; and liberal art majors in communication studies, pre-law and humanities.

In addition, the core classes for many other majors are available as well.

With only 75 students, the teacher-student ratio is low, about 20 students to one professor, said Broby.

More community involvement is one goal of the university.

"A university is first and foremost a place of learning," Broby said, "but it is also a participant of the community."

Toward that purpose, Broby spoke at the induction ceremonies for the Clarkston High School National Honor Society and he participated in the Greater Oakland Activities League leadership conference last year.

The university is preparing for a future with a greater number of students.

"Over the long haul, this will be a growth area," said Broby.

To accommodate the students, U of D has expanded the parking lot, improved the library and added a student lounge and, of course, classrooms.

They are also planning additional course offerings to cover a wider area of interests.

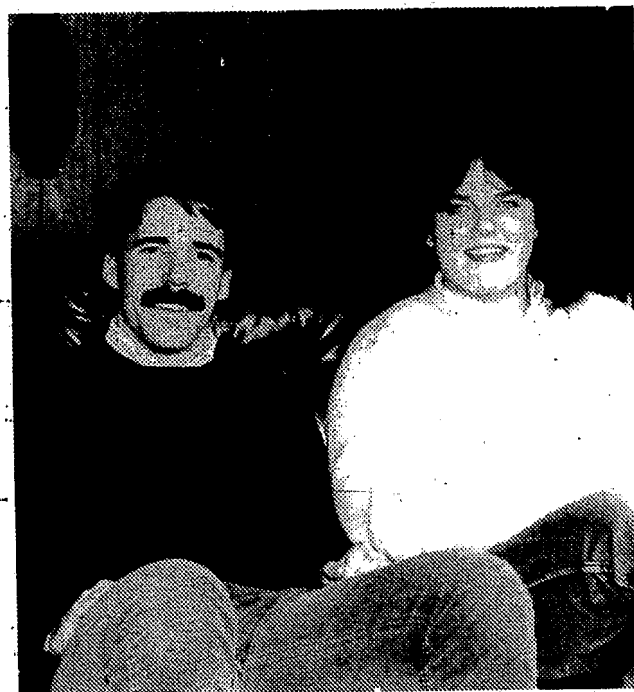

Most of all, U of D stresses the individual student in its teaching, Broby said.

"The University of Detroit classroom is small, as it's always been," he said. "Its purpose is to give educational and personal development."

Bruce Broby serves as director of the Clarkston campus of the University of Detroit.

Jacqui Bell of Waterford and Bob McMillan of Clarkston attend University of Detroit-Clarkston and are officers in the student council. "When we say 'quality education close to home'—that's our motto, we mean it," says Jacqui. Bob likes the individual attention. "You're not a number, you're not a stat," he says. Jacqui sums it up: "You're you."

Oxford Co-op begins 'anew'

The Oxford Co-op has been at the same location on Pleasant St since 1926.

And, after 60-years of business things change.

"It's like a new beginning for us. We have a much better attitude, and everybody is really working hard," Bill Laidlaw, co-op's new manager said.

Laidlaw has been manager since Nov 14, 1985.

Though it sounds like he may still be too new, he's been around the Co-op long enough to know the business.

His aunt, Mary Beardsley, managed the Co-op from the early 1950's until 3-years ago. Laidlaw also worked at the Co-op during summers to earn money for college, and after school was the Co-op's clerk for 2-years. After that he managed a garden and feed shop in Holly.

Laidlaw is looking forward to his first spring as manager.

"The economy is good, and that's good. Also, spring is our biggest time of the year—we usually hire more people because we're so busy," he said.

The Co-op offers lawn and garden chemicals, fertilizers, garden tools, horse and pet feed, and garden seeds.

"Beans, peas, sweet corn, carrots, raddishes—as a matter of fact there isn't a vegetable seed I know that we don't carry," Laidlaw said.

The Co-op buys its products in bulk, and therefore offers competitive prices.

"Why pay 80 to 90 cents for a pack of seeds, when we can sell a half ounce for 60 cents?" he said.

The Co-op is for the small farmer, and the pet owner and gardener, the community's people.

"We offer good service, competitive prices, quality feeds and our biggest asset—our workers. They're very friendly," he said.

The new manager says he has seen an increase in sales over the past few months.

"I'm positive we can make this business even more successful," he said.

Laidlaw is also looking into the possibility of stocking live gardening plants this spring.

The Co-op's telephone number is 628-2174.
