Most support bombing of Libya

By Carolyn Walker

The United States bombings in Libya have left area residents shaken, but many say they are glad President Ronald Reagan has finally taken action against terrorism.

While most of those queried by The Clarkston News on Tuesday said they favored the retaliatory measures, a few expressed concerns that they could lead to war in the Middle East.

On April 14, Reagan ordered the bombing of five terrorist sites in Libya as payment for terrorist acts instituted against Americans by Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy.

Khadafy is believed to have been behind the bombing of a disco in Germany and the bombing of a plane in which four Americans died.

Among those supporting the president's decision was Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk.

"I don't think it's going to do away with the problem. I do think he (Reagan) did the right thing,"

Ronk said. "I think it's time we took a stand."

Ronk's reaction was echoed by Jim Snover, a deputy with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

"It's about time we took some kind of action," he said. "Everything indicates they're a center for terrorist schools. So you take the leader. It's as simple as that."

"It should indicate to them that we aren't going to play games with them."

Bob Ward, who was discussing the issue with Snover Tuesday afternoon, agreed. "We know he's the center of terrorism in the world," he said. "Someone's got to step forward in an effort to put an end to it."

Mike Bahri, a co-owner of the Pine Knob Wine Shoppe, also supports Reagan's move. Bahri was born in Iraq and has lived in the U.S. for 20 years.

"I think it's the right decision," Bahri said.

Khadafy's terrorism is the result of selfishness and can only hurt the Libyan people, he added.

"This is only going to add more turmoil there," said Bahri, adding that support by the Arab world won't be realized by Khadafy. "This talk that he's going to unite the Arab nation is just talk."

John Lutz, treasurer of Independence Township, was somewhat hesitant to endorse the president's actions, saying that he feared the bombings could lead to further problems.

"You know this is a real touchy subject," Lutz said. "Bombing is pretty heavy. I'm not sure that was really the best way to handle it."

Clarkston School Superintendent Milford Mason responded much as Lutz did.

"Unfortunately, I don't feel we had any choice but to take some retaliatory action based on the events of the recent past," he said. "But it still concerns me that by one means or another, it could lead us into total conflict in the Mideast."

MAYBE HE WANTS TO BE A HORSE OF A DIFFERENT COLOR: This laid-back fellow was spotted tanning himself just off Andersonville Road on Sunday. Spread-eagled in front of a rock near the road, he was doing his best to soak up the sun's rays oblivious to the 50-mile-per-hour traffic rushing by. Perhaps he had visions of turning a toasty brown.

Abduction attempt investigated

Deputies from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department are investigating the attempted abduction of a Springfield Township 5-year-old last week.

According to a report at the sheriff's department, the boy was playing in his Big Lake Road front yard on April 11 at 7:07 p.m. when a man grabbed him and attempted to drag him into the street.

The boy began screaming and kicking, alerting his mother who was in the house.

After the mother yelled at the suspect and ran from the house, the suspect let the boy go and fled in his pickup truck, the report said.

Police then scoured the area without locating the suspect.

According to the report, witnesses said a vehicle matching the suspect's had been sighted in the area of the attempted abduction several days prior to the incident.

The man is described as a white male, approximately 30 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall with a stocky build.

He has black, short hair and a full beard, the report said. He is believed to have been wearing blue jeans and a light-colored jacket at the time of the attempted abduction.

He fled the scene in an older, full-size pickup truck described as gold colored and rusty.

There are currently no suspects, said Lt. Glenn Watson of the sheriff's department.

Party crackdown

Springfield ponders law

Springfield Township adults will be held responsible for minors who drink alcoholic beverages in their homes if the township board approves a proposed ordinance.

The parental responsibility ordinance, known in other communities as the host liability ordinance, will come to a vote at the May 14 board meeting, said supervisor Collin Walls.

"The request came to us from Chemical People from Clarkston schools," said Walls after the April 9 meeting.

"It's an ordinance which, if adopted, would place responsibility for minors on the host. Minors are under 21. Anyone 16 and older would be held responsible for any parties and activities that they host."

"It's primarily geared toward adults," he added. "It places the responsibility (for serving alcohol to minors) on parents."

Independence Township and the Village of Clarkston have adopted similar ordinances.

Health care center gains first township OK

By Carolyn Walker

The first step toward authorizing the Clarkston Health Care Center was taken by the Independence Township Planning Commission on April 10.

Following a public hearing attended by several neighbors of the proposed facility, the commission unanimously approved the concept with some stipulations.

The hearing was held as required for changing the Dixie Highway site to Planned Unit Development (PUD) from commercial zoning as requested by developer Dr. James O'Neill.

A PUD zoning permits varied uses on a single parcel of land.

O'Neill proposes building the 70,000-square-foot center on six acres behind his current M-15 pediatric practice.

It is to feature outpatient surgery, 24-hour urgent care, mental health services, wellness classes and physicians offices, said O'Neill, who was late arriving for the meeting because he had been treating a patient after office hours.

"A little girl got hit with a softball. That's why we're doing what we do," said O'Neill explaining his tardiness and the need for the facility.

In granting their approval, the commissioners said they were pleased with the proposal but asked O'Neill to further investigate drainage and landscaping alternatives.

They also asked him to provide a description of building materials and floor plans for final site approval.

Most of the residents present voiced concerns about water run-off from the site, which also abuts the A&P on Dixie Highway, Hidden Lane and the Clarkston Village Clinic on M-15.

"I think all of us who live on Hidden Lane are very concerned about the drainage and flooding," said David Taylor, a resident.

Taylor went on to express concern that the commercial zoning would creep into the residential area.

"I think all of us who live on Hidden Lane are very concerned about the drainage."

Rose Marie Sanok of Dixie Highway agreed with Taylor and said she feared the project would increase pollution in nearby Dollar Lake.

Some members of the commission agreed with the neighbors' concerns.

"I have a lot of trouble with this water run-off," said commissioner Holly Stephens. "I really think we have to prevent any more water from getting down in there."

O'Neill and his engineer Del Lohff of Kieft Engineering responded by saying catch basins would be built into the drainage system to collect run-off waste and help prevent lake contamination.

Stephens then questioned the "life expectancy" of catch basins and urged them to consider the basins' future maintenance when developing their plans.

Lohff also explained that flooding problems do not originate above O'Neill's property near M-15, but from below when Dollar Lake and other lakes rise.

During the meeting, O'Neill discussed the focus of the proposed center. It is to augment current services available at local physicians' offices and through the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center, he said.

Designed with the Independence area in mind, the center will focus on community needs, he added.

There are to be 24-hour, on-site paramedics, nurses, doctors and technicians; outpatient surgery; pharmacy; doctors' offices; acute care; wellness classes; and mental health day care services housed in the three-floor center, he said.

"There's any number of things we can do to help the people of our community," said O'Neill, whose partners in the project are Michigan lobbyists Billy Huffman and Kerry Kammer and attorney Tom Rabette. "It's really a plan where medicine is going. . . It's here now."

According to Mike Upham, comptroller for the center, they hope to apply for final site plan approval within 30 days.

The planning commission will then make a recommendation to the township board, which will make the final decision on zoning and the site plan.

Deputy contract set

A two-year contract with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department for four deputies was approved by the Springfield Township Board last week.

For the first year, beginning April 1, 1986, the cost is $55,326 per deputy and the second year, the cost increases to $59,722. The contract ends March 31, 1988.

"(The cost) is for one officer for an eight-hour shift, five days a week," said township Supervisor Collin Walls. "Everything is figured into that rate. We don't pay extra for the vehicle . . . or any other expenses."

The township board approved the contract 4-0.

Sesquicentennial plans in works

By Carolyn Walker

Big Ben in Clarkston? Well, maybe something similar.

Members of the Independence Township Sesquicentennial Committee are planning to purchase a town clock in commemoration of the township's 150th birthday, says Connie Lektzian, committee member.

They have not yet decided where the clock will stand or when it will be purchased, she says, adding that one estimate shows a clock could cost as much as $16,000.

To pay for the purchase, the committee plans several fund raisers. They include the sale of sesquicentennial mugs for approximately $5; the sale of the Hunter School history books of school board minutes for $2; and a balloon send-off at the June 8 old-fashioned picnic at Independence Oaks.

Also, the newly formed Optimist Club of Clarkston has pledged a $1,000 donation for the clock, she says.

In addition to a clock, the committee is searching for an old-fashioned, large bell to be used in a memorial commemorating early pioneers from the Sashabaw Plains area.

Township resident Anson Raymond has pledged money for the dedication of the memorial, according to Lektzian.

The committee also hopes to earn enough funds to rebind an Independence Township Library-owned history book of Oakland County that dates from 1817 to 1877, she says.

Other sesquicentennial plans include the giving out of 2,700 white pine seedlings to students at the five Clarkston elementaries by the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club, says member Virginia Walter.

It is anticipated that white pine trees will also be planted in front of every elementary in commemoration of the birthday, she added.

In addition, a float representing the township is being designed for the July 4 parade by resident Ron Wagner.

Pay increases OK'd

By Kathy Greenfield

Base salary increases of 5.4 percent for the six central office administrators were unanimously approved by the Clarkston board of education Monday night.

The action came at about 10:15 p.m. following a 45-minute closed session to discuss the raises for 1986-87.

The board also approved 6 percent base salary increases for eight supervisory staff members who are not members of bargaining units.

The board acted on the motion to approve the raises without discussion.

After the meeting, Superintendent Milford Mason said the 14 staff members are also eligible for performance incentives of 2 or 4 percent, which could be paid in addition to their salaries.

Evaluations of job performances are to be completed before June 1, and based on the evaluation, the work of each will be judged by the board of education as "satisfactory," with no payment; "excellent," with a 2 percent payment; or "outstanding," with a 4 percent payment.

The performance incentive payments will be similar to bonuses, because they will not increase base salaries and are to be paid in lump sums.

The board approved the following base salaries for non-affiliated personnel: Barbara Banker, community services coordinator, $25,029; Kevin Bickerstaff, head bus garage mechanic, $27,131; Jack Ellis, adult vocational education coordinator, $27,560; Virginia Farmer, adult education coordinator, $29,156; Mildred Rundell, data processing coordinator, $25,120; Jean Thompson, central office manager, $26,282; Gary Bliss, transportation supervisor, $33,738; Mary Clay, director of food services, $31,051.

The board approved the following base salaries for administrators: Conrad Bruce, $53,099; Alberta Ellis, curriculum director, $53,099; William Jackson, business manager, $51,322; William Neff, $53,099; Mel Vaara, assistant superintendent in charge of auxiliary services, $54,685; and Milford Mason, superintendent, $62,115.

There was no change in benefits, which include hospitalization with a prescription rider, dental and optical coverage.

A car is included in the agreement for the superintendent of schools and for the auxiliary services director.

Salaries for building principals, assistant principals and directors are subject to the outcome of teacher contract negotiations.

The Clarkston school district's budget for the 1985-86 school year totaled approximately $21 million.

X's mark aerial spots

By Kathy Greenfield

The giant yellow X's that have appeared on the roads around Clarkston are there to assist state highway department map makers.

"We're going to fly over M-59, I-75 up to M-15, and make some maps," said Larry Christenson, supervisor of photogrammetry for the Michigan Department of Transportation.

In all, about 150 X's mark the spots that will provide scale and elevation information when he makes the maps, Christenson said.

Airplanes from the state bureau of aeronautics will provide the aerial photographs. They'll fly when the skies are clear.

"We can't have any clouds because they cast shadows," he said. "Spring is the best flying season, before the leaves come out and after the snow is gone."

The X's on M-15, Clarkston Road and on I-75 are related to plans to widen I-75 between Square Lake Road and M-15, Christenson said.

Also planned is the widening of about four-and-one-half miles of M-59 from Opdyke Road to Crooks Road, where another collection of the bright yellow marks can be found.

The X's are painted on roads and those found on the ground are put down with tape. Each leg of each X measures 8 feet long.

"Barring any construction where they've been painted on, they could last two to three years," Christenson said. "Traffic wears them down faster than you would think."

About 20 people have called his office to ask about the X's, said Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk.

Most people were curious, he said, with concerns voiced only by those worried about the possibility of M-15 being widened through the village of Clarkston.

Gary Stonerock, owner of Air Land Surveys Inc. of Independence Township, provided the proper name for the X's: "photo identifiable targets on aerial photography."

A private contractor for aerial mapping, Stonerock won't be involved with the highway department's I-75 and M-59 projects, but he remembers well an experience he had with X's in Ecorse.

The X's were put in place by his staff because of aerial mapping needed for a Great Lakes Steel development.

"I got calls from all over the county," Stonerock said, calling the Ecorse community's reaction an "uproar."

This bright yellow X, one of about 150 dotting the countryside, is on Clarkston Road, about 1 1/2 miles from the M-15 intersection.

Plan for bazaar

Does your non-profit organization have crafts or goodies they want to sell?

Plans are now in the works for the coming 1986 Charity Bazaar at the Summit Place on Telegraph Road in Waterford Township.

This 16th annual event is sponsored by the North Oakland SCAMP Funding Corporation and proceeds go to Clarkston's SCAMP, a summer camp program for physically and mentally impaired children and youths.

Charitable organizations are invited to rent booths and join the bazaar, which is scheduled from Oct. 6 through Oct. 11.

This year's theme is "Michigan Look About You" and participants are asked to decorate their booths and wear costumes based on this theme.

Daily cash prizes of $20 for first place and $10 for second place will be given to the best decorated booth, best costumed attendants and quality and display of merchandise.

Booths may be rented for one day or as many as six days. They range in price from $7 for one table to $10 for three tables and there is an additional fee for tablecloths, if desired.

A training and information session is to be held May 23 at 10 a.m. in the Summit Place Community Room.

For further information contact Sandy Scutt, chairperson, at 394-0190 or Jack Hunt at 332-4178.

Free fruit tree advice

Questions about fruit trees will be answered by Rebecca Williams at Bordine's Better Blooms on Saturday, April 19.

Williams is from Hilltop Nurseries, a fruit tree nursery in Hartford, Mich.

She will be at the Bordine's in Rochester from 9 to 11 a.m. and at the Clarkston Bordine's from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Bordine's is located at 1835 S. Rochester Rd., Rochester, and at 8600 Dixie Highway, Springfield Township.

RECORD BLOOD DRIVE: Bob LaPorte (left) and Mike Walters accept commendations for a 136-pint blood drive at Clarkston High School from Larry McGee, regional representative of blood services for the American Red Cross. LaPorte and Walters were in charge of the Student Council-sponsored blood drive for which donations were asked in memory of CHS Principal John Kirchgessner, who died in an airplane crash in March. "It was a good thing to do, the idea of donating in his cause to help other people," said Walters, who credited CHS Assistant Principal Jan Gabler with the idea. The framed commendations included one each for LaPorte and Walters and one for the school. "When a school does something unusual, and indeed successful, we like to honor them like this," said McGee. The 136 pints were the highest total for CHS as far back as Red Cross records were available, to 1977.

Eagles, Baptists make pact

The Baptists and the Eagles have reached an agreement and the planning commission has recommended approval of rezoning for a church near the Clarkston Eagles Lodge.

On April 10, the Independence Township Planning Commission, in a 6-1 vote, endorsed the rezoning of property off Maybee Road from commercial to residential for the building of the Waterford Baptist Church.

A final decision on the rezoning must be made by the township board.

Chairman Neil Wallace voted against the motion without comment, but after the meeting he said cast his vote because many outlying churches are relocating in Independence.

"We've seen a significant amount of new churches come into the township in the last nine months to one year," Wallace said. "I don't think we're looking closely enough at how much land we want to devote to that use."

The building of churches on property that was once zoned for commercial use, such as this church was, erodes the tax base because churches don't pay property taxes, Wallace added.

For several weeks, the Baptists and the Eagles have been attempting to come to an agreement about the potential summer use of alcoholic beverages by the Eagles.

According to church representative Bob Hopper, there had been a verbal agreement that the church would not interfere with the Eagles' practices.

But the Eagles and planning commission wanted a written agreement.

A formal agreement that the church would not interfere with future Eagles' events at which liquor will be served was signed between the organizations at the planning commission meeting.

"At this time, we have no problem with the land use," Hopper said before the agreement was signed.

The developers propose building the church on five acres which abuts the Eagles' lodge and Sashabaw Plains Park.

The Eagles renew their liquor license annually and must obtain a special land-use permit to hold outdoor events each year.

Voting to recommend approval were commission members Holly Stephens, Joseph Figa, John Gray, Brent Bair, Carol Balzarini and Betty Jo Fussman.

Two to travel

Two Springfield Township officials will be attending a planning and zoning seminar in Madison, Wis., on May 7, 8 and 9.

Township Supervisor Collin Walls and planning commission chairman Joe Gorka plan to attend the seminar.

The township will cover the estimated $800 for both of their expenses, Walls said.

Included in the seminar will be discussions on zoning structure, zoning regulations, zoning to protect groundwater, growth management and subdivision ordinances, he said.

The township board approved the expenses, 4-0, on April 9. William Whitley was absent.

Raises for staff

Non-elected Springfield Township employees will receive approximately 5 percent wage increases in 1986.

The township board approved the eight raises, 4-0, at the township meeting on April 9. William Whitley was absent.

"The increase was approximately 5 percent for those employees who had been here one year or more," said Supervisor Collin Walls.

Employees who had been there less than one year received slightly more than 5 percent due to post-probationary adjustments, he said.

Opinions

Thoughts on striking back

Who are the terrorists?

We Americans say a "terrorist" bomb exploded in a German night club. An American soldier, Sgt Kenneth Ford of Detroit, and a Turkish woman were killed.

At 2 o'clock in the morning bombs are dropped on Libya. The Arab nations call them "terrorist" bombs.

President Reagan said it's "something we had to do." Really? We had to kill men, women and children? Why? Why didn't Turkey attack Libya?

Absolutely no one says this middle of the night air strike will stop attacks on innocent people around the world.

Countries in the Middle East have been retaliating for years. Has Palestinian, Lebanese and Israeli retaliations stopped them?

Has violence stopped in northern Ireland? Africa? Central America?

Indeed, the opposite is true. There are more retaliations.

The country of South Africa has acted from a position of strength and force. It hasn't stopped those seeking representation in government.

The United States attack on Libya has already brought promises of reprisals from other Arab countries . . . countries where there is less meaning to life by individuals than we place.

When someone totally believes life after death is greater than earthly living, sacrifices are not even viewed as such.

It is people who think like this that President Reagan thinks he can slow from doing acts of violence. We think he's wrong. Very much wrong.

We wish he were right, hope he is right. We wish leaders of terrorism all over the world would realize the sacrifices of lives, for whatever reason they invent, would want the killing of their citizens to stop.

The families of the dead in Tripoli must mourn the deaths of their loved ones just as strongly as Sgt Ford's family in Michigan. They're gone, and for no good reason. Individuals may think they are martyrs, but families suffer.

Violence begets violence, whether it's in living rooms in Oakland County or streets in foreign lands. We blame much of it on non-rational people. Then we see other acts from people we believe to be fully rational.

Somehow, they are like-thinking people. JAS

Letters to the editor

Firefighters praised

We would like to commend the Independence Township Fire Department for once again saving our property from major damage caused by a field fire.

Last spring, our neighbors were burning debris on a windy day and started their field on fire. The firefighters were able to extinguish the blaze just as it reached our lot line—it was too close for comfort.

Last Monday, another neighbor was burning on a windy day and their field caught on fire. This time, we were not so lucky.

The fire destroyed over 50 evergreens which we had planted, tended and watched grow over the last 10 years.

We should consider ourselves lucky, however, since the firefighters extinguished the fire less than 100 feet from our propane tank and house!

We may have only lost trees, but the fear of seeing that fire racing toward our house will remain a vivid memory.

Thank you, firefighters.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

If you want to see someone cringe, tell them you just had oral surgery.

We've all heard the dentist say 'no one likes to go to a dentist.' Sometimes that is given as reason for early retirement, change of professions, etc.

Last week the publisher of the Lapeer County Press said he would rather see a dentist than a doctor. Cynics will comment, that's like saying you'd rather be hit on the head with a six pound sledge than a seven pound hammer.

After getting a second and third opinion, I caved in to the reasoning that a few weeks of inconvenience (none mentioned pain) now would be worth retaining my home-grown choppers for the extra years of my life.

If I die right after the last operation, I'm going to be very upset.

Oral X-rays have been showing for years the bone receding and pockets forming under my gums. The jokes of burlesque days are true, 'your teeth are fine, but your gums gotta go.' "Save the gums" sounds like a good dental motto for bumper stickers.

Gums and their troubles may be savior of the dental profession. We keep hearing about how fluoride and Caridex is going to stop and/or remove all tooth decay, thus eliminating the need for dentists entirely by 1987.

However, those we hear it from have forgotten there's more to a jaw than teeth and bone. So, gums is where the future's at in the offices of reclining chairs and too-bright overhead lights.

In fact, the dentists I've seen have ignored the three teeth that have pieces of filling missing. "We'll get to that, let's save the gums."

Actually, I've always felt pretty good about my gums. They've been with me a long time, and we speak the same language. I don't hurt them and they don't hurt me. It's been a good relationship.

I feel the same way about a garter snake that's been sunning itself on the west side of our house each summer for a couple years. We see each other, nod, and go on our way.

Now things are changing. Not with the snake, but with the gums. "They have to be laid back, the teeth cleaned better than ever before, and then the gums put back further down."

For lay people, that means the doctor is going to put a knife in my mouth, cut open my gums, chip tartar from the roots of my teeth, and needle-and-thread my favorite gums back together, lower.

Well, believing professional people know what's right and best, I succumbed to it all . . . twice. And, you know what? I've never felt a thing. Oh, maybe some itching, but no pain. And, my gums and I are feeling good about each other again.

'Good morning' is Margaret's trademark

By Julie LePere

Margaret Bishop nearly always smiles when she works. She sweeps, mops, shines windows and empties waste baskets, and she even keeps the outside looking neat and trim.

She has worked maintenance at McDonald's on Dixie Highway in Independence Township for 13 years.

"As a manager, I value her highly," said her boss, Cathy Robertson. "If I need something done, I know she will do it right."

Margaret, who lives in Davisburg, works the morning shift. She is known to customers by her daily greetings of "Good morning!"

Margaret paused after work and talked about the reasons for her cheerful attitude.

"I like working here. I like seeing people and talking to them," she said. "I especially like when the weather starts getting nice because I work outside."

Margaret also shared something from her personal life that's added to her happiness.

"I'm going to get married," she said. Margaret and her fiancé, Michael Beasley, are planning a June wedding.

Do you know someone who works at a local business and deserves recognition for a job well done? We'd like to share your praise. Call The Clarkston News weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 625-3370 or drop us a line at 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Margaret Bishop pauses after work for a picture. She takes care of the maintenance at McDonald's and smiles while she does it.

Laughter: It's worth sharing, and that's what Jane Basinger did this week when she brought in an article clipped from Grand Marais Pilot & Pictured Rocks Review, a newspaper published in the upper peninsula.

The piece titled "Are You Getting Older?" was submitted to the newspaper by Delores Monroe. She, too, was passing it along.

So, although I cannot credit the author of the article, I'll follow suit.

"The aging process is a first-class sneak. Here is a quiz to test how you are faring:

"You are getting older when:

"... Everything hurts, and what doesn't hurt, doesn't work.

"... You feel like the night after, when you haven't been anywhere.

"... You get winded playing chess.

"... Your children begin to look middle-aged.

"... You know all the answers, but nobody asks you the questions.

"... You turn off the lights for economic rather than romantic reasons.

"... You sit in a rocking chair and can't get it going.

"... Your knees buckle and your belt won't.

"... You're 17 around the neck, 42 around the waist and 96 around the golf course.

"... You just can't stand people who are intolerant.

"... You burn the midnight oil until 9 p.m.

"... Your back goes out more than you do.

"... Your pacemaker raises the garage door when you see a pretty girl go by.

"... The little gray-haired lady you help across the street is your wife.

"... You get your exercises acting as pallbearer for friends who exercise.

"... You have too much room in the house and not enough in the medicine cabinet."

Parking pains

Jim Fitzgerald

It is expected that a Dearborn minister will lead a non-violent double-park-in at the Detroit Club to protest carism in Detroit.

The person expecting this is my friend Ralph, who is a Dearborn resident. He began expecting it last week after he drove into downtown Detroit to visit me in the Free Press building and couldn't find a parking space.

Ralph didn't want to park in a public parking lot because he hadn't recently inherited a fortune to pay the fee. He planned to talk to me for only about five minutes, so his best bet was a parking meter, but they were all occupied.

However, Ralph noticed a dozen cars double-parked on either side of Cass between Fort and Lafayette. There was room for his car at the end of the line on the west side, so he double-parked and began to get out of his car.

But a uniformed man stopped him. He wasn't a cop; he was the valet parker from the Detroit Club. He said Ralph couldn't double-park there unless he was lunching at the club. Ralph confessed he wasn't a club member, and he was ordered to keep moving.

Ralph finally found an open meter, and he also found a meter maid. She confirmed that the parking valet spoke the truth. Only Detroit Club members and guests can double-park. They can do it for two hours or longer — the entire length of the block, on both sides — even though the city sign says only 15 minutes for loading and unloading directly in front of the club.

The meter maid said she didn't like enforcing the law against peasants, but not rich people, but that her bosses — all the way up to Mayor Young — make her do it. Ralph was irate.

"You can't double-park in certain areas of Detroit unless you belong to a certain club," he told me. "What's the difference between that and not being allowed in a Dearborn park unless you live in Dearborn?"

"A lot of Detroiters say it's racism to close Dearborn parks to outsiders. What is it for Detroit to close parking areas to outsiders?"

You might call it parkism, except that is confusing. A Dearborn motorist victimized by parkism at the Detroit Club could be confused with a picnicker kicked out of a Dearborn park for being a Detroit. The problem is the double meaning of the word — you don't have to leave your car in a park to say you parked it. So I think the type of discrimination practiced at the Detroit Club should be called carism.

"Whatever it's called, it is unfair discrimination against non-club members, including those from Dearborn," Ralph said. "I expect a Dearborn minister to rise up in his pulpit and implore all Dearborn residents to demonstrate opposition to carism by double-parking in front of the Detroit Club and staying inside their locked cars until Mayor Young rides up on a motor scooter and gives them a ticket."

If that happens, a second Dearborn minister will probably advise against the double-park-in and suggest, instead, that Dearborn residents boycott Detroit parking lots and meters.

But such a boycott would be effective only until the Cobo Hall expansion is completed, at which time all motorists desiring to stop in downtown Detroit will be required to become Canadian citizens and park in Windsor.

So I favor the double-park-in at the Detroit Club. However, double-parking Dearbornites should be careful that they're not guilty of favoritism while protesting carism. The Detroit Club isn't the only plush downtown club where the city allows only members to park illegally for an entire block. The same thing happens at the Detroit Athletic Club, just a few blocks away.

The double-park-in should be held at both clubs, lest the double-parkers be accused of double standards — or second-basism.

Marble memories

Carolyn Walker

"Now spell abscess."

Those were the words I heard being intoned in a deep masculine voice from my youngest daughter's bedroom over the weekend.

She was busy playing with one of her favorite toys, a Speak-N-Spell, which is strictly a phenomenon of the 1980s.

The Speak-N-Spell is one of those modern-day, hand-held, computer-type toys that is guaranteed to entertain your children for hours while educating them at the same time.

It complements, or in some cases substitutes for, the efforts of parents, school, recess, and friends all at once.

I bought the Speak-N-Spell for my daughter's last birthday because I thought it would enhance what she was learning in school and give her an edge on life.

I'm beginning to wish I had bought her marbles instead.

After all, what child reading at the first-grade level needs to be able to spell abscess?

For that matter, what adult outside a doctor, nurse or veterinarian has use for the word? I wouldn't be using it if I weren't writing this column.

The incident caused me to pause and consider how things have changed since I was a child.

Call it progress if you want, but I think life was better when playtime was left to the combined talents of young imaginations and Mother Nature.

There was a lot to be said for digging holes to China with a stick in the back yard. I struck water doing that once.

Tree-climbing, polliwog-hunting and pretending to fly off picnic tables constituted the kind of childhood events that made for good memories. Even neighborhood fights were interesting and left lasting impressions.

When I was my daughter's age, my favorite pastime involved collecting and playing with marbles.

My friends and I would gather at the edge of the road, make "pots" in the dirt, build elaborate tees with sand and shoot to our hearts' content.

We learned the fine arts of compromise and sharing.

At age seven, I had an impressive collection of over 1,000 marbles.

Many of them had long and elaborate histories, such as the orange-and-white clear marble I got from my teacher Mrs. Wandas on the last day of second grade; the wooden marbles I got from Sandy, who got them from her father's collection; the black peerie that turned purple when you looked inside, which I got from Sandy's extremely good-looking brother Jerry; and the egg-shaped, one-of-a-kind marble that I traded to him in exchange for his friendship.

In addition to the above, I was the proud owner of a rare, smaller-than-usual, blue-and-white marble and a "Vernors-flavored" boulder.

I still have those marbles tucked away somewhere for posterity.

I think I'll get them out and teach my daughter to shoot.

Goodness knows I'll never teach her to spell abscess.

I had to look it up just to write this.

Action on condo proposal tabled until May

By Carolyn Walker

The rezoning of 14 acres for condominiums has been delayed due to an error in the property's description in a public hearing notice.

On April 10, developers of a 22-unit condominium proposal sought to have their Clarkston Road property rezoned from residential to Planned Unit Development, which allows for a variety of uses on a single parcel of land.

But, as it came to light during the hearing that the property had been improperly identified as east rather than west of Perry Lake Road, the commission decided to table action.

Information for the notice was taken from the developer's application which incorrectly identified the site, said commission Chairman Neil Wallace.

A new description must be published; and a second hearing has been scheduled for May 8 as recommended by township planner Richard Carlisle.

The condominium proposal made by developers Thomas and Bettie Murphy calls for 22 units, according to Stuart Mahler, their representative.

Following a New England, Cape Cod design, 12 of the units are to feature two-car garages and 10 feature single-car garages, Mahler said. They are to be built in a horseshoe-type shape.

Some of the proposed units are to be 1,523 square feet in size and others 1,912 square feet. Construction is to be of natural wood with brick chimneys.

They are designed for couples without children, Mahler said.

"We feel that this is a project that has a significant amount of demand," he said.

Though they did not take action on the rezoning and final site plan requests, the commissioners did make some suggestions to the petitioners for their return visit.

Following recommendations by Carlisle and township engineers Hubble, Roth and Clark, the developers were advised to obtain necessary wetland permits and modify the slope of the Clarkston Road entrance to the project.

In addition, Chairman Neil Wallace expressed concerns that the density of the proposed development's units is too high.

The commission's decision to table action until May 8 was unanimous.

Following the public hearing, the commission will make a recommendation to the township board, which will make the final determination about rezoning and final site plans.

FIREFIGHTER'S HEAVEN: Firefighters gathered round a tanker at Deer Lake aren't fighting a fire. Instead, they're learning necessary fire fighting techniques. Led by Independence Township Fire Department Capt. Steve Ronk, a state-certified instructor, the students are enrolled in the Firefighter A-1 class. On April 9, they gained some practical experience in the basics of pump operation and the technique for drafting water from a lake or pond. The 66-hour class for beginning firefighters qualifies them for on-call duties when combined with an advanced first aid course. Ronk leads a morning and evening class with a total of 33 students, about half from Independence Township and the remainder from Orion, Springfield, Groveland, Waterford, White Lake and Highland townships. The class, that began in February and ends this week, will provide more qualified volunteers, who are paid only when they answer alarms. When responding to a fire, firefighters drive up with full tankers. If the fire is large, they need to tap into a large water source, such as a lake or pond, when the tankers go dry. "It's nice when you can go down to a big lake like that," says Ronk. "You can get all the water you ever dreamed of."

Netters have more depth

By Dan Vandenhemel

Not always do more people mean more depth to a team roster, but they do for the Clarkston High School tennis team.

Coach Dick Swartout lost all four singles players from last year's squad that were Greater Oakland Activities League champions.

"It's hard replacing last year's team if you don't have sophomores coming up or double players moving up or any exchange students," the coach said.

He doesn't have a worry because sophomore Jameson Craig is stepping into the No. 1 singles spot. The other three single positions will go to either Dan Travis, Steve Wiedemann—doubles partners last year, Peter Hollis, Philippe Duchene from France or Giovanni Finall from Italy.

"We should do pretty well," Swartout said. "We're deeper. We have good players all the way through the doubles. Last year, we had to scrape for the second and third doubles."

Swartout had to trim the 32 people down to 18 so he can have a workable number. There are only 14 spots open per meet. The other four players will be practicing and getting ready for the future.

The Wolves beat Lake Orion for the league title last year and Swartout figures the Dragons will be the team to beat again.

"They lost all the top players too so I don't know how good they'll be," he said. "I don't expect Kettering, Mott and Northern to be that strong."

Getting a jump on the weather is another reason Swartout thinks the Wolves will be competitive.

The Clarkston Athletic Booster Club paid for two weeks of court time at the Deer Lake Racquet Club. While the weather was cold, the Wolves were warming up.

"That two weeks indoors before Easter really helped," Swartout said. "We got a head start on the weather."

WINNING WAYS: Heather Luchenback pitches against Lapeer East on Friday—and the J.V. softball team wins, 28-22. The Wolves also won Monday against Andover, 17-2. In that game,

Luchenbach pitched a no-hitter; the runs were scored on a walk and an error. The team's record is 3-0. (Photo by Julie LePere)

Track meets not at home

By Dan Vandenhemel

Repairs to the Clarkston High School track and football field should be starting within a couple of months.

Clarkston schools Superintendent Milford Mason said bids are going out now for the work.

"The work will start before the school year is over," he said. "We want to use the field next fall."

Mason said the district has budgeted $130,000 for the project.

The track surface is crumbling and will be patched and the running lanes will be realigned.

The football field will be crowned, and drainage and sprinkler systems and new sod will be put in place.

Because of the track and field work, spring sports had to be rescheduled to other schools, said district athletic director Paul Tungate.

The high school boys' and girls' track teams won't have any meets in Clarkston. Every meet is set at the opposing team's schools.

The track teams at Sashabaw and Clarkston junior highs will follow the same format, and this is the first year they won't be competing against each other.

The Clarkston High School girls' soccer team has moved its home games to the soccer fields at Bailey Lake Elementary.

Up My Alley

Thank you, Clarkston

Dan Vandenhemel

By the time this column hits the news stands, I will have completed the first day of my new job.

Boom, just like that I'm gone.

It seemed I turned up in Clarkston much the same way. You're hired and start working before you know it. On the other end of the spectrum, you find another job and poof, you're gone.

I'm moving up to Bad Axe—yes, that's in Michigan—to become the sports editor of the Huron Daily Tribune. This is a step forward for me.

Since my high school days, I've wanted to be a sports writer for a major daily. Don't ask me why. The hours are horrible the pay questionable, but the most of the people are sincere and I'll be near sports.

Being a reporter is a people profession, you're dealing with the public all the time. That's why it's such a fun job—at times. That's why it is also a very hard change jobs.

Since I started working for The Clarkston News on Nov. 2, 1982, I've done a lot of stories, watched a lot of games and made a lot of friends.

I'm making it a point of not mentioning any names because there are way too many.

But if I were going to name names, I'd include the coaches I've had to deal with.

Some called me back promptly; others took their time. Some just didn't like talking with the press but knew I was just trying to do a job. Others just rambled on about anything.

I'd also mention the kids in the schools I watched grow up.

I'm close enough in age with them that they felt comfortable with me. Telling and pulling jokes with them was a pleasure.

Also making that list would be the people throughout Independence and Springfield township that I've met. They've been fun, interesting and friendly. Keep up the good work.

Finally, I'll get to my co-workers at The Clarkston News, past and present. I didn't put them last because that's what I think of them. They're last because they're the most important.

They gave me a job, they've put up with my jokes, they've cared and they've made me change light bulbs—I don't do windows.

It's rare when I'm serious. I laugh and joke about everything. Maybe that's a built-in defense for getting choked up about saying goodbye. Hey, I'm a shy, sensitive type of guy, so that's why it's so hard to goodbye. I wish I didn't have to, but I do. Clarkston, I bid you adieu.

Winning wrestlers

Six-year-old Ryan Mick is a Michigan AAU state champion wrestler.

Ryan Mick is a wrestling champion. The Clarkston Wrestling Club member came home from the state finals at Eastern Michigan University on April 5 and 6 with a first-place trophy.

Wrestling in the 8-year-old-and-under division, at 45 pounds, Mick breezed through the competition to earn the top honor.

Seven additional club grapplers won awards for their efforts.

Also in the 8-and-under division, Mark Endreszl at 55 pounds was second and Kevin Barnes at 50 pounds was fourth.

In the 9-10-year-old class, Brett Walter at 55 pounds was second and Corey Grant at 65 pounds was third.

Jeff DeRoseau, in the 11-12-pound division, placed second at 65 pounds.

For the 13-14-year-olds, John Anderson was second at 105 pounds.

In the 15-16-year-old division, Mike DeRoseau at 121 pounds was second.

Musical memories

A music-filled step back into time awaits as Clarkston High School singers and musicians present "Try to Remember" on Tuesday, April 22.

"This program is designed for the students and audience to have a fun, sing-a-long, remember and enjoy," said Grayce Warren, CHS music department director.

The concert is to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the CHS Theater. The performance includes music of the 1950-60-70s from Buddy Holly, the Beach Boys, Simon and Garfunkel, John Denver, Anita Kerr, the Carpenters, the Andrews sisters; the musicals "Grease" and "Guys & Dolls"; and commercials.

The music of "Infinity" will be featured. The band's members, all CHS students, are Scott Orth, lead guitar; Greg Hall, bass guitar; Kevin Huber, keyboard; and Jim Kiser, percussion.

Admission to the concert is free, but donations for the music department will be taken.

Auction planned

An auction of services is to be held April 18 to help raise funds for the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club.

The event, to be held at White Oaks on South Williams Lake Road, begins at 7 p.m. and includes hors d'oeuvres and drinks for $10.

The party is the club's largest fund raiser and proceeds are used for civic improvements and college scholarships, says Virginia Walter, club president.

The club's contributions include planting and maintaining of flowers in Clarkston and at Independence Township Hall and the library.

This year, in honor of Arbor Day and the Independence Township Sesquicentennial, the club plans to distribute 2,700 White Pine seedlings to area elementary students.

Tickets for the auction are available at the door or from any garden club member.

U of D presents two one-act plays Saturday

By Dan Vandenhemel

The stage curtain is going up at the University of Detroit Clarkston campus at the Colombiere Center.

Actor-turned-teacher David Regal is producer of the two one-act plays. Curtain time on Saturday, April 19, is 8 p.m. Tickets are $3 for adults and $1.50 for students and senior citizens. To make reservations, call 625-0270.

Regal said he's basically a supervisor because all the work is being done by the students.

He is the artist director for The Theatre Company at the University of Detroit's main campus. The Theatre Company is composed of the elite students in the Bachelor of Arts program. The two plays were written and directed by the students and they act in them.

"Kites" by Jon Katz deals with the serious aspects of two people in mental institutions.

The second play, "Workout" by Maggie Patton, is a spoof of the world of aerobic exercise.

Bringing the productions to the Colombiere Center on Big Lake Road in Springfield Township gives the program more exposure, Regal said.

"The Theatre Company is for those who want to become professional actors," he said. "We have professional actors training the students. It's pre-professional training with a de-emphasis on theory and an emphasis on the practical."

Regal came to the University of Detroit 15 years ago from the San Francisco area. His credits include the movie "Word of Honor" with Karl Malden and numerous commercials and stage plays.

Currently, he is working on the "Rosary Murders," which is being shot in Detroit. He said this movie should be completed by Christmas.

At the U of D Clarkston Campus, he teaches a speech class.

"From September through May, most of the work I do is centered in the Detroit area," Regal said. "During the summer, I go to Chicago and New York for commercials. The students give me a hard time when they see one of my commercials."

"The vanity and ego of seeing myself on TV has subsided. I'm looking at the quality of the piece. If the company is happy and I have the check, it's OK."

Labor Day theme announced

"Salute to Independence" is the theme for the Labor Day Parade, sponsored annually by the Clarkston Rotary Club.

The theme was chosen in recognition of Independence Township's 150th anniversary this year. The parade date is Monday, Sept. 1.

Those interested in sponsoring a float or marching in the parade should contact parade chairman Gerald E. McNally at 625-4997 or 5850 Lorac, Suite I, Clarkston, MI 48016.

All parade participants must be registered. The Clarkston Rotary will judge the entries and present awards prior to the parade. There will be local cable-TV coverage this year.

Swinging sticks and gourging in Arizona

By Jim Sherman, publisher

One of the joys of taking a winter vacation is knowing that while you are basking in bright sunshine, heat and cool drinks, your friends back in Michigan are suffering frostbite.

That didn't materialize last month. However, that is the only complaint we have of being in Arizona in March. While heat records were being crushed in the southwest, so were they in Mid-America. The 70s in Michigan were topped by 20 degrees in Arizona, but somehow I feel the unexpected here was more widely enjoyed than the 90s there.

Vacationers and locals out west would have you believe the lower humidity makes a world of difference. Maybe, but when it's 96 and no breeze, it's hot.

Speaking of 'locals,' there are very few of them. A just completed survey shows five years ago 86.2 percent of the people in the Phoenix valley area lived in some other state.

The same survey shows the westerners have the same concerns as the mid-westerners. Air quality, crime, education and traffic are most important to their quality of life.

I would have thought crime would be rated ahead of air quality, until I viewed the valley from 1,300 feet higher in Carefree. Phoenix is about 1,100 feet above sea level, but lays in a cup between hills.

Looking down from Carefree at 2,400 feet one can see the yellowish, sometimes greenish, haze that hovers over the cities of Phoenix, Tempe, Scottsdale, Glendale, etc. Just breathing is a problem for many there, like our friend Art Stammann. He and wife Lou are moving to the higher elevation of Payson, which many people do in the summer in south Arizona.

This $1.5 million home is under construction, overlooking The Boulders golf complex.

A look from the first tee of the Palms golf course toward the pro shop, club house and lounge of McCormick Ranch.

And some observations

The greater Phoenix area encompasses so much land, so many communities, it's hard to define. And, it's growing rapidly. Perhaps you'll get the picture better if I tell you that area is adding the same number of people each year as there are in the city of Pontiac . . . 85,000.

Cynics say, "Yes, but what they don't tell you is that 40,000 move out each year." That, too, is likely true, since so many of the residents are retirees and like to 'go back home.' But, while you see many 'for sale' signs, you also see many huge developments going every way out of the valley.

And, the wasteland-looking desert sells for top dollar. Shortly before we got there someone bought 16,000 acres north of Phoenix at $10,000 an acre. No water. No sewer. No roads. Just cactus, tumble weeds and snakes.

I probably fell into the wrong crowd out there, what with Jerry Leannais, Chuck Drumheller, and Mickey Hiatt of Oxford and Pete Kalohn of Lake Orion. Those guys talk money like they had it. They are the ones who tell of small building lots going for $125,000 two years ago and reselling for $400,000 now.

Of course, none of them did it. Once in awhile there is a sign of reality, where someone didn't make it, like one large, commercial development on Scottsdale Road that's in bankruptcy.

Our winter vacations seem to center around golf, and this one was no exception. I played the most beautiful course I believe I have ever played, The Phoenician. It's on Camelback Road, and was called Valley Country Club until 1978.

"Beautiful" in this case means flowers and water. Vines with bright yellow flowers cling to the pro shop. Three waterfalls welcome visitors at the entrance. Radiant red flowers fill yards on neighboring condo developments, with waterfalls separating townhouses.

Water tumbles between multicolored flowers and into ponds on various golf holes, like number 17, and at one point, part way up Camelback, a golfer can view the valley.

A person can get the view and help fill several lakes with golf balls for just $90 a couple, including cart. Hurry, though. It's about to become a resort, meaning it will likely go private.

A real golf factory is McCormick Ranch. Four young men ring up dollars (no plastic accepted) as fast as they can, quickly sending people out on one of the two 18-hole courses—Pines or Palms.

Oh, yes, they will take credit cards if you want to buy an over-priced sweater. At least I think $300 is over-priced.

Looking out from the porch of McCormick Ranch golf course, past the practice green to a golfer's view.

Golf is just $82 a couple including cart, and you get to tip golf-bag handlers, pay $2.25 for a hot dog and $2 for beer. (At public Oxford Hills Golf and Country Club, 18 holes and cart for two is $31). You'd expect the clubhouse grounds at McCormick to be well landscaped, green, and beautiful, and they are. Too, the employees are friendly and courteous.

It's a public course and tee times can be made two days in advance.

For a very scenic, short, tight course try Fountain Hills. It's 6,200 yards wind around a hillside and the fairways are lined with houses. The course is about 15 miles northeast of Phoenix and up in the hills. It appears new, and the newspaper, The Times, is just 13 years old.

The trademark of Fountain Hills, that's the name of the town, too, is a manmade 67 acre lake that has a fountain in the middle. It shoots water 565 feet in the air.

See "Swinging Sticks" next page

Entrance to The Boulders Rockresort complex, a Rockefeller project. Hotel space is $325 a night. The golf course is strictly private. Architecture within the grounds resembles boulders in shape and color.

It's almost law that nothing is to be disturbed on a mountain, thus homes are built around the giant rocks and often around cactus.

Swinging sticks

on every hour for 15 minutes. It's visible from every golf hole.

The fountain is actually treated sewage, otherwise water-short Arizona wouldn't allow it. A transplanted Imlay City man, Howard Budnick, told us the fountain sprays green water on St. Patrick's day. He didn't explain how they do it.

While there are many golf courses out there for public play, there are also several that are very private... Desert Highlands (scene of the skins games a couple years), Desert Forest, The Boulders, and Troon are three of them.

Troon, very near Pinnacle Peak, we were told has only one house on the 1,400-lot development. That one house cost $1.4 million and is on a $300,000 lot. Now, that's exclusive.

Thing is, this land would be considered waste land by normal Americans. It's brush, cactus that aren't pretty, sand and stones, plus the crawly things. There's no way to survive, yet insurance companies, pension funds, and financial institutions are changing the unkempt, wild flat and highlands in great haste.

The other thing we do on vacation is eat... too much. For a dessert delight, try the Sugar Bowl on Scottsdale Road in Scottsdale. For great and inexpensive lobster try the North Bank in Phoenix. For a very casual, sort of noisy night try the Satisfied Frog and Horny Toad restaurants in Cave Creek. For nice dining try Churchill's Inn in Carefree.

And, for an inexpensive, plain and simple breakfast, that includes biscuits and gravy, try Black Mountain Cafe in Carefree and Jackie's in Cave Creek.

Arizona is a diversified state for tourists, and that's mostly what we read about. However, it has all the social trouble of the industrial states. Murder, breaking and entering, and armed robbery are prevalent. Poverty reaches one of nine (300,000 people). Unemployment, while lower than Michigan at 6.5 percent, is going up.

Such facts take away some glamour, but 96 degrees in mid-March help bring people back.

Mountainside living is for the rich. The higher the elevation, the higher the lot cost. This boulder-sitting home on Black Mountain was the scene in a James Bond movie.

Super Saturday brochures to arrive Friday

Brochures on the latest Super Saturday are due home Friday afternoon with all elementary school pupils in the Clarkston school district.

The classes for families are planned May 3 from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at North Sashabaw Elementary School. The registration deadline is Thursday, April 24.

There will be 62 offerings from which kindergartners through adults can select three classes, said Jeanne Molzon, youth supervisor for the Clarkston Community Education Department.

Super Saturday will serve as a preview for classes to be offered through community education in the fall, she said. The fee will be $7 a person or $12 a family.

The first Super Saturday was held during the Christmas season and parents were encouraged to go shopping while their children were entertained.

In contrast, the upcoming Super Saturday is designed to allow parents to participate in classes with their children or to take subjects geared toward adults.

Included in the offerings are a series of three classes for women returning to the workforce: resume writing, dress for success with a fashion show by Country Cords and a session on job hunting tips.

Also on the class list for adults are gardening tips, financial planning and aerobics.

Fire warning

Sunbeam Appliance Co. is recalling 8,600 under-cabinet Coffeemaker Flavor-Lock drip coffeemakers, according to a release from the U.S. Consumers Product Safety Commission.

And firefighters from Independence Township are encouraging residents to double-check their appliances because of a fire hazard.

The model number of the recalled coffeemakers is 15306, date coded as GJA, GJB and GJC.

From January 1985 to date, Sunbeam has received 15 reports involving some property damage to nearby combustibles, which included a January 1986 hand burn, the release said.

Owners who identify their coffeemaker as being recalled should discontinue use of the product.

To obtain a free replacement, owners should return their recalled coffeemaker via parcel post, with return name and address indicated, to: Coffeemaker Program, Sunbeam Appliance Co., 1329 Warford St., Memphis, Tenn. 38108.

Owners need not return the glass carafe with their unit.

Consumers who have questions or require further information may call Sunbeam's toll free number, 800-253-6119.

Guy Davis works at his drawing board in the home of his parents Dr. and Mrs. Earl Davis of Clarkston Road. He draws his inspiration from television cartoons.

Artist goes national

Guy Davis draws for Arrow Comics

By Carolyn Walker

Guy Davis is a visionary of a different sort. A creator of beings diverse and distinct, he seeks his inspiration from Japanese television cartoons. And he hones his talent in the family's family room.

Guy is a comic book artist.

It could be said that he fleshes out dreams.

At 19, he is the penciler for Arrow Comics, a Ypsilanti-based comic publication.

Guy takes the scripts of Arrow founders and owners Ralph Griffith and Stu Kerr and with pencils and paper creates characters to populate their books.

In February, Arrow released the first in a series of books called The Realm for which Guy did the artwork.

"I learned my drawing basically from watching Japanese animations. Their animation is really good."

—Guy Davis

Populated with wild and fantastic college students, The Realm is an adult-oriented comic book in which the characters travel to the upper peninsula, discover and open a chest, and are transported into a mystical kingdom. The plot revolves around how they get home, Guy says.

The cover cost of the comic, which also deals in sub-plots of good and evil, is $1.50. But copies now go for as much as $10 because of a limited 10,000 copies published, according to Guy. They were distributed in Canada, and various American states such as New York, California and Florida.

Guy is an artist by nature. Mostly self-taught, he has been drawing for years, he says.

Formerly a cartoonist for The Clarkston News, Guy went to work for Griffith and Kerr after meeting them at a comic book convention.

He submitted examples of his drawings to them and worked on some of their early publications before starting on The Realm.

"After The Clarkston News didn't want Quonto, these guys took it," he says of the character he drew for the paper.

"Everything has happened by luck."

He took a few art classes as a youth and in high school and produced artwork "that gave my art teacher a terrible headache," he says. "(I drew) on the back of test papers like everybody else."

The Clarkston High School graduate then taught himself the art of cartooning by watching Japanese, European and American animated cartoons.

This is the look of The Realm's first cover. Drawn by Guy Davis, it was colored by painter Sandy Schreiber of Arrow Comics.

The Japanese are his favorites, he says, because of their intricacies. In Japan, cartoons are shown on evening television and are very popular, he adds.

"I learned my drawing basically from watching Japanese animations," he says. "Their animation is really good. The Japanese do their cartooning so well, you can turn off the sound and (still) tell what's going on. They're more proud of their work."

"Japanese is what I modeled mine from."

The drawing of each comic book is a learning experience and he improves with each issue, says Guy, who does much of his work in his parents' Clarkston Road home.

Maintaining a consistency in the characters' physical features is not a problem for him, he says. "I know the characters. It's second nature."

Guy says he is content to work at Arrow Comics for a long time, perfecting his craft.

He does have bigger dreams, however.

"I'd love to see The Realm made into a cartoon series," he says. "Or a movie."

Business and garden show this weekend

By Carolyn Walker

Demonstrations and helpful hints from experts and professionals will be available at the Springfield Township Sesquicentennial Business and Garden Show, says Helen Vergin, coordinator.

Forty-six Springfield business people are expected to share their wealth of knowledge and their products at the show Saturday and Sunday, April 19 and 20, from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. at the Springfield Oaks Activities Center on Andersonville Road.

A van conversion demonstration, landscaping, a boat display, photo documentation, flowers, walk foods such as ice cream and pizza, and Fenton radio station WFEN's participation are but a few of the items to be featured.

Businesses to be represented include The Whoopee Bowl, which will feature an Indian teepee; Dixie Auto Body; Davisburg Candle Factory; The Carpet Crafters; the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center, which will construct a patio; and Bordine's, which will be building a bridge at the site to connect two rooms of displays.

Vergin, who spent a year getting businesses together for the show, says she hopes it will become an annual event for showcasing the area's businesses. She also hopes it will lead to a Chamber of Commerce-type organization for area business owners.

But for this year, it is all part of Springfield's 150th birthday celebration.

"It will just be a display of the kinds of things each of these (businesses) are experts on," she said. "My hope is this will be the beginning of a continuation. We've had so much cooperation from the businesses."

Proceeds from the show will go to the Neighbor for Neighbor non-profit organization, a group which helps people undergoing hardships, she said.

Neighbor for Neighbor is also helping to fund some of the sesquicentennial events, she added.

Vergin, a Springfield resident, became involved in the sesquicentennial over a year ago when she went to the township board and offered to help organize events.

She lowers her head and jokes about the many hours of work she has put into the project.

"A whole year," she says of her time toward the business and garden show and her fondness for working with others. "I've literally had to go out and see people, meet people, talk with people."

"I never knew I'd get so involved."

Vergin doesn't take all the credit, however.

"Other people have done a lot of things to help me," she says, mentioning her steering committee. "You can't do a thing like this alone."

Carter to be honored

In recognition of National Volunteer Week, Clarkston Area Youth Assistance is honoring Alfred Carter.

Members of the community are invited to a reception honoring Carter on Sunday, April 20, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center on Clarkston Road in Clintonwood Park.

Carter, a Springfield Township resident, has served as president of youth assistance and in many other volunteer capacities.

He has been nominated by United States Congressman Bob Carr (D-East Lansing) for the President's Volunteer-Action Award.

Microwave-plus

Seafood and sun

Betty Wagner

Easter vacation, now more popularly called "Spring Break," prompts a great exodus via air or car—down I-75—to Florida.

For some, the sun is enough enticement, but for others, a taste for fresh caught seafood at affordable prices adds to the lure of Florida.

Condominiums provide comfortable accommodations with a kitchen for preparing fresh seafood treats. And most condos come equipped with a microwave oven to minimize kitchen duties.

LINDA'S APPETIZER OYSTERS

1 pound fresh bay or ocean oysters
Garlic powder or salt
2-3 tablespoons butter
Grated Parmesan cheese

In a colander, rinse and pick through oysters to remove any shell pieces. Drain and set aside.

Melt butter at high power for 20-30 seconds. Place oysters in clean oyster shells that have been arranged on a round microsafe platter or place oysters in microwave muffin cups.

Drizzle melted butter over oysters. Sprinkle with garlic powder or salt and grated Parmesan cheese. Microwave at high power for 3-4 minutes or until cheese has melted and oysters are cooked to desired degree of doneness. Turn dish once.

Serve with thinly sliced french bread or saltine crackers.

For a quick, carefree supper fit for entertaining guests, try Shrimp Creole, Page 112, "Kenmore Microwave Cooking," A Benjamin Company Book.

SHRIMP CREOLE

4 green onions, thinly sliced
¾ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped green pepper

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 clove garlic, minced
1 can (16 oz.) whole tomatoes, drained and chopped
1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons dried parsley flakes
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 pound cooked shelled fresh shrimp or 1 pkg. (10oz.) frozen cooked shrimp, thawed

In a two-quart microproof casserole, combine green onions, celery, green pepper, butter and garlic.

Cook, covered, on high (maximum power) 3 minutes or until green onions are transparent. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cook, covered on 80 percent (reheat) 5 minutes. Stir. Cook, covered, on 80 percent 6 to 7 minutes or until hot.

Let stand, covered, 5 minutes before serving over hot cooked rice. Serves 4 to 6.

Fresh shrimp may be cooked in the microwave at 70 percent (roast) for 5 to 7 minutes a pound, or until shrimp are pink and opaque. Cook them in a shallow dish, covered, and rearrange halfway through.

Fresh shrimp may also be placed in rapidly boiling, seasoned water, quickly brought back to a boil, and cooked until they are pink and opaque (about 5 minutes). Do not overcook shrimp or they will be tough.

Oyster stew or soup is popular wherever fresh oysters are found. The following fresh oyster-artichoke soup was inspired by a visit to the Paradise Cafe in Graton Beach, Fla.

OYSTER-ARTICHOKE SOUP

3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
2 14½-ounce cans clear chicken broth

6 green onions, sliced
¼ teaspoon white pepper
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
½ pound fresh oysters
1 14-ounce can artichoke hearts
1 12-ounce can evaporated milk

Place the butter in an 8 to 10 cup microsafe soup tureen or bowl; microwave at high for 30 to 40 seconds or until melted.

Add the flour and microwave for 30 to 40 seconds, or until bubbly. Stir in chicken broth; microwave at high 2 minutes. Stir.

Add the chopped green onions and white, black and red pepper. Microwave at high 2 minutes; stir. Reduce to 50 percent power (medium) for 10 minutes.

Drain oysters, reserving liquid. Rinse and pick through oysters, discarding any shell pieces. Chop oysters and add to soup along with reserved oyster liquid.

Drain and chop artichoke hearts. Add to soup. Microwave at 50 percent power for 30 minutes.

Stir in evaporated milk; microwave at 50 percent power for 2 to 3 minutes, or until serving temperature. Taste. Add more of the peppers, if desired. Garnish with fresh chopped parsley. Serves 6 to 8.

Many grocery stores in our area carry fresh seafood; however, frozen products may be substituted. Defrost before using them in these recipes.

Home economist Betty Wagner, an Independence Township resident, is a graduate of West Virginia University. She teaches microwave cooking classes at Sears at the Oakland Mall and through the Clarkston Community Education Department.

New arrival

David and Jeanne Garland celebrated the birth of their first child April 3.

Mark David was born at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac. He weighed in at 8 pounds 12 ounces and measured 21 inches long.

Jeanne is staying in Independence Township on Maybee Road with her mother, Karen White. David is in the Navy and is stationed on the U.S.S. Enterprise, an aircraft carrier located in the Indian Ocean.

Other grandparents are Ron Herron of Rochester, Donna Olafsson of Rochester and James Garland of Royal Oak.

In service

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Jeffrey Phillips recently reported for duty with Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron Light 43, Naval Air Station North Island, San Diego, Calif.

A 1980 graduate of Clarkston High School, he joined the Navy in November 1982. He is the son of Carole Wilson of Holcomb Road, Independence Township.

Grads

Two residents of Independence Township are among the 218 candidates for bachelor's degrees who will be eligible to participate in Alma College's 99th year commencement this month.

Michael Conway majored in exercise and health science. He is the son of James and Judy Conway of Riverview.

Gary Seelbinder majored in business administration. He is the son of Roy and Carol Seelbinder of Scenic Ridge.

Geukes-Raeck

John and Marge Geukes of Snowapple Drive, Independence Township, announce the engagement of their daughter Susan Marie to David Michael Raeck, the son of Carl and Lorraine Raeck of Essexville. The bride-to-be graduated from Clarkston High School in 1978 and from Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, in 1982. She is employed as a certified public accountant for the State Auditor General in Lansing. Her fiancé graduated from CMU in 1982 and is employed by a certified public accounting firm in Lansing. A September wedding is planned.

CHS music makers attend festival

Seventeen instrumental music students represented Clarkston High School at the State Solo and Ensemble Festival at Howell High School.

The students of teacher Clifford Chapman qualified for participation in the March 22 competition by earning first division ratings at the District 4 Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association Solo and Ensemble Festival held in February.

Superior ratings were won by the following students: senior Kim Millard, piccolo solo; senior Erin Dupree, clarinet solo; senior Matt Hargett, baritone solo; and junior Vicki Geyer, violin solo.

Superior ratings also went to a percussion ensemble including Beth Hunn, Brendan McMullen, Dan Dobson, Rod Swanson, Jeremy Roberts, Jim Kiser and Vicki Geyer; and a jazz-rock combo including Jim Kiser, Scott Orth, Greg Hall and Kevin Heber.

Second-division ratings were won by the following students: senior Kerri Bartlett, clarinet solo; junior Vicki Geyer, vibraphone solo; Tammi Topous and Shari Coleman, flute duet; and Mike Peterson, Craig Hayward, Gregg Hall, Scott Orth and Jim Kiser, jazz combo.

As a result of their performances, two students were invited to perform as members of the Michigan Youth Arts Festival State Honors Band and Orchestra: Vicki Geyer, violin, and Erin Dupree, clarinet.

Erin was especially honored in being selected as a State Youth Arts Soloist Candidate, said Chapman.

The selection was based on her score of 98 points out of a possible 100 in the Proficiency III category, the most difficult level of performance on a solo instrument.

Honors

Clarkston area student Gregg Babcock has been named to the dean's honor roll for the winter day term at Lawrence Institute of Technology, Southfield.

It's official

Reeds adopt Trent James

Jim and Carolann Reed announce an addition by adoption.

Trent James, 3, was officially adopted March 27. He's been a member of the family through foster care for two-and-one-half years.

He was welcomed into the family by Jim and Carolann and by Jim Jr., Gary and Amy, Bill, Dan, Reggie, Leanne and Brian.

The Reeds reside on West Ellis Road in Springfield Township.

Criger-Bork

Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Criger of Waldon Road, Independence Township, announce the engagement of their daughter Cynthia Lynn to Dr. Michael David Bork, the son of Melbourne Bork of Warren and Mary Ellen Bork of Dearborn Heights. The bride-to-be, a Detroit resident, is a 1982 graduate of Henry Ford Hospital School of Nursing. She will complete her bachelor's degree in nursing at Wayne State University, Detroit, in May. Her fiancé, a resident of Kailua, Hawaii, graduated from Wayne State University in 1980 and completed his medical studies at the University of Health Studies, Kansas City, Kan., in 1985. He is currently in the residency program at Tripler Army Medical Center, Honolulu, Hawaii. They plan to be married in May.

Bowlathon raises cash for camp

When the pins fell during the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance fourth annual Bowlathon, cash accumulated to send children to camp.

Some 42 participants helped raise money for the cause on Sunday, March 16, at Cherry Hill Lanes North in Independence Township.

The bowlers gathered pledges for the number of pins knocked down in a three-game series. So far, $5,200 has been pledged and turned in.

The top bowlathon winner was Dave Merz, bringing in $795.65 and winning a trip for two to Toronto. Lois Harmon came in second with $548.66, winning a 13-inch color television. John Ruelle brought in third place with $425, winning a 5-inch black and white television.

Other winners were Rick Carpenter, $380; Betty Kozma, $296.48; and Kay Robertson, $287.36.

Last year, Clarkston Youth Assistance sent 103 youngsters to camp. Most attended Camp Oakland in Oxford.

The majority of the children are referred by elementary school teachers for nine days at camp designed to build their self-esteem.

The response to the camping adventure has been positive from parents, kids, counselors and teachers. In recent years, youth assistance has received 100 to 110 referrals each year.

Couple set June wedding

Lori Anne Schlack and Eugene Charles Warman have set a June wedding date.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mrs. Warren Schlack of Warren and the late Warren Schlack. She is a graduate of Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warman of Sashabaw Road, Independence Township. He graduated with a bachelor's degree from Oakland University, Rochester, and with a master's degree in engineering from Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

Club notes

The Legion, Auxiliary, Sons of the American Legion and the Juniors of Chief Pontiac Post No. 377 recently raised $3,300 at their annual Muscular Dystrophy Benefit.

April Reinhardt, Senior Miss Poppy, was interviewed by cable-TV to explain how this benefit began several years ago and to inform the public that all the money raised remains in our county to help MD patients.

April and Samantha Morley, Junior Miss Poppy, recently traveled to the Battle Creek Veterans Hospital to make poppies with the veterans.

Too big to swallow?

Everybody likes a tax shelter. Did you get your IRA deduction this year...or was the $2,000 too big for one bite?

Why not take it little by little?

At Pontiac State Bank you can make IRA deposits for as little as $25. Put in some money every payday or every month. Just decide how much you want to handle, come to PSB and do it!

Your tax shelter could be full size next April.

There are substantial penalties for early withdrawal.

HOST LIABILITY ORDINANCE No. 99 VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON

AN ORDINANCE REGULATING THE USE OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES AND DRUGS AT HOUSE PARTIES, PROHIBITING THE DISPENSING OF SAME TO MINORS, AND PROVIDING PENALTIES FOR THE VIOLATION OF ITS PROVISIONS.

THE VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON HEREBY ORDAINS:

ARTICLE 1 - DEFINITION

For the purpose of this Ordinance, the terms listed herein shall be defined as follows:

A. ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE. Any alcoholic liquor, beer, wines, spirits, or alcoholic beverage as defined in Section 2 of the Michigan Liquor Control Act (MCLA 436.2) as amended from time to time.

B. CONTROL. The authority to regulate, direct, superintend or govern; the authority to exercise restraining or dominating influence over, including a possessory right of property regardless of whether the party exercising such control is physically present or not.

C. CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE. Any drug substance or immediate precursor designed and listed in schedules 1-5 of Sections 7201 to 7231 of the Public Health Code, (MCLA 333.7201, et seq., as amended).

D. MINOR. A person not legally permitted by reason of age to possess alcoholic beverages under MCLA 436.33b, as amended.

E. HOUSE PARTY. Any social gathering at a residence including at least one person who is not the owner, tenant or regular occupant of the residence.

F. PERSON. An individual 16 years of age or older.

G. RESIDENCE. A house, apartment, condominium or other dwelling unit, including the curtilage and land around the dwelling unit to the extent that the land is subject to the control of the same person having control of the dwelling unit.

ARTICLE 2 - PROHIBITED ACTION

It is unlawful for any person having control of any residence to allow a house party to take place, nor continue once begun, at a residence within the control of that person, when the person knows or reasonably should know that alcoholic beverages or controlled substances may be or have been possessed or consumed at the house by a minor.

ARTICLE 3 - SEVERABILITY

If any portion of this Ordinance is declared invalid or unenforceable for any reason by a court of competent jurisdiction, the remaining provisions shall remain in full force and effect.

ARTICLE 4 - PENALTIES

Any violation of this Ordinance shall be deemed a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punishable by confinement of not more than ninety (90) days or by a fine of not more than Five Hundred and 00/100 ($500.00) Dollars or both in the discretion of the court.

ARTICLE 5 - EFFECTIVE DATE

The provisions of this Ordinance shall take effect twenty (20) days after passage.

Made and passed by the Village Council of the Village of Clarkston this 24 day of February, 1986.

Members of Clarkston Junior High School's quiz bowl team pose for a picture at the junior high school. Standing in the rear are the league's first-place winners. Kneeling in front is the fifth-place winning team.

Quiz bowl teams fare well

Clarkston Junior High School quiz bowlers showed 'em how to do it this year.

The junior high's two teams placed first and fifth in their league in the finals recently held in Grand Blanc.

The first-place team consisted of Matt Cook, Rebecca Kar, Kari Upham, Britt Ried, Bethany King and Heather Flor.

They defeated White Lake Junior High School for a perfect record of 15-0.

The fifth-place team consisting of Ben O'Rourke, Chris Neighbors, Jamie John, Todd Conklin and Aaron Powell finished with a record of 9 wins to 6 losses.

Other members of the team were Heather Flor and Ethan Lee.

Teacher Anthony Stachurski, who coached the team with teacher SuVonne Hogan, was elated with the teams' performances.

"It was a real success," he said of this year's junior high league events, the first for that age group. "It was the first ever and we won it. It's really exciting."

Questions asked of the students included some based on general interest topics and specific questions geared at current events.

The two teams won their awards out of a field of 16.

WINNING WRITERS: Clarkston Junior High School students Nichole Chinavare (left) and Nancy Carosella received top ratings in the recent state scenario writing competition sponsored by the Future Problem Solving program at the University of Michigan. Nichole Chinavare, a ninth-grader, earned second place with an essay on world hunger. Nancy Carosella, an eighth-grader, earned a fifth-place victory with an essay on endangered species. Nichole's scenario will be submitted as one of the three Michigan entries in the national scenario competition. During the competition, students are given hypothetical problems in the year 2006 and must write scenarios or stories about possible solutions.

How many?

Dear Cat Paw:

How much drinking would it take for the liver to not function properly on a regular basis?

Signed, Stupid

Dear Stupid:

I don't know why you signed yourself stupid, since your question is a good one.

The liver metabolizes alcohol. Remember that it takes the liver approximately one hour to metabolize one drink.

When the liver is forced to metabolize excessive amounts of alcohol, it produces fat which soon begins to build up.

When the drinker has downed even a few drinks, fat accumulates in the liver. If heavy drinking continues, the fat buildup continues, producing a fat-laden, enlarged liver.

In about 15 percent of heavy drinkers, this fatty buildup leads eventually to scarring and the destruction of healthy liver cells, thus producing a small, rock-hard liver.

This deterioration is called cirrhosis of the liver, a disease which is often fatal. 🐾

Dear Cat Paw:

How many people in America smoke marijuana? ?????

Dear ?????:

I have seen statistics that estimate anywhere from 37 to 60 percent.

The latest high school survey indicates that one out of every nine high school seniors smokes pot daily. It is also estimated that 1.7 million Americans will try marijuana for the first time this year.

The marijuana problem is far from over. The breakdown is as follows, according to the last national survey in 1979.

Over 50 million Americans had tried marijuana at least once. Approximately 22 million were considered current users.

The teenage breakdown showed that 60 percent

C.A.T.

P.A.W.

*Chemicals Are Trouble. People Are Working.

Copyright 1985 Jeanette Sanders of high school seniors had tried it, and one out of nine was a daily user.

Eight percent of the 12- to 13-year-olds reported they had smoked marijuana at least once, and half of this group were current users.

Thirty-two percent of the 14- to 15-year-olds had tried it and 17 percent were still using it. 🐾

Dear Cat Paw:

Do most people get the munchies after smoking a large quantity of this substance?

Hungry

Dear Hungry:

Yes, one sign of marijuana use is an increase in appetite. 🐾

Dear Cat Paw:

Why does drinking make a person so outgoing and talk a lot more than when he is sober?

Wondering

Dear Wondering:

Alcohol releases inhibitions because it first acts on the parts of the brain which affect self-control and other learned behaviors. 🐾

Program to help with stress

Are you a high school student suffering from sensory overload, also known as stress?

If so, then Clarkston High School has help for you.

A seven-week "Stress Busters" program is being offered at the high school for students, with priority being given to seniors. It begins Tuesday, April 22.

"Many students already have added stress in their lives due to that very common ailment called 'senioritis,'" says school social worker Jim Butzine.

The group is designed to look at causes of stress, time-management and steps to maintain self-confidence.

Students may sign up with their counselors prior to April 22. For more information, contact Vic Hart at 625-0900 or Jim Butzine at 625-3330.

New men's club seeks members

The newly founded Optimist Club of Clarkston is seeking men for membership in the civic organization.

Geared at giving volunteer services to the community and youth, the organization now meets weekly at Zim's on Baldwin Road in Lake Orion, says member John Lutz.

A recruitment night will be held at Zim's at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, April 30.

Men interested in joining should contact Jim Evans at 625-9600 or Lutz at 625-5111.

Poet Jim DeWitt visited Clarkston schools earlier this spring and on Friday, he visited Clarkston Elementary School and talked to teacher Karl Cook's second-grade class. He told the children about his writing. They, in turn, told him about the poems they had written.

'Stick to subject,' poet tells pupils

By Julie LePere

Clarkston Junior High School students recently hosted a poet in their English classes. They were the first in the district to hear Jim DeWitt, who will also speak at the high school, Sashabaw Junior High, and the elementary schools at a later date.

"Thanks to a grant from Michigan Council for the Arts, poet Jim DeWitt and (a non-fiction writer) will be working in classes throughout the district, sharing their own work and encouraging student expression through writing," said Ruth Duling, chairman of the CJHS English department and language arts coordinator for the district.

Of his 18 published works, DeWitt brought with him several collections of poems suited particularly to young students, he said.

"I think it's more than poetry," said DeWitt of his work. "I call it 'expressions of impressions' because that's what it is."

"You can call it poetry," he told Mrs. Palace's seventh-grade, honors English class. "It's a structured creativity."

"Stick to the subject. Concentrate on it. Focus on it. . . . Let nothing get in the way of the flow of the ideas," he said to them about writing their own poetry.

DeWitt has taught in Michigan for 31 years.

"I've taught every level of education from kindergarten to graduate level," he said, including writing, literature, language arts, reading and linguistics.

Although he enjoyed teaching, and he enjoys speaking in schools, there is one drawback.

"The main thing is time away from writing," said DeWitt.

But he still enjoys it.

"It's fun. I wouldn't be doing it if it weren't."

"That's the fun about writing for yourself. You write what you want; and you write when you feel like it. It's great."

DeWitt was influenced by the romantic poets in his work.

"Anyone is a composition of their experiences. I've taught it, written it, studied it and written papers on it," said DeWitt of his subject matter and methods.

Sandy Ross, 18, is this year's Sweetheart of Cedar DeMolay of Clarkston.

Ross is a Sweetheart

DeMolay selects CHS senior for the honor

Unexpected honors are often the most memorable, and that's the case for Sandy Ross, the Sweetheart of Cedar DeMolay of Clarkston.

Sandy was at a Job's Daughters meeting when members of the DeMolay chapter asked for Sweetheart applicants.

Along with her 11 fellow club members, she filled out the form that "asked us questions—hobbies, how old you were, stuff like that," she said.

She was selected from the three finalists as this year's Sweetheart at a DeMolay meeting on March 1.

"I was surprised. I was excited," she said. "I didn't expect it. I just filled out the application, then when they said I was one of the three, I was nervous."

A senior at Clarkston High School, Sandy is also Honor Queen of Job's Daughters, a member of Girl Scout Troop 242 and a two-year member of the National Honor Society at CHS.

She works part-time as a cook at Hardee's in Waterford Township.

After high school, she plans to attend Albion College, where she'll major in economics.

Sandy will serve as the Sweetheart of Cedar DeMolay for one year and will represent the group at the state DeMolay Sweetheart competition. As the club's Sweetheart, she'll also attend some meetings and activities.

Cedar DeMolay, which currently has nine members, is a interdenominational order for boys sponsored by the Cedar Lodge No. 60, F&AM, Clarkston.

Her nervousness gone, Sandy is pleased to be the chapter's Sweetheart.

"It's really fun because everyone is really nice," she said.

Village home is gardener's delight

By Dan Vandenhemel

Throughout Virginia Walter's home, green plants and fresh flowers adorn nearly every table.

Outside, rose bushes, flowering trees and plants line her property.

Her reasons for working around the house and serving as president of the Clarkston Women's Farm and Garden Club are clear and concise.

"I like to garden," Mrs. Walter said. "I like working outdoors."

Starting in April and running through October, Mrs. Walter spends many hours around her home on Washington Street on the Clarkston Mill Pond.

Last year, with the warm temperatures lasting until Thanksgiving, she was able to take some fresh cut roses to her 101-year-old mother for the holiday.

"It takes a lot of work to maintain the gardens," Mrs. Walter said. "You have to spray, fertilize. They turn out beautifully."

Her term as president of the club ends in May, when Jennie Loechtenfeldt will step into the seat.

The garden club, a branch of the national organization, is almost a non-stop topic for Mrs. Walter.

She talked about sponsoring the 4-H Club, high school scholarships and community projects.

Each year, club members plant and maintain the flower beds in front of the Independence Township Hall and library, and assist with plantings at Depot Park and the village parking lot.

"The big thing is the scholarship," Mrs. Walter said. "We have a fund raiser every year to help with the scholarship."

The policies and beliefs of the club are the other reasons she is so involved.

"I like conservation and the club believes in conservation," she said. "We believe in educational projects for children."

Plants are found all through Virginia Walter's home. From April through October, she works outside preparing the flowering trees and plants for the growing season.

One of the projects ties in with the elementary schools in the Clarkston district and Arbor Day, April 25. This year, white pine seedlings will be given to each elementary student for planting.

"We're getting 3,000 seedlings and we're packaging on the 21st," she said. "That's going to be a lot of work. We like the educational projects and this ties in with the township's sesquicentennial celebration."

Flowering bulbs thrive with attention

Spring-flowering bulbs planted in a good site will often produce flowers year after year with minimal coddling.

That's not to say that they don't benefit from a little attention.

Lee Taylor, extension home horticulture specialist at Michigan State University, suggests fertilizing bulbs lightly at flowering time with no more than 1 pound of 5-10-5 fertilizer per 50 square feet.

Sprinkle the fertilizer on the soil around the plants, taking care to keep fertilizer off the leaves and roots—it will burn them.

Drought is rarely a spring problem, but if dry weather does persist more than a week, growing bulbs may need a thorough soaking.

Cutting the flowers from bulbs won't hurt them, Taylor says.

In fact, removing the flowers after they begin to fade will allow the bulb to direct all the energy produced by the foliage into the bulb to prepare it for next year's flower display, rather than into seed production.

If you don't cut flowers for bouquets and arrangements, at least snip off fading blossoms.

Leave the foliage in place, however, until it turns yellow and starts to dry. The foliage makes the food that is stored in the bulb.

Remove the foliage while it's still green, and you reduce the bulb's potential for growth and flower production next year.

After leaves turn yellow, cut and destroy stems and foliage to reduce the likelihood of disease carryover to new growth next year.

"If you don't like looking at the yellow foliage, consider planting flowering annuals among the bulbs to camouflage it," Taylor says.

Bulbs to be moved should be dug after the foliage has died but before it's disappeared so you can easily locate the bulbs.

Bulbs dug while the foliage is still green won't have the food reserves to establish a root system in the fall and flower in the spring.

Dig bulbs carefully to avoid damaging them. Remove all the loose soil and place bulbs in shallow trays, mesh sacks or old nylon stockings to dry in a cool, well-ventilated place for several weeks. Discard any bulbs that rot.

After bulbs are dry, divide large clumps and place bulbs in a cool, dry location in shallow trays or porous sacks until planting time in the fall.

Springtime questions

There's nothing like a breath of spring to start the gardening questions rolling in.

Extension specialists at Michigan State University answer some timely questions about vegetable gardening, lawns, landscape plants and related topics:

Q. Last year, I lost a lot of pepper transplants to some kind of insect or animal. Whatever it was cut the plants off at or just below the soil surface. The tops of the plants were usually found right where they fell, so whatever cut them off didn't consume them. What was it?

A. It sounds like cutworms. These plump, hairless, drab-colored caterpillars hide in the soil by day and come out at night to feed.

Newly set pepper plants are one of their favorite foods, but they will also feed on transplants of tomatoes, eggplant, squash and cucumbers; seedlings of beans, corn and other warm-season crops; young cabbage, cauliflower and broccoli plants; and carrots and lettuce.

If nothing else is available, they'll even feed on grasses and weeds.

Q. What are the first crops I can plant in my garden in the spring?

A. In the vegetable garden, radishes, lettuce,

Do I need to fertilize my lawn again this spring?

spinach, carrots, onions and peas are the first crops to be planted from seed.

Calendula (pot marigolds) and sweet peas can be planted in the flower garden as soon as the soil is dry enough to work.

The cole crops—cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, etc.—can be set in the garden as transplants in mid-April in central lower Michigan.

Q. Is there any real advantage to planting tomatoes much before mid-May?

A. If you warm the soil before planting by covering it with plastic and protect the tops of the plants against frost and cold temperatures, you may be able to start harvesting tomatoes earlier than usual.

Warming the soil is critical—plants with their roots in cold soil won't grow.

You can use black or clear plastic to warm the soil, but black plastic will also control weeds by blocking the light from reaching the soil and germinating weed seeds.

Warming the soil can also promote quicker germination of cold weather crops and large-seeded warm weather crops, such as beans, sweet corn and squash.

Planted in cold, damp soil, these seeds tend to rot rather than germinate.

Because the chances of losing early planted warm-weather plants to frost are high—you have to forget to protect them only once—it's wise to try early planting with only a few plants or a short row of seeds rather than risk an entire planting and your whole harvest.

If you do lose the first planting, you still have plenty of time to replant.

Q. What flowering annuals do well in shaded spots? My patio is on the north side of my house, and I'd like to plant something colorful in the narrow bed between the house and the patio.

A. Impatiens, fibrous-rooted begonias, tuberous begonias and coleus are probably the most popular and widely available flowering annuals for shade.

Impatiens, coleus and fibrous begonias can be purchased in flats or multi-packs and transplanted after the danger of frost is past. Tuberous begonias must be started indoors in early spring.

Impatiens form thick mounds covered with 1- to 2-inch flowers in a wide range of colors. Fibrous begonias tend to spread less and bear many but smaller flowers.

Some tuberous begonias produce flowers nearly a foot in diameter in brilliant shades of red, pink, coral, salmon, yellow and white. Coleus is grown for its colored and often exotically shaped foliage.

Any of these would do well in a northern exposure.

In an eastern exposure, where plants would get sun in the morning and shade in the afternoon, you could also plant salvia or nicotiana (flowering tobacco).

Most shade-tolerant plants will do well in a site with morning sun and afternoon shade but will not thrive in a spot shaded in the morning and exposed to the hot, harsh afternoon sun.

Q. I put a complete fertilizer on my lawn last fall. Do I need to fertilize again this spring?

A. MSU research indicates it's better to hold off fertilizing lawns with nitrogen until late May or early June.

Early fertilization promotes lush top growth at the expense of root development.

This weakens plants and increases the likelihood that susceptible bluegrass varieties will develop Fusarium blight, a serious turfgrass disease.

Q. I'd like to plant several varieties of summer squash, but a hill of each type planted according to the directions on the seed packet would produce enough squash for a small army. Any suggestions?

A. Try planting three or four types of squash in each hill. Plant two seeds of each variety and thin to one plant of each. This will give you a good mixture in more manageable quantities than planting a hill of each type.

Q. What's the connection between shade and the development of plant diseases?

A. Plant foliage in shaded areas tends to stay wet longer after a rain, dew or irrigation than foliage in sunny areas. Many plant diseases require moisture on leaves to get established.

The cool, humid air in shaded areas may also contribute to development of some diseases, especially those caused by fungi. Water all plants, in shade or sun, early in the day so foliage dries as quickly as possible.

"Last year, when we first started, we tore down all of the plaster and a lot of wood. For six months, we lived just in studs. It was depressing. There was nothing down here."

—Kelly Hudson

Kelly relaxes with Shaun on the stairs. The Hudsons stripped, sanded and restained the woodwork before having carpeting installed.

Kelly and Stephen Hudson, with Shaun and Ashley on the floor, pose for a photo in their newly finished den.

It's Ryan's bedtime, but he stays awake long enough for a photo in his car-shaped bed.

On the west side of the interior is the living room, and it faces Main Street. Kelly did all of the decorating, including the papering, while she was pregnant with Ashley.

This old Hudsons are resto

By Julie LePere

The Hudson house, on the corner of Main Street and Clarkston Road, has "come a long way," said Stephen Hudson, owner of the house since 1980.

Stephen and his wife, Kelly, have been working steadily in the past year to restore the building.

Built around the turn of the century, the Clarkston home will soon resemble its old style.

Stephen was only 19 years old when he bought the house. Until he and Kelly married last year, he rented rooms to others while he lived and worked in Lansing.

"I wasn't really pushing to get the house done fast when there were renters here because they were tearing it apart as fast as I could ever put it together," he said.

Even then, he renovated parts of the house.

"I started doing up the yard, and then I put in the basic stuff, like a new pump, a furnace and a water heater, things you wouldn't see," said Stephen. "Then I put up the roof. I didn't want to work on the inside until I was sure it wouldn't leak."

Still, the majority of the work was left for the newlyweds.

"Last year, when we first started, we tore down all of the plaster and a lot of wood," said Kelly. "For six months, we lived just in studs. It was depressing. There was nothing down here."

Next, they began replacing and restoring the interior portions they had removed.

"We took all of the oak trim down, stripped it, sanded it, stained it, and put it all back up," said Stephen. "We insulated all the walls and ceilings. We dry-walled it. Kelly put all of the colors together and did all the decorating."

"The master bedroom and the downstairs bathroom still aren't finished."

"We redid the plumbing in the whole house and we rewired everything. We put a new front and back door on. They're seven-foot-tall doors."

"We're having leaded glass made for the front."

The exterior of the house is next on their list.

"I tore off all of the aluminum siding which was on the house," said Stephen. "When I did that, a lot of the eaves were rotted, so I had to take them off, too."

"That's our summer project, cleaning up the outside," said Kelly.

Most of their work this far, however, took place last fall.

exterior of the house is the summer project the Hudsons. They started on the outside last summer by removing the aluminum siding and the rotted eaves.

"I tore off all of the aluminum siding which was on the house. When I did that, a lot of the eaves were rotted, so I had to take them off, too."

"For a year there, all we did was work."

—Stephen Hudson

"We'd like to put a porch on. There was an original porch on the front and on the side."
—Stephen Hudson

house . . . ring the grandeur

"All summer, we didn't do that much," she said. "I'm a builder, so during the summer, I have to work on other people's stuff," he said.

After the interior was dry-walled, Kelly began her major work.

"Kelly did all of the (wall)papering when she was pregnant," Stephen said.

Ashley, who was born in March, slowed the work somewhat. The Hudsons also keeps busy caring for Ashley's two brothers, Shaun, 4, and Ryan, 2.

"Now that the baby's come along, Steve's just now starting to work on our room. We have all of the stuff to put it all together, wallpaper and other materials," said Kelly.

The master bedroom will be the one room that will not resemble the style of the original house, but rather will be more modern in design.

In the second story, the bedroom overlooks the backyard. Its shape is determined by the roof line, which angles down from a high vertex and meets the wall about three feet from the floor on one side and about four-and-one-half feet on the other side.

Both sides will be converted into storage areas, and the large window in the center will allow plenty of eastern light in the room.

Also in the room is a staircase leading to one more room.

Presently, the space is used for storage, but soon it will be converted into a master bath. Its shape, too, is determined by the roof line.

The Hudsons have still more plans.

They would like to build a fence to provide some privacy from the Clarkston Road traffic that stops near their house while waiting to turn onto Main Street.

"And we'd like to put a porch on. There was an original porch on the front and on the side," said Stephen. "And I'd like to build a three-car garage on the back eventually."

The couple have put in a lot of effort and care in restoring their house, and they've enjoyed doing it. They agree that the most difficult part was paying for it.

"For a year there, all we did was work," said Stephen.

"We spent every weekend working on the house," said Kelly. "I can remember the night before the carpet went down, we were up until five in the morning, finishing things that had to be done."

Shaun's bedroom was one of the first to be finished. He keeps his menagerie of stuffed animals on the top bunk and sleeps on the bottom.

Shaun is proud of his bedroom. Here, he peeks around the corner while a photo is taken of his closet and his special shelves filled with toys and games. They are the necessities of life to a 4-year-old boy.

Architecture Archives

Stonework treasures aplenty

The great timber forests of North America yielded millions of board feet of lumber with which settlers in the New World built their homes.

Naturally, these pioneers drew on the architecture of their homelands for design inspiration and construction methods.

Back home, however, wood in abundance was a luxury, so the rich European architectural heritage was marked by magnificent masterpieces constructed of masonry, brick and stone.

The ready availability of a material that could be easily cut and worked with simple tools first led America's carpenters to translate the familiar masonry architecture into wood.

Americans began to create and develop their own architectural styles in the 19th century: the "Revival Styles"—Greek Revival, Gothic Revival and Italian Revival.

While these new styles also drew on European masonry designs and many were constructed in stone or brick, much of their brilliance was due to their adaptation into wood.

Nonetheless, stone and brick were important building elements.

In Michigan in general, and in our area in particular, very little pre-20th century architecture was masonry, despite its availability.

If you have dug fence post holes you know we are blessed, or is it cursed, with the Ice Age contribution to our landscape, the natural building material, stone. (It's no wonder gravel mining is a popular area business.)

Those who live in houses built prior to 1900 are [See MASONS, Page 9]

Jerome Vliet was responsible for this fine stonework on the Pontiac State Bank building, c. 1911.

Clarkston masons

often painfully aware of the most common use of stone as a building material in our area, for foundations and basements—"Michigan basements."

This phrase is usually used to describe musty, damp, unpleasant places.

Owners of these "Jonahs" may find new cures for some of the recurrent problems inherent in old stone basements. A publication which may offer some help is available in the Independence Township Library, "A Glossary of Historic Masonry Deterioration Problems and Preservation Treatments."

By the turn of the century, the craftsmanship of American stonemasons contributed to the trend for more aesthetic use of stone as a building material.

Several accomplished masons called Clarkston or Independence Township home by this time and they produced work which still adds to the enjoyment of our surroundings.

Stonemason Jerome Vliet was responsible for the construction of the original section of the present Pontiac State Bank building which was then known as the Jossman State Bank (c. 1911).

Fred Owen and Caspar Warden built the stonework Ford dealership, c. 1910, which has been known as Rudy's Market since 1954.

Caspar Warden used pebble-like stonework for the first story of his own "four-square style" house on Buffalo Street, c. 1919.

Next to Mr. Warden's house, a fieldstone (or rubblework) front porch was added to the house at the corner of Church and Buffalo streets, probably about the same time.

[See LOFTY, Page 11]

This lovely stone wall, on the east side of Main Street north of Washington Street, is but one example of many such details visible throughout the area.

Lofty comparison

The house, however, was built as a Greek Revival style house some 60 years earlier. Such a change was probably made in an attempt to update the "old" house.

In another remodeling, a fieldstone facade was added by mason Caspar Warden to the wood structure at the southwest corner of Main Street and Depot Road. This work was completed in 1941.

The use of stonework as an aesthetic building element increased with the popularity of the California Bungalow style nationwide.

Several area bungalows, c. 1910-1930, were either built primarily of stone, or those built of brick or wood sported imposing stone porches.

Natural stonework adds beauty to our landscape. When you walk down village streets or drive down township roads, you may catch a glimpse of stone stairs, pillars, porches, fences, facades and retaining walls.

Where some buildings have long since disappeared, stone foundations remain, creating romantic details for which the planners of the magnificent 18th Century English gardens would have yearned.

Landscape architects like Alexander Pope (1680-1744) had to manufacture such ruins, which were designed to add artistic elements inspired by the Italian landscapes of 17th century French artists, Nicholas Poussin and Claude Lorraine.

Susan Basinger resides in the village of Clarkston. Architecture is her hobby.

Mason Caspar Warden gave this pebble-like look to his "four-square style" house on Buffalo Street.
