Election: Village results are in Sharron Catallo was elected president of the Village of Clarkston Monday in the biggest election to hit town in eight years. She ran un-opposed.

One hundred and twenty three ballots were cast in the election which featured eight write-in candidates for a trustee seat for which no one was running, two trustee seats, clerk and president.

Clerk Norma Goyette maintained her seat over write-in candidate Carol Eberhardt, who is vacating the president's position. Goyette received 92 votes to Eberhardt's 28.

In addition, Treasurer Artemus Pappas received 114 votes to maintain his post.

William Basinger, of W. Washington Street, won one trustee position with 58 write-in votes.

Republicans Eric Haven and Frank Millard also were voted into trustee positions with Haven receiving 92 votes and Millard 89.

The new officers will assume their positions at the April 14 meeting.

In addition to Eberhardt, trustees Jon Gaskell and Ethel Sinclair chose not to seek re-election to their posts. Catallo left a trustee position to seek the presidency.

The day following the election, Catallo said she was delighted with the voter turnout.

"I think everyone came out to vote," she said. "It was a terrific turnout. That was a lot of votes cast."

Catallo said it was too early to tell what her course of action would be for the village and what her priorities would be as president. "We'll take things as they come," she said.

According to Goyette, it took over two hours to count the votes Monday night because of the number of write-in candidates. "It was a hectic day," she said.

Write-in candidates who were not elected included: Don Borgesser, John Stuetzer, Kay Robertson, Frank Muscat, James Huttenlocher, David Leak and Dom Mauti.

Residents turn out in force

Clarkston Road safety path approved, barely

By Carolyn Walker

A safety path of debatable safety is scheduled for Clarkston Road.

In a 4-3 vote, and before a standing-room-only crowd, members of the Independence Township Board approved the path March 4.

The vote for the path, which would run from the Village of Clarkston to the township library and could cost some $22,000, was made after the board listened to nearly two hours of public opinion on the subject.

While most of the residents in attendance were in favor of the path, some questioned how safe it would be running along the highly-traveled, curved road.

The proposed path has been a source of controversy for several years and was defeated by the previous administration because of possible safety factors.

At the meeting, representatives of the township safety path committee and township engineers Hubble, Roth and Clark (HRC) supported installing the path on the south side of the road.

Their opinions followed a walking study of the site by HRC two weeks ago during which they considered putting the path on the northern side.

"There may be safety problems there. . . . But we felt the path could go there and be engineered to be safe," said Paul VanKlaveren, chairman of the safety path committee. "To me it's fairly clear the need for that path."

Tom Biehl of HRC concurred. "The south side of the road was the logical place for the safety path," he said.

Larry Kozma, a former trustee who opposed the path previously, attended last week's meeting to express his views.

By installing the path you're attracting people to that "dangerous curve," he said.

Kozma's remarks met with a roar of disgust from the audience, many of whom said they and their children now walk in the road to get to the library.

Path nets approval from board

Neil Wallace, chairman of the planning commission and a Clarkston Road resident, also disagreed with the placement of the path. The curves are the sites of frequent accidents, he said.

"I hope you don't make the mistake of thinking this is a necessity," Wallace said. "There are other alternatives."

But Gary Tressel, an employee of HRC, disagreed.

"Certainly a path that's 40-some feet from the roadway is going to be safer for the pedestrian," he said.

Herbert Rose, a Holcomb Street resident, seemed to summarize the audience's thoughts when he said, "(Independence) is one of the few townships where you can walk to either funeral home (on a safety path); but you have to slog through the mud to get to the library."

"I feel kind of odd that we have paths that start some place and end no place," added John Stuetzer, referring to the incomplete path system.

Before the vote was cast, Treasurer John Lutz said $55,000 borrowed from the general fund last year for safety paths near Bailey Lake School should be repaid from the safety path fund before more paths were undertaken.

Current plans are to repay $30,000 to the general fund this year and the remaining $25,000 next year.

Trustee Dale Stuart also expressed displeasure with the proposal. "I'm not convinced that we have the money to spend... or that this is a high priority," he said.

In 1980, township voters approved one-half mill for 10 years for the construction of safety paths. One half mill is 50 cents for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

Voting against the motion were Stuart, Lutz and Trustee Daniel Travis. Voting to approve the path were Supervisor Frank Ronk, Clerk Richard Holman and trustees Carol Balzarini and William Vandermark.

Mel Vaara CHS principal

Mel LeRoy Vaara is the acting principal of Clarkston High School.

He moves to the high school to take over the duties of John Kirchgessner who was killed in a plane crash last week.

Vaara regularly holds the post of assistant superintendent for Clarkston schools and will resume that position once a full-time principal is hired this summer.

Superintendent Milford Mason said the move is a temporary one for Vaara, who started in the district in 1955 and has been assistant superintendent since 1976.

"We're hoping to have a new person selected by July 1," Mason said. "We'll post the job after spring break (March 27-April 7) and begin interviewing."

Vaara has previously worked as an elementary school teacher and principal of Sashabaw and Clarkston junior high schools during his tenure in the district.

Thendara Park signatures obtained

The required petition signatures for improving Thendara Park roads have been obtained, according to Independence Township Clerk Richard Holman.

After a brief discussion March 4, members of the township board agreed to seek opinions from the Oakland County Road Commission regarding the road improvement project.

Before proceeding, the township must learn what standards the county will accept, as road improvements must be made before they are turned over to the county for maintenance, Holman said.

Residents of the subdivision hope to have their roads converted from private to public status.

To do so, they had to have 51 percent of all the property owners and 51 percent of the property owners abutting the roads sign petitions.

They have been attempting to achieve that goal for several months.

Before construction can be undertaken, the board will seek to discover if there is a disparity between the roads as they exist and as they are platted, Holman said.

They also plan to obtain county standards for road widths on a street by street basis and drainage requirements, as they will affect the overall costs, he added.

Cost estimates for the project, including drainage improvements, curbing and blacktop are $1.5 million.

Mixed reactions: Liquor sales appear to be holding despite Michigan's Dram Shop Act

By Julie LePere

The Dram Shop Act has not affected liquor sales in many Clarkston area restaurants, but some local retail liquor stores have noticed a downward trend.

Steve Gabriel, manager of Nickelodean Country Store, said liquor sales are down. He found it difficult to pinpoint a reason.

"I don't know if it's the price increase or if people stored up more or if it's the weather," he said.

Gabriel, who also manages the Nickelodean Restaurant, said, "I don't know if it has affected restaurant sales as it has party sales. You have to be so much aware because liquor liability has become so big in our business."

Gabriel referred to the Michigan Dram Shop Act, which holds owners of liquor serving businesses responsible for customers who drink in their establishments.

Liquor, he said, "is a necessity, in a sense. It enhances your business. It draws customers. In the party store business, we would primarily be in trouble if we didn't sell liquor. We wouldn't have anything to draw the customers."

Paul Nicholas of Alexander's also noticed a trend toward less drinking.

"We're down a little bit," he said. "They (customers) order less (liquor), especially at lunch time. Beer and wine aren't too bad. The hard stuff, people are kind of pushing that away now."

"We're primarily a restaurant first and liquor second," he said.

Some restaurant owners and operators said liquor sales seem to be holding steady.

"Our business has been good," said Don Hayes, an owner of the Clarkston Cafe. "There's no figure to say (whether sales are down) in six months because we always sell more in the summer than in the winter. I'd say we haven't noticed any drop in (liquor) sales."

"We don't have that sort of people who drink a lot here. We cater to people who want good food. We serve 70 percent food and 30 percent liquor. It makes a difference," said Hayes.

The Back Court Restaurant in Deer Lake Racquet Club has not noticed decreased liquor sales, said Dan Hallman.

"I don't think (the Dram Shop Act) really has had a direct affect to the public," he said. "What it's done is the liability insurance has gone out of sight."

None of the restaurants surveyed said the Dram Shop Act has had a big effect on liquor business. Each business had already had a policy of watching to be sure that customers didn't drink too much.

Stores that sell over-the-counter packaged liquor also reported mixed conditions.

Liquor sales are normal, said Kerrie Doan of Wonder Drugs. "We seem to be selling a lot (of liquor)."

"I've been here six years. . . . The only time they're down right now is after the holidays. People usually buy a lot more for the holidays," she said. "I can't really say they're down at all."

Steve Mattia, manager of Dixie Party Store, agreed.

"I would say (liquor sales) are average. They're not up or down, they're just steady," he said. "The price increase last year affected (sales) in the beginning, but I would say they're back to normal now."

Other stores said sales were down.

Bob Bennett of Hallman Apothecary said sales are down, and have been "steadily decreasing over the last few years."

Bennett couldn't specify a reason for this, he said. "It seems to be a down time in the economy."

Liquor sales remain steady in area restaurants despite the Michigan Dram Shop Act. Some liquor stores have noticed a downward trend, but do not necessarily attribute it to the law. Liquor sales are usually slower during January, February and March and heavy during holidays.

Springfield site proposed for state prison

By Carolyn Walker

A 107-acre parcel of land in Springfield Township is on a current list of potential sites for a new state prison.

The property is owned by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) which was asked to make a list of all its vacant land in Oakland County that was not purchased by federal money, said Springfield Supervisor Collin Walls.

DNR land purchased by federal money is restricted to recreational use, according to Walls.

The site off Davisburg Road near Dilley Road was on the original prison-site list one to two years ago, he said, adding that it was discounted at that time.

"It's highly unlikely that there's enough solid ground in one spot that they could build a prison there," Walls said, adding that there are no sewer or water provisions in that area.

Of the 107 acres, there are approximately "25 acres of solid ground in three different spots," he said. "I'm not real concerned about putting a prison there."

The list has not yet been reviewed by the department of corrections, Walls added.

Last year, a potential prison site on Maybee Road in Independence Township was eliminated when Dr. James O'Neill purchased the property for a possible senior housing center.

Fire tanker, pickup crash injures driver

By Carolyn Walker

A collision between an Independence Township Fire Department water tanker and a pickup truck Monday morning put a quick stop to the tanker's efforts to assist at a White Lake Township building fire.

It also resulted in the injury of the truck driver, while two firefighters went uninjured.

The tanker, enroute to the fire from station 3 on

Maybe Road at 11:35 a.m., was broad-sided at Maybee and Sashabaw roads by a pickup driven by Kevin Rathbun, 31, of Walled Lake.

He was traveling northbound on Sashabaw and hit the driver's side of the tanker, said Oakland County Sheriff Deputy Kim Rossman, of the traffic division.

Rathbun, who had to be removed from his vehicle by township firefighters using a Hearst tool (a powerful tool that pulls away twisted metal), was transported to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

As of Tuesday morning he was still being treated in the emergency room. His condition was not available.

Rathbun was wearing his seatbelt and shoulder harness at the time of the accident and they likely prevented him from receiving serious injuries, Rossman said, comparing a collision with a tanker to a collision with a train.

The front end of Rathbun's truck, he added, was "wiped out."

Firefighters not involved in the accident were called to the scene to aid in his recovery from the vehicle.

Firefighters Dave Johnson, who was driving the tanker, and Dave Stover, his passenger, were uninjured in the accident, according to Assistant Fire Chief Gar Wilson.

The tanker, however, sustained serious damages and was unusable, Wilson said.

It was traveling with its lights and sirens on when the accident occurred, he said, describing it as the "newest tanker we had."

Wilson could not estimate the cost of repairing or replacing the tanker, which the township has owned since the spring of 1984.

An investigation into the accident is ongoing, Rossman said, as deputies believe Rathbun's vision may have been obstructed by vehicles parked at a vacant gas station at Maybee and Sashabaw.

Alcohol is not a factor in the accident, according to Rossman.

"Ironically, the man (Rathbun) sells fire extinguishers for a living," Rossman said, adding that he deals with many local fire departments. "What a way to make a customer."

ZBA to consider decision

By Carolyn Walker

A difference of opinion has put Harvey Render's proposed clothing store on hold.

Render, owner of the burned-out Harvey's Colonial House Restaurant on Dixie Highway and Independence Township building director, Kenneth Delbridge, disagree over the extent of damages the restaurant sustained in a May fire.

Render is taking the issue before the Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) on March 19.

There, he hopes ZBA members will over-turn a decision by Delbridge and issue a building permit, said his attorney Robert Rooyakker of Troy.

After viewing the ruins last year, Delbridge ruled the loss at more than 100 percent of the state equalized valuation (SEV), or $37,000.

Thus, as mandated in a township ordinance, Render is being required to go through the site plan process and update his plans to current zoning standards before reconstruction can begin.

Render, who intends to replace the restaurant with a clothing store, says the damages were not that extensive.

If the ZBA overturns Delbridge's decision,

Render would not have to obtain site plan approval from the planning commission and could reconstruct his building as it was, Rooyakker said.

But, if the ZBA upholds the decision, Render has the option to take the issue to circuit court, he added. Such a decision has not been made.

In reviewing the case recently, township attorney Gerald Fisher agreed with Delbridge's findings.

In a related matter, on Feb. 13, Render asked the planning commission to table action on his site plan just as they appeared ready to grant approval.

Render indicated he was in a hurry to begin reconstruction and said the site plan procedure had caused him unnecessary delays and expenses.

"I felt he placed me in the wrong category and he (Delbridge) disagrees," Render said. "We had a tragedy happen in our lives. I lost income."

His action took the planning commission by surprise.

"I'm totally shocked by all this," said Chairman Neil Wallace, in response to Render's allegations. "More likely than not, final site plan would have been granted tonight."

Following Render's request, the commission tabled action on his site plan.

Men bound over to circuit court

By Carolyn Walker

Two men involved in the alleged arson of a Brandon Township business face court dates in Oakland County Circuit Court this month.

Gary John Eynon, 45, the owner of Johnson's Sales at Sashabaw and Seymour Lake roads, has been bound over to circuit court on several charges.

The charges, stemming from the 1984 fire of a residence on his property, include a 20-year felony of conspiracy to commit arson, arson of a dwelling and false pretenses, said a spokesperson at 52nd District Court.

Eynon faced a preliminary exam before district court Judge Gerald McNally on Feb. 28.

He is to appear before circuit court Judge Alice Gilbert on March 13.

Eynon's business manager and alleged accomplice, Gregory Scott Brewer, 25, waived a preliminary exam before McNally on Feb. 28.

He faces multiple charges including conspiracy to commit false pretenses, a 10-year felony, and conspiracy to commit arson.

Brewer is to appear before circuit court Judge David Breck on March 20.

Brewer signed a $3,000 personal bond; while Eynon posted $10,000 bonds on all charges brought against him, the spokesperson said.

The charges against the men stem from an incidence in which a house at Johnson's Sales was burned, allegedly to obtain insurance money.

Brewer had lived in the residence until two weeks before the fire, when he moved across the street and the home's insurance coverage was increased by approximately $12,000.

Sign ordinance finally passed

By Carolyn Walker

After several trips before the Independence Township Board and Planning Commission, the issue of temporary signs has finally landed.

Members of the board voted March 3 to approve a re-worked version of a proposal which would limit the use of temporary signs, now called supplemental signs.

The purpose of the amendment is to eliminate unsightly signs and to make sure that they are not "loose" on property where they could obscure drivers' vision.

According to township attorney Gerald Fisher the new proposal will be easier to enforce.

It calls for accessory signs to be affixed to ground signs and to be incorporated into the total sign footage allowed to businesses, thus permitting changing messages.

The up-dated version was recommended by Fisher, who had previously told the board an amendment eliminating temporary signs might not be enforceable.

Originally, the planning commission had proposed eliminating all temporary signs except real estate signs which would be permitted for 90 days.

"This seems to be a good solution," Fisher said. Under the new ordinance, accessory signs must be affixed to ground signs and will require a special land use after approval by the planning commission.

The following regulations, as suggested in a letter from Fisher, were approved by the board:

- The total footage of a ground sign having two faces and incorporating a supplemental sign may not exceed 100 square feet.

- Also, a supplemental sign may not have a surface area exceeding six square feet for a single face or 12 square feet for two faces.

- Only one supplemental sign will be permitted with any ground sign.

- Plans must be submitted to the planning commission as proof that the supplemental sign will be secure.

Capital budget amended for '86

An amended 1986 capital budget of $310,000 was approved by the Independence Township Board March 4.

This is an increase from the former appropriations of $196,640.

The difference in figures reflects reserves of the general fund, said Clerk Richard Holman.

"Approving appropriations is not authority to spend," he added, reiterating some board members' contention that expenditures should be authorized by the board.

Board members approve the budget, but department heads must come before the board to get authorization to spend money over $1,000, he said.

The capital budget includes money for vehicles, equipment, land improvements and building improvements.

Mercy goodness

Carolyn Walker

As the inches of snow pile up on this cold, wintery Thursday, I find my thoughts turning to Mr. Pepper, Ford Motor executive, and his late-March, 1967 dip into frigid Sylvan Lake.

At the time, Mr. Pepper, my best friend's father, was out to show us teens the proper way to get into a homemade kayak.

He thought to impress us and paddle executive-style around the lake as the ice thawed, I think. Though he was never one for pretension.

Instead, he gave us a hearty, memorable laugh.

The previous summer, my friend and I had occupied our time by constructing two kayaks from pine frames, canvas and paint.

That March, as spring fever wore on, we hefted one of them onto our shoulders and lugged it down to the beach, where we spent a quiet morning re-acquainting ourselves with the lake that we so loved.

Peaceful memories of summer days we had shared together seemed to resurface with each stroke of our paddles.

As we finished our tour of the lake and docked the kayak, Mr. Pepper appeared asking for a turn.

We were agreeable.

He stooped down on the dock, grabbed the sides of the kayak securely and reminded us that the proper way to enter a kayak involves balancing one's self over the mid-section.

With that, he stuck a 43-year-old leg into the kayak, balanced, pulled in the other leg, and flipped.

It happened so fast, there was hardly time for the flip to register in our minds.

One minute Mr. Pepper was balancing. The next, he was gasping for air, surprised by the cold water.

Mr. Pepper then did what I call The Bald-Headed Bob.

He flailed his arms, spewed water, went under into the murky depths, planted his feet on to the muddy bottom and came up with his glasses teetering across his nose.

Mr. Pepper, a religious executive, did not believe in blaspheming. Between gulps, he cursed his dilemma with something on the order of "Mercy goodness."

As luck would have it, our mothers had joined us for the spectacle. They accompanied us in great gales of laughter as we watched from the dock. I admit ashamedly that no one bothered to lend a hand to the bobbing Mr. Pepper.

A man of insurmountable patience and undampened spirits (pun intended), Mr. Pepper finally righted himself in the water.

And, mustering what dignity he could, climbed out of the lake for the sloshy walk home. He may have removed his shoes.

Later that day, my friend and I returned to her home, where we felt an apology was in order.

Mr. Pepper had toweled off and his clothes were hanging about drying, mementos of the event.

Dollar bills from his wallet were laid out neatly on the kitchen table, wrinkled, dampened, but still spendable.

I think Mr. Pepper was just a little embarrassed, but we loved him for it.

Looking back, I realize now more than ever how my friendship with the Peppers enhanced my life.

They had a laid-back, casual, family style that was conducive to fun and laughter—executive or no.

It was good.

Up My Alley

What's wrong . . .

Dan Vandenhemel

What's wrong with athletes and people in general today?

A big push is on to eliminate drugs from society. Drug testing has been suggested for everyone from athletes to auto workers.

And can you believe there are people complaining about them? That it cuts into their privacy?

Some complaints say that management is trying to run the workers' lives.

What's wrong with these people?

Do they have something to hide?

Taking drugs is illegal. Who wants to drive a new car that could have been put together by someone flying on drugs or smashed on booze?

If I worked with machinery, I'd feel better knowing my co-workers were relatively drug-free.

My safety is more important than my entertainment. But the drug problem in professional sports really bothers me.

Just in the first two months of the year, baseball, basketball and football have all had their troubles concerning drugs. Hockey either doesn't have a problem or they keep it very quiet.

Athletes explain that the pressures to perform or the rigors of travel wear on the body and soul.

Did they ever try working for a living?

They play games and make millions of dollars. Most players actually do work to be the best they can be.

Only a select few can stand in against a pitcher and hit a baseball thrown at 90 mph.

Not many men can float in the air and shove a basketball and most of their arm through a hoop 10 feet off the ground.

There aren't many people who can take being pounded to a pulp on a football field.

Yet a few of them feel it's necessary to pop a pill, swig a bottle or snort a line.

Athletes are in the entertainment business. Fans expect to be entertained by athletes who give everything they have.

If there were mandatory drug testing in sports, I'd feel better when an athlete makes a mistake.

Mistakes are part of being human and being able to perform is what makes any sport fascinating.

I'd rather know a shortstop is straight when he boots a ground ball.

Drug testing may not eliminate the problem but it will reduce it.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

Two weeks ago I wrote of the dilemma that had arisen in our family concerning child neglect vs kidnapping. Was it child neglect for our daughter to leave her child with his grandparents over an extended period, or was the grandchild kidnapped by keeping him over an extended period?

Answerers were to respond to "no one cares but grandpa." One response came from Bob MacDonald, publisher of the Gratiot County Herald in Ithaca.

He wrote: "My suggestion, as a grandparent seven times over, with a couple more on the way, is to postpone your decision on child neglect or kidnapping.

"Give him time and he'll see very little nap time. You'll be entertaining and feeding and entertaining and changing diapers.

"By the time the parents return, you'll have his diaper bag all packed and he'll be all ready for his homeward trip.

"Both you and grandma Hazel will collapse in your favorite resting position, discuss how quiet the house seems, and then express the hope that your grandchild will make another visit soon, because there is nothing that compares with the love between grandparents and grandchildren.

"The voice of grandparental experience."
MacDonald is just enough older than everyone else I know that I believe him.

And this:

"The charge: Baby hogging. Gaining custody of small child through manipulative maneuvers.

This is a minor misdemeanor. Repeat offenders (always grandparents) are punished by strict visitation privileges. When accompanied with the crime of unasked-for advice giving, visitation can be evoked.

Custodial parents: Be wary of these phrases: "What could go wrong? Go, have a good time," "I raised you didn't I?," "Take him out of that nice warm bed into that night air? He'll catch his death!"

These are said in an attempt to make you feel insecure about your inexperience in order that the baby-hogger appears to know what's best for your child and this criminal's "will be done" . . . he/she has gained control.

Be gentle, however, this is truly a crime of passion. Love for a baby can cause even the most accommodating, understanding people to go to extreme measures in order to hold on a wee bit longer.

Knowingly yours, Jill Burstein
Auburn-Hills

PS: I am an experienced mother of four, a 10-year-old, 3-year-old and 18-month-old twins. I have had three sets of grandparents baby-hog, with the exception of colicky periods when they just gave advice. But grandparents are great to have around as long as you understand the internal workings, what makes them tick.

Henry Ford Florida connection

Your recent articles in The Clarkston News of Henry Ford's "Clarkston Connection" moves one to add another bit of history about that remarkable man.

Likely few people in Clarkston know that Ford's winter home was here in Fort Myers, Fla. The Ford home is next to Fort Myers best know tourist attraction, the winter home and laboratory of Thomas Alva Edison.

The Ford home is still standing and is used as a residence. Annually it is opened to the public for a short period of time.

Ford and Edison met during a dinner held in New York in 1896. Over the years the two men became close friends.

In 1914 Edison invited Ford to visit him at his Fort Myers home. This led to Ford purchasing the house next door.

Ford, Edison and another famous American, Harvey Firestone, shared many experiences together during the ensuing years.

One more example of where Henry's varied interest and activities affected the lives of U.S. citizens all the way from Clarkston to about as far south as one can go in this nation.

Inspiration and ideals of Kirchgessner

The phone rang again. "Carol! This is Jan (Gabier). We lost him!"

Thus was the death of John Kirchgessner summed up in one succinct sentence by a most insightful person.

"We lost him!" A wife lost a cherished husband. Two young children lost a caring father. Teachers lost a trusted and respected principal. Clarkston lost a vibrant community leader.

But there could never be a loss of such a person with accompanying gains.

We know that his wife and children have gained by sharing his fulfilling life and love.

We believe that educators have gained a renewed inspiration to instill in students the excitement of developing their God-given talents.

We hope that students can gain an enhanced understanding of what their lives can become.

We pray that Clarkston can assume the responsibilities to carry on the ideals that a John Kirchgessner inspires.

Thank you, Jan, for being to perceptive.

Things to think about

Jim Fitzgerald

State Sen. Vern Ehlers, R-Grand Rapids, recently said smoking is like spitting — "it is reaching the point where it is becoming socially unacceptable."

It is easy to quit spitting. I've done it thousands of times.

Because of my wife, I often have to sneak a spit. She thinks it is disgusting to spit unless you're brushing your teeth. But sometimes I get an uncontrollable urge to spit when I am miles away from my toothbrush.

If this happens when we're outdoors, I walk to the nearest curb. She asks what I'm doing, and I have to admit I'm spitting in the street. Which, naturally, reminds me of the rock song "Dancing in the Street."

Some people at radio stations WMJC-FM and WHND-AM wrote a parody on "Dancing in the Street" called "Hiding at the DAC." It has been recorded by Martha Peeved and the Vendettas and include these lines: "Sign right up, pay your dues. Just don't wear high-heeled shoes."

The song also says that women, by being barred from membership in the Detroit Athletic Club, miss out on laughing and swearing and toupee wearing, cigar smoking and sexist joking.

Which, naturally, reminds me that I smoke cigars, but that's not why I spit. I only smoke about one cigar a week because these days it is hard to find any place where cigars are socially acceptable. I spit a lot more than that.

I quit smoking cigarettes 33 years ago, when the U.S. Surgeon General was still in ROTC. I'm convinced that cigarettes can kill you, but I don't feel the same way about cigars. After all, the law says we must wear seat belts in cars, but not in busses.

Think about it.

According to my social director, with whom I sleep, cigars are not socially acceptable in our home, our car or my work place. She is never in my work place, but she insists that I should be considerate of the people who do work near me because many of them are joggers. I go along with this because I realize that secondhand smoke might make a jogger too unhealthy to jog on the street and get hit by a car.

So when I want a cigar, I must go to a smoky saloon already filled with social outcasts. I can't smoke outdoors because the only time I'm outdoors is when I'm walking to work. I don't like to walk and smoke at the same time for fear people will think I'm showing off my college education.

I never chew tobacco, which is the best reason for spitting. During my youth, I worked in a poolroom, and my duties included cleaning the spittoons. Yech. Ever since, I've realized that the manufacturers of artificial turf should be able to vote on which players are enshrined in Baseball's Hall of Fame. It would be a way to say thank you for killing all that grass.

Anyway, my wife and I have had much more success curtailing my smoking than my spitting. Occasionally I've cut back to only three spits a day, after meals. I've attended group therapy sessions ("My name is Jim and I'm a spitter") and I've seen blood-chilling movies of what happens when spit becomes slobber.

However, nothing works for long. The uncontrollable urge to spit always returns. This is something for Sen. Ehlers to consider. He wants a law passed that would make smoking as socially unacceptable as spitting.

But there are some things that voters just won't swallow.

Think about it.

Congratulations to the Clarkston Competitive Guard on winning first place in their division on Saturday in Bridgeport and on Sunday in Rochester.

This is Clarkston's first year of winter guard competition after a complete dissolution several years ago. The group has all new members, with partial funding from the Clarkston Band Boosters.

The staff consists of Cheryl Girard, equipment and creative movement; and John Freel, marching and maneuvering.

The 12 members are Kristi Bas, Laurie Francisco, Kelsey Harmon, Chris Johnson, Kandy Karvala, Julie Kidd, Stephanie Millis, Kenlea Pebbles, Jackie Peca, Michelle Poole, Kristen Ried, Jennifer Woolfenden.

Their show this year has a distinct theatrical flavor with Andrew Lloyd Weber musical selections from Starlight Express and Cats.

Future competitions will be on March 15 in Mt. Morris; March 16 in Mt. Clemens; and March 23, the state finals in Flint.

"I couldn't believe my eyes!"

Mrs Julia Foster of Oxford talks about her cataract surgery and the Lapeer Eye Clinic.

"I get so mad at myself when I think how long I went around half-blind from a cataract because I was scared of surgery. But finally things got so bad I made an appointment at the Lapeer Eye Clinic.

"Smartest thing I ever did!

"First off they picked me up in a nice new van. No charge. Courtesy of the clinic. Then when Dr Sole and his people talked to me, they made me feel easy about the operation. I got the feeling they really cared about me.

"The day of the operation — well, Dr Sole was so kind — and it all went so quick. The cataract was gone and the implant in place in about 25 minutes. Hardly felt a thing. And the van had me home in time for lunch.

"Just a few days later I couldn't believe my eyes! Everything was so clear. It was like a miracle.

"My Medicare took care of the whole thing except for a few dollars, and they even filled out the forms."

Gary Sole, MD, founder and director of the Lapeer Eye Clinic specializes in cataract removal and lens implant surgery. That's why Mrs. Foster's experience was such a happy one. Her experience is typical.

You'll get the same warm, personal care whether you need a pair of reading glasses or contact lenses . . . treatment for glaucoma or cosmetic eye surgery or any other eye care. Because the Lapeer Eye Clinic is a complete eye clinic participating fully with Medicare and other major medical plans.

Two amendments have first readings

The look of Independence Township is going to change following the first readings of two ordinance amendments last Tuesday.

At their March 4 meeting, members of the township board unanimously approved new guidelines for ground signs and landscaping.

The new ground sign rule will mandate that the signs be no higher than six feet tall. This is a 14-foot reduction from the current 20-foot requirement.

In addition, before voting to adopt a new landscaping amendment, the board listened to comments from an area landscaper.

Tom Lowery, of Lowery Landscaping, requested that the board not require businesses to seek the opinions of landscape architects as proposed.

He said it would add to customer costs and force him, and other landscapers, to hire landscape architects. The cost would then be charged to customers, he said.

He also asked them to reduce the mandatory sizes of some plants from 24-30 inches to 18-24 inches.

The board amended the plant sizes as requested, but denied a change in the landscape architect language after listening to an opinion from planning commissioner Joseph Figa.

Figa said developers frequently come before the commission with poorly drawn landscape plans and the misuse of plants.

A landscape architect requirement would help alleviate this problem and eventual expenses, he said. "Our intent was not to add (another) burden," Figa said.

Both amendments, as proposed by the planning commission, were unanimously approved at their first reading.

They must be published and voted on a second time at a future meeting to become effective.

Man sentenced in accident

Kim Beaumont, a Keego Harbor resident, pleaded guilty to charges of felonious driving and being a habitual offender in Oakland County Circuit Court on Feb. 18, according to assistant county prosecutor Greg Townsend.

The charges against Beaumont stemmed from a July 4, 1985 accident in which Andrew Balzarini, 19, son of Independence Township Trustee Carol Balzarini, was injured. His father is Donald Balzarini, coach of the Clarkston High School ski team.

Appearing before circuit court Judge Hilda Gage, Beaumont was sentenced Feb. 24 to one year in the county jail, three years probation, a $600 fine and court costs.

He was also told that he could not have alcohol or visit establishments that serve alcohol as the accident was alcohol-related, Townsend said.

Since the accident, Balzarini has had a remarkable recovery, said his mother.

Though he wears a stainless steel rod in his leg, he is able to ski and is considering joining the professional skiing tour, she said.

At the time of the accident which happened on Clarkston Road near Sashabaw Road, Balzarini's passenger John Robenault sustained minor injuries.

Beaumont was uninjured in the accident.

Department heads get raises

Department heads and deputies in Independence Township are scheduled to receive two-and-one-half-percent wage increases.

The raises were approved in a 5-2 vote of the township board March 4.

The employees in line for the raises include assessor David Kramer, building and planning director Kenneth Delbridge, department of public works director George Anderson, parks and recreation director Timothy Doyle, fire chief Dale Bailey and library director James Hibbler, who currently earn $32,500 per year.

The finance director, deputy treasurer, deputy clerk and deputy supervisor are to receive comparable pay increases as well.

But, amid some disparity as to whether or not all department heads should earn the same amount, the salaries and benefits of the non-union employees may be evaluated by the township compensation committee.

The five-member compensation committee will be asked to look at non-union wages and benefits just as they did those of elected officials last December, said Clerk Richard Holman. They will then be asked to make recommendations.

Treasurer John Lutz and Trustee Dale Stuart voted against the increases.

Raises should be dependent on merit, responsibilities and length of employment, said Treasurer John Lutz, explaining his reason for the no vote after the meeting.

The pay raises are to become effective with the next payroll period.

Voting to approve the raises were Supervisor Frank Ronk, Holman, and trustees Carol Balzarini, William Vandermark and Daniel Travis.

Fifteen-year-old Todd Guerin installed and modified this wood burning stove which supplied all of this winter's heat for his family's Independence Township home.

Todd heats home with wood stove

By Julie LePere

Todd Guerin has always enjoyed tinkering with things.

"When I was little I used to take things apart to see how they worked, but I never could get them back together," said Todd.

That isn't the case any more. The 15-year-old Independence Township resident now has many successful tinkering adventures behind him.

In the past year, Todd bought, installed and modified a used wood burning stove.

"It's a furnace add-on," said Todd, who connected it to the chimney and furnace and performed the necessary wiring to allow heat to travel through the registers of every room in the house.

"We don't have any heating bill at all except for the electricity it takes to run the fans on the back of it," he said.

So far this winter, the stove has used 10 cords of wood, which Todd chopped himself.

"I like to do stuff like that, do it yourself," said Todd. "I learned to do it myself by my own mistakes."

The creosote build up is something all wood burning stove owners should watch, said Todd. "On mine, I've got it so you can (easily) check the pipes and empty them."

Todd has been tinkering for many years.

"I used to have a go-cart in grade school and I think it started with that."

Other mechanical accomplishments include rebuilding his three-wheeler, the family tractor, and various motors for his friends.

The son of Dennis Guerin of Gingellville and Sue and Larry Holler of Independence Township, Todd is considering a career in landscaping.

He is enrolled in Donna McCall's landscaping class at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center, as well as other classes at Clarkston High School.

Lifting pounds, funds

The strong armed souls will be taking over the Clarkston High School gym for the 6th Annual Lift-a-Thon.

The event is set for March 14 at 7 p.m.

All proceeds will go to the weight lifting room and first aid room.

In the first five years, thousands of dollars have come in through pledges to help the facility.

The weight lifters from the high school, Clarkston Junior High and Sashabaw Junior High along with alumni of CHS will be competing for trophies.

Wolves are district champions

It took three overtimes, excellent bench help and a little luck but the Clarkston Wolves captured the district basketball championship.

The Wolves beat Pontiac Northern, 77-73 in triple overtime on March 8 at Waterford Mott.

The title game decided the season series between the teams. Clarkston Coach Dan Fife decided to make a line-up switch and that was a big part of the game.

Steve Secatch started in place of Keith Mercier. Mercier's talent is defense and running the offense from the point guard position. Secatch, at 6-foot-6 and 205 pounds takes up a lot of space under the basket. Fife said he wanted to put a bigger team on the floor for the game because of Northern's size.

"They start a bigger line-up," Fife said. "Secatch played a great game. All the kids did. Keith came off the bench and did what he was asked. They all did."

Neither team trailed by more than five points.

Regulation ended in a 57-57 tie. The three-minute overtime sessions ended at 62-62 and 68-68 before the Wolves pulled away.

Now at 21-2, Clarkston was led by Ed Whitaker with 28 points, Dan Jokisch with 16, Secatch with 11 and Mike Walters with 10.

Secatch pushed the game into overtime with 17 seconds left in regulation. He tossed in a layup and was fouled. After calmly netting the free throw, he received a thunderous ovation from the bleachers.

Fife said the victory wasn't just a good one for the team but was a good one for the community as well.

"Clarkston is a basketball town," he said. "They've always followed the team. They've always supported the basketball program."

The Wolves go on to play defending state champions Flint Northwestern in the opening round of the regionals March 12 at Flint Central High School at 7 p.m.

Fife told the team in the lockerroom after the Huskie game that they have a chance to win in Flint if they play with the intensity they did against Pontiac Northern.

"Playing a team like Pontiac has to help us going up to Flint," Fife said.

The Clarkston Wolves grabbed the district championship for the first time in three years with a 77-73, triple overtime victory over Pontiac Northern.

Dan Jokisch did his part to help the Wolves increase their record to 21-2.

Wolverines down Cougars

By Dan Vandenhemel

The game was closer but the result was the same, the Wolverines beat the Cougars in boys' basketball.

The Clarkston Junior High Wolverines rolled past Sashabaw Junior High, 52-38, March 3 at the Clarkston High School.

The Wolverines took the first meeting of the two schools 53-24 back in December. The Wolverines ended their season with an 8-11 mark while the Cougars ended at 0-18.

Cougar coach John Zittle said he was disappointed about the record but not by the play of the team.

"Most of the teams we played had more experience," he said. "We talked about it since the start of the year. I'm not looking for excuses but just being realistic. I can't get down on the kids for working hard and trying. They did that most of the year."

After losing by 29 the first time around to the Wolverines and then by 14 this time, Zittle commented on how far the team has advanced.

"Obviously we wanted to win some games," he said. "We were working to improve and we did."

Bill Larkin led the Cougars with 14 points and B.J. Wood had six.

For the Wolverines, Scott Weeks tallied 16, Alex Menzies hit 11 and Darin Brandt scored eight.

Brandt received most of the raves from coach Dave Smith after the Sashabaw encounter. Besides the eight points, he had 11 assists, eight steals and five rebounds.

"He had one of the best all-around games I've seen," Smith said. "He was all over the floor. It was fun watching him out there."

The improvement of the Wolverines was a focal point for Smith.

"How I measure the success of the season is how well you play at the end," Smith said. "We won four of the last five games and three in a row. We played pretty well at the end."

The Seer

The Seer continues to plop his predictions through the mail slot of the Clarkston News on Monday mornings.

Clarkston versus Flint Northwestern at Flint Central, March 12—The Seer stubs his toe in the district final not expecting a three-point play by Steve Secatch in THE final minuteS. But looking forward, the Seer has an excellent prediction for Wednesday's game.

Flint Northwestern has won the last two Class A state titles. Although losing a lot through graduation, Northwestern still won 19 out of 20 games this year. They are led by Iowa-bound Anthony Pendleton.

Pendleton is probably the purest shooter in the state averaging 22 points a game, many from long range.

Kevin Rice complements Pendleton well at the guard position.

Watch for a close game for the first 12 minutes, then Flint to pull away nearing halftime. Flint Northwestern by 15.

Cobane wins Michigan duck stamp contest

By Julie LePere

Artist Russell Cobane took top prize on Feb. 22 in the 1986 Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) waterfowl hunting stamp contest.

Cobane, an Independence Township resident, also placed third in the trout-salmon competition.

His winning painting of goldeneye ducks will be made into stamps to be purchased by approximately 60,000 waterfowl hunters and collectors. Also, limited edition prints will be sold.

Cobane competed with 87 other artists for the winning stamp design. Hunters will receive the stamp when they purchase their licenses.

Cobane spends most of his time painting commercially, so painting wildlife is attractive to him.

"When I do create (wildlife), it makes me feel like I'm in the outdoors," he said. "It's relaxing, too, not a lot of stress."

A graduate from the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, he prepares for each painting by photographing animals in their natural habitat, studying books of anatomy, and paying close attention to detail.

"I've got a lot of books on anatomy because the camera can't capture it all," he said.

According to Cobane, the DNR contest is prestigious because of the tough competition and demand from galleries. Collectors collect the stamps and prints driving up their value.

"Minnesota and Michigan are probably the top in the country as far as artists go," said Cobane. "Judging (in Michigan) is tough. They're usually experts in the field."

The entries are judged on anatomy, visual impact and the situation or habitat.

"I get to be a judge next year. When you win, you automatically get to be a judge. I can't enter a duck stamp competition in Michigan for two years," Cobane said.

Cobane uses opaque watercolor and oils and some acrylics in his work, and he participates in about a dozen shows per year, in and out of state.

Other recent honors belonging to Cobane are Michigan Ducks Unlimited Artist of the Year for 1985-86 and National Wildlife Federation Wildlife Conservation Stamp Print of the Year for 1986.

His works are exhibited at the Aura Fine Art store on Main Street in Clarkston.

This painting of a pair of common goldeneyes brought Russell Cobane top honors in the Michigan Department of Natural Resources duck stamp design contest in February.

Skier proves self at State

By Bob Walters
Special to the Clarkston News

Despite snow on the ground and frozen lakes, Clarkston resident Todd Thompson is preparing for an upcoming year of competitive water skiing.

Thompson, 21, a member of the Michigan State University water skiing team, is looking forward to competing this spring in the mid-western regional tournament and the nationals next fall.

Thompson is a 1982 graduate of Clarkston High School and is already a veteran of three national competitions.

The national competition brings together the two top scoring schools from each of six regions. MSU is in the midwest region.

Since the competitions aren't sanctioned by the NCAA, professional skiers are allowed to participate.

Todd said the amateur athlete is at a disadvantage because of the financial obligations and training obstacles he faces.

This past fall, Thompson placed 14th overall at the nationals in Alabama.

An overall ranking is given only to those participants who compete in all three tournament events. They are slalom, distance jumping and trick-skiing.

Thompson's best event is trick-skiing. At a competition, a participant is given 20 seconds to perform as many tricks as possible. He is judged on the number of non-repetitive tricks completed and the difficulty of those tricks.

Thompson averages 12 tricks in the allotted 20 seconds, but in the nationals he completed 14.

His favorite trick is the "wake-540" which is one-and-one-half twirling rotations in the air after jumping off the wake the boat creates.

He also performs a "wake-line-O 360" which is one rotation in the air off the wake while holding the rope with his foot.

Thompson also competes in the other two events, slalom and distance jumping. He especially enjoys jumping and last year he jumped 115 feet at the nationals.

It was distance jumping, however, that led to his only water-skiing-related injury.

Last year during a jump, he lost control and traveled 100 feet before striking the water head first. He dislocated three vertebrae in his neck, but was back soon after.

Thompson is vice president of the MSU water skiing club. The club has 120 members and is open to anyone. Tryouts are required to make the traveling team.

There are only eight members on the men's team and they represent the school in competitions.

The team is partially subsidized by the student organization, ASMSU. They are given money for lodging, van rental and team entry fees.

The competition boat they use in practice is donated by American Skier. However, each member must pay for his or her own transportation costs.

The last three national competitions have been held in Louisiana, California and Alabama.

The team practices daily from the start of April when the average water temperature is 38 degrees until November.

The winter is a disadvantage to northern teams because it limits practice time. The southern teams have a great advantage because they can practice and compete all year round, Thompson said.

Because of the amount of time the sport demands in the fall and in the spring, Thompson said he takes a lighter academic load to keep his grades up.

Todd Thompson makes the cut for the ski team at Michigan State University.

Thompson began water skiing when he was 6-years-old. He was able to slalom when he was 7 and he could barefoot ski when he was 10. He spent many summers skiing at his family's cabin on Secord Lake near Gladwin.

When Thompson was 13, he began to take the sport seriously. He entered a novice tournament and won.

He then started competing in weekend tournaments in Michigan where he earned the rank of master, the second highest that can be achieved.

Thompson, a senior at MSU, is majoring in mechanical engineering. He is an avid bow hunter and enjoys racquetball and weight lifting.

In addition, he takes classes in gymnastics which help to improve the coordination and balance essential for water skiing.

After graduation, Thompson plans to work in the automotive industry or a related field.

As to a professional career in water skiing he said, "It's always been a dream of mine. I know it's not realistic, but I've thought about it many times."

Ups & downs

Rachel Gianakos

Birthday musings

Recently I had a birthday which made me think of all my past birthdays and things that happened to me when I was younger.

For my fourth birthday, my mom and dad gave me a party, but the day before, my mom and I spent the whole day cleaning the house.

During the party, we played dumb little kid games like musical chairs, but my mom would never let me win a prize.

I remember opening my favorite present which was an electrical train set, and I still have it.

When I got older, my sister and one of her friends used to pick on me and my friends because we were younger.

When we were 7 years old, they used to tell us we couldn't walk down the path to the woods because we had to be 8 years old or a man would kill us because we weren't big enough to get away.

So my birthday was important, but every year, they raised the age.

Now I like to go shopping for my birthday, and celebrate with my friends. And I can't wait until I'm 16 and I can get my driver's license.

Rachel Gianakos, a ninth-grader at Sashabaw Junior High School, is working with The Clarkston News this school year through the SJHS mentorship program.

Parents of teens to talk

When your teen says, "Everybody's going to that concert, Mom," what do you do?

One option might be to talk it over with other parents. A new parents' group at Clarkston High School is designed to afford that opportunity.

"I think parents are faced all the time with the pressures kids put on them, and I think kids are becoming experts at keeping their parents from other parents," says Katie MacKay, a CHS teacher and co-sponsor of the SEARCH program at CHS with teacher Lane Smith.

The parents' group meets the first and third

Wednesdays each month at 7 p.m. in Room 232 at CHS.

Its purpose is to offer information about adolescent development and the pressures involved with substance abuse.

In past meetings, topics of discussion have included seniors going to Florida over spring break, curfews, and how to determine if a child is heavily involved with substance abuse.

"It's to offer support through other parents to deal with these (types of) issues," says MacKay.

For more information, call MacKay or Smith at the high school at 625-0900.

Kay Ellis

Everyone has undoubtedly heard about the two illnesses that strike in the dead of winter—the winter blahs and cabin fever.

There seems to be no escape from them. We all get them to a certain extent.

For me, the winter blahs usually set in during the month of February.

It seems that it has struck other U of D students at about the same time. We are all walking around school trying to think of new and different things to do to break up our days.

Another symptom of the winter blahs is complaints about anything and everything. We gripe about the copy machines being out of toner, homework, and how time is going by much too slowly.

The other winter illness we combat is cabin fever. Most of us only go to school, work and home in the winter.

You get to the point where you just have to get away and go some place different—even if it is just to a shopping mall.

There are a couple of ways U of D students are fighting these common ailments.

One way is to go out on Thursday night and have a good time with our friends.

Another way is having public relations come out from the main campus and take pictures of our campus for a new brochure.

But the one I favor the most (and I am sure most students do) is the annual tradition of spring break.

Kay Ellis is a freshman attending the University of Detroit Clarkston Campus at the Colombiere Center in Springfield Township. She resides in Lake Orion.

Spring buffet

A Think Spring Buffet scheduled at the Northwest Inn on March 14 has been cancelled and re-scheduled for March 21.

The cancellation was caused by icy conditions on back roads.

Featured at the buffet will be prime rib and a whole roasted pig along with many salads and elegant desserts.

The cost of the luncheon, prepared by students at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center, is $6.35-per-person, plus tax.

Reservations are required due to limited seating and may be made by calling 625-5202.

The Northwest Inn is located off Dixie Highway at 8211 Big Lake Road, Springfield Township.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE

NOTICE OF PROPOSED ZONING ORDINANCE AMENDMENTS

At a regularly scheduled meeting of March 4, 1986, the Township Board of the Charter Township of Independence introduced amendments to the following sections of the Township Zoning Ordinance No. 83, as amended:

Sections 3.01; 5.04

The proposed zoning ordinance amendments pertain to supplemental ground signs.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS OF TEMPORARY SIGN PROVISIONS OF ZONING ORDINANCE

PART I OF AMENDMENT, SECTION 3.01

Section 3.01 shall be amended by deleting subparagraph 7 under the definition of sign, and replacing such subparagraph with the following:

7. Supplemental ground sign. An accessory sign affixed to a ground sign, intended to be used for communicating messages anticipated to be changed or removed from time-to-time.

PART II OF AMENDMENT, SECTION 5.04.

Section 5.04.3.e shall be amended by deleting subparagraph e in its entirety and replacing such subparagraph with the following:

e. "Supplemental ground sign". Supplemental ground signs shall be permitted as a special land use after review and approval by the planning commission subject to the standards of Section 5.15, and subject to the following requirements:

1. The total square footage of the supplemental ground sign shall be included within the allocation of signage for the ground sign, if any, on the property, thus, the total surface area of a ground sign having two faces and the supplemental ground sign shall not exceed 100 square feet, and, in all events, a supplemental ground sign shall not have a surface area exceeding six square feet for a single face sign and 12 square feet for a two face sign.

2. There shall be only one supplemental ground sign erected accessory to any ground sign.

3. The plans submitted to the planning commission shall demonstrate that the supplemental ground sign shall be securely affixed to the ground sign, either permanently or in such a manner that the wind, elements, and other reasonably anticipated instrumentalities, would not be expected to dislodge the supplemental ground sign from the ground sign.

4. The plan submitted to the planning commission shall demonstrate that all parts, including any interchangeable parts, shall be secure and not expected to be unintentionally dislodged.

The proposed zoning ordinance amendment will be voted on, on March 18, 1986, at the Township Hall Annex, 90 North Main, Clarkston, MI. A complete copy of the proposed text amendment is available at the Clerk's Office, 90 North Main, Clarkston, MI, Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Respectfully Submitted,

What does alcohol actually do to the liver?

Dear Cat Paw:

I take speed a lot. Can a doctor or someone tell by tests if you've taken speed?

User

Dear User:

Yes, the exact amount of amphetamine in the body can be measured by a urine or blood sample.

Dear Cat Paw:

Why are needles faster than taking a pill?

Just Wondering

Dear Just Wondering:

I think you mean, why are the effects of an injected drug quicker than taking a pill?

Not counting the dangers of a dirty needle passing diseases, etc., the only difference between taking a tablet and injecting the drug is that the tablet must pass through the stomach and intestines before it reaches the bloodstream.

An injected drug enters the bloodstream directly. Once it enters the bloodstream, it moves about basically the same way, regardless of how it was taken.

Dear Cat Paw:

What does alcohol actually do to the liver when it gets cirrhosis?

Drinker

Dear Drinker:

When the liver is forced to metabolize large, excessive amounts of alcohol, it also produces fat which soon begins to build up.

When the drinker has downed even a few drinks, fat accumulates in the liver. If heavy drinking continues, the fat buildup continues, producing a fat-laden, enlarged liver.

In about 15 percent of heavy drinkers, this fatty buildup leads eventually to scarring and the destruction of healthy liver cells, thus producing a small, rock-hard liver.

This deterioration is called cirrhosis of the liver, a disease which is often fatal. It is also in sixth place overall in the United States today as a cause of death caused by heavy drinking of alcohol.

Dear Cat Paw:

Why are you guys trying to ruin our fun? Why can't we drink when our parents let us at parties?

CHS Students

Dear Students:

No drinking under legal age is acceptable. It is illegal and it is unhealthy.

For many American teenagers today, this comes as a rude and unwelcome shock. They consider alcohol a normal rite of passage into early and middle adolescence.

Nevertheless, we need an all-out, family based effort to stop teenage alcohol use. The most important means to achieve this goal is the re-education of parents and teachers who, along with our youth, have come to accept teenage drinking as inevitable and normal.

I do not feel we or anyone should accept the death of an American teenager every 21 minutes as inevitable and normal. (Those are the statistics.)

Prevent Colds & Infections With Vitamin C

Vitamin C can help defend us against viruses and bacteria, plus reduce the symptoms and duration of any infection. Some animals produce Vitamin C internally, in the liver or kidneys although humans do not. The amount of Vitamin C found in the average diet is nowhere near the amount we require for optimal health. If we attempted to obtain all our C from dietary sources we would quickly consume enough calories to make us obese.

Dr. Pauling recommends that all adults take a preventive dose of 10 grams (10,000 milligrams) of Vitamin C daily. In his research, Dr. Pauling has discovered that high doses of C could destroy harmful microbes. Vitamin C comes in tablets, capsules, crystals and liquid form. We carry all kinds. Natural sources of Vitamin C are, tomatoes, citrus fruits, rose hips, corn, broccoli, etc.

Special in more ways than one

It's hard to catch up with Katie MacKay, but the effort is worth it.

Katie is in her 10th year of teaching secondary emotionally impaired students, the last three years at Clarkston High School.

She works half time as a special education teacher and half time as SEARCH coordinator.

The appearance of David Toma in the spring of 1985 generated her interest in what has become the SEARCH Program (Support Educational Awareness, Resources Chemical-free Health).

She believes one of the dangers in the use of chemical substances is the fact that they mask feelings, usually of a negative sort and not due to chemical dependency, which the young person must learn to deal with.

This includes feelings related to emerging independence, sexuality and, of course, academic and career-related concerns. She views the program as long-term and stresses that almost daily the need for such a program is made manifest.

Katie MacKay enjoys giving her students new experiences and, in turn, feels that she is always learning from them.

Katie thinks of herself as having been quite ordinary. She grew up in Farmington Hills and graduated from high school there.

She then graduated from Central Michigan

University, Mt. Pleasant, with a psychology minor but prepared to teach emotionally impaired students.

She has completed 19 hours at Wayne State University, Detroit, toward a master's degree in guidance and counseling.

The stories of her mother, a psychiatric nurse, plus her own background in psychology together with the job market propelled Katie into the field of special education.

She enjoys giving her students new experiences and, in turn, feels that she is always learning from them.

She is a strong believer in intuition, almost a prerequisite when dealing with other humans, she believes.

Katie enjoys the single life-style. She has close relationships with siblings and a niece and nephew who live in Saginaw. Her grandmother, a Gaylord resident, is an important person to her.

An Ortonville resident, Katie shares a lakeside apartment with a small menagerie. Racquetball, jogging, cross country skiing, piano playing and reading are all activities which occupy her.

One week night finds her teaching psychology at the Detroit School of Business and another finds her teaching oral communication, an adult education course, at Clarkston High School.

Fashion is fun for Katie. She is usually seen with the latest "look," skirt length, etc.

Katie is a special teacher in more ways than one.

An Apple for the Teacher is provided through a committee of the Clarkston Education Association.

This week's author is Dorothy Leaming, a school social worker.

Cook up cash in beef contest

Your favorite beef dish could be worth cash.

The first step is to send a typed copy of your best beef recipe to: Michigan Beef Cook-Off, 815 Coolidge Rd., No. 307, Lansing, MI 48912.

Include your name, address, phone number and a brief statement about the origin of your recipe. The deadline is April 1.

If your recipe is chosen as a state finalist, you will compete in the state cook-off May 3 in Okemos. The first-place winner will represent Michigan at the National Beef Cook-Off, Sept. 14-16, in Dearborn.

Prizes at the national level are: first place, $5,000; second place, $2,500; third place, $1,000; and five honorable mentions, $300 each.

All recipes must contain a minimum of one pound of beef and not more than five, and each serving must contain at least three ounces of cooked beef. Meat used must be exclusively beef.

Cooking time cannot exceed four hours. The recipe must be specific, with no use of brand names, and must state the number of servings and approximate preparation time.

Recipes are judged according to taste, ease of preparation and practicality, originality and appearance.

All entries become the property of the American National CowBelles Inc., the national contest sponsors with the Beef Industry Council of the Meat Board.

Contestants must be 18 years or older, with non-professional food status. Any person who has owned one or more head of beef or dairy cattle, or who lives in a household where any person has owned cattle the 12 months preceding Oct. 1, 1986, is ineligible.

Also ineligible are CowBelles and employees of state beef councils or the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Optimists sponsor speech contest

Now is the time for young people to get up and tell the world what they think.

An oratorical contest, open to all students in Waterford and Clarkston schools who are under 16 years of age, is being conducted by the Optimist Club of Waterford Township.

The official topic for this year's contest is: Optimism—A Way of Life.

Speeches must be between four and five minutes long. Scoring will be based on personal qualities, material organization, delivery and overall effectiveness.

Trophies will be awarded to first, second and third place winners in boy and girl divisions.

In addition, the top boy and girl winners will receive a $400 club-sponsored scholarship and be eligible for further competition with a top prize of a $1,000 scholarship.

This year's contest is to be held at the Waterford Township Recreation Department on Andersonville Road beginning at 7:30 p.m.

For further information and to apply, call Ken Forbes at 673-9767 or 394-0118.

Application deadline is March 10.

This nature scene is an example of the colored-pencil drawings done by artist Donna Reese

Artist to show her drawings

Independence Township artist Donna Reese Vogel will be featuring her work at a one-woman show at Aura Fine Arts on March 23.

Her work is included in many private and public collections including K mart Corporation, Michigan Bell and the Carnegie-Mellon Universities.

A sensitivity to the beauty springing from fields and backyards of small-town America is reflected in Vogel's art.

She has worked in woodblock prints, pastels, and now, colored-pencil drawings.

The appearance of Vogel's extraordinary miniatures marks the opening of Aura's expanded gallery.

The upper level of the store, located at 20 S. Main, will permanently spotlight north Oakland County artists who have regional and national recognition.

Show dates are March 23 through April 19.

On March 23, from 2-4 p.m., gallery visitors will have a chance to meet the artist at a wine reception. Guitar music will be provided by Craig Chabala.

Vogel. Her works are to be displayed in a one-woman show.
