CJHS receives state award

By Kathy Greenfield

Recognition as one of 17 exemplary secondary schools in Michigan has been won by Clarkston Junior High School.

Selections for honors through the 1985-86 Secondary School Recognition Program were approved by the State Board of Education this week.

"It's just a tremendous honor for our school, for our staff, for our school district and community," said Duane Lewis, CJHS principal.

The 10 middle/junior high schools and seven high schools designated as outstanding by the state were gleaned from 71 applications, said Dr. Joseph Riley of the Michigan Department of Education.

In Oakland County, the winners also include West Bloomfield High School, Birmingham Groves High School and Troy Boulan Park Middle School.

"The exemplary (designation) comes in the kinds of things they do," Riley said. "They're very, very unusual. We make examples of them."

CJHS will receive the award, a 2-foot-square wooden plaque with an outline of the state, at a banquet in Lansing April 22.

Later, a conference will be scheduled around the 17 winning schools. Over 400 school administrators attended the conference featuring last year's winners.

"They look to the schools for leadership and direction on what they should and could be doing," Riley said.

Lewis submitted the required 20-page application in January, following a year of working with last year's application by a committee.

"I'm very proud of this school. . . . The school, from my standpoint, is doing an outstanding job," said Lewis.

"I have always felt that we have done those extra things in this building that set us apart," he added. The application was based on an effective education philosophy, a long-standing goal at the school, said Lewis, who has been an administrator at CJHS since 1972.

Seven characteristics define the philosophy—a safe and orderly environment, clear school mission, leadership, high expectations, student time on task, frequent monitoring of student progress and strong home-school relations.

The school has defined its mission as "Clarkston Junior High School Success for Everyone."

Among the unusual attributes Lewis lists for CJHS are an interdisciplinary approach to writing in which students receive two grades for papers submitted in any class, one for content and one for English; honors classes that involve 270 of the school's 645 students; remedial classes for students who need assistance; a volunteer program with 40-45 parents involved; 65 percent of the student population involved in extra-curricular activities; and an extensive awards program for students.

Good Friday service planned

The community is invited to a Good Friday service at 1 p.m. on March 28.

Sponsored by the Independence Township Ministers' Association for the community, this year's service is scheduled at the Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church, 5300 Maybee.

An offering will be taken with the proceeds going to HAVEN, a Pontiac shelter for abused women and children.

Kart races denied

Concern for their neighbors led the Waterford Hills Race Track Board of Directors to deny kart racing at the track this coming season.

The Michigan Kart Club had requested use of the track for two weekends this summer, said Peter Quenet, a member of the board.

A kart is a small-sized, single-passenger motorized car used for racing.

Noise levels at the track, located off Dixie Highway for over 25 years, have been a source of contention, between track officials and neighboring. residents for several years

Though the karts are in compliance with Independence Township noise level regulations, the board voted to deny their use because the noise they make is "annoying" said Quenet, who compared their sounds to those of chainsaws.

"We're sorry to have to give it up. But we feel we should," he said. "It's the pitch that gets to you more than the noise."

The track plans to continue with other regularly scheduled races featuring a different class of car, Quenet said.

Man hit by car

A 68-year-old Clarkston man was injured March 20 when he was struck by a car in the parking lot of the Clark Gas Station.

The accident occurred in the lot at 4951 Sashabaw at 5:20 p.m., according to a report at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Injured was William Bruce Lowe, who was walking to his vehicle when he was struck by a car driven by Frederick Glasco, 18, of Independence Township. Glasco was not injured during the incident, the report said. Lowe was transported to St. Joseph Mercy

Hospital in Pontiac where he was reported in stable condition Monday afternoon.

Narrower paths investigated

At the suggestion of Trustee Daniel Travis, the Independence Township Board has agreed to seek relief from some safety path rules dictated by Oakland County.

Travis' request stems from a rule that safety paths be eight feet in width to allow traffic to pass easily both ways.

On March 18, Travis requested that the board petition the county to waive the regulation where appropriate.

Although the board agreed informally to investigate the possibility, no official action was taken.

Travis' request stems from recent controversy over the placing of an eight-foot-wide safety path along Clarkston Road, where it may run close to residences.

Travis suggested that four-foot-wide paths be considered when necessary.

'We certainly should, in my opinion, have some opportunity (to go narrower), only in those places where it's appropriate," Travis said, adding that the placing of paths under residences' eaves troughs is 'not palatable."

The board agreed that they would continue to use eight-foot-wide paths where width is not a problem.

The problems generally arise in older sections of the township, said Supervisor Frank Ronk.

Cars connect with three houses in freak accidents

Two residences and a funeral home were on the receiving ends of auto accidents during a six-day span last week.

During the first incident, 72-year-old Lawrence Stellmach hit the home of Harold and Norma Goyette on Clarkston's Main Street before careening off the adjacent Goyette Funeral Home.

Stellmach, of Drayton Plains, was attempting to enter the funeral home parking lot when the accident occurred on March 18.

According to Harold Goyette, Stellmach missed the drive as he traveled down Main Street.

He then turned around on Miller Street and made a second pass at the driveway, missing it once again.

At last, as he entered the drive between the funeral home and the Goyettes' residence, Stellmach missed the brake pedal and put his foot on the accelerator, flooring it all the way, Goyette said.

He veered off a corner of the residence, brushed against the south side of the funeral home, and then came to rest in the north portion of the parking lot behind the building.

The Goyette home is over 100 years old, said Norma Goyette, Harold's wife, adding that siding and an eaves trough were torn from the buildings.

Neither the driver, his passenger, nor any of the people in the buildings were injured, Goyette said.

The car had to be towed away by a wrecker, Norsaid. ma

Stellmach was not ticketed, according to an Oakland County Sheriff's Department spokesperson.

In the second incident, 23-year-old Robert L. Percival, an Independence Township resident, missed a stop sign and hit a house at 5475 Maybee.

According to a spokesperson at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, Percival told police he may have fallen asleep during the accident on March at 2:55 a.m. 23 questions of length have arisen.

Earlier this month, the township board had its first reading of an amendment that would require ground signs to be no higher than six feet tall, a reduction of 14 feet from the previous rule.

On March 18, they prepared to cast their final votes on the matter when word came that someone had petitioned the township to allow a 2-foot-high, 16-foot-long sign.

Rudy Mazza, who is developing Mazza's Auto Parts on Maybee Road, made the request in order to get his allotted square footage, he said during a phone interview after the meeting.

"It just stands to reason," he said. "To only go 6-foot high, you've got to go long."

Mazza said he did not make the request to be contrary, but to achieve maximum use of his signage.

He intends to put the sign on 4-foot posts and possibly on a berm, he said, adding that he is concerned that snow accumulation and parked cars will obscure the sign. Mazza was not at the board meeting

At the meeting, the township board decided to table the matter until the situation could be further something like this?" asked Supervisor Frank Ronk "The answer is, it doesn't."

"Who would a thought?" echoed Trustee William Vandermark.

As a result, the board moved to appoint a threemember subcommittee to review the ground sign amendment and prepare a report for the board.

Appointed to the subcommittee were Trustee Carol Balzarini, building and planning director Kenneth Delbridge and township planner Richard Carlisle.

Tornado testing

The Oakland County Disaster Control department will test the county-wide tornado system on March 27 at 1:30 p.m., according to Independence Township Fire Marshall Gar Wilson.

The tests are conducted around this time everyyear during what is commonly known as the tornado season, Wilson said.

The system is designed to alert residents in the event that a tornado is sighted.

Each month, students selected for doing a good job meet for a pizza and pop lunch with Lewis and Vince Licata, the assistant principal.

Lewis said he hesitated to apply for the honor because CJHS is an old building, the original portion was built in 1929, and because the district is not among the most wealthy in the state.

When he attended a state conference on outstanding schools, "that was the first thing I asked, 'Should I even bother to apply?' They said, 'Yes.' But I still didn't believe them-now I do," Lewis said.

The award reiterated his belief that what goes on inside a building is most important.

"It says it's not the facility that makes a school exemplary," he said. "It's the staff and students and

I've been thrilled by the sight of a lake trout guarding her eggs near the shore of the lake near my home.

The painted turtles, too, have always been fascinating. They appear in batches when the mulberries plop off the tree into the lake.

I've also whiled away many pleasant minutes watching minnows swim in and out of the dark recesses in the dock when the water is still.

None of the above prepared me for the experience that awaited while on vacation in Hawaii during the final dreary days of Michigan's winter.

Before we left, we read about the possibility of standing on the balcony and watching whales spout. I was a bit skeptical, but I had hope.

The reality was far better than I imagined.

When the Pacific-Ocean calmed down, the humpback whale show began. We entertained ourselves every morning and evening by spotting spouts of misty water, sometimes in batches of three and four.

I wanted to get closer, so we decided to take advantage of one of the many offers to go whale watching. We signed up for a two-hour sail on a catamarran.

I even managed to photograph a whale as it leaped out of the water during our ocean voyage.

No one who sees the photo gets excited as I do over the tiny image in the distance ("Look, there's the whale! Isn't it great!" "Oh, is that what it is?") but it's a special keepsake.

I clipped some humpback whale facts out of a publication for visitors to the Hawaiian Island of Maui.

The North Pacific humpbacks make an annual 3,000-mile journey from Alaska to Hawaii.

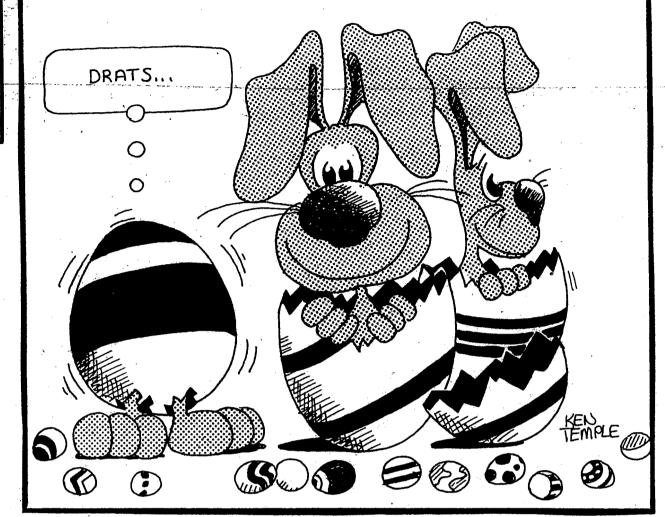

At full maturity, the whales measure 45 feet in length and weigh 40 tons. While in Hawaii, the adult whales do not eat, but use their vast store of blubber, which is more than a foot thick.

A nursing mother loses four to six tons of weight before returning to the Alaskan feeding grounds.

Scientists believe the whales mate in the warm waters and return 12 months later for the birth of their calves, although they've never seen either activity take place. The whales are found near Hawaii from November through June.

A calf measures between 10 and 16 feet and can weigh 2 tons. The babies survive on their mother's milk, gaining up to 200 pounds a day in eks of life.

HAPPY EASTER!

Half-baked conspiracy

Carolyn Walker

The never-ending adventures in the continuing saga of our heroine Carolyn Walker: Installment Three.

The mother of a friend of mine once baked a five-pound rump, that is a beef roast, on the hot engine of her car while she and her nine children drove from Pontiac to Canada.

Their plan was to leave with full tummies (so they wouldn't have to stop and eat en route), make the all-day drive to a relative's, and bring fully cooked dinner with them.

I was impressed.

What ingenuity, I thought. How clever. How practical. How truly creative.

Of course, I was a teenager at the time. Highly impressionable.

This woman, I have since decided, was born to cope.

ined that machines play

roast, seasoned it to perfection and placed it in my oven, which I turned to self-start.

A working woman, I determined that I was going to come home to a fully cooked meal and prove to my family once-and-for-all that I could handle the pressures of full-time employment and motherhood with ease.

Later that day when I arrived home and opened the front door only to be greated by the sweet smell of cooking dinner, I knew the magic of modern conveniences was a reality.

Then I made the mistake of walking into the kitchen to oversee, and check on, the oven's progress.

It was in the process of flaunting its independence.

Somehow, the oven had turned its cooking cycle onto self-clean. It had locked its door and it was cleaning my beautiful, seasoned-to perfection roast-not to mention what it was doing to my granite roasting pan.

Now an endangered species, the humpbacks once numbered 15,000 in the North Pacific. but commercial whalers in the 1950s reduced the population to less than 1,000 animals.

It is estimated they now number about 850, with some 600 migrating to Hawaii each winter.

Because we saw so many whales, we had thought they numbered in the thousands.

We watched others watch the whales. Beaches packed with people would change character as everyone would suddenly turn toward the ocean, seemingly paying tribute to the gentle giants as they appeared.

Similarly, balconies would be dotted with people pointing toward the ocean.

with man, as it should be.

- I'll never know what it was like to see a buffalo herd. But now I've seen two forms of wildlife on the endangered species list-the bald eagle and the humpback whale. Long may they continue to live in harmony role-modeling-type games in which they take on the traits of other machines or items they admire.

I came to this conclusion recently after being faced with a car and an oven at home that have minds of their own.

If only they could learn to work cooperatively like my friend's did.

The real culprit in this situation was my new oven. It role-modeled the dishwasher.

I bought it a year or so ago to replace the ancient, hand-me-down I had been using since my marriage.

The hand-me-down made a wonderful furnace; that is, it heated up the entire house (role modeling). But, it didn't clean itself and it couldn't turn itself on and off.

I wanted a model that was self-sufficient and wouldn't require my constant attention like a spoiled child. Well, I got it. Strate Strate Land

Last weekend, I brought home a beautiful

I responded quite naturally by pulling on the door while a red light beamed at me: LOCKED.

In a panic, I began turning knobs, hoping that I could interrupt the cleaning cycle.

But the oven was determined. After it finally clicked off, I had to wait a half-hour for it to unlock itself so I could retrieve dinner.

As a result, you could say, the roast's juices were "locked in."

It was nicely browned, I have to admit. And, fortunately, it was still edible.

Had I to do it over again, following the example set by my friend's mother, I would consider cooking the roast on the engine of my car as a plausible alternative.

But, of course, the car, in its infinite wisdom, wouldn't start that weekend.

The car thinks it's a water bed. But that's another story.

Message for Easter

Christ the Lord is risen today!

This hymn, as well as others with the same message, will be sung in Christian churches-Easter-Sunday.

The mood will be joyous. People will greet one another with smiles and handshakes.

And that is as it should be. Easter is a celebration-the celebration of the miracle of everlasting life.

Throughout the Bible, there are many stories of miracles. It is said that Jesus performed miracles during his lifetime.

As the Son of God, he had power beyond our imagination. In his position as God's son on earth, Jesus also had much responsibility. For that reason, he was careful of where and how he used his powers.

Biblical accounts indicate that Jesus' lifetime on earth was short; just over 30 years.

While on earth, he told people of God's heaven, and explained ways of joining that kingdom.

He demonstrated his powers through the miracles he performed. At various times Jesus healed the sick, fed multitudes with very little food, publicly forgave grave sinners and brought a friend from death, back to life.

Jesus was a man of purpose; a man with a message that would be passed on to people through many decades and generations.

Even today, nearly 2,000 years after his crucifixion, Jesus' death is commemorated, his ascension celebrated.

Ascension, the miracle of Easter, is the basis of the Christian faith.

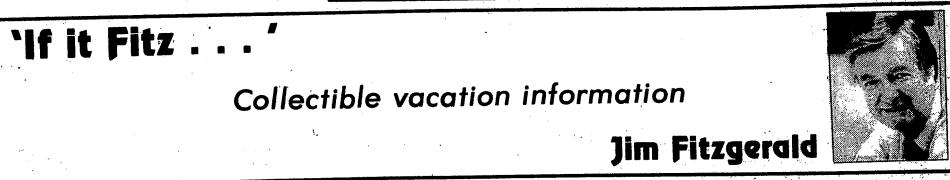

Jesus' ascension from the grave followed a week of betrayal, trial, public humiliation and death. Yet, he came to reign as the Prince of Peace, a Savior, a uniting force between man and God.

His ascension proved to be the ultimate miracle, giving Christians the hope of life everlasting.

Alleluia!

We had the pleasure of chaperoning both the Clarkston Junior High Symphonic Band and Wind Ensemble to the District Band Festival on March 15.

We want to commend the director, Julie Mathews, for doing a remarkable job. It takes courage and dedication to prepare and take two bands to Festival.

The total of 100 students from seventh, eighth and ninth grades were well-behaved and showed a seriousness and a desire to do well. They were also enjoying themselves.

We are very pleased that our seventh- and ninthgrade sons are in the Clarkston Junior High bands and that they have Julie Mathews, a dedicated fine musician, for their director.

didn't go to Paradise to shoot craps. The most fun I

On my winter vacation I learned that:

Toll collectors on the bridge connecting New Providence Island with Paradise Island in Nassau, capital of the Bahamas, have something in common with third basemen they shouldn't be southpaws.

Thanks partly to A&P grocery stores, there are no monks praying today in a cloister built in France in the 12th Century.

A bidet is confusing for a four-year-old child but fine for bathing a two-month-old baby.

Those are just three samples of the notebookful of intriguing information I collected during two weeks of painstaking search for an income tax deduction to write about.

When the toll bridge was built, wire baskets were installed for motorists to throw coins into, thus raising the wooden arm automatically and gaining admittance onto Paradise Island with a minimum of delay. But the toll has gone up several times in the past 20 years - it's now $2 for cars -and coins became impractical.

So today the motorist hands two dollar bills to the collector in the little booth or gets change for a larger bill. The collector then walks out of the booth and throws a The car thinks it's persits only But that's another story * A . * * * * * * ومنع coin into the basket, activating the wooden arm.

The basket is a few feet to the collector's left, so if he or she were left-handed, the throw would be as awkward as that required of a left-handed third baseman picking up a ground ball and throwing it to first base.

To make a decent throw, a left-handed toll collector would have to make a full circle before letting loose of the coin. This would allow the motorist to beat out a lot of grounders and allow him or her too much time to wonder how many coins the toll collector has.

Or, to put it another way, how often must the collector empty the basket to recycle the coins? The search for an answer to this question could tie up bridge traffic for hours, so you can see why the toll collectors, like third basemen, shouldn't be left-handed. Unless, of course, the motorists always pull their cars toward right field.

As for the 12th Century cloister, an open-air cluster of dingy pillars, it's no longer in France; it's on Paradise Island, A&P heir Huntington Hartford II, who once owned much of the island, moved it there in the 1960s in hopes it would attract tourists.

It didn't. The tourists didn't flock until resorts International took over and a gambling casino was built. But I List weekend, I brought home a beantiful got out of the casino was sneaking Emily inside and watching her laugh when she put 25 cents in a slot machine and got back $3.

Yes, it's against the law for a four-year-old to play the slots. If you're offended, let me know and I'll put you in touch with the readers who complained in 1984 when I snuck Emily into a booth and let her vote against President Reagan.

I figure a kid can't learn too young. Another thing I taught Emily on vacation was the value of regular exercise. Once every day, she watched in awe as I went through the muscle-stretching, dextrous exertions necessary to move my body out of a wobbly, webbed chaise lounge without falling into the swimming pool.

Early one afternoon, Emily burst into my darkened bedroom and shouted: "It's a quarter of clock in the morning. Time to get out of bed and start lounging off."

Time didn't matter on Paradise. In subsequent columns, I'll reveal how really rough it was living for two weeks with no TV and only one bidet. You might not be interested, but you might not work for the Internal Revenue Service.

Tougher regulations for temporary signs

Signs, signs everywhere the signs, Breakin' up the scenery and blowin' my mind. Do this, don't do that. Can't you read the signs?

–1970s song by The Five Man Electrical Band

By Carolyn Walker

Businessmen are not going to be happy with a new temporary sign ordinance amendment, says Rick Wood, a Clarkston resident and sign dealer.

Wood appeared at the March 18 meeting of the

The individual water systems along Dixie Highway may come together if a plan currently in the works gets off the ground.

On March 11, the Independence Township Board discussed unifying the water systems of residents and businesses from Waterford Hill to M-15 and then along M-15 east to the Clarkston Gardens subdivision on Waldon Road.

No formal action was taken at the special meeting.

"We talked in very general terms," said Clerk Richard Holman.

The projected cost of the connection is $580,000, according to Holman. If the connection is extended along Dixie to I-75, as is also being considered, it could run as much as $1.3 million.

The board is considering a special assessment district or the creation of a Downtown Development Authority (DDA) to fund the project.

In a special assessment district, those property owners abutting the improved areas pay special taxes to cover the costs.

In a DDA, money earned in taxes is returned to the district for improvements.

Board members see the cost as a potential problem, because residents with private wells might not want to be specially assessed to merge, Holman said.

"You're talking big bucks," he added. "There was enough interest (among board members) for us to pursue it. The ultimate goal is to interconnect residential wells together and commercial wells together. There is an awful lot of development going on."

The unifying of wells into one system would create more water availability in the event of a fire and would offer protection to subdivision residents if their individual wells went out, Holman said, citing the reasons for the proposal.

The board will most likely consider adopting a DDA at an April meeting, and action on the water system will not be taken until the DDA has been addressed, he said.

Independence Township Board where he questioned the motives of adopting a change that limits the use of temporary signs.

After listening to Wood's comments, the board voted 6-0 to approve the amendment which will become effective immediately.

"I don't think anyone here is really looking at the businessmen's point of view," he said. "I think you're trying to pull a fast one over on them,"

Wood alleged that the amendment takes rights away from businessmen by restricting the way they can advertise.

In response, township Supervisor Frank Ronk said the issue had been on several township board and planning commission agendas over the past six months, had been published in newspapers and had been addressed in 50 questionnaires sent to business owners. None of the business people responded.

"We're really not trying to sneak something through," Ronk said. "What we're really trying to do is upgrade."

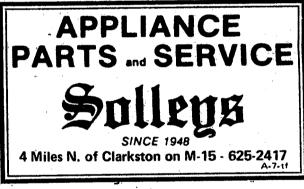

Wood countered by saying that the old ordinance, if properly enforced, would guard against misused and neglected signs because the township could fine abusers.

"This (the old) is a fine ordinance that you people are screwing up," he said.

The amendment mandates that temporary signs be attached to permanent signs and be incorporated into a business's allowed sign footage, which may not exceed 100 square feet.

Also, a supplemental sign may not have a surface area exceeding six square feet for a single face or 12 square feet for two faces.

Plans for temporary signs must be submitted to the planning commission as proof that the sign will be secure.

New trucks to roll in Independence

Two new trucks are on order for the Independence Township Department of Public Works; and a new vehicle for the township assessor is just around the corner.

On March 18, members of the Independence Township Board approved the purchase of two ³/₄-ton trucks from the General Motors Truck Center, Pontiac.

A two-wheel-drive pickup to cost $11,440.67; and a four-wheel-drive $14,380.53.

The pickups are to be purchased from the township's improvement revolving fund and the fourwheel truck is to be leased back to the township's Lakeview Cemetery, said George Anderson, director of the DPW. He expects delivery in about six weeks, he said. While the purchase of the trucks was approved, the township assessor was given permission to seek bids for a car for his department.

Assessor David Kramer told the board he now has a full staff and not enough vehicles to accomodate their work.

Two appraisers and one assessor use one car while a group of part-time student employees uses another, he said.

"The need for an additional automobile is evident," Kramer said in a memo.

The board voted 6-0 to permit him to seek bids for a new car.

Clarkston Road to be repaved

Pavement resurfacing for Clarkston Road is planned for this spring.

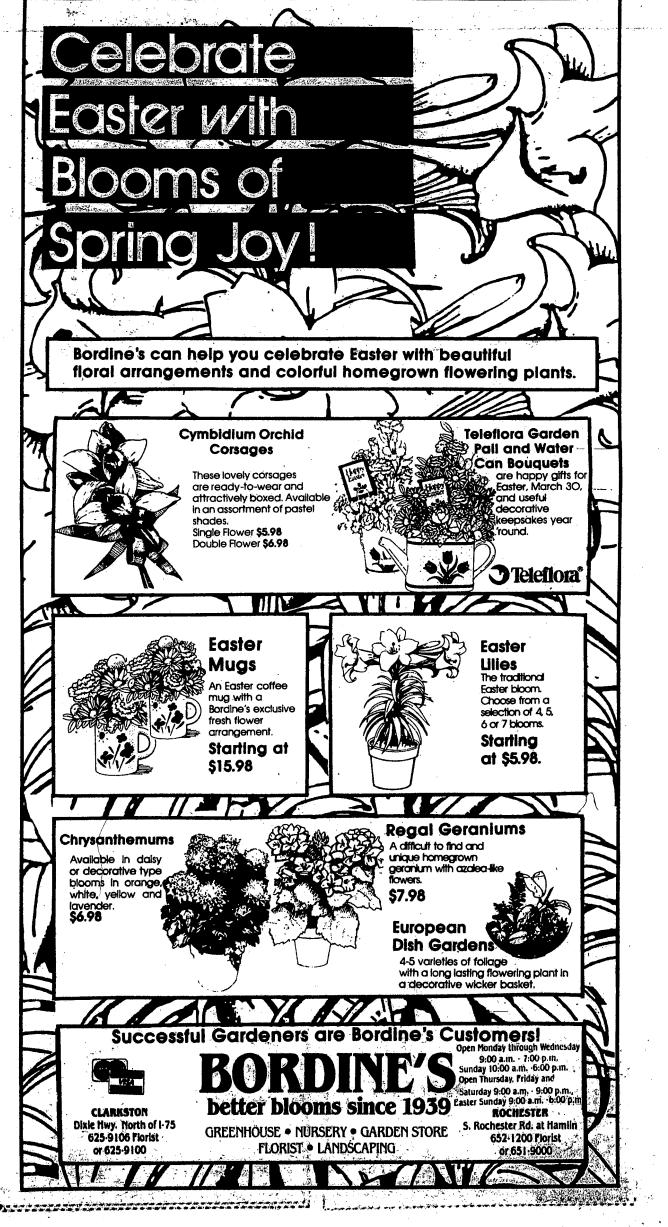

The road is to be paved between M-15 and Flemings Lake Road for a county cost of $56,848. The work is to be done by Thompson-McCully of Belleville.

Dennis Pajot, a spokesperson for the Oakland County Road Commission, said he anticipates the resurfacing will begin in May, although a specific date has not been set.

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., March 26; 1986 9

It is hoped the work will be completed before next winter, he added.

Interests of the whole

At the March 4 Independence Township Board meeting, the township board made a decision concerning the construction of the newest bike path in the Independence path system.

This path, which was the number one choice of the Bike Path Task Force, would be the connector from the village limits to the library-and the link from the village to the path that continues from the library, going east to Bailey Lake School.

After considerable discussion on the merits of this path, the vote was taken with the following results. Yes, Balzarini, Ronk, Holman and Vandermark. No, Lutz, Travis and Stuart.

I believe anyone who knows the existing conditions on Clarkston-Orion Road regarding pedestrian safety must question what the motivating factors were in a "no" vote.

There was some discussion that the path would merit only village residents, and because the village residents do not pay the bike path millage the path should then not be constructed.

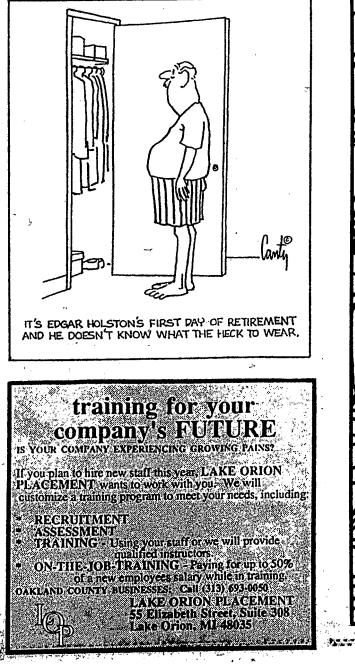

Perhaps certain people on the board need to be reminded that there are township residents living west of the village.

When a vote is based on a "good ol' boy" basis rather than what's best for township constituents as a whole, it's time to reflect on the validity of those people remaining as our representatives in public office. We, the people of Independence Township, must demand that the trustees on the township board represent the good of the whole, rather than the special interests of a very few.

Whitaker makes All-State list

By Dan Vandenhemel

A lot of shots dropped through the hoop this season for the Wolves' Ed Whitaker. They came from close range, from 20 feet, off rebounds and on easy layups.

A basketball player doesn't get selected for an All-State team unless he is connecting from all over.

Ed Whitaker's talents helped the Wolves to a 21-3 record and a district championship.

Good depth is the key

By Dan Vandenhemel

Walt Wyniemko is looking for a little luck and depth going into his seventh year of coaching the Clarkston boys' track team.

Last year the Wolves were 6-1, and they got there on the strength of the field events and the sheer number of athletes.

This year there are 45 out for the team, which is a normal amount, but Wyniemko is a little worried about the depth of the team.

"Last year we had a lot of depth," he said. "The whole question of how well we do this year is depth. We had a number of quality athletes last year, and we've got some this year. The question is how the rest of the team does."

"Last year we had a lot of depth. The whole question of how well we do this year is — Wyniemko depth."

Returning from last year are Jeff Toretta, Jeff Ferguson, Matt Beamer, Jim Hall, Kevin and Keith Krupp, Chris Poulos and Bill Bastuba.

Whitaker, a senior at Clarkston High School, was named to the 10-member All-State team selected by United Press International. He averaged 20 points a game, which also placed him on a number of newspaper's honorary teams.

All the honors are nice, says the 6-foot-3 Whitaker, but the one thing he'd like won't happen. He wants one more shot to fall.

Whitaker's shot at the buzzer against Flint Northwestern in the regional tournament banged off the rim and sent the game into the first of two overtimes.

If that shot had dropped, the Wolves would have won the game. But it didn't, and Clarkston's season ended with a 21-3 record.

"I thought the shot had a chance of going in," Whitaker said. "I thought we could have done some things differently in that game. But that shot at the end of the fourth . . .

As his voiced trailed off, the smile left his face. But when talking about the game he's played

"I liked what we accomplished, especially beating Northern." -Ed Whitaker since third grade, his smile is in place. It shows the enjoyment Whitaker gets out of the game.

"It was more fun this year, everyone got along," he said. "I liked what we accomplished, especially beating Northern."

The Wolves downed Pontiac Northern to win the district championship. Clarkston tied for the Greater Oakland Activities League title with Northern and

Softball sign-up

A few team openings are left in the adult softball program through the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department.

The department offers a number of men's, women's, and co-recreational leagues with a variety of days, times and ability levels.

Registration ends March 27 for all the leagues except the men's morning Delta league which has a deadline of April 18.

For more information, call the parks and recreation office at 625-8223.

beat Catholic Central for the first time in four meetings.

Whitaker is the first player from Clarkston to make an All-State team since Tim McCormick in 1980.

McCormick went on to the University of Michigan and then to the professional ranks. Whitaker isn't sure where he'll be playing next year.

He'll probably play in the Mid-American Conference or Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

"I think I have the ability to play at a bigger college," he said. "I want to go as far as basketball will take me.'

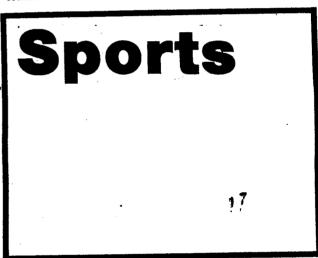

Going to college at all was doubtful when Whitaker transferred from the Waterford Mott school district during his sophomore year. He said his grade point average was under C-level.

"I had to get it over 2.0 to get a scholarship," he said. "I worked hard to pick it up. Last semester, I had a 3.0. When I transferred, I got in trouble for some things I said about Clarkston having a stricter school system. I don't see anything wrong with saying that, because it's true."

Whitaker said his mother Donna and coach Dan Fife helped him make the adjustment and improve on the grades.

Donna Whitaker made her presence felt at the Wolves' basketball games by wearing a jersey with her son's number on it and waving a Cabbage Patch Doll dressed similarly.

"That was neat," he said. "My grandmother (Juanita Plawski) made the doll. It was neat having people congratulate me on a good game, especially the team. It was neat."

The field events are the likely strong point again this season for the Wolves. Wyniemko said it's hard to judge what the team's forte will be because it changes so often.

"It's up and down quite a bit," Wyniemko said. "You just hope your weakness is the other team's strong point and their weakness is our strong point. That way they can counteract each other."

Preseason practices consist of conditioning and technique. With Easter break coming early this year, before the season begins, the team's progress will be helped-and hindered.

"We've got to get them ready mentally, and physically ready for the season," the coach said. With the break where it is, it does some good because we don't have to get going, stop, then start over.

"Sure it hurts a little, because people go away for the break. We run practices during the break, but some of the kids are gone."

It gets hectic at times before the season starts, Wyniemko said, but they'll be ready.

Warmer temperatures-and the start of the track season at Clarkston High School-are getting closer. Soon these CHS athletes won't have to worry about wearing hoods and g' just about competing against other sci. The season opens April 10 in Romeo.

I saw a robin the other day. A true mark that spring has sprung. So what if the poor feathered friend was wearing a scarf.

- Springtime in Michigan is here.

Big deal. As you might be able to tell, cold weather and I do not get along.

Take the first couple of official days of spring for a couple of examples.

Spring was in the air and so was your breath. I had to take pictures outside and my glasses fogged up and my fingers froze.

Let's hear all the sympathy. The tiny violins, everything.

Signs of spring

OK, that's enough.

When the first day of spring finally rolls around, after what seems like a nine-month winter, it seldom lives up to my expectations. I hate cold weather.

Michigan, there's SNOW place like it.

I'm not a winter person: I don't ice skate, snow ski or cross country ski. I don't own a snowmobile and probably never will unless they can move on sand or grass as well as they do on snow. I really wouldn't mind the snow if the temperature never dipped below, say 50 degrees.

Let me tell you, it's not easy being allergic to cold weather and living in Michigan at the same time.

I basically hibernate during the winter months, never venture outdoors unless I'm getting the mail or running to or from my car.

Dan Vandenhemel

So when spring springs upon us, it should instantly turn sunny and 70 degrees. If I had my hand on the thermostat instead of grumpy old Mother Nature, it would be 70 in the spring, 85 in the summer, 65 in the fall and 50 in the winter.

None of this minus-25 stuff in January. It's tolerable for the mercury to push toward 100 in August but let's not make a habit of that one.

I can truly say I can see myself living in a warm climate.

I've lived my whole life in Michigan. Vacationed in numerous northern parts of the state. Traveled all around the state and enjoyed all of it—except the weather.

I can deal with the rain and the thunderstorms, but leave the cold weather out of it.

These words and comments are brought to you by a proud native of Michigan who is ready to migrate.

Skaters help earn state championship

Jayson Weatherington and Max Westphal put in a lot of practice time with the goalle and practice net in the background. The two are Jayson Weatherington and Max Westphal are not resting on their laurels after being part of a state championship team.

The two Bailey Lake Elementary School pupils were part of the Birmingham Bears, who have bragging rights to the state title for youth hockey.

The team of 11-12-year-olds won the crown March 9 in Woodhaven against Sault St. Marie.

They aren't resting because they are still shooting the puck into a practice net alongside the Weatherington home on Vinewood, Independence Township. Westphal lives just a couple streets away on Greenview

Hockey is a year-round activity for the youngsters. After the 70-game season, there are hockey schools and camps that take care of a good part of the summer.

The Bears rang up some impressive statistics over the last few months. They posted an overall record of 49-16-5, which gave them first place in the Adray Squirt AA Travel League.

Booster shots

The Clarkston school athletic program is $750 richer after the annual fund raising Shoot-A-Thon.

The event on March 22, organized by the Clarkston Athletic Booster Club, netted the money to help purchase athletic equipment.

Over 30 participants shot 100 free throws with each shot made earning money in pledges.

Trophies were given for the most money collected and the most shots made.

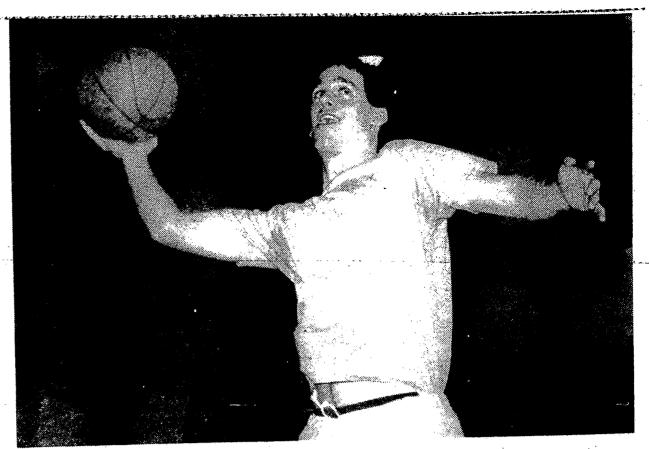

Bringing in the highest amount in pledges was Heather Luchenbach of Clarkston High School. Her total pledges tallied $99.75.

At the high school level, Jeff Ferguson connected on 71 out of 100 shots for the boys and Arlene Ruthkoski made 60 baskets for the girls.

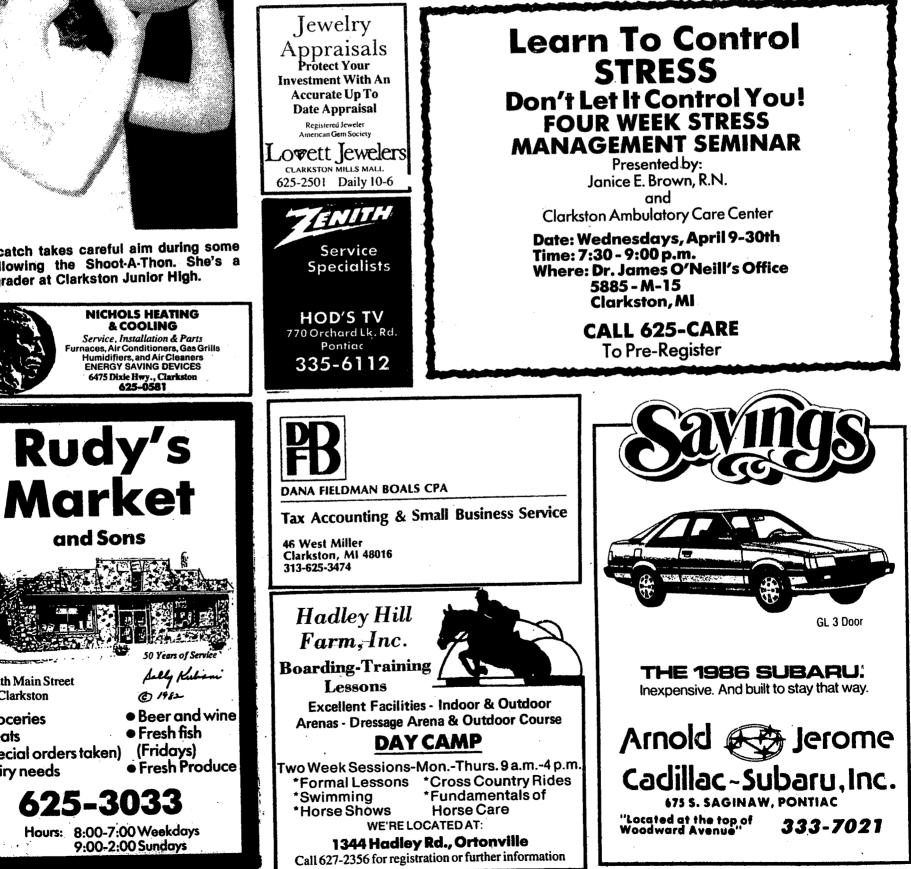

For the junior high schools, Gary Kaul of Sashabaw Junior High made 81 shots.

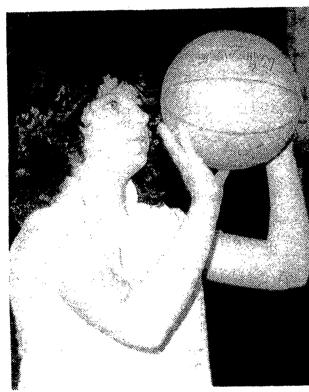

On the elementary school level, Devin DuPree from Bailey Lake Elementary sank 55 free throws.

In the alumni section, Ray Kubani hit 78 shots.

When Ray Kubani and a friend stopped by Clarkston High School to shoot a few baskets, they found the Shoot-A-Thon going on. Kubani, who graduated from CHS in 1983, participated in the first Shoot-A-Thon. For old time's sake, some people at the 1986 event offered to sponsor him. Of the 100 shots this year, Kubani connected for 78. "When I was a senior (at CHS), I made 92," he said. "I'm getting worse as time goes on." That's hardly likely. Now a Kent State University student, Kubani is one of his university basketball team's leading players.

Stacy Secatch takes careful aim during some shots following the Shoot-A-Thon. She's a seventh-grader at Clarkston Junior High.

Chore services available to senior citizens

Senior citizens in northern Oakland County can get some help with household chores from the Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency.

The agency's Chore Service Program offers the following services: lawn mowing, snow shoveling, cleaning gutters and downspouts, trimming overgrown bushes, minor home repairs such as replacing washers in faucets, renailing loose boards or carpeting and simple repairs that can be done with a hammer, screwdriver or pliers.

Chore workers can take down storm windows and put up screens, calk or wash windows, tack weather stripping in place and clean attics, basements or garages to remove fire or health hazards.

Walls can be washed or painted on a limited basis. Floors can be washed and a general one-time spring cleaning can be done by chore workers. This cleaning can include cupboards, refrigerator and stove.

Eligibility requirements are:

•Be at least 60 years of age or a spouse of a person 60 years of age.

•Be a resident of one of the following townships or cities—Holly, Groveland, Brandon, Oxford, Addison, Rose, Springfield, Independence, Orion,

Pinehurst Bridge repairs await plans

A decision on who is going to institute the repairs of the Pinehurst Bridge has been postponed one month.

Residents along Pinehurst in the Middle Lake subdivision have until April to prepare plans and specifications for the repairs, said village President Carol Eberhardt.

Volunteers wanted

The Blind Recreational Society is looking for volunteers for clerical work with some typing. Volunteers are also needed in other areas at the center.

The non-profit organization is located at 1543 Baldwin Ave., Pontiac.

To volunteer for two hours or more a week, call 334-6313. The office and center hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays. If they do not develop plans that meet village criteria, a special assessment district will be created and the repairs will be started by the village, she said. Repairs for the 50-year-old bridge could cost as much as $22,000.

Pinehurst residents and council members agree the bridge is in disrepair, but have disagreed for several years over who is responsible for fixing it.

Resident Bud Campbell contends the bridge is village property. But a study conducted by the village attorney and engineer last month revealed the bridge to be privately owned.

At the March 11 council meeting, Campbell said he would contract to repair the bridge himself for $3,000 but did not present engineering plans as directed last month, Eberhardt said.

If Campbell or a private contractor repairs the bridge, the plans must be examined by the village engineer and meet village specifications for safety, drainage and width, she added.

•Be in need of help with certain outdoor/indoor chores or limited home repairs.

To receive the services, residents should call the following numbers: Independence and Waterford townships, Elaine Huntwork at 625-8231 from 3 to 5 p.m. weekdays; Springfield, Holly, Rose and Groveland townships, Pauline Beckly at 634-7571 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays; Oxford, Addison and Brandon townships, Diana Clay at 693-2066 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays; Highland and White Lake townships, Susan Bledspe at 887-3696 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. weekdays; Pontiac, Keego Harbor and Sylvan Lake, Daisy Brazzel at 373-1781 from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. weekdays.

The services are offered at no charge to those who qualify, although donations are encouraged from seniors to help extend the chore services to other senior citizens.

Workers with various skills are also needed. Call the agency at 858-5130 for details about part-time employment in the Chore Service Program for the Elderly.

First-graders reject Garbage Pail Kid Cards

They ask the manufacturer, in writing, to clean up its act

By Kathy Greenfield

Marvelous Melissa, Classie Cassie, Gentle Joshua and Jazzy Jeremy, among others, have joined in a letter-writing campaign against Garbage Pail Kid Cards

The protest by first-graders at Clarkston Elementary School began when the children in Ann Stone's classroom approached her with a problem.

The cards were being traded during recess periods and some children, whose first names match those on the cards, were becoming the brunt of namecalling.

Some of Stone's pupils showed her samples of the cards, and they made the teacher angry.

Each features an ugly cartoon-like drawing of a child on the front with a negative nickname, she said. On the back, the awful antics of the child are describeđ.

"I said, 'This is it. I'm going to write the company,' ' she said. "I had one of my kids even tear his up and throw them in the garbage can when we were done" with the discussion.

Later, the children approached their teacher and said they would like to write to the company as well.

teachers prompted further action at Clarkston Elementary.

The cards have been banned from the school by principal William Potvin.

Stone mailed the children's letters to the Topps Cards company last week.

Of particular note are the children's signatures. When writing their protests, the first-graders decided to show what could be done with a positive approach to their names.

Some children selected their own nicknames and others worked with their peers' suggestions, but each child decided if the recommended nickname was to his or her liking.

Samples of their letters follow:

first-grade teacher, Audrey Shupe, whose pupils decided to write letters, too.

"The more you talk about it with your kids, the more you realize it's something that is a problem,' Stone said.

Parents, she said, can control what their children purchase; they should not allow their children to have a laugh at the expense of others.

Family of educators

by Jim Sanford

Russ Samuel spent his early years growing up on a farm in Davisburg.

After graduation from high school, he left the rural scene and attended Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, where he received his bachelor's and master's degrees in education.

Becoming a teacher was a fact of life in the Samuel family, since Russ' mother was a teacher: One brother teaches in Waterford, another in Clarkston, and a sister teaches in West Bloomfield. His cousin Kay is a Clarkston teacher.

During the last 10 years in Clarkston, Russ has taught fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades. Presently, he teaches fifth grade at Andersonville Elementary School.

His philosophy of education is a belief that students should be taught social interaction skills as well as academic skills.

When not teaching, Russ is very active in the Davisburg United Methodist Church where he serves as church pianist.

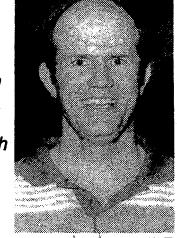

Russ relates that he never had any formal education in piano but, rather, was self-taught and learned by osmosis from his older siblings, much the same way his interest in education was sparked.

Hobbies take up the rest of his time—he enjoys all sports, music and travel. His travels have taken him throughout the United States.

During the summer of 1985, he ventured across the ocean to Israel and Rome. The fact that his plane was the first to land at the Athens airport following the June '85 hijacking of the TWA jet added some drama to his trip.

Clarkston parents have come to know that Russ treats his students with dignity and respect, an attitude which reflects his objectives.

"My goals for the classroom are that each student grows both academically and socially and that I set an example for them to follow," he says. "A teacher's influence on students is significant and should be accepted as a responsibility."

Russ fulfills this responsibility.

Sharing their talents

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., March 26, 1986 23

Some people do imitations. Some can learn a concept quickly and teach it. Some can make people laugh, no matter what the circumstances.

Everyone has a talent, and at the University of Detroit-Clarkston, we seem to have more than our share of talented people.

If you want good pictures taken, you find our official school photographer, John. He can also take and make any subject funny.

If you are looking for imitations, try Curtis. No one is safe from his scrutiny.

Anne has the talent of making everyone laugh when she starts laughing. If she finds something funny in class and laughs really hard, the class stops and laughs with her.

Peter gives the best speeches I have ever heard. He uses props and has a very sarcastic way of approaching any subject. He does it in a very humorous way.

Marty has a talent for working in the midst of everyone talking in her office. She gets a lot done in spite of the interruptions.

Finally, the person whose talent gets the biggest laughs when we go out is Mary Ann's. She can get lost even with the simplest directions. She can even pass by the place she is going to—but she always gets us there.

Kay Ellis is a freshman attending the University of Detroit Clarkston campus at the Colombiere Center in Springfield Township. She resides in Lake Orion.

16 Clarkston kids visit MSU campus

Pupils who like to write and three teachers visited the Michigan State University, East Lansing, campus Feb. 22 for MSU Manuscript Day.

"I'm looking for ways we can keep kids interested in writing and support it. This was exposure they couldn't get normally," said Ruth Duling, language arts chairperson at Clarkston Junior High School.

"I think writing is really important in the schools," said Joette Kunse, a North Sashabaw teacher, who added that she believes teachers should encourage such skills.

"It really was a nice opportunity for them to go to a university and meet with other children who also have talent in writing," said Barbara Glover, a Clarkston Elementary teacher.

The pupils attended workshops in the morning led by MSU undergraduate students majoring in education.

They participated in writing exercises that included looking at a picture, writing a sentence and passing it on to another student; writing about music; composing sniglets; and brochure writing.

Some of the pupils also submitted samples of their writing for publication by the program sponsors, the MSU English department, in an anthology of stories. Each who submitted a story will receive a

While the youngsters attended workshops, the teachers met and talked about teaching creative writing in schools.

The pupils who attended the program were CJHS ninth-graders Chris Serb, Romy Tapero, Julie Meredith and Liane Swan; CJHS eighth-grader Jenny Futrell; and sixth-graders, Carolyn Allison from Bafley Lake, Carrie McKee and Denise Schulz from Andersonville, and Amy Ginn, Jayna Rose, Jamie Young, Jeremy Johns, David Studt, Jessica Miller, Emily Plec and Jenna Smith, all from Clarkston Elementary.

BPW selects Rebecca Ridley for club award

By Julie LePere

Rebecca Ridley began gaining poise in the play productions at Clarkston High School. Since then, the poise has carried her far.

Because of this quality and her competence at work, the former Independence Township resident was chosen Young Career Woman of the Year by the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women Organization (BPW).

Rebecca currently lives in Waterford and is the student loan representative for Pontiac State Bank (PSB) in Pontiac.

She gave a three-minute speech at the March 13 BPW meeting and was judged on her poise, appearance, content, delivery of speech, advancement in her field of business and involvement in BPW.

"I told them about my education, my job, how I've been progressing in my job, the activities I'm involved in now and where I want to go in the future," said Rebecca.

"They also give judges' interviews so they know more concretely how you feel about things, where you want to go and where you are now."

Rebecca graduated from CHS in 1978 and from Oakland University, Rochester, in 1981. She received her master's degree in business administration from OU in 1983 and has worked in the banking industry five years.

She attributes much of her success to her early experience in front of large groups of people, in plays and in the CHS Junior Miss competition. (She was second runner-up.)

"I was somehow involved in all of the plays in high school, either acting or backstage. It was a way to learn how to handle yourself on stage. I also did some acting and working on plays at Oakland University," she said.

Her other activities include local membership chairperson for BPW, district secretary for BPW, volunteer for United Way and a member of the employer activity advisory committee at PSB.

Rebecca Ridley, winner of the local BPW Young Career Woman of the Year Award, will be competing at the District level April 12. Rebecca is

She is also working toward a management, supervision diploma by taking classes through the American Institute of Banking. In addition, she belongs to a library discussion group of classical novels.

"Pretty much with the rest of my time, I read; I try to do things with my apartment," she said.

She especially enjoys BPW.

"It's helped me in my personal life and profes-the daughter of Dawn and Dick Ridley of Independence Township.

sional life," she said. "It's given me confidence and a sense of direction."

The BPW is always looking for new members, Rebecca said.

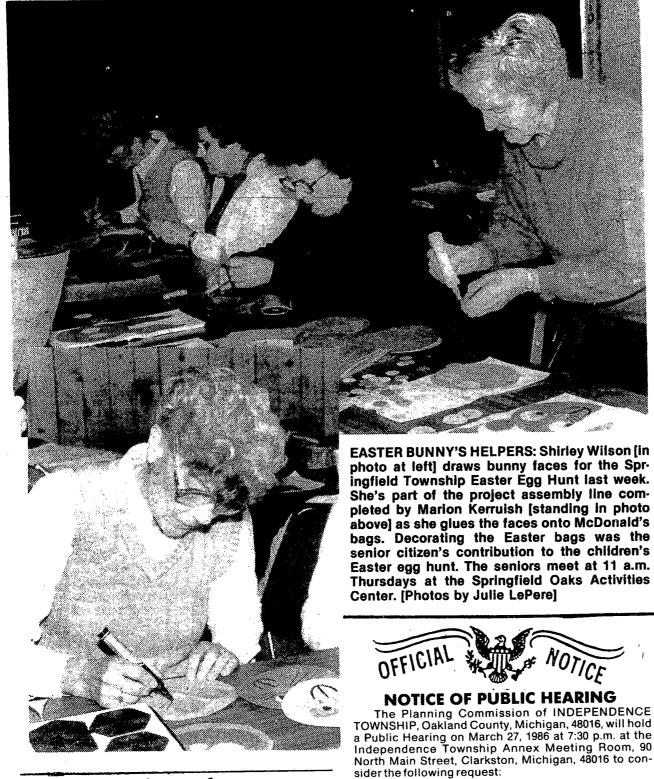

The group meets the second Thursday of every month at 7 p.m. in the Northwest Oakland Vocational Center's library. For more information, call Rebecca at 682-5670 or the local president Denise Schons at 625-3776.

Tax up for vote

Voters will be asked to approve a 5-mill tax renewal for the Clarkston school district on the June 9 school election ballot.

Five mills means property owners pay $5 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

The millage was first approved by voters 10 years ago, and will not be up for renewal again until 1992, said William Jackson, district business manager.

Also on the ballot will be candidates for two school board seats, a four-year term and the remaining two years in the four-year term of a board member who resigned.

Petitions for a place on the ballot can be submitted at the board of education office on Clarkston Road until April 7 at 4 p.m.

Candidates must have petitions with at least 20 verifiable signatures of registered school district voters. The petition must indicate whether the person is running for the four-year or two-year seat.

If not already registered, voters must register by May 12 to be eligible to vote in the June 9 election. Registrations are taken at Secretary of State offices and at township government offices.

Little laughables

By Kelley Miller

At one point in time, everyone has done something a little bit "off the wall."

Whether it happened when the person was 1 or 100 doesn't really matter. They always look back and laugh.

These actions have to start somewhere, and it, seems that they begin when people are very young.

Perhaps the things little kids do are the funniest of all because they are so innocent. The things kids seem to be fascinated with the most are water, dirt and electricity.

Even the toilet becomes an all-purpose appliance used to wash stuffed animals, clothes, Barbie Dolls, plastic trucks and even hair.

What kids can do with dirt is just as bad. They roll in it, dump buckets of it over their heads, and eat it or feed it to younger brothers and sisters.

The worst part is for the parent who has to wash the child.

It must make them insane because they always go camera happy taking pictures of their nude tots in tubs. Maybe it's just to embarrass the kids when they get older.

When these antics become boring, it is time to explore electricity. It is amazing how many trinkets one can fit into an electric socket.

One intelligent child thought she could start a car by sticking a key in the outlet. Boy, was she ever shocked when she found out what it really did.

Can mixed drinks be more harmful than not mixing? Drinker

Dear Drinker:

No, if you drink beer, wine or hard liquor, all have the same active ingredient-ethyl alcohol, which does the same thing regardless of how it is mixed.

Dear Cat Paw:

If you've taken drugs for a long time and it causes a lot of damage to your brain, will you ever get it back? Wondering

Dear Wondering: There is a point of no return—the time when you have to pay the price. For some it is a mental institution, for some it is jail and for some even death. But for all, it is a family torn apart with grief.

Dear Cat Paw:

Why do kids use drugs when they know they can get hurt?

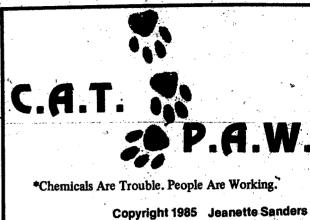

Student

Dear Student:

A group of ninth-grade students made up this list of why they thought people use drugs:

1. Medication; 2. To get high (a buzz); 3. To be cool; 4. To get rid of pain; 5. To experiment; 6. Peer pressure; 7. Family problems; 8. To calm nerves; 9. To get down; 10. To escape; 11. Because of friends;

be harmt

12. Because they like it; 13. Because they're addicted; 14. To work better; 15. To be alert; 16. Because they're bored; 17. To hurt themselves; 18. To hurt someone else; 19. To get in a good mood; 20. For a dare; 21. Fear of stopping; 22. To commit suicide.

As different as all these reasons seem, there is one common thread. People usually take drugs to change the way they feel; to be something different than what they are.

People often feel better about themselves when they're high on drugs, but the effects don't last long. Drugs never solve problems; they just postpone them. 17

Mortgage activity rises substantially

By Dan Vandenhemel

As the interest rates for mortgages go down, the number of people looking into them go up.

Kurt Harlow, a loan officer for Mayflower Mortgage Corp., said there has been a large influx of new mortgages and refinancing of established mortgages.

"It started when the rates approached the single digits," said Harlow, an Orion Township resident. "People have been optimistic about the market and that keeps them coming into the office."

The interest rates are dipping below the 10 percent mark for a 15-year fixed mortgage. In the late 1970s, the rates were around 16 percent. In October 1984, 13 percent was an average rate and it's been steadily falling since.

Harlow said it's hard to tell if the interest rates will keep dropping.

"There's no way to predict how the market will go," he said. "You have to take advantage of it while the rates are low.

"I'd like to see it last forever. But it goes in cycles like everything else. People are playing Russian

Condos planned

New condominiums may find their way to Independence Township following a public hearing on April 10.

At the upcoming Independence Township Planning Commission public hearing, the developers will request that 14.8 acres of property be rezoned Planned Unit Development (PUD) from residential.

PUD zoning allows for a variety of uses on a single parcel of land, according to commission Chairman Neil Wallace.

Developers of the condominiums, planned for Clarkston Road east of Perry Lake Road, are Thomas and Bettie Murphy.

People who wish to ask questions or voice concerns about the proposal may speak at the hearing scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the township hall annex off Main Street.

If the commission recommends the PUD rezoning, the issue will go before the township board for a final change of status.

EDC board change

Denise Schons, an employee of the Dixroulette with their life-styles. They're going to lose out if they wait."

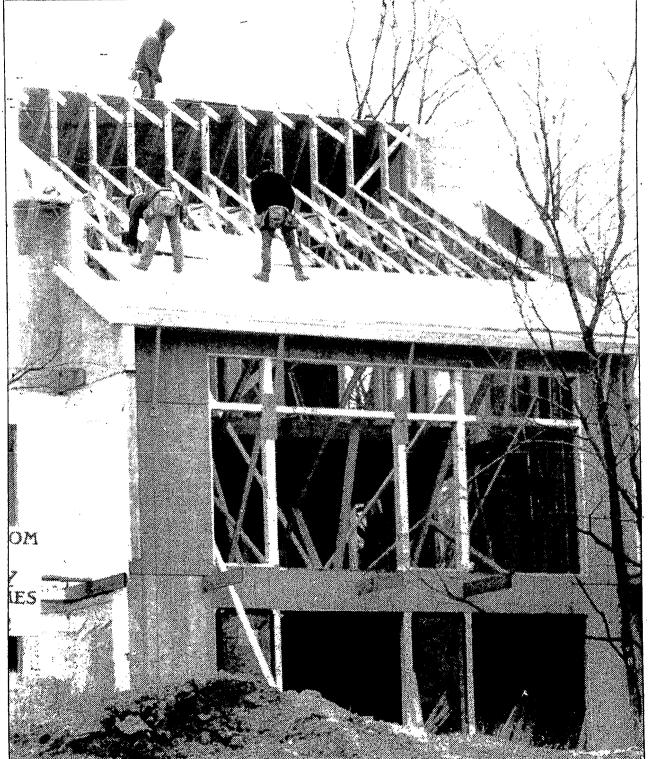

Harlow does a good portion of his work in Independence and Springfield townships. Though he couldn't give exact numbers to match his observations, Harlow said the increase is substantial.

"Most definitely there's been an increase. There's a pent-up desire for new homes out there," he said. "There's so much demand, it's causing a domino effect. It's good throughout the business. The realtors are working plus hours, the mortgage representatives are working plus hours, so are the title companies."

Besides mortgages for new homes, there is a rise in refinancing of homes. Harlow said it's smart business to try to cut the interest rates on a home. "Anyone with a mortgage over 12¹/₄ for two years has been refinancing," he said. "Refinancing is the sleeping giant. It's always there, the question is: When are the people going to do it? They look at different payments to see how it would affect their lifestyles."

The processing of a mortgage application now takes about four weeks, roughly a week longer than usual because of the heavier traffic, Harlow said.

"If anyone is looking to refinance or to get a new mortgage, I'd recommend they deal with a real estate agent, an attorney and an accountant," he said. "Answering any questions about taxes or legal matters should be done by people who know. Dealing with them is extremely important."

ie/Maybee Pontiac State Bank, has been appointed to replace Martha Wheeler on the Independence Township Economic Development Corporation.

The appointment, approved 6-0 by the township board March 18, is effective until 1989.

Wheeler resigned her EDC post last year following her retirement as branch manager of the Clarkston Pontiac State Bank.

Schons joins eight other EDC members on the board.

The EDC helps encourage businesses to locate in the community by assisting with low-interest financing. It also helps increase the community tax base by encouraging the building of taxable projects, helps put people to work and brings service-type facilities, such as nursing homes, to the community.

In addition to Schons, four members were reappointed to their positions on the EDC. They include James Brennan, June McGowan, Robert Olsen and John Steckling.

When the interest rates for mortgages start going down, the number of new homes start going up. Interest rates have dropped three points since late in 1984. This home is under construction in the Lake Oakland Woods subdivision off Maybee Road in independence Township.

Ah, for the life of a shop cat

A half-dozen furry felines find purrr-fect homes inside area businesses

By Carolyn Walker

What do Nickodemus, Daisy, Mandy, Raven, Willow and Twinkie have in common? They are business cats.

But they don't punch time clocks.

These felines of stature live their lives in the lap of luxury, on 9 to 5 schedules, at the beck and call of shoppers who stop to browse and give a little affection at area stores.

They oversee money transactions from pillows in back rooms and occasionally come out for rubdowns on somebody's leg.

It's an enviable life-style. Just ask any guard dog. No chain-link fences or midnight barking, these.

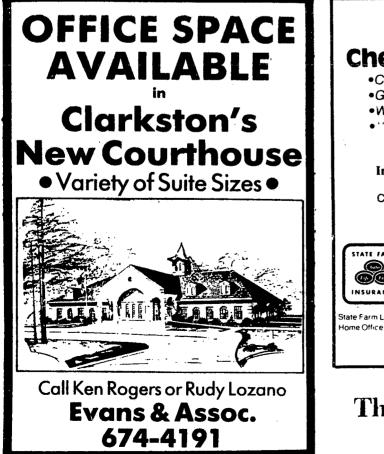

Most of them, excepting Nickodemus and Daisy, attained their homes after harrowing starts. They were strays, but not unlovable.

Nickodemus, however, (he goes by the familiar Nick) and Daisy are pure-bred flame-point Himalayans. They confine their activities to dining and exhibiting themselves at the Just Paperbacks bookstore on Dixie Highway.

They reside with their person (cats don't have owners) Mary Wright, proprietor of the store.

Willow, a tiger cat who resides at Country Greens, feels right at home on a shelf of Easter nicknacks. She adds to the store's atmosphere, say employees and customers.

They never go outside "except when Nick goes out on a honeymoon," says proud Mary with a chuckle. "I would literally say that 95 percent of the people that come in here ask for the cats before they ask for books."

Janet Drake, an employee of Creative Bookstore also on Dixie, says life is comparable for in-resident Raven, a former stray who tends the merchandise in the stockroom.

"It seems like more people like her than don't," she says.

Mandy, a stray with an eye for art, went from a garbage pile to a soft cushion in Tierra Arts & Design on Main Street after she bedazzled owner Joan Kopietz with her "big eyes," says co-owner Buck, Joan's husband.

"She just looked up at Joan, like 'hi."

"We get a few little kids that are afraid of her once in a while," he says, adding that Mandy is more than gentle with the merchandise.

Like Mandy, Willow the brown tabby was destitute when she was rescued from the side of the road by a delivery girl with a big heart.

Saved from a fate of mouse-catching and prowling, Willow warmed her way into the affections of the employees at Main Street's Country Greens floral store.

At home among the shop's plants and flowers, she tiptoes between the vases and generally minds her manners, says manager Suzie Olds. "She has occasionally climbed the ribbon rack," Olds adds.

"We rarely have somebody come in that doesn't like her."

Tough-fellow Twinkie, former cat-about-town, came to rest at the Carpet Crafters store after a brief fling at riding shotgun on a pickup.

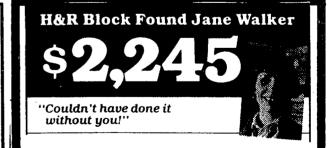

Formerly a kitten who lived with owner Keith Dutcher at home, Twinkie got a case of wanderlust about a year ago, Keith says.

He concealed himself in a box in the back of a pickup and took a ride to Grand Blanc with Keith's wife, Linda, who was bound for work.

Linda performed her duties and at the end of the day came out to find Twinkie sunning himself on a box, according to Keith.

From there, he came to live at the store where he performs his antics for appreciative customers. "He has great entertainment value," Keith says.

Similar sentiments were echoed by the other business people, whose cats meet their work-a-day challenges with purrs and appreciation. Now please pass the milk.

Do I need a will?

Financial advisers often recommend to individuals that they have a will prepared. How do I know if I need a will?

Contrary to popular belief, many people do not need a will. A will serves basically three purposes.

First, if a person desires to leave his or her assets to someone rather than his or her spouse and children, then a will is necessary to counteract the Michigan death distribution laws which in the absence of a will, will distribute the assets to the spouse and children.

Second, if a person has minor children and has specific desires as to whom should act as guardian and conservator for such minor children in the event of the death of both parents, then a will is necessary to appoint such person. In the absence of such an appointment within a will, a probate court will make that determination.

Third, if you have specific wishes as to whom should control, manage and distribute your property during the transition of its ownership from you to your heirs, then you should execute a will so you can appoint your personal representative. Again, if you fail to do so, a probate court will make such appointment.

Many people are content if their property goes to their spouse and children.

Specifically, under Michigan law if a person dies leaving a spouse and children from their marriage, the first $60,000 of assets will go to the spouse and the remainder will be divided equally between the spouse and children.

Also, many people have no real concern about the appointment of a guardian or conservator since such appointment only takes place on the death of both parents and typically one parent does survive the other.

Lastly, most prefer their spouse to be a personal representative upon their death. Even if such spouse is not so appointed in the will, most probate judges on their own are inclined to appoint the surviving spouse.

Hence, for many a will really is a somewhat meaningless document.

The matter most individuals should be concerned with is the avoidance of probate. A will does not avoid probate.

To avoid probate, the best results can be achieved through careful planning with the use of joint property ownership and trust creation.

Send your questions about Michigan law to Robert Delisi, in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

5,889 dessert sales win contest

Customers at the Clarkston Big Boy consumed 5,889 desserts from Jan. 6 to Feb. 26 to win a contest sponsored by Elias Brothers Restaurants, Home of the Big Boy.

The restaurant on Dixie Highway was in competition with the 240 Elias Brothers Restaurants in Michigan, Ohio and Canada.

"It was really neat," said Mike Bogle, a coowner. "I must admit I wasn't hung up on the thing because I didn't feel we had a snowball chance. . . . I was really proud. ----

"Between management and crew, I think they all worked together and did one heck of a job," he added.

Bogle said much of the credit for the contest success goes to night manager Tim Kittell, whom he called a "driving force."

Night waitress Deanna Carnes sold 1,000 desserts to win the prize-a gold Big Boy watch-for top sales in the Clarkston restaurant. The same prize was awarded to top dessert sales waitress on the day shift, Paige Chrisman.

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., March 26, 1986 5

In April, the restaurant will receive a plaque for the achievement and T-shirts with "First Place" for all 103 staff members.

The eatery, located in Clarkston nine years, has consistently placed in the top 15 in sales volume for the Michigan, Ohio and Canada territory, said Jackie Bogle, also a co-owner.

"Clarkston's really supported us," she said.

Annies II opens in Independence Township

Annie Thompson opened her second hair salon, Annies II, in the community she calls home.

The newest Annies is located at 5916 M-15 in Independence Township. Annies I is in Union Lake.

"I looked at this shop, probably two years ago, and I knew I wanted it," she said, but the price was more than she wanted to pay.

"This time, I came back, the price was right, so I bought it. We have done nothing but grow since I've been here. I am so pleased."

Annie and her husband Ray reside in Independence Township. She has four children, three of whom work in her salons as receptionists.

Annies II is a full hair-service salon with cutting, styling, coloring and permanents for men, women and children.

Annie's shops specialize in permanents, which they offer for $26. Haircuts are $8, and shampoos and sets are also $8.

The hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

Frick receives award for insurance work

Milton Frick received the National Quality Award for the high standards of his life insurance sales and service.

A Waterford Township resident, Frick graduated from Clarkston High School in 1962. He has been in the insurance business since 1967.

An agent for the Farm Bureau Insurance Group, his office is on Highland Road, Pontiac. Frick is also a member of the Greater Oakland County Association of Life Underwriters.

The award is a national honor presented by the National Association of Life Underwriters in conjunction with the Life Insurance and Marketing Research Association. Annie works until the shops close three days a week in Union Lake and three in Clarkston.

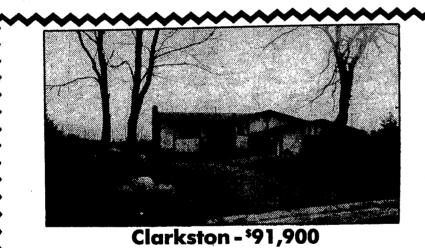

"The business is my whole life," she said. "I like doing what I do and I don't mind putting my time in. I thoroughly enjoy it."

At the Union Lake shop, Annie employs four full-time hair stylists, who all volunteered their assistance when she opened the Clarkston shop in October.

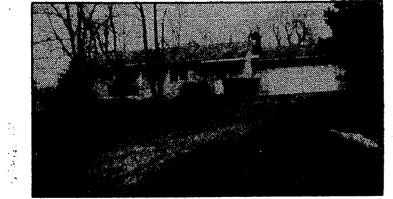

"Each girl said, 'Annie, to help out we'll come over and take one day.' They're terrific," Annie said. "I can't believe how helpful they are. They're my friends, but I guess I didn't realize, until I bought my shop, how willing they are to help me."

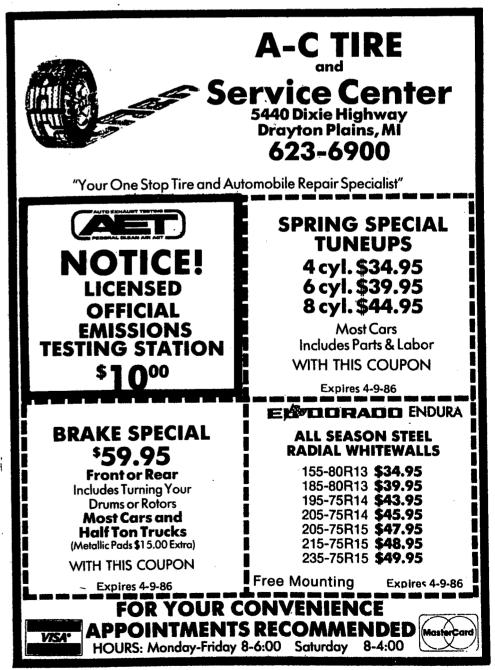

While Annies II owner Annie Thompson [left] puts the finishing touches on a customer's hair style, Joan Scarnegie works on a permanent for another customer.
