SURVEYING THE BLAZE: A fire on Memorial Day burned a major portion of the trash pile created by Independence Township residents during Spring Cleanup days. The blaze at the DPW building grounds on Flemings Lake Road was reported at 6:36 p.m. Details are on Page 3.

Pine Knob neighbors sing songs of despair

By Carolyn Walker

Even as the first concert approaches, residents continue to promote their causes in the battle against Pine Knob Music Theatre traffic.

On May 20, approximately eight residents spoke their minds at the Independence Township Board meeting during the public forum.

All were protesting an administrative decision to close the Pine Knob Road entrance to the theater and reroute all traffic out the main entrance on Sashabaw Road to I-75 when the concerts disperse at approximately 10:30 p.m.

After the meeting, Supervisor Frank Ronk said all three lanes on Sashabaw would be directed south, making the road one-way, and that any northbound traffic would have to detour and come in Sashabaw with the flow of cars until approximately 11:45 p.m.

Ronk, Pine Knob officials and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department agreed last month to try the rerouting measure in answer to complaints from residents who live along Clarkston Road.

They had told the board that concert-goers urinate on their lawns, park in their driveways, scalp tickets in front of their houses and create traffic jams.

Tuesday night's crowd included residents from Sashabaw Road, who live across from the theater, and Flemings Lake Road, which intersects with Sashabaw.

Many accused the officials of showing favoritism to the Clarkston Road group.

"It's a catastrophe," said Del Hall, a Sashabaw Road resident, of the theater and proposed rerouting. "Shutting off that public highway for private use is illegal."

Many of the residents expressed concerns that they would not be able to use Sashabaw Road to enter or leave their property during concert times.

Others told the board they had been harassed or threatened by concert-goers in the past and that they could not get prompt police response.

Ronk suggested that they remain in their houses during such times, which drew angry comments from many who said they didn't want to be prisoners in their own homes.

"I moved out of Detroit out here because I thought it was peace and quiet," said one woman.

Ronk told the residents that safety is of the prime importance, the measure is only an attempt to address traffic problems, and if it proves unsafe or unsuccessful, different solutions would be tried.

"There's nothing etched in marble that says it can't be changed halfway down the road," he said about the rerouting plans.

A second administrative meeting to address the issues is planned between Ronk, Pine Knob officials and the sheriff's department on May 28.

Planners support zoning for Dixie laundromat

By Carolyn Walker

An attractive laundromat that takes advantage of a beautiful view is what Chet Hensley has in mind for Dixie Highway.

Hensley, who appeared before the Independence Township Planning Commission on May 22, is on his way toward that goal.

After some discussion on how the upcoming Dixie Highway widening would affect the 1.6-acre site, the commissioners voted unanimously to recommend a zoning change for the parcel.

The property is located near the top of Waterford Hill on the east side.

The township board must take the final step, based on that recommendation, and either approve or deny the change from office to commercial status.

"There are no promises from the Michigan Department of Highways," said Hensley, responding to questions about whether or not the bill would be reduced to improve driving visibility during the Dixie widening.

"They won't give me a promise date as to when they'll make the decision," he said.

The commissioners have consistently expressed concerns that cars turning in and out of the site would increase traffic hazards.

Many agreed, however, that Hensley would have many repeat customers who would be familiar with the location; and that a laundromat could be better for the location than a business that generates a lot of new customers.

"No matter what goes there, there's going to be traffic," said commissioner Joseph Figa.

"I think I have the best alternative for the site," Hensley responded. "I want to put up something that's going to say, 'We've got one of the most beautiful laundromats in the United States.'"

Hensley said he intends to construct a 5,000-square-foot building with large windows in the rear to take advantage of a view that overlooks Ottawa Park Cemetery.

Upon completion, he plans to close his current E-Z Duz It Laundromat on Dixie Highway and move the operation to the new location.

If his zoning change is approved by the board, he must then return to the planning commission for site plan approval.

Voting to authorize the recommendation were Chairman Neil Wallace, Holly Stephens, Brent Bair, Carol Balzarini, Joseph Figa and Betty Jo Fussman.

Commissioner John Gray was absent.

On the Dixie

Tax amnesty office opens

By Chris Gerbasi

"Get to us before we get to you" is the slogan of the state tax amnesty program.

The state is making it easier to get to them by opening an amnesty office in Independence Township.

The program began on May 12 and ends on June 30 and allows people who owe back taxes to pay them without fear of penalty or prosecution.

But after June 30, all fines and penalties will double for delinquent taxpayers. The state will also double the manpower devoted to tracking down those people.

"After June 30, we will go after them with a vengeance," said state treasury spokesman Robert Colt.

Over 100 amnesty offices have been opened throughout the state including one in the Secretary of State's office in Independence Township on Dixie Highway.

"Hopefully, the success of the Clarkston office will go well," said Colt. "Some people are hesitant to come into an office. In some places we've had tremendous response and in others, we haven't had any response."

The purpose of the offices is to allow people to get information and help in filling out the tax forms.

The amnesty period was mandated by the state legislature in an effort to collect some of the estimated $400 million to $500 million owed the state, according to Colt.

The goal of the program is to collect $50 million in the 50-day period. So far, about $13 million have been paid by over 22,000 people.

The Clarkston office is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Forms are also available at most banks and post offices and the state has also set up a toll-free line, 1-800-IO-TAXES.

Firefighters climb the pile of trash as they try to keep the blaze from spreading. The fire did not significantly increase the cost of trash removal, according to DPW Director George Anderson. But the blaze did create an expense for the fire department of $2,000 to $3,000 for minor equipment repairs and losses and for on-call firefighters' wages, said Fire Marshall Gar Wilson.

Fire roars through town trash pile

By Kathy Greenfield

A fire of unknown origin burned a major portion of the trash pile created during Independence Township's Spring Cleanup.

The fire on Flemings Lake Road was reported at 6:36 p.m. on Memorial Day, May 26, by George Anderson, the director of the department of public works.

Anderson was picking up his car at the DPW building site when he noticed a small amount of smoke coming from the trash pile created May 17 and 18 when township residents could dump trash for free.

He went inside to telephone the fire department and get a fire extinguisher.

"By the time the fire department got there, it was just roaring," he said.

Anderson and fire department officials have several theories about how the fire started including the dumping of hot ashes in a cardboard box, a cast-off cigarette from a dump scavenger, or arson.

But there is no way to determine the exact cause, said township Fire Marshall Gar Wilson.

"It's going to be listed as undetermined as far as what started it," he said.

Until a fire hose could be hooked up to a fire hydrant on Almond Lane, about one-half mile from the blaze, tankers from Independence, Brandon and Lake Orion townships provided water.

The fire was brought under control at about 10 p.m.

Wilson used a loader from the village during the early hours to scoop out a break in the trash mound to prevent the fire from spreading.

Later, a bulldozer was called in to spread the smoldering trash and allow firefighters to completely douse the fire.

On Monday, right on schedule, the firm hired by the township to remove the trash pile was at work.

"It won't affect (the schedule) at all. They're out there hauling it now," said Anderson.

The trash hauling firm is expected spend about 10 working days carting the garbage to a landfill on Joslyn Road. Anderson estimates the cost will be $26,000 to $30,000.

Clarkston Road safety path debate continues

By Carolyn Walker

After a heated, sometimes angry, hour-long debate of the proposed Clarkston Road safety path, the Independence Township Board voted 4-2 on May 20 to seek bids for its construction.

The path has been a source of controversy for several years as numerous residents have fought its installation while others have petitioned to have it built.

The safety path was rejected by the previous township administration because of safety factors.

Both sides have cited safety in their arguments regarding the path, which is estimated to cost $49,000, double the cost proposed in a 1983 estimate.

The new figure includes engineering and construction charges as well as the cost of enclosing a culvert over which the path must run.

In making their decision to seek bids, the board chose to modify plans of the path, narrowing it from a standard eight feet in width to five feet wide from the Village of Clarkston limit to a pole just past Neil Wallace's Clarkston Road house.

Beyond Wallace's house, the path is to be six feet wide as far as the township library.

Wallace has repeatedly asked the township to deny the construction of the path and was at the Tuesday night meeting to present his views.

"I will not permit property of mine to be used," Wallace said. "You're significantly, negatively impac-

*"I think it's extremely important that we put a path of some kind along this road."
—Supervisor Frank Ronk*

ting the value of my property."

According to Wallace, there have been no township studies regarding the safety of the path, which will wind along the curved, highly traveled road; nor have there been studies of the pedestrian traffic levels, he said.

"There are alternatives," said Wallace, adding that board members would not permit a path to be constructed in front of their own homes.

A seemingly insulted Trustee Carol Balzarini took exception to Wallace's statement saying, "I have no opposition to a safety path anywhere."

In addition to Wallace, some other Clarkston Road residents added their disagreement to the project.

"They would be practically going through my living room," said Susan Zanotti.

Carl Wilson, a 32-year resident of Clarkston Road, voiced disagreement and suggested that the library be moved into the village for the convenience of those wish to walk to it.

In addition to those who spoke against the path, Supervisor Frank Ronk presented two letters from opposing residents.

David Raup, a former village council member and resident of Waldon Road, spoke in favor of the path as did current village Trustee James Schultz, of Robertson Court. The two men represented approximately 15 residents who were in the audience as supporters of the path.

Schultz said many village sidewalks run very close to houses and are not considered problems.

Raup agreed. "I think it's a real shame that people's personal interests are so important that children's safety takes a back seat," he said.

"My children have a right to be safe," responded Wallace, adding that he fears motorized vehicles will use the paths. "Maybe that's not as important to you people. But it's important to me."

"I think it's extremely important that we put a path of some kind along this road," said Ronk, who voted for the path.

Joining him in approving the path were Clerk Richard Holman and trustees William Vandermark and Carol Balzarini. Voting against the path were Treasurer John Lutz and Trustee Dale Stuart. Trustee Daniel Travis was absent.

The above information was compiled from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Commission OKs fire hall

By Carolyn Walker

It didn't take the Independence Township Planning Commission long to approve a new fire hall for Sashabaw Road.

Fire Chief Dale Bailey appeared before the commissioners May 22 with a revised set of plans that addressed some aesthetic concerns they had expressed several weeks ago about proposed building materials.

A 6-0 vote to approve the final site plans for the 71,000-square-foot facility stipulates that the building be brick and that parking spaces be adjusted or removed to preserve some existing trees.

The new building is to sit on a rear corner of the site. The current building, Station 2, is to remain standing to house firefighters and their equipment until the new one is completed.

After the new facility is finished, the old one will be torn down. According to Bailey, the project must be bid out to a construction firm. He said he does not know when construction will begin.

Last year, the fire commission recommended a new building for the site when the current one was deemed antiquated.

Voting to approve the final site plans were Chairman Neil Wallace, Holly Stephens, Joseph Figa, Brent Bair, Carol Balzarini and Betty Jo Fussman. Commissioner John Gray was absent.

Opinions

Changes

Kathy Greenfield

Among the many things that have changed in the last two decades are these: baby showers. On the surface, that doesn't seem too significant. But think about it.

I started considering the differences last weekend at a party celebrating the impending birth of my brother and sister-in-law's first child.

Therein lies part of what's changing. When our children were born, we were in our early 20s. My brother is in his early 30s.

My youngest sister had her first child last year, which was the year our oldest child graduated from high school. My brother's child will be born this year, which is when our youngest child will graduate from high school.

If nothing else, their children are going to have older parents. I sometimes wonder what kind of differences that will make.

Will they be wiser and calmer parents? Or will their backs creak when they bend over to pick up their toddlers?

From my own observations, fewer years in age difference between parents and children don't make any difference in the generation gap department.

Some things will always stay the same (baby-sitters, starting school, puppy love, driving); others change so rapidly that age just doesn't matter (acceptable four-letter words, social mores, party manners).

There is another factor, specifically related to baby showers, that is also significant.

The last two baby showers I've attended included men and women.

There to ooh and aah over handmade bitsy pieces of clothing and quilts, stuffed animals, and diaper pins and other infant needs were the dads-to-be and their male friends.

Dads, of course, have also found their way into delivery rooms to watch babies being born and into labor rooms to work together on the birth process. Again, that's become the rule rather than the exception.

I keep reading more and more about "house husbands" and, more importantly, the need children have to really know both parents.

It wasn't so long ago that fathers were expected to keep their distance from births and babies.

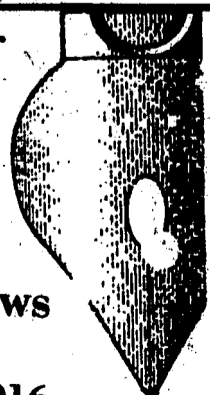

It's wonderful, perhaps even profoundly important, that all that is changing.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

Twenty five years ago I published a poem pointing out how important we really are in this world, and how we'll be missed.

It's time to print it again.

Take a bucket etc.

Take a bucket and fill it with water,
Put your hand in it, up to your wrist;
Pull it out, and the hole that's remaining,
Is a measure of how you'll be missed.

The first time I heard this familiar quotation, I was in high school in Vernon. I have repeated it many times and frequently apply it to myself, and some others about the time I or they start feeling important.

This is the middle stanza of a five-verse poem. The other four go like this:

The Indispensable Man
Sometime, when you're feeling important,
Sometime, when your ego's in bloom,
Sometime, when you take it for granted,

You're the best qualified in the room.

Sometime when you feel that your going,
Would leave an unfillable hole,
Just follow this simple instruction,
And see how it humbles your soul.

Take a bucket and fill it with water,
Put your hand in it, up to your wrist;
Pull it out, and the hole that's remaining,
Is a measure of how you'll be missed.

You may splash all you please when you enter,
You can stir up the water galore,
But stop, and you'll find in a minute,
That it looks just the same as before.

The moral in this quaint example,
Is do just the best that you can,
Be proud of yourself, but remember,
There is no indispensable man.

Friendly faces

Rudi Schwarze, named after her grandfather Rudy, has already learned to smile at customers, but Doreen is anxious to start her daughter on the cash register.

Family traditions continue with Rudi

By Julie LePere

Doreen Schwarze, of Rudy's Market, would like to carry on the tradition started by her father-in-law, Rudy.

"I'm trying to keep a dream going, to be friendly, the way Rudy is with people," she said.

That's why Doreen smiles when she stocks, cashiers, cooks and carries out groceries for customers in the Clarkston store.

Doreen is carrying on Rudy's tradition in another way, too. When Doreen and her husband Fred gave birth to their first child, they named her Rudi.

"There was a purpose to why I named her Rudi, so his name would never go down. . . . He's respected enough that I wanted my daughter to be named after him," she said.

Three-month-old Rudi spends a lot of time in the store, and many of the customers already know her.

"She has to share her baby with the entire town," said Renee Roberts, Doreen's friend.

Doreen appreciates the help of her mother-in-law, who baby-sits for Rudi, allowing her to work as much as she does.

Doreen has worked at Rudy's since her ninth-grade year of school. She graduated from Clarkston High School in 1980 and married Fred in 1981.

"People like her smiling face and friendly personality," said Mary Hall, Doreen's co-worker. "She's very easy going, and they can always count on her in an emergency."

Letters to the editor

System works!

Let us tell you about a group of kids from Sashabaw Junior High School of whom we are very proud.

Because of the changing clothing styles, bermuda shorts and Jams shorts are now in style, and because of their length, the kids felt they would be appropriate for school (they're longer than mini-skirts and cheerleading skirts).

This group, headed by our daughter Amy, circulated petitions during their lunch hours and approached Mr. Birtsas (principal) and in turn, Mr. Reshke (assistant principal), with 543 signatures out of almost 800 students.

It was suggested that since this was a diversion from the dress code, a trip to a school board meeting was in order.

Shaking in their shoes, and dressed to the teeth in their bermudas, they went.

Amy read a statement asking for a trial period; there was some discussion—and the issue was sent back to Sashabaw for resolution.

At our latest parent coffee klatch, Mr. Birtsas and Mr. Reshke both felt because these students had followed all procedures, used the democratic process, and had conducted themselves as responsible young adults, they should be able to see that the democratic process produces results.

Hence—after Memorial Day bermudas are to be allowed at Sashabaw.

We commend both men for their generosity and understanding, and for letting these kids see that working within the system is the way to go; and we commend these young adults for working within that system, having the strength of their convictions, and for being adult enough to let matters take a natural course and finding out that negotiation and compromise work.

We offer congratulations on both sides. We're proud of you both!

The pomp of graduation

Jim Fitzgerald

The graduates were seated on stage at one end of the room. When they were asked to stand and say their names, several refused. One of them fell off the stage onto my feet.

What in God's name was I doing there? My distaste for pomp and ceremony of any type is well known among the innocent people in a position to be annoyed by hearing me say, for the 4,566th time: "I didn't even attend my own commencement exercises when I graduated from college, so you can hardly expect me to go to anyone else's."

Certainly it was ridiculous to suggest that, last Friday evening, when I wanted to attend the opening of a new musical revue just a few blocks from my home, I should instead drive 130 miles to watch the awarding of diplomas signifying that a dozen four-year-old children — only one of them my granddaughter — had studied long and hard enough to graduate from nursery school.

"There is no pressure on you to go and watch Emily graduate," my wife said. "But the last time her school had a party, many of the children's grandparents attended, and she cried because you weren't there."

When my wife applies no pressure, strangers 500 miles away break out into a cold sweat. My choice was clear: I could be the type of man who prefers nursery school commencement exercises to drinking vodka while watching beautiful women sing in a nightclub. Or I could be the type of scum who doesn't mind breaking his precious little granddaughter's heart and losing the intimate companionship of his wife for the rest of his stupid worthless life.

Also, there is the fact that since the birth of Emily's little sister, Tricia, four months ago, their mother has been calling Emily "The Wall." That's because whenever I get near Tricia, Emily moves between us like a wall. And — my wife says — it's my fault that Emily is jealous because I spoiled her terribly since the day she was born.

It's true, as all you Emily fans know (everyone else quit reading four paragraphs ago, and I don't blame them). I've always made Emily behave perfectly by cleverly giving her everything she wants. That's what grandfathers are for.

It's also true that Emily should be taught to relinquish the limelight to her little sister. That's what parents are for. And they'd better hurry and get their job done before Tricia is old enough to notice me neglecting her on the other side of The Wall.

Meanwhile, while all those about her are cooing at Tricia, Emily needs my attention — my wife says — even if I have to drive 130 miles to see strange tots in caps and gowns. It wasn't as boring as college commencements. Emily was one of the graduates who agreed to give her name and she smiled at me when she recited it. (The graduate who fell off the stage wasn't injured. I picked him up and told him I had one word for him: "Plastics.")

After the ceremony, we had dinner in a restaurant. Tricia was the center of attention because she spurned her bottle and ate hashed brown potatoes. Her mother said four-month-old babies aren't supposed to eat potatoes. I said four-year-old kids aren't supposed to graduate, but the world keeps changing (where have you gone, Joe DeMaggio?).

While everyone else was eating, Emily took me outside, where we pretended the parking meters were robots waiting in line to be fed, and we fed them. I told her I used to live in her town, before she was born, and I showed her where a saloon caught fire and burned down one night I was in it.

"I hope you had sense enough to run out of there," Emily said, and added: "Of course you did, or you wouldn't be at my graduation party."

Her grandmother wasn't listening, so I told Emily I'd rather be at her graduation party than anywhere else, even the opening of a new musical revue. But she knew that, and so did you.

Freedoms respected

Carolyn Walker

More than once, I have had the urge to say "Amen" after reciting the prayer-like pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Never was the urge more overpowering than last week when I found myself pledging along, teary-eyed, with a fourth-grade class at Sashabaw Elementary School.

I had gone to the school to take pictures, and while waiting for my subject, had been shown to a pint-sized chair at the rear of the classroom.

A student teacher who looked like she had just stepped out of high school was learning the tricks of the trade at the teacher's desk.

The teacher, Mrs. Anne Rasmussen, in a soft voice of which only grade school teachers are capable, waited until the lunch count was over then made the announcement: "All right, class. It's time for the pledge."

The students stood and turned toward the flag, their hands across their hearts.

I could feel them watching me from the corners of their eyes, waiting to see what I would do. As I saw it, I had only one option.

I put down my camera, manipulated my figure out of the tiny chair, turned to the flag and pledged along.

Behind me, I could hear the gentle, satisfied voices of our future promising to stand by the U.S.A.: "One nation, under God, indivisible..."

I could feel Mrs. Rasmussen's approving gaze on my back, her lessons of patriotism realized.

Only the night before, I had joined Independence residents in the pledge at the township board meeting.

It didn't feel quite the same.

They pledged their allegiance, all right. Then they proceeded to hurl angry barbs and accusations at one another over a variety of issues. This is called freedom of speech. It is a basic American right.

Especially painful was a comment from one resident who decided to sling disguised insults at the press because a topic wasn't covered as he thought it should be.

He implied that in writing, reporters work cooperatively with the government.

Somehow, the media has taken on the image of ogre. Negative comments seem to go with this job whether they are warranted or not.

Certainly, there are disreputable reporters; but it is sad that we must all be lumped together because of the shoddy work of a few.

Honest mistakes are not the same as coverups.

I believe that most members of the media strive to tell and protect the truth, intangible as it may be. This is called freedom of the press, also a basic American right.

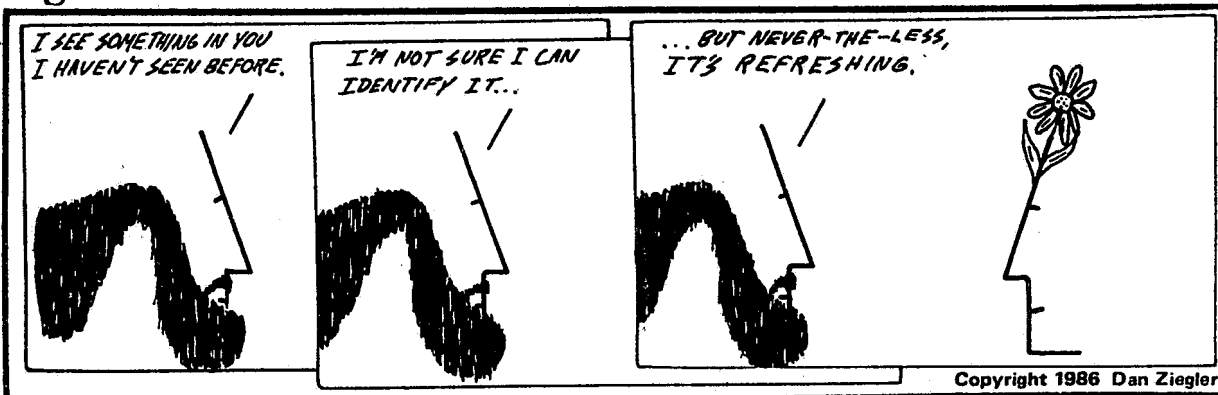

Unfortunately, the truth sometimes takes on as many appearances as there are eyes to behold it.

The pursuit of "liberty and justice for all" is not the goal of just a few.

It is also the goal of this reporter, who holds the truth in the highest esteem and struggles not to compromise it, thank you very much.

Denial reasons

I sympathize with Pastor Vanaman's concern with the Independence Township Planning Commission's decision to deny a special land use permit to the Mt. Zion Church.

However, Mr. Wallace's stated opinion about erosion of the tax base should not be taken as the opinion of the entire planning commission.

The Mt. Zion Church requested a very large building—44,000 square feet with additional square footage in the future—a building which also exceeds the township's height limitation.

They also planned a very large parking area with spaces for 1,165 cars.

Denial of the special land use was based on the intensity of the development for the area.

Access to the site along Maybee Road from Clintonville would be difficult for over 1,000 cars at one time.

The size of the building coupled with the amount of pavement requested would cause additional problems for this area that is already plagued with serious drainage problems.

Planning Commissioner

Vote for Needham

It is said that if you really want to know what a person is like, ask his neighbors.

John Needham is my neighbor and I'd like to tell you why I think you should vote for him in the Clarkston school board election.

John is a busy man. He is involved in many things. Yet, time and again, I have seen him at band concerts, school open houses, parent-teacher conferences and school fund raisers.

I see him at neighborhood functions. I see him at church.

When I see John Needham, he takes the time, not just to talk, but more importantly, to listen.

He is concerned about the problems in his neighborhood, his community, his community's schools.

He is proud of the progress that Clarkston has made through the years and anxious that it continue to do things—especially educationally—to ensure that it always be a great place to live.

John Needham offers both his personal interest in our schools and his extensive background in dealing with people in his job at Rockwell International.

I urge all my fellow citizens to vote in the school board elections—and when you do, vote for John Needham.

Ruth Brueck

Needham support

The parents, students and taxpayers of the Clarkston school district are most fortunate to have someone of John Needham's qualifications willing to run for the school board.

The importance of education cannot be overemphasized. Yet, one must keep an eye on the checkbook at the same time.

John Needham's business experience with Rockwell International, with Independence Township government and the Clarkston school system give him the necessary background to establish priorities and then pursue them wisely and prudently.

Two of his four children have graduated from Clarkston Senior High School and are currently enrolled in the University of Michigan. He has two children presently enrolled in the Clarkston school system.

With the increasing demands on our school system and the expanding population, we definitely need John Needham on the school board.

Vote Needham on June 9. We Need Him.

Energy prize

Cedar Crest best in state

An interest in energy conservation and energy education paid off at Cedar Crest Academy.

The private school walked away with the top state award in the National Energy Education Day (NEED) Project contest.

The prize includes a trip to Washington, D.C., in for project leader Doloroes Imbrunone and her pupil 12-year-old Bryan Menke, who was elected the student project director by his classmates.

They will attend the NEED National Recognition Ceremonies in June with other winners from across the nation.

All 40 pupils enrolled in the school participated in the contest, said Imbrunone, who is co-owner and administrative director of the private school for grades K-8 on Dixie Highway in Springfield Township.

"Excited" and "proud" describe their reaction to the recognition, she said, especially since the pupils were required to do all the work themselves, down to writing the final report.

"Energy . . . is one of the most important issues in our time, especially in light of the recent occurrence in Russia," she said.

Pupils at Cedar Crest Academy are continuing their studies about energy. One activity involves a program called "You Bet Your Energy," which they hope to present on cable-TV. While classmates observe the quiz-show format that stresses scientific facts about energy, Tracy Moen, Kelli D'Addezio, Rebecca Sanford, Laura Canady and Brady Galan stage a practice session in front of their school. The school building, which features a passive solar design, opened in September 1985.

Scoreboard

Softball

Clarkston High School Junior Varsity South Lyon 17, 13; Wolves 3, 3

May 21—The Wolves end an excellent season in this double-header against the tough South Lyon team. They give up a lot of walks, but play well defensively. The South Lyon pitcher has 125 strike outs coming into the game, but she only strikes out three Clarkston girls. In the second game, Kris Castillo and Jackie Patrick play well defensively. They finish the season with a 19-3 record, the GOAL championship and a tournament win. Coaches Don Peters and Marv Hess will coach them in a summer league as well.

Baseball

Sashabaw Junior High Cougars Sashabaw 7, Oxford 6

May 22—The boys win the well-played game in the last inning, with two outs. They are behind, 6-3, going into the sixth inning. They score two runs in the sixth to boost the score to 6-5. In the seventh inning, Al Green drives in the tying run and then scores on a hit by Doug Lederman. Other key hitters are Bill Jawlick, two triples, three RBIs; and Mike Reich, one hit, one run scored. Bill Larkin pitches the entire game, scatters seven hits and only walks one. John Koslosky has an excellent game at third base. In one play, he dives for the ball and still throws the runner out at first. Sashabaw only commits one error.

THIS WEEK: Sashabaw at Crary, May 29, 4 p.m.

Track

Clarkston Junior High Wolverines May 20—The girls win against the Rochester team. FIRST PLACES: Jen-

Wolverines 65, Lake Orion 53

May 13—Against Lake Orion, the girls also win. FIRST PLACES: Davis, long jump; Michelsen, high hurdles; Davis, 100-yard dash; Knibbs, 1600-meter run; Michelsen, 300-meter hurdles; Davis, 200-meter dash.

The following girls will participate in the County Meet Saturday: Davis, Atkinson, Romy Tappero, Holly Edmunds, Chinavare and Michelsen.

Lake Orion 78, Wolverines 58

May 13—Despite good performances and a new school record, the boys can't get the win. The new two-mile relay record is set with a time of 4:30.67 by Elgie, Lambouris, Jamie Weyen and Gaulin. Other first places come from: Kevin Dunlop, long jump; Chris Vandermark, Dave Saffron, Elgie and Gaulin, 800-meter relay; Saffron, 800-meter run; Pierson, 200-meter dash; Gaulin, 3200-meter run; Brown pole vault.

The following boys will participate in the County Meet Saturday: Vandermark, Pierson, Saffron, Elgie, Brown, Gaulin, Lambouris and Weyer.

Clarkston Junior High Wolverines Reuther 83, Wolverines 52

May 20—The boys lose against the Rochester team. FIRST PLACES: Rob Brown, pole vault; Chris Vandermark, 120-yard low hurdles; Mike Elgie, 880-yard run; Shawn Lambouris, intermediate hurdles; Mark Pierson, 220-yard dash; Brad Gaulin, two-mile run.

Falcons bounce Wolves again

By Chris Gerbasl

Roy Warner would not care if Clarkston never played Rochester in baseball again.

For the second straight season, the Falcons ousted the Wolves in the district playoffs. This time around, Rochester won 4-2 last Friday, as Clarkston could only put together five hits.

"We would sure like to win 11 more games," said Coach Warner before the Falcon game. But it was not to be.

The 11 games would have included going the distance in the state playoffs and winning this week's George Gary Tournament in Pontiac.

Clarkston won two games in the tourney on Monday to improve to 18-6.

In the playoffs, the eighth-ranked Wolves defeated Waterford Kettering, 5-4, May 20.

They had trailed 3-0 before a three-run homer by Rob Ronk in the fifth inning put them ahead, 4-3. Pitcher Ed Whitaker went seven innings and struck out seven.

"That was a great ballgame to start off with," said Warner.

But the end came soon. The Rochester game had an ominous beginning when Wolfe pitcher Jeff Tungate filled the bases on a walk, an infield hit and an error in the first inning.

Tungate pitched his way out of trouble, however, and Clarkston scored the first run of the game in the second. Mike Walters walked, Rusty Swan doubled and Walters scored on an error on a groundball.

The Falcons went ahead and knocked Tungate out after four innings. The Wolves loaded the bases with one out in the sixth, but couldn't push the tying runs across.

"Anybody can win in baseball on any day," Warner said, prophetically, before the Rochester game.

Clarkston bounced back in the Gary Tournament, which brings together the top 16 teams in the county.

The Wolves made it to the final four by downing Madison Heights, 3-2, and Pontiac Catholic, 9-1 in five innings.

Steve Atkinson allowed just one hit through 6 2/3 innings against Madison Heights and Ed Atkins finished up for the save. Whitaker was three-for-three at the plate.

The mercy rule was put into play against Catholic, which had been 21-6 entering the game.

"We worked the offense pretty good," said Warner. "The hit and run was working and the squeeze was working."

Clarkston met Troy Athens in the tournament semifinals at JC Park Wednesday.

Sports

Muhleck walks onto OCC scene

By Julie LePere

A true sports lover not only plays sports, but he watches them, dreams about them, talks about them, reads about them and coaches them.

Tom Muhleck fits the description.

A 1983 Clarkston High School graduate, he never played organized sports in high school.

But three years, three inches and 20 pounds later, the Independence Township resident played for the third-place Region 12 basketball team in the nation, Oakland Community College—Orchard Ridge.

The Division Two team finished 26-4 in the region for schools that don't give basketball scholarships.

Tom Muhleck's hard work has paid off. He never played high school sports, but he tried out for and made the OCC basketball team, which finished third in the nation in Region 12.

"It was just wild the way I made the team and the situation I stepped into and how well the team did," said Tom.

While studying criminal justice at OCC, he played basketball just for fun during the summer and in his spare time. Last year, he went out for the team and made it.

"It was just on a whim, I guess. I tried out, and I got lucky," he said.

The 5-foot-10 guard even played a little. He played in the Macomb Community College Tournament, and OCC won it.

"I even scored four points. I was happy," he said. The whole team received medals and plaques for their performance.

After that, Tom was red-shirted, so he still has all four years of eligibility left for college basketball.

"My coach recommended it just because of the wealth of talent on the team. I wouldn't get much playing time," said Tom.

He continued to support the team throughout the season, though.

"It was fun watching them," he said. "Four of our five starting guys got scholarships to other schools."

That means the point guard position is open, he said.

"If I want it, I can go for it," said Tom. "I've got my work cut out for me. I'm going to have to work harder than I did last year."

He plans to follow a workout schedule set up by the new OCC coach, Lynn Reed.

"I'll run a mile a day, do toe rises, squat jumps and 500 shots a day from different spots on the floor," he said.

Tom also plays pick-up games just about every night of the week at area gyms.

His hard work seems to have paid off, but he attributes much of his success to several other people.

"Playing with Ray Kubani (in the summer) a lot really helped me out. Ray swatting your shots away makes you play harder," he said about his high school friend who now plays for Kent State.

Tom also mentioned his parents, Earl and Marie. "I owe a lot to them because while I was trying out, they didn't require me to get a job," he said. "They supported me."

Tom also enjoys water skiing and fishing. "I'm getting into fishing a lot," he said. "I caught a big one the other day."

And he likes coaching. For the third year, he and his friend Dan O'Neill are coaching a widget little league baseball team.

"Coaching little league is one of my favorites," he said. "Watching them improve is great."

"The first year Danny and I coached, we won one and lost nine. Last year, we had seven wins. We're going to follow them all the way up, so we're going to see their progress. I like kids—a lot."

In the true colors of a sports lover, Tom also enjoys being a spectator. He watches Pistons' games, but he likes the Los Angeles Lakers the best.

Sports will always have a place somewhere in his life, he said. "But it's second. My degree is first. I want to get an education."

He's doing well in school. He made the dean's list last semester.

"My grades in high school were just poor, very poor," he said. "They've improved a great deal."

After he graduates from OCC with an associate's degree, he may transfer to a four-year school and possibly play basketball for a few more years, or he may go to a police academy.

"If basketball doesn't work out, it's no big deal," Tom said. "I'll still play."

Sherman and Co. soar, 8-0

By Chris Gerbasl

Terri Sherman and her Clarkston softball teammates rolled over Bloomfield Hills Andover like a tank last Friday.

The Wolves, behind the arm of Sherman, won 8-0 to advance to this Saturday's district semifinals. They'll battle Rochester Adams at Halbauch Field in Rochester.

Sherman shot down the Barons by striking out eight and allowing just three hits.

Kelly Cruz and Jessica Shoup paced Clarkston's

10-hit attack with two hits apiece as the Wolves scored two runs in the third, two in the fourth, three in the sixth and one in the seventh. Cruz, Sue Stefanski, Stacey Shurtz and Maggie Gdula knocked in one run each.

Clarkston is now 23-7 and Sherman is a large part of the team's success. The senior has 19 wins and six losses in only her second full season as a pitcher. Although she's been playing the game for 10 years, Sherman didn't find her way to the mound until two years ago.

"I always fooled around with it (pitching)," said Sherman. "Mr. (Don) Peters (JV softball coach) helped a lot, pushing me. I enjoyed it and started doing it."

Last season Sherman pitched about every other game, while this year she's the team's ironman. Rather than feeling any added pressure, Sherman thinks the heavy workload has helped her pitching.

"I just do what I have to do," she said. "(I've improved) probably because of more games and more experience. It's hard work, but I like it."

Coach Carla Teare said Sherman has improved "drastically" from a year ago.

"She has more speed and more pitches," said Teare. "She changes speed and keeps batters more off-balance. And just being a senior, she's more confident."

"She's (Teare) given me so much confidence," Sherman said. "If I didn't have her, I wouldn't be doing as well."

Teare's practice routine for Sherman includes 200 pitches and a lot of running, and Sherman credits aerobics for her rubber arm.

"I wouldn't be able to pitch game after game if it weren't for aerobics," she said. "Last year, I couldn't pitch every game. This year, in tournaments, I've pitched three games in a row."

Just as Sherman has improved over last season, so have the Wolves. But despite a better hitting team and a better record, this year's squad will be hard-pressed to match last year's success when Clarkston made it to the state semifinals.

"I don't think anybody expected us to do anything (last year)," said Teare. "They played good at the end under pressure. I know this team has the same capabilities and potential. But I think we have to have a little luck."

"This is the best team I've ever been on," said Sherman. "I hate to see it end."

With Sherman and a little luck, the Wolves' season may not end until the state finals.

Smith nets All-MAC honor

By Julie LePere

After 10 years of tennis, Mary Smith still loves the game, and she still succeeds.

The 1983 Clarkston High School graduate has played for Eastern Michigan University in the last three years and has been selected as an All-MAC player each year.

This year, she won the Mid American Conference tournament at first singles and first doubles.

"It was hard," she said about the singles match. "I ended up beating a girl who I'd lost to earlier in the season and who hadn't lost in two years in MAC dual meets."

"The beginning of my season was a little slow. I was worried about the MAC tournament, but it all turned out really good."

Next year, Mary will graduate with a degree in elementary education, and she'll keep playing tennis.

"I like the challenge of it," she said. "The more you do, the more there is out there."

Mary Smith is an All-MAC tennis player for the third consecutive year.

Walters opts for Albion

By Julie LePere

When choosing a college, most high school students consider such things as the size of the campus, how far it is from home, the curriculum offered and how many high school friends will be going there.

Mike Walters considered two things: How good is the pre-engineering curriculum and how good are the basketball and baseball teams?

The Clarkston High School athlete chose Albion College, just outside of Jackson, because it met all of his needs.

"It's just a chance to play sports," said the baseball pitcher and All-League basketball forward.

"I got accepted at (the University of) Michigan and Albion, but I just decided to go to Albion when they gave me the chance to play."

A member of the National Honor Society and his senior class president, Mike was also impressed with Albion's science department.

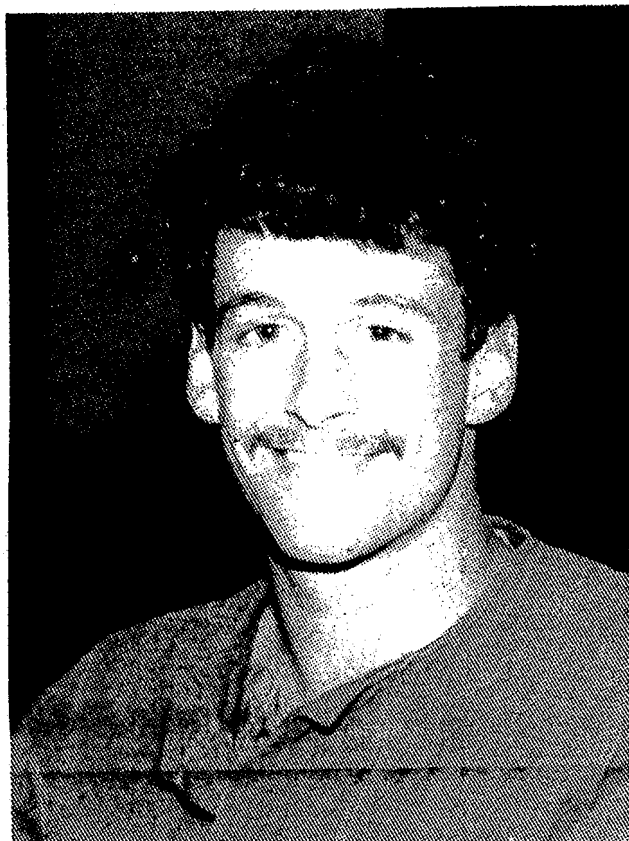

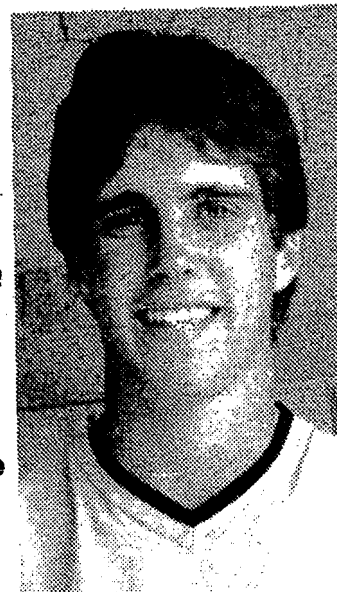

"I made a couple of visits, and they were just really nice," he said. "All of the faculty were willing to talk to me all the time. I was really impressed."

Dan Fife, CHS basketball coach, is confident of Mike's success at Albion.

"Mike had a very good season his senior year," he said. "He worked very hard. He was our leader by example on the floor and off the floor. Albion's very fortunate to have a young man like Mike. No matter where Mike chooses to go, he'll be a success."

"Albion's very fortunate to have a young man like Mike."

—Dan Fife

Rich Schrader is near the top of his league in batting, .330, and stolen bases, 10.

... in Schrader's footsteps

By Julie LePere

Rich Schrader, former Clarkston High School baseball ace, is still playing well.

The 1983 CHS graduate is batting .330 at Albion—good enough for the second best average in Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA). The business major also tied for first in MIAA for steals, with 10.

Schrader and his teammates finished with a 10-12 record, but had several events highlight their season.

"We beat Michigan State. It was great. It was their home opener," said Schrader.

The team also went to Florida for a week and they played in Georgia and Pennsylvania.

While in Pennsylvania, the team stayed on Red Sox property and got to use their facilities.

In the summer, Schrader plans to play in a Class A baseball league in Pontiac. During the school year, he plays intramural basketball.

Now a senior at Albion, he played football at the college his freshman year. He didn't play the following years due to injuries.

Although Schrader's major is economics and management, he doesn't know exactly what he'll be doing in the future.

"I'll finish out school and see what happens," he said. "In the last three summers, I've been working for EDS, GM. I'm going to use that for a reference to get into IBM, I think."

In the meantime, he will stay in an Independence Township apartment with his brother Joel until school starts again next August. His parents have moved to North Carolina.

Parks to give lessons

Golf and tennis lessons for children and adults will be offered this summer by the Independence Parks and Recreation Department.

A variety of days and times are available, as well as classes for all ability levels.

An adult tennis league is also offered.

The sessions begin in June, so anyone interested should register as soon as possible. For more information, call 625-8223.

Girls win; boys 14th

By Chris Gerbasi

It's official: Clarkston has the best girls' track team in Oakland County.

Before dressing up for the high school prom last Friday, the thinclads found time to don their uniforms and race down the track to victory at the county meet in Hazel Park.

Coming off a decisive regional victory, the Wolves piled up 112 points to Southfield's 73. Rochester and Bloomfield Hills Andover tied for third with 54 points.

It was the second straight championship for the girls in the county meet, which brings together only the top qualifiers in the county.

The boys' team finished in a tie for 14th with Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook with 12 points. Pontiac Northern won the boys' competition with 84 points, while Rochester was second among 40 schools with 53 points.

Clarkston had another shot at the Huskies Wednesday in the postponed Greater Oakland Activities League meet.

The girls' team once again received outstanding performances from Jennifer Farough, Shivonne DeBoer, Lisa Ladd and Jane Selent.

"We have a nucleus of seven to eight kids who, put together, are awful darn impressive all on their own," said coach Gordie Richardson.

Farough won the 100-meter high hurdles and 300-meter low hurdles; DeBoer won the shot put and was second in the discus; Ladd won the long jump and was third in the 100-meter dash; and Selent won the 100- and 200-meter dashes.

Tara Carncross tied with Holli Zwar of Royal Oak Kimball in the high jump at 5-3, but was declared the winner with fewer misses at the preceding height.

Kate Conlen ran to third in the 1600-meter run, as did Wendy Cohoon in the 800-meter run.

Clarkston's 400- and 800-meter relay teams had some shaky exchanges, but still placed second in each race.

"The county meet is an icing-on-the-cake sort of thing," said Richardson. "There's a little bragging rights involved I guess. It gives them something to shoot for at the end of the year."

"It's almost like an all-star meet," said boys' coach Walt Wyniemko. "It's the cream of the crop."

Chris Poulos nearly rose to the top in the high jump in the boys' meet with a second-place jump of 6-4. Matt Scharl tied for fourth in the pole vault at 13-0 and Keith Krupp tossed the discus 150-4, good for fifth.

March of tennis

March of Dimes Tennis, anyone?

The Deer Lake Racquet and Country Club in Independence Township is hosting a tennis rally sponsored by the March of Dimes this Saturday, May 31, from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m.

The club will stage a variety of tennis events for players of all skill levels and all donations will go toward the prevention of birth defects.

For a contribution, players can take part in clinics conducted by Deer Lake pros Mary Jo Colonna and Gilbert Rincon.

Money will also be raised through pledge events, such as collecting for how many times each person hits the ball over the net and how many points can be won against a pro. There will be a fast serve contest and an evening tennis mixer and dinner.

Prizes including a television and 10-speed bike will be awarded to the top fund raisers.

For more information and to register, call the racquet club at 625-8686.

Ovid representatives spend day in Clarkston

By Julie LePere

For the 30 people involved, the exchange day with Ovid was a good way to celebrate Michigan Week.

Representatives from the Village of Clarkston (population about 1,000) went to the larger Village of Ovid (population about 1,700), just outside Jackson, on Monday, May 19.

Representatives from Ovid came to Clarkston on Wednesday, May 21.

"There were similarities in a lot of areas, but they're much more rural than we are, and they have a much bigger downtown," said Village Council President Sharron Catalo.

Board makes noise over track

An ordinance amendment will allow increased noise levels at Waterford Hills Race Track under special conditions.

On May 20, the Independence Township Board approved the proposal without comment.

A first reading of the amendment on May 6 and publication of the amendment had preceded the vote.

Only cars recognized as historical may exceed the current noise restrictions.

The matter first came to the board's attention last month when representatives of Group Promotions requested a variance for historic cars they plan to race on Aug. 1-3.

Group Promotions intends to hold the race at the track off Dixie Highway, in connection with the Meadow Brook Concours d'Elegance to be held at Meadow Brook Hall in Rochester on Aug. 3.

In exchange for the concession, they have offered to conduct a "mini-concours" and parade in the Village of Clarkston that weekend.

Sound levels at the track have been a source of contention between the race track and neighbors for several years.

In response to residents' complaints, the township agreed to establish an 80-decibel limit effective in 1986.

The historic cars will exceed that limit because they were built before modern emission systems were adopted.

The amendment and a resolution to permit the parade were passed 6-0 by the board members present.

Trustee Daniel Travis was absent.

New textbooks on way to students

Nearly $73,000 worth of textbooks are on order for Clarkston school district pupils.

New social studies books have been ordered for grades K-8. The $55,000 in books are from an array of publishers: K-3 from Scott Foresman, 4-6 from McGraw-Hill, supplemental Michigan history books for fourth-graders from Hillsdale Press, seventh-graders' texts from Allyn and Bacon, and eighth-graders' texts from Addison Wesley.

"That's part of this new curriculum effort to make our texts match what we want to do rather than match what we do with the textbooks," said Superintendent Milford Mason.

Algebra I and II textbooks for junior high school and high school students will cost about $17,840. The 1,025 books were ordered from Houghton-Mifflin.

The board of education approved the purchases May 12.

Ovid is the home of the largest Holstein herd in the world, and Clarkston's council members saw Michigan's largest milk producing facility while they were there.

"They make powdered milk, evaporated milk and butter," she said. "The quantity that they put out is amazing. They milk 1,500 cows twice a day."

The rainy weather didn't seem to dampen anyone's spirit, although much of the day in both towns was spent outside.

"We had rain there," said Catalo. "It was a similar exchange in that way, too."

Although the highlights for the visitors included lunch at Deer Lake Racquet Club, before dinner refreshments at Catalo's home and dinner at the Clarkston Cafe.

They stopped at Universal Data Corp., the new 52nd District Court, the senior citizen center and Clintonwood Park area, and the Clarkston Conservatory of Music.

They walked on a Main Street tour with the historical society, visited several businesses on Main Street and met Independence Township Supervisor Tink Ronk when they saw the Township Hall.

As a community project, E.F. Hutton & Co. paid for the Michigan Week dinner at the Clarkston Cafe for the 30 people involved.

Call for nominees

Springfield Township needs candidates for two trustee and two park commission positions.

Anyone interested should pick up their petitions as soon as possible from Springfield Township Hall, 650 Broadway in Davisburg.

They must be returned, with the signatures of 26 to 100 registered voters, by 4 p.m. on June 3.

The two two-year trustee positions resulted from the township change to charter status, requiring a total of four trustees rather than two. The regular four-year terms will begin in 1988 when Springfield Township's other elected officials' terms come to an end.

The two remaining years of the four-year park commission terms were left vacant at the resignation of Ina Golden and Donna Marshall.

Golden resigned in May for personal reasons, and Marshall resigned in November because she moved out of the area.

Apply for summer job

Approximately 1,000 Michigan Youth Corps jobs are available in Oakland County this summer, but young people should apply soon.

Applications are currently being accepted and work will begin as early as June 2. The Youth Corps will provide 12,500 summer jobs across the state to unemployed 18- through 21-year-old residents.

Locally, applications are available at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center at 8211 Big Lake Rd, Springfield Township, and at the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department in Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Several Clarkston High School students who have appeared in musicals gather round the quilt made for drama department director Barb

Gibson by parent Betsy Travis. The group includes Jackie Roberts, Laura Bruce, Wendy Jones, Amy Zeleznik, Mike Peterson, Dan

Travis, Amy Travis, Michelle Blomberg, Ingrid Vaara, Jim Dunn and Nancy White.

Quilt pays tribute to 'Ma' Gibson

25 playbill squares stitched with love by fibers artist Betsy Travis

By Kathy Greenfield

Every day for eight months, with the exception of Christmas, Betsy Travis worked on the tribute.

When the quilt for Barb Gibson was completed, there were 25 squares representing 23 musicals and two plays that have appeared on the Clarkston High School Little Theatre stage.

All were performed by Clarkston High School students under the direction of Gibson. The productions spanned 20 years.

The quilt became Gibson's on the final night of the high school drama department's most recent performance, "Oklahoma!"

"It's something I'll treasure all my life," said Gibson.

"I was shocked, really. I'm not one to be a person without words and I was absolutely speechless. I said to her, 'Betsy, I just don't know what to say to you—all those stitches,' and she said, 'Every stitch was a stitch of love.'"

Each square carries what Gibson calls a "theater ghost." At the end of every play's run, she reads the words of the ghost to the audience: "When the last curtain is down, I feel like I do right now—that I just lost my very best friend."

And now, when she looks at each carefully stitched and detailed square, "my theater ghost comes back with memories of each one," she said. "Every one has given a memory I can hold."

Gibson describes the quilt as "a masterpiece." "Even the lettering is in the style of the musical. It's fantastic. I love it," she said.

For Travis, a fibers artist, attention to detail was essential.

Her son and daughter, CHS senior Dan and junior Amy, spirited playbills and posters from the files in Gibson's office so the design of each square could be as close to the actual student artwork as possible.

For some playbills no longer existed, so Travis spent time doing research at the Detroit Public Library, which carries in its archives all the playbills from Broadway plays.

In the finished product, she included a large panel at the quilt's bottom of Clarkston High School, and embroidered details added even more personal touches.

On the square for the play "The Boyfriend," Model T's license plate detail reads: MA #1. Gibson's students have affectionately called her "Ma" for years.

Inspiration for the project began last year during talk about the 25th anniversary of the building that houses CHS.

"It just seemed a logical time that she be recognized for as much as she has contributed to the kids and the community, and enriched so many of them," said Travis.

Both Travis' children have been active in the drama department during their years at CHS, and Dan and Amy presented the completed quilt to Gibson.

"The kids were incredibly supportive. They were really involved," said Travis. "On the day of the final performance (of "Oklahoma!"), I was sitting there quilting until 7 p.m. Dan stopped by and brought roses. He was really appreciative, I think, of the effort."

The time she spent on the project was worth being able to recognize Gibson "for giving so much," Travis said, and for her humility.

"She doesn't expect anything in return. She feels that all the effort she puts in is rewarded by the kids themselves and the love they return."

Graduation party delights

Betty Wagner

Today's recipes feature the offerings of two talented men in our community.

Each in his own artistic way provides much enjoyment for southeastern Michigan residents.

Ivan Rouse, the director of the Clarkston Conservatory of Music, says he doesn't cook, yet he has shared with us a delicious way to prepare parsnips.

In converting his recipe for microwave cooking, I've had to sacrifice some of the browning that occurs in a hot skillet, but the taste remains sweet and delicious.

Ray Larkins is the talented chef for Deer Lake Racquet Club's Banquet Room. He masterminds the ever popular Sunday brunch that attracts people from beyond the boundaries of Oakland County.

He graciously agreed to share his recipe for Shrimp Newburg Crepes, which I have adapted for microwave cooking.

With graduation open houses on the minds of many people, why not include Ray and Ivan's recipes on your party buffet?

Prepare your favorite crepe recipe and fill with Shrimp Newburg; top with creole sauce. Or for a simple variation, serve the Shrimp Newburg over hot rice.

The Chard Pars may be offered as a vegetable side dish, or cut into bite-size pieces, accompanied with toothpicks and served as a hot appetizer.

IVAN'S CHARD PARS

1 pound parsnips of similar size, if possible

2 1/2 tablespoons butter

Melt butter in small Pyrex cup for 40 to 60 seconds. Brush bottom of browning dish with some of the melted butter.

Preheat browning dish in microwave for 8 to 9 minutes. (Check manufacturer's instructions so the particular time for the dish or particular oven will not be exceeded.)

Scrub parsnips. Cut into 2-inch pieces. Cut large pieces in half or quarters lengthwise so all parsnips are fairly even in size.

Pour remaining melted butter over parsnips. Turn to coat.

Add parsnips to preheated browning dish and stir until sizzling stops. Cook at high power for 2 minutes. Stir and continue cooking for 2 to 3 minutes, or until parsnips are tender.

SHRIMP NEWBURG CREPES

(18 filled crepes)

2 tablespoons butter

Salt and pepper to taste

1/2 tablespoon paprika

1 tablespoon finely chopped shallots

1/4 cup dry sherry wine

1 cup half-and-half or evaporated milk, divided

2 egg yolks

1 to 1 1/2 pounds cooked shrimp, thawed and cut into bite-size pieces

Melt butter in 10-inch microsafe round or oval baking dish at high power for 30 to 40 seconds.

Add shrimp and shallots; microwave at 80 percent power for 3 minutes. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika. Add wine.

Microwave at 80 percent power for 3 minutes, or until shrimp are hot. With a slotted spoon, remove shrimp and place in another dish. Cover to keep warm.

Cook juices at high power 4 minutes to reduce them. Add 3/4 cup cream; microwave at 50 percent power for 3 minutes.

Beat egg yolks with 1/4 cup cream; quickly stir into dish. Microwave at 50 percent power for 8 to 10 minutes, stirring every 2 minutes.

Do not allow mixture to boil. Add shrimp and reheat at 80 percent power for 45 to 60 seconds. Adjust seasonings, if necessary.

RAY'S ORIGINAL CREOLE SAUCE

1 bottle chili sauce

1/4 cup finely minced green pepper

1 small carrot finely minced

1/4 cup finely minced onion

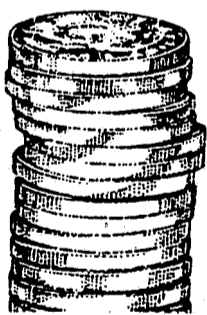

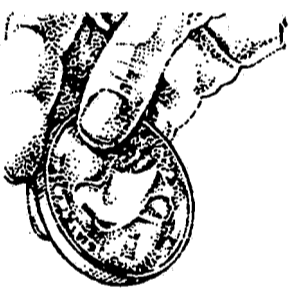

Pinch of cayenne, white and black pepper

1/8 teaspoon garlic salt

Microwave the vegetables at high power for 2 minutes. Add the chili sauce; microwave at 80 percent power for 1 minute. Taste and adjust seasonings. Serve over filled Shrimp Newburg crepes.

There is still time to share your favorite recipe with our community. Send it with your name and phone number to Microwave Plus, Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Home economist Betty Wagner resides in Independence Township. A graduate of West Virginia University, she teaches microwave cooking classes at Sears at the Oakland Mall and through the Clarkston Community Education Department.

Following dinner at Springfield Oaks County Park, the scouts received their Eagle Scout ranks in a ceremony before 170 people. Howard and Charbeneau are Holly area residents and Weil resides in the Clarkston area. In Troop 189's 21 years of existence, there have been 22 Eagle Scouts. To receive the Eagle Award, each boy must earn 21 merit badges and complete a community service project.

At college

Alice Sutton is participating in Kalamazoo College's career development internship program.

Eighty percent or more of all "K" College students spend one quarter of their sophomore years gaining experience in science, law, government, business administration, social work, education, and the fine and performing arts.

Sutton's internship is at the Kalamazoo Public Museum in Kalamazoo. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sutton of Fawn Valley Drive, Independence Township.

BEST BUTTONS: The official button design for Sashabaw Junior High School's Project Night 1986 was the work of Art III student David Woodruff (seated). Runners-up in the competition were (standing, from left) Nichole Hocking, Kristen Martin and Terie Jeffers. As part of project night, Art III students were asked to submit button designs. David's winning entry was printed in dark blue on a light blue background and made into pin-back buttons by library-media student aides. Each student at the junior high school who submitted a finished project for Project Night on May 9 received an official button.

McGee, Longair wed in N. Carolina

Patricia Diane McGee and Jon Longair were united in marriage at the Eden Methodist Church in Madison, N.C.

The Rev. Mark Cranford performed the traditional ceremony at 1 p.m. Pink and white baby roses adorned the altar and carnations and ivy decorated the church pews.

The bride is the daughter of Wayne and Vera McGee of Stokesdale, N.C. A graduate of the Electronic Computer Programming Institute, she is employed as a flight attendant with Piedmont Airlines in Greensboro, N.C.

The bridegroom's parents are Wayne and Mary Jo Longair of Holcomb Street, Clarkston. A graduate of Waterford Mott High School and the Florida Institute of Technology, he is a pilot for Piedmont.

For her April 26 wedding, the bride wore a satin wedding gown with a Victorian neckline, fitted waistline, puff sleeves and a full skirt and train. She carried a nosegay of pink and white baby roses, ivy and babies breath.

Maid of honor was Celeste Martin of Greensboro, N.C. She wore a pink and white gown of dotted Swiss and lace.

Bride helpers were Ginger Shelton and Bonnie Jo Shelton. Tana Shelton assisted with the guest book.

Best man was the bridegroom's father, Norman Galligan of Clarkston, Mike Tucker of North Carolina, Sandy Pezzeminti of Florida and Mike Felts of North Carolina served as ushers.

The wedding reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church Fellowship Hall. The couple took a wedding trip to Hawaii for a week in their condominium.

They are residing in Winston Salem, N.C.

Patricia Diane Longair wore a white satin gown for her April 26 wedding.

Kortge to study science

CHS grad earns fellowship

By Julie LePere

Chris Kortge's National Science Foundation Graduate Fellowship was the result of several years of intensive work.

The fellowship means "I'll be getting paid to go to school," said the Independence Township resident.

He will take courses, do research and work with a faculty member.

The Oakland University (1986) and Clarkston High School (1980) graduate received the honor on the basis of his graduate record examination scores, his grade point average of 3.95 at OU, professor recommendations and the compatibility of his undergraduate classes with his chosen field of study.

So far, classroom work has been easy for Chris, although he spends a great deal of time at the library doing outside reading.

"I don't study very much," he said. "I will be next year, though."

A psychology major with minors in philosophy and computer science, the preparation will suit him perfectly for his graduate work in cognitive science.

"It's kind of a combination of artificial intelligence and psychology, the study of cognition, or thinking, in whatever forms it might take—humans, computers," said Chris. "That's why computer science fits into it. And philosophy. It's what they call an interdisciplinary science."

"My philosophy of mind class related to it, and I did some reading outside of class," he said. "I'm going to have to learn a lot about this eventually."

He plans to attend the University of California in San Diego for the next five years.

"I went out there for a week," he said. "It's really nice out there."

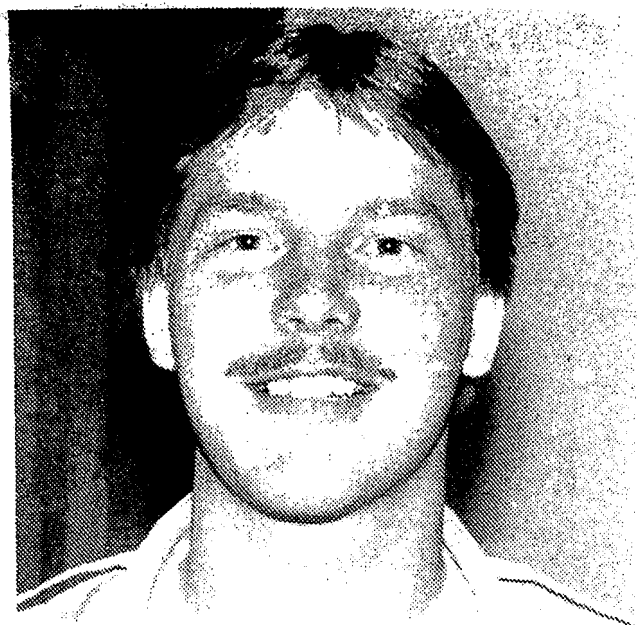

After graduate school, Chris would like to do some kind of research, he said. He's also considering becoming a professor himself.

"Or maybe research for a company or for myself, preferably," he said.

In the meantime, he plans to continue life-guarding at Deer Lake and working out at Vic Tanny before he leaves.

And he will keep his motivation with him throughout the summer.

"To do well, that's my motive," said Chris.

Chris Kortge plans to study cognitive science next year on a National Science Foundation Graduate Fellowship.

Reading club sign up

First- through sixth-graders can sign up now for the free summer reading program at the Independence Township Library.

The spotlight will be on books with meetings every Wednesday from 1 to 2:30 p.m., June 8 through Aug. 6.

Programs planned this year include professional mimes, a magician, a nature program of skins and skulls, and a special "Come Dressed as Your Ancestor" costume party.

Everyone who attends the programs must have a library card, and all participants must sign a contract based on how many books they wish to read. For each contract fulfilled, a certificate will be awarded.

The higher number of books read, the greater number of read-a-lottery tickets go into the drawing for prizes at the end of the program.

Sign up at the library at 6495 Clarkston Rd. For more information, call 625-2212.

7:30 p.m.

The Village Council has determined it necessary to maintain the 7.4 millage rate for the General Fund. Due to increased State Equalized Valuation, this is an increase of 2.63% in revenue for the General Fund in the amount of $2708.40.

The total millage rate for 1986 Village taxes will remain at 9.4 mills, 7.4 mills for the General Fund and 2 mills for the debt retirement fund for sewer construction.

The Village Council is authorized a maximum millage rate of 12.5 mills for General Fund purposes.

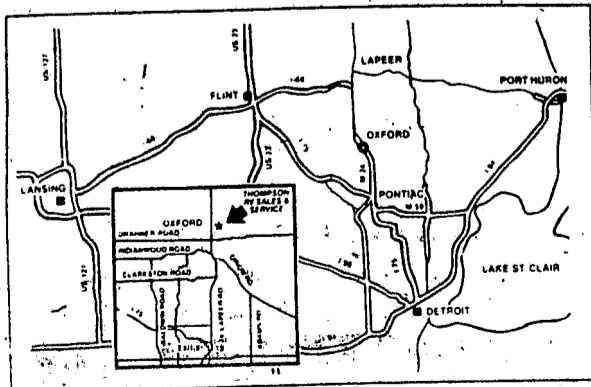

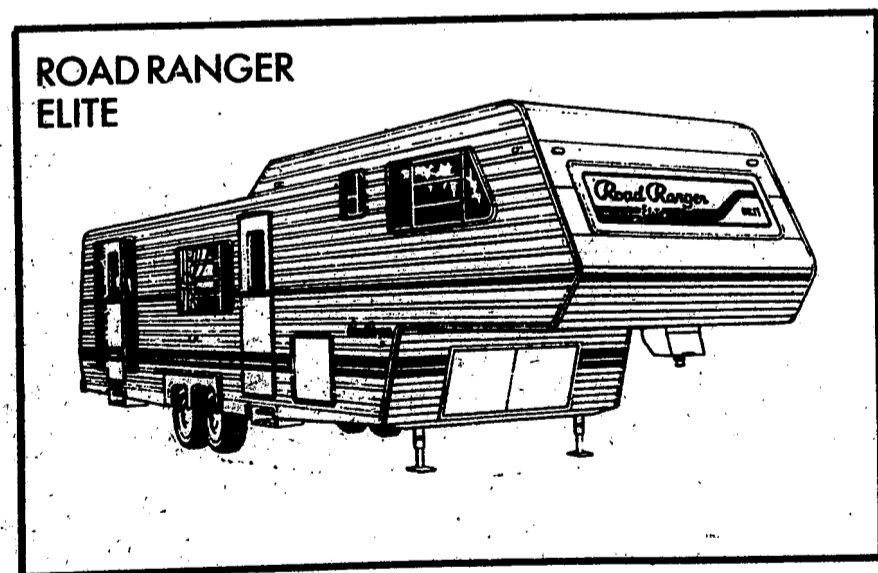

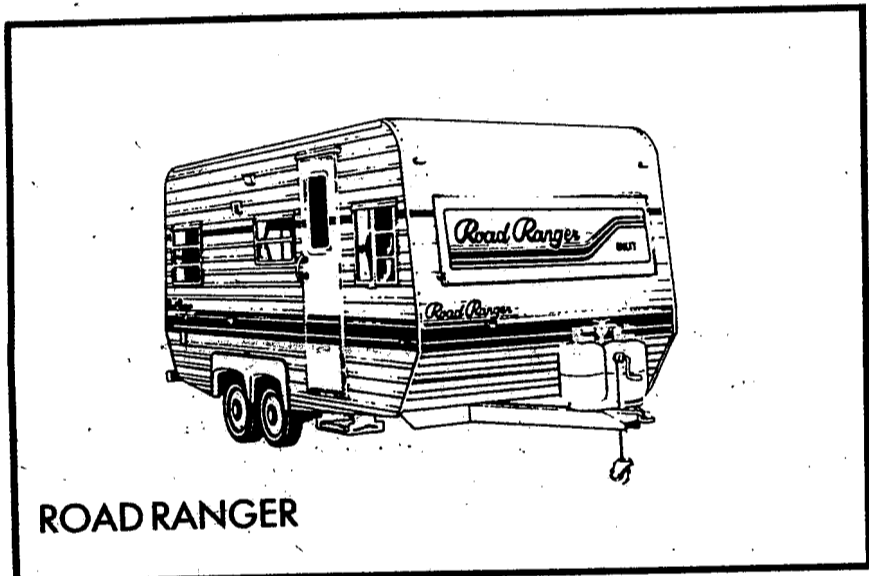

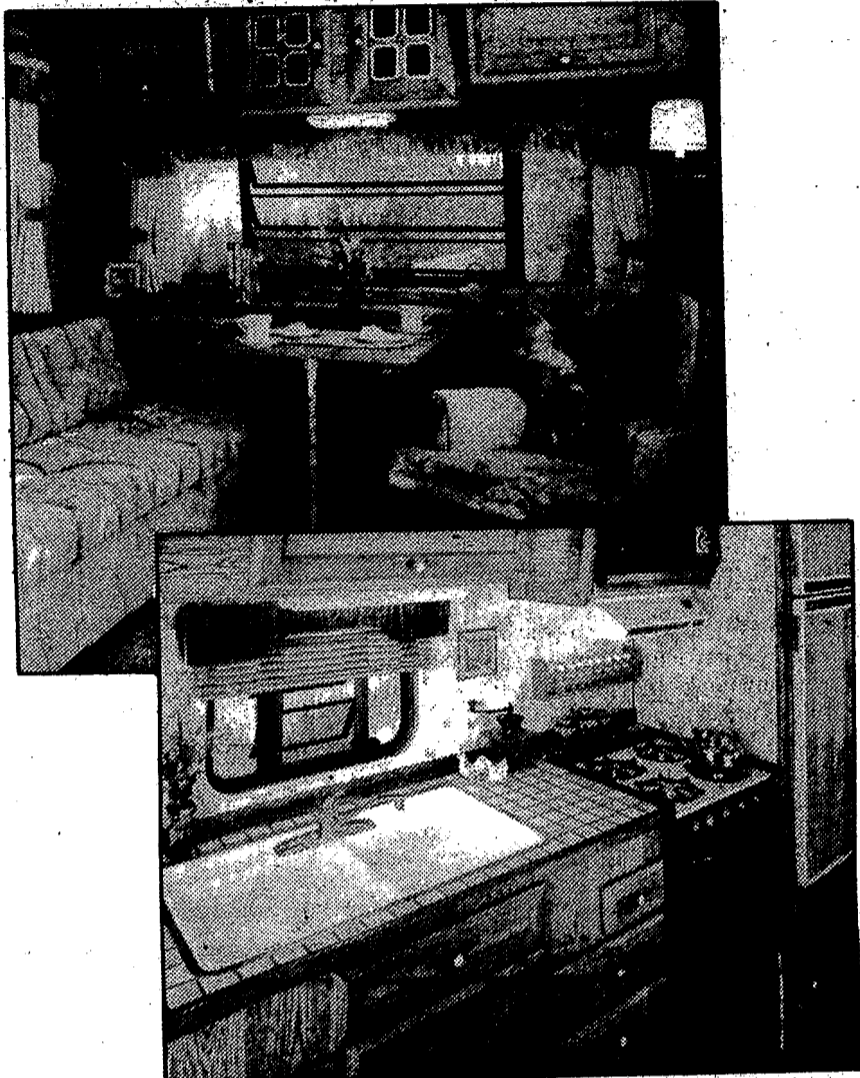

By maintaining the 2 mill rate for the debt retirement fund, the increased revenues amount to 2.23% in the amount of $597.40.

Concert for Bryan

In a benefit concert for Bryan Weightman, the Clarkston United Methodist Church is presenting pianist Leszek Bartkiewicz this Sunday at 3 p.m.

Weightman, of Independence Township, is a 2-year-old bone marrow transplant recipient who recently returned home after four months in Washington.

All proceeds of Bartkiewicz' performance will be contributed to the Bryan Michael Weightman Hope for the Future Fund. Tickets are available at the door for a $5 donation.

Bartkiewicz is a native of Poland and an international award-winning performer. He is presently teaching at the Detroit Community Music School. He will present a program of Bach, Schubert, Liszt and Gershwin.

The church is located at 6600 Waldon Rd. For more information, call 625-1611.

Rev. celebrates 25th

The Rev. Robert Walters marked his 25th year as an ordained minister with receptions following the two Sunday services at Calvary Lutheran Church.

The receptions were planned as a surprise by parishioners at the church on Bluegrass Drive in Independence Township, where Walters has served as pastor for 15 years.

His wife Beverly and their sons Mike and Bob attended the celebrations.

Walters was ordained May 21, 1961, in Decatur, Ill., at the First Lutheran Church, his home church.

He has served three churches during his ministry: Hope-Epiphany Lutheran Church of Chicago, Ill., from 1961 to 1977; First Lutheran Church of Decatur, Ill., from 1967 to 1971; and Calvary Lutheran Church.

Walters received his doctorate of ministry degree, an academic degree, in 1981 from the Lutheran School of Theology in Chicago.

Does marijuana have other uses?

Dear Cat Paw:

Does taking marijuana with something else mix OK or what happens?

Student

Dear Student:

Marijuana has been found in recent studies to alter the effect of a number of common drugs.

Besides causing some drugs to lose potency, marijuana interacts with others and can cause a potentially toxic effect when used with caffeine, amphetamines, barbiturates and tranquilizers.

Dear Cat Paw:

Can you find out if marijuana is used for anything else besides a drug?

Curious

Dear Curious:

Marijuana has its therapeutic uses as being possibly beneficial in the treatment of glaucoma, cancer, epilepsy and organ transplanting.

Marijuana has been cultivated for centuries for fiber, oil and seed.

Dear Cat Paw:

How do kids get prescription drugs without a doctor?

Adult

Dear Adult:

The easiest and most common way to obtain controlled drugs is to simply take them from the medicine cabinet.

This introduces vast numbers of young people into lives of drug abuse, crime and suffering.

Drugs may be stolen from a neighbor while using his bathroom or removed during a home burglary.

Addicts will steal blank prescription pads, learn to accurately forge a script and then have them filled by a pharmacist.

I have listed only some of the ways—you sound concerned, why not become informed?

Help

Dear Help:

Controlled substances are identifiable by several means. They are usually marked with the manufacturer's patented trademark and a control number. They also have peculiar colors, shapes and forms.

Check the Physicians' Desk Reference (PDR), which should supply you with all the information.

If you cannot identify a drug through the PDR, your pharmacist may provide the needed assistance. He might be familiar with certain generic-type drugs not listed.

Your family physician can also be of help in identifying the drug since many substances can be detected in the blood and urine.

If all of the above are not satisfactory, check with the police crime laboratory.

Send letters to Cat Paw in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016.

UD-Clarkston offers course for talented

Some high school students will be able to take a college-level course at the University of Detroit's Clarkston campus beginning this fall.

The three-credit course, Introduction to Philosophy, will be available to highly talented students who are nominated by their high schools for the Challenge Program.

The course, taught by Professor Vaughn Adams, will cost $291. College students will also be enrolled in the regular university course scheduled from 11:15 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays at the Colombiere Center in Springfield Township.

Adams has been teaching philosophy at the University of Detroit since 1958 and has served as chairman of the philosophy department and associate dean of the college of liberal arts.

Bruce Brorby, director of U of D's Clarkston

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., May 28, 1986 33

campus, credits parents of Clarkston High School students with instigating the new program.

"Some of the parents of the gifted and talented program approached the (high) school and said, 'Could anything be worked out where students could get some additional challenge?' " Brorby said, and, in turn, U of D was contacted.

"I'm excited about it, because it's one of the very first things that we're able to do for the surrounding community—we're able to respond to a community request," he said.

The university's Clarkston campus opened in September 1983.

For more information, students should contact their high school counselors, or Brorby may be reached at 625-0270.

A collection of family high school rings adorns Kim Webb's fingers. The Clarkston High School junior wears them almost every day.

Her fingers ring with family history

By Kathy Greenfield

Kim Webb carries family history on her fingers. On her right hand, she wears her mother's 1966 Pontiac Northern High School ring, her own 1987 Clarkston High School ring and her great-grandfather's high school ring.

"I don't have the slightest idea when he graduated or anything," she says about her great-grandfather's ring that bears the letter "J" for James.

The family heirloom was a gift from her grandfather, Alvin James of Pontiac.

Kim was wearing her own ring and her mother's, and her grandfather offered to add his to the collection. When he was searching for it, he found his father's ring instead.

"I'm supposed to get (my grandfather's) class ring, too, and when my grandmother finds hers, I'm supposed to get hers," said Kim.

If that happens, she plans to wear all five rings at once. But for now, she wears the three class rings almost every day.

"I just think they're neat," she said. "They're mementos of back when my mom went to school and the others. I keep little things like that."

Among her other souvenirs are a collection of cheerleading letters and sweaters from junior high school and a box filled with ribbons from flowers she has received.

"I've got a box of old notes people have written me," she said. "I just like to look back at them and keep them for memories."

One line fits all... the John Deere mower selection

Size up your mowing needs. However small or however large they are, you can put a John Deere on your lawn. It's easy because of the big selection. Easier still because we've held the line on prices.

Got a quarter of an acre or less? That's walk-behind mower country. And you can choose from 10 new 21-in. deluxe models exclusive to John Deere — 4 and 3½ hp, 2- or 4-cycle engines, self-propelled and push-type — plus a 20-in. trimming mower. Thatchers and rear baggers are available.

More than a quarter acre? Now you're talking riding mower. Choice of five

John Deere models here, 8 and 11 hp. Even the lowest-cost model can finish off three-quarters of an acre in an hour. Mulching, thatching, bagging, sweeping and cart attachments available.

An acre or more? Big-job work for a regular lawn tractor. Seven new models in the John Deere 100 Series, 9 to 17 hp with 30- to 46-in. cuts. The 46-in. versions can mow a full acre in about 45 minutes. Same attachments as riders plus front blades and snow throwers available.

See us about the John Deere equipment right for you. We've got exactly what you need, whatever it is.

Howarth hopes for lots of 'I do's'

By Chris Gerbasi

Marryin' Len is at it again.

E. Leonard Howarth, who wears many hats on his round, bald dome, is shooting for something big—a Guinness Book world record.

The Davisburg attorney, minister in the Universal Life Church and occasional political candidate, is attempting to hold the world's largest mass wedding ceremony. The ceremony will be on Father's Day, June 15, in Springfield Oaks County Park.

The current record-holder is Sun Myung Moon, who presided over 5,837 couples in South Korea in 1982.

Moon, of course, told his followers whom each should marry. Howarth is not so presumptuous.

He's just trying to stage a big event for the Springfield Sesquicentennial and raise some money for charity at the same time. But Howarth definitely wants the record.

"It's a good chance to raise some money," he said, "but I don't want bucks, I want bodies. If I get 7,500 couples out there, that's $75,000 for charity."

Couples who want to get married or reaffirm their vows can make out a check for $9.95 to the charity or political fund of their choice. Couples who'd rather not remember their vows must pay extra.

"If they want to help me with my expenses, they can make it out to me," said Howarth. "If they say, 'I wouldn't marry her again for anything,' they can give a check for $19.95."

Actually, any amount is acceptable. Howarth sent out flyers to let people know of the event, which may be viewed as a publicity stunt. But Howarth is no stranger to publicity or stunts.

He has been a practicing attorney since 1970 and has run for the state senate, county prosecutor, county commissioner, and mayor of Ferndale when he was 21 and the age requirement was 35.

As a minister, Howarth has married people in parks, hot air balloons, on golf courses and, once, before 150 people at a nudist colony in Oxford. When asked for a picture last week, Howarth asked, "With or without clothes?"

Howarth has also taken part in staging concerts at the Davisburg park and some events for "Davisburg Days." Among those events was a double decathlon.

One year, a rule stipulated that the participants couldn't spill their beer. The following year, it was open only to pregnant women and one event was "throw the baby out with the bathwater," in which the women would see how far they could toss a plastic baby out of a tub.

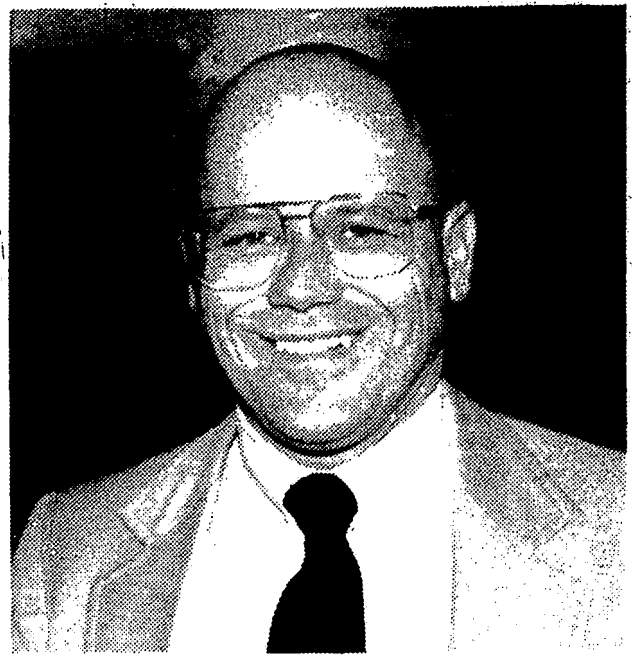

Howarth said he likes to finish phases in his life with a bang.

"Every time I finish a phase, I like to do something big," he said. "After this (ceremony), I may not do any more weddings."

As an attorney and a minister, Howarth has dealt with both marriage and divorce.

"I'd like to put more people together than I've divorced," said Howarth in a brief moment of seriousness. "This is so people can reaffirm their vows. It's a 'support the family'-type thing."

And if a record happens to fall, all the better.

E. Leonard Howarth (Marryin' Len) will attempt to preside over the largest wedding ceremony ever. To participate, call 634-9536.

War veterans bear flags of the United States, VFW and the American Legion. The parade route began on Church Street and went to Main Street, Washington Street and Holcomb Road.

It ended on White Lake Road at Lakeview Cemetery. Spectators watched along the route.

Parade participants

The Vietnam War veterans are represented at the parade by Jack Ryan, who is confined to a tiger cage, as were some prisoners of war.

Cub Scout Troop 341 participates in the parade on Monday. Afterward, they and several hundred other parade-goers marched to Lakeview

Cemetery and saw the flag-decorated graves of the war veterans.

NOTICE OF APPROVED ORDINANCE REGARDING MAXIMUM NOISE LEVELS

At a regular meeting on May 20, 1986, the Township Board of the Charter Township of Independence approved an amendment to Chapter 4 Article II of the Code of Ordinances of the Charter Township of Independence.

The proposed ordinance pertains to the Township's maximum noise levels.

SYNOPSIS OF APPROVED ORDINANCE AMENDMENTS

4-18 Maximum Noise Levels

4) The Township Board may grant a nationally recognized, authentic historical vintage auto event to be held once a year at a licensed speed exhibition facility with a noise level variance to permit a level up to 95 dBA, based upon an L-5 standard. Such a grant is valid only for a single event of not more than three (3) consecutive days, two of which shall be weekend days, and the variance expires immediately thereafter, vesting no on-going or future rights.

The motion to approve the proposed ordinance was made by Holman, and supported by Lutz. The motion passed unanimously. This ordinance is effective immediately upon publication.

Respectfully Submitted,
Richard A. Holman
Township Clerk

NOTICE OF APPROVED ZONING ORDINANCE AMENDMENT REGARDING "JUNK CARS"

At a regular meeting on May 20, 1986, the Township Board of the Charter Township of Independence approved an amendment to Section 5.08 of the Township Zoning Ordinance, as amended.

The approved zoning ordinance amendments pertain to the storage of "junk cars".

SYNOPSIS OF APPROVED ORDINANCE

Section 5.08 Prohibited Parking

1. The following provisions shall be applicable in the R-1A, R-1B, R-1C, R-3, R-2, and RMT zoning districts:

a. Vehicles or trailers of any kind without current license plates are prohibited.

b. Inoperable motor vehicles shall not be parked or stored other than in completely enclosed buildings.

c. A motor vehicle which has been operable for ninety (90) days is presumed abandoned and may not be parked or stored except in a completely enclosed building.

The motion to approve the proposed zoning amendment was made by Holman, and supported by Lutz. The motion passes unanimously. This ordinance is effective immediately upon publication.

Respectfully Submitted,
Richard A. Holman
Township Clerk

HAVEN seeks help

Volunteers wanting to help victims of physical and sexual abuse can fill that need at HAVEN, or Help Against Violent Encounters Now.

HAVEN, located in Pontiac, is Oakland County's only domestic violence and sexual assault counseling center and it is in the process of recruiting volunteers.

Positions available at the center range from clerical work to telephone crisis work and everything in between.

Volunteers are needed for individual or group counseling, working with children, making presentations to schools and community organizations, victim advocacy and committee work.

If interested, call Nory Smith at 334-1284.

Vocational center offers new classes

The Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center will offer some new courses for its summer school program, which begins June 23 and ends July 31.

Computer Electronics and Automation explores the use of computers to control external devices such as robots, assembly lines, climate control systems, sensory systems and light and audio systems.

Introduction to Word Processing is a three-week, half-credit class and requires enrollees to type 40 words per minute. The class runs Monday-Thursday, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. through July 10. Tuition is $25 for high school students, graduates under 20 and adults without a diploma. Graduates over 20 pay $75.

Another computer-related class is Computer Numerical Control for Milling Machines, which will meet the weeks of Aug. 4 and 11. Tuition is $25.

Traditional programs at NWOVEC include Total Office Procedures, Metal Machine trades and Retailing and Marketing. Traditional classes, along with the computer electronics course, meet Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Students earn one full high school credit for completion. Tuition is $50 for students, graduates under 20 and adults without a diploma. Graduates over 20 pay $150.

Call 625-5202 for further information or enroll at NWOVEC, located at 8211 Big Lake Rd., Springfield Township.

Dancer decides to share her many talents

By Carolyn Walker

Dancer Sue Deacon recently brought her many talents to Independence Township where she hopes to share them with others.

Having moved here from Colorado in October, the 30-year-old mother of two plans to teach 24 dance classes through Clarkston Community schools beginning this June.

"I'm hoping I can get a nice blending of guys and gals," she says of the classes that will be geared at both grade-schoolers and teens, beginners and established students.

"If there's anybody who's even just thinking about it . . . give it a try."

Deacon began dancing in 1962 when she was 6 years old.

"I remember my first recital for ballet," she says. "We did a number called 'Squeaky the Mouse.'"

Over the years, after her family moved to Iron Mountain in northern Michigan, she continued her favorite pastime learning tap, ballet, jazz, ballroom, character dancing and pompon among other forms.

"It was up there that I really got diversified in dance," she says, adding that she began teaching when she was in the ninth grade.

Later, she performed for two years with the Lansing Dance Theatre.

When many of her Lansing colleagues made the move from the dance theater to professional work, Sue opted to teach.

"I just started teaching because it was what I knew how to do best," she says.

She was also, she confesses, "deeply in love," and knew she would have difficulty balancing a career on the road with family responsibilities.

"I don't know anybody who's succeeded at both," she says.

Though she hasn't taught classes in several years, since the birth of her children, she continues to practice diligently and learn new dance forms, such as breakdancing.

She does much of her practicing in her backyard and says she wonders what the neighbors are thinking.

"I'm out there flying around . . .," she says, her voice trailing as she contemplates their perspectives, a smile crossing her face.

"It's time now to jump back into it."

Sue's one-hour classes will include creative movement, tap, ballet and modern jazz and will be held at Clarkston Elementary on Mondays and Tuesdays and North Sashabaw on Wednesdays and Thursdays from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m.; and at Bailey Lake on Fridays from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Youths ages 4 to 18 years can apply.

The eight-week sessions are $26.

To register or for further information contact the Clarkston Learning Center at 674-3141.

Deadline for registration is June 12.

Sue Deacon strikes a break-dancing pose in her Independence Township residence.

Camp fund raiser

The goal of the school fair at Andersonville Elementary is to help raise money for sixth-grade camp next fall.

From 6 to 8:30 p.m. on Friday, May 30, the fair will offer fun, food, games, raffles and prizes for the young and the young at heart.

Game tickets, at the door, will be 25 cents each.

The school is located at 10350 Andersonville Rd., Springfield Township.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

PLEASE TAKE NOTE that on June 9, 1986 at 7:30 p.m. at 6389 Clarkston Road the Board of Education of the Clarkston Community Schools will hold a public hearing on the levying in 1986 of an additional proposed millage rate of .3374 mills for operating purposes pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982.

The Board of Education has the complete authority to establish that 33.3300 mills be levied in 1986 for operating purposes if an election proposal of 5 mills receives a favorable vote.

The maximum additional proposed millage rate would increase revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property tax levies in 1986, otherwise permitted by Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982 by 1.023 percent.

The figure for increase in revenue for operating purposes is based on the latest estimate of state equalized valuation of property located within the school district. State equalized valuation will not be finalized until after the fourth Monday in May. In the event that state equalized valuation as finalized is for any reason higher than the estimate used for this hearing, the Board of Education must hold another public hearing before levying millage on any higher valuation.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive testimony and discuss the levy of an additional millage rate for operating purposes. Not less than seven (7) days following the public hearing, the Board of Education may approve all or any portion of the proposed additional millage rate.

The Board of Education has proposed this millage for operating purposes in recognition of the responsibility to maintain and sustain an effective educational program for the community.

This notice is given by order of the Board of Education.

Bob Jones has been part of the group since 1936.

Eight-year-old Peter Bertling of Independence Township listens intently to members of the American Legion, who remember Independence Township's honored dead.

Mike Peterson, CHS senior, helps direct the high school band as they play the national anthem.
